EXPLANATORY NOTE.

The preparation of these Tables was begun in 1900, at the instance of The Honourable David Mills, then Senator, Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Canada, with a view to facilitate a revision and consolidation of the Statutes of Canada; it has been continued under directions from his successor in office, the Honourable Charles Fitzpatrick, K.C., M.P.

The Tables embrace, as denoted by their title, all the Public General Acts, so called, of the Dominion of Canada, from and including The Revised Statutes, which came into force on March 1, 1887, down to the Statutes passed in the session of 1902. That is to say, all the statutes printed in the first of the two separate volumes published annually by the King's Printer, in compliance with the provisions of R. S. C., c. 2, s. 9, as amended by 1887, c. 2, s. 1. Many of these statutes, though for purposes of reference conveniently placed in the annual statute book, are not truly General Acts, but are either:

- (a) Merely Acts by which the machinery of Government is carried on for the current year; e. g. Supply Acts, Acts continuing expiring Acts, &c., &c.; or—
- (b) Acts of the nature of Legislative Warrants, e. g. for raising loans, for dealing with public funds, for carrying out certain public works, for granting indemnities, for authorizing the execution of documents, &c., &c.; or—
- (c) Local and Personal Acts, confined in their operation to definite localities or definite bodies or persons; or—
- (d) Merely temporary provisions to meet some special case.

With these the work of revision is not concerned, further than to sort them out and to extract from them such enactments as may be of permanent and general effect, but their repeals, amendments and other changes are noted in the Tables.

That method of reference to subsequent amendments has been adopted which, on the whole, seems to be the more convenient and conducive to accuracy. That is, the user of the Tables is carried on from one year to another, no systematic attempt being made to indicate opposite each particular section of the original Act all the changes that have been made by subsequent amendment of the amending enactments. To collate and connote these would anticipate the proper work of the reviser, would introduce an element of personal judgment, and in many cases would lead to confusion by multiplicity of references on diverse matters. Direct reference to such subsequent amendments is, however, made sometimes. In all cases it will be found that the method adopted ensures notice of all changes and, it is hoped, of all factors to be taken into account.

The Acts mentioned immediately below the title of any Act comprise not only those directly amending that Act, but also others which, having some bearing on it, or being in pari materia, or from analogy, should be consulted or compared as to the treatment of the subject or of some of its details. Some statutes must constantly be borne in mind. For instance "The Interpretation Act," of the existence of which most readers and many draughtsmen of statutes seem to be ignorant, "The Criminal Code, 1892," and its amendments, "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893." Such statutes are referred to in the Tables when their bearing is immediate, not when it is general or indirect.

Acts which have been specifically repealed or have expired are distinguished from those still in force by a difference in the type in which the titles are printed.

In that portion of the Tables which deals with The Revised Statutes, 1887, in order to economize space, and because for the purposes of a revision there is no practical utility in showing how a statute was amended before it was repealed, those chapters which have been repealed are noted only as to the year and chapter of the subsequent Acts amending or affecting them, the details as to each section being omitted. For purposes of legislative history these details can be supplied in another edition of the Tables. In the annual statutes from 1887 to 1902 the details of changes in statutes before their repeal, being comparatively few, have been noted.

For economy of space and readiness of reference the bearing of a note is not, as a rule, indicated, the reader being left to see the point for himself. In some cases, however, this bearing is indicated. The words "vide" and "compare" indicate, in a general way, respectively, interference and interdependence between the enactments which they join. Sometimes, however, they are but suggestions which the trained draughtsman will interpret for himself at once.

The expression "repealed" is used only where there has been a repeal in expressed words, or by necessary intendment. Repeals by implication are so noted when the intent seems clear, in other cases they are left to be inferred, or not, from the reference noted.

The expression "new section" means that the whole section referred to has been expressly repealed and a new section substituted in its place by the enactment noted in connection therewith. A similar explanation applies to a subsection, paragraph, or any minor division of a section.

The expression "effete" means that the enactment has accomplished its purpose, that it has spoken once for all, and so far as future effect is concerned, may be repealed, since its efficiency is provided for by The Interpretation Act, R. S. C., C. 1, S. 7, paragraphs (48) to (53).

The expression "expired" applies to enactments intended to operate only during a certain term which has ended, or under certain conditions which have been fulfilled.

The compiler hopes that the proposed work of revision may be materially facilitated by these Tables and that they may form a long step towards the necessary classification and arrangement of the material to be dealt with. It is not suggested that they are complete, but it is hoped they will be found accurate and to show the express amendments. As to the many effects of one enactment upon others the notes are but those which have suggested themselves to him in the course of his particular work. Other persons pursuing special lines of work will find many more notes to make. But at least the main points have been indicated.

Law Clerk of The Senate of Canada.

	44	Under the authority of s. 15 ante , s. 44 was, by Order in Council dated August 9, 1888, cancelled and a new s. 44 substituted. (The Canada Gazette , vol. 22, p. 242; Stats. 1889, p. li). But, as s. 15 only authorizes the Governor in Council to "modify the classification" the Order in Council could not repeal the section, but only amend it. The "provisions as to all grain" and those of subsection 2 would not be altered. By three subsequent Orders in Council, dated respectively August 29, 1895, October 14, 1895, and September 26, 1896, which are to be found in the statutes of 1896 and 1897, s. 44 was again amended and in each case a new s. 44 was substituted. Subsections 3 and 4 were added by 1894, c. 36, s. 2. Finally the whole of s. 44, as so amended by 1894, c. 36, s. 2, was repealed, and a new section substituted by 1899, c. 25, s. 4.
