THE QUEEN'S POWER. London, Sept. 14.-The recent disclosures in the publication of the Bismarckian letter of 1875, in which it was seen how Queen Victoria, by writing to Emperor William, first foiled Bismarck's plans for the final conquest and division of France, is a striking instance of her power, when she chooses to exert it. Apart from the message which she is understood to have sent to the Sultan through Sir y notorious brigands, were executed Philip Currie, expressing her indignation and horror of massacres, the Queen is known to be using her inluence with the Czar. The visit of Paris, Sept. 14.-Twelve persons who the Czar to Balmoral, which was supposed to be purely a family affair, were injured in the recent tornado, devoid of all possible political results, is likely to prove the other way, and to have more practical influence on European politics than either the visit to Vienna or Breslau, or possibly more even than the Paris demonstration.

ENGLAND AND ITALY AGREE. London, Sept. 14.-It is regarded as certain that England and Italy are agreed on their Turkish policy, and it is equally true that if the Anglo-Italian fleets should be ordered force the Dardanelles, the people of both countries would shout in enthustic approval. The popular feeling in Italy is deeply stirred. There is not a town of any importance which had not its committee formed and money collected for the relief of the Cretans, and it required the utmost vigilance of the Government to prevent filibustering expeditions sailing from Italian ports. The Cretans for the moment lo not require assistance, having made peror William entered his special train a pretty good bargain with their op-pressors, and therefore it is proposed o direct the committee's energies and Saturday, after bidding farewell to the money to succor the wretched Armenthe Pope to create a blaze in Italy style, owing to heavy rain storms. which would be difficult to extinguish. THE EUROPEAN CRISIS London, Sept. 14.-The belief grows of banking facilities, and the high rates charged by the cross-roads stronger on all sides that a great crisis is at hand, and that England will be compelled to act with or without the co-operation of the continental powers. The stock market, which is, after all, the best political barometer, was almost panicky Saturday, heavy declines being general throughout list. Consols continued their downward movement, and there was a sharp collapse at the close on the false re-port that a Cabinet Council had been summoned. The concentration of an ings were blown down, while the roofs enormous naval force at the entrance to the Dardanelles continues, and the combined fleet now assembled stronger than when it expected to force a passage a year ago. everything looked peaceful when Mr. Chamberlain left for the United The dominant control Cecil States. Rhodes had exercised in South African affairs has gone, Rhodes himself being under a pledge to come to England to be heard in defense of himself and the British South African Company. Just before Parliament was prorogued Mr. Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Rhodes had not control over a single policeman. Now, Rhodes, usurping the functions of General Sir Fred Carrington, the commander of the British forces, is trying to make peace with the Matabele chiefs. He has offered them terms which General Carrington refuses to accept, and generally deals with affairs in Rhodesia as if he were still master of the situation.

The Matabele war, if it continues, will owe its continuance to differences between Rhodes and Carrington, The former would make peace on conditions which would leave a large section of the natives amed, the latter only on their unconditional surrender and disarmament.

Order has dethroned confusion at Queen's Park, and the great Western Fair may now be seen in its entirety. The finishing touches were applied Saturday night and Sunday, when trains discharged carload after carload of live stock, shipped directly from the Industrial Exhibition at Toronto. The animals were no doubt glad to leave the confinement of the railroad cars for the handsome and roomy new quarters awaiting them. It is said that a number of the veteran horses, cattle, swine and sheep that have visited the Western Fair for some years expressed their grateful surprise at the change, by re-spectively neighing, lowing, bleating and squealing in a very demonstrative

The long rows of horse stalls, which were mostly vacant until Saturday night, are now filled with equine beauties. There never was such a display of horses at the Fair before, thanks to the increased accommodation.

But the greatest surprise of all was the influx of live stock. When the directors built those immense sheds, one block long, they did not dream that space would be lacking on the very first occasion they were used. Everything may now be seen that is to be seen. All the ring attractions were shown this afternoon. The fireworks and the illumination of the grounds will be begun tonight.

THE CITY LOOKS BUSY. The city is assuming a genuine Fair appearance. The outside crowds started to arrive today, and the streets are becoming busier. The weather is cool, though cloudy, and the attendance at the grounds at the time of going to press is very gratifying. SATURDAY'S RING ATTRACTIONS.

Children's Day at the Fair was a complete success. The attendance was away up in the thousands, and equaled, if it did not exceed, that of former years. The admission fee of 10 cents per head does not yield an enormous revenue for the Fair board, but it does yield them the satisfaction of knowing that they place the Fair within reach of the poorest child. wheels, covered several hundred feet of the race track by hand-springs and back somersaults in less time than many could run the same distance.

The majority of the troupe are thoroughbred, simon-pure Arabs, having the swarthy complexions, brilliant dark eyes and black, curly hair of their race. Two or three, who are lighter complexioned, are the sons of English officers and Arabian women. English officers and Arabian women, so Hassan Ben Ali, the chief, told a reporter. Hassan Ben Ali is a reremarkably intelligent man. He says he met the members of his troupe ten years ago in Mecca, where they had cathered during the annual pilgrimage to the shrine of Mohammed. Has-Hassan combined business with his devotions, and organized the company on the spot. They made a European tour before they came to America. Hassan showed the reporter a medal from the King of Portugal and another from the Sultan of Turkey, who also gave them two horses. They were at the World's Fair and Chicago, and previous to that performed privately before President Harrison, and received a certificate from him. His hair hangs down his back, but he dresses in conventional garb and is rather an aristocratic cowboy. His followers, however, have the air of the prairies about them. The Indians were certainly curiosities. There is not the slightest suggestion of Muncey or Chippewa in these bucks. They are unadulterated aborigines from 'way back—just as Fenimore Cooper pictured them in "The Pathfinder" and other rovels which have delighted the imagination of youth. Compared with Pawnee Bill's braves, the Indians that peonic in the property of the prairies about them. The laim that they will save half the fuel required by the ordinary cast iron ovens, is one that appeals forcibly to every housekeeper. Their dress-well, to say the best of it, it is picturesque. It is not for their soaring souls to be circumscribed by the petty limitations of fashion, the one paleface tyrant who cannot make them bend the knee. Noble independence! Fancy limbs fashioned to "leap the rainbows of the brook," encased in degenerate broadcloth, or feet that were made to tread the pathless forests, cramped in patent leather pumps! Perish the thought!

The Alerts, who have amused, and sometimes aggravated the London sheep were to be seen grazing on the park, unable to secure admission to the sheds. The directors were nonplussed by this unexpected turn. It was too much of a good thing. However, they hope to find accommodation for all exhibits.

The first round was merely a sparring exhibition, in which Stevens carried off the honors. In the second the lads went at one another in earnest. In one mix-up Zimpfer claimed that Stevens bit him, and his shoulders showed evidence of Stevens' masticatory efforts. The latter up to the seventh round had the best of go. In that round Zimpfer landed several swings. Just as the bell was sounded they clinched, and Stevens broke away, shouting foul. FITZ AND CORBETT MATCHED. After a long period of talk, Jim Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons, the two great heavyweight fighters, met on Saturday in New York and agreed to fight to a finish for $10,000 a side and the largest purse offered. It was also decided that the fight must take place either before Jan. 1 or March 1. If Corbett should not fight Sailor Sharkey, of San Francisco, whom he is matched to meet before the end of this year, then Pompadour Jim agrees to fight Fitzsimmons any time before that date. But should he fight Shar-key, Corbett declares that he will not be ready to meet Fitzsimmons in the ring until 60 days after that contest is decided. To this arrangement "Lanky Bob" gave his assent.

SUNDAY IN CAMP.

Probably more people visited the camp on Sunday than have ever visited the grounds on a Sunday before.

Early in the morning citizens troop-

ed to the grounds, and they continued to arrive all day. The majority were on foot, but hundreds drove or rode on wheels. At 10 a.m. the church service was held at the accustomed ren-dezvous on the brow of the hill. Under these were seated lady visitors, while all around the hill were clustered the early hour, and this probably accounts for the comparatively small turnout under Col. Lindsay. Piled drums, draped with the colors of the battalons and of the barracks, served as a

The preacher described the occasion of this strange encounter of the leader of the chosen people. Who was this remarkable person that Joshua met? It is the same person who

St. Paul calls the captain of our salvation. Long before he was born in the village of Bethany he appeared from time to time in the strange incarnation. He appeared to Abraham, as Abraham was sitting in the tent door, in the heat of day. He was the strange person who appeared to Jacob; he was the person who stood in the lery furnace, and preserved several com the devouring flame. He was he captain of the Lord's hosts, and I want every man before me to recog-nize in our presence here that same captain. This captain of the Lord's osts appeared to take command of the people of Israel-to supersede their commanders, just as on great occasions earthly commanders have been superseded by the highest officer in the service. Turning the text to present day account, Canon Richardson said that there is another warfare in which the captain of the Lord's host takes all his people with him. Every man who has put on the uniform of the King of Kings, and the Lord of Lords, is led to fight against the world, the flesh and the devil. Perhaps I am addressing some Lively Sunday in the Soldiers' men this morning who have been in active service, but I fancy there are very, very few, because it is so long Canon Richardson on the Great England has been engaged in war. I am addressing men who, in a higher sense, should be at war every day they live. I am addressing men who, from the time they became Christians, were pledged to fight Thousands Attend the Sacred against the three-fold adversaries the world, the flesh and the devil-and if you are not fighting every day you live you are not recognizing Commander-in-Chief Leaves your high position as soldier and fol-lower of the captain. Where does the captain lead his host? He leads them on to certain victory and to certain glory. Joshua was told that he Robbers Who Got More Than They must overcome the seven nations, little and little, until they should at last be entirely exterminated, and so we overcome the foes of our life. No man becomes a perfect saint in an hour, an assured Christian in a day. Prior to leaving for Niagara-on-the Lake on Saturday, Major-General It must be remembered, however, that Gascoigne sent a letter to Col. Smith, the captain of the hosts means to take a great deal of the glory to himdeputy adjutant-general. This letself; he does not wish to give us all ter he asked to have communicated to the credit. Some few years ago the Turks had appointed as commanderall ranks under the command of the D. A. G. in camp, and it has given in-chief of their forces a British officer, namely, Captain Baker, and un-der the commandership of him they the greatest satisfaction. The communication was in the following were noble men and most successful in battle. The Sepoys, under native great Chinese Viceroy, on his visit to England, sought the support and help of a number of British officers, whom he proposes to place in command of Chinese troops. If he succeeds he will not suffer another awful defeat, such as he suffered a few months ago be-fore the forces of Japan." In ordinary warfare, the preacher added, the private soldier fights because it is his duty-he gets very litthoroughly soldier-like spirit, orderly, tle, of any of the glory. Many a brave clean, and the general comfort of the soldier has ended his career working on the roads, breaking stone, and was heard of no more. Sixty thousand men fought under the Duke of Wellington at Waterloo, but history had not left the memory of one single private who fought in that great was greatly pleased to see many cases of instruction being given, and given ably, by officers of the active carnage. The names of not one of the 180 survivors of the charge of the militia to their men. He was also Light Brigade had been preserved in gratified to see that his wishes in history. It is not so with the soldier who fights under the captain of the Lord's hosts. What the poorest sol-

Yon, David Mills on Lord Aberdeen's Action

The Governor-General Did Quite Right.

His Acts Cannot Be Discredited by British Precedents.

Something New About Appointments Made by Hon. Alexander Mackenzie.

Lord Dufferin on How the Bench and the Senate Should Be Made Up.

Sir Charles Tupper has already brought into Parliament his grievance because Lord Aberdeen declined to confirm all the appointments made by the late Government after its defeat. The Opposition leader threatens to again bring the matter up in Parliament, and he may move a vote of censure. There can be but one opinion in the minds of every person who has studied the facts, and that is that Sir Charles will be hopelessly worsted in this attempt to make himself a martyr to the Governor-General's alleged partiality. To get the views of a most trustworthy constitutional authority on this and other points, The Advertiser deputed a representative to call on Hon, David Mills. The conversation is printed be-

Reporter-You have no doubt, Mr. Muls, noticed in the newspapers that a number of official appointments made before the retirement of Sir Chas. Tupper's Government have been canceled upon the report of the Minister of Justice, Speaking from a strictly impartial standpoint, is the cancellation of such appointments a usual or a regular proceeding?

Mr. Mills—I hardly know how to answer your question. Do you mean to institute a comparison between the cases to which you refer, and English appointments? If so, I would say that it is not a usual proceeding, for there are in some of these cases certain irregularities which I do not think will be found in the case of any English appointment. This, no doubt, is due to the fact that in England the conduct of public men in connec-tion with the Executive Government of the country more strictly conforms to well-settled precedents. I dare say their knowledge of the doctrines and usages of the constitution is usually more accurate and minute; and public opinion there will not justify, were it attempted, the practice of serving a party, to the same extent, by using the patronage of the crown.

Reporter—To what difference do you refer? I don't quite follow you. NO BRITISH PRECEDENT.

Mr. Mills-Well, let me illustrate. ments made by the late Government, which were based upon the assumption that a parliamentary appropriation would be required, though no parliamentary appropriation had been made. None had been sought. Now, I don't think you will find in England any instance of that kind. The practice is for the crown, by message, to inform the House of Commons that the public service requires the creation of certain offices of emolument, and Parment is asked for the necessary funds to enable the crown to make them; and the appointments by the crown follow the appropriation by the Commons. It is an act of discourtesy to Parliament to create the offices prior to obtaining the appropriations for the payment of the salaries attached. Let me refer you to a case from New Zealand, Buckley and Edwards. There it was provided that the Supreme Court of New Zealand should consist of a chief justice, and such other judges as his Excellency, on behalf of her Majesty, should from time to time appoint. In the first instance, the court was constituted with a chief justice and four puisne judges. Mr. Edwards was appointed as a fifth judge before the General Assembly was asked to provide, out of the revenues of the Province, for another puisne judge. It declined to The crown, you see, was not limited as to the number of appointees. There was no other impediment than the fact that no salary had been provided. The judicial com-mittee declined to uphold the appointment. Any other rule would be disrespectful to Parliament. It was pointed out in that case that no such proceeding had been attempted in England since 1714. The proper course is to cancel all such appointments where the propriety of making them has not been before the House by an application for the necessary funds. GOVERNOR-GENERAL JUSTI-

Reporter-Do you think his Exceliency was, according to constitutional usage, justified in refusing to make che appointments that Sir Charles Tupper recommended? Mr. Mills-Oh, certainly, I think so. It seems to me his Excellency went a zery long way in meeting Sir Chas. Reporter-Sir Charles seems to have quite a number of precedents to uphold his contention, Mr. Mills—Yes, but do they? You see, it is one thing to cite a precedent showing that the crown has the power to accept the advice of a defeated Minister; it is a very different thing to show that the sovereign is under obligation, according to the conven-tions of the constitution, to act upon that advice. Sir Charles Tupper's precedents establish the first proposi-tion; they do not establish the sec-ond; and so they wholly fail to up-hold his contention.

Reporter—You maintain, then, that the sovereign may have an opinion at variance with his Ministers?

Mr. Mills—Yes, sometimes. The sovereign is not a mere automaton, but a rational being, whose personal will is for the most part merged into the royal will. But there are times, in the very nature of things, when the personal will must be called into action as the political will of the sovereign. This seldom happens during the continuance of a Parliament supporting the administration at the latter the shortest possible notice. They have frequently done so in the past, and are not unlikely to do so again in the near future.

The inaction of the embassies continues to be sharply criticised here, and radical measures are demanded in order to prevent a renewal of the disorders. Unless such steps are taken, it is believed, it will not be long before there is another outbreak here, and it may be of a much more serious and it may be of a much more serious. the royal will. But there are times, in the very nature of things, when the personal will must be called into action as the political will of the sovereign. This seldom happens during the continuance of a Parliament supporting the administration. But the Government of Sir Charles Tupper was a provisional Government from the start; and subsequent to the 23rd of June a defeated Administratior II to assume the responsibility of upholding his action, it would have been necessary for him to have recalled Sir Charles Tupper and to have given effect to his advice. But what happened, apart from every other consideration was in itself a vindication of the course which his Excellency

IN MR. MACKENZIE'S TIME. Reporter—Sir Charles Tupper contends that Lord Aberdeen did not mete out to him the same treatment that Lord Dufferin extended to Mr. Mackenzie. What do you say to that?

Mr. Mills—Sir Charles Tupper is very much mistaken. Lord Dufferin's view, I know, was even more restricted than that expressed by Lord Aberdeen; and if no controversy arose between Lord Dufferin and Mr. Mackenzie it was because in this matter their zie, it was because in this matter their views were in accord. Mr. Mackenzie's private secretary, it is true, was appointed Deputy Minister of the Interior. That appointment came about in this way. Mr. Meredith had proposed several months before to retire. He had been 27 years in the service, and he desired to attend, at Stockholm, a prisconnection. The Premier of restoring quiet and confidence withon reform convention. The Premier did not favor sending a representative, and no action was taken with regard to either until the elections were over, when Mr. Meredith's resignation was accepted solely at his own request. I offered the place, with the sanction of my colleagues, to Mr. James Magee, of this city, who was unable to consult. absence, and he accordingly declined.

Mr. Buckingham was then appointed.

It was thought, as the private secretary of the Prime Minister for five long. years, and on account of his well-known abilities, that he was entitled to promotion, which he ought to have arrival of Lord Lorne.

KENT COUNTY JUDGESHIP. As to the appointment of Mr. Bell to the position of county judge, in Kent, the bar at Chatham had urged upon Mr. Blake the appointment of a deputy judge, as Judge Wells, on account of his advancing years, was thought no longer capable of adequately discharging his duties. Judge Wells was unwilling to retire because he thought the ing to retire, because he thought the allowance inadequate, and because he said that his health being unimpaired he could not make the application required by law. Mr. Blake introduced an amending bill providing for the retirement of a judge after 25 years' service, without assigning any reason therefor. The reason for the measure was stated, and the measure met with the approval of Sir John Macdonald. Shortly before we retired, Judge Wells resigned without any pressure or any solicitation on our part, and Judge Bell was at once appointed.

If this is the situation considered by either Lord Dufferin or Mr. Mackenzie in 1878. Both Lord Dufferin and Mr. Mackenzie, I believe, agreed in the opinion that it would be advantageous to the country not to the strong body guard of the Sultan, and the perchasing still more irritated. But there is plenty of money and provisions for the strong body guard of the Sultan, and for the troops which constantly have the bench almost wholly com-posed of judges taken from one politi-surround the palace, and it is becal party, and this view, and not any lieved that this display of force alone fancied duty of acquiescence in Mr.

ABDUL, THE ASSASSIN.

A Scorching Letter frem England's Grand Old Man.

London, Sept. 14.-The Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone has written still another letter denouncing the Sultan of Turkey. In this communication Mr. Gladstone says: "In my opinion the assassin, and not his Mohammedan subjects, is the author of the massacres."

"From first to last their atrocity has no parallel in recent history. The concert of Europe is a miserable, disgraceful mockery, and some sovereigns and Governments have given direct countenance and support to the assassin. Indeed, the presence of the embassies at Constantinople is in itself substantial countenance of support to him and his guilty proceedings. The coercion which should long ago have been applied to him might even now be the means of averting another series of massacres."

The Age of Niagara Falls.

The savants are having a very interesting time in determining the age of Niagara Falls, and from the most recent papers on the subject it is quite evident that great diversity of opinion exists among those who have made it a matter of investigation. Life is full present instance, for, while warning of problems. The diversity of our common nature suggests equally interesting questions. Why are things so? Why not otherwise? Critical State of Affairs Due to th Sultan's Duplicity.

A British Fleet Within Easy Striking Distance of Constantinople.

Constantinople, Sept. 13.-A feeling of the greatest anxiety prevails in all circles here. There is no doubt that of restoring quiet and confidence within the Turkish Empire. A British of this city, who was unable to consult Britain will not hesitate to act alone is partner at the time because of his in the matter of putting an end to IIUN

As there was no possible doubt of their guilt, their acquittal is regarded here as showing that it is useless to expect that Mussulmans will be punished for crimes committed against Armenians.

This has aroused the greatest indignation among the foreign population here, and has served to greatly increase the feeling of uneasiness which prevails on all sides. The Europeans feel that the action of the extraordinary tribunal in acquitting the murderers, whose guilt was so fully proven, shows that the peace-able residents of Constantinople are absolutely without any guarantee that their lives or property are safe, and that they must henceforth depend alfor any length of time, as business is at a standstill to all intents and purposes, and the impoverished condition of the Turkish treasury is add-Many more officers have been ar-rested for claiming their pay, and

The note of the powers, then, under seven specific clauses, gives evidence in support of this and concludes with a demand that the instigators and principal actors in the tragedies be punished with the utmost rigor. Therefore, it will be seen that the acquittal of the men who deliberately murdered the two Armenians in front of the guard-house of the British Em-bassy is all the more significant and must call for further action upon the part of the powers.

The Turkish Government yesterday answered the note of the powers in a long cummunication, The Ministry, in trying to refute the charges made practically denied the ocular testimony of the representatives of the powers, and this is now, with good reason, regarded as tantamount to a defiance of Europe.

As usual, the Porte is relying upon the jealousies existing among the six powers to save the Sultan once more, and at the last moment from being brought to terms, and as Abdul Hamed has so frequently escaped punishment during the course of his long and much-troubled reign, it has grounds for believing that even now Europe will not step in and put an end to the disgraceful conditions prevailing in the Turkish Empire. News from Armenia shows that a very serious condition prevails there, and that further massacres are anticipated. It is true that the Sultan has caused all the governors to be notified that they will be held responsible if outbreaks involving destruction of property and the loss of life occur. But such warnings have frequently been issued in the past, and order than to suppress it, and this would seem to be the case in the present instance, for, while warning the governors, as already stated, the SOCIETY ROW AT THE FAIR. The success attending the numerous societies who erected tents at the Industrial Fair, Toronto, was remarkable, and has encouraged them to place their tents on the grounds of the Western Fair. The position, while not satisfactory in point of view, was the best the superintendent would give them. It is just next to the W. C. T. U. dining hall, and beside the driveway straight from the flower building. They are erected on the ground where the buildings stood that were burned last year. The I. O. F. erected their tent this morning, and before evening intend to have everything in a pretty shape. The tent will be floored and carpeted, the grass all cut, and beds of flowers placed in front of the tent. Over four thousand members and their friends registered at Toronto, and the intention is to have the same privilege extended to members who attend the Western Fair. C. C. Whale, inspector, and Jas. Gilmour, organizer, are already here ooking after the arrangements. Thursday a reception will be held at the tent, at which all city and visiting members and friends are invited to participate. It will take place at 3 p.m. Dr. Oronhyatekha, supreme chief, John A. McGillivray, supreme secre-tary, and Hon. D. D. Aiken, of Michigan, and other members of the executive will be present. It is the wish of the officers in charge that the city members turn out and make a success of the reception. Short addresses will be given. A band will also probably be present during the half-hour's time of reunion.

DYNAMITE SCARE.

London, Sept. 14.-It is generally belleved here that the police, by the arrest of Edward Bell on Saturday at Glasgow, J. Wallace and John F. Kearney at Rotterdam, and P. J. Tynan ("No. 1") at Boulogne-Sur-Mer, France, have nipped a widespread dynamite plot in the bud.

At Rotterdam, in addition to arresting Wallace and Kearney, the postance of his wife, Julia Gilbert, charging him with non-support. A photograph of herself, the boy and spondence which is said to incrimin-Gilbert accompanied the warrant.

Gilbert denies the charge, claiming that he was never married. He is near future.

Bell was arraigned at the Central Police Court today and remanded until Wednesday next.

The police attach the utmost importance to the arrests made, and are observing the greatest reticence on the subject. It appears, however, that the officials have been cognizant, for some time past, of the existence of a fresh dynamite conspiracy.

BLOODHOUNDS TESTED.

Wonderful Powers of the Dogs Shown Crown Point, Ind., Sept. 14.-Many

Sightless Husband Deserts His Sightless Wife for a Sightless Friend. Chicago, Sept. 14.-The police have been asked to search for Louis Gribor, a blind organ grinder, who deserted his blind wife about a week ago and is supposed to have gone away with Mrs. Alice Stoll, who is also blind. Gribor lives at No. 144 West Adams street. He and his wife were born blind. They bore two bright children, who lead them around the city and take up pennies while the parents play the organ. A few weeks ago Mrs. Gribor was taken to the county hospital. Upon her return the husband deserted her.

The other Mrs. Gribor called at the central station and reported the matter. She was accompanied by her two children, whose bright and clever manners won the admiration of all who saw them. Gribor is 30 years old. His wife is 36. Mrs. Stoll was also

British Naval Experts Claim She Is

Have the United States Violated the Treaty With Great Britain?

Cleveland, Sept. 13. — The revenue cutter Walter Q. Gresham, which was launched from the yard of the Globe iron works at Cleveland Friday, is the first modern type of armed Gov-ernment vessel to be put afloat for lake use, her waters being Lake Michigan. Two other vessels of this type are now being built on the coast for the revenue cutter service. These ships are of the first class in the cutter service, and they are costing the Government about $175,000.

The Gresham is 205 feet over all, 188 feet water line, 32 feet beam and 16 feet depth of hold. Her displacement at a mean draft of 10 feet 10 inches will be about 900 tons. She is expected to maintain an average speed of 16 knots an hour when the engine is developing about 2,000 horse power. A search light of 25 amperes capacity will be carried on the silet. capacity will be carried on the pilot house. The armament will consist of a battery of rapid firing guns, and provision will be made for carrying a torpedo outfit. It is possible that diplomatic complications will arise between the United States and Great Britain over the maintenance on the Great Lakes of the revenue outer Walter Q. Gresham. British naval experts hold, after a careful examination of the plans of the vessel, that she should be classed as a warship rather than as a re-venue cutter, and that her maintenance on the lakes would be a violation of the treaty entered into by the United States and Great Britain, whereby only one war vessel can be maintained on the lakes by each Govern-

It is known that the navai attaches of the British embassy at Washington have made a complete report to their Government upon the vessel, in which they have classed it as a gunboat. Should complaint be made, the State Department will respond by saying that the Gresham and the other two similar cutters which are to be built for service on the lakes are simply for revenue marine service, and for nothing else, and will call attention to the fact that England was the first to adopt this novelty in the construction of the revenue cutters, which were built two years ago for the Canadian revenue marine, and that, in addition to the novelty of their arma-ment, the Canadian vessels carry heavy steel rams.

Washington, Sept. 13. — It is not known whether the British Govern-ment will enter a protest against the presence of the Gresham in the Great Lakes or not. It is understood here that no complaint has been made by the Britsih Government to the State Department. Quite unofficially the officials of the revenue cutter service concede that the three new cutters for lake service will be pretty formidable vessels. They will carry batteries of light rapid fire guns, but they are planned to carry a much heavier battery if necessary. They will be more than twice as large as the vessels now in the revenue cutter service, and are expected to steam over 16 knots an

While the officials of the State Department declare that no possible trouble can arise as the result of the construction of the Gresham, in the Navy Department no such assured feeling exists. The fact that the Gresham is fitted with torpedo tubes and outfits is pointed to as very remarkable in the case of a revenue cutter, and the additional fact has come to light that in the construction of this cutter arrangements have been made for the setting of sponsons, for a comparatively heavy battery. In no important particular does the Gresham differ from a gunboat without her heaviest armament.

While no one can say what may be the outcome of this incident until the attitude of Great Britain is made clear, officials who are best informed are of the opinion that it will lead to a very vigorous attempt on the part of Congress next winter to secure the abrogation of the clause of the treaty of 1817, prohibiting the construction or maintenance of more than one war vessel on the lakes. The entire ship-building interest will be behind the movement, which promises to be pushed with much energy.

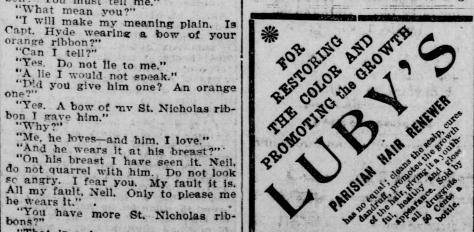

BURIED ALIVE THREE DAYS. Hypnotic Experiment With Unpleasant

Features. Providence, Sept. 14.-John Hughgill, who allowed himself to be buried alive while in a hypnotic sleep induced by Prof. Watson, was unearthed after an interval of three days. Hughgill went to sleep at 3:20 p.m. Monday, and was to have slept until the same time Thursday, but woke up fourteen minutes ahead or time, and during his struggles dislocated

Attention, Investors

To those who intend becoming shareholders in the Colorado Gold Mining and Development Company notice is given that the shares will be advanced to 15 cents Sept. 15 and a further advance of 20 cents will be made Oct. 1, and under no circumstances will shares be allotted at less than the advertised price. All orders by mail at the original price must show a postmark not later than the 15th inst.

The Colorado Gold Mining and Development Company has taken up as a business the handling and working of such properties as have been developed and have disclosed to view positive profits on our original investment. As we work collectively an unlimited number of these claims it gives us much greater chances for success than though we confined our attention to developing one, or even a half dozen "prospects." It is a well known fact that a great many mines have been worked and large quantities of ore brought to sight, but continued development was impossible owing to a lack of necessary funds.

These properties can be bought at prices much below their commercial value, so that profit on the investment is assured at the outset, and as your product is money as soon as produced, gold mining, it properly managed, may be looked upon as bringing in the surest and quickest returns of any business which is engaged in, and it is this class of properties only we handle.

Our plan is purely mutual, as all stand on an equal basis, and every stockholder is entitled to his share of the profits from all properties now belonging to the Company or that we may acquire, and his proportion will be in just such ratio as the amount invested, as no stock is set aside for an officer or director, except as it is paid for the same as by any other shareholder, and all are equal participants in the profits as their interests may appear.

This is worthy of your serious consideration, for never before did the small shareholder have an equal chance with the promoters of the company.

We should be pleased to have you carefully consider our plan and to receive your subscription for as many or "as few" shares of the above company as may be agreeable to you. Price 10 cents per share until date advertised. Par value of shares $1, full paid and non-assessable and subject to no further call.

Subscription books are now open at the office of Lowns. borough & Co., 22 King street east, Toronto, Ont., where J. Grant Lyman, Managing Director, will be pleased to receive your subscription. Send for prospectus.

-The Brecon (Eng.) County Times of Aug. 28 contains a notice of a grand concert given in that town, under distinguished patronage, by Mr. H. Pud-dicombe, of this city, and other noted artists. Of Mr. Puddicombe the Times says: "Mr. H. Puddicombe is a native of London, Ontario, Canada. For the last four years he has been studying and teaching at Leipzig, under Martin Krause, one of the most renowned teachers of the day, and a great friend and favorite of the great D'Albert. He intends staying at Leipzig another year, when he will return to Canada. The concert on Tuesday was his first appearance in this country, and his audience was on that occasion a highly appreciative one." Mr. Puddicombe played a number of piano solos in a most masterly style, says the Times, and seems to have made very many friends.

RAN AWAY Mr. and Mrs. Herrick, of Port Stanley, had an unpleasant experience on Saturday afternoon while driving over York street bridge with a load for their booth at the Fair. The horse took fright at a trolley and bolted. Near Orchard's woodyard the wagon was run into the ditch, where a front wheel and the whiffle-tree were smashed. The horse was finally controlled and a rig procured, to which the load was transferred, and the old couple continued their journey. Neither was hurt, but both were badly frightened.

Canada's Greatest Fair. THE DAISY HOT WATER HEATER The Warden-King hot water heater has many, many imitations, but no equal, because it is the only heater in which each section is independent of any other, and discharges into a common water column. It is also the only heater with a positive one-way circulation. Hence, all other heaters have a much larger amount of friction to overcome, which means a greater quantity of fuel to accomplish the same results. "Yes, it has paid us well to be here; it would pay us if we did not make a sale," was the response of Mr. Fairbairn to a question put to him on Saturday. "People had an opportunity of seeing the different sizes of this heater, and Warden, King & Sons, of Montreal and Toronto, and their "Daisy" hot water heater is the better known for our exhibit." Those who intend building, or who are looking forward to making a change in their system of heating should write the company at 110 Adelaide street west, Toronto, where all information regarding this all important subject of heating can be obtained.

THE SCHRAM PATENT WATER GUARD. One of the most prominent and complete exhibit in the main building was that of the Schram Water Guard Company, of 87 Richmond street west. Toronto.
