CHAPTER XII.

Old Reuben Vale regarded Vane suspiciously. "What are you doing here?" he demanded, sternly. Vane met his gaze steadily. "I came here because I heard foot- steps," he said.

"What had that to do with you?" was the grim response.

"Well," said Vane, "I heard some one sighing, as if he were in pain, and I came to see what the matter."

The old man watched him keenly; but there was no sign of flinching, no indication of duplicity, in Vane's frank eyes.

"Were you spying on me?" he de- manded, with subdued wrath.

Vane colored, and an indignant de- nial sprang to his lips, but he check- ed it.

"The slightness of our acquaintance is the only excuse you have for such a question, sir," he said, quietly.

Reuben Vale's eyes dropped; then he raised them again.

"How did you come here?" he asked.

Vane nodded over his shoulder.

"Through the gun-room. I discov- ered the well, secret door. I sup- pose it is—by accident. If I had known that you were here, I should have come all the same; for I thought by the sounds I heard, that you were ill. You are ill, are you not?" he added, more gently, as he noticed the pallor of the lined and rugged face.

"No," said the old man, slowly; "I am never ill."

"I am very glad," said Vane, "and I'll go as quickly as possible."

He turned toward a door he could just discern behind the old man, and, as was only natural, glanced uncon- sciously at the curtain which now hid the portrait. Swift as the glance was, the old man noted it.

"You—saw that picture," he said, rather than interrogated.

Vane nodded.

"Yes."

"And you are going to ask ques- tions," said the old man, gloomily.

"I beg your pardon—not a ques- tion," said Vane, quietly but emphat- ically.

The squire looked at him strangely.

"You do not want to know who it is," he said, incredulously, "or why you find me pulling before it like a whipped cur?"

He spoke with a repressed savagery quite indescribable.

Vane leaned against one of the old chairs, and looked at him as steady- ly as before.

"Of course I want to know," he said. "You are my uncle; you have behaved like a friend to me. I have lived in your house as an honored guest. If I said that I was not at all curious you wouldn't believe me."

"I shouldn't," was the stern assent. "Just so," said Vane, as quietly as before. "But I neither ask, nor do I want you to tell me, and I certainly shall not try to learn. I am, not in the habit of intruding on the private affairs of my host, squire."

The old man looked at him with a kind of reluctant admiration and re- spect.

"You are too much of a gentleman I suppose," he said, but without a sneer.

It was singular—it was almost exactly what Mrs. Trevanion, at the Witches' Castle, had remarked.

"I hope so," said Vane. "I will leave you now, sir; that is, if you are sure that you are all right."

The old man motioned to him to re- main, stood as if lost in gloomy reverie for a moment or two, then strode to the curtain, drew it back, and holding up the light, nodded fiercely at the beautiful woman.

"Do you call her good-looking?" he demanded.

"Yes," said Vane, instinctively low- ering his voice.

Deep down in his heart was that adoration, worship, for woman which had kept him pure and unstained even through the moral slush of fash- ionable London.

"Yes, she is lovely," he said.

"And you don't ask who she is?" inquired Reuben Vale.

Vane shook his head.

"Cover it up, sir," he said, almost pityingly; for he saw how the sig- of the exquisite face moved the old man.

"Look at her," said the squire pointing a shaking finger at her, a finger that shook accusingly. "That was my wife. That is the portrait of the woman who nearly sent me mad with joy for one short year, and the memory of whom has nearly sent me mad with misery ever since. She was my wife."

Vane looked his surprise.

"Your wife!" he said; "I did not know you were married."

The old man seemed scarcely to hear him.

"One short year!" he murmured, more to himself than to Vane. "To pay with the misery of a life for one short year! And yet the fools who write poetry and novels would tell you that love is well worth buying at such a price. Love!"

He turned to Vane, who stood fixedly regarding him.

"You laugh! You think that such as I, a plain country clod, love is impossible. Were you ever in love, boy?"

Vane started and shook his head. "I think not, sir."

"You think not?" repeated the old man. "You'd soon know, if you had loved as I loved her. I worshipped her. I would have laid down my life for her. I did lay it down, for the life I live now is a living death. I would have cast myself at her feet that she might tread on me. Day and night I thought of her, and her only. I toiled for her. I wrought with heart, and head, and hands to make her happy—to gratify her lightest wish; and willingly, cheerfully, with no thought of sacrifice. Why not? What was I? A common man, with an ugly, common face, with a form like this, hands like these"—he stretched them out, quivering, before him—"compared with beauty like hers. She was a star, a goddess, and I had but to kneel at her shrine, to pour out at her feet all that I pos- sessed. I gained wealth for her. I held it but as the dirt from which I tore it. I loaded her with jewels"—he strode to a corner of the room and flung open the lid of an iron box. Vane saw that the keys were in the lock, as if it had just been unlocked. "Look!" The old man plunged his thin-veined, knotted hands into the box and dragged out a heap of spark- ling gems. She was fond of them, as a child is fond of a glittering toy, and I lavished them on her. I hungered day and night to prove to her how I loved her, to win her love in return. I would have committed any crime—murder itself—if she had bidden me, and made the prize her love. And I thought that I had won her—I thought that she loved me—for a year—just twelve months."

He laughed, and wiped the sweat from his face, staring hard at the face looking down, as if almost seemed to) Vane, with sweet scorn of his emo- tion.

"I was older than she," went on the old man, "but I told myself that such love as mine would wipe a score of years away. She was a lady—one of your class—and I was what you see me; but I told myself that she must—she must—see that underneath this rugged exterior there burned and throbbled a heart as full of love and tenderness as any that could beat in one of her own kind. She said so herself often enough. Those lips—see how true they look!—could lie, boy, as readily as smile. The night before she left me she let her head rest on my shoulder and whispered of wifely love."

His face went white, his voice al- most inaudible.

Vane, filled with pity, moved to- ward him; but the old man seemed to have lost all consciousness of his presence, and stared before him vacantly.

"They went together," he said—"she and the man who betrayed me and stole her from me. He was a 'gentleman.' It was fine sport for him to pretend that plain Reuben Vale was his friend, and to rob the country clod of his wife."

There was a moment's silence, then the old man's voice sounded through the dim room again.

"Take her back?" he muttered, as if he were addressing some one who was pleading to him—"take her back? Forgive her? Yes, yes! when she can give me back my ruined life—when she can change this heart she turned to stone back into one of flesh and blood. Yes; when she can give me back herself as she was—the woman I loved—but not till then!"

His voice dropped and died away. He put his hands to his forehead and held them there for a moment or two; then, with a deep sigh, he seemed to recover consciousness of the situation and the fact that he was not alone. Going forward slowly, but with a steadier step, he drew the curtain again and faced Vane.

"You know my secret," he said, sternly, grimly. "That was my wife. She left me—betrayed me. She is dead. The man who took her from me was a gentleman—an aristocrat, like you and yours. I hated them before; hated them when your father took my sister from me; judge if I

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostra- tion will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no ap- petite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my household work with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recom- mending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all deal- ers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Lim- ited, Toronto.

have not still greater cause to hate them. You are one of them. You will never inherit a rood of my land, a penny of my money. But you are my sister's child, and for her sake I will give you money to fling in the gutter, after the manner of your kind."

Vane would have indignantly re- fused the proffered gift, but pity re- strained him. But the old man's eyes were sharp.

"You refuse? You need not." Vane shook his head.

The old man pointed to the door. "Go to the library," he said, in still calmer tones.

Vane took a last look round the gloomy place, made his way to the library, and in a minute or so the squire followed him. His face was still white—and its lines seemed even deeper cut than usual; the dust of the room had fallen on his corduroy coat, and even on his hair; but his hands no longer trembled, and his gaze was steady and keen as usual.

"Let us speak of business, and that only," he said. "The offer I have just made you is one you can accept without sacrifice of pride. When your mother married, I bought some of the land belonging to her at the ordinary price, not knowing the wealth beneath it. Some of that wealth—I know the proportion—fairly belongs to you. Vane Tempest, I will give it you.—What you do with it is nothing to me; save it, squander it, as you will."

Some Rules for Repartee.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Don't hurry so. Take the easy and keep your eye on the ball; by and by when you get the hang of it you can speed up."

That is the advice I heard an expert tennis player give a beginner the other day. The beginner had been defeating his own game by the pace at which he tried to play. He would tumble all over himself in his headlong haste, miss the ball because he didn't stop to get his eye on it properly, and retire from his sally breathless and already half-defeated by his own waste of energy. As soon as he began to take the expert's advice he improved rapidly. Sometimes he would miss a return because he advanced too slowly or took too long to get his eye on the ball, but his percentage of failures rapidly diminished. Moreover, the amount of energy he used was steadily less, and his efficiency and hold on himself was steadily greater. Why am I retelling all this to an audience in which possibly one out of a hundred is interested in tennis? Because it seems to me that the same advice which the expert gave the beginner in tennis is good advice for the beginner in other games, other professions, sciences, arts, etc. Especially well, it seems to me, does it apply to

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed. Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. ## Stafford's Liniment.

Question No. 1.—Why is it that Stafford's Liniment has obtained such a large sale?
Answer No. 1.—Because every person who has used it says it is one of the best Liniments that they ever used, and they tell their friends of it, and the consequence is that the demand is obtained.
Question No. 2.—Why is it that Stafford's Liniment is recommended and guaranteed by the people who handle it?
Answer No. 2.—Because the people who handle it know by facts and statements that they can thoroughly recommend and guarantee it to the utmost. Several persons have such confidence in it that they tell their customers, that after using it, they didn't find it as good or even better than some other kind they used, they would give them their money back. If this isn't confidence enough what is it?
Question No. 3.—Why is it that Stafford's Liniment cures Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia, and all kinds of Aches and Pains?
Answer No. 3.—Because when you are suffering from Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia, or any kind of ache or pain, you bathe affected parts in very warm water (nearly hot) for about five minutes. Dry well and apply Stafford's Liniment freely, you will find instant relief. Now there is no doubt about it, Stafford's Liniment has obtained a large sale, and the orders being received nearly every day would convince you. You can see them if you wish by calling at our Drug Store, Theatre Hill. Isn't this plain enough for you? We publish nothing but straightforward facts, and challenge any person or persons to contradict them.

A New Island Created

By Germany, Situated Near Heligoland.

London, Sept. 8.—Germany has created a new island in the North Sea. It lies off the lower part of Heligoland, and is half as big as that island. The materials for creating the new island are being sent from Germany. Heligoland is very seldom visited, as it is devoted to military purposes, and every arrival is watched with suspicion. A correspondent of the Daily Mail on a revisit to Heligoland, after two years, records the discovery of the new island, which, he says, shelters small cruiser destroyers, submarines and torpedo boats.

He describes Heligoland as having been changed in an astonishing manner. It has become a huge naval fortress, with huge Krupp guns which command all the approaches from the sea.

St. Joseph, Lewis, July 14, 1902. Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Gentlemen.—I was badly kicked by my horse last May and after using several preparations on my leg nothing would do. I was laid up in bed for a fortnight and could not walk. After using three bottles of your MINARD'S LINIMENT I was perfectly cured, so that I could start on the road.

The Evening Telegram.

W. J. HERDER, Proprietor --- W. F. LLOYD, Editor

ST. JOHN'S, NFLD, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1913.

An Outrage on the Electorate.

No greater flouting of the will of the people has ever been perpetrated in Newfoundland by a Tory Government than the outrage committed by the Morris Government on Saturday.

The announcement on Saturday afternoon in the Evening Herald that the Government had dared to set the spirit of the constitution at defiance by appointing two new Councillors to the Legislative Council gave rise to considerable adverse comment and aroused general indignation in the community. Here is a Government on their trial before the general Inquest of the Nation packing the Legislative Council with two Tory supporters before the people have given their verdict, and in advance trying to set their verdict at naught. It is a monstrous flouting of the public will and an outrage on the Constitution. The mandate of the Government has run out. The House of Assembly has been dissolved. No Legislature can be called together until a general election has been held and the new members returned to the House. Virtually, there is no Legislature, and yet at this time two members have been appointed to the Legislative Council. Two members have been appointed at a time the Government of Sir Edward Morris is on trial, and before the electorate has had a chance of giving their verdict on the general issue, whether Morris shall go or remain. The action of the Government is a clear and plain defiance of the public will. These appointments are tantamount to Sir Edward Morris telling the people that do what they will in returning his opponents to the House of Assembly, he defies them by packing the Legislative Council with his supporters. Sir Edward Morris is practically saying to the people, as McGrath has charged him with doing before, "The public be d---d." He tells them by these appointments, if the public will not allow him to rule the roost in the House of Assembly, he will defy them by filling the Legislative Council with his own nominees. This is the plain meaning of these appointments. They are meant to embarrass the incoming Government, just as the three appointments he made some months ago. They are meant to set at naught the will of the people as it will be declared at the polls next November. There can be no other reasonable explanation of this flagrant attack on the spirit of the Constitution. If Sir Edward had any fair expectation of being returned back to power he would never have made these appointments at this time. He would have waited until after the General Elections, and if a working majority had been secured to support his Government, then before the Legislature assembled he would have had these appointments made. But he has not elected to do this and the reason he has not done so is clear. He has no expectation of being returned to power. He knows he will be turned out, and that Sir Robert Bond will win hands down at the elections, and he is prostituting his power to embarrass the incoming Government and to set at naught the mandate the people will give the new government. The appointees are Mr. J. J. Murphy, ex-member for Harbour Main, and Mr. Michael Power.

The personal aspects of the appointments, we have not dealt with. Under other circumstances and at other time, Mr. Power's appointment might be viewed with complacency. Mr. Murphy's appointment many would question under any circumstances.

Another Outrage

WATSON APPOINTED CASHIER OF SAVINGS BANK.

We hear that the Hon. Robert Watson, Colonial Secretary, and we believe a large shareholder in the Herald, has been appointed Cashier of the Government Savings Bank in succession to the late lamented Mr. Payne, who died some three years and three months ago. Under these circumstances the appointment is an outrage. If the appointment had been made in due course, following the demise of the late Cashier and at a time when the mandate of the people to Sir Edward Morris was in full force, it might have been viewed with equanimity. Under the present circumstances it cannot be accepted in any such spirit. The Government is on trial before the people. The mandate is exhausted. The appointment is made by a dying Government that should have gone to the country last fall, and it has been made after keeping the appointment unfilled for three years and three months, and it is given to a politician whose chances of re-election in Trinity Bay District are absolutely nil. Moreover, the appointment will be a source of embarrassment to the incoming Government, for it is in conflict with the policy which will be instituted by Sir Robert Bond, should he be returned to power. Under these circumstances, there will be nothing left for

SELLING OUT Bargains in Crockeryware. JOHN B. AYRE.

The new Government but to cancel the appointment, however disagreeable that course may be. Mr. John R. Bennett succeeds Mr. Watson as Colonial Secretary. This is nothing but a death-bed sop to Mr. Bennett, whose claims might well have been satisfied years ago, and who has had the decency, we are told, to sell out his shares in the Evening Herald, in view of his appointment, in marked contrast to the action of Mr. Watson in holding office as Colonial Secretary and occupying a seat in the Executive Council and being a large shareholder and a director of the Evening Chronicle at one and the same time, while that newspaper was in receipt of extensive Government patronage. Moreover, was an agreement entered into by which the stockholders in the Evening Chronicle took stock in the Evening Herald? Was not Mr. Watson among those stockholders? Is he still a stockholder? Was he stockholder at the time its editor was conducting a violent and vicious attack on the Savings Bank? If these are statements of fact, how comes it that a large stockholder in a newspaper conducting a campaign against the Government Savings Bank, is appointed Chief officer of that institution?

T.A. and Benefit Society Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the Total Abstinence and Benefit Society was held yesterday afternoon. Twelve applicants were admitted to the ranks. President Ellis occupied the chair and looked well after his trip to the States. He received a warm reception from the members. He addressed the meeting at the opening and paid a heart-felt tribute of respect to the memory of the late Ex-President James J.

Bates, and announced that a High Mass will be celebrated for the repose of his soul at an early date at which all the members of the Society, he hoped, would attend.

The quarterly reports were not discussed at yesterday's meeting, but will be dealt with at the next meeting of the Society.

Word was received from the Spiritual Director, Rev. Father Pippy, and all were delighted to learn that his health has improved. The rev. gentleman will return about the end of the present month.

Backache is a Danger Signal.

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism, and Serious Diseases Follow.

There are other symptoms, such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and worn-out feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles, which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement if neglected may develop into the deadly Bright's disease, dropsy or diabetes.

It is not only dangerous, but needless, for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, for Croxone promptly ends all such misery.

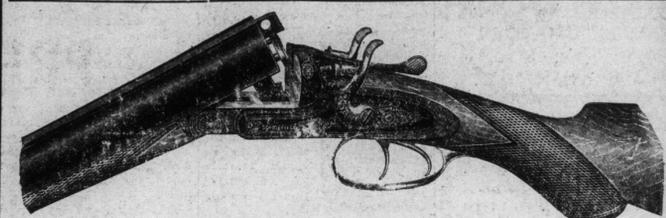

There is no more effective remedy for kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism, than Croxone, because it reaches the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged up pipes, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Croxone a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders. You will find Croxone different from other remedies. It is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it should fail in a single case.

He is a favorite of the first water. Little Baby Queen will also be seen in some pretty songs and dances. The show is one scream of laughter right through. The ladies will all appear in new and beautiful costumes. There will be a great variety of beautiful songs and dances, and on Thursday Miss Marie Girard, the wonderful acrobatic dancer, will appear as a human mechanical doll, the wonder of the age.

Sir—Every once in a while we see an article running through the Government press painting in glowing terms a pen picture on Fox Farming, usually telling what has been done in Prince Edward Island and other Canadian Provinces, but all tending towards the encouragement of this business in Newfoundland.
Besides those articles, that very modest and righteous body known as the Game Board, have printed in pamphlet form a digest on Fox Farming which they have distributed by the thousand, telling the poor trapper how to become rich by securing and breeding foxes on their own ranch, and to this end (so they tell you) they with the sanction of the Tory Party (Government) have enacted a code of laws dealing with this, as well as other matters, of Game and Inland Water Fish. Section 2, page 32 of the 1913 Game Laws, or regulations, reads as follows:—

"No person shall export from this Colony or its dependencies, any live fox or foxes except those bred in Fox Farms in this Colony or its Dependencies under a penalty for each fox of $1,000.00 for each fox so exported, and confiscation of such fox or foxes."
Talk about class legislation and other unfair means to keep the poor man under, nothing that has ever been attempted in this country can come near the brutal and unrighteous enactment. To put this matter in plain English a possibility arose in our midst last year whereby a few of our very poor could have made a small fortune (I do not mean a fortune like some of the live on Circular Road or ride an automobile) if left alone for a few years, by selling live foxes to dealers from parts of Canada for which they would have received good prices as well as being treated honestly. But alas for the poor trapper, a few of the nabobs wanted to start a fox farm and were not anxious to pay the prices offered by Canadians, and of course a means had to be found to shut out competition and compel the poor trapper to contribute his share in making these greedy monopolists richer, and so this unjust and unwholy law was prepared by the Game Board and received the sanction of your Tory Government.

Open Letter.

To The Right Hon. Sir E. P. Morris,
K. C. M. G.

Editor The Evening Telegram.

Sir—Every once in a while we see an article running through the Government press painting in glowing tones a pen picture on Fox Farming, usually telling what has been done in Prince Edward Island and other Canadian Provinces, but all tending towards the encouragement of this business in Newfoundland.

Besides these articles, that very modest and righteous body known as the Game Board, have printed in pamphlet form a digest on Fox Farming, which they have distributed by the thousand, telling the poor trapper how to become rich by securing and breeding foxes on their own ranch, and to this end (so they tell you) they, with the sanction of the Tory Party Government, have enacted a code of laws dealing with this, as well as other matters of Game and Inland Water Fish. Section 3, page 32 of the 1913 Game Laws, or regulations, reads as follows:—

"No person shall export from this Colony or its Dependencies, any live fox or foxes except those bred in Fox Farms in this Colony or its Dependencies under a penalty not exceeding $1000 for each fox so exported, and confiscation of such fox or foxes, or imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months and confiscation of such fox or foxes."

Talk about class legislation and other unfair means to keep the poor man under nothing that has ever been dreamed in this country can come near the brutal and unrighteous enactment. Every person knows full well that fox farming cannot be done on a small scale and that this law only benefits the few, yet the Game Board publishes its pamphlets to try and fool the masses and justify its unbecoming actions.

To put this matter in plain English a possibility arose in our midst last year whereby a few of our very poor could have made a small fortune (if I do not mean a fortune big enough to live on Circular Road or ride an automobile) if left alone for a few years by selling live foxes to dealers from parts of Canada for which they would have received good prices as well as being treated honestly. But alas for the poor trapper, a few of the nabobs wanted to start a fox farm and were not anxious to pay the prices offered by Canadians, and of course a means had to be found to shut out competition and compel the poor trapper to contribute his share in making these already monopolists richer, and so this unjust and unholly law was prepared by the Game Board and received the sanction of your Tory Government.

As a trapper and native of this country claim the right, yes, and demand the right, and herewith ask the Government to at once grant me the right to do as I please with any fox that I may be fortunate enough to capture during the proper season. I herewith appeal to every trapper and dealer throughout the country to make this same demand and if satisfactory arrangements are not made at once then we will put in power a People's Government who will enact laws for the masses and not for the classes, and who will have the backbone to look after the best interests of the people who put them there and not be led by the nose by a couple of dead-heads, or has-beens, that run the Game Board.

If people in this country want to invest in the Fox Farm business, then by all fair and just means encourage them to do so, but allow fair competition to come in and give the trapper the same chance to obtain remuneration for his labour and investment as that given to the rich rancher.

Sir Edward, I warn you that if this law is not speedily changed it will mean the losing of hundreds, if not thousands of votes for your party in November. I would further advise you, for your own benefit and peace of mind, to at once wipe that cod called the Game and Inland Fisheries Board off the state and place the business in the hands of a couple of capable men who will run the thing on business lines and think more of the benefits to the people and country than of a conviction against some poor creature for jiggering or netting a salmon to eat.

If this matter is not attended to and I have to refer to it again I shall have a few very pertinent questions to ask the Game Board, the answer to which will enlighten the Public as to what interest prompted the making of these laws.

Yours truly,
E. P. MORRIS.
Port Blandford, Sept. 8th, 1913.

Anxiety Felt For Vessel 70 Days Out.

The barq. Attila, Capt. Morgan, is now over 70 days out from this port to Pernambuco, and her non-arrival is causing grave concern amongst the friends of those on board. Since leaving here in July last, no word has been received by the owners of the vessel. Whilst a 70 days' passage across the "herring pond" is considered long at this season of the year, yet it is more than likely that the Attila has been becalmed for a considerable while. However, if only for the sake of the lives on board it is earnestly hoped that the vessel will turn up all right and reach her destination safely.

Fine Parade.

Yesterday forenoon the C. C. C. had a fine parade under the leadership of Lt.-Col. Conroy. The threatening weather of the early morning kept many from mustering out but nearly 400 paraded. An excellent feature was the appearance of the Reserves in their civilian clothing, but headgear with the Cadet colours. The lads of St. Bon's, St. Patrick's and Holy Cross had a smart appearance, and seldom have so many greeted the Cadets on their march through the streets of St. John's. Under the capable leadership of Mr. Bulley and under the guidance of Sgt. Thomas Pennessy, an excellent clarinet player, the band attracted much attention and was followed down Water Street by thousands of citizens. At St. Patrick's the officers occupied the sanctuary while the lads held seats in the nave. The choir under the leadership of Professor McCarthy gave a splendid rendition of some very choice sacred music. An "Agnus Dei" was particularly effective and some beautiful Gregorian chants were rendered, but more effective still was the beautiful sermon preached by Rev. Dr. Greene. Yesterday was the Feast of the Holy Cross and from a text in the Gospel of the day preached one of the most eloquent sermons possibly ever heard in St. Patrick's Church, reminding all that they never should be ashamed of making the sign of the cross, the sign of redemption from the time of the Crucifixion of Christ, during the persecutions of the Roman Emperor. Dr. Greene brought his hearers down through the centuries until the Great Constantine arose, thence came the great triumph for Christianity. The cross was translated throughout the world. We would like to give a more extended notice of Dr. Greene's sermon but space does not permit. The peroration of one of the most eloquent and scholarly sermons in itself was a masterly effort, edified all present and moved many to tears. Certainly the learned preacher in the opinion of all present yesterday distinguished himself. We heartily congratulate him on his pre-eminently fluent discourse.

If Child Is Cross Feverish And Sick.

Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has a sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all of the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

C.L.B. Parade.

Yesterday afternoon Avalon Battalion, numbering 300 strong, held Church parade. Headed by their splendid brass band which discoursed lively airs, the lads attended Divine Service at the C. of E. Cathedral at 3 p.m. An instructive and impressive sermon was delivered by the Rector, Rev. Canon White. After service the brigade reformed ranks and returned to their Armoury, the proposed tour of the city having to be abandoned owing to threatening storm coming on.

Tourist Loses Money.

On Saturday a lady tourist, who was visiting Cabot Tower on Signal Hill, met with a loss. On opening her hand-bag to get her opera glasses, the sum of $20 in notes and a return ticket to New York which she held was carried away by a strong breeze of wind. Half of the money, was found by two boys who were rewarded with a quarter each for their honesty.

David Livingstone.

the Prince Albert coat and the dissolving pill to the natives of the dark continent.

The story of Livingstone's life is more fascinating than one of Horatio Alger's books, but is not read as often by the rising generation. On his first visit to Africa his passage was disputed by a lion, which broke one of his arms while the explorer was feeling around for a vital spot with a shotgun. It was on this trip that Livingstone pretty nearly lost control of the steering gear of the English language, which he had no use for for thirteen years, with the result that when he returned home he didn't have much in the way of conversation except the Ujiji dialect.

While at home, Livingstone wrote a book of travel which brought in about $30,000, which he promptly sunk in a steamer to carry him back to Africa. He discovered a lot of places in Africa which nobody has ever visited since, on account of the disagreeable manners of the natives, whom he found short on clothes and long on appetite.

of the reservation and steal his pan-cake flour.

After Livingstone had discovered about all of Africa that was worth keeping, no word came from him for years. Henry M. Stanley began to poke around the dark continent in search of him and finally found him under a banyan tree, surrounded by a picked assortment of native liars, thieves and head cooks. He refused to return, preferring to die among the people he had come to serve. When he passed on, the recording angel wrote another name high in the list of the martyred of the earth.

Teaching the Boy How to Save

"That looks like a good way to teach my boy to save," said a successful business man after the bond salesman had explained the Partial Payment Plan. "And I am going to begin his lessons on the value of a dollar right now."

"I will start by buying him a bond on this plan, or rather by helping him to buy one. I would open an account for him in the savings bank, but there isn't enough individuality or interest—in both senses—to a savings account to teach him anything. I want him to learn from his own experience, what money is, and how and why it earns interest through careful investment."

POLICE COURT. — Two drunks were discharged. Two were fined $2 or 7 days each and two $1 or 3 days. Four drunks and disorderlies were fined $5 or 14 days. The defendant in an assault case was fined $10 or 30 days and costs. Another assault case was withdrawn.

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well. You did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late then to say: "If I had only, etc. etc." That "if" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it? Is it any more than his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurance with Percie Johnson's agency, the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

Word in Season.

MORE COURAGE AND FREEDOM AND HONOR TO THE NOBLE YOUNG VOTERS OF THIS CITY.

The young voters of the East and West districts are speaking out boldly. They say they will never dishonor the old Liberal flag under which their fathers fought many battles and won glorious victories. No sectarian cries will avail anything in this contest. Who are the chief associates of Premier Morris? Strip the guise from them and let them stand forth in their naked deformity. All creeds and classes in St. John's are as one man, now, and this is how it must be, living in love and unity and we cannot tolerate a sectarian firebug like P. T. McGrath. There's been some talk about the Premier's visits recently, and we warn him that there must be no sectarian appeals under cover of darkness. This is our motto just now—

"Here shall the Press the people's rights maintain. Unswayed by influence and unbribed by gain. Her Patriot Truth her glorious precepts draw. Pledg'd to Religion, Liberty and Law."

Lying for Patronage.

J. A. Robinson says "every promise made by Premier Morris has been carried into effect." John is lying and he knows it and is simply lying for patronage for his wife's shop. He knows very well that Morris has undertaken nothing of an original nature and that all his promises about Cold Storage, Cold Storage, the manufacture of Peat, opening new Fish Markets, and many other things were only intended to deceive the people and catch their votes, and get into a position to hold power that he might use for the advantage of himself and his Tory friends. But the sorry thing with John Alexander is that his day of pickings and pickings is done. O John, John, you have been assured from the path of reptile when you ought to have known either by instinct or by contact with the unsavory P. T. that there were some among you Tories who could "With devotions" visage and Pious action sugar over The Devil himself."

Little Boy Meets Death Mysteriously.

Appended is an extract from an American paper telling how a little boy met his death which appears to be shrouded in mystery. Detective John Byrne, of this city, is an uncle of the deceased:

"Little Thomas Leo Kerrivan, the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kerrivan, of 287 Dorchester Street, who died as a result of injuries alleged to have been received by being run over by an ice cart on Monday morning last near his home, was buried Wednesday at 2 o'clock.
The little lad was a prime favorite with his little companions, who were called by his remains. The parents are heartbroken over their loss. They have three children surviving.
Just how the boy met his untimely end, appears to be a mystery. Although little Anna Rogers, who assisted the child into his home aided by Miss Lena Gallagher, said she saw him under the wheels of the cart; no bones were found to be broken. Dr. Goodrow was called at the time of the accident, which occurred at nine o'clock, and immediately ordered him to be removed to the hospital where he died at noon. He was laid to rest in New Calvary."

Little Brain Waves.

A heart is more breakable than a habit. You should never try to understand a woman. You should only endeavor to forestall her.

A man will confide more to a woman who waits and listens than to a woman who presses and questions. The fact that we can't take our money with us when we die is a source of great comfort to the lawyers.

A good and beautiful woman leaves nothing to be desired; this is why she is like a burglar.
A girl is like a safety pin—she betrays you when you think you may handle her roughly without hurt.

Women without attractions are not so common as men without brains. Sighing, crying, buying, spying, and dyeing are the occupations of the most trying of women.

A man with short arms should choose a girl with a slender waist. The girl who thinks no man is good enough for her may often be right, but she is more often left.

When a man walk for ten miles steadily on a hot summer's day along a dusty English road, and he will soon discover why he was invented.

There was once a man who kissed a girl unexpectedly and then begged her pardon, but he was no great success with the women.

When your phonograph has been going all the evening, don't feel sure that the pounding on the floor in the flat above that you hear about eleven o'clock is intended for applause.

All is not bliss with the girl who declines to marry, with a pebble in her shoe, and she cannot take the shoe because her stocking is one mass of holes.

Practically farmers may easily minimize the loss, due to a backward and cold season, by the judicious use of Sulphate of Ammonia as a fertilizer.

Sulphate of Ammonia contains over 20 per cent of nitrogen, as against 15 per cent in Nitrate of Soda, and is therefore more than 25 per cent better than nitrate of soda as a means of quickening and increasing the growth of crops.

Sir Boverton Redwood, the Admiralty's adviser on petroleum matters, comes from Torreon, charged with from Montreal members of the staff of the investigating shale field in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia. Schmidt, according to police reports, has confessed, and at the time of his arrest attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a razor blade.

MEXICO CITY, To-day.
One hundred Americans, including a number of women and children, refugees from Torreon, are reported to have fallen into the hands of the rebels while proceeding over land to Sattillo. The authorities at Sattillo decline to take the responsibility of sending a force to their rescue fearing the rebels might commit atrocities against the refugees, which would possibly result in the loss of the American report, prove true. Senator Gamble, Foreign Minister, have had no advice further than a communication from the Embassy. He expressed regret but added that it was no more than might be expected as a result of the neutrality policy of the States, which had hampered the administration in proceeding with a strong hand against rebels and bandits.

LONDON, To-day.
The presence of two of the most prominent Conservatives in the two Houses of Parliament at Balmoral as the King's guests, Andrew B. Law, who is titular leader of the Opposition, recently declared in the House of Lords that the Irish question could not be settled, except by consent of both parties is keeping the discussion of possibilities of an attempt at a compromise at a fever heat. Before going to Balmoral Law had a conference with Lord Lansdowne and Mr. Baird, former leader of the Opposition, in which the Conservative and Liberal leaders are in consultation. The newspapers of both parties in England are evidently anxious for some settlement.

Erik Back From Far North.

The s.s. Erik, Capt. Kehoe, which brought an exploration party to the far north, arrived back to this port this morning. The party consisted of five scientists and Dr. McMillan, the promoter of the expedition. The s.s. Diana was first chartered to make the trip, but while going through the Belle Isle Straits in June last went ashore, became leaky and had to return for repairs. The Erik, which was then engaged to fulfil the mission, left here in July. She called at Battle Harbor, Cape York, North Star Bay and Nasky Harbor going north. Conditions were favorable and good headway was made until Baffin's Land coast was reached. Here a violent northeast gale and snow storm was encountered. The seas were running mountains high and the vessel, which was hove to for a couple of days before the storm subsided, was badly buffeted, but survived without damage. After going further north the Erik had to contend with a deal of heavy ice, but managed to butt her way through the foe. It was originally intended to bring the expedition to Cape Sabine which is about 25 miles distant from Crocker Land, but on reaching Eta the ship could not get any further owing to the impenetrable ice barriers that were met. The party were landed at Eta and from there proceeded to their destination. Capt. Kehoe said he never witnessed such heavy ice as was at Eta. North of that place there was a solid jam of ice over 40 feet thick and extending for many miles. After landing supplies, provisions, etc., the Erik left to return home, calling at Hawke's Hr. on the way for water. Three New York photographers who went north on the ship secured some splendid pictures. The Erik is in sound condition after her trip.

Degenerate Days.

"Our writers are a sickly lot—the best is but a ham; we have no novelists like Scott, no humorists like Lamb; no noble poets strike their lyres, producing a sonnet fine; our poets write of rubber tires and draw ten cents a line." This sort of thing has oft been said, in print it oft appears; until a writer has been dead from ten to fifty years, he can't expect to wear a wreath, and keep the same on straight; but when he lies the sod beneath, we find that he was great. And when the living lot of scribblers have met their divers doom, the world will send admiring tribes to weep around their tombs. The gray-beard, in the years to come, will cry: "What rotten books! Our modern scribblers are on the bum, and worse than that, godooks! All bleak and barren is the soil that once produced great men! We have none now like Conan Doyle, that giant of the pen. Where is the peer of William Locke, whose worshipper I am, whose keen and sprightly line of talk outdistanced Charlie Lamb? To-day we have no gifted poet, there is no golden tongue; who writes such verse as 'Markham wrote, or Rudyard Kipling sprung?' If we have laurel wreaths to give it's best, so help me John, to give them to the ones who live, and let the dead sleep on.

Balkan War Cost One Billion Three Hundred and Sixty Million Dollars.

Latest Estimate Places Loss of Life at 400,000 in all.

A correspondent of the Corriere della Sera of Rome, who has visited all the chief centres of the Balkan war, has sent to the newspaper he represents an approximate table of the losses in men and money up to the present of the combatant nations. For the first war his estimate is as follows:

- Bulgaria—50,000 soldiers mobilized; 30,000 dead; $300,000,000.
  - Serbia—250,000 soldiers; 30,000 dead; $160,000,000.
  - Greece—10,000 dead out of 150,000; $70,000,000.
  - Montenegro—8,000 dead out of 30,000; $4,000,000.
  - Turkey—150,000; 100,000 dead; $400,000,000.
- For the second war his figures are:
- Bulgaria—60,000 dead; $180,000,000.
  - Serbia—40,000; $100,000,000.
  - Greece—30,000; $50,000,000.
- When the number of persons massacred and the victims of the cholera epidemics are added to the totals it is reckoned that nearly 400,000 must have perished. The monetary loss all told is said to be $1,360,000,000. The Boer War cost England 20,000 dead and $1,000,000,000.

Fashions and Fads.

This is an excellent season to unearth heirlooms in the way of fine needlework fichus and deep-pointed collarettes. Shades of vivid pink, varying from Rose du Barry and Nell rose to old rose, are to be favorites for evening dress. The richness of the fabric is very important, for never have more expensive silks and satins and brocades been seen. A very attractive blouse for morning is of black crepe de chine, with a deep vest of white crepe and collar of the same. Light blue and pink malines will probably be used again to touch up the black or white low-necked gown and to fill up the décolletage. Blouses with rop shoulders are cut out from a single breadth of wide material and form the upper part of some of the smart one-piece gowns. The plainest of wash frocks is given an air of dressiness by a frill around the neck or outlining the opening of the blouse from throat to belt. The new fall coats for the young girls are made of soft wooly material, wool astrakan, the new duvetyne, chinchilla and striped and novelty weaves. Many long sleeves are seen, usually some thin fabric, net or chiffon being preferred, and coming out from the kimono like the sleeves of the seamless bodice. Very smart is a little vest resembling a man's evening vest in cut. It is very low and made of striped heavy material. It should harmonize with the color of the coat worn. Both short and long coat lengths held good. The latter drop midway between the hips and knees, lengthwise of the former are shaped in cut-away style, barely covering the hips.

The Morris-McGrath Policy Of "RULE or RUIN"! A Diabolical Plot To Wreck the Banks!

The greatest indignation has been expressed by the Bankers and business men at the diabolical attempt of P. T. McGrath to bring about a rush on the Banks.

The Morris-McGrath election campaign has been opened this year with an attempt to stampede the public on the Bank Scare, as on the eve of last election they succeeded in doing it on a Confederation Scare.

Sir Edward Morris' instigation of the Confederation infamy has left an indelible stain upon his political record. The present Bank Scare will leave a still deeper stain before it is ended. During his recent visit to Fogo District Sir Edward Morris addressed to his audience the Bank Crash of 1895 and used it as a scare, telling the people that if the Opposition were returned they might expect a repetition of "Black Monday," or worse to that effect. A most infamous and blackguard insinuation. He forgot to tell them that one of the principal actors in the Bank Crash of 1895 was Mr. A. F. Goodridge, and that Sir Edward Morris, had made him honourable by a seat in the Upper House. He forgot to tell them also that P. T. McGrath who availed of the Bank Crash of 1895 to try and cause a run on the Savings Bank has also been rewarded by him for this and like political services with a seat in the Legislative Council, and the prefix "honourable."

Sir Edward Morris when in Fogo District professed to deplore the Bank Crash of 1895, but he gave a title of nobility to some of the men who brought it about, and disgraced the Legislative Council in order to make P. T. McGrath appear an honourable man, an individual who availed of the Bank Crash to try and cause a panic among depositors in the Savings Bank, and to clean it out. To-day, as a Governor of the Savings Bank, Sir Edward Morris by his acquiescence is a party to P. T. McGrath's absurd and vicious attacks upon that institution. In hope that the blow may stand off and strike his political opponents. Has not the Savings Bank been jeopardized by Sir Edward Morris in order to meet party exigencies? Has he not allowed the Savings Bank to remain for more than three years without a responsible head? While McGrath and Morris have been wrangling for more than two years as to who should be appointed Cashier of the Savings Bank was there not good reason for anxiety on the part of the depositors? Will it be denied that P. T. McGrath was going around town for many weeks denouncing Morris and threatening destruction to the Government if he was not appointed Cashier to the Savings Bank? Will it be denied that the Government fearing a run on the Bank in the event of McGrath's appointment refused to appoint him, and then in order to appease his wrath disgraced the Legislative Council by making him a member of it? Will it be denied that the Government now contemplate the appointment, if he is not already appointed, of a played-out politician to the head of the Savings Bank before the General Election takes place?

Will it be denied that such an appointment at this time, and under the circumstances in which his present Executive hold office is a public position of an important public institution to party ends, and calculated to bring about an immediate run on the Savings Bank? Will it be denied that in the interest of depositors and of the Colony the Savings Bank should be so reorganized as that its earnings shall not be eaten up by providing a living for party hacks?

That is the position that Sir Robert Bond took up two years ago when criticising the Government's conduct in making as he said "a football" of this institution, and we know his intention is to establish Postal Savings Banks in every district, and so arrange for the future conduct of the Savings Bank that it shall not be, as it is at present, a dumping ground for political heeled and an asylum for played-out politicians.

In view of the fact that for party reasons the Government have left the Savings Bank without a responsible head for three years and more, and that it is now but little more than a month before a General Election, the people look to His Excellency the Governor to see that the future conduct of that institution shall be left to those in whom the public at the polls shall declare confidence. His Excellency, we feel certain, should not permit the policy of those who a month or six weeks hence may be sent to him by the people as Constitutional Advisers, to be embarrassed by the appointment at this date of a Cashier of the Savings Bank. Any such appointment could only result in imposing upon a New Government the disagreeable necessity of removing such appointee in carrying out the reforms contemplated.

The TORY Incapables

Morris's Description of a Tory Party--'Cullage' Cashin on the rocks-- Foredoomed to Failure.

THE BARNUM MENAGERIE.

This is Morris's description of a Tory party. How does it fit his present associates? "There never was a man named together such a menagerie, and if Barnum were only alive to buy him out, there would be a fortune for him that would put Klondyke in the shade."

The use of the word Klondyke suggests what a veritable gold mine the present regime has proved for the Tory Chief. Trips to England and to the Hague. Seven thousand dollars account for his services! "What are these services? The case was before the Tribunal when he took the most difficult part of the case, the settling of the questions for a Court to decide was done by his presence. Mr. Kent, the Bond Attorney on account. The late Sir James Kent got $7,000 for his work in the Colony to conduct the case. Morris and Morison went along the Hague Court. But the printed records show nothing to justify the amount of $7,000 such to these gentlemen as account. What was the full fee paid them? That will only be when they are hurled from office and the new party takes control. And Morris works for pure patriotism and refuses to take a salary.

sketch from the same speech. How does it fit his own party? "Look at the names of the men who compose their party. Read the list carefully and I think you will agree with me that, with few exceptions, they are not competent to conduct a bull's eye shop."

Morris must have been speaking with a prophetic eye on his failure. He had the vision of a seer when he fitted such words to some of his present executive colleagues. He surely must have had a Blandford and his agricultural policy in his mind when he spoke of inability to run a bull's eye shop. But it is hardly fair to blame Morris for that wondrous thing, Morris's new agricultural policy. Such a fantastic scheme to improve the agricultural conditions of the country must have taken birth in the brain of Morris himself. His foolish optimism and his rank corruption shows one accustomed to rely on his ability to fool the people all the time. It bears many of the marks of Morris's peculiar election methods.

And is Morison any better? Could a man capable of doing better have given such peculiar advice on timber law. But perhaps we are libelling the respectable bull's eye vendors. They would never dream of telling their customers that bull's eyes (timber logs) could be taken from Crown lands.

CULLAGE CASHIN.

The Herald villifier speaks of cock-shots for Ferryland. Surely he must mean "Cullage" Cashin and Moore. Is he really serious in thinking the fishermen who have been stigmatized by Cashin as cullage are going to vote for the gentlemen with the swelled heads? Since Cashin got in the Executive and became Minister of Finance his vanity and conceit have got beyond all bounds. On the whole shore he is now known as the man with the swelled head. Some settlements which were practically solid have almost wholly deserted him. The utmost Cashin hopes is to drag himself through.

He knows that the $20,000 jobs obtained by P. F. Moore on plumbing contracts have killed all chance of election for the erratic Phil. Moore's name appears in the public accounts for about $5,000 a year. Not bad for Phil. Another example of patriotism that pays. Cashin will retire a wealthy man. His fox buying operations, his pickings for his son in the way of wharf and bridge material will place him in easy street for ever more. His swollen pocket has contributed to his swollen head. Hence his break when he referred to the fishermen as cullage.

When polling day comes round, Cashin's "cullage" who sweated and slaved on the railway construction and paid high prices for grub and who returned home with a scant few dollars to spare, will remember his contemptuous reference to them as cullage. The fishermen who worked on the railway are better men than Cashin, their money was earned hard and honest, not in foxes and Government sops.

Navy Concert.

The concert repeated by the troupe of entertainers from H.M.S. Cornwall, at the Grenfell Hall on Saturday night was another great success. There was a capacity audience present. The entertainers acquitted themselves creditably and received high encomiums. The ship's orchestra also was really good. At the close, Manager Jones, on behalf of Dr. Grenfell and the Institute, thanked Capt. Hodges, of the Cornwall and the talented performers for their voluntary aid to the Institute.
