Stiff, Enlarged Joints Limber Up! Every Trace of Rheumatism Goes

Even Chronic Bedridden Cases are Quickly Cured.

Rub On Magic "Nerviline."

Nothing on earth can beat good old "Nerviline" when it comes to curing rheumatism.

The blessed relief you get from Nerviline comes mighty quick, and you don't have to wait a month for some sign of improvement.

You see Nerviline is a direct application; it is rubbed right into the sore joint, thoroughly rubbed over the twitching muscle that perhaps for years has kept you on the jump. In this way you get to the real source of the trouble. After you have used Nerviline just once you'll say it's amazing, a marvel, a perfect wonder of efficacy.

Just think of it, five times stronger and more penetrating than any other known liniment. Soothing, healing, full of pain-destroying power, and yet it will never burn, blister or destroy the tender skin of even a child.

You've never yet tried anything half so good as Nerviline for any sort of pain. It does cure rheumatism, but that's not all. Just test it out for lame back or lumbago. Gee, what a right fine cure it is for a bad cold, for chest tightness even for neuralgia headache it is simply the finest ever.

For the home, for the hundred and one little ailments that constantly arise, whether earache, toothache, stiff neck, or some other muscular pain—Nerviline will always make you glad you've used it, and because it will cure you, keep handy on the shelf a 50c. family size bottle; it keeps the doctor's bill small; trial size, 25c.; all dealers.

THE HEIR OF Lancewood

CHAPTER XLVII.

He gave a cry—a short, despairing cry; for the moment he was beside himself with fear and pain; then he grasped his wife's wrist and held it, while with the other hand he pointed to the youth.

"In the name of Heaven, Vivien, tell me who is that boy?"

He saw that she tried to speak, but the words died on her lips.

"Who is that boy?" he repeated, in a stern, angry voice.

Still she made no answer, and the boy stepped forward in eager defence of his kind friend.

"Sir," he said, "I can tell you myself who I am; my name is Henry Dorman."

"I do not believe it," cried Lord St. Just.

"I am Henry Dorman, and this lady comes to see me sometimes. She knew my mother, sir, and she is very kind to me. She is the only friend I have had in the world since my uncle died. Are you angry that she comes to see me?"

"Who is that boy?" repeated Lord St. Just, looking sternly at his wife.

"I have told you, sir, who I am; if you do not believe me, let me fetch Mr. Hardman. Do not, pray, be angry with my friend."

"Vivien, I wait your answer," said Lord St. Just. "Who is this boy, and what brings you here to him?"

She had recovered herself by then; a faint colour returned to her beautiful face.

"Ask him yourself, Adrian," she replied, proudly; "I am not accustomed to such a tone."

"I have told you, sir," repeated the boy, impatiently. "I do not know much about myself, but I am Henry Dorman, nephew of Mr. Dorman, who died not long since, and who brought me from America and placed me here."

"From America?" repeated Lord St. Just. "Did you come from America?"

"Yes, with my uncle; and this lady, who was my mother's friend, comes to see me. Why should you be angry with her, sir?"

Lord St. Just looked puzzled, bewildered; he glanced from one to the other—the resemblance between the two faces was most marvellous.

"What is the name of this lady—your mother's friend?" he asked.

"Mrs. Smith."

"Can you explain this, Vivien?" said her husband.

"I have no explanation to offer," she replied, proudly. "Question the boy, not me."

Lord St. Just turned his pale, puzzled face to the boy.

"You are the nephew of Mr. Dorman, who was once secretary to Sir Arthur Neslie, of Lancewood?" he said.

A curious change came over the stripling's handsome face.

"What name was that you used, sir?"

"Lancewood," repeated the peer.

"Lancewood!" said the boy eagerly.

"Why I believe that I have dreamed of such a name—I believe I have—or I have heard it somewhere? Lancewood—Lancewood—how familiar it sounds!"

"Are you the nephew of that same Mr. Dorman?" asked Lord St. Just.

"Will you wait, sir, one moment? If here are bells of memory, you have sent mine all chiming, and their sound is like 'Lancewood.' Why, sir, do you know the very word brings a picture to me?"

"What picture?" he asked, wonderingly.

"A picture of a broad stone terrace, with roses and passion-flowers climbing the balustrades, and a dark wood in the far distance. I have dreamed it—I have such strange dreams. I cannot tell you if my uncle ever lived at Lancewood—I never heard him speak of England at all."

Lord St. Just, his wife, and "Harry Dorman" stood looking at each other. The boy's description of the terrace and wood at Lancewood had astounded his listeners. An interruption came in the shape of a loud peal at the door-bell.

"That is the doctor," said the boy. "It is his ring. Shall I fetch him in here? He will tell you directly who I am."

"No," replied Lord St. Just, quickly. Let the mystery—the secret—be what it might; he would have no exposure; he would shield his wife with his latest breath even. "No, it is not needful," he continued. "I called to see the doctor and to take this lady home. I will come again—it is growing late."

"Will you come again?" said the boy appealingly to Vivien.

"Yes," she replied, faintly. "I will always be your friend. I shall come again."

Lord St. Just saw the boy hold up his face, as though Vivien were in the habit of embracing him. He could not tell why, but something in the action made the blood in his veins boil. Then he said:

"Are you ready to go, Vivien? Our carriage is at the door—we can dismiss the cab."

"Did you follow me here?" she asked—and he had never heard her voice so pitilessly stern.

"Yes—and I would follow you anywhere, Vivien—ever to the ends of the earth, if I could be of use to you."

"He placed her in the carriage, the beloved wife of whom he had been so proud; he looked at her with unspeakable anguish in his face. Then he thought—"There is something wrong—not with Lancewood, as I fancied, but with her." He must shield her. Even this little scene might cause remarks—he must save her from them.

"I came to the doctor on a matter of business, Vivien," he said. "I will just return for a few minutes, if you do not mind waiting."

"You will not discuss what has just passed?" she said, in a low, hoarse voice that he hardly recognized as hers.

"I will not," he replied—and she trusted him.

He went back to the house, and asked to see the doctor. He was warmly welcomed. He mentioned first the business which had brought him there, and then, trying to speak in a careless, off-hand manner, he said—

"I find that you are quite right, doctor—Lady St. Just has a protégé here—young Henry Dorman. His uncle was a valued, trusted friend of her family, and she knew the boy's mother."

"Yes, I thought so," said the doctor.

"Lady St. Just did not wish her name to be known—she did not want any fuss or ceremony—so she called herself Mrs. Smith. I have been laughing about it—Lady St. Just has such a dread of ceremony."

In all good faith the doctor appeared to accept the explanation; in reality he said to himself that it was a strange affair. Lord St. Just went on—

"As my wife was coming here this morning, I thought I would take the opportunity of seeing you about these telescopes—then I could drive her home."

The doctor's doubts and suspicions almost died before the matter-of-fact commonplace explanation. If her husband knew she was coming, knew she called herself Mrs. Smith, and was ready to drive her home, there could be no secret, no mystery.

"Lady St. Just is in the carriage, doctor. Would you like to see her?"

"Very much," said Dr. Lester; and, following Lord St. Just, he saw a beautiful woman, pale as a lily-leaf. Her husband introduced the doctor in a few words. She bowed to him most graciously.

"Your name and fame are both known to me, Dr. Lester," she said, with the courteous grace that characterized her. "I shall be very pleased to welcome you at Harley House—you see I have been masquerading somewhat at yours."

Dr. Lester laughed, simply because he did not know what to say.

"I knew the mother of young Dorman very well," she continued; "and the uncle was a valued friend of my father's. I have been several times to see him—but he knows me only as Mrs. Smith. I did not tell him my name—I dislike all fuss and ceremony. I thought perhaps the boys might tease him."

Then, with well-bred grace that disguised all his anguish of heart, Lord St. Just joined in the conversation, and after a few minutes the doctor bowed his adieu, and the carriage rolled away.

All had been calm, well-bred, easy, graceful, as though no tragedy had lurked beneath.

"Now I wonder," said Dr. Lester to himself, as he sat in his studio, "if that is really all as right as it seems to be? Her ladyship laughed and his lordship jested; but she was very pale, and his hands shook. Thank Heaven, I never married! There can be no peace, no security, where there is a woman. Good Heaven!" he cried aloud, for it had suddenly occurred to him, "how much alike they are, her ladyship and young Dorman! Now I come to think of it, there is a wonderful likeness—the self-same curves about the lips, the same beautiful chin; and his uncle was secretary at her father's house. The boy has her face. Heaven keep me from thinking evil—I wish to be at peace with all men. I am glad nothing ever tempted me to get married. I have an idea that this will end queerly."

So mused the doctor while Lord and Lady St. Just drove home together—drove through sunlit streets, while the soft summer air floated round them, seated side by side, but for the first time estranged.

He was thinking of the hour when he saw her first, weeping passionate tears in the ruins of the Rhine. He thought of her refusal to marry him while Lancewood was a prey to the spoilers—of her refusal afterward, even when Lancewood was her own—of her sudden relenting in his favor. It came home to him then—a certain strong conviction that there was a mystery in his wife's life which she had always kept from him; and now, cost what it would, he would know it.

He spoke no word to her during that homeward drive, while she occupied herself in resolving that she would suffer death rather than betray her secret—rather than yield up Lancewood.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

"Vivien," said Lord St. Just, when he and his wife had reached home, "I will come to your boudoir. I wish to speak to you."

"Not now," she replied quickly. "Yes, now, if you please. I will follow you."

She went to her room—the pretty little room prepared for her with such lavish generosity. She threw off the dark cloak and the veil which had so little served her purpose. The mass of dark shining hair fell in picturesque disorder over her stately figure.

"What am I to do," she cried, with clinched hands and trembling lips—"what can I do? I will die rather than yield."

She drew her stately figure to its full height as her husband entered. But it was no proud, angry man she had to meet—his face was pale and sad.

He went up to her and took both her hands in his.

"Vivien, my beloved," he said, "this is the first cloud that has come between us—the first estrangement that has arisen. Darling, it must not continue—we must end it."

"I am quite willing," she said, touched by his tenderness.

"It would be easier for flowers to live without sunshine and dew than for me to live at variance with my wife," he remarked, gravely.

"Then we will not be at variance," she said.

"Yet, my darling, I must say what I think. Ah, Vivien, there has always been a sealed corner in your heart—a secret kept from me! I can trace it through your life. It was that secret that prevented you from marrying me after you had regained Lancewood—it is that secret which, preying on your mind, has lately changed your whole character—it is of that secret you whisper in your sleep, and over which you brood continually in your waking hours. Vivien, the time has come when I must know what it means—what it is?"

1372—A COMFORTABLE AND PRACTICAL DESIGN.

Ladies' Semi-Fitted Brassiere.

This model is good for muslin, cambric, jean or satin. It is cut with full front portions, lengthened by a pointed bodice belt. Back and fronts are joined by ribbon straps over the shoulders. The fullness at upper edge of the fronts may be drawn up with ribbon or tape, or attached to position over a hand or stay. The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 1½ yards of 36 inch material for a medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1376—A CHARMING FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

Junior Dress, in Over Blouse Style, with Guimpe having Two Styles of Sleeve, and with 6 Gore Skirt.

Embroidered crepe and white organdie are here combined. Tub silk and batiste or lawn, would also be nice, also figured dimity, voile, challie, taffeta or linen. The dress may be made with over blouse and guimpe joined to the skirt, or the over blouse may be finished separately, or it may be joined to the skirt and the guimpe finished separately. In the latter development the dress could be worn over any guimpe, and if made of wash material would facilitate laundering. The style is youthful and attractive. It is made with raised waist line, and has smart penum sections under the belt. The Pattern is cut in 3 Sizes: 12, 14 and 16 years. It requires 2½ yards of 27 inch material for the guimpe, and 4½ yards for bolero and skirt for a 12 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Lessen Your Living Expenses!

"Be economical," is the cry in England, and this slogan has the same significance in Canada. We all must economize. There is more actual waste in our dress expenses than any other item. When a garment becomes soiled we throw it aside, when for a few cents it could be restored to original freshness and beauty by Dry Cleaning. A saving of at least 35 per cent. in the expense of dressing is possible by using the processes of Dry Cleaning and Dyeing.

Frightfulness a Failure

The story of the raid by German aircraft in the Eastern counties of England, will doubtless develop as others have done, into a story of destruction of property and the lives of non-combatants. The policy of the War Office of giving no particulars as to the localities of such raids is sound, as it does not permit the Germans to learn from these visits the localities of munition works, training camps, warship yards and fortifications.

Lieut Jackson Returns to the Battlefield

OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Sept. 7. The Governor, Newfoundland, Later reports show some loss of life on the Hesperian which sank before reaching Queenstown.

The French Government report that forty aeroplanes successfully bombed Saarbrücken.

The Russian Government report the enemy well held in the Riga and Vilna districts. The retreat in Galicia is continued.

BONAR LAW.

SEEKING A PRETEXT TO ABANDON SUBMARINE WAR.

PARIS, Sept. 7. By Pierre Milles: One day a German submarine was sunk in British waters. The undersea boat's commander had sworn to sacrifice his life in finding the British fleet, but when he stood a prisoner on the deck of a British ship and his eyes searched the seas for the Armada, not a single vessel appeared on the horizon. "But where is the fleet?" he asked, amazed. "Needless to say I don't intend to say where the fleet is. It is sufficient to declare that Great Britain's irresistible naval power will remain inaccessible to the enemy until the day it is pleased to risk a final victorious attack, if it ever is pleased. But since I have mentioned the German submarine, I may say that the daily statements to the contrary by the German Admiralty and newspapers, the British have already sunk a lot of them. They have sunk such a considerable number that their one desire seems to be for the submarine warfare to continue. They have good reason to attribute Germany's conciliatory attitude towards the United States to a desire to find a gracious pretext for abandoning it."

ANOTHER GERMAN SUBMARINE MISSING.

BERLIN, Sept. 7. The Admiralty announced to-day that the German submarine U-27, which sank a small British cruiser off the old tide several weeks ago west of Hebrides Islands, has not been heard from since August 10. The Admiralty also says she is probably lost.

AGAINST CONSCRIPTION.

BRISTOL, Sept. 7. A resolution against conscription was passed unanimously with great cheering at to-day's session of the Trades Union Congress.

WAS A SUBMARINE SIGHTED?

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 7. Wesley Frost, American Consul at Queenstown, has obtained a joint statement from the officers of the Hesperian. It does not throw any light on the question whether the ship was sighted, or whether the submarine was warned or whether the submarine was sighted. Survivors interviewed here assert they learned early on the day of the disaster that a submarine had been sighted and that the Hesperian kept a zig-zag course thereat.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, Sept. 7. News that Emperor Nicholas had placed himself at the head of his army, which he announced in a telegram to Raymond Poincaré, President of France, on the visit paid by the French Commander-in-Chief, General Joffre to the Italian army, foreshadows it is believed in military circles here, that stirring events both on the eastern and western fronts in which the armies of all the allies will cooperate. It is declared the Russians already are nearby, if not quite holding their own against the Austrians and Germans whose advance at most points has been brought to a stop, and in places the Russians are carrying on an active counter-offensive.

It remains the danger point, but the fact that the Russians continue to occupy the town after the Germans advanced to Drvina, southeast of

ter. Some passengers say, however, that if the submarine was sighted they are unable to understand why more elaborate precautions were not made to place life belts and lifeboats in readiness.

HESPERIAN NEVER IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. Ambassador Page at London cabled the State Department to-day that the British Admiralty had informed him the Hesperian was sailing as an ordinary passenger vessel and never had been in the Government service since the war began.

VIOLENT ARTILLERY FIRE.

PARIS, To-Day. Last night saw continuance of violent artillery exchanges along the French line, according to an official communication given out by the War Office this afternoon.

REPORT NOT CONFIRMED.

LONDON, Sept. 7. The Central News Agency gives out several days ago and that his crew of 42 was landed without casualties. No confirmation of the report.

POLICE PRESIDENT ASSASSINATED.

BERLIN, Sept. 7. The Overseas News Agency gives out the following despatch from Athens: An official communication was received from St. Petersburg announcing that the President of Police of that city had been assassinated.

AIR RAID ON EAST COAST.

LONDON, Sept. 7. A German air raid on the East Coast of England occurred last night. An official statement regarding the raid says: Hostile aircraft revisited the Eastern Counties on Tuesday and night, and dropped bombs. It is known there have been some fires and some casualties, but particulars are not available. The number of casualties will be communicated to the press as soon as they can be obtained.

VIENNA CLAIMS ANOTHER SUCCESS.

VIENNA, Sept. 27. A defeat of the Russians over a distance of five miles in the vicinity of Broody, in Eastern Galicia, is reported officially by the Vienna War Office to-night. The Russians everywhere have evacuated the positions they held, according to the report, and are being pursued by the Austro-Hungarians.

BRITISH SUBMARINE SINKS A TRANSPORT.

LONDON, Sept. 7. An Athens despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says that a British submarine operating in the Sea of Marmora, sunk a Turkish transport carrying 28 centimetre guns from Constantinople to Gallipoli.

GERMAN POSITIONS BOMBARDED.

DUNKIRK, Sept. 7. A British squadron bombarded all the German positions along the Belgian coast as far as Ostend, this morning.

PLOT TO DESTROY CANADIAN HARVEST.

LONDON, Sept. 7. A French soldier, passing through London, tells of a German-American plot to destroy the Canadian harvest. This, he said, was divulged by a German prisoner, whose story was that an attempt would be made against the elevators.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, Sept. 7. News that Emperor Nicholas had placed himself at the head of his army, which he announced in a telegram to Raymond Poincaré, President of France, on the visit paid by the French Commander-in-Chief, General Joffre to the Italian army, foreshadows it is believed in military circles here, that stirring events both on the eastern and western fronts in which the armies of all the allies will cooperate. It is declared the Russians already are nearby, if not quite holding their own against the Austrians and Germans whose advance at most points has been brought to a stop, and in places the Russians are carrying on an active counter-offensive.

It remains the danger point, but the fact that the Russians continue to occupy the town after the Germans advanced to Drvina, southeast of Riga, leads military writers to the conclusion that the Russians feel pretty sure of their ability to defend the river and have time to push sufficiently far westward to relieve the pressure on their forces on the shores of the Gulf of Riga. Westward of Drvinsk and Vilna the Russian offensive has held up the Germans for more than a week, and to military observers those two towns seem fairly safe unless the invaders are able to bring up strong reinforcements. East and southeast of Grodno the Russians have taken up new positions across the river Stchara and its numerous tributaries, and are protecting a network of railways which run eastward and northward to the interior of the country. To the south-east among forests and swamps at the northeastern edge of the Pripyet marshes, a great battle is in progress between the army of Prince Leopold of Bavaria, and troops of the Russian centre, the latter having at last elected to make a stand amid the Pripyet marshes. German Field Marshal Mackensen is working hard for a decisive result. He reports he has taken the Russian positions. Still another battle is being fought for the triangle fortifications further south, of which Rostvo and Dubno remain in the hands of the Russians. The Austrians and Russians are facing each other across the Sereth river in Galicia, where fighting continues. The stand which the Russians are making suggest that their supply of munitions is ample. A Petrograd correspondent says the ammunition shortage of the Russians has been corrected, and while the production is slow it is incessant.

A MERITED TRIBUTE.

PARIS, Sept. 7. Since the outbreak of the war, Grand Duke Nicholas, cousin of the Emperor of Russia, has been in command of the armies of Russia, and in this capacity achieved much fame. Military critics, not only of Russia, but of other nations, rated him as one of the ablest generals of the warring nations. Although his armies suffered a long series of reverses since the beginning of the great Austro-German offensive movement in May, their leader has been credited with conspicuous strategic success during this period, as well as in the earlier part of the war when he was leading his armies forward victoriously. His main accomplishments were the extrication of the bulk of his forces from the Austro-German enveloping movements in Galicia and later in Russian Poland, when he again drew out his armies, this time from the dangerous Warsaw salient. The message from Emperor Nicholas to President Poincaré does not make it clear whether the Grand Duke Nicholas has been succeeded by the Emperor. During the last few weeks there has been severe criticism of the conduct of the war by the Russian authorities. The Minister of War, General Soukhomlinoff, has resigned, and the formation of a coalition Government has been under discussion. The source of dissatisfaction has been principally the inadequate supply of munitions of war, and so far as the cable despatches from Russia have shown, there has been no criticism of the Grand Duke in this connection.

HESPERIAN SUNK BY SUBMARINE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. The commanding officers of the sunken liner Hesperian, in a joint affidavit forwarded the State Department to-day, declare that from the fragments of steel which fell on the deck, it was undoubtedly shown that the ship was struck by a torpedo. Commander Main and the first and second officers made the affidavit which was called by American Consul Frost at Queenstown. They asserted the torpedo struck the ship about eight feet below the water line. Steel fragments flew about the deck with large quantities of water, and they declared there was a strong report as of a high explosive. That the Hesperian had a six-inch gun on board, which had been painted service grey, would not have been observed at all through the periscope of the submarine. Besides the civilian passengers on board, it was stated by the officers that there were forty Canadian soldiers, some invalided with others attending them, on board. They were not organized nor travelling as a unit, the officers declared. Only a slight panic attended the attack, the affidavit stated. Calls for assistance warship by nine o'clock and two more by ten in the morning. The vessel had not been under convoy before the attack. The officers asserted that no submarine had been sighted, and they expressed doubt as to whether, in the falling light, one could have been observed.

BOATS READY ON THE HESPERIAN.

MONTREAL, Sept. 7. Andrew Allan has received a message from the Company's agent at Liverpool, stating that the captain and officers of the Hesperian had arrived safely at Queenstown. The cable placed the loss of life at seventy, of whom thirteen were passengers and four members of the crew. It further stated that all the boats were swung out and lowered level to the promenade deck ready to be lowered in case of emergency.

CAPT. MAIN WILL EXPLAIN.

LONDON, Sept. 7. Pending the arrival and interview with Capt. Main of the Hesperian, the Allan Line declined to say anything in regard to the defensive measures taken. The loss of life is attributed to the swamping of one boat by an exhaust pipe, while another boat was upset by being lowered before the preceding boat was cleared. The Canadian Red Cross Society had mailed by the Hesperian a large number of replies to queries about wounded men. These were on forms, and no copies were kept. Lady Drummond asks in recent inquiries to repeat the demands.

EARTHQUAKE IN GUATEMALA.

LA LIBERTAD, Salvador, Sept. 7. A strong earthquake has occurred in San Salvador and Guatemala. The capital of the Department of the same name, in Guatemala, has been ruined. In the city of San Salvador there were no victims. It is reported that at Santa Anna there were a few victims, but the churches at Santa Anna and other villages of the Republic are in ruins.

NEVER IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. Ambassador Page, at London, cabled the State Department to-day that the British Admiralty had informed him the Hesperian was sailing as an ordinary passenger vessel, and never had been in the Government service since the war began.

PRESIDENT OF CLAIMS BOARD.

LONDON, Sept. 7. Sir Montague Allan has accepted the position of President of the Passengers Claims Board; Lady Allan has taken up residence at Folkestone.

BAN ON CATTLE REMOVED.

LONDON, Sept. 7. Live cattle, intended for slaughter at the port of landing, will be admitted into England beginning September 21, thus abrogating the prohibitory order issued by the Board of Trade more than five years ago. A reduction in the cost of beef, estimated in some quarters at 25 per cent, in consequence of the departure of this new departure, and the importers of frozen meat will have a formidable competition, although the full development of the trade in live cattle may be delayed by the present high freight rates and the shortage of suitable shipping facilities.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

10.00 A.M.

NORWEGIAN SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. It is announced the Norwegian bark Storaens was sunk and the crew saved. She was built in 1883.

ALIEN GOODS RELEASED.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch has been sent for the release of American owned cargoes of German and Austrian goods now held abroad by a British Order in Council.

VICTIM'S BODY IDENTIFIED.

LONDON, To-day. The body of a man, found floating off the Isle of Jersey, has been identified as an inmate by papers found on it as that of a horseman on board the British steamer Anglo-Californian, which was shelled July 4th by a German submarine while on her way from Montreal to Queenstown. The Anglo-Californian was overhauled by a German submarine on July 4th while carrying a cargo of horses to Great Britain, when she refused to leave to at the command of the submarine, which shell her, killing eight men of the crew, including Captain Parslow, who was shot down, with two Americans, Martin and a man believed to be John Mahoney, of New York.

SCANDINAVIAN SAFE.

OTTAWA, To-day. It is officially announced the Scandinavian ship on Saturday with 61 officers, 1234 men and 73 nurses, a total of 1268 on board.

A TIRPITZ PLOT.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch to the Daily Telegraph from Rotterdam says it is freely rumored that the sinking of the Hesperian was deliberately designed by the party of Admiral Von Tirpitz, the German Minister of the Navy, being the climax of the differences between Von Tirpitz and Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, Imperial Chancellor, over the issue of the use of submarine boats against liners.

AUSTRIAN EXPLANATION OF MUNITION PLOT.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Dr. Constantin Dumba, Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, laid before Secretary Lansing to-day an explanation in a letter written to him by the Vienna Foreign Office, discussing plans for withdrawing Austro-Hungarian labor from American plants, making war supplies for Britain and the Allies. Neither Ambassador nor Lansing would comment upon the interview when it was over. The impression prevailed, in official quarters, however, that the Secretary would submit the matter to President Wilson with whom would rest the decision whether the explanation was satisfactory.

Meeting of St. Thomas's Parishioners

Last night at Canon Wood Hall the parishioners of St. Thomas's Church met, the Rector, Rev. Dr. Jones, presiding and Mr. F. M. Stirling acting as Secretary. The resignation of Mr. F. E. Leitch, who has been People's Warden for three years, was announced by the Rector, who had appointed Hon. M. G. Winter as his Warden. On motion of Mr. Winter it was agreed to place on record the deep appreciation of the congregation of the services of Mr. Rendell. On motion of Mr. A. Findlater, the Hon. R. Watson was unanimously elected as the People's Warden. A motion for the appointment of a Select Vestry to consist of twelve members, exclusive of the Rector and Wardens, was then submitted. The following were elected:—Hon. W. C. Job, J. A. Clift, T. Lawrence, W. E. Rendell, W. S. Monroe, J. S. Munn, R. Dooden, R. G. MacDonald, J. C. Oke, T. Cook, F. M. Stirling and T. Winter. Messrs. H. W. Leitch, the addition of preservered as scrutineers. The meeting closed with the Doxology and Benediction by the Rector.

Archbishop Roche's First Episcopal Visit to Bell Island

His Grace Archbishop Roche accompanied by Rt. Rev. Fr. McDermott and Revs. Frs. Kelly, of Manuels, and Gough, of Portugal Cove, paid his first Episcopal visit to Bell Island on last Saturday, August 28th, and remained there as the guest of the respected Pastor of that place, Very Rev. J. J. McGrath, until Wednesday, during which time the good people of the Iron Isle from all sections of that place vied with each other in rendering their homage and esteem in a splendid manner to our new Archbishop. Early Saturday morning the Island was astir in making preparatory arrangements to welcome His Grace, and by 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the Episcopal party arrived on the S. S. Mary which had been chartered at the disposal of the Archbishop by Manager Martin of the B. I. S. Co., the island was decked in holiday attire. The Mine of the B. I. S. Co. was closed at midday and the workings of the Scotia Company at 3 p.m. so that when the Episcopal party landed they were greeted by ringing cheers from thousands of voices which made the hills re-echo over and over again. At Portugal Cove the party embarked on the S. S. Mary they were met by Rev. Fr. McGrath, of Bell Island, and the residents of the regular old-time send-off with their muskets which could be heard distinctly on the Island. Arriving at Bell Island some twenty minutes later the whistles of the D. S. Co. gave the Dominion Steel Company gave the customary salute with the toot of their pipe whistles. The Scotia Company gave a similar salute following the Dominion Company when both had finished the firing squad on the beach sent off twenty-one volleys. On the public wharf where the party landed were lined up the members of the Citizens' Committee, the Knights of Columbus, the Catholic Cadet Corps, the school children attired in holiday garb, and the general public. Upon landing the T. A. Band from St. John's played appropriate airs, while cheers for His Grace and party called for by Magistrate Power were given enthusiastically. A large procession then formed up under command of Lieut-Col. Conroy of the C. C. C. who had arrived from St. John's for the occasion. The Knights of Columbus with Magistrate Power and Mr. R. J. Costigan at their head joined in the parade after the G. C. C. with Col. Conroy at their head had assumed the lead with the T. A. Band. The school children followed the Knights and strewed bouquets of the choicest flowers before the carriage of the Archbishop. The general public followed the Archbishop's party and over fifty carriages from all parts of the Island brought up the rear of the procession. Mr. W. K. Murphy acted as marshal in fine style. Arriving at the juncture of Main and Chapel Streets the parade opened out and the Episcopal party drove through, the Brigade marching arms; the public cheering and the Band playing the Pope's March. Several arches were passed through on the way all testifying to the manner in which the reception was planned. Arrived at the Presbytery the C. C. C. formed up and marched past in review order thus paying their first official respects to His Grace who is Patron of the Corps. In the evening a dance under the auspices of the C. C. C. was held in their Armory in honour of the visit of the Archbishop; while fireworks were displayed from the Presbytery and the arches were brilliantly illuminated due to the kindness of Manager McDougall, of the D. J. & S. Co., who supplied the power for the occasion, and to the Reid Nfd. Co. who supplied fittings from their Electrical Department.

On Sunday morning the C. C. C. under Lieuts. Greene and Connors held a Church parade headed by the T. A. Band. On arrival at the Presbytery grounds they opened ranks and lined the grounds for the Episcopal party to pass through. At 11 a.m. the procession started for the Church, the band playing the Pope's March while

His Grace was accompanied by Rev. Fr. McDermott, as Chaplain, and Lt.-Col. Conroy as A. D. C., with Fathers Gough and Kelly as Deacons. On arrival at the Church His Grace was received by Rev. Fr. McGrath, as Pastor of St. Michael's, and by the Knights of Columbus. After the usual ceremony had been gone through His Grace ascended the Altar and gave his Blessing. Solemn High Mass was then celebrated by Rev. Fr. McGrath with Fr. Gough as Deacon, Father Kelly as sub-Deacon, and Father McDermott as High Priest. At the consecration the Brigade presented arms, while during Mass a beautiful musical programme was rendered by the choir under Professor Hassan. After Mass was concluded Messrs. F. P. Power, Andrew Murphy, L. J. Lawton and J. M. Greene as officers of the citizens' committee entered the Sanctuary where on behalf of the Parish Magistrate Power read an Address of Welcome, and Mr. Murphy presented a Purse of Gold to His Grace. In response the Archbishop entered the pulpit and delivered an eloquent address thanking the people for their welcome, assuring them he appreciated the spirit that animated their enthusiasm to him as their new Archbishop expressed himself as pleased at the spiritual and temporal welfare of the Parish under the able guidance of their Pastor, Fr. McGrath; paid a high tribute to the Mining Companies operating there and dwelt for some time on the harmony prevailing between Companies and their employees without which mutual co-operation was impossible; and exhorted all to be true to their employers who in turn would recognize them. He promised to take up the matter of education and stated that in the near future a Convent would be started in that Parish. He also paid a well merited tribute to No. 6 Company of the Catholic Cadet Corps, and exhorted both boys and parents to stand by the C. C. C. which was an education for the boys in more ways than one. The address was listened to with rapt attention and made a deep impression on the large congregation present.

On Sunday afternoon, at 3.30, Confirmation was administered by the Archbishop, assisted by Fr. McGrath, as Master of Ceremonies, to about 120 children. Never in the history of St. Michael's Parish was the Church so crowded as it was at the Confirmation ceremony. Many could not gain admittance. After the Sacrament was administered His Grace delivered a fluent discourse to the children on the Sacrament which they had just received. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was then imparted.

At 5 p.m. on Sunday the local Company C.C.C. fully 60 strong, under command of Lieut. J. M. Greene, assisted by Lieut. Jas. Connors and Sergt-Major Murphy, headed by the T.A. Band, paraded to the Presbytery Grounds where a review and inspection was held by His Grace Archbishop Roche, who is Patron of the Corps, and by Lieut-Col. Conroy, officer commanding the C.C.C. This was the first time that His Grace and the Lieut-Col. had inspected the lads. Marching, counter-marching, manual and physical exercises were gone through in excellent manner and both expressed themselves well pleased with the Bell Island Cadet Boys. Hundreds were present at the review, and the Presbytery grounds never looked to better advantage. After the review, the Lieut-Col. addressed the Company.

On Monday night a Public Reception was held by the Archbishop in St. Joseph's Hall—reference to which has already been made in our columns. Hundreds were present and His Grace was assisted by Frs. McDermott, McGrath, Gough and Kelly, with Lieuts. Greene and Connors as A.D.C's.

On Monday morning an impromptu visit was made to Lance Cove, and despite the short notice, the people of that locality gave a great demonstration that was one of the features of the trip. Particular notice must be made to the musketry and cannonading from the grounds of the Messrs. Connors, who made the place re-echo with volley after volley. The Archbishop delivered a lengthy address in the school house where the children strewed flowers as he entered the building.

Tuesday was devoted to the Mines.

Here another good reception was accorded. In the morning the Archbishop and suite, accompanied by Dr. H. A. Giovannetti and Messrs. Costigan and Joseph Murphy and Jackman visited the Mines of the Nova Scotia Company, where Manager Burrows invited them for a trip in the Submarine Mine. Thus it is that His Grace can now say he enjoyed the privilege of being nearly three miles under the waters of Conception Bay. After the plant had been visited the party drove to the D. J. & S. Co.'s plant where they were received by Manager J. J. McDougall and Assistant Manager McDonald. The Dominion Power Plant, mechanical works, etc., were visited and refreshments were partaken of after which His Grace drove through the main streets of the Mines.

On Tuesday night an entertainment was held in Mabana Hall at the Mines. The hall was packed to capacity, and an address of welcome was read by the school teacher Miss McNeil, while little Miss McCoubrey presented a beautiful bouquet. Frs. McDermott, McGrath and Gough were also present with His Grace, while Lieuts. Greene and Connors acted as A.D.C's. A guard from the Cadet Corps under "Instructor" Murphy, were present and lined the entrance. The concert was purely a children's one and all did well. At the conclusion of the programme His Grace delivered a short address, thanking the people of the Mines for their splendid reception, and he took advantage to bid good-bye to all as he was leaving in the morning. He assured them he would for ever bear pleasant memories of his first Episcopal visit to Bell Island.

On Wednesday morning the Episcopal party left for Portugal Cove and were given a good send-off. During the visit to the Island the weather was of an ideal nature and old King Sol shone forth in all its glory. Thus finished the first Episcopal visit of His Grace Archbishop Roche to Bell Island, and Fr. McGrath, the committee of management and the Island generally are to be congratulated on the reception accorded the Archbishop.

Want to and Ought!

By RUTH CAMERON.

I have a little friend who like most little girls hates to go to bed. She is always begging to be allowed to sit up just half an hour longer or read just one more chapter. As she is not very strong and needs her sleep, the inevitable result of yielding to her pleadings is that she is sleepy in the morning and hates to get up.

The other morning I happened to be at her home when she came yawning down to breakfast. "You remember you wanted to sit up last night," her mother reminded her.

"Why can't I want to go to bed?" "I know it," she admitted, and then half petulantly, half wistfully, "Oh, mother, why can't I want to go to bed at night and want to get up in the morning instead of wanting to sit up at night when I shouldn't and then having to get up in the morning when I should?"

Her mother laughed. "Well, the world doesn't seem to be made that way," she said.

"But why?" persisted the little girl. "And I wondered, too. It is a funny world, isn't it, where we want to do so many things we shouldn't and have to force ourselves to do the things we shouldn't?"

"Why can't we hate to waste time?"

"Why can't we long to study and work and hate to waste time?"

"Why shouldn't patience and self-control come naturally and temper and irritability be unnatural?"

"Why shouldn't it be easy to be generous?"

"I know it," she admitted, and then half petulantly, half wistfully, "Oh, mother, why can't I want to go to bed at night and want to get up in the morning instead of wanting to sit up at night when I shouldn't and then having to get up in the morning when I should?"

Her mother laughed. "Well, the world doesn't seem to be made that way," she said.

"Why shouldn't patience and self-control come naturally and temper and irritability be unnatural?"

"Why shouldn't it be easy to be generous?"

Agnes Reppitor quotes a Boston man as saying that everything he wanted to do proved to be either unhealthy, immoral or too expensive. Most of us have had similar experiences.

Ever since people began to have ideals of conduct at all there has been this conflict between what one wants to do and what one ought to do.

Even The Saints Have This Conflict.

Of course you remember St. Paul's wistful cry, "For the good I would I do not; but the evil which I would not that I do." I'm glad St. Paul said that, because it bridges the chasm in time and character between him and me, and makes all the rest of his words and his life more real.

Of course if we wanted to do the things we ought to do, that would eliminate the elements of conflict and character building from life.

Would we really like that better? Who can say?

Maybe heaven is, as a friend of mine likes to fancy, just a place where we want to do what we should. Perhaps we would get tired of it. But no, that would be something we ought not to do, so how could we?

Better Than Royal!

Yarmouth, N.S. Aug. 6.

I have been using DEARBORN'S PERFECT BAKING POWDER for some time and like it much better than Royal or any of the other baking powders which I have used.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. TITUS.

French Vessels With Salt Cargoes.

On account of war conditions steamers could not be procured to bring cargoes of salt here during the autumn season. In consequence several sailing vessels had to be engaged. They are French, and two of them have already arrived here from Cadiz salt laden within the past week. The other five are expected to reach port by the end of this month.

Hot Roast Turkey and Chicken Suppers served at McGARY'S Cafe until midnight. Also, Afternoon Tea served for Ladies and Gentlemen from 4.30 to 6 p.m.

Pilfering Cargo.

Some time ago it was discovered that cargo was being pilfered on a certain coastal steamer. A close watch was kept, but for a while the pilfering work continued. The temporarily, as again it was found on a recent trip that it was going on again. It appears that there is a foulness for pilfering packages which contain wines.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."

"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured it. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

Dimensions of the Union Jack.

Woolwich school children, in return for comforts sent to the Fleet in the North Sea, have received a present from the sailors of a full-sized Union Jack, and they have been taking careful note of its dimensions. The Admiralty regulation concerning the national flag gives its size as 15ft. by 7 -1/2, and lays it down that the Red St. George's Cross shall be one-fourth the width of the flag, and its white border one-fifteenth the width; the Red St. Patrick's Cross one-tenth; and its narrow white border one-thirtieth; and the White St. Andrew's Cross one-tenth the width. Compared with the official Stars and Stripes of the United States, the Union Jack—or, more correctly, the Union flag (the "Jack" being a small Union flag flown from the jack-staff)—is quite small, the American flag being 35ft. by 20ft., though what is called the "Storm Flag" is only 20ft. by 10ft. The personal flag of Queen Alexandra, designed for her after the death of King Edward, by combining the British and Danish Royal standards, is considerably larger than the Union flag, being 24ft. by 12ft.

Will Increase Age Limit of Germans.

Copenhagen, September 1. — The Foliehal, of Holland, a frontier journal with excellent sources of information in Germany, states that there was recently an alteration in the Reichstag concerning a national service law which the German papers were forbidden to discuss.

"The law will increase the age limit to 64," this newspaper says. "It authorizes the calling out of all men who hitherto have been rejected on account of their physical condition, including even those who previously have not been considered fit for the Landstrum."

Stephano Here Again.

WAS ON DRY DOCK AT NEW YORK.

The Red Cross Liner Stephano, Captain Smith, entered port yesterday afternoon, after an excellent run from New York, which port she left last Friday at 7 p.m. She came direct and had fine weather practically all the way. She brought a full freight and as passengers in saloon:— Mr. and Mrs. W. Cahill, Miss M. Tobin, Mr. A. C. Cardinal, Mr. J. T. Needham, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Ridenour, Master J. Ridenour, Miss N. Williamson, Mr. J. N. Howard, Mr. E. V. Price, Mr. C. Mawberry, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Olinstead, Mr. G. H. Courie, Dr. H. V. Wildman, Mr. J. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Smith, Mrs. T. J. Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Read, Mrs. E. H. Robsen, Mrs. F. H. Cole and son and 6 in second class.

Since she was here last the Stephano was in dry dock and had her tall shaft repaired; besides the ship was painted and otherwise done up and is in excellent trim now.

Getting Outdoors.

By GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Sivanah"

Getting out doors has become the great American remedy for everything, including business and the fox trot.

America contains more outdoors than almost any nation. If all the citizens of the United States were to get outdoors at once they would have to talk with each other through megaphones. It is possible for almost every free-born American to go outdoors at no expense at all and breathe in huge quantities of ozone and good spirits.

Ozone clears the brain, strengthens the legs, improves the digestion, rectifies the temper and makes one more particular about voting for the right candidate. After a man has spent a couple of years outdoors he is usually a philosopher who ignores the high cost of living and cannot wait to quarrel with the waiter before eating his meals.

Many people spend vast sums in getting outdoors. By taking a wad of bills as thick as an automobile tire one may travel to a very superior brand of outdoors in Alaska or other secluded sections. However, it is not necessary to do this. The outdoors around home may be slightly tinted with coal smoke and profanity, but it is good enough for all practical purposes.

By walking home at night instead of doing a sardine "keech" in the subway the citizen of seething New York can acquire a larger chest measure and a superb indifference to the toughness of chuck steak, to say nothing of a good knowledge of architecture.

By cultivating a garden as large as three 2100 Turkish rugs the citizen of Chicago can accomplish results which would cost $500 to obtain in a log camp in Nova Scotia and can also help put a crimp in the vegetable trust.

By sleeping on an upstairs porch in Philadelphia a citizen may inhale so much outdoors at no expense at all except for mosquito netting that the undertaker will give him up in disgust and fall back upon the automobile racers for support.

Outdoors is about the only free thing left in this country except advice and the wise citizen will grab his share wherever he can find it.

LONDON GOSSIP.

THE KING AND A ROYAL ENGAGEMENT.

LONDON, Aug. 17th, 1915.
The engagement of King Albert's niece, Princess Marie Louise of Orleans, to Prince Philip, of Bourbon-Sicily, is announced. King George and Queen Mary offered their hearty congratulations to the Royal couple last week, their Majesties receiving the Prince and Princess and the latter's parents, the Duke and Duchess of Vendôme, at Buckingham Palace immediately prior to the Court's return to Windsor Castle on August 5. Prince Philip is several years the senior of his fiancée, who is the eldest of the four children of the Duchess of Vendôme (the elder sister of the King of the Belgians) and her second cousin. Her Royal Highness is well known in London, for since the war broke out she has accompanied her mother to many gatherings on behalf of the Belgian refugees.

PRINCE LOUIS AND THE FLEET.

Prince Louis of Battenberg needs no defence against the insinuations of his ungenerous detractors, but if he did he has it whole and complete in the fact revealed on August 7th that it was he who, in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Churchill, sent the order, on July 26th of last year that the First Fleet was not to disperse and that all vessels of the Second Fleet were to remain in their home ports in close proximity to their balance crews. This was the first step that was taken and swift concentration of forces which spelt the German plan. It was a step of great boldness—the action of a man who had no fear of taking responsibility, and the man who took it was afterwards taunted with his German birth and suspected of German sympathies. Nothing would have been easier than for Prince Louis to have allowed matters to take their course at that moment.

AUTHORS AT THE FRONT.

Rudyard Kipling is at present at the French front, and Hilaire Belloc will soon be going there. These short visits are at the invitation of the French Government. H. G. Wells has also been invited, and Arnold Bennett recently returned from a rather exciting tour of the French and British lines.

PROBLEMS OF THE CABINET.

Four great subjects must now be engaging the continuous and anxious attention of Ministers. Decisions and developments in action cannot be much longer deferred. First, there is the supreme question of munitions, not in relation to the Warsaw, but as before the fall of Warsaw, but as it now is in Western Russia. Officially can exert her numerical preponderance in fighting manhood only if she is proportionately equipped with guns and ammunition. The durability of the alliance with Russia depends in the last resort, on her ability to free her soil from the enemy, and upon ours in aiding her. The solidarity of the break-up of alliances is determined by the facts of war; and the present task of this Government is that of creating and shaping such new facts of war as will make it inconceivable that Russia can either be forced or seduced to detach herself from the Entente. The second great subject before the Cabinet is the organization of the entire manhood of the State for war, and the raises the issue of compulsory service, which must soon be decided affirmatively or negatively. The use to be made of the National Register (which is now being compiled by means of blank forms left at every house in the country) must proceed on one principle or the other. In this issue there are the elements of a political upheaval; it would be undesirable to say more. Thirdly, there is the question, to be decided in consultation with the Allies, as to the theatre of war in which the next great effort is to be made—whether in France and Flanders or the Gallipoli Peninsula or both. But action here may be imposed by the enemy. Fourthly, there is the question of organizing the civilian population not employed on munitions so as to attain the highest possible level of internal production. This is not at the moment urgent, but plans have to be laid for a year hence, perchance for some years, when there may be difficulties in financing the war, and the standard of comfort in all grades of society may be lowered. The lines of action have to be thought out and formulated ahead.

JANOTHA.

Janottha, the famous pianist, whose deportation has caused so much comment and curiosity, was really better known in society and Court circles than among musicians, because for a large number of years her appearance had virtually been confined to charity concerts of which great ladies were patronesses. She enjoyed the friendship of Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra and Mr. Gladstone. For a number of years, however, she made no secret of her disapproval of most things in this country, and she was noted for a somewhat volcanic temper which seemed to pass beyond her control when outside Court circles, especially when dealing with musicians, musical critics, and biographers. With the biographers she had vehement disagreements as to the date of her birth. Her intimacy with one or two of her fellow countrymen and country women who have been deported no doubt influenced the authorities. Some people are anxious to know whether her famous cat White Heather accompanies her into exile.

"TRENCH BACK."

The latest of the new war ailments described in the medical papers is "trench back." It is a peculiar injury to the lower parts of the back, caused usually by masses of earth or sandbags falling upon the bending soldier when a shell strikes the trench. A good many cases are now being treated at the Kitchen Hospital at Brighton. Sometimes there is some spinal injury; in the milder cases what the doctors call "the clinical picture" is that of marked numbness. Sometimes the symptoms resemble those of the curious disease known as "railway spine," and these cases are especially difficult to treat. "Trench back" is being dealt with successfully at Brighton by ionisation with sodium sulphate. When the medical history of the war comes to be written the illnesses caused not by wounds, but by the strange conditions of continual life in the trenches will form an interesting chapter.

THE READING PUBLIC.

Booksellers tell me that business has brightened somewhat, and they are looking forward to a better time next winter. The first year of the war has been a lean period in almost all branches save one. War books were the exception and many volumes bearing on the different campaigns and the events that led up to the outbreak of hostilities have enjoyed a large sale. During the early months of the war few could settle down to the study of their favorite subjects as before. After a year of war they are turning to them again, almost as a relief from the daily output of war news. The historical novel shares popularity at the moment with the war book. War conditions have whetted the public taste in this direction, and booksellers say it is not to be an ephemeral phase of their business. While the sellers of new books are, as I have indicated, more cheerful than they were, the dealers in second-hand volumes are doing better than might reasonably have been expected. Changed circumstances have compelled many people to resort to the second-hand shops. Considerable purchases have also been made for the entertainment of the convalescent soldiers, many of whom have developed a pronounced reading habit which is likely to remain with them. Out of their ranks they have provided a new reading public whose taste leans to war books, good detective stories, dramas and novels with a not too "stodgy" love interest.

THE END OF THE SEASON.

The strangest London season of modern times has passed away, and with scarcely anything to mark its passage beyond the date of the calendar and the sight of the huge station omnibus we associate with the migration of the domestic staffs of Belgravia and Mayfair. This year these staffs are almost entirely feminine, and are in many cases directed and controlled by prim parlor-maids in place of the grandiose butlers of other days. The elderly butler, of course, survives, but his younger rivals are now no more, or are, at any rate, transformed into fighting members of the great Expeditionary Force "somewhere abroad." A good many people of what once was called "the smart set" are, however, not leaving London at all, and will only celebrate the summer by long or even short week-ends at their country homes. The debutantes of this year have many of them married. The others have no more ideas of the joys of a season proper than nuns in a cloister, but have, on the other hand, taken first-aid diplomas, cookery and other lessons in domestic management, and have spent their spare time in sack-making, cutting out, and house-to-house visiting of the wives and families of men at the front. The fashionable "flapper" of last year is now a serious-minded girl with a sense of responsibility and a general interest in mankind instead of in a few of her "own men." With the advance of the war dancing has died out, dining has become a lost art, and the few tentative efforts at entertaining of the early summer have become fewer. The old London season as we knew it is not likely to be revived in our day.

Simple Wash Cures Eczema.

A great skin specialist, who has compounded for his patients a marvellously effective cure for Eczema, Bad Leg and all other forms of itchy, has recently given his valuable preparation to the world. It is known as D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema, a simple external wash, easy to apply, a reliable home remedy. D. D. D. gives instant relief from skin distress the moment it is applied. It penetrates the pores and kills the germs which are the root of skin disease. Nauseating stomach drugs are worthless, for the disease is in the skin, not in the blood. Greasy salves are dangerous for they clog the pores and aid the growth of germs. D. D. D. washes out disease, cleanses the pores, then soothes and heals the skin. Test this simple cure; get a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription to-day. Sold Everywhere.

When making aprons it may be an advantage to put the pocket in the center of the apron instead of at the side, where it is found to be continually catching on the door handles and tearing. Minard's Lintment Cures Diphtheria.

German Fishing Steamers.

Never, according to the "Hamburger Nachrichten," were so many fishing steamers launched at German ship-building yards as during last year, in spite of delays caused by the war. In 1914 thirty new fishing steamers were launched from German yards, as compared with twenty-five in 1913, eighteen in 1912 and seventeen in 1911, while for 1910 and 1909 together the number was only twenty-one. This activity, the journal explains, is due to the increasing consumption of sea fish and the great improvement in the business results which have been shown during the last few years by all the steam fishing companies. The German steam fishing fleet, which on Jan. 1st, 1914, numbered 250 vessels, with a total of 49,460 tons, has now been increased to 500 steamers, with a total of 60,000 tons. The steamers completed during last year represented about 7,000 tons, with an engine capacity of 12,800 horsepower. They were all vessels of over 200 tons and between 350 and 450 horsepower. In the last few years, the German paper says, there had not been any great increase in the size of German fishing steamers, whereas both France and England have vessels twice the size of the largest under the German flag. Of the thirty new fishing steamers built in Germany last year ten went to Altona and eight to Cuxhaven, and the rest to Bremerhaven and Nordenham, and a few abroad. The numerous large number of fishing steamers now being ordered in Germany is accounted for by the fact that German owners have determined not to order any more from foreign builders. German builders have also of late years received a number of orders for fishing steamers from Brazil and Iceland. At the present time, it is stated, the German builders have on hand 50 many orders for fishing steamers that the production for the current year will considerably exceed that of 1914. —Shipping Illustrated.

How to Protect the Skin.

To keep the skin delicate and transparent, as to show its natural coloring, protect it by using Nyal's Face Cream.

Before going out wash with Face Cream Soap, then rub the Cream well into the pores, and you can spend a day out of doors without the slightest injury to the skin.

For a few days, with every 25c. cask of Nyal's Face Cream sold, we will give a trial size cake of Nyal's Face Cream Soap.

The Impoverishment of the North Sea.

Prof. J. Stanley Gardiner recently delivered a lecture before the Royal Geographical Society of London, which has been published in the form of a pamphlet. Professor Gardiner is well known as an authority on the life and physics of the sea, and what he has to say on such topics will receive the attention it deserves.

The title of the lecture was "Geography of British Fisheries." Professor Gardiner discusses many phases of the life history of fishes, with special reference to the cod, the plaice and the eel, and he concludes with a reference to the North Sea. He says man's action in the North Sea has become such as to destroy the balance of nature, acting as it does principally on mature fish, lessening their number, and so the amount of spawn to produce the next generation. This can be controlled, but only by international agreement, for which there must be a foundation of incontestable evidence. The conferences and work of the International Council have been highly profitable in this connection. He says that it is clear now that the plaice stock of the North Sea is being so seriously depleted by man that a plaice fishery in that region may well be in a few years a thing of the past—which is probably too gloomy a view to take. He believes in the efficacy of a size limit, and says one of nine or ten inches is required, but it must be international. It seems to a writer in the "Fish Trades Gazette" that the practical closure of the plaice grounds in the North Sea owing to the war will have a great effect on the plaice fishery, and that when peace comes the catches will be greater than before.
