CHAPTER XXIX.

Mary's head was fit for no news after this. From such a source she might carry her tidings to Mr. Vaughan. With him discuss the right to seek out Sydney's retreat. So lunch ended, and all offers of being driven back gratefully set aside, she started homeward, Lady Gertrude burdening her with choice flowers, Lady Margaret insisting on lending her an umbrella, the countess conveying her through the park, imparting as they went along intelligence of her elder son's approaching marriage to an heiress, of her youngest daughter's equally satisfactory engagement; "so," said the pleased mother, "after the rectory setting the fashion, all the young people intend to follow it: We must see you at one wedding, Miss Dacie, and you shall hear all about the other two, if you care for such things. Good-bye."

After such kind farewell, Mary should have gone away mightily elated. But somehow those anticipated nuptials struck a weak nerve.

For a space they blotted out even the intelligence of Sydney. "If she cared about such things!" Sooner or later what woman does not? It was all very well, intimacy with these Oakleigh grandees pressed on her, but the attention was akin to offering-stones when one badly wants bread! Why she was so foolish as to hanker after the unattainable, and at her discreet age cry like a baby for the moon, our good doctor's daughter knew not, but that was her predicament that afternoon, and before she had pulled through to more sensible regions, lo, the moon stood before her! Her moon—that is to say, Mr. Drayton.

He was waiting at a branch of the road, and at first sight of her advanced with undisguised pleasure. "I feared I had missed you, Miss Dacie. Your servant said you were this way. But I have watched an hour for you."

"For me?" stammered Mary, as he took her hand—"I had no idea you were at St. Clair."

"Nor was I till noon. Then I left my bag at the rectory, and came on to you, for I wanted so to see you."

Mary remembered why he wanted that last Michaelmas. Was she going to hear of more marryings? Of Sydney's at last? She turned her head away and moved forward, Mr. Drayton keeping pace with her.

"In fact," he went on, finding she said nothing, "I came on purpose to see you, and say—something. Won't you put up an umbrella? It's raining."

Thus adjured, Mary unfurled the Oakleigh "touscas," small shelter for one, yet Mr. Drayton begged half! "My shoulders are getting wet," said he, "will you let me hold that between us?" And this being accorded, "If you will take my arm," he added, "I think we shall get along better."

And in that compact order they continued progress, a sheep looking over the hedge setting Mary blushing.

"Now you have not asked," said her companion, "what my important remark is to be?"

"No. I forgot what you came for," she returned. "I suppose, Mr. Drayton, it is about Miss Alwyn."

"It's nothing of the kind. It's about Miss Dacie."

Mary's pulse gave a mighty spring. "I want to tell her—tell you—that I have prospered amazingly this last year. I was not sure of my luck last autumn; so I wouldn't talk of it. Now there is no mistake about it."

"I am very glad, Mr. Drayton, to hear of your good fortune."

"Then if you are, will you go shares with it? I'm no hand at fine speeches, but I care not a fig for property if I can't have you with it. Such as I am, will you take me? Yes or no, Mary?"

To think, oh, to think, here was the inaccessible moon come down—and begging to be received.

Mary was for a minute so dizzy she had to hold Mr. Drayton's arm quite tight, which he enjoyed very much indeed. Then she contrived to let him know what he desired, with such true womanly gladness in her nervous sentence that her escort, assured no one was in sight, was constrained to shut out the landscape with that useful little umbrella, and confirm the contract without loss of time.

The shower came on so smartly then they had to shelter under an elm. Elms were Mary's favorite trees from that day forth. There, Mr. Drayton made an exorbitant proposal. "We need not wait as if we were just out of our teens, Mary," said he. "Can you be ready to get married in a fortnight?"

"A fortnight. Oh, no, no!"

"Why not?"

"Because there will be so much to do—and—things to buy."

"We can buy them in London. If you get your bonnets alone I may not like them."

"Are you so exacting about fashions?"

"I am. For example, you must always have a bonnet like this one;" examining so closely, Mary had to retreat.

"Oh, foolish man! This is not a bonnet, but a hat, and a very old one!"

"Then keep the pattern, for you never looked better!" Which was true enough. No Kalydor on earth beats the bloom of happiness! And now, for fear you should forget what you've promised, hadn't I better give you a ring?"

"R-i-chard! Did you make sure, then?"

"No, I did not. But I happen to have one by me that may fit." And out came the identical diamond that Mary had disposed of nine months before, following on which so much more had to be said, that when he took out a watch she had also seen before, time had fled so fast they had to set off for the Gate House in good earnest. Then Mary began to get in a tremor. What would her father say? What would her mother do without her? And—with a remorseful throb—what would Sydney Alwyn think? Would she mind this?

"Mind it! Only to be glad," Mr. Drayton assured her. "Miss Alwyn knew what I was after all through. I was in hopes what was bringing me good luck might be doing the same by

BAD OPERATION AVOIDED

By Timely Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Sowers' Own Statement. Hodgdon, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."

—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Maine. If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

her. But I was out of my reckoning there. You can't understand me, Mary? And you've something to tell me about her? Well, I must tell a long tale to the doctor to-night of how I have means enough to come stealing his daughter and make all the amend money can for the theft; so then, I you sit by me and listen obediently you'll hear all about everything, Miss Alwyn included, and we'll compare notes, and by and by you and I will go together and find her up." And that wondrous "you and I," the charmed quality which from Adam and Eve's days is ever making new Edens on this earth, absorbed them both till the doctor and his wife came back to be enlightened, rejoiced, aggrieved, over Mary's confessions and Mr. Drayton's demands.

The marrying in a fortnight could by no means be agreed to, but the suitor, backed by the rector, pleaded so well, a month's delay only was at last compounded for.

"And some of these days I shall use for an odd purpose," said Richard Drayton, when he and Mary next day went to stroll in the garden for ten minutes and stayed three hours, "for to be honest with you, I have to clear my character before you marry me. A rascal whom I worked with in a Brazilian mine decamped and left me under a cloud with the owners. It cost heaps of time and half of my earnings to set myself straight with them, but I did it. Still, this scamp is at large, and might turn up when least expected, to blacken me again. I've got a hold on him now by accident, and I mean to track him and make him recant. You'll let me stay here a week? Then I'll start after this; and then come back for you as long before the twenty-seventh as the rector will have me. Oh, and do you mind where we go after we've bought bonnets for a week in London?"

Mary, with very pretty blushes, hadn't a wish on the subject—"Then you shall come and see some one I will tell you of between now and then. I'll send him a line beforehand, but you shall not be announced till I take you with me and say. Here, Hurst, old fellow, I've brought my wife to call upon you!"

CHAPTER XXX.

For a few days after the uneasy evening last recorded at Wynstone, the small household fell into what was less a calm than a lull, too full of watchfulness to be real rest.

The ending of his book may be released Mr. Hurst's attention for another subject, maturing under his sister's roof. Her rapid flights from downright crabbedness to unexpected complaisance, from spasmodic garrulity to silence, maintained to the verge of gloom, filled him with strange thoughts, fears, perhaps, but such as, side by side with others in his breast, drove him into reserved yet most expressive anxiety of waiting.

Waiting. And that was precisely the spirit that possessed Sydney too. A mental unsettlement, such as matches the physical disturbance, which in the heavy haze of sultry noon prophecies "there must be tempest before night." An expectancy, whether of hope or dread, she knew not. She, too, waited, and like Mr. Hurst, turned intuitively to Miss Jean as the mainspring of the next move, be it what it might.

For nigh ten days this lady was, as we have said, pronouncedly odd and out of sorts. Her clerical friend during that time gave him less of his company than heretofore. When he did appear there was a hesitancy in his manner of approaching his hostess, a studied effort to propitiate her brother, which Sydney would have preferred to his former demeanor, had it not roused his suspicion of something it made her angry with Miss Jean to think of.

But then she, last of any, had right to be angry on that score. Sydney tamed her temper with that reflection pretty constantly, and exercised fault finding by setting herself to much about the house neglected by Miss Hurst in this disorganized interval.

She put the study shelves in order, among other things, rearranging the volumes more by sequence of subject than by size and shape, so that Mr. Hurst could more readily have the limited pleasure of handling the companions of his happier years. While at this one morning, and having heard what she was doing, and thanked her only by a smile, he asked, "would she undertake something else for him—not very troublesome, he hoped, but he was afraid his sister might find it puzzling?"

"Then puzzled she need not be, for I shall so gladly do it!" said Sydney, coming down from her steps. "What is it, Mr. Hurst?"

"To sort my manuscripts, such as they are, foreign and home. You will find a set of loose notes on Gothic buildings and pencil sketches belonging to them. If you will place these in order they may be worth a trifle."

"You have changed your mind!" Sydney exclaimed. "I have seen the drawings. I am almost certain I can etch them. You will begin another book?"

"Not at any price!" he answered, brusquely, backing toward the door as Sydney joyfully advanced; "I merely want to sell these things as they are. A magazine writer might give a pound or two for them. I"—as though driven to say it—"I would not have asked your help, Miss Grey, if any one else could have done it for me."

The Greater Gift.

By RUTH CAMERON.

In the past year twenty-eight persons gave a million or over for charitable purposes. Wouldn't you like to be one of these great philanthropists? Wouldn't you feel proud if you had given away a million dollars?

Reader friend, there's one thing we are all in danger of forgetting in this age of multi-millionaire's and sensational gifts. And that is, a million dollars may be a small gift; a dollar may be a large one.

The greatest philanthropist I know is a widow with three children, a small income and a big heart. Whenever anyone in the neighbourhood is sick, in want or in trouble, that woman appears upon his threshold, bringing with her not only generous material gifts when needed, but the greater gifts of service and self. Many a time after a busy day, instead of throwing herself upon a couch with her book, she slips around the corner to spend an hour reading to the blind lady. Again and again, when some case of need has come to her attention, she has tramped around the neighbourhood for hours collecting money for the unfortunate victims of our social order or their own incompetence.

Although she gives generously for a woman with so small an income, I don't suppose all the money she has given in her life would amount to a thousand dollars. And yet in the great balances, can you not picture that one thousand dollars plus her gift of service and self sending some of our famous and fabled upon philanthropists' millions up out of sight?

I can.

You notice I say "some." That is because there are many kinds of wealthy philanthropists. There is the man who has taken many millions out of the soil or out of other men's rightful earnings, and who, after keeping all he can possibly use for himself, gives back the rest to charity and basks in the sunshine of flattery he receives for his noble deeds.

And then there are men who give as Daniel Ford gave. He was a man of moderate fortune as fortunes go now, but accounted wealthy in his day. All his life he gave lavishly and lived in comparative simplicity. He had one luxury. He was passionately fond of the ocean and he owned a small steamer yacht on which he came to town every morning from his summer place. One day the spectacle of poverty touched him more deeply than usual, and after struggling with his conscience he gave up that last beloved luxury.

Again think of the heart stirring gift of Read B. Freeman, of Binghamton, N.Y., who gave up his whole fortune to the families of the thirty girls who died when his factory burned. He gave all he had which was estimated at about three million, not even reserving an humble competence for himself, and at sixty-five years of age has gone to work as a clerk. He was somewhat different from the proprietor of the shirt waist factory in New York, who was fined the other day for locking the doors, the very thing which caused many of the deaths at the time of his fire.

Of course, the rich may give of themselves and their money just as much as the poor, but how often do they? As a letter friend trenchantly writes, "Perhaps one of the reasons why it is so hard for the rich to enter the Kingdom of Heaven is the fact that they get so much applause for what costs them so little or nothing and fail to cultivate the graces because it is so easy for them to make gifts."

Antiseptics In Australian Blue Gum Proves a Cure For Bronchial Catarrh.

BAD COLD IN THE HEAD, THROAT WEAKNESS AND CATARRH CURED QUICKLY.

Medicated Air A Marvel!

Catarrhozone is far superior to any internal medicine. Its relief is almost instantaneous—just takes long enough to breathe its healing vapor into the lungs to give wonderful soothing relief.

Catarrhozone goes right to the tiniest cells in the lungs, carrying healing, soothing balsams to the places that are tainted with Catarrhal inflammation. A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes—a sore throat is healed and restored in an hour or two—chronic bronchitis is soothed away and quickly disappears—catarrh of long standing is invariably cured because Catarrhozone kills the germs that cause the trouble.

As a cure for Asthma and a preventative of Grippe every doctor is delighted with Catarrhozone. One eminent throat specialist says if Catarrhozone is used two or three times each day you will never suffer from any disease of the head, throat, nose or lungs. This is good news to many of our readers who must require a safe, sure and permanent cure for their colds and winter ills. Every good druggist sells Catarrhozone, large outfit $1.00; small size 50c; trial size, 25c.

Self-Made Men.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swinsh."

A self-made man is a man who has made his success by hand.

Some men inherit success from their fathers and some are made successful by absorbing knowledge through a college and taking positions when they are graduated instead of grabbing off jobs. But the Self-Made man has to begin with the raw material and build himself into a leading citizen without consulting any high priced architect. He usually works upon hours while doing so—eight hours each day and eight hours each night.

Self-Made men are usually very substantial. You can tell how solid they are by taking a look at their bank accounts. The Self-Made man arrives at the age of discretion without any taxicab bills, touring car tastes, champagne appetites or social duties. This enables himself to concentrate upon the job of doing things better than his rival who frequently has to stop work at a critical point in his business and take part in a long, exhausting golf tournament.

Some Self-Made men become millionaires, and some become president.

Statistics prove that it is much easier for a man to make himself president than it is to let the job out to one's ancestors. Most millionaires are also built after original designs. However none of the men who spend millions are self-made. They are usually made by self-made men. The Self-Made man does a magnificent job on himself, but at designing and erecting successful descendants he is usually an imposing failure.

Sometimes a Self-Made man has been so busy completing his business sagacity that he hasn't had any time to waste in mapping out his education or manners. This is like building a house without paint and designing it with a barn for a model. Other Self-Made men are so used to doing things themselves that they insist on doing all the talking about themselves. Usually these men are lonely. When a Self-Made man begins to tell for the 1,000th time how he began life with one suspender and a dog bite for capital his auditors usually stop around the corner to get a match and do not stop running for ten minutes.

Self-Made men are not as handsome as the de luxe gods but they wear better and are much more useful. The greatest achievement of Self-made men has been in the United States. In Europe king-made men have worked for centuries upon centuries which haven't attained half our size or prosperity.

Witty Magee.

The Church lost one of its wisest and wisest prelates when Archbishop Magee died in 1891. It was Magee who said that two qualifications were required of the holder of the episcopal office—to suffer fools gladly, and to answer letters by return of post. Mr. Gladstone, when Premier, happened to meet Bishop Magee one day in Pall Mall.

"Dear, my lord, that you don't quite approve of the way I am dealing with the Irish question.

"Ah, dear, no," answered the Bishop, "it is not your dealing that I mind, Mr. Gladstone; it is your shuffling that I object to."

Archbishop Magee was credited with the well-known saying, when a waiter dropped some hot soup down his neck, "Is there any layman present who will kindly express my feelings?"

Bishop Stubbs, of Oxford, who died in 1901, was almost as witty, judging by the stories of him told in "Attic Salt." A fussy vicar once wrote him a letter asking his lordship's opinion as to whether it was requisite to have a faculty in order to place some curtains behind the Holy Table of his church as a reveries. The bishop replied, stating his views on the subject. This did not satisfy the cleric, who must needs write another lengthy epistle regarding his proposed reveries. He received a prompt and curt reply:—

"Dear — Hang your curtains!— Yours truly, W. OXON."

Another clergyman applied to him for leave of absence for three months in order to visit the Holy Land. "My Dear — Go to Jericho. — Yours ever, W. OXON."

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferers and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percis Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Safety at Sea.

Yesterday we told of the Convention concluded last January between the principal maritime nations as to safety at sea. We also mentioned the ships and voyages which it included. These provisions are contained in the first four articles.

The next eleven articles form a chapter about the Safety of Navigation. A zone is marked off in the North Atlantic and the contracting states agree to provide three services for destruction of derelicts, for study and observations of ice conditions, and for an ice patrol. Two vessels will be employed during the ice season as ice-patrols and during the rest of the year in the other two services. During the ice season, the contracting parties will use their war-vessels to destroy derelicts as far as possible. The United States is asked to provide the three services and the proportionate share of contributions to the expenses is set down. Masters of ships are obliged to give information as to dangerous ice and dangerous derelicts to ships in vicinity and to shore authorities. When in a danger zone, the master is bound to proceed at night at a moderate speed or to alter his course to go well clear of the danger zone. International distress signals are prohibited except as distress signals. The contracting States undertake to provide measures for the sufficient and efficient manning of ships.

The next set of articles form a chapter on Construction and relate to bulk-heads, openings in ship's sides, water-tight decks, inspections of them, entries in log, double-bottoms, etc. This is followed by a set of articles on Radiotelegraphy. All vessels with fifty or more persons aboard must have a radiotelegraph installation. The Government of the Contracting States, if they consider that the route and the conditions of the voyage are such as to render a radiotelegraph installation unreasonable or unnecessary may make exemptions, the principal of which relate to ships which in the course of their voyage do not go more than 150 sea miles from the nearest coast.

A master of a ship, who receives a call for assistance from a vessel in distress is bound to proceed to the assistance of the persons in distress, but he is released if a number is called and one is chosen to go.

The Annual Clean-up.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Mr. Editor.--I see we are going to have our annual clean-up this year. It will be a clean-up week, starting on Sunday with going to Church to begin the week right. It's a capital idea and the Mayor and Councilors must be congratulated on this new move, as it gives us a good chance to get our city cleaned up quick in the spring after all the ice and snow is gone. Any one will see that it's hard to keep our city clean in winter, especially in the back streets where houses have no water and sewer. I have been in those back streets often and have seen their state, but under conditions they are very good. What the Council should do is to try and get all houses connected with water and sewerage. Then we would have better conditions. Now, Mr. Editor, is the time for the City Committee to take a hand in clean-up week. In all other cities a committee is formed of citizens, say about 100, to co-operate with the City Council department in cleaning streets, walks, grasses in parks, etc., and to see all rubbish is taken away from the city and burned.

I think, Mr. Editor, Inspector Dwyer told me that the first year we had a clean-up day his men with a lot of free help from others in the city that sent horses that he had 1,000 loads of old rubbish from cellars and back yards. The second year he got 600 and last year about 800 loads.

I think, Mr. Editor, its all our business to try and get our little city cleaned up and help who can by sending a horse. When we take up the daily papers and see the death rates, we should try one and all to do our best to have our city clean.

Supreme Court.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Mr. Howley, K.C., made a statement of amounts paid by McLartin which all told amounted to $402,000.

Mr. J. McLartin to Mr. Howley, K.C.--The agreement of Nov. 21st, 1911, put in by Mr. Paulding between Labrador Pulp Co. and Job Bros., was shown witness. He swore he had not seen it or heard of it until after the date at which the note was dishonored. In the recital there are amounts of payments made by me but there are omissions. A cheque made to Reid for Jobs, on May 29th, 1909 for $31,000 is not mentioned, nor is a cheque made by me on Nov. 9th, 1909 for $5,000 not mentioned. I gave a cheque to Reid on May 1st 1910 for $30,000. Jobs credit us for $20,000. I did not sign agreement. At an interview in June, 1913, at which I was present, and Robert Job, C. O'N Conroy, Mr. Montgomery were present. Mr. Job promised to produce telegrams between Job and Reid.

On a copy of a telegram being produced, Mr. Furlong objected. The Court retired, and held that the copy could go in as an admission from Jobs, as copy had been furnished by Job to McLartin.

In 1912 we asked for an extension of time on note for $75,000 which we did not get. The understanding was that the deeds were to be delivered when the last payment was made. The $75,000 was the last payment the had to be made. One half was paid in August, 1912. Reid gave me a memorandum as to how the $75,000 note was to be met. I knew nothing of the $100,000 note in issue in this suit. A telegram from Paulding to McLartin, and a memorandum from Reid to McLartin were handed to witness to prove. Mr. Furlong objected. The Court inspected them and retired to consider questions. The Court declined to admit them. I came down here in July, 1911, with R. H. Reid in regard to this matter. We met Mr. Job on several occasions. Prior to that, I supposed Jobs had been paid all the money I had given. There was a question of a mix up between my payment and my brother Duncan's. The $40,000 was charged up twice to the Labrador Co., so that I had an idea that $40,000 had been paid more than had been. This was before I came in 1911. I saw the option that Job gave to Grant less than a year ago.

The Court rose till 3 p.m.

The canonization of Joan of Arc is according to a Rome despatch, likely to be delayed for a couple of years, if not more, as the Congregation of Rites postponed the examination of two miracles alleged to have been wrought through the intercession of the Blessed Joan since her beatification eight years ago. The canonization of the Maid of Orleans cannot take place until the entire congregation, after a most searching investigation into the two miracles has been made and resulted favorably, has voted on the two miracles and approved them.

Canada Life Assurance Co.,
New Glasgow, N.S.

Dear Sir,

I wish to state that I am well satisfied with the results which your Company have given me in connection with my Endowment Policy No. 47,775, which matures on the 17th of March. I find that the returns give me over $424.00 more than I have paid in premiums, in addition to the protection that I have had during the Policy term. I consider this all the more satisfactory taking into account the fact that the dividends were applied as a Bonus every five years. I therefore, received a return beyond Bank interest, in addition to the protection.

Yours very truly,
JOSEPH STEWART.

Rheumatism Goes Quickly its Virus Forever Destroyed

EVERY CASE IS CURABLE.

Good-bye to Rheumatism! Your aching joints, your stiff, sore muscles, those sleepless nights and suffering days—good-bye forever—your day is gone.

Sufferer, cheer up, and read the good news below.

"A man met me a month ago, and said, 'don't stay crippled, quit complaining, limber up.' My answer was, 'I'm rheumatic, I can't do it.' He looked me over in a pitying sort of way and told me to go to the nearest drug store for Nerviline and Ferrozone. The combination had cured him. I was convinced of his sincerity and followed his instructions. I rubbed on Nerviline three times every day—rubbed it right into my aching joints. The pain quickly lessened, and I became more limber and active. To draw the virus of the disease from my blood I took two Ferrozone Tablets with every meal. I am well today, not an ache, not a pain and no sign of stiffness at all."

What Nerviline can do in a case like this it can do for you too. For nearly forty years Nerviline has been recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica and Lame Back. It is the one remedy that never disappoints.

League Football.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Newfoundland Football League took place last evening. All the clubs were well represented.

After last year's reports were read election of officers, conducted by Mr. J. P. Crotty, was held and resulted as follows:

President—M. Chaplin.
Vice-President—E. M. Jackman.
Secretary—W. J. Higgins.
Treasurer—E. S. Piment.
Messrs. J. P. Crotty and J. H. Jardine were re-appointed Auditors.

An application was read asking for the admission to the League of the St. Andrew's team. This was unanimously agreed to and will be hailed with delight by the sporting fraternity generally.

The Commanding Officers of the Brigades will be written and asked if they intend to have any inter-brigade contests.

Messrs. Crotty, Jackman, Foster and Higgins were appointed as a committee to enquire into the effect that the arrangements for baseball may have on the football ground.

It was decided that the goal keepers in League games shall wear white jerseys or shirts, and that the medical expenses of injured players will be settled by the League provided the Secretary is notified within a reasonable time.

Negotiations will be made to secure a visiting team from Canada the coming season.

The season's fixtures and the date of the opening game will be decided at a meeting to be held on Wednesday next.

Eight teams will compete in this season's games, and enthusiasm is now running high for a good exhibition of the many game.

Newfoundland Football League Report for Season, 1913.

We congratulate the League upon the successful termination of its eighteenth season.

The Clubs of the previous year again competed for Championship honours, and a well-contested series of games ended with the teams finishing in this order: Star, C. E. I., Reildians, Collegians, St. Bonaventure's, Casuals and B. I. S.

For the ninth time the premier place went to the Stars, and for the same reason as in the past. Attention to practice and consistent hard work on the match ground were features which still characterized last year's champions, and these elements produced again the results of former years. Because of the attention paid to those two great essentials last year's honors were deservedly won by this successful team.

The C. E. I. advanced from their position of the year previous, and in the early stage of the competition gave promise of reaching the place of distinction. Though they failed in this, there was very general satisfaction at the fine showing made by this popular old team.

The remaining Clubs did not evidence the same attention to practice as the two leaders, many of their fixtures being played in a very indifferent manner.

The Catholic Cadet Corps carried off the honours in the Brigade Division for the fourth successive season, and so became the first holders of the new Cup presented by the League to this Division last year. Their victory was accomplished, however, only after a spirited opposition by the Church Ladies Brigade who gave a fine display; the Highlanders not being in the running. Considerable interest was as usual, shown in this series; but the absence of the Methodist Guards was very generally regretted, as this latter team always could be relied on for a stiff fight.

Our annual game with the Navy took the form last season of a match with a team from H. M. S. Cumberland which proved too much for the local combination. It is only fair to say that some unforeseen contingencies prevented the lining up of six strong a combination on the part of City as desired. The visitors proved a fine playing aggregation, and well merited their win.

The financial results of the season were quite satisfactory. The total receipts from all sources were $1,219.79, or slightly in excess of those for 1912, despite six matches fewer in the Brigade Division. Expenditure amounted to $1,136.22 as compared with $1,150.94. The past season's expenses also included the payment for the Inter-Brigade cups and other items not unusually found in current expenditure, so that altogether the result was very gratifying. The total to the credit of the League should be $2,825.67. This latter amount, however, has recently been reduced by $200.00, being the amount voted to the Marine Disaster's Fund at the special meeting held for that purpose. This terrible catastrophe was of such awful magnitude that it unannouncedly felt to be only right and proper that the ordinary practice as to devoting any funds to outside purposes should be departed from, and a vote for the sum mentioned was accordingly passed.

On behalf of the officers,
MARK CHAPLIN, President.
W. J. HIGGINS, Secretary.

Great Irish Minstrel For Rossley's.

There will be a complete change of programme at Rossley's to-night, when the laughable farce comedy "Old Saw Bones" will be presented, with Jack and Marie Rossley, Joe Burkhardt, Bonnie Rossley, Percy Orth and the pick of the pantomime girls, the eight clever little singers and dancers. There is also a great two reel feature picture entitled "A Plunge for a Fortune," and what a change of clothes did with Maurice Costello and Miss Clara Kimball Young in the leading roles. Mr. Jack Rossley has just engaged one of the highest salaried outside the big stars, single turn, Mr. Dan Cusack, the famous Lyric tenor, known as the Irish Minstrel, for years with the four Irish Majors, quartette, plus Miss Lucy Hayes and her associate players. Mr. Dan Cusack, besides having a splendid voice, is a character singer and expert dancer. Coming direct from Chicago to New York, and on the Plerizel to St. John's.

Chauffeurs Football Team.

Several of the English chauffeurs, now employed in the city, are making arrangements for the formation of a football team, with the intention of trying conclusions with some of our city teams during the coming season. Many of these young men have been prominent in athletic circles in the Old Country, and will, if arrangements are finalized, give a good account of themselves.

THE 'BELL' AND HER CARGO.

Notwithstanding present ice conditions, Mr. G. Harvey is hopeful that the s.s. Bellaventure, which left here last night, will reach Botwood to-night or to-morrow. There is a shortage of coal now at Botwood and the 'Bell's' cargo will be gladly welcomed.

One More Woman Speaks Right Out.

SHE TELLS HOW SHE FOUND NEW HEALTH.

Mrs. McArthur Gives Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Dodd's Kidney Pills all the Credit for Her Cure.

Rockaway Valley, Que., May 20.—(Special).—Mrs. Robert McArthur, well known and highly respected here has joined the great army of Canadian women who are shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"Last autumn I had a severe attack of Dyspepsia, which left me very nervous and ill," Mrs. McArthur says. "I tried several kinds of medicine and derived no benefit from them till one evening I happened to read one of Dodd's advertisements and decided to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Dodd's Kidney Pills. The result was that my nervousness vanished and I can now enjoy my meals."

"My daughter also used two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them very beneficial."

"On another occasion when troubled with sore back I found a cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"If you keep your stomach right with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and your Kidneys in order with Dodd's Kidney Pills, you can laugh at the ills that make the lives of so many women a burden to them."

Terrible Scalding Accident.

ZAM-BUK GAVE QUICK RELIEF.

For taking the pain out of a burn or scald there is nothing equal to Zam-Buk. Mrs. Eugene Demers, of Pembroke, Ont., who was the victim of a painful scalding accident, proved this. She says: "I was carrying a boiler of steaming water from the stove to the wash-tub, when suddenly my strength failed. As the boiler was falling in spite of my efforts, I heard my babies cry, and to avoid scalding them I gave the vessel a quick turn. The effect of this was that every drop of the boiling water poured over my feet and limbs, scalding me from my waist down."

"As soon as I saw the children had escaped, I told my oldest boy to bring the Zam-Buk (which we always keep in the house). I applied Zam-Buk freely, and the pain was soon eased. I continued using Zam-Buk, and in a wonderfully short time the sores were completely healed."

Zam-Buk is equally good for cuts, bruises, eczema, ulcers, piles, pimples, etc. Price 50c. per box, at all drug-gists and stores, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price. Refuse substitutes and imitations. There is nothing "just as good!"

When Ursus Threw The Bull.

IN TWO REELS.

Large audiences witnessed the big line of pictures at The House of Features on yesterday. The Crescent had a strong bill. The Heart of an Artist was a splendid love story; "A Man of the People" a Nestor Western drama; "A Legacy of Happiness" an Essanay film, all sufficiently good to be features in themselves. The comedy "The Tramp Dentist" with Max Asher and Lee Morris created no end of laughter. The vocalist, Sidney Ernschaw sang Donald Brian's famous song "I'm Looking for an Irish Husband" brought down the house. On Friday and Saturday a special Nestor feature is advertised. "When Ursus Threw the Bull" a burlesque on the great photo play Quo Vadis. Other strong pictures will be shown, a selection that will please all. The usual daily matinee is very popular as is also the special on Saturday afternoons. The pictures at the Crescent are in every respect all that can be desired.

Four Vessels Home From Grand Bank.

One Hundred and Fifty Quintals Each—Operations Hindered by Ice.

From Capt. Connors, of the s.s. Fortia, we hear that four vessels arrived at Grand Bank on Tuesday from the Grand Banks fishery. They are the first of the South West Coast fleet of bankers to reach the home port for the season. Each banker hauled for 150 quintals of codfish which was being landed when the Portia was leaving Grand Bank. Fish was reported to be fairly plentiful but operations were impeded by ice. As soon as they finish unloading the four vessels will proceed to the Banks on the second trip.

Sent To Asylum.

At 3.30 yesterday afternoon, the woman who figured in the street car incident the night previous, became erratic at the railway station. Constable Nugent came along, noticed the woman to be acting strangely and with the assistance of another officer, put her into a cab and drove her to the police station where she was examined by Dr. Cowperthwaite and pronounced insane. She was then taken to the Lunatic Asylum. The unfortunate woman has been demented before. She is a native of the French Shore but has been living in St. John's the greater part of her life.

The Daily Work.

Though nations may combat, and wars weapons rattle, we should not go batty, neglecting our charges, we'd better be busy debarring the cattle from a stand around Mexican borders.

Our ships will look after the national honor; it's wasted endeavor to argue and yawn, when we should be arguing, a-mooving the laws or deterring the thistles which ruin the crop. Oh, some of us tell how we'd like to be sloshing around in the blood of those Mexican jays; and people who know that our wives take in washing are not much impressed by the same. Our belwalkers are safe, and the nation's exchequer (if any one knows what the dickens that is) is sicker than Lewax, so let us be touching the law and the salvation and get down to biz. Let's tug at our duties with business-like ardor, and put up our hats in the light of the sun; let's stick up the woodshed and also the ladder, and talk about when the day's work is done.

LONDON GOSSIP.

QUEEN MARY AND MME. POINCARÉ.

LONDON, April 29th, 1914.
A suggestion is thrown out that it would be a kindly and pleasant act which would not be without beneficial influences, if Queen Mary were to invite Mme. Poincaré to visit her in London. The wife of a French President has no official position, and for that reason Mme. Poincaré could not come to London with her husband when he paid his visit last year. I think myself it was a convention that should have been broken through, but the etiquette of Courts is not easily changed. I could not help considering it a stupid one when one saw Queen Mary and Mme. Poincaré sitting together in the same carriage, dining at the same table, and attending great ceremonies together. She is a very charming woman, the wife of the President, and I hear that she and Queen Mary got on exceedingly well together. Mme. Poincaré must have felt this honing of the English Monarch a much pleasant occupation than that of organizing the general election.

OPERATION ON PRINCE HENRY

The Easter vacation of Prince Henry, the third son of the King and Queen, was not all enjoyment, for he had to undergo an operation at the Palace. The operation was for the removal of adenoids, but the case was not quite an ordinary one, and there were three surgeons present in addition to the anesthetist. The Prince's breathing was affected, but an even more serious consequence of the growth was that his hearing was in danger. The removal of the obstruction was skillfully carried out, and the patient is making a good recovery.

A WAR MINISTER'S POWERS.

Great interest is naturally taken in the attempt unsuccessfully made by General Sir Reginald Pole-Carew to obtain the insertion in the Army An-

THE IDEAL KING OF BRITISH ADVERTISERS.

If you asked any company of advertisement managers and advertising agents to write down on slips of paper whom they thought the greatest man in their profession that ever lived, the probability is that every slip would be found to bear the name of the late T. J. Barratt of Pears' Soap. To them he was the King of Advertisers. Only a few weeks ago they were boasting of him as the man who had spent £3,000,000 in advertising, a figure which they repeated with fond interjection. Mr. Barratt was indeed a great advertiser. He did things on the grand scale, and he was full of the ingenious yet direct and simple notions that carry so much effect with the great public. It was the custom to say that he introduced art into British advertising, but it is only true in a rather unobscured way. All that is meant is that he had the idea of using colored reproductions of paintings by famous artists and started off with the famous Bubbles picture. But for the true application of art to advertising in poster and illustration work he really did nothing at all. His conception of art in advertising was limited to "real oil." Indeed his last great scheme, only a short time before his death was to put veritable oil paintings on some of the hoardings of London. They were not good paintings but they were real oil. Another distinctive thing about his advertising was that he never, so far as I can recollect, went in for what the modern advertiser calls "reason why copy." He gave us some comic poems, brightly illustrated at "Bishop Bown of Monkey Town," calculated to impress us in a light-hearted way with the efficacy of Pears' Soap; he gave us petty catch words like "Matchless for the complexion." "He won't be happy till he gets it." "Good Morning, have you used Pears' Soap?" and so on. But he never pretended to give us scientific reasons for using Pears' Soap. He simply told us that we ought to use it and impress it on our memory by assertion and iteration. And there are some advertising men to-day who say that is the best method and that "reason why copy" is too advanced for the English people. But the number of these cynics is small and diminishing.

LONDON'S OUTDOOR SEASON EARLIER THIS YEAR.

The signs that tell you that the pulse of the season is beating unwontedly fast and early are to be caught round about Hyde Park corner. Yesterday in the dip of Piccadilly the sun gleamed on an unbroken line of varnished motor-car roofs, and the crossing as Apsley House by the Duke of Wellington's statue was more difficult than at any time since last August. For the first time there was a brilliant turnout of open landaus, and early parasols showed in them like flowers in pots. Crimson parasols, that show so well against the grey and stucco of West London, were common. One lady attracted attention with a tiny square sunshade like those seen in mid-Victorian times. She wore a gorgeous coal-scuttle bonnet in keeping. Also for the first time, the tramps were in possession of their sun-bathing pitch in the Green Park that borders Piccadilly on the south and hundreds of prone men were there enjoying the fresh grass—as thickly sprinkled as the fat Government sheep (fresh from Scotland) on the hillock near Constitution Hill, that park thoroughfare which leads from Hyde Park Corner, skirts Green Park and emerges and joins up with the Mall in front of Buckingham Palace. This last is a sight that must give a curious rural thrill to the urban observers in the club windows. In Hyde Park the indications of the season were patent. You had to wait for a penny chair at the end of Rotten Row (sacred to the horse orders) and walking along you caught scraps of half the European language not to count the American. The area of penny chairs is a good example of the conservatives in fashion. The position of those chairs held to be worth a penny is rightly limited by custom; beyond a certain tree westward there is no competition though the view is every bit as good. The riders were coming along with a certain pride and dash which spoke of spring, very different from the languor of the regulation round in August. The crowd on the penny chairs were pleased to recognise among the horsemen persons famous in the news papers, especially the neat figure of a renowned field marshal who turned and swept the sight seers with a keen glance. People were drinking tea in Judge Morton Arranges for Weston Man to Leave the Country.

John Byrne, of Weston, was discharged by Judge Morton, in the United States court, yesterday, from probation imposed three weeks ago, with the understanding that Byrne should leave the United States. Byrne promised to sail for Newfoundland to-day. He was convicted of sending objectionable postcards and letters through the mail to Mrs. Frederick L. Olmstead of Brookline and Selma Olmstead, a domestic employed by Mrs. Olmstead.

Mexican Prelates on The Situation.

Vera Cruz, May 12.—The Most Rev. Jose Mora del Rio, Archbishop of Mexico, and the Right Rev. J. M. Escharria, Bishop of Saltillo, reached here to-day with eighty American refugees, eighteen of whom came from Saltillo. Most of the refugees had spent two or three weeks in prison. The Archbishop and Bishop are on their way to Rome to lay before the Pope the facts in the Mexican situation. It is intimated that the Archbishop has been summoned by the Pope. Whether he will recommend to the Pope any line of action is considered doubtful, but he is convinced that the Pontiff would use his high office to effect a lasting peace.

HORSE FLESH.—I offer five (5) Superior Horses, to arrive to-morrow ex Cacouna from Charlottetown. JOS. JUDGE, Stables, Carter's Hill.—m21, 2i

A striking afternoon gown consists of a long, sheathlike garment, made of the most striking black-and-white satin, and over this a straight, sleeveless doublet or jerkin of plain black and faced at the sides with green.

Archbishop del Rio, whose appearance was more that of a Spaniard than of a Mexican, was a picturesque figure as he alighted from the train. He wore a linen duster and cape cut along the lines of the clerical garb.

MILNARD'S LINIMENT LUMBER-MAN'S FRIEND.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hanson Fuesle

Straight Talk from Ann

The next day dawned clear and bright. Ann and her guest, at nine o'clock, were off for a walk. Both were warmly clad in sweaters and heavy skirts. Ann, whose daily cross-country tramps were often twenty miles or more, cut the distance today to three, in deference to her unhardened companion.

The vitalizing morning air sent the blood dancing through Marian's veins, lulling her worries to sleep, and filling her with sheer joy of being alive.

"Do you know," she said, "I'd give a whole lot if I could only forget such things as cities forever, and just make up my mind to live the rest of my days in some quiet little place like this. The thought of going back to the city and looking for work, scares me."

She paused, and dark memories flooded upon her.

"I hate the men who do the hiring she went on. I hate the way they look at me, and their insinuating glances. A man's a man, I guess, and a woman's his legitimate prey."

"Play the game!" exclaimed Ann. "Play the game! Play it all the time. Play it hard. Beat men at their own game. Fight and master them. Wind them around your fingers. Make them do as you want, not as they want. Overrule and conquer them. That's the way. My dear, I envy you your chance. If I were not a slave to the paint brush, I'd delight in going against, exactly what's waiting for you back there in the city. Don't be wishy-washy, and think it's a man's world. Get that out of your mind."

Marian thrilled with big, sweeping thoughts.

NEWS By CABLE.

MEXICO CITY, May 20.—Sir Lionel Gordon, the British Minister, held a conference for three hours to-day with President Huerta. No announcement was made of the subjects discussed, and the conference has caused considerable speculation.

VERA CRUZ, May 20.—Despite Huerta's declaration that he has no intention of resigning, close observers here have information that his dictatorship is tottering, and that his flight from the capital has been arranged for. This is confirmed by advices that Huerta has decided not to fill the place of Jose Maria, the Minister of Communication. It was learned to-day that Huerta requested General Blanquet, Minister of War, to take command of the federal troops opposing Villa, at Saltillo, but he refused. The War Minister, like Huerta, has been sentenced to death by the Constitutionalists for the murder of ex-President Francisco Madero.

MESSINA, May 20.—The volcano Stromboli, 20 miles north of Sicily, is in violent eruption. A despatch from there says that a stream of lava is running down the mountain side into the sea, and sending up clouds of steam, which mingle with the vapor and smoke which is rolling from the crater.

ANTWERP, May 20.—The captain and 28 other survivors of the Colombian, which was burned off Sable Island, on May 3rd, arrived here yesterday on the Kroonland Manhattan. The captain is still in a condition of prostration, but the others have virtually recovered.

SHANGHAI, May 20.—With her holds and bunkers full of water, the Hamburg-American liner Sambia, put in here to-day. She struck a rock 150 miles distant, and three holes were pierced in her bottom. She sent out the S.O.S. calls for twelve hours, but received no answer, although there is a land station here, and several warships in the harbor. The American warship Saratoga picked up a mutilated message to-day, but the Sambia was then entering the harbor.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error, the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKER CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessary, this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland. ap17,14

Supreme Court.

(Before Full Bench.)
Job Bros. & Co. vs. John McMartin et al.—Howley, K.C., asks that cross-examination of Charles Paulding, who had left without being cross-examined, for New York, should take place before defendant's witnesses were examined. The Court rejected this motion.

Howley, K.C., further moved that defendant be allowed to produce evidence to contradict Paulding if necessary on certain points. This the Court granted, but only questions applicable to the points should be asked and the Court would be the judge of what these questions should be.

John McMartin called and examined by Howley, K.C.—He resides in Cornwall, Ontario. His business is mining and contracting. He became interested in this through Reid and Ford, whom he met in New York. He had known Ford for a couple of years before that, and Ford had told him about a property in Hamilton Inlet and induced him to join Reid and himself in the option. He took one-third interest on understanding that he was to indorse note for $90,000. Then Reid and Ford went to St. John's, Nfld. Up to that he had not heard of property he afterwards knew to belong to Messrs. Job. The property he spoke of was called "the Dickie Property" in Hamilton Inlet.

He did not sign the note in question, though his signature was on it. He had often been in the Belmont Hotel. He met O'Brien there once, but that meeting was later than Oct. 22nd, 1912. He never gave Reid a note there. He had been President of the Labrador Pulp and Lumber Co. since 1911. Reid was Vice-President. He had never held a meeting of the Company's Directors in Paulding's office; it was not true that a meeting was held there in November, 1911, nor did Paulding read over to him the draft agreement in relation to Job Bros. The minutes of meeting produced are not correct. The agreement referred to he saw after he had heard of the note. The first knowledge he had of the note was when he received a telegram about it about May 1st, 1913. After receiving telegram he tried to get a meeting of directors and get Reid to attend, but could not succeed. He then sent a man to Nfld., who got the agreement from Job Bros. The witness had dealings with Job Bros. They commenced about the time that Reid came down to Nfld. and took an option on the property, in May, 1909. Reid was acting for the Labrador Pulp and Lumber Co. Witness paid certain amounts due under the option. He found out a little less than a year ago that the total amount to be paid for the purchase price was $397,000. He paid cheques at various times amounting to $403,000, some to Job, and some to Reid. He understood the whole purchase price had been paid off.

Court adjourned till to-day at 11.

Boy Drivers.
Dear Sir,—Permit me to ask thro' the columns of your paper, how the act relating to drivers of teams under the age of 18, affects children's ponies, driven by little girls in some cases.

My reason for asking this is, I have a suitable boy aged 16, who has been used to horses and farm work all his life, and in some cases he drives the children to school, after which they use it in the country for themselves, the boy in some cases, accompanying them.

Am I to discharge this sensible boy, and employ a lad who though being older, could be taught his business by this junior, or sell the fit-out, because my little ones cannot drive it themselves.

Would be glad to have your opinion on same.

Thanking you for use of your valuable paper.

I am, yours truly,
TWEENIE.

PURITY
"More Bread and Better Bread" and "Better Pastry Too."

So that you may use less flour, we do what a home cook would do if she were in our place.

From every shipment of wheat delivered at our mills we take a ten pound sample. We grind this into flour. Bread is baked from the flour.

We find that some samples make more bread and better bread than others. So we keep the shipment from which the more and better bread comes. The others we sell.

You save money by using FLOUR that bears this name. And you get better bread.

SIX PER CENT.
Mortgage Debenture Stock.

Desirable opportunity for a conservative 6 per cent. investment afforded by the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company 6 per cent. perpetual debenture stock, which we offer at 98 and interest.

The company's property is admirably situated for economical production which is very essential in the Steel and Coal business.

The value of the company's property is appraised by a high official of the company at $20,000,000. The debenture stock is a direct charge on all these assets, subject only to the $5,000,000 five per cent. first mortgage bonds, thus leaving assets of $14,000,000 as security for the $3,000,000 debenture issue.
