Bond Issue of Five Billion Dollars at Low Rate Contemplated.

BIG TAXATION REVENUE

Half First Year's Expenditure to Be Raised by Heavy Imposts.

Washington, April 8.-President Wilson's policy, outlined in his address to congress, of paying America's war bill as far as possible, while the war is being waged, leaving a mini-mum debt to posterity, was reflected onight in a virtual decision by lead-under this program, would be $6,180,-000,000.

Lean of $3,000,000,000.

Ow the $5,000,000,000 it be raised by a bond issue. $2,000,000,000, it was definitely stated tonight would be loaned to the entente allies. The entire issue, house and senate leaders have agreed, will bear interest at the rat of 3½ per cent.

It is proposed to make the foan to the allies at this interest rate, which is lower by far than the rate they have been compelled to pay on their previous issues.

After the entente governments have been granted the loan, the plan is to inoid the remaining $2,000,000,000 of the $5,000,000,000 to be applied as necessary on the cost of the military and navel establishments and other war expenses of the United States.

Indications are that with the new war revenue measures in effect the full amount $2,000,000,000 would not be entirely exhausted at the end of the first year.

Bond Issue of $5,000.000,000.

In requesting authorization for a $5,000,000,000 bond issue, administration leaders have in mind the necesity of allowing for a slight margin of safety so that the work of the war

THE DAY'S EVEN IS REVIEWED

O VER the battlefield in France a great and highly important struggle is proceeding. It is for nothing else than the command of the air, a supremacy already pretty well secured by the British machines.

British aviators are flying for miles over the German lines. They harass the German communications; they seek out the German machines; they cooperate with the artillery in the shelling of German lines, and they photograph the German defensive positions. British aviators have already taken more than 1700 photographs of large and deep sections of the enemy's territory. In 36 hours they carried out 17 bombing raids on German aerodromes, munition depots and railways, dropping more than eight tons of explosives. In mortal combat they drove down and destroyed 15 German machines, and they also drove down 31 others, a large proportion of these being totally destroyed. The British have 28 of their machines missing. They want about a week of clear weather to drive the Germans out of the air for months to come.

Hundreds of British machines are engaged in these operations. The British policy is a full offensive in order to seek out and destroy the enemy. The Germans have greatly improved their aerial services since a year ago, but the British machines till outclass them. About thirty British machines till outclass them. Royal Flying Corps, Hundreds of Machines Strong, Carries Offensive Completely Into German Territory-Some Machines Fly as Far as Fifty Miles Back.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.

With the British Armies in France, April 8, via London.—Under a blue Easter sky, beflecked only here and there with bits of filmy white cloud, British aviators by the hundred continued today their work of re-establishing beyond all question of doubt their supremacy in the air. They carried the fighting wholly into the enemy territory, sought out their aerodromes, military headquarters, ammunition dumps and concentration camps and challenged the Germans in every possible manner to come up and fight.

In one instance the British flyers penetrated fifty miles behind the German lines. They fairly flew circles around an enemy squadron which sought to intercept them. Speed and manoeuvring powers are the great qualities of modern aeroplane scouts, and to have a place with the clite of the upper air the machines must develop in the neighborhood of 150 miles an hour and be able to do tricks in flying that no bird ever accomplished.

British Thirty to One.

The British have a great preponderance of machines, and at least thirty of these probably go over the German lines against one hostile machine flying on this side of the trenches. This ratio of activity within the enemy territory must always be set against the ratio of losses. The maintenance of a great number of machines enables the British to carry on a preponderance of artillery fire, directing their shots, not by hazard, or "off the map," but under the actual eyes of the aeroplanes.

The constant aggressiveness of the British flying corps and the willingness of the splendid young pilots and observers to take every manner of risk means information for and protection of the army on the ground to an extent which they regard as amply repaying their sacrifices. Under their guidance on this Easter day the British guns were roaring all along the farreaching battle lines. It was a brilliant day for warfare as well as air fighting.

army, but they are valuable for offensive operations of their own. This air fighting has become a preliminary feature of modern battles. In order to allow their aerial photographing to proceed unmolested, the British are fighting the enemy many miles back of the front, sometimes as far as fifty

On land the action chiefly comprised artillery engagements, altho the British also advanced closer to St. Quentin and also towards Cambrai, along the road from Bapaume. The allies, being in close contact with the new German line, are making their observations complete. By aerial photography they can detect every trench and other defence of the enemy, and their aerial spotters can direct the artillery fire by the aid of maps of the German positions. Meanwhile the Germans in the Arras salient are receiving a accept no "business peace" or terrible artillery fire, not only frontally from the west, but laterally from the south and southwest. The Canadians keep on applying pressure in this region by raids and gunfire.

Before retreating the Germans have evidently made up their minds to tente and President Wilson destroy Rheims. On Friday and Saturday they threw about 7500 shells into the city, and on Surday night the French reported that they had fired ROGERS MEMBER OF 1200 more. Rheims will go down in history as a monument of German trightfulness. On the front between a point north of Soissons and the Somme, heavy artillery actions proceeded. The French also engaged in fighting in the Argonne and the Vosges. For the first time in many months they became active in Belgium, and they raided German positions at two points about Lombartzyde.

The German success on the left bank of the Stokhod River the other day, the only local and transitory, has greatly cheered up Berlin, By making claims to thousands of prisoners taken the enemy's staff stimulates the German morale.

Operations along the Black Sea coast have also awakened to considerable activity by the Russians. They have landed a small body of at the general election in June troops on the Anatolian coast, about 142 miles west of Trebizond and 28 miles east of the Turkish port of Samsoon. This force has probably a local object shead of it, the it may form an advanced guard for a large expedition. most dramatic patriotic events of the Easter season occurred at the Canadian Club's final dinner of the season in the Louis XIV ball and banquet room of the Biltmore Hotel. Five hundred men and women applauded the speakers who dwelt on various phases of the war situation. James W. Gerard, formerly ambassador to Germany; Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, U.S.A; Sir Wm. R. Hearst and other prominent Canadians who came here especially for the event, were at the speakers table. The speakers aroused the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm at every mention of America being joined with Canada in the common cause. Sir Wm. Hearst praised the spirit with which America was entering on her great task and said that the bond between Canada and U.S. would now become unbreakable. most dramatic patriotic events of the rrussia. be carried out by legislation. Ever-popular and All-attractive Serge Frocks for Women, Variously Priced From $15.00 to $27.50

T PRESENT to wear under the Spring coat, and later, when coats are discarded, the frock of serge offers many attractions. Its popularity is assured because of the smart styles with which Fashion has endowed it, the variety a pleasing feature.

There are many pretty styles, priced so moderately as $15.00, some cut on rather tailored lines, while others are on straight lines, with yoked bodices and graceful pleating. The trimmings in these are formed by colored embroidery designs in silk or wool, and pretty collars of white poplin silk or satin. Sizes 34 to 42. In navy or black. Price, $15.00.

A durable and good quality serge is used in frocks at $16.50, of which there are several attractive styles. One model has white silk braid embroidery on cuffs, back and front of belt and the two fancy pockets which adorn the skirt. A pretty white satin collar adorns the bodice. In navy and black. Price, $16.50.

Then from $20.00 to $27.50 there is a delightful array of frocks of the finest Jersey cloth. A model which may be had in

Interesting Facts About the "Marshall" Ventilated Spring Mattress

HE "MARSHALL" is certainly a departure from the usual form of mattress. It is composed of 1,000 upright springs, enclosed in cotton pockets and each acting independently. These are then covered with fluffy cotton or sterilized hair and enclosed in stout blue and white stripe tick. These "Marshall" mattresses are most resilient, conforming to the contour of the body and providing refreshing relaxation.

But They Are More Than Comfortable

THEY ARE VENTILATED—being practically a collection of air chambers. Each mattress has three small ventilators at each end, covered with gauze screen. As the springs are compressed, air is forced out. When compression (or weight of body) is removed, it draws in fresh air. This helps to keep the mattress lively and springy. It cannot sag or get lumpy. Guaranteed for five years.

BROCKVILLE JOINS

in amassing testimony to the cures effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. During the last few weeks everybody seems to be talking about this great food cure. Persons who were weak, nervous or anaemic have found in this wellknown restorative the very assistance they needed to regain health, strength and vigor. This is the way they tell their experiences:

Dizziness

Mrs. E. O'Neill, Anne Street, Brockville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with nervousness, heart trouble, dizziness and a general run-down condition of the sys-tem, and it was only with difficulty that I could do my work. I had doctored for some time without much result, until a friend in Ottawa, advised me to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did so, and after taking a treatment found a great improvement. I can now get a good night's rest and am able to do my work much more easily. When I am not feeling just up to the mark I take a few of the Nerve Food Pills, and find great benefit from them. I am glad to recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to anyone suffering from nerve trouble of any kind."

Could Not Sleep

Mrs. T. Hutt, 47 Church Street, Brockville, Ont., writes: "My nerves were in a very serious condition—I could not sleep at night, had frequent headaches, and would not stay alone in the house. Any little noise would set my nerves all going. Seeing your ad, Food, tried it, and before finish-ing could see such an improve-ment that I continued the treat-of all nervous trouble. I have no difficulty now in getting a good night's rest, and do not mind staying alone at all. I have recom-mended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to many of my friends, who have used it with splendid results."

Nerves Exhausted

Mrs. F. Robinson, 30 Havelock St., Brockville, Ont., writes: "I suffered from nervousness, sleep-leseness, headaches and dizziness. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was re-commended to me by a friend, so I commenced using it, and found it of such benefit that I continued the treatment until I was com-pletely relieved. I was also troubled with constipation, and I find that this treatment has re-lieved me of that, too. I have recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to many of my friends, who have also obtained good results."

Easily Fatigued

Mr. Wm. H. Moore, Buell St., Brockville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with disziness and sick stomach for some little time; my stomach for some little time; my heart action was weak and circulation poor. I became restless and easily tired. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found almost immediate relief. I have taken about six boxes of this splendid remedy, and intend to still continue their use, as they have been of such benefit to me."

Nervous Indigestion

Mrs. J. F. Clow, 20 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes: "I had nervous indigestion so bad that I could not eat anything, and failed from 170 pounds to 130 pounds. I consulted dectors, but they did not seem to understand my case. I saw Dr. Chase's Nerve my case. I saw Dr. Chase's Nerve Food advertised, and as it seemed to fit my case I decided to try it. Even from the first the Nerve Food seemed to agree with my stomach, and I was soon able to eat and digest my food. I continued the treatment until I fully recovered, and now I would re-commend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to anyone suffering from nervous indigestion."

Sick Headaches

Mrs. E. H. Hutt, 262 Brock St., Brockville, Ont., writes: "Last winter I was bothered with severe winter I was bothered with severe sick-headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sleeplessness, I also had trouble with my hands; they used to go to sleep, and sometimes there was no feeling at all in them. I could not wash dishes, knit or do anything like that. I had been doctoring for some time without results. One day a friend said to me: "Why don't you try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food? It will help you." So I decided to try it, and while taking the first box I began to feel a little better. I therefore continued the treatment until I found I was greatly im-proved. I certainly cannot speak too highly of the wonderful cure of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Gained in Weight

Mrs. F. A. Meager, 1 Park St. South, Brockville, Ont., writes: "I suffered for years from ner-"I suffered for years from nervousness, sleeplessness and weak spells. I had neuralgic pains through my body and very severe pains through the back; my nerves twitched something dreadful. I had indigestion, and could not eat any solid food at all. My heart action was weak, the circulation very poor, and my gums and lips used to be blue. I went to see the doctor, but he told me there was no cure for me. I therefore tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am pleased to say that they have helped me wonderfully. I can now eat much better, and can take solid food without any difficulty. I have taken four boxes, and during that time have gained twelve pounds. I am so much better that I mean to continue the treatment, for I am conmuch better that I mean to con-tinue the treatment, for I am con-fident they are the things to take to build up the system, give strength and make one feel like oneself again. I had tried lots of other medicines, but they did not do me any good. I hope this let-ter will help others who may have suffered in the same way as I have."

CANNOT GET BELOW A TWENTY-FIVE MILL RATE

Cuts Made on First Revision of Estimates Have Little Effect.

Unless the city refers the matter back to the board of control for fur-ther reduction. Toronto's tax rate for this year will be twenty-five and a half mills. According to Finance Commissioner Bradshaw the estimates Commissioner Bradshaw the estimates as at present revised will make this rate necessary, and the cuts made after the first revision will have but little effect. The total reductions made by the board of control amount to $222,496, from the original amount of $18,557,448. So far the salary increases have not been considered, and if these are allowed it will further increase the rate by 4 of a mill. At present the rate is distributed as follows: War tax, 1 mill: general purlows: War tax, 1 mill; general pur-poses, 17% mills; and school tax, 6%

Open Office at Armories to NEW HOSPITALS Enroll Men for New Unit.

Four hundred and thirty-seven Toronto recruits for enlistment came up for examination at the armories during the week just ended. This total does not include the men who offered for Royal Flying Corps or naval service. Of the 437 dealt with at the armories depot, 126 were accepted for military duty. Nearly two-thirds of these joined infantry, cavalry, artillery and other combatant units.

On Saturday a total of 75 Toronto men offered for enlistment, but only 18 were found suitable for the army. The accepted recruits were distributed as follows: Signalers and cyclists, each 3; 109th Draft and U. of T. Overseas Company, each 2; 208th Batt.

Public Opinion Needed.

What we need in Canada more than what we need in Canada more than anything else is public opinion. The extistence of public opinion betokens a national consciousness, which has not yet, perhaps, pervaded the Dominion, as provincial consciousness pervades the individual provinces. Where there is a definite public opinion, it is rarely that has been a most strenuous one, and is it fails to find expression in action or legislation. There is no problem more perplexing to those who have given attention to Canadian affairs than this absence of a public concurrence of views and ideas. In Great Britain, public democracies, there is but little leisure for the men of action. We believe that the men of action are much more capable of arriving at wise conclusions than those who do not engage in the activities of life, if they can only lift their minds from their personal preoccupations and from their personal preoccupations and there, for the stand taken on the nick-el and coalition government question. from their personal preoccupations and relationships to the larger national life in which they are units. It may be want of leisure that prevents such men giving the great Liberal-Conservative party. utterance to their thought, or it may be modesty or timidity, but undoubtedly wiser things are heard in private from such men than one hears from the lips of the party, with all due respect to of most of our so-called public men. It of most of our so-called public men. It is men of this stamp who have been coopted by the governments of Great Britain and other nations, and they have achieved notable results.

Governments must either lead or be led. In Canada they are painfully anxious to follow, so as always to be on the right side—that is, the side with the votes. This attitude of awaiting the direction of the saltatory feline is neither good for the government nor for the eople. The governments should not be afraid to do what they think is right, whether they succeed or perish. If they will but act, the people will quickly determine what is right and what is wrong. But if a government acts disinterestedly and for the people, there is little chance of error. It is in yielding to the pressure of private interests and sectional views that governments go wrong. When they act for their constituency, and the whole of it, be it municipality, province or Dominion, they find it difficult to make a mistake. The Ontario Government has

An Independent Voice.

Editor World: Your recent fight against the nickel and other trusts absence of a public concurrence of views and ideas. In Great Britain, public opinion quickly crystalizes in definite conceptions of policy or action; and, either pro or con, the people as a whole determine the course to follow or to abandon. On rare occasions of an equal division of opinion, there is at least a tangible issue to debate, and it does not take long in a free democracy to arrive at a decision.

Here, however, we appear to lack the ability to crystalize opinion out of the general public mind. As the government is waiting upon such indications, instead of leading them, we fall into what might be described as "the doldrums" of politics. Nothing is done, and everything drifts.

It has been suggested that the existence of a leisure class in England tends to encourage the development of public opinion, as people have time to reflect and consider, and resolve. It would be fatal to the claims of democracy to admit auch a view, for, among the new democracies, there is but little leisure for the men of action. We believe that the men of action are much more capable Guatemala Is Known to Be Seriously Contemplating Break Also.

Washington, April 8. Barly engainst Germany is regarded here as tractically certain. Brazil, aroused by the sinking of her steamship Parana, is expected to become a bel-igerent this week, and it is assumed hat her lead will be followed promy ly by other countries.

Active support of the U. S. by at least two of the five central American republics and possibly by four would not be surprising. Official and unofficial reports that Estrada Cabrera, president of Guatemala, is contemplating seniously a break with Germany have been received. So long as Mexico's course is undefined unusual interest is attached to the position the central American governments, especially that of Guatemala, controlling the southern frontier of Mexico. In the event of the development of an unfriendly situation in Mexico it is bealized that Guatemala's role would be far from unimportant. In Guatemala, Estrada Cabrera has built up what is regarded generally as the most efficient army in central America, and with it he would be in a position to lend valuable assistance to the United States. Antipathy between the Guatemalans and Mexicans there has existed for years.

It is known that earnest efforts have been made by counsellors of M. Cabrera to enter promptly into the war. If he does place his country in the list it is expected that Nicarague will Celebrate Downfall of Czar at Hamilton Sunday.

Hamilton, Monday, April 9.—To celebrate the overthrow of Czar Nucholas, nearly three thousand Russians, headed by the 91st Regimental band, paraded the up-town streets yesterday afternoon, following an indoor meeting in the Sons of England Hall. There they were addressed by prominent countrymen of this city and Toronto. Banners bearing varied inscriptions were much in evidence. There was also speechmaking at Gore Park, one of the Russians stating that there were five thousand of his countrymen in Hamilton, each one of whom was overjoyed at the overthrow of autocracy. Mayor Booker referred to the future of Russia in glowing terms, expressing the hope that the downfall of the kaliser and German oppression would next be celebrated.

STAR.

If you have enjoyed in the past the wonderful shows provided by Henry P. Dixon, and touted it as the best organization of its kind on the circuit, this season's output, known as the Big Revue of 1917, which commences a week's engagement at the Star at today's matinee, is bound to put all previous achievements in the shade. From all accounts it contains more nevelues, more original ideas, more refreshing and tuneful melodies, better fun, more aurpriess than any similar entertainment now currying popular approval before the public. The old favorites, Harry (Hickey) Levan and Clare Devine will head an incomparable cast. Besides, twenty pretty and vivacious chorus maidens help to augment the proceedings with their singling, dancing and soud looks. In addition there will be special songs, bits, travesties and features not found in other shows.

THE FORMAN MYSTERY

By GEORGE HUGHES.

"While standing there I suddenly realized that I was in an awkward predicament. Edith Forman, having met me at the terminal, would guess that I was on my way to visit her sister, and when the tragedy was discovered would naturally connect me with it. So I resolved to get away as quickly as possible. Dropping the revolver on the floor beside my dead wife, I left the house. My one obsession was to place as great a distance as possible between Leadale and myself. So I hurried toward Leadale railway station. Arrived at the end of the bridge, I saw a motor car standing there. Being able to drive, I decided to utilize it and make my journey to the station so much shorter. But I found I could not start it. The engine was cold. So I left it and hurried afoot to the station.

"When I arrived there I found that I had lost the return half of my railway ticket. I had put it in my waist-coat pocket earlier in the evening, so judged it had fallen out during the tussle with Marden, or while I was trying to start the automobile.

"As to the truth of my story, your honor," turning toward the judge in appeal, "here is my marriage certificate." He handed a long envelope over to Mr. Bright, who in turn gave it to the judge. The latter opened the paper contained in the envelope, adjusted his glasses more firmly upon the high bridge of his nose, and read. Having perused it, he handed it back to Mr. Bright, nodding his satisfaction meanwhile.

"Should you want corroboration of my story, sir, my mother and the station agent at Leadale could be asked to testify."

A ripple of approval broke from the audience as he sat down in the chair laid bare the grisly skeleton of the past, appealed to and aroused its swift sympathy.

The voice of Mr. Bright checked any further demonstration

"May it please your honor," he said. "to give permission for Miss Forman to be re-examined?" And, the judge assenting, Edith Forman was recalled.

"Will you kindly tell the court why you removed the revolver from beside your sister's body, Miss Forman?" Mr. Bright queried. She was encouraged by his kindly tone.

"Because I was afraid that my sister's husband was implicated in her death," she said. "I had met him earlier in the evening, and judged he had been up to the house. By hiding the weapon I had hoped to steer suspicion from him."

"But did it never occur to you that your sister might have ended her own life?"

"Never. I thought Mr. Walton had

Ting-ling-a-ling!

The sound of the telephone bell brought him abruptly from his gloom. But there was no haste in his st-pe as he approached it; he deemed it purely a professional call. But no sooner was his ear to the receiver than the gloom/surrounding him lifted. Into his dull eyes flashed the bright light of renewed hope as he answered the call with "Right away!" and leaped buoyantly from the instrument. He threw the receiver into place with a fine disregard for injury and consequent repair expenses.

Five minutes later Warrener was journeying on the wings of the wind to Leadelle. Tho he had his speed gears pushed to the last notch, even that pace was a small's pace to his racing impetient pulses.

Judge Rutherford also indicted the war as a "commerce war," and said that he believed if a vote were taken in the United States today the people would declare against the war that the congress had "forced" upon them. The submarine menace, he held, was no worse since the president was reelected on the slogan, "He kept us out of the war," than it was before, so, except for the fulfilment of the prophecy, there was no more justification for the entry of the States now than there was before the presidential election.

"Co-operation with the artillery continued in the daytims unhindered, except by the weather, altho repeated attempts were made by the enemy to prevent this important work.

Seventeen Raids.

"Seventeen successful bomb raids were carried out on the enemy's aerodromes and munition depots and railways a long distance behind the lines, in addition to numerous small raids. A total of over eight tons of bombs were dropped.

"All the time intense fighting between large formations took place. Our casualties are twenty-eight machines missing, a large number of which are known to have been shot down in combat over the enemy's country.

"It is known that the enemy suffered very heavy casualties. In one case an obseiver was seen to fall out of his machine, which went down out of control in a spin. In another case the fighting was so close that an enemy pilot was seen to fall from his machine, which was out of control and diving by the nose. Fifteen hostile machines were driven down and actually seen to crash to the ground, while thirty-one others were driven down damaged, a large proportion of which must have been totally destroyed. In addition, ten hostile balloons were brought down in flames."

"I wish they'd build the transcontinental cars with little railings on top and seats like the Fifth avenue 'buses, or the 'rubberneck wagons.' In the spring and summer there you'd be to view the landscape o'er, and all the freight cars in the world couldn't get between you and your view."

Freight cars! What should we do without them? And yet—
The other night I dined with the rich and great. At the table was a great privilege to sit in the same room with him, and I was very happy to find my seet at the table almost exactly opposite to the genius.

"I musin't stare." I said to myself, "but, oh, I can't bear to miss one flitting expression, and when he begins to talk I'm right where I can hear every single syllable."

He was a modest genius and it took a bit of playing up to him to get him started, but all at once he was off.

He started to tell about the time that he spent two years in a black tent with the Arabs in the Great Desert. Just as he started to tell how he got there and what the first word of Arabic was he learned the man next to me said:

"Have you seen the Russian dancers?"

"No-yes-I mean," I gasped. The man stared at me in amazement and was silent, but I had lost the magic word, and now I shall never know what the key to the heart of a wild Arab is, just because the man next to me thought he must "make convergence of tartar, and one egg. was silent, but I had lost the magic word, and now I shall never know what the key to the heart of a wild Arab is, just because the man next to me thought he must "make conversation" for fear the genius would fancy himself too much.

There was a singer at the table, too, a quaint little person from Japan, and she began to tell us all about how she ran away to London and hid in a lodging house to learn to sing European songs. Just as she was telling about the time the queen sent for her and how she went to the palace and what she wore and how frightened she was and what the queen said, a woman on the other side of the table leaned across and began to chatter to me about somebody's cousin who had married the brother-in-law of some one else's sister whom we both knew once, or, anyhow, we met her at the seashore ten years ago—or "Was it the same one, do you suppose—tall and blonde with green jade earrings? Don't you remember? She wore them in bathing and we thought it was so odd."

Now I shall never know what the queen said to the frightened little Japanese girl or what either of them wore, or anything at all about it.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNUE LATERTE I am a young man 20 years of age and have been going out with a girl two years younger than I am. I love her with all my heart, but there is one thing keeping me back. I went out with a girl before 1 started with her, and I had a little trouble with her, and whenever anybody sees me on the street with the girl I love they all look at me kind of strangely. I know this other girl loves me Would you be kind enough to advise me what to queen said to the frightened little Japanese girl or what either of them wore, or anything at all about it.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE

I am a young married woman in my early twenties and of good Canadian birth. I get very lonely for the want of a companion during the day. I live ir an apartment of four furnished rooms, and can manage to get my housework done up early and get out in the open air. But I just get so lonesome for some person to go around with during the day, that I just cannot bear it any longer. I surpose it is because I am young that I long for companionship. Surely there must be other young married girls in this city who long for a young companion as I do.

I would like to meet a young mar-long for a young compenion as I do.

I would like to meet a young married woman who is without children, and who longs for a girl companion too, between the age of eighteen and and thirty. Some girl of either Canadian or American birth, who is neat and dresses nicely, not necessarily extravagant.

I would, indeed, be very grateful if you would eppeal to your young married girl readers for surely there is one among them, who is willing to take this up.

Don't you think, Annie Laurie there should be some place, where young married couples who are strangers in a big city, could get acquainted in a respeciable way? Is there such a place?

Dicky stopped his wild rush along he floor of Madison Square Garden so suddenly that I expected to see st him. His face held so chaotic a his face and eyes. For a moment he stood perfectly motionless, glaring up at me where I sat in the small balcony with Dr. Pettit. Then he snapped his fingers with a gesture that I know meant the beginning of one of his unontrollable rages, and, turning on his Dicky, after summarily leaving me in a mob such as that which swirled around Madison Square Garden on the night of the president's speech there, should resent my being under the protection of Dr. Pettit.

Common sense ought to have told him that I must have met Dr. Pettit by accident in the crowd; common decency ought to have made him grateful that I had found some one to protect me from the terrible crush of the crowd after he had left my side to rescue a girl he knew from the danger of being killed.

But I had lived with Dicky longenough to realize that when he was in the grip of one of his unreasonable fits of temper nothing else mattered. I reasoned that as soon as he had seen to the safety of the girl he had rescued that he had begun a search for me. That he had begun a search for me. That he had been wild with anxiety I could tell from his attitude as he rushed around the auditorium below. The reaction of finding me safe and apparently very well content in the company of Dr. Pettit—of whom he always had been unreasonably jealous—had been too much for his always uncertain temper.

"Nor Do I Care."

I cast a sidelong glance at Dr. Pettit, wondering if he had recognized. Dicky. By a certain grim tightening Country Going Thru Reign of Terror Like Worst Days of France.

DEPORTATIONS GO ON

Even Austrian Representative Ashamed of Inhuman Treatment of Enslaved People.

Washington, April 8 .- A story of elgium and of the tortures inflicted onight in hitherto unpublished let ters to the government, from an American official, who spent many months in the midst of the reign of terror.

Of the Germans' explanation that they deported only the unemployed among the conquered people, this official save:

"They needed skilled and active risans, and these men were naturally still unemployed. The authorities lid not, however, evidently dare to innounce their real wishes.
"Belgium at this moment," says a etter written in December, "is going hru a reign of terror. It is hard to elieve that the dark moments of the rench revolution were very much thru a reign of terror. It is hard to believe that the dark moments of the French revolution were very much worse than the conditions of which we are now the witnesses. With each month that we remain the net is drawn tighter and tighter around the population. The entire country is more or less one great internment camp. To obtain, permission to go for a breath of liberty and neutral air in Holland or Switzerland is now practically impossible for Belgians, and even for neutrals. . . An uninterrupted series of trials for espionage are being conducted in various parts of the country—but above everything else at the present moever of the de-

Russia."

No Modification.

"President Wilson's protest against the deportations," the writer says, "was of great moral value, but the deportations continue without any apparent serious modifications, in spite of the protest of our government.

The fashion in which any given recruitment is carried out depends very largely on the character of the officer in command. Some proceedings pass off in orderly manner and others in a disorderly fashion. A guard of Uhlans is generally necessary, sometimes backed with and when in a great sweat thrust out of doors.

Internment at a prison camp at Reech (?), near Munster, is likewise reported. There the men are said to be gravely abused and mistreated.

"In Ghent it is learned confidentially that 235 men have died from the effect of the treatment or work received. In more than one case the wife was summoned to the commadature, and handed a bundle of clothes, with the laconic remark, 'Your husband is dead.' Many of these persons are supposed to have been killed by the artillery fire of the allies, as they were compelled to work so near the lines.

No Wages Are Paid. "The men who come up for selection are given the following choice: Work in Germany or in Belgium on the railways, or on matters of a military nature. The men who have returned are generally in an exhausted. tary nature. The men was have for turned are generally in an exhausted, if not dying condition. It is supposed that they are those who persisted in their refusal to sign and work, or whose physical condition could not withstand the punishments inflicted upon them."

The writer recalls the German nise of liberal wages to those who will sign, with permission to send their earnings to their families in Bel-"Painstaking inquiries," adds, "have failed to elicit a single instance in which such money has been received from Germany."

TOOL OF CAPITALISTS

German Newspapers Say Morgan and Others Have Influenced President.

Amsterdam, via London, April 6.— The Cologne Volks Zeitung under the caption "Moral Phrases Again." says that President Wilson's proposal to congress was a "masterpiece of what, according to Talleyrand, is the most important part of diplomacy, namely, ontinues:

"Wilson declares war only for the sake of the rights of humanity and non-combatants, but not for the rights of munition makers and Morgan, who of munition makers and Morgan, who sees the thousands of millions lent to England endangered."

The Volks Zeitung goes on sardonically agreeing with President Wilson that the war was prepared by a small group of ambitious men, and names Edward VII. and the premiers of all the entente powers as those whose aim it was to destroy and ensiave Germany, adding: many, adding:

To them now are added Wilson and Lansing, driven by Morgan and other capitalists."

The Volks Zeitung does not disguise the fact that the hardest weeks and months are now coming, but says: "We will set our teeth until the victory of freedom and right is achieved."

Easter congregations at the churches were larger than usual, and there was an added note of seriousness in the services. Despite sombre clouds and chill winds, however, the fashion parade on Fifth avenue assumed its usual proportions. But in the famous thorofare there was no lack of patricular to the roofs and fronts of almost every building from Washington square to Central Park. The Stars and Stripes in miniature were worn by many men and women who passed in seemingly encless procession.

Amsterdam, April 8—via London.—he German monarchical system is de-ended by Count Reventlow, in Saturay's issue of The Tages Zeltung, of terlin, as the rock foundation of the mpire. This, he says, is the reason why Germany's enemies are attempting to undermine it, possibly with the assistance of the democratically inclined section of the German people. It is also the reason why Germany must win the war, "under any conditions and with any means." County of the control must win the war, "under any conditions and with any means." Count won Reventlow adds that the hackneyed phrase about holding out until the enemy is inclined toward peace is not only lame, but faulty in a political and military sense, because no one knows what it means.

"The German nation wants to hear great positive aims concretely expressed," he continues. "Now is the moment for this, it is the need of the hour leaving internal readjustments severely alone."

PRICES LOWERED BY ADVERTISING

Investigation Shows Selling Costs Are Greatly Lessened By Publicity.

PROOF IN DETAIL

of the most important work in this line is being done by the Association of National Advertisers, an organization of 250 of the leading advertisers of the country. Mr. Sullivan, the secretary-treasurer of the association, has given out some vitally important facts concerning the relation of advertising to selling costs. "The old idea," said Mr. Sullivan, "that the cost of advertising raises prices dies hard. But the business man knows better. Re knows that selling goods is costly business, no matter what the goods or what the selling methods. And he knows that anything which creates demand on a large scale, and thus makes selling caster, is bound to reduce selling costs and thus help to reduce prices.

"But evidence is better than argument; facts are better than theories, and we have been at great pains to collect the facts. We have secured an immense amount of data from our members which proves that advertising does reduce zelling costs, and thus tends to reduce the facts. We have secured an immense amount of data from our members which proves that advertising does reduce zelling costs, and thus tends to reduce the facts. We have secured an immense growth took a 2½-inch picture and which sold at $25. Today they make a far better camera, which sells for $10. Another, which took a 2½-inch picture and which sold at $25. Today they make a far better camera, which sells for $10. Another, which took a 4 x 5 picture, sold for $60. Today they sell a far better one for $20. And so on thru the line.

"A prominent hat manufacturer has, by means of advertising, reduced his selling cost seven cents per hat. Result: the buyer gets a hat of better quality at no increase in price, this despite increased cost of raw material and work-nambly.

"Then, take the most conspicuous example of them all, the automobile business, and compare the $5000 or $10,000 officiency and reduced selling costs. And all of this in the face of a steady increase in the cost of labor and raw materials, which, with advertising eliminated, night in many cases have doubled the price of the goods. "A triumph of economical marketing" is the only possible yerdict for advertising in the face of these facts.

CROP REPORT SENDS WHEAT UP RAPIDLY

ever issued in the United States. The closing was wild, and in some instances at the zenith quotations reached, with the market as a whole for to 14½ c net higher—May $2.12½ and July $1.88%. Corn gained 35% to 5½ c, oats 1½ c to 35% c, and provisions 32c to $1.55.

It was not until business had been under way half an hour that the government crop report was received, and the wheat market began to somersault in earnest. During the first thirty minutes of the session the chief mevement was a swift break in prices owing to news just at hand that German sea raiders had been sighted off Nantucket and the Virginia Capes, and that outbound merchant steamships for Europe were being warned back by the United States naval authorities. As soon, however, as the fact was evident that the worst fears had been more than realized concerning damage to the domestic winter crop, values started on an almost vertical ascent that at no time afterward was fully checked.

In view of the fact that with but a single exception the crop condition reported by the government was the lowest on record at any season of the year, and was far under even the most bull-lish predictions, all other influences were temporarily thrust aside. Kansas and Nebraska percentages, especially, showed such a radical setback that many shorts who at first were dazed and incredulous became afterward clamorous to cover. They paid dearly for hesitating, for altho on the bulge important holders setzed the chance to take profits the amount of offerings was at no point equal for very long to satisfying the importunate demand.

Strength in corn and oats was almost entirely borrowed from the violence of the upswing in wheat. Traders in foodstuffs, tho, evinced a notable disposition to be relatively conservative on the bull side. There was a huge general trade, which was well divided.

New high ground was entered upon by provisions, as well as grain. Owing to the exigencies of war the bulge in grain, and the scarcity of hogs, urgent call existed for all packing house pro
