The procession formed on upper Yonge street in the forenoon. It was made up of eight divisions. J. McGlue was shief marshall, and there was a chief over each division; all being well mounted. The firemen headed the parade. They wore their bright new uniforms and were generally admired. The trucks and reels were conspicuous for their beautiful decorations. Chief Ardagh and Asst. Chief Graham presented a solid front. The first division consisted of trade mnions, the chief being F. A. Campbell, and was headed by the trades and labor council, with a monster beehive tablean The procession formed on upper

One of the most productive results of the semi-centennial is an influx of pick-pockets and sneak thieves. So far, they have been very daring in their operations, but the police have a dozen of them behind the bars. Matt Carpenter and Bob Storey are local crooks, and they are locked up on general principles. The doings of the imported article are quite romantic. Detective Reburn was walking early yesterday morning and he encoun-Jim or Doc. Gannon in Front street west. Gannon is the operative who is supposed to have worked Harry Nclan's room in the Rossin house for his gold watch and chain and articles of jewelry belonging to Mrs. Nolan Tuesday morning. Gannon was walking with a pal and when the detective approached them the latter made off. Doc. was taken into the private office of the Walker house. The intention was to secure him until his confederate was captured. Sud-denly he made a race for a window and

The feat which gave Allan Pinkerton a national reputation was to conduct Abra-ham Lincoln safely through Baltimore to the inauguration in Washington. Pink-erton knew of the plot to assass-intate the president-elect in Baltimore, which was then completely in the hands of a rebel mob. Riotons scenes and attacks upon federal troops were the order of the day. It was said, though the story was speedily denied, that Pinkerton accomplished his bazardous task with the aid of one of his female operatives, who occupied the same seat in the car as the president, who wore a bonnet and a thick veil, which completely concealed his well thown fedures. dential relations with John Brown and others in the underground railway. The first established agency was begun in Chicago in 1853. Beginning with a handful of trusted employes, Allan Pinker-ton steadily increased his business until there are now "Pinkerton agencies" in the principal cities of the union, employing thousands of men and women. Contrary to the maxim that "it takes a thief to catch a thief," often illustrated in the workings of municipal police departments. the Federal bank. The irresolution displayed by the board of directors in the numerous and rapid changes made in the personnel of the management of the bank are commented upon severely, the general opinion being that the members of the board had lost their heads. Mr. Ingram to the maxim that "it takes a thief to catch a thief," often illustrated in the workings of municipal police departments, Allan Pinkerton always refused employ-ment to any one whose character was not absolutely unimpeachable. The various agencies at present employ about 200 first-class detectives, men and women, whose pay ranges from $5 a day to $5000 a year. Allan Pinkerton is a man who knows no fear, and numerous are the exploits in which he took his life in his own hand, figuratively speaking. At one occasion in Detroit, he was so severely handled by his adversaries that his life was despaired of. A partial lameness remained to the last as the result of the bloody encounter. He was a man who detected at once what qualities there was in a person that came under his observation. A striking illus-tration of this fact is the career of McPar-lan, the great detective in the Molly Magnire cases. McParlan was a coachman in the employ of a merchant who resides in Chicago. The stables of this gentleman joined those of Pinkerton, and "the old man," then deeply involved in the stu ly of the Molly Magnire cases, came to the conclusion that "Mac" was his man. He engaged him at a high salary, instructed him personally for hours every day, and finally turned him over to the Pulladel board had lost their heads. Mr. Ingrain states so far as he knew the arrangements made by him for scouring assistance from other banks would be carried out. It is reported that there has been some difficulty in effecting settlements to day with the branch of the Federal bank. It is unthe branch of the Federal bank. It is un-derstood that some of the strongest banks are not accepting checks upon the Federal but are accepting notes. It is reported that Mr. Yarker, the new general man-ager, has demanded and obtained an ad-vance in his salary for the fourth and fifth years of the term of his management, namely, $30,000. Mr. Ingram has, it is believed, secured full emoluments of one year's general managership at $12,000 al-though relieved of the unenviable duties of that office.

 Other brilliant had of Pinkerton's men under old Alan's supervision can be but briefly touched upon at this time. There was the arrest and conduction of Augustus Stuart Byron and of a pour man claiming to be a nephew of Admiral Napier. These men worked a Michigan Southern train and robed the mails of a large amount of money. Pinkerton hes lost a great many good employes in his dangerous work. Five lost their lives in capturing the James brothers in Missouri. The Reno brothers and Seymour, Ind., was also broker up by Pinkerton. Then there are the capture of the Bidwell brothers for forgery on the bank of Eugland; Roberts and Gleason, the bond forgers; the apprehension of the Northampton bank breakers, and a host of express companies. The Machine in Politics.

One of the most pertinent examples et the working and influence of "the machine" in politics is to be seen in the present deal regarding the representation of West Ontario in the house of commons. That riding is, or was rather, represented by Mr. George Wheeler. It is one of the "grit hives," including the townships of Pickering and Uxbridge in Ontario and Whitchurch, and the village of Newmarket in York. It has a reform majority of anything from 1200 to 1800. Mr. Blake, it would appear, desires to have J. D. J. D. Edgar is not the best man for west Ontario. He is not, therefore, the most available man. Eminent talent and services sometimes give an outsider such a standing that, for the public good, the constituency is well advised in adopting him. A pusher in a scheme, an experienced wire-puller, a passable organizer and other considerations of possible usefulness are not sufficient grounds, the Globe notwithstanding, for the suppression of local aspirants.

Mr. Edgar has made too many attempts to get into the house of commons, every one of which has been more or less of the nature of a deal and not the outcome of conviction on the part of the riding that he is trying to foist himself upon. THE GRAND DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS ON THE BAY The semi-centennial souvenir program is meeting with an extensive sale. It is the most complete one issued and is to be had all over the city for five cents. The Holman opera company and the semi-centennial visitors from London make the Montreal house their headquarters. Mine host Coleman entertains them well. and the parade of boats will take place HIS EVENING, WEATHER PERMIT-

An enjoyable feature of the semi-cen-tennial celebration will be the organ re-cital at the Bond street church by S. P. Warren, organist of Grace church, New York, to-morrow evening. The boat procession will move at 10 from near Good mains wharf, pass the entire water front of the city and returning.

It is expected that every boat on the Bay will take part in this particle, and will each be upplied with Chinese lankerse. Homan can-les or torches, to give as grand an effect as pasible to the scene. At eleven o'clock the bombardment will begin and can be witnessed as well from the Island as from the city.

After the fireworks all boats will run unti heir passengers carried to the Island are re irned to the city.
