FLOOD OF OFFENCES CHECKED

Criminal Accounts Audit Shows Not Even Five Cents To Be Paid in Fees.

POLICE EFFICIENT

Less Serious Crime in Middlesex Than in Most Other Counties.

A flood of crime, rushing like a torrent through Middlesex county when Arthur J. Wharton was appointed high constable, a year and a half ago, has been suppressed to such an extent by the high constable and his constable staff of 16, that it is now a mere trickle.

This is emphasized by the fact that at last night's audit of criminal accounts by Judge Macbeth, Crown-Attorney Judd, County Clerk Stuart, and Andrew Dole, there wasn't even five cents in fees to be paid to the county or the constables for their services in connection with indictable offences. County Clerk Stuart has been a member of the board since 1916, and this is the first time that such a desirable state of affairs has existed, he states.

"It can only mean that the county is exceptionally free of crime," said Mr. Stuart this afternoon. "As far as I know it establishes a record for the county."

Bouquet For Birrell.
"Of course there are still quite a few petty cases that we have to investigate, but outside the Thorndale bank robbery, there has been nothing serious in the county for some time," said High Constable Wharton in discussing the matter this afternoon. "We have a mighty efficient city police force in London and its reputation is known in all the dives of the country. Criminals don't care much about making their headquarters here, because Chief Birrell's force has been well advertised by the men who have been sentenced to Kingston penitentiary and the Ontario reformatory. As far as I know, Middlesex has less serious crime than any other county in Ontario at the present time."

Constable Nelson of the R. C. M. P. stationed at the Muncy reserve is also doing his share to make the reservation a safe place for law-abiding Indians. Constable Nelson has recently rounded up a number of druggists who have been supplying Indians with rubbing alcohol and has put a stop to the traffic in moonshine between the Indians and the Whites.

Wharton Praised.
"A police officer who can suppress crime is a most valuable asset to any community," stated a prominent county councillor. "Mr. Wharton has, I understand, covered thousands of miles already this year going up and down the county. He is doing excellent work and so are the men under him."

Provincial Constable Mennie and License Inspector Walter Holton have also contributed their share to the suppression of crime in Middlesex. Bootleggers and whiskey peddlers have given up their trade in this county, declaring that it is too dangerous. The inspector and the provincial constable are on the road a great deal of their time and have the faculty of turning up in unexpected places, including quiet township roads which used to be the mecca of the bootlegging fraternity.

Traffic Cop's Job a "Cinch;" No Runaway Horses To Stop; Nice Shady Tower To Sit In Police on Corner Can Thank Their Stars Conditions Are Not Like in Old Days.

EX-COP REMINISCES

Edgar Fowler Says Motorists Know Rules Now and Officer's Job is Easy.

While the city council, Chief of Police Birrell, the London motor club, and similar organizations are greatly exercised over the handling of traffic on the downtown streets, ex-Constable Edgar Fowler maintains that the handling of traffic today is a "cinch" compared to the vehicular stream of yester year when he did duty on the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets.

"Do the cops have an easier time today than they did 15 years ago?" Well, I should say they do," said Mr. Fowler, now a motorman on the London street railway. "Pretty soft for those bluecoats sitting comfortably in a shady tower with a cushioned chair pressing buttons and blowing whistles. It wasn't like that in the old days."

Fifteen years ago we had to stand out in the sun and wave the traffic over the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets. There were plenty of horse-drawn carriages and it was some job keeping them in line on the corner and getting them to make the turns in some sort of order.

The Runaway Era.
"The traffic cop today doesn't have one runaway a year to contend with. Twenty years ago, it was a poor day that a constable didn't stop three or four runaways on Dundas street. It was dangerous work and a man never knew in the morning whether he would wake up in the hospital because a group of doctors and nurses round his bed."

"They talk about the drunken drivers of motor cars, and the danger they are to the public. Do you stop to think of the hundreds of drunken men who drove horses in the old days?"

"I wish I had a dollar for every rig I stopped with a drunken man handling the reins. I could retire quite comfortably and live a life of leisure if I had such money."

"Those fellows would come galloping down Dundas and Richmond streets and pay no more attention to signals from the traffic police than they would to a siren. They would corner sing and yelling, and it was up to the traffic cop to arrest them. You might have two or three at a time."

"How many do they have now? I bet they haven't had a case like that in years, and aren't likely to have one in another five. The boys have it pretty easy today if you ask me."

When the bars were open and the Western Fair was on, we handled a greater volume of traffic around the corner at the main corner than they do today, and we did it faster. We kept the rigs moving pretty fast and there were no three-minute delays such as they have now. There are lots of motor cars, delivery trucks, etc., but there were just as many horses in the old days and you never knew what the drivers were going to pull on you. Traffic around the corner square was much more perilous then, with horses pawing the air and drivers not giving a hang for traffic rules or anything else. They weren't educated to such things and we had some time keeping them in two lines on King and Talbot streets.

Motor Traffic Easy.
"Motor car drivers are as a rule experienced. They know how to handle their cars. They know what is meant by 'stop' and 'go.' They have their cars under complete control at the main corners. That is more than can be said for the men and women who drove horses. The animals would grow restless at the first thing you knew, a team would dash past the corner with a white-faced woman calling for help. No sir, you can't tell me that the traffic problem today is harder than it was a few years ago, for it isn't."

Resigns After 40 Years Service

After more than 40 years service in the employ of The London Advertiser, E. J. Liddicoat has just resigned because of ill health.

Seldom has regret been so sincere over the resignation of a newspaper employee. Experienced in every phase of newspaper work, Mr. Liddicoat is one of the most popular. His memory goes back to the time when London's dailies were just budding sheets and news gathering and purveying was still in its infancy.

Mr. Liddicoat recently spent several months in Florida in an attempt to recover his health. Today his resignation as a member of the proof department came to The Advertiser. Information that is much regretted by every member of the staff.

THRILL SLAYER IS STILL A FUGITIVE

Police and Airmen Search in Vain for Philip Knox Knapp.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, July 14.—Philip Knox Knapp, army air corps deserter, who is sought as a thrill slayer, was still a fugitive today despite a search that extended to several New York cities and to Alexandria Bay, in the Thousand Islands.

An aeroplane from Mitchell field has searched the region around Plattsburg without obtaining clues. Knapp, before his desertion from Mitchell field, wrote of his desire to experience a group of doctors and nurses round his bed.

The name "E. K. Rogers" on the register of a hotel at Albany is in Knapp's handwriting.

At Plattsburg, a man answering Knapp's description, registered at a hotel Thursday night. He checked out early the next day.

Knapp intended to go to a friend at Mitchell field that in case of trouble he could find refuge in the Thousand Islands region. He said that he had made friends there among the bootlegging crowd and that he could go to them in case of need.

Photographs of Knapp have been taken from Mitchell field for distribution in upstate cities and along the Canadian border.

JUDGE GRANTS STAY IN CASE OF J. MYERS

Bingo Mines Director Will Be Tried Later in the Fall.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, July 14.—When the case of Joseph Myers, managing director of the Bingo Mines, Limited, was called in city police court this morning, R. B. Graham, crown prosecutor, announced that a stay of proceedings had been entered in the remaining three charges of making false statements with intent to defraud, against the accused, Mr. Myers, however, intimated that a charge may be laid later in the assize court against Mr. Myers.

ARMED CRAFT FRIGHTEN AWAY PLEASURE BOATERS

Canadian Press Despatch.
Niagara-on-the-Lake, July 14.—Pleasure-boat renting, one of this old town's sources of revenue, is said to have been practically ruined by the activities of American armed craft in this vicinity.

The boat owners declare that patrons have been frightened away. S. Richardson, commodore of the Toledo Yacht club, has sent a vigorous protest to Washington against the action of the armed craft, which fired sixteen shots over his pleasure boat, en route from Alexandria Bay to the Niagara river, in a chase from Charlotte to Okech, where his launch put in and was searched for liquor.

SHIPPING STRIKE BEGINS.

MILLION FOR RIVER PROGRAM

New Sewage Works and Spring-bank Dam Would Cost $1,000,000.

BORNE BY TAXPAYERS

Expenditures Would Cover Five-Year Period if Plan Is Adopted.

A million-dollar river clean-up program is faced by the city of London. Ratepayers favor action on the Thames with or without orders from the provincial department of health and according to program figures at the city hall, construction of new sewage disposal works and a Spring-bank dam would run the city into an expenditure of $1,000,000 within five years.

While public utilities commissioners hope to defray part or all the cost of the new dam from concession rentals, expense of new sewage disposal works must be borne out of the general tax rate.

Present estimates of this year's sewage disposal works, already authorized, together with conservative estimates of a new dam at Spring-bank and a new sewage disposal plant at the coves would total over a half million dollars.

Dykes May Be Needed.
There is also the probability of West London demanding a system of dykes, the necessity of dredging, river and repairs and changes to the east end sewage plant. City hall officials declare that if public appetite for thorough river cleansing is to be completely satisfied, the whole program will mean a million dollars' expenditure in five years.

Tomorrow W. P. Near, city engineer, will be in conference with the city health engineer, Dallyn and a representative of a sewer clarifier concern. The conference is expected to yield constructive suggestions for early clean-up work. Complete tests of the efficiency of the west end sewage plant will be made and submitted for analysis.

If the city wants a new plant at the coves we can go on with construction next year," explained the city engineer today. "But it would cost for a new plant 500,000 to 600,000 more to construct next year than if we wait until we see our experience with the South London plant now under construction."

Haste in Sewage Disposal Means More Expense, According to the Engineer. The Evergreen avenue slough system, for which pipe is now being constructed, will cost $62,500. The early estimates on this part of the program are as follows:

NORTH INVITES ALL CANADIANS

Three Special Trips Planned Over Hudson Bay Railway This Year.

Believing it to be in the interests of every Canadian municipality to send representatives to see for themselves the rich country being opened up by the Hudson Bay Railway, Ralph H. Webb, mayor of Winnipeg, has written to the local chamber of commerce, inviting members of the organization to participate in one of three trips over the road which are being arranged for August and September this year.

Mr. Webb suggests that the local trade body might even consider sending one or two of their representatives to make the trip which incidentally he declares would be one of the most wonderful vacation trips anywhere in the world. The party will travel by rail from Winnipeg to Mile 214 on the Hudson Bay railroad, and thence northward on gas cars to a commodious camp at Kettle Rapids, Mile 331, which marks the present end of steel. From thence the trip continues by canoe and gasoline launches down the Nelson river to Port Nelson on the Hudson bay. Three such trips are being arranged, one leaving Winnipeg Aug. 21, another Aug. 31, and a third on Sept. 9.

The primary purpose of the trips is to acquaint Canadians generally with the vast resources of that country in gold, silver, copper, iron, coal, oil, timber and pulpwood. There is potential hydro-electric resources in its watercourses estimated at 4,000,000 horsepower, besides immense fishing resources and a splendid agricultural belt. In the west northland and Winnipeg's mayor is anxious that the rest of Canada should know

JULY 24 IS DATE FOR VISIT OF HAIG

Length of Time He Will Be Here Is Not Definitely Known.

Field Marshal Earl Haig will arrive at Point Edward on the S. S. Noronic of the Northern Navigation lines from Port Arthur early Friday morning, July 24. The boat will be met by a special train that will convey Earl Haig and his party to Toronto via London, according to the time table in the hands of the Canadian National Railways here.

C. F. Forrester, divisional superintendent, said this morning that he had received no advice as to how long Earl Haig would be in the city. It may be for a couple of hours, but the staff of Earl Haig has complete charge of such arrangements.

MT. PLEASANT ROAD IS OPENED TO PUBLIC

Two Hairpin Curves Are Eliminated by Construction of New Section.

The new roadways past Mount Pleasant cemetery, which eliminates two hairpin curves on the Spring-bank river road, is now open for traffic, County Engineer Charles Talbot stated this morning.

"The new road not only does away with two bad curves, but gives motorists a beautiful view of the city," said Mr. Talbot. "The road is a little loose as yet and until it settles properly the old road will remain open for the convenience of heavy traffic."

FORMER LABOR MINISTERS NOT TO BUY NEWSPAPER

Associated Press Despatch.
London, July 14.—It has been rumored that J. H. Thomas, colonial secretary in the late labor government, and John Wheatley, minister of health in the labor government, are negotiating, each against the other, for the purchase of Reynolds' Illustrated News, but this is denied in the Morning Post.

The Morning Post carries a letter from the manager of Reynolds, also a director, characterizing the report that Mr. Thomas is negotiating for the purchase of the paper as untrue. And adding that the suggestion that Mr. Wheatley also has made an offer for the paper is equally inaccurate.

The above charming photograph of Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, with her two little sons, George and Gerald, is the latest to arrive in Canada. Princess Mary is a devoted mother and of late has been seen in public on numerous occasions with her children.

NEW COUNT OF BRIBERY IS ENTERED

Andrew Pepall Appears in Toronto Police Court on Bond Scandals.

WILL SHORTEN CASE

Evidence Taken For Extradition Purposes Is Read in Court Today.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, July 14.—An additional charge was made by the crown when Andrew Pepall appeared in police court today on charges laid in connection with Ontario treasury bond scandals. The new charge is that Pepall unlawfully gave, or agreed to give, a $12,500 bribe to Peter Smith, then provincial treasurer. The charges against Pepall are of stealing securities to the value of $385,000; of obtaining securities to value of $381,000 by false pretences, of unlawfully giving or agreeing to give, $150,000 to Peter Smith, and of unlawfully giving a bribe, or agreeing to give $25,000 to Smith.

Crown attorney J. C. McRuer withdrew the charges of receiving securities valued at $381,000 and of accepting a bribe while an agent of the Ontario provincial treasurer because there is no doubt as to whether these charges were upheld by the California court granting extradition. He reserves the right to include them in the indictment later if it is found advisable to do so.

For the first time in a Canadian court the evidence taken in camera here and successfully used in the extradition proceedings in Los Angeles, which resulted in Pepall's deportation, was released to the public as the result of an agreement between Mr. McRuer and A. G. Slaght, counsel for the defense. They had decided that in order to materially shorten the case the evidence of eleven witnesses whose testimony was in the record of the extradition proceedings should be read into the evidence of the court today in Toronto.

The names of the witnesses were: Amelius Jarvis, Jr., Reginald Martie, Albert E. Nash, Charles F. Bolmer, Charles H. Sproule, John Hamlin, Norman J. O'Flynn, George L. McHattie, Mary E. Larkworthy, Albert Victor Young, and Harry L. Wills.

The hearing today did not commence until shortly after noon and at 1 o'clock adjournment was made for lunch. The case was commenced in a special courtroom before Magistrate E. Jones so that the ordinary business of the court would not be interrupted.

NAMES OMITTED.
Two names were inadvertently omitted from the list of successful students in the local high school entrance examination results which were published Saturday. They are Franklin Schram of Riverview school and Eileen Marshall of Empress avenue school. Both of these students succeeded in passing the tests.

MERELY PYJAMAS FOR HOT WEATHER

Canadian and American Ladies Adopt Carb of the Orient.

By AILEEN LAMONT. Special to The Advertiser.

New York, July 14.—What do you wear these hot days to keep cool? A fashionable miss was asked today. "A pair of slippers," she replied—over the telephone. For face to face conversation, however, pajamas are the popular hot weather boudoir garb. These are usually of sheer printed silk and decorated with large colorful designs. Their proportions are equally ample.

Imitation jewellery is terrible. The grand jury of fashion has always voted a true bill to that charge. But listen to that clever attorney for the defense, Suzanne Talbot, Parisian designer. Mme. Talbot says that while imitation jewellery is terrible it is perfectly allowable smart and in good taste to wear colored stones which match or enhance the costume with which they appear. Portia, move over and share honors.

The waist line, like the thermometer, has been going up. Some of the newest frocks have indicated a return almost to the line of primness frocks with the bodice fitting the bust tightly and skirts waving widely at the bottom. Velvet usually is the material chosen for such frocks.

The furriers have a new trick. They cannot yet bring a dead squirrel to life. But they have put life into a dead fur by oxygenizing it. The favorite trimmings on the new ribbed velvet coats from Paris are an oxygenized gray squirrel, blue otter and tiger. Oxygenized opossum takes an especially fiery sheen.

SCOTT IS PLACED IN DEATH CELL

Former Toronto and London Financier Will Be Executed on Friday Morning.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, July 14.—Russell T. Scott, former Toronto financier and writer on business ethics, sentenced to hang Friday for killing a drug store clerk in a hold-up in 1924, has been placed in the death cell of the Cook county jail.

The action of jail authorities, which set a precedent over the custom of confining doomed men in the death chamber only on the eve of the execution, was taken to prevent any suicide attempt.

Meanwhile, Scott's attorneys prepared to appear before the state pardon board in Springfield to ask for a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment.

WELLAND MAN IS HELD ON CHARGE OF STEALING

He was remanded for a week.

T. V. A. AT BYRON MAY JOIN UNION

Officers of Western Ontario Branch of Association Are Elected.

If the Tubercular Veterans' association, which requires special safeguards peculiar to its work, receives special adjustment, the members will likely join the amalgamation of veteran organizations this fall. This was brought out at a meeting held in Queen Alexandra sanatorium last night. About 200 members were present from London and Western Ontario.

The association has not definitely decided upon the stand it will take. It does, however, agree with the principle of unity. One thing that the body would require is a special official who understands the needs of the body.

Details will be arranged at a unity conference, which will be held in the fall. The association will be represented, when the constitution will be drafted. If the members receive satisfactory safeguards they will go in to the union.

The Western Ontario branch is the largest in the dominion. There are upwards of 400 members. The hope was expressed last night that when Earl Haig comes to the city that he will make a call at the sanatorium.

The dominion president, T. M. Downing, of Winnipeg, was present last night. The members expressed their pleasure in the election of H. Hale, London, to the vice-presidency of the association. Mr. Hale was elected to the office at the dominion conference held recently in Ottawa.

The officers of the Western Ontario branch were elected. They are: H. P. Moss, Mitchell, president; D. N. Graham, vice-president; H. Hale, secretary and dominion representative; W. Evans, treasurer. There are two assistant secretaries. They are H. Wyse and W. Hargen.

A committee of 29 men, comprising the executive, was elected. This body will be in charge of the work of the association in this district, and will also act in matters of welfare work and entertainment at the Queen Alexandra sanatorium.

The executive committee includes the following: R. Hudspeth, C. Harefield, J. R. Proctor, R. M. Etherton, P. J. Lavender, B. J. Bushy, A. Shelley, J. Wilson, J. E. White, G. Sherbrooke, F. H. Atkinson, J. E. Georion, E. Hutchinson, A. Horner, T. Mende, M. Atkinson, S. Kennedy, J. Brown, J. Burgin, Dr. A. E. Woods. Dr. Woods was elected chairman of the welfare and entertainment branch of the association's work.

MERE HINT OF ATTEMPT TO HOLD CITY AT FAULT BRINGS STRONG PROTEST

City Solicitor Doherty Objects To Questions Which Seemingly Were Intended To Involve City of St. Thomas in Blame For Loss of Eight Lives—Crown Denies Move.

NINE WITNESSES HEARD—ADJOURN INQUEST

Stoner Takes Stand—Admits He Did Not Have Permission To Operate Swan Boat—Thought It Safe—Port Stanley Ship Carpenter Says Boat Overloaded and Paddles Scooped Water.

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Reporter.

St. Thomas, July 13.—After hearing the evidence of nine witnesses out of a total of 38, the coroner's jury which is inquiring into the death by drowning in Pinafore Lake of a woman and seven children on July 6, adjourned tonight at 11 o'clock, to hold another session at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Interest in tonight's session was such that it was decided to hold the inquiry in the council chamber at the city hall. Citizens crowded the large room to hear the inquiry into an accident which has shocked the whole community.

Nothing new bearing on the accident was brought out by any of the witnesses examined this evening, but Crown Attorney Angus McCrimmon proceeded with the utmost deliberation to bring out all facts which might throw any light as to the responsibility, if any, for the catastrophe.

City Closes Move.

It is evident that the city will disclaim any share in the responsibility, City Solicitor Doherty making this clear when he raised objection to some of the crown attorney's questions, which apparently seemed to him to indicate that the crown sought to involve the municipality in blame for the accident. The crown attorney, however, denied any such intention.

It was brought out in the evidence that at no time did the operator of the boat, William Stoner, apply either to the city council or the parks committee for permission to operate the ill-fated swan boat on the lake.

William Stoner, who built and operated the boat, and Norman Ward, who was in charge of it on the night of the accident, were the two principal witnesses examined this evening.

Herbert Colley, a ship carpenter from Port Stanley, who examined the craft after the accident, testified that he believed the accident was due to the overloading of the boat and the consequent splashing of water by the paddle-wheel into the two rowboats supporting the catamaran. His opinion was shared by Colin Brown, a fisherman of forty years' experience, who was called in the examination of the swan boat.

Dr. MacKenzie testified having examined the first five bodies taken from the water, he was of the opinion that the cause of death in all cases was drowning.

Ald. John Handford gave evidence that he was chairman of the parks and playgrounds committee of the city council. The city, he said, owns Pinafore Lake and leases it to William Stoner.

A copy of the agreement was put in as evidence by City Solicitor Doherty. Mr. Doherty explained that he did not know whether Mr. Handford had ever seen the agreement before, as it was made before his time on the council.

In the agreement the city granted the right to Mr. Stoner to keep and rent boats for hire. He was to maintain at least 15 rowboats, but no craft such as the ill-fated swanboat was contemplated when the agreement was made in 1922 for a period of five years at $100 per annum.

Made No Inspection.

Ald. Handford testified that he saw the boat during construction after the deck had been mounted on the rowboats. He made no particular inspection of it, but he had stood on it for a short time at a later period of its construction. The city engineer or any other official had not, so far as he knew, inspected the craft.

When Stoner had proposed construction of the swan boat, he presented in the belief that it would be operated with every precaution for the safety of passengers. He had left the question of the load it should carry to the discretion of the operator. He himself believed it would possibly carry 16 small children safely, but he had no expert knowledge on the point. Never having seen the agreement before, it did not occur to him that construction of the craft violated the agreement to use rowboats only.

He had such confidence in Stoner's reputation for carefulness, that he made no particular investigation of the probable safety of the boat. He had discussed the matter in committee, but was not even aware that the boat was operating until after the accident. Consequently, he had not asked the city engineer or any other official to inspect the craft.

Gave No Authority.

In reply to questions by city solicitor Doherty, he stated that no authority had been given Mr. Stoner by the city council or the committee to operate the boat.

A. A. Ingram, counsel for Wm. Stoner, questioned the witness regarding the terms of the agreement. His client, he stated, was to have the boating and bathing privileges, including the keeping and letting of boats for hire which he claimed placed no restriction on the type of boats to be used.

William Stoner then took the stand, showing evident traces of the severe nervous strain to which the accident has subjected him. His replies to the questions of the crown attorney were barely audible.

He was aware, he testified, of the terms of the agreement with the city, and had placed seventeen rowboats in hire on Pinafore Lake in the summer of 1923. The same arrangements prevailed in 1924.

In answer to questions, he declared that he had been interviewed by members of the parks committee in 1923, and they had expressed interest in the arrangements. He had consulted with Ald. John Jago, who was then chairman of the parks board.

At this juncture, Mr. Doherty objected to the questions of the crown attorney in attempting to fasten responsibility on the city council, which Mr. McCrimmon denied.

About a month ago, witness said, he decided upon the construction of the boat to accommodate children. He admitted that he had no previous experience in boat-building. His only object in building the craft was to give the kiddies a good time and to insure their safety.

He then gave details of the construction, and stated that he did not

ONE UNIT IS URGED TO GUARD HEALTH

Chief Provincial Officer Would Place All Municipalities Under Central Body.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, July 13.—There is little value gained for the yearly expenditure of a million and a half dollars by Ontario municipalities for local public health administration, with the exception of eight cities that have satisfactory public health systems, asserts Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, chief officer of health for Ontario, in a statement issued today.

"Much of these expenditures is misapplied or wasted," he says. "There is no concerted effort to control such diseases as cancer, tuberculosis, or the venereal diseases; there is no adequate pre-natal care of mothers. Medical inspection of school children is only beginning, and health education of the public is sadly needed. In only eight of the local health governments in Ontario can there be said to be an efficient public health service."

He suggests as a remedy the combining of various municipalities into one unit.

He also pointed out that the public is not properly protected against the spread of disease by the lack of adequate pre-natal care of mothers. Medical inspection of school children is only beginning, and health education of the public is sadly needed. In only eight of the local health governments in Ontario can there be said to be an efficient public health service."

He suggests as a remedy the combining of various municipalities into one unit.

Calls Twelve a Load.

Herbert Colley, Port Stanley, a ship carpenter with 16 years' experience, was the next witness.

Colley said he had examined the swan boat after the accident and considered that it had a load of twelve people it was loaded heavily enough. He thought the total weight of the superstructure would be over 200 pounds, the galvanized ironwork itself weighing in the neighborhood of 130 pounds.

He expressed the opinion that the accident was caused by the paddle-wheel throwing water into the boats, as there was nothing whatever to prevent that happening when the craft was heavily loaded, and low in the water, he stated. He was positive that it was unsafe to attempt to carry 23 persons on the swan boat.

Cross-questioned by A. A. Ingram, he stuck firmly to his theory that the splash of the paddle-wheel had thrown water into the boats in sufficient quantities to bring the gunwale of one of the boats below water level, resulting in its sinking.

Colin Brown of Stand.

Colin Brown, formerly a fisherman at Port Stanley, then took the stand. He had forty years' experience in the use of boats of all kinds, he stated.

He was asked by the crown attorney, he examined the swan boat, following the accident. He learned that Mr. Stoner had bought 100 pounds of galvanized iron for use on the boat, and he estimated the total weight of the superstructure as being about six hundred pounds.

Neither rowboats used were first class, in his opinion. They would not carry more than five men each, and then they would be crowded.

ONE UNIT IS URGED TO GUARD HEALTH

Chief Provincial Officer Would Place All Municipalities Under Central Body.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, July 13.—There is little value gained for the yearly expenditure of a million and a half dollars by Ontario municipalities for local public health administration, with the exception of eight cities that have satisfactory public health systems, asserts Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, chief officer of health for Ontario, in a statement issued today.

"Much of these expenditures is misapplied or wasted," he says. "There is no concerted effort to control such diseases as cancer, tuberculosis, or the venereal diseases; there is no adequate pre-natal care of mothers. Medical inspection of school children is only beginning, and health education of the public is sadly needed. In only eight of the local health governments in Ontario can there be said to be an efficient public health service."

He suggests as a remedy the combining of various municipalities into one unit.

He also pointed out that the public is not properly protected against the spread of disease by the lack of adequate pre-natal care of mothers. Medical inspection of school children is only beginning, and health education of the public is sadly needed. In only eight of the local health governments in Ontario can there be said to be an efficient public health service."

Calls Twelve a Load.

Herbert Colley, Port Stanley, a ship carpenter with 16 years' experience, was the next witness.

Colley said he had examined the swan boat after the accident and considered that it had a load of twelve people it was loaded heavily enough. He thought the total weight of the superstructure would be over 200 pounds, the galvanized ironwork itself weighing in the neighborhood of 130 pounds.

He expressed the opinion that the accident was caused by the paddle-wheel throwing water into the boats, as there was nothing whatever to prevent that happening when the craft was heavily loaded, and low in the water, he stated. Pilots Burning Car To Hall To Have Fire Extinguished

Remember the deeds of John Maynard, the valiant sailor-man, who piloted his burning ship to shore along the Lake Erie beach years ago? Remember how the blazing embers fell around John and he kept on, urging his craft across the tossing waves until he had driven her ashore and saved the crew?

History repeated itself last night. Horace Westland, piloting a motor caravan on Worley road, ran into trouble at the corner of Bruce street.

The craft caught fire. Presence of mind by Mr. Westland caused him to step on the gas and guide the blazing car down Bruce street to No. 3 fire hall.

Relishing this excellent example of co-operation, a squad of firemen armed themselves with chemical fire extinguishers. Short minutes were necessary to kill the blaze, and Mr. Westland's car escaped little damage.

The moral is, well, co-operation with the firemen isn't a bad idea at the best of times.

AT THE THEATRES

LOEW'S THEATRE

Eve's Secret.

Betty Compton and Jack Holt in a romance with a European setting are seen in the film attraction at Loew's for the first half of the week. The play, "Eve's Secret," deals with an innocent princess, who was to wed Georges, Duke of Poltava, and a little girl who stepped out of a cobbler's workshop to be wooed and won by the handsome duke.

The story of the wrongdoing for the little girl brought up in humble surroundings to the time she is carried away by her titled lover is well told and has a strong appeal. The scenic surroundings go a long way toward satisfying in these hot days. There are plenty of sets showing cool retreats along the seaside, and pleasant uplands which make a splendid background for the pretty love affair.

West, Gates and Kane have a good dancing act enlivened with burlesque that made a lot of friends last night. One of the boys impersonates the female of the species without any pretence at seriousness. The act would have carried itself well on the merits of their dancing. But the travesty just made it that much better.

Maude Ellet and Company in trapeze work that was much above the average, and it did not go unappreciated.

Harry Sykes does a blackface turn. A butterfly comedy with the usual bathing girls posing as artists' models and a Pathe News reel completes the bill.

Great Main Bursts, Creating Underground Rivers in Heart of City.

New York, July 13.—An underground river suddenly came into existence in the heart of Manhattan early today, seriously affected subway traffic and threatened to topple buildings.

Water from a broken 20-inch main at 42nd and Fifth avenue flooded the subway, and the Grand Central Railroad terminal for a distance of half a mile. In some places the water reached a depth of 6 feet.

Fear that nearby buildings might be undermined prompted the police to prohibit all vehicular traffic for several blocks around the break.

U. S. CITIES TAKE ONTARIO BERRIES

Big Trucks From Port Burwell
Not Seen on Local Market Now.

The big trucks from the Port Burwell district with loads of raspberries that have flooded the London market for the past three years are not coming very much fruit to London these days.

"Where are all your raspberries this year?" one of the truckers was asked this morning.

"We can get better prices in Buffalo and Cleveland," was the reply. "They are selling for 35 cents a box there. We would be foolish to bring them up here."

This means that unless the bottom falls out of the American market London housewives have little chance of getting cheap raspberries this year. Local growers have been swamped with orders and have had to turn away customers. Unless there is a good rain within a few days, there will be few berries on the market next week, district growers declare.

An engineer from the Walkerville Bridge company, retained to handle reconstruction work, will be in the city tonight for a final survey of the old structure.

Method of repair has not yet been outlined to city engineers, though it is believed likely that expenditure will be less than $2,000.

PAVING OPERATIONS NOT RAPID AT HYDE PARK

Paving operations on the Hyde Park highway are not proceeding as rapidly as was expected by county authorities owing to difficulty the contractors are having with their gravel pit. It is stated that they have to dig out a load of sand for every load of gravel.

Despite this handicap, however, the pavement has been laid from the Hyde Park corner at the fifth concession of London township, half-way to Hyde Park village.

VISITORS INVITED TO CITY GOLF COURSE

Beauty of Municipal Links To Be Made Known to Tourists.

The beauty and convenience of London's municipal golf course is to be made known to tourists and visitors to the city by a number of neatly-framed notices which are being placed today in some of the leading hotels, the London Motor club office, chamber of commerce headquarters and other public places.

The notice reads: "Thames Valley golf course. Twelve hole course amidst beautiful scenery. Four miles west of the city. By motor car along the north river road, or by street car to Springbank pumping station. Green fees 50c. Clubs to rent. The chamber of commerce has decided to include this announcement in 10,000 booklets which are being printed for distribution to motorists regarding the Windsor-Niagara highway through Ontario.

MIDDLESEX HIGHWAYS ARE IN FAIR CONDITION

Dry Summer Has Kept Roads in Better Shape Than Before.

A dry summer means good roads and this is quite true of the Middlesex county road system this year. County engineer Talbot states that all county highways are in pretty fair condition, with few complaints being registered by motorists or others.

"It is quite true that the Sarnia gravel road is rough in spots, but it is possible, if it is good enough for cars to travel 50 to 75 miles an hour, as they have been doing on this road, I would say that it is not in bad shape," concluded Mr. Talbot.

Mayor and Near Defend Plan For Gradual Alleviation of Nuisance.

SAMPLES SHOWN

Claim Samples Taken at Cove
by M. O. H. Not Adequate.

The River Thames is not as black as it is painted, according to representations made by W. P. Near, city engineer, at the board of health meeting last night, arguments which were endorsed to some degree by the board.

Until complete reports of sewage entering the city filter beds and the affluent from disposal pipes are received by city and provincial health authorities on Wednesday, the city board of health will not make a definite decision on a river clean-up.

The board last night praised the engineer's clean-up program, and withheld further judgment.

Dr. W. S. Downham, medical officer of health, brought up three samples and admitted river water last night, only one of which was at all transparent. According to reports from the institute of public health analysts, samples taken by Dr. Downham show a very high bacteria count and are of the worst possible color. Reports attempted to prove the city's sewage filter beds are not functioning, and that sewage is more dangerous to public health after leaving the filter beds than upon entering it.

The mayor and the city engineer stoutly defended sewage cleanup steps commenced last year, and for which they have a three-year program to be completed.

Day For Samples.

The engineer charged that samples of river water taken by the city health department were not adequate to properly show the functions of the "Cove" plant. He advocated complete samples being taken at the Cove, every two hours throughout an entire day, with provincial and city authorities co-operating in examination.

Mr. Near declared that sewage takes two hours to go through the filter beds. Therefore, it would be right, he said, to compare a sample of entry with a sample of effluent from the exit pipes two hours later. Dr. Downham's tests had been made at practically the same time, and therefore were of sewage of different density. Besides this, the engineer pointed out that in hot weather bacteria multiply greatly while in the filter beds, a condition which would only occur a few days in the year.

Mr. Near pointed out that it is not possible to clean up the river Thames in a day, or a month, or a year, at present time the provincial department of health was supporting board of works sewage measures. The new sewage disposal plant is going up, and experience from the construction and use of this equipment, together with the functioning of the old plant, will possibly save the city from $50,000 to $100,000 in the construction of a third plant next year.

Ald. John Ashton made the remark that the river has slowly been filling up during the past 10 years, with two feet more of sediment in it than in 1915.

"The river problem has been in the hands of fifty amateurs," charged Mayor Wenige.

Amateur Attempt.

"Too many amateurs have been trying to solve the question. It's time it was put into the hands of the engineer, who is competent to handle it."

Dr. Downham explained the method of taking samples during the recent flood. He pointed out that the condition of the river to increase in population, with an increase of 500 sewer connections every year. Lack of heavy rains was blamed.

Chairman Charles Mitchell remarked that a very large number of citizens were complaining of odors from the river along its banks and urged that every possible measure be taken to assist a cleanup.

Adverse conditions along Carling creek were noted by Sanitary Inspector Sanders, and he was requested to make a complete report of private drains entering the creek, so that steps could be taken to prevent raw sewage from entering the tributary of the Thames.

STOP LOW-GRADE MILK LOOPHOLE

Change in Provincial Dairy Act
Sought by Local Health Board.

Efforts will be made by the city department of health to have the provincial dairy act changed to close an error in the distribution of milk supplies.

Country producers cannot supply cities or towns with milk that is not subject to the dairy inspector of the municipality of consumers interested. But city dealers may go into the country and buy from cheese factories milk that is unfit for human consumption. This milk is usually handled by manufacturers.

Dr. C. S. Tamlin, dairy inspector, Dr. W. S. Downham, M.O.H., and Mayor Wenige are anxious to have the provincial government close this loophole and action will be taken immediately.

J. PORK MUST BEHAVE TO KEEP OUT OF JAIL

Is Freed After Being on Remand for Disorderly Conduct.

If John Pork behaves himself, his dealings with the police are over, but if he goes on another rampage at his house, 527 Simcoe street, the jail crew will be enforced. Deputy Magistrate Gladman freed the turbulent John in court today with such a warning.

Arrested on the instigation of his wife, Mary Pork, a week ago, John was remanded to jail for a week by Magistrate Graydon, when convicted of being extremely disorderly. Gazing stoically at the court today, he monosyllabically his willingness to be good. His wife showed no enthusiasm over the deputy-magistrate's inclination to turn her husband loose, she accepted the situation and followed John out of court.

EXPERTS DISAGREE ON ORIGIN OF FISH

Hundreds Killed in Thames,
But Where Do They Come From?

Where do all the fish come from? Expert fishermen say that decent game fish wouldn't come within miles of London if inland waters of the district were all like the river Thames.

The mayor says that dead fish have been thrown into the coves. The medical officer of health believes dead fish may have been tossed into the river at Dundas street. At any rate the officials have so far failed to isolate the supposed death-dealing chemical that is pouring into the Thames daily.

DRIVER TAKES BLAZING TRUCK TO FIRE STATION

New Method of Having Flames Extinguished Adopted in South London.

The most efficient way to have a fire extinguished is not to call the firemen but to take the fire to them. Don't be silly, you say. And yet this method was the salvation of a burning auto truck yesterday afternoon.

Bursting into flames near No. 3 station a light delivery car owned by Westland Bros., painters and decorators, was quickly driven by its fast-thinking driver to the fire hall, where station men brought an extinguisher to the street and quenched the blaze. The damage was slight.

BETTER CITY HALL STEVENSON'S PLAN

Ex-Mayor Would Remodel
Front of Dundas Street
Building.

London's venerable relic of mid-Victorian architecture, the well-known city hall, would be remodelled if the suggestion of ex-Mayor H. A. Stevenson, M.D., is given support.

Dr. Stevenson has a scheme to remodel the entire front of the ground floor at the city hall to provide more space and better advertising for the city offices.

"Close up all the front doors except the central one, just in front of the main staircase," is Dr. Stevenson's idea. "Entry to all offices would then be through this central door. The treasurer's office would be particularly benefitted as they are crowded there, and the mayor would have more room too."

Present use of the council chambers as temporary assessment and building inspection offices has revived the old talk of a city hall elevator. Present renovations at the Dundas street pile include a new front for the mayor's office. In place of the old billboard front, a huge pane of glass is being put in, so that the window of the mayor's office provides more light and conforms with other front windows downstairs.

LONDON LABOR SENDING $50 WEEKLY TO MINERS

Larger Sum to Help Striking
Nova Scotia Men Will Be Gathered.

The plight of the families of the 15,000 Nova Scotia coal miners, who are striking in protest to a reduction in wages, is still a deep concern with London labor men and women. Weekly donations average $50, J. F. Thompson, secretary of the trades and labor council, said this morning, and there is every indication that this sum will be boosted within two weeks.

Besides donations from general funds, several union locals here have assumed voluntary weekly levies to assist the strikers. A statement of conditions is announced in the strike area. The popularity of the weekly contribution plan is growing, according to Mr. Thompson, and he hopes to transmit $60 or even $75 weekly to relief headquarters at Glace Bay.

GETS ONE LAST CHANCE AFTER MONTHS IN JAIL

John Perce Celebrated on June
29 and Finally Was Arrested Again.

The incriminating fact that he has spent 12 of the past 13 months in jail has not dimmed John Perce's ambition to go straight, so he told the deputy magistrate at this morning's court. Perce, who is 56, and calls anywhere home, finished a six months' term on June 29. This morning he admitted being drunk again, but after extolling the potentialities of his will power he was given one last chance.

Just got out with a couple wrong fellows," the grizzled, gray-haired prisoner excused himself.

Mr. Gladman was suspicious that Perce had overestimated his power to sidestep evil and reminded him that in June, 1924, he was given six months, that he was out a week and drew another 30 days, that he was out another week when he pulled the half-year tab which expired June 29.

However, Perce made a final grinning bid for his freedom, and got it.

Warm weather languor will be conspicuously absent at the August 21 meeting of the Kiwanis club if the novel plans of Kiwanian John A. Nash succeed. Mr. Nash reports that he has several good ideas for the mid-summer session but he is reluctant to disclose any of the arrangements until he has gathered some more thoughts from the members of his team.

Comments on Decision of Woodstock to Put Shop on Ordinary Basis.

MERCHANTS OBJECT
But Utilities Owcial Says
Taxes Are Already Heavy.

Electrical dealers and contractors who have recently been agitating that the Hydro Shop of the public utilities commission should be closed on the ground that it is able to compete unfairly with them in the matter of selling and strength added to their argument by the announcement last night that the city council of Woodstock had ordered the Hydro Shop there to be placed on the same tax basis as other retail stores.

Commenting on this new development this morning, General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the local utilities commission stated that the London Hydro Shop is already a larger taxpayer than any dealer-contractor firm or individual in the city, despite the fact that the business tax is assessed on a different basis. In the case of retail businesses under present arrangements business taxes are assessed on the basis of the value of the land and building occupied. The Hydro Shop is taxed on a basis of the value of the land occupied only, no account being taken of the value of the building. But even with this distinction, Mr. Buchanan states that the local hydro shop is by long odds the biggest taxpayer in the city among the electrical fixture stores.

Local electrical firms are planning to take the question up with the public utilities commission at its first meeting in the fall, probably early in September.

SOFT PEDAL ON RIVER CONDITION SUGGESTED

Mayor Scores Newspapers for Part in Clean-Up Campaign.

His worship the mayor was in a mood for confession last night. Besides attesting the purity of 4.4 ale, the quality of London's water supply, the efficiency of London's city engineer, his worship thought the occasion of the meeting of the board of health was a fitting time to talk about the public press.

"Now this is a thing which should not be blamed all over the country," he declared in talking about reports of river conditions. "Such reports are unfair and the newspapers are to blame for their circulation."

"When you are always talking about the press," asked Ald. John Ashton, labor alderman. "They are all right. Why not show a little brotherly love?"

"Brotherly love?" answered the mayor. "I think I have a lot of that."

Then why be so hard on the press? What will you say to them when you meet them in the next world?"

"I don't hope to meet them then," confided his worship, and he professed that he might be found amongst those who will not have to read newspapers printed on asbestos.

TWO DAYS' CHASE ENDS IN CAPTURE

Two Charged With Robbery
Captured by Posse Near Goderich.

Special to The Advertiser.

Forest, July 13.—Two men, whom the police feel confident are responsible for the robbery of a man at Marysville, Michigan, and for the burglary of the home of Thomas Palmer, near Port Frank, were arrested today by High Constable Whiting, of Lambton, and a posse near Goderich. They are now in Goderich jail, and will likely be brought to Sarnia tomorrow to face trial for the Palmer robbery. The names given by the men are believed to be false and they deny all knowledge of either of the crimes of which they are suspected.

On Wednesday last, two men held up a Marysville resident and took from him $75 and two watches. The men crossed to the Canadian side of the St. Clair river and stayed north along the shore. Delay on the part of the American authorities in notifying the Canadian authorities permitted the men to get past Sarnia.

On Saturday night, High Constable Whiting was notified that the home of Thomas Palmer at Port Frank had been entered and that a pair of shoes, some money, some wearing apparel and a watch had been taken. Constable Wharton, of Middlesex, was notified, and immediately went to the assistance of his fellow officer. The men were traced to the woods in West Point area, and as they were known to be dangerous characters, the officers organized a posse, and took up pursuit. They swept the area about Kettle Point, Port Frank, Grand Bend and vicinity, and finally overtook their men south of Goderich about noon today. When the men saw that they were cornered they surrendered without a fight.

While the prisoners deny knowledge of the two robberies, the police feel sure they have the right men. One of the prisoners was wearing a pair of shoes answering the description of those taken from the Palmer home, and handkerchiefs found on the men also conform to description of articles taken from the Palmer home. The watches have not been recovered, but it is believed their hiding-place will be unearthed tomorrow.

Reviewing War Activities.

Canada's participation in the world war may be fought over again, at least that section of it that has to do with the preparation of the forces, the securing of supplies and the manner in which troops were sent overseas. The method followed by the medical service is also certain to be carefully reviewed. Under the heading, "History of the Canadian Forces—Medical Services," the first volume has been published by Sir Andrew Macphail, professor of the history of medicine at McGill university.

A degree of authority is lent to the publication because it was recommended by the chief of the general staff and also sanctioned by an order-in-council dated October 7, 1921; the publication was ordered by the privy council on June 3, 1924. All the papers and records having to do with the Canadian forces in the war were placed at the disposal of Sir Andrew Macphail, and from these he has reduced to book form the most outstanding details. It is necessary in such a work that there should be opinions passed as to whether the methods employed by those responsible for the outfitting, examination and handling of Canadian troops were the best that could have been followed. Those on whom blame falls will naturally fight back and seek to justify the course they took.

Sir Andrew Macphail is of the opinion that a new place like Valcartier, hurriedly prepared for the accommodation of many thousands of men, was a mistake in almost every way. He says in one section: "The men were without adequate tentage and without greatcoats in the autumn frosts and rain; the horses were without coverings; catarrhal conditions developed. The river which flowed through the camp became polluted, but swift precautions were taken and there was no epidemic of typhoid." Nor did this method of mass concentration give the medical force an opportunity to function properly. The official historian says: "The officers were suddenly faced by forty thousand men for whom sanitary arrangements were required if epidemic sickness were to be avoided. Each recruit must be examined in a confused camp rather than in the peaceful leisure of his native town, where the established standards should have been applied."

The methods of training at Valcartier come in for criticism as well, because "remembrance of South Africa was strong in the ministerial mind. Rifle ranges three miles long, 'the longest in the world,' were constructed. The Germans had made the discovery that a recruit never hits the object at which he aims and their troops were taught to fire as they advanced, without aiming, in the hope that they might hit something. . . . At Valcartier military training in a general sense was negligible."

The historian is even more severe in speaking of the way in which supplies were given to the men, and the incomplete manner in which they were equipped before being sent overseas. Also the method of securing supplies comes in for censure. Sir Andrew takes the furnishing of wagons and says: "Wagons were assembled that might do very well on the illimitable prairie. They were of all possible types, so that each maker and every town might have a chance to profit by public funds; but there was not a road in Europe wide enough to allow them to turn." A report made on these in January of 1915 after they had been shipped to England stated that the wagons were of several types, and were not interchangeable. Only one wagon is singled out for special mention as having stood the test—the heavy "Bain."

The discomforts and the hardship of the winter at Salisbury camp are reviewed, where the Canadian troops were so poorly situated in tents in a quagmire that they resorted to the building of huts, doing the work themselves after making peace with the building trades unions.

There are bright spots in the report, one of them dealing with the way in which British destroyers acted as escort to Canadian troopships. An officer's diary records: "The Foyle went ahead as pilot. The Boyne with all her lights ablaze was forward and off to port, so that if attack were made she would receive it, like a wild bird flying with 'broken wing' to protect her young."

Sir Andrew Macphail has kind words for the Canadian troops in action, and particularly for the care the officers took of their men. The battles of Ypres had been in progress some weeks before the Canadians arrived, and disaster dogged every corps involved. The historian comments: "The Canadian commander refused to engage until he should have taken measures which, if they would not insure success, would at least render disaster improbable. One of these measures was to make certain that his wounded could be evacuated." Then follows a recital of the methods employed and of the gratifying results that were attained, for with almost incredible speed the wounded were removed from the field to the first hospitals, attended to and transferred to the permanent hospitals farther back. The manner in which war surgery developed and preventive measures employed against tetanus were used forms a chapter that is worthy of high record.

The Advertiser has reviewed the publication because out of it will grow controversy. Some will be inclined to say "What's the use of raking all this up now—the war is over—we made mistakes and would make them again." Others who are more methodical in their outlook will look upon the findings of the official historian as a permanent and unbiased valuation of activities that were well-advised and a proper appreciation of those that fell into another class.

If the publication of Sir Andrew Macphail's findings simply causes an outburst of cross-fire from one section to another, the value of his work will be discounted to that extent. Here and there he erects very plain signposts indicating methods that were faulty even to the extent of being undesirable. Where work was well done he says so. It was a difficult task, but Sir Andrew has sustained a fine quality of candor throughout.

Mr. Bryan Is Wrong.

William Jennings Bryan, politician, real estate promoter in Florida, hero of a thousand well-paid lecture tours, and now prosecuting counsel against the theory of evolution in the Scopes trial, has at least a good opinion of the importance of the trial at Dayton and the part he is to play in it.

A few days ago he said, "If evolution wine in Dayton, Christianity goes, for the two cannot stand together. Christians will fight evolution as their only great foe. If they are wrong they will of course be defeated, and in their defeat they will be compelled to abandon the Bible as the word of God."

It is as though Mr. Bryan had laid aside his duties as promoter of huge real estate deals in Florida and stepped into the place once occupied by Elijah at Mount Carmel, where he fought it out with the prophets of Baal. The parallel could be carried even farther, for Mr. Bryan has reached over and borrowed the note of despair that prompted Elijah, even after the victory, to cry out "I, even I, only am left."

Mr. Bryan takes himself and the Dayton spectacle too seriously. The whole affair, as it progresses, looks as though it were being run for the benefit of those who have hot-dogs and fried onions for sale. It has not the earmarks of a gathering where men are seeking after light, but it has been caught up by the spirit of material gain that always stalks around where many thousands of people are away from home.

The wail of the silver-tongued orator that the Bible will have to go if the court at Dayton decides against it is so far from the truth that it goes over and pitches its tent with the ridiculous. The Bible has been the most attacked book in the world; it holds that position today, it has held it for hundreds of years, and it will continue to do so. Men and even nations have decided that it would have to go, but it has remained, and will continue to remain the world's greatest Book and the world's greatest seller. If its continued existence had depended on the puny defence that could be rushed to its aid by the finite and short-lived mind and intellect of man it would have long since perished. All the wisdom that is centered at Dayton can neither add to it or take from it.

Outdoing Their Welcome.

Not much time elapses between the departure of one coast-to-coast foot traveller and the arrival of the next. These tourists are not common tramps, at least most of them say right off that they are not. Some of them have a very fine story to the effect that they have made a wager of anything from one to five thousand dollars that they can walk across the continent in a given number of days, one stipulation being that they had to start out with no money. Of course they are very keen to win the wager; if they are going to win they must be able to continue walking; if they are going to keep on walking they must eat and sleep; if they must eat and sleep they must have money; if they are to have money some one must give it to them, because it is never in their bet stipulations that they are to work for it. Working for it would retard their progress.

The first two or three of these tourists excited a mild amount of curiosity and interest; sure, they were good sports, yes there's a good silo right across the road, let's eat and hear about the trip at the same time. But the keen edge has been worn off this freak habit and the feeling grows that they should be working for a wage instead of walking for a wage.

Note and Comment.

The Toledo Blade suspects that because Germany lost the Kaiser it has led her to believe she won the war.

Chicago is to spend six millions on a hall to attract conventions. If she'd stop stealing water from the great lakes she'd be more attractive to Canadians.

A Paris artist killed himself as a protest against the modern trend of art. He preferred to rest with the dead masters than argue with the noisy scholars.

J. Siler, 83, of St. Louis, died and left a trust fund of $5,000 to look after his dog. Well, there's one advantage in leaving money to a dog—it won't make him stuck up.

Louisiana Marketers' Association says the Standard Oil Company is selling gasoline in New Orleans below cost. Now that certainly is a deep, dark, desperate sort of crime.

Two men at Coney Island were sent to jail for bathing without any costumes at all. If this plan goes far there's going to be an awful thinning out in the population of the art galleries.

Fine of $100 is imposed in Detroit for blowing motor horns except as a signal. This may be confusing, so we explain what is meant by "signal." One long blast means "I hit him," two short and one long, "He's blocking the road by lying under my car."

Steve Duggan's Place

Steve lives out in the country air and makes new friends most every day, that's why I like to chat an hour when I'm out by Steve Duggan's way.

Steve Duggan is a chap I know, he lives upon concession ten, it always seems as how he is the finest of all gilt-edge men. Yet Steve ain't great as they rate men, I never saw his face in print, nor has he ducats in a sock to start and run a private mint.

He seldom goes away from home, he's always some pike quite in reach, he holds no office in the land, and Steve he never made a speech.

I mention things like that because it's easy now to get his size, and that I think so much of him may be a-causin' some surprise, or most folks that we worship now must be a sort of super-man, a chap that's got ten thousand cold to blow upon a red sedan.

I sometimes go and call on Steve and spend an hour or two with him, we sit upon the porch out there, a place to rest each weary limb.

Steve's dog he sticks around him, too, no pedigree or rank is his, but he is pleased to let you know as how Steve Duggan's home is his. He sits there lookin' up at Steve, a-knowin' how Steve's hand will drop, and stroke him in a kindly way or rub him on his tickle spot.

Sometimes we wander in the field and view the crops on Duggan's farm, or else we go and see the stock that Steve is keepin' in his barn. When we go where the horses be I keep a decent distance back, a-fearin' how their heels might fly and sink me to a carpet tack.

But Steve he wanders in and out and calls each horse in there by name, he strokes their necks and pets them, too, and straightens out each ruffled mane. The horses seem to like him, too, and watch him when he goes to leave, I've seen them lots of times in there, they'd rub their noses onto Steve.

Steve comes to our place now and then, he drives a horse that's steppin' high, the kind that folks will turn to see when Steve he goes a-drivin' by.

Steve took our youngsters out one night, and when they were just comin' home, he stopped and said as how he'd go and get them all an ice cream cone. Well I'll be blowed when he come out he had an extra one or two, a-sayin' how that horse of his was powerful fond of ice cream too.

I guess that's why the horse likes Steve and why I prize his friendship too, he's always lookin' as he goes to find a kindly thing to do.

If I was just a four-legged horse and had a choice of where I'd go, I'd beat it for concession ten, nor travellin' there none too slow; I'd never stop to walk along, nor change from off a racin' pace, until I turned from off the road and anchored at Steve Duggan's place.—ARK.

To the Editor

Canadian Feeling.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir.—The regard with which Canadians look upon their national flag is so casual that I feel that Canadians as a whole should be awakened to the fact that nothing retards the expansion, the unity and well-being of a nation more than a disregard for patriotism.

It is true that we have national feeling, as was shown in the great war; but that every-day patriotism, peculiar to our southern neighbors, is not characteristic of us Canadians in general. This statement cannot be challenged until we cease to countenance the lone stars and stripes flying on our hotels or the same lone flag ornamenting the Canadian homes of once Americans on the fourth of July.

How can Canadians tolerate this infringement of their rights?
Such conditions as these are alarming, since they are the outward and ever-growing indication that national patriotism is dying in Canadians as a whole.

If we were true citizens we would patronize home industries, boost Canadian products and foster within ourselves that indescribable something known as patriotism.

Be Canadians and show it by your words and actions. Fly the Canadian emblem on national holidays and show to the world your love of Canada.

Coyotes Hide In the Tall Grass To Watch For Prairie Dog Dinner

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Rabbit had been teasing Digger the Badger to tell him how two Coyotes hunted together in a Prairie Dog town, and Digger the Badger had teased Peter by putting him off. But at last he took pity on Peter. "You know, Peter," said he, "two heads are better than one."

"So I have heard," said Peter. "It's so," continued Digger. "Two heads are better than one, and eight legs are better than four. Anyway that is the way those Coyotes out there in Prairie Dog town used to think, and they pretty nearly proved it. Yes, sir, they did so. When they wanted a Prairie Dog dinner they started out together to get it. One Coyote would hide by lying flat in the grass outside the Prairie Dog town. Of course as soon as he started, warning would be given, and down into their homes would dive all the Prairie Dogs near at hand."

Then the Coyote hidden in the grass would run forward and lie down flat behind the nearest mound in which a Prairie Dog had disappeared. Now you must know that Prairie Dogs always feel safe the moment they have reached their homes. Just a little way down from the entrance they have a little place dug to give them room to turn around without going clear to the bottom. So when they have lived head first into their homes they go no farther than these little places and there they turn around and in a moment or two pop their heads out to see what has become of the danger that frightened them.

"That is foolish," said Peter. "People full of curiosity usually are foolish," replied Digger drily. Peter grinned. He knew that Digger meant that for him. "I guess that's so. Please go on, Mr. Badger," said he.

"Well," continued Mr. Badger, "the Coyote who had walked into town would pretend to pay no attention to those Prairie Dogs. He would pretend that he wasn't interested in them in the least. He would just keep on his way. Of course the Prairie Dog in the mound behind which the other Coyote was hiding would see the first Coyote and would see that he was behind the danger point. Right away that Prairie Dog would come wholly out and sit up to bark his head off at the Coyote who had created all this disturbance."

"What happened then?" asked Peter excitedly.

"Sometimes one thing, and some-two Coyotes would go off and try it again somewhere else. Sooner or later there was sure to be one less Prairie Dog in town. One Coyote working alone couldn't have done it, but two working together that way were pretty sure to be successful."

Peter thought it all over. Then he gave a little sigh of thankfulness. "Well," said he, "all I can say is that I am glad Old Man Coyote hasn't any one to hunt with him. Here. What you've seen those Coyotes do out there in Prairie Dog town I have seen Reddy and Mrs. Fox do when trying to catch one of Johnny Chuck's children. Are Prairie Dogs, the only folks you hunted out there, Mr. Badger?"

Digger shook his head. "Goodness no," said he. "I guess I would have gone hungry a large part of the time if I had to depend wholly on Prairie Dogs."

March On! Is Thrilling Message Of Lady Clarendon To Guides

A message brimming with inspiration for the girl guides of Ontario has been sent by the Countess of Clarendon through Mrs. E. B. Smith, provincial commissioner, who has just returned from a trip abroad. The Countess of Clarendon, who made her home in Ontario some years ago when she was Lady Hyde, has a warm friendship for this part of the empire. She is provincial commissioner of girl guides for Hertfordshire, England, and the following message comes as from a guide to sister guides.

"I have been given an opportunity, which I value most highly, of sending to the guides of Ontario a little message of friendship and sympathy.

"As a guide, and as having at one time lived in Ontario and learned to care very much for that part of our common empire, it makes me very happy to learn how quickly our great sisterhood is growing in Canada. And I want to emphasize all that we hold in common, all the ties that bind us heart to heart in our joyous service.

"March on, my sisters! We are marching too, so listen sometimes for the heartbeats of your British sisters. We wish you well.

"VERENA CLARENDON."

STARVED HEARTS

By MILDRED BARBOUR.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND THE CHARACTERS.

STEPHEN LANE, wealthy, middle-aged, despotic, rules with a tyrant hand his young wife.

BARBARA, who sold herself into a loveless marriage, and MADDELON, his beautiful orphaned niece, whose father's marriage he had opposed some twenty years before, and whose guardianship now devolves upon him. He has already broken up her boy-and-girl affair with

DUANE FARLEY, and turns him to Barbara for sympathy, with the result that, all unknown to Farley, she falls in love with him, and Lane now sends

JULIAN BARTON, Madelon's real love, abroad, with business ruin as the alternative, leaving her only the sympathy and friendship of ANN O'DWAY, life-long family friend, who has really loved Lane from girlhood, but has been unnoticed by him because she isn't beautiful.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Dawn of Freedom.

Most of the preparations for their departure for California fell to Barbara, grief was too new to her.

Madelon was undergoing the numbness of despair. Since the morning that Julian Barton had sailed for Europe—out of her life forever, as she told herself—she had been unable to force an interest in the world about her.

Her grief was too new to take into the bright winter sunlight.

What interest had she in smart summer frocks, fancy hats and sunshades? It mattered not to her whether Pasadena or Long Beach or Kamchatka was to be their destination; whether they traveled by the Pacific or the Northern Pacific. Her journey would be along the road of despair.

But youth, coupled with abundant health cannot pine indefinitely, and, though the ache in her heart was ceaseless, she came gradually to lose the look of haunting sadness that had been hers, and at moments, caused Barbara to forget her own disappointment.

In spite of Barton's protests she had wrested from him the promise that he would not write.

"I couldn't bear it," she had pleaded. "Every letter would reopen the wound. In spite of all you say, in spite of our hope that we may be together some day after your service abroad, we know in our hearts that he looks up to me as a little boy looks up to his mother, and who can take care of him socially, introduce the subjects of conversation, talk to him about the things he is interested in, think of things to do."

After he gets older and more mature he doesn't want to depend on a woman. He wants the woman to depend on him. He wants to be looked up to and to be wiser and have more knowledge of the world than the girl has. Then he is attracted by girls younger than himself, and the older he grows the younger he likes them.

Second. I certainly would not advise you to marry a girl older than yourself. Two or three years either way make no practical difference, but ten or twelve years is an insupportable bar. In most cases, it is far better for the husband to be the older, because women age much faster than men do; and unless the woman is a good deal younger than her husband, she is an old woman while he is still a young man.

If I were picking out a wife, the first three things that I would consider would be good health, good, hard, practical sense and a good disposition. They are the qualities that really make or mar a marriage in both husbands and wives.

Good looks are certainly most attractive in a girl, but beauty inevitably fades with time, and if you marry a girl just because she is pretty you are bound to lose out.

Good family is greatly to be desired. I would marry no girl until I knew what sort of blood ran in her veins, and whether she would give my children a clean inheritance or not.

I would not marry any girl who came of a diseased stock, nor would I marry a girl whose family tree had drunkards, and thieves, and jail birds upon it.

I would pick out for a wife a girl who was strong and healthy, for she would be able to do her part in the marriage partnership. I would pick out a girl who had good, sound, common sense, for she would be able to meet all the trials and tribulations of life with fortitude; and I would pick out one with a sweet and amiable disposition, because she would be so pleasant to live with.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—We are a group of girls about 16 years of age living in a small town. Will you please answer these questions:

First. What kind of boys should we run around with?

Second. Is it improper for us to pick up boys on the street and go to places with them?

Third. One of us likes a boy. Every one says that he likes her, but he doesn't confirm that belief when he is with her. What can she do to find out whether he cares for her or not?

Fourth. Would you advise us to become business girls if we have that ambition?

M. R. V. M.

Answer:

First. The boys you should go with should be nice, clean, respectable boys, and boys that show that they have some reverence for womanhood. Boys that are trying to make something of themselves and who have some purpose in life.

Don't go with boys who carry flasks on their hips, and who drink, and who ask you to drink. Don't go with boys who get fresh and try to take liberties with you. Don't go with boys who tell smutty stories. Don't waste your time on boys who are lazy and idle, and who are content to loaf and let their parents support them.

Second. Certainly it is improper for you to make acquaintances on the street. Boys have no respect for girls that they pick up. There is always a way to be properly introduced to any boy who is fit for you to know.

Third. A girl has no difficulty in telling whether a boy loves her or not. He shows it in a thousand ways. He is bashful in the presence of her friends, he is bashful in the presence of the state of his affections. As long as a boy doesn't tell a girl he loves her she can be very sure that he doesn't, no matter what other people say on the subject. Their opinion is worthless.

Fourth. I would not only advise you to study some profession or trade by which you can make a living; I would urge it upon you with all the eloquence at my command.

Every girl in the world should have some way of supporting herself. It is the only way she can be free and independent. To be able to stand on her own feet and buy her own pretty clothes will keep her from marrying just to get some man to stand for her shopping ticket, or because she is bored and wants something interesting to do. The independent, self-supporting girl can wait until Mr. Right comes along.

CARRICK QUALIFIES IN WESTERN AMATEUR

Cummings Collegian Does Sensational Four Under Par.

"CHICK" EVANS IN

Associated Press Despatch.
Detroit, July 13.—Don Carrick, recent winner of the Canadian championship, was well up in the list of 123 golfers who finished their qualifying round in the west amateur golf championship at Lochmoor Links today. Carrick's score was 75.

The most astonishing performance of the day was that of a Chicago man, Dexter Cummings, well-known in inter-collegiate golf circles, who finished four under par, with a score of 68. Cummings was the only player of the 123 who finished to break par, and only two men equalled perfect figures on the 6,750-yard links. The par shooters were Rudy Knepper of Chicago, several times Iowa champion, and leader of the inter-collegiate title while at Princeton, and Henry Compton of Buffalo, hitherto untried in this contest.

Only one above par was the scores returned by James Manion of St. Louis, formerly trans-Mississippi champion; Clarence Hubby of Dallas; Howard Schendorf, former northern champion; and R. A. Stannan of Toledo, all of whom took 73's.

Chick Evans of Chicago, eight times holder of the title, shot the first half, but eased up coming home, for a 28 and a total of 74.

Bards and Locals Meet Tomorrow In Crucial Game

Engage in Struggle For Right To Play St. Thomas.

London seniors and Stratford Bards, engaged in a struggle for the right to meet St. Thomas in the playoffs of group B of the Intercounty league, meet here Wednesday in the first of a series of several weeks for the locals. A win Wednesday will practically assure the locals of a place in the playoffs, and that makes the locals meet the Bards a crucial game for the Bards, who are looking for a win to keep their own home lot last Saturday.

The Londoners used up two Bards pitchers Saturday, but were either tired or could not continue their stride against the Bards. The Bards' sixteen-inning stand against the Tom Bards, which was broken by a home run to face Marks, tomorrow afternoon, down, who has dominated Stratford on several occasions, will be a real test. The game starts at 2:15, and in view of the non-crucial nature of the combat, should draw a good crowd.

COLTS OVERTAKEN TWICE BY FLINT

Wilson Nearly Beats Ex-Mates, But Hurling Was Spotty.

Special to The Advertiser.

Flint, Mich., July 13.—Flint made it two in a row over Kitchener by winning today's game 7 to 2.

In the first time this season the Velvies have won two straight games, and it was only the fourth victory out of sixteen contests against the Colts.

Flint staged two rallies to come from behind and carry off honors. Hamel's triple drove over a brace of runs in the sixth, and he scored on Tice's hit. Hamel opened the eighth with another triple, and four runs materialized on four following base hits. Montgomery was hit hard, but tightened in the pinches.

Kitchener may cause more trouble than anticipated. Knouty Lee manager has been in Toronto several days trying to gain new players. He wants three infielders and a pair of pitchers. He has one of the latter, for Flint has loaned him Lee Wilson, the young right-hander.

Wilson had been suspended for several weeks ago because he declined to hustle and keep in condition. Then he came back and pitched a masterful game, when the home team scored its only run.

Hale was the star player of the game, rapping out a single, triple and homer in three trips to the plate.

One English record smashed at the girls' Dominion trials is justification for the amateur officials accepting the invitation to send a team to the "Dominion" from a geographical sense, there were enough who took part in the events at Toronto Saturday to strike a fairly good mean, especially since girls' track athletics are not developed anywhere in Canada to the point they are around Toronto and Hamilton.

Coaching and training is perhaps more important in track athletics than in any other sport. The rest of Canada could only have hoped to break in with a phenomenal find, and these are few and far between in track games. Outside of running most track events do not come naturally to athletes, but have to be learned.

The track team carries a Canadian label, which was "Made in Ontario," but the Dominion might conceivably be less ably represented. The trip of the girls fortunate enough to have trained and developed to the extent shown in Toronto Saturday will do much to stimulate track games for girls in the future.

SEES CANADIAN LEAGUE

Frederick Wilson, sports editor of the Globe, who several seasons ago and for the space of a few hours, was the unanimous choice of Mint league magnates as president until he had to decline the position, prophesies an all-Canadian league for next season to take the place of the Mint. He correctly appraises the situation when he says that London and Hamilton clubs which were indifferent to Knouty Lee's suggested league of every winter for the past three, have now changed their views somewhat with changing conditions.

Changing conditions are many. A few years ago amateur baseball in certain centres was very strong, but as comparative costs of amateur and professional baseball became known, the sentiment has switched slightly toward out and out professional baseball, no matter how low the classification. A few years ago London and Hamilton had even thought there were chances of going into higher company, but there again conditions have changed vastly, and both cities would welcome an all-Canadian league of slightly lower classification and with a rule calling for so many Canadian-born rookies being carried by each club.

Under such conditions baseball could be maintained at a high level of interest, and low and popular level of admission.

Jack Beresford, Jr., Retains Philadelphia Gold Trophy

Collisions Mars Exhibition of Walter Hoover, United States Sculler.

EXPLAINS AFTER

Associated Press Despatch.
Putney, England, July 13.—Jack Beresford, Jr., of England beat Walter Hoover, United States sculler, by three lengths in a sculling race up the Thames this afternoon, and thus retains the Philadelphia gold challenge cup, which Hoover sought to bring back to the United States.

The race was spoiled soon after the start when Hoover, thinking Beresford was intruding upon his lane of water, deliberately headed his shell for the Britisher's and brought about a collision. His bow rammed the starboard side of Beresford's boat about two or three yards forward of the stern, and both scullers came to a standstill. In disentangling their craft Beresford got a lead over Hoover, and a half, as Hoover could not commence rowing until the British boat had cleared out of the way of his.

Beresford was stroking quickly and slipping away before Hoover could get going again, so that from then onward victory for the Briton was assured. The race had run only six or seven hundred yards when the collision occurred, and Beresford was leading by less than half a length when it was all over. Hoover declared the best man had won, and that Beresford would have won had he not been hit.

Asked for his version of the collision, Hoover said: "In the heat of the race I judged from the position of the umpire's launch behind us, and from the embankment on the left, that Hoover was crowding in to my water, and I thought, if you think you're to get away with anything like that, I'm going to beat you and I did. I see now that I was mistaken."

Beresford's time for the one mile 707 yards' course upstream with the full tide helping the rowersmen was six minutes 48 seconds. Less than two minutes had elapsed when the collision occurred.

Ideal weather prevailed for the meeting of the two amateur scullers who were considered the best in the world by British riverside observers. There was a bright, warm sun shining, and a gentle breeze, which rippled the water, which with the tide at its crest was running upstream.

Second Day Sees Many More Children in Attendance at City Churches.

The second day of the vacation schools of religious instruction which opened in this city yesterday found the new idea more popular than ever with London youngsters. Yesterday morning's sessions were given over more or less to the work of organization, but the classes this morning started in earnest upon a varied program which will keep the children profitably and pleasantly employed every morning except Saturday for a period of six weeks. Each of the four centers which have been established at St. James' Anglican church, St. Andrew's United church, Wellington Street United church, and Eglinton Street Baptist church, reported an increased attendance of from 10 to 15 this morning.

This was expected, and is due to the children who attended yesterday telling their little friends and neighbors about the classes. It is hoped that the attendance will increase still further in the same manner. Today's total attendance was well in excess of the three hundred mark.

Not all of the instruction is along religious lines, although religious subjects are being given emphasis. At Wellington Street church this morning the children attending were divided into three classes and commenced studies of the life of Christ carefully graded to suit the years of those composing the classes.

The experiment of mid-summer week-day classes of religious instruction is being watched with a great deal of interest by educationalists, Sunday school teachers and others interested in child welfare. If the local effort proves a success, and there are many indications that it undoubtedly will, the idea will quickly spread to surrounding cities and towns.

HOUSE OF REFUGE FARM ADDITIONS NOT PLANNED

County Council Not Going to Build Extra Accommodation at Strathroy.

It is not likely that Middlesex county will consider any further addition to the house of refuge farm at Strathroy for some years to come, in the opinion of several members of the county council who visited the city today.

"The farm is quite big enough right now and grows all the food necessary for the 60 or 70 old people who are spending their last days there," declared one councillor. "In fact the place is making money for the county and, while we are all glad that it is showing a profit, it should be remembered that the care of the old people is our first consideration. The officials there now are doing well and I do not think it would be wise to saddle them with any additional work, such as adding farm accommodation would entail."

routine of the police court might not be interrupted.

Replying to Mr. Slight shortly after the opening of the case, Mr. McKuer stated that the crown had no intention of pressing charges in which Pepall was not extradited. The evidence of Aemilius Jarvis, Jun., as read into the record today was in part as follows:

Aemilius Jarvis, Jun., Evidence.

"My father, Aemilius Jarvis, Sen., and Harry O. Pepall had a safety deposit vault in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, main office, Toronto. It was in their joint names. The vault was obtained about the 18th June, 1921. On July 4th, 1923, my father gave me power of attorney to sign in his place upon entry to the safety deposit box. I took at least two packages of bonds over with Harry Pepall. It was necessary for us both to be present to open the vault.

"On the 25th of April, 1924, some time after Mr. Peter Smith was arrested, Mr. Harry Pepall received a request from Mr. Smith's counsel that certain bonds be delivered to Mr. Smith. Mr. Pepall and I proceeded to the safety deposit box in the Canadian Bank of Commerce and secured one package of bonds which was wrapped in paper. As there should have been two packages we then proceeded to my own personal box in the Trusts and Guarantees Company, where I had deposited these bonds, pending their being voted on at a bondholders' meeting. I then proceeded to the Prince George hotel, where on instructions from Mr. Pepall I was to call up a Mr. Pinky, from Stratford, Ont. Mr. Pinky came down to the lobby of the hotel and delivered him the two packages of bonds. To assure myself that this was the proper man to deliver the bonds to, I called up the same man on the telephone. Peter Smith was in the telephone.

Accountant's Testimony.

"I recognized his voice. He then assured me that the delivery of the bonds was all right. These bonds were bonds that had been traded in exchange through the firm of Aemilius Jarvis & Company for bonds that were originally sent to Andrew Pepall through Brown Brothers."

Evidence of Albert E. Nash, chartered accountant and member of the firm of Clarkson, Rhodesia & Dixon, of Toronto, as read into the record, gave details of a comparison of Brown Brothers' letter of May 12, 1920, with deposit slips made in bank accounts of Peter Smith and A. H. Pepall, and the specifications of coupons deposited by Smith.

Brown Brothers is a New York stock brokers' firm used by Pepall. He finds that 34 coupons, the proceeds of which were deposited in Peter Smith's account in the bank of Toronto at Stratford, agree identically with the serial numbers of 34 of the bonds sent by Brown Brothers to A. H. Pepall.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS DUE TO KOREAN FLOODS

Associated Press Despatch.

Tokyo, July 14.—Despatches from Seoul say that heavy floods have inundated the central and southern sections of Korea. A number of casualties resulted from the floods and 16,000 houses are reported to be submerged, the damage being estimated as high as forty million yen. (The yen at the present rate of exchange is worth about 40 cents.)

The railways have been badly crippled by the flooded areas. More than three million yen has been appropriated by the government-general to aid the sufferers.

Prince of Wales Saves Children

Associated Press Despatch.

Katze, Rhodesia, July 14.—The Prince of Wales played the part of a heroic fireman today, when he assisted settlers in extinguishing a fire in a native wood and grass children's house at the Hafue agricultural show. All of the children were rescued. The blaze started during a luncheon given in the prince's honor. The children's hut was destroyed in five minutes. Wales joined in the work of preventing the fire from spreading.

Board of Education Decides to Drop Work to Prevent Annual Deficit.

SOME OPPOSITION

Principal Miller is Granted Services of Extra Secretary for Summer Rush.

Abolition of evening classes at the central collegiate was decided upon at a meeting of the executive of the board of education yesterday afternoon on the ground that it was impossible to make them self-sustaining without raising the fee to a figure which would make it impracticable for many students to attend.

This action of the executive was taken despite the fact brought out at the last board meeting that the cost of the evening classes to the city had been reduced by $1,000 last year. The total cost last year was $3,810. Receipts from the students' fees brought in $1,087.98 while grants from the department of education totaled $968, leaving an amount of $1,765 to be met by the local board.

Trustee George F. Copeland at the last board meeting thought that this was a comparatively small amount in proportion to the good which was being accomplished by the classes, and this view was shared by Trustee Cairncross, but Trustee Mrs. Hunt did not think it fair that the city should pay this amount to assist young Londoners, and especially teachers, to improve their education and thus qualify for better positions. Trustee Mess pointed out that in the case of the teachers it amounted to the board paying other teachers extra salaries in order that they might impart more knowledge to teachers who would in turn demand larger salaries because of higher academic attainments. Trustee Copeland, in defending the continuation of the classes, remarked that "if it costs only $1,700 annually for this laudable work, I would be sick at heart to see it discontinued."

The action of Mrs. Samuel Taylor against the board for injuries sustained by her son in a rugby game under the auspices of the East London collegiate, was referred to the board's solicitor, Principal Miller was granted the services of an extra secretary at the central collegiate to relieve the pressure of office work at that institution.

KNOLLWOOD PICNIC TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Park Association Outing to Take Place at Brookside Farm.

One of London's happiest families will hold an annual reunion on Saturday. Full cars will be packed for the day, and every effort will be made to fully establish the summertime king at the Brookside farm, on the fourth corner of the Knollwood road.

The reunion will be the annual field day of the Knollwood Park and District Improvement Association. A strong committee is preparing a fine program. Members and their friends will bring their own lunches, but drinks will be provided.

Transportation will be by motor, and members are asked to bring automobiles if they have them.

SUMMER SCHOOL SPORTS SHOW RAPID EXPANSION

Teams No. 3 and No. 4 of the University of Western Ontario softball league are playing this afternoon in the second series on the university grounds.

The games are scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4:15 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Sports at the college of arts have been keenly contested this year. Added to this the growing number of students has made a greater choice of material to draw good teams from. Two years ago there were only 54 students at the summer school. There are now more than double the number registered this year.

GROCERY STORES CLOSED ALL DAY TOMORROW

London grocers will close their stores all day tomorrow for the big picnic of the city.

It is probable that some grocers will remain open tonight in order to give customers an opportunity to purchase a shortage of food in the homes tomorrow.

Custom Tailors' Union Will Open Drive To Keep In Field

Secretary of Local Organization Declares Quality Being Overlooked.

ECONOMY IS REASON

Custom tailoring, once the pride of the clothing trade, is another of the trades of yesterday to be lowered by 1925's popular "more for less money" slogan.

Gradually the high-class union tailor is being replaced by what the trade calls the medium man. Though the local union of the Journeymen Tailors of America has been considerably weakened by the inroads of sewing machines and quantity production, the remaining 25 members are determined that the union shall not die. An organization drive to put the local in its former influential position in district circles will likely be inaugurated in the near future.

Pointing out that there are only about four or five union shops in London now, Harry Stein, financial secretary of the union, declares that this indicates that money and not quality is the prime concern today.

HEALTH METHODS REVISION URGED

Provincial Expert Advocates System Used in England.

Ottawa, July 14.—Mr. Nevill Chamberlain, the minister of health of England, in speaking of the local administration of public health in that country, refers to the "obsolete, cumbersome, illogical, wasteful and unjust" character of the machinery whereby such work is carried out. The remarks of the minister might, with equal truth, be applied to the system of local health administration in operation in Ontario, and the measures designed for improvement of this work in force in England, might with certain modifications be employed to advantage by the local government of the province.

The Ontario system is briefly as follows: Each city, town, village and township has a local board of health, and a medical officer of health. There are upwards of 900 of such local health governments in Ontario. In but eight of these, including the principal cities, can be found a practicing physician, as a rule, but small remuneration and subject to the various, well-known disabilities of such a local officer. Little money is being made by public health purposes, and what little is expended used at the wrong end, in the cure, rather than in the prevention of unsanitary conditions. The result is that the sanitary authorities have been frequently exposed. There are in England and Wales 1,727 sanitary authorities, not including 42 county boroughs. The total of 1,869 compares with 317 education authorities and 635 boards of guardians. No one has suggested that the sanitary authorities be either educational or relief authorities, and the relatively large areas and population served by them, and every line of influence points to the opposite conclusion.

Expenditure Wasted.

In Ontario, in dealing with the subject of local health administration, of which there are often as many as 20 to 25 in each county, the premier (as minister of education), has struck the keynote in his recommendation that local school areas should be combined for efficiency and economy be combined. The same principle holds true in respect to local public health administration. Opportunity should be taken for the local units of a county to combine for sanitary purposes.

The townships, towns and villages of Ontario annually spend in the aggregate considerable sums of money for this purpose, without much to show for it. The figures for the year 1924 show that there is spent on the salaries of medical officers of health about $100,000, and for the public health work in places with a part-time organization about $25,000. The total for local public health administration part-time and full-time in Ontario reaches the sum of $125,000, and one-half million of dollars ($1,500,000).

Outside the eight cities with satisfactory health administration, little has been gained for the expenditure of this large sum of money.

Much of this expenditure is wasted or at least misapplied. There is no concerted effort to control diseases such as cancer, tuberculosis or the venereal diseases. There is no adequate care of mothers and infant mortality, and the incidence of tuberculosis range high. The medical inspection of school children is only beginning, and education of the public in the principles of hygiene, without which no administration can successfully operate to the best advantage, is sadly needed.

Government expenditures for public health in the care of the tuberculous poor is steadily advancing, being higher by $125,000 for the last year than that for 1923. The government spends increasing amounts in the work of the department of health.

Could Make Improvement.

To return to the question of how local health administration may be improved. The experience of Eng-

Germany Plans On Three Beers

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, July 14.—In a bill now before the Reichstag beer is classified in three categories, according to its potency. "Simple" beer is defined as having alcoholic content up to 6.5 per cent. "Full" beer has 11 to 14 per cent, while "reinforced" beer has 15 per cent or more.

The "reinforced" category is believed to represent a concession to Bavaria.

Secretary of the union, declares that this indicates that money and not quality is the prime concern today.

Union headquarters in Chicago recently urged, through its official organ, The Tailor, organizing campaigns as being made, but will not be available until the fall. This will entirely eliminate interference.

RADIO INTERFERENCE WILL BE LESSENED

Wave Length of Port Edward Station Increased To 750.

Special To The Advertiser.

Sarnia, July 13.—Radio fans in Western Ontario will continue to be troubled by spark signal interference from the powerful Marconi station at Point Edward it was learned here today, despite the fact that on Wednesday the wave length of the station will be moved up from 600 to 750. However, the interference will not be so loud as heretofore, when it would entirely spoil music on sets operated locally. It is understood that the government's intention to change from spark to continuous wave transmitter still holds good, and new transmitting equipment is being made, but will not be available until the fall. This will entirely eliminate interference.

Scale Highest Peak In Canada

Canadian Press Despatch.

Cordova, Alaska, July 14.—Having successfully reached the summit of Mount Logan, a hitherto unascended peak in the Yukon territory, a party of six adventurers, headed by Captain A. D. McCarthy of Windermere, B. C., have returned safely to civilization, a telegram from McCarthy, Alaska, reported last night.

Mount Logan is the highest peak in Canadian territory, towering 19,350 feet above sea level.

land, Wales and Scotland and of the United States has shown that the small town, village and township health unit is too small to bear the financial burden of a full-time public health organization, and those countries are rather rapidly adopting the plan of combining municipalities for public health purposes. In Great Britain the unit is called a "combined area." In the United States the county is usually the unit, or where adjacent counties are small two or more counties are combined. The advantages of such a plan are apparent. The aggregate funds now spent might be utilized in the employment for the area of a full-time organization. A notable example of such a combination is to be found at Windsor (Essex border municipalities), where under the direction of an energetic, well-trained medical officer of health there may be seen one of the most efficient health departments to be found in the country.

Little legislative amendment is needed. Permission might be given to counties to substitute county control for the existing municipal health administration, using the combined resource of the municipalities for this purpose. Instead of an army of 900 or more health officers, we would have the services of a few. These men would embrace public health work as their daily business, and give to that business the supervision and administration, using the combined resource of the municipalities for this purpose. Thus it will be seen that the day's attractions follow through from morning to night in an endless succession of great enjoyability.

WOODSTOCK SURGEON ASKS PORTION OF BAIL

City Requested To Reimburse Him For Money He Lost.

Special To The Advertiser.

Woodstock, July 13.—Some weeks ago, Dr. A. B. Welford, Woodstock surgeon, alleged that he was swindled out of $1,500 by a William Johnston, who was subsequently arrested and released on $2,000 bail. Johnston failed to appear in court and his bail was exonerated. Under a new law, all such exonerated bail goes to the city.

The city council was faced at its meeting tonight with a request from Dr. Welford that his $1,500 be refunded to him by the city. He based his request on the ground that the exonerated bail was in reality restitution for the money lost. Bonds guaranteeing the members of the city council against personal loss, which might be occasioned through any action brought against them by reason of his money being refunded, were offered by Dr. Welford. The finance committee of the council will consider the unusual request, and report to the council.

BIG LOAD OF BEER IS ALLOWED TO PROCEED

St. Catharines, July 14.—A load of strong beer consigned from a Hamilton brewery to Port Dalhousie for shipment was tied up in St. Catharines over night but permitted to resume its journey this morning.

When the export papers were found to be in order the load was merely held overnight and then permitted to continue to port.

GROCERS TO RUN PORT TOMORROW

London Businessmen Out To Keep Up Record For Great Day.

Crammed with new novelties, new fun-makers, big surprises, and a raft of generous rewards, the annual picnic of the retail grocers of London takes the boards at Port Stanley. "The Money Island of Western Ontario," tomorrow.

Since Hector was a pup, as thousands will affirm, the retail grocers have conspired each year to show their patrons—and that includes everybody who eats something that comes out of a grocery store—that can be done for a big day's fun when good fellows get together.

This year they have been rather secretive about the inside story of their undertakings, but a little has leaked out to let the picnicers know that tomorrow is sure to be a day of laughs, kinks and thrills.

Twenty-five big events are on the sport program to be run off on Invererie Heights, nine big events in the baby show. The prizes positively startle.

Intermixed with this array will be a series of lunch-programs, featuring by three softball battles that will rank with the best that the fans have seen in many a day. The annual picnic for the city championship will be staged between teams of grocers representing the north and south sections of the city at 11 a.m. Then the pick of the grocers will be matched against the Norman-Eckert girls at 3:50, and unless the grocers show a lot of class they are apt to suffer the indignity of being trimmed by the weaker sex.

Matching the girls against the men is a new idea the grocers have introduced at Port Stanley, and by way of carrying the warfare as far as possible they have pitted the city rollers of the wholesale groceries against the Woolworth lady softballers for a contest scheduled for 6:30.

Thus it will be seen that the day's attractions follow through from morning to night in an endless succession of great enjoyability.

RESTRICT ISSUE OF BATHING SUITS

Municipal Pools Plan to Save Money on This Item.

Feeling that the free issue of bathing suits to all children visiting the municipal bathing camps and the Thames park pool is a large item of expense not entirely justified in view of the fact that so many children have suits of their own, the public utilities have decided to restrict the use of free suits. Children having no bathing suits will still be supplied free. General Manager Buchanan stated this morning. There is no intention of working any hardship in such cases, but the demand for suits has so increased that the laundry bills are mounting.

Recently the chief supervisor, G. N. Goodwin, questioned a line-up of 20 kiddies and of this number 14 admitted that they had bathing suits at home but did not bother bringing them when they could secure suits free at the pools.

This condition of affairs was not anticipated by the commission when the free issue of suits was commenced, and hence steps are being taken to have the children bring their own bathing suits wherever possible. At unofficial swimming holes birthday suits will still be in order, provided the swimming places are located outside the city limits.

WORKING GIRL'S EXPERIENCE

Read how She Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Arnprior, Ontario.—"I must write and tell you my experience with your medicine. I was working at the factory for three years and became so run-down that I used to take weak spells and would be at home at least one day each week. I was treated by the doctors for anemia, but it didn't seem to do me any good. I was told to take a rest, but was unable to, and kept on getting worse. I was troubled sometimes with my periods. I would sometimes pass three months, and when it came it would last around two weeks, and I would have such pains at times in my right side that I could hardly walk. I am only 19 years of age and weigh 118 pounds now, and before taking the Vegetable Compound I was only 108 pounds. I was sickly for two years and some of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken a bottle of it I felt a change. My mother has been taking it for a different ailment and has found it very satisfactory. I am willing to tell friends about the medicine and to answer letters asking about it."—Miss HAZEL BERNDT, Box 700, Arnprior, Ontario.

A day out each week shows in the pay envelope. If you are troubled with some weakness, indicated by a run-down condition, tired feelings, pains and irregularity, let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound help you.

Following the closing of Welland and Chippawa, the rum-runners on Lake Erie have established their headquarters at Port Colborne. From this point at the mouth of the Welland canal they run the liquor across Lake Erie to Buffalo and other points. In addition, it is said some of the cargos find their way back into Ontario. Of five rum boats which attempted to land their cargoes in Buffalo, one was captured and lost 400 cases of alleged whiskey, valued at $30,000; a second was intercepted by the coastguard and forced to return to Canada, while the remaining three were chased by American government boats. Photographs of the activities in Port Colborne are reproduced above. The boats are seen lined up along the canal wall while above are the loading gangs. Also seen is a team and wagon trucking down a load of whiskey to the waiting vessels.

EVANGELIST CHANGES TOWN OF TERROR INTO ONE OF PEACE

Seven Hundred "Hit the Sawdust Trail" at Herrin Meetings.

ENEMIES CLASP HANDS

Bootlegging Becoming Thing of the Past, Declare Police.

Associated Press Despatch.
Herrin, Ill., July 14.—Great rejoicing was evident in Williamson County today, proclaiming peace and quiet as an aftermath of seven weeks of religious activity. That heartfelt prayer has replaced barking automatons is the consensus.

Herrin, center of factional strife for many months, is the site of a tabernacle where Howard S. Williams, layman evangelist, expounded the creed of friendship. Here the county's citizens assembled day and night and a resume of the efforts of the preacher from Hattiesburg, formerly the "Mississippi Thunderbolt," reveals a total attendance of about 160,000, of which approximately 700 "hit the sawdust trail."

"To God and Jesus Christ belongs all the credit," said Williams when called "the man who saved Herrin." He tried to tell a simple story of saving grace, he said, without fear of any man, but in fear of God.

Williams' expression of faith in county and city brought immediate response from Herrin where virtually all business-place co-operated by closing its doors to permit attendance at the noon-day prayer meetings. The tabernacle was crowded at night.

Police also testified to the new regime. "We are fast disappearing, and bootlegging is becoming a thing of the past." With gunmen, and gamblers known to have clasped "palms" of good-will at the altar there is every indication that Herrin's reign of terror has passed.

PROGRAM FOR RIVER ENTAILS MILLION

city's equipment placed cost at $100,000. Careful planning reduced the cost by nearly $40,000. The front street sewage disposal plant now under construction will cost the city $10,000 less than the first estimate, chiefly because plans were gone over carefully in order to make expenditure as economical as possible.

Last year's sewer program included the Wellington-High system and the Emory street sewer. For storm sewers alone the province gave the city the right to borrow $200,000, most of which has already been spent.

Sewer work last year and this will run up expense to $350,000. Next year's program is one of operation, with no plans for buying the tax rate, unless popular edict calls for construction of new sewage disposal works and a new dam. Experimentation between the old activated sludge plant at London east and the plant now under construction at Front street is expected to save the city much money.

Summer Vote Favored.
Demand for a summer vote of construction of a dam is heard in some circles. Ald. Frank McKay pointed out today that a vote at this time would probably get the support of the people, but at the same time he points out that the city should fully consider costs before making any drastic steps.

"I hear talk of economy all round."

CONSTITUTION CONFERRED ON SOUTHWEST AFRICA

Associated Press Despatch.
Cape Town, S. Africa, July 14.—The House of Assembly has passed the bill conferring a constitution upon Southwest Africa, the former German colony which was mandated to the South African Union after the great war.

The bill does not confer complete autonomy, the Union government retaining considerable control. Premier Hertzog said the bill was a makeshift one in the future.

Former Premier Smuts cordially welcomed the measure, paying tribute to the German population and the German administration.

SHE WAS WEAK, THIN AND NERVOUS

One of the greatest strength givers and producers of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Extract—it's full of vitamins.

Thank goodness! that now, when a woman is weak and haggard and don't weigh what she ought to, she knows where to go for help. As all druggists are now selling McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

And it's a mighty good thing for skinny, rundown men and women to know that they can get the real Cod Liver vitamins in condensed form, that they can easily carry with them wherever they travel.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days—why money back and no quibbling about it, either.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine. Standard Drug Ltd., Liggett's are selling lots of them.—Adv.

It's the film on your teeth that makes them ugly

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel it. Make those cloudy teeth glisten. Begin today this new way.

EVERYWHERE are whiter teeth, teeth that gleam and sparkle. This offers you free a 10-day test of the way that brings them. Simply mail the coupon.

What you find will surprise you. Your teeth are covered with a dingy film that ordinary methods do not combat successfully. Under it are the prettier, whiter teeth that you envy.

The great enemy of teeth. Film is the great enemy of tooth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

British Medical Journal Heralds Work of Doctors Discovering Cancer Germ

Lancet Declares It Is Event in History of Medicine.

MAY SOLVE PROBLEM

Associated Press Despatch.
London, July 13.—The Lancet, the leading British medical journal, in its forthcoming issues, will emphasize the importance of the discovery of the cancer germ by Dr. William E. Gye, a member of the British institute of medical research, and Dr. J. E. Barnard of King's College, London. The Lancet considers this discovery as marking an event in the history of medicine.

A paper has been prepared by Dr. Gye on "The Etiology of Malignant New Growths" which the Lancet will publish. The Lancet says that Dr. Gye has succeeded in rendering the cancer virus visible, and even photographing it, which the journal considers "a great achievement."

Further, the Lancet says that the results of Dr. Barnard's observations so closely correspond with the experimental results obtained by Dr. Gye that "the existence of a living cancer virus would appear to be established, and these observations may represent the solution of the central problem of cancer."

Dr. Barnard is secretary of the Royal Microscopical society.

WESTERN CROPS ESCAPES MENACE
No Damage From Any Source Is General Report in Provinces.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Winnipeg, July 13.—Optimistic crop reports continue to be received by the Canadian National Railways here, with wheat in nearly all sections of the prairie provinces in the shot blade, and in some districts nearly 50 per cent headed out. Generally speaking, all reporting stations state: "No damage from any source, and prospects of the best."

With the exception of some Alberta districts, moisture is plentiful. Hay meadows are producing a big crop and pastures are in excellent condition.

Manitoba reports show improved conditions east of Winnipeg, where flooding was reported, and a heavy yield throughout the province is anticipated.

Wheat and barley are heading well, and flax is in flower.

Conditions generally are very good in Saskatchewan, with wheat two to three feet high. Slight damage from hail is reported in some areas.

Throughout the province of Alberta grains are well ahead of last year, and, apart from scattered sections reporting damage from hot weather or hail, conditions are very good, though further moisture would be welcomed.

A few isolated reports of trace of leaf and black rust have been received from some Saskatchewan and Manitoba points, but it has not reached the damaging stage.

GIRL BREAKS LEG.

W. Indies Rate On Mail Is Cut

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, July 13.—Hon. Charles Murphy, postmaster-general, announced that the rate on letters to the British West Indies has been reduced to three cents for a one-ounce letter, and two cents for each subsequent ounce, effective July 1. This is the rate which applies within Canada itself and to the United States and Mexico.

LEWIS IS SILENT ON BRITISH PLAN

President of U. S. Miners Says He Has Received No Appeal.

Associated Press Despatch.
Atlantic City, N.J., July 13.—John L. Lewis, president of the United States Mine Workers of America, left today for headquarters in Indianapolis, leaving Vice-President Phillip Murray in charge of the wage scale negotiations when they are resumed tomorrow.

Mr. Lewis, in leaving, said he went to attend to other matters of more immediate pressing importance than the negotiations here, which, for his organization will be continued by veteran negotiators of many years' standing.

Referring to the cable dispatches that American miners would be asked to strike in support of the English miners, Mr. Lewis said he had yet to receive an appeal for joint action. In advance of such an appeal, he had no comment to make. In the past the United Mine Workers have confined their support of European miners to expressions of sympathy.

Before leaving, Mr. Lewis conferred with Mr. Murray on the action of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce in asking that the Jacksonville agreement be revised in order to permit more general operations in the Pittsburgh district. This evening Mr. Murray wrote A. V. Snell, secretary of the chamber, denying that the agreement is responsible for existing conditions in western Pennsylvania, and declining to consider it.

LIBERALS CERTAIN OF GOOD LEADERS

North Huron and South Oxford Have Several Possible Candidates.

Special to The Advertiser

Blyth, July 13.—North Huron Liberals are to have the privilege of naming a candidate for the next federal election at a very early date. Such was the official decision reached by the executive of the Liberal riding association at an enthusiastic meeting held here this afternoon. The exact date of the nomination convention, which will be held at Wingham, is left with the president of the association, Gordon Young, Carlow, ex-reeve of Colborne Township.

The unanimous feeling voiced by the thirty members of the executive who attended the conference today, was in favor of the early placing of a Liberal candidate in the federal field to represent the party against John W. King, M.P., Bluevale, re-nominated by the Progressives last Tuesday, and George Spotton, Wingham, the unsuccessful Conservative stand-bearer in the 1921 election.

Prominently mentioned in connection with the Liberal nomination are the names of William Forbes Galloway, M.P., ex-mayor of Goderich, and Wm. H. Robertson editor and publisher of The Signal, Goderich. Either man is considered capable of capturing the riding for Premier Mackenzie King, and, as far as can be learned, both are willing to accept the nomination.

Dr. Galloway has behind him a fine record of medical service overseas, in addition to several years' experience in municipal politics in Goderich, both before and after the great war.

Mr. Robertson is particularly well known throughout the riding because of his affiliation with the Signal, as its editor, and for many years has made his influence felt on behalf of the Liberal party through the columns of his paper, both news and editorial.

Other Liberals who have served the party well and faithfully in the past, and whose names have been associated with the nomination at this time are: Gordon Young, president of the association; Hugh Hill, Benmiller, ex-school trustee, and member of Colborne township council, and Charles Robertson, reeve of Colborne Township, and warden of the county of Huron at the present time.

One or two papers in the county have carried the news that there would be a party convention at Wingham on Wednesday afternoon, but as no advertising has been done by the executive, it was thought advisable today to lay the convention over for a short time in order that arrangements might be made to secure a full representation of delegates from every polling sub-division in the riding.

With the Conservative party still badly split over the nomination of George Spotton, as against H. J. A. MacEwan, mayor of Goderich, and with the Progressives wavering between their adherence to a farmers' party, or a progressive party, despite their unanimity behind Mr. King, the prospects of the election of a Liberal

French Government Soothes People With Three-Day Holiday

By CONSTANTINE BROWN.
Special Cable to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright.
Paris, July 13.—The high cost of living, financial troubles, the war in Morocco, and the threat of a general strike which has caused a feeling of uneasiness throughout the country, seem to have been temporarily forgotten, thanks to the government's decision making the national holiday, the 14th of July, a three-day festival.

All banks, public offices and shops have been closed since Saturday afternoon, and various colored lanterns are strung across the front of terraces and cafes, while bands are playing in every square of Paris, permitting couples to dance in the open air. There is no charge for dancing, and only a nominal charge for drinks, but the government considers the expenditure quite worth while, for it knows that the psychology of the Latin race has not changed in 2,000 years, and that bread and games will make good-humored any ill-tempered French crowd.
