MONTREAL POLICE ARREST ANOTHER HOLD-UP SUSPECT

Seven Men and Two Women
Now Detained as Material Witnesses.

CARS ARE TRACED

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, April 3.—The dragnet thrown out by the police for the perpetrators of Tuesday's sensational hold-up of the car of the Bank of Hochelaga, in which the bank chauffeur and a bandit were killed and $142,000 stolen, this morning caught another suspect. The police now have seven men and two women under detention, held as material witnesses. Eight men are reported to have taken part in the robbery.

Roland Fortier, the young bank messenger wounded in the gun battle around the collection car, will lose a finger of his left hand, a bullet having practically severed it. The police have now completed their check-up of the cars used by the bandits. It has been found that three of the cars were small sedans and were abandoned in the north end of the city with the body of the dead bandit, while a small car was picked up, deserted, further on in the suburbs at Bordeaux. All the cars had been stolen.

Indications are that the hold-up was committed by a band of foreigners, mostly Italian. Announcement was made last evening by the management of Banque d'Hochelaga that they were making arrangements for an impressive funeral service for the late Henri Cloux, the bank chauffeur, Tuesday's highway robbery. The requiem mass will take place tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock at the Church of St. Jean de la Croix.

Arrangements have been made for a strong representation of the officials and employees of the Banque d'Hochelaga at the service, as a tribute to their fellow employee, who fell while bravely performing his duty guarding the bank's property.

ARTS STUDENTS PLAN FINAL PARTY OF TERM

Freshmen and Sophomores
Combine and Splendid Entertainment Promised.

What is expected to eclipse all former university programs for novelty and extent will be that presented Friday night, when probably for the first time two classes of the University of Western Ontario, the freshmen and sophomores, will combine for a monster class party, to be held at the university ballroom, according to committee in charge.

Miss Grace Ferrier, arts '26, and Reg. Appleyard of the same year, together with Miss M. Drew and H. Newell of the freshman year, have charge of all arrangements for this big event.

No pains are being spared to make this, the final class party of the initial years of the university, one to be remembered long afterward.

Members of the program committee stated that an added zest to the excitement of the party would be the announcement of the polling Friday for members of the student council and the Men's Club. Votes will be cast from 9 to 4 p.m. and the results would give plenty of time to count the votes officially before evening, it is said.

YOUTHFUL ENGINEER UNAWARE OF CARGO

Floyd Dutcher Gives Evidence Before Federal Court at Detroit in Liquor Case.

Special to The Advertiser.
Detroit, April 3.—Testifying today in the federal court as a witness for the government in the now famous case of the palatial yacht Aladdin, her crew, for transporting liquor from Toronto to Detroit, Floyd Dutcher, 20 years old, who acted as engineer on the yacht, swore he was ignorant of the contents of square wooden boxes bearing the marking "G. & W. Special," which were shipped as cargo at Toronto, and later unloaded as the yacht lay in the Detroit River in Canadian waters.

The yacht carried so many boxes on each trip, witness said, that every state room was filled with them and the crew had to sleep on the deck. W. J. Sovereign, millionaire Bay City manufacturer, and owner of the Aladdin, told of how the yacht had been chartered by Albert Edmond from Mrs. Sovereign during his absence. The first he knew of his vessel being used illegally was when he found her lying alongside a distillery warehouse docked in Toronto, he said. Then he took possession and forced the men aboard to sail the boat back to Detroit, where they were arrested by federal authorities.

Pupils At Technical College Show Attractive Exhibits In Millinery and Cooking

Visitors Are Amazed at Skillful Workmanship On Garments.

SEE MODEL HOUSE

Find Out the Art of House-wifery Is a Science, Not Drudgery.

To be a woman or a girl and to go into the domestic science department of the Technical School this week, during the exhibition of the students' work, is to receive an inspiration in the art of home making which will not soon be blotted out. All that helpless feeling of "not being able to sew" and "everything I cook is a failure," and I can't make my house look attractive," and "I just can't pay the bills on my household allowance" will disappear as if by magic when the visitor sees what has been accomplished by the students of that institution. And she will conclude, "It's all in knowing how."

When she visits the sewing and millinery departments she will find the very garments which she has been longing to have and could not because they were so expensive. And she will be able to conclude that they are not expensive after all if she will only learn how to make them with her own fingers, under the skilled instruction of the school. And it doesn't matter how old she is, for the Technical School pupils range in age from 'teen age girls to grandmothers. She will find that it is a simple matter to mend up a few bits of wire and shape a piece of buckram into the most fashionable of "Easter bonnets" which won't cost her more than a few cents.

The "Model House."
But most wonderful of all she will find in the "model house" just the sort of home for which she has been longing. And she will find that it is not money alone which makes an attractive home. She will see the little home-like touches, the correctly set table in the dining-room, the neatly made bed in the room next to it, and will find there an inspiration to make her own home like it. Then, if she steps into the kitchen, so neatly arranged that she can hardly recognize it as the same sort of room in which she has been accustomed to prepare the family meals, she will discover appetizing rows of fruit jars, all containing fruit canned by the pupils of the school, and beside them cakes and pies and rolls and breads which would do credit to the most skilled of housewives. And she'll begin to wonder if housework is a drudgery after all "when you know how." This sewing work, especially, is a science, which she can learn, if she only will, and Miss Leggett is there to show her, if she cares to join the classes.

Fine Exhibits.
The pupils of the school have exceptionally fine exhibits this year. This sewing work, especially, is attracting great attention. Beginning with the first year students the visitors find it arranged to that the plain garments come first, just as the plain sewing is learned first. There are cleverly made undergarments and nightgowns, which are closely followed by simple dresses made after the latest pattern. Then come the dresses which show originality of design on the part of the pupils, who by this time have learned how to cut patterns themselves. All of the garments are characteristic of the one who made them. Some show very modern touches and are cut with smart lines. Others have a more traditional style, but the maker didn't think so much of style, but perhaps are exceptionally well made.

Taught Designing.
The exhibit showing designing by the pupils was especially interesting. They are first taught the value of lines, then designs begin to appear, then color designs all unapplied, until finally these designs are shown applied to clothes and household furnishings. There is a section for mending, darning and patching, which shows neatness and skill of workmanship. Miss Hilda Stevens and Miss Helen Gerber are in charge of the sewing exhibits, and they point out that the pupils are taught the difference in fabric as well as how to make them up into garments. They are shown what type of so-called good wearing qualities and the difference in the cost of different textiles.

Embroidery designs of merit, the latest wrap-around skirts, sleeveless coats and attractive summer gowns are displayed by the part time pupils of Miss Rickard, Mrs. Raymonds, and Miss Smith.

BULLDOGS ENTERTAIN DUNDAS STREET CROWD

Heroic Citizens Step In and Put an End to the Merriment.

Two bulldogs with a deathlike grip on one another created a furore among the gentler sex on Dundas street yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock. The two snarled and turned over and over again while a large crowd looked on, seemingly helpless to separate the infuriated animals.

Soon the crowd grew into such a large gathering the scene took on the appearance of a small riot. People kicked and yelled at the dogs, but still they did not part. Finally two women in the crowd volunteered to grab the canines at risk of being bitten, and with each man pulling for all his worth, the grip was broken. Both dogs, badly marked from the encounter, disappeared, and the crowd quickly broke up.

Capetown Tells Of New Comet

Associated Press Despatch.
London, April 3.—The royal observatory at Capetown, South Africa, reports the discovery on March 30 of a new comet, magnitude 18. Astronomers here say they cannot gauge the importance of the discovery, pending receipt of the details. The comet is not visible here.

The As in the Lion's Skin.

An ass once found a Lion's skin. Seeing it on the ground, he looked in the mirror and said to himself: "Every body laughs at me just as soon as they see that I'm an ass. I wonder how they'll treat me in this disguise." So he hurried off to his native village to try its effect on the people.

Nobody recognized him, and everybody was scared to death and fled, leaving him in sole control of the Whole Place.

It happened that a Dog was one day carrying home a large piece of meat in his mouth.

As he was crossing a Brook he saw the shadow of himself and his piece of meat in the water.

Then he ran along so fast to his dinner that he got into quite a sweat.

ESTIMATE SLASH WILL HALVE WORK AT PLAYGROUNDS

Postponement of Many Needed
Improvements Now Made Necessary.

MAINTENANCE—ALONE

Several improvements in the city playgrounds which have been planned as part of this year's work by the public utilities commission will have to be abandoned owing to the cut in the playground estimates by the city council. A swimming pool in the east end playground and an increase in the number of bleacher seats in the Thames Park playground, and several smaller changes in the other places will go by the board for 1924. The estimates, however, will take care of supervision and maintenance.

As far as parks are concerned, and in this case $10,000 was also cut from the estimates, the general manager of the public utilities commission said this morning that the commission would go ahead with the proposed work even if they had to face an overdraft at the end of the season.

He said: "There is a great deal of work in the parks that simply must be done. There are roads in Springbank Park that must be built and repaired. This is a necessity and is surely well worth while, in view of the fact that the parks of London are universally recognized as returning a greater publicity and attraction value than any other feature of the city for the amount of money spent on them."

Then there should be a new fountain in Victoria Park. The present one is over 35 years old and is falling apart. We also have to build in a tennis court on the north side of Victoria Park, similar to the one at the south side, which has been so popular in the past.

Practically the whole of our park estimates will be needed to take care of maintenance alone. It takes a great deal of money to cut all the weeds and to insure proper supervision of the grounds, but we are going to go ahead with our plans for park improvements in spite of the cut in the estimates."

MYSTERIOUS WILD MAN OF WILDERNESS DIES

For Twenty Years James
Davies, 55, Had Roamed
Woods in British Columbia.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Nanaimo, B. C., April 3.—James Davies, 55, a recluse known throughout this district as the "wild man of Englishman's river," died yesterday. For twenty years he roamed the woods, living virtually a Robinson Crusoe existence. A huge black dog were his constant companions, and he shunned human companionship. It is said that for days and nights he would live on berries and his milk, and for years the police have been sending provisions to Davies' cabin during his absence. A friend of his years with Davies obtained fresh air on cold nights by lying in his cabin covered with blankets, his head protruding through a hole while Davies sat on the door.

When the provincial police went to the cabin yesterday to aid the man, who was reported desperately ill, they were met by Davies, who they fought determinedly to keep them away from his master. Evidently Davies and his dogs had had nothing to eat for some time, and he died while being conveyed to the hospital at Nanaimo.

News From City Churches

NEW ST. JAMES' W. M. S.
Members of the W. M. S. of New St. James' Church called a special meeting last evening to bid farewell to their president, Mrs. Douglas Omond. Mrs. Omond is leaving shortly for an extended tour of Minnesota and North and South Dakota, where she will lecture on missionary work.

Many good wishes and goodspeed were extended the retiring president that her work in the new field may be one of success and happiness. There was a very excellent program, featured by an illustrated address on missions in the west by Rev. Neil Miller. During the business period, the ladies passed a resolution, urging that the present O. T. A. be left unchanged, and this they are to forward to members of the provincial government. Mrs. Omond took the chair, and Miss Ferguson read the Scripture lesson. Refreshments were served at the conclusion, with Mrs. McKay as convener.

FIRST METHODIST C. G. I. T.
The weekly meeting of the Senior C. G. I. T. group of the First Methodist Church was held last evening. Following the usual supper a devotional period was conducted with Miss B. Brown in charge. The members decided to enter the city-wide C. G. I. T. contests, which are to be held within the next few weeks.

GOLDEN RULE CLUB.
The Senior Golden Rule Club of the Wellington Street Methodist Church met Tuesday evening at the usual hour. The program opened with the reading of a Bible story by Betty Wilson, and this was followed by a clever address on "True Beauty" by Sadie Brown. The members afterwards discussed certain phases of the question brought out in the address. The Junior Club conducted their meeting at the same time.

RUMMAGE SALE.
The ladies of the First Congregational Church are holding a rummage sale on Friday afternoon of this week. They have ready a fine array of goods, amongst which are to be found many useful household articles.

LENENT MEETINGS.
Lenten meetings in connection with the Wellington Street Methodist Church are being held at the homes of members of the congregation. Mrs. William Jeffrey is throwing open the doors of her home, G. E. McBurney on Friday night.

ST. GEORGE'S S.S. ORCHESTRA.
The orchestra of St. George's Church Sunday school recently visited the Victoria Home and gave a splendid musical program for the patients in the hospital, under the direction of Frank Humphries, there were solos by Miss A. Goddard and Mr. and Mrs. E. Manning; violin solo by Miss E. Eagan; flute solo by W. Leach; saxophone number by H. Bending, and a reading by Miss M. Johnston.

WORTLEY ROAD W. M. S.
The address on missions by Mrs. Floyd Holland at the recent meeting of the Wortley Road W. M. S., was a very interesting feature. Mrs. Holland gave a great deal of valuable and practical information about the various mission fields. Mrs. W. F. Black, the president, conducted the meeting.

MISSION CIRCLE.
Miss Mayme Young, secretary of the Children's Work Board, addressed the members of the Knox Young Women's Mission Circle at a recent meeting on the work accomplished last summer at the Daily Vacation Bible School which Miss Young conducted. The secretary coupled also with her address some interesting missionary information.

SALVATION ARMY BAND.
Under the auspices of the Hawks Class, Salvation Army Band, No. 1, gave an excellent musical program at the Askin Street Methodist Church on Tuesday night. No. 1 Band is made up of between thirty-five and forty players, and is a fine musical aggregation. Rev. J. T. C. Morris.

BLUNDERS

One of the many annoyances that the postal service has to contend with is the receipt of bundles of carelessly sealed letters, many of which are stuck together. Since letters can be run through the cancelling machines only one at a time, all those stuck together must first be pulled apart by some postal employee. This may result in mutilation of the addresses or in placing the letters to one side until other mail has been handled.

DEMONSTRATIONS WILL BE FEATURE AT TECH. TONIGHT

Interesting Program Arranged by Principal Beal—Parents Especially Invited.

RADIO INCLUDED

Tonight's the night for demonstrations at the Technical School, and it is also the last night of the students' work exhibition. Principal Beal has arranged a most interesting program for the evening and all parents are invited.

Last night, which was the first night open to the general public, was featured by the presence of between two and three thousand seven and eight grade pupils from the public schools with their parents. They took a keen and obvious delight in the work of the technical school, and as many of them are logical future students at the technical, they were busy getting the atmosphere of the school and the work.

Tonight's program includes a special demonstration course in costume design and millinery embroidery. The model apartment will be open and an explanation given of the correct way of laying a table. There will also be a demonstration in the chemical laboratory of the uses and properties of liquid air, of the removal of stains from fabrics, and of the various ways of testing cloth to find the percentage of wool. The last two are recommended to the ladies of the party as being of real use and practical worth.

During the evening there will be an exhibition in the electrical department of static electricity and of "radio" work. A radio program will be given. All the class masters will be present and any parents of present students or future students will have an opportunity of speaking either to these masters or to the principal on any question concerning the school and its work. This is the last night of the exhibition.

TOM CROWLEY AWAITS PENSION BOARD ACTION

Pensionable Disability Expected To Be Arrived At
On April 16.

Tom Crowley, who won his case before the federal appeal board, comes up for a board to determine his pensionable disability on the 16th of the month. This is five years after he has been discharged from the army, and the efforts of Col. Coles, representing the G. W. V. A., have been largely responsible in securing the desired action.

At the present time Mr. Crowley is unable to leave his home, and although his case was won, his pension secured for him, he has not received one cent to date and the attitude of the pension board in appealing the case has stirred bitter comment amongst ranks of the returned men of the city.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR MANY EVILS

Wealthy Manufacturer Declares Modern Woman Is Entirely Too Masculine.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, April 3.—Women's suffrage, with its attendant heightening of woman's active interest in politics and worldliness, has brought in its wake a flock of evils to womankind, including abandonment of decorum and the corset, and the development among young women of heartlessness, brutality and kindred intelligences, according to A. B. See, a wealthy manufacturer, whose views on the modern woman gained wide-spread publicity in November, 1922, when he refused to aid the building fund of a woman's college. Mr. See today launched another broadside on the subject in a letter to the Lady Stone League, which advocates women's retention of their maiden names after marriage.

Since the advent of suffrage, he said, women drank more rum and cocktails and smoked more cigarettes than ever before; they walked the streets, swagging by with brazen faces. They abandoned their corsets and used more cosmetics than ever before. "When a woman dances with a man," he added, "she lolls at his shoulder and tries to sit on his hips."

Young girls, he declared, had become insolent to their parents, heartless and brutal and brazen in their demeanor at school.

Voting of women, Mr. See continued, had increased election costs, and added to the slim vote. Married women, he declared, were suffragettes as a protest against the effeminacy of their husbands; spinsters, because it gave them something of a solace in their loneliness.

PILGRIM SHIP IS ABANDONED

The British Steamer Frangeston Catches Fire While On Trip Across Red Sea.

Associated Press Despatch.
Alexandria, Egypt, April 3.—The British steamship Frangeston has been abandoned on fire in the Red Sea and the 1,200 pilgrims aboard her transferred to the steamer Clan MacIvor from the latter vessel. The Clan MacIvor is proceeding with passengers to Port Said.

The Frangeston was first reported afire early yesterday. Despatches last night said the flames, starting in the cargo of cotton, had spread and that the whole fore end was blazing fiercely.

The pilgrims were bound for Jeddah, the seaport of Mecca, the Mohammedan holy city.

REGRETS ART TRANSFERS

Associated Press Despatch.
London, April 3.—Addressing the guests at a governmental banquet in celebration of the centenary of the founding of the British national gallery of art, Premier Macdonald referred regretfully to the "flight across the sea" of British art treasures.

"We must make up our minds to these things," he said, "but I think we can ask the new possessors of old treasures that they give them hospitality and a kindly home, not holding them as trophies, but treating them to themselves as treasures."

SOUTH AND EAST SCHOOLS ATTACKED BY INSPECTOR

ONTARIO OFFICIAL PRAISES WORK OF PRINCIPAL MILLER

Building Conditions re High School in South and East Are Denounced.

Unqualified approval of the work accomplished by Everett A. Miller, principal of the London Central Collegiate and his staff, combined with absolute disapproval of the building conditions under which the east and south collegiate work has to be done is the essence of the annual report on the collegiate rendered last night to the board of education by I. M. Levan, provincial inspector of schools.

In this report, Mr. Levan says, "All the work timetables in the collegiate are good. There is no congestion. In fact there is evidence of unusual skill in the arrangement of this table. The discipline throughout the school is good, and the average teaching power very high. All through the school work and arrangements Mr. Miller has shown skill of a high order."

In part of the letter referring to the housing accommodation, the inspector says, "The east end unit is situated in a building where teaching and learning conditions are about as bad as they can be. The facilities for teaching practical science work in the London South unit is extremely poor. Mr. Levan reports everything as it should be in connection with the evening classes."

Church News

ALL SAINTS' W. A.

The Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Church held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon, transacting a great deal of routine business. Sewing occupied the remainder of the period.

EVER-READY M. B.

At their regular meeting yesterday afternoon the Ever-Ready Mission Band of the First Methodist Church were addressed by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Hunter. Mr. Hunter's subject was "Prayer." The large number of children present displayed keen interest in the missionary map which was recently presented to them. On this are marked the various home mission stations so that they may follow the work being done throughout Canada. The afternoon's program included a solo by Miss Shannon.

JR. CONGREGATION.

The younger children of St. Andrew's Church are to be royally entertained on the 11th of this month. The leaders of the junior congregation met last evening and made arrangements for a social to which are to be invited all the children of the congregation, 13 years and under. There will be a supper at 5:30 and after this a social and special program. Mrs. Fraser is the convener of the supper and Miss Howie has been appointed to look after the program.

GALT SHOE FIRM FIRE CAUSES $100,000 LOSS

Early Morning Blaze Demolishes Factory—Firemen Are Handicapped.

Special to The Advertiser. Galt, April 3.—Fire, which broke out shortly after midnight, completely destroyed the factory of the Galt Shoe Company, causing a loss estimated at $100,000, partly covered by insurance. The blaze was one of the most spectacular in this city for some time and crippled all city hydro lines.

Mr. Hewer of Galt and a companion, who had just returned from Kitchener, discovered the fire about 11:40. By the time the firemen arrived the flames were shooting out the windows and the first floor. The firemen encountered considerable difficulty, as the building is situated close to the river, making it impossible to fight the fire from all sides. The Galt shoe factory is controlled by local capital. Manager A. M. Stewart was in Toronto when the fire broke out, and was notified immediately. He returned to this city at 2 a.m. Fifty to sixty hands are employed.

Ten-Dollar "Thinking" Plan Not Likely To Hit Western University Officials Ridicule New Scheme For Making Graduation Easy.

USED IN CHICAGO

U. S. Corporation Will Write "Articles" On Any Subject For $10 Subscription.

Brains, not money, will always be the essentials for success at the University of Western Ontario, in spite of a new United States plan by which undergraduates are assured their "sheepskins" through payment of a ten-dollar bill.

Local university officials said the plan was not likely to invade London and if it did, would receive short shrift here. In Chicago, however, it has apparently gained a headway. The idea was conceived by a newly-formed "corporation" which, according to a news despatch, receives college students of the burden of thinking. Students specializing in certain subjects need only to send in $10 to the corporation, explain the subjects which they wish to study, and their path to graduation is made easy. The corporation sends them "articles" on any subject under the sun, which the students turn in to their professors as their own. The corporation claims every college man who has accepted their offer has always passed high.

A circular has been broadcasted among members of the University of Chicago. It reads: "Let us do your thinking for you. Give us your subject and $10—we'll do the rest."

The circular goes on to explain that, as all students were required to write papers, and these on the subjects in which they are specializing, before graduating, the firm had been organized to take this load from the students' minds.

DRAYTON WILL ADVISE TRANSPORTATION BODY

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, April 3.—Sir Henry Drayton proposes to move in the House for the appointment of a select standing committee on national railways and shipping. Estimates for the Canadian National Railways and the mercantile marine would be referred to this committee which would consider all questions involving new capital commitments and the disposition of property and assets as well as the annual reports of the government railway and shipping systems. The committee would have powers of inquiry similar to those possessed by the public accounts committee in regard to the auditor-general's report.

DEPUTATION MAKES GAIN FOR HARVESTERS

Promise Reduced Railway Fares to Britishers in Journey to Farms.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, April 2.—The promise of reduced railway fare to places where they want to go to work, together with an advance to cover transportation costs and the supplying of a list of general positions, was this morning made to the thirty old British hiving harvesters, who took the advice of Premier Mackenzie King and went to the labor department, where the leaders of the harvesters had an interview with C. S. Ford, in charge of the employment bureau and other representatives of government departments.

After leaving the labor bureau and the government representatives shortly before noon, the representatives of the men proceeded to the office of W. J. King, deputy minister of immigration, where another private interview was held. Following both interviews the representatives of the men told the press they had nothing to give out until they had held a mass meeting of all the men, and had first communicated the offers of the government to them.

This sudden desire prompted him to leave the C. N. R. station, where he was waiting for the sun to come up, and explore the city. At 4 o'clock he started back for the station and decided to take a short cut. When found by police he was running down a lane and was immediately arrested. "I've never been in jail before," he told the court. "If you let me go I will get a job. I've been promised work."

"All right," the magistrate said. "I'll let you go, but don't hunt for jobs down lanes at four in the morning or you will be here again."

He promised to act with better discretion in the future.

TWO SUMMONED IN TEAPOT PROBE

Former Associate of Jake Hamon and Ohio Editor Next To Testify.

Associated Press Despatch.

Washington, April 3.—Subpoenas were issued today by the senate oil committee for the appearance here next Monday of J. B. French of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Robert Wolfe of Columbus, editor of the Ohio State Journal. Both will be questioned as to gossip about oil deals at the Republican national convention in 1920.

French is described as a political associate to the late Jake Hamon, Republican national committeeman from Oklahoma.

Wolfe was one of the managers in Ohio for Leonard Wood.

'CANNED HEAT,' THIRSTY ONES' LATEST LOVE, KILLING MANY

Few Live To Tell of That "Exhilaratin' Feelin'" Supposed To Follow Drink.

BIG TOLL IN TOLEDO

Solidified Alcohol Can Now Stand in Line With Lemon
Extract and Vanilla.

Spirit lamps are associated pleasantly enough with camping parties or unpleasantly with poor working girls, eking out a miserable existence in hall bedrooms. Lately they have come to have a definitely unpleasant relationship with a great number of deaths which have come as the result of persons drinking "canned heat." Seven men died in Toledo on Sunday as the result of a week-end drinking bout in which denatured alcohol was used as a beverage, and scores of similar cases are listed in police court records.

"Canned heat" is the latest appliance used to evade the laws which formally ousted Bacchus from the greater part of this continent. The result of this, however, is the ushering out of the greater majority of those persons who have sufficient hardihood to try it. Solidified alcohol is "canned heat's" proper name.

"Canned heat" as a term has been lately applied to any of the numerous mixtures with which the undaunted followers of Bacchus pay their devotions. "Canned heat," properly, however, is a solid material which is diluted with water to give it a fluid state. It looks at first appearance like a block of paraffin and, in its legitimate use, burns with a blue flame. Few have lived to describe how it felt in its illegitimate use.

But its use has become so frequent that the spirit lamp of formerly innocent appearance has lined up with the lemon extract bottle as an object of suspicion, and "canned heat" has taken its place with banana extract, hair tonic, vanilla, and those other weird concoctions which the "hooch hounds" down in the hope that they may attain a feeling of exhilaration from the percentage of alcohol contained.

BARNARDO HOME BOY RUNS AFOL OF POLICE

Freed by Court, But Warned To Use Discretion in the Future.

Starting out from Toronto to seek fame and fortune, a Barnardo Home boy had his enthusiasm effectually nipped this morning when he was lodged in jail by local police constables.

He was charged with being a vagrant in court he said he came to London on the midnight train last night, having been told that he could readily secure a job on a farm here.

Everything would have been all right had he not suddenly determined to "see the town" at 3:30 in the morning. This sudden desire prompted him to leave the C. N. R. station, where he was waiting for the sun to come up, and explore the city. At 4 o'clock he started back for the station and decided to take a short cut. When found by police he was running down a lane and was immediately arrested. "I've never been in jail before," he told the court. "If you let me go I will get a job. I've been promised work."

"All right," the magistrate said. "I'll let you go, but don't hunt for jobs down lanes at four in the morning or you will be here again."

He promised to act with better discretion in the future.

CONEY ISLAND IS SCENE OF $300,000 FIRE TODAY

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, April 3.—Fire early today destroyed Whitney's Baths, one of the oldest structures in Coney Island, and swept two hundred many booths and 300 feet of board walk, threatening for a time to destroy a large section of the amusement park, which is built almost entirely of wood.

A high wind carried sparks toward Luna Park and steepchase to the northwest, but the flaming chimneys spent themselves on roofs covered with snow, left from Thursday's storm. The damage is estimated at $300,000.

IOWA EXPECTED TO VOTE IN FAVOR OF W. G. M'ADOO

Associated Press Despatch.

Davenport, Iowa, April 3.—Iowa Democrats, in convention here today, are deciding their allegiance to a presidential candidate, and framing a tentative slate of state office candidates and selecting national committeemen and women. In the contest for instruction, chief interest centers about the fortunes of William G. McAdoo, who, friends of the former popular choice of Iowa Democrats, are supporters are: Governor Al Smith of New York, Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, and Governor Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas.

HELD FOR TRIAL ON ARSON CHARGE

Frank Lince Alleged To Have Caused the Fire Which Destroyed Shop.

COUNTY ROAD SYSTEM

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, April 2.—Frank Lince was charged in police court with willfully setting fire to the premises at 133 Downie street. He has been remanded until April 9. Last week the block, in which Lince's pressing parlor was situated, was practically gutted by fire and E. Peller's barber shop burned out. A deputy fire marshal has been investigating, and the arrest is the result.

Sells Investigator.

W. McBride of McBride & Company, has sold his interests in the firm to George Perkins of Toronto. Mr. McBride intends taking a short rest.

Road System.

The county council today received a bylaw respecting roads from the provincial department which provides for a county organization headed by qualified engineers. It is understood there is a likelihood that the grant for the roads will be cut off if the bylaw is not adopted. A decision will be arrived at probably tomorrow.

Councillor Armstrong, reeve of Ellice, voiced a strong opposition to the plan as being unnecessary and more expensive than one in use and also on the ground that it was compulsory.

C. N. PHONE CIRCUIT IN THIS DIVISION BEING IMPROVED

J. Larocque, Chief Inspector, is Now in City Superintending Installations.

MONTREAL-CHICAGO LINE

The "simplexing" of railroad telephone circuits on the London division of the Canadian National Railways is now being carried on under the supervision of J. Larocque, Montreal, chief inspector of the telegraph and telephone department.

The despatching of trains is done by telephone and offers great advantages over despatching by telegraph. Obtaining telegraph circuits as a by-product of the telephone circuits for the handling of the ever-increasing telegraphic messages between Toronto, London, and Detroit has been a consideration of first importance with railway engineers and on the completion of the special apparatus at the local station for simplex telegraph channels to be superimposed over the telephone circuits assigned for the despatching of trains between the above terminals, will mark an epoch of progress in the art of telephoning and telegraphing on the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Larocque stated that this work was concentrated at the terminals and the installations are justified both from the standpoint of economy and proves a great advantage for all communications between the various departments of the road.

"Only a short while ago we installed one in St. Thomas," he said, "and we expect to place in operation many more during the present year."

He is being assisted by Messrs. Brothers and Murray of St. Thomas, and Brown of Stratford. Mr. Larocque hopes to have the simplex circuit box ready for operation by Saturday and when this is completed the C. N. R. will have through service from Montreal to Chicago.

New Sensations Develop At Treasury Probe

CONSIDER EVIDENCE AGAINST PETER SMITH.

Above, the artist shows members of the public accounts committee of the Legislature examining exhibits submitted by Joseph C.
Whitaker, former supervisor of the defunct Home Bank, who told of handling $2,500 to the late Cooper

Mason, general manager, in the presence of Hon. Peter Smith. The draw-
Finlayson, Col. Price, provincial treasurer, and Chas. McCrea, minister of mines. In the circle below is Geo.
R. Harris, who continued his testimony yesterday in connection with the Provincial Securities Company, and Joseph C. Whitaker, who told of visits of Peter Smith to the late general manager of the Home Bank.

DECISION QUASHES O.T.A. CONVICTION

Ruling of Lambton Judge Will Affect a Number of Hotelkeepers.

Special to The Advertiser.
Sarnia, April 2.—County Judge Taylor handed down a decision quashing the conviction of Thomas Roche, Watford hotel keeper, convicted on December 18 of having liquor for sale and fined $200 and costs. The decision affects a number of hotel keepers and others in the county against whom charges of selling over-strength beer were pending.

The fact that corks popped out of bottles while the seized beer was on its way to Toronto for analysis was held to have affected testing results, the samples varying in strength from 3.32 to 4.38 per cent.

The judge could not conclude, he said, that there was greater strength than two and half per cent at the time of seizure.

Motorist Fined.
Judge Taylor today reserved decision in the damage suit brought by Angus McPhee against Mrs. Mazie Barnes, both of this city. Plaintiff claimed $800 for personal injury and damage to property following an auto collision.

Bank Clearings.
Bank clearings in Sarnia for the month of March totalled $1,974,122.

Building Record.
Sarnia's building record for the month of March totalled $54,263, compared with $21,695 for February, and $60,040 for March, 1923.

RURAL MAIL-CARRIERS WILL BE DISPLACED

Contracts Have Been Let At Dublin For May 1—Presentations Made.

Special to The Advertiser.
Dublin, April 2.—On May 1st both the northern and southern mail carriers in the country will be displaced by other men. The contracts have been let for less money.

Presentation Made.
The hospitality of McKillop people was in evidence last week, when Mr.
and Mrs. Angus Moore and their three children, Helen, James, and Angus were each presented with a club bag, a dozen silver knives and forks, a manicure set, a watch, and a purse of money, previous to their departure for Chicago.

Leave For Dublin.
A presentation was made to Mr.
and Mrs. William J. O'Rourke, prior to retiring from farming and moving to Dublin. Mr. O'Rourke was the recipient of a silver shaving set, and Mrs. O'Rourke with an ivory dressing set. The address was read by N. J. Flanagan, and the presentation made by J. Kelly.

PUBLISH SALARIES OF CITY OFFICIALS

Trades and Labor Council Asks That Information Be Made Public.

CITY COUNCIL CONSIDERS

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, April 2.—At the regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council held in the lodge rooms tonight the following resolution was passed: "That we highly commend the stand taken by the various members of the city council on the communication from the Trades and Labor Council as the official salaries in the auditors' report, requesting that the salaries of the city officials be printed in detail in the auditors' report for the information of the citizens in general. We were pleased with the stand taken by our city council, who said he didn't think that any objection would be raised by the officials; he also stated that he didn't care who knew what his salary was."

Letters are being sent to the heads of the various commissions, asking them to co-operate in the above with the committee appointed by the city council to investigate the matter.

An invitation was extended to the Trades and Labor Council to attend a meeting in the room to be addressed by Dr. F. E. Bennett, president of the Horticultural Society, on "Cook's Tour of St. Thomas."

REACH HALF-WAY MARK IN WELFARE CAMPAIGN

Concluded From Page One.

James Gray is the organizer, the report, though covering only two stores in the city, Smallman & Ingram's and Gray's Limited, showed a return of $1,500. Both stores had an enrollment of 100 per cent, and the average contribution amounted to about $15.

The financial houses report, which also was limited and covered but five firms, gave $2,400 as the day's total. This department is under the guidance of G. R. Harris.

E. V. Buchanan, reporting for the public utilities department, was able to make a partial return for the day, and stated that $300 had been secured. The wholesale houses, looked after by Philip Poovee, had returns from only one house, but the figure was $80.

The educationists, under the guidance of J. H. Wright, reported that $200 had been secured. The Technical School, have not yet underway, and reported $500 as their amount.
All these last departments were expected to complete their returns by the end of the week, but are also expected confidently to get over the top when the last stores are made up.

Team No. 2, under the guidance of
W. R. Yenda, collected the greatest amount, with $5,928.25 to their credit.
The returns of the team captains for the individual teams were as follows:

Albert Murphy, $1,050; Harold Mc-
Phillips, $776; Ernie Yeates, $1,192;
Thomas Hayman, $650; Sam Amera,
$1,352.25.

Team No. 3, under the guidance of
W. R. Yenda, collected the greatest amount, with a total of $4,443. D. McDermid's team collected $655; G. Greene, $611; C. May, $1,035; G. Wesley, $840, and W. Aylesworth, $2,108.

Team No. 4, in charge of T. F. Mac-Farland, came third, with a total of $3,743. Of this amount C. M. R. Graham's team collected $75; F. W. St.
Lawrence, $881; John Wright, $2,224;
Barney McCann, $312; W. R. Jarmain, $251.

Team No. 1, whose efforts were directed by A. R. Ford, collected $3, $19.50. Of this amount C. H. Hunt collected $902.50; W. Benson, $416;
Clifford Mann, $792, and Fred Mc-Allister, $709. W. Blay's reports was not completed.

Special to The Advertiser.
Ingersoll, April 2.—When his wagon was struck by a shunting train in the Canadian National yards here, Robert Kernohan, driver for the Ingersoll Packing Company, had a narrow escape from serious, if not fatal injury. The horses and part of the wagon were over the tracks

Decent Burial Home Inmates

Special to The Advertiser.
Stratford, April 2.—Perry county council is going to see that all inmates of the house of refuge have a decent burial.

A communication was received from Toronto reminding the council that under the anatomy act the bodies of those who die in such institutions are to be sent to Toronto for vivisection, in the interest of medical research. The council decided to take no action standing by a previous resolution passed in January, 1920.

tained Seymour Corley, K.C.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 2.—Stories of visits of Hon. Peter Smith, when Ontario provincial treasurer, to the office of the late Col. Cooper Mason, general manager of the Home Bank, bulked large in the testimony before the public accounts committee of the Ontario Legislature today when the inquiry was resumed into the operations of the Ontario treasury department under the former government. With F. G. Whitaker, former general supervisor of the Home Bank, on the stand giving evidence, the committee heard the story of how $2,500 was withdrawn from the bank in legal tender and handed to Col. Mason in a plain envelope while the former provincial treasurer was in the bank manager's office.

The committee heard also the story of a subsequent visit of Hon. Peter Smith to Colonel Mason, when after having been closeted together for some minutes, Col. Mason came out and inquired if Mr. Calvert, the assistant general manager of the bank, had come up yet. Mr. Calvert had arrived later and had handed a similar plain envelope to Mr. Mason which he had taken back into the room in which Hon. Mr. Smith was waiting.

Mr. Whitaker also produced for the committee the late Col. Mason's memorandum pad which contained numerous records of appointments with Hon. Peter Smith. The witness stated that he had known, and others of the Home Bank knew, that commissions were being paid in connection with the deposit account which the province carried with the institution.

After hearing this evidence the committee adjourned to meet Friday at 10 o'clock when A. E. Calvert, assistant general manager of the Home Bank will be called. The committee also during its sitting, the proposed for the thorough audit of the books of the bond firms with which George Harris, of Hamilton, was connected. A. E. Calvert, in his dealings with the Harris firm, is to be investigated, and the audit of the books is with a view to eliciting all facts relevant.

Extend Probe.
The provincial probe has extended from the offices of the Ontario treasury to those of the highways department. Expert accountants from the firm of Clarkson, Gordon and Co. have been put to work on the books of the highways department under instructions from Premier Ferguson. Efforts are being made to find out if any commission was paid for supplies in connection with road building, chiefly stone and motor trucks. The accounts of contractors during the past four years are also being made the subject of close scrutiny.

To show the extent of the probe now beginning, several well-known engineers have been engaged by the bookkeeping experts to act in a consultative capacity. It is expected that the results of this probe will be given to the public accounts committee of the Legislature before very long.

Police officers tonight were reticent concerning the whereabouts of Chas. Matthews, Jr., the suspected assistant provincial treasurer. He was stated definitely that he was not in Toronto, but beyond that no information could be obtained. L. C. Mason, his son-in-law, has not yet returned to Toronto from his week-end trip. Some assurance, however, was given tonight that these two men will not be out of range of the law when required.

IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE.
Petrolia, April 2.—Three farm laborers from Holland arrived in Petrolia today, making a total of 11 this year. All the immigrants have been placed in the vicinity of W. P. McDonald, agricultural representative for Lambton County.

Kills Mother Accidentally

Accident Occurs When Boy Is Examining Revolver.
Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, April 2.—While examining a revolver in the kitchen of his home in the northeast section of the city, Rodolphe Trudeau, aged 15, accidentally shot and killed his mother, Mrs. Omer Trudeau, aged 45, this afternoon. The bullet struck young Trudeau in the hand before it struck his mother. She died in a few minutes of internal hemorrhage. He told detectives that in her dying moments his mother smiled faintly at him as if she wanted to assure him that the fatality was an accident.

BEER FROM LONDON IS HELD AT BORDER

Niagara Falls Custom Officers Seize Big Liquor Shipment Labeled "Lumber."

Canadian Press Despatch.
Niagara Falls, April 2.—The Falls (U. S.) customs office is holding 1,500 cases of bottled beer, said to be valued at more than $10,000 which were seized last night in the Erie Railroad yards. The beer was in a freight car billed from London, Ont., and consigned to the Elmer Lumber Company, Niagara Falls, N.Y. The car arrived with a way freight from the Canadian side of the river and was marked lumber.

There is no Elmer Lumber Company across the river.
London, April 2.—The proposal of a capital levy was rejected by a vote of 325 to 160 in the House of Commons today. The adjournment of the discussion of the rents bill provided an opportunity to take up the Conservative motion against a capital levy, which was designed to force the government to define its attitude on the question.

Chief interest centered in the admission by J. R. Clynes, Labor government leader in the House of Commons, that the government could no longer hope for the passage of such a measure in the present parliament, and that it was useless for any government to introduce a law without full consent of the electorate.

TO CHARGE GRAIN BOARD WITH DISCRIMINATION

Question Will Be Brought Before Royal Commission Later This Month.

Associated Press Despatch.
Vancouver, April 2.—Discrimination against the port of Vancouver will be charged against the Canada grain board before the royal grain commission when that body sits here later this month. This was announced this afternoon by the board of harbor commissioners who will also endeavor to show that the grain commissioners have permitted continued violation of the Canada grain act.

SIR RICHARD SQUIRES' STATEMENT ATTACKED

"Constitute Direct Challenge To Government," Declares The Daily News.

Associated Press Despatch.
St. Johns, Nfld., April 2.—Sir Richard Squires' statement made at Halifax to the Canadian Press, and which was published by all the newspapers here today, is made the text for sharp editorial comment by the opposition press. The Daily News claims that Sir Richard's statement "constitute a direct challenge to the government, a gratuitous insult to the colonial department by which the commissioner was appointed, as well as a studied misrepresentation of the evidence submitted during the recent inquiry and an open flouting of the eminent chief's counsel who presided."

"Child's Eyelids Inflamed Stuck Together and Bled"

Mr. E. P. Kimball, Entwistle, Alta., writes: "Our little girl from birth was troubled with inflamed eyelids and in spite of several remedies, grew worse until at the age of sixteen months her eyes could not be opened after sleep without bleeding, a waxy discharge sticking the lids together and adhering with great tenacity. The child's grandmothers were consulted by mail, and both responded with a little sample box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. These were used as directed, and lasted until we could obtain a further supply from Edmonton. Improvement was very marked from the first application. The waxy discharge was easier removed and did not reappear. Inflammation subsided and has not returned."

Enjoys Happiest Summer in Years

Toronto Man Thanks Famous Herbal Remedy for Relief It Brought Him—General Health Much Improved, and Suffering Relieved.

"At last, a summer spent without continual suffering," says Mr. H. Bowles of 23 Pryor avenue, Toronto. "For the past two years I have been a constant sufferer from rheumatism, the pains shooting through my hips, ankles and shoulders so bad I could hardly get around at times. Dizzy spells often came over me and everything would turn black before my eyes. "Pains through my whole body would often double me up when walking about, and it seemed that I could never straighten up with comfort. Sick headaches often caused me hours of suffering. Life was a continual misery to me and nothing I took in the way of medicine or treatments gave me any noticeable benefit; that is, until I started taking Dreo, which proved to be just the remedy my system needed, and readily responded to its corrective influence. "The rheumatic pains are rapidly disappearing and my entire system is far stronger. I am able to get out and enjoy the summer in comfort, free from suffering, and I gladly state that Dreo is the cause of my great improvement. I am continuing to take it as a tonic and system-builder and know that further improvement will be mine."

Dreo is specially prepared from herbs, roots, bark, and leaves and acts on the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels and purifies the blood. It cleanses the whole system and affords wonderful relief from rheumatic pains, gastritis, dyspepsia and all other forms of indigestion, arouses a sluggish liver and relieves constipation. Let it make your life a comfort by putting your system in the shape that nature intended it to be in. Dreo contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs. Dreo is being specially introduced in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and is sold at all their stores in London, St. Thomas, Woodstock and Stratford. It is also sold as follows: Galt, Cant & Cant; Ridgeway, D. H. Stewart; Bothwell, Bothwell Drug Store; Lucan, H. S. Stanley; Goderich, H. C. Dunlop; Strathroy, F. L. Grieve; Tillsonburg, C. V. Thompson; the Rexall Store; St. Marys, MacLean's Drug Store; Exeter, Howey's Drug Store; Wallaceburg, C. P. Nightingale; Blenheim, J. D. Christmas; and by a good druggist everywhere.

PROF. THOMSON HAS MATERIAL FOR LONDON

Will Share Specimens Collected On Trip With Western Ontario University.

Prof. R. B. Thomson of Toronto University who will give a lecture on "A Botanist in the Antipodes," on the night of April 11 in the Central Collegiate auditorium, under the auspices of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs and the extension department of the Western Ontario University, is a prominent research worker. He is a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and last year was its delegate to the meeting of the British Association at Liverpool. After the Liverpool meeting, Prof. Thomson visited South Africa, Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand, returning to Canada by way of Fiji and Hawaii.

On this trip Prof. Thomson collected a wealth of material, part of which will become the property of the department of botany of the Western Ontario University. During the war Prof. Thomson had charge of the work of development and organizing information in regard to the sources and supplies of sphagnum moss in Canada, available for surgical dressings.

ST. JOSEPH'S NURSES GRADUATE APRIL 11

Alumnae Makes Arrangements To Banquet Large Class of Twenty.

Plans for the St. Joseph's nurses' graduation, to be held in St. Peter's Hall on April 22, were made at a meeting of St. Joseph's Nurses' Alumnae, held at the hospital last night. The alumnae, who have made arrangements for the graduation exercises are always left, are planning an exceptionally interesting program for this year. And on the following night the twenty members of the graduating class will be entertained at a banquet to be tendered by the members of the alumnae, according to custom. Mrs. W. J. Tighe, president of the alumnae, is convening the affair.

The graduating class includes the following: Misses Rose Storey, Florence Robson, Dorothy Gahagan, Theresa Pfeiffer, Alken Malloux, Esther Pirth, Marcella Hartber, Irene Flannigan, Alberta Elliott, Marie McAteer, Edna Forte, Petronilla Schurter, Ann Smith, Gladys Gallowell, Marie MacAlpine, Agnes Downey, Hazel Bobler, Katherine Morrison, Beatrice Hunsley and Eerie Abell.

Business last night also included voting on those nominated for the Executive of the Ontario Graduate Nurses' Association, meeting in Windsor on April 24 to 26. Mrs. Tighe was appointed delegate to that meeting from St. Joseph's Alumnae. A very instructive lecture by Dr. George A. Ramsay on "Infection of the Hand," was a feature of the meeting, the lecture being clearly illustrated by lantern slides. Dr. Ramsay explained the progress of the infection and how it should be treated.

FORESTERS' BANQUET IS OUTSTANDING EVENT

Court Magnolia and Princess Magnolia Circle Hold Annual Dance.

On Thursday evening, March 27, Court Magnolia, 809, A. O. F., and Princess Magnolia Circle, No. 163, Companions of A. O. F., held their annual joint ball and social evening in the Court Magnolia hall, in the Minto building. The decorations and banquet arrangements were left to the circle, and were said to surpass anything yet tried. The Foresters' colors were used to form a canopy over the banquet hall and on the tables. The flowers and roses, made by a companion of the circle, were very cleverly done.

Supper was served from two tables stretching the full length of the hall, and had to be relaid to accommodate the large number present, nearly 150. After supper, euchre tables were provided for those who wished to play in the lodge rooms, and dancing was in full swing in the banquet hall. Excellent music was provided by the circle orchestra until midnight.

Shall She Marry Her Fiance While He Is Poor or Wait Until He Becomes Successful?—The Small-Town Girl Who Can't Scare Up a Beau—The Girl Whose Fiance Won't Marry Her for Years and Years.

Dear Miss Dix—I am twenty years old and engaged to a young man one year in service. We love each other very dearly. I have a steady position, and so has my friend. He is poor, but there are a great many chances for advancement for him. He is very energetic, very fond of his work, and is always trying to save money. Would you advise me to marry him and help him get to the top of the hill or wait until he gets there and then marry him?

UNDECIDED.

Answer: I advise you to do both. Wait until he gets his feet well set on the ground and then marry him. But do not wait until he gets to the top, for in that way you will miss the greatest joy that fate can give any woman who loves her man, and that is climbing up with him.

You are both very young; too young to marry, anyway, no matter how much money you had. If you marry now before your boy's sweetheart has got a good start, you will be a handicap to him.

When opportunity knocks at the door you have to unlock it with a golden key to let your good luck in, and this you cannot do if it has taken every cent that the boy has been able to earn to support his family. Therefore, the poor man who marries too early nearly always stays just where he was when he took unto himself a wife. He has had no chance to save anything, no chance to get ahead. He has even dared to give up a bad position in order to look for a better one, because there was a wife and baby at home to whom even a meagre pay envelope meant food and shelter. So wait a few years until your sweetheart has accumulated a little stake, then marry him.

Fate gives woman no greater happiness than that of knowing that she is really helping the man she loves, and that she is not only his inspiration, but his working partner. No husbands and wives are so close together as those who plan and dream together, who fight shoulder to shoulder like good comrades, who are absorbed by the same ambitions and struggle to the same goal. Such an experience welds them into one, as richer husbands and wives never are who have different aims and aspirations, different friends and even different amusements. Many a millionaire couple living in a palace, but who have been separated from each other by their wealth, look back upon the days in which they lived in two rooms and planned together as the happiest time of their lives. It is lots more fun to make money than it is to spend it, so don't miss helping your sweetheart make his fortune.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I live in a small town, so small that it has not even a movie, and is practically nameless. I read and sew, but the grind of going to bed at 8 o'clock and then having any pleasure is getting upon my nerves. I went with one man five years, but lost him in the war. Now there is no one left in the old town to choose from.

Shall I sit by the fireside and wait for my happiness or go out and look for it?

LONESOME GIRL.

Answer: It is folly to fish in waters in which there are no fish, so my advice is to pack up your bait and lie away where there are better prospects of making a catch when you throw in your hook.

There are many small towns from which every man who is worth having emigrates as soon as he is old enough to leave, and where all the girls are predestined old maids unless they get up and follow the men. So unless you wish to have "spinster" engraved upon your tombstone shake the dust of this Adamless Eden off your feet as soon as possible.

There is nothing like getting away from home to enhance a woman's chances of matrimony anyway. Men like change. They fall for the novel and the unknown. They are taken with a fresh face even if it is not half as pretty and attractive as the old ones they know. They pay no attention to Mary Jane with whom they went to school, they don't even notice her prettiness nor her charms. They take it for granted that she dances well and is a good sport, but they never think of falling in love with her any more than they do with their own sisters.

But let Mary Jane go off to some strange place and she suddenly becomes a belle. Men discover that she is as easy on the eyes, that she is bright and entertaining, and a fine dancer. The line of attractions that she carries is new to them, and before you know it Mary Jane is wearing an engagement ring.

Most men and women marry comparative strangers. This should be a tip to women, and when they find themselves unappreciated at home they should hike out to some place where they will have the charm of novelty.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been engaged to a man who tells me he loves me devotedly, but that he doesn't want to marry for years and years because he feels as though he had not sown his wild oats. He says he wants me for a wife when he settles down, but he is not yet tired of the company of wild women.

I think that if he loved me as much as he says he does, he would be willing to give up the gay society of other women, don't you? Anyway, my pride and vanity revolt at the thought of wasting years of my life waiting while he goes on enjoying himself. What do you think?

LILLIAN.

Answer: I think the man is one of those who never loves anyone but himself, and that he is monumentally self-conceited and selfish to even ask you to wait for him while he indulges his taste for wine, women and song. Why do you not break with him? What have you to look forward to? A philandering husband is a curse to any wife, and surely no woman could have a more appalling fate than to have to help a blasé, worn-out husband harvest his wild oat crop.

ONTARIO HOSPITAL ALUMNAE.

Dr. W. J. Robinson, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, gave an interesting address last evening, at the regular meeting of the Nurses' Alumnae of the Ontario Hospital. His talk dealt with the care of insane patients, and was of great interest to the nurses. He also spoke of the various hospitals for insane, built since 1850. Miss Jacobs was appointed as delegate to attend the Ontario Nurses' annual convention, being held in Windsor, April 24 and 25.

Plans were made for a dance to be held in the Assembly Hall April 30. Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. Miss Currie acted as hostess, assisted by Miss Reid.

RUTH CHAPTER, O. E. S.

The C. E. F. Chapter, I. O. O. E., made final plans for their euchre and bridge to be held at the Smallman and Ingram tearoom on Saturday afternoon, April 12, at yesterday afternoon's meeting held in the chapter rooms above the Majestic Theatre.

CLAN OF HUERTA DENIES HE IS ON HIS WAY TO ARIZONA

Associated Press Despatch. New York, April 3.—Vigorous denial of a report from El Paso that Adolfo de la Huerta, Mexican revolutionary leader, had landed in New York, and was now proceeding to Nogales, Ariz., was made last night by his supporters here. Adherents of the Obregon government, however, said they believed the report.

Lew Tyler's Wives

The Story of a Lovable Ne'er-do-well.

By WALLACE IRWIN

INSTALLMENT IV. LEW TYLER, a talented, young, popular ne'er-do-well, with a taste for song and liquor and a great "mixer," has a job as automobile salesman in San Francisco. JESSIE TYLER, also known as "Red," is his wife. He is the little boy, is not the sturdy youngster his name would imply.

MR. WINKLER, Jessie's father, is a doorman at a large department store. To him Lew represents aristocracy. ALTA WADE is a friend of Jessie. BUZZY MANDELBUSS, an advertising man, gives a party, to which Lew insists that Jessie go, in spite of the apparent delicacy of their child. She leaves the baby in charge of her father.

MEECH GARRICK, a prosperous real estate man, of small stature and unimpressive personality, is a guest at the Mandelbush party. He is strongly attracted by Jessie, but refuses to give Lew a job at her request. In an effort to catch the last ferryboat home to her baby—Lew refusing to leave the party—Jessie dashes toward the dock. Garrick catches up with her in his car and offers to take her home. Garrick, realizing that the Tylers are not doing very well, offers to help Jessie, but says it would be no favor to them for him to give Lew a job. Lew, however, leaves his place with the automobile company and tells Jessie he is to represent a Japanese importing house in New York. From their debts and enable them to move.

CHAPTER VII.

A Birthday.

The Tylers left the East in November. Meech Garrick went to the station to see them off, and his hand went up to Jessie's at the instant the trainmen's "All aboard!" warned them of departure.

Jessie acted upon impulse, as she so often did. Leaning over the rail she touched her lips to a little bird-like spot of baldness which lay equidistant between Meech Garrick's prominent ears. He turned as red as a hall carpet. The train began to move.

She waved farewell to the vanishing group, but gained little response. Meech Garrick stood like a man turned to stone. Alta was sniffling into her muff. Mr. Winkler was accepting a cigar from one of Lew's friends; his gesture as he took the gift was so grateful, so pleasantly crushed that Jessie did a thing unusual to her.

"Honey," he began, but she threw her arms desperately, hungrily around his neck.

usual for her.

She burst into tears, and, straining her baby to her cheek, harkened to her under-voice saying, "He's gone!" That cry was prophetic, for she never saw him again.

Lew, sobered by his wife's unusual demonstration, took Buster in his arms and led the way to their Pullman seat. Then when she was calmed down he gave her a rough, friendly pat on the knee and grinned:

"You sure got Meech's goat that time, Red."

"What time?" she asked, now ready to return his smile.

"When you snatched him on the bald spot. He looked just like Romeo. The little sardine's got an awful crush on you."

She wished he hadn't said that. She hated the coarse reference to "crush"—and how could Lew speak that way about the man who was doing so much for him?

Those were the days of low rents, but the price she paid for an apartment on Broadway, finally chosen, was shocking to her—sixty dollars! Their New York home displayed a promise of luxury in its name, which was Her Majesty's Hall.

Jessie was interested in what other newcomers to New York had observed—the lack of neighborhood spirit in the modern apartment house. Here were several hundreds of people, living in their separate shelves like dunes in their cotes, yet they showed little or no curiosity, one or the other. They seldom glanced up when they met in the elevator.

Later she learned that some of the young matrons of Her Majesty's met and gossiped in the babies' parade during fair mornings.

The distasteful place office was almost as far from his upper Broadway home as the Cliff House from Palo Alto—and it was often convenient for him to stay downtown when he had business after dinner.

the wits and celebrities of Manhattan came to sit at round tables talking interminably, ordering food sketchily, going or coming as the whim suited them. Whenever Lew came home late it was with a newer and more glowing tale of the Brevort, his wine, its food, its cultivated society.

He was beginning to use the place as a sort of midway office where he could consort with dealers interested in the things he had to sell. And there was no doubt in the world that Lew was beginning to make a little money.

On Lew's birthday she planned a dinner for him. All the morning she rolled Buster from shop to shop, bargaining for luxuries. She exhausted her skill in the preparation of a coken, and by 6 o'clock the flat was full of pleasant odors.

The jolly-faced clock on the mantel had scarce chimed its six bells than Jessie unwrapped a package and laid Lew's birthday presents ostentatiously on the center table—three magnificent neckties.

At a quarter of 7 she rushed eagerly to answer the door bell, knowing that Lew had lost his key again. To her disappointment, she found it was the superintendent's maid, Mrs. Pfaff, whom she had engaged to watch the baby that evening while she and Lew went to a vaudeville show.

"Mr. Tyler's been delayed down town," said Jessie. "I'll phone down when we're ready."

At 8 o'clock she dished out dinner and placed it in the warming oven. This was not capitulation, but a strategic retreat. She had eaten nothing herself; the needs of her own stomach had never occurred to her. Her appetite would revive, she knew, when Lew came home—and he was often delayed until 9.

She busied herself with sewing. She made futile tours of the apartment, straightening pictures, opening windows and closing them again. Then her mind dwelt on Buster. She and Lew might grow apart. It was possible to think of that now. In her isolation she had learned to rely more and more on her baby for companionship.

Later in the evening Jessie went to her desk and wrote to Meech Garrick. "Dear Meech," she began, and it was easier after that, because she had a feeling of a friend at her elbow, don't think I'm ungrateful, the way I've never thanked you. I can't just say what I feel—not in a letter. But you've meant so much to us. You've put Lew on his feet."

The jolly-faced clock on the mantel struck 10. After she had fed Buster for the night she put Lew's birthday dinner in the icebox and went to bed.

At some vague hour after midnight he came home. Although his every step sounded plainly through the apartment, she lay with her face to the wall, pretending to be asleep. "Red!" he began cautiously as he turned on the lights, his wet shoes creaking nearer and nearer. She did not move or open her eyes until he knows, is he?" cried Jessie. "A baby doctor?"

"No. A ship's doctor."

"This was a statement, not an explanation. 'How old is your baby?' asked young Mrs. Tyler.

"Ten months yesterday afternoon—and believe me, I'll remember that day—"

Jessie had gone over to the white enameled perambulator to peek in at the child who lay asleep, for all the world like a brilliantly painted doll of enormous size.

It was an elaborate baby. Such of its costume as was visible was adorned with loops of ribbon, lace, embroidery. It wore a lace cap, fancifully trimmed with satin rosebuds, and along its waxen brow lay a row of such perfect blond curls as might have graced a Cupid's head. More than anything else the curls attracted Jessie, who never quite forgot her Buster's sparse chicken down.

"What a beautiful little girl!" she exclaimed.

"It's a boy," explained Mrs. Miles, not at all offended by Jessie's mistake. "He's named Michael, after his father. I hate to think of him being called, Mike, don't you? I did so want him to be a girl! I certainly was disappointed. I made girl's clothes for him before he was born, and I'm going to keep him dressed like that just as long as his father's away."

"It must be a wonderful life to be a ship's doctor," Jessie ventured.

"It must be," echoed Mrs. Miles rather indifferently. "Mike's on a ship sailing between here and Copenhagen. He used to be on a Holland-American liner. All I know about the life is that it keeps them away from home most of the time—stays in New York long enough to work up a grrouch, then beats it for Copenhagen. Shouldn't wonder if he had a girl up there."

All this came quite cheerfully from Mrs. Miles' red, rather full-lipped mouth. If she looked upon her Mike without illusion it was also without rancor.

That evening the Tylers dined with Mrs. Miles in the apartment below theirs. Afterward Coleen—they had learned her Christian name almost at once—sang duets with Lew. Her low-pitched voice was good and chimed in beautifully with Lew's. At about 10 Jessie went upstairs to feed the baby. Distantly she could hear the accorded voices, sweetening the air of Her Majesty's Hall. When she returned to the Miles apartment she found them still at it, making a rather handsomely try at Trotatore.

It was nearing 11 o'clock when the Tylers went home. Coleen had robbed the icebox and they had lingered upon her supplication to enjoy crackers and cheese and beer. She had promised to dine with them on the morrow—the invitation had come from Lew.

"If we had two more," he supplemented, "we could play poker."

"Let me bring the Curleys," suggested Coleen. "They're fun!"

"Me for the Curleys," he agreed enthusiastically. "And I'll do a chicken Spanish style," said Jessie.

"And I'll bring up my poker chips—they're a special kind—and a bottle of Swedish punch."

"Well, good night!" cried the happy Tylers.

A little later when they were in their bedroom and preparing for the night Lew chuckled as over an imperishable joke.

"What's the wheeze, old funny?" she asked.

"Not much, old Red. Only I was thinking—what's the use of the Brevort when we have that in our own house?"

"I'm so glad," she sighed, love and gratitude beaming from her eyes. Life was beginning to move again. (Copyright, 1923, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Tomorrow's installment tells how Lew began to come home early and what came of that.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisifted cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisifted will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rises out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Multisifted cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggists gives you Multisifted. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package—Adv.

Keep Out Politics.

If ever a matter came before the Commons at Ottawa that should have right of way over political consideration it was the move for a thorough investigation of Home Bank affairs.

In a debate that commenced shortly after the opening of the House at 3 p.m. and continued until after midnight there was a persistent effort, particularly by Sir Henry Drayton and Hon. Arthur Meighen, to make a political issue of the affair, and to show that the government was acting along lines that would not produce results.

Sir Henry Drayton opened by calling attention to the fact that W. T. J. Lee, who was retained by the depositors, was a Liberal in politics. His inference was that on account of his politics he could make things very easy for the government.

If that were the case, even to the remotest degree, it would brand Mr. Lee as a traitor to the Home Bank depositors whose interests he is serving. The attempt to rake in politics by Sir Henry Drayton was a false piece of very small politics. It was so apparent as to draw from Robert Forke, leader of the Progressives, the rebuke, "Do not get politics into this thing, anyway."

The whole force of Mr. Meighen's remarks was bent on establishing the fact that the government should have proceeded before, and that it should have had all the correspondence in hand. Mr. Meighen overlooked one thing, viz., that much of the wanted correspondence had been in possession of Hon. Mr. White, ex-finance minister, in his private files. Everything from Mr. White's office not marked "private" would, of course, be handed to Sir Henry Drayton, his successor in office.

If Mr. Meighen's contention were right, that the government should have had all the correspondence, Sir Henry should have handed it to Hon. W. S. Fielding when the latter assumed office, but no such documents were ever delivered.

Mr. Meighen admitted in the House that he did not know if Sir Henry Drayton ever received them. With this doubt in his mind, how could he possibly say the present finance minister should have them?

Premier King dealt effectively with the whole matter prior to the division in the House. He stated that requests had been made to the government for a large deposit in the Home Bank a day or so before its collapse. He refused to have anything to do with the suggestion, and gave his pledge that he would appear as a witness before the royal commission and give the names of the men and all the facts as they were presented to him.

Surely nothing could be fairer. His course commends itself at once as square and honorable. Cleaning up the Home Bank wreck is not a political picnic—it is serious business that calls for a non-partisan view.

Mr. Meighen and his desk-mate, Mr. Drayton, should look elsewhere if they desire nothing but a chance to make political capital from an issue that is too big and too serious for that sort of business.

What Council Controls.

Mayor Brown of Stratford, addressing the chamber of commerce on civic affairs, pointed out that the municipal council, in spite of its best efforts, could not control nine mills of the tax rate. He placed the figure at a high mark, and if he produced all his estimates it would be found that controllable expenditure would not be much over half that amount.

In London it is even less than that. The 1924 estimates are being revised to some extent yet, but the 1923 figures serve the purpose for establishing the point.

Interest charges for sewers, Western University, city share of local improvements, fire department, hospital, breakwater, etc., were $211,146.12; sinking fund amounted to $210,632.69. These are obligations that must be met, and they cannot be altered.

Administration of justice at the court house is a matter that the city cannot control. It pays 65 per cent of repairs, 75 per cent of jury costs and 55 per cent for maintenance of prisoners. It paid $1,200 for its share of the construction of a special steel cell. The year's bill was $21,175.

The police department cost $117,000. True the estimates come before council, but the police commission places the number of men and controls the force. It is an expense outside the control of council.

The hospital trust was $144,000 in 1923. The council can cut estimates here, but it must maintain the institution on a good basis. It can be classed as an expenditure almost out of the hands of council, as the obligation is there and must be paid.

Public library by law gets 50 cents per head of population, $26,130. Board of education took $938,145 for debt charges, maintenance and teaching staff. Council cannot regulate this expenditure.

Parks got $35,400, and the law provides that they must be supported. The fire department must be maintained. Last year its bill, including water, was $140,000. The department is under control of the council, but its expense is largely in the nature of a charge that cannot be evaded, and to that extent it is uncontrollable.

Street lighting is much the same, $37,475. Salaries of civic officials and employees, $80,000. Relief and grants to hospitals and sanatoriums, $25,000. These cannot be cut off.

The bill for railway crossing protection, $3,000, is an agreement that must be kept; mothers' pensions is assessed against the city by the government, and our share in 1923 was $21,000. Suburban roads, out of the city's control, took $22,720.

The total of the items enumerated above, almost all of which are uncontrollable, is $2,043,253. The total required to be raised in the tax rate was $2,217,883. The balance is $174,600, or, making allowance for some items that a council might cut regardless of effect, not over three mills can be classed as controllable expenditure.

It is a point not generally appreciated by the ratepayers. The best service a council can perform, looking to the future, is to so administer its affairs that debt charges, which become fixed for a period of years, do not pile up faster than other charges are being matured. It is not a spectacular performance, but a very real service.

Sir Adam's Choice.

The fact that Sir Adam Beck was approached to take the leadership of the U. F. O., or that he even considered the matter seriously, is no reflection upon him.

It was rather a compliment that he should have been considered worthy to lead a new party that came largely from the rural ridings of the country, and which was in need of leadership.

It is well, though, that Sir Adam remained as much as possible out of political leadership. The success of the undertakings at Chippawa has demonstrated the wisdom of the course that caused him to center his activities on a work that he was eminently fitted to handle.

His announcement in the legislature that even at this early stage it is possible to anticipate reductions in power rates is evidence of the thorough methods of engineering that may soon wear out the excess in costs over estimates on the Chippawa project.

Sir Adam might have done very well leading the Progressives, but in the sphere of electrical development he has been able to work out a much greater problem for the people.

Thinking for $10.

A Chicago firm now makes a living writing papers for students on subjects in which they are specializing.

Their circular letters state: "We relieve you of all annoying details. Just tell us the subject, the length of the article required and the credit you will receive for it. Let us do your thinking for you. Give us $10, we'll do the rest."

Of course the thing is rotten right to the core, but the fact that it was thought worth while to bring into effect such a service must have been prompted by the idea that there would be a market for it.

It follows out a tendency that has hurt a lot of people, dwarfed them, and given them a false idea of their own powers. There are too many people willing to give some person $10 to think for them, and it costs them a good many times that to keep on borrowing or buying some other person's thoughts.

The Chicago exploiter who seeks $10 to do the thinking for a student has not hit upon a new thing. He has simply brought to view in a striking way a habit that is old, and as spineless and as poor as it is full of age.

Note and Comment.

A mail clerk in Regina has inherited $5,000,000. The chances are that he'll strike at once without any official notice from his organization.

One shoe dealer says women wear bigger boots than their grandmothers. Simply a question of good arithmetic—they pay more and get more.

U. S. officials can find no trace of a company that failed with figures running up to $34,000,000. If a man owes 34 cents in income tax it's odd how quickly he can be located.

The Jewels Of Hawaii

QUEEN Liliuokalani, the last of the reigning monarchs of Hawaii, who after her island became part of the United States, died mysteriously in San Francisco while on her way home to her beloved island of paradise, owned and wore during her life some of the most wonderful and precious jewels and jewels.

The majority of the crown jewels of the kingdom was an heirloom, but there were also, as is the case with all reigning monarchs, a collection of valuable presents given by other visiting princes and kings. All these will fall under the pebbles hammer of an American auctioneer toward the end of this month, and the splendor of a royal house, once worn by a royal woman of ancient lineage, will probably become the vanity of some beef or iron king's Hollywood wife in the country of the people who stole her sun-kissed islands.

The jewelry has been turned over by Col. Curtis P. Iaukea, trustee of the estate and formerly chamberlain to her majesty, to a local firm of jewelers to be listed, cleaned and arranged for display. The articles are to be shown publicly and then sold to the highest bidder.

The diamond tiara, worn by the queen on state occasions, when Hawaii was a kingdom, is of rare beauty and value, as the stones are all of the finest and most brilliant. There is a gold forehead circlet with five prongs, and attached to each is a diamond sunburst.

The tiara is studded with diamonds, and the crown is studded with pearls. The tiara is a gold forehead circlet with five prongs, and attached to each is a diamond sunburst.

An old-fashioned watch and chain, the latter with a seal of amethysts attached, bears the monogram of John Dominis, prince consort. Diamond sunbursts and brooches of crystal, also of amethyst and sapphire, are among the collection.

Then come many strands of crystal and amber; a white sapphire brooch in an old-fashioned gold setting; a black onyx necklace and a double necklace of cat's eyes, and a tortoise shell cup of finger claws with gold filigree pendants, necklaces of seed pearls, coral and of Hawaiian nuts adorned with gold filigree work, while on others are the crown and coat of arms.

White Collars

There is too much white collar education now. The boys don't want to work hard.—From letter on our school system.

OF course, there's nothin' new in that. Why when Old Noah stood the gaff, the rest was standin' behind the town, and all they'd do was joke and laugh.

Galileo, of ancient fame, sat ponderin' o'er his task at noon; he wanted to take a look and see what happened in the moon, and all the neighbors jumped on him and put his carcass on the ground, because when squintin' he remarked this earth of ours is round.

And when Columbus got a boat and filled it with dried beef and corn, and when he shoved off in the deep of sail away one sunny morn', the folks they laughed at Christopher and figured that his brain was sick, they reckoned Chris was off his dot, an honest full-fledged lunatic.

And likewise when a chap spoke up about an air brake on a train, the folks they sympathized with him, a cog had slipped inside his brain. And so this world goes bumpin' on, a-bittin' high spots now and then, in spite of all the scoffin' of these reckless sort of brainless men.

It doesn't seem to make much odds about the collar on their neck, the difference comes in what they're got a-workin' down below the deck.

So all this talk about the dress it seems to me a lot of rot, for Chris in his time had run his boat with collar on as well as not.

And Old Galileo, bless his name, he's gone to camp among the dead; his think tank would have worked the same, a plug hat settin' on his head.

Begone the dress, the collar, too, unto the man a verse well sing, the man with collar on or off, who goes ahead and does the thing—ARK.

Why the Change?

(F. J. Barrett in the Detroit News.) BOSTON, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Washington, Chicago, St. Louis and Minneapolis—seven important cities recently compiled and authentic police records show a total number of arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct as follows:

1912	228,000
1913	232,000
1914	235,000
1915	238,000
1916	240,000
1917	242,000
1918	244,000
1919	246,000
1920	248,000
1921	250,000
1922	252,000
1923	254,000

Prohibition being the law of the land in 1918, it's effect was immediate and emphatic. The number of arrests in 1920 were only 106,000 against 248,000 in 1917.

Since then, however, the tide has turned and in 1923 there were practically as many arrests for drunkenness as before prohibition.

What, then, shall we say? Is prohibition a failure? No, because first drunkenness and crime did emphatically decrease from 1918 to 1920. Second, other crimes as well as drunkenness are on the increase, there being, we understand, more arrests for all kinds of crime in 1923 than ever before.

They tell us in fact that we are becoming a nation of law breakers—committed in Chicago, that in all England, Scotland and Wales—more automobiles stolen in Washington than in London, and that the number of robberies in the country have increased five fold within the last six years. Surely our trouble is not in either the strength or weakness of prohibition. It is more fundamental. It lies in the character of the people.

Dr. Frank Crane Colloids

ONE of the most interesting branches of modern science is the chemistry of colloids.

Professor Harry Nichols Holmes of Oberlin College recently described some of the latest discoveries in colloid chemistry, and the relation of that branch of science to modern life, in lectures at the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburg. He described colloid chemistry, as the chemistry of grains, drops, bubbles, filaments and films.

The colloid particles are very small indeed, too small to be seen with the best microscope. They are just a little larger than molecules.

They may be dispersed in liquids, solids or gas, or loosely aggregated as in cheese, muscular tissue, cellulose and the like. Roughly speaking, colloid chemistry has to do with gluey or sticky stuff.

Discoveries in this branch of science may be of enormous benefit to mankind in increasing its food supply. Wheat, for instance, has enough of the sticky material called gluten to make good bread to permit the manufacture of a satisfactory, light, porous loaf. Therefore, if the colloid chemist can so change the physical properties of corn, rye and oats so that they will stretch out like the best wheat, he will add untold wealth to the world and do much toward checking famines.

THERE is a good deal of waste in coal. If the coal dust is made colloidal, it can be used in a fluid and sprayed like fuel oil and burned under boilers. This colloidal fuel would be excellent for ships because the fire hazard is less than that of oil.

Dr. Holmes also showed that new processes of this branch of science might be utilized for de-inking old newspapers so that the pulp can be worked over into fresh paper.

The matter is also interesting to the wood industry. Large timbers are becoming scarcer and we are forced to use timbers built up from smaller pieces. The glues we now use greatly limit the period of usefulness of glue to woods. They weaken too soon, for all glues are colloids mixed with water and when they dry they tend to take up moisture from the air and thus weaken. To change these glues so they will not re-hydrate after drying, and yet will retain their adhesive power, is a problem of great importance.

All of this illustrates the enormous value which investigations in the chemist's laboratory have in commerce, manufacture and the everyday affairs of life.

To the Editor

Stringent Law Needed.

Cobalt Broker Points to the Need of Action In Order to Protect the Public.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Proposals made to the Ontario Legislature that a closer inspection of the operations of established brokers be provided has many features to recommend the movement in the best interests of the public welfare.

Facing facts during the past few years and accentuated within the past few months, it is apparent to all who read that there exists a dangerous menace to public confidence and safety of investment in current securities dealt in upon our stock and security exchanges.

It would appear that lobbying by brokers has pulled our legislators into a constant condition of their sticky platitudes are apparently swallowed with the gullibility of the vast confidence victims.

Brief respectation reminds us that recent misadventures with established brokerage concerns were largely responsible for the failure of the now defunct Merchants Bank, and liquidator Clarkson significantly points out the fact that the venture of one very well-known Toronto broker involved the Home Bank for over $1,000,000, all of which, in Mr. Clarkson's opinion, is a total loss to the creditors of the Home Bank. Would such a broker obtain a license?

When brokers can go on handling funds and investments for the public after being so largely responsible for bank failures, without any form of inspection or protection of public trust, calls for more drastic action than merely furnishing them with a license to carry on.

Due to the dangerous practices of trading on margins and pyramiding with essential deposits of cash and sound securities, it is safe to say that there is held in the hands of the brokers of this province more real value than the total issued currency of the country. The practice in vogue of trading upon margins has, in the past, led to the vicious practice of bucketing—it is safe to assume that we are not outside this dangerous feature. The fact that our brokers seem concerned only in keeping prices of stocks down, and are resorting to selling stock, being paid for in full in cash, without producing the certificates for weeks or a month afterwards, indicate the dangerous position into which our brokers have worked themselves.

So long as the general market list remains dormant, the brokers are safe for the time being, but with the progress being made, more especially in mining development, the time must come when material intrinsic values of securities will become appreciated and public demand create higher levels. When this situation arrives, the public has a right to know that brokers licensed by our government are solvent, and are prepared to deliver certificates promptly in turn for their cash, and not respecting cash sales alone, but profits made from existing marginal holdings also, instead of closed doors of "bucket shops." It is up to any new legislation enacted to provide such inspection as will insure and guarantee that such solvency exists, or at least indicate when it is absent before issuing proposed licenses.

SARNIA GIRL ON TRIAL FOR DETROIT MURDER

Second Trial of Evelyn Stalker Opens in Border Court Today.

Associated Press Despatch.

Detroit, Mich., April 3.—Evelyn Stalker, former Sarnia girl, comes up for trial here today. She is charged with the murder of her chum and room-mate, Babe Eldler, with whom she had been living since leaving her home in Sarnia.

The murder occurred over a year ago, and this is the second trial. The jury disagreed on the first trial, which took place six months ago. The ten months the girl has spent in jail here have changed her attitude toward life. She says she has been happier during her prison term than she was during the time that preceded her arrest and first trial for murder.

ANGLO-AMERICAN ROW OVER CONSULATE ENDED

British Government Withdraws Its Charge and Consulate Will Be Reopened.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, April 3.—The dispute of more than a year's standing between the American and British governments over the subject of the American consulate at Newcastle-on-Tyne has been settled and the consulate will be re-opened forthwith.

This was officially made known last night with publication of correspondence between Prime Minister MacDonald and United States Ambassador Kellogg, showing that the British government had withdrawn its charge of undue activity by the former consulate officers in favor of the American steamship lines to the detriment of British interests.

The letters exchanged by the premier and both before yesterday's date. The one from Mr. MacDonald said merely that the British government was not prepared to insist upon the charge, and that it had, therefore, been recalled. Mr. Kellogg, in reply, informed the premier that the consulate would be re-opened and that Charles Roy Smith had been appointed consul.

Feeling Old At Forty

You Can Regain Your Vitality By Building Up Your Blood.

Middle age comes too soon if you let the cares of life exhaust your blood, leaving you tired and worn. Women, especially, are apt to neglect their health. All their anxiety is usually for other people. Household consumes their vitality. They become middle-aged too soon and suffer in the process, merely because their blood is exhausted.

Not so the woman who realizes that the real unselfishness is to preserve her youth as long as she can. She does not cause anxiety to those who love her by being ill, or by always having headaches or backaches, or a pain in her side. Her blood is kept in good order—rich, red and pure; she is cheerful and active.

The vitality and youthfulness that abundance of good blood gives can all be yours if you take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will soon feel the new blood tingling in your veins; your headaches and backaches will go; your appetite will improve; you will be happy yourself and give happiness to others. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Adv.

HOUSE UPHOLDS WARTIME DEATH PENALTY CLAUSE

Army Bill Amendments Passed in Spite of Secretary of War's Plea.

DEFEAT EVADED

Associated Press Despatch.

London, April 3.—The House of Commons rose at 5:20 o'clock this morning after sitting all night, discussing the army and air force annual bill, to which the extremists proposed several amendments.

The secretary of war, Stephen Walsh, stated at the outset that, in view of the big changes which the amendments suggested, the government was unable to accept any of them, but he promised that the army council and representatives of the armed forces would investigate all the questions raised. He hoped, therefore, that the amendments would not be moved.

This brought protests from the sponsors of the changes, who refused to abandon their proposals, and the amendments were accordingly moved successively.

One sought to abolish the death penalty for desertion, cowardice and similar offences in war time. After lengthy debate, it was rejected by a vote of 239 to 120. The next amendment, giving a condemned soldier the right of appeal to a civil court, was lost, 193 to 120.

Rejected, 236 to 67. Another proposal, that upon enlistment a soldier be given the option to refuse duty if called upon to aid the civil power in connection with a trade dispute, was rejected, 236 to 67.

Repeated efforts to postpone the debate failed, the government declaring that no other time was available before Easter for completion of the committee stage of the bill.

Miss Margaret Bondfield, Miss Dorothy Jewson and Lady Terrington, lady members, stuck to their posts throughout the session. The government evaded otherwise inevitable defeat in connection with the rent bill by consenting to revision of the clause, objected to by both the Liberals and Conservatives, providing that a tenant should not be liable to eviction for non-payment of rent, when such failure to pay was due to inability to obtain employment.

Unemployed Problem. The government announced that it was prepared to substitute a clause, throwing the cost of maintaining the poor unemployed workers upon the public. Further discussion was postponed, pending decision as to whether the bill should be charged or substituted entirely.

The house also rejected the policy of a capital levy, which was the chief Labor plank in the last election, by a vote of 325 to 160. Action came on a Conservative motion, designed to force the premier to define its attitude on the question. John Robert Clynes, government leader in the House of Commons, admitted that the Laborites could not hope for the passage of such a measure in the present parliament, but maintained that the country would ultimately be forced to it by its crushing burden of debt.

That "Kruschen" Feeling

Here's the dear old boy again—just brimming over with high spirits and sheer joy of living.

He gets up every morning feeling that he could do the staircase in one. He greets the day with a smile, and his friends with the hearty hand-clasp of real good-fellowship.

He is welcome wherever he goes—no one can resist his cheery way of always looking on the bright side of things.

Do you feel like this? If not, there's something wrong. You think it's your nature. It isn't—it's your health.

Just consider. You are probably getting too little fresh air and exercise—perhaps you spend too much time sitting over your daily tasks, and, as a result, you get run down with worry, overwork or errors of diet. Consequently, you need a corrective. You need Kruschen Salts. Kruschen contains just the six salts, blended in just the right proportion, that are essential to keep you in continual good health. Under their tonic influence the liver and kidneys eliminate all waste matter. Your whole body is braced and revived.

The dose is only "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," and you can't taste it in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. A 75c bottle contains 160 morning "pinches"—good health and youthful spirits for less than half a cent a day.

Fight Card Here Postponed :-: Juvenile Baseball Loop Launched

ONTARIO OFFICIALS REFUSE TO SANCTION SHOW TUESDAY

Claim Card Might Interfere With Provincial Championship Events.

GARRISON PUZZLED

Local Men State None of Boxers Lined Up Intend Going To Toronto.

Following advice from the Ontario branch, A. A. U. of C. in Toronto last night, officials of the London Garrison Amateur Athletic Association announce that the proposed card for the local armories next Tuesday night would have to be postponed. The A. A. U. of C. officials stated that they would not sanction the show, on the grounds that the Ontario championships are scheduled to be staged in Toronto next Thursday and Friday.

It was the intention of the local Garrison A. A. U. officials to devote the proceeds of this show to a testimonial to be given Tommy Wallace, whose instructions in boxing have brought more than one district midget-singer into the limelight in amateur circles.

Now, however, since the solons in the Queen City have said "Nothing doing just yet," the local men will be forced to call the card off until a later date. This they regret doing, as the boxing season is pretty well through hereabouts, and even a postponement of a week or two may work havoc with making a success of the affair.

Garrison officials stated last night that none of the boxers billed to appear here Tuesday were going to the Ontario championships anyway, and because of this, they were more than puzzled with the refusal of the Queen City officials to sanction the card.

PETROLIA TO HAVE MIDGET LACROSSE

Planning To Enter a Juvenile Team in the O. A. L. A.

Special to The Advertiser. Petrolia, April 2.—At a meeting of the lacrosse fans in the council chamber Monday it was unanimously decided to enter a midget team, and probably a juvenile team, in the O. A. L. A. this year. It was thought advisable to enter the two junior teams before attempting faster company, so as to develop the youngsters so that before long a junior team will be formed.

This is the second year of the lacrosse revival here after many years of idleness. Pete Zimmerman, who hails from Hanover, organized a midget team last year that entered the semi-finals. Nearly all of last year's team is available, and Zimmerman predicts a championship.

Efforts will be made to have a midget town lacrosse league formed, and plans are now under way for this league.

If enough interest is shown by the juveniles, it is likely a juvenile team will be organized and will be grouped with Sarnia.

The following officers were elected: Honorary presidents, Dr. Smith, Dr. C. O. Fairbank; president, Allan Campbell; vice-president, H. Simpson; secretary, Ronald Prevett; treasurer, Kirk Evans; coach and manager, Pete Zimmerman.

THE OVER 100 YEARS MAKING SHOES FOR MEN

Russ McAllister Leaving Sarnia

Special to The Advertiser. Sarnia, April 2.—Russell McAllister, star goal-tender for the Sarnia Hockey Club for several years past, and goal-tender and center player for the Sarnia Lacrosse team since the national game staged its come-back in this city, has been transferred to Toronto by the Imperial Oil Co. and will be lost to both these Sarnia sports.

Rated as one of the best net guardians in amateur hockey, McAllister should have little difficulty in taking any of the Toronto senior outfits, and his speed on the lacrosse field should stand him in good stead in the Queen City this summer if he tries for any of the teams in that city. His going will leave a gap in the hockey ranks here that will be mighty hard to fill.

RUGBY TROPHY GIVEN WOSSA CHAMPIONS

Petrolia High School Football and Hockey Teams Honored At Banquet.

Special to The Advertiser. Petrolia, April 2.—The local high school Wossa rugby champions and the Lambton High School hockey champions were honored at a banquet in the Fletcher House last night. Dr. George Smith of London, secretary of the Wossa, was the main speaker, and gave an interesting address on "The History of Sport." He informed the high school that the Wossa would have charge of the interscholastic rugby series and that a junior series would be formed. He stated that Owen Sound and Hamilton Collegiate were anxious to enter the Wossa, but thought this was impossible.

The presentation of the Moncrieff trophy by G. G. Moncrieff proved the main event of the evening. Captain B. Churchill accepted the trophy on behalf of the rugby team. The trophy cup, donated by the principals of Petrolia and Watford High Schools, was presented by Mayor Drummond. Captain Ralph Boyes accepted it on behalf of the hockey team.

Principal McKelcan acted as chairman, and congratulated both teams on their success. Coach "Connie" Pat reviewed some of the incidents of last year's rugby season. Other speeches were given by R. Kirkpatrick of the board of education, former chairman Walter McDonald, and F. H. Gilroy. Community singing was led by F. H. Gilroy.

The banquet brought to a close the most successful year the school has ever had in sport.

LEWIS RETAINS TITLE

St. Louis, Mo., April 2.—Ed Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion, retained his title last night by winning the semi-finals. Nearly all of last year's team is available, and Zimmerman predicts a championship.

M'PHEE THROWS FOR ONE INNING

Phillies Get One Hit Off St. Thomas Southpaw—Emslie Umpires.

Clearwater, Fla., April 2.—The Robins were helpless before three Philadelphia pitchers here this afternoon and made only one lone single. The Phillies walked off with the game by a score of 4 to 0.

Jimmie Ring pitched the first four rounds for the Phillies, and in the second inning Jack Fournier bounced a single through the box and the blow proved to be the Robins' only hit of the contest. Whitey Carlson succeeded Ring and twirled three rounds and Charles Mitchell, a former Robin pitcher, served the last two. The Robins did not get a man to second base until the ninth inning when Johnston walked with one out and was allowed to trot to second unmolested. Wheat then drew another pass, but Fournier fanned, and Hargreaves, who batted for Griffith, was an easy out, Johnston never got as far as third.

Leo Dickerman, Art Decatur and Dan McPhee worked for the Robins, and Dickerman, who pitched the first five sessions, was found for six of the seven hits made by the Phillies. All the runs of the contest were scored against him. Decatur pitched three runless rounds, and in the ninth Ford made a single off McPhee's southpaw shoots.

Dickerman allowed only two hits in the first three chapters, but in the fourth the tall right-hander wobbled and one of long Leo's shoots and Williams strutted his stuff in the fifth and the Phillies increased their lead. Helgeth drew a pass and Moka sacrificed. Long Cy then connected with one of long Leo's shoots and sent the ball over the right field fence for a home run, scoring Helgeth ahead of him.

The hit made by Fournier started the Robins off in the second frame, but Griffith followed with a grounder to Ring, who started a double play. Klugman then walked, but High fled to Powell.

L.A.A.A. QUINTET IN TOP FORM FOR CRUCIAL TEST SATURDAY

Local Girls Confident of Maintaining Three-Point Lead Over Y. W. H. A. and Bringing Title To London.

L. A. A. A. girls, with a three-point lead to their credit in the race for the Ontario ladies' cage title, will journey to Toronto Saturday to take on the Queen City Y. W. H. A. in the final semi-finals contest that will decide who will meet the Toronto-Hamilton winners for the title and the right to play Edmonton for the Dominion championship.

The Toronto Y. W. H. A. quintet put up a real game here last Saturday, and kept the locals humping to establish a three-point lead, and it's by no means a comfortable one either, for three points does not mean much to a team that has everything to win and nothing to lose.

The L. A. A. A. in their great game against the giant Warren Elks last three weeks ago showed vast improvement, and furthered this in the 2 to 9 defeat of the Toronto ladies' league champion Saturday. They should show much more improvement, for they have been drilling constantly since their last performance, and are taking the next game seriously. They realize that they have the lead, but all the same, they will not deter them from going at it with a vengeance right from the opening whistle.

The Y. W. H. A. is a powerful and colorful quintet. Bobby Rosenfeld is considered the best girl athlete ever developed in Canada, and leads her playmates with a go-and-get-it spirit that plays havoc with any team that shows a weakness of any kind.

Saturday's mix will be the second time the locals will have played under the referee-umpire system, but this should be no detriment, for they got used to it in the first mix in which this system was used, and in fact, they claim that it seems to help a bit.

This will be the first year that the provincial championship has been decided by an elimination including every prominent girls' team in Ontario, and because of this, the five that is finally victorious will be the champion of the province. The girls of the L. A. A. A. are confident of maintaining their three-point lead over the Y. W. H. A. and bringing the title to London.

A. T. Taylor of this city and S. Mills of Toronto, the officials who handled the game so satisfactorily last Saturday, will again be blowing the whistle.

3: off Mitchell, 0 in 2; off McPhee, 1 in 1. Wild pitch—Dickerman. Umpires—Emslie and Hubbell.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, April 2.—Mike McGue, world's light heavyweight champion, is suffering from an injured left hand and arm as a result of his match Monday with Young Stribling, Georgia schoolboy, at Newark, it became known today.

McGue's arm is swollen twice its normal size, and there is evidence of a possible fracture of the hand, according to Dr. S. L. Meylackson, who examined the titleholder. According to Paddy Mullins, manager of McGue, the injury occurred in the sixth round of the bout, in which Stribling was a decisive victor.

Last night Askin Elks took the Church Basketball League championship when they walked away from St. Andrews to the tune of 32-10, making this their fifth consecutive win with no losses. On the same bill, First Methodists made sure of second place by defeating All Saints 34-18. A third tilt was scheduled between Latter Day Saints and Cronyn Memorial, but the former defaulted to the Willah street cagers. In the first game of the evening, First Methodists had things pretty much their own way throughout, the score at half-time reading 17 to 7.

LABORITES SAVED FROM DEFEAT ON RENTS MEASUREConsent To Revision of Clause Providing For Unemployed.LIBERALS OPPOSEAssociated Press Despatch.
London, April 2.—The government evaded an otherwise inevitable defeat in the House of Commons tonight in connection with the rents bill which came up for its second reading by consenting to a revision of the objectionable clause providing for non-eviction of a tenant if he was unemployed.

The Liberal Party held a meeting during the course of the day to consider what action it should take on this question, and H. H. Asquith, the Liberal leader, announced in the House tonight that unless this clause was eliminated, he would be compelled to vote against the second reading of the bill. This ultimatum meant that both the Conservatives and Liberals would oppose the measure, and therefore the ministry would be defeated.

The opponents of the bill did not mince words in denouncing it. Neville Chamberlain, former minister of health and former chancellor of the exchequer, for instance, said he would not call the bill Socialism—it was revolution itself, by which self-constituted autocrats visited their personal vengeance on their enemies. This was aimed at the Clydesdale section of the Labor party's extreme left wing, which strongly sponsored the measure.

Faced by this dilemma, John Robert Clynes, as leader of the House, announced that the government had no intention of receding from the aim of the bill to make secure in his home the poor unemployed workman, but since the House was opposed to the method suggested, the government was prepared to substitute for the objectionable clause another, throwing upon the public funds the cost of maintaining these unfortunate people. Some discussion ensued upon whether the necessary change should be made in the existing bill or whether a new bill was necessary. This being a difficult point to decide, further discussion of the bill was postponed. This postponement is welcome to both the ministerial and Liberal parties, so they may consider future action. The Conservatives are expected equally to oppose Mr. Clynes' latest suggestion, but it is understood that the ministers are fully decided not to make the question one of confidence, whatever course is adopted.

ONLY TWO BANDITS
ARE NOW MISSING*Montreal Police Identify $6,000 Found On Suspects As Part of Loot.Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, April 2.—With the statement tonight by the police that the $6,000 found on the persons of suspects arrested in a St. Henri boarding-house here last night, has been definitely identified as part of the $142,000 stolen from the Bank of Hochelaga collection automobile yesterday afternoon, local detectives believe that only two members of the bandit gang are now missing. They say that these are the men seen at St. Martin's junction, near Terrebonne, early this morning.

The dead bandit, Harry Stone, was, according to police records, arrested 14 times under 12 aliases in Canada and the United States. It is understood he was linked with one of the largest drug traffickers, who left Montreal some time ago to organize a "service" in Belgium and Germany that would insure a continuous supply of narcotics for the Dominion.

Ottawa, April 2.—An immediate and substantial all-round reduction in the tariff was requested by a delegation from the Canadian Council of Agriculture, which met Premier King and practically all members of the cabinet today. The request for tariff reduction was voiced by Secretary Ward of the council, who expressed satisfaction at the "promise" contained in a speech from the throne of a reduction in the tariff on implements of production.
"Such a reduction is not sufficient to satisfy justice," said Mr. Ward. "The tariff on implements of production should be abolished. Canadian manufacturers can compete in the markets of the world with manufacturers of other countries."PRESSING CLAIMS

Ottawa, April 2.—Diversion of water from Lake Michigan by the Chicago drainage commission was discussed in the Senate today. Answering a question by Senator David, Senator Dandurand, government leader, said that there was agreement between Canada and the United States on the question. His opinion was that the enlarged engineering commission which is to consider the St. Lawrence deep waterway project will have for a "very first duty" a consideration of water levels, and of necessity it will have to discover the effect of the diversion of water by the Chicago drainage canal.ASK FREIGHT RATE

Toronto, April 2.—The agricultural committee of the legislature this morning heard representatives of the Eastern Canada Live Stock Union present their case for a 25 per cent reduction in freight rates on feeder cattle shipped from stockyards to country points and for a minimum rate on mixed carloads of livestock. The committee decided that the matter be referred to the special committee on agriculture, which is to be appointed. This committee will be asked to support the livestock union in its request for a lower freight rate. J. Duff Brien of Ridgeway, C. W. Gurney of Paris, and Prof. J. A. Leitch of the O. A. C. were the chief speakers. J. F. Callan, Labor member, took exception to the remark that high wages to railway employees was responsible for the high freight rates.NORTHCLIFFE CASE and Directors.Associated Press Despatch.

London, April 2.—The Northcliffe will case, in which fifty lawyers are engaged, was opened today before Justice Russell in the chancery division for the settlement and construction of certain clauses of the will of the late newspaper publisher. The case was instituted for the reason that difficulties had arisen as to whether the directors and employees were entitled to the legacies left them by Lord Northcliffe, and also as to the fund to which they were to look for payment.
In an early stage of the proceedings the justice ruled against the claims of the directors of the Amalgamated Press and Associated Newspapers toThe

Make Your Youngster the Happiest in Town*EVERY real boy or girl who hasn't a bicycle wants one.If your boy hasn't one he must feel pretty blue to be left behind when his chums ride gayly off to a picnic, or to play ball on the commons a mile or so away, or for a jaunt in the country with the Boy Scouts.Far better for him to be out riding than loitering on a street corner.Cycling is one of the cleanest of sports and healthiest of exercises.
The pleasure and benefits your boy will receive from riding with the Scouts, or with any of the other organizations active in promoting a standard of clean, manly boyhood in Canada, will repay, many times over, the small cost of a C.C.M.
Bicycle.Just think of the whoop of joy your boy would let out tonight if you told him you were going to get him a bicycle. When you take him down to the C.C.M. dealer's to pick it out he will be the happiest boy in town.Every C.C.M. Bicycle is a bear for punishment. It will stand upunder the hardest usage a healthy boy will give it. The frames of reinforced English Seamless Tubing are marvels of strength. The bearings are of flint-hard steel of extreme accuracy. The rims of second growth hard maple are exceptionally durable. The lustrous enameling and bright nickeling are weather-proof.The boys' and girls' models, as well as adults, are equipped with the famous Triplex Crank Hanger, that makes pedalling so easy, and with the C.C.M. Hercules Brake that coasts so freely and stops so quickly.There's a model for your boy whatever his age—including the Curved Bar model, the bicycle the boy won't outgrow, and a dashing Sport Model for the older boys and adults. Also neat, trim models for girls. C.C.M.s are $15 to $20 less than the "peak" prices. A Big Dollar's Value for every dollar you invest in a C.C.M.Take your boy or your girl with you to the C.C.M. dealer's. Get the bicycle now and let him enjoy a whole long season's pleasure. You can

FRENCH CABINET TO HEAR REPORT COVERING RUHR

Information Sought Is Intended To Support Contentions of the Premier.

MAJORITY VOTE LIKELY

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, April 3.—The cabinet met this morning under the chairmanship of President Millerand, its principal business being to hear the report of M. Le Troquer, minister of public works, on his visit yesterday to the Ruhr.

It is understood that M. Le Troquer presented statistical information designed to support Premier Poincaré's statements in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday relative to the gratifying receipts from the Ruhr, the minister's figures in this respect being even greater than those given by the premier.

It is understood that M. Poincaré also gave the cabinet an outline of the further presentation of the new government's case which he is making this afternoon before the Chamber of Deputies. The premier is getting only a lukewarm reception from the chamber, although it is generally conceded that he will have a comfortable majority when the vote is taken. The number of the newspapers which supported the previous ministry comment favorably today on the premier's speech in the chamber yesterday. A number of the opposition papers, however, are sharpening their criticism of the new government.

At 80 Years of Age Was Troubled With Shortness of Breath Palpitation of the Heart and Fainting Spells

Mrs. M. O'Connor, Whitestone, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled, most of my life, with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and fainting spells. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and at once found relief, and I have never had a really bad spell since."

"I am 80 years of age and always keep them in the house, and when I feel any symptoms of my old trouble coming on all I have to do is to take a few doses. With the help of your Pills I expect to see many years yet. I always recommend them to any one who is suffering from heart trouble."

In Canada's Parliament

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, April 3.—Government business will be considered in the House of Commons.

Yesterday in the Senate:
The diversion of waters from Lake Michigan by the Chicago drainage canal was discussed. Senator Dandurand expressed the opinion that Canada would conclude an agreement regarding the St. Lawrence waterways only if lake levels were guaranteed.

In the House of Commons:
The prime minister reviewed negotiations between Canada and the imperial government regarding the Lausanne conference. It was stated that Canada claims the right to discuss in parliament the extent of its obligations in respect to any treaty which may be made with Turkey by the European governments.

A resolution introduced by W. C. Good (Progressive, Brant), proposing that "the Dominion elections act be so amended as to use the transferable vote to secure, as far as possible, the proportional representation in such multi-membered constituencies as may be provided for in the next redistribution." The debate on the resolution was adjourned.

TRUCK DRIVER WARNED TO KEEP OFF THE GRASS

Contributes Court Costs Following Complaint of Richmond Street Resident.

Complaints from residents that Frank Dixon had wilfully driven his truck over sidewalks and lawns resulted in his appearance at police court this morning, charged with damaging property.

The specific charge was that he had run his truck on a private sidewalk and made deep ruts on the lawn of a Richmond street householder. Chief Robert Birrell said many protests had been received regarding similar actions on the part of Dixon in the past.

The defendant volunteered to make good all damage, and the court let him off on payment of costs.

"If you appear again on such a charge you will be fined $10 and costs," Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon warned.

WATFORD LAD IS ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

Operation on H. Atkin To Remove Coin One of the Most Delicate Performed Here.

Harold Atkin, the five-year-old Watford boy who had a large Canadian coin removed from his throat at Victoria Hospital on Tuesday by Drs. John Hunt and William Babb after a two-hour operation, left for his home yesterday in company with his parents.

The child was at first removed to Petrolia, where an X-ray was taken, but the physicians ordered him removed to London at once. The operation was one of the most delicate of its kind that has been performed in London.

Yesterday In Ontario's Legislature

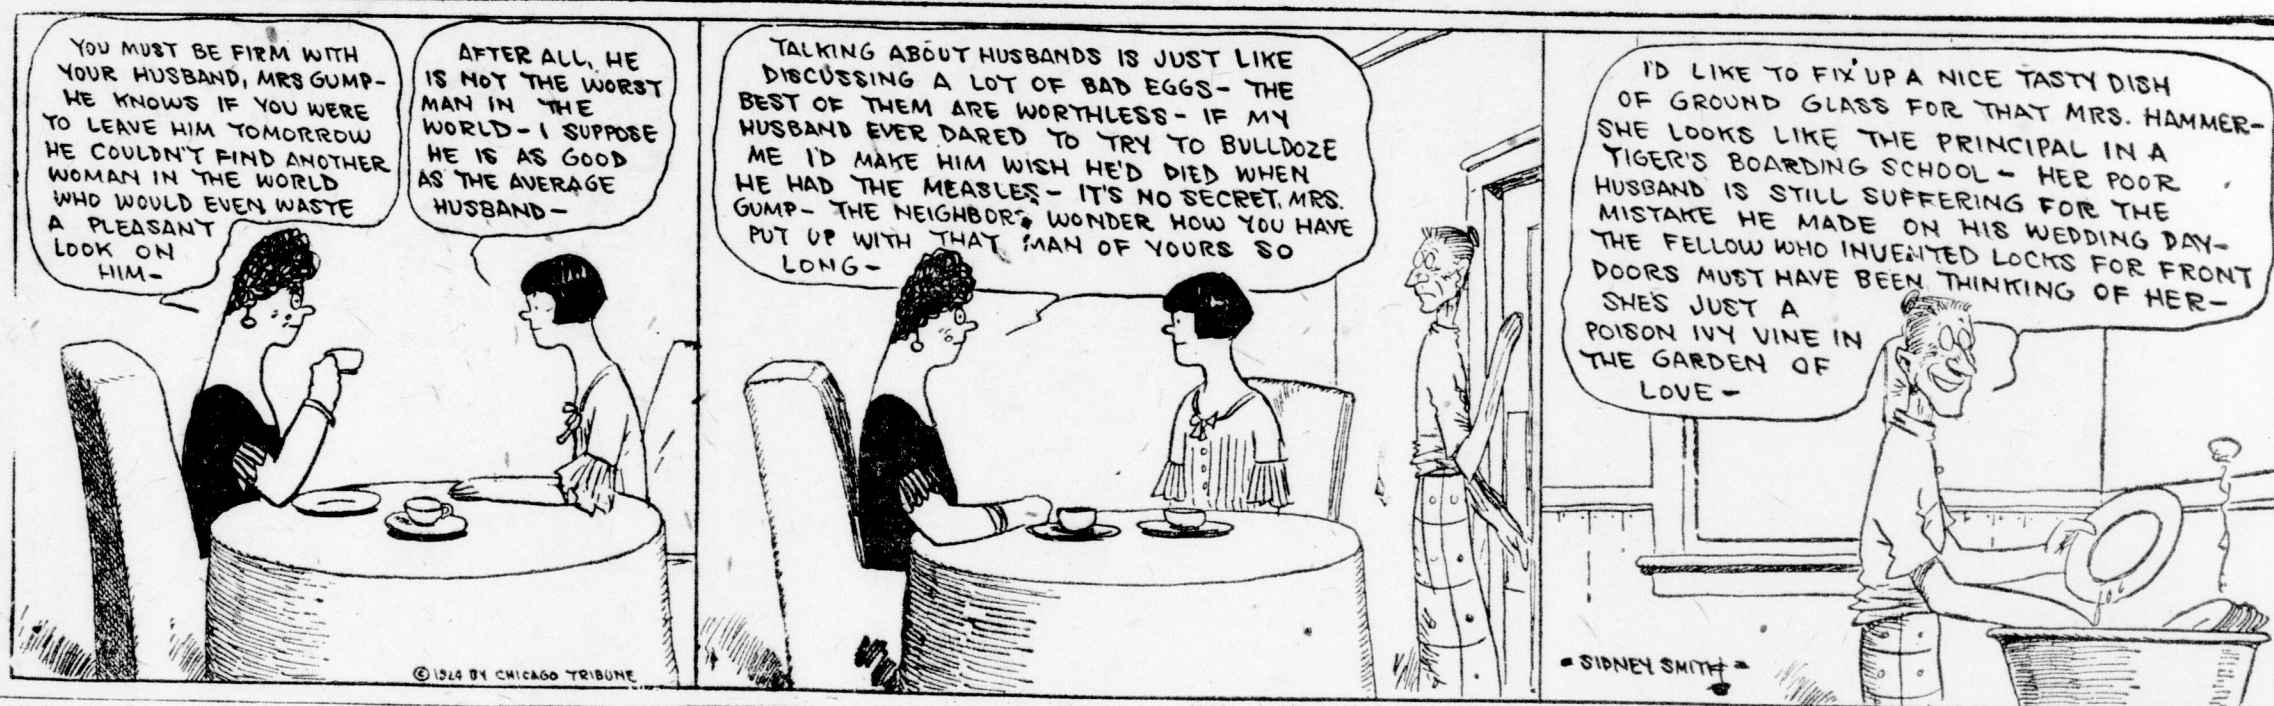

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, April 3.—When estimates of the department of agriculture were under consideration, Hon. J. S. Martin declared that in every branch of the agricultural industry Ontario led the other provinces in the Dominion. E. P. Teller (North Essex) withdrew a bill by which the Township of Rochester would receive confirmation of an agreement with a gas company. Government legislation to be introduced will replace all municipalities under the jurisdiction of the gas commission.

Mr. Teller also opposed a bill giving the Consolidated Essex Border Utilities Commission the right to prepare plans for sewers and subdivisions for border municipalities. He was informed that he might move an amendment when the bill was under consideration in committee.

RECEIVE S. O. S. CALL.

ONE SCHOOL IS FEASIBLE

Willing To Discuss Project With Trustees At Next Meeting.

McCALLUM CASE OVER

Aldermen Postpone Action On Relief Inspector's Suspend-tion, Despite Objections.

WHAT WAS DONE.

Reopened the secondary school question with favorable regard for one high school.

Refused to consider suspension of Relief Inspector City Hall owing to his non-attendance through illness.

Authorized the public utilities commission to issue debentures, $365,000.

Deferred consideration of the "huckster" and other market by-laws.

Received a bid from the public utilities commission, $1,100 for the sale of the old registry office.

Accepted offer of $300 for Marshall street property.

Directed City Treasurer James
Bell to list all vacant city land, exclusive of Federal Square, for a prospective sale.

Approved of the I. O. D. E. campaign to set Sunday, June 15, as National Decoration Day.

Requested report as to why the 1922 city audit has not been completed.

Invited board of education to send delegation to next regular session to open negotiations about high schools.

Filed letter from T. D. McCullough, secretary of Social Service Council, with respect to latter's comment about aldermen.

Wished Mayor Wenige good luck on his trip to Toronto today respecting street railway payments. Suggested that he see the premier about schools at same time.

Ald. Leonard Douglass was alone at last night's session of the finance committee of the city council in his move to consider the proposed reinstatement of Relief Inspector J. W.
McCallum, recently suspended by Mayor Wenige.

Chairman Douglass reported that Inspector McCallum was seriously ill at home but recommended that they proceed with the scheduled investigation of his department, in view of the mayor's charges of neglected duty.

When the committee voted solidly against this proposal and in support of Mayor Wenige's amendment to leave the issue in abeyance until the inspector's return, Chairman Douglass voiced the frank opinion that their act was "the most rotten thing that ever occurred in view of the inspector's age, long service, and his illness while under suspension."

Ald. Douglass went as far as to venture the observation that the inspector's present ill-health might be due to his suspension. Every other member of the committee adopted the view, however, that it would not be fair to the inspector if they proceeded to investigate the charges without giving him a chance. They reminded that the contemplated inquiry had, in fact, been postponed from a previous meeting and the inspector had left the city following his suspension.

Mayor Differs.

Mayor Wenige and Chairman Douglass were at decided variance in their opinion respecting the present administration of the relief department. Ald. Douglass maintaining that satisfactory results could not be expected indefinitely, while Sanitary Inspector Sanders was compelled to act also as the relief inspector. If it was possible to do it in this instance, there must be one man too many in the first place.

Mayor Wenige essayed the opinion that such was the case and promised to move for an amalgamation of two duties. Ald. Anderson wanted to know if any written complaints about the inspector had yet been filed, and incidentally chided Ald.
Douglass, who had, he recalled, asked for an adjournment at the last meeting until the inspector was present.

Call Special Meeting.

Elements Spare
Two Fishermen

Associated Press Despatch.

Atlantic City, N.J., April 2.—

After having been marooned at sea in a small open boat during the 70-mile gale that raged off the coast last night, two resort fishermen were discovered in a semiconscious condition lying in the bottom of their craft, which had been washed ashore at 9 o'clock this morning.

With the craft half-filled with water, the engine became disabled and they were forced to spend the night bailing out the water.

When discovered by coastguards the men, Thomas McGovern and Taylor Ellison, were so weakened by exposure that it was necessary to take them to the Atlantic City Hospital.

that he call a special session just as soon as the inspector would be able to appear.

The committee appeared quite favorably inclined toward the proposal to find some sort of secondary school accommodation, the ways and means to be definitely discussed at the next regular session, when representatives of the school board will be asked to attend to open negotiations.

City Treasurer Bell, questioned with regard to the mayor's proposal that the city council authorize a certain expenditure for that purpose, summarily gave assurance that such procedure would be perfectly legal.
It is feared, however, that the situation is not quite understood in all quarters and the entire problem was left over for the next meeting. It was quite evident, however, that the committee is favorably inclined toward action.

Outlining his plan, Mayor Wenige referred to recent references from Sir Adam Beck and Ald. John Greer.
"First I was a pinhead and now I am a jellyfish," he asserted. "I don't mind those attacks. I must consider where they come from."

Never Opposed Schools.

"I want to clear up a certain misunderstanding. I was never opposed to schools. I said that I would support them if the tax rate was down. It is down and I see possibilities. Personally I am opposed to the unit system of schools. I can't dictate to the school board, but that is my objection."

"But the unit system is established," suggested Ald. Douglass.

"No," was the vehement contradiction from Ald. Edwin Smith, ex-chairman of the board of education.
"The provincial department of education refused to recognize any but the Central Collegiate Institute. Principal McKim is the head of the secondary education branch."

"I can't understand why they built the central so small," complained Ald.
Douglass.

"Forced issue," explained Ald.
Smith.

An unofficial communication from Trustees Bryden Campbell and Dr.
Grant was read, suggesting a $275-000 debenture issue for one school, and after quite a discussion it was decided to invite them or their colleagues to the next session.

P. U. C. Debentures.

P. U. C. debenture issues of $365-000 were authorized; $210,000 ascribed to lands, buildings, sub-stations, street lighting, extensions and other equipment, and $155,000 for water mains, etc. There was no opposition.

The proposed survey of the market bylaws was given another boost, although Ald. Smith suggested that they suspend them all in the meanwhile.

City Treasurer Bell was asked to bring in a report as to what lack of information was halting the completion of the 1922 audit.

The committee supports the I. O. D.
E. request that all communities held their moral weight to have June 15 set aside as a national decoration day.

Property on Marshall street will be offered for $300, while the old registry office was made up of the Highland Light Infantry of Canada. With the promotion goes the rank of colonel.

Orders also announce the promotion of Major G. H. Wilkinson to lieutenant-colonel. He will take command of the Essex Fusiliers.

LABOR COUNCILS
PASS RESOLUTION FOR OSTEOPATHS

Dr. E. S. Detwiler Appeals To Trades Union To Better Drug-less Physicians' Standing

TYPOGRAPHERS MEET

Dr. E. S. Detwiler, representing the osteopath physicians of the city and Ontario, laid before the members of the London Trades and Labor Council and Typographical Union the resolutions under which osteopath physicians were practicing in Canada.
He stated that, although they studied the same course as that of medical schools with the exception of medicine, the position of the osteopath today was such that it was an injustice to them and also to the public.

After carefully going over the case drawn up by the osteopath physicians.

Following a lengthy discussion a motion was put through in which the council endorsed the resolution.

Immediately following this the Typographical Union, represented by A. E. Dempsey, wanted to know the reason why the osteopath program was put out by the council was given to Toronto printers, when London firms had given advertising to the program on the understanding that it was to be printed in this city.

This started a long controversy, which finally ended with the announcement by President Jack Mc-Guire that $400 had been realized by the council through the contract, whereas if London firms had been given the work it would mean that only $100 would have been received.

The president stated that while the council was ready to admit it was through carelessness the contract had been let to the Toronto firm, he declared the Typographical Union had shown considerable laxity in not bringing the matter for discussion at an early date.

Another subject brought forth
the discussion was when the attitude of the council was asked for on the grievance of the postal workers by one of the delegates.

Another subject which brought forth
the discussion was when the attitude of the council was asked for on the grievance of the postal workers by
one of the delegates.

Learned the city council had taken the voters' list contract from the printers and a mimeograph was being used instead. The matter will be
