Kruger's Objections

Reply to Chamberlain Anent Baden-Powell, commanding the Fifth Dragoon Guards, has issued a notice the Outlanders' Petitions.

Interesting Statements in "Green Book."

The British Camp at Mafeking Twice Called to Arms.

Natal Dispatch States That the Boars Are Leaving Camp and Returning to Their Homes.

London, Oct. 9 .- A green book, just issued, contains President Kruger's reply to Mr. Chamberlain's dispatch referring to the petition of the outlanders.

The Transvaal objects to Great Britain's interference in its internal affairs and explains that, if the outlanders had first addressed the Transvaal, instead of the British Government, their complaints would have been immediately heeded. It also alleges that those complaints emanated wholly from a "small body of British who are breeding race hatred and a revolutionary movement, and whose membership and newspapers openly boast of the influence exercised by them upon the policy of the imperial government.

The reply adds: "The Transvaal is bound to credit these boasts when it sees blue books issued consisting of documents drawn up by these revolu-tionary members of the South African League and of lying articles and reports from newspapers which are the organs of the league. If the real character of the league could be known, it would soon lose its influence and the tension between the two governments would speedily disappear.

The reply concludes as follows: "The Afrikanders would then no longer fear that the interests of the British em-pire necessarily destroyed the destruc-tion of the two republics, and the enslavement of the Afrikander popula-tion; and the white races in South Africa would return to the brotherly harmony that had set in until a treacherous complot, at the end of 1895, revived passion on both sides."

EXODUS OF CAPE DUTCHMEN. The exodus of Cape Dutchmen towards the Transvaal continues. seem to be smuggling arms across the frontier. The report of Harry Escombe's mission of peace to Pretoria statesman went, instead, to Newcastle, with a view of quieting the alarm of his friends. Rumors are current there that Commandant-General Joubert's return to Pretoria was occasioned by a petition of the Boers to have Commandant Viljoen made commander-in-

Advices from Pretoria say that the Transvaal Government has received a dispatch from the United States secretary of state, Col. John Hay, to the effect that as Gen. James R. O'Beirne, recently designated by President Kruger to represent the Transvaal in the United States, is an American, he cannot hold a diplomatic appointment from the South African Republic in the United States. State Secretary Reitz, therefore, has asked Mr. Bosman to remain, and full powers will be given him to act on behalf of the Transvaal in the interests of peace. Pretoria, the dispatches say, presents a most deserted appearance. The government has ordered all the saloons closed throughout the republic. TALES OF HORROR. The Evening News publishes the following dispatch from Cape Town:

"The reports of the barbaric excesses committed by the Boers on refugees have caused a thrill of horror here. In one instance 70 women and children were packed in a cattle truck so tightly that they were unable to sit, and were thus kept sidetracked for 30 hours without food or water. When they attempted to leave the truck they were driven back with blows.

"Every train load of refugees brings harrowing accounts of the barbarities of the Boers of the Orange Free State. A train arrived today that had been 96 hours en route. The sufferings of the women were dreadful. Several births occurred on the way—one in an open cattle truck containing 20 men. HUSTLING.

Every department of the government is as busy as though actual hos-ulities had begun. The electric flash that announced the mobilization of the army reserves and the summaning of parliament set every wheel in motion. An hour after the Gazette appeared, executive orders were being dispatched from the war office to every section of the kingdom, and the 10,000 bulletins which appeared posted throughout the country are said to have been identical with the proclamation prepared for use had the Fashoda incident required such a step. At the same time Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour were issuing the necessary orders for the re-assembling of parliament, the admiralty was concentrating its transports, 24 of which are now secured at Liverpool alone. So complete were the preparations that 25,000 reserves have already individually received coupon tickets, which contain instructions where each man shall report for transportation to the place designated, and a money order for three shillings for provision en route. At Woolwich it is asserted that 95 per cent of the reserves will be fully equipped within six days.

TWO ALARMS. Twice on Sunday the British camp at Mafeking was aroused. The men stood to their arms, guns were limbered and patrols were dispatched in the direction of the border. No hostili-ties have occurred as yet, but the enemy have moved practically to the border, eight miles from Mafeking, in force 6,000 strong, comprising five commands. The garrisoning and fortifying of the towns is practically completed. The streets are barricaded, and a perfect system of mines have been laid. Two armored trains laid. Two armored trains have arrived at Mafeking, consisting of three bullet-proof cars, the first of which carries a searchlight, while the sides of the cars are loopholed. Experiments with lyddite in the mines have proved that it is an extremely high explosive. Col. Two armored trains have arrived that the Boers who are massed on the Natal and Bechuanaland frontiers have orders not to fire until the British forces begin, and that the town is well prepared for eventualities, but as the Boers may shell the place, every endeavor should be made to safeguard the women and children. An armored train was inspected at Kimberley on train was inspected at Kimberley on Sunday. A signal station has been erected with a conning tower at the top, 130 feet above the tracks. Communication by telephone is had with a central office, and signals are given to the troops by flag. The troops number 3,000, including a bicycle corps. An armored train has been practicing firing at targets.

dispatch from Kimberley to the Cape Town Argus says that 3,000 Boers are encamped between Boshof and Kimberley. They are well armed, and great religious fervor is shown in the camp. The Boers, however, are chafing under the delay. They patrol the border nightly, and have orders not to permit a British uniform to approach the frontier. A special order was gazetted on Saturday, announcing that British residents would be allowed to remain in the Transvaal and under what conditions. The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail declares that the story of a Boer ultimatum, demanding withrawal of the British troops from the frontiers, had been issued, is without foundation; but he says the republics have within the past week demanded a declaration of the British intentions in threatening terms. Hostilities in outlying districts, the correspondent says, are expected this week, and he adds: "The financial position of the Free State is becoming acute, and the suspension of specie payments is expected soon."

It is again announced that a cabinet council will be called shortly. BRITISH FORCES AT THE FRONT.

Further transports from India with two field hospitals and Hussars have arrived at Durban, and the men and material were forwarded to Ladysmith material were forwarded to Ladysmith instantly. Gen. Sir George Stewart White, V.C., who will command the British forces in Natal, has also arrived and landed. He was greeted by a large crowd. Gen. Sir Wm. Symons, his second in command, came from Glencoe, to meet him, showing that he does not fear a Boer incursion into North Natal. A number of other officers were present, and the whole party left by train for Pietermaritzburg amid great enthusiasm and cries of

'Remember Majuba." The famous fighting Fifth North-umberland Fusillers have arrived at with great enthusiasm. In other respects the situation remains unchang-

The last Indian contingent sailed on Sunday from Bombay for South Af-RETURNING TO THEIR HOMES. London, Oct. 9. — News comes from the Transvaal, which, if true, probably indicates that the South African Republic is about to yield, or, in any case that the Boers have abandoned all idea of invading Natal. The news is comprised in a cablegram from castle, Natal, which says that farmers who arrived there from the Buffalo River, state that the Boers are returning to their homes, leaving pa-trols along the river. The com-manders still remain on the Free State border. The dispatch also says that the feeling at Newcastle now is that the Boers do not intend to attack that place, and that the evacuation of the town was premature. A dispatch from Durban also states that the excitement has abated owing to the Boers holding back from the frontier. This retirement Boers is what the British war authorities have expected, as their defective commissariat would prevent them from long remaining massed along the border. Telegrams received here re-cently have made frequent reference to the scarcity of forage and supplies in the Boer laagers, and have stated that many of those in the camps were inclined to strike out for their homes unless active operations were under-taken immediately. The dispatch from Newcastle looks as though they had done as they threatened, and abandoned the idea of fighting.

Another Indecisive Race Between Shamrock and Columbia.

Saturday Morning's 20-Knot Breeze Diminished to Almost Nothing-Race Called Off Five Miles From the Finish Line-Shamrock Is the Most

New York, Oct. 9 .- Old Boreas on Saturday again played battledore and shuttlecock with the great single-stickers, and the third attempt to sail the first race of the Columbia-Shamrock series for the international trophy ended in failure. The race was declared off 15 minutes before the time limit expired, with the yachts still five miles from the finish. But the vast throngs who went down to the sea to witness the battle royal were in a measure compensated by seeing a magnificent light weather duel. After three trials the experts are about as much mystified as they were at the beginning concorning the merits of the two boats. Nothing but a spanking wnoissale breeze will furnish a true test. Saturday, as on the two previous days, the course was 15 miles dead before the wind and return. So evenly matched were the beautiful, clean-limbed racers, that they rounded the outer mark like thoroughbreds, almost neck and neck, and finished after a threehour thresh to windward with the Columbia's white, sharklike nose half a length in front, and in the weather position, but so close was her green rival that the black shadow of the Shamrock's looming sails was silhouetted against the Yankee's snowy can-

SHAMROCK MORE ABLY HAN-DLED.

The talent are a good deal confounded. Some of them differ as to the merits of the two boats, but they seem unan-imous upon two things — that the Shamrock is the ablest boat that ever crossed the western ocean to lift the mug, and, what is still more important, that she is more ably handled than the defender. The superior seamanship of Capt. Hogarth and his crew was demonstrated at several critical points in Saturday's race, though to Capt. Barr and the nervy managing owner of the Yankee sloop belong the credit of ex-ecuting as brilliant and daring a piece of seamanship as was ever witnessed in a yacht race. Its recklessness caused a great deal of nervousness and anxiety; its accomplishment therefore made the pulses of the Americans beat higher with pride. It was the spectacular feature of the day, and fortune favored the brave. The Irish boat did undethe brave. The Irish boat did undenlably better work to windward. She carved her way up into the wind in astonishing style. But here again the Columbia seemed to be able 20 more than make up in footing what she lost in pointing, and as the ability of a sailing vessel is determined by her power to make headway against an adverse wind, she is the better boat by that heart of the seafaring folk who went down to the water front was gladden-ed by a suff twenty-knot blast straight the northeast that covered the upper and lower bay with a smother of whitecaps, and the excursion fleet went out to the stake boat with high hopes of a splendid day's sport. But before the fleet had reached the open, the breeze began to moderate, and the tumbling seas to spill less of their froth. Overhead the sky was unflecked, a vault as blue as turquoise, and so clear was the atmosphere that every foot of the course was visible to thousands who were watching on the Jersey hills from Navesink Highto Long Branch and Asbury Park. From the shore every movement of the race was followed by the sharps with glasses, and the result was known there long before it was flashed by wire from the cable boats. Outside the long ground swell, rolling in from the Atlantic with the tidings of the gale that had swept up the coast Friday, piled what the old salts called a lumpy sea. It brought grief to many of the sight-seers affoat. Many of them sought the seers anoat. Many of them sought the seclusions of their cabins before the vessels on which they had embarked to witness the race had weathered Sandy Hook. And all through the afternoon a majority of the remainder kept suspiciously near the rails of the

A DESERONTO LADY Speaks Highly of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They Cured Her of Fluttering of the Heart and Feeling of Smothering After Doctor's Prescription and

Other Remedies Failed If all the suffering women of this country who are troubled with heart palpitation rush of blood to the head, dizzy and faint spells, nervousness, pale and sallow complexion, pain in the back or side, headache and feeling of would only read the testimony of those who were similarly affected and follow their advice, what a change there would be in the homes of Pale pinched faces would glow with the hue of health, the drag-ging step would become elastic, the sunken lusterless eye bright, the pains and aches would disappear, weakness be replaced by strength, and drooping dispirited, worn out women would be-come transformed into perfect pictures of health by the magic influence of this marvelous medicine.

Mrs. Irvine Hudson, wife of the wellknown proprietor of the barber shop, Deseronto, Ont., was troubled for many years with fluttering of the heart, suf-focating sensations and a dull pain around her heart which caused her great alarm.

"These spells occurred very frequently," she said, "and I have taken doc-tors' prescriptions and patent medi-cines without number, but they did not seem to help me.

"At last I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they have done the work. From the very first I began to improve. The dreadful spells of heart trouble became less frequent and I have continued to get better since. I am now in better health I have been for years and desire heartily to recommend these wonder-ful pills as the best remedy for all heart and nerve troubles."

er mark was, Shamrock 1:36:25, Columbia 1:36:34, thus showing that the Shamrock rounded this mark nine seconds ahead, that she was 2 hours 15 minutes 6 seconds covering the 15 miles, while Columbia took 2 hours 15 minutes 32 seconds, a difference in favor of the Shamrock of 26 seconds on the run before the wind

Columbia made her first tack to port, off shore, at 1:38. Hogarth held on 50 seconds longer, then put Shamrock about. Then each tacked four times in three and a half minutes, Shamrock being forced about twice in that time The wind was growing lighter all the time, and the long easterly swells bothered the boats considerably when on the port tack, making them splash a good deal. At 2:15 the Columbia split tacks with Shamrock, and went off shore breeze hunting on the port tack shore breeze hunting on the port tack. When at 2:18:45 Shamrock tacked to port and Columbia a minute after to starboard, they were meeting on oppo-site tacks. It was a question of how much the Shamrock could cross the Columbia's bow. Columbia, however, tacked before the other reached her, it being evident that the Columbia was now to leeward and Shamrock in the lead. The wind frequently headed off Columbia about this time. Shamrock tacked when it did so to her. At 2:34 when Columbia tacked to port, had made twelve tacks from the outer mark and Shamrock had made one SLOW WORK TO WINDWARD.

Slowly they made their way to wind-ward during the next half-hour, each being becalmed at times for several minutes. At 3:10.30, when the Sham-rock tacked to starboard it took her 57 seconds to swing around from one tack to the other. They split tacks at 3:21, when Columbia went off shore again, looking for wind. When next they came together it was 4:10. From some positions to leeward of the yachts it looked as if the Shamrock would cross Columbia's bow by quite a large mar-gin, the Columbia beint on the starboard tack and having the right of Instead, the thousands who watched the yachts approaching each other, were astonished to see the Shamrock forced about by the Colum-bia, which yacht, when Shamrock had gone about, was on the latter's weather beam scarcely a length away. Some idea of the close sailing of these yachts on the same tack may be gathered from the fact that from 4:15 to when the race was declared off, the shadow of the Shamrock's topsail remained in almost one spot of the lee side of Columbia's mainsail.

RESULT WOULD HAVE BEEN CLOSE.

If the race had been continued to the finish, some five miles away, it would be exceedingly hard to predict the winner. Throughout the race the handling of both boats was excellent, but the balance was in favor of the Shamrock's skipper and crew.

In view of the closeness of the yachts when the race was called off, it is fair to suppose that if the finish had been there the Columbia would have crossed it ten seconds in advance of Shamrock. In that case the summary of the race for 25 miles would have been

SHAMROCK IS FASTEST.

New York, Oct. 9.—Regarding Sat-urday's race, the Journal says: "While the race was unfinished, the contest was by no means as undecisive as the previous flukes, and enough is now known to convince even the most pre-judiced spectator that the Shamrock is the faster boat in light weather. As a matter of fact, judging from the Shamrock's showing on Saturday, and during her trials, she will probably beat the Columbia, and the cup is as good as lost, unless there is a marked improvement in the American boat's canvas before Tuesday's race. To be plain, the Herreshoff cross-cut sails are absolutely no good on a big boat like the Columbia, and one day's use pulls them all out of shape. Even with proper canvas, the Shamrock should win on her speed alone, unless her triumvirate of skippers spoil her SHAMROCK STOCK RISES. The Shamrock stock has, taken another rise. There is a feeling about town that the historic cup is in greater danger than ever. The more Satur-day's performance is considered and discussed, the less encouraging it seems to the American yachtsmen. The Shamrock is a wonder in light weather. She handles splendidly, and there are men on board who know how to do the handling. The feeling of the American yachtsmen that the challenger was en-tering the race unprepared and untried has disappeared. They have seen her fit for the struggle, and they know that she is ready to do her best. In response to an inquiry made as to what was being done by way of preparation, her managers said "Nothing." "There she is, ready for the gun." The other side is still confident, but it must be admitted that the backers of the green boat are showing the most hope. They say they know what she can do in heavy weather. It only required these days of drift to convince them that she was just as good in light airs. The Columbia people are not unhappy by any means, but confidently assert that the cup stays. But they know that there will be no walkover

RICH DEPOSITS OF IRON ORE

The Equitable Mining and Developing Company, Limited, of Ontario, Formed to Develop Iron Deposits Near Kingston-Financial and Business Men Interested-Preferred Stock To Be Placed on the Market.

Toronto, Oct. 7-(Special)-A great deal of comment has been occasioned in mining and commercial circles here by the announcement that a company of financial and business men belonging to the province have taken over the rich deposits of iron ore recently opened up near Kingston, and that large contracts have already been made with the Hamilton smelter for the smelting of the ore. It is thought that the development of the Frontenac iron deposits on such a large scale as that on which the new company will carry on its operations will have an important effect on the production of pig iron in the province. It is said, on the best of authority, that owing to the government bounty of $1 per ton on iron made from Ontario ore, the company will receive through its extensive contracts with the Hamilton Steel and Iron Company a profit of $2 per ton, after deducting all expenses of mining and shipping.

Ever since the report of Prof. A. B.

Wilmott, of McMaster University, upon one of the deposits was issued the iron mines in Frontenac have been the object of much interest to local operators. According to the report which has just been made public the iron deposits consist of a hill about 100 feet above a lake which is a part of the Rideau Canal system. This fortunate circumstance of location giving the owners an all water route from the mines to the smelter. Prof. Wilmott states that there are two openings on the face of the cliff which shows the thickness of the ore bed to be respectively eight feet and twelve feet. These openings are 135 feet apart and there is every probability of the ore being continuous between them. The ore already in sight, with no development, is 135 feet long, 30 feet wide, and averages 10 feet thick. As the hill averages 200 feet wide, and in-dications of ore are found 800 feet apart there is a probability of finding, the report states, at least, one hundred thousand tons. Prof. Wilmott and Mr. J. B. Cochrane of the Royal Millitary College at Kingston, both made an-alysis of the ore and have reported that it runs from 51 per cent to 65 per cent in metallic iron.

So much confidence is placed in the prospects of the company here that its dividends on the preferred stock have been absolutely guaranteed by the Trusts and Guarantee Company of this city. The Equitable Mining and Development Company of Ontario, which controls the mine, is capitalized at $1,000,000, in shares of $1 each, of which 150,000 shares are preferred stock. This preferred stock will, it is said, be placed on the market immediately, and cumulative dividends of 8 per cent per annum, payable quarterly, have been guaranteed by the financial corporation mentioned, which has issued a statement to that effect. The Equitable Mining Company has on its directorate a number of very prominent men, including Mr. Donald Mackay, vice-president of the Ontario Bank; Sir Thomas W. Taylor, Alexander Manning, F. B. Polson, Edgar S. Reada, all of Toronto; William H. Comstock, M.P., of Brockville; Byron M. Britton, M.P., and James Swift, of Kingston, and Orlando R. Sprague, the mine-owner of Malone. The stock will, it is said, be in a short time listed upon the Toronto Stock Exchange, and the subscriptions for the guaranteed stock will close here on Friday next. at the offices of the Trusts Company.

THE SCOTSMAN

Class Distinctions That Were Out of Place-Experience of Two Steerage Passengers.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: In reading in your issue of yesterday, I was very much struck by a few remarks I saw in Miss Hyman's experience on and after the wreck of the Scotsman, concerning some of the scribes and pharisees—how eager some of these would-be gentlemen were to have the people know that they belonged to first or second cabin. I was led to think, Did these men ever give one moment's thought of what distinction there might have been had things taken a more serious turn? It seems to me it would have been far more manly if these "gentlemen" had tried to alleviate the sufferings of their companions in distress by rendering such assistance as the all-wise Providence had placed within their reach. But how many such are there in our own city who are doing the same thing right along? But the day is fast approaching when there will be a reparation. But it will take a much more serious turn than that of the poor passengers of the ill-fated Scotsman. Then let you and I see to it that we are with the Good Samaritans, ever ready and willing at all times, and under all circumstances, to do what little we can to alleviate the sufferings of those with whom we come in contact, and not lag idly on or pass by on the other side London, Oct. 9.-At Saturday's racing in the guise of a first or second cabin May God help me and you to be up and doing. We have not to wait to be wrecked on the ocean. But It is possible that we may be wrecked right here. May God help us and open our eyes to this fact. But I am pleased to say that we have some Good Samaritans among us, for I met one or two myself. I have at my place-208 Piccadilly street-two young women who were on the Scotsman with Miss Hyman, only they were steerage passengers. But they can tell and have told the same story that lady has told, and I want to thank Mr. Hyman and some other friends on behalf of these girls, for their kindness and assistance in helping them, as they were almost destitute of clothing when they came to my home on Sunday morning last having lost nearly all they had. The girls wish me to thank the friend who sent $1 each for them on Friday,

STORM IN EGYPT.

will please find a corner for the above,

Cairo, Oct. 7 .- A storm of unusual violence for Lower Egypt swept the delta, blowing down houses in Alexandria, uprooting trees, everywhere, and capsizing seven boats on the Nile. At Damietta several sersons were drowned, and near Calro the capsizing of a boat on the Nile caused the death of nine.

Lightning struck the house of the Egyptian premier in Cairo, and before the fire could be extinguished his study, with all his books and private papers, had been consumed. The damage amounted to $5,000.

SAVED BY X-RAYS. Chicago, Oct. 7.—Harriet Hellbuth, five years old, and for two years blind and a paralytic, has had her sight and the use of her limbes restored through the agency of the X-rays. Two years ago while playing the child fell from a porch to the sidewalk, a distance of sixteen feet, striking on her head. The fall left her totally blind, and with her right side parelyzed. A few days ago the Veryes was proposed. the X-rays were applied and revealed a tumor the size of an egg pressing on the brain. The skull was trepanned directly over the cyst as shown in the skiagraph and the tumor recoved. The child was able to move her limbs on recovering consciousness, and is now gradually recovering her sight.

AN EXPENSIVE JOKE. Bancroft, Ont., Oct. 9.—It cost Neville Cutcliffe, of Mount Pleasat, exactly $82 54 to sell enough intoxicating liquor to make a young man drunk. The of-fense was committed a few weeks ago, when the W. C. T. U. convention was beng held in Mount Pleasant. Several ladies were driven to the meeting from Brantford, and while they were at the convention protesting against the sale of liquor, their driver became drunk. When they were ready to return to Brantford the man was still unable to drive. Cutcliffe has no license, and he admitted to Squire Grace it was he who sold the liquor to the driver. He Was fined $75 and $7 45 costs.

FAGGED OUT-None but those who FAGGED OUT—None but those who have become fagged out know what a depressed, miserable feeling it is. All strength has gone, and despondency has taken hold of the sufferers. They feel as though there was nothing to live for. There, however, is a cure—one hox of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will do wonders in restoring health and strength. Mandrake and Dandelion are two of the articles entering into the composition of Parmelee's Pills.

Seventy Miles an Hour No Longer Phenomenal Speed.

Pension Scheme Planned for Employes of the Pennsylvania Lines.

At the recent meeting of stockholders of the Michigan section of the G. T. R., the entire board was re-elected, without change.

Advance sheets of Poor's Manual for 1899 show the total railway mileage of the United States up to Jan. 1, 1899, to be 186,809 miles. The total assets of railroads furnishing tigures were $12,-175,273,501. The total gross earnings were $12,359,290,336. The report this year will give an elaborate physical and financial history of American railroads.

"Seventy miles an hour is no longer a phenomenal speed," said a railroad man in a recent interview. "Engineers make it every day, as a matter of course, when they happen to be a little behind time, and if the roadbed is all right there is less vibration and less sense of peril than there used to be in going half that gait. I was on a New York Central train the other night that struck a 72-hour clip, and I am confident that any passenger not accustomed to estimating speed would have said at a guess that we were making about 40. Nowadays any decent passenger engine can cover a mile a minute on a tolerably straight track. It is no feat at all. As a matter of fact, the passenger locomotives bought at present are all built under a guarantee that they can do 80 miles an hour, pulling four standard cars. Of course, we don't send them up to the limit, but we can if we want to. Not long ago 40 miles an hour was considered very fast; today it is nothing. Ten years from now we may feel the same about 70 miles. I would say, however, that 150 miles an hour is a distinct future possibility of a steam power locomotive on a straight track. A hundred miles an hour is one of the things already in

Officials of the Pennsylvania lines west are planning to create a pension fund for the employes under their jurisdiction, which will apply also to the northwest and southwests ystems. The plan will be worked out upon the same basis as the department created for the men of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and which is to become operative about Jan. 1. The number of men who will be benefited is about 30,000, as against 40,000 on the Pennsylvania. On the entire Pennsylvania system about 100,000 men are employed, but the Vandalia men and others are not included in the present plans. Three directors of the road have the matter in charge, and are expected to submit a report at a regular meeting in December unless a special meeting should be called before that have been in the service 30 years and are over 70 years of age. This move-time. The pensioners will be men that ment of the Pennsylvania management is highly commended, and it shows that the company has the interests and welfare of its employes very much in mind. The consideration shown is distinctive. It is a well understood rule that after a man has entered the service of the Pennsylvania, whatever unfitness he may show for the position he ds does not neces the cannot remain, as, if worthy, a place ds found for him in some other capacity. It is an unwise man who leaves the company and goes to another road. Getting back, if desired, is not an easy matter, and if he succeeds, the chances for promotion are materially reduced.

The Scotsman Disaster. The disaster to the Scotsman has produced a literature of its own, and all that has been said and written deepens the impression as to the extent of the suffering and hardship endured by the passengers. Looking at of the circumstances, it is a marvel that a greater number of lives were not lost. Of all the descriptions of the catastrophe, calculated to give one a graphic idea of the scene immediately after the ship struck, and of the privations of the survivors in their struggle over miles of boggy and rocky counby, the most vivid and picturesque wes given by Miss Edythe Hyman, of this city, in an Advertiser interview. The young lady's well known literary talent has served her well in this respect. She seems to have borne herself very creditably, showing courage and thoughtfulness for others, and it b certainly proof of her pluck and coolness that her powers of observation remained so keen and alert under the most trying con-It is in such moments that human nature comes to the surface in its real colors, and one fact that stood out vividly was that not all the gentlemen on the boat were in the first cabin. Some of those in humbler circomstances as to this world's goods showed themselves much better entitled to "the grand old name of gentleman," showing examples of chivalry and self-sacrifice at a time when the ordinary distinctions of social position are but as dust in the balance in comparison with the claims of humanity.

While the magnificent crop of wheat has been garnered in Manitoba and the Northwest without damage, it has been well known that both in Canada and the United States there were apprehensions on the score of frost, as there always have been to a greater or less extent. Indeed, our neighbors in the United States have suffered greater loss by this agency, as well as from tornadoes, than has ever come to Canada. As the western country becomes settled, as trees are grown, and as the land is cultivated, we shall probably have less and less to fear from frost. They have already learned to sow as early as possible, thus minimizing the damage from frost when it does come. That settlement pheric conditions which retard injury from frost has been well proved in this province. Thirty or forty years ago, in the northern counties of this peninsula, they had even more trouble than have the Manitobans; but now we rarely hear of the growing crops suffering from frost. As the country has been settled and drained, the damage from frost has become less and less in each decade. So it will doubtless be in the Northwest. Our neighbors in the United States have suffered as much from frosts that the Department of Agriculture has deemed it wise to issue a bulletin dealing with the subject. The agricultural products of many parts of the United States, the report says, "are menaced by frosts from the time nature begins to extend her mantle of green from the citrus regions of the south towards the grain fields of the north. Until the verdured area contracts southward before the frost winds of winter: from the hour that seeds germinate and buds blossom until cops are gathered."

pected when the taperature, as registered at weather bureau stations, fells to eight or ten degrees above the freezing point. The surfaces upon which frost is deposited must obviously possess a freezing temperature, although the temperature of the air a few feet higher may be several degrees above freezing. This air, a number of feet above the ground is what usually comes into contact with weather bureau thermometers. A clear, cloudless, and comparatively calm night is favorable for the occurrence of frost, because clouds retard the radiation of heat from plants, acting as a screen. Still air favors frosts, because the wind is a great distributer, and prevents the air from erranging itself in layers, according to Its density, with the densest and coldest air near the surface of the earth. It seems that there are certain regions on mountain sides, as they come to be known locally, within which a nightly frost almost never occurs in the springtime, although the winters may be very cold.

Frosts, it is point a out, may be ex-

In a recent number of the American Meteorological Journal, a thermal belt is described in Southern Michigan, in which the peach tree flourishes. It eems there is a long valley, surroundby a belt of elevated country from 50 to 600 feet above Lakes Michigan and Huron. This valley constitutes a sold island, as it were, into which the cold air settles. The highlands of this region are, in consequence, much freer from frost than the lowlands, and are much more favorable to early vegetetion. Two equal thermal belts, lying almost parallel, inclose this island cold. During a still night, when frosts occur, the surface of the hillsides cool by radiation, and sets in motion a current of cold air which falls into the valley. The warm air, which has not had an opportunity to cool by contact with the ground, floats above the cold mass and spreads out toward the hills, and is constantly furnishing them its heat. When cooled by them it descends."

In this most favored portion of Ontarlo, lying contiguous to the great | lakes almost on three sides, it is well to remember that local climate is much influenced by the proximity of bodies of water. In the fall, when the temperature of the great lakes is reduced very slewly, the influence of water in keeping away frosts from the region affected by the moisture laden air is very marked. During the colder months air is not only warmed in crossing large bodies of water, but it also absorbs moisture, which has the effect of retarding radiation of heat from the earth. As we have pointed out soil conditions also constitute a considerable factor in the formation of frost. As a rapid loss of heat is promoted by active evaporation of moisture, it follows that frost is more liable on swamp than on dry ground, provided, however, that the ground is not too moist, for in that case the amount of moisture evaporated would have a tendency to retard the radiation of heat from the earth. Herein lies the distinction between moist air and moist soil. An excess of moisture in the air, by preventing the radiation of heat, is unfavorable to frost. As frost is the moisture of the air, in immediate contact with the earth, it follows that the earth from which the moisture of the air is drawn must contain more or less water, and rather with a fimited than with quantity of moisture arising Phone 1046 the earth, and a moderately moist and comparatively still air. The bulletin discusses in detail the numerous devices which have been resorted to for protection against frost. Glass screens are useful for the protection of valuable plants, and in Europe screens made of muslin strung on wires stretched on poles above the tops of vines have been used extensively. Lath screens, with spaces between the lathes about equal to their own width, are extensively used in Florida. In Wisconsin, eranberry flood the marshes when frost is expected. Thus the high specific heat of the water furnishes protection, though only a portion of a marsh is flooded. In the wheat fields of the Dacotahs, smudge fires built to the windward of areas for which protection is desired have been very successful. A portable smudge fire has been found a considerable advantage. since it can be moved to a new position before a direct upward draft is established, which wastes the heat. and it gives a more uniform distribution of smoke.

We are fortunate in that the necessity does not often arises in these parts for the resort to those artificial agencies to stay the ravages of frost. This is, indeed, a much favored part hence the damaging frost will occur of the universe.

Discussed by Cable Correspondents--Dip-Iomatic Negotiations Nearly Forgotten in the Excitement of Military Move-

> British Government Blamed for Tardiness-Ex traordinary Scenes Mark the Departure of British Troops for South Africa—Best Fighting Generals in the Army Selected.

London, Oct. 9.—Although diplomatic to say that if Majuba Hill repeats negotiations between Britain and the itself, Lord Sulisbury will have only himself to blame. The admiralty is negotiations between Britain and the Transvaal are well nigh forgotten in the expected exciting developments, they are in a peculiar stage and deserve recapitulation. After the last cabinet the Boers had not replied to the latest dispatch, and that the foreign affice, while deciding to consider the question de novo, expected an answer aids in the bringing about of atmos- from the Boers. The papers daily heralded the arrival of the reply, but none came. Many took this silence to mean that the Boers refused to discuss the controversy further; but that this was wrong became evident from President Kruger's reply to the peace telegram of the Transvaal committee in London, in which he said that as the latest British dispatch had asserted that the British Government was formulating new proposals, thus implying that the Boers were waiting for Great Britain's new demands and did not wish to waste breath in discussing propositions already dismissed. What these new demands consist of is still a mystery. THE OTHER POWERS.

First, it was asserted that another cabinet council would pass upon them; but this is now denied by Mr. Chamberlain, who, in answering a dispatch from the progressive members of Cape House of Assembly, said the demands had been communicated to the Transvaal. Whether this has actually been done remains as much an enigma as the nature of the terms themselves. All the public has upon which to base an opinion is the guarded statement of the Duke of Devonshire, lord president of the council, at Manchester. where he declared that these new de mands did not imperil the independ-ence of the Transvaal, the word independence having absolutely opposite meanings in Boer and British interpre-

The German press is making capital out of the report that Great Britain is sacrificing her friendship with the United States in the Somoan matter in order to gain Germany's support in the settlement at Delagoa Bay. It seems certain that an entirely new plan of government is being considered by the three powers interested in Samoa. THE DISPUTE.

Although the week has produced no negotiations tending to throw light upon the merits of the case, it is evident that negotiation has not ceased so far as diplomatic correspondence is concerned. This goes to show that there is no cause for immediate hostil-The pith of the whole dispute, however, is daily becoming clearer. Boers are thoroughly convinced that their supremacy in South Africa is threatened. This constitutes an impasse, against which pacific measures can scarcely be effective. As the possibility of war increases, British onjecture as to the unfriendly attiother European powers in-Reference is frequently made to probable Russian aggression in Asia, while it is thought that France in the event of hostilities is sure to become active in Northern Africa. THAT GOLD SEIZURE.

Many officers believe that President Kruger's recent seizure of gold is an act of war or is at least justifiable only on the theory that a state of war exists The London manager of the bank of the South African Republic-whose specie was commandeered-takes this view. He said: "I do not consider the seizure of great significance, and I can scarcely blame President Kruger if he believes his country is threatened. I do not expect any more gold to come out of the Transvaal until the crisis

GOVERNMENT BLAMED. The government is much criticised by many of the papers of their own following, as well as by the military authorities, for tardiness in sending out the army corps, some going so far as and experience in the Soudan and himself to blame. The admiralty is also coming in for a share of criticism over the length of time required to get transports. Incompetence and bungling are alleged. Lieut. J. C. Colwell, the United States naval attache in London, when asked regarding this charge, said: "I believe that the admiralty has done splendidly, fully maintaining the reputation of the British navy. I am fairly acquainted with the details of the present operations, and I believe they are another proof of the great advant-ge to be gained by having the navy control the transportation of troops. The Broad Arrow asserts today that the military authorities ought not to be charged with the penalties of proerastination, for which the ministers alone are responsible, since 20,000 men ought to have been sent out to the Cape last June in place of a couple of dozen special service officers and a company of Royal Engineers. As is always the case, it adds, when the

are expended when thousands would have sufficed for adequate defense if

EFFECT OF DELAY.

Another correspondent cables: While the opening of the war depends on some overt act on the part of the Boers, for which Kruger hesitates to a defensive one on the British side until Sir Redvers Buller is on the ground with a full army corps, in addition to the 25,000 or 30,000 regulars display of armed men has the double who will be in South Africa by the end of next week. It will be toward the end of November before the Brit- order. ish army is ready for decisive opera-tions, and a rapid march to Pretoria and Johannesburg. The additional 40,000 regulars can be put on shore and a transport service well organized before the beginning of December, even if the first batch of reserves be called out today and parliament be summoned immediately for the third week of October, in order to vote the financial privileges required for moving an army corps. This delay, while clearly favorable to the British side, especially if the Boers remain inactive within their frontiers and become demoralized as time goes on, is bitterly resented by impatient warriors in both the army and the press.

WAR OFFICE IS WIDE AWAKE. The war office has indeed been in advance of the ministers from the beginning to the end, but it has not underrated the work cut out for it, and is determined not to take any chances if the signal be given for a complete conquest of Dutch Africa. While President Kruger hesitates to issue marching orders there is leisure in England for mobilization.

SCENES OF EXCITEMENT. Extraordinary scenes at Waterloo station are of daily occurrence. Generally, when troops for South Africa arrive from Aldershot or other camps and are marched from point to point, they are preceded by bands, sometimes three of them. The troops are followed by immense crows, who cheer the silent soldiers madly. Once in the train, the soldiers are allowed to give tongue, and answer cheer with cheer. The soldiers manifest intense desire for close contact with the Boers. Many are sons of men killed at Majuba Hill. The war fever is undoubtedly very strong, but among the conservative classes it lacks the flerce intensity which resulted from the German emperor's telegram to President Kruger, at the same land engaged in a wordy tug of war about Venezuela. Mr. Stead could not be left out of any controversy, so he has sent to a number of edit Boer?" One editor replied: "What, in heaven's name, have I to do with your family affairs?" Another responded:
"By all means, if he insists upon it."

object of overawing any possible uprising and establishing permanent GERMAN SYMPATHY. Affairs in South Africa are still commented upon in the press and elsewhere in Berlin in the same anti-British spirit. Sympathy with the Boers is almost everywhere expressed. The Kreuz Zeitung, which represents the opinion of the court, the army and the Conservatives, says: "The sympathies of the German public are altogether on the side of the Boers. Nobody here doubts that they after yielding much to the lordly demands of Great Britain will have nothing left to them but to draw the sword. As is the opinion of Germany, so is the opinion of the world, at least so far as the world is still anti-British. The victory of Great Britain will induce Russia and France to make headway in Asia against her. This is a necessary outcome. The Boers have only terfered out of sympathy. Morality in politics, as now understood, means that the lives of its people, except for its own vital interests; and that all, save under such conditions, should leave to God the adjustment of the affairs of the world." HOSTILE TO ENGLAND Even the Liberal press in Germany is now hostile to England. The Frankfort Zeitung says: "It is a regrettable fact that even in a constitutional country like England the cabinet is enabled to put parliament in the presence of accomplished facts in a way that makes it most impossible for parliament to do anything but consent to warlike measures. The Cologne Gazette calls the coming struggle of the Boers "heroic with the same heroic thought as inspired their struggle in 1881." GAMBLING SCANDAL IN BERLIN. The sensational trial of the club Der Harmlosen has stirred fashionable and sporting circles to the very depths. A peculiar feature of the case is that some of the witnesses belong to the immediate entourage of Emperor Wilall over the empire and many who belong to the guard regiments are implicated, as well as experts, on the correct way of playing baccarat, and men of the highest fashion, like Count von Reventlow, of the Union Club. There was considerable difficulty in getting the experts to appear. One of the most notorious gambling houses in Berlin, when asked tu furnish experts, replied that this was impossible, as its members were not allowed to gamble. Many important witnesses were absent. Some excused them-selves that they had gone hunting in Norway or were about starting Africa for a year, or had sudden ill-

Salt Rheum for 5 Years

The prompt and permanent relief that Burdock Blood Bitters gives from the burning, itching and endless torture of salt rheum is something that cannot be obtained through the use of any other remedy.

Even in the worst cases of long standing when applied externally and taken internally according to directions it cures quickly and completely.

Mrs. Jas. Dalzill, High Bluff, Man., writes: "I have been troubled with salt rheum for five or six years and could get nothing to cure me until I took Burdock Blood Bitters. It only required five bottles to cure me completely, so that I have never suffered since from that terrible disease."

IN CHICAGO Wednesday

The French-Canadians of the Windy City Greet Him.

He Says the British System of Govern ment Is Better Than the American -He Captured His Hearers.

Chicago, Oct. 9.-When Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of the Dominion of Canada, stooped to kiss two little girls who were presenting him with a bunch of roses on the stage of Studebaker hall, yesterday, he won his way at once to the hearts of more than 2,000 persons, who were gathered there to bid himself and party welcome in the name of the French-Canadians of Chicago. The whole audience arose in a body and cheered approval of the graceful act of the chief guest. At the same time two other girls were received in the same welcome manner when they presented Lady Laurier with flowers in the box at the side of the stage. Immediately after this the stage. Immediately after this when Sir Wilfrid had an opportunity to speak he showed his thorough appreciation of the warm welcome tendered him by the French Canadians. He thanked them for their reception of himself and the other officials of Canada. In a brief address he declared that it touched his heart to witness so true an appreciation of his political policy, which he declared to be "equality to all." He said his gospel is conciliation." He also referred to the close relations existing between the United States and Canada. He said that in past years many young men had gone from the Dominion into the States because of the greater resources in the latter country, but now, owing to revived prosperity, he said, emigration from Canada is ceasing. He closed his address by again thanking the audience for their welcome.

After the close of Sir Wilfrid's address, which was delivered in French, a man in the center of the hall arose and asked the speaker to say some-thing in English, as a part of the audience had not understood any of his remarks. In response to this request the premier spoke as follows:

"I listened with great pleasure, understanding the invitation which has been addressed to me by my friend in the audience. I would readily comply with it but for one reason. I will give you the reason why I cannot answer that invitation as I would wish. In the month of January last I was in the city of Washington, acting as Brit-ish commissioner to endeavor to settle certain difficulties which we had with our American neighbors. Inci-dentally I may say, ladies and gentlemen, that even in the best of families little quarrels sometimes occur, and it so happens that at this moment there are not what I call a quarrel but a number of difficulties, among them the Alaskan boundary question. (Applause.) While endeavoring to settle these difficulties in Washington I attended a demonstration very much of the character of the present one. I Roath Brothers & Co., One effect of the cut in the Canadian domestic postal rate has been a large reduction in the number of postal system of government was superior to all other systems, because

"Let me say that I am a Canadian this is a free country, where liberty of speech prevails. Therefore if I had the pleasure of being able to speak my mind I would have told Mr. Justice Harlan, for he was the justice to whom I referred, that the British system of government is superior to the American. But, as has already been said, Americans are governed by law, and that being so, we must obey the law, and the law today is that I am not to speak the English language, but to speak it tomorrow. But even at the risk of committing a breach of the law, let me thank the people of Chicago for their kind and cordial reception, which they have given to a brother of the north."

Mr. Laurier was followed by Mr. Alphonse Pelletier, president of the Canadian senate, and Mayor Prefontaine, of Montreal, who paid an eloquent tribute to their fellow-countrymen in the United States.

Today's programme for the Canadian visitors begins at 9:30, when Sir Wilfrid and the remainder of his party will be formally presented to President Mc-Kinley and members of the cabinet at the Auditorium. The Canadians will then go to view the corner-stone ceremonies, and after luncheon at the Union League Club, will view the afternoon parade. In the evening Sir Wilfrid speaks at the banquet at the Auditorium. Wednesday the Canadian officials will be entertained at luncheon given by the Canadian-Americans of Chicago. After this they will leave for Judgment Will Be Given in the North Waterloo Election Trial-Evidence All In.

Berlin, Ont., Oct. 8 .- When the North Waterloo election trial was resumed Saturday, the charges against James Cormack, of Guelph, were gone on Four Arabians testified to having been offered money by Cormack to vote for Breithaupt. H. Cormack, sworn, said he was in Berlin at the time of the election. His business here was on another matter altogether. He came to Berlin to dispose of patent ash-sifters, and called on different parties. He denied ever offering Arabians any money.

Herman Ebby, sworn, corroborated McCormack's testimony about the ashsifter business. Other witnesses testified likewise. In rebuttal Mr. Stewart, traveler for Williams, Greene & Rome, sworn, said McCormack got on the train at Guelph, and in conversation told him, (Stewart) that he was sent down from Guelph to assist in the election. Mr. Aylesworth argued the Cormack charges and said little credence could be placed on these citizens, who are not posted in our language, and he strove to point out how it might have in a sjocular manner that Cor mack had made this offer of money. No evidence as to Cormack being an agent was adduced, and he was unknown to Reform party. Neither was Cummings proved to be an agent.

Mr. McPherson said the evidence pointed strongly to agency of Cummings. He was on the list of delegates to the convention, and shown to be there by evidence adduced. If Cormack was going about for corrupt practices, Cummings was his partner, and accompanied him, and it must be conceded he was implicated in the same mission, namely, of bribing voters for Breithaupt. This closed the enthusia they doubtless make a great his

I have great and although the night was terrificadmiration for the American constitution and system of government, but crowded to the doors, and in spite of this trying and annoying handicap, the performance went with a dash and spirit. The critics of the metropolis recorded a success, but they as well as Mr. Daly himself at the time, scarcely counted on a metropolitan run of over five months, which extended almost through February, as well as a vogue for the delightful melodies of the score that would place them on the list of every dance, give them prominence at band concerts, hear them played and sung in parlor and drawing-room, and even send them into the public schools to sing at their exhibitions. The scenery and costumes of "A Runaway Girl" are said to be marvels of taste and ele-"A Runaway Girl," with its matchless cast of principals and grand chorus of 50 voices, will be presented in this city for the first time at the Grand Opera House tomorrow evening, and a large and fashionable audience is as-

The instant and electric success of "A Runaway Girl," on its first critical hearing at Daly's Theater, New York, proves again the homely old saw, "What's worth doing at all is worth doing well." Rarely has an opera been placed upon the stage that evidences such thorough artistic taste and serious intent to do the best possible with the material furnished, and regardless of expense, as does this new opera, specially written for Mr. Augustin Daly, New York, from eminent English authors and composers. There is an enormity of work about putting a big production like "A Runaway Girl" on the stage, and the public knows absolutely nothing about it, and the man to do it well needs to be a man of many parts, and withal an artist, which role, by the way, is rarely thought of when we think of the manager of a dramatic or operatic company.

WEST'S MINSTRELS.

W. H. West's Minstrels drew big houses Saturday afternoon and evening. The curtain rose on a blaze of light and color. The arrangement of the chorus and stage settings was brilliant, artistic and wholly pleasing. The voices were excellent, and the orchestra all that could be desired. Carroll Johnson and Tom Lewis were funnier than ever, with an easy, confident humor quite different from the old-time knockabout business. The songs were good and catchy, and many of the jokes had not yet lost the bloom of youth. Richard J. Jose's unclassifiable tenor "brought down the house." Its sweetness and power and high range were a perpetual marvel. The intermezzo from Mascagni's opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana," by the follow-ing sextet of voices, R. J. Jose (exontra tenor), H. A. Ansdell (first tenor), T. H. P. Harle (second tenor), Charles Weber (baritone), Jos. Garland (basso cantante), J. P. Rodgers (basso), was beautiful performance. The signal lights, a series of graceful maneuvers with different colored railroad lanterns, was novel, effective and exceedingly pretty. The acrobatic ex-hibition by the Luxen brothers was probably the most graceful thing in its line ever seen here. Howard and Mack had a good comic turn, and Tommy Hayes' performances with the bones. table cutlery and wine glasses was very interesting. It may not have been Tom Lewis' fault, but the alleged comic skit, "Senator Applejack," was very slow, and out of keeping with the rest of the

Rev. Dr. Leonard Gaetz, of Brantdon, Manitoba, preached in the First Methodist Church last evening, and every available seat was occupied. He is a man of strong physique, with a rich, sonorous voice, and there is nothing about him suggestive of the time when, sixteen years ago, he was forc-ed, by poor health, to retire from the ministry.

In a few words, Dr. Gaetz told the congregation of his pleasure in again speaking to them. It had been his in-tention when he left his western home to plead off from preaching, but when he found he could lay over one day he could not resist the temptation to come to the First Methodist Church and tell his old congregation of his gratitude to them for so helping him in the days of his illness, as to again enable him to enter the work of the ministry. He chose as his text Deutronomy, vi., 11-12, "When Thou Shalt have eaten and be full, then beware, lest thou forget the Lord." He urged increasing liberality, especially in connection with the century thanksgiving offering which the church is about to make The time referred to in the words of his text was a momentous one in the history of the Israelites. The old covenants were about to be fulfilled, and hereafter they would live in houses of timber and stone, and would know nothing of the circumstances of discomfort and deprivation in which they had lived previously. It was desirable, therefore that they should be warned against forgetting the Lord, who had placed them in their new position. For it is a common occurrence, as a result of a sudden acquisition of MacDonald as having feet of pure gold and a head of chaff and sawdust, is prone to take what comes, as theirs justly, and remember not that it came to them only through the Lord; and looking at humanity from this standpoint, the speaker could not but believe that the common sin of man-kind is not found in the eccentricities or idiosyncracies of natural life, but is found in their utter selfishness. A life devoted to self-gain and self-ambition is essentially contrary to the spirit of God, it is the bane of concord, it is the defeat of prayer, it is the dead weight of the church today. We take the civilization of today with its advances in service and education and commercial facilities we take all these gifts, and more, and then turn away and ferget the giver. Men must install God in their business enterprises and successes and in the development of the church. There were direct reasons why the Methodist Church should work in a special manner at this time. There was strong evidences that God had been showering his mercies upon it, and God could well look forward to a return from the church that he had raised from the mire of stagnation to its present position as the strongest Protestant power in the world.

A special interest attached to the services in the York Street Mission yesterday, as it was the fourth annivers ary of Mr. Thomas Belcher's work in connection with its establishment. The attendance was large at both services. Mrs. McD. Weld, of the Moody Institute, Chicago, addressed the congregation in the morning, and Mr. Belcher preached an anniversary sermon in the evening, special music being provided upon both occasions.

On the occasion of the harvest home services in Petrolia yesterday, Rev. Mr. Craig, of that town, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Canon Dann. His sermon centered around the words found in I. John, v., 5, "Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God," and he emphasized the vast importance of having a strong faith in Our Saviour. The collections, which were very large, were for the missions in the diocese of Algoma.

Yesterday was rally Sunday at the First Congregational Sunday school and many of the parents of the scholars were present, together with a number of former scholars. Kev. Thomas McKay, of Plymouth, Pa., addressed the school briefly, and special music was rendered. Rev. Mr. McKay, occupied the pulpit at both the morning and evening services. morning he spoke on "God's Works," and in the evening on "Jordan's Ferry boat." Rev. W. E. Todd, of Brookfield. The congregation of St. Andrew's Church wershiped in the Auditorium yesterday, and will continue to do so every Sunday until the completion of the alterations to their church.

William Smith Sent for Trial for Assisting His Son to Escape From Custody-Six Months for Vagrancy.

Hanna testified that he had got off his car to turn a switch at the fair grounds loop, when Simmons came riding along on his bicycle. Simmons yelled to him to get out of the way, but Hanna did not move, as there was lots of room on the road for Simmons to pass. The latter ran into him and fell from his wheel in the mud. Simmons then picked up a stone and struck him in the side. Simmons had picked up a second stone, and, with an oath, threatened to again strike him.

Simmons said Hanna had knocked him from his wheel into the mud. He did not deny throwing the stone. Simmons, who was out on suspended sentence, was fined $20 or a month in the common jail.

16.000 Boers at Natal Border-Times Correspondent Pays a Secret Visit to Their Camp.

London, Oct. 9.-The vastness of Great Britain's preparations-seemingly out of all proportion to the work in hand in South Africa-was not fully realized by the public until the war office announced that 25,000 reserves had already been summoned to rejoin the colors. As a matter of fact, Gen. Sir Redvers Buller will have command of twice as many British soldiers as the Duke of Wellington. The reasons back of this lavish display are probably a fear of a native rising, and possibly a conviction of the advisability of showing to Europe that Great Britain is prepared to resent any action re-sulting from the prevalent continental ill-will. In this connection the action of the American department of state, and the friendly statements of President Mckinley and Secretary of State hay, published here, are heartily welcomed as a happy return for Great Britain's refusal to sanction continental intervention in the war between the United States and Spain. As the Boers failed to attack Natal when the colony was vulnerable, it is beginning to be felt that they are pursuing a deliberate policy of waiting for the Brit-ish proposals, remaining in the meantime on the defensive, in the hope of thus winning the sympathies of the world, and, perhaps, the support of other nations, and leaving to Great Britain the ignominy of starting hos-If they await the advance of Gen. Sir Redvers Buller, it is conceivable that peace will not be broken during the present year. Should that prove the case, and should the alleged wastage in the Boers' commandoes continue, the force confronting the British commanding general will be neither as numerous nor as efficient as that now encamped along the Natal border. Events have thus seemed to AMPLE TIME FOR CONSIDERA-

BUSINESS IS QUITE ACTIVE

Bradstreet's Weekly Review of Ca nadian Wholesale Trade.

New York. Oct. 9 .- Wholesale business in Montreal is active. There is a large demand for fall goods. The demand for hardware and metals is active and building material is selling freely. Labor is well employed, and the purchasing power of the masses is higher now than for a fumber of years. Values continue very firm. There has been an advance in Canadian cotton goods of from one-quarter to one-half cent per yard. Many lines of iron manufactures have been advanced. Shipping is very active. There is a larger movement in hog products, and prices are very firm.

Trade at the coast is in good shape. Money is plentiful and business is ex-

Fine, warm weather in Manitoba lately has not helped the business in fall drygoods, but the prospects for a more active demand with lower temperature are good, and business men expect a large increase in sales this fall over last year. There is a better demand for groceries. The farmers' deliveries of wheat are increasing, and more money is, as a result, being circulated. Business is beginning to feel the effects of this, and payments are improving. There has been a marked improvement in Toronto wholesale trade, due to the finer weather. Orders from travelers are numerous and of good size. Business at the country centers is more active now. Money is more plentiful, and country remittances are improving. Values continue very firm, with a decided upward tendency in many lines.

The Strange Metamorphosis.

Down by Paul, however, the discipne was relaxed enough, as perhaps could only be expected on the first day of term. One wild-eyed, long-haired boy had brought out a small china figure, with which, and the assistance of his right hand draped in a pocket-handkeywhick and wielding a penhandkerchief, and wielding a pen-holder, he was busy enacting a drama based on the lines of Punch and Judy, to the breathless amusement of his meighbors.

Mr. Bultitude might have hoped to escape notice by a policy of judicious self-effacement, but, unhappily, his long, blank, uninterested face held by his companions to bear an im-plied reproach, and being delicately sensitive on these points they kicked his legs viciously, which made him ex-tremely glad when dinner-time came, aithough he felt too faint and billous to be tempted by anything but the lightest and daintiest luncheon.

But at dinner he found, with a shud-der, that he was expected to swallow a thick, ragged section of boiled mutton, which had been carved and helped so long before he sat down to it that the stagnant gravy was chilled and congealed into patches of greasy

He managed to swallow it, with many pauses of invincible disgust, only to find it replaced by a solid slab of pale-brown suet pudding, sparsely be-dewed with unctuous black treacle.

This, though a plentiful, and by no means unwholesome fare for growing boys, was not what he nad been accustomed to, and, feeling far too heavy and unwell after it to venture upon an encounter with the doctor, he wandered slowly and melancholy around the bare, graveled playground, during the half-hour after dinner devoted to the inevitable "chevy," until the doctor appeared at the head of the staircase. It is always sad for the historian to have to record a departure from principle, and I have to confess with shame, on Mr. Bultitude's account, that, feeling the doctor's eye upon him, and striving to propitiate him, he humiliated himself so far as to run about with an elaborate affectation of zest, and his exertions were rewarded by hearing himself cordially encouraged to further effort. put him in a good temper," he told himself; "if I can only keep him in one till the evening, I really think I might be able to go up and tell him what a ridiculous mess I've got into. Why should I care, after all? At least I've done nothing to be ashamed of. It's an accident that might have happened to any man."

It is a curious and unpleasant thing that, however reassuring and convinc-ing the argument may be with which we succeed in bracing ourselves to meet or disregard unpleasantness, the force of those arguments seldom or never outlasts the frame of mind in which they are composed, and, when the unpleasantness is at hand, there are, just as unreasonably alarmed at it as ever.

Mr. Bultitude's confidence faded away almost as soon as he found himself in the schoolroom again. He found himself assigned to a class at one end of the room, where Mr. Tink-ler presently introduced a new rule algebra to them, in such a manner as to procure for it a lasting unpopularity with all those who were not too much engaged in drawing duels and railway trains upon their slates to at-

Although Paul did not draw upon has slate, his utter ignorance of al-gebra prevented him from being much edified by the cabalistic signs on the blackboard, which Mr. Tinkler seemed to chalk up dubiously, and rub out again as soon as possible, with an air of being ashamed of them. So he tried to nerve himself for the coming ordeal by furtively watching and studying the doctor, who was taking a Xenophon class at the upper end of the room, and, being in fairly good humor, was combining instruction with amusement, in a manner peculiarly his own. He stopped the construing occasionally, to illustrate some word or passage by an anecdote; he condescended to endiven the translation here and there by a familiar and colloquial parahrase; he magnanimously refrained from pressing any obviously inconveni-ent questions, and his manner, gen-erally, was marked by a geniality which was additionally piquant from Its extreme uncertainty.

Mr. Bultitude could not help thinking it a rather ghastly form of gayety. but he hoped it might last.

Presently, however, some one brought him a long blue envelope on a tray. He read it, and a frown gathered on his face. The boy, who was translating at the time, went on again in his former slip shod manner (which had hitherto provoked only jovial criticism and correction) with complete self-complacency, but found himparts of the property to hook and hurnad ceased to amuse. Then began a season of sore trial and tribulation for the class. The doctor suddenly withdrew the light of his countenance from them, and sunshine was succeeded by blackest thunderclouds. The wind was no longer tempered to the more closely shorn of the flock; the weakest vessels were put on unexpectedly at crucial pas-sages, and, coming hopelessly to grief, were denounced as imposters and id-lers, till half the class was dissolved

A few of the better grounded stood the fire, like a remnant of the Old Guard in the Peninsula. With faces pale from alarm, and trembling voices, but perfect accuracy, they answered all the doctor's searching inquiries after the paradigms of Greek verbs that seemed irregular to the verge of impropriety.
Paul saw it all with renewed mis-

"If I were there," he thought, "I should have been run out and flogged long ago! How angry those stupid young idiots are making him! How can I go up and speak to him when he's like that? And yet I must. I'm sitting on dynamite as it is. The very first time they want me to answer any question from some of their books, I shall be ruined! Why wasn't Schwartz, came to the captain and books, I shall be ruined! Why wasn't explained that the boat could proceed I better educated when I was a boy, or why didn't I make a better use of my opportunities? It will be a bit-ter thing if they thrash me for not knowing as much as Dick. Grimstone's coming this way now; it's all over with me !" The Greek class had mananged to repel the enemy, with some loss to themselves, and the doctor now left his place for a moment, and came down toward the bench on which

Paul sat trembling. The storm however, had passed over for the present, and he only said, with restored calmness, "who were the boys who learned dancing last term?"

One or two of them said they had done so, and Dr. Gri...zione continued: "Mr. Buidekin was unable to give you the last lesson of his course last term, and has arranged to take you today, as he will be in the neighborhood. So be off at once to Mrs. Grimstone and change your shoes. Bultitude, you learned last term, too. Go with

Mr. Bultitude was too overcome by this unexpected attack to contradict it, though, of course, he was quite able to do so: but then if he had, he must have explained all; and he felt strongly that just then was neither the time nor the place for particulars.

It would have been wiser, perhaps, it would certainly have brought matters to a crisis, if he could have forces. ed himself to tell everything—the whole truth in all its outrageous improba-bility-but he could not. Let those who feel inclined to blame him for lack of firmness consider how difficult and delicate a business it must always of necessity be for anyone to declare openly, in the teeth of common sense and plain facts, that there has been a mistake, and, in point of fact, he is not his own son, but his own father.

"I suppose I must go," he thought. Haven't danced since I was a young man. But I can't afford to offend him just now." And so he followed the rest into a sort of cloak-room, where the tall hats which the boys wore on Sundays were all kept on shelves in white band-boxes; and there his hair was brushed, his feet were thurst into very > Angry Excursionists-Incident of the Yacht Race.

New York, Oct. 9.-A crowd of sporting men from Philadelphia came to New York recently, bringing a big boat, the Georgiana, with them. They advertised extensively in the newspaper tickets for the yacht races at $2 apiece, took about 800 on board, started down the bay Saturday morning, from Pier 6, North River, and as soon as the boat had let loose from the dock and away from police interference, opened a sort of Monte Carlo on board. About noon, and as the boat was off Coney Island, she suddenly shut off steam and began to drift about the lower bay and the Jersey shore. The drifting continued for an hour, and the passengers began to feel uneasy, as they were not yet within five miles, of the course of the yachts. They demanded of the captain, Alex. Sterck, why he did not continue down toward the race course.

no further, as the water pipes leading from the boiler to the engine had burst. Other reports came from below that the ship had sprung a leak. A panic on board seemed imminent. It was headed off by the coolness of Capt. Norton, of Hartford, Conn., who went in person to the captain of the ship, and demanded that he take them to the

The captain said he could do nothing as the boat was in charge of the Philadelphia men. He then left the deck, and went down into the hold and re-mained there until the boat reached

Cant. Norton then called for assistance, and a guard of 50 passengers was organized, and took a stand fore and aft on the boat and hoisted a Union Jack at half-mast, and flew the United States flag with union down.

A fight between the vigilants and the Philadelphia men followed. All the passengers on board took a hand in the fight and forced several gamblers back, handling some of them roughly. Women fainted on all parts of the ship. Capt. Norton, with a brigade, then threw all the gambling paraphernalia overboard after a hard scuffle with the owners of the game. Henry F. Post, pilot of the boat, steered the craft toward the Battery. Police Inspectors Cross and Brooks arrived and cleared the pier of the thousands who had gathered. Capt. Norton came ashore and stood by the gang plank, identifying men he said were gamblers as they came off the boat. They were immediately arrestboat. ed by the police together with the cap-tain of the boat. They were charged with disorderly conduct. In all, twelve persons were placed under arrest.

Child Was Injured by Heavy Shot Dropped by Father-A Narrow Escape.

Tonawanda, Oct. 9. - Little Sarah Burd, the 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. Frank Burd, who is stopping with her mother in Main street on the south side, accidentally fell into the cistern Friday afternoon while playing near it with some other children. The other children alarmed Mrs. Fitzgerald, the little child's grandmother, who is an aged woman of perhaps 50 years, who at once ran to the scene. Seeing at a glance that something must be done, and forgetting her advanced age, she plunged into the cistern into water up to her shoulders, and catching the little one as she was going down for the last time, raised here above her head and held her there until the children who were standing above had dragged a ladder

The ladder was put down into the cistern with much difficulty and Mrs. Fitzgerald, nearly exhausted, climbed to the top with the child in her arms.

The cries of the children attracted the attention of some neighbors, who ran to Mrs. Fitzgerald's assistance. The little child, who was unconscious, was taken in hand, and restoratives were freely applied, after which she re-gained her senses. The little girl's face and hands were badly lacerated from coming in contact with nails in her descent into the cistern A CLOSE CALL.

While Dr. J. L. Macpherson, of this city, was practicing putting the shot, at his home, the heavy shot fell from his hand while his arm was extended over his shoulder, and fell upon the head of his little son, who was stand-ing behind him watching his father practice. The force of the heavy plece of iron knocked the little fellow to the ground. His father carried the boy to the house and sent for Dr. Potter, Niagara Falls, who came to this city at once. Both Dr. Potter and the dis-tracted father worked over the boy for several hours, and were at last re-warded by seeing him regain consci-ousness. Later in the afternoon Mrs. Macpherson informed a reporter that her son was out of danger and that he would recover.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a discovery of great value to the medical profession and the public. They are an unfailing specific in all cases of dyspepsia and disordered digestion. Almost everybody's digestion is disordered more or less, and the com-monest thing they do for it is to take some one of the many so-called blood punifiers, which in many cases are merely strong cathartics. Such things are not needed. If the organs are in a clogged condition, they need only a little help, and they will right them-selves. Cathartics irritate the sensitive linings of the stomach and bowels, and often do more harm than good. Purging is not what is needed. The thing to do is to put the food in condition to be readily digested and assimilated. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this perfectly. They partly digest what is eaten and give the stomach just the help it needs. They stimulate the secretion and excretion of the di-gestive fluids and relieve the congested condition of the glands and mem-branes. They put the whole digestive system in condition to do its work. When that is done, you need take no more tablets unless you eat what does not agree with you. Then take one or two tablets—give them needed help, and you will have no trouble. It's a common sense medicine and common sense treatment, and it will cure every time. Not only cure the disease, but cure the cause. Goes about it in a perfectly sensible and scientific

HEAD OFFICES OF THE COMPANY-

Manning Arcade, King Street West, Toronto.

The Equitable Mining and Developing Company of Ontario, Limited, was organized for the purposes set forth in its charter, being the powers granted under the Ontario mining companies incorporation act, a synopsis of such powers being as follows: "To open, develop, work, smelt and manage iron and other mines, to acquire by purchase or lease, other legal title, mines, mining lands or mineral properties, to construct, maintain on the property of the company, or property controlled by the company, buildings, stores, etc., and to do all such matters and things as shall be incidental or necessary to the due attainment of the object of the company." The company is at present operating its mine of high-grade hematite iron ore, situated in Frontenac County, Township of Storrington, and in the report of an investigation by Professor A. B. Willmott, M.A., B.Sc., of Mc-Master University, of one deposit only, he speaks as follows:

"I examined the iron location on Lots 18, 19 and 20 of the X Concession of Storrington. The ore occurs as a somewhat horizontal bed of hematite in the Potsdam sandstone, which here forms the summit of a low ridge of crystalline limestone. The top of the hill is about 100 feet above the lake, which is part of the Rideau Canal. The ore bed dips slightly to the northeast, about in the direction of the ridge, which is N. 60 degrees E. The ore occurs near the summit of the cliff at the south of the opening, and reaches the water level some 800 feet northeast, on the boundary of the property. The iron deposit is thus in a most favorable position for easy and cheap mining and for The extent of the deposit is, by its nature, determined by the length and breadth of the hill and the thickness of the bed. Two openings on the face of the cliff show the thickness of the bed to be, respectively, 8 feet and 12 feet. These openings are 135 feet apart, and there is every probability of the ore being continuous between them. The only exposure on the opposite side of the ridge is at the depression on the top, 30 feet southeast of the southern open-The ore already in sight, with no development, is 135 feet long, 30 feet wide and averages 10 feet thick.

"As the hill averages 200 feet wide, and indications of ore are found 300 feet apart, there is a probability of finding at least 100,000 tons. . "An analysis of an average sample from the southern opening, taken right across the bed, shows metallic iron, 50.8 per cent, equal to 72.5 per cent of hematite. A sample of the better looking ore yielded 65 per cent iron. By a little sorting the ore will grade 55 per cent.

"Toronto, Sept. 2, 1899.

An analysis of ore from this property, yielding 51.32 per cent metallic iron, made by Mr. J. B. Cochrane, of the Royal Military College, Kingston, is as follows: Iron oxide.....73.318 per cent., equals 51.323 per cent metallic iron

As there is a sufficient quantity of ore, the mining of which will require many years, and as the demand for this particular ore is increasing, the comny anticipates, from the sale of its ore a large yearly income. By a contract made with the Hamilton Steel and Iron Company, under date of the 16th of August, 1899, the company receives, after deducting all expenses of mining and shipping, a net profit of $2 per ton.

There is no industry in Canada today that offers greater returns than the mining of iron ore, when it can be produced at reasonable prices. The bounty given by the Government of $1 per ton on iron made from Ontario ore is to encourage the production of Ontario ore, and enables the smelter to pay for such ore more than can be given for foreign ore, and the report of the Ontario Bureau of Mines shows that in the great Province of Ontario last year only 27,409 tons of ore were mined, yet 48,253 tons of pig fron were The percentage of American ore used was 72%, leaving 27% of Ontario

The bounty of $1 per ton on all iron produced from Ontario ore means that the company has free mining, and its property, situated as it is on the waters of the Rideau Canal, gives a low cost of transportation and enables the company to place its ore at the existing smelters more cheaply than any mine at present in Ontario.

Judgment was given on Saturday by Squire Lacey, dismissing the charges of malicious damage to property, a chemical engine, put out the fire preferred by James Craig against Archibald Carrothers, of Westminster township. Carrothers went to Craig's to move the furniture of his (Carrothers to the stairs.

Dr. Moore accompanied the firemen to the scene, but could do nothing to save Mrs. Dixon's life. When discovered Mrs. Dixon was unconscious to move the furniture of his (Carrothers') mother, who had come to the city to reside, and on taking one load he was told by his sister, Mrs. Craig, not to return for more. He drove to Craig's a second time, and was met by Mrs. Craig, who locked the gate to prevent him driving on to the place. Carrothers lifted the gate off its hinges, drove in, and loaded the mainder of the furniture. Mr. M. D. Fraser appeared for Carrothers, and Mr. Love for the prosecutor, and at the suggestion of both lawyers Squire Lacey referred the matter to Crown Attorney Magee, who said there was no foundation for the charges. Plaintiff will have to pay the costs.

Hodgins, youngest son of ex-Reeve Hodgins, of M.A., rector of St. Johns parish. The bride was charmingly attired in brown silk, trimmed with white silk lace and silver buckles. She was attended by cousins, Miss Alma L. Hodgins and Miss Grace Armitage, who acted as maid of honor, and carried a beautiful basket of flowers containing the wedding ring. The groom was sup-ported by his cousin, Mr. George Ardiel. After the ceremony a splendid dinner was provided and partaken A short programme then followed. Among those who took part were Miss Kathleen Fox, of Lucan; Miss Gertrude Armitage, of London; Miss E. Guest and R. Hudson. The number of valuable presents served as tokens of respect and esteem in which the young couple are held by their many well-wishing friends. Mr. and Mrs. Hodgins will reside after Oct. 16 in their new home on con. 7, lot 15, London township.

Mr. M. B. Connick, of Middleton, P. E. I., Makes a Strong Assertion.

Middleton, P.E.I., Oct. 9.-The strongest point in favor of Dodd's Kidney Pills is that they will cure Bright's Disease; and the next strongest is that there is no other medicine that will.
Mr. M. B. Connick, a blacksmith on Prince Edward Island for this last quarter of a century, found this out. He had tried every medicine but the right one, and then, learning that Dodd's Kidney Pills were the only cure for Bright's Disease, he tried them. Ten boxes cured him.

"I would not be alive and strong today," he wrote recently, "if it were not for Dodd's Kidney Pills. All the country knows my case, and there have been hundreds to ask me about it. Terrible Catastrophe to Mrs. Thomas Dixon, of King Street.

She Fell White Carrying an Oil Lamp -Triple Tragedy Narrowly Avarted.

Mrs. Thomas Dixon, one of the oldest residents of London, met a horrible death at the family residence, 356 King street, Saturday evening. About 8 p.m., Mrs. Dixon, who was 80 years of age, and very feeble, started upstairs carrying a coal oil lamp. In some manner she stumbled and fell at the foot of the stairs. Her clothing took fire from the lamp, and the poor old lady was so badly burned that death resulted two hours later.

Her son James was asleep in the house at the time of the accident, but knew nothing of it. Messrs. Watts and Campbell, who were passing along the street, noticed the blaze and broke into the house. They discovered Mr. Dixon, sen., who is over 90 years of age, totstolen from in front of Hunt's plumbing store, Dundas street, on Saturday flames with his palsied hands. The stra ers ran to his assistance and Mrs. ixon was removed to a place of safety. But it was too late. The ar-rival of outside assistance averted a still greater tragedy, however, for in a few moments the conflagration would have spread, which would have doubtless meant the perishing of the en-tire family. A telephone message was sent to No. 1 fire company, who, with she never regained consciousness. She died at Victoria Hospital. The remains were horribly burned, one side of the face being greatly disfigured.

Besides the aged husband, two sons, William, of Michigan, and James, of this city, survive.

FOOD TO HEALTH

Health Food Company There is nothing that people who have it are such spendthrifts of as health, and there is nothing that those who lack it would give so much to possess. The perfectly healthy are joyous, buoyant, light-hearted, without any apparent cause. They are glad with the pure joy of living. They succeed in their work because they go about it with zest and superabundant energy. They are the life of every company because of the surplus of animal spirits and their own keen enjoyment of the pleasures of life. They radiate a genial warmth and cheeriness. No price would be too great to pay for the clear brain, the calm, strong nerves, the buoyant spirit, and the physical attractiveness and comfort of health.

The hurry and worry and high ten-sion of modern life has produced a much more sensitive organism in the present generation than was the case with their forefathers. The American nation has become notoriously a nation of dyspeptics. Advertisements of dyspepsia remedies stare at the reader from every newspaper and from every sign board. But though medicine may relieve, it cannot cure. Only a rational method of eating and living can restore or preserve health. Sensitive and delicate as the human digestive organism is, disastrous and far-reaching as the consequences of any derangement of it are by bitter experience known to be, in nothing else does the average individual display so much gross ignorance and criminal carelessness as in the matter of eating. Parents think their children are well fed when they allow them to fill their stomachs with a mass of food without any regard to its digestion or its nutritive value. The food ferments and rots, the child gets ill, and the doctor is asked to relieve the diseased condition, only to have the process repeated. The result has been a generation of dyspeptics. The only remedy is to have food prepared on scientific principles. Dr. J. H. Kellog, who is at the head of the world-famed Battle Creek Sanitarium, early realized this. He. together with America's leading physiologists, devoted years to the produc-tion of foods that should at the same tion. Much of the machinery used in their preparation was invented by Dr. Kellog for the purpose. The result has been a number of delicious foods, such as Granose, Granola, Granose Biscuit and Caramel Cereal, which have won the strongest indorsement of physicians everywhere.

The products of the Battle Creek

Sanitarium Health Food Company are now known in every city and town in the United States. A Canadian branch has been established in this city. It is the only factory of the kind in the Dominion. It occupies a large brick building at the corner of Colborne and Pall Mall streets. An Advertiser re-porter called at the factory the other day, where visitors are always made welcome, and was permitted to watch the process of manufacture of the various foods. The plant is a most expensive one. Everything is done by machinery. In the preparation of Granose only the choicest wheat is used. It is boiled for 2½ hours, run through a hopper which presses it out into thin flakes, and is then exposed to a dry heat at 400 degrees for two hours. The process changes all the starch into dextrin, which makes it easy of digestion. Scientific precision and immaculate cleanliness characterizes sell the processes.

Sketch of Rev. Dr. Gaetz's Career Since He Left London-New Church at Brandon.

"I cannot think that my work would be worthy of a newspaper notice. Personally, I am averse to newspaper interviews. I believe in depending upon work accomplished without newspaper comment."

These were the few terse expressions which greeted an Advertiser reporter when he called upon Rev. Dr. Leonard Gaetz, Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. George Robinson, and they are characteristic of the man who, with health broken, but with an undaumted health broken, but with an undaumted for nearly a week, but one day when he came home very much interiested and the strength of the came home very much interiested and the strength of the same home very much interiested and the strength of the same home very much interiested and same home very much interiested and same home very much interiested. which greeted an Advertiser reporter in becoming one of the most powerful some time, from the ministry. He retired to his country home near Hamilton; although his congregation retained him as their minister for another year, he was unable to return to the charge. Upon the advice of his physician, he determined to engage in agricultural pursuits. With this end in view he left, with his family, in April, 1884, for Red Deer, Alberta. While there he engaged in farming and ranching for ten or eleven years. During this time he preached only occasionally. He undertook several secular offices, and besides being postmaster for about ten years, he was Dominion land agent for some time. It was not until 1895, however, that he had recovered sufficiently to re-enter the ministry. In July of that year he joined the Manitoba Northwest Conference, during its session at Regina, and was appointed to Northwest Conference, during its session at Regina, and was appointed to the town of Brandon, where ha has since remained. Throughout the latter part of 1898 until the present time he has been engaged in prosecuting the erection of a new Methodist church,

At present, Dr. Gaetz, in company with several other western representa-tives, is en route for the city of Quebec, where the general board of missions meets on the 12th inst. A special effort is to be made to promote mission work among the many Canadian and foreign emigrants who have come into that country in the past year. The changes that have taken place in the clous drink known, but that while it is west since he left his old charge in made entirely from wheat it has the this city have been of such vast importance that the western ministers feel that a special claim may justly be made upon the Mission Society for increased funds with which to forward the work. Many Londoners will note with pleasure that during the past two or three years Dr. Gaetz's health has materially improved. "In fact," he said, "I have a very confident hope of being able to engage in the work of the ministry for a considerable number of years.
