PETER RIJNHART'S FEARFUL FATE

Meets Death at the Hands of Fierce Mountain Tribes.

His Wife, Formerly Dr. Susannah Carson, of This City, Stoned and Shot At -She Was Chased and Hunted for Two Months-Her Son Dies From Exhaustion.

The following dispatch has been received from Seattle, Washington:

"Advices from the Orient say that a Canadian woman, who joined the China inland mission as the wife of Mr. Rhinehart, a Belgian missionary, has just reached Tachulu, with a terrible story of cruelty and suffering among the fierce mountain tribes of Thibet. Her husband was brutally murdered after her son had died from exhaustion. She was chased like a hunted deer for two months through the mountains on the border of China and Thibet. She was shot at time and again, and pelted with boulders from cliffs overhead, but finally succeeded in reaching a mission. and her husband were attacked while attempting to cross to Thibet. It is thought that the unfortunate lady referred to in the above is Mrs. Peter Rijnhart, formerly Miss (Dr.) Susannah Carson, of Newbury, who practiced medicine in this city for a number of years. Her office was situated at the corner of Wellington street and Queen's avenue. She was at that time a member and prominent worker in the Dundas Center Church, and was also connected with the literary and mission circles of that body.

Mr. Rijnhart is also well known here, where he had lectured on missionary matters. Before his departure for Thibet five or six years ago, he was married to Dr. Carson at Newbury, and since they have been in the far east their deaths have been more than once reported.

Mrs. Rijnhart's many friends in this city and vicinity will be pained to learn of the tragic death of her husband, a zealous and stout-hearted missionary, and of the terrible sufferings that she encountered before reaching a place of safety.

Miss A. Carson, sister of Mrs. Rijn-hart, is at present practicing the medical profession in Newbury.

Death of Prince Alfred, Only Son

London, Feb. 7.—At a meeting of the Liberal members of parliament at the Reform Club yesterday, Right Hon. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, formerly chief secretary for Ireland and late secretary of state for war, was elected to succeed Sir William Vernon Harcourt as leader of the Lib-

The Right Hon. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, member of parliament in the Liberal interest for the Stirling district of Scotiand since 1868, was born Sept. 7, 1836. He is the youngest son of the late Sir James Campbell, and as-sumed the additional name of Bannerman under the will of his maternal uncle, the late Sir Henry Bannerman, of Hunton Court, Kent. He was educated at Glasgow University and Trinity College, Cambridge, and was mar-ried in 1860 to a daughter of the late Gen. Charles Bruce. The new Liberal leader became financial secretary to the war office in 1870; held that position until 1874; was reappointed in 1880, and held the office until 1882, when he became secretary for the admiralty. In 1884 Campbell-Bannerman became secretary for Ireland, and in 1886 and in 1892-95 he was secretary of state for war. Campbell-Bannerman has always been looked upon as a man who had a future before him, and as a person likely to rise to an emergency. He is young-looking and well-preserved. The Irishmen at once time called him the

"Scotch sandbag." As secretary for war he proved himself a capable administrator, and as far back as 1895 his name was mentioned as a likely successor of Sir William Vernon Harcourt, The usual official banquets on the eve of opening parliament were given last evening, with one exception. As the Liberal members of the House of Commons had no official leader until the evening, they did not have a banqueting host. Lord Salisbury enter-tained the Conservative peers, and the Earl of Kimberley, Liberal leader in the House of Lords, entertained the Liberal peers. The Conservative members of the House of Commons dined with Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, while the Liberal-Unionists were the guests of the Duke of Devonshire, lord president of the council of ministers. After the banquets, the Duchess

His mother was the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia. The Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha celebrated their silver wedding on Jan. 23, at Gotha. Prince Alfred was born at Buckingham Palace, London, Oct. 15, 1874. He was a cap-tain of Prussian infantry, and unmarried. He was the only son and heir.

GRIP AT BERLIN. Influenza is rampant in Berlin, and many of the public officials are suffering from the epidemic, including Baron Von Buelow, the minister of foreign affairs. The chief state attorney, Von Mooss, is dead. Prince George of Prussia is recovering. At the last court ball half of the invited guests were unable to attend because they were suf-

SUNDAY SCHOOL TRAGEDY. Biddenden, Kent, Feb. 7.-Bertha Peterson, the daughter of the rector of this parish, shot and killed John Wibley, a teacher in the church Sunday School. The shooting took place in the Sunday School room, just after the regular service, during which Miss Peterson played the organ and also took holy communion. It is supposed to have been the result of a quarrel with Wibley, who had been attentive

LOSS OF THE LONDONIAN.

London, Feb. 7.—The board of trade, in recording judgment in the inquiry into the loss of the steamer Londonian, which foundered at sea on Nov. 25 last, extoll the management and seamanship of the Londonian's officers, and praise the officers and crew of the British steamer Vendome and the North German Lloyd Maria Vickmer for their efforts in saving the lives of a number of those on board the Londonian. The are two of the articles entering judgment exonerates the captain of the composition of Parmelee's the steamer and finds that her steering gear was damaged by the accidental dropping of a piece of waste into the machinery by the carpenter who was drowned. The board also finds that the steamer was not prematurely abandoned, but the loss of life was due to the fact that 25 men, contrary to orders, embarked in a pinnace, which was immediately swamped.

General Advance of U.S. Troops

The Filipino Losses Placed at 2,-000 Killed, 3,500, Wounded and 5,000 Taken Prisoners.

Detailed Description of the Engagements of Saturday and Sunday.

Manila, Feb. 7, 10:30 a.m.-Late yesterday Gen. Hale's brigade advanced and took the waterworks at Singalon. Four companies of the Nebraska Regiment and a part of the Utah battery, with two field guns and two Hotchkiss guns, met the enemy on the hill a halfmile out, and a sharp engagement took place, in which the Nebraskans lost one dead and three wounded. Dr. Young, formerly quartermaster-sergeant in the Third Artillery, was wounded, captured and brutally murdered, and his body when recovered was found to have been horribly mutilated.

FILIPINOS RUN. The Filipinos were driven back, retiring in bad order, and carrying with them valves and heads of the steam chest and cylinder of the pumping machinery. Gen. Overshine's brigade advanced and took Paranaque, capturing two field guns. They met with no opposition. Gen. McArthur's division advanced beyond Gagalangin, without loss, the enemy retreating upon Caloocan. The Americans now have the steamer line to Malabon, and 600 marines, with four Maxims, have been landed at Fleet Beach, north of the city. The Third Artillery, on the main road, and the Utah battery, in a cemetery, covered the advance of the Kansas troops.

IMPORTANT POINTS CAPTURED. Among the important points captured was a strong embrasured earthwork, within sight of Caloocan. There was considerable firing from the upper windows of the houses in the native quarter of the city last night, but no casualties have been reported as the result. The signal corps were compelled to run their lines along the firing line during the fighting, and consequently there were frequent interruptions of communication, owing to the cutting of the wires, and the signal men were ordered to kill without hesitation anyone who attempted to interfere with the HEAVY FILIPINO LOSS. Careful estimates place the Filipino losses up to date at 2,000 dead, 3,500 wounded and 5,000 taken prisoners. The rebels were driven back ten miles. During the fighting the United States warships shelled a train loaded with insurgents. Col. William C. Smith, of the First Tennessee Infantry, was in the thick of the fight, when attacked by apoplexy, and fell from his horse. SUNDAY'S FIGHTING. Owing to the area embraced in the scene of Sunday's engagement, a semicircle of fully seventeen miles, details regarding fighting have been extremely difficult to obtain. So far as can be gathered the brush commenced at 8:45 on Saturday evening by the firing of a Nebraska sentry at Santa Mesa upon Filipinos who were deliberately crossing the line, after repeated warnings, with the evident purpose of drawing our fire. The first shot from the American sentry was followed almost immediately by a terrific fusillade along the entire Filipino line in the north side of the Pasig River. A CHECK.

The American outposts returned the fire with such vigor that the Filipino fire was checked until the arrival of reinforcements. All the troops in the vicinity were hurfied out, and the Filipinos ceased firing for half an hour, while their own reinforcements came

At 10 o'clock the fighting was resumed, the American firing line consisting of the Third Artillery, the Kansas and Montana regiments, the Minnesota regiment, the Pennsylvanians, the Nebraskans, the Utah battery, the Idahos, the Washingtons, the Californians, the Fourth Cavalry, North Dakota Volunteers, Sixth Artillery and Fourteenth Infantry, the South Dakota and Colo-rado regiments. The Filipinos concentrated their processor concentrated their forces at three points, Caloocan, Santa Mesa and Galingatan, and maintained an intermittant fusillade for some hours. They brought artillery into acc tion at Galingatan at 10:30, but only one gun annoyed the Americans to any appreciable extent, a howitzer on the road beyond Santa Mesa. The Third artillery silenced the Galingatan battery by firing two guns simultaneously, which was followed immediate ly by volleys from the infantry.

About midnight there was a lull in the firing lasting until 3:45 a.m., when the whole Filipino line reopened fire. The Americans poured a terrific fire into the darkness for 20 minutes, and then there was another lull until day-light, when the Americans generally advanced. DEWEY'E SHIPS THREW SHELLS, During the night, in response to Rear Admiral Dewey's signals Hashed across from Cavite, the United States cruiser Charleston and the gunboat Concord, stationed at Malabon, poured a deadly fire from their secondary battery into the Filipino trenches at Caloocan. After daylight the United States double-turreted seagoing monitor Monandnock opened fire ox Malate, and kept shelling the Filipinos' left flank, while the other vessels shelled the en-emy's right flank for several hours. By 10 o'clock the Americans had apparently completely routed the enemy, and had taken the villages of Palawpong, Santa Mesa, Paco, Santana, San Pedro, Macorte, Pandocan and Pasal, had destroyed hundreds of native huts and had secured possession of the watermain and reservoir, a distance of over six miles. The Tennessees joined the firing line at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning and assisted in capturing Santa Mesa.

A NOTABLE INCIDENT. One of the most notable events of Sunday's work was driving the Filipinos out of their by the reserve, a few companies of Californians commanded by Col. Dustronghold at Paco boce. The main road to the village was lined by native huts full of Filipino sharpshooters. After they had been firing upon General King and his staff, killing a driver, and firing on an ambulance of the Red Cross Society, Col. Duboce ordered the huts to be cleared and burned. Thepinos concentrated in Paco Church and convent, where they made a determined stand in the upper stories. A platoon of Californians stationed on a neighboring bridge maintained a hot fire on the Filipinos, but was unable to dislodge them. In the face of a terrible fusillade, Col. Duboce and a few volunteers dashed into the church, scattered coal oil inside of it, set fire to the oil and retired. In the meantime Capt. Dyer's battery of the Sixth artillery bombarded the charged into the church, but were unable to ascend the single flight of steps leading to the story above. REBELS SMOKED OUT. After the incendiaries had retired a company of the Idahos and the Washington guards stationed on either side of the building picked off the Filipinos as they were smoked out. Many of the rebels, however, escaped into the brush in the rear of the church. The Americans captured 53 of the rebels, and dur-

DEAD-STREWN FIELDS.

Another intensely exciting incident occurred during the engagement. The Washingtons and Idahos and Companies K and M of the Californias made charges across the rice fields between Paco and Santana in the face of a terrific fusillade. The ground today over which they passed is covered with dead and wounded natives. The former are being buried in groups of five or six, about where they lay, and the latter are being brought to the hospital. It was at this stage of the fighting and at

The city council met last night and transacted a pile of business. The majority of the motions of which notice was given at the previous meeting were carried through. The stonecrushing contract scheme received its deathblow, and some other matters were discussed vigorously. The proposed amendment to bylaw No. 771, whereby the city clerk will receive registration fees, was passed, and Secreplace of City Clerk Kingston during the latter's vacation.

Ald. Garratt put a motion which will, if carried out, prove a terror to tramps and idlers. He proposed that the mayor and chairman of No. 2 committee interview Sheriff Cameron with a view to securing an arrangement whereby stone could be broken by tramps and vagrants who are continually being sent to jail.

MANUFACTURERS' COMMITTEE. Ald. Wilkey's motion to strike a manufacturers' committee, composed Ald. Rumball, Jolly, Graham, Wilkey, McCallum, secretary of the board of trade and E. N. Hunt, was discussed at some length. Ald. Wilkey thought the council had never taken the interest in the matter it should. He did not think the council could do too much for the manufacturers, notwithstanding many people were opposed to fixed rates, etc. He instanced the Bennet Manufacturing Company, which was given ten years' exemption, when they first started here, and was a good inas vestment. A committee such he advocated might be of incalculable without discussion. benefit to the city, and cost nothing. He instanced Brantford as an example of what a manufacturers' committee was capable of doing. Notwithstanding the removal of the car shops and other industries, there was not a vacant house in that thriving city. The London tool works might have been kept here if the council had had a little forethought. Ald. O'Meara protested against any

Ald. Douglass thought it was nothing more or less than some scheme to increase the staff, and asked Ald. Parnell why Mr. Ironside was not appointed street commissioner two years ago. Ald. Parnell said he had always adrocated that, and if it had been done the stone-crushing would not have cost so much last year. The matter was referred to No. 2. Ald. Garratt proposed that the north end of the city should be better pro-tected against fire than now, and moved to empower No. 3 committee to have plans and specifications prepared, with the estimated cost of erecting a fire hall up north. Carried.

LEGISLATION COMMITTEE. The proposition of Ald. McPhillips to establish a legislation and reception ated companies of legislation either by the Dominion or Ontario Governments that would be injurious to the city. By way of illustration, he read a clipping from The Advertiser, stating that the street railway company had applied for an amendment to their charter. had heard nothing about it, and if a legislation committee were appointed these things could be remedied.

Ald. O'Meara-"That would be a regular excursion committee, and a continual bill of expense." He moved to insert a clause that no money be paid to the committee except by vote of the

Ald. Douglass said he had seen enough of special committees after the work of the hospital committee, which expended $30,000 or $40,000 more than they had any license to spend.

Ald. Plant did not think it was necessarily a jaunting committee, and said he was opposed to deputations of all kinds

Ald. Winnett thought the scheme a good one. What was everybody's business was nobody's business. Legislation was often slipped through the house, which might be prevented, if

Ald. Jolly took the opportunity to tell Ald. Douglass that the hospital committee might easily be as proud of the past year's record as the board of Ald. McPhillips' motion carried, Ald.

Plant, O'Meara, and Douglass voting nay.

Ald. McPhillips' motion to memorialize the Ontario Government at the present session, praying that the municipal act be amended by reducing the property qualification of voters from $400 to $200 was carried.

Ald. Plant supported this motion, as he was of opinion that under the present qualification there was much injustice. Ald. McPhillips' notice re consideration of the market improvements and local improvements was laid over.

Alfred Hall and Henry Williams, two tary James Bell appointed to take the draymen, petitioned for the remission of a $2 fine imposed by the police magistrate for an alleged infraction of the city bylaws. They protested against the prosecution, and claimed unfair treatment at the hands of the magistrate, who, they claimed, would not allow them to produce evidence of their innocence. On the day they were alleged to have left their horses and drays unattended at the dray stand, they were not near the place, and an affidavit to this effect accompanied the petition

In advocating compliance with the request, Ald. O'Meara thought the by-law would stand remodeling, and said that he knew many draymen who found it hard to support their families without paying fines.

Ald. Douglass thought it was time for a change. When the bylaw was passed, years ago, the fee was fixed at 25 cents. Draymen now had to travel twice the distance, and received no The matter was referred to No. 1

The first item to create discussion in the board of work report was a recommendation to pay Contractor Gould $106 for lumber left in the sewer on Ann street, under the C. P. R. track, in accordance with the order of the sewer inspector. The account will be Pritchard moved that Mr. Ironide retain his present position.

Ald. Garratt thought the matter also that the city will pay one-third the total cost of all such improvements was proposed by Ald. Jolly. He con-tended the city should not pay onethird of the permanent improvements. By this principle the poor man paid for a third of the rich man's improvements. In the cases of sidewalks he argued that any persons desiring a permanent walk should be exempted to the amount of a plank walk. He had been informed by the city solicitor that the frontage tax system could not be introduced without legislation. Ald. O'Meara couldn't see it this way, and claimed that the poor people were equally benefited. If the owner of a small property wanted improvements the rich man had to pay a

The engagement of Architect J. M. Moore to examine the city hall with the engineer and special committee brought up the old story that there were enough engineers round the city hall now. STONE CRUSHING CONTRACT. The proposal to accept the tender of W. J. Craig for crushing and delivering stone (his own crusher to be used) at $4, and also that the city shall have the option of accepting Craig's tender at $6 50, for supplying, crushing and delivering stone, was knocked on the head. The city will do its own work in this line.

Ald. Pritchard asked if that were the lowest tender, and Ald. Douglass replied that there was one for $2 65, but this was for crushing stone with city crusher. He moved that this be accepted.

Ald. Parnell moved that no action be taken in the matter, and that the work be done under the supervision of the engineer. He was a strong advocate of day labor wherever practicable, and this was one of the occacommittee came in for some hard sions where the city should do its knocks. Ald. He pointed to the fact against the introduction by incorporthat in 1897 stone was crushed and laid down on the street for $5 60 per cord, and last year it had cost $8 51, because there were too many foremen, entailing an expenditure of a large amount of money that might have been better employed. If the work were given to contractors there was nothing to prevent them crushing it in the quarries or anywhere they wished, and thus rob the poor laboring classes of a chance of employment in the (Applause from spectators.) Ald. Douglass, chairman of the board of works, accused Ald. Parnell of making a song about nothing, and asked how it was that he (Ald. Dougcould lay down macadamized roads for 10 cents per square foot last year when the year before they had cost Ald. Parnell 19 cents.

Ald. Parnell said that might be. There were a hundred ways in which that could be done. The streets were narrower, and it would all depend on how great a depth of stone were used. Ald Douglass said the streets were the same width and the work had been done the same way that Ald. Parnell did it. He believed in paying fair wages, and accused Ald. Parnell of trying to make capital out of that fact. "The workingmen know me," he continued, addressing the sixth ward allifetime. I paid out $12,000 in one month when I was contracting. I'll put up $500." and the speaker warmed up as he said it, "that I can do any work as cheaply as you can." The engineer was sent for, and Ald. Parnell asked him what the price for stone was in 1896, 1897 and 1898. The engineer could not remember what the figures were in 1896, but in 1897 they were $5 60 per cord; in 1898, $8 51. He attributed the increase to some extent to the employment of more men than were really necessary.

Ald. Winnett thought it a queer proceeding that after the city had been put to the expense of obtaining facilities for the work that the same members should now want the work done by contract.

Ald. O'Meara wanted to know if the cott, of No. 3 ward, was read by the council were aware that there were 30 or 40 human stone crushers now at an alderman should have been compel-led to retire from the council. Ald. Parnell's motion carried. FINANCE COMMITTEE.

An account for $12 from William Bernard was questioned. The mayor explained that this was for two young men whom the street railway company had brought here to work during the recent strike, but who, when they learned the state of affairs, would not go to work, and, having no money, they came to him. He had provided for them until they heard from friends. The account was ordered paid, but not without a protest from Ald. Jolly, who thought the car company should pay it.

The committee recommended that the letter of D. C. Macdonald re distribution of medals to veterans of 1866 and 1885 by his excellency the governorgeneral, be referred to the Western Fair board. The representatives to the board from the council were given charge of the matter, and will endeavor to have Lord Minto open the fair here this year.

John Johns, an old pensioner of the British army, was found dead in bed at the King street east mission, Toronto, Monday morning. Johns had gone to sleep in the mission room, which provides very cheap lodgings, and died during the night. He was about 55 years of age, and very dissipated.

Judge Robt. S. Woods, junior judge of Kent, and Mrs. Woods, on Monday, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. The members of the legal fraternity presented a congratulatory address, and a deputation of citizens, headed by Mayor T. A. Smith, also presented an address and two easy

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH

At the Opening of the Imperial Parlia ment-Pacific Relations With Foreign Countries.

London, Feb. 7 .- The Queen's speech at the opening of parliament today makes the usual reference to the pacific relations existing between Great Britain and foreign countries, and deals with the recent operations in the Soudan, with the affairs in Crete, expressing the hope that the Cretan question is in a fair way of solution by the appointment of Prince George of Greece as high commissioner of the powers in Crete. The speech also refers to the invita-tion to attend the czar's peace conference which has been accepted, and contains a very sympathetic reference to the assassination of the Empress of Austria. It mentions the Anarchist conference at Rome, and the probable necessity for the alteration of the law of Great Britain with respect to Anarchists is foreshadowed.

The speech then expresses great concern at the fact that the plague continues in certain localities of India and pays tribute to the efficacy of the measures taken to extirpate it and to the devotion of the officials.

Cape Colony is complimented upon its patriotism, as demonstrated in the recent vote for naval defense, and there are very sympathetic allusions to the disaster in the West Indies. Finally the speech announces that bills will be introduced for the municipal government of London and for the promotion of secondary education, etc.

Why Not Free Coal?

There has been a great deal of talk about lumber and pulp in connection with the International Conference, now meeting at Washington. But we have not seen much about coal. Yet we know of few things more material to the interests of Ontario than free coal. Geographical reasons make this Province dependent upon the American The centers of Canadian coal production - the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia-are too far distant to enable Canadian coal to be laid down in Ontario to any appreciable extent. Anthracite coal, of course, we no people in the world more faithfulimport free, but the burden of the duty on bituminous coal falls chiefly on this Province. In 1897 the importation of bituminous coal into Canada from the Khartoum, to turn them away from United States amounted to 1,543,476 their ancient faith. On the contrary, tons, valued at $3,254,217, of which Ontario took 1.450,667 tons, valued at $3,-The coal duties collected from the whole Dominion were $924,718.59, of which Ontario contributed $870,559.81.

The coal tax is a heavy drag on the manufacturing and producing interests of Ontario. By all means let our com-

The Peace Treaty.

The Spanish-American peace treaty managed to squeeze through the Senate by the narrow majority of one, a two-thirds vote being required for its ratification. It provides for the payment of $20,000,000 to Spain, for relinquishing the Philippines. Judging by recent events, Spain, for once, has the advantage. The treaty does not commit the United States to any line of action with respect to the islands, but the belligerency of the natives will determine the American Government to hasten the process of "benevolent assimilation" by sterner measures than were at first thought necessary or desirable. It is doubtful if President McKinley and his advisers have hitherto had any clear conception of what should be their next step in the Philippines; but Aguinaldo has decided that point for them. The Americans cannot pull out now. That would be a confession of weakness which American pride will not submit to. The natives must be subdued by force of arms or won over by diplomacy, if the United States is to redeem its pledge to give the Philippines a stable government. The prospect is not inviting. The task will be long, onerous, and perhaps sanguinary. But if we mistake not, American patriotism will see it through to the Criminal Treatment Here and Elsewhere.

Every now and again a statement is made by some irresponsible journal, that the administration of law in Cangoing to the dogs. This is an ill-warranted assumption, bejudges sometimes disagree in their decisions, and because insane men and women are not hanged - as they have never been under British rule. The outcry is worse than foolish.

Judges have disagreed from time to time in all ages, and it is the British idea of law and justice not to hang a man or woman who is insane, or, indeed, any person of whom a trial judge has reported that he has reasonable doubts as to guilt. This is the principle upon which the prerogative of mercy is exercised in Great Britain, and has been exercised for over 200 years, and there is no outcry in the motherland in consequence. What ground is there for an outery in Canada? If the number of hangings in proportion to the convictions for murder is to be the criterion, the resort to capital punishment for murder is really more general in Canada than in Great Britain, which the world has been accustomed to accept as the country in which the criminal law is best administered. But the conclusion that the administration of the law in regard to murder is to be judged by the number of persons who are hanged in proportion to the number originally found guilty, would not always be a reliable one, for every case must stand upon its own merits.

The logical conclusion from the remarks of some of our contemporaries is that if their crude ideas as to admintration of justice were carried out, there would really be no exercise of the prerogative of mercy. Yet those who have had to do with the administration of justice in well-governed countries know that if this prerogative had not existed in the past many a criminal from about twenty-eight million would have escaped by means of a pounds in 1880 to fifty-six million verdict of "not guilty." The verdict "guilty, with a recommendation to mercy," has generally been interpreted by juries to mean that they found the prisoner guilty, but considered he tion of the extreme penalty to penal

We are prepared to explicitly deny the statement contained in a letter to our city contemporary, the Free Press, slander which has been assiduously circulated by a few persons in the community for reasons best known to

It is perfectly true that the college at Khartoum is to be non-denominational, and it is non-denominational faith, and those who are Mohamme-Christian bodies. Does any man supthat a college could be established which would be made available for the Mohammedan population, who number ninety-nine one-hundredths of the United States and the like countries those who will, in the first instance, be attendants at the college, if Christian teaching, as distinguished from Mohammedan, were introduced? There are ly devoted to their religion than the Mohammedans. It is not proposed, by establishment of a college at the pledge was expressly given to them by the Sirdar, on behalf of her Majesty, that this was not the aim of establishing the institution. The aim is to enable the native population to speak the English language, to make them loyal British subjects, to make them more industrious and law-abidmissioners provide for free coal if they ing citizens, having a greater regard for the rights of each other than they have hitherto shown; and to introduce religious instruction of any kind into the institution would have the practical effect of excluding its benefits from those who will constitute at least 90 per cent of the attendants.

It is a pity that anonymous correspondents should be allowed to prejudice the achievement of the object which Lord Kitchener has in view, and to attempt to defeat the request for subscriptions to the Gordon Memorial College fund, which has been made to Canadians by his Excellency the Gov-

Sir R. Griffin on British Trade.

Sir Robert Griffin the other day delivered a very searching and instructive paper on British trade, before the Royal Statistical Society. He dealt particularly with the excess of imports which pseudo-economists profess to view with alarm. Sir Robert pointed out that the excess of British imports over exports had risen from thirtyseven million pounds on the average of the three years 1854-6 to about one hundred and twenty million pounds on average of the three years and to one hundred and forty million pounds on the average of the three years 1893-5. The average at the present time was still higher-about one hundred and sixty million pounds.

Sir Robert proceeds to account for this excess in several ways. In the first place exports are always valued at the place of departure and imports at the place of arrival, because the imports have added to them the cost of conveyance from the country which they Consequently the aggregate value of imports of the different countries of the world is greater than the aggregate value of exports. But the chief reason for the excess of imports in Great Britain is the fact that Great Britain is a ship-owning country, and does a large business all over the world carrying goods and passengers. In addition, England is a country which earns largely commissions of different kinds in its trade with different countries as the commercial and monetary center of the world's trade. Last of all, England is one of the countries which has become entitled to the receipt of large interest and profits from other countries on account of capital which it has invested, and business which it carries on, in such countries, including the sums receivable by English subjects in the service of a dependency like India. In these various ways it is not difficult to compute that large sums are receivable by Great Britain which entitle it to an excess of imports in its trade with other countries. In 1882 it was estimated that the sums so receivable were about sixty million pounds annually for the earnings of ships, about sixteen millions pounds annually for commissions, and from seventy million pounds to seventy-five million pounds annually for interest and profits. The corresponding figures now are estimated to have increased, the earnings of ships to over seventy million pounds, commission to eighteen million pounds, and interest and profit probably to about ninety million pounds. In 1882 the British shipping fleet amounted to fourteen million tons; now it is twentyeight million tons. This accounts for and become acquainted. the increase in revenue from that source. Increase in interest and profits receivable from abroad is evident in the increase in income tax returns, pounds in the last year. Looking to foreign countries, it is found that France and Germany are both countries with an excess of imports, but in France this has diminwould be best punished by a commuta- ished in the course of the last sixteen years. The explanation is no doubt that France differs from the United Withdraw the prerogative of mercy, Kingdom in not having a large and and there would be failures of justice increasing mercantile fleet, and also in and mayhap lynching, as in the United having a stationary population, so that States. We prefer the British system, the imports into France have not the which has been in force these many same cause of increase as they have in of 25,000,000 francs, while the exports years, and satisfies all except a few England, and the real increase that may have occurred is concealed by the has lately commenced, and is likely enough to increase. In the United prosperity. States, on the contrary, there is a great excess of exports, which has and sigged "Observer," retailing a increased very much during the last year or two. This excess of exports is accounted for in various ways, principally by the fact that the United States is both an indebted country, so that it has interest to remit to European countries, and also that it has to pay, principally to England, for the conveyance of goods and passengers in the foreign trade. To such countries as between those who are of Christian as Brazil and India Great Britain sends a great excess of exports, and these dans, as well as between different are countries again from which countries like the United States and France receive an excess of imports. All this indicates the existence of what is known as a triangular trade, so that send Great Britain really an excess of exports in order to pay for the excess of imports they receive from other countries, the differences being finally adjusted in London. Sir Robert points out that although British exports are not increasing as rapidly as in the ten years between 1857 and 1867, or the following ten years, yet they have always been increasing when we take a long period into account and allow for the great changes caused by the fall in prices. Great changes have also been made in the nature of the exports, coal and shipping having increased prodigiously as compared with wool, cotton and iron manufactures which used to hold first place. Other changes have also taken place, such as the great development of business in South Africa. It is obvious, therefore, that in a widely extended trade, with constant changes going on, there must be some adverse change in detail to permit of room for the change of an opposite kind in other directions. Sir Robert's concluding remarks on this point were as follows:

"It leads to the suggestion that some of the complaints as to the falling off of our foreign exports in certain directions and the cause of it may not be quite well founded. May not the explanation of many of these complaints be in part that, as our trade cannot develop equally in all directions, our merchants and manufacturers have let slip the trade in certain directions where they could not maintain the rate of wages and profit which they were earning in other directions? Their energy and capacity generally have, however, not failed them, as is witnessed by the general prosperity of the country. * * Without a general survey of trade, no opinion can be justified to the effect that a decline of English trade generally has begun or is at hand. The decline appears improbable, because with abundant capital and energy people can exchange with each other indefinitely, can make and consume what they most require, and to a country like England, with a large credit in foreign countries, this would be sufficient to insure all that they can want from abroad and ample prosper-

It is to be feared that many people in England will enter more heartily into the church row than they ever did into the church work.

The street railway mileage of the United States increased from 15,718 to 17.291 in 1898. This represents a lot more water in the stock.

The fact that General Shafter weighs over 400 pounds, and that Gen. Miles doesn't think much of him, lends color to the suspicion that Miles was partly driving at Shafter when he referred to embalmed beef.

Some Canadian editors still seem to think that the public can be interested in their personal disputes. There never was a greater fallacy. What the public desire is legitimate news and seasonable comment on it.

The Hamilton Spectator and Times are disputing over the usefulness or uselessness of what is known as the Canadian Press Association. Each is partly right. While of little practical use, it affords an opportunity, if they choose to avail themselves of it, for those engaged in the business to meet

> Even in the old City of Quebec there will this year be a building boom, according to the Chronicle, the Conservative organ. In London, house property on good streets, and in choice neighborhoods, has never in non-boom times been better value than it is now. Lots on residential streets anywhere near the center of the city are also getting very scarce. A few years ago, for example, there were many available building places on Queen's avenue; now there is scarcely one west of Adelaide street, and so it is on all choice residential streets, within ten minutes' walk of the center of the business part of the city.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Our Pea-Fed Hogs. [Montreal Herald.]

Fears for the quality of Canadian bacon because American corn comes duty-free into Canada can easily be excessive. Pea-fed pork, of which so much is being said in Conservative papers, does not mean, and never meant, that Canadian hogs are fed altogether on peas. It means that they are "finished" on peas, while the American corn furnishes a cheap and good feed for the earlier stages of the hog's brief and gourmandizing existence. American pork is both fattened and finished on corn. Hence the advantage possessed by Canadian bacon.

> Too Much Politics, [Winnipeg Free Press.]

An interesting editorial appears in The London Advertiser discussing the connection between national life and the taste in national literature, based on an article by Mr. Gosse on "The Literature of Action." It is gratifying to find in a daily paper an article on some other subject than politics. The successful newspaper will avoid the great error of dishing up politics in every editorial article. As it is, the readers of many daily papers must often curse the stupidity of the edi-The unfortunate reader who has party politics ground into morning, noon and night is told that he has to take the dose during a campaign for obvious reason, and when he looks for rest between elections he is told that is the time to educate the public in the right direction, the right direction being, of course, in the support of the party of which the paper is the ally.

The Oil Trust.

[Petroleum Gazette, Titusville, Pa.] Have the railroads of Canada lent their assistance to the oil monopoly in an effort to control absolutely the oil business of that country? Are the people of Canada to be compelled to buy oil of one purchaser hereafter? These are questions which should alike concern the independent refiners of this country and the dependent consumers over the border. They ought both to be vigilant, lest the old weapon of death to competitive business be brought to bear in Canada as it has so effectively in this country. We refer to discriminating freight rates—the "smokeless" but deadly rebate. Indeed, it may now be too late, for independent refining interests of Canada, at Petrolia, Sarnia and elsewhere have been absorbed by the trust, and freight rates are already dancing. The effect will be to shut out independent American oil. Whether the people of Canada will submit to such railroad outrages tamely or make an effort to have justice done remains to be seen.

HALF BLIND FROM ECZEMA

Three Children Afflicted. Whole Bodies and Faces Sore, Raw and Bloody Mass.

Tried Doctor after Doctor for 20 Months Without Slightest Relief. Crying Constantly.

Couldn't Sleep. Tried CUTICURA. First Application Gave Relief. Cured in Fourteen Days.

My second child got eczema when seven months old. Three months later my first child got it, and following him, the last one, two years old, fell a victim. For twenty months they suffered fearful agony. Their whole bodics, especially their faces, were so sore and raw that the little ones were blind half the time. No words can describe the suffering of my second child, whose whole body was one bloody mass. He was constantly crying, could get no sleep, and he actually did not look hu-man. I tried doctor after doctor, but none afforded the slightest relief. I decided to try CUTICURA. The first application brought relief in each case, and after fourteen days' treatment with CUTICURA SOAP and CUTI-GURA (ointment), the worst case was cured, and the whole neighborhood is surprised at the wonderful effect of CUTICURA. I continue the use of CUTICURA SOAP for the children, because it makes the little ones look splendid.

Nov. 28, 1898. Mrs. Annie Ring,

Death of Mr. John Carr, Who Was Injured by a Falling Tree.

Tilsonburg Wedding-Port Elgin Couple Have Lived 65 Years Together-Sudden Death of a Harrow Resident.

Bogus spectacle peddlers are said to be swindling Kingsville people. Bailiff Ludlow, of Brantford, was thrown out of a rig recently and badly injured. Some of the Huron township councils are experiencing difficulty in persuading their indigents to go to the House of Refuge.

John W. Carr, a farmer residing near St. Thomas, died Friday night from the effects of injuries received while at work in the lumber woods. Deceased was a highly respected man. The Huron Medical Association met at Clinton on Tuesday. The election of officers was held, and Dr. McKenzie, of Monkton, was elected president; Dr. Graham, of Clinton, vice-president, and Dr. Hunter, of Goderich, secretary. It is not often that husband and wife live together 65 years, but that is Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bricker, of Port Elgin, have done. Until lately they both enjoyed excellent health. Bricker is now over 90, and has been rather poorly this winter. On Tuesday Mrs. Rachel Cascadden, nother of Mrs. W. D. Morse, died at her son-in-law's residence at Aylmer in her 82nd year. Mrs. Cascadden had been one of the old residents of that locality, and had for some time made her home with her daughter and sonin-law there.

Tilsonburg Liberal: Dr. S. Joy went away quietly last week and was married at Niagara Falls, N. Y., to Miss Allemand, daughter of the late Mr. F. Allemand, of Eden. Dr. and Mrs. Joy returned home on Friday and are now receiving the hearty congratulations of their many friends.

Mrs. Gilbert Beman, of Harrow, died very suddenly Thursday night. She retired to bed as usual, but got up about 11:30 to attend to her baby, and while moving around the room dropped dead. She had been troubled with neuralgia for some time, which took effect in her heart, causing death. She leaves a husband and three children, the baby only about nine months old. J. E. Muhfeld, the newly-appointed master mechanic of the Grand Trunk system west of St. Clair River, has arrived in Port Huron and assumed the duties of the position. Mr. Muh-feld was formerly in the employ of the Wabash Railway, and is said to be a very capable and popular official. Mrs. Mary J. Verity, widow of the late W. H. Verity, of Brantford, died on Friday after a long illness. Mrs. Verity, who was 66 years of age, refor some time in Exeter, where her husband laid the foundation of the chief industries in Brantford. A large family survives. Mr. Ken McFadden, ledger-keeper at the Merchants' Bank, Brampton, has left for Berlin, where he will have a similar position. Mr. Fred, Embury has been promoted to the place made vacant by the removal of Mr. McFadden, and M. W. J. Watson, of Toronto, will be the new man. Mr. Ruttan, of Berlin, has been sent to Owen Sound.

Mrs. Maria Elliott, relict of the late Andrew Elliott, who died at Port Stanley three years ago, passed away Saturday morning at St. Thomas. Deceased had been ill nine days with paralysis. She was 62 years of age. She was born in Ballingsloe, Ireland, and came to this country 42 years ago, and had lived here since the death of her husband. She leaves six children: John, M. C. R. fireman; William, West Lorne; Robert, G. T. R. fireman; Mrs. John Dean, city; Mrs. Walter Leveridge, Hamilton, and Mrs. O. Hunsberger, St. Thomas.

Night Coughs.

Terribly wearing on the system is the Cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it's a constant Cough, Cough, that won't be quieted.

Sometimes a choked-up stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible. Whatever it may be, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy that cures.

Here's what Mrs. Fred Laine, St. George, Ont., says about it: "My little girl would cough so at night that neither she nor myself could get any rest. I read about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thought I would try it. I am thankful to say it cured her Cough quickly, and now we use no other Cough remedy in our house."

their heaviest losses.

IN A TIGHT PLACE. The Fourteenth regulars were in a particularly tight place near Singalon, and Col. Duboce was compelled to rush past them with the reserve in order to prevent the regulars from being cut off. In the last line twelve men were killed before the rebels retired.

Both sides cheered frequently during the engagement. The American "hurrahs" were almost invariably met by derisive "vivas." Among the natives the Ygorotes were especially noticeable for their bravery, about 700 of these naked savages facing artillery fire with their bows and arrows.

SCENES IN MANILA.

The scene at Manila when the alarm was given on Saturday night was wildly exciting. The American soldiers in the theaters and at the circus were called out, the performances were stopped, Filipinos scurried everywhere, and the rattle of musketry and the booming of cannon outside the city was plainly heard. The residents of the outskirts of Manila flocked into the walled city with their arms full of articles. All the carriages disappeared as if by magic, the street cars were stopped, the telegraph lines were cut, and the soldiers hurriedly but silently marched out of the city to the stations assigned to them. The stores were closed almost instantly, foreign flags were soon to be seen flying from windows, and a number of white rags were hung out from Filipino huts and houses.

WATCHING THE BOMBARDMENT. On Sunday immense crowds of people visited the water front and gathered in the highest towers to watch the bombardment. There were no street cars or carriages to be seen, and the streets were almost deserted.

The Minnesota troops, acting as police, searched every native and arrested many of them, with the result that while there were several attempts to assassinate American officers on Saturday there were none on Sunday. Absolute order was maintained.

The United States flagship Olympia steamed across the bay on Sunday and took up a position near the German cruiser Irene and the British cruiser Narcissus, off the Mole. She is still has not yet been submitted for publication, and it is impossible, owing to the fact that the regiments are scattered, to obtain a reliable list except from headquarters.

Two Filipino commissioners from Iloilo and four rebel officers were arrested here after boarding the steamer Uranus. Many suspects have been arrested in various parts of the city. CASUALTIES ON THE AMERICAN SIDE.

The second bulletin received from Gen. Otis continued the list of casual-ties in the Manila fight. The general seems to have summarized all of the killed in the second bulletin in addition to the eight mentioned as killed in the first bulletin along with the wounded. Th second bulletin contains a list of 32 dead, making in addition to the previous bulletin a total of 40 killed in the battle of Saturday night and Sunday.

THE NAVY'S LIGHT LOSS. The Dewey dispatch this morning, stated that two men had been seriously injured on the Monadnock, raising the total list of wounded for the navy to eleven for the entire war in the far east. The dispatch is taken by the officials to indicate a renewal of the attack, as Dewey's first dispatch stated positively that there was no casualties in the navy The war department feels no doubt of the ability of Gen. Otis to handle the situation without further assistance.

His Wife Tells Her Terrible Story.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 7.-A beautiful Canadian who joined the China inland mission as the wife of the Rev. Rijnhart, a Belgian missionary, has just reached Tachieulu with a terrible story of cruelty and suffering among the fierce mountain tribesmen of Thibet.

Her husband was brutally murdered, and her son died from exhaustion. Their bodies were taken away and mutilated. She was chased through the mountains on the border of China and Thibet, and was shot at time and again. Passing through countless dangers, and without the aid of a single native servant, she traveled on for two months, and finally reached a mission. Her clothes were almost torn away, her shoes had given out, her feet were bleeding from the sharp rocks. She was nothing but a pitiable wreck. WILL RETURN TO THE INTERIOR. She writes to a friend in Shanghai of her bereavement, and the cruelty of the Thibetans to her husband, and says she is preparing to go back to the wild men of the snowy China mountains. The Rijnharts had been free-lance missionaries in the interior of China for a long time. They supported themselves by their medical skill, and penetrated the most distant regions of dangerous China. On the trip that resulted so fatally they decided to cross into Thibet. It was dangerous, and they knew it. Many missionaries had dared to cross, but few ever returned to tell about it. When well into the mountains their little son, who had always accompanied them on their travels, died from exhaustion.

They had quite a native company with them, and soon a native guide noticed they were being followed. According to Rijnhart's diary, which was saved by his wife, they spent the night on watch with everything loaded on their horses. The next day, Sept. 23, found they had taken a blind trail, and started to go back. ATTACKED BY THE TRIBESMEN.

"Suddenly a shot falls near us." continues the diary, "and the boys run out to get the horses. One of them is shot by someone hidden on the bluff above, and all of our native people scamper off in the darkness, to seen no more. Our horses were all killed or put to flight but one old felow, who seemed to bear a charmed

"I rushed out to see who was doing the firing. As soon as I was out of cover a flash from the hill above warn ed me to drop down, and a moment later a bullet whistled overhead. They tried to drive us out by rolling big boulders over the bluff. The stones could not reach us. Our men say they will bring help from Lamasary, but they cannot be depended upon. The last entry, Sept. 25, made two days later, tells of their difficulties in getting across a mountain range. Rijnhart wrote that he was going to visit some tents that could be seen a short distance down the river. He left his wife on the morning of the 26th, and has not been heard of since. He reached the camp in about an hour, and was undoubtedly murdered soon after for his clothes.

Hispano-American Peace Treaty in the Hands of the President.

The Vote on Ratification Was 57 to 27 - One More Than the Necessary Two-Thirds - Senator Jones Came Over at the Last Moment.

Washington, Feb. 7.-The public galleries of the senate yesterday were thronged with spectators. There was no loud talking, conversation being conducted entirely in whispers, indicating the intensity of the feeling among all. An unusually large number of senators were on the floor when the vice-president's gavel fell. The chaplain, in his invocation, prayed for the American troops in the Philippines.

Mr. Allen (Nebraska) made a long speech involving a constitutional argument against expansion. "But," said he, "we are dealing with bloodthirsty savages. We are rightfully and legally in the Philippines; our troops must remain, must be kept there until their status is fixed by congress, the sole power to deal with the question." The first vote was on the amendment to make the Philippine article of the

The vote on ratification was 57 ayes to 27 nays, or one vote more than the two-thirds majority necessary to secure senatorial concurrence in a treaty document. The vote was taken in executive session, and until the injunction of secrecy was removed, the result was supposed to be private; but the vice-

A DINNER PILL.-Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. There are some clever people in the company. Most of the fun-making was in the hands of Walter Jones and Louis Wesley, and their efforts added considerably to the enjoyment of the play. The costumes were in nearly all cases striking and handsome, and the scenery was much admired. There was a crowded house, and audience thoroughly enjoyed "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

The correspondent of the Associated Press is informed that some members of the hospital corps have made the startling discovery that there are several women in masculine uniforms, and with hair cropped, among the dead. The chief of the Vgorotes, the Filipino natives who fought so, gallantly in the face of our artillery fire with their bows and arrows is in a hospital suffering from a shattered thigh. He admits that he never saw modern artillery, and was ignorant of its effects until he and his followers met the disastrous fire of Sunday morning. The chief is bitterly incensed against the Tagaros for placing the Vgorotes in front of the American battery, under the pretense that they were sent to occupy a post of honor, and he intimates that the Vgorotes will avenge this treatment when the survivors return north.

SIGNIFICANT FACT. It is regarded as a significant fact that many of the Filipino officials of this city disappeared from Manila, as fourth, fifth and sixth classes. soon as hostilities commenced. Some of them are supposed to be still hiding pouring into Manila from all directions, as the villages around Manila have, as a rule, been destroyed by the troops. The further the Americans extend their lines, the more the need of means of transportation increases. The American commanders have already been compelled to impress horses and vehicles on all sides, to the inconvenience of the civinans. All the disappeared in some manner or other. Street car traffic, however, has been resumed, and the cars are running regularly, through the streets are almost deserted. TREACHERY.

There are a few native stores open, and white flags in the nature of towels, pillow-slips, and aprons, tied to bamboos, adorn the windows of the native residences everywhere. But in spite of these emblems of peace, scores of Filipinos under the cover of the darkness fired from these same windows yesterday evening on the American patrols. At 9 o'clock last night there was a general fusillade in the Quapo and Binon districts. The inhabitants of the city generally believed that a battle was raging at their doors. lights were extinguished inside the dwellings, and a majority of the people were in a state of terror. Under the circumstances, it is remarkable that no casualties were reported. Several shots were fired across the river during the excitement.

General Hughes has the interior situation absolutely in hand.

REBELS UTTERLY ROUTED. Manila, Feb. 7-3:43 p.m.-The Americans, as this dispatch is sent, are in complete control within a radius of nine miles of Manila. Their lines, extending to Malabon, on the north, and to Paranaque on the south, are fully 25 miles long. While a few detached bodies of the enemy still offer desultory opposition, the main body of the rebels is in full retreat, and utterly routed. Of the hordes of troops originally drawn up in battle array against the Americans, fully one-third are already incapacitated, and the others are scattered in every direction.

AGUINALDO'S PROCLAMATION. Manila, Feb. 7-3:40 p.m.-Aguinaldo, the rebel leader, issued two proclamations on Saturday and Sunday. first declares the Americans opened the fight, and calls upon the Filipino Congress to suspend the constitution. CHAPTER I.

One of the prettiest rooms in Mrs. Merstham's house was called her studio; although it cannot be said to have borne much resemblance to the apartment in which painters-with true masculine untidiness-contrive to surround themselves with litter while they work.

It is true that there were a few casts from the antique in Mrs. Merstham's studio, but then they stood on polished marble pedestals; there was half-finished pictures against the walls, but they were placed on neat stands, made for that purpose; and there were easels, and color-boxes, and pallets, and pencils, but all of the daintiest make and finish, and all arranged with an eye to effect as well as to order.

Moreover, when Mrs. Merstham-who was a handsome young widow, with the eyes of a Juno, and the proud gait of a Diana-took it into her head to play at painting, she did not disguise herself with a shapeless blouse; her black robes were exchanged for a crimson tunic, bordered with gold, that was confined at her waist with a zone, from which it swept in voluminous folds to her feet; and her raven hair, of which she was justly proud, was tied back with a crimson fillet, or looped up with diamond-headed arrows that glittered and flashed in its dark waves most picturesquely.

Verna Merstham was standing before her easel one morning when visit-ors were announced, and though her deeply-curved lip curled scornfully when she glanced at the card her pretty, saucy page presented, she gave orders that they were to be admitted. Any society was better than no society. Though she prided herself on her strength of mind, she was in a morbid mood just then-tired of herself, of her surroundings, fair and costly though they were-of the solitary state in which she had passed the year of her widowhood: and was for the first time half inclined to ask herself if wealth, for which she had wedded an aged, ill-tempered millionaire, had proved worth the price she had paid for

But she had composed her features into the haughty calm that generally characterized them when she laid down her brush and maul-stick to greet her guests—two withered, fluttering, elderly ladies, like autumn leaves, all brown and yellow in complexion, as well as dress. The Misses Tibbetts were maiden sisters, whose small income, by great care, enabled them to keep up appearances in one of the prettiest, but also smallest, of the villas in the High street of Eastham.

"So glad to see you looking so lovely, my dear Mrs. Merstham," began Miss Olivia Tibbetts, breathlessly. She always was breathless, especially when she had news to tell. "So kind of you to break through your rule, and admit

"Flattered!" added Cordelia Tibbetts, who was not given to wasting words, and therefore contented herself with acting as a sort of appendix to her sister.

"There is no rule to break," said Verna, languidly. "I gave everyone to understand, when I came here three months since, that I should not receive any visitors till the year of my mourning had expired. It ended yesterday, and as I have no desire to be considered eccentric, I shall do as other people do, and be civil to my neighbors." How brave of you, after such a bereavement!" ejaculated Miss Olivia, admiringly. "It shows great-great-" 'Fortitude," said her sister. "Ah! yes, fortitude. Dear Cornelia has such a head! such a memory! Then you will receive callers, my dear Mrs. Merstham, and pay visits, and all Verna Merstham smiled at the little lady's eagerness.

"I suppose so; quietly, of course. came to this house-which my husband had bought and fitted up just before his death, to live in the retirement I considered decorous, under the circumstances-and I shall continue to do so till-well, till the London season commences. But you talk of callers, Miss Tibbetts; who is there living in Eastham with whom I could exchange

The haughty tone in which she spoke disconcerted Miss Olivia. Eastham, though nestled in one of the loveliest of dells, with shady lanes around it that were beautiful in every season, was a pastoral village, with only two good houses in its vicinity; Mrs. Merstham's, and a roomy, old-fashioned mansion known as the Beeches, and so terribly out of repair that no one cared to rent There were also half a dozen neat little eight-roomed semi-detached dwellings known as the Villas; but with these exceptions Eastham was in the hands of burly farmers and hopgrowers.

Miss Olivia meditated, coughed, and glanced at her sister, who breathed the word "Doctor."

'Ah, yes! an excellent man, Dr. Snubbs; but you know him already, don't you, Mrs. Merstham?" Again the full lips parted into a scornful smile. "Yes, and his wife; but I cannot say that I feel disposed to be intimate with

A dark red flush slowly mounted to

Verna Merstham's brows, and she glanced sharply at the speaker; but Miss Tibbetts looked so unconscious of any intention of giving offense, that, dropping her eyes again, and resuming her former listless attitude, she answered, slowly:

"Military acquaintances! My dear Miss Tibbetts, how very odd a question

Miss Tibbetts apologized till she was hoarse; and then, timidly, as if afraid of making more mistakes, observed she had been about to remark that she didn't suppose that Mrs. Merstham had any acquaintances amongst the military men at Aldenby.

Now, Aldenby was a busy and extensive town, some three miles away, with large barracks on the outskirts, in which two or three regiments were generally quartered; and occasionally a of gay militaires and ladies on horseback disturbed the quiet of East-ham by riding along the principal street; but apparently the widow had no predilection for the scarlet or blue of the army, for in her coldest tones she made answer that she might have met some of them in society, but she did not even know what regiments were quartered at Aldenby, and should not care to inquire.

"But you'll not find it dull here," cried Miss Olivia, briskly. "Oh, dear no! although there certainly is a dearth of society; for we manage to suffice for ourselves, don't we, Cornelia? There are the reading-rooms; they are only meant for the gentlemen, you know; but the librarian is a most obliging man, and never makes any remark if we ladies slip in for an hour in the afternoon just to have a peep at Punch and the papers; and there are the Dormeetings in the winter, and the annual concert, and the children's school treat in the summer; and I'm sure you'll give us a picnic in your own beautiful grounds, Mrs. Merstham; and —good gracious, Cornelia, how could you let me forget it?-the Beeches is

"And I am sorry," said Verna, cold-"I liked rambling and sketching in the grounds: for they were wilder and more picturesque than my own; and I detest people with large families; they are worse nuisances thanmaids, she was about to add; but checked herself, and made a diversion by pointing at a figure tripping across her own lawn, and asking: "Who is

THEY ARE POOR SPELLERS. It is interesting to perceive how lively power of observation and expression, what a degree of maturity, alike to intelligence, character and reading, Robert Louis Stevenson, at 18 or 19, already possessed. In one particular, it must be confessed, namely, in spelling, he shows himself remarkably boyish. But Stevenson in truth never learned to spell quite in a grown-up manner, and for this master of English letters a catarrh was apt to be a "cattarrh," and a neighbor a "nieghbor," and liter-ature "litterature" to the end. To reproduce all these trips and slips in print would be mere pedantry; and the normal orthography has been adopted in his letters, except where he himself is aware of his difficulties, and laughs over them.-Scribner's Magazine.

happy. The old bachelors like Lamb are the only men who do not care for babies, and the woman who hopes to make her husband happy without undergoing the ordeal of maternity, hopes in vain. If women only knew, there is no necessity for dreading the pangs of mother-hood. If a woman is really healthy in a womanly way, her trial will be insignificant. There is one great remedy that prepares a woman for almost painless child-bearing.
It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives strength, vigor and virility to the special organs
that bear the burdens of mother-hood. It cures all weakness, inflammation and ulceration. It banishes morning squeamishness and other discom-forts. It insures a healthy, bounc-ing baby. Thou-sands of once bar-ren homes bless this remedy for the innocent laughter of happy childhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it and will not substitute some inferior preparation. Read what one

"I was taken sick two years ago and tried almost everything but could get no help." writes Mrs. T. C. Blashfield, of Brimfield, Kampden Co., Mass. "Your 'Favorite Prescription' did me a great deal of good. I was suffering with falling of the womb and could scarcely walk, now I am so much better off that I can walk quite a distance. It was your medicine that helped me. You have my best wishes and thanks, and may God be with you to do all the good for the poor suffering people that you can. # That Word "Borrow"

Responsible for More Bankruptcy and Ruin Than Any Other Word in Commercial Life-Rev. Dr. Talmage on Abuse of Trust Funds.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6 .- Rev. Dr. | upon borrowed capital-if you have a Talmage's text is Job 8, 14-"Whose trust shall be a spider's wel

The two most skillful architects in all the world are the bee and the spider. The one puts up a sugar manufactory and the other builds a slaughter house for flies. On a bright summer morning when the sun comes out and shines upon the spider's web, bedecked with dew, the gossamer structure seems bright enough for a suspension bridge for aerial beings to cross on. But, alas for the poor fly that ventures on it, and is caught and dungeoned and destroyed! The fly was informed that it was a free bridge, and would cost nothing, but at the other end of the bridge the toll paid was its own life. The next day there comes down a strong wind, and away goes the web, and the marauding spider and the vic-timized fly. So delicate are the silken threads of the spider's web that many thousands of them are put together before they become visible to the human eye, and it takes four millions of them to make a thread as large as the human hair. Most cruel as well as most ingenious is the spider. author of my text, who was a leading scientist of his day, had no doubt watched the voracious process of this one insect with another, and saw spider and fly swept down with the same broom, or scattered by the same wind. Alas, that the world has so many designing spiders and victimized flies! There has not been a time when the utter and black irresponsibility of many men having the financial interests of others in charge, has been more evident than in these last few years. The simple fact is that there are a large number of men sailing yachts, driving fast horses, and members of expensive club houses, and controlling country-seats, who are not worth a dollar if they return to others their just rights. Under some sudden reverse they fail, and, with afflicted air, seem to retire from the world, when in two or three years they blossom out again, having compromised with their creditors, that is, paid them nothing but regret; and the only difference between the second chapter of prosperity and the first is that their pictures are Murillos instead of Kensetts, and their horses go a mile in twenty secends less than their predecessors, and instead of one country seat they have three. I have noticed that nine out of ten of those men who fail, in what is called "high life," have more means after than before the failure, and in many of the cases, failure is only a stratagem to escape the payment of honest debts.

First of all, I charge the blame on careless, indifferent bank directors and boards having in charge great financial institutions. It ought not to be possible for a president or cashier or prominent officer of a banking institution to swindle it year after year without detection. I will undertake to say that if these frauds are carried for two or three years without detection, either the directors are partners in the infamy and pocket part of the theft, or they are guilty of a culpable neglect of duty, for which God will hold them as responsible as he holds the acknowledged defrauders. What right have prominent business men to allow their names to be published as directors in a financial institution, so that unsophisticated people are thereby induced to deposit their moneyin, or buy the script thereof, when they, the published directors, are doing nothing for the safety of the institution? It is a case of deception most reprehensible. It seems to be the pride of some moneyed men to be directors a great many institutions, and all they know is whether or not they get their dividends regularly, and their names are used as decoy ducks to bring others near enough to be made game of. What first of all is needed is that 500 bank directors and insurance company directors resign or attend to their business as directors. The business world fraud is so easy.

"Oh," some will say, "better preach the Gospel and let business matters alone." I reply, if your gospel does not inspire common honesty in the dealings of men, the sooner you close up your gospel and pitch it in to the depths of the Atlantic Ocean the better. An orthodox swindler is worse than a heterodox swindler. Some of the worst scoundrels in America have been members of churches, and they got fat on sermons about heaven when they most needed to have the pulpits preach that which would either bring them to repentance, or thunder them out of the holy communions where their presence will be full of fraud just as long as was a sacrilege and an infamy. We must especially deplore the mis-fortunes of banks in various parts of this country in that they damage the banking institution, which is the great convenience of the centuries, and indispensable to commerce and the advance of matter. vance of nations. With one hand it blesses the lender, and with the other it blesses the borrower. On their shoulders are the interests of private individuals and great corporations. them are the great arteries through which run the currents of the nation's life. They have been the resources of the thousands of financiers in days of business exigency. They stand for accommodation, for facility, for individual, state and national relief. At their head, and in their management, there is as much interest and moral worth as in any class of men-perhaps more. How nefarious, then, the behavior of those who bring disrepute upon this venerable, benignant, and God-honored

We also deplore abuse of trust funds. because the abusers fly in the face of divine goodness which seems deter-mined to bless this land. We are having a series of unexampled national harvests. The wheat gamblers get hold of the wheat, and the corn gamblers get hold of the corn. The full tide of God's mercy toward this land is put back of those great dykes of dishonest resistance. When God provides enough food and clothing to feed and apparel this whole nation like princes, the scrabble of dishonest men to get more than their share, and get it at all hazards, keeps everything shaking with uncertainty, and everybody asking "What next?" My opinion is that we have got near the bottom. The wind has been pricked from the great bubble of American speculation. The men who thought that the judgment day was at least five thousand years off, found it in 1898 or 1897 or 1896; and this nation has been taught that men must keep their hands out of other people's mind to take your own money and turn it all into kites, to fly them over every common in the United States, you do society no wrong, except when you tumble your helpless children into the poorhouse for the public to take care of. But you have no right to take the money of others and turn it into kites. There is one word that has deluded more people into bankruptcy and state prison and ruin than any other word in commercial life, and that is the word "borrow." That one word is responsible for all the defalcations and embezzlements and financial consternations of the last twenty years. When executors conclude to speculate with the funds of an estate committed to their charge they do not purloin, they say they only borrow; when a banker makes an overdraft upon his institution he does not commit a theft, he only borrows. When the officer of a company, by flaming advertisement in some religious papers and gilt certificate of stock, gets a multitude of country people to put their small earnings into an enterprise for carrying on some undeveloped nothing, he does not fraudently take their money, he only borrows. When a young man with easy access to his employer's moneydrawer, or the confidential clerk, by close propinquity to the account books, takes a few dollars for a Wall street excursion, he expects to put it back. He will put it all back. He only borrows. Why, when you are going to do wrong, pronounce so long a word as borrow, a word of six letters, when you can get a shorter word more descriptive of the reality, a word of only five letters, the word steal?

There are times when we all borrow. and borrow legitimately, and borrow with the divine blessing, for Christ, in Sermon on the Mount, enjoins "From him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away." A young man rightly borrows money to get his education. Purchasing a house and not able to pay all down in cash, the purchaser rightly borrows it on mortgage. Crises come in business, when it would be wrong for a man not to But I roll this warning borrow. through all these pews, never borrow to speculate. There are breakers distinguished for their shipwrecks-the Hanways, the Needles, the Caskets, the Douvers, the Anderlos, the Skerries-and many a craft has gone to pieces on those rocks; but all the Hanways, and the Skerries are as nothing compared with the long line of breakers which bound the ocean of commercial life, with the white foam of their despair, and the dirge of their damnation—The breakers of borrow. If I had only a worldly weapon to use on this subject, I would give you the fact, fresh from the highest authority, that 90 per cent of those who go into wild speculation lose all; but I have a better warning than a worldly warning. Faith and repentance are absolutely necessary, but faith and repentance are no more doctrines of the Bible than commercial integrity. "Render to all their dues." "Owe no man anything." The greatest evangelistic preacher the world ever saw, a man who died for his evangelism—peerless Paul—wrote to the Romans, "Provide things honest in the sight of all men"; wrote to the Corinthians, "Do that which is honest"; wrote to the Philippians, "Whatseever things are honest"; wrote to the Hebrews, "Willing in all things to live honestly." The Bible says that faith without works is dead, which, being literally translated, means that if your business life does not correspond with your profession, your religion is a hum-

Here is something that needs to be sounded into the ears of all the young men of America, and iterated and reiterated: Live within your means. Spend no more than you make. Our religion ought to mean just as much on Saturday and Monday as on the day between. Our religion ought to first clean our hearts, and then it ought to clean our lives. It is an omnipotent principle, all-controlling, all-conquer-You may get along with something less than that, and you may deceive yourself with it; but you cannot deceive God, and you cannot deceive the world. # Too Weak To Work.

Two years ago Mrs. A. Walton, Sunny Brae, N.S., was so weak she couldn't do her housework. B. B. B. restored her health and strength, and she's been perfectly well since.

The record of permanent cures B. B. is rolling up is one of the marvels of modern medicine. Case after case is being presented where Burdock Blood Bitters cured, and cured permanently, some of the severest and most malignant diseases, after everything else failed. There is nothing like it for driving all poisons and impurities, which are the cause of disease, from the system, and building up the health on the four dation of pure, rich blood.

Mrs. A. Walton, of Sunny Brae, Pictou Co., N.S., is one of those who have been permanently cured by B.B.B. Recently she wrote the following account of her case:

"Two years ago I was completely run down. I remember on one occasion, when I arrived home from the gold mines at Fifteen Mile Creek. I was so weak I could scarcely sweep a room. At any rate in doing my housework I would have to sit down and rest every few minutes. I had no appetite and began to be alarmed at my condition. I was not only weak but very short of breath. Finally I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took two bottles, and soon my appetite improved, and I became strong and well. It is now two years since I took the B.B.B., and I have remarned in good health since. I hope that all who feel weak and worn out will try B.B.B., as I am convinced it will not fail to effect a cure."

for nothing, so long as you misrepresent your banking institution. Gathered in all religious assemblages there are many who have trust funds. It is a compliment to you that you have been so intrusted; but I charge you in the presence of God and the world, be as careful of the property of others as you are careful of your own. Above all keep your own private account at the bank separate from your account as trustee of an estate or trustee of an institution. That is the point at which thousands of people make shipwreck. They get the property of others mixed up with their own property, they put it into investment, and away it all goes and they cannot return that which they borrowed. Then comes the explosion and the money market is shaken, and the press denounces, and the church thunders expulsion. You have no right to use the property of others except for their advantage, nor without consent, unless they are minors. If with their consent you invest their property as well as you can, and it is all lost, you are not to blame; you did the best you could; but do not come into the delusion which has ruined so many men- of thinking, because thing is in their possession, therefore it is theirs. You have a solemn trust that God has given you. In any assembly there may be some who have misappropriated trust funds. Put them back, or, if you have so hopelessly involved them that you cannot put them back, confess the whole thing to those whom you have wronged, and you will sleep better nights, and you will have the better chance for your soul. What a sad thing it would be, if, after you were dead, your administrator should find out from the account books, or from the lack of vouchers, that you are not only bankrupt in estate, but that you lost your soul. If all the trust funds that have been misappropriated should suddenly fly to their owners, and all the property that has been purloined should suddenly go back to its owners, it would crush into ruins very city in to scores of thousands of women. Especially during the expectant per-

A BALM FOR ITCHING SKIN

IS DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT Itching comes as a midnight torture

Mrs. Sylvester, 16 Clinton street, Toronto, writes: "I wish to say that Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven a wonderful remeay to me. I would not be without it. It is the best-not merely one of the best, but the very best ointment brought before the public for piles and many other ailments peculiar to women and too numerous to mention." It is entirely unnecessary for any woman to spend another night of suffering and wakefulness because of itching. Comfort, rest and sleep accompany the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. For sale by all dealers.

Mother's favorite remedy for croup, bronchitis, la grippe, and severe colds is Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

An Adrian, Mich., exchange, of Feb. 3, had the following to say of the marriage of two persons well known in this city: One of the unusual events that help to cheer the lives of a company of roving Thespians, occurred yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when two of the principals of Marks Bros.' dramatic combination were united in marriage at the Baptist parsonage by Rev. J. B. Banker. The contracting parties were Lee J. Kellam, of St.Louis, Mo., and Miss Jennie Woodworth, of London, Canada. Mrs. Tom Marks acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Lew Devoe as best man. ## ENDEAVORERS' GRAND RALLY

Large Gathering of the Local Societies in St. Andrew's Church-Two Able Speakers-Minute Raports From the Different Societies.

There was a very large attendance at the grand rally of city Endeavorers in St. Andrew's Church last night, and deep interest was shown. The evening was occupied with bright addresses, singing Christian Endeavor hymns, and listening to the reading of gratifying minute reports from the junior and senior societies. The rally was a beentered the opera house last night they fitting celebration of Christian Endeavor day. The chair was occupied by the president, Mr. John Allin, and all the different societies were well represented.

The song service from 7:45 to 8 o'clock was led by a male Endeavor choir of fifteen voices, and it was followed by a few opening remarks by the chairman and a solo by Miss Edith Hartson. Mr. A. T. Cooper, provincial Endeavor secretary of Huron county, was the first of the speakers, and among other things he stated that in proportion to the population there were more Endeavorers in London than in any other place in Ontario. Mr. S. J. Duncan-Clark, editor of the Christian Endeavor Herald, To-ronto, discussed the junior Endeavor movement. He spoke of it as the hope of Christian Endeavor in Canada. It had been suggested to him that Christian Endeavor was losing its hold-that there was a recession of the great wave of effort that spread over it for so many years, but Mr. Clark believed that Christian Endeavor was just settling down to business. Now was the time for aggressive work. "Let us quit playing as Christians," concluded Mr. Clark. "There has been too much of it in the past, when Christian Endeavor has been to some like a little pastime." One-minute reports were given by representatives from the Adelaide Street Baptist, Askin Street Methodist, Christian Church, Chalmers, Dundas Street Methodist, First Methodist, First Congregational, High Street Methodist Mission, Hill Street Methodist Mission, Knox Presby-terian, Memorial, St. Paul's, St. James' (Episcopal), St. George's, Andrew's, St. James' (Presbyterian), Congregational, Talbot otist, Wellington Street Southern Street Baptist, Wellington Street Methodist and Centennial Methodist senior societies, and also by representatives from the First Congregational, LIFE SAVED .- Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eelectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.
