Places His Seal of Endorsement Upon Every Plank in the Platform of the Convention Which Nominated Him—Pledges Himself to Aid the Miner and Prospector in Every Possible Manner—Recognizes in them the Backbone of the Country—Will Endeavor to Secure Reduction of Fees, and other Measures Involving the Welfare of the Mining Industry—Promises to Investigate Concession Frauds to the Bottom—Will Have Full Charge of Yukon Affairs if Elected—An Able and Comprehensive Exposition of Policy Which Shows Exactly Where the Honorable James Hamilton Ross Stands Before the Yukon Electorate—Crushing Blow to Clarke.

The crowning, crushing blow has been the solar plexus of the opposition party of soreheads and...

Mr. Ross, that throughout the whole campaign not a single word has been said which attacks his character as a man and as an official.

pathy and caused a general denunciation of such detestable villainy. As the Nugget said yesterday, the lies intended to alienate votes from Mr. Ross on the ground that he was physically incapable to serve as a member of parliament, proved a terrible boomerang, when the glad news came that Mr. Ross was recovered and in good health.

Compare these statements with those made by the opposition party in its public utterances. Place them side by side. WHAT ROSS OFFERS: Reduction of mining fees. Assay office. Free quartz mill. No fraudulent concessions. Government water supply. Generous appropriations. New mining code. Government support.

highest pitch. It is believed that there will not be a Clarke man in sight by Monday morning, either here or on the creeks. The campaign has virtually ended. THE ADDRESS IN FULL. To the Electors of the Yukon Territory: I have received a copy of the platform adopted by the convention which honored me by its nomination as a candidate for the house of commons of Canada.

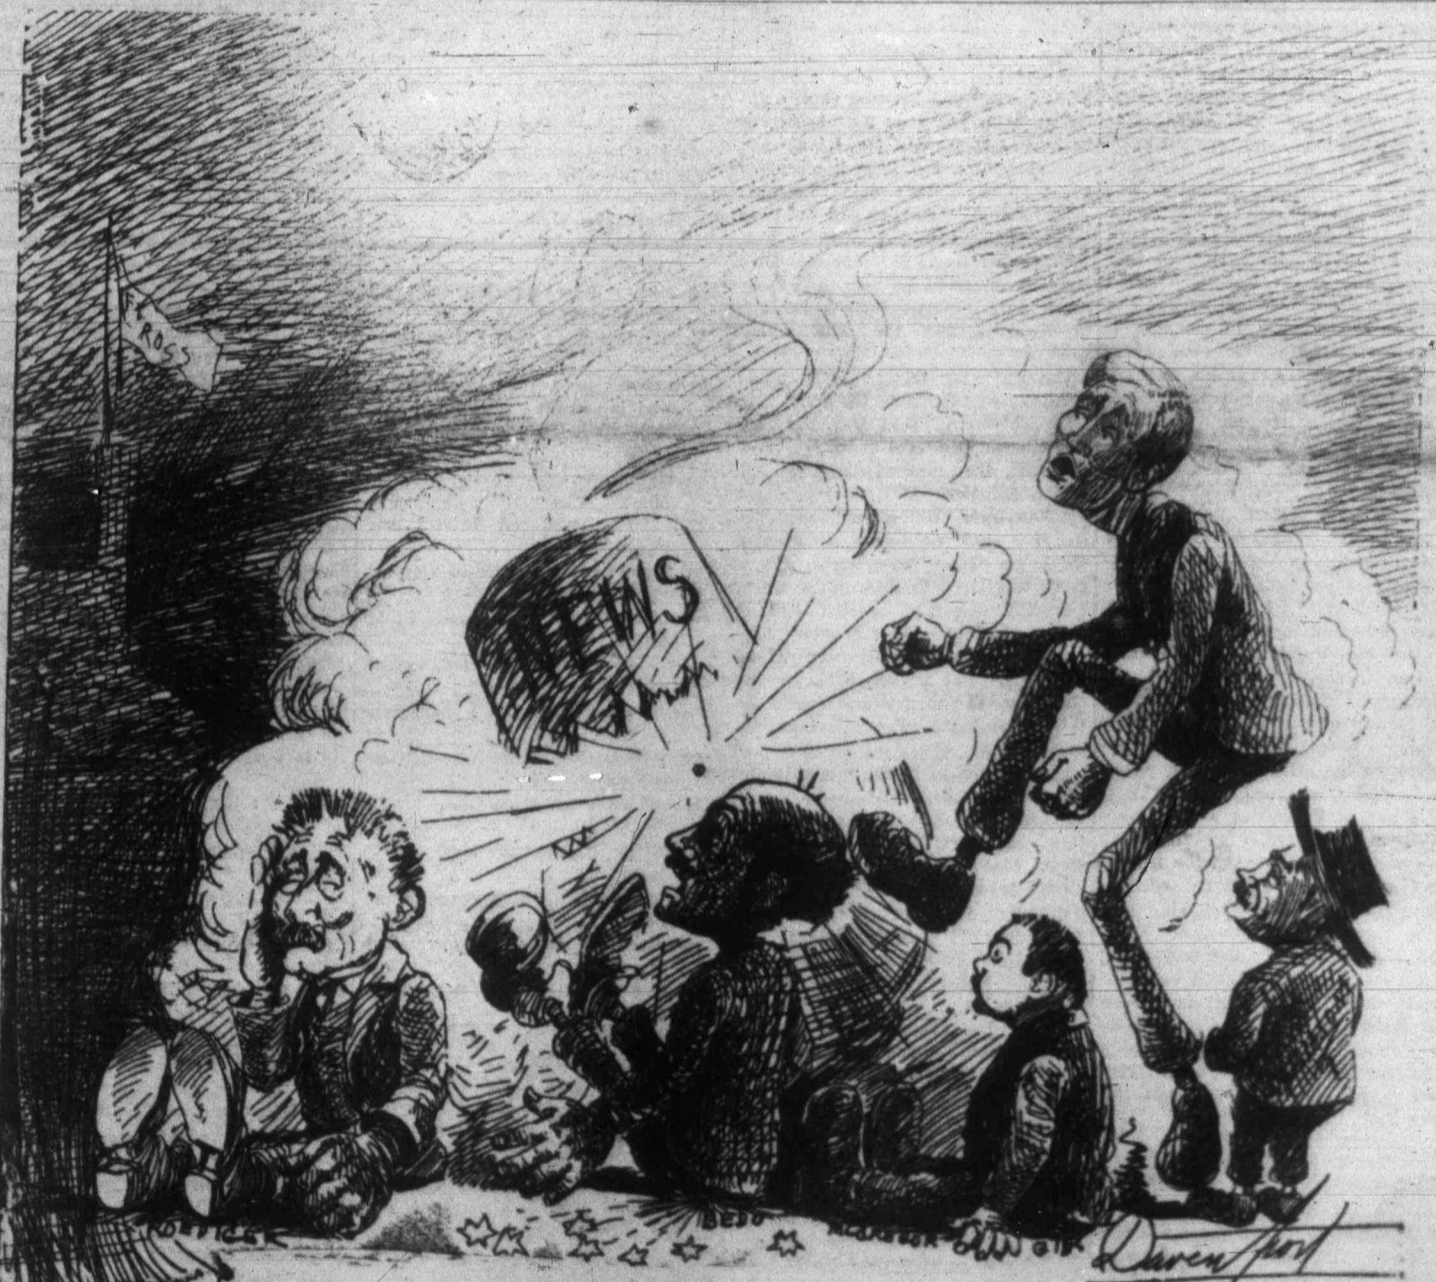

aged. With this in view I shall advocate the reduction of fees, which, I think, may now be safely done without impairing the revenue; the adoption of regulations compelling the actual working of claims; the establishment of an assay office in Dawson, where miners may obtain full value for their gold, such office to be operated in conjunction with the quartz mill where ore may be tested free of charge; the thorough investigation of the charges of fraud made in respect to the manner in which certain concessions are alleged to have been obtained, and if such fraud is established, the immediate commencement of such proceedings as may be required to vacate the grants, and the enforcement of strict compliance with the conditions embodied in all crown grants in the Yukon.

ers in the Yukon and shall receive my early and most earnest attention. I shall secure all data, surveys and opinions on the subject and lay the whole matter before the government and parliament with a view of having some practical method of supplying the same to those engaged in the mining industry at the least possible cost adopted at as early a date as possible. I shall continue to endeavor to secure for the Yukon such generous appropriations as will insure the construction of such roads as are now or may from time to time be required, and shall lend every assistance to all reasonable plans for the improvement of transportation and the reduction of rates.

success of the past. I was engaged in an endeavor to revise and codify not merely the mining laws but all the laws specially applicable to the Yukon when my illness interrupted the work. I think this work most essential in order that the laws may be fixed, clear and certain. With respect to the mining laws I propose to have them codified and then submitted to representative miners for criticism, alteration and approval in order that they may as far as possible meet with the approval of the mining community. I shall be greatly honored by being elected as your representative. I have the assurance of the government that so far as possible the direction of the Yukon affairs will be in my hands if I am elected, and I can assure the electors of the Yukon that I shall use such trust wholly for their interest and for their benefit. J. H. ROSS.

AN APPEAL TO PATRIOTISM.

From a Ross standpoint the situation is brighter today than ever it has been during the progress of the campaign. The issues have been thoroughly canvassed both in the city and on the creeks and the mining centres are coming strongly into line for prosperity and good government.

The cheering news of Mr. Ross' recovery and the complete refutation of the infamous lies published by the Clarke organ have served to charge the Ross forces with renewed enthusiasm, and they are going forward with a united front to complete and certain victory.

The absolute absurdity of Clarke's candidature has forced itself upon the public mind so strongly that people are already wondering that Joe has been given serious consideration or that the possibility of his success was ever conceded by anyone.

The contrast between the two candidates is so great that five minutes' consideration of their respective merits should be sufficient to convince the average voter of the colossal blunder that would be involved in Clarke's election. There are still some men who by reason of a willingness to permit their better judgment to be overcome by passion and prejudice are prepared to support Clarke, but happily for the good name and fame of the Yukon their number is growing beautifully less every day.

There is latent within the breast of every man a strain of patriotism to which appeal is seldom made in vain. To the man who has a feeling of pride in the growing greatness of the Yukon, who has pinned his faith to its future, and who looks forward with confidence to the continued growth and progress of the district, there must come a sensation of shame and disgust at the mere thought of Joe Clarke being selected as parliamentary representative.

If the assertion were made by the Nugget that Clarke is a fair representative of the mental and moral calibre of his own supporters, the latter would justly regard it as an insult. We know full well that there are honest, upright and conscientious citizens who are allied with the Clarke movement and we would not cast so grave an affront at those worthy gentlemen. But we propose to ask of them this question, 'Are you doing the right thing in supporting a man whom you despise and hold in contempt?'

in a large measure at stake in this election and it is for the people to decide upon a man into whose hands it will be committed. The men of the Yukon are too intelligent, too high minded and too patriotic to select a man like Clarke. They want a man in whose charge they can place a sacred trust with the knowledge that it will be carefully and conscientiously safeguarded. Such a man is the Honorable James Hamilton Ross, whose triumphant election on the 2nd day of December is no longer a matter of the slightest doubt.

A COWARDLY ATTACK.

The infamous stab aimed by the News at Mr. Ross in an attempt to deceive the public with respect to the state of Mr. Ross' health, has terminated in absolute demoralization of the Clarke forces. It was a foul and treacherous act which cannot be explained or justified before the public and which from a political standpoint was both foolish and cowardly.

The matter has another aspect, however, to which attention should be drawn. With fiendish cruelty the report was wired to the east and among the friends and relatives of Mr. Ross created a feeling of the utmost alarm and concern until a contradictory answer over his own signature had been secured.

In his telegram to the Nugget Mr. Ross asks for no sympathy and it is no part of the intention of this paper to make a plea therefor. We mention the circumstance to show the straits to which the Clarke supporters have been reduced and to indicate the means of which they will make use in furthering their ends.

A more malicious or craven attack upon a man could not be conceived, but the ill-timed and badly aimed blow has rebounded upon its perpetrators with tenfold effect.

AN OLD GAME.

The Clarke organ has now begun the old and oft repeated game of placing in circulation all manner of rumors respecting the plans of the Ross committee. We would advise the organ to look to its own knitting a bit more closely. Clarke's chief backers admit that his own organization is torn with internal dissension and is now thoroughly demoralized. They see defeat staring them in the face and have read the handwriting on the wall. There is plenty of work for the organ ahead to keep the remnant of Joe's support in line without inventing fictions as to the purposes of the Ross committee.

Strange Bout in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 18. — The strange spectacle of a justice of the peace leaping from his judicial bench and going to the floor in a fierce wrestling match with a lawyer after the latter asked for a change of venue was witnessed in the Logan Square police court yesterday.

Justice Thomas Edgar was the belligerent magistrate, and Max L. Asmar, with offices at 155 Washington street, was the lawyer involved. WHAT STARTED THE FIGHT. Jos. Lipke and Anton Butkowski, boys, had been arrested on warrants sworn out by Stanley Zipperman, a non-union street car conductor. The lads are said to have called Zipperman a "scab." Zipperman caused the arrest not only of the boys, but also of the father of each lad.

The cases were called yesterday, and Attorney Kasmer appeared to defend the prisoners. The lawyer said that Justice Edgar refused to grant the boys a hearing and held them to the juvenile court without hearing any evidence. After disposing of the cases of the boys, Justice Edgar called those of the parents. Attorney Kasmer immediately asked for a change of venue, but his request was refused, he says. "But we stand on our rights," said the lawyer. "We are entitled to a change of venue if we believe your honor cannot grant us a fair and impartial trial. We are willing to take an oath that we cannot get a fair trial in this court."

NEW STAGE LINE OPENS

Bud Harkins Started for Whitehorse Today

Beginning Next Week Dawson Will Have Newspaper Mail Twice a Week.

The first stage of the Merchants Royal Mail & Express Company started for Whitehorse at one o'clock today, and the first stage of the same line left Whitehorse today with 700 pounds of second class mail. In future the stages will leave either end twice a week, on Saturdays and Wednesdays.

Bud Harkins, who is secretary of the new line, was the driver today, having a team of two horses only. The company has twenty-two horses for the relays, and will run two-horse stages, carrying six passengers, until the passenger business gets brisker, when they will put on four-horse rigs. Along the bad portions of the road the horses will be relayed every twenty miles, along the better portions of the route every forty miles. Mr. Calderhead says the company is not going to chase for records but it will make the trip now in five days and in four days when the trail gets better.

E. J. Varreau and another carrier left yesterday with the mail for Eagle. They have two dog teams and will mush along the shore ice most of the way. Pen Downing having assured Postmaster Hartman that it is safe and good for traveling.

The mail from Whitehorse will go from here every Tuesday in future, and will close every Monday evening at eight o'clock.

Preferred Death.

Everett, Oct. 20. — Rene Arnsbach killed herself and husband this morning at their home on the corner of California street and Hewitt avenue. It is supposed the tragedy occurred about 9:30 o'clock this morning. When found Arnsbach's body was lying upon the bed with a hole through his forehead. The woman's body was reclining on a nearby couch with gunshot wounds through her forehead and the side of her head.

The following letter, written in German, was found in the room: "I am sorry that I cannot see Paris again, the land I always loved so much, the land of sunshine and golden beauties. If I could only get the home of my fatherland! Something terrible gets into my memory. I wish I came from another land. I dream of other lands and a new happiness and am surrounded by painful thoughts. But I look back to my old home, to you, my first friend, on this happy earth, who will take my body there where my mother and happiness are. Oh, the thoughts and illusions of the past! It beats in my brain. O God, let me wait and ease my heart. Young, I have to die in God's wide world, away from all my loved family. Follow, who in life suffers, follow me where my soul will enjoy. It is to the dearest land where I left leave you under the stars. Follow me there. In my heart's mind and music of the lyre are my last tears mixed with the eternal hazy suffering. Signed, 'RENE CHEZALIER'."

Arnsbach met Rene Chevalier in Paris one year ago. Upon his promise to marry her the two took passage on a steamer for New York. Rene demanded that he marry her before her steamer left, but he said they would postpone the ceremony until they reached New York. At New York Arnsbach again postponed the wedding until they should reach St. Paul, at which place he again pleaded delay, because he wished to be married at his old home in Everett, where, he said, he possessed some ten thousand dollars worth of property. The woman believed him, but after several weeks' residence in this city, Arnsbach still delaying the wedding, she brought suit against him. They were married here before the suit got into court.

Those acquainted with Mrs. Arnsbach say that she wrote for a Berlin magazine and that a short time ago she received a draft for $800 from the German periodical. Arnsbach, about the time of his marriage, bought the Cremont saloon, on Hewitt avenue, this city. It is thought the woman was insane.

It is less futile to consider our past than to predict our future. — Philip Longstreth.

Stroller's Column.

Clerk of the Police Court Blackman had at one time, or so it was hinted to him, a chance of losing his job on account of his complexion, which is that of a Spanish hidago of the deepest dye. "Feel that," he said, croaking his good right arm. The result of the investigation was wired to Ottawa, and all is peace. For fear of any such question arising Mr. Blackman has wired to himself a special appointment from Ottawa as gymnastic instructor of the police at the town station. He put in a punching bag there yesterday. He said it was solely for "Fatty" Burns, but there are other pebbles on the beach about the town station that can swat even Mr. Blackman. There is Timmins, the crack lightweight, McMillan the middleweight, Taylor the heavyweight, and a score of boys who can put their hands up, of whose prowess Mr. Blackman is more proud than he is of the rat hole in the face of Moosehide mountain facetiously called a mine.

Today is the day to show our delight about the way matters are going. Two more short weeks will set everything right. And Clarke's votes will not make a showing. The miners have got the thing all figured out. Ross' platform gives full satisfaction. There won't be a thing worth complaining about. A little while after election.

The nightmares now vexing the real miner's mind will be halted and bridled and bitted. And those who still prate of the past, we shall find. On the whole very much to be pitied. Water rights will be settled, which ought to console. Claim owners who can't make connection. They'll have Treadgold water without paying toll. Immediately after election.

Suppositionists now are beginning to learn. Their numbers will greatly diminish. And Roediger doesn't know which way to turn. Though swearing he'll fight to a finish. He's thrown out the Sun, but his mercury is bluff. Because he long feared detection. To pretend to repent is easy enough. Just wait until after election.

The wonders of the Klondike will never cease. Here is a man now who is not content with a good pay streak of gold dust on No 8 below upper on Dominion, but goes mining for gold and silver that is already coined. He is getting it, too. The man is Mr. Kélie. He took down an old cabin on the claim, and as seems now to be quite the rule in such cases he panned out the whole of the dirt under the floor and in the immediate neighborhood. When he got a twenty-dollar gold piece in one pan he said, "This ground goes $489 to the pan." When a silver quarter was washed out he said, "That is three Rudweisers in San Francisco." For in this portion of his claim the silver and gold presented a laminated stratification, which all geologists believe to be an absolute proof that something has taken place in that neighborhood some years previously.

Above the supposition camp. Disgruntlement now floats. They're thinking of December Two. And of their lack of votes.

There is in all probability no speaker in this present campaign who is as ready of wit as Mr. Grimes. The first time he spoke Mr. Black interrupted him several times with questions, all of which were readily met. "Just one more question," said Mr. Black.

DROWNS IN ANGRY SURF

Founder of the Monod Hospital Dead

A Launch Conveying Party of Americans, Including Seattle Man, Capsizes.

Seattle, Oct. 22.—Dr. Adrian Monod, founder of the Monod hospital in Seattle, and a member of one of the most famous French families, was drowned by the capsizing of a launch at Kamchatka on the Siberian coast.

Dr. Monod was deeply interested in fisheries, and believed firmly that there was a possibility of making a fortune out of the business.

Kamchatka is located on the northern part of the Siberian coast, opposite Bering sea. It is believed Dr. Monod and his companions had gone north from Vladivostok on either gold or fisheries expedition.

Although the housing council contains a good many prominent men, such, for instance, as Sir John McDougall, chairman of the county council, the great body that governs London, it is made up largely of radicals who have no great love for capitalists like Mr. Carnegie, and who think that the state ought to look after the housing of the poor.

They were considerably astonished by Mr. Carnegie's brief and casual way of offering a million pounds or so—I am told that the weighty communication wasn't more than 150 words long—but they promptly told him that an outlet for his wealth should be provided forthwith, and now plans are about completed for wiping out practically every slum in London with American dollars.

The housing council, at Mr. Carnegie's suggestion, has been disposed to reveal nothing of these big plans on which it has been working so busily; but I can now give the general outline of the scheme. It will be of as much value in America as here, for there is reason to suppose that Mr. Carnegie has designs on the slums on both sides of the Atlantic.

Dr. Monod and his young wife came from Paris direct to Seattle in 1896. They had just been married; he, the nephew of one of France's greatest physicians and a member of a family famous for its members' high standing in medicine and the arts; she, a daughter of a Russian family that stood close to the throne.

To Wipe Out London Slums

Andrew Carnegie, a bit bored, perhaps, by the criticism aroused by his gifts for free libraries, has a new outlet for his millions that is of world-wide interest. He has had it kept secret so far, but the work is now so well along that there can be no harm in publishing the facts.

Mr. Carnegie declined to be drawn into the subject at the time, but it seems that he went to work in characteristic fashion to see for himself what there was in the idea.

The result of his investigation has been an unsolicited invitation from him to a London body known as the Workmen's National Housing Council to show him how they would lay out for him from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 in building model dwellings for the poor.

He said he wanted it understood that he wasn't definitely promising a penny to the council, but he made it plain that if they could provide him with a plan that would be an improvement on existing attempts at housing reform, the cash would be forthcoming.

They will ask their American good fairy to start with $5,000,000 or less, divided into four items, as the circumstances would require. The land bought must be absolutely free from incumbrance, with a stipulation that it is never to be affected by any fluctuations in land values except for the benefit of the trustees, who will from time to time be appointed to administer the fund, such trustees to consist of a certain number of men and women belonging to public bodies who enjoy the confidence of the working classes, and a majority must be such persons as have sprung from the working classes themselves.

The council will show that primarily the future of the existing trusts to carry out the spirit of the founders is due to the fact that persons having no interest in common with the working classes have been selected to administer the funds. Builders, lawyers and any person who could have a pecuniary interest in the management or working of the Carnegie estate would be rigidly excluded from any control or participation in the administration of its finances.

No man whose income is more than $6 a week will be admitted as tenant, but a tenant whose income subsequently rises above that figure will be permitted to stay.

A particularly interesting feature of the Carnegie scheme provides that the tenant is providing an old age pension for himself, which will save him from the workhouse in his declining years. If the exigencies of his occupation should render it necessary for the tenant to remove to another district, he will be provided with accommodation in any of the trust's houses, where it is convenient, and should the trustees be unable to accommodate him, he will receive a sum proportionate to that which he would be entitled to had he completed his 20 years' occupation, but no consideration would be given to any case where a tenant would show a desire to return to the slums inside the stipulated time.

Defeated Dickinson.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 22.—In a closely played game, featured only by several long-end runs, Princeton defeated the Dickinson eleven here today by the score of 33 to 0.

The root idea here is that the tenant is providing an old age pension for himself, which will save him from the workhouse in his declining years.

The houses will be constructed mostly on continental models, the French, German and Danish plans being most favored. Great tenement blocks are not contemplated.

New Defender.

New York, Oct. 22.—It has been definitely settled, according to the Herald, that C. Oliver Iselin will be the managing owner of the new boat which the Herreshoffs are to build for the America's cup.

With Columbia carrying the racing flag of E. D. Morgan, and experienced yachtsman chosen to look after the Constitution, and the new boat with Mr. Iselin on the quarter deck, there will be some close racing before the committee on challenge shall select the boat to defeat the Shamrock III.

GRINNING SKELETON

Is All That Remains of John Mode

Corporal Piper Returned Yesterday From Twelvemile With the Scattered Bones.

The fate of John Mode, the prospector who disappeared in the Twelvemile region last fall, is no longer in doubt. His bones gnawed bare and torn asunder by the ravages of wolves have been picked up and brought to the city, and by means of shreds of clothing still adhering to the disjointed skeleton and papers found in the pockets the identification is made absolutely complete.

The latter part of last week word was received from the missionary residing with the Moosehide Indians that one of his tribe upon returning from a hunt in the Twelvemile district had reported to him that he had found a human skeleton while on his travels and that, if it was desired to go after it the Indian would conduct a party to the spot. Major Cuthbert at once dispatched Corporal Piper and Constable Strong with the Indian, they leaving Sunday morning. Yesterday afternoon the party returned, footsore and weary but elated with the success of their trip, as they carried between them in a couple of sacks all that was mortal of John Mode. In relating a few of the details of his trip Corporal Piper stated that it was by no means a pleasure party. No attempt was made to go to the spot across country, but instead the journey from Dawson was made down the Yukon to the mouth of the creek, thence up one tributary and another until the spot where the remains were found was reached. The shore ice was dreadfully rough and cut the moccasins of the travelers like so many pieces of sharp glass. On Twelvemile overflows were being constantly run into and keeping dryshod was an impossibility.

The remains were found on a small divide between Alder and German creeks and were scattered over considerable space of ground. The bones were as bare as though they had been boiled and scraped and the skeleton was almost entirely torn asunder by the wolves and other wild animals which had feasted on the unfortunate prospector. Careful search was made and every particle of the skeleton and his clothing was brought back to the city. There were no signs whatever of any foul play having been committed, but on the contrary everything pointed toward the fact that Mode had become lost, wandered on and on until he became exhausted when he lay down in the snow and died. In one of the pockets of his tattered coat was found his own and also his partner Rankin's miner's license and the plans he had drawn of two quartz claims. His watch and chain, pocket book and spectacles were found in what was left of his waistcoat and in the remains of his trousers was $28 in money and a revolver fully loaded. To make the identification still more complete Dr. C. H. Wells, the dentist, and a particular friend of the deceased, called at the barracks this morning and in the teeth still left intact in the skull he recognized his own work, which Mode had had done shortly prior to his departure on the ill-fated voyage. It has been decided that an inquest is unnecessary, and after the coroner has viewed the remains they will be interred in the city cemetery.

The last is the third expedition that has attempted to solve the Mode mystery, two others having made futile efforts to do so. One of the most plausible theories that was set forth as the cause of his death was that on joining his partner who had preceded him down the creek, in crossing the log over Twelvemile he had slipped and fallen in, was swept under the ice and was drowned. The recent discovery, however, of the remains and their proper identification has forever set at rest the doubts as to how John Mode came to his death. Hunger and weakness was the beginning followed by bitter cold and as he dropped off into the peaceful sleep that precedes freezing to death now sang his requiem save the howling beasts of the mountains which afterward devoured him.

British Humor
"It's a hoary chestnut to say that the English can't see the point of a joke," said Lieut.-Gov. Woodruff, speaking of an experience abroad, "but the limit of all density I saw in London itself, in a place where you would least expect to find levity. Heav'n into the stone clear across the main entrance of a church were the words:
"Gate of heaven."
"That was all right. No fault to find. But the trouble came in that the church was undergoing repairs, and directly under the promising inscription they had fastened a sign which read:
"Closed for one week. Enter other door."—New York Times.

SOLID FOR ROSS

Duncan Creek Has No Clarke Sentiment.

Albert McKay, a well known old sour dough, arrived in Dawson a day or so since from a trip to Duncan creek. Mr. McKay covered the creek thoroughly during his visit and reports that he found practically no Clarke sentiment.

Duncan is solid for Ross and as there are about 200 voters on the creek that district will contribute very materially to swelling Mr. Ross' majority, which according to ultra-conservative estimates will not be less than 750.

GOOD PAY ON DIVIDE

Machinery Going in for Livingstone

Cotteneva and Lake Creek Will be Extensively Operated on Next Season.

John Black, one of the largest mining operators on Livingstone creek, was one of the passengers on the last stage in. He says that next season will be a very active one in that district, and there is a great deal of machinery to be taken in over the ice this winter. He says it has been a good summer, and that the pick and shovel men have made good money. At an instance he said that Bishoppic & Shoemaker of Skagway, working two men on their Lake creek claim for twenty-three days, and without any prospect-out, took out forty-four ounces.

The Delaware Mining Company, of Philadelphia, capitalists, of which Mr. Ames, the Dawson chemist, and mining expert, is the manager, are taking in a one hundred horse power boiler and a lot of machinery. They have it on the bank now at the mouth of the Stewart, and will haul it in as soon as the roads get good.

The Johansen Company, which has what is called the Crown block, ten claims below discovery on Livingstone, have been working a number of men and taking out good pay.

Peters & Cavanaugh have also been successful on upper discovery on Livingstone. They are also taking in a large and improved plant, and will work next summer on a very extensive scale.
On Lake creek and Cotteneva there is also a great deal of preparatory work being done, and Mr. Black says they will have an active summer.

Bishop McCabe Returns
New York, Oct. 16.—Bishop McCabe of the Methodist church has just returned to this country, after being absent from the United States for eleven months, during which he has visited the missions of his church in South America, Germany, Switzerland and Denmark. His trip to Europe was largely to enable Bishop Vincent, who has charge of the missions on that continent, to return to the United States on business connected with the church.

While in South America Bishop McCabe says he made some interesting discoveries. At Concepcion, Chile, a city of 51,000 inhabitants, he found two large boarding and day schools, one for boys and the other for girls, with several hundred scholars. The schools are so prosperous financially that all expenses are paid from tuition and there is a profit to be used for the support of native preachers. In Educator the government has called upon the Methodists to furnish teachers for a whole system of new national normal schools to revolutionize and generalize education.

Teachers for this purpose have been transferred from Chile and others imported from the United States to fill the vacancies in the latter country. The government has paid all the transportation expenses of all the teachers. The bishop found that the desire for education in the South American countries is steadily increasing the missionaries' unprecedented opportunities for reaching and influencing the masses of the people.

Cruelty to Birds
A prominent citizen has written to the authorities drawing attention to a case of unthoughtful cruelty to two birds. These birds, a hawk and an owl, have been left hanging outside a certain store on Third avenue during all this inclement weather, and hence the complaint of some kind and conscientious citizen.
Miss Nellie Cashman, who has for some time been in the merchandise business next door to the Donovan hotel, has been taken to St. Mary's hospital and yesterday underwent an operation. Dr. Barrett and Dr. Thompson conducted the operation and the patient this morning is reported as doing well.

FOOD FOR REFLECTION

Two Short Stories of Political History

Are Respectfully Dedicated to the Honest Voters Now Sitting on the Fence.

Hon. R. L. Borden, leader of the Conservative party of Canada, was recently requested to give to the opposition candidate the endorsement of the Conservative party. Mr. Borden telegraphed from Halifax, N.S., under date of Nov. 4th, this diplomatic and evasive reply:
"I am sorry to have our co-operation in legislating for best interests of the people."
Precisely the reply he would have made to a Liberal candidate, or the candidate of any other party. He is careful not to endorse Clarke as a Conservative, and he is careful also not to endorse the opposition party. Opposition party is a meaningless title anyway. It was adopted when there was no other candidate in the field. It was born of the old yarn about an Irishman shipwrecked on an island. "Is there a government?" he asked. There was. "Then I'm for-nist it." The Clarke party should have been called the shipwrecked party, the party of wreckers.

Some fifteen years ago, at the provincial elections in Ontario, there were two candidates for the city of Ottawa, a Liberal and an Equal Righter. No Conservative candidate was running. Sir John A. Macdonald, as a resident of Ottawa, had a vote in the local election, and he voted for the Liberal candidate. He explained his vote in this way: "That is the first Righter I ever cast in my life. But I believe that Canada has no need for more than two parties, and I only recognize the Liberal party and the party to which I have the honor to belong."

At the general election of the Dominion in 1878 the Conservative party carried the whole country by a very large majority, but Sir John A. Macdonald, who ran for Kingston, was defeated. At that time the elections in Manitoba and British Columbia took place two weeks later than the elections in the rest of the Dominion. W. F. Luxton was running as the Liberal candidate for Marquette, and there was little doubt of his success. But, seeing that the Conservatives had carried the country and were certain to be able to form a strong government, he withdrew from the field. He told his supporters that it would be more to the interest of his constituency to have as its member a man like Sir John A. Macdonald, than to elect a member who could be of no possible aid to his constituency as an opponent of the government. Sir John was elected the member for Marquette.

STAKED TOGETHER

Wrangle as to Prior Staking on All Gold.

There seems to be still some stampeding on All Gold. Three candidates for one claim were at the recorder's window this morning, and they wanted to get into a wrangle about it. Henry Fisher claimed that he had staked creek claim No. 60 below, and Charles H. Pearson and William W. Grey claimed that they had staked that claim. Mr. Fisher said the other parties had not staked for twenty-five minutes after he did, and he had his father with him as a witness. Recorder Boyes said that under the circumstances he could only issue one grant to the claim, and he would make it out in the name of all three. This he did, with the result that none of them seemed to be satisfied, and it looks as though a protest will be filed to settle the matter.

VOTEZ POUR JIM ROSS

Is Now the Slogan on Dominion

Rousing Meeting Held at 7 Below Lower at Which Joe Clarke Made a Frost.

Wednesday evening last there was a political meeting at 7 below lower on Dominion that was thoroughly enjoyed by the miners and others of that vicinity and which resulted in making a few more good solid votes for Mr. Ross. A number of excellent speakers were present and with sound convincing argument scored one success after another. Joe Clarke was practically the only one of the opposition on hand and he made a frost so chilling that it was painful to witness. He had his stereotyped speech with him but from some unaccountable reason he seemed to be unable to find the proper place to begin it. A number noted Clarke's improvement in speech making since his famous experience with the class which he so insulted by calling them "Dagoes," and it was remarked that if a few more written speeches were gotten up for him his course in the campaign would go along much more smoothly. But little attention was paid to his emphatic, schoolboy declarations.

Mr. Noel made an excellent speech as he always does, speaking first in English and later in French to his fellow countrymen, Arthur Wilson and Rev. Mahan spoke at considerable length, both being very much enjoyed. Following the latter there were a number of calls for Mr. Henderson of 19 below upper who finally in response to the repeated demands made a break for the platform. In order to expedite matters Mr. Henderson climbed over a low partition to reach the platform and he presented such a ludicrous position that the house was filled with roars of laughter. Once on the platform, however, he started in to give a telling and instructive speech but had only proceeded a short time when he was interrupted continually from the rear of the house by some one asking what the government done with all the revenue that has been taken from the Yukon. Before the speaker had time to reply some equally stupid man answered in a manner that broke the orator up completely and he retired leaving the audience in doubt as to whether he intended to censure or praise the manner in which the revenue of the Yukon had been handled.

Nearly 200 men were present at the meeting which was very orderly and the utmost good feeling prevailed. Mr. Morin occupied the chair with credit to himself. "Votez pour Jim Ross" is now the order of the day on Dominion creek.

Brings Much Treasure

Seattle, Oct. 31.—Steamer Humboldt, Capt. Baughman, with another great Klondike gold consignment, valued at $600,000, arrived yesterday morning from Lynn canal. The vessel had 133 passengers. Of the gold shipment, $400,000 goes to the Selby Smelting Works, San Francisco. The rest was consigned to the Seattle assay office, the Canadian Bank of Commerce of this city, and the North American Transportation & Trading Company.

Among the more prominent passengers of the Humboldt were W. L. McDowell, E. L. Webster, Judge C. G. Austin and F. J. Keelar. The "money king" of Skagway, the Humboldt brought as cargo 5,200 cases of salmon from the Pacific Packing & Navigation Company's Potosburg cannery, 120 large boxes of fresh halibut, consigned to Chlopek Bros., and a small amount of general freight.

MARKET REPORTS

Prices Remain the Same as Last Week

Still no Evidence of Any Perceptible Shortage in Any of the Commodities.

Quotations in the Dawson market remain practically unchanged since last week, with a demand scarcely as brisk as it was a short time ago. The present time is the season of all seasons when trade is liable to be light, as it is neither summer nor winter. It is too late for much to be doing in the transportation line and too early for the winter traffic to have begun, owing to the lack of snow. Consequently only such freight is moving as it is absolutely necessary to have on hand.

Dealers who have examined the stocks on hand carefully are still of the opinion there will be no shortage this season worst speaking, certainly nothing to warrant any sky-scraping prices. Potatoes will be higher after the holidays but they should not go above 1 1/2 cents wholesale. Eggs remain firm at $18. Cream is in good demand and may go several points higher before the season is over. Good bacon is excellent stock, the demand increasing for it every day. There is plenty of bacon on hand but the day is past when people of the Klondike will eat some of the bacon that is imported into the country. Consumers nowadays demand nothing but the best.

Flour which last week jumped 25 cents a sack holds firm today at the same figure. Butter in bricks has advanced a trifle. Where a week or so ago it retailed at 50 cents a brick $1.25 is now demanded for two bricks. Horse feed is the same as it has been for several months and there is likely to be but little change in the quotations for a number of months. The supply of lard it is feared will not last and some that is now being retailed is fit only for axle grease. No change in the fruit situation. Apples, oranges and lemons are all that is in market and there is but little demand for them except the first named. General quotations for the week are as follows:

EXCELLENT SERVICE

Three and One Half Days to Whitehorse.

George Pulham, superintendent of the winter mail service, who arrived with the mail last night, is very well pleased with the overland trail but would not object to a little more snow. In fact, he jokingly said to a reporter of the Nugget today that the road was as rough as the rocky road to Dublin, which can be ascribed to the newness of the grade and also because it has been so little traveled. With plenty of snow and good sledding Mr. Pulham is of the opinion that he will be able to maintain a three and a half day schedule between here and Whitehorse. On the trip out with the mail last week Mackay's was made in three days and Whitehorse would have been made in equally as good time had not a delay been occasioned at Mackay's in making the crossing. It was before the regular man in the employ of the mail service had reached his post for the winter, and the boat owned by the road house keeper at that point was on the other side of the river out of reach. The occupant of the house refused to cross in the boat when requested to do so as he considered the ice was running too heavily to walk ten miles up the river in order to get another canoe.

The superintendent does not anticipate any trouble at the breakup of the winter either in making the crossings or on account of the mud. He says that any time the ice is running a crossing can be made if care is exercised, and when it has stopped one can cross on foot with even less danger. In the spring the mud will have but little terrors as the sun will not cause the frost to disappear to such a depth before the river opens that will give any trouble to speak of. Wagons are already distributed along the route so that the change from runners to wheels can be made with but very little difficulty. Of the six rivers crossed en route to Whitehorse but two have bridges, Indian river and the Nordenskiold. The Stewart, Pelly, Yukon and Tahkenah have to be ferried. Mr. Pulham will probably return south on the next trip of the stage.

Favor of Germany

Washington, Oct. 22.—An intimation has been received here that King Oscar, of Sweden, who is acting as the arbitrator of the issues between the United States and Germany and Great Britain, growing out of the Samoan rebellion of 1899, will decide that the facts presented to him in the briefs of counsel, which have been pending for nearly a year, warrant him in proceeding to assess the damages sustained by foreign residents of Samoa as a result of the landing of a combined force of American and British sailors and marines and the destruction of property incident to the ensuing fight with the rebels.

Young is Arraigned

New York, Oct. 32.—William Hooper Young, who is accused of the murder of Mrs. Anna Pulitzer, was arraigned before Judge Cowling today to plead to the indictment of murder in the first degree. On the advice of his counsel, William S. F. Hart, the prisoner did not plead and Judge Cowling ordered that a plea of not guilty be entered. The court denied a motion by Mr. Hart that he be allowed to inspect the minutes of the grand jury.

To ask a question that can't be answered is merely feminine.—Chimere Padden and Mr. Paul.

UPPER DOMINION.

Three-Fourths of the Voters Are for Mr. Ross.

Joe Graham's on upper Dominion was the scene Tuesday evening of an interesting political meeting at which Mr. Alex. Mitchie presided as chairman. No one was present to represent the opposition, but D. Donaghy and Barney Sugrue were listened to most attentively as supporters of Mr. Ross. At the close of the meeting, which was highly creditable to the creek, a number of questions were asked the speakers and they were courteously and satisfactorily replied to. About 60 electors were present of which number fully three-fourths will vote for Mr. Ross and good government.

TO FIGHT FIRES.

Chief Lester Constructing a Practical Hydrant.

Fire Chief Lester is taking a very wise precaution for fighting fires this winter, in fact, several of them. The one he is at work at now is the erection of a scaffolding to carry a four inch iron pipe from the pumping engine to the side of the thoroughfare just below the Fairview. The river has never been so low in the memory of the greatest of sourdoughs. It takes a pipe four hundred feet long to reach from the First avenue bank to the place where the engine has been located for the winter, the nearest point at which water from the river may be obtained. When this pipe is in, the hose cart can couple its hose while racing to a fire.

ELDORADO AND BONANZA

A very select sleighing party of nice young folks from upper Bonanza visited the grand ball at O'Reilly's hall, Grand Forks, Nov. 6th, and while returning home were having a lovely time of it and were some seven or eight miles from home when a heavy snow storm set in and the sleigh was overturned. It was an exciting sight to see the lantern flying in every direction. In the great excitement some articles were lost but the party finding them returned to their own homes. There were no broken and no serious damage done. The young folks will not forget the accidental sleighing for a long time. Little Frankie Kehoe gave a little party to his playmates and other little friends last Sunday evening at No. 36 above Bonanza. The little ones had a very enjoyable time. Among the amusements was the playing of pussie in the corner with Mrs. Kehoe as president, much to the delight of the little ones who enjoy it immensely. Those present were Frankie Kehoe, Eddie Kehoe, Carl Slaughterer, Leon Slaughterer, Cal Kenyone, Ray Kenyone, Leo Kelly, Helen Daley, Walter Collins, Joe Collins, Margaret Dalton.
