Rev. Mr. Knox Accepts NEW PULMOTOR The Call to This City

Pembroke Pastor Will Come to First Presbyterian Church-Present Congregation Loath to Part With Him.

Rev. William J. Knox, of Pembroke, has accepted the call to the First Presbyterian Church of this city, in succession to Rev. J. G. Inkster, now of Victoria. His decision will be communicated to the Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew at once.

Mr. Knox is a graduate of Toronto University and of Knox College. His first charge after entering the ministry was Strathroy; his second was Pembroke, where he has been stationed for six years. His Pembroke congregation testified to its regard for him by sending a powerful deputation to the Presbytery of Lenark and Renfrew to oppose the call, which was presented by London delegates.

Mr. Knox is a native of Perth County, and a member of a talented family. Agnes Knox Black, the famous reader, is his sister. Though only in his early forties, he is already an outstanding figure in the Presbyterian pert in young people's work. He is secretary of the Religious Education Commission for the Presbyterian Church of Canada, and a member of the committee on Sabbath schools and Young People's Societies.

Members of the First Presbyterian Church will congratulate themselves upon Mr. Knox's acceptance of the call, which was not of his seeking.

The Renfrew Mercury thus reports the presbytery meeting at which the call was extended:

Renfrew had many visitors of a Presbyterian cast of countenance on Tuesday of this week, Here was held the meeting of the Presbytery of Lanark and Renfrew to consider the call from the First Presbyterian Church of London to Rev. W. J. Knox, of Pembroke. There were several clerical members of the presbytery on hand, some 28 of a delegation of solid citizens of Pembroke, and 3 delegates from

The grave and reverend fathers met in St. Andrew's Church at 1 o'clock. Rev. James Taylor, of Braeside, was chosen moderator; Rev. Geo. D. Campbell sat at the clerk's desk. The case for London was presented by Rev. Mr Horne, acting for the London Presbytery, as well as by the three Londoners themselves-Messrs, C. G. Jarvis, Archbald Macpherson and Harry Bapty.

Pembroke Wanted To Keep Him. Pembroke's opposition to the translation of Rev. Mr. Knox from charge of Calvin Church was presented by Messrs. Walter Beatty, Dr. Snedden, J. L. Morris, Grigg, Seabrook, Thom and Andrew Johnston—if we caught the names aright. They told of the conditions Mr. Knox found when he came to Pembroke six years ago; and of the improvement he had wrought in the congregation and in Sunday school, and of the particular hold he had secured on the young men and the development of their interest in better things: and of the need there was in the present prospect of Pembroke's growth to larger things, that he should be left there to finish his work. They were not accustomed to short pastorates. They had had four ministers only in all the history of the congregation and twenty years had been the measure of each of the last two.

story as told, it seemed "How can he heading the second batallion. The band leave?" But when Mr. Jarvis, the Lon- of the Seventh Regiment will head the privilege of reviewing the situation, concluded, the wonder was just as strong "How can Mr. Knox not accept the call?" And that was how the presbytery felt, evidently. For on motion the call was placed in the hands of Mr. Knox, which meant that the preshytery expressed no opinion. The decision must be that of Mr. Knox alone. He too felt the stress of the cross currents. His judgment, he said, had led him in view of all the situation, towards the London call; but the expres sions of the congregational meeting the preceding night in Pembroke and the presentation of the Pembroke delegation that afternoon gave him pause his heart was towards Pembroke. He sked for ten days in which to consider. The presbytery acquiesced, and will meet again in Renfrew on Thursday of next week to receive Mr. Knox's

Did Not Seek Call.

It seems that last winter the opportunity to get this call was presented to Mr. Knox. He did not encourage it. A few weeks ago, when at the great congress, another London minister-of the East Church-was taken ill; and on Saturday induced Mr. Knox to take his London pulpit on the morrow. Four members of the First Church slipped over to the east side and heard Mr Knox. On their report the congregation at once unanimously gave a cal to him. They want not only a good organizer, and worker among young people, but a strong man in the an opportunity of seeing the "defenders of their homes" in service conditions and under the most favorable conditions. Colonel Hodgins, officer commanding first division, has, with his customary forethought, arranged a route march for the 1,00 cadets now encamped on Carling's Heights. The cadets will leave the camp grounds at 7 o'clock Thursday evening, and parade through the city, proceeding by the following route: Camp grounds t Adelaide street, Adelaide street Princess avenue, Princess avenue Colborne street, Colborne street to Dundas street, Dundas street to Rich mond street, Richmond street to Duf. ferin avenue, Dufferin avenue to Victoria Park, Victoria Park to Central avenue, thence to the camp grounds.

Headed by Band. The parade will be headed by the band of the First Hussars. Then will come the To the outsider, listening to the bugle band of the Chatham Cadet Corps, doner, who by church rules had the third battallion, and the wonderful boy pipe band of Chatham Cadet Corps will head the fourth batallion. This band is composed of six pipers and two drummers whose ages average only fourteen years It is remarkable the standard of efficiency to which these "wee pipe laddies" have attained, and to hear their sweet music is most inspiring.

Staff to Parade.

The parade will be headed by Colone Hodgins and staff. Then will follow the First, Second, Third and Fourth Battalions, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Wigle; Twenty-first Regiment, Lieut.-Col. The parade will be unique in the annals of Canadian history, because of the fact that it will be the first time that such a parade has taken place in Canada, and the citizens of London who will have the pleasure of witnessing it may mark it down in their memorandum book that they will have witnessed an epochmaking spectacle.

There were no volunteers yesterday orning on whom to test the new pulnotor of the water commission. There vere subjects for the machine to be tested on last night, but they were not volunteers. The machine was given its inaugural test on a fireman overcome vith smoke. It proved its worth and efficiency. Lieut. Robert Haylock, of No. 4 Company, was the fireman. He was overcome. His lungs were filled with the acrid smoke from the burning dry kiln at Beck's box factory, Albert treet. Reeling from the line he was aken to the office of the factory, where Clectrical Engineer E. V. Buchanan, o the city hydro service, had the machine in readiness. The apparatus was placed over Lieut, Haylock's head and machine started. In a few seconds almost, the results were perceptible, and within a short time the smoke-affected fire-fighter had been restored. Two More Restored.

Later two operators of the ommission, at work in the Horton treet pumping station, were overcome with gas, and practically asphyxiated Again was the pulmotor called into commission and again the machine did its work. Both men were conscious when the apparatus was started, but both were suffering from the gas on the lungs. The pulmotor removed the gas. Roberts, ideal of the British soldier's eye could well be applied to Chief John Aitken, head of the London fire department, in the opinion of those who saw his work last night in stopping two serious fires, and those who have seen the little terrier of the department at work.

It is over thirty years since the chief first smelled smoke in the London fire department, and during that time he has steadily made a name for himself as a demon to work and a splendid fire-fighter. There isn't much size to Chief Aitken, but there's class. There's not a man in the department who can keep pace with the chief. He is stronger than the majority of his men, and his staying powers cannot be

He's a fighter through and through, and of the breed that never gives up, according to his men. In his fire-fighting experience he has stood knocks, shocks and accidents that would have killed anyone else but John Aitken. There are only two men on the department older in years than the chief. There is not one, even to the youngest firemen of the force, who can stand the wear and tear of a fire the way he can. He comes up fresher than them all—the marvel of those who

Can't Be Knocked Out.

Last night it was a hard fight that the chief fought, a flight that brought him unstinted praise. It was two fights, in fact, but this morning there wasn't a trace of the weariness tha marked every fireman at headquarters on the face of Chief Aitken. It was after 4 a.m. when the chief turned in but at 6:30 the firemen heard the chief "hit the floor" again-and heard him went upstairs to shave. The men fel about as much like whistling as bear. They were utterly done out, but the chief, "fresh as paint," was on duty again, ready for another day's work "He's so tough you can't kill him," was the tribute paid by one of his men this morning as the chief drove away.

How To Live Long And Keep Well

This is a question that has caused an immense amount of thought on the part of scientists all over the world. Age is largely a matter of feeling, not of years. To the strong man of seventy life holds out more promise than to a weakling of thirty but while vigor and the ability to avoid disease are the natural possession of youth, with advancing years more care must be taken to keep the system in condition.

When men and women pass the age of sixty they need and constantly feel the want of some sustaining remedy Something to strengthen the failing nervous forces and loosen up the stiffened joints and aching limbs, something that will assist digestion and generate sufficient strength to enjoy peaceful retrospective which should be the blessed lot of all in the evening time of life. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey alone is the agent to produce just these happy results. It is to the troublous hours of waning life as oil is to machinery. ## WATCHMAN RESIGNS

F. Peters Asked Aylmer Council For $60 Per Month Salary. [Special to The Advertiser.]

Aylmer, July 15.-Night Watchmar F. Peters has resigned his position after being in the employ of the town for the last ten years. Mr. Peters' salary was $45 month, and he asked the council that it be increased to $60 per month.

He also handed them a petition largely signed by the businessmen of the town that they would agree to pay their share toward the increase in salary The council offered Mr. Peters $5 a month, but as this was not satisfacory to him, they accepted his resignation, and applications for the posi-tion, with a fixed salary of $50 per nonth, will be advertised for at once. Already several applications have

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 16. REDISTRIBUTION.

The British North America Act requires that after every decennial cen- landlord on the landlord's terms. sus, there shall be a redistribution of changed conditions of population. The pelled to sell, and when he does, at his act does not use the word "immediately," but there is no doubt of the heavy a burden in its assistance to the intent and meaning. As for the small buyers sented; and that these irregularities Government in power, if uncertain as much damage in Denmark. The Libto its strength in the country, if feara defeat, would naturally delay a redistribution and an election as long as tically does away with landlordism, possible. That seems to be the situa-

The Conservative Government came into power on the issue of no reciprocity with the United States. We think the people made a mistake. But it was their verdict, and the matter is therefore settled for the time being. But a new issue has arisen, since the last election. The great question now is naval contribution and imperial cennavy, under Canadian control. The porary for any idolatrous adhesion to Senate refused to pass the Government bill until the people had been given ters, but its treatment of the Eastman an opportunity to pronounce upon it. report is surprising. Mr. Borden pledged himself to go to the people for a verdict if Parliament did not indorse his policy. One would for electrification? naturally suppose, therefore, that his course would be perfectly plain. In British America Act, and at the same $23,211 below that of Mr. Warfield. time to fulfill his own pledges, there should be a redistribution bill passed, and followed by a general election, Only one thing could make him hesitate: the fear of the result.

declarations require him to do. On the contrary, the indications are that redistribution will be indefinitely postponed. Already his organs are pointing out the course that is to be followed. They tell us that redistribution can wait till 1916. The reason is plainly stated. The British Government will build the three Dreadnoughts for which Mr. Borden promised to pay, but which will take three years to build the ships; the money will not be required until 1916. By that time it is expected that enough Liberal senators will have die l. and will have been replaced by sound Conservatives, to give the Government a majority in the Upper House, By 1916, therefore, Mr. Borden will be able to push his contribution policy through Parliament without securing the sanction of the people. After that will be time enough to take up redistribution, and takes your choice.

From a Conservative point of view that is doubtless good policy. Even if the Government should be defeated. which they evidently fear, it will have had a full five years of power. During that time it will have had opportunity to strengthen itself by the expenditure of public money in the interests of its friends; it will have provided places for many of its supporters; it will probably have secured a majority in the Senate, and will thus be in a position to block the work of a Liberal It will have committed the country in perial centralization. And that is the thing of most importance to certain class of the community.

CONTRASTING BRITISH LAND POLICIES.

The party alignment in Great Britain for the next election begins to loom up with more clearness. Home rule. Welsh disestablishment and other questions will then be of yesterday. The land settlement and the longdelayed revision of education will be the grand issues.

As noted in these columns the other day, Lord Lansdowne has shown the Conservative hand on the land question. His policy is called in Great Britain the landlords' endowment bill. Landlords are to sell out, if they wish, at their own price, what they choose to sell of their fields or parks or meadow land or shooting grounds, to whosoever will buy small holdings. The state will help the buyers to foot the bills, and also help landlords, local authorities and private companies to replace slum cottages by sanitary homes, on which the owners will then have the pleasure of exacting "reasonable" increases of rent from time to time.

sting small holdings act, which proides for compulsory sales of land to ounty councils for sale or lease in small parcels to occupiers. Nearly every applicant asks for a lease, in order that he may use his capital as much as possible for equipment and improvement. The only trouble at present with the system is the slowness of machinery arising from landlord influence over the county councils

Probably a commission will be given directing the compulsory sales. What mainly distinguishes the Govrnment from the Opposition policy is, hen, that instead of small freeholds ought on the landlords' terms the Govrnment offers the rural workers what ney want and need, leases in perpetuty, absolute right to all improvements and equipment, and a rent not as much as ever the land can bear, but generous, paid to state authorities, and based on a fair transfer price. Under the Liberal plan the occupier rents from the state instead of buying from a

Dear Cynthia: I have been keeping company with a young man, he wants me to marry him, but has never told me when, but I know he isn't in a position to marry for three or four years yet. I know he loves me and I love him. But as I am an orphan and living among strangers, I long for the comforts of a home like other girls have. I have a friend older than myself, he is in a good position to marry and has asked me to marry him. Cynthia what would you advise me to do, leave the young man I love or marry the other for the home. Both are true friends to me.

A FLOWER-BED IDEA.

Those who have travelled about rural England will recall the well-nigh universal custom of placing bricks or stones on edge wherever a border of flowers is placed next to a grass plot This is an excellent preventive of trouble, says the Cleveland Plaindealer since it is effective in keeping the grass from running over the bed, and it also prevents it from rooting under. While not pretty in themselves, a neat line of

"Did you ever intend to have the Frenchman brought to Schmidt's office?" "Of course I did. What a question! Good-by. There's your car. I'm off." and the detective swung himself into a pass-death and suffering to men whom I have never seen. It has separated a man and a woman who love each other even as you and I love. If I were a poor girl, working for a living in office or shop, I should know what laughter meant, and cheerfulness, and the bright careless hours when the heart is light and the world goes well. You have brought these things to me, dear, and you must not take them away now. I forbid it. I deny you that wrongful act with my very soul. . . John, do you wish to see me in tears on this—our first day—together?"

To Be Continued. the detective swung himself into a passing street car.

"Do you know," said Devar thoughtfully, "I am beginning to believe that Steingall says a lot of things he really doesn't mean. I haven't quite made up my mind yet as to whether or not he hasn't rung an awful bluff on the noble lord and the most noble count. And the weird thing is that Schmidt didn't call it. Did it strike you, Curtis, that—"

Then he looked at his friend, whose silent indifference to what he was saying could no longer pass unnoticed.

"What is it, old man?" he asked, with ready solicitude. "Are you feeling the strain, or what?"

"It is nothing," said Curtis. "A run in ready solicitude. "Are you feeling the strain, or what?"

"It is nothing," said Curtis. "A run in the car will soon clear my head. Perhaps you and I might arrange for a long weekend, far away from New York."

A second time did Devar look at his friend, but, being really a good-natured and sympathetic person, he repressed the imminent cry of amazement. Somehow, he realized the one spear-thrust which had pierced Curtis's armor. It was hateful that such a man should be told he had married Hermoine for her money. It was hateful to think that this might be said of him in the years to come. It was even possible that she herself might come to believe it of him, and John Delancy Curtis's knight-errant soul shrank and eringed under the thought, even while the memory of Hermione's first kiss of love was still hot on his lips.

CHAPTER XVII. Wherein John and Hermione Become

Wherein John and Hermione Become Ordinary Members of Society.

But the phase passed like a disturbing dream. Hermione herself laughed the notion to scorn: and a ready opportunity for such effective exorcism of an evil spirit was supplied by Devar's tact.

When the two young men reached the hotel Devar insisted that Curtis should take Hermione for an hour's ride in the park.

"Here's the car, and it's a fine morning, and you've got the girl. What more do you want?" he cried, "If Uncle Horace and Aunt Louisa show up before your return I'll take care of 'em. Now, who telps her ladyship to put on her hat and ur coat—you or 1?" That duty, however. as discharged by a smiling and voluble maid named Marcelle Leroux.

So it befell that when Brodie piloted als charges into Central Park through Bcholar's Gate, Curtis behaved like a man deeply in love but gravely ill at ease, and Hermione, also in love, but afire with the divine flame of womanly faith, and therefore serenely blind to any possible obstacle which should thrust itself between her and her beloved, saw instantiy that something was wrong. Curtis was just the type of man who would torture himself unnecessarily about a consideration which certainly would not have rendered his inamorata less desirable in the eyes of the average wooer, He knew thhat he had waited all his life to meet

PRODUCE SCARCER, PRICES SOAR DEMAND EXCEEDS THE SUPPLY

Than This Time Last Year.

The high cost of living is a problem which is worrying more than one con-sumer in London at the present time. Foodstuffs are higher than they were at this time last year, garden produce is scarcer, and the trend of the mar-ket seems to be upward, ever upward. Various reasons are assigned for this increase in prices. Market gardeners say that the cold spring interfered with their business to a considerable extent and that their supplies are, in supply and prices soar in consequence. consequence, smaller this year than fetch a price that is a few cents in advance of that of last year at this time. Poultry is very scarce, the price being out of the reach of the ordinary housekeeper. In Toronto the situation is more acute than here. The reason given for the increased prices is simply that of supply and demand. The demand almost every day exceeds the The decreasing population of the rural districts and the dearth of labor is another potent factor in the high cost of

All garden vegetables are higher, eggs and butter

INSURING GOOD DIGESTION

Importance of Preventing Food Fermentation in Stomach.

Good digestion usually means good health. So long as the stomach does its work properly disease can find no lodgement in the human system; the liver, kidneys and intestines will perform their work perfectly and remain in perfect kidneys and intestines will perform their work perfectly and remain in perfect health; but interfere with the proper digestion of food and an unending train of troubles is set in motion. About the only thing that will upset the stomach and interfere with digestion is an excess of acid, usually caused by food fermentation. Food fermentation is due to chemical action in the food itself. This fermentation causes the formation of gas, or wind, as well as acid, resulting in the unnatural distention of the stomach and the burning by the acid of the delicate lining of the stomach.

Medicines and tonics cannot relieve this condition—they usually make it worse. The fermentation and acids are to blame and these must be overcome and Fire Followed Explosion.

At eighteen minutes past six, Night Watchman Gleeson at the Beck factory walked through the dry kiln, in which the fire took place, and he declares that there was no sign of fire at that time. Three minutes before that Mr. John Gowdey, foreman of the mill and their homes to the fire, and one of the kilns, left the building, and he also says there were no signs of a fire. Street Cars Tied Up.
Street car service was ited in knots
by the two fires. After the first blaze broke out the north end service was completely cut off for over five hours, Richmond, Oxford, Ottaway and Ridout lines all being effected. # HOME RULE BILL WAS REJECTED IN HOUSE OF LORDS Crisis Started As Result of Uncompromising Attitude of Both Sides.

Lord Curzon's Speech Thought To Be Highly Significant by Daily News.

London, July 16. - The House of Lords, by a majority of 238 for the second time in six months rejected the home rule bill.

The result was a foregone conclusion, but, says the London Daily Sews (Liberal) today, has nevertheless inaugurated a serious crisis between the two Houses. On the one hand, Lord Curzon withdrew what he understood to be Lord

Lansdowne's promise yesterday to accept the home rule bill if a general election were won upon it. On the other hand the Prime Minister in the House of Commons announced definitely that the Lords abolition bill will be tabled at the next session. The challenge on both sides, says the London Daily News, is complete and uncompromising.

The importance of Lord Curzon's, peech lies in the fact that for a whole afternoon he was in close consultation with Lord Lansdowne, who drafted what appeared to be an ultimatum to the Government.

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp; prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and eco omical. On retiring, comb the hair out straight all around, then begin at the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura ointment into the parting with a bit of soft fiannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart until ne whole scalp has been treated, the purpose being to get the Cutlcura ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. The next morning, shampoo with Cuticura soap and hot water. Shampoos alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair. Prince Arthur Frederick Patrick Albert, who was born Jan. 13, 1883, is the only son and second child of the Duke of Connaught, governor-general of Canada, uncle of King George, and the Duchess of Connaught, who was a Prussian prince.

The text of the court circular tonight follows: "The King and Queen have received the gratifying intelligence of the betrothal of his royal highness Prince Arthur of Connaught to her highness the Duchess of Fife, their majesties niece, to which union the King has gladly given consent." Princess Alexandra underwent thrilling experience in December, 1911, when the Peninsular and Oriental liner Delhi stranded during a storm on the coast of Morocco, near Cape Spartel. The Duke of Fife, the Princess Royal and the Princesses Alexandra and Maud were rescued in lifeboats. A few weeks later the Duke of Fife died as a result of the hardships he had endured. The duke having no male issue, the title of the duchy passed to his elder daughter.

Where is the stomach of the late Leo Bartell, who died in this city last utumn from what was thought to be ptomaine poisoning? Bartell's prother is in the city from Detroit seeking to have the stomach and its contents analyzed, in an effort to clear up the mystery surrounding his death. The stomach was removed and the contents examined, although, t is stated, an actual analysis was not made. The body was later shipped to Detroit, where it was interred, but the stomach did not accompany it. Now nobody appears to know definitely what became of the organ. Dr. U. E. Johns has expressed himself as confident that he will be released.

Johns, who was the acknowledged lover of Miss Crispell, was the last person seen with her on the night of the 4th of July, the last night the girl was seen alive. Three days later the girl's body was found floating in Harvey's Lake.

The same day Johns was taken into custody to explain what he knew of the girl's death. The following night, however, Johns was given a hearing before a justice of the peace, who, after listening to the evidence presented against him. declared that a prima facia case had been made out, and held Johns without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Counsel for the prisoner immediately applied for a writ of Habeas Corpus and today was set to hear the case. Johns' counsel bases his action for the writ on the ground that no evidence has been produced against Johns to warrant his being held for the death of the girl.

Lots of people keep on using tea or coffee as a daily beverage, knowing that it is harmful, but are puzzled for something to take its place.

Instant Postum

This new food-drink has a delicious rich flavor and possesses the merit of being healthful, pure and absolutely free from the drug-"caffeine"-in tea and coffee, which is the cause of much of the heart, stomach, liver and nerve disorders with which so many tea and coffee drinkers are

Fill out and mail the above coupon (inclosing 2-cent stamp for postage), and we will send you a miniature tin of Instant Postum containing enough for five cups.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more, and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate, and have it served that way in the future.
