WHERE IS ATKINSON? Young Drug Clerk Who Worked in St. John Has Disappeared From Charlottetown.

CHARLOTTETOWN, April 11.—The sudden disappearance of Edward Atkinson is causing some alarm among his friends in this city. Mr. Atkinson until last week was employed as a drug clerk with Johnson & Johnson of this city.

It is stated that he left there at 11.45 that night leaving all his belongings there and undisturbed. He may have gone to the country, but inquiry so far has failed to locate his whereabouts and nobody seems to have seen him out upon any of the trains or steamers.

Atkinson was born in Canada and before coming to Charlottetown was employed in the drug business in Moncton and St. John.

CONFUSSAL SERPENT OF FIRE AND DESIRING OF COFFEE FROM VESUVIUS

F. Marion Crawford Writes Graphic Story of Devastation --Ottajano Left to its Fate--Another Town of 10,000 Reported Wiped Out.

NEW YORK, April 11.—The Times today prints an account of the eruption of Mount Vesuvius by F. Marion Crawford, the American novelist. His dispatch is dated Sant Agnello, Bay of Naples, Tuesday. After giving briefly a general sketch of the eruption he says: "Yesterday (Monday) I drove through Torre Del Annunziata to the point where the main stream of lava stopped on Sunday. The lava carried vast masses of burned stones and sulphur on its surface, like drops on melted lead, and nothing was visible toward Boscotrecase but endless masses of dark smoke, broken here and there by the greenish cutting smoke of sulphur.

"At the point we reached a great stone pine tree torn up by its roots and turned to black charcoal, stuck out of the mass at a sharp angle. The air was almost unbearable, the heat intense. The faces of the people who crowded upon the edge of the arrested stream expressed present terror or exhaustion from recent pain.

"When the stream of the threatened Boscotrecase soldiers dug a wide ditch across its path and threw up a formidable barricade in the hope of diverting its course, but every effort was useless.

"The molten stone advanced like a colossal serpent of fire, bearing its head to the right and left as a snake does, but keeping its general direction toward the lava flow. It was not affected by the first house, sending up great showers of sparks, but the people finally fled for their lives, taking such belongings as they could carry in their arms or pile upon the crawling carts.

"I saw one woman lying on her back at 2 p. m. I can see nothing of Naples or even of Ischia (an island in the Bay of Naples) 30 miles to the west of the volcano, for all is hidden by a lurid curtain that is not affected by the least easterly breeze. The ashes are a fine dark gray dust and are thick in my garden walks, on the terrace, and on all the plants. Even at a distance of 50 yards there is a slight film in the air."

An Awful Day NAPLES, April 11—9.10 a. m.—The morning opened with the atmosphere overcast and yellow, and a feeling of oppression regarding what the future may hold for the city. The volcano was completely hidden in a dense mass of black smoke, the hot, stinging showers of ash falling frequent and ever severe detonations and deep rumblings.

From a questioner comes reports of the accumulation of ashes, the flight of the terror-stricken inhabitants of towns and villages, the collapse of buildings, the insufficiency of the relief measures, hunger and discouragement.

It is no longer possible to reach the points which have suffered most severely. Even the soldiers detailed to guard the streets at Ottajano have been recalled, and the town has been left to its fate.

Deeds of Bravery The military forces have earned the gratitude and admiration of the people for their devotion to duty and bravery. Only are they credited with many acts of heroism, but they have displayed untiring perseverance in searching for the living and the dead among the tottering walls assisting fugitives to reach places of safety, giving aid to the wounded and in burying the dead, and all this while fully exposed by the ash and cinders which were blown about by the wind.

Awful Catastrophe NAPLES, April 11—So widespread is the catastrophe caused by the eruption of Vesuvius, it is estimated that it will require an organized body of 100,000 men, and the expenditure of many millions of dollars to raise houses made unsafe for habitation by the accumulation of ashes and cinders on the roofs, erect temporary huts of refuge for the thousands who have been obliged to flee from their homes, clear the roads of buildings that may be a worthy descendant of the late King Humbert, who in 1884 went to the assistance of the sufferers from the cholera epidemic, visiting the patients in the hospitals and in some cases remaining by the bedside of the dying until the end.

The papers unite today in urging the government to send General Baldozzi, who saved the situation after the crushing defeat of the Italians at Adowa, Abyssinia, in the spring of 1896, and in the opinion of the committee to the relief of the sufferers from the cholera epidemic, visiting the patients in the hospitals and in some cases remaining by the bedside of the dying until the end.

Great Destruction According to the Matino, fifty houses, three churches and the municipal building were destroyed in the town of Ottajano. The quantity of ashes being emitted is so great and the rumblings are less frequent, though ashes and cinders are still falling over the city. There are about four inches of ashes in the streets.

Naples in Darkness NAPLES, April 11.—The eruptions from Vesuvius increased during the night, and early today a coating of ashes and cinders to a depth of four inches covered the roofs and the tops of buildings.

All railroad service out of the city is interrupted. The engineers have refused to take out their trains because of the darkness caused by the heavy fall of ash.

NAPLES, April 11, 4 a. m.—There has been considerable diminution in the fall of ash since midnight.

A meeting of the temperance delegation committee was held this morning, when plans were discussed relative to the action to be taken at the meeting this afternoon. The members of the committee preferred not to discuss what their plans were at the meeting, but they were presented to the commissioners.

Among those who are expected to attend this afternoon's meeting are—Dr. W. F. Roberts, S. P. McAvour, E. A. Everett, Rev. Thos. Marshall, E. N. Stockford, Rev. C. W. Hamilton, H. Sprague, A. A. Graham, W. S. Pritchard, and D. Hutchinson.

THE PIONEER STEAMER. The Hesperus is the pioneer river steamer of the fleet to cross the waters of the St. John river this spring. She left her wharf, Indianopolis, at 10 o'clock this morning with the intention of reaching Public Landing, if possible, but if she is still firm, Carter's Point would be the limit according to parties at Indianopolis. The Hesperus will return this afternoon. It is expected that the Elaine will make a trial trip tomorrow if she can be made ready in time.

AUSTRALIA ASKS FOR PREFERENCE

Sir William Lyne, Australian Minister of Trade and Customs Coming to Meet Canadian Ministers--To Develop Canadian Iron Deposits by Bounty.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 11 (Special)—Sir William Lyne, minister of trade and customs, of Australia, is coming to Canada on the April steamer, and is desirous of meeting one of the Canadian ministers to talk over the question of preferential trade. Sir William is not in very good health, and is only coming as far as Banff. It is difficult to see how any of the ministers would be able to go and meet him on account of parliament sitting. There are some prospects of getting a trade arrangement with Australia. James Cameron has given notice of a resolution, and requesting the duty on coal to be confined to Canadian ore and iron, and steel produced therefrom, or ore from any British colony.

At present a bounty is paid on iron and steel produced by Canadian furnaces from foreign ore.

The object of the resolution is to develop Canadian iron deposits and to induce Canadian blast furnaces to use native ore exclusively.

About 80 per cent. of the manufactured metal produced in Canada is from foreign ore. The resolutions provide for the renewing of the bounty at the original figure, and requesting the duty on coal to be confined to Canadian ore and iron, and steel produced therefrom, or ore from any British colony.

TEMPERANCE MEN TO ATTEND THIS AFTERNOON'S SESSION OF THE LIQUOR LICENSE COMMISSIONERS PROMISES TO BE AN INTERESTING ONE.

At the meeting of the liquor license commissioners this afternoon the temperance people will be largely represented and will ask for a closer observation of the liquor license laws.

The meeting is called for 3 o'clock, in the office of Inspector John B. Jones, Prince William street, but in response to a request of the temperance people it is probable that an adjournment will be made to the rooms of the Sons of Temperance in the Market Building.

The temperance people will ask that the law regarding the granting of a sealed number of licenses in each ward be adhered to and will also protest against the granting of two wholesale licenses.

One of the leading temperance men said to the Times this morning that the liquor dealers were saying all the time that restrictions should be placed upon them rather than to urge for prohibition.

He said the liquor dealers, however, will not be restricted if they can help it, and scheme and plan to break the law, and yet evade the penalties as often as possible.

What the temperance people will ask, he added, is that the commission keep the law themselves and counsel the liquor dealers to keep it also, or withhold licenses from them.

A meeting of the temperance delegation committee was held this morning, when plans were discussed relative to the action to be taken at the meeting this afternoon. The members of the committee preferred not to discuss what their plans were at the meeting, but they were presented to the commissioners.

ELEN BRADY LOSES HER DOLLAR PER DAY

Economy on the I. C. R. Leads to Dismissal of Two Car Cleaners Who Have Been Respectively Thirty Five and Twenty Five Years in the Service.

There is considerable talk about the dismissal of certain employees of the I. C. R. here, and it is surmised by many that better judgment might have been used in deciding who should be let go.

Among those who were dismissed was Elen Brady, who has been employed as a car cleaner here for the past 35 years, and has always been a "hard" worker.

For twenty-five years Mrs. Brady received only 60 cents a day for her services, but when the H. O. A. G. Blair was minister of railways the pay was raised to $1.00 a day, at which it has since remained. Naturally Mrs. Brady has been unable to save much out of this remuneration to provide for her old age, and her outlook is not a pleasant one for her.

She remarked to a railway official that she was as able to do her work as she ever was, and can not see why she should be dismissed in this manner.

Another of the car cleaners who was dismissed had been in the service for 25 years.

The feeling expressed by those who are familiar with the case is that the railway officials might have used better judgment in cutting down the expenses, and let some of the more recent employees go rather than to cut off the heads of those who have grown old in the service and performed their duties faithfully.

There is something wrong with the weather bureau. Yesterday's snowstorm was scheduled to arrive next Tuesday, and how it got here a week ahead of time is greatly puzzling the mind of Director Hutchinson. It is now too late to get an exception for next Tuesday, and there is a fear that the day will prove commonplace.

OBITUARY

James Clarkins

The death of James Clarkins occurred yesterday at his home on White street, after a lingering illness.

Decedent was a young man who was employed, previous to his becoming ill, by the firm of Macaulay, Rose, and was highly respected by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

Mr. Clarkins was an esteemed member of the St. Joseph's society, and that society will meet this evening to make arrangements for the funeral in a body.

Roy Campbell

Roy Campbell, a son of William John Campbell, died suddenly at his home, Prince street, at 4.30 a. m. The young man was 17 years old and has been subject to epileptic fits. Much sympathy is felt for the family. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon.

S. S. de Forest, who was nominated yesterday as alderman for Dokes ward, wishes to withdraw from the contest. He said he did not authorize the use of his name, and if not too late would like to retire. He had been asked to run and in a joking way said "yes," not thinking it was meant seriously.

It would be difficult to express the disappointment of his friends that Mr. James Jones as the last moment declined nomination for the office of alderman. The reason he gave was that he feared he would be overwhelmed by the prestige of the other candidates. James is very sensitive.

ALMOST A RIOT The Times new reporter is not in good odor with the other members of the staff today. He clipped out of another paper a dispatch about the town of Laccia, N. H., having a lovely girl as tax collector, and he wanted to print it. The rest of the staff fell upon the young man and called him names. They can dodge a tax collector who has whiskers and rheumatism, but if a lovely female came along they would be minus several months' salary before they realized what it meant. And they threatened to lay rude hands on the new reporter unless he destroyed the item. He did so.

Another Bird-Song A young man who has read of the charms of the lovely Birdie McWhat, and is also enamored of tales of joust and tourney, and the brave knights of the olden days, has entered the lists to rhyme for the maiden's favor. He sings: I am a true and trusty knight I never shirk a goodly fight But spur straight in, with buckler bright, Thou Birdie.

Thy heart is a stronghold fit to see; Perchance, 'tis a problem to find thee. Thy mayhap, the fender will be me, Oh Birdie.

For at the journey of yesterday Thy glance on me, I ween, did stray, Thy deelines love can't but repay, My Birdie.

The author of this verse is yeelp: Sir William de Baynshore.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

WHAT DID PETER MEAN? "Now isn't that a hot bunch?" The above remark dropped from the lips of Mr. Peter Binks the other day when he had scanned the list of mayoralty and aldermanic candidates.

The aforesaid candidates are wondering what Mr. Binks meant by the remark, for as a matter of fact quite a number of them have cold feet.

There is something wrong with the weather bureau. Yesterday's snowstorm was scheduled to arrive next Tuesday, and how it got here a week ahead of time is greatly puzzling the mind of Director Hutchinson. It is now too late to get an exception for next Tuesday, and there is a fear that the day will prove commonplace.

The station was crowded. The outgoing train had not a vacant seat; distracted ladies flew from door to door, tearing their shawls open, and before holding to see if the car contained an empty place for whom it was a necessity that this particular train should not be missed, and who hesitated to admit to being left standing on the platform.

Among these the catching of this train meant much to a tall, slender, brown-coated girl who jumped with agility upon the platform almost as the train started. Entering the car, she opened a book and stood with an expression of determination to stand or die.

She had not closed the door behind her before she recognized in a seat near her a youth who had often given up his seat for her before. She had read a word of her book, and he had risen, with a cheerful smile, and pointed to his vacant place.

In course of time the other passengers alighted, one by one, and these two found themselves almost alone.

It was a glorious autumn evening, about 6 o'clock. She sat in her corner, her head bent over her book, the vivid color of the setting sun turning her brown hair into red gold. He sat in the corner opposite, his eyes riveted on her. She had taken off her gloves and her slim white fingers clasped her book; she sat so that her face was three-quarters toward him, her head bent, and her simple cotton gown falling gracefully about her.

Unaware of his intent scrutiny, she started in surprise when, suddenly moving to the seat opposite her, he spoke.

"I beg your pardon—but would you think it very queer of me if I asked you to let me draw you? Just now, as you sit there?"

She raised her eyes and looked at him. She had considered him a mere ordinary young man, but now she could see a sensitive, dreamy expression in his eyes and around his mouth, that suggested to her a certain something that she could say nothing, and he went on:

"I really wouldn't be a bother to you, you see—and you don't know what it would mean to me."

He had already whipped out notebook and pencil and his long fingers twitched as though anxious to begin.

She looked at him with a chilly smile. "It's a very odd thing to ask," she began icily.

"You know I need not have said anything at all about it. But I did not like to do that—that would have seemed like stealing."

There was something so astonishing in this shy boy becoming bold that the girl laughed in spite of herself.

"Very well," she said, and dropping her eyes on her book, apparently gave it her whole attention as before.

But the book might have been upside down for all she could make of it. The words danced about in front of her, and the sentences jumbled themselves together.

It was with his long fingers that he wrote, and she kept her eyes lowered at all. She longed to see what those clever looking fingers were doing, but she resisted; the train had stopped. She still sat on.

"Oh—don't," came in a voice of such heart-breaking appeal, as she prepared to depart.

"This is my station; I am going," she said, as the train began to move slowly.

"Oh, no, Not just yet," he cried, with a ring of despair in his voice.

Enduring to the very end, the girl looked up at him once more. She would never have thought his face capable of such expression and power. While she looked into his eyes, the train had stopped. She still sat on.

"Oh, dear, yes," she said pushing her chair back quickly.

"I don't think, then, for instance," he went on solemnly, "that we twd—might end in—"

She rose hurriedly, not trusting the expression on the tall boy's face, nor indeed the somewhat rapid beating of her own heart.

"Good gracious no," she said sternly. "I have never been introduced."

There was a second's pause. Then he held out his arm.

"Will you allow me to take you back to the other room, just while I go and fetch one of the reception committees?"

Enduring to the very end, she realized what he was doing, he left her for a moment, returning with a hurried looking gentleman with his hand on his hip, who, after audibly asking both the girls, named her politely:

"Miss Dennison—may I present Mr. Richard Orme to you?" and vanished.

feels his work had on the more or less casual spectators, had suddenly turned his head to the door and seen her come in. She had walked straight to his end of the gallery, and stood motionless before the picture.

He came to her side and with something like an apology for speaking on his face, began:

"Excuse me—but I knew, I felt you would come this evening."

"Do you like her?" asked the young artist, eagerly.

"Not as a portrait of myself," the girl answered.

"Oh, why not?"

"You have used too much of the ideal lady you were thinking of," she answered, "and too little of the flesh and blood me."

He looked from one to the other critically, then, blantly:

"I see what you mean; all the same I don't think so. That is you to me."

They stood before the picture a few minutes longer, then he said: "There are some gems of miniatures in the little room over there; will you come and see them?"

She looked around; her family had wandered away, so she figuratively said, "I am yours," and followed him.

"I really feel I ought to say something about the very unbusinesslike way in which that day last year," he said; "I don't know where to begin."

"Oh, it's all done and done," she said, hurriedly. "It cannot be helped."

"It was an irresistible impulse to draw you," he began.

"Oh! but that's not me," she said firmly; "I really make no pretensions of being that girl. She is far too beautiful, too weirdly beautiful," she finished, frankly.

"I don't quite understand it," she added, reflectively; "there is a mystery in that face, something that I believe will haunt me till I know the meaning. Will you explain it to me?"

"It is unexplainable," he answered, quietly.

"It was a great liberty to take with my face," she said, laughing rather hysterically, "putting ridges into my eyes, and generally I am afraid, speak things all too clearly."

Presently he looked up at her with something of the boyish expression once more on his face.

"It is a curious thing," he said musingly, "the being thrown together in this way. I suppose you would scout the idea of affinity of souls—and all that—"

"Oh, dear, yes," she said pushing her chair back quickly.

"I don't think, then, for instance," he went on solemnly, "that we twd—might end in—"

She rose hurriedly, not trusting the expression on the tall boy's face, nor indeed the somewhat rapid beating of her own heart.

"Good gracious no," she said sternly. "I have never been introduced."

There was a second's pause. Then he held out his arm.

"Will you allow me to take you back to the other room, just while I go and fetch one of the reception committees?"

Enduring to the very end, she realized what he was doing, he left her for a moment, returning with a hurried looking gentleman with his hand on his hip, who, after audibly asking both the girls, named her politely:

The Patent Still and Its Dangers!

It's a startling fact! About 70 per cent. of what is now sold as "Fine Old Scotch" is but a cheap fiery Grain Spirit made by the Patent Still, a machine invented by James Coffey to distil alcohol from any saccharine substance, diseased or damaged corn, by-chemical refuse or the dregs of sugar refineries, and thus to produce what is alleged to be pure Scotch Whisky at about one-third the cost of the Genuine Article. No wonder it works havoc with head and liver, and is said to be the chief cause of the alarming increase in insanity.

Genuine Scotch Whisky

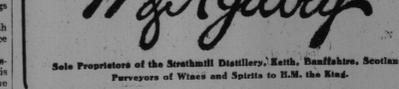

is made in the old-style Pot Still from all-pure malted Scotch Barley, home-grown, washed by the moss-waters of the Highlands, and kiln-dried with peat.

"STRATHMILL" and "Spey Royal" SCOTCH WHISKIES are the oldest and choicest Genuine All-pure Malt Whiskies procurable.

Look at the Labels which will give an absolute guarantee—under Act of Parliament—that the contents of the bottles are strictly all-pure Malt.

CARLETON CURLING CLUB SMOKER

A RIGHT WAY and A WRONG WAY

Many people have many ways to bring about the same result. Most of them are mistaken ways, but this is not known until the test of time points plainly to the error. Practically there are but two ways to accomplish anything; a right way and a wrong way. Take, for instance, a man with a bad back, there are lots of them, and of various kinds, some with sciatica and twinges, others with cricks and twinges; then there's the dull, heavy, continuous kind that lasts all day and doesn't sleep at night. They're all bad enough, they're all hard enough to get rid of. Some people rub the back with liniment, others cover it with plasters, either or both means often bring relief, but the pain comes back—this is the wrong way to cure the trouble.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

have a way to cure backache, a way that's all their own—the right way. They're made for the kidneys only. When the kidneys fail in their work of filtering the blood the back aches because they are situated in the small of the back; backache is the kidney's warning of trouble, and every day you let the warning go it brings you nearer to urinary disorders, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, etc. Doan's Kidney Pills cure every form of kidney ailment and that's why they bring such quick relief from backache. Mr. Fred Gray, Good Corner, N. B., writes: "I was greatly troubled with pain across my back. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received so much benefit from them that I consider them the best remedy for kidney trouble there is. I would not be without them in my house. Price 25 cents per box or three boxes for $1.00, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont."

THE HILL PROJECT The press of Canada is waking up to the magnitude of the project of Mr. J. J. Hill, who seeks to divert Canadian trade from Canadian channels. For example, we find in the Montreal Witness the following:—The operations of J. J. Hill, the American railway magnate, in the Canadian Northwest, which have been looked upon as only an interesting adventure in Canadian development, have suddenly sprung into a question of national importance and the fear is now expressed by responsible Canadians that the Hill invasion may result in Canada waking up one fine morning to find its western trade lost to forever.

WHAT GOES WITH GREY? Now that so much gray is worn, and likely to be worn, it is important to get the color a little, and find out its defects as well as its possibilities. A gray for the matter of that, there are very few grays, except white ones, in which the material is continued up to the hair. Where the complexion is clear, without any tinge of sallowness, especially when combined with dark hair and eyes, gray is usually very becoming, with a touch of white, or of black and white together. Other grays, and some other complexions, require that a touch of color be added to the gray costume.

FIFTY YEARS OF GROWTH

(Utica Globe.)

Fifty years ago, April 4, the New York Legislature granted a charter to a company whose subsequent development must be counted among the most striking factors that have made possible the marvelous progress in every line of human activity during the last half century. After the printing press and the railroad it is the telegraph that ranks in importance among the inventions that have aided in evolving what is known as modern civilization—and it is the oldest and largest telegraph system in the world today.

The Western Union Telegraph Company, whose birth was chronicled April 4, 1856, ten years before that date a trial telegraph line had been built between New York and Washington, and shorter lines between other cities had been attempted. These were operated with rather discouraging results by something like 20 separate companies before the Western Union came on the field, and it was the prevailing sentiment that American telegraphy, as a commercial enterprise, had not proved a success.

The Western Union began with 550 miles of wire among its assets. Ten years later it had absorbed all the telegraph companies in the country and controlled over 75,000 miles of wire. Today, it owns 1,184,000 miles of wire and has the largest telegraph system in the United States, the Postal Telegraph Company. Last year its receipts were nearly $30,000,000.

BIRTH OF THE TELEGRAPH.

Fifty years is a comparatively short space of time for such a remarkable development, yet there are not many telegraphers living who have taken an active part in it from the beginning and who are familiar with the changes necessary to bring about the perfection of the system as it exists today. An exception is A. R. Brewer, secretary of the Western Union, who so early in his career that he has been called the historian of American telegraphy. In speaking of the development of the telegraph in the United States, Mr. Brewer says: It is a singular fact that Prof. Morse did not see a commercial future for his great invention. Telegraphy appeared to him as something that was useful solely to the government. Hence it was the government that looked for aid in introducing telegraphy to the world. That private individuals should see the telegraph as the transaction of their personal affairs was a development that did not occur to him. There was no human experience on which to base such an assumption. But he thought that the government could make use of his novel method for the transmission of messages with advantage when it came to announcing great events, battles, storms, elections, or any happening that had a purely general interest. He therefore showed congress an improvement of the quill instrument that he had made, and a purely general interest in the telegraph was created. It was the government that erected the first telegraph line, which ran from Washington to Baltimore. That was 13 years before the Western Union came into existence. The public

MONCTON NEWS

Young Business Men in Trouble --To do Temperance Work in Ohio.

MONCTON, April 9.—N. Erwin, who has carried on a ladies' tailoring business here for the past year or two, has left town, owing a number of bills. His stock has been seized and is to be sold by sheriff's sale on Saturday.

An up-town barber shop, conducted by a couple of young men, who recently started in business for themselves, has been closed up by the landlord, the proprietors of the place failing to come to time with the rent overdue.

William Geldart, a well known temperance worker of Truro, has been in town for a few days and left today for Ohio to continue work for the Sons of Temperance in that state.

J. Forbes, the I. C. R. engineer's office, who has been in the hospital with an attack of influenza, was taken to his home in Halifax today by his son, Ralph Forbes.

William Wilson, proprietor of the American and Police Office, Chappell returned today from a goose shooting trip to the Shediac shore. They report goose and duck very plentiful, but the weather conditions were against successful shooting. The geese are reported to be very fat, and the Moncton men brought back two of the largest wild geese ever shot on the Shediac coast. Officer Chappell got one weighing fourteen pounds, and Mr. Wilson another thirteen pounds.

Mr. Lodge, Jr., is home from western Ontario where he is engaged on the Temiscaming and N. and O. Railway.

PRESENTATION TO REV. MR. FERGUSON

At a social reunion of the Charlotte street United Baptist church last evening Rev. R. W. Ferguson, the pastor, was made the recipient of a handsome desk and bookcase and leather upholstered office and easy chair as tokens of esteem from the members of the congregation.

F. R. Connor, deacon of the church, presided. The proceedings opened with prayer followed by an address by Rev. F. S. Bamford, pastor of the Ludlow street church. Rev. Mr. Ferguson delivered an address of welcome and a musical programme consisting of grammophone selections and songs by W. Lanyon, Master Edson Morrish and Rev. Mr. Bamford, was received with many signs of appreciation.

Mr. Connor then made the presentation to Rev. Mr. Ferguson accompanied by the following address:

Dear Brother—The members of the Charlotte street United Baptist church and congregation, in their united desire to express their gratitude to you for the many kind words of cheer and comfort you have spoken to us from the sacred desk, but when you have come into our homes as a minister of the gospel, we have always been ready to rejoice when we have had cause to rejoice, and when we have been in trouble or adversity, that have helped us over the hard and difficult places.

You have endeared yourself to us, and now, dear brother, we ask you to accept these tokens of our esteem and love for you as our pastor, and we trust you will accept them in the spirit in which they are given, the spirit of brotherly love and affection—and we also trust that you will accept them as a reminder of the many years of service in spiritual things and that you may see Kingdom upon earth and the up-building of Christ's church and congregation.

Signed on behalf of the members of the church and congregation:

F. R. CONNOR, Deacon.

The thoughtful and lasting expression of good will and affection on the part of his congregation was entirely unexpected by Rev. Mr. Ferguson who briefly and testily replied expressing his thanks and appreciation of the gift. The doxology was sung by all present and after refreshments had been served a pleasant evening was brought to a close.

VALET JONES ADMITTED HE SWORE FALSELY, SAYS WITNESS

New York, April 10.—In the hearing before Recorder Goff to determine whether Albert T. Patrick shall be given a new trial for the Rice murder, Corporal Alexander F. Jones, the valet of William March Rice, had admitted to him that he testified falsely in the trial. Patrick, Sanberry, expecting that the jury would discredit his testimony and allow Patrick to go free, Corporal Jones declared also that Jones had said that if he were sure that he would receive only a light sentence for perjury he would come north and "tell the whole truth."

Sanberry was brought from the Philippines to give his evidence for Patrick. Sanberry testified that Jones was his room mate when he made the admissions.

Rev. A. J. Frouser, pastor of Waterloo street United Baptist church, will leave this evening for Montreal, and expects to be away two weeks.

GORKY AT NEW YORK

Vladimir Lenin

New York, April 10.—"I do not know how long or how short my stay in this country will be, but of this I am sure, that while here I will try to do something for my fatherland."

Gorky received them on the upper deck with his wife and for a moment was quite overcome by the meeting of so many old friends. Then came the turn of the representatives of the press, but at first he declared that he was too tired to say anything. Later on, however, his friends persuaded him to answer a few questions.

It is a very interesting one, considering the people's hate and distrust of the church. In the present revolution the country priests are actual leaders of the people. If the revolution should succeed Russia will go the way America went—that is, a federation. We have so many nationalities in our large empire that a federation of the different separate nations would be the best solution. What will become of the Car in that case? Well, I suppose nothing. One of the most important men in the recent course of events of course was Witte. He is too big a subject to talk about just now. But in our opinion is a scoundrel. The Jews will not suffer in case Russia should become a republic.
