RUSSIANS TAKE KALUCZ, TEUTON HEADQUARTERS

ONTARIO RAILWAY BOARD MAY OPERATE THE TORONTO CARS GIVING MEN 5-CENT INCREASE

Proposal Will Be Placed Before Mass Meeting of Strikers This Evening, and It Is Expected the System Will Be Moving Tomorrow.

Toronto, July 12.—It is being freely prophesied this morning that the street cars of the Toronto Railway Company will be running tomorrow. A proposal will be made to the men's mass meeting tonight which it is thought will be accepted by them. The terms of the proposal are that the Ontario Railway Board take over the operation of the system; that the men go back to work at once at an advance of five cents per hour pending further developments, the men working for the Ontario Railway Board, and that board then conduct an inquiry into the rights of the dispute, making an award at a later date.

In the meantime everything is outwardly calm. There is inconvenience to the public, but that is nothing new, and the striking employees continue to express their pleasure at having a holiday, and their determination to seek other employment rather than go back under the old conditions.

It is believed the company will consent to a five-cent per hour increase.

SINN FEIN SUCCESS IN EAST CLARE VOTE HELD GRAVE MENACE BY LONDON PAPERS

Consider It Death Knell to the Nationalist Party.

MEANS MORE REBELLION

Healy Declares Sinn Feiners Are Idealists, Not Extremists.

New York, July 12.—An Associated Press cable from London this morning says:

"The election of Edward De Valera as member of Parliament for East Claire, the third Sinn Feiner to be returned to Parliament of late, is treated as an event of great political consequence by the morning newspapers, which devote considerable space to the victory. The tendency of the Unionist press, reflecting their advices from Belfast and Dublin, is to emphasize what it always contended—the folly of the Government in liberating Sinn Fein prisoners and refraining to deal with revolutionary talk and acts as such would be dealt with in England. These papers regard the situation as gravely threatening, for they see nothing in the Sinn Fein movement but rebellion.

Liberal Party Alarmed.

The Liberal press also is alarmed, but rather for the position of the official Nationalist party and for the prospect for the establishment of constitutional home rule. One opinion seems common among all parties, namely, that the prospects of the convention in Ireland to consider home rule is seriously impaired if not entirely doomed. Another view is that the election is an irreparable disaster for the Irish Nationalist party which, many Irish people complain, held the country for years in the dead hand of rigid machine policy. The Sinn Fein movement is regarded in the same quarter as an expression of discontent and vehement resentment of a long course of administrative folly, indicating rather a lack of confidence with present parliamentary methods than a revolutionary tendency, and in this respect, resembling a state of mind which often leads Prussian electors, who themselves are not at all Socialists, to support Socialist candidates at the polls. The Telegraph's parliamentary reporter says all the Irish sections of the House of Commons regard the result as virtually a fatal blow to the Nationalist party—the end of constitutional agitation and the beginning of republicanism. It is declared that no Nationalist seat outside of Dublin is now safe.

Timothy Healy, M. P., frankly gratified, says the English people are mistaken about the Sinn Feiners. They are not rabid extremists, but devoted idealists.

Will Not Take Seat.

The local correspondent at Ennis quotes Professor De Valera as saying he does not intend to take his seat in the House of Commons. Commenting on the East Clare election of a Sinn Feiner to Parliament, the Irish independent says, "five out of every six electors, who supported the victor did so out of sheer disgust for the cringing, crawling policy of the Irish party and the blundering tactics of their leaders."

The Irish Times considers that East Clare voted for a program of revolution. The Sinn Fein policy so far has developed on destruction and bitterness pregnant with menace to the peace of Ireland, yet this policy triumphed over the memory of a devoted soldier (Major William Redmond) and swept the Nationalists out of a seat held without opposition for twenty years, says the Irish Times.

The Dublin Express says the victory is the most portentious thing in modern Irish political history. "It is clear," the paper says, "that the Nationalists can do little at a convention, but record their pious opinions."

The Chronicle says the Sinn Feiners receive enormous sums of money from the United States, much of it doubtless from German sources, which enables them to conduct extensive propaganda.

DRAYTON TURNS BACK A BIG FEE TO GOVERNMENT

Ottawa, July 12—Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the board of railway commissioners, has returned to the Government a check for $15,000 sent him in payment for his services on the royal commission, consisting of himself and W. A. Acworth, of London, England, and Chairman Smith of the New York Central to inquire into the Canadian railway situation. Sir Henry asks that his services be regarded as contribution to the country in the present time of war and stress.

TORONTO ORANGEMEN DECLARE WILL FIGHT ATTEMPT AT RULE BY FRENCH-CANADA

Strong Resolution Passed Denouncing Opposition to Conscription.

Toronto, July 12.—At Exhibition Park today, following the Orange parade, the following three resolutions were carried:

Refering to the failure of the Liberals to accept coalition and the opposition of French-Canadian members and some English members to the conscription bill, the first resolution stated that this was with the object of returning Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers to power, and that "the Orangemen declare their determination, while being willing to share with the French-Canadian fellow-subjects equal rights, but no more, never to permit French-Canadian domination in Canadian national affairs."

Urge Passage of Bill.

Second: This meeting urges the Government to hasten the passage of the bill, if necessary, by closure, and carry it into immediate operation.

Third: Calls on all loyal subjects to indorse this action by resolution in such manner that obstructionist tactics that would delay or prevent completes participation of Canada in the fight for human liberty be detected, prevented and punished, and that once for all it be made clear that Canada is a British, English-speaking country and intends to remain so.

SEVENTY-TWO LODGES WALKED AT TORONTO

Orangemen at Provincial Capital Hold Record Parade.

Toronto, July 12.—Seventy-two Orange lodges of Toronto and several visiting lodges made the usual 12th of July march from Queen's Park past the city hall to the exhibition grounds this morning. The weather was threatening, but the rain held off, and for part of the day the sun was out. Fears that the lack of transportation facilities due to the street railway strike would thin the parade were not realized. The lodgemen easily found means of getting to the assembling points, and there was not much difference in the size of the crowd of spectators lining the route. On the other hand, the absence of street cars afforded a much better marching route. Banners carried by several lodges bearing the names of members who had fallen in France, were a feature of the parade which attracted the attention of onlookers. The banner carried by Aughrim Rose of Derry Lodge bore the names of eight who have paid the price, from Ypres in 1914 to Vimy Ridge in the present year.

THIS UNION FOR BILL.

Winnipeg, July 12.—The Winnipeg Steel Cutters' Union, at a largely attended meeting last night, unanimously passed a resolution indorsing conscription.

ALLIES MAY REVISE WAR AIMS AFTER DISCUSSION

London, July 12.—Lord Robert Cecil, minister of blockade and parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs, announced in the House this afternoon that the British Government had informed the Russian Government of its willingness to enter into a discussion looking to the possible revision of the war aims of the Entente Allies. The British Government, he added, was in consultation with the Allied powers of Great Britain as to the form in which this discussion could most conveniently take place.

STREET CAR MEN MAY STRIKE HERE

Claim Company Is Not Living Up To Agreement Made Recently.

WILL MEET SATURDAY

Various Grievances Will Be Aired by Union Employees of London Company.

"Unless the company lives up to its agreement with the men London may have a street car strike like Toronto, and it may come sooner than people expect," said a street car conductor today in discussing the present strike in the Queen City.

As an indication that the men have grievances and that they intend to force the issue, a meeting of all the conductors and motormen will be held at the corner of Glebe and English streets Saturday night at the completion of the late runs.

Other Grievances.

"It is not altogether a matter of money this time, but other grievances that will have to be corrected or there will be something doing," continued the conductor.

He then outlined some of the principal faults the men have to find.

"The company agreed some time ago to provide stools for the conductors on the pay-as-you-enter cars, but has neglected to keep its word. A few have been provided for motormen, but still many of them yet stand," he said.

"Another thing the company has failed to provide for the men, although promised time and again, is lavatories along each line. We demand these facilities, as they are part of the agreement between the men and company.

Object to Uniform.

Exception is also taken to the uniforms being provided, for which the men pay half, or $10. One conductor showed a uniform he had worn a week.

He gave as his opinion that it wasn't worth $5 in the first place. At the meeting Saturday night other important matters will be discussed and some definite action likely taken.

1,800 CASUALTIES IN HAIG'S YSER DEFEAT

Only Two Battalions of British Engaged at This Point.

London, July 12.—The total British casualties resulting from the German success near Nieuport, Belgium, on Tuesday, were about 1,800, including prisoners. These figures were given by Major-Gen. F. B. Maurice, chief director of military operations at the war office today. The section captured by the Germans, said Gen. Maurice, who made his statement in his weekly talk to the Associated Press, was defended by only two battalions of British. The German claim of 1,250 prisoners, he considered, probably accurate.

ORANGEMEN HERE FOR BIG RALLY

Large Numbers Celebrate Anniversary of Battle of the Boyne.

MANY BANDS IN PARADE

Visitors From Many Points Enjoy Sports and Speches at Springbank.

London celebrated the "Glorious Twelfth" with great enthusiasm today. The weather was dark and threatening, but this did not dampen the spirits of the followers of William of Orange, who came to this city in large numbers to celebrate the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. It is historic that it rains on the "Twelfth," but the weather man was rather kind, confining his outbursts to the early hours of the morning. This was not a bad idea, as it released large numbers of farmers who might have been kept at home, had the weather been warm and pleasant.

In addition to the local lodges, twelve in number, there were many visitors from outside points.

Many Towns Represented.

St. Thomas sent a large contingent, headed by a Highland band. They made a good appearance. Woodstock was also represented, while lodges were present from Southwold, Oneida, Muncey, Komoka, Strathroy, Tillsonburg, Springfield, and practically every part of Middlesex County.

There were the seven Orange lodges from the city in line, Nassau, Ahoghill, Hackett, Forest City, Langemarck, Beaver and Boyne Lodges, together with the three lodges of Black Knights, one scarlet chapter, one lady blue lodge and two lady Orange lodges. The Forest City Lodge pipe band made a fine impression, with their white suits. They looked natty. Another London lodge was headed by Sergt. MacDonald's girl pipers. The Scotch lassies were given an ovation along the line of march, and certainly deserved it.

7th Band Leads Parade.

The 7th Regiment brass band furnished the music for the head of the procession, and the Oneida Indian band, looking quite military in their khaki uniforms, helped out along the line of march.

The procession was assembled on the market square, with Major Baron Osborne as master of ceremonies. The place of honor in the procession was given to a squad of returned soldiers, who are members of the fraternity. The lodges followed in regular order. The parade traversed some of the main streets downtown, and later the visitors were taken to Springbank.

Hear Rousing Speeches.

Here they were entertained by some rousing speeches, the majority of them being patriotic. County Master George Goeghegan was chairman. The speakers were: Revs. Bros. W. J. Ashton, of the Wellington Street Methodist Church; E. B. Richardson, of the Empress Avenue Methodist Church; Dr. George B. Sage, rector of St. George's Church, West London; H. B. Ashby, rector of the Church of the Redeemer; and E. C. Essery, K. C. Controller R. W. Shaw and John McFarlan, M. P. P. for East Middlesex.

Sports and Concerts.

Those who were not in a position to hear the speeches were entertained. There was a fine list of sports under the direction of Bro. Cleve, and there were band concerts without number.

Orangemen estimate that there were 3,000 marchers in line.

"It is a fine demonstration," said former County Master Joseph Murray. "We are well pleased. When we figure that a large number of our men are in khaki, the majority of them overseas, we are more than pleased with the showing. Orangeism is alive in London. The women alone would make a good parade."

RUSSIA'S GREAT DRIVE SWEEPS FOE'S HEADQUARTERS INTO NET; KALUCZ HAS BEEN CAPTURED

HOLLWEG IS OUT OF HUN CABINET, IS SWISS RUMOR

Kaiser Is Undecided as to Whether He Will Accept Resignation.

Berne, Switzerland July 12.—(British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.) — The Vossische Zeitung of Berlin says the German imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, has resigned. Emperor William, the newspaper adds, has postponed his decision whether to accept the chancellor's resignation.

CONCERNS CROWN PRINCE.

Berne, Switzerland, July 12.—(British Admiralty, per Wireles Press.)—An official communication issued in Berlin yesterday says Emperor William expressed the opinion that the political and constitutional reforms demanded by the Reichstag are such that they concern not merely himself but his successor, inasmuch as they would be permament. For this reason the emperor summoned the crown prince to attend one or more crown councils, at which final decisions regarding the extent to which the Government will make concessions to the Reichstag will be reached.

BY ED. L. KEEN.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

London, July 12.—German reform elements have succeeded in forcing the kaiser to summons the crown prince to Berlin, so that the heir to the German throne shall subscribe to constitutional reforms they plan. This was the explanation received from Berne today of the heretofore unexplicable summons to the German prince. The kaiser has heretofore rigorously ignored his eldest son in governing Germany's internal affairs.

Must Have Royal Pledge.

The Berne report declared the Reformists recognized if any changes were won in Germany's administration, the pledge of the crown prince, next on the throne, must be obtained to make them permanent.

To British observers today it appeared out of all confusion of reports from Germany that the Liberal movement there had been definitely advanced. Whatever the outcome of the present crisis it seemed assured that the democratization of Germany had been brought a little nearer.

One interesting collateral fact cited today was the astonishing newspaper comment which had been permitted by the German censor.

GERMAN AIRPLANES BOMB POSITIONS OF RUSSIANS

Berlin, July 12.—Via London.—"During the last few days our air squadrons successfully and repeatedly dropped bombs on the batteries and harbors near Zerel and Arensburg, on Island of Oesel (off the Gulf of Riga)," says an official statement issued today.

"Large fires were observed. Despite violent firing by hostile batteries, our airplanes returned safely."

MONTREAL BROKER KILLED.

Montreal, July 12.—W. Q. Arnold, a broker, residing at the Langham Hotel, was fatally injured, and M. P. McLeod, a commission merchant, had his collarbone broken, when a large touring car, heavily loaded, and driven by Dr. O. C. Gilbert, crashed into the curb at the corner of Granville and Pacific streets yesterday. Arnold died shortly after being taken to the General Hospital. Mr. McLeod will recover.

Important Point of the Enemy, Well To the West of Stokhod River, Has Fallen Into Korniloff's Hands With Many Prisoners.

Petrograd, July 12.—The Russians have captured Kalusz, the headquarters of the enemy in Galicia, according to a semi-official announcement made today.

According to information received at the ministry of war the Russian troops are continuing their successful advance and have taken a large number of prisoners.

Kalusz is a city of about 8,000 people, 28 miles southeast of Stry.

THE WAR SITUATION

Gen. Brussiloff's offensive in Galacia is developing into a drive with little or no let up, at least so far as the part in it played by Gen. Korniloff's armies is concerned.

Yesterday's news of the capture of Halicz was followed today by the announcement that Gen. Korniloff's troops had pushed on beyond Lesiuvka, southwest of Stanislau, and reached and occupied Kalusz, a city of 8,000, seven miles to the west on the Stokhod River. The Austro-German headquarters in this sector was situated here.

Large Number of Prisoners.

Kalusz was stubbornly defended, but after a sanguinary battle the Russians pushed into the town and, according to advices from Petrograd, they are continuing their advance, after having taken a large number of prisoners.

The German attack on Monday on the Belgian coast ceased with the capture of the small sector east of the Yser, which the Germans had devastated with their intensive gunfire. Neither last night's or today's British official announcement records any further fighting of moment in this region, although the artillery is continuing active. A German raid near Lombaertzyde was driven off by the British.

On the Verdun front, the German crown prince made a number of attacks on both flanks of the Meuse. All these assaults, delivered in the vicinity of Hill 304, on the one side of the stream and north of the Hardaumont work on the other, were repulsed by the French, as were attacks on the Aisne front, south of Juvincourt, and in the region of the Trinagullate Plateau.

NEAR CARPATHIANS.

London, July 11.—Having broken the strong Austro-German line in the vicinity of Halicz, the Russians are pushing forward from Halicz toward Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, and from Stanislau, south of Halicz, westward toward the line of the Dniester.

After the capture of Halicz, on the front from Halicz to Zolotvin, about thirty miles to the south, Gen. Korniloff forced the Austro-Germans to continue their retreat.

In their advance from Halicz the Russians forced the fleeing enemy across the Lomnica and occupied two towns on the western bank of the river. The next natural barrier is the River Stoka, about six miles west of the Lomnica.

South and west of Stanislau the Russians have reached the Posiecz-Lesiuvka-Karmacz line, the central point of which, Lesiuvka, is four miles west of the River Bystritza. This line is about seven miles east of Kalusz, the nearest large town west of Stanislau, and which is situated in a bend of the Stoka River.

The extension of the Russian fighting line to Zolotvin brings the battleground into the foothills of the Carpathians.

AUSTRIAN COMMONERS JOIN HANDS TO HELP IN RECRUITING FORCES

Melbourne, July 12—Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—In a speech from the throne at the opening of the Australian Parliament yesterday, the governor-general announced that a federal recruiting committee, consisting of members of both political parties, would be appointed to organize recruiting. The Government also proposed to create a repatriation department, to appoint a minister of national economy, to increase production, to extend shipbuilding, to continue to raise loans locally, and to increase the income tax and war profit tax.

SUBMARINES OPERATING OFF ICELAND'S COAST

London, July 12.—A Central News dispatch from Christiania reports the sinking near Iceland by a German submarine of the Norwegian bark Florella, 1,168 tons gross. The crew was rescued.

ENTIRE PRODUCT OF STEEL MILLS FOR THE STATES

U. S. Govt. Has Agreement Turning Industry Over to War Purposes.

Washington, D. C., July 12.—Formal announcement was made by Secretary of War Baker today that an agreement had been reached with representatives of the American steel industry in conference here, under which the entire product of the industry would be made available for the Government's war purposes at a price to be determined on a basis of a cost of production inquiry being conducted by the federal trade commission.

On their side the Government representatives assured the steel men that reasonable profits would be included in the prices fixed, and that provision also would be made to care for the expansion of the industry to mee new demands.

The Government also assured the steel men that war orders would be distributed over the entire iron and steel producing capacity of the country, leaving no single producer or group of producers to carry an unfair share of the war burden.

SURPRISE ATTACKS FAIL TO SURPRISE THE ALERT PETAIN

French Break Up Assaults Along Both Sides of Meuse.

Paris, July 12.—After violent bombardment the Germans tried several surprise attacks during the night on both banks of the Meuse, but were repulsed, according to a statement issued by the war office today.

The statement follows:

"The artillery fighting was quite spirited in the Champagne and on the Aisne front in the Laffaux mill sector. Enemy attacks in the region of the Triangular plateau and south of Juvincourt were easily repulsed.

"On the two banks of the Meuse in the sector of Hill 304 and north of the Hardaumont works, the Germans after a violent bombardment made a number of attacks, none of which were successful.

"There is nothing to report on the remainder of the front."

McGUIGAN AND RODIER ARE APPOINTED TO SETTLE G. T. CARMEN'S GRIEVANCE

Montreal, July 12.—It was officially announced today that F. H. McGuigan and Charlemagne Rodier, K.C., both of Montreal, have been appointed a board of conciliation to determine a new wage scale for the Grand Trunk Railway carmen. Mr. McGuigan represents the company and Mr. Rodier the men.

The board was appointed following representations at Ottawa of the Grand Trunk carmen, who are asking that the same rate of wages as paid by the C. P. R., C. N. R., and C. G. R. be introduced. The men argued that in one instance the Grand Trunk paid 17 to 23 cents an hour, while the other roads paid 32½ cents.

WANTS TO SUBSCRIBE FOR QUARTER CENTURY, BUT IS TURNED DOWN

Buying One's Way to Success Strictly Tabooed by Contest Manager—Great Rivalry Among Counties—Three New Candidates Enter Race—County Contestant Sets Pace for Town Rivals.

There is much speculation as to which county will carry off the grand prize in The Advertiser's contest. Every mail brings in new subscriptions for the favorite candidates in each county, and, especially this week, when the 50,000 extra votes offer is on. One county, in particular, is determined to make a clean sweep of the big prizes, as its boosters want them all for patriotic purposes. It is only a waste of time for any person to attempt to "put over" dummy subscriptions, in order to swell their vote. The Advertiser will not sell extra papers in quantities, neither will it accept subscriptions over the period advertised in the schedule.

It is effort alone that will win the prizes, and the extra vote offer given this week is to encourage effort.

An Emphatic "No."

Explaining the allusion to "dummy subscriptions," attention is drawn to the following letter received by the contest manager:

"July 7, 1917.

"The Advertiser, London:

"Gentlemen,—Would you accept seventy-five ($75) dollars for twenty-five years' subscription to The Advertiser, to count in the contest? Kindly answer 'yes' or 'no.'

"Yours truly,

"_____."

"P.S.—Strictly confidential."

NO is the answer.

The Advertiser does not want paid-in-advance subscriptions for a longer period than three years, and candidates are requested not to accept subscriptions for a greater length of time. The cost of newsprint has increased so rapidly since the outbreak of war that large daily newspapers in Canada and the United States have been forced to increase the price of subscriptions, and The Advertiser may be forced to do likewise before long.

The Stuff That Wins.

Here is an interesting incident, an example of gameness and good sense:

"To the Manager of Contest Dept.:

"Dear Sir,—I have a number of names to send in, also a lot of coupons. I am going to work hard to get some of those 'extra votes' this week, although it is very wet to get around, as I drive nearly 20 miles some days. I am letting my housework go, so I can win a prize, but I met a lady the other day who said she would not help, as she said it was always some person in the city or town who got the prizes, so I am working harder than ever to let her see what the county women can do."

Three New Candidates.

Three new nominations were received today, also a number of votes for each candidate. They are: Miss Helen McDonald of Wingham, Miss Iva Small of Shedden, and Mrs. Fred Bloomfield of Exeter. These ladies do not think it is too late to enter. It is not. The three entrants say it is not a question of the "grand prize," but any one of the many prizes is worth trying for.

New candidates who have not time to send for supplies may list out their subscribers on a sheet of paper and send them in with a remittance to cover. Candidates who run out of supplies may do likewise. Do not let anything cause you to lose out on your share of the EXTRA vote ballots.

GIVES UP "ROLLING" AND ENDS TROUBLE IN ROBINSON HOME

Wife of Citizen Causes Happiness To Reign Again.

HUSBAND PAYS COSTS

Says He Has Removed Cause of Discord—Peter McDermid Not Guilty.

"Remove the cause and you remove the effect, and this I have succeeded in doing," said Peter Robinson, 857 Van street, to Magistrate Graydon, when he appeared in court today charged with disturbing a religious service last Sunday evening at the Pentecostal Mission, Hamilton road. Robinson was summoned on complaint of James W. Park, head of the Holy Rollers, who have been holding meetings in the Garland rink for some weeks.

Robinson, it was claimed by spectators at the meeting, had used force in removing his wife from the building, because her religious enthusiasm had reached such a high pitch that he did not care to anticipate developments if she were allowed to remain.

Objected to Attendance.

It was claimed by others that Robinson had assaulted his wife because of her continued practice of attending the meetings when he objected.

At any rate, the cause of all the domestic infelicity in the family, according to Robinson, was his wife's attendance at the meetings.

Since the Sunday night affair, which was the culmination of repeated warnings on the part of the husband, everything has been different.

His wife, he informed the magistrate, now stayed home and joy reigned in the little home again.

This was what Robinson meant when the effect had been removed by getting rid of the cause, which he claimed to be the meetings of the Holy Rollers.

"Let them leave my wife alone, and I assure you I will not disturb their meetings," said Robinson, as he agreed to pay the costs of the court.

Husband Not Guilty.

Peter McDermid, 194 Maitland street, was found not guilty of having assaulted his wife, Annie McDermid. The wife, who resides at 259 Talbot street, St. Thomas, with her mother, came to the city last Saturday in an effort to secure their 7-year-old boy, who was being cared for by the husband's mother.

She managed to get the child, who was outside playing, and was waiting on the corner of Burwell and Horton when McDermid intercepted her and took the child away. In his efforts to get the child from his wife he used some force, the claim being made by Mrs. McDermid that her arm had been injured slightly.

The magistrate did not consider the assault proven, and informed the mother that she was taking an illegal way of procuring the child.

NO FOUNDATION FOR CHARGE CIRCULATED ABOUT A PREACHER

An anonymous charge has been circulated for some time in London to the effect that a citizen engaged in ministerial work was a bigamist.

The Advertiser has been able to investigate the charge, and has found that the claim is absolutely without foundation.

ST. GEORGE'S CHILDREN FROLIC AT RIVER PARK

Despite threatening clouds and occasional sprinkles, a most enjoyable picnic was held by the Sunday school of St. George's Church at Springbank Park Wednesday afternoon.

A large turnout contributed to the success of the sports which were arranged by a committee comprising Messrs. F. A. Andrews, J. Hobbs, A. Nevin, F. A. Andrews, W. Sandham and T. Lewis.

The weatherman threatened at times to mar the complete success of the outing, but manifestated the qualities of his better nature by making a feeble attempt to show a smile or two toward the close of the evening.

The sports, which were the subjects of much interest, were run off as follows:

Girls' Events.

Under 7 Years of Age—M. Edmondson, M. M. Hopper, Lenora Gilmour.

Seven to 9 Years—Olive Hayworth, M. Johnston.

Nine to 11 Years—Maud Edmondson, Lorraine Byran, Winnie Harvey.

Eleven to 13 Years—Marjory Stokes, Lena Osborne, Helen Harvey.

Twelve to 14 Years—Norma Andrews, Lena Osborne, Madeline Gash.

Open Race—Olive Thomas, Madeline Gash, Lena Osborne.

Chums' Race—Norma Andrews and Olive Thomas, Madeline Gash and Lena Osborne.

Boys' Events.

Under 8 Years—Fred Stone, Edward White.

VISITING THE AMERICAN CONGRESS IN SESSION

Lambeth Resident Interviews Hon. Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Every man or woman who visits the capital of the United States at Washington, D. C., the most beautiful in many respects among all the galaxy of capitals of the 40 or more so-called civilized countries of the globe, if they possess a think-cap, will not idle their time but will be busy from early morning to late at night. My sister and I try to improve each golden hour.

The capital just now (which is quite unusual at this warm season), is dressed in its most inviting and splendid garb. The streets, walks, curbs, drives, plazas, parks, trees, shrubs, flowers and all public and private buildings, stand pre-eminently the cleanest, purest and most inviting I have ever seen in my numerous visits to Washington.

At Work of the War.

Not only the 360,000 people domiciled in this city, who are housed, fed, work and sleep here, and who go on their daily routine, but the city is filled with outside visitors. All hotels are well filled, many crowded. The New Willard, New Ebbitt, Raleigh, Shoreham, and dozens of others carry a splendid patronage. What does this mean? What is the cause of all this interest and deep attention? I will tell you. The biggest things that have ever happened on this North American continent are focused now at Washington: President Wilson and his Cabinet; Hon. Champ Clark, speaker of the House, with his 435 congressmen from all sections of the several states and territories, and Vice-President Marshall, president of the Senate, with 96 senators; these statesmen, thinkers and ruling spirits are all here drafting, talking and enacting from day to day unparalleled but compulsory proclamations and congressional enactments to provide the ways and the means for the United States to play no second fiddle, but with an army and navy unexcelled in all this nation's proud history. And this, combined with food, coal, iron, steel and wood, help the allied nations of Europe to lasso the Wild Ass of Tyranny and his deluded cohorts; destroy his stables, so that he, with his vaunted strength and fleetness will never again disturb the peaceful fields of freedom and liberty. A warning to future rulers.

Galleries Crowded.

We have sat two days in the Senate and House listening to the food and revenue debates. The galleries are filled to their capacity with strangers and visitors. All are deeply concerned in the laws for raising one billion eight hundred millions of revenues to meet current obligations and to run the machinery of Government.

Why are the young men and old men, with their sisters, wives and mothers here? They know that these large appropriations are unusual, and every neighborhood, every township and county and state will be affected. They further know—and this is just what every citizen, and every boy and girl, in a free-born republican government should know by right of inheritance, no matter what laws are made nor what revenues are raised, all the people must do it, and no special, subsidized class of citizens, with special privileges, can escape.

The American people further know that ten million of young men between 21 and 30 years have registered, and more than nine million and a half of these will be fit when the conscription call comes for war duty. This specially interests each and every home in the land.

Nation Is a Unit.

I said to Champ Clark this afternoon: "What about the revenues to carry on the war?" He said: "We realize that we are straining the nerves of the nation. When duty is before us, no matter what the occasion, the nation becomes as an individual, and this nation will march in solid formation to death or victory, fighting for a holy and just cause."

He further stated, as he did in his Valley Forge speech, June 19 this year, when the United States Government presented to Pennsylvania the splendid memorial arch in honor of Washington and his army, who made Valley Forge another shrine for freedom; he waxed warm when he said: "It was a great boon to be a Roman citizen when Rome was in the plentitude of imperial power, but it is a far greater boon to be a plain American citizen, heir of all the ages. Our mission in the world has been, and will be fully demonstrated in this great European conflict, to vindicate by our practice and achievements our theory of 'Government of the people, by the people, and for the people.'"

Prays for Guidance.

In closing our interview, Mr. Clark thoughtfully stated (for he realizes the propensity of war, and especially this war, removed so far away and yet so near to American boundaries): "May the God of our fathers, the God who sustained Washington and his brave followers on a hundred fields of carnage, and amid the horrors of Valley Forge, crowning them with complete victory at last, the God who guided the pen of Jefferson when writing the declaration, the God who has showered his blessings upon us without stint: may he lead our feet and the feet of our allies in the paths of righteousness for the healing of the nations and the freedom of mankind, even unto the uttermost ends of the earth."

Hon. Champ Clark is truly one of the world's foremost statesmen. He grows bigger and wiser with the years of ripe experience. He is in the prime of health, frank, courageous and conservative. He is a natural leader, but a social mixer of men. He is in demand, and the invitations from very many states to address conventions, patriotic meetings and such, places him in the estimation of many leading public men and humble citizens, as the graduated homespun commoner of all the people. A United States senator told me today it was his opinion "that Champ Clark, as parliamentarian, speaker and leader of Congress, has been preceded by few equals and no superiors."

APPEALING TO LAITY FOR RESPONSE IN INCREASE TO CLERGY

A vigorous campaign is being prosecuted throughout the various deaneries of the Diocese of Huron, in each case under the direction of the rural dean, in order to secure pledges of increase in giving to meet the increase of the minimum stipend of the clergy within the diocese to $1,200. A pastoral letter was sent out by Bishop Williams to each clergyman to be read to his congregation as a preparation. This letter contained the portion of the bishop's charge to the synod, recommending the fixing of the minimum at $1,200, in view of the marked increase in the cost of living, and the indorsation of the synod by resolution.

It was stated today by a prominent member of the synod executive that in many cases a marked advance will be required in the scale of giving by the laity. He added: "But I do not anticipate any difficulty in reaching the objective. Our people are giving to church purposes as they have never given before. The giving required of them for patriotic purposes has cultivated in them the giving habit and the more they give the more they seem willing and ready to give, even if it involves some personal sacrifice."

KAISER ORDERS BILL FOR GERMANY WITH EQUAL POLL RIGHTS IS PARIS REPORT

Emperor Has Prolonged Conference With Hollweg—Centrists Solidly Behind Erzberger.

Amsterdam, July 12.—Emperor William had an interview lasting several hours with Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg yesterday and received his report on the political situation, according to a semi-official dispatch from Berlin.

The chancellor also received various party leaders yesterday afternoon, says an official dispatch from Berlin.

A semi-official dispatch from Vienna says the report in the Vossische Zeitung of au audience that Herr Nathias Erzberger, leader of the Centrist party in the Reichstag, had with the Austrian Emperor, Charles, is a pure invention.

The crown prince arrived in Berlin on a special train from the front, and yesterday noon attended the crown council, at which the emperor presided.

ANOTHER PROMISE.

Paris, July 12.—A dispatch from Basel to the Havas Agency says Emperor William has addressed to Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg a rescript under the terms of which the bill to be submitted to the Prussian Diet as a complement to the imperial message of April 7 must be drawn upon the basis of equal voting rights.

WILL NOT SELL TO KRUPPS.

Amsterdam, July 12.—The Radical Weser Zeitung, an old newspaper of Bremen, Germany, which it was reported, was to be bought by the Krupp interests, which were to make it a Pan-German and annexationist organ, is on the market. The owners, however, say they will never agree to sell it to the Krupps.

WILL SUPPORT ERZBERGER.

Amsterdam, July 12.—The Catholic organ Germania of Berlin says that the Catholic Centre in the Reichstag has decided by an overwhelming majority to support Nathias Erzberger, who last week attacked the Pan-Germans and advocated peace without annexations or indemnities. Herr Erzberger's object, the newspaper says, is to induce the Reichstag to make a declaration of war aims in the sense that Germany has not gone to war with a desire for conquest, but merely to defend its freedom and preserve its territorial possessions. In order to nullify definitely any impression on the part of the Entente that Germany's peace terms would be dictated by the Prussian military caste, the Reichstag is asked to set forth with unmistakable clearness the German war aims. The Entente would then realize, it is contended, that it is waging war with the entire German people. The Germania adds that the chancellor has accepted the idea, and that the formation of a coalition ministry is being prepared. Thus, it says, unity between the people and the Government will be realized.

GLENCOE OIL WELLS DEVELOPING RAPIDLY; MANY NEW ONES SUNK

Past Few Weeks Has Seen Rapid Strides in Work.

GLENCOE, July 11.—There has been a great development in the Glencoe oil fields recently. Several new wells have been struck in the last few weeks. One on Dan Livingstone's farm was a small well, but it produced from three to four barrels a day. The oil men consider this a good well, as the oil is so thick, and they think it will produce more as time goes on.

Another well was struck on Dan McVicar's farm, and this was a Carmen well. The drillers tried to shoot it with some new explosive called "Thompsonite," but it didn't give very good results. This well is finished. There was another one struck on Robert Livingstone's farm. This was operated by Elliott & Fairbanks, and the Dave Wright and Beadle rig was used. This has just been started, but it looks to be a good producer.

The Leo Wilson Company has moved to Geo. Gillies' farm just west of the C.P.R. tracks. It is expected it will be fortunate there, as the outlook is good.

The McLean well, McTavish & Douglas are all pumping steadily. The well on John Secord's farm is still pumping over 100 barrels per day.

The oil men are enthusiastic over the splendid luck they have had since coming to Glencoe. They are continuing their testing every day and are confident there is a great abundance of oil in this locality.

The development is a great boost to Glencoe and vicinity, and the residents all hope these operators will meet with the greatest of success.

F. J. Carmen of California is registered at the McKellar Hotel here, and drives out every day to inspect his prospects. Mr. and Mrs. Carmen came east early this spring and stayed a short time. Then they went to Detroit, but now are here to spend part of the summer.

"Three enemy scouts were driven down completely out of control," the report adds, "while two others were driven down. One of our machines is missing."

It was liberated in Ingersoll at exactly 8:50 a.m. and returned to its own loft at 11:10 a.m., making the time for the trip exactly 2 hours and 20 minutes. The time was not given for the return of the second bird, but it reached home safely.

CLERKS OF POSTAL STAFF WANT ALL CLERKS UNDER THE CIVIL SERVICE ACT

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Winnipeg, Man., July 11.—Today the Dominion postal clerks' convention discussed the Government's attitude in connection with treatment accorded what is generally known as semi-staff offices. Clerks employed at such offices in Lethbridge, St. Thomas, Fort William, St. Catharines and elsewhere do not come within the operation of the civil service act, and it was stated that a large majority of men at these offices are employed at a salary of $600 a year. By unanimous resolution of the convention it was decided to inaugurate a campaign to have these clerks placed within the workings of the act.

EMPLOY SLEUTHS TO WATCH CITIES

Chairman Thos. Rowe Favors Watching of All Public Bodies.

BIG COMISSION OFFERED

School Board Head Hears That Circular Letters Are Issued by Firms.

"I've been informed that certain contracting firms, doing business with architects of public buildings, have become so bold that they write circular letters, offering the architects as high as 15 per cent of the contract price to get their goods into ... jobs. Men of repute have told me ... but I have no means of pro... If this be the case, it is high... that the Ontario Government, which has all to do with the municipalities, should step in and protect the public."

This statement was made to The Advertiser by Thomas Rowe, chairman of the board of education, today. He urged that the Government should have an inspection department, and a detective department, if necessary, to offer the protection that is needed.

Reports Heard Always.

"This charge I have heard time and time again. I have been unable to get to the bottom of it, but it seems to be common talk. Men hear agents telling of such things, and some of these conversations have been reported. I have, as I said before, no data to prove that, but the rumors are being circulated. The circular letter statement is reasonably definite.

"My idea is that the Government, which spends considerable sums of money annually in protecting the health of the people of the province in regard to liquor laws, etc., in short, exercises a supervising influence over the cities and municipalities, should set aside some machinery to protect the public from losing money. It is quite necessary to see that the money of the people is not squandered foolishly, or criminally. The trustee, alderman or official who is honest doesn't need to care if a hundred sleuths are on his trail. It would be a protection to the honest man as well as the public.

Supervise All Works.

"The architect should be the guardian of the people. He stands between the people and the contractor. If he does not do his duty, what protection has the public? None whatever. If the Legislature would arrange for some machinery to check up these expenditures, it would pay its way many times, I am convinced. This department would have supervision of all public works, whether done by the city council, the board of education or other civic bodies. The honest contractor has nothing to fear. He would welcome the most rigid inspection. We want to get rid of the other kind."

DETROIT CLERK CHARGED WITH STEALING $16,000 FROM TAX PAYMENTS

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Detroit, Mich., July 12.—While detectives watched his house, convinced that he had skipped the city, Anthony J. Kloka, former clerk in the county treasurer's office, charged with misappropriation of more than $16,000 tax money, appeared at police court of his own volition, and gave bond in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance. Kloka maintains his calmness, chatting nonchalantly with newspapermen and officials. In the meantime Prosecutor James Nowski is preparing a formal request for a grand jury to make a sweeping investigation of the county administration. Alex. J. Groesbeck, attorney general, arrived in Detroit last night and is expected to supervise the inquisition.

COMMISSION WILL MEET.—There will be a meeting of the Soldiers' Aid Commission this evening at 5 o'clock to complete arrangements for the Returned Soldiers' picnic at Port Stanley on July 24th. The sports program has been arranged by T. A. McMahen, and has been approved of by the authorities at the military hospital. There will be many feature events.

STORY HOUR FOR CHILDREN.—The educational secretaries of the Daughters of the Empire have arranged for a story hour for children to be held in the Normal School and Victoria Park. The stories will run along educational lines and children from the different localities will attend them. The story hours will be held every Wednesday afternoon.

ARRANGE FOR PICNICS. — The Daughters of the Empire, who have taken a great interest in the returned soldiers of London, are holding a meeting in the committee rooms in the Royal Bank building this afternoon to make arrangements for the weekly picnics to be held at Springbank during the summer months. Members from the different chapters will be present.

HAMILTON ROAD PICNIC.—The annual picnic of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Sunday School was held at Springbank Wednesday. There was a good turnout despite the threatening weather conditions, and a most delightful day was greatly enjoyed by all. A long list of sports was carried out in the afternoon under the direction of John Collar (superintendent), J. A. McFarlane, Dr. McCrae and a committee of ladies, and young and old received splendid prizes. No mishap of any kind marred the day's proceedings.

BURIED TO HIS NECK.—Joe Catelli, Talbot street, a city workman employed on sewer excavations at Dame and Chesley street, got a severe nervous shock and slight physical injuries yesterday afternoon when buried by the cave-in of a nine-foot trench. Catelli was in the trench when the shoring gave way and the released earth covered him with the exception of his head. He was released by fellow-workmen and Dr. E. M. Copeland summoned to the scene. His examination revealed no broken bones, Catelli suffering principally from shock. He was later taken to his home.

GALE HELPED GERMANS IN BELGIAN COUP ON COAST; BRITISH LACK AIRPLANES

London, July 12.—The respective official statements furnish the only available details of the German blow against the British front in Belgium. Editorial comment and expert criticism, which is restricted and unilluminative, treat the incident as disagreeable and troublesome but without great importance intrinsically and as unlikely to have any effect on the future of the war.

It is assumed that owing to the gale on the Belgian coast British naval support was impossible temporarily, while the Germans were in a particularly favorable position for such a coup, owing to their formidable coast batteries all along the dunes, which they can move with comparative ease from one point to another. One comment is that it appears the mishap was preceded by a considerable local display of German superiority in the air, suggesting that the British are suffering from a relative shortage in airplanes.

SWARM OF BEES HIVE ON STORE

A swarm of bees visited the city this morning, and after looking over various locations decided to hive on Connor Bros.' grocery store at Oxford and Richmond streets. There were buckets of them, and pedestrians gave them no arguments as to the right of way.

Finally they alighted, and were swarmed into a hive by a neighbor.

TWO STRATFORD PRIVATES ARE KILLED IN ACTION

Stratford, July 12.—Pte. Roy Gorvett is officially reported killed in action today. Pte. Ernest Harvey is dead of wounds.

ST. THOMAS, July 11.—Mrs. Eliza Jane Morse, widow of the ex-mayor, Israel Morse, of St. Thomas, is dead at the age of 76 years. She is survived by two sons, Dr. James Morse, Toronto, and Charles K. Morse, the well-known theatrical performer, who is with the Canadian expeditionary forces in France. Mrs. Geo. Marshman of Melbourne is a sister, and Arthur Williams of Shedden a brother.

Mrs. Morse was a prominent member of the Centre Street Baptist Church, and had resided in St. Thomas for nearly half a century.

Miss G. Langford has been engaged as principal of Thorndale public school and Miss Martin of Lucan as teacher of the junior room.

Mrs. J. Angus' Sunday school class held its annual picnic at Springbank on Tuesday afternoon.

ALL WHO RECEIVE SUMMONS FORCED TO COME TO COURT

Magistrate and Chief Will Permit Avoidance No Longer.

AVOID THE PUBLICITY

Pay Clerk and Do Not Have To Make Public Appearance Before Bench.

Magistrate Graydon and Chief Williams have inaugurated a new system with respect to summons cases, the rule going into effect for the first time today.

From this date every person summoned, no matter how trivial the offence, will be obliged to appear in court on the day specified in the summons.

In the past the practice has been for persons charged with various offences for which the fine was a set figure to present themselves any time after the summons was issued and pay the fine over to Police Court Clerk Moule.

The new regulation will force persons who have in the past avoided the publicity to explain to the magistrate on the day set out in the summons.

The reason for making the change was due to the difference with which many have regarded certain city bylaws and the Ontario temperance act.

Many have paid their fines to the police court clerk upon a plea of guilty and no questions asked. In future these persons will not get away so lightly. Many who have repeatedly violated certain bylaws will not escape so easy in the future.

Motorists, bicyclists and persons charged with intoxication are the common repeaters. One boy appeared before the magistrate today and pleaded guilty to riding his bicycle upon the sidewalk. He admitted that he had been summoned on nine previous occasions, and each time had paid a dollar to the police court clerk.

"You can tell all your boy friends that they are not going to get off so lightly from now on," said the magistrate by way of warning.

NO LOCAL STORAGE RECEIVES CENSURE FOR HOLDING FOOD

Meat Packers Held Responsible, Says Mr. Silverwood.

STOCKS BELOW NORMAL

All Are Making Returns of Supplies On Hand to the Government.

That the strictures of W. F. O'Connor, K.C., investigator for the Dominion Government into the high cost of living, against cold storage men, do not affect cold storage plants in Western Ontario, is the opinion of A. E. Silverwood, and shows, in his judgment, that there is not the excess of produce in these plants that many people have been led to believe.

After the Meat Packers.

"There are two departments of the cold storage business," said Mr. Silverwood. "On one hand, we have the packing houses, with their storage plants. Then we have the general run of storages, either bonused by the Government or operated by private companies. The former are criticized by Mr. O'Connor for having an excess of bacon, beef, and animal products of that nature. The business that we are in does not come under that head. I know nothing about conditions so far as the packers are concerned. Mr. O'Connor is speaking for himself on that matter, and it may be presumed that he has information to support his claims.

Make Returns to Ottawa.

"The other storage plants deal with other products, such as butter, eggs, poultry, cheese, etc. Every one of them, so far as my knowledge goes, is making returns to the Government on forms supplied. In reading Mr. O'Connor's statement, we find that the storages have no excess. There is much less cheese than ever before, as the Government has eliminated speculation, and the product is not kept at all. There is no advantage in keeping it. So far as butter is concerned, there is a very slight increase, and there is not a great excess in eggs.

No Eggs to Store.

"These are being held for export purposes, as Hon. W. J. Hanna points out. Had there been plenty of shipping accommodation much of this would have gone overseas, as the excess of wheat and other products all go. They are wanted by the Allies and must go. It seems very plain that the cold storages are not holding stuff for speculative purposes. Butter is not a speculative product at this time. There are not enough eggs being produced now to supply the local demand.

"Altogether the statements of Mr. O'Connor frees the storages from censure in this matter. We have no excess. In fact, I am convinced that the storages have much less than the normal stocks on hand."

LEADERS OF U. S. SENATE WILL ASK PRESIDENT TO END FOOD BILL DEADLOCK

Washington, D. C., July 12.—Democratic leaders of the senate, finding it well nigh impossible to reconcile conflicting views on the food control bill, decided today to appeal to President Wilson to outline his opinion of what compromises should be agreed upon to hasten action on the measure.

The senate agriculture committee decided today not to make any indorsement or recommendation regarding the Gore substitute bill. Senator Gore, however, plans to offer it as an individual proposition, with the understanding that many of its provisions will have general support in lieu of those in the pending bill.

CURIOUS SKEPTIC SEARCHES IN VAIN TO FIND "LADY JEAN'S" HISTORY IN BURKE'S PEERAGE

Unable To Find the Father of Spiritual Researcher in the Archives, and Declares Title Is Used Wrongly in Any Event.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Have been following with much interest for some time past the reports appearing in your paper of sermons dealing with spiritualism, spooks, mediums, controls, etc., and also the letters published for and against.

I must confess, however, my interest has been more aroused in the high priestess of spiritualism, the Lady Jean Hooper (Rev., too, I understand), as she styles herself, than in the strange things she and others of the cult claim to be able to manifest.

I first noticed the name of Lady Jean Hooper in an advertisement appearing in your paper, calling attention to the Church of Scientific Religious Research. That set me wondering—not about the new variety of research, but about the conductor.

Didn't Explain Title.

I was told by friends, who had heard from their friends, that she was "a charming Englishwoman, who had been disinherited because she had insisted upon following the light as she saw it." But that did not explain her title, unless she happened to be the daughter of an earl.

I was naturally interested in her own statement, as quoted in your paper of some days ago, to the effect that she is the daughter of the late Sir Samuel and Lady Jane Hooper.

But how does that give her a right to the title of "Lady"? My recollection served me that not even the daughter of a viscount, let alone a baronet, is called "Lady," but merely "The Honorable Miss."

Can't Find the Hoopers.

In order to verify this point, I looked it up in Burke's Peerages. I also explored the book from cover to cover, and nary a Sir Samuel or a Lady Jane Hooper could I find, or descendants thereof. More than this, I hunted through everything on the subject I could discover in the reference room of the public library, and still without any further light on the Lady Jean branch of the Hooper family.

Possibly you and your readers may think me unnecessarily curious. The point is this, I understand that "Lady" Jean Hooper admits there are frauds operating in the name of spiritualism, but stoutly maintains her own entire integrity. If she is publicly laying claim to a title which does not properly belong to her, isn't that a fraud to begin with?

I am not saying that she is, but there is no provision as far as I can find out for the daughter of a baronet assuming the title of "Lady."

Canadian Ignorance?

It looks as if the Rev. Lady Jean takes general ignorance on these points for granted on the part of Canadians.

I do not wish to do the lady any unnecessary harm, but I cannot help making the comment that her sincerity would have been more convincing if, as a baronet's daughter, she had introduced herself with the plain title of "the Honorable Miss," to which she is entitled.

But what has happened to the family tree that it has been literally uprooted from Burke's?"

I have the honor to be, Mr. Editor,
CURIOUS.

MILITARY HOSPITAL IS WITHOUT STEAM

Capt. Smallman Says Returned Men Are Cold and Food Is, Too.

The military authorities in charge of the Convalescent Hospital here are loud in their complaints over the failure of the city and the hospital trust to furnish heat for the buildings. At the present time there is no steam, and the result has been much inconvenience. The men are not kept warm enough, and some of them have to go on short rations, as there is no steam to heat the proper food.

"The situation is serious," said Capt. J. E. Smallman. "We have made complaint after complaint, but nothing has been done. I have been trying all morning to get some person in authority at the city hall to do something. What is the use of trying to secure another hospital when the hospital we have here is not properly heated. I tell you it is serious, and something must be done or we will take the matter up with Ottawa."

Mayor Stevenson was sought this morning by Capt. Smallman, but could not be located. The matter will be brought to the attention of the board of control on Friday morning.

ST. THOMAS SENDS BIG ROSE DISPLAY

Prizes Awarded in the Flower Show at Hyman Hall.

The mid-summer flower show, under the auspices of the London Horticultural Society, is at its best today, a number of the exhibits having been put in their places in Hyman Hall only this morning.

Post of honor has been given to a magnificent display of roses from the St. Thomas Agricultural Society, brought over yesterday afternoon by Dr. Bennett, president of the Ontario Horticultural Society.

Arranged singly or in groups of two, at most, in quaint Chinese individual vases, the full beauty of each blossom is revealed. These vases were only unpacked yesterday, and it is understood are to be sold at the close of the show.

Judging has been completed with the following results:

Society premiums, prizes for three varieties of three blooms each, or a total of nine blooms of one or more varieties of the three named varieties herewith, Hugh Dickson, Mrs. John Laing and Frau Karl Druschki, first prize, silver cup, W. A. Tanner. This cup was donated by Lieut.-Col. T. S. Hobbs, and must be won three times before finally being held.

Second prize, T. C. Fleming, and third prize, Mrs. R. I. Dickie.

Non-professional, best collection of all classes of seasonable bloom—First prize, W. F. Lawrence; 2, William Moore; 3, J. C. Middleton.

Professional, best collection of all classes of seasonable bloom.—1 S. F. Wood, 2 Hospital for the Insane.

Honorable mention is made for rose collections of William McNaughton, Grosvenor street, this city, and the St. Thomas Horticultural Society.

Among exhibitors who have placed fine collections since a report was made for yesterday's Advertiser, were William McNeil and Bert Weir.

All exhibitors who employ gardeners are barred from the non-professional classes.

A rushing business was done yesterday afternoon and evening, and is in progress again this afternoon by the Isabel Hampton Chapter, I.O.D.E., both in the tea room and in selling flowers. Generous donations were received today from the gardens of Mrs. R. W. Puddicombe, "The Beeches," Mrs. T. H. Smallman, "Waverley Place," Mrs. Becher, "Thornwood," and Mrs. Patterson.

It was stated today by a prominent exhibitor that all the flowers will be turned over this evening to the Isabel Hampton Chapter, which is in charge of the flower show, to be sold for the benefit of the soldiers' comforts fund.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF THOMAS McDOUGALL.

Thomas McDougall, aged 17, last year's captain of the Collegiate Institute rugby team, and well known in hockey circles, died last evening from complications which developed after an operation for appendicitis, which he underwent recently in St. Joseph's Hospital. He was a son of James S. McDougall, the well-known local bowler, and had a wide circle of friends. For a time he studied law, but later went to Detroit. Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Bernard and Ignatius, and two sisters, Mary and Vera.

TAXI DRIVERS GO TO TORONTO, BUT MEN CAN'T BE TEMPTED

Employees of Street Railway Asked To Be Strike-Breakers.

Attracted by the prospects of a golden harvest in Toronto during the street car strike there several local taxi drivers have gone to that city, and will remain there as long as the strike lasts.

Representatives of the Toronto Street Railway, according to local street car men, have been in the city during the last two days in an effort to get some men to go from here as strikebreakers.

Although a number of conductors and motormen were approached none would consent to go and "scab it," as one conductor termed it.

It is understood large financial inducements were held out, but not one local street car man would even consider the proposition.

All believe that the Toronto men were justified in calling the strike, and out of sympathy none from here will go to assist in breaking the strike.

6TH BATTERY MAN HOME OF BRIEF LEAVE

Gunner George L. Kery, son of Sergt. Major Kery, who left London with the Sixth Field Battery, and who was killed in action last October, arrived in London Wednesday on furlough, which he will spend with his mother at her home, 805 Central avenue. He has to report in England August 31.

Gunner Kery went overseas with his father and fought with him in the famous 12th Battery under command of the late Lieut.-Col. Woodman Leonard, D.S.O. He was in England at the time of his commander's death.

Kery's mother expected him to arrive with the party of returned men on Wednesday, and was at the C. P. R. station to meet him, but the young gunner who has no desire for the "conquering hero" role, came on via G. T. R. and slipped through the streets unobserved to his home.

TRAINED BOYS TO SAVE, BIG RESULTS IN BANK

Frank B. Silverwood of Los Angeles, Cal., will be in the city this evening, and will spend a few days as the guest of his brother, A. E. Silverwood.

During his visit here, the Shriners of Mocha Temple will entertain him, and it is possible that he will also address the Rotary Club on Monday at noon.

Mr. Silverwood has made a national reputation in connection with his nest-egg fund. Some years ago, he conceived the idea of starting bank accounts for boys, particularly newsboys. He took the position that all the boy required was a start, and then it would be easy. So he picked out a number of these boys, and gave them a dollar to start an account with. This money was not to be drawn for a period of years except in case of sickness or death. One boy saved $275 in a year, and last year all his boys put $34,000 in the bank. The gospel of thrift has had a great effect, and is producing fine results. There is a movement on foot to make the scheme national in character. Mr. Silverwood may even start the scheme in London.

MANY BRITISHERS FROM U. S. ARE EXPECTED TO BE ENLISTED IN CITY

Out of ten men who offered to enlist at the Armories yesterday, six were passed by the examining board as fit for service. Only one man reported from the United States, T. W. Scott of Cleveland, who was allotted to the Army Medical Corps.

Big results are expected from the British recruiting drive in the United States next week, when a special campaign will be put on by the British recruiting officers there, and New York and Chicago will be invaded by the 48th Highlanders from Toronto.

The following came before the board yesterday: P. O. Odelant, J. E. O'Briene, C. A. Taylor and J. White, London; J. A. McLellan, G. C. Hoare and P. J. Sandercock, Stratford; T. W. Scott, Cleveland.

GRAIN SUPERVISORS TO HOLD PUBLIC SESSIONS TO DISCUSS MARKETING

Winnipeg, Man., July 12.—The board of grain supervisors for Canada will hold public sessions in Montreal and Toronto on July 18 and 20 respectively. The announcement says: "The board desires to hear expressions of opinion on the marketing of grain under present war conditions. All parties desiring to state their views will be afforded an opportunity of doing so."

The Montreal meeting will be held in the council chamber of the Board of Trade Building, Wednesday, July 18, at 9:30 a.m. The session in Toronto is set for the same hour in the assembly-room of the board of trade, Royal Bank Building, Friday, July 20.

JAPAN NOT INTERFERING WITH CHINESE AFFAIRS; NOT HELPING ROYALISTS

Tokio, July 12.—In the Diet, Viscount Motono, foreign minister, said he wished to make the unequivocal declaration that Japan had nothing to do with the attempt to restore the monarchy in China. Japan declined a request from Gen. Chang Hsun, the monarchist leader, for mediation, merely delivering his message to Tuan Chi Jui, commander of the Republican forces.

Regarding the European war the foreign minister said it was impossible to foretell what developments might come, and that Japan must be united to assist in attaining victory.

MINISTERS ARRESTED.

Tien Tsin, July 12.—Cheng Chen Fang and Lei Chen Chan, ministers of finance and war respectively under the monarchy, were arrested on a train at Feng Tai, while endeavoring to escape from Peking. Feng Lin Ko, the Manchu general, whose intentions were suspected, was unexpectedly arrested in the Tien Tsin railroad station. He was disguised.

WIDOW NOT NEXT OF KIN.

Winnipeg, Man., July 12.—A widow is not the next of kin to her husband. This point was settled yesterday by Chief Justice Mathers in a case involving the interpretation of the will of George Velie, merchant, of Winnipeg, who died some years ago. By his will he left among other legacies $5,000 to Fred Richardsin, a resident of British Columbia. The terms of this legacy were that if the legatee pre-deceased the testator, the legacy was to go to the next of kin. Richardson died, leaving a widow without family, and the question before the court was whether the widow was next of kin and entitled to the legacy. Chief Justice Mathers held that the widow was not entitled to the legacy.

FRENCH SWEEPER LOST.

Paris, July 12.—The French mine sweeper Jupiter struck a mine in the British Channel on Tuesday and sank. Eleven lives were lost.

DOGS CHASE CATTLE.

Wingham, July 12.—Cattle men are complaining that dogs are bothering the cattle in the fields. Yesterday some animals belonging to one of the butchers were chased by dogs and went through a rail fence, getting badly bruised.

THE "TWELFTH" AT WINGHAM.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wingham, July 12.—Large numbers of Orangemen and their friends arrived here this morning to attend the "Twelfth" celebration. The program for the afternoon at Victoria called for sports, while in the evening an entertainment at the town hall will be held for the benefit of the orphanage at Picton.

GERMAN BEASTLINESS VENTED ON BELGIANS WHO WOULD NOT WORK

Tied to Posts and Exposed to Rigors of the Weather.

TORTURED BY STARVING

Deported Belgians Sent Back Home Complete Physical Wrecks.

Havre, June 20—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The Belgian Government has received from various sources evidence which accords in every detail, proving that deported Belgian civilians are subjected systematically to mistreatment to bring them to forced labor for the German army.

This evidence exposes insufficient nourishment, cruel punishment, brutal intimidation and hard conditions of labor, under which a great many of the deported civilians succumb, while a large proportion return so reduced and weakened that they were incapable of physical efforts.

Coffee From Acorns.

This is the regime of the camp of Soltau described by one of the men who had been interned there and who succeeded in escaping: "In the morning a third of a litre of a beverage resembling coffee, but seeming to have been made of acorns, at noon a half litre of soup generally made of beets, but sometimes of potatoes, in the evening a fifth of a litre of porridge made of cornmeal or barley; the ration of bread is about a half pound per day; it is made of a mixture of cornmeal and rye. The interned are never given meat, fish or cheese. In certain camps the evening meal was suppressed altogether, and even the other meagre repasts were reduced for those who refused to work for the Germans. Besides hunger, the principal measures resorted to in order to bring the deported men to submission were the "supplice of the post." Stoutly fettered to posts the men are exposed to heat or cold, according to the season, for days together, during which the food rations are reduced systematically until they reach the proportions of a half ration only for two days' subsistence.

The Tank Torture.

Another cruelty practised upon the deported to force them to work is the "supplice of the tank," or a severe application of the Turkish bath. Several witnesses have confirmed this fact, among them the son of a manufacturer of the region of Antwerp, who with several of his comrades in camp was shut up in a small room heated to a very high temperature. There was only room in the place for them to stand erect, and so crowded they were scarcely able to turn. They were left there 24 hours. Then they were led to a factory in the neighborhood, where they were asked if they would go to work. Upon their refusal, they were taken to a field under military escort, divested of their overcoats, shoes, scarfs and hats or caps, and exposed in a snowstorm an entire day and an entire night, with nothing to eat or drink and under the absolute prohibition to make the slightest movement.

Some of them lost consciousness after a few hours of this exposure, and all of them were taken to the hospital the following day. The son of the manufacturer of Antwerp, a very stout, robust fellow, at the time of the deportation, was sent home a complete physical wreck a short time afterwards. He has since died from the mistreatment. He made the recital of his sufferings to the doctor who treated him, and the Belgian Government is in possession of the evidence as given to the doctor.

Two soldiers from Havre, the Lebris brothers, who escaped from Germany, confirm this evidence regarding the torture of the Turkish bath.

A number of witnesses call attention to the fact that frequently groups of deported men have been the object of a simulated execution, sometimes by a firing squad and sometimes by machine guns, in order to overcome their resistance and impress their comrades.

From all the evidence, it appears certain that the mortality among the men subjected to these and other forms of mistreatment is alarming.

CASUALTY LISTS IN DISTRICT HEAVIER THAN SINCE VIMY

Six St. Thomas Men Listed as Wounded Yesterday.

WALKERTON BOYS KILLED

Two of Bruce County's Most Popular Men Meet Death in France.

ST. THOMAS, July 11.—The heaviest local casualty list since those following the battles of Vimy Ridge, reached St. Thomas today. Six local men were reported wounded. All went overseas with the 91st Battalion.

Pte. John Newell Early, formerly of the Iroquois Hotel, a painter by trade, is reported wounded for the second time.

Pte. Charles Parker of Union, Ont., was reported wounded in the arms.

Pte. George Leland Parker, 63½ Mitchell street, was listed as having been wounded on June 8. Prior to enlisting he conducted a barber shop in the east end.

Two of the messages bore the ominous word, "dangerously." These referred to Pte. R. Herbert Kitchenham, 34 Havelock street, and Pte. Jack Robinson, 80 Railway street. The latter is wounded in the head, hands and feet.

The sixth soldier to be listed was Pte. M. Edgar Morris, 68 Elysian street.

KILLED IN ACTION.

STRATFORD, July 11.—Killed in action on October 8, 1916, was the official message received by William Bradley of this city today from the militia department regarding his son, Pte. Clifford M. Bradley, who has been reported as missing since last October. A short time ago a message came that the young man was believed to have died.

Pte. Bradley enlisted here with the 33rd Battalion with his father. He was born in Yorkshire, Eng., and was 21 years of age. He had been in Canada four years. A brother, George Bradley, has been a prisoner of war for two years.

GLENCOE SOLDIER WOUNDED.

GLENCOE, July 11.—Pte. Ernest Smith was reported wounded yesterday. The official statement did not say how seriously, but he was hurt in the hip. Before enlisting Ernest worked for John Craig, a farmer living near Glencoe. He went overseas with the 70th Battalion and has been in the trenches about a year. His brother returned from the front a short time ago and is now in London, being treated for shell shock.

FATHER KILLED; SON WOUNDED.

GALT, July 11.—Official word was received today that Edward Sutherland Brown, formerly of the 111th Battalion, had been admitted to the 12th Field Ambulance station on June 9, suffering from a gunshot wound in the left arm. The wounded soldier is 23 years of age and well known in the city, especially in baseball circles. His father, the late Pte. Arthur Brown, was killed in action on April 23 last. The father and two sons, the wounded soldier and a younger brother Arthur, now in France, all enlisted in the South Waterloo Battalion.

CANADIANS TAKE TO SCOUTING WORK AS IF SECOND NATURE

Make Nightly Explorations of Lens Ruins.

EVER ADVANCING FRONT

No Let-Up to the Pressure Against German Defenses.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS I... FRANCE, July 11.—via London—(By Stuart Lyon, special correspondent th... Canadian Press).—Determined pressure against the defences of the German... in the vicinity of the city of Lens con... tinues daily. Necessarily it is of a sort that must be exercised methodically. To send large bodies of assaulting troops into the maze of wrecked houses and mining works which now constitutes "No Man's Land" might result in the carrying of a few hundred yards of shapeless ruins, but the price that would be exacted by enemy machine guns would be far greater than the new ground won by a coup de main of that kind could possibly be worth.

The least costly mode of advance is gradual encroachment upon "No Man's Land" by patrols which occupy wrecked houses here and there during the night, and after a sufficient number has been secured, to form a fairly continuous advanced line.

Exercise Scouting Faculties.

This style of preparatory fighting brings into action the scouting faculties of a large proportion of westerners in the battalions holding the line at present. An incident which occurred the other night illustrates their methods.

A party of ten men, with a lieutenant in command, went out to examine an isolated row of miners' houses in front of their own line. The enemy was so near that no light was possible save that of the moon, emerging at times from behind heavy clouds. Under these conditions the party went to work in pairs, groping their way through the unfamiliar ruins and seeking for signs of occupation.

German Party Espied.

The lieutenant and two of his men were in one of the houses when sounds outside warned them of the coming of a considerable body of Germans. Taking shelter where the shadows were deepest these three Canadians lay hidden while more than forty of the enemy passed through the house in which they lay. The Germans were apparently on the way to a rendezvous for a raiding party, for they went out in the direction of the Canadian front.

Collecting his little party, the lieutenant sent a man back to warn their comrades in the Canadian trench. Then he and the remainder of the scouting party followed the enemy, stalking them so successfully that they got within bombing distance undiscovered. The crash of bombs falling among them was the first intimation to the Germans that they had been seen. They ran pell mell and some of them were badly hurt, judging from the outcry.

Canadians Enjoy Game.

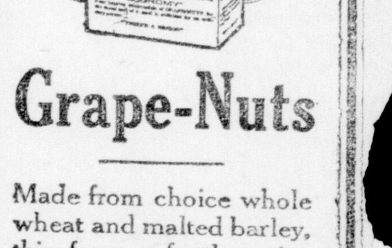

Fighting of that sort appeals strongly to the young fellows from Canada whose life at home is often perilous and full of adventure.

Another exploratory party in the area to the south of the River Souchez came in last night from "No Man's Land" and reported the destruction of a trench mortar which the enemy had installed in a house from which it could have been used during the hours of darkness with serious results to the men in our front line.

Similar raids and sorties are ta... place all along the line in the Le... sector, from Loos to Mericourt.

WAS KILLED IN ACTION.

BRANTFORD, July 11.—Lance-Co... Cowan Wallace, of Dundas street, h... been killed in action, according to wo... received here. Particulars as to how he met death are still lacking. He went overseas with the first overseas battalion from the 38th Dufferin Rifles. Three brothers also enlisted. One was rejected from the 215th; another is with the 125th, and the third with the Winnipeg Rifles, is back woundd.

STOP THE BOOZE.

MR. HANNA gives advice regarding food conservation, but somehow ...its to emphasize the need of stamping ... altogether one of the largest leak...s of all. It is the liquor manufacture ...t calls for eradication. It would be ...ice thing to ask the ordinary sober ...zen to eat less bread, or substitute ... bread for wheat, or eat more cab...e or less grain food, but at the same ...e to let the brewer and distiller go ... destroying grain in millions of ...els for nobody's good.

...he Dominion Government has done ... one thing to stop this ridiculous ...0, Mr. Hanna as food controller for ... Dominion should either wake that ...vernment up to some belated activity ... step out and let someone else do it. ...e cannot afford a further ruinous ...lay in an intelligent and courageous ...usbanding of our resources.

That the brewing and distilling does ...e up our food supply to an alarming ...egree, and therefore increase food ...rices and the cost of living generally ...eems to be easily inferred from statements made by the Year Book of the ...nited States Brewers' Association, ...914, as quoted in The Pioneer (Toronto). It said (p. 265):

"Never before have brewers, distillers and wine makers made so large a contribution to the agricultural prosperity of the country as during the fiscal year of 1913. Grain and other farm products to the value of $113,513,971 were used in the manufacture of liquors, the actual sum received by the growers."

Is not this enough to stagger the individual sober householder who takes his duties as a citizen conscientiously and thinks how to obey the mandates of the great Mr. Hanna and to make his little peanut contribution to the cause of national conservation? Will it not tend to discourage him? "One hundred and thirteen million dollars paid to the growers" means a wanton destruction of eighty or ninety million bushels of grain. Why should I or the next man, one may ask, deny our little circle of dependents the necessity or the luxury of a loaf of wheaten bread when so great a wholesale waste is allowed and useless stuff is made and suicidally washed down silly throats without the Dominion Government or its food controller raising a finger or even a warning to stop the crime?

American brewers are insolent enough seriously to advise that 15 per cent of alfalfa be mixed with the grain in the making of flour for bread. Then there will be more grain for brewers. Let the people eat grass and wash it down with beer!

Alberta has gone the length of prohibiting the advertising of liquor in any way. Let the Dominion Government stop the business of manufacture and importation in this time of increasing strain and stress, of impending famine, of shortage in shipping and rolling stock, of national and racial peril.

STRIKE THREATENED.

DISPATCHES say that a Dominion-wide strike is being planned by ...e postal clerks now in convention at ...innipeg in case the Government re...uses them the increase in pay they ...ave requested, but the whole nation ...ill hope such a contingency will be ...ded.

...strike of postal clerks would be ...errible misfortune at this time. ...ry business and almost every in...dual would feel its effects and suf... whenever it might occur, but with hundreds of thousands of Canadians in the theatre of war, the suffering would be increased enormously. Every incoming European mail brings thousands of letters to friends of the soldiers who are waiting in deep anxiety for the messages. Every outgoing mail carries more thousands of cheering epistles to the boys in France. If only one mail each way should be held up, it would mean bitter disappointment in many homes and dugouts.

Whether the increased pay demanded by the clerks is justified is a matter of opinion, but the service has never been looked on as belonging to the overpaid class. The danger is that the question may not receive the ...rompt attention at Ottawa that is re...uested, and that delay may bring ...voidable trouble. Whatever the Gov...rnment intends to do, it should do ...ow.

THE HAPPY HERO.

KNOWING that there was a possibility of losing his life in the great European war, Second Lieutenant Townsend of the 15th London Regiment wrote a farewell letter to his parents and inclosed it, with his will, in an envelope which was not to be opened until after his death. In leading the first wave against the German entrenchments at High Wood on September 15th, 1916, the young man was mortally wounded, dying two days later. The letter was read and, because of its beauty and lofty sentiment, was made public. It has been published in ...k form entitled "The ..." ... Ltd., of London, Eng., and the Canadian agents the Musson Book Co., Ltd. of Toronto.

The book is one which is worth anyone's while to read. The letter was meant to console his parents but, as the writer says, it became more a "confession of faith." Mr. Townsend meets death cheerfully, believing it will bring a continuation of the happiness he enjoyed on earth. The message is one of the most touching and ennobling epistles that the war has produced and must have had the consoling effect on his parents which the lieutenant desired yet feared he had missed. It would not be fair to quote too much, but here is a paragraph which shows the tenor of the whole: "But we shall live for ever in the results of our efforts. We shall live as those who by their sacrifice won the Great War. . . The measure of life is not its span but the use made of it."

In conclusion, the writer says: "To me has been given the easier task; to you is given the more difficult—that of living in sorrow. Be of good courage, that at the end you may give a good account."

AN ARGUMENT.

SPEAKING at an anti-conscription meeting in Montreal, one man made the following remarks, after advocating a general strike by organized labor: "That would settle the matter in a jiffy, as it would put everything, BUT MORE ESPECIALLY THE WAR BUSINESS, in the country, on the bum, IN SO FAR AS THE SUPPLY OF MUNITIONS FROM THIS COUNTRY IS CONCERNED."

If organized labor needs anything to prevent it going on strike, and we don't believe for a moment that the majority of the members would consent to such an act, this utterly selfish, unpatriotic and pro-German speech should supply the requirement.

LAW'S PECULIARITIES.

IS THERE no legal way of inflicting punishment on a municipality for the violation of a law of safety? The question has been raised in a Toronto court, where the city was charged with having no fire escapes, and having doors which opened inwardly at the city hall, and judgment has been reserved.

This may or may not be the law; that is for the magistrate to decide. But if it is law, it is time there was a change in the statutes. If any citizen is injured through lack of the city maintaining safety devices prescribed by law, he or she can sue the municipality and recover damages. Therefore, it is possible to reach the municipality by way of the law when the carelessness has results. Should it not be made equally easy to insist upon the safety measures being taken before harm is done? This would be a protection to the municipality. Law is peculiar, but when such peculiarities are noticed they ought to be corrected. The point is of interest in this city, because it is said that some of the doors in the city property have the same fault as Toronto's.

SHORT AND LONG STORIES.

SOMETIMES the news comes in short "chunks" and at other times the "stories" that are carried over the wires are interminably long. The regular night extra of The Advertiser last night was filled with small, important dispatches of not more than 300 words. "Headed up" with regard to news value they formed a most readable newspaper, one that was easy for the eye and the intellect. It was snappy, spicy. Another day the items that reach a newspaper will average from 1,000 to 3,000 words. Columns and columns of parliamentary verbiage, reviews of war operations, press comment on some great issue, conjecture.

But when the news is coming fast, the space which is allotted to each is necessarily condensed. The wires may only carry so many thousand words in 24 hours. The more "stories" the briefer the telling. It is easier on the newspaperman and easier on the public when the news comes in "bunches."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

After Lemberg—Przemysl. Once more the big contest in pronunciation.

"I am sure we can win if we hold out," says Hollweg. Exactly, if they can hold out long enough.

We don't in the least mind if we get laryngitis telling about the rivers the Russians have crossed.

If there were only ten bombs dropped at Essen, it is too much to expect the wrecking of a quarter of the huge Krupp works.

Constantinople has been given a reminder that the Dardanelles campaign did not end her dangers. Airmen are giving it another taste of warfare.

Montreal city council has decided an expert inquiry into civic affairs is necessary. The rest of Canada has long thought that one would be interesting in that city.

Now come forecasts of record crops in Western Ontario, in spite of unfavorable weather. Possibly Nature knows more about weather effects than do men, after all.

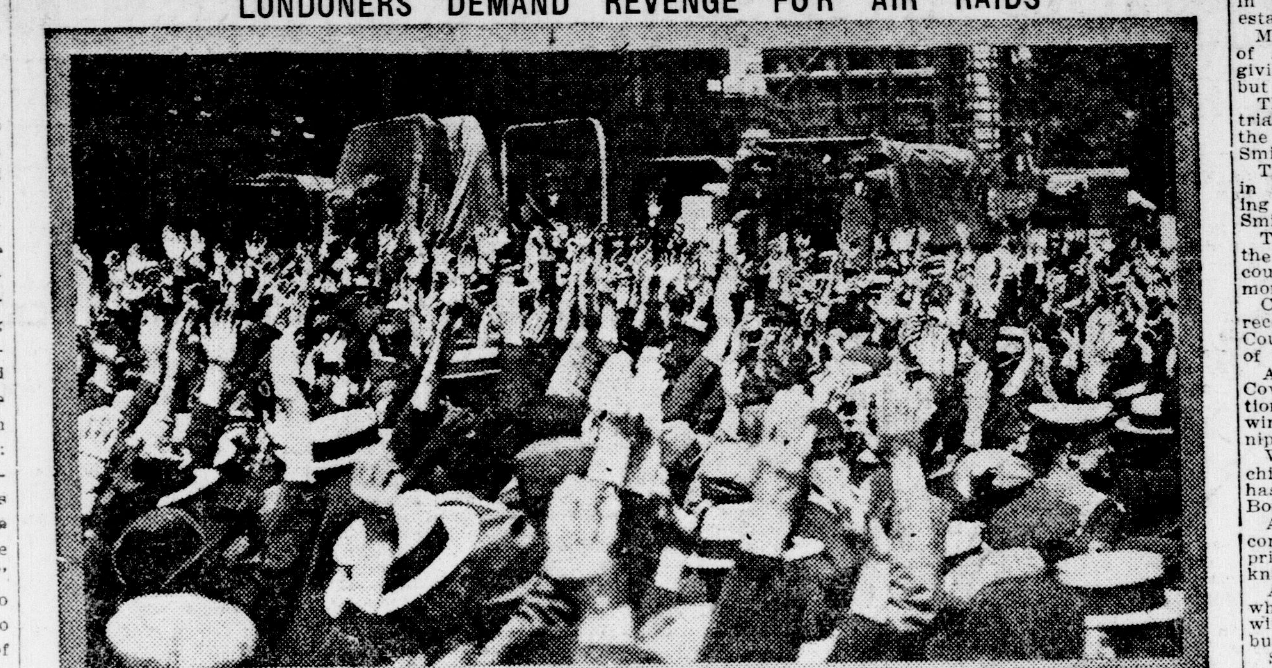

It appears that French aviator who bombed Essen did tremendous damage. The Germans say only two bomb holes were found, but perhaps the other explosives blew even the holes to pieces.

Most people will agree with Major Moraht, German military writer, who says that the present time is not opportune for a great German offensive in the west. Moreover, it is very doubtful whether such a time will arrive.

Hollweg says he is clinging to the chancellorship to protect Germany from injury. No doubt that is why Wilhelm clings to the throne, too, but the world cannot see that the loss of either would be anything but a blessing to Germany.

Good may come from evil. Applying the lessons learned from the Germans in their use of poisonous gases, an American has patented a robber-proof railway car. Anyone trying to open the door for illegal purposes is met by a ...eam of cyanide of potassium fumes.

A PRISONER OF WAR

By Patrick MacGill, Author of "The Great Push."

"On the left after fierce resistance our troops were compelled to withdraw from Fresnoy Village and Wood."

So Sir Douglas Haig's report stated, but made no mention whatever of Tubby Hardy and Ginger Rawns. Of course it was not to be expected that Tubby and Ginger would come in for notice in a report that spoke of divisions as if they were mere balls in a game of snooker. But still the story of these two men is worth telling.

When the British withdrew from Fresnoy, Hardy and Rawns were left behind in Fresnoy Wood. They were both wounded and unconscious. When Hardy came back to conscious life again he had a look round. Not a soul was to be seen, but near at hand the shells were falling with an insistent clamor and bullets were flying through the trees. His shoulder, where he got hit, was very sore and his head was reeling.

"Well, I'll get up and have a look round," he muttered, and tried to rise to his feet.

"Oh, Lord!"

He flung himself flat to earth again, for he had seen a German rise from the earth some twenty yards away. Had the German seen him?

"Suppose our fellows have gone back a bit," Hardy muttered. "Wunner when they'll attack again? Soon, I hope."

Finds a Comrade.

He lay very quiet for a quarter of an hour, then he raised his head and had another look around. The German was not to be seen now, but near by a soldier in khaki was lying on his face and moving his elbows.

"Hey! Hardy called in a loud whisper.

"Hello! came the answer in a strangled voice.

"Don't move," said Hardy. "The Jerrys are about.

"Righto!" came the answer.

"Lie quiet and I'll crawl along to you," said Hardy.

He edged along till he came abreast of the wounded man. Not a sign of life was visible; the German did not show his head again.

"Well, we look as if we are in a bloomin' fix," said Hardy, as he lay down by the side of the man. "Our fellows 'ave gone back and the Jerrys are all around us. Who are . . . Oh! It's old Ginger. Badly hurt, old chummy?"

"I've got a bit to go on with," said Ginger. "It's givin' me jyp too."

"Have you got your rifle?" asked Hardy.

Wouldn't Be Taken.

"I have nothin', only a revolver," said Ginger. "One that I got lyin' about yesterday. It's fully charged. And I'm goin' to use it if any of these damned sausage-eaters come round us. I'm not goin' to be a prisoner if I can help it. . . . . Sh! keep quiet."

Steps were heard approaching. Hardy put his lips against Ginger's ears.

"Where's the revolver?" he asked.

"Under my tummy," was the answer. "Put your hand in and take it out."

Hardy gripped the revolver, put it on the ground and covered it with his hand.

"Lie low," he said to Ginger. "Pretend you're dead and I'll do the same. If anything. . . . . ."

He got no further for the footsteps drew closer. Hardy lying on his side, raised one eyelid slightly and looked on the person who was approaching. It was a German, a big raw-boned man with a dark beard. He came up to the two soldiers, looked at them for a moment, and then, as if his suspicions were aroused, he raised his foot as if to kick Ginger in the leg. But the kick never came, for he found himself looking down a revolver barrel. Up went his hands.

Soon Tamed.

"Kamerad!" he cried.

"That tame he'd eat out of your hand," said Hardy.

"Look here, Ginger; may be he'll be able to help us out of this.

"Hey, Fritz," he said, getting up to his knees and looking at the German. "Can you speak English?"

Yes! he could speak English.

Were the Germans round the whole wood?

No, they were on the left and right flanks. The English were still holding the front. The best way of getting to the English lines was by a trench through the centre of the wood. No side was holding this trench, and it was some twenty yards away from here. He, the German, had been in the trench some ten minutes ago. He was sick of war. He did not want to fight any more, not with the English. The English were his comrades. If they would allow him, he would be glad to show them the way.

"Get on, then," said Hardy. "Get my mate on your back and carry him to the trench and we'll see if we can get back to our lines. I'll follow you and if anything goes wrong you'll have a bullet in you."

Fritz Was Useful.

With Ginger on his back the German went towards the trench, Hardy hobbling behind. They got in and found that the trench was quite a good one, as yet practically untouched by artillery fire. But the journey along it was trying and tedious. Suddenly Hardy, who now and again peered over the sides, called to the German to stop.

"Look," said Hardy to the Boche when he had placed Ginger down in the trench. "Over there on the left there's a party of your men coming towards us. Stick up your head and tell them that there's nothing here. Say that all round the trench is swept by a machine gun. Say something; or if they do come here it'll be all up with you."

The German looked over and shouted at the advancing party. There were moments of conversation. Then the German turned to Hardy.

"They haf gone off," he said.

"Carry on, then," Hardy ordered.

Twenty minutes later the three wounded men reached the English lines.

WHITHER THOU GOEST.
By Earl Reed Silvers.

Nora McMurtry had probably never heard the story of Ruth and Naomi. She knew the New Testament fairly well, and she could have told you that Adam and Noah were more or less responsible for the human race, but, all in all, she delved very little into the mysteries of literature, Biblical or otherwise. The past had little significance; what Nora cared about was the present—and a grand and glorious present it was, for it gave to her hope and happiness, and the thrill of youth's dearest dream. For Nora was in love with Tommy Lyons.

Tommy was 21 and Nora 18. To look at Tommy's eyes one would imagine that he was a poet rather than a plumber; and to look at the wealth of Nora's golden hair was to gaze upon a treasure invaluable. Tommy was six feet three, and Nora was five feet two; but the heart of each was filled to overflowing with the joy of life and the fullness of mutual love. What mattered then such a thing as size?

Possibly there was in Nora's actions just the hint of the clinging-vine type of girl, but to Tommy it meant only loyalty. There was something about Nora which called for protection, and Tommy was perfectly willing to be the protector so long as he was sure of "his girl." And he felt in his heart of hearts that Nora was his "forever to have and to hold." Had he been a student of the Bible, he would have proclaimed loudly and confidently that Ruth had nothing on Nora, that whither he went, Nora would go also. She would, in fact, have gladly gone with him to the foot of the altar had not one barrier, seemingly insurmountable, intervened. As a plumber's helper Tommy's salary was $15 a week, and although neither Nora nor her fiance was blessed with an unusually high degree of intelligence, both knew that two people could not live on that amount, especially with butter up to 55 cents a pound. So they sighed whole-heartedly and in unison and waited for the dawn of a better day.

They had been waiting for a year when one night in the early spring Tommy reached the McMurtry flat almost an hour before his usual time. Nora was cleaning up the supper dishes, but she piled them all together in the oven of the gas range, when she heard the ring at the street door, and hurried down to the front porch to greet the visitor.

"I didn't think you'd come so soon," she announced. "But I'm glad you did, anyway. It means another hour together."

She seated herself on the top of the rather rickety steps and looked into Tommy's eyes. Tommy returned the look unwaveringly for a moment or two, and then gazed rather thoughtfully down the crowded street.

"Girlie," he asked suddenly. "How would you like to go away from here?"

"I'd die if I had to live anywhere else," Nora answered instantly. "I've lived in this town all my life."

The light suddenly went out of Tommy's eyes.

"Oh!" he said. "Then it's all off?"

"What's all off,"

"What I was going to tell you about."

"What was it?"

"Tommy shook his head wearily.

"I wouldn't tell you now," he said. "It wouldn't do any good."

Something in the hopeless finality of his tone sent a chill of apprehension through Nora's brain. Impulsively she grasped her companion's arm.

"What do you mean, Tommy?" she asked. "Were you going to tell me something important?"

"It was important," the boy answered slowly. "But now it doesn't matter at all."

"Why doesn't it?"

"Because of what you said about leaving the city."

Nora regarded him with a puzzled frown.

"I don't see how that had anything to do with what you were going to say," she remarked.

"It had a lot to do with it. Why do you like this town so?"

"Why I was born here."

"Is that any reason why you couldn't go away?"

"Go away where?"

"Well, to a farm for instance; up in the mountains, with green grass and cows and chickens and things like that."

"Oh!" Nora drew back impulsively, "I'm afraid of a cow."

Tommy laughed rather shortly.

"I knew there wasn't any hope," he said bitterly. "I oughtn't to have said anything about it."

"No hope for what?" Nora was very much in the dark as to what he was driving at.

"You're just like any other city girl," Tommy continued, ignoring her question. "You don't know what it is to wake up at 5 o'clock in the morning and see the sun come up over the hills. You're afraid of a cow, which wouldn't hurt even a kitten, and you don't even know that a duck lays eggs."

There was a wistful light in the depths of Tommy's eyes. He was living for the moment his own boyhood, seeing himself barefooted on the farm on which his father worked, feeling the touch of the cool grass on his tanned feet, breathing the bracing air of a perfect spring day in the mountains.

Nora's big eyes opened even wider.

"I thought you liked it here," she said.

"I do like it a little, but that's only because you are here. Otherwise I wouldn't stay another minute."

"What would you do?"

"I'd go back to the country."

"Could you get a job up there?"

"Yes."

"Is that what you were going to tell me?"

"Yes."

"What kind of a job is it?"

There was something in Nora's voice which made Tommy suddenly glad again.

"I got a letter from Nick Phillips this morning," he explained slowly. "Nick says that old man Glenwood is looking for a man and his wife to take over his farm for the summer. It means sixty dollars a month and all expenses, and the job has been offered to me. It's only open to a man and his wife. I thought perhaps that you might be willing to go. But you say you won't leave the city."

"Does it mean we can get married?" Nora asked softly.

"Yes, it means just that."

For a moment Nora was silent. Shrill cries of children playing in the street came to her; from the next block sounded the rumble of the street cars. Just for a few seconds she hesitated, and then her small hand crept suddenly into Tommy's large one. Had she been a student of the Bible she might have said: "Entreat me not to leave thee or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

But being only Nora McMurty, with a big love in her heart for the man beside her, she said simply:

"Take the job, Tommy. I'll be the wife, and we can go together."

OUTPUT OF AIRPLANES IS BEING INCREASED BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS

LONDON, July 11.—(via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The minister of munitions in an interview today gives some reassuring figures in regard to the production of aircraft. He states that thousands of factories are manufacturing airplanes and that the output is increasing by leaps and bounds. The number of aircraft now is more than three times what it was last year, and by the end of the year would be double that of last April. The monthly output of airplane engines had been more than doubled in 1917, and the present output would be redoubled before the end of December. The ministry's airplane program, he added, was one of maximum production.

Another question to be considered will be labor's unrest since the announcement that conscription was to be enforced.

MAKERS OF PAPER FIND NEW EXPENSE, CALLED "STUMPAGE"

Put on Books Only Recently at Assumed Arbitrary Figure.

OTTAWA, July 11.—The fact that stumpage had only been placed on the books quite recently as a factor in the cost of ground wood, and then at an assumed or arbitrary figure, was brought to light today at the continued inquiry into the cost and selling prices of ground wood and sulphite pulp, by Commissioner R. A. Pringle.

H. B. Wilson of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company, when Commissioner Pringle pointed out to him the wide discrepancy in the figures of the United States federal trade commission and the figures supplied by the manufacturers, said the commission in figuring the cost per cord of wood entering into a ton of ground wood at $7.30 in 1914, had not considered $2 a cord stumpage which the mill had agreed upon was a fair figure to put in their cost, which was $10.70. Mr. Wilson stated that consideration of this cost had made a difference in the price of $2.60 per ton of ground wood. When Commissioner Pringle asked Mr. Wilson why the federal trade commission had not considered the stumpage, the witnesses replied that it had not been on the books at the beginning of last year, and that it had been agreed upon as a fair figure later.

The hearing adjourned sine die, pending the submission of the finding of Geoffrey Clarkson, the accountant appointed to go into the books by Commissioner Pringle.

VAST NUMBERS DAILY POISON OWN SYSTEMS

Auto-Intoxication the Foundation of Most Disease and Ill-Health.

SYMPTOMS ARE MANY

Nine Out of Every Ten People Likely To Be Affected—Tanlac Designed to Overcome Trouble.

Advanced medical authorities assert that auto-intoxication is the foundation of most of the ills and diseases to which the human flesh is heir. This condition is nothing more nor less than the slow self-poisoning of the vital organs, produced by the excessive mental and physical strain we are forced to endure, which renders the organs lame and inactive and permits toxins—actual poisons—to be generated within one's own body.

In the process of digestion a number of poisonous substances are produced, which, although absorbed in the alimentary canal, are prevented by the liver from entering the circulation. As a result of overwork, fatigue products, sarcolastic acid and prolonged muscular spasms my lead to auto-intoxication. Excess of uric acid in the blood is associated with high arterial pressure, headache and nervous irritability, and is an indication of imperfect metabolism (mal-assimilation), and auto-intoxication is the result, as shown by the fact that marked improvement occurs by suitable diet and treatment.

Nervousness a Symptom.

Symptoms of auto-intoxication may be associated with various nervous phenomena. Bile in the blood may be attended by stupor and mental depression, and the term melancholia, signifying black bile, indicates the importance which has long been attached to the liver as an organ, the derangement of which causes nervous depression.

Sometimes the trouble starts in the liver and kidneys, and sometimes it starts in the stomach or elsewhere, but in any case the blame lies with the family method of living which has become so prevalent of recent years, and it is the more important organs that suffer the final damage, as when they falter or fail in their duties the body fills up with poisons and the victim readily yields to their baneful influences. Bright's disease, stomach and intestinal troubles, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, in fact, may be called auto-intoxication or self-poisoning.

A tired, draggy feeling of the body, or sluggish mind and dull memory, intense nervousness, headaches, constipation and despondency are common symptoms of auto-intoxication, and nine out of every ten people in the average city like London are likely to be so affected.

Is Direct Remedy.

Tanlac, the powerful, reconstructive tonic, was designed especially to overcome these troubles. There is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the healthful work of this celebrated preparation, which begins its action by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and invigorating the entire system. Next it enables the stomach to thoroughly digest the food, thereby permitting the assimilable products to be converted into blood, bone and muscle. It overcomes that great, exciting cause of disease-weakness. It renders the body vigorous and elastic, keeps the mind clear and energetic, and throws off the symptoms of nervousness and indigestion. It builds up the constitution weakened by disease and mental and physical overwork, quickens convalescence and is an unfailing source of comfort to those suffering from these troubles.

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, under the personal direction of a special representative.—Advt.

AMHERSTBURG, July 11. — The body picked up in the Detroit River by Capt. Fred Haines of the Government patrol launch Dispatch, was identified before Coroner Parks of Amherstburg as that of Capt. AMSTERDAM, July 11.—The session of the crown council on Monday, says a Berlin telegram, lasted until 1 o'clock Tuesday morning when the resignations were accepted definitely. To Make Bacon Brown.—If you want bacon or ham to fry to a nice, dark, even shade of brown without being fried too crisp, add about one-half teaspoonful of dark syrup to the frying fat before the meat is put in the frying-pan.

A Jelly Hint.—No matter how carefully sealed it is, jelly, after it has been laid away, is apt to mold. To prevent this, stick four or five cloves in the top of it after it gets hard.

An Umbrella Hint.—Sometimes an umbrella has considerable wear left in it, but looks very shabby. When this is the case, try sponging it with well-sweetened tea. This helps to restore the color, and the sugar acts like starch and stiffens the covering.

A Hot-Weather Hint for a Soiled Clothes-Basket. — In warm weather, when clothes are not to be washed immediately, but are to be set aside in the basket or hamper, drop some pieces of charcoal into the folds of the clothes and al objectionable odors will be removed.

To Clean White Enamel.—The very best method for cleansing I have found for white enamel is to take common baking soda, rub it on thoroughly, and then wash it off with hot soapsuds. The enamel will shine and look like new.

To Make Your Own Vinegar.—Save all your apple parings and other fruits, such as peaches, berries, etc. Cover all and put into some earthen jar. Add any rinsings from vessels containing sugar or molasses. Add mother of vinegar obtained from any bottle of vinegar—to start the jar; once started, no more need be added. A little cold tea may be put in from time to time. After two or three weeks, the contents will be fermented. Then it may be drained off and strained.

To Separate Beeswax From the Comb.—Have water boiling in a vessel, convenient in size for the amount of comb to work up. Put the comb in a strong sack—a nine-pound oatmeal sack is a convenient size—tie tight; submerge in the boiling water; and with a wooden paddle work the contents in the sack till all the wax has come to the top of the water. This can be skimmed off as it hardens on the surface by weighting the sack to the bottom of the vessel.

For a Stocking Run.—If your notice a run starting in your stocking and you have not time to sew it immediately, moisten the place where the run ends, and it will go no further.

Who Asked For It?

Who asked for the song "Khaki"? "Rosalind" has kindly sent in a copy, but as she forgets the name of the inquirer, and I do too, am unable to forward same to its destination.

She's Growing Sorghum.

Dear Miss Grey, — 1. How many stitches do you put on to make a wash cloth, and also how long?

2. How many stitches do you put on to make wristlets, and how long?

3. What would be a good thing to put in the water you wash a feather bed in that a person had been lying on while sick?

4. Will you please give me a good recipe for salt yeast bread?

I wonder how many of the little folks—or big folks—are putting in sorghum this year to make syrup in the fall to help to keep down the high cost of living? There is time yet to plant it.

5. Are there any little Belgian girls and boys sent to Canada this summer for the farmers to adopt? I would like to know about the conditions.

I am sending a pattern of "mile a minute," and maybe somebody will give me the words of "Has anybody here seen Kelly, Kelly with the green necktie?" May I come again? Good-bye all,

MARGARET K.

Ans.—1. Depends on the size you wish it, coarseness of the cotton and size of the needles.

2. I wonder if you refer here to wristlets or rather fingerless mittens, for the Red Cross? Am having the directions printed elsewhere on the Page, and I hope they are what you wish.

3. Would advise the use of carbolic. A little dropped into the water should prove a good disinfectant.

4. Some time ago a reader sent us the following method for salt-rising bread. I have the clipping, but not the sender's pen name, so will she please excuse the omission: "Salt-rising bread is a very difficult thing to make, unless one has an extra good recipe, for I tried it many times and failed until I got this recipe, but have never failed with it. Early in the morning put a small teaspoon of salt in an earthern vessel that has been well scalded (I use a pitcher), then pour in a pint of boiling water, and when cool stir in enough flour and a cup of germ meal to make a batter, and then about half a cup of flour; put on top of batter to stir in later on; set the rising in a kettle of warm water, which must be kept warm, stir every two hours for three times, then do not touch again, as it will soon start to rise; should it start to rise after the second time, do not stir a third time. When light, have flour in dish and put in more salt, a tablespoon sugar, cup of sweet milk and potato water, beat all to a stiff batter; keep in a warm place and when light make into loaves, and when they have raised, bake."

5. So far as I can ascertain, there are no Belgian children being brought to Canada, and not likely to be until after the war.

6. A copy of "Kelly"—music and all—a most hideous-looking cover, I assure you, came to me from someone who never sent their address. It's yours if address and stamp are forwarded.

Will you forgive me for the delay in answering your queries? It was altogether inadvertent. Of course, call again.

Loves the Roses.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am a newcomer, but hope you will not mind my troubling you.

Can you tell me how to make a rose jar, or pot pourri, as it is sometimes called? I have wild roses around me everywhere now. I would like to get down and roll in them, but—well, they are about the prickliest roses that ever happened. Mother shoos me out now, for I have every vase and bowl in the house filled.

I have a vague idea that spices are required. About what would they cost and could I procure then at any druggist's?

I have learned to knit. It is terribly drawn out, but I manage to get through one sock a week. I am trying to teach mother, but it's a hopeless job.

Now, how is my writing? I am 16, so they don't teach us writing at school any more—something more practical—Deutsch, for instance. Don't you think our curriculum should be revised?

Thanking you for your trouble, I am somebody's HONEY CHUM.

Ans.—That somebody has a very nice "honey chum," I think, to judge from your letter. You are quite a far-away visitor, too, but none the less welcome, I assure you. So you love the wild roses? No wonder, if they are as sweet and colorful as the one you inclose for me. Here in Middlesex County I've only seen the wild roses in pink.

Now, I've never tried to make a rose jar myself, and cannot give you directions from experience, nor an idea as to price. Perhaps it would be wise to take the following clipping to a druggist and get a quotation before commencing your jar, but I do not think the total will be alarming at all.

You write very neatly—daintily, in fact. The small "c" is about your weakest letter; try and make it more definite. Afraid I am not sufficiently familiar with the present school curriculum to pass an opinion, but I've "hee'rd" things that coincided strongly with your opinion.

Here is your formula, sent in by a reader last year. May you have a lively jar of sweetness as a result:

"Here is a recipe for pot-pourri which will endure for years, perhaps until we ourselves are grandmothers. Obtain a jar with a double top, and coat the inside with a mixture of five drops of rose geranium and one of glycerine: drop a layer of loose rose petals which have been dried in the sun 24 hours, and shake well; each day add more rose petals, shake jar and add three drops oil of geranium mixed with a tablespoon rectified spirits; when jar is full it must stand open for two weeks to ripen. then stir among the leaves a mixture of one teaspoon ground cloves, one of oil of cinnamon, and let stand over night; in the morning contents of jar are emptied into a basin and three drops attar of roses and one drop glycerine are poured into jar; put petals back and sprinkle into them six drops oil of lavender, six drops oil of rosemary, and one ounce powdered tonka bean; this completes the process; the jar is covered and put away; during next month the jar is opened at intervals and the contents stirred.

Comparison of Languages.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been thinking lately that it was about time I tried to redeem my promise and write you again, more especially as I see that "Tipp" is anxious as to my health. I'm not dead yet, though I have been feeling somewhat like the celebrated character another "famous" Irishman wrote about, though I must claim another application. I refer to John Boyle O'Reilly, when he wrote that "men may be dead though they're walking about." And although "Tipp" says truly that all the names that have come down to us from the ages did not belong to royalty, yet I am sure that most Irish names did, for were there not many kings in Ireland, or did the saying originate with such bards as Tigue McMorrow? Ah, "Tipp," I am very sure as to your identity, just as sure as that Shakespeare lived on the River Avon. Perhaps a closer acquaintance might be desirable.

Speaking seriously, since I said I would endeavor to interest the children with a comparison of the speech of our forefathers and our own, I realize the subject would be too technical for young minds, and yet it is only fair that I should do something to satisfy my promise — that is, if you have room for it.

The vast differences in the many tongues spoken in the world long prevented students from finding a starting point, which was necessary in order to gather materials for classification, but this at last was reached. The study of Sanskrit, the ancient language of the Hindus, awakened the minds of European scholars to the kinship of certain tongues of Asia with the languages spoken by the chief races of Europe, both ancient and modern. These races were finally grouped under the name Aryan, because Arya was the ancient Persian name of the land supposed to have been the foster home of the Aryan races, from those who found their way south to Ceylon, to those who reached in the north the Orkneys and the Isle of Erin—this for Tipp." One of the chief connecting links is found in the numerals; for instance, the German "sechs" and the Latin "sex" are clearly identical. Here are the numbers 2, 3, 7:

Dutch—twee, drie, zeven.
Slavic—dwa, tri, sedmi.
Keltic—dau, tri, secht.
Latin—duo, tres, septem.
Greek—duo, treis, hepta.
Persian—dwa, thri, hapta.
Sanskrit—dwa, tri, sapta.
Anglo-Saxon—twa, three, seofon.
English—two, three, seven.

There are many more, but these will suffice for the present. All are from the same original Aryan words. But let us look at a few non-Aryan languages, and see how the same words look and sound in them:

Arabic—ithn, thalah, sab'.
Turkish—iki, uch, yedi.
Hungarian—ket, harom, het.
Japanese—ni, sau, nah-natz.

Plainly, they are very unlike the first examples, and every other test leaves the same result.

Progress in Language.

The first language spoken was monosyllabic, or words of one syllable, and still spoken by the Chinese. Then came the agglutinative, where simple sounds combined, together form a compound idea. Third is the holophrastic (or poly-synthetic), where the agglutinative plan is carried to the length of putting together in one word all the ideas it is intended to express. Fourth came the inflectional, where the relations of words to one another are determined by some change in the form of the words. Finally we reach the analytic, where the synthetic methods having done their work, and a reaction against that system setting in, the relations of words to one another are expressed by small particles that serve as the medium of thought. This is the stage in which the English language is at present, but who shall say it will stop there. Indeed, changes are going on all the time.

To go further into the subject would be to place too great a burden upon the space at Miss Grey's disposal, so I think I had better tell the children what I intended, or this whole article will be filed—not placed in the W. P. B.!

The chance game for the scarf was one of the most ancient of Teutonic games. A number of children held the edge of the scarf with both hands. One was chosen to say a spell, touching a hand at each word, and the hand on which the last word fell was dropped out. The spell was then repeated as often as necessary, and the owner of the last hand left won the game. Thus it ran:

Hurli Burli
Blypan Trothorn
Eastor Gasta
Scipa Hwede
Gang Feran
Ut

Now, what do you think all this is in modern English? I will give the present version (although greatly corrupted), and you can compare it yourselves.

Early Burly
Bouncing Trumpet
Easter Ghoster
Shippety
March Walk
Out

A lot of nonsense, you will say, but please remember we are dealing with a time when the race was in its childhood, and many things which seem childish to us were regarded with solemnity by our forefathers. The game was played until recently in Stillingfleet in Yorkshire.

Another verse will give you some idea of the progress made in our language since those far-off days. When children found that small reptile called a nixy it was pushed into the water, while a girl would throw a needle at it and sing a spell, thus:

"Nix—Nix—needle in water,
Virgin casteth steel in water,
Thou sink and we flee."

Compare this modern English with the original, and I think you can trace the changes:

"Nik—Nik—naal in vatu,
Jomfrau hastet staal in vatu,
Du sok ab flyt."

Druid and Kelt.

I was pleased to see you published the story of the Man in the Moon, but I feel I must correct some errors. I forget the author's name, but the mistakes are very apparent. It was stated that it was in the time of the Druids, and that they worshiped the Sun on the first day, the Moon on the second, and the rest of the deities gave their names to the other days of the week. The Druids were sun-worshipers, and Bel, or Baal, was their god, but his worship was celebrated every day. The moon was also adored, but the adoration took place at night; her name was Hest. The days of the week are all named after Teuton gods, as all school children know, and as the Druids were not Teutons, but Brythonic Kelts (another Aryan family), it is evident our author was somewhat astray. It was to these same Kelts that we are indebted for the rich store of legends which gathered around the name of Arthur Pendragon—King Arthur and the Round Table.

EXTORRIS.

Ans.—Having some personal knowledge of our friend "Extorris," I know that he has made a sincere study of the history of languages, and we are therefore all the more grateful to him for devoting time and thought in fulfilling his promise to us. One wishes, however, that "Extorris" did not feel obliged to curtail his interesting letter, for like the small boy, we cry for "More." May we hope for it some day, "Mr. Extorris?"

MUNICIPAL CHAPTER GETS FINE REPORTS

Splendid reports for the month of June were put before the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., at their monthly meeting held in the Cronyn Hall yesterday.

The total number of socks sent over amounted to 1,603 pairs, and the total number of articles was 1,324. These bales have all been received by the Red Cross in England and acknowledged by letters, which were read at the meeting. Two life membership certificates were presented to Mrs. A. A. Campbell and Mrs. Scatcherd, they being two of the oldest and most faithful members of the Daughters of the Empire in London. Arrangements were made for every chapter to assist on France's day, and teams organized.

Miss Carling, president of the Women's Gardening Association, spoke to the members, asking them to unite with other women's institutions, to help to make the canning demonstration to be held July 18 and 19 a success, that if each person contributed either fruit or vegetables, these when canned could be sold at a reasonable price and the proceeds donated to the Red Cross, soldiers' comfort fund, or some other worthy cause. The nominal fee of 25 cents entitles the member to attend the demonstration, and many of the members present thinking this modest sum well worth the knowledge of how to can their surplus fruit and vegetables, gave Miss Carling a long list of names.

Mrs. H. E. Boomer gave a brief account of the Women's National Council held in Winnipeg, stating that the children of today were the men and women of tomorrow. These things had been put before the council:

Health certificate before marriage.
Child welfare.
Education and recreation of children.
Military training in the public schools.
Careful watching of desirable emigrants.

What women will do now they have the franchise. These were the things that they were going to press forawrd this year.

A new chapter is expected to be formed, called the Hugh Niven, in honor of London's hero, Major Hugh Niven.

KNITTING

Fingerless Mittens.

[Printed by Request.]

Use 5 coarse needles.

Cast on 56 stitches, on 3 needles. Rib for 60 or 64 rows, that is knit 2, purl 2. At the end of 60 or 64 rows pass 2 stitches on to the fifth needle and increase to 4 stitches by picking up the back part of each stitch. The next row increase the 4 stitches to 8 stitches.* Knit 3 plain rounds, and on the fourth increase once at the beginning and end of the thumb needle. Continue from * until you have 22 stitches on the thumb needle, thread a wool needle and pass it through the 22 stitches knitted for the thumb; tie the cotton. Continue to work in the round for the hand, making an extra stitch at the beginning of the first needle, and end of the third, which makes 56 stitches, knit 12 plain rounds, then rib for 12 rounds, and cast off. Now finish the thumb by taking the stitches off the cotton on to 3 needles, take up 4 more stitches where the thumb joins the hand part. The next row knit plain and decrease 2 stitches at the place where the 4 extra ones come. Rib the 24 stitches for 12 rounds and cast off.—Red Cross Society Book of Directions.

SPINACH IN A NUMBER OF WAYS

Spinach is a very useful green vegetable, with a pleasant and delicate flavor, it is lighter and more digestible than some of the other green vegetables, and for this reason is a favorite with invalids. Spinach is cooling to the blood and a laxative in character. It must be used while young and fresh, as when old it develops a bitter taste and is neither wholesome or pleasant.

Spinach Omelet.

Break four eggs into a bowl, beat them with a fork, add one tablespoonful of cream or milk, half a teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in an omelet pan; when quite hot pour in the mixture, stir slowly with a fork over a hot fire, shake the pan; when set shape the omelet on one side of the pan, allow it to take color in a hot oven, then turn quickly on a hot platter. Have one-fourth of a peck of spinach cooked and rubbed through a sieve, heat it with two tablespoonfuls of white or brown sauce, season with salt and pepper, and fill into the centre of the omelet. Pour a little hot brown sauce round the omelet and serve at once.

Spinach Salad.

Season some cold, cooked, chopped spinach with a little French dressing, and press into small molds. Arrange some slices of cooked ham or tongue on crisp lettuce leaves. Lay a mold of spinach and a slice of hard-cooked egg on top of each and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Spinach Souffle.

Cook half a peck of spinach and rub it through a sieve. Season with half a teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and a tiny pinch of grated nutmeg, add the beaten yolks of three eggs and mix well. Then add three tablespoonfuls of white sauce and the whites of eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Pour into a well-greased dish, sprinkle the top with fine bread crumbs, and bake for twenty minutes.

Spinach Puree.

Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, stir in one tablespoonful of flour, half a teaspoonful each of salt and sugar and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper; do not allow it to brown; stir in four tablespoonfuls of cream, and when smooth add one-fourth of a peck of spinach that has been cooked and chopped fine, and then add one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Press the spinach into a buttered mold, and put it in the oven for five minutes. Turn out of the mold and serve with a circle of fried sausages round it.

Spinach Balls.

Press all possible liquid from two cupfuls of cooked and chopped spinach, and reheat with four tablespoonfuls of flour, three tablespoonfuls of butter and two tablespoonfuls of thick cream. Season to taste with salt, pepper, sugar and powdered mace. Take from the fire and add two well-beaten eggs. Cool, form into balls and simmer in boiling water for six minutes, drain, place in a hot dish, and cover with cream sauce to which a few capers have been added.

Boiled Spinach.

To boil the spinach put it into a large saucepan with just the water that hangs on the leaves, or, if it is getting old, with about half a cupful of water, sprinkle it with a very little salt, cook it until it is quite tender, stirring it frequently with a wooden spoon. When ready drain well, pressing out all the water. Then rub the spinach through a sieve or chop it fine. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, put in the spinach, season with salt, pepper, a pinch of nutmeg and a little lemon juice, and heat all thoroughly over the fire. Serve in a hot dish, garnished with hard-cooked eggs, chopped.

Spinach Croquettes.

Cook half a peck of spinach, then drain it and cool and chop fine. Mix with it thoroughly two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of sugar, the grated rind of one lemon, half a teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper and half a cupful of cream, then cool. Shape into neat croquettes, dip in beaten egg, toss in fine bread crumbs and fry in plenty of smoking-hot fat, drain and serve hot.

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE KITCHEN.

Cooking is such practical, everyday work that it seems strange for superstitions to invade the kitchen. Yet probably there is not a cook in the world, one writer claims, who would venture to stir any sort of mixture, from a custard to a gravy, in any other direction than "with the sun." Many a cook will tell you that a custard will curdle if stirred in the opposite direction, and that a cake will be heavy if the mixture be not always worked round sunwise.

It is a common saying that if the crank of a churn be reversed—after turning it in the proper direction for a time—all the work will be undone. In some parts of Europe, when butter does not come easily, a live coal is placed under the churn, "so as to save it from bewitchment."

Regarding bread-making, there are several superstitions. In Yorkshire, England, nearly all the housewives still bake their own bread. After kneading the dough and leaving it to rise, a deep cross is cut in it with a knife. This is to "let the witch out," and the custom is common to this day. In Scotland they say that the yeast must be made within an hour of sunrise, or the bread will not be light.

Peasants in the west of Ireland, it is said, will never leave an egg-shell open at one end only. The spoon is always thrust through the lower end. Otherwise some wicked goblin will seize upon the shell and make a boat of it in which to sail the soul of the careless person to destruction.

The superstitions with regard to salt are endless. That the spilling of salt is unlucky is perhaps the commonest of all superstitious beliefs, and prevails in the kitchen as well as at the table. There are Scottish households where salt is still held in such reverence that the saltcellar used at the family table is invariably kept standing on the family Bible.

PLANNING FOR THE PATRIOTIC BREAKFAST.

Red, white and blue has overrun our country. We see flags waving on the breeze, and displayed at the windows of the houses; small jeweled ones are shown in the jewelry shops; and printed ones appear even on the linen collars of unrepresentative masculinity. Where flags cannot be put, the colors gayly beckon. On the heads of pretty girls' hats of red, white and blue, have sometimes amazing charm; also touches of patriotism evince themselves in the form of bandings on blouses, flounces on underskirts, pasted lozenges on quill pens, in the tinting of those flat, creamy peppermints, displayed in the confectioners'.

While patriotism has prompted the vogue for red, white and blue, the combination is being popularly accepted because it is the vogue. It has even crept into our furniture, and strange as this may seem, it has become decoratively possible. Otherwise, I am sure, I would ignore it instead of writing about it. However, if I do not soon begin to do the writing, you will imagine this furniture decorated with flags. So I will hasten to tell you that it is in the more or less harmless combination of red and blue, though the red is a bright Chinese red, and the blue is a royal blue; the latter used in bandings, on the wide edges, and on the seats of the chairs, with the balance entirely of bright red.

This furniture consists of the daintiest sort of furniture for the breakfast room—the sort of an impromptu breakfast room which may be established in the end of a corridor, in a corner of an inclosed porch, in an alcove, or in a small room which could hardly be used for anything else. Regular breakfast room furniture is usually expensive, but these pieces are to be considered in the light of novelties, and as such their cost is comparatively little, the small drop-leaf table having been seen in one shop for $13.50, the chair for $8.

They were so fetching, indeed, that they did not stay in that shop long! And now they grace the secluded end of an inclosed porch, the woodwork of which is white, the walls of which are glass, divided into small panes, and this porch end is called "the breakfast room." It is a very attractive little place—on the floor there is laid a braided rag rug in red, white, blue and black, in the white window flower boxes, decorated near the bottom with a line of blue, there are large pansies of blue and of white; these also are planted thickly in the flower stand that matches the furniture. The china used is white with a block decoration of black.

How Any Woman Can Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture.)

It is not longer necessary for a woman to visit a beauty specialist to have superfluous hair removed, for, with the aid of a plain delatone paste, she can, in the privacy of her own home, remove even a stubborn growth in a very few minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is applied to the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes removed and the skin washed, when it will be left clear and hairless. Be sure you buy real delatone.—Advt.

65,000 FLAGS FOR FRANCE'S DAY TO BE SOLD IN LONDON

Whole District Will Require More Than 100,000.

Objective of Workers Will Be "All We Can Get"—The Need.

Saturday will be one glorious French flag day throughout Western Ontario. In response to the appeals sent out from the general "France's Day" committee in the city, the various chapters of the I. O. D. E. of No. 1 military district, the numerous Red Cross circles which ship through the London Red Cross branch central depot at Hyman Hall, Patriotic Leagues and Women's Institutes have taken up the movement with enthusiasm to raise money for the French Red Cross by one grand drive on the day of the celebration of France's liberty, July 14.

100,000 Flags Distributed.

So hearty has been the response and so great the demand for flags, that the central committee has been obliged to twice increase its order. Only today a further order was sent to Toronto for 12,000 flags for outside organizations, making more than 100,000 in all.

The Port Stanley Chapter of the I. O. D. E. has ordered something like 3,000 flags, and a big day is expected there, provided the weather is good.

Instead of a flag day, a lawn social is being held this evening in Thorndale to raise money for the dressings and other hospital necessities for the splendid men of France, and also provide comforts for the sons of the allied country who are in prison camps.

65,000 for London.

Sixty-five thousand flags have been ordered for the city, and no difficulty is anticipated in disposing of these. Even with all the fine spirit manifested in other campaigns, there has probably not been one in the city in which all the women's organizations have pulled together so harmoniously and whole heartedly.

The same, it is stated, has been true in the cities, towns, villages and rural districts all over Western Ontario. The knowledge that paper has been used in France to dress the wounds of the heroic men, owing to lack of proper dressings and that those who have already suffered for the cause which is Canada's are suffering still more because they need what Canada can give, has proved an irresistible call to action on the part of Western Ontario women.

Flags Sold All Day.

In the city, the residential districts will be thoroughly canvassed on Saturday forenoon and flags sold all day in the down-town streets.

The "motor transports," in other words, the automobiles which will be placed at the service of the flag day committee for the day, are to be decorated in the tri-colors of France, and a grand parade will be held at the noon hour. In the evening, the Marconi Club band, under the direction of Prof. Venuta, will give a program of French music in Victoria Park.

For once, no objective has been fixed for the proceeds. "How much do you expect to raise," has been asked of one member after another of the flag day committee. In each case, the answer has been, "We haven't any special amount in mind. We want all we can get."

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Tourney To Be Held at Forest Next Year.

SARNIA, July 11.—A Sarnia pair, F. B. Williams and J. Knowles, won the Lambton County Scotch doubles championship here today, winning four games out of five. NO BETTING ALLOWED AT GRAND RAPIDS

GRAND RAPIDS, July 11.—Sheriff Berry informed Judge Murphy, promoter of the running race meeting here, that six warrants would be served upon the promoters as soon as the first bet was made at the track today. Judge Murphy announced this afternoon that no more races would be held here.

The Grand Rapids race meeting, a revival of running races in Michigan, began July 4 and was to have continued ten days, ending July 14. Betting was conducted at the track on the pari-mutuel system, without machines.

The first complaints were made to Prosecuting Attorney Hoffius Monday, charging that because mechines were not used there was no way of telling whether the management was paying the proper return to bettors. The prosecuting attorney ordered Sheriff Berry to enforce the Michigan anti-betting law, but did not order racing stopped.

NEW LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP FOR CANADA

Clonie Tait Knocks Out Johnny O'Leary at Medicine Hat and Gains Crown.

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., July 11.—Canada has a new lightweight champion pugilist. Clonie Tait, Alberta's undefeated lightweight, today won the premier honors when he knocked out Johnnie O'Leary, title-holder, in the last round of a ten-round go. Tait had the advantage in every round but the second, which was even. He finished as fresh as when he started, while O'Leary was badly punished. In the tenth round Tait rushed his opponent to the ropes and showered him with rights and lefts so that he was helpless, and at the end Referee Maxwell had no alternative but to declare Tait winner and champion of Canada.

RAIN AGAIN INTERFERES

WEDDING BELLS FOR TONY IF HE WALLOPS MENDOTT FRIDAY NIGHT

Zoccano Has To Trim Opponent Before Sweetheart Will Marry Him.

The fight tomorrow night at Tecumseh Park between Tony Zoccano of this city and Joe Mendott of Port Dalhousie means a whole lot more to Zoccano than the dollars that he will receive, for if he can beat Mendott he not only gets the heavy end of the purse but will win pretty Rosy Orland, who is hailed as the sweetest Italian rose in Nova Scotia.

Zoccano met Miss Orland at Yarmouth, N.S., when he was training for his fight with Mendott in the month of roses and straightway fell in love with the girl, who promised to be his bride if he trimmed Mendott.

IT WAS SOME SMACK.

However, the path of true love never did run smoothly, and Tony was knocked out in the nineteenth round of his twenty round mill with Mendott, principally because he spent most of his time in the fishing smack (with the accent on the smack) of Rosy's fond papa, who has a fine fish business at Yarmouth.

Still, Rosy believes that Zoccano's trimming was all a mistake and that Tony spent too much time star gazing instead of training for the fight and has sent him forth like a knight of old, to do battle for her. Miss Orland was at the ringside when Zoccano was defeated, which possibly made the local fighter nervous. In fact Tony is quite sure that this was so. He wasted no time in alibis but made tracks for London on the Thames and has been training hard ever since to get into condition to put Mendott away and demonstrate to his lady love that he is still some scrapper.

TWO ANXIOUS HEARTS.

There will be one anxious heart in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, Friday night, and another in the ring at Tecumseh Park, and a telegram announcing the result of the fight will be dispatched immediately to the waiting girl on the east coast of Canada.

Zoccano is not making any predictions as to how the fight is going to come out. He merely smiles and says "Well, I was never in better shape and I feel like a bear. What more do you want?"

NICK ALTROCK IS A REAL FISHERMAN

He Shows Detroit Fans How To Land 'Em.

Detroit, July 12.—"Nick" Altrock worked in a brand new pantomime act Monday afternoon.

In the sixth inning of the second game a heavy storm broke across Navin field, drenching spectators and players before they could get under shelter. Inside of 10 minutes there were miniature lakes along various boundaries, and it seemed certain that play would be stopped for the afternoon.

The Tigers were leading, 10 to 2. James was—or had been—pitching fine ball, while Jim Shaw had shown nothing the Tigers considered really bothersome.

When the rain ceased Altrock, appearing from under the Washington dugout, gingerly picked his way towards the plate.

"Get out of there!" yelled Groundkeeper Haisman.

Nick started to retreat, but when he saw Haisman turning away he assumed a defiant attitude and dared the park official to "come over."

Failing in this, Nick, springing from hummock to hummock, finally reached first base. There he stood, marooned. He looked in vain for a spot to place his heavy hoof. Finally he found one, and going from blade of grass to blade of grass, he reached a point on the tarpaulin, which had been spread over the pitcher's box.

Nick Starts Fishing.

Carefully picking out a spot where there was only an inch or so of water, he put down his glove and sat on it, crossing his legs and assuming the pose all our best fishermen try for, but seldom attain.

Getting out his bait and hooks he made a cast in the general direction of the home plate, and then started to reel in his catch. It got away just as he was bringing it to the surface. In disgust he baited his hook again and flung it away. He reeled in fast—and the big one again slipped off the hook.

This was too much. Reaching under one hip, Nick pulled out a bottle and took a long imaginary pull.

This helped. Casting out again he fastened on to an enormous fish and with a wonderful exhibition of sheer strength finally landed it.

This closed the fishing act, but Nick wasn't through. Standing on one edge of the tarpaulin he took a running high dive and slid outstretched, with hands and feet waving wildly in the motion of a swimmer making his last desperate lunges for shore, clear across and on the grass.

GIBSON AND WAGNER IN CLASS BY SELVES

George and Honus Show the Youngsters Comeback Stunt.

NEW YORK, July 11.—"They never come back" is a phrase that applies only with reverse English to the performances of George Gibson and Honus Wagner, two surviving members of one of the National League's most famous pennant winners. Both, after having been voted out of the game, are back there, and are back there with such a vengeance that they have rooted youngsters out of the line-up.

Gibson's come-back was delayed somewhat more than Wagner's. Hans was playing regularly for the Pirates, while Gibson was still doing bench duty for the Giants. The need of a catcher to help Bill Rariden, and the unwillingness of McGraw to use Ernie Kreuger, a youngster, in the important games the Giants were then playing, brought Gibson back to the box scores.

Gibson was turned out of the Pirate fold almost a year ago by Jimmy Callahan. Under the rules of baseball he was entitled to an unconditional release, but McGraw refused to waive and Gibson was sent to New York. For a time he refused to report, but differences were patched up last spring.

Gibson is 37 years old now—an old man as baseball players are rated. He began playing baseball in London, Ontario, some years ago with an amateur team of that city. Then Gibson got into the old Eastern League, now the International League, and did service with Buffalo. He played only twelve games and amassed a batting average of .287. He was dropped by Buffalo, however, and Montreal took him on. He took part in 80 games in 1904 and batted .204. Two years was his limit in Montreal and then he was purchased by Pittsburg, where he played until last summer.

Gibson was a regular almost to the last day of his engagement with the Pirates. One year he caught 150 games, and that was the Pirates' big year of 1909, when they defeated Detroit in the world series.

EVERS MAY JOIN MORAN'S PHILLIES

Boston, July 12.—"Johnny" Evers, formerly captain of the Boston Nationals, left here last night for Philadelphia for a conference with Patrick Moran, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, regarding the possibility of Philadelphia assuming Ever's contract. Philadelphia already has bid for the second baseman's services. Evers contract with the Boston club, calling for $10,000 a season, does not expire until the end of the present baseball season, and in the meantime under the contract Evers cannot be sold or traded without his consent. Although Evers is still on the sick list it is understood the Philadelphia club wants him on the assumption that he will be able to resume playing soon, and also as an inspiration and coach for the Philadelphia players.

FAVORITE DEFEATED BY PRINCESS MARY AT MUNROE RACES

Big Crowd Well Pleased With High-Class Sport.

MONROE, July 11.—Princess Mary upset the dope badly today, defeating the favorite, South Bend Girl, in the 2:13 pace.

Baronwood and Fuzzy Chatham led at the half in the first heat. They bunched on the far turn, and Graustark got through, then drew away at the end. Graustark led only past in the second, South Bend Girl having scooted past the lot, jogging in the home stretch.

In the third heat, South Bend Girl scored badly, and Eel Direct made the early pace, attended by Princess Mary, which mare forged to the front in the last turn, and won by a neck. Princess Mary was very good, winning the next two heats after racing in front all the way. South Bend Girl did not have the speed, fading away at the end of the final mile, in which she got away well enough.

High-Class Races.

Racing in the stake was no better than in the classes, the sport being of the highest class and attendance good for Monroe. There was another big tumble on the part of the talent in the 2:17 trot, in which Jenny E. was a strong favorite.

She wanted to pace, and delayed the starts by her bad manners. The Canadian veteran, Maggie Bond, that races in half-hobbles, led all through the three heats. In the first Frances Belmont came fast on the end, failing by a nose. The second was easy for her, but in the third June Red hustled along gand failed by a neck.

The Detroit horse, Lord Seymour, was the choice and won the 2:11 pace. Prince Rupert won the first heat by a head, and Lord Seymour beat him that much next time, then won the others about as he pleased.

Card for Today.

Thursday's card is featured by the 2:19 trot, for $2000, in which Stephen, Ingara, Doris Watts and four others are to start. In addition there is the 2:24 pace, with eleven starters, and the 2:20 trot with ten.

Culloden Wins Tourney From Bullock's Saints.

TILLSONBURG, July 11.—The baseball tournament under the auspices of the Monitor baseball team of the Huntley Manufacturing Company, held at the local baseball park today, was a decided success, despite the inclemency of the weather. The brand of ball played was equal to any Canadian League games, and, in fact, several former Canadian League players were on the field today.

The big feature of the afternoon was the playing of Dinsmore of London, who pitched seventeen straight innings for Culloden, allowing only two runs and going strong at the finish. Culloden took first money, $50; St. Thomas, second, $30; Aylmer, third, $20.

The games:

First game: Preston 2, St. Thomas 7. Batteries—Preston, Jones and Ruppells; St. Thomas, Billings and Dodson.

BOXER DIES

HE'S GOT TO WIN

TONY ZOCCANO, who has to beat Joe Mendott at Tecumseh Park tomorrow night or live a single blessedness.

PLOT TO POISON FAMILY.

HARTLAND, N. B., July 11.—Jas. Tapley of Greenfield, Carleton County, is under arrest charged with an attempt to poison a family named Shannon, with whom he has been at odds. John La Francise, held as a witness, alleges that Tapley gave him strychnine to put in Shannon's food, but that, instead, he revealed the plot to the Shannon family.

VETERAN GOLFER RUNS UP RECORD AT CHICAGO TOURNEY

Ned Sawyer, Chicago, Beats Yale Star, Robert Markwell.

CHICAGO, July 11.—A world's record extra-hole match was staged today in the second match round of the western amateur golf championship at Midlothian, Ned Sawyer of the Bobolink Club, Chicago, defeating Robert Markwell, Yale University star, on the 42nd hole, after having been five down at the 27th hole. It took par golf for the veteran Sawyer, western champion in 1906, to overtake his younger opponent, who was down three after 36 holes of splendid golf, but the strain finally told on the young collegian.

The other seven matches were not close, and three were one-sided.

Francis Ouimet of Boston defeated J. T. Henry of Chicago, 4 an 2, in a rainy finish. The former national champion barely kept square on the first nine with a 37, one over par, but gained three holes on the second nine.

Henry again held his own on the third nine, but slipped a hole on the last lap, losing four down and two holes to play.

Kenneth Edwards eliminated Reuben Bush, the last southern contender, 3 and 2.

Jack May, Argentine champion, had no trouble in ousting E. Hoover Bankard of Chicago, 6 and 5, and Peter Burnett downed his fellow-Chicagoan, K. J. Pederson, 3 and 2.

In a runaway affair Jesse P. Guilford, Massachusetts champion, defeated G. Decker French of Rock Island Arsenal, 13 and 12, being ten up at the end of the first round.

In another one-sided contest Donald Edwards of Midlothian, medalist in the qualifying rounds, defeated 10 up and 8 to play the only British contestant, J. S. Worthington. John Anderson of New York, hitting par golf on the second round, defeated Robert Bowker of Chicago, 8 and 7, after the public links expert had held the eastern player even on the first 18 holes.

While Lew McCarty Is Out, Veteran Will Catch Schupp.

It is quite likely that from now on, until Lew McCarty returns to active duty, George Gibson will be seen behind the bat whenever Ferdinand Schupp is called upon to pitch.

Bill Rariden, upon whom the brunt of the backstopping has fallen since McCarty sustained a broken leg in Cincinnati a few weeks ago, cannot for some reason or other seem to work smoothly with the kid pitcher, and the problem was solved when Gibby took his turn behind the bat and handled the delivery of the Louisville youngster in faultless style.

Handing young pitchers is not a new experience for Gibson, for it was he who developed Al Mamaux. It is a fact that Mamaux has not been the same since Gibby severed connections with the Pirates, and it is admitted that this is simply because the Pirates have no other catcher who can handle the Dormont kind in the way that Gibson used to. Before Mamaux flashed across the baseball horizon Gibby did all the catching for Babe Adams, the sensational hurler who pitched Pittsburg to a pennant and a world's championship in 1909.

It has been a long while since Gibson made his debut in the big show, and at one time last year he believed that he was through and he contemplated settling down on his little place near London, Ont. He asked for his outright release from the Pittsburg club, and in accordance with the rules the Pirates asked for waivers on him with a view to giving him his release if he were not claimed.

Sowing and Reaping

Sowing the seed in the springtime so that you may reap a bountiful harvest, is like depositing your first dollar in our savings department. It grows and multiplies rapidly as does the grain, and ere long you have a goodly amount of "golden grain" in your granary—in the form of a savings account.

One dollar deposited opens an account, and we pay 3½% compound interest. Will you start sowing next pay-day, that you may reap and be independent?

Organization of Resources Committee

We must get 500 Volunteer Harvest Helpers this week

Three months ago—when Famine and World Hunger became a possibility—we said to Ontario farmers:

You Must Produce More Food!

The farmers have produced more food, and we now call upon town and city men to help them harvest it. Five hundred men are wanted now. More men will be needed later.

But we must have five hundred men at once for from two to six weeks, or for the balance of the season. Good wages paid.

Consequently we urge employers to release men temporarily for this work, and keep their jobs open for them. And we call upon all men who can to help gather the harvest.

The food crops must be taken off the ground. You need them as much as our own Soldiers and Allies in Europe.

Many men will volunteer to do it instead of taking a vacation this year. Will you? If so, offer yourself now.

Register in person or by mail at the BUREAU. They will give you all particulars.

No man who possibly can help should refuse

$3,000,000 CARGO ON AMERICAN SHIP SUNK NEAR FRANCE

The Kansan Carried Flour and 4,000 Tons of Steel for French Govt.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The American steamship Kansan, carrying a crew of 50 men, has been sunk, presumably off the French coast, according to a cablegram received here today by the France and Canada Steamship Company, which chartered the vessel. The fate of those on board is not known. The vessel was valued at $3,000,000. She carried a cargo of flour and other foodstuffs, together with 4,000 tons of steel, which, valued in all at $2,000,000, was consigned to the French Government.

The cablegram received here came from the company's agents in Paris. It did not say wether the steamer was torpedoed or where the sinking, on July 9, took place. The vessel was due at French port on July 8. She left New York on June 28, commanded by Captain E. A. Forsythe.

ANYONE WHO OBJECTS TO CONSCRIPTION WILL BE PUT BEHIND BARS

Government Announces Drastic Law — Agitators Dare Not Counsel Protest and Editors Dare Not Write Them — No Recourse to Law.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, July 11.—Anyone who interferes with the operation of the conscription law, by act, by spoken or written word, or in any other way, will be liable to severe penalties.

Regulations to prevent interference of any sort by any one, whether at public meeting, or in a printed newspaper, were announced to Parliament tonight by the Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Hope that the compulsory service bill would be passed by the Commons this week is not likely to be realized. The amendments given notice of by the solicitor-general are of such a definite character that they are bound to be debated at length by both sides of the House.

The suspension of habeas corpus in the case of persons charged with interference with the application of the conscription law, and the peremptory powers given to those who will have the administration of the act will be carefully considered. They are likely to be opposed by some members of the House.

The regulations announced are as follows:

1. Any person who comes within any of the clauses set out in section 3, and who contravenes any of the provisions of this act, or of regulations made thereunder, for which contravention no other penalty is hereby provided, shall be guilty of an offense and shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not less than $100, nor more than $200, and to imprisonment for a term not less than one month nor more than twelve months or to both fine and imprisonment.

Obstructors, Beware!

2. Any person who by means of any written or oral communication, or by any public speech or utterance, advises, urges or advocates that the man, or any of the men mentioned or intended to be described, or included in any of the classes mentioned, shall controvene, disobey or refuse, neglect or fail to comply with all or any of the requirements imposed upon them by this act, or by regulations made thereunder, or who willfully resists, obstructs, hinders or impedes, or attempts to willfully resist, obstruct, hinder or impede, or persuades, induces or influences, or attempts to persuade, induce or influence any person, or any body or class of persons, to resist, obstruct, hinder or impede the due execution of this act in any respect, according to its true intent or purpose, shall be guilty of an offence, and shall be liable, upon indictment or upon summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not less than one year nor more than five years.

No Hindering of Tribunals.

3. No proceeding authorized or pending before any of the tribunals provided for by this act, and no decision of any such tribunal, shall by means of injunctions, prohibition, mandamus, certiorari, habeas corpus or other process, whether of the light kind or otherwise, issuing out of any court, be enjoined, restrained, stayed, removed, or subject to review, or consideration upon any ground, whether arising out of alleged absence of jurisdiction in the tribunal, nullity, defect or irregularity of the proceedings, or any other cause whatsoever.

4. Nothing in this act contained shall be held to mitigate or affect the punishment provided by another act or law for the offence of assisting the enemy, nor shall anything in this act be held to limit or affect the powers of the governor-in-council under the war measures act, 1914.

5. Any person who prints or publishes or causes to be printed or published in any newspapers, periodical, tract, pamphlet, circular or printed publication whatsoever, any editorial, article, letter, correspondence or other matter intended for effect to advocate, advise, persuade, instigate or influence the public or any person, body or class of persons, to resist, obstruct, hinder or impede the due execution of this act, or compliance therewith in any respect or particular, according to its true intent, meaning or purpose, shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable upon indictment or upon summary or conviction to imprisonment for a term not less than one year nor more than five years, and whether the printer and published of any such newspaper, periodical, tract, pamphlet, circular, printed publication shall have been first convicted or not, the same shall be summarily supressed for the duration of the war.

Hon. Frank Oliver again took charge of the committee criticism of the compulsory service bill and Hon. Arthur Meighen continued the handling of it for the Government.

Militia Officers Lose Rank.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was told that under conscription militia officers would not continue to hold their rank for overseas service, that application of the act brought everyone liable to the same level.

Hon. Frank Oliver wanted to know if Canada's obligation to the war would end with the raising of the proposed 100,000 men. Hon. Mr. Meighen replied that Canada would still be very much in the war, but it would be for Parliament to say from time to time how many more men should be sent. The Government intimated that there would be no attempt to move Canadians from British to Canadian regiments on service; that in the United States Canadians were given the option of joining either the British or the Canadian forces.

Hon. Frank Olver said that 418,000 Canadians had been enlisted, but the minister of militia had stated that 75,000 of them would not go overseas, therefore when the proposed 100,000 were raised under this bill Canada would still be 25,000 short of the 500,000 promised by the premier.

Not More Than 100,000.

Sir Robert replied that not more than 100,000 would be raised now. If Parliament desired it could authorize more next session.

Hon. Mr. Meighen said it was impossible to announce how many of the ten classes would be called out, but there would be enough called to provide 100,000 men.

Mr. Oliver held that there should have been and still should be registration of the men of the country. Mr. Meighen said that registration would give only the names and ages of the men of the country, it would take time, and then all the work proposed by the present bill would have to be done. He replied to questions that there had been no calculation of the number of men that would be produced from the various parts of the country by this bill.

Mr. Oliver said that Hon. Mr. Sevigny indicated that Ontario and Quebec should each supply 25,000 men under this bill. Hon. Mr. Meighan thought that Mr. Sevigny used these figures merely in an illustrative way.

Mr. Oliver held that fair application of the bill would require the production of men by various parts of the country in numbers proportional to the population and the number of men supplied already.

Seek Out Slackers.

Mr. Meighen said the slacker would be sought wherever he was, and that the levy would be made on each district in proportion to the number of men available in such districts.

General Hughes said it was far from the case that all of the men who had not gone to the front were slackers.

Hon. Mr. Oliver said that a large proportion of the Ontario enlistment was British-born.

Col. John Currie said it was impossible to get correct figures as to nativity. At Valcartier many of the men of Canadian birth returned themselves as English, Scotch or Irish, as their fathers were.

Mr. Oliver declared that from the manner in which the bill was drawn it was intended to provide exemption from military service for men working in factories of friends of the Government. He wanted to know how it would be insured that the call for men under conscription would be responded to.

Mr. Meighen said the act provided court-martial and severe penalties for those who did not respond.

Mr. Oliver said he had no faith in the Government fairly enforcing the act. In the House Mr. Meighan himself had made out a case for Quebec, showing that the conscription law would bear but lightly upon that province.

Hon. Mr. Meighen said that there could be no such interpretation put upon his statements.

Mr. Oliver said that if conscription was to be administered fairly it should be indicated in the bill how many men were to be taken from each province.

Leaves It to Board.

Hon. Mr. Meighen said that there was to be a board of Parliament, on which both sides of the House would be represented, and on which there would be judges. That board would name the tribunals to administer the act. The judges were to organize the appeal courts. If, as Mr. Oliver said, the tribunals would be worthless, the judges worthless, and the Government worthless, then there was not much hope that the application of the act would be a success. For himself he had not so far lost faith in humanity, but thought that for the past few days Mr. Oliver had been suffering from cerebral distemper. As far as the principles were concerned, they were such as would produce the required men with the least injury to agriculture and essential industries.

Mr. Graham said that if a class produced more than 100,000 men, the selection from the class should be made by ballot.

Mr. Meighen doubted that a class would produce more than the 100,000. If it did he would favor having the selection made by ages rather than by ballot.

Mr. Turriff feared that city slackers would not respond and would not be rounded up.

Relying on Infirmers.

Mr. Meighen said it would be the duty of the authorities to enforce the law, and he believed patriotic persons would report men that did not enroll. Sir Robert Borden said that there would be the same difficulty under registration.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier held that if the Government proposed to rely on informers, it would not be much success in rounding up slackers.

Col. Currie thought time would be saved by calling out all of the classes together.

Sevigny's Explanation.

Mr. Oliver said now that Mr. Sevigny was in the House he would ask on what he based his proposal that by conscription Ontario should contribute 25,000, Quebec 25,000 and Alberta 10,000 men.

Mr. Sevigny said his object had been to show it would be easy to secure 100,000 men from Canada.

Col. Currie said some men would be too proud to ask exemption; they would go to the front even if they should remain in Canada. This should be prevented by the tribunals dealing with each case.

Mr. Meighen declared it would be no disgrace for a man to ask exemption; if he did not, anyone could ask it for him.

Elastic Provisions.

Sir Wilfrid noted that while the bill classed as a soldier every man from 20 to 45, exemptions could be claimed for so many reasons that the bill was fairly wide open. A big banker or businessman could claim exemption for "exceptional financial or business obligations," and exemption could be asked for because of "domestic position." This was a most elastic provision.

Mr. Marcil wanted to know if a man could still go to the front as a volunteer after the bill took effect.

Can Still Volunteer.

"As to volunteer enlistment, there is no change in the bill," said Mr. Meighen.

Ernest Lapointe said that Mr. Sevigny's statement of 25,000 was being taken in Quebec as announcement of Government policy.

Mr. Sevigny said his statement was to show that Quebec could raise 25,000 men. No one knew how many men the Province would be asked for.

Mr. Lapointe, of St. Marys (Montreal), asked Mr. Sevigny on what he based the statement that Montreal could supply 10,000.

Mr. Sevigny said fifty prominent persons of that city informed him Montreal could spare that many.

Quebec Will Support Bill.

Mr. Marcil wanted to know if Mr. Sevigny was in a position to judge the feeling of Quebec since the Dorchester election.

Mr. Sevigny replied that since his speech in Parliament he had received letters from many French-Canadians congratulating him upon his stand. Yesterday a young man of Montreal told him that while he had always been a Liberal, he would support the Government on conscription.

The chief objection of Quebec to the bill, Mr. Marcil said, was that the Government would not consult the people. What was the objection to doing it?

"I would advise the honorable member to address his remarks to his friends on that side of the House who did not vote for referendum," said Mr. Sevigny.

Hopes for General Election.

Mr. Marcil hoped the prime minister would give the people the opportunity of passing on the bill in a general election. With conscription thus approved, there would be support for its application. Mr. Oliver asked Mr. Sevigny on what he based his statement that Alberta should contribute another 10,000.

Mr. Sevigny said a gentleman from that province told him that, while Alberta had done well, it could furnish another 10,000.

Mr. Oliver said that from the population of 400,000, Alberta had already sent 35,000, while but 44,000 had gone from Quebec, which had a much greater population. Yet the minister held Quebec should contribute only 25,000 more.

Same Law For All.

Mr. Sevigny said the law was for all of the provinces, and if 10,000 were taken from Alberta, undoubtedly they would do their duty.

Mr. Oliver said it appeared to be the policy of the Government to put the burden on the willing horse.

Mr. Marcil asked if there was an understanding among the Allied countries as to the number of men each should supply, and if Canada had been consulted as to her quota.

No Allies' Agreement.

Sir Robert replied that there had been no such agreement. It was understood that each country was to do its utmost. France, perhaps, had given a greater proportion of national strength than had any other country. In France every man had gone to the front except those needed for the work of the country.

To Mr. Devlin, Mr. Meighen stated that all men previously rejected must claim exemption if they desired it.

Clause 13 was declared carried, while clause 14 was held at the request of the solicitor-general, who said that he desired to make a change in it.

To Mr. Graham the premier stated that the only arrangement yet with the United States for dealing with Canadians in that country was that Canadian officers could go to the United States for recruits.

Mr. Graham raised the question of the expense of applying the bill, and Mr. Meighen said it would be kept down to the minimum.

Make Government Responsible.

W. F. MacLean advocated the American plan of placing in the bill the vote of money for its application, and held the responsibility for the enforcement of the act should be placed on the shoulders of an officer of the Government.

Mr. Doherty said that money for the administration of the measure could be voted in the ordinary way and that the federal authorities were already authorized to enforce the act.

Mr. MacLean said that in war time administration was more needed than legislation. The principle of the bill was already on the statutes in the militia act. Parliament had been four weeks on a bill that should have been passed in a week. War was no time for a referendum.

"War time is not time for discussion, but for action," said Mr. MacLean.

"Better sit down then," said Sir Wilfrid.

MacLean for Coalition.

Mr. MacLean said that the three things the people wanted were conscription, union government and no election.

Mr. Graham wanted to know how many men on tribunals and in other capacities would be required for the administration and application of the act.

Mr. Meighen said there had been no estimate of the number there would be—possibly hundreds of tribunals, perhaps thousands.

Mr. Marcil asked if the Government was in such a hurry why it had not contained provision for immediate application.

Mr. Meighen said that there had to be time to make the regulations.

Not Being Held for Election.

"Is it being held up for an election?" asked Mr. Marcil.

"No; the bill is clear on that point," said Mr. Meighen.

The clause of exception was adopted with the provisions relating to the clergy, Mennonites and Doukhobors, held for amendment.

Mr. Turriff said it would not be fair to the clergy to exempt or bar them as a class. In the first three classes there would be many younger clergymen who would prefer to have the matter of their exemption left to the tribunals.

Call Three Together.

The desirability of calling out the first three classes together was recommended by Mr. Graham, Col. Taylor, Messrs. Nesbitt, Turrif, Morphy and several other members. They held that to call out Class 1 alone would result in too many youths of tender years being secured.

Mr. Meighen quoted the opinion of General Haig that the best service was given by youths from 20 to 24 years.

Col. Taylor would not dispute this, but would not like to see a battalion made up entirely of baby soldiers; lads were needed to give steam and more mature men for ballast.

Mr. Meighen said that if all three of the classes were to be called out at one time the tribunals would be swamped and too large a number of men would be at once withdrawn from their vocations. He believed that the three classes would be called out nearly together and that they would all be drawn upon for the 100,000 men required.

USE OF WHEAT, BEEF AND BACON MUST BE CUT DOWN ONE-THIRD

Hon. W. J. Hanna Says Cause Demands It.

OTTAWA, July 11. — Hon. W. J. Hanna, the food controller, in a statement issued tonight, says that the consumption of wheat, beef and bacon in the Dominion must be reduced by at least one-third to meet the needs of the Allied armies and people. Full economy in the use of foodstuffs is urged by the controller, who, in his statement, says:

"The consumption of wheat, beef, and bacon in the Dominion must be reduced by at least one-third to meet the needs of the Allied armies and people. Every man, woman and child in Canada is under a direct war obligation to assist in that reduction. The consumption of flour in England and France is being reduced to between three and four pounds per person per week. Canada and the United States must reduce their normal consumption of wheat by 160,000,000 bushels this year to meet the added requirements for export. Russia has been enduring four meatless days a week. Households in England are under voluntary obligation to limit their consumption of meat to two and a half pounds per person per week.

Look to Canada.

"The Allies look to Canada to relieve their food shortage. Both the producer and the consumer must assist to give that relief, the producer by producing and conserving to the utmost of his capacity and the consumer by substituting perishable, and conserving storeable foods for export. By such joint action the soldiers of Canada, the Empire and the Allies will be strengthened in the struggle for victory.

"Economy in the use of foodstuffs, particularly of wheat, bacon, and beef, is imperative. Waste in the hotels, restaurants, clubs and homes of the Dominion is a crime. The committee on the control of food consumption, consisting of Mr. Justice Rose, chairman, Miss Mary U. Watson, Mr. George Wright and Mr. W. A. Cooper has been in session for two days. Within a very short time it will have proposals to submit for the consideration of various classes of consumers. Meetings will then be held at various centers to discuss the proposals with the various elements and interests affected."

SUB SINKINGS ARE AGAIN SMALL, WHILE 17 VESSELS ESCAPE

Only Fourteen Ships of Over 1,600 Tons and Three Smaller Ones Lost.

LONDON, July 11.—The sinking of fourteen British merchantmen of more than 1,600 tons is reported in the weekly summary of shipping losses, issued here today.

Three merchantmen of less than 1,600 tons and seven fishing vessels also were sunk.

The official statement follows:

"Arrivals, 2,898; sailings, 2,798.

"British merchant ships sunk by mine or submarine, over 1,600 tons, including one previously, 14; under 1,600 tons, 3.

"British merchant ships unsuccessfully attacked, including four previously, 17.

"British fishing vessels sunk, including one previously, 7."

The increasing effectiveness of the measures against submarines which are being carried out by British and American warships is shown in the above record of last week. With one exception, the number of merchantmen sunk is the lowest of any week since the British inaugurated in March the system of giving out weekly reports. The report of March 11 showed 17 merchantmen sunk, the same total as is shown in the last week's summary.

The report of the week preceding gave the sinking of fifteen vessels over 1,600 tons and five under that size. In the two earlier periods the totals were respectively 28 and 32. This compares with the sinking of 40 large merchantmen in one week and 38 in another at the height of the campaign in April. In the week ended April 21, 55 vessels in all were sunk.

FOE'S SURPRISE FAILS EAST OF MONASTIR

British Fliers Bomb Enemy Communications.

LONDON, July 11.—An official statement on the situation on the Macedonian front issued tonight says:

"British airplanes bombed the enemy's communications. The health of the British forces compares very favorably with that of last year."

PARIS, July 11.—The French official statement from Macedonia says:

"Eastern theatre, July 10.—After a violent bombardment the enemy attempted on the evening of July 9 in the region of Dihova, west of Monastir, a surprise attack, which was repulsed. An enemy airplane landed near Livada, south of Lymnitsa."

COLD STORAGES ARE ORDERED TO LET GO HOLDINGS OF FOOD

Increased Stocks Not Justified, Says Govt. Commissioner.

PRICES SHOULD GO DOWN

Speculation Held Responsible for the Present High Cost.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, July 11.—"The increase of holdings by the cold storage companies of Canada compared with the stocks one year ago of beef, bacon, ham, mutton and lamb, are not justifiable and are speculative." This is the statement made tonight by W. F. O'Connor, K.C., the cost of living commissioner, as the result of returns which he has received from two-thirds of the cold storage companies of the country.

"The price of these commodities should forthwith drop," he states.

On July 1st the quantity of beef on hand was 6,616,415 pounds as compared with 4,479,106 pounds on the same date last year, an increase of 9 per cent. The supply of bacon on July 1st, was 9,493,855 pounds, an increase of 40 per cent over the year before. Ham, 1,518,238 pounds or a 10 per cent increase. The amount of mutton and lamb in cold storage on July 1st, was 564,832 pounds as compared with 186,536 pounds the year before, or an increase of 24 per cent.

Butter and Eggs Held.

The cold storage companies show an increase of nearly 3,000 pounds of butter in 1917 over 1916; an increase of nearly 600,000 dozen eggs; and an increase of nearly 6,000,000 pounds of pork, which is one and a half times as much as was in store in 1916, but Mr. O'Connor states that the increased holdings of butter, eggs and pork are justifiable because of an equivalent increase of sales since 1916. Upon that basis the increase of holdings of beef, bacon, ham, mutton and lamb are not justifiable.

"Excess stocks will have to be discharged by sale," he said.

He states that the stocks of cheese are running too low and with sales of cheese greatly in excess of 1916 the cold storage stocks have been depleted over one million pounds, or about 20 per cent.

Similar statistical data for the United States published today show an increase of 59 per cent in beef over 1916, a very small increase of holdings of pork, a decrease of 17 per cent in holdings of butter, and an increase of nearly 1 per cent in holdings of eggs.

To "speculation, high prices on war supplies," United States dispatches attributed the accumulations mentioned.

The Canadian cost of living commissioner declares that speculation is the cause of the increased holdings of these articles whose increase he says is not justifiable.

Two German Airmen Prey of Britishers in Eastern Desert

Temperature 119 in Shade, But Troops Health Good.

LONDON, July 11.—The war office tonight issued the following statement on the progress of operations in Mesopotamia:

"A British column and airplanes have chastised effectively Turkish irregulars who had attacked a convoy.

"Two German aviators, whose machines were destroyed by fire in the desert, surrendered. British armored cars are seeking two other Germans who were left behind.

"The temperature has risen to 119 degrees in the shade."

SENATE WANTS CANADA TO GET FOREIGN TRADE

Looking to Counteract Slump in Munitions After War.

OTTAWA, July 11.—Sir Frederick Nichols today secured adoption by the Senate of a resolution declaring is expedient that the Senate "appoint a committee to inquire into the report upon the best method of conserving and increasing our domestic and overseas trade to the end that our present prosperity may not unduly suffer when the stimulus resulting from orders from munitions and other war supplies is removed."

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL HELD AT CARMEL CHURCH

Interesting and Successful Social Conducted by Congregation.

HENSALL, July 11.—The annual strawberry festival of Carmel Presbyterian Church was recently held on the fine church grounds. It proved one of the most successful ever held. The evening was favorable, and the attendance was large, many coming from a long distance. The Hensall band was in attendance. The proceeds amounted to $160.

The funeral was conducted by the Oddfellows of Brucefield lodge, of which he was an honored member. Bros. William McKay and G. L. Sutherland of Hensall, at the request of the Brucefield brethren, conducted the service.

Rev. Mr. McIntosh of Ailsa Craig and Nairn is to conduct services in Carmel Church on Sunday, July 15.

A meeting of the congregation of the Carmel Church will be held shortly to see if the congregation is prepared to extend a call to a minister.

On Sunday the local Orangemen paraded to St. Paul's Church, headed by the citizens' band. An address was delivered by Rev. W. H. Moore, rector of the church, who prior to his coming here, was an organizer of L. O. L. lodges.

THE LOCAL MARKET

Strawberries were not so plentiful on the local market today, the consequence being a slight increase in price. The demand was brisk and one person of particular salesmanship, asked 17c for his berries, but lowered the price to 16c after making unsuccessful efforts to sell at the former value.

The strawberries sold at 13c to 15c per box wholesale, and 16c retail, an increase of 1½ cents in both varieties.

New potatoes were very scarce at 70c per peck, only a few pecks being offered. The old spuds are of poor stuff and sell anywhere from $1.50 to $2.50 per bag, according to their quality, a substantial decrease in value.

Cherries were offered in small quantities for the first official time this season, bringing $1.10 per basket and 12½c per box. Few individual buyers sought them, however, the fruit dealers grabbing the majority of the baskets. Next week the cherry season will begin in full swing, and prices will likely come down. Farmers say the season will be unusually short for cherries this year.

Gooseberries are in comparative abundance just now, but the demand is poor at 12½c to 15c per quart.

Vegetables of all varieties are plentiful. Beets brought a lower price at 7c per bunch and 70c per dozen bunches Carrots are on sale now at 50c to 60c per dozen bunches, and lettuce sells from 30c to 40c per dozen heads.

The remaining vegetables remained stationary, radishes selling at 5c per bunch, turnips 5c per bunch, onions 5c per bunch, and asparagus 75c per dozen bunches.

Live hogs decreased in price after their increase of yesterday, and sell now at $15.50 per cwt. Dressed hogs advanced from $19.25 to $19.50 and $20 per cwt. The offering was scarce.

Hay remained as scarce as it has been during the whole week, but the price remained unchanged at $10 to $11.50 per ton.

Dairy produce was also unchanged, butter selling for 42c per pound, and eggs bringing 35c per dozen.

GRAIN.

Chicago, July 12.—Big breaks in the value of corn resulted today from the action of the board of trade directors last night in establishing a maximum price for new crop deliveries. General selling took place as soon as the market opened, and quotations in some cases made a sheer descent of as much as 5½c. Gossip that peace possibilities were being brought nearer by the cabinet crisis in Berlin tended somewhat to emphasize bearish sentiment.

Wheat showed firmness, notwithstanding the downward swing of corn. Business in wheat, however, was too scanty in volume to permit of much significance being attarhed to quotations. The market opened ½c higher, at $1 92 for September, with July nominal, and continued steady at that level.

LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, July 12.—Receipts at the Union stockyards today were 207 cattle, 39 calves, 1,276 hogs and 160 sheep. Cattle prices were unchanged. Hogs were also steady. Quotations:

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

London, July 12.—The stock market today recovered from yesterday's depression, and a fair business was transacted in allied stocks and gilt-edge securities at generally steady prices. WALL STREET.

New York, July 12—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—President Wilson's statement in regard to the profits during the war caused an abrupt reaction at the beginning of the day's trading in the stock market, losses in important stocks extending from 2 to almost 6 points. Steamship issues registered the greatest reversal, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies breaking 5⅝ points, and Marine preferred 2¾. United States Steel was quoted at 126½ to 125, against yesterday's final price of 127½. Other industrial and war shares were lower by 1 to 3½ points. Pittsburg Coal, Baldwin Locomotive, Studebaker and Industrial Alcohol were heavy to weak. Rallies of 1 to 2 points ensued before the end of the first half hour.

Noon.—The early decline proved to be little more than a bear raid, shorts soon running to cover. The rally made greater headway on official confirmation of a satisfactory settlement of the industrial situation at Washington. Many severe losses were entirely retrieved, Marines showing actual gains, and Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies recovering all but a small portion. Industrials, including United States Steel, were within easy distance of the previous day's final quotations, and rails showed marked improvement. Advances of 1 to 5 points were made by Industrial Alcohol, the tobaccos, United Railways common and preferred, and Philadelphia Company.

1:30 p.m.—Price movements during the early afternoon were rather irregular. Motors and specialties showed extreme gains of 1 to 4 points, while steels and shippings eased from fractions to a point.

OCTOBER WHEAT UP 21-2 CENTS AGAIN

Soars on Winnipeg Market—Flax Jumps 13 Cents in Same Market.

Winnipeg, July 11.—October wheat closed this afternoon 2½c up from yesterday's close. July oats closed 1¼c higher, October ⅝c higher, and December 1⅛c up. July and October flax closed 13c higher, and December closed 10c higher. July barley closed 4c up from the previous close.

Active bidding for cash oats by exporters and a good demand from eastern Canada sustained the strength of the local market today. There was some dealing in futures. The strong corn market in the south was a factor in the oats situation here, but there is a feeling among some of the traders that there is no justification for the high price of this cereal, in view of the crop conditions and the prospective increase of production. Western milling points were inquiring for oats today.

Cash wheat was in fair demand by the Government agent, eastern millers and exporters. All grades were wanted, but offerings were small. Cash wheat closed higher all around, and very strong.

Winnipeg cash grain: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $2.34; No. 2 northern, $2.31; No. 3 northern, $2.28; No. 4, $2.16; No. 5, $1.93; No. 6, $1.74; feed, $1.31. Basis contract: July, $2.34; August, $2.29 (first half).

Oats—No. 2 Canadian western, 75⅝c; No. 3 C. W., 74⅞c; extra No. 1 feed, 74⅞c; No. 1 feed, 73⅝c; No. 2 feed, 71⅝c.

Barley—No. 3, $1.31; No. 4, $1.26; rejected, $1.14; feed, $1.14.

Flax—No. 1 N. W. C., $2.77½; No. 2 Canadian western, $2.73½; No. 3 Canadian western, $2.58½.

TORONTO.

Toronto, July 11.—Grain quotations are as follows:

Wheat—Ontario, No. 2 winter, $2.40 @2.45, outside, according to location; Manitoba, No. 1 northern, $2.44; No. 2 northern, $2.41.

Oats—Canada western, No. 2, 82¼c.

Corn—American, No. 3 yellow, $1.99, on track, Toronto.

Rye—No. 2, $2.05, nominal.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, July 11.—The feature of the local grain market today was the stronger feeling in oats, and prices scored another advance of 1¼c per bushel, but the demand was slow, and only sales of odd cars were made.

Corn—American, No. 2 yellow, $1.80 @1.85.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 82½c; Canadian western, No. 3, 81½c; extra No. 1 feed, 81½c.

MONEY.

London, July 12.—Money and discount rates were quiet, and treasury bills were well absorbed.

MOTHER CHARGED WITH NEGLECT OF CHILDREN

Mrs. Emma Liley was summoned to police court today on a charge laid by the Children's Aid Society of neglecting her children. Upon request of her counsel, W. G. R. Bartram, the case was enlarged a week to permit the defence to summon out-of-town witnesses.

Mrs. Liley placed her four children on a G. T. R. train a week ago today sent them unaccompanied to an uncle in Toronto.

Since then the children have been returned to the city, and are now at the mother's home.

One lone drunk appeared in the dock and he stated that he was an Orangeman and had "liquored" up a little in advance in order to be in good trim for the Glorious Twelfth. He paid $10 and costs, and in passing out remarked he guessed he would be in time for the march anyway.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

MISS THOMPSON NOT A CATHOLIC.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I wish to ask some questions regarding some rumors afloat in the city in regards to the case of Miss M. Thompson and William Link over the possession of the child in question. Rumor has it that Miss Thompson is a Roman Catholic and the girl in question is in a Roman Catholic institution, and that the girl's father is a Protestant, and this is the reason Miss Thompson does not want to give up the child. Many would sign the petition now in your office if this matter was answered one way or the other, to give people enlightenment before they sign the petition. SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—The Advertiser asked Mr. David Ross, who circulated the petitions for Miss Thompson, if she were a Catholic, and received a definite negative answer. Miss Thompson and all her relatives are Presbyterians. The whereabouts of the child are unknown to any other than Miss Thompson, but it is not believed the child is in a Catholic institution.

To England: Butter, 530 tons; cheese, 3,494 tons; eggs, 592 tons.

REMARKABLE EXPLOITS OF AVIATOR BISHOP MENTIONED IN REPORT

In the report of Stwart Lyon, representative of the Canadian Press at the front, reference is made to the work of a young Canadian aviator, which is attracting much favorable comment at the front, and from the scant description given it is thought that he refers to Capt. W. A. Bishop of Owen Sound, who, according to an Ottawa report, has won the Military Cross, the D. S. O. and the Victoria Cross.

The portion of Mr. Lyon's story in which the reference appears reads as follows:

"I hear remarkable stories of the exploits of a young aviator from the northern part of Ontario, whose record will soon equal that of the late Capt. Ball, the most famous of recent air fighters. This young Canadian already has won the Military Cross and the D. S. O. It is stated that he goes after his victim as directly as a hawk strikes its prey.

There are very many Canadian aviators in the flight squadrons along this front, but the Canadians as yet have no distinctive aerial service here in France."

ASKS NAMES OF CIVIL SERVANTS IN ARMY

Information regarding the number and qualifications of civil servants who are members of the Canadian expeditionary force in Canada is requested in camp orders today, it being the apparent intention to discharge such men as are not indispensable to the army, in order that they may be returned to the departments where their services can be employed to better advantage.

Officers commanding units are asked to give the number of such men under their command who have been returned to or are employed at present; whether their services are indispensible from military duty, and the rank, regimental number, unit, and department of civil service in which they were formerly employed.

BRIGADIER RAWLINGS' SON IS WOUNDED

Lieut. Clayton Rawling, son of Brigadier Rawling, chief of the Salvation Army staff in Western Ontario, was wounded on July 7, according to a cable-gram received by Brigadier Rawling today. The message, which was from Lieut. Rawling himself, stated that ha had been hit by shrapnel in the right arm.

Lieut. Rawling enlisted as a private in the 59th Battalion at Kingston, but after having qualified himself as a captain at the school of infantry instruction in this city, he went overseas as a subaltern in the 142nd Battalion. After training with the 4th Reserve Battalion in England he went to France about two months ago to join the 1st Battalion.

A committee from the Irish Benevolent Society, consisting of Messrs. Ed. J. Carty, J. H. Fowler, Ed. J. Ryan, Harry E. Buttrey, Stephen Pocock and Secretary Frank P. Hughes, went to Port Stanley yesterday to interview the residents of that municipality regarding holding of the Irish picnic there. They were strongly in favor of the idea, and much encouragement was received. The committee will interview the Springbank Amusement Company today before finally deciding where to hold it.

FIREMAN BRYAN QUITS

Alleges That Union Has Made Things Unpleasant for Him.

At the meeting of the finance committee of the city council last night the schedule of licenses was revised. It was decided to exempt bicycles from a charge of $1 a year for a license, and the tax on theatre was reduced from $100, $200, $300, $400 and $500 a year to $100, $200, $300 and $400, according to size. A deputation headed by E. W. M. Flock protested against the schedule as revised, saying that it was too heavy. The tax for peddlers using automobiles was increased from $30 to $40.

The question of prohibiting grocers from selling near-beer was laid over, as was also the matter of reducing the assessments of standard hotels. There was a strong opinion in favor of allowing grocers to sell the stuff by single bottles, but the committee thought that more information should be forthcoming.

Was Laid Over.

There was a long debate over a motion presented by Controller Shaw to the effect that Mayor Stevenson ascertain from City Clerk Baker the name of the assessor responsible for wrongfully assessing Bishop Fallon and dismiss him. It was finally decided to lay the matter over.

Ald. Ashplant strenuously opposed the dismissal of any official, as there was no evidence of wilful wrong-doing. Until such was shown, he would not stand for such dismissal.

Controller Shaw insisted that the council had decided that some assessor was guilty of wilful assessment, and recommended his dismissal. To his mind the facts were plain.

Ald. Manness took the ground that Assessment Commissioner Grant had assumed the responsibility, and until there was evidence that he had done wrong, he would not favor any dismissals. In his opinion, Mr. Grant had explained the situation. The matter was laid over until the next meeting.

Must Explain.

Controller Shaw also wanted to collect $106 from Bishop Fallon, said to be due the city for back taxes not paid. The committee did not favor this, but laid it over until Assessment Commissioner Grant could appear before the committee and explain matters. Some wanted Bishop Fallon to appear, but this was not considered advisable.

The resignation of Fireman F. Bryan was accepted. He stated that Captain Mitchell and the union had made it unpleasant for him, so he resigned. There was no evidence produced to substantiate this.

Fireman Thos. Tozer was recommended for the position of lieutenant of the central station made vacant by the resignation of Lieut. James Putherbugh. Controller Shaw wanted the duties of engineer of the steam engine, now taken over by Fireman Thomas Bolton, and those of lieutenant combined, but Fire Chief Aitken stated that Fireman Tozer was his choice, and the committee accepted that.

On the suggestion of Controller Little, tenders will be called for the sale of the steam fire engine, and tenders for a booster pump for the motor trucks. The engine cost over $7,000, and has been of very little use. Fire Chief Aitken will endeavor to obtain figures for the engine.

Issuing Debentures.

Some legal technicalities in connection with issuing debentures to the amount of $15,000, to get rid of the county of Middlesex's share of the indebtedness of Victoria Hospital came up. Controller Shaw, who proposed the original motion, mentioned the fact that there was a further sum of $8,000 from a defunct loan company that must be paid to the county in addition to the $15,000. The matter was referred to the city solicitor. The city gets the money from the county at 3 per cent, and if new debentures were issued the city would have to pay 6 per cent.

It was decided to make arrangements with the Board of Education for the use of schools during the week of July 23rd, to boost Ajax Rubber Company's bylaw. Ald. Ashplant suggested this, and insisted that it was the duty of the council to stand behind the proposition. The municipality was guaranteed against any loss, and the fact should be insisted upon.

Inspector J. W. McCallum will be given an automobile. It was decided to transfer the Ford car formerly used by Fire Chief Aiken to Mr. McCallum, the sum of $200 being credited to the fire department for the machine.

Controller E. S. Little, Ald. Manness, and Ald. Harley were named a committee to provide for the entertainment of the delegates to the Canadian Municipal Union's convention, to be held here on August 27th.

Wont Issue Yet.

The question of issuing $60,000 debentures to the utilities commission for hydro extensions came up, and it was decided not to issue them until requested formally by the utilities commission.

"They have a big surplus, so why should they ask us for money," commented Controller Shaw.

"The matter is in the same position as our estimates," said Ald. Ashplant. "Even if the Legislature did approve of them, we do not need to pass them."

Controller Little was of the opinion that the council was duty-bound to issue them. However, no action was taken.

It was decided to pay for the services of a band for the returned soldiers' picnic at Port Stanley on July 24. The request of Lieut.-Col W. G. Coles for the return of the fee of $250 for the shows recently held in Queen's Park was laid over.

Controller Shaw reported that all the audit work of the city was in good shape, with the exception of the audit of the London and Port Stanley Railway, and the auditors were working on that. Ald. Ashplant, Ald. Dyer and other members of the council will convince themselves of this fact at once.

Goes to Convention.

Fire Chief Aitken was authorized to attend the Canadian fire chiefs' convention in Port Arthur, beginning on July 24.

Inspector McCallum reported that there were 1,000 dogs for which tags had not been purchased. Another notice will be sent out, and the police will be notified to kill all dogs not having the necessary tag.

S. Frank Glass, M.P., reported that Inspector Fowler of Ottawa had been in the city, and had reported in favor of a postoffice in East London. This will be opened at the earliest convenience.

The communication of the London Railway Commission refusing to pay taxes on the London and Port Stanley, was referred to City Solicitor Meredith for his opinion.

Ald. Dyer, Ald. Harley and Ald. Manness will report on the question of grants to charitable institutions.

Much other routine business was disposed of.

LAKE PAYS HIS FINE AFTER TWO MONTHS

The fine of $200 and costs imposed on William Lake, 1033 Pine street, who was convicted of violating the Ontario temperance act, and tried on the charge two months ago, was paid into court Wednesday.

Two months ago Lake was found guilty of having liquor on premises other than a private dwelling, to wit, the above address. Although the liquor was kept at his home, his residence was not a private dwelling within the meaning of the Ontario temperance act, as he had been previously convicted of having liquor for sale at his home.

His conviction on the last charge was the first of its kind to be made under that particular section of the act.

After the case was tried Lake took his departure before judgment was given by Magistrate Graydon, and has not been in the city since.

RETURNED SOLDIERS GIVEN GOOD TIME ON VISIT TO DELAWARE

Feed of Ripe Strawberries Appreciated by the Men.

One hundred and ten invalid soldiers from the Convalescent Hospital were taken to Delaware Wednesday afternoon, and spent a most enjoyable time as the guests of the residents of the village and district. One feature that the men will long remember was the huge bowls of fresh ripe strawberries which were provided for every member of the party. The men went out in charge of A. A. Langford, going by way of Byron and Kilworth, and returning via Lambeth. They were taken to the rectory grounds, where they were given a warm welcome by Rector Taylor and a committee of women of Delaware. After some time spent in playing various games, supper was served by the ladies, and was thoroughly enjoyed. Those in charge of the arrangements were Mrs. (Dr.) Bice and Mrs. (Rev.) Hartley. Addresses were given by W. R. Yendall, Rev. Mr. Hartley and Rev. Mr. Rayson, and an impromptu program was rendered by Ptes. Wilkinson, Carraghar and Carter, and Corp. Fletcher. Trench choruses were also a feature. The men, after giving enthusiastic cheers for the people of Delaware, returned to the city. They expect to go to Dutton on July 25. The next big outing will be to Port Stanley. The date has not been definitely decided, but will likely be July 23. A meeting of the committee will be held this evening to discuss the matter.

MAN AND WIFE TO APPEAR ON CHARGE OF HAVING LIQUOR

Informations charging a King street man and wife with violating section 41 of the Ontario temperance act were laid against each Wednesday by Inspector J. E. Keeneleyside. The inspector claims that the wife arrived Saturday evening on a C. P. R. train, carrying two suitcases which were found to contain bottles of whiskey when opened at the police station.

The charge will be having liquor on premises other than a private dwelling, although it is stated all the bottles were sealed.

CHIEF'S RED CAR FOR INSPECTOR MATCHES HIS HAIR ANYWAY

Inspector McCallum is a loyal Scotchman, and he will not have it that the Scotch are bad, or need charity.

At the meeting of the finance committee of the city council, last evening, the committment papers of a young lad were presented.

They gave the nationality of the boy as Scotch, and Inspector McCallum would not stand for it.

"He's not Scotch, he's Irish, and his stepfather is English," retorted Mr. McCallum. The correction was made to suit him.

Later he was given Fire Chief Aitken's little red Ford for his use. Mac did not like that very well, although he needs a car.

"A red car, driven by a red-headed man is not quite the thing," he says. "The color scheme is not to my liking." Yet he cannot deny it harmonizes with his complexion.

THREE MONTHS' TERM FOR DESERTER LIGHTEST FROM MR. GRAYDON

Owing to his extreme youth and good conduct while in the 99th Battalion, Rudolph Ferrari was sentenced to only three monthn in jail by Magistrate Graydon today for having deserted from his unit.

The sentence is the lightest that Magistrate Graydon has imposed in a case of desertion since he was appointed to the office. He explained that he was dealing leniently with Ferrari because of his extreme youth and the fact that he had been given a splendid conduct sheet by the military authorities.

"Notwithstanding these representations, I must punish you because, if it were allowed to become a common thing to let deserters escape without punishment it would encourage others to do as you have done," said the magistrate.

Charles Gall, also a confessed deserter, was remanded to jail for another week, to permit additional inquiries to be made concerning his past.

BOTH FRONT LIGHTS OF CARS MUST BE LIT

Among the recent amendaments to the Ontario motor vehicle act is one that will compel motorists in the future to have both front lights always burning after dusk.

The law in the past has not made it necessary to have any more than one front lamp lighted but from now on both must be burning or the motorist will be summoned to court and fined.

The section of the act making it illegal to use brilliant headlights on paved streets will be enforced more rigidly in the future than in the past.

The Edison is anxious to prove its superiority by a side-by-side competitive test in your own home. Talking Machine Dealers are afraid of such comparisons, and avoid making them if they can possibly get out of it. W. McPhillips, 189 Dundas street, London.

BOYS SWARMING OVER NEW TECHNICAL SCHOOL CERTAIN TO BE HURT

"I noticed in your paper last night that a boy aged 12 had both his wrists broken by falling down the elevator shaft in the new Technical School," said a resident in the immediate vicinity of the building to The Advertiser, with this comment: "I sincerely hope it will be a lesson to the other children, and their parents and guardians as well. The children literally swarm in there to play, climbing over everything, racing over my fence and those of my neighbors. The marvel to me is that some of them have not had their necks broken long ago.

"Of course, I have any amount of sympathy for the children, and can realize what an attraction such a place has, especially for the growing boy. But that is not the point. The accident illustrates the danger, and further than this, the children may quite possibly prove a menace to the new building and surrounding property. Some time ago I noticed smoke coming from the grounds and, investigating, found that some boys had kindled a fire in an iron pot. Any person of sense should realize the seriousness of this in a place where a great deal of inflammable material is accumulated.

"I have protested to the police, but it has had no effect. I hope you will give my little 'scold' publicity in your paper."

CHOIR PAYS TRIBUTE TO DEPARTING RECTOR

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Norwood were the recipients of many verbal tokens of the esteem in which they are held by the members of the Cronyn Memorial Church choir at their annual picnic celebrated at Port Stanley yesterday.

A farewell banquet was tendered to the rector, who will shortly assume new clerical duties at one of the largest churches of Philadelphia.

The Invererie dining-room, the scene of the repast, which was attended by about fifty members of the choir, was resplendent with new fixtures and improvements that have been installed.

James Hasslett presided at the dinner and spoke briefly of the universal regret which will be caused by the exodus of Mr. and Mrs. Norwood to larger and more fertile fields of evangelism.

Mr. Norwood, responding for Mrs. Norwood and himself, reciprocated regret at having to leave London. He paid a glowing tribute to the choir of his church. "It has become an indispensable organization," he said, "and is responsible to a great extent to the large attendances of the church."

He declared the church in general, and the choir in particular, will always be a source of fond recollection wherever his work takes him or wherever fate moves him. A fine toast list was carried out during the course of the banquet, and each was most suitably responded to by various members of the church present.

The party went to Port on the 3:20 L. and P. S. cars and returned at midnight. During the afternoon an interesting sport program was run off, a baseball game, in which a team captained by Ed. Gibson defeated a team under the leadership of Ab. Smith, being the feature of the outdoor enjoyment.

STREET CAR AND AUTO IN COLLISION

A spectacular collision between North Belt car No. 82, westbound, and auto 11318, Ford, driven by S. L. Davis of Horton street, occurred at the corner of Dundas and Wellington streets last evening shortly after 7 o'clock. The street car and the auto met squarely and one wheel was torn from the auto, while the steps were ripped off the street car. Mr. Davis was shaken up, but escaped without any serious hurt.
