Let us endeavour, then, to form some idea of the value of the Seignories, and of the sum it wested east to redeem the rights of the Seigniors, before we speak of the means of redeeming them.

The extent of land held under the Seigniorial Tenure in Lower Canada, may be estimated at 9,027,880 arpents. In proposing the redemption of the Seigniories by government, we may deduct the Seigniories known usder the name of the Jasuits' Estates, of which the government have the enjoyment, and the Seigniory of Lanzon, which is government property. It will be seen by the following table how many arpents of land will remain to be redeemed:

In easting the eye over this statement, it will, I think, appear that it will be sufficiently easy to obtain the required sum—that is, one-half of the fods and one-half of the capitalized rent—from the censitaires. A farmer possessed of a farm worth £200, would have to pay, according to this project, the following sum;—

According to the tep-graphy of Bouchette, I believe, that the Seigniories may be divided into three classes, according to the tep-graphy of Bouchette, I believe, that the Seigniories may be divided into three classes, according to the value of the land in each. By an estimate which I am about to make, an idea may, I think, be formed as to what mould be the amount required, loc the redeemption of the whole. I shall take, for example, the Seigniory cost is present peoprisor 225,000, besides the quire properties according to the above of the first class. This Seigniory cost is present peoprisor 225,000, besides the quire property in the country parts has not increased in the proce-making it, in alt, 230,000. Their whole value, I believe, would be found very trifling. I would take the average of ten years and add a per centage for improvement; and to the redemption of this, and to the entire extinction of the feudal title, I would devote the proceeds of all public lands. In fact, I would buy them one, and establish no new title but that of soccage or franc eles. No one who knows anything of human nature, or who has watched the progress of events with any attention, can expect that if the seignour do not do something of the kind their legal rights can no longer be maintained. And the longer they put off the settlement the worse terms will they obtain."

With regard to the Upper Canadians, I believe they would be in favor of the abolition of the Tenure, even at the public expense. The following paragraph is from a late number of the Brantford Heraid:

A good father had a large family of boys, for whose well-being he was providently solicitons. He owned several valuable properties in the City, and some hundreds of sores of wird lands, at a considerable distance in the backwoods. Being unxious, as we have said, for the welfare of off his children, he devised the following plan: He relected from among his sons, four of the strongest, to whom he offered the cocupaint of his wild and unproductive acres, with the understanding that the boys that remained in Town, should adopt mechanical or increntite callings; and that a system of mutual commerce should be causabilated in the family, by which the residents in the Country should purchase such wares as they night require from Town of their bothers; while those in Town would be bound to buy the agricultural products of their Country brothers. This plan seemed to work well for a time. Upon proceeding to the wharf, we found the stackes and porters exceedingly busy loading, and keeping an eye on the various valuables attached to the perunticulating Parliament. In addition to these minor officials, the Military Authorities had granted a guard of soldiers, who drew up a cordon of sentineds, with ball cartridge and fixed bayonsts. At the Government House, there was also a strong guard of soldiers, together with porters, and Ministerial attackes. These latter were employed in packing and loading, under the protection of the former,
who made a point of "looking daggers" at the gaping crowd without the enclosure. As eart after cart poured out of the parts, each loaded with the Government valuables, vis., office turniums, three legged stools, and apittoons, in turn quarted by four or five soldiers, fully armed and equipped, the crowd was holstrous—so much so, as to give their mirth a satisfied effect. We certainly never before felt for man, as we did for these noble soldiers, arrayed in all the 'gomp and circumstance of glectous war,' toiling alongside these marts, laden writt a few aniscrable places of office furniture. That the feelings of the soldiers beat in unison with our owns, we are certainly never

How long is this terror-stricken Government going to bring the whole Province into ridicule with every nation in the world?

An investigation has been going on at the Custom House here, for the last few days, and is still proceeding, into the general management of the business of the office. We understand that the Surveyor, Mr. Roy, has given in his resignation, under protest, on account of the mode is which the investigation is being carrind on. The Commissioner charged with this investigation, is Mr. Meudell, the Collector of the Port of Brockville. We are not aware of the specific charges, if any, preferred against any officer or officers of the Customs at this Port, and from the course pursued, the investigation seems to be of a general character, embracing a wide range with respect to time, and not confined to particular charges. This is evident from the contents of a circular, which has been sent to the merchants of the city indiscriminately, as well as to others residing at a distance, but who have occasional business to transact at this Port in the course of the year. The following is the circular we refer to: ing is the circular we refer to:

Custos House Returns.—The following account of Custom House returns, shews an increase in the revenue derived from daties levied on imports, and this owing, we presume, in no slight degree to the Customs Bill, which received the Royal assent on the memorable 25th April last. This return is all very well as far as it goes to replenish the impoverished exchequer of the Province, but we must remember that the articles on which these duties are collected, come from countries very little influenced in their market quotations by the supplies which they furnish to Canada, and consequently the consumers here, particularly in Canada West, are made to pay smartly by this indirect taxation on what are in most case considered the necessaries of life. But then there will be something handsome to pay the £1000 a year officiale, and to buy up nungry members of the House of Assembly, who may from time to time threaten all sorts of combinations, cabals &c., to frighten Ministers, Heaven save the mark t out of their propriety. Our properity as a colony, or a people, or whatever else we are to be must depend upon what we export, or what we manufacture or produce for domestic mas, or on both sources together. We pay, according to the calculation of British manufacturers, or what we manufacture or produce for domestic mas, or on both sources together. We pay, according to the calculation of British manufacturers, or the rate of eight shillings sterling or upwards per head, in Canada, for imports from Great Britain, accusaive of all duties. By the same authority we learn that Brother Jonathan pays only at the rate of eight shillings sterling per head for British Manufactures for his family.—Kingston Argue.

Mount Washington House,

White Mountains, N. H., Oct. IIst 1849.

J. S. Tuckers & Co. . - Dear Sirs, —An Englishman by the name of Frederick Strickland, who said he had been stopping at your house, came to the White Mountains, and arrived at the Notch House," kept by Thomas J. Crawford, Thursday, the 18th instant. On the 19th he left the Notch House, is company with another Englishman and a guide, to ascend the Mountains. When they reached Mount Pleasant, the other gunlieman wished to return, there being considerable snow on the mountains. He (Mr. Srickland) gave up his horse to the guide, and proceeded on foot for the summit of Mount Washington, intending to come down my bridal path. The guide and the other gentleman returned to Mr. Crawford's. Mr. Crawford sent the baggage of the gentleman who had ascended the mountain to my house, but as he did not come that night, I thought perhaps he returned to Mr. Crawford's. The next morning Mr. Crawford came along and inquired for him. I told him he was not here. We immediately started in search of him. We found only some parts of his clothes. To-day we started in large mumbers, and about 10 o'clock found him dead. He missed the path and was lost. His body is here at my house. I wish you to have a sotice of the facts published in the papers; also if you learned anything of his friends while at your house, bottly them of the facts. He was a tall, alim young man, some 25 or 30 years of age. Registers his name, Frederick Strickland, Alford Club, London.

He had but little money with him after paying Crawford's bill "at his house. Six dollars and twenty-seven cents was all. I presume he kept a deposite in Boston, in fact he told Mr. Crawford as much. I will see him decently buried to-morrow, in such a manner that he can be taken up if his friends should wish it. What little effects he has in his trank will be safe.

We have files of Jamaica papers to the 20th instant. There is not much iff them of special interest to American readers. The latest papers are filled with reitentions of discontent against the Colonial policy of the Home Government, and the discussions in the House of Assembly on the Import Duties Bill, which had been ordered to a third reading, and has probably become a law.

As the bill was expected to undergo important changes in committee or on the third reading, and our advices not informing us on these points, we cannot yet give the acade of duties under the new as compared with the former act. Agreeably to as compared with the former act. Agreeably to the resolutions which have passed the House of Assembly, duties are to be demanded at the customs, as soon as the import bill shall have passed, and it is now marking the port of the port Instants going Home.—About one hundred and fifty natives of Ireland returned to their own country in the packet ship Constitution, having been unable to find employment, or employment sufficiently remunerative to induce their longer stay. Several parties have also returned from Boston for the same reason. The truth is that the differ on the Atlantic board have been greatly overburdened with immigration, and the evil is beginning to work its own cure. Had these persons possessed sufficient means, or sufficient courage, to go out West, they would not only have had plenty of employment, with good wages, but a hearty welcome. But it was cheaper to return to Ireland.—New York paper.

stiended this Institution has induced the Directors to REDUCE the RATES originally required in British North Americs to the ordinary European Rates. The result of such Reduction is to enable parties to avail themselves of the important benefits of Life Assurance at much lower Rates of Premium than those of any other Assurance Company transacting business in Canada. The Directors have also resolved to extend to British North America the advantages afforded by the HALF CREDIT RATES at PREMIUM which have been so highly approved and are so generally adopted by Policy Holders in the United Kingdom. The most liberal conditions are likewise offered to he Assured in the limits to which they may proceed by see or land, to other parts of North America without affecting their Interest in their respective Policies.

ED TO BE AT THE POINT OF DEATH.

A respectable femple, in the neighborhood of Loughall, was attacked with Typhus fever, and lay for five days without has ing tasked any description of food. Sie was given over by the Surgeon, and preparations were made for her demine. Mr. Reitjamin Mackie, the Quinter, whose case is referred to above, heard of the circumstance, and knowing the immense born fit that he himself had derived from Holloway's Pills, recommended an immediate trial, and eight were given to her, and the same number was continued night and morning for three days, and in a very short time she was completely cared.

N. B.—From advice just received, it appears that Coicael Dear, who is with his Regiment in India, the 21st Faulicers, cure de himself of a very had attack of Faver by these calebrated Pills. There is no doubt that any Fever, however, main, man, may be cured by taking, night and morning, copious does of this fine medicine.
