Formal Declaration of War by U. S. a Matter of Days

New York Takes Prompt Action to Prepare for War; Address Was Hailed by all With Cheers

By Courier Leased Wire.
New York, April 3.—Every policeman in New York not on active patrol reported this morning for reserve duty. Police Commissioner Woods issued the emergency order last night after reading the President's address to Congress asking for the declaration of a state of war between the United States and Germany. The order will keep about 12,000 men ready for immediate service until further notice.

The force of customs guards at the piers, where the German merchantmen have been tied up since the beginning of the war, was increased today from 400 to 700. Customs freighters anchored off Stepleron were ordered to move closer together so that they might be more easily watched and additional guards were placed aboard.

The news from Washington was announced last night in many of the theatres and hotels and restaurants. It was greeted there with cheers and with the singing of patriotic songs. There were few demonstrations on the streets. At the corner of seventh avenue and 125th street, where the declaration of war was read, a crowd of about 100 persons gathered, who denounced the war, were dragged from a truck and one of them was beaten. One arrest was made.

One of the most enthusiastic demonstrations took place in the Metropolitan Opera House. The performance was interrupted while men rushed into the street to buy extras. James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, rose in his box and led the audience in three cheers for President Wilson. Cheers for the army and navy and for the allies followed. Mme. Ober, one of the dozen German stars singing "The Wife of Bath" flinched, and was carried from the stage.

A big Socialist meeting in Carnegie Hall burst into hoots and hisses when word of the President's action was received. The meeting had been called as a demonstration for peace. Several prominent Socialist orators spoke in opposition to participation in the war by the United States.

CONFERENCE BUT NO TRUCE IS PROPOSED

By Courier Leased Wire.
Berlin, April 3.—via London.—The proposal of Count von Czernin, Austrian foreign minister, that a peace conference be held by the belligerents without the cessation of hostilities, apparently represents the attitude of all the Central governments. The proposal, which was approved at a conference of high personages at Berlin representing the four countries, The Lokal Anzeiger says: "Count Czernin's statement would not have been made if he had not previously obtained assurance that it would meet with the approval of his allies. This agreement will presently be affirmed by a conference at Berlin. If our enemies refuse to accept this opportunity the responsibility will be theirs. We are ready to hold out and the coming conference will emphasize this with great distinctness."

Weather Bulletin
Toronto, April 3.
The disturbance which was over the Great Lakes yesterday was passed to the Atlantic and another from the far west is now passing the Mississippi Valley. The weather continues cold in the west and in the eastern provinces. Rain was fairly heavy yesterday in the peninsula of Ontario and in Quebec.

Forecast
Moderate winds, fair and cool. Wednesday—Easterly winds mostly cloudy and cool.

WARNING NOT GIVEN TREVOSE

British Freight Steamer Was Sunk Without Warning; Six Missing

SURVIVORS LANDED From Steamship Venezia Tell Terrible Tale

HARDSHIPS ENDURED Adrift in Mid Ocean Were Agonizing

New York, April 3.—The Associated Press says: The British freight steamship Trevose, recently reported by Germany as having been sunk, was torpedoed without warning on March 19, and twenty-four British crew members were picked up. They said that five of their number died from exposure during this time. Many of those rescued are still suffering from frost bite and frozen limbs. The Trevose, they said, carried a crew of 100 men and twenty-four passengers. The British admiralty has already announced that ten of the persons she carried died and that others were missing.

In the boat met by the Venezia were six of the passengers, Captain Chave, the ship's surgeon, the engineer and fifteen of the crew.

Seven boats were launched from the Trevose, but owing to the strong gale blowing they soon separated, and thus far 100 of the 124 souls aboard are unaccounted for.

U-Boat Unseen.
The survivors of the Trevose said that the vessel was sunk early in the morning of the 19th, the U-boat being sighted by anyone on board and giving no warning. The crew took to the boats, which soon drifted apart. The survivors picked up by the Albion had been on that ship only a few hours when she was in turn torpedoed.

En Route for Egypt.
The Trevose was on her way from New Castle, England, to Alexandria, Egypt. She was of 3,112 tons gross and was built at South Shields, England, 1896. The Albion Castle, British, was on a voyage from London to Cape Town, Africa. She was owned by the Union Castle Mail Steamship Company. She was of 5,900 tons gross and was built in Glasgow in 1901. The Trevose was owned by the Hain Steamship Company, Limited, of St. Ives, England.

SPAIN QUIET AGAIN.
By Courier Leased Wire.
Washington, April 3.—Conditions in Spain have become normal again. A despatch from the Spanish foreign office to Ambassador Riano here today said: "Normal conditions have been re-established at Valladolid and two days ago have been re-opened for the railway workmen there. Absolute tranquility prevails throughout Spain."

SELLS JEWELS

Amsterdam, April 3, via London. A Berlin despatch to the Cologne Gazette says that the empress has sent her private jewels to a neutral country to be sold. The jewels are valued at a large sum.

Lofty Address of the President, Placing Him in Position Equal to That of Lincoln, is To-day Considered by Both Houses; Declaration of War Certain to Come This Week

By Courier Leased Wire
Washington, April 3.—The United States really is at war with the German empire to-day, awaiting only the formal recognition of Congress.

Every agency was moving to gird the nation against the government which president Wilson in his address to Congress, characterized as a natural foe to liberty. The cabinet at a war session was called to discuss the extension of credits to the nations already at war against Germany; the raising of money by taxation for use of the United States in the war; the equipment of the navy to the fullest state of efficiency to cope with the submarine menace, and the raising of a great army on the principle of universal liability to service—the first increment of which is to be 500,000 men.

Work in Congress on the resolution to formally declare a state of war existing went rapidly forward. The Senate foreign relations committee approved the resolution as introduced without change in chief. The house is expected to act later to-day.

Action by the Senate within at least two or three days was predicted to-day even by Senators opposing it. Some of the "wilful men" named by President Wilson declared emphatically there would be no filibuster or protracted debate, although several want to speak at length. Amendments from republican senators, especially to prevent a formal alliance with the Entente or a federal loan to them are expected. Leaders of both parties in the Senate are disposed to pass only appropriation and other war measures and adjourn. Some leaders believe it possible to adjourn by May 15, but some republicans think June 1, more possible.

House leaders predicted unanimous support to the President. The only possible objection foreseen by them was to a possible proposal to send troops abroad at once. Later, after an army had been well trained, if the war continued, they thought the House would support such a plan.

In the wave of Patriotic fervor which swept over the House to-day after overnight consideration of the President's address, most of the so-called pacifist group fell into line by declaring that if war came they would stand by the President. (Continued on page 4)

ABANDON PEACE BECAUSE CONDITIONS ARE INTOLERABLE

American Press is Unanimous in Its Approval and Affirmation of Its Loyalty to Wilson; Deliverance Most Momentous, Most Significant Since Declaration of Independence; German Americans Unite in Pledging Fealty to the Land of Their Adoption

New York, April 3.—Commenting editorially, The Louisville Courier-Journal says: "Not since their declaration of independence has there been a more significant, a more momentous deliverance on the part of the American people than yesterday was made for them by President Wilson."

The liberty won for the new continent by the founders of our republic, is the same liberty for whose conservation and perpetuation against the assaults of the most powerful and desperate foe to liberty in all the world the President calls the people to arms.

Ready for Test.
Cleveland Plain Dealer: President Wilson's words to Congress asking for a declaration recognizing that a state of war exists between the United States and Germany finds Americans ready for the test. We abandon peace because the conditions of peace, as laid down by the German Imperial Government have become intolerable.

Notable Service.
Cleveland Leader: President Wilson rendered his country a notable service by making a statement to Congress on the American causes for war with Germany which are clear, strong and convincing from the point of view of international and universal humanity and morality. The nation will strike with a clear conscience.

All for One.
Albany Knickerbocker Press: President Wilson has voiced the unanimous will of the American people. He has behind him the united will and resources of a mighty nation. From now to the end of the war we are all for one flag.

Burden of the Huns
Albany Argus: Never was there a more terrific arraignment or masterly message, more soul-stirring in the annals of public affairs. Its burden is that of the Hohenzollerns and all they stand for must be exterminated.

Ask Referendum
Louisville Anzeiger (German): Our president contests in his message that we have to go to war to free the world of autocratic rule. The German peoples, says he, were not asked if they wanted to go to war or not. Even if so, let us not make the same mistake, and give our people by a referendum vote the opportunity to decide themselves about the momentous question: Peace or War?

Hypenates Loyalty
Freie Presse and Abend Presse (German), Cincinnati: Whatever may happen our country shall have no better guardian of its internal peace than the American citizen of German parentage. The nation rightfully expects us to know our duty, and we must and will prove that we are determined, as all true, faithful and honest citizens should be, not to deviate one hair's breadth from the narrow path that our duty and our conscience point out to us to walk.

True Citizens
The Westliche Post, St. Louis: There can exist no doubt over the standing of the American citizens of German extraction. The German-Americans do not have to give assurance of loyalty. They have steadily shown themselves to be true and dutiful citizens; with their blood they have helped to build and uphold the nation.

SIBERIAN EXILES ON WAY HOME

Political Prisoners of Old Regime Freed by the New Government

ARE OF ALL CLASSES

And Victims of the Recently Overthrown Autocracy

LIBERATION BEGUN

And Already Fifty Thousand Are Free

By Courier Leased Wire.
Tyumen, Siberia, March 31, via Petrograd and London, April 3.—Fifty thousand sledges carrying victims of the old regime back to freedom in the new Russia from the mines and convict settlements of Siberia, are speeding in endless chain across the snows of north Asia towards the nearest points on the Trans-Siberian railway. Their passengers range from members of the old Terrorist societies to exiles who were banished by administrative decrees without trial or even known offense.

It is a race against time, as the spring thaw is imminent, and the roads, even in the coldest settlements of the lower Lena, will soon be impassable. Exiles, who do not reach the railroad within a fortnight, must wait six weeks or two months until the ice melts and river navigation begins.

In order to witness this unprecedented migration, a correspondent of the Associated Press came here in company with a member of the Duma, M. Rozenoff, and two members of the former council of the empire. The three officials were sent by the provisional government to explain to the natives in these remote Russian outposts, the nature of the great change which has come to the country. Their mission carries them to some scores of thousands of heathen Asiatic tribesmen, and they are specially directed to instruct voters in regard to the coming constituent assembly which will decide the form of Russia's new government.

The liberation of Siberia's prisoners has barely begun. West of the Urals the correspondent only encountered a handful of exiles who, when the revolution began, were at or near the railroad. The first large party was encountered when the Siberian express reached Ekaterinburg, in the Urals. It consisted of 150 political convicts and administrative exiles including 20 members of the Jewish revolutionary band, mostly from the Verkholek district west of Lake Baikal. The exiles were travelling in special cars and had been on the road continuously from March 24, five days after they first heard of the revolution.

The cars were met by a vast crowd at the railroad station which cheered them tumultuously. The returning exiles returned the cheers, but they were in a deplorable physical condition, shaggy, uncouth, unwashed and extremely emaciated. The exiles had started west so hurriedly that they arrived in an extraordinary variety of incongruous garb.

VISITED TOWNS.
By Courier Leased Wire.
Paris, April 3.—President Poincaré today visited the towns in the Somme region devastated by the Germans during their retreat. Addressing the townspeople the President said the French nation was resolved to continue the war until a victory which assured the victims of full reparation for all atrocities committed was obtained.

U. S. and Britain Stand Shoulder to Shoulder in Greatest Battle for Freedom of the World

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, April 3.—12.30 p.m.—Under the heading "Brothers in Arms" The Pall Mall Gazette says today of President Wilson's speech:

"The President frames the issue in a setting calculated to stir the deepest emotions of the American people. The Russian revolution enables him to commend it to them as a conflict between the virtues of democracy and the crimes of autocracy. America enters the war without reservations. Her action will be welcomed both for the substantial aid which she will bring and for the community of spirit which she will further among the free nations of the world. It is a great satisfaction to be joined thus with the nation carrying so much of our blood in a crusade worthy of its best traditions and ours."

The Globe says: "German statesmen have scornfully affected to regard the entrance of the United States as negligible. We can safely leave them to find out their mistake. In the meantime we are content to stand shoulder-to-shoulder with the land of the free in the greatest battle for freedom the world has ever seen."

No Break
Washington, April 3.—President Wilson's address to Congress contains the first official reference to the government's refusal to receive Count Tarnowski, newly accredited Austro-Hungarian ambassador, and makes clear that the President has no intention of forcing a diplomatic break with Austria at the present.

The President said: "The Austro-Hungarian Government has, indeed, avowed its unqualified endorsement and acceptance of the reckless and lawless submarine warfare adopted now without disguise by the Imperial German Government, it has therefore not been possible for this government to receive Count Tarnowski."

ARTILLERY FIGHTING BY FRENCH

By Courier Leased Wire.
Paris, April 3.—Violent artillery engagements are in progress in the Champagne, the war office announces. No important actions are reported along the line of the German retreat. The statement follows: "From the Somme to the Aisne there were intermittent artillery actions. Patrol encounters took place north and south of the Ailette. We captured six machine guns during the fighting yesterday in the region of Vauvallon."

"The artillery fighting continues with violence in the region of Butte du Mesnil and Maisons de Champagne. In Alsace a German attack against one of our trenches in the sector of Seppois-le-Haut was repulsed by our fire."

Simcoe, April 3.—The town council held a long session after midnight having gone through an unusually heavy session and after leaving His Worship without a single "left-over" communication. All the members were present.

The usual line of sundry accounts and an item of about $7.50 from the water works system for hydrant rent, were all duly certified to and passed.

Communications
 Alliance re "On to Ottawa" movement. No action.

From Mrs. Kelly and Porter solicitor for Mrs. Janet Murray of Port Dover, re action on sidewalk in front of Boyd's store. No action.

From Board of License Inspectors re legislation to exempt hotels from business tax. No action.

From J. B. Jackson re supplying road oil—contract already closed with another firm.

John McCullough, Chief officer of Health re infantile mortality and inspection of sources of milk, and recommending the passing of a by-law.

From Mrs. Lorne Campbell thanking council and citizens of Simcoe for sympathy and desire to commemorate the memory of her late husband.

From Mayor Bowby of Brantford re representative to meeting in Hamilton on 5th inst. to protest against the northern route for the provincial trunk road. Mayor Williamson was delegated to represent Simcoe.

From the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa acknowledging the receipt of petition re killing of young cattle and stating that the Government hopes to attain the same result by an educational campaign and by arranging with banks so that money may be obtained to purchase food to tide stock owners over the winter.

From the Post Office Dept. in reply to petition for mail service over L. E. and N. Railway. Matter "is under consideration."

From Board of Education submitting estimates and asking for $14,973.34 for 1917 as set out in Saturday's issue.

Reports of committees
 The special Sewer Committee reported having received four tenders for tile and four for laying same. Engineer Marston made a comparative table of the tenders and that of the Toronto Sewer Pipe Co. for tile and of Hays and Co., of St. Thomas for laying the extensions were accepted, and the Mayor and Clerk were authorized to make contracts with these companies. Work will commence under the agreement before May 15th. The total cost is slightly over $15,000 plus cost of blasting boulders, if any, inspecting engineers fees and incidentals in connection with the debentures.

Mr. Marston's estimate made some time ago was $16,494 without allowance for discount on sale of debentures. The tender for the service branches is lower than that of 1914 for similar work.

Chairman Craig of the Curator Committee reported expenditures for the first quarter as $98.91 and a small grant was placed to the credit of this account.

The Clerk reported the receipt of $304.27 as dividend on the Innes Fund's preferred Stock in Dominica Cannery.

Market Square Buildings
 Reeve Carter reported for the Fire, Water and Light Committee calling attention to the fact that the mounting of the Town Hall was insecure, and outlining a plan to convert the market building into a fire hall with doors on the Robinson St. side allowing easy egress for hose wagons and other fire apparatus. He thought that the only material alterations to the building would be a tower on the corner built with a view to installing a clock there some time in the future. Such an arrangement would admit of the horses being kept close to the wagon and the arrangement would solve the question of providing quarters for road machinery without the erection of any more buildings.

Mr. Doughty was deputed to have the necessary repairs made to the bell supports and His Worship, the members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and Alderman Doughty were authorized to visit other towns known to have good fire halls before directing the making of plans for the proposed alterations to the market building.

Chairman Doughty brought up the question of insurance on the Shoe plant, and after he and Alderman Langford had demonstrated to the Council that the town's interests were not sufficiently safeguarded, a motion was passed directing the company to effect insurance accordingly to agreement and in the meantime to furnish to the council an assurance that the present insurance was not invalidated by reason of the increased hazard due to the introduction of a second industry into the building.

Cutting Down Interest Account.
 Chairman Langford of the Finance Committee, reported that the Board of Education had fallen in with his suggestion to release some $3,800 lying in savings at 3 per cent. Instead of asking the council to furnish money at 5 1-2 per cent. He thought the utilities commission should do the same with the $3,500 which has as he claimed, been wrongfully in the hands of the commission to the town's loss in interest amounting to $200. His worship thought the figure somewhat high, but was inclined to remain neutral in his dual position as a member of both bodies. He had suggested that the money might be turned over however.

Long Standing Abuse
 Passing on with the remark that he did not know how the commission got the money, and he doubted if the commission knew, the man on the lid of the money-box quoted the law to establish that it was the imperative duty of the commission to pay over any amount due to the town, if required, all surplus in the hands of the commission, that this had not been done in 1916 and as there was nothing forthcoming it was evidently intended to continue in the irregular practice.

Clerk McCall agreed with his interpretation of the matter, and finally the council, by motion, requested the commission to handle their funds as directed by the statute.

Later in the evening it was informally suggested that the pumping station end of the waterworks system was not properly or satisfactorily looked after, and that water pressure had been allowed to get too low frequently, especially at late, and after the fire inspectors report is to hand there will doubtless be a shaking up about the power house.

No Resignations Yet.
 The council received no communication regarding resignations of commissioners. His Worship, however, said he had the verbal assurance of his colleagues that unless council rescinded the former motion to raise the salary, they would throw up the job.

Messrs. Doughty and Carter said they had men offer to fill in the blanks temporarily. Messrs. Cropp and Jacques would like to have seen the men receive more pay, but with others thought the council could not recede now.

Must Keep to the Right.
 Horse drawn vehicles, as well as autos will do well to obey the rule and keep clear of the middle line of the street. The police committee will endeavor to enforce a better observance of the provincial statute, even if some one has to go before the P. M. The ideal method is for slow moving traffic to keep to the curb and allow the more rapid traffic to pass without crossing the middle line of the street with the risk of getting foul. There is to be an educational campaign directed especially to horse drawn vehicles, at present the chief offenders.

No More Out Cuts.
 Chief Canning will be instructed to give one warning and then a summons to those who persist in opening the cut out about town. As there are only three or four pronounced offenders, it is little trouble anticipated in this regard. The police committee was authorized to put up some "keep to the right" signs.

New Water Wagon
 It is not surprising that for the first "dry" summer, chairman Jackson should put in a request for a new water wagon. The others have yielded to the wear and weather. Mayor Williamson and Reeve Carter will assist him in the purchase of a new tank with combined sprinkler and flushing attachments.

Whole Council for War Gardens.
 Mr. E. F. Neff paid the council a short call with reference to tonight's meeting in the interests of the production campaign, and the whole council was delegated to attend.

And the Parks.
 Chairman Carter asked for an appropriation of $100 for the parks committee. He got it. His wife said he had an enquiry from a lady regarding the possible acceptance by the committee of a swinging post for children, and he was to be congratulated. He was assured it would be acceptable. Another member had heard of some movement to encourage the building of bird houses and thought it would be money well spent to offer prizes or such to encourage the young folk in the matter of kindness to our bird benefactors. There may be some such inducement offered.

More Revenue.
 Junk dealers will pay a license of $25 and pedlars $20 for operating in Simcoe. Transients have been operating for a few months in the summer from places where licensees are required. They did not spend the winter here and it was thought they should be taxed.

Money By-law Passed.
 The by-law to raise the extra $20,000 for the completion of the second ward school was put through its various stages though, it is not intended to offer the debentures for sale.

The question of having a cleaning up day and making arrangements for disposal of refuse was discussed, at the Mayor's suggestion, but no definite policy was adopted.

A motion to increase the stipend offered was defeated. It was decided to hold weekly prayer meetings under the direction of the session.

I. O. D. E. Notes

Port Rowan fishermen are at a loss to know how they are going to get along without the west end light.

Turnkey I. McNally was home with a gripe to-day.

William Smith, whom we nicknamed six months ago "Profanity" Smith, completed yesterday his six-months' sentence for vagrancy, during the greater part of which time he has been a helpless invalid, and he is at present unable to leave his cell, or even his bed. He apparently has had one or two strokes of paralysis. He has some money, and the question of his transfer to the Industrial home or to some place more suitable to a man in his condition, occupied county officials yesterday.

While in town, Mrs. Gorforth, of Hanan, China, will be the guest of Mrs. W. P. Innes.

Order boards were installed to-day at the L.E. and N. depot. Those who did not get The Courier last night, will please not blame the boys. A combination of circumstances intervened. The few scores of enquiries were gladly received as proof Simcoians are getting the "Courier" habit after tea.

The Late A. A. Culver
 The funeral of the late A. A. Culver was conducted at 2.30 this afternoon from his late residence, 111 Stanley street. The L.O.O.F. conducted service at the house and the Masonic order led the procession to Oakwood cemetery, where the last rites of burial were conducted. All stores had blinds drawn from 1.30 to 3.00 o'clock, and business men and their clerks stood about the late home of the departed, in numbers seldom seen on such occasions, and in a downpour of rain. Three weeks ago last night deceased was in lodge and chosen as a delegate to go up to "Gardens" as delegate, in numbers with inflammatory rheumatism and kindred ills, his system had been preyed upon astonishingly. Strong men trembled by his Bier—men who had known him as a farmer, led in Townsend, who had associated with him through the years, till he became the leading genius "furnished, exclusively, in Simcoe—men who had found Albert, as one remarked, "square from every angle, never desiring public honours. Mr. Culver was a model celebration man in sports, in a civic celebration, in politics, or when he took the major part of the Doughner picnic. He persuaded rather than led, and his opinion carried weight. He was agreeable to the propositions of others and lent his energies thereto as freely as he could. He was a stalwart, trusted, true; those who knew him best would consider it no extravagance to say of him in the words of England's prince of English, "His life was gentle, and the elements so subdued in him that nature might stand up and say to all the world, "This was a man."

Will Hear More Candidates
 For the fourth time the congregation of St. Paul's Church met last night to moderate in a call for a preacher, and five more men will be heard.

One vote was taken and all names except the two upon which the congregation broke even at the first meeting, were voted upon. There was no decided preference for any one man.

A motion to increase the stipend offered was defeated. It was decided to hold weekly prayer meetings under the direction of the session.

CANADA HAILS WILSON'S SPEECH

Ottawa the Scene of Great Enthusiasm Over Action of U. S.

Ottawa, April 3.—While no official reference by any member or official of the Canadian Government to the impending entry of the United States on the side of the Entente Allies is to be expected before final action of Congress, the clean-cut address of President Wilson was received with enthusiasm in all circles of the capital this morning when the full text of the message became available through the press. Announcement that the President had asked that Congress declare a state of war existed, had been flashed by the newspapers last night, and Ottawa went to bed with the feeling that Canadians and Americans were now virtually brothers in arms. In official circles to-day the utmost satisfaction is evident over the passages in the president's address referring to generous extension of credits to the Allies and non-interruption of the flow of munitions across the Atlantic.

The attitude of President Wilson had been so accurately forecast in news despatches since the call for the extra session of Congress, that the element of surprise did not figure in the announcement of the definite step towards actual war, but nevertheless, Ottawa's attention is to-day focussed on Washington almost to the exclusion of events in the war zone, and there is a feeling of grim satisfaction that the Congressional resolution will prove one of the decisive factors in hastening the end of hostilities. It is believed the immediate effect in this country will be a renewed impetus to recruiting.

CONTEST CERTAIN FOR ELECTION

Two Candidates For Aldermanic Honors Have Already Qualified.

The necessary steps to qualify have only been taken by two of the candidates nominated yesterday at noon for the vacancy caused on the council board from Ward Three by the resignation of Ald. W. A. Holt. Mr. Fred Harp, the well-known local Dalhousie St. grocer, and Mr. J. J. Hurley, of the Hurley Printing Company, Mr. A. G. Montgomery was also nominated, but as he is not qualified. The time for qualification expires to-night.

Mr. Frederick C. Harp was proposed by Arthur Coulbeck and seconded by Edward Cutmore. Mr. Harp was a member of the council last year, representing Ward Three, and was a decided asset to the finance and fire and light committees, both of which claimed him as a member. He is a grocer, the proprietor of the Cash Bargain store on Dalhousie street.

Mr. J. J. Hurley, who has also qualified, was nominated by Chas. S. Tapscoot, and seconded by Harold Gibbons. He is the manager of the Hurley Printing Company.

There was some irregularity in connection with the nomination of Mr. A. G. Montgomery, his support was secured by a number of lawyers, Messrs. M. W. McEwen and M. F. Muir. Mr. Muir is said to have entered the council chambers, secured a blank and left, later sending the paper filled out, back by a messenger. Deputy Returning Officer J. W. Tutt, doubting the legality of such a procedure, has placed the matter in the hands of the city solicitor.

Dundas raised $34,300 for the Patriotic Fund.

Considerable damage was done by a gale at Tillsonburg.

Peterboro citizens last night tendered a banquet to Senator Frederick Nichols of Toronto.

Miss Mary Boyle of Hamilton, 91, was fatally burned while attempting to light a gas stove.

THE SITUATION.
 There has been stiff fighting on the western front along a ten mile line south of Arras and six strongly fortified villages were occupied. The British have pushed forward to within two miles of St. Quentin and one report says that the place is in flames. During the advance it is announced that four hundred German dead were counted in Savy Wood alone.

It is significant of British superiority that in the recent battle at Gaza, the Turkish casualties numbered eight thousand, while British killed totalled less than four hundred.

Now that the United States is definitely at war with Germany some apprehension exists in certain quarters as to how the vast Teuton population within their gates will behave. Over the Courier leased wire today there comes the story of special precautionary methods in this regard, but the Courier is inclined to the view that the bulk of them having all their interests in the States, will be slow to do anything to imperil them, at least in a concerted way. It is quite likely, of course, that there may be sporadic outbreaks.

WILSON'S SPEECH
 After his unfortunate declaration that there was such a thing as a nation being "too proud to fight," the message which President Wilson delivered in Washington yesterday, comes in pleasing contrast.

In that deliverance, the occupant of the White House demonstrates that he can do something more than coin mere phrases. He has awakened at last to the deadly Hun menace which threatens his own country, as well as the rest of the world, and his language was as virile, as the occasion has long since demanded. It has been a tardy awakening, but evidently now complete and recorded with proper emphasis. He declared that "neutrality is no longer feasible or desirable" in connection with such a foe, and that "we will not choose the path of submission—we accept the status of belligerent thus thrust upon us."

Without doubt the most satisfactory part of the deliverance, as far as the Allies are concerned, is the statement that it will be a "practical duty" for the United States to support the nations already at war on behalf of the right and human liberty with the material which they can obtain only from us or by our assistance.

Add to that cash and the help of the navy, and the essential things are guaranteed which our neighbors can alone effectively give for many months to come.

Another significant point was the declaration of "the principle of universal liability to service" with regard to all men fit to be drafted. Thus at the start of the President recommends going further than this Dominion has yet done.

THE ONTARIO TRUNK LINE.
 The interests of this and adjacent communities are of far too much importance, in connection with the proposed Provincial highway, to permit of the matter being handled on a one man basis.

In this, as in other things, Mayor Bowby is manifesting such a tendency and, unless checked, a good deal of harm will result. His letter to the Mayor of London, in which he undertook to give that gentleman a calling-down, is simply one illustration of the mistake of individual instead of concerted action.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Lofty Address

Army Measures
 The President in his address did not make it very clear exactly how he expected an army of 500,000 men, which he proposed is to be raised, in a recent C.P.R. wreck at Chaplain. Five other men were injured. "Two universal training bills were introduced yesterday, one drafted by the army general staff, and the other by Senator Chamberlain. Whether either may be used as the frame-work for a measure to raise a big army is unknown.

War Strength.
 It is assumed that the President will authorize an increase of both the national guard and the regular army to war strength. That in itself would give an army of more than 700,000 men, in addition to the proposed new force of 500,000. The navy already is recruiting to war strength under an order of the President issued last week and 60,000 national guardsmen are doing police duty in their respective states.

Matters No Worse.
 Word of the sinking of the American freighter Aztec by a German submarine came just before the President started to the Capitol to deliver his message last night. He did not know of it, however, until after he had returned to the White House. It was the first armed American ship to be sunk, but officials did not feel that it affects the present situation materially.

The President's address in which he denounced the course of the German Government was read in Washington to-day with the greatest enthusiasm. Most Senators and representatives express profound gratification at the firm note sounded by the President.

Comforts for Returning Heroes

The idea of providing hospital cars for invalided members of Canada's expeditionary forces originated with the Canadian Pacific Railway over two years ago, when floor plans and interior arrangements for hospital cars were submitted to the Director-General of Supplies and Transport. At that time it was considered that the time was not ripe for such a project. It was later found advisable to provide the greatest comfort possible in the transportation of returned invalided soldiers.

The Military Hospitals Commission therefore agreed to the Canadian Pacific Railway building six new hospital cars, fitted up on the most up-to-date lines from the point of view of hygienic and medical efficiency. All the necessary points for comfort and easy transport have been considered, as well as the facilities for rendering every medical assistance to the men while travelling. The cars, which were inspected by the Hospitals Commission, were turned out on lines very similar to the original plans submitted to the Director-General of Supplies and Transport, with, however, certain innovations found valuable by the French and British railways in transporting men from the front. There are three units of two cars each, making six cars in all, and the direction of the cars rests with the Hospitals Commission. Each unit comprises what is known as a composite car and a ward car. The former contains six cots, in addition to the quarters for medical officers and nurses, while the latter car has accommodation for fourteen patients. Everything has been provided, not only for the comfort of the returned invalids, but for those in charge of the patients. The accommodation for the nurses is equivalent to that of a drawing-room on a standard sleeper, with a toilet room annex upholstered in leather, and all possible train comforts. Facilities have been provided for the storage of baggage, and there is also a kitchen attached, such as is contained in a tourist sleeper, to enable special foods to be provided for the wounded soldiers when occasion arises. The medical officers' quarters are fitted in the form of a compartment with upper and lower berths, and a small dispensary.

OFFICIAL INSPECTION MADE.
 The ward car consists of one large room the length of a standard sleeper, and lavatories at either end. Standard hospital cots are installed in both cars; the floors are covered with linoleum and the aisles carpeted. A special feature is the introduction of a "bad weather entrance." The composite cars have two side entrances, in addition to the usual ones at each end. The side entrances, where the patient will be received, have been fitted with very heavy curtains which can be drawn closely in bad weather, thus affording ample protection from draughts to the patients already in the cars. The cars will be easily distinguished by the large Red Cross, painted on either side of the words "Military Hospital."

Lt.-Col. Walter Maughan, representing the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, received Col. Dr. Alfred Thompson, Chief Medical Officer of the Military Hospitals Commission, Col. J. J. Sharples, Officer Commanding the Military Hospitals Command, and Col. Emmott E. Clark, Assistant Director-General of Supplies and Transport, and conducted the party on a tour of thorough inspection through the composite cars and the ward car. The train came from Ottawa expressly to make the inspection, and subsequently expressed themselves delighted with the accommodation, which they said was so perfect in every detail that they could offer no suggestions for any alterations. Later Captain Symonds, Architect of the Military Hospitals Commission, and Mr. S. A. Armstrong, Director of the Military Hospitals Commission, made a similar tour of inspection. The cars go into operation immediately.

La Follette Frustrated

By Courier Leased Wire.
 Washington, April 3.—The adjournment of the Senate to-day was marked by a stormy scene in which Senator LaFollette by objection, forced consideration of the war resolution over until to-morrow, and Democratic leader Martin then forced an adjournment to cut off LaFollette.

When Senator Hitchcock reported the war resolution as amended, and asked for its immediate consideration, Senator LaFollette asked that, under the rules, it go over until to-morrow.

Senator Hitchcock then told him that if absence of printed copies was the basis of his objection, he could promise their distribution within five minutes.

"I object under the rules," insisted Senator LaFollette.

The majority leader, angrily faced Senator LaFollette, saying: "Of course it is within the power of the Senator to carry this over. He has too much experience to make it necessary for me to tell that his attitude in a matter of such tremendous consequences—"

Senator LaFollette broke in with a protest against being "declared" by the Senator, "I had no intention of lecturing the Senator," Senator Martin retorted, "but I have a right to call the attention of the Senate and the Senator to the momentous consequences of the resolution."

"It is quite unnecessary," LaFollette interjected. "I think I realize it as fully as the Senator from Virginia does. I ask the regular order."

Senator LaFollette then insisted that the vice president sustain and announce the vote against further comment after objection has been made to immediate consideration of a resolution. The Vice President called for other bills and re-

 AN OLD STORY
 "We'll soon be giving the cost of living a solar plexus blow!" So men are crying as they go plugging the spade and rake and hoe. About ten million, perhaps a billion, have made their solemn vows to labor hard in the fertile garden, encouraged by their fraus. We'll all be raising green goods amazing, all kinds of peas and beans, our bosoms glowing, we'll all be showing huge stacks of officious greens. And while we're bumping we'll hear the slumping of prices at the store; they'll be descending, still downward wending till they can't sink no more. Oh, it is trying when you've been plugging the hoe all summer long, it makes you sadish to find your radish is worth less than a son! You vow you'll never waste a force endeavoring to raise things from seeds, and you determine you'll do no squirming hereafter in the weeds. This year you'll find us at work, dad blind us, in cheap and sweat stained duds; in years thereafter we'll shriek with laughter if you name home garden spuds.

 Washington, April 3.—A long report from United States Ambassador Sharp at Paris detailing the terrible destruction brought the retreating Germans in northern France, was received to-day at the State department. The ambassador, who made a personal and exhaustive study of conditions, shows that published reports of the devastation have not been in anyway exaggerated. In some respects he reports atrocities more terrible than those recounted in the news despatches.

Overrides the Action of the Mayor
In Seeking to Postpone the Meeting With Dominion Railway Board

The Courier on Saturday last made the announcement of hearing granted the City of Brantford by the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners, to be held in Hamilton on April 19 next, in the matter of the St. Paul subway and the G. T. R. crossings. On the same day Mayor Howley wrote to Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the railway commission, requesting that the hearing be postponed until preferably April 14, and be held at Ottawa in place of Hamilton, as already arranged. The matter coming to the ears of the Board of Works, a special meeting was called yesterday afternoon, when hot censure was passed upon the action of the Mayor, who had acted entirely on his own initiative and without sanction of the Board of Works. The upshot of the meeting was the sending of a telegram to Sir Henry Drayton, insisting that no attention be paid to the letter of the Mayor, and that the hearing be held in Hamilton as originally arranged on April 19.

Expresses His Views on Wilson's Speech
Considers Universal Military Service an Object Lesson for Canada

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., when questioned by the Courier as to his estimate of President Wilson's address, said:—"As one who has rather freely criticized in the House of Commons and at other public gatherings the attitude of President Wilson, on the war, I am free to say that I am more than pleased with the general tenor of the speech given before Congress yesterday. In my judgment it will go far to restore the dignity and honor of the United States as embodied in the present attitude of their chief magistrate. This step is somewhat belated, but is all the more effective now in the strength of the terms which it is placed before the civilized world. I am particularly pleased with the opinion the President has expressed with regard to the manner in which their army for overseas is to be raised. He practically endorses the step of universal military service and asserts the view that every individual who is fit should be in the control of the state and serve when called upon to do so. I hope, will be notice to our Government to take more drastic measures, filling our war ranks by either conscription or the enforcement of the Militia law, a thing which, in my judgment, they have been very dilatory in enforcing."

The regular weekly meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. of Balfour St. Presbyterian church was held last evening and took the form of a social evening.

The President, Miss Margaret Morrison, proved a most original entertainer. The drawing and speech contest proved most enlightening and showed how much talent the society had to work with. Other pleasant and interesting contests took place, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the president for the splendid social time that had been spent. The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

COLLECTION OF WASTE MATERIAL

To be Undertaken in City by Waste Conservation Committee
MEETING LAST NIGHT
Saw Further Steps Taken in Campaign
Further progress was made last night by the Conservation of Waste Committee of the Thrift League which met in the Public Library. The committee who had been appointed to confer with the Women's Patriotic League reported that an arrangement had been made whereby that organization would be granted $100 a month out of the profits of any of the League. It was thought that appropriation should be made from the general funds in the hands of the league to cover the initial expenditures of the Conservation of Waste Committee and it was therefore decided to approach the League at its next meeting for a grant of $150. Mr. Wm. Glover suggested the immediate need of bringing the matter to the attention of the public by newspaper and circular advertising. Secretary J. A. Powell was empowered to take the necessary steps in this connection. The committee are to provide bands on which the words "Brantford Thrift League" will appear conspicuously to distinguish the collectors from other private individuals engaged in this work. Collections of waste materials will commence on Tuesday, April 10th, and a considerable number of one horse wagons and drivers will start work to systematically canvass the city on that date. A sub-committee consisting of Messrs H. Howie, A. B. Burnley, J. M. Tulloch and Jno. Moffatt was appointed to secure an adequate storehouse for the material when collected, and several likely sites were suggested for which they will negotiate. Should it prove impossible to secure any of these the building in Agricultural Park, the property of the city, will be utilized.

CANNOT AFFORD TO LOSE WAR NOW

Interesting Letter From Sergt. J. F. Mellor of 125th

INFANTRY COUNTS In Sealing the Victory; Men Needed Now

The following letter has been received by Ven. Archdeacon MacKenzie from C. Q. M. Sergt. Jas. F. Mellor, of the 125th at Witley Camp:

Dear Dr. Mackenzie,—I received your letter of December 9th in good time. I had neglected writing to you more from want of news than inclination. There is really very little news that we can send out. We could write very interesting letters sometimes but the censor would probably mark it up so that it would only be an aggravation to receive it. I had a long talk with Myring some time ago. He told me that he had written to you. You know that even the children are learning lessons of thoughtfulness from these times of trouble and anxiety. Every Sunday afternoon we have a meeting for the men of the camp here at the picture house. This afternoon we had a great treat. The Bishop of London was the speaker. It is the first time I have heard him. I hope it will not be the last. He was not in good form as it was the 5th meeting for him today. We generally go to church on Sunday evening. There is a beautiful old church at Witley, and they have a service very much the same as ours at Grace Church. One Sunday we went to church at St. Nicholas at Guildford. It is very high. Sergt. Jack Pocock, a member of our choir, was with me and we both expressed the same opinion, that we did not feel at home there. My brother Fred and myself went to visit my father's people in Yorkshire and Lincolnshire at Christmas time. I made my Christmas communion at the Lissington Parish Church where my Uncle Charlie is Vicar. We had a very happy time and we were very much interested in his explanations of the title as practiced in his Parish. He showed us all the documents, etc., regarding the Parish, and I believe we understood a little of why they term it a "living" over here. You know we need men just as much, or even more so, because we are the side that is doing the attack and it is costly. We cannot afford to lose now and we have the guns and ammunition. It is the infantry man who sees the victory by closing in on the enemy and making him retire or surrender. I often wonder if the people of Canada really realize what we are fighting for. It seems to me it is for our very existence and all things that make life worth living. Even the Americans seem to be awakening from their dreams to the fact that the world of Europe is still a danger to the whole world. You know the trouble is that the men after enlisting have to be trained and that takes time. Remember me to Mrs. Mackenzie. With best wishes to you both for a happy time, relieved from the cares of the large Parish of Grace Church. I remain, yours truly, JAS. F. MELLOR.

SAVE YOUR WASTE

On Tuesday of next week, the Brantford Thrift League, through its conservation of waste committee, will inaugurate a campaign for the collection of waste materials of every nature, and will undertake a systematic house-to-house collection. The waste materials to be collected will comprise not only paper of every description, but will include clean old rags, old rubbers, old boots, bottles (not medicine), iron, zinc, brass, copper, pewter, lead (including foil from tea and other packets) electric light bulbs, etc. It is the intention of the league to go extensively into the work of conserving the waste materials, turning the proceeds from the sale of such materials over to patriotic and worthy purposes. Every housewife and every business man is invited to assist. The work has met with unbounded success in other centres, the citizens joining heartily, in the movement. A central store house is being arranged for, and a strong committee has been appointed to look after the work. Badges will be provided for collectors, and citizens who wish to further the best interests of the city, and who would assist the committee in this work, are requested to refuse their waste to anyone not wearing a badge bearing the words, "Brantford Thrift League."

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL UPON PROHIBITION

Petition for Dry Dominion Endorsed and Forwarded

REFERENDUM ASKED In the Event of the Petition Being Rejected

OTHER PROCEEDINGS

Committee Named on Provincial Highway Issue

An important step was taken by the township council at its afternoon meeting yesterday when it endorsed a petition to be forwarded to the Dominion Government by the Dominion Alliance, calling for the prohibition of the manufacture in and the importation into the Dominion of Canada, of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes and the sending or carrying of any such liquors into and the delivering or receiving any such liquors in any province or area in which the sale of such liquors for beverage purposes is prohibited. In the afternoon of such an act, the petition requests that the electors of the country be given an opportunity to vote on the question, and that should they decide in favor of prohibition, that that condition should come into force within three months after the vote.

Mr. A. J. McCann and Mr. U. O. Kendrick were appointed to represent the interests of the township in regard to the provincial highway under discussion, and to attend the meeting that was held this afternoon in the City Hall.

During the month of March there were thirty seven property transfers in the township, a record that is considered excellent. Mr. E. B. Eddy, reported that he had collected the sum of $64.09 from township patients who had received treatment in the Brantford General Hospital.

NEWWAY COMES TO FRONT IN PORCUPINE GOLD CAMP

As a result of the energetic work carried out at the Newway last year and during the first three months of this year, the company is coming to the front as the next addition to the producing list of mines in the Porcupine camp. The crosscut at depth is expected to intersect the Anchor vein and will be continued in the same direction in order to pick up the other veins located in diamond drilling, including the Hanson, which was discovered at a point about 650 feet distant from the shaft. Some splendid values were recovered both in surface work and in the diamond drilling.

The Anchor vein which is the first that will be reached by the crosscut on the 400 foot level, runs parallel to the Hanson, and invariably yields large nuggets of free gold in panning. As soon as this lead is intersected drifts will be run both ways as it is the intention of the management to put ore into sight as rapidly as possible, in view of the starting up of the stamp mill as soon as the weather moderates. Newway will be the eighth producing mine in the Porcupine camp.

LONDON WAS ANXIOUS FOR NEWS OF U.S.

Public Extremely Eager to Hear Fateful Declaration of Wilson

DIFFERENCE IN TIME Prevented Publishing of News in First Editions

By Courier Leased Wire. London, April 3.—The first editions of the London morning papers were unable, owing to the difference in time, to print anything to gratify the extreme eagerness of the public in regard to President Wilson's fateful declaration. Long despatches from Washington in regard to the day's developments in the American capital appeared everywhere under big headlines, but with the exception of one or two papers, there was a reluctance to assume that a state of war would be proclaimed until the president's words were actually reported.

A cablegram giving the gist of President Wilson's address arrived in time for the second editions to insert a brief announcement that Congress had been asked to declare a state of war. This was displayed as conspicuously as time allowed. Some of the papers announced that they would print special editions later with whatever news was available. None of the morning papers make any editorial comment.

AMERICAN ARMED SHIP SUNK BY SUB

Eleven Men of U. S. Vessel Aztec Believed to be Lost

FIRST ARMED VESSEL To Be Destroyed by U-Boats of Huns

By Courier Leased Wire. New York, April 3.—Eleven men of the crew of the American Steamship Aztec probably were lost when the vessel was sunk Sunday night by a German submarine near Brest, France, the crew numbered 39, of whom 17 were Americans. Twelve American bluejackets, commanded by Lieut. William F. Gresham, detached from the crew of the gunboat Dolphin and placed aboard the Aztec as an armed guard, were saved, according to despatches from the French admiralty received by the American government in Washington.

The Aztec was the first armed American merchant vessel to fall victim to German submarine warfare. She left New York for Havre on March 18 with a cargo of foodstuffs and general supplies, valued at more than $500,000.

No information as to whether the vessel was able to use her guns against the submarine has reached her owners, the Oriental Navigation Company. The fact that she was sunk at night with a heavy sea running, leads to the belief that like the Cunard liner Laconia, she did not even catch sight of her assailant.

British Steamer Cannizaro Sunk

By Courier Leased Wire. New York, April 3.—The Associated Press carries the following: The British Steamship Cannizaro, which left New York on March 14 with a general cargo of grain and freight, was sunk Sunday night by a German submarine. The vessel was received here today by New York agents of the owners, the Wilson Steamship Line. The crew, about forty in number, was safely landed at Baltimore.

No details as to whether the vessel was torpedoed or where the sinking took place, has been received here. It is understood that the crew contains no Americans. The sinking is supposed to have been about March 28th and presumably in the German submarine zone. The vessel was on her way to Hull, England. The crew was shipped in Hull.

The Cannizaro, of 6,133 tons gross, was built at New Castle, in 1914.

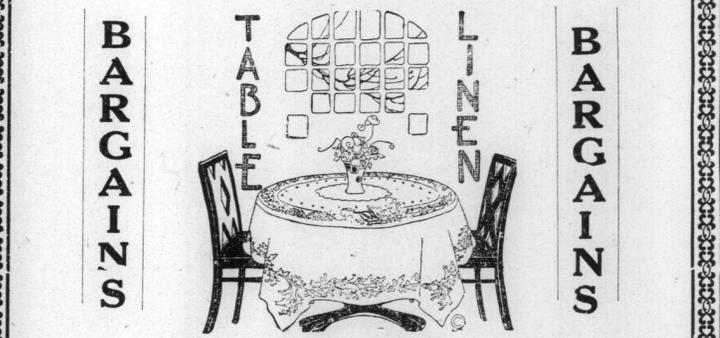

Building Activity is Increasing

Four more permits have been issued by the city engineer amounting to $615. A. Loinski, 134 Pearl street, was granted permission to erect a concrete foundation under a frame cottage, the cost to be $100. City Clerk H. F. Leonard, is converting a porch into a sleeping porch, the expense in connection therewith being $375, for which he has taken out a permit. John Chikigan is building a frame verandah at 128 Alfred street, to cost $50. The American Radiator Company have taken out a permit allowing them to construct a transformer platform to cost $90.

BUSINESS MEN AT HAMILTON

Return Visit of Y. M. C. A. Class Proved Thorough Success

CLASSES NOW TIED In Series of Athletic Contests Going on

The business men of this city made a return visit to Hamilton last evening, spending a time pronounced by all alike as one of the best in which they ever participated. Basketball and volleyball were engaged in, a tie being scored in the basketball and the home team winning the volleyball, so that the series is now a tie. In the basketball game won by Brantford, Mr. W. S. Brewster scored eighteen out of the twenty points amassed by the locals, his wonderful playing receiving a great ovation from both sides alike. Following the games the victors were entertained to a delightful banquet served by the wives of the Hamilton men. Mayor Booker, of Hamilton, gave a splendid patriotic address, and Mr. W. S. Brewster delivered a few remarks in his usual happy and humorous manner, pointing out that even the radial railway was the Brantford and Hamilton line, and not vice versa. Mr. O. Morris, president of the local class, thanked the hosts and hostesses for the general good time enjoyed, and General Secretary Ward, of the Home Club, replied fittingly.

UNITED STATES, UNITED IN SPIRIT AND LOYALTY, TAKE UP GAUGE OF BATTLE.

With a Profound Sense of the Solemn and Even Tragical Character of the Step I am Taking, But in Unhesitating Obedience to What I Believe My Constitutional Duty—I Advise That Congress Accept the Status of the Belligerent, Which Has Been Thrust Upon It" --- Woodrow Wilson

Washington, April 3.—The United States with Germany. Its President declared last night, speaking from the chair to Congress in a message destined to become historic, that Prussianism, by its lawless wickedness had declared war against the United States. "We accept," he added, "the status of belligerent thus thrust upon us."

The scene was impressive. The message was inspiring. It was half-past eight o'clock when with the members of both Houses, Judges of the Supreme Court and other dignitaries peopling the floor of the large chamber, and the galleries thronged to suffocating capacity by a tense citizenhood, the President at arms briefly announced: "The President of the United States," Woodrow Wilson ascended the platform and stood by the Speaker's chair. His mien was solemn. He held in his hand the manuscript of his message. Prolonged introductory cheering was succeeded by tense silence—silence all the more impressive by reason of all the constant murmur which had all day accompanied the deliberations of the members.

Great Ovation to President.
The President offered no preface. Speaking solemnly but carried calumness, in tones which carried clearly to every part of the crowded chamber, he began. The great gathering hung hushed on every word. There was not a sound until outlining the course which confronted the nation, the President with the deliberation which he invariably and effectively substituted for emphasis, stated:

"There is one choice we are incapable of making. We will not choose the path of submission."
Senators and Representatives sprang to their feet, some of them waving flags. The galleries took up the shout of applause, and it was nine o'clock, actually minutes before the President could proceed.

He listened the speaker, he proceeded with greater vigor, with firmer deliberation.

Voices Spirit of Nation
There was no trampling or twisting. He spoke the message of the nation. As stinging phrase followed stinging phrase—it became manifest to the eager listeners that this was no academic utterance. It was full of meaning. It was the message of a man slow to anger but strong with righteous wrath. In definite declaration that involved complete and earnest co-operation with the Allies was another stirring sentence which set the chamber on fire with renewed enthusiasm, and the clear-cut proclamation that the United States army should "in my judgment" be chosen on "the principal of universal liability to service" left no room for doubt as to the man of peace will with which the message was proposed that the struggle be waged not entirely upon money borrowed, but upon property monetized general taxation.

President's Address in Full
Washington, April 2.—The following is the full text of President Wilson's address to Congress:

"I have called the Congress into extraordinary session because there are serious, very serious, choices to be made, and made immediately, which it was neither right nor constitutionally permissible that I should assume the responsibility of making."
On the third of February last I officially laid before you the extraordinary announcement of the Imperial German Government that it was its purpose to put aside all restraints of law or of humanity and use its submarines to sink every vessel that sought to approach either the ports of Great Britain and Ireland, or the western coasts of Europe or of any ports controlled by the enemies of Germany within the Mediterranean, that had seemed to be the object of the German submarine warfare earlier in the war, but since April of last year the Imperial Government had somewhat restrained the commanders of its undersea craft in conformity with its promise, then given to us, that passenger boats should not be sunk, and that due warning would be given to all other vessels which its submarines might seek to destroy when no resistance was offered or escape attempted, and care taken that their crews were given at least a fair chance to save their meagre enough results, indeed, after all was accomplished, but always with clear view, at least, of what the heart and conscience of mankind demanded.

All Scruples of Humanity
"This minimum of right the German Government has swept aside under the plea of retaliation and necessity, and because it had no weapons which it could use at sea except those, which it is impossible to employ as it is employing them without right of human right, of which we are only a single champion.

When I addressed the Congress on the twenty-sixth of February last I thought that it would suffice to assert our neutral rights with arms, our right to use the seas against unlawful interference, our right to keep our people safe against unlawful violence. But armed neutrality, it now appears, is impracticable. Because submarines are in effect outlaws, when used as the German submarines have been used against merchant shipping, it is impossible to demand ships against their attacks as the law of nations has assumed that merchantmen would defend themselves against privateers or cruisers, visible craft giving chase upon the open sea. It is common prudence in such circumstances grim necessity, indeed, to endeavor to destroy them before they have shown their own intention. They dealt with at all.

Germany's Attitude to Neutrals
The German Government denies the right of neutrals to use arms at all within the areas of the sea which it has proscribed, even in the defence of rights which no modern publicist has ever before questioned their right to defend. The intimation is conveyed that the armed guards which we have placed on our merchant ships will be treated as beyond the pale of law and subject to be dealt with as pirates would be. Armed neutrality is ineffectual enough to open sea. It is common prudence in such circumstances and in the face of such pretensions it is worse than ineffectual; it is likely at once to produce what it was meant to prevent; it is practically certain to draw us into the war without either the rights or the aims of belligerents.

There is one choice we cannot make, we are incapable of making. We will not choose the path of submission and suffer the most sacred rights of our nation and our people to be ignored or violated. The wrongs against which we now array ourselves are not common wrongs; they cut to the very roots of human life.

With a profound sense of the solemn and even tragical character of the step I am taking and of the grave responsibility which it involves, but in unhesitating obedience to what I deem my constitutional duty, and to the course of the Imperial German Government to be in fact nothing less than war against the Government and people of the United States, I formally accept the status of belligerent which has thus been thrust upon it, and that it take immediate steps not only to put the country in a more thorough state of defence, but also to exert all its power and employ all its resources to bring the Government of the German Empire to terms and end the war.

What This Will Involve
It will involve the utmost practicable co-operation in counsel and action with the Governments now at war with Germany, and as incident to that, the extension to those Governments of the most liberal financial credits, in order that our resources may, so far as possible, be added to theirs. It will involve the organization and mobilization of all the material resources of the country to supply the materials of war and to serve the incidental needs of the most economical and efficient way possible. It will involve the immediate full equipment of the navy in all respects, but particularly in supplying it with the best means of dealing with the enemy's submarines. It will involve the immediate addition to the armed forces of the United States already provided for by law in case of war, at least 500,000 men, who should, in my opinion, be chosen upon the principle of universal liability to service, and also the authorization of subsequent additional increments of equal force, so soon as they may be needed and can be handled in training.

It will involve also, of course, the granting of adequate credits to the far as they can equitably be sustained by the present generation, by well-conceived taxation. I say sustained so far as may be necessary entirely on money borrowed. It is our duty, I most respectfully urge, to protect our people so far as we can against the very serious hardships and evils which would be likely to arise out of the inflation which would be produced by vast loans.

Duty to Allies.
In carrying out the measures by which these things are to be accomplished we should keep constantly in mind the wisdom of interfering as little as possible in our own preparation, and in the equipment of our military forces with the duty—of supplying the nations already at war with Germany with the materials which they obtain only from us, which they are unable to obtain in any other way to be effective there. I shall take the liberty of suggesting, through the several executive departments of the Government, for the consideration of your committee, measures for the accomplishment of the several objects I have mentioned.

I hope that it will be your pleasure to deal with them as having been framed after the most careful thought by the branch of the Government upon which the responsibility of conducting the war and safeguarding the nation will most directly fall.
While we do these things, let us be very clear, and make very clear to all the world what our motives and our objects are. My own thought has been driven from its habitual and normal course by the unhappy events of the past two months, and I do not believe that the thought of the nation has been altered or clouded by them.

I have exactly the same things in mind now that I had in mind when I addressed the Senate on the 22nd of January last; the same that I had in mind when I addressed the Congress on the 23rd of February and on the 26th of February. Our object now, as then, is to vindicate the principles of peace and the justice in the life of the world as against selfish and autocratic power, and to set up amongst the really free and self-governed peoples of the world such a concert of purpose and of action as will henceforth insure the observance of those principles.

Neutrality is no longer feasible or desirable where the peace of the world is involved and the freedom of its peoples and the menace to that peace and freedom lies in the existence of autocratic governments backed by organized force which is controlled wholly by their will, not by the will of their people. We have seen the latest neutrality in such circumstances.

Standards of Responsibility
We are at the beginning of an age in which it will be insisted that the same standards of conduct and of responsibility for wrong done shall be observed among nations and their governments that are observed among the individual citizens of civilized states.

We have no quarrel with the German people. We have no sympathy towards them but one of sympathy and friendship. It was not upon their initiative that their government acted in entering the war. It was not with their previous knowledge or approval.

It was a war determined upon as wars used to be determined upon in the old, unhappy days when people were nowhere consulted by their rulers, and wars were provoked and fought in the interest of dynasties or of little groups of ambitious men who were accustomed to use their fellowmen as pawns and tools.

Self-governed nations do not fill set the course of intrigue to bring about some critical posture of affairs which will give them an opportunity to strike and make conquest. Such designs can be successfully worked only under cover, and where no one has the right to ask questions.

Contrive Plans of Deception
Conjuring contrived plans of deception or aggression carried out by me, from generation to generation, can be worked out and kept from the light only within the privacy of courts of behind the carefully guarded confidences of a narrow and privileged class. They are happily impossible where public opinion commands and insists upon full information and concerning all the nation's affairs.

A steadfast concert of peace can never be maintained except by a partnership of democratic nations. No autocratic government could be trusted to keep faith within it or observe its covenants. It must be a league of honor, a partnership of opinion. Iniquity will eat its vitals away; the plottings of inner circles who could plan what they would and render account to no one, would be a corruption seated at its very heart. Only free peoples can hold their purpose and their honor steady to a common end, and prefer the interests of mankind to any narrow interest of their own.

Does not every American feel that assurance has been added to our hope for the future peace of the world by the wonderful and heartening things that have been happening within the past few weeks in Russia? It was known by those who knew it best to have been always in fact democratic at heart, in all the vital habits of her thought, in all the intimate relationships of her people that spoke their natural instinct, their habitual attitude towards life.

Autocracy Not Russian
The autocracy that crowned the summit of her political structure, long as it has stood and terrible as was the reality of its power, was not in fact, Russian in origin, its character of purpose; and now it has been shaken and the great, generous people have been added in all their native majesty and might to the forces that are fighting for freedom in the world, for justice and for peace. Here is a fit partner for a league of honor.

One of the things that has served to convince us that the Prussian autocracy was not, and could never be our friend, is that from the very outset of the present war it has followed our unsuspecting communities, and even our offices of Government, everywhere afoot against our national unity of council, our peace faith and without, our industries and our commerce.

Indeed it is now evident that its spies were here even before the war began; and it is unhappily not a matter of conjecture, but a fact, proved in our courts of justice that the intrigues which have more than once come perilously near to disturbing the peace and dislocating the industries of the country have been carried on at the instigation, with the support and even under the personal direction of official agents of the Imperial Government accredited to the Government of the United States.

German Government Unfriendly
Even in checking these things and trying to extirpate them we have sought to put the most generous interpretation possible upon them, because we know that their sources lay, not in any hostile feeling or purpose, of the German people towards us, but in the ignorance of them as we ourselves were, but only in the selfish design of a government that did what it pleased and told its people nothing. But they have played their part in serving to convince us at last that that government entertains no real friendship for us and means to act against our peace and security at its convenience, that it means to stir up enemies against us at our very doors the intercepted note to the German minister at Mexico City is eloquent evidence.

We are accepting this challenge of hostile purpose because we know that in such a government, following such methods, we can never have a friend; and that in the presence of its organized power, always lying in wait to accomplish, we know not what purpose, there can be no assured security for the democratic governments of the world.

Accepts Gage of Battle.
We are now about to accept gage of battle with this natural foe to liberty and shall, if necessary, spend the whole force of the nation and check and nullify its pretensions and its power. We are glad, now that we see the facts with no veil of false pretence about them, to fight thus for the ultimate peace of the world and for the liberation of its peoples; the German peoples included; for the rights of nations great and small and the privileges of men everywhere to choose their way of life and of obedience. The world must be made safe for democracy. Its peace must be planted upon the trusted foundations of political liberty.

We have no selfish ends to serve. We desire no conquest, no dominion. We seek no indemnities for ourselves, no material compensation for the sacrifices that we shall freely make. We are but one of the champions of the rights of mankind. We shall be satisfied when those rights have been made as secure as the faith and the freedom of the nations can make them.

Just because we fight without rancor and without selfish objects, what we shall wish to share with all free peoples, we shall, I feel confident, conduct our operations as selfless without passion and ourselves observe with proud punctilio the principles of right and of fair-play we profess to be fighting for.

Allies of Germany.
I have said nothing of the governments allied with the Imperial Government of Germany, because they have not made war upon us or challenged us to defend our right and our honor. The Austro-Hungarian government has, indeed, avowed its interpretation possible upon them, be-

THIS WOMAN TO THIS MAN

—BY— C. N. and A. M. Williamson (COPYRIGHT)

Synopsis of Pleading Chapters. Annesley Grayle, companion to Mrs. Ellsworth, a selfish old hypochondriac, desperate at the grayness of her days, answers the advertisement of "Mr. N. Smith," who wants to meet a girl with a view to marriage.

Keeping an appointment at the Savoy, in London, she is accosted by a man who asks her to protect him by posing as his wife. She does so, falls in love with him, and to save him from two dark-faced strangers, brings him home to Mrs. Ellsworth's. Ruthven Smith, agent for Van Vreck and Co., New York jewelers, and an occasional lodger, comes unexpectedly. As Annesley tries to warn her lover, a pistol-shot is heard up-stairs.

Ruthven Smith has fired at the stranger. There is a row, and Annesley is ordered out of the house. "Smith" takes her to the Savoy, where the Countess de Santiago plays chaperon until they are married next day. He gives her pearls and a beautiful ring with a blue diamond. "Smith" has asked Annesley not to look at the register at the wedding, so she doesn't know her husband's real name. They go to Sidsmouth for their honeymoon, and there "Knight, Annesley's name for her husband, manoeuvres for an acquaintance with the Annesley-Setons, poor but titled cousins of Annesley's. The girl gets a letter from Lady Annesley-Seton.

From Monday's Daily. CHAPTER X. Beginning of the Series. No man who had not known the seamy side of life could have guessed with such accuracy as Knight had shown the effect of Milton Savage's paragraph upon the minds of Lord and Lady Annesley-Seton.

"I told you if you bet against me you would be wrong," he said, when the astonished girl handed him the letter across the breakfast table. Even Knight himself had hardly reckoned on such extreme cordiality. He had confidently expected a bid for acquaintanceship with the "millionaire" and his wife, but he had fancied they would be a certain embarrassed stiffness in the effort.

Lady Annesley-Seton had begun, "My dear Cousin, and her frank American cordiality was disarming. She wrote four pages of apology for herself and her husband, explaining why they had neglected 'looking up Mrs. Nelson Smith when she was Miss Annesley Grayle.'" The letter went on:

"I hadn't been married very long when my husband read to me out of some newspaper the notice of a clergyman's death, and mentioned that he was a cousin by marriage whom he hadn't met since his boyhood, although the clergyman's living was in our country—somewhere away off at the other end.

My husband thought there was a daughter, and I remember very well his remarking that we ought to write and find out if she'd been left badly off. Of course, it was my duty to have kept his idea alive, and to have carried it out. But I was rather young, and I was having such a good time that I'm afraid it was a case of 'out of sight, out of mind' with me.

We forgot to inquire, and heard no more about the girl cousin. It was horrid of us, and I'm sure it was our loss. Probably we should have remembered if things had gone well with us; but perhaps you know that my father (whose money used to seem unlimited to me) lost it all, and we were mixed up in the smash. We've been poorer than any church-nice you ever heard of since, and trying to make ends meet has occupied our exclusive attention from that day to this.

I have to confess that, if our attention hadn't been drawn to your name, we might never have thought of it again. But now I've eased my conscience, and as fate seems to have brought us within close touch of each other, do let us see what she means to do with us, will you? We should so like to meet you and Mr. Nelson Smith, who is, apparently, more or less a countryman of mine.

I'm not allowed out yet, in this cold weather, after an attack of 'flu'; but my husband will call at your hotel this afternoon on the chance of finding you in, carrying with him a warm invitation to you both to 'waive ceremony' and dine with us at Valley House en famille. Looking forward to meeting you, Yours most cordially, Constance Annesley-Seton.

"How sweet of her, isn't it?" Annesley exclaimed when she and Knight together had read the letter through.

Knight glanced at his wife quizzically, opened his lips to speak, and closed them again. Probably he thought it would be unwise as well as wrong to disturb the girl's faith in Lady Annesley-Seton's disinterestedness.

"Yes, it's real sweet!" he said, exaggerating his American accent, but keeping a grave face when Annesley opened her eyes questioningly.

"They were duly 'at home' that afternoon, though they had intended to go out, and the caller found them in a charming private sitting-room filled with her husband's flowers, suggesting much more, and a love of spending it. Annesley had put on Knight's favorite frock, one of the 'model dresses' he had chosen for her in their whirlwind rush through Bond Street, a white cloth trimmed with narrow bands of dark fur; and she had never looked prettier.

Lord Annesley-Seton, a tall thin man of the eagle-nosed soldier type, wearing glasses, but youthful-looking still for the forty-four years Burke gave him, could not help thinking her quite a satisfactory cousin to pick up; and Nelson Smith was far from being in appearance the rough, self-made man he had dreaded to see.

He was delighted with them both—so young, so handsome, so happy, so fortunate, and luckily so well bred. He did not make the most conventional call he had intended, but stayed to tea, and at last went home to give his wife quite an enthusiastic account of his visit.

"The girl's lady, but with you to help her along and show her the ropes, she'll be liked by the right people. There's a softness and sweetness and gentleness about her that you don't often see in girls just now. As for the man, you'll think him a ripper, Connie—so will all other women. Has the air of being a gentleman-born, and then having roughed it a bit all over the world. A real man a strong man, I should say. A man's man as well as a woman's. Might 'take' if he's started right."

"We'll see to that," said Constance Annesley-Seton who was not really too ill to go out, but had not wanted to seem too eager.

She was a little less than thirty, but looked more because she had worried and drawn faint lines between her delicate auburn brows, and at the corners of her greenish-gray eyes. There were also a few fading threads in the hair which she had one real beauty; but she had a wonderful hair-variant which prevented them from showing.

"We'll see to that! If they'll let us. Are they going to let us, do you think?" "Yes, I do think so," Annesley-Seton reassured her. "They're like a pair of children, willing to be guided. They can have pretty well anything they want in the world, but they don't seem to know yet what to want."

"How splendid!" laughed Constance. "Can't we will them to want our house in town, and then invite us to visit them?" "I shouldn't wonder," replied her husband. "You might make a start in that direction when they come to dinner to-morrow evening."

Lord Annesley-Seton had outgrown such few enthusiasms as he might once have had, therefore his account of the new cousins encouraged Constance to hope much, and she was not disappointed. On the contrary, she thought that he had not said half enough, especially about the man.

If she had not had so many anxieties that all her youthful love of "larks" had been crushed out, she would have "adored" a flirtation with Nelson Smith. It would have been "great fun" to steal him away from the pretty beanope of a girl who would not know how to use her claws in a fight for her man; but as it was, Connie thought only of conciliating "Cousin Anne," and winning her confidence. Other women would probably try to take Nelson Smith away from his wife, but Connie herself would have her hands full in playing a less amusing game.

She thought, seeing that the handsome, dark young man she admitted had a mind of his own, it would be a difficult game to play; and Nelson Smith saw that she thought so. His sense of humor caused him to smile at his own cleverness in producing the impression; and he would have given a good deal for some one to laugh with over her manoeuvres to entice him along the very road he wished to travel.

But he dared not point out to Annesley the fun of the situation. To do so would be to put her against him and it. Continued in Wednesday's Issue.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle.

It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"The States" Come In! Now that official action has struck off the fetters of neutrality, our cousins across the Line are free to throw their whole weight into the world's struggle for freedom and humanity. Unofficially and individually they have already contributed much to the Allied cause—in moral and financial support, in munitions and machinery, and by no means least in those brilliant inventions for which they are famous. The Lewis gun, the Curtis hydroplane, and a wonderful submarine detector are products of their genius which in our hands have done most efficient work by land, air and sea; while the American-invented, Canadian-made Gillette Safety Razor has been a friend indeed to our officers and men on active service everywhere. Much as men have appreciated the Gillette at home, its real test has come in barracks, billets, trenches and hospitals, and no article of equipment has proved more satisfactory. Those who have returned from the firing line speak with enthusiasm of the convenience—the comfort—the necessity of having a Gillette Safety Razor if the man at the Front is to enjoy a clean and regular shave. If there is anyone dear to you in Canada or Overseas without a Gillette and a good supply of blades, it's a chance for you to do him a really good turn by completing his equipment.

THE BICYCLE FOR HEALTH AND RECREATION

Buy a Bicycle "BICYCLE WEEK"

MARCH 31st to APRIL 7th

THE BICYCLE WILL SAVE YOU MANY STEPS AND MUCH CARFARE

One of the busiest bicycle centres in Canada during National Bicycle Week, March 31 to April 7, will be Hamilton, Ontario. During this season's annual opening of the season the old high wheels, bone shakers, tricycles and other ancient forms of bicycles are to be brought out and used while one of the features of the week will be a carnival.

thumpian carnival for which prizes totalling $100, will be awarded for the most striking fancy dress costume and for the nearest bicycle rider, etc. This carnival is scheduled to be held on Friday, April 6. Another feature will be the ride of a squadron of military cyclists from Toronto to Hamilton and return, a total distance of 96 miles. The soldiers-riders will be accorded a public reception on their arrival in Hamilton, according to arrangements made.

All Hamilton bicycle stores will be decorated for the occasion and the dealers have made arrangements for the entertaining of crowds of people at their shops. Various contests, such as tire pumping races, show riding competitions and other events, will be staged by some dealers.

Fred St. Onge, the veteran vaudeville track cyclist and a former professional racer, has been engaged to give exhibitions during the week. These details have been arranged by the Hamilton Bicycle Association to attract attention to the bicycle and to show that the bicycle is the thing for health, happiness, convenience and economy.

In Vancouver and other cities races, parades, carnivals, demonstrations and other features are scheduled. In Toronto the Bicycle Week will wind up with the thirty-sixth annual meeting of the Canadian Wheelman's Association.

Odds and Ends in the Bicycle World

Counting his wealth in billions and long accustomed to all luxuries, John D. Rockefeller, at the age of seventy-seven, continues to be a bicycle rider. He says he needs the wheel for exercise and recreation.

Vogue, the ultra-fashionable woman's magazine, declared recently: "Everybody bicycles at Palm Beach. Automobiling there has become a lost art."

The first Indian to see a white man riding a bicycle exclaimed: "Look, lazy man walk sitting down."

A western statistician has figured that there are at least fifty different ways for a young man to earn his living with the use of a bicycle. He has enumerated the fifty different employments which his mind is capable of devising.

The Toronto civic authorities have been asked to provide a bicycle garage in the downtown section of the city for the convenience of office-workers and others who are indoors most of the day. It has been suggested that one or two returned soldiers be placed in charge of the municipal bicycle garage to look after the handling of the wheels and to perform odd repair jobs when requested.

A number of prominent bicyclists have also been star skaters. Among the celebrities can be named John S. Johnston, Harley Davidson and Louis Rubenstein, the Montreal alderman. Alderman Rubenstein holds the amateur figure skating championship of the world. Last winter Archie Rogers of New York, a noted cyclist, won the annual 26-mile skating championship in 1.25.22, breaking all records for the distance.

Three bicyclists have ridden a mile in less than sixty seconds. Charles M. Murphy, a former New York policeman, rode a mile in 57.4.5 seconds on his bicycle behind a locomotive on a special board course between the railroad tracks on Long Island, on June 30, 1899. Elmer L. Collins rode the mile in 58.3.5 seconds on Daytona Beach behind an automobile driven by Ralph De Palma. George L. Kreamer, formerly of Toronto, rode a mile in 58 seconds on June 3, 1910, on an automobile track in Los Angeles paced by an automobile.

NICHOLAS IN CRIMEA.

Yalta, Crimea, via London, April 2.—The Grand Duke Nicholas has arrived at his estate at Alupka, near here. He was accompanied by two government commissioners.

Dan C. Whybray C.P.R. engineer, was acquitted at the Soo of a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of James Healy. His train was alleged to have run past a signal and some of the cars derailed. In the week ending March 27, 1,255 persons entered the country to settle on western lands as compared with 611 last year. They brought with them actual cash totalling $185,981.

Fred St. Louis, aged 24, a Michigan Central switchman, was arrested at Windsor, charged with making seditions references to the King, Canada and the Canadian troops.

"RIGHTO" ADOPTED BY THE FRENCH AS A STOCK WORD

Stewart Lyon at the Front Tells of the Strange Intermixture of English Jargons and French Patois Which is Being Adopted by the Allied Troops

By Stewart Lyon to Canadian Press, Montreal

With the British Army in France, April 3.—"Righto" Everywhere one hears this word of General Utility in that part of France in which British troops are quartered. The French use it as they use the word "Sport" and many other adaptations from the English language. Long after the war ends, perhaps centuries hence when the great struggle is but a bit of difficult history for school children, the people of Northern France may still indicate cheerful acquiescence by saying out—

"Righto"

New words make their way into a language easily and quickly in time of war because of the need for forms of expression that will be easily understood by the sojourner. When they get in they stay, as Scotsmen understand who have given study to the derivation of the Lotherian tongue. "Tassie," a cup of convivial drinking, is almost certainly a survival of the presence of a French garrison during the early years of the reign of Mary Stuart. Near Linlithgow Palace, long the centre of French influence, is a wide expanse of level ground known in the vernacular as "Chamfioory." That is unquestionably a corruption of the Champs des Fleurs, the parade ground of the troops who found it carpeted with dandelions when they first saw it.

Then there is the story that the Edinburgh man does not like to hear on a West Country tongue. There were, and are, very high houses in old Edinburgh, chiefly in High Street and Cannongate. In the pre-sewer days it was a heavy task to carry household slops downstairs, so the Edinburgh house wife threw them over the window-sill to the cry of "Gardlyo," so that any Frenchman in the street would look out for the water. "Gardlyo" was the warning unqualified endorsement and acceptance of the reckless and lawless submarine warfare adopted, now without disguise, by the imperial German government, and it has, therefore, not been possible for this government to receive Count Tarnowski, the Ambassador recently accredited to this government by the Imperial and Royal Government of Austria-Hungary. But that Government has not actually engaged in warfare against citizens of the United States on the seas and I take the liberty, for the present at least, of postponing a discussion of our relations with the authorities at Vienna. We enter this war only where we are clearly forced into it because there are no other means of defending our rights.

It will be all the easier for us to conduct ourselves as belligerents in a high spirit of right and fairness because we act without animus or in enmity towards a people or with advantage upon them, but only in armed opposition to an irresponsible government which has thrown aside all considerations of humanity and right and is running amuck.

Germans in United States.

We are, let me say again, the sincere friends of the German people, and shall desire nothing so much as the early re-establishment of intimate relations of mutual advantage between us—however hard it may be for them, for the time being, to believe that this is spoken from our hearts. We have borne with their present government through all these bitter months because of that friendship—exercising a patience and forbearance which would otherwise have been impossible. We shall, happily, still have an opportunity to prove that friendship in our daily attitude and actions towards the millions of men and women of German birth and native sympathy who live amongst us and share our life, and we shall be proud to prove it towards all who are in fact loyal to their neighbors and to the government in the hour of test. They are, most of them, as true and loyal Americans as if they had never known any other fealty or allegiance. They will be prompt to stand with us in rebuking and restraining the few who may be of different mind and purpose. If there should be disloyalty, it will be dealt with a firm hand of stern repression; but, if it lifts its head at all, it will lift it only here and there and without counten-

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSY COMPLEXION

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleaning, sweetening and purifying the alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking, and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

duty, gentlemen of the Congress, which I have performed in thus addressing you. There are, it may be, many months of fiery trial and sacrifice ahead of us. It is a fearful thing to lead this great peaceful people into war, into the most terrible and disastrous of all wars, civilization itself seeming to be in the balance. But the right is more precious than peace, and we shall fight for the things which we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations, and make the world itself at last free. # McLAUGHLIN

WHAT THE McLAUGHLIN VALVE-IN-HEAD MEANS!

A great many present and prospective users of motor cars have the idea that all motors are substantially alike and that they differ only in detail. There is a fundamental difference between the McLaughlin and other cars, due to the valve-in-head motor.

The McLaughlin Valve-in-Head motor is different in appearance because the valves through which gas enters and leaves the cylinders are in the tops, or heads, of the cylinders; in other types of motors these valves are placed in pockets at the side of the cylinder.

The dead gases resulting from each explosion in the McLaughlin cylinders are more completely expelled than in any other type of motor, thus preventing incoming gas from being weakened through mixture with remaining portions of dead gases, consequently increasing the efficiency of the motor.

An automobile motor is by far the most important part of a motor car; the whole question of the car's worth depends upon its motor. All automobile motors are heat engines, regardless of their form of construction or their number of cylinders. By that it is meant that heat is the force which furnishes the power of the motors.

Gasoline is the fuel which supplies the heat.

When gasoline is taken into the carburetor it is vaporized and mixed with air, or transformed into gas. This gas is taken into the cylinders, and by means of an electric spark it is burned, or, as we generally say, it is "exploded."

This burning, or "exploding," of the gasoline creates a very high degree of heat. Heat, as everybody knows, expands, and it is the expansion of heat against the pistons which causes the automobiles to move.

The heat pushes the piston downward and this movement of the piston is transferred to the crank shaft, and thence to the rear axle, and from there to the rear wheels.

All the heat which goes elsewhere than against the piston is waste. The McLaughlin motor conserves and uses a higher percentage of this heat than any other motor.

When gas is exploded in the cylinder of an automobile motor there are just two places the heat can go, two avenues of escape for it.

It can find an outlet by pushing the piston downward.

It can escape through the cylinder walls into the water that is used to keep the cylinders from getting too hot.

It is necessary to have water surrounding the cylinders. The walls of the cylinders are hollow, and through this hollow portion currents of water pass, to take up some of the heat which would otherwise melt the metal of the cylinders.

Right at this point is where McLaughlin superiority begins. In the McLaughlin Valve-in-Head more of the heat goes against the piston, and less into the water than in any other type of motor. The Mc-

Laughlin Valve-in-Head motor is guaranteed to have more power and to be more economical in gasoline consumption than any other type of motor ever built.

In the McLaughlin Valve-in-Head motor the valves are in the tops or heads of the cylinders. This means that the valves are in a spot that is already water-jacketed, so that no additional water-jacketed space is necessary to accommodate them.

In the "L" and "T" head motors the valves are placed in little compartments, alongside the upper parts of the cylinders—and these little compartments must be water cooled, exactly the same as the cylinder proper. That means a larger water-jacketed area and an increased opportunity for heat to escape.

There is less opportunity for heat to escape into the water in the McLaughlin Valve-in-Head motor. That means more heat against the pistons, which means more power for the rear wheels and less fuel consumption.

You have often heard that the McLaughlin is the most powerful motor. The McLaughlin Valve-in-Head design is the reason for that greater power.

The McLaughlin motor will develop from fifteen to twenty per cent. more power than similar sized motors of the other types, and the reason for that greater power is simply the fact that in the McLaughlin motor there is fifteen to twenty per cent. less waste of heat.

The McLaughlin Valve-in-Head principle is the most important one in the whole field of motor car operations.

ILL TROVATORE Mlle Nellie Gardini, said by competent critics to be one of the greatest dramatic sopranos of the day, together with several members of her own company combines forces with Joseph F. Sheehan, America's foremost tenor, and the leading artists of The Boston English Opera Company in a magnificent production of Verdi's masterpiece Il Trovatore.

This tour which is limited to ten weeks, and embraces 48 cities in the United States, offers what is without doubt the greatest singing organization heard in this country outside of a few large main centres, and nothing to equal it has ever before been heard in this country at prices which the average theatre goer can afford.

Needless to say this tour is in the nature of an experiment, and in order to avoid a big deficit at the reasonable prices charged it is necessary to play to capacity houses.

If the American public shows its appreciation of this effort Mlle Gardini has promised to return to this country next season for another joint tour with Mr. Sheehan in "Madam

THE LADY'S SELFISHNESS

"It was too bad you got Mr. S. started about mountain climbing," said the Authorman. "I suppose you didn't know that's his hobby. No one gets a word in edgewise the rest of the evening if someone gives him a chance to talk about the mountains he climbed in his youth."

"Yes," said the Lady—who-always-knows-somewhat, placidly. "I know. I've heard him talk about them before."

"You've heard it all before and you encouraged him to do it again," echoed the Authorman incredulously. "You can't mean it, Lady."

He Grew Ten Years Younger In Ten Minutes The Lady laughed. "But I do," she said. "And it was—hard on you people, wasn't it? But you see he looked so sad and old when you people were talking about the good times you've been having. And I like him and I know how little pleasure he has and I wanted to do something for him. So I gave him a chance to talk, on purpose. And didn't you see how he changed? Why he grew ten years younger in ten minutes. And when we left, his eyes were positively shining. I'm sorry for you people, but to tell the honest truth I'd do it again. You have so much more than he. Does that make you awfully angry with me?"

MISSSES' AND SMALL WOMEN'S DRESS.

By Anabel Worthington.

Quite in the prevailing mode is this pretty little frock, No. 8207, with the simulated jacket effect, which is achieved by having the straight, loose pieces cut in one with the waist. A sash softly draped across the front of the waistline introduces a note of contrast. The same suggestion of the Eton jacket is carried out in the back of the waist, which is perfectly plain. The surplice front makes a simple but very graceful closing line. Just a big square collar, the style which is just becoming to slim figures, finishes the neck line. Long sleeves are gathered into wide, straight cuffs of self material or trimming bands. If preferred, the shorter sleeves are also good style. A plain two-gored skirt is easily gathered or shirred at the top. The style of the dress offers a splendid opportunity for introducing some hand embroidery or braiding, as suggested in the larger view.

Materials which would make an attractive dress are French serge, wool poplin, whipcord, gabardine, epingle, broadcloth, solid or storm serge.

The dress pattern No. 8207 is cut in three sizes—16, 18 and 20 years. Width at lower edge of skirt is 2 3/4 yards. To make the dress will require, for the 16-year size, 4 3/4 yards 36-inch, 3 3/4 yards 44-inch, 3 3/4 yards 54-inch material, with 3/4 yard 18-inch silk.

OLD FOLKS NEED "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The constipation is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic, and the bowels are weaker.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be used constantly without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

Daily Mail says, "It is full of fast and furious motion, kept up at an ever increasing pressure that appeals with irresistible force to the great public."

The fact that it provides for Albert Brown a role such as he has never before played in this country, and which gives him an enormous opportunity, is in itself sufficient to make the piece important in the eyes of Canadian critics. No comedian has so fully impressed himself on the affection and esteem of our public for many, many years. He will play the role of Bertram Tully, a young mission worker, who by an extraordinary series of circumstances becomes mixed up in a series of undeniably funny situations. It is not an eccentric role but straight legitimate comedy. The production which is by arrangement with Messrs. Herbert Jay and Anthony Ellis of the Criterion Theatre, is a replica of that which is nightly drawing crowds in London to the last detail.

THE REX A double feature bill of exceptional strength is provided for patrons of the Rex theatre at that popular picture house this week. Official war pictures depict the Canadian forces at the front in action, and give for the first time in this city a graphic portrayal of the advance and the use in actual warfare of the tanks, the great armored cars of the British army, Edith Storey and Antonio Moreno co-star in a powerful Vitaphone feature production, "The Shop Girl," while other high class pictures include the 11th episode of the stirring Mexican serial "Liberty," and Frank Daniels as Mr. Jack in one of his series of irresistible comedy productions.

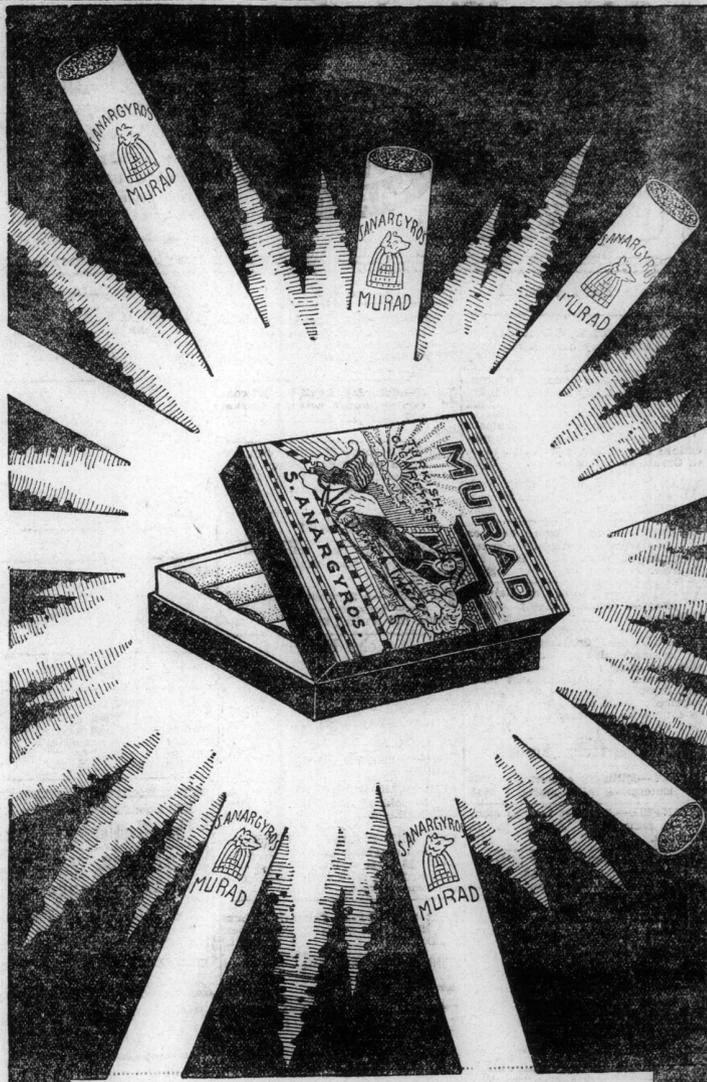

THE BRANT Winsome Marie Doro, in her latest feature production "Lost and Won" an absorbing story of modern New York life both in society and in the slums, heads the bill at the Brant Theatre for the first of this week. "Lost and Won" is a story of deep heart interest, with an original plot admirably developed and presented by a capable cast including Elliott Dexter and others. The 11th episode of the society serial "Gloria's Romance," once more features Billy Burke to great advantage. Skipper, Kennedy and Reeves, comedy harmony singers, presents an offering of considerable merit, as do also Tenny and Allen in their original juggling novelty.

THE APOLLO Renovated and conducted under new management, the Apollo Theatre is becoming the favorite resort of an ever growing body of patrons who are high in their praises of the excellent pictures shown in the city's oldest motion picture house. For the first of this week, the program is featured by the presence of the illustrious Mr. Charles Chaplin, Esquire, who in his feature "Police," brings off some of the most subtle comedy of his eminent and mirthful career. Other features upon the program are "The Girl From Frisco" and an uproarious comedy, "He Never Wins."

Music and Drama Lady Growing The remarkable growth of the Lasky studio in Hollywood is exemplified by the fact that the first office building which the company occupied at the corner of Vine and Selma Streets was no more or less than a garage reconstructed for the purpose. It has now been replaced by a handsome concrete structure, and the old building remodelled into a new two story property building with an elevator which will facilitate the loading and unloading of trucks full of props.

When I first met him he was trying to learn the trick of tossing his hat in air, making it turn over four or five times, and then catching it on his head. This was a very delectable trick, and he does it very well in some of his stunts even to-day, but the worst of it was that he always used my derby hats. I would buy a new derby and Charlie would ruin it in a two day with his infernal juggling tricks. He never by any SENNETT THE VERSATILE Thus far, Keystoneers have not discovered a thing Mack Sennett cannot do, but it was figured he was stumped the other day when an effort was being made to have "Teddy," the great Dane, register various expressions for the still camera.

"Easy," declared Sennett and he proved it by edifying "Teddy" with cat calls, growls and barks. "Teddy" responded with grins and grimaces, cocked his ears and wagged his tail, and the afternoon, photographically, was a big success, but probably Mr. Sennett's little vaudeville bit cost him personally several thousand dollars for everyone on the lot was so busy watching the big boss that no one did any work.

DIAMOND AND SCREEN. Harold Lockwood, co-star with May Allison in Metro-Yorkie productions, keeps himself in good physical condition by "swarming up" at baseball with Lester Cuneo between waits at the Hollywood, Cal., studios of the Yorkie Film Corporation. Mr. Lockwood has a great deal of speed in his right arm, and Mr. Cuneo has to keep his eyes open all the time in order to catch some of the star's fancy curves.

GET GOOD GLASSES

Both Sides of the Question

There are people who can see and won't, and others who can't see and want to. Those who can see well do not need glasses at present but when they do, it will be their distinct advantage to come here. Those who cannot see well should not delay a day, because delays in matters of the eye are dangerous. We are expert opticians and adjust glasses to suit all sights.

"Right" Adopted by the French

few days to a convention delegates with whom one can become well acquainted in an hour is a pleasure. To be deprived for years of every spare room so that strangers may use them is a great hardship. It is borne uncomplainingly "pour la Patrie." Often, alas, the room of the son of the household would be empty but for "les Anglais." The French men who have made the last great sacrifice are numbered by hundreds of thousands and the end is not yet.

The suggestion is heard occasionally that there will be many marriages between British soldiers and French girls after the war. Assuredly much laughter that is not all masculine is heard in billets and elsewhere. There are very many men in transport and similar services located all the way from the English channel to the battle front. It would be strange if the little archer did not hit some of them.

The resultant crop of marriages—big or little—will be to the advantage of France, because it will bind the people on opposite sides of the channel still more closely together.

One of the great discoveries of the war has been France's finding of her soul. Another has been the discovery that the supposedly soft and degenerate, if not already degenerate, Englishman is as hardy and as tough and resourceful a fighter as his ancestors who followed the great Edward or the dauntless Henry to France centuries ago. A little racial intermixture might benefit both nations. Britain needs France's mental alertness and adaptability; and France could find a place for English physique and resolution.
