

Memorials of the Founders of Acadia College.

BY S. H. HAYES, Esq.

Who was the founder of Acadia College? Having in view more than an agency the question does not admit of answer. There was no one man to whom the honor can be ascribed...

Let us rapidly recall the names of some who took largest part in the good work and who have gone to their reward. I reckon Dr. Cramp among these. True, he did not help lay the original foundations...

Now let us hasten back to the fountain heads, and glance at the work of a few of the most notable foundation layers who were present from the beginning...

One other name I must mention at some length, that of the Hon. James W. Johnston, lawyer, Queens County, Attorney General, Judge in Equity...

Having said enough, perhaps, to freshen your recollection of this great and good man, so beloved, so justly honored, so affectionately remembered by all his students and thousands besides...

Let us now turn to another train of events. A few years preceding 1828 the old-fashioned gospel came to be preached in St. Paul's church, Halifax. Men were there coming to what we understand to be conversion.

It is a striking story. God has mercy on the widow and the fatherless, on sorrowing friends, on our churches and institutions so sorely bereft.

In June, '28, their number had increased to 40. They sought admission to the Baptist association. Here was a train of events of the most important to the denomination.

It is not like a Christian to stare about during the service, and to be busied in pulling on your gloves and arranging your dress, whilst the last notes of worship are being offered.

It is not like a Christian to leave others to teach the young, and visit and instruct the ignorant, whilst you have an opportunity in the good work.

It is not like a Christian to gauge the amount of contributions by what others give, and to overlook the rule which requires us to give as God has prospered us.

It is not like a Christian to be a self-seeker, or to overlook the rule that we never eat or drink, or whatsoever we do, we are to do all for the glory of God.

Lesson IV. Oct. 28. Josh. 6: 1-16. THE FALL OF JERICHO.

GOLDEN TEXT. By faith the walls of Jericho fell down...

I OFFERS FROM THE CAPTAIN OF THE LORD'S HOSTS... I am a parenthetical clause between the last verse of this chapter and the second verse of this; and vers. 2-5 contain the communication which the Captain of the Lord's host (5: 13-15) made to Joshua.

It was doubtless the eternal Word of God, who nearly fifteen centuries later was manifested in the flesh. It would seem to have been the main purpose of this manifestation to give Joshua a sensible and vivid impression of his superior officer. To the day of his death, let him never be tempted to think of himself as at the head of the army of Israel.

1. Now Jericho was straitly (strictly, closely) shut up. The original expression is peculiar and emphatic. Accordingly the Chal. reads it, "And Jericho was shut up with iron doors fortified with brass bolts, so that none came either to combat or to make offers of peace."

2. And the Lord: the Captain of the host of the Lord (5: 14, 15). After the parenthesis (ver. 1), we have what was said to Joshua at the meeting described in the previous chapter. See, I have given into thine hand. The victory was to be manifestly the gift of God.

3-5. In these verses the great Captain proceeds to tell Joshua in what manner this victory should be obtained. The command is given in these verses in a condensed form, in order, doubtless, to avoid continual repetitions.

APPLICATIONS. 1. Every carnal heart is a Jericho shut up; God sits down before it, and displays mercy and judgment; it is the will thereof. There is a great victory to be gained over sin in our own hearts. God has a right to restrain us. In the heart is a usurper, a tyrant, without a single right. But it is a great work. The difficulty is exceeding great. Of ourselves we cannot conquer. But the Captain of our Salvation has come, and shows how we may subdue this stronghold.

2. The carnal world is another stronghold to be conquered by God's people. It belongs of right to God.

II. THIRTEEN PROCESSIONS AROUND THE CITY OF JERICHO—6. Take up the ark of the covenant. The ark which is the central point of this strange procession. Thus was God honored before both the Israelites and the Canaanites. Seven trumpets of rams' horns: rather, horns or trumpets of jubilee; those by which was made the announcement of the new civil year, and of the jubilee (Lev. 23: 24, 25; 26: 32).

7. Pass on and compass the city: that is, go all around it. Let him that is armed pass on before the ark: as a guard of honor and of defence. The principal weapons were the sword, the bow, the spear, the sling, and the shield. As the procession was armed, the people of Jericho did not dare to attack it.

8. And the rearward came after the ark. A rearward is that portion of an army which, moving behind the main body, gathers up all the stragglers, takes care of any that may faint and fall by the way, sees that neither cattle nor baggage are missing, and protects or covers the rear of the host from the assault of enemies.

9. Ye shall not shout, nor make any noise... until the day I bid you shout. No sign of triumph was to be raised, no words of rejoicing over the foe, nor of consciousness of strength.

10. So they did six days. We do not, with some, think the proceeding was likely to awaken the mirth of the inhabitants of Jericho,—more likely was it to make a solemn impression upon their minds.

OBJECT OF THIS PLAN OF ATTACK. 1. To impress deeply upon the Israelites that it was the omnipotence and fidelity of Jehovah alone which could give into their hand this fortified city, the bastion of the whole land. 2. To exercise Israel in unconditional faith and patient trust in the power and assistance of God. 3. To show to the wicked inhabitants of Canaan that the victory was from the true God in behalf of his children, and thus to be an invitation to them to become his children, and worship and obey him. 4. The delay also afforded time for the news of this extraordinary proceeding to spread through all the country around.

III. THE FALL OF JERICHO.—15. On the seventh day... compassed the city after the same manner seven times. Now the Israelites begin their march very early, with the dawn, because they have to make the circuit seven times.

16. At the seventh time... Joshua said unto the people, Shout. Of course the shouting and the blast of the trumpets had so power to overthrow the broad stone walls of the city, but it consisted the people with the miracle in outward form, to show that only as they were really connected with it by faith would the work be done for them.

Then the walls fell down flat, and every man went up straight before him. They destroyed every person in the city, except Ribai and her family, burned up all that was combustible, devoted the silver and gold to the Lord's treasury, and thus completely swept the city out of existence.

APPLICATIONS. 1. This was peculiarly calculated to show how easily God can make a way for the accomplishment of his own purposes, and for the salvation of his people.

2. All the people's shall shout in order that all may have their part in the victory.

3. By faith only will Christians conquer the world, a faith manifested in obedience to the word of our Captain.

received repeated warnings and instructions. In the general Dilige, in the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah in the holy example of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and Melchizedek, and in the slow advance of Israel from Egypt to this border, attended by miracles which caused them to tremble (Ex. 15: 14-16). 3. God not only sent them these lessons, but he bore with them many centuries in patience, while they abused his grace. 4. If God had not destroyed them they would have destroyed themselves by their own corruption, but not till they had injured many others by their example and influence. 5. It is impossible to acknowledge God as the moral governor of the earth, and not to admit that it may be right, or even necessary, on occasions, for him to remove, summarily, from his dominions a mass of hopeless depravity. Such as these nations had long been. 6. Nor is it any real objection to this view that the innocent children of the Canaanites were indiscriminately slaughtered (Josh. 6: 17, 21). To say no sparing of the practical difficulties which the execution of infants would involve, when the parents generally were put to death, and to pass by the obvious parallel supplied by the wholesale destruction caused, for example, by an earthquake; it is evident that since God's dealings with men do not terminate with this life, he can address heretofore ineffectual arising out of the acts of his providence here.

(II) In relation to the Israelites. 1. It is objected that in commissioning the Israelites to exterminate the Canaanites, God sanctioned cruelty. But if it be sanctioned in cruelty to direct a human agent to execute a lawful sentence against crime, then we are involved in the charge when we elect officers to perform the same duty towards criminals. 2. To employ the Israelites in the execution of the fearful sentence, was adapted to inspire them with awe of the God who had so severely punished, and to prevent their intimacy with the surrounding heathen and the contamination which intimacy would have produced. 3. Had not the Israelites been thus inspired with detestation of idolatry and its attendant immoralities, they would probably have sunk soon into the most degraded heathenism. The sacred books would have been destroyed or corrupted.

(III) In relation to mankind. If the Jews had failed, the world would have been lost. The true religion would have vanished from the earth. Christ would have been impossible. In these contests, on the fate of one of these nations of Palestine, the happiness of the human race depended. The Israelites fought not for themselves only, but for us.

Fettered in Love. Dash was a dog with very short legs, very curly hair, a very stumpy tail and very bright eyes. His nose was so near the ground that when he sneezed it always bumped hard on the floor; and then he would sneeze and sneeze, as if wondering what had hit him.

Dash came late in the winter, and by spring he thought he knew all a dog ought to know. He could bring bones and scatter them about the place, dig deep holes in the newly made garden, and bite the leaves off the grass-roots plants as soon as they were set out.

When warm days came, grandpa, who had given the dog to Tony and Phil and Tom, brought home one day a thing that looked almost like one of mamma's bracelets.

"It is a collar for Dash," he said. It was a cunning little thing of nicely stitched leather, with a brass plate on which was marked Dash's name and address.

"Let me put it on him, please," said Phil, and he put it over to him. Every one was kind to Phil; for he had been hurt in an accident long ago, and had to lie on a sofa all the time.

They brought Dash to him, and he tried to put the collar on. But Dash seemed to have an opinion of his own about collars, for he gave a jump, and rushed out of the room.

When he was brought back after a long chase, grandpa undertook to hold him while Phil slipped the collar on. And then all realized more than before that Dash had four legs and a head, and that they all agreed in a decided objection to the collar; and that they all were very strong for so small a dog. He fought and kicked and scratched until it took the whole family force to hold him quiet enough to lock the tiny padlock with the tiniest of keys.

And the moment he was let loose he sprang away with a sharp little "Wow," and ran around the lawn as if he were crazy. He rolled in the grass, and tried to rub off or scratch off the collar. When he made up his mind that he could not, he hid under a bush, and would not come out, not even when Phil called him.

"Dash's better take it off, as he hates it so, grandpa?" asked Phil.

"No, he must wear it," said grandpa. "He would not be likely to live long without it."

"Why, grandpa, how is that?" asked Tony.

"He cannot know we do it to save his poor little life, for he is only dog. To him it is only a fetter, and he hates it."

"I know, grandpa went on in morose tones, "A father who put fetters and bonds on his own children—fettered much more painful to wear than Dash's collar."

"A father? O grandpa!"

"He did it from a for tender love than we feel for Dash. He sees in his great wisdom that some danger awaits his dear child, so to guard him from it, he binds him fast with a fetter of sickness and suffering very hard to bear."

"You mean like me, grandpa?" asked Phil, looking up. "But why should it be only me, and not the others?"

"Grandpa pressed the little form closer as he went on: "Dash can never know why we put a collar on him. But we shall know some day why our Father thinks it best that some of his little ones should suffer. And we know already that it is done in love. Dash does not know even that."

After a while Dash crept out of his hiding place with a very queer look, and stole up to Phil, who had never teased him as the other boys sometimes did.

"Poor doggy!" said Phil, stroking him softly; "don't you know we wouldn't hurt you for anything?"

Dash gave a little wag of his tail, but still looked as if he thought himself sadly abused. But in another hour he was tearing around with Tony and Tom, only once in awhile stopping to give an impatient tug at his collar. And Phil watched them with a new light in his large, thoughtful eyes. Grandpa's little lesson had made him understand better than ever before that it was a loving hand which had bound the fetter upon him.

WORDS FITLY SPOKEN.—There is a very interesting story about an old gentleman who stopped at a public fountain to take a drink of water. A young lady was ahead of him, but she suddenly turned the old man first, as he thanked her, he said: "I hope you have drunk at the Fountain of Living Water?" Her face flushed, but she did not make any reply. A year afterward, in a distant city, the old gentleman was called to visit a sick lady, who was not expected to live. She smiled on him as he came into the room, and said: "Do you remember me? You asked me once if I had drunk at the Fountain of Living Water. I thought you were dead, then to speak in that way to a stranger; but I never could forget that question. It led me to the Living Fountain, and now I come to you to thank you." This is a true story, and ought to help you and me to understand how easy it is to speak a word for Jesus, if we really want others to serve Him.—Fanny.

The Ladies' Favorite. The new fashion in ladies' hats will doubtless cause a flutter of pleasurable excitement among the fair sex. Why does any one ask,—why does the battle press hard to the very end? Why is it ordained for man that he shall walk, all through the course of life, in patience and strife, and sometimes in darkness? Because from patience is to come perfection. Because from strife is to come triumph. Because from the dark cloud is to come the lightning flash that opens the way to eternity.—Orville Dewey.

Madri, soothing, and healing is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

News Summary.

DOMINION. The Dominion government has appointed Thursday, November 15th, as Thanksgiving day. The S. S. Albatross election has been postponed until the 22nd inst. The late Senator Ross, of Quebec, is said to have left $7,500,000. The receipts of the town of Dartmouth, N. S., last year were $13,900. The town has a balance to its credit of $2,368. The last sales of Nova Scotia apples in England realized $5 per barrel. It is announced that Howard Bligh has been appointed shipping master of Halifax, vice his uncle, A. B. Bligh, recently deceased. Counterfeit $10 bills on the Canadian Bank of Commerce are in circulation. They are clever imitations but the shading of letters comprising the word "Ten" on the face of the note is unlike that on the genuine one. Londonderry, N. S., has been reduced from a port to an outpost of customs. Londonderry and Economy are attached to the Truro office and Five Islands is placed under the control of Parrbro. S-free ships have loaded at Campbellton, N. B., so far this season, and a considerable number of schooners that are loading with cedar, posts, sleepers, etc. This trade has been growing rapidly, until now it has become of no small importance. The steamer Halifax, the pioneer boat of the Canada Atlantic line to run between Halifax, Charlottetown and Boston, has arrived from Glasgow. She is 1700 tons register, 240 feet in length, with engines of 3000 horse power, and averages 15 knots. She has accommodation for 500 passengers, and is magnificently equipped and properly furnished. The hull is built of steel, lighted throughout by electricity, and commanded by Capt. Hill formerly of the Fur seal line. She cost $200,000. Her Halifax agents are Chipman Bros. About one o'clock on Saturday morning a fire originated in Irving and Sherburne's one and a half story building at Point du Chateau, N. B., and before it could be subdued the flames spread to four buildings near by, completely destroying the whole of them. But for the services of a small hand engine, belonging to a vessel in port, the whole block would have been swept out of existence. Messrs. Irving & Sherburne had $500 in insurance on their stock and $600 on their building. The loss is heavy as little insurance was on the other buildings. BIRTHS AND DEATHS. The steamer Baltic sank at her dock in Liverpool, Eng., on the 9th. The disaster was caused by a port being open. The Baltic was loaded with miscellaneous cargo. James Danne, aged 80, evicted from Capt. Singleton's estate, at Louisa, Ireland, died in a barn to which his friends had removed him. Danne had been ejected from the house and placed in the road. Rain and snow have been falling incessantly in Syria for three days, compelling the emperor to remain much of the time indoors. It is rumored that Chief Secretary Balfour has refused to let the military assist in the evictions on the Clairdoon estates. Mr. Henry Campbell, member of parliament for South Fermanagh and private secretary to Parnell, has brought an action against The Times for libel, that paper having stated that he was the writer of the alleged Parnell letters. William Henry Smith, in his speech at Gloucester recently, said Canadians are willing to hide their time because they know, after the presidential election in the United States, they will obtain just and fair treatment of the fisheries trouble. The people of England, America and Canada are too good friends to quarrel over a question of this kind. The British Medical Journal publishes the death details from Sir Morel Mackenzie's book of the case of the late Emperor Frederick. Dr. Mackenzie says the death blow was given the Emperor April 12 when a false passage made by Dr. Bergmann's tube laid on led extensive suppurations around trachea, which steadily drained away the Emperor's remaining strength and shortened his life at least ten months. Except when the false passage was made and Dr. Bergmann thrust his finger into the wound the Emperor never suffered actual pain. UNITED STATES. At Quincy, Ill., a grand stand had been erected to enable some 5,000 people to witness a display of fireworks which occurred there on the 15th. The display began when the supports at one end of the stand gave way, and 800 feet of steel slides over, burying about 500 people. The Philadelphia Baptist Association of Ministers has received a letter from the church of Lower Merion, Delaware county, stating that the church has granted a divorce to Mrs. J. B. Burdette, the humiliated. The public debt of the United States decreased to $1,247,900 last month. The great Chicago street car strike, after lasting nine days, ended on the 15th. The question of wages was compromised, the strikers getting only about one-third the increase asked for. Reports from China say a disastrous flood occurred near Fung Shan Heien, in the vicinity of Pekin, on the night of August 13th. Seven and a half inches of rain fell in Pekin and immense volumes of water collected in a ravine, about Lien Li Ho, and suddenly broke upon 30 villages. More than 10,000 people were drowned and a large number of draft animals. The villages in the valleys near Pekin are in danger every season, as the hills are destitute of trees and the waters flow together in fearful torrents unimpeded by vegetation. The Crooked Pin "It's only a crooked pin—throw it away!" The speaker threw it away, but I stopped to pick it up. I was just then arding a pin, and I looked at it doubtfully, bent it a little straighter with my fingers, and used it for the purpose required. Now I am keeping the strong, straight pin which I was about to use for something else, when a crooked pin might not do. Ah! be a lesson for me to learn I thought I. If we were more alive to things around us, we should be always learning—there is a sermon even in a stone. Everything has a voice, but are we all deaf and self-absorbed that we do not hear. The crooked pin told me this tale: In the church there are many crooked pins—pins which were good and strong, and ready for work until something bent them. Then they were thrown aside as unfit for service. Sometimes, however, we see that a loving hand raises them from the dust, and gently bends them till they are nearly as strong and straight as before, puts them into some niche of service where they are as useful as ever, only needing a little tender care; not fit for the strain of hard, rough work, but forming perhaps, the needed link in some important chain—holding stronger ones together. Let us then be very tender not to wound each other; let us not harden our hearts, and if we do find one so displaced, let us gently strive to set him straight, remembering there is work to be done, even by a crooked pin.—Selected. Messrs. D. McAlpine & Son are now busily engaged at their Province of New Brunswick Directory, which will contain all the names of the male population from 20 years and upward, the business they follow, and their P. O. address, and all females in business throughout the province. It is a large undertaking, and will be a boon to the public. We have had nothing like it for nearly 20 years, and it will be a valuable work for all, especially business men and women. The price is exceedingly low for such a large book, and the advertising spaces are very low, especially as it is to last ten years, the publishers guaranteeing not to publish again for that period. They need all the help they can get to cover expenses. All should support the work, especially by advertising in it, as that is the main source of benefit to the publishers. We hope the business men will rally round the publishers and not let it fall through, and be helped all their chances in the Dominion or states in the Union. Good Blood Makes Good Digestion. Many die because they are not nourished by the food they eat, eating yet starving. Bad blood shows itself in rashes, eruptions, or sores, itching, swollen glands, languor and a feeling of uselessness. Whatever renders the blood impure tends to originate consumption. There can be no heartiness of spirit, no soundness of mind with this or diseased blood. Something must be done when the system is in such a state. A cure is required, and one that works quickly and effectively is the cure that is most required. For making new healthy blood, for sick headaches, watery and restless nights, that tired feeling, poor appetite, mental depression and history trouble, I regard as equal to Bovinine for making new blood and building up an overworked and run down system. Price 60 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Wholesale by T. B. Barker & Sons, St. John, N. B.

Pearline Washing Compound Invented by James Pyle, New York, 1876, Introduced to the Public, 1877. An article to take the place of soap. One which makes clothing, paint, woodwork, in fact anything perfectly clean, with less rubbing, and in less time than anything yet discovered, and which is without absolutely harmless. Above is a diagram of the comparative growth of sales during the last ten years—mark the yearly increase and especially that of 1888, which represents only the first six months of the year. To-day PEARLINE is used in over one million families, from Maine to California. This wonderful growth in the face of many imitations, which are damaging to clothing and paint, and make people regard an honest article with suspicion, is marvelous and can be due alone to merit. A fair trial, which will cost but a few pennies, will make a convert of the most skeptical. See that you get the genuine article, which alone will give satisfaction.
