CHATHAM MAN'S CLOSE ESCAPE

Mr. Talbot was run Down by Freight Train and Thrown Into Ditch.

Was on His Wheel at the Time and Escaped With a Few Bruises.

J. W. Talbot, barber, and an employee of Simmons shaving parlors, met with what might have proven to be a fatal accident last evening about 8 o'clock.

Mr. Talbot's home is in Dresden, where his wife and family now live, and so he takes occasion to go to Dresden a number of times each week. He had been in Dresden over Sunday, visiting his family, and was returning home last night, riding a wheel on the L. E. & D. R. R. track.

He had gotten as far as Eberts when he got off his wheel and commenced chatting with a number of brakemen who were standing around the station. While he was doing so the freight train from the north came in, en route to Chatham. She stayed at Eberts quite a while and one of the brakemen informed Talbot that she would remain at Eberts until the Port Lambton excursion train from Chatham went through.

Talbot was anxious to get into Chatham and did not know how long it would be before the excursion train came along, so he decided to continue riding up the track, as he would be able to see the approaching train and dismount in time to escape any danger.

He had not gone far before he thought he heard a noise behind him, he turned slightly around and saw that the engine of the south bound freight was almost upon him. With great presence of mind he threw himself off his wheel to the left of the track. He, however, did so in the nick of time, as the train went whizzing by, the cowcatcher of the engine striking the handle bars of the wheel and throwing Mr. Talbot into the ditch.

When he had sufficiently recovered from his fright he found that his left arm and leg were badly bruised. Aside from this no damage was done. The conductor of the freight had evidently received other orders to meet the excursion train at Chatham, as when Mr. Talbot left Eberts he understood implicitly that the freight would meet the passenger at Eberts, thus he was not expecting a train to strike him from the rear. Mr. Talbot feels very fortunate on his lucky escape and now is more fully convinced that a person cannot be too careful when riding a bicycle on a railroad track.

WILL RETURN TO WORK.

Watertown, N. Y., August 19.—To-morrow will witness a break in the machinist' strike in this city. The strike of 300 men has been on since May 20. The men get no reduction in hours, and will go back under the same conditions that prevailed when they struck.

NONE ESCAPED INJURY.

Lansing, Ohio, Aug. 19.—Ten persons in a picnic wagon returning home early to-day, were thrown over a forty-foot embankment into the creek below. Not one of the party escaped injury, several being seriously hurt.

BADEN-POWELL'S STALWARTS BOLDLY ATTACK BOERS

Burghers Lost 23 Men, but Constabulary Were Outnumbered and Could not Follow up Successful Attack.

London, Aug. 19.—Lord Kitchener, in a despatch from Pretoria, dated to-day, says:—A party of South African Constabulary yesterday surprised a strong Boer laager near Middleburg, Cape Colony, killing 23 men. The constabulary numbered 150 men, but owing to the strength of the enemy, 600 to 800 men, they were unable to follow up their success, and during their retirement, they lost one man killed and had six wounded. Fourteen men are missing.

OPTIMISTS WOMEN.

London, Aug. 19.—A despatch to the Standard from Pretoria states that Boer women who have just been taken to the concentration camps, their husbands being on commando, declare loudly that in spite of all that has happened lately, the boers are going to win. They say that letters from the Boer delegation in Europe, assure the fighting leaders that the Continental powers will shortly intervene. So sure are the men of this that they were holding thanksgiving services. The wives of men still in the field are continually insulting the wives of those who have surrendered. Consequently some of the burghers who had surrendered, desiring to be on the winning side, have escaped and returned to commando.

A despatch from Cape Town says: The recent operations in the Cape Colony have frequently shown that Boer women are riding about gathering horses for the use of the commandoes.

REJECTED BY KRUGER.

Brussels, August 19.—The Petit Bleu says Mr. Kruger has rejected the privateering proposals recently made to him, but reserves the right to have recourse to corsairs if the British shoot Boer prisoners captured after September 15. The promoters of the privateering plan intend to ignore Mr. Kruger's refusal of their offer.

CONSUL STOWE'S REPORT.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The state department has received a 'long report on conditions in South Africa, from Consul-General Stowe at Cape Town, dated a few days before his resignation was received at the department. The war and plague, says Mr. Stowe, have prevented customs officials from collecting the usual annual statistics, covering the trade of the colonies, for the calendar year of 1900, and as all imports for the use of the imperial and colonial military forces are admitted duty free, it is impossible to make a comparison with the trade of the preceding year. However, the figures available show that the imports from the United States in 1900 were greater than those of 1899 and that this country still stands second among the nations exporting direct to South Africa, and in addition ships a large amount of supplies via England.

THE SAME OLD STORY TOLD OF COLBORNE STREET

Once More this Thoroughfare is the Cause of Trouble—Charles Mount Protests Against Concessions to the Taylor Mill.

"I shall certainly oppose that by-law as far as I am able. I am a heavy ratepayer and have as much right to twelve feet in front of my property as any other ratepayer. The street is narrow enough now and besides it would be an injury to my boarders to have the T. H. Taylor mills directly opposite my house. I see that this Council do not hesitate in voting away people's rights, but if that by-law is put through I shall sue the city for damages."

These words, spoken with marked decision and emphasis, were addressed to the City Council last evening by Chas. Mount, proprietor of the Park House.

The by-law in question was the one granting a certain portion of Colborne street to the T. H. Taylor Co. in order that they might build a new mill on the corner of William and Colborne streets. The by-law was introduced by Mr. Marshall, who explained that he did not wish to injure either Mr. Mount or the T. H. Taylor Co. and the passing of the by-law would do neither. It would simply place the Council in a position to negotiate with the T. H. Taylor Co. and Mr. Mount, and if satisfactory arrangements re the selling of the property could not be made, no harm would be done. As the matter now stood the Council could do nothing.

Ald. Marshall thought that if the T. H. Taylor Co. built on the property they have a right to build on, the effect would be the same to Mr. Mount as to noise.

Ald. Taylor thought it an insult for Mr. Mount to say that the Council would vote away the rights of any citizen.

"I don't think there is a man here," said he, "who would do anything detrimental to the interests of any citizen."

After the reading of the by-law the first and second time the Council was made into a committee as a whole, when the by-law was adopted.

Upon resuming, Ald. Marshall moved the third reading and the final passing of the by-law. His motion, however, was defeated, as it was decided to lay the matter over until the next meeting of the Council to see if some amicable arrangements can be made between Mr. Mount and the T. H. Taylor Co.

Ald. Marshall called for the yeas and nays.

Yeas—Ald. Scane, Marshall, Edmondson, Taylor.

Nays—Ald. McColg, Mounteer, Fleming and the Mayor.

The city council held a special meeting in their chambers, Harrison Hall last evening, with the following members present: Mayor, Solomon, and Alds. Scane, McColg, Mounteer, Marshall, Edmondson, Taylor and Fleming.

A communication, wa aread from J. Piggott, Sr., calling the attention of the Board of Works to the bad quality of the concrete and granolithic crossing that have been and are being laid. He also suggested that it would be a good time to lower the intakes of the sewers. Referred to the Board of Works.

Ald. McColg strongly protested against paying an account of $250 for cutting the weeds on Stanley and Wellington parks. The man already has a contract for cutting the parks. The account, however, had been paid under order of the city engineer.

Ald. Scane thought that the Engineer should not have the power to order the payment of accounts outside the Board of Works. It was decided in future that the treasurer should be notified not to pay any account that has not been up before the council.

A communication from Mrs. Dymond re dog tax was referred to the Finance committee.

Fireman Alex. Holmes asked for his months' salary, as two weeks were up and during the next two weeks he will be on his holidays. Granted.

A communication was received from G. P. Schofield re the Dowdley spur. It was decided to have a by-law and an agreement between the railroad and the city drawn up at once.

A petition was received from a number of ratepayers on Elizabeth street, to have the sidewalk on the east side of Elizabeth street repaired.

to the Clerk.

A communication from Geo. Schoenalt, re taxes was referred to Finance.

A communication was received from Lewis & Richards acting for Chas. Mount objecting to the way that he understood that the L. E. & D. R. R. were going to put in their spur to the binder twine factory on Colborne St. He thought that all the company wish is to get more track on Colborne street on which to shut cars.

A communication was read from Mr. Woolfart, inclosing a by-law drawn up by the Company's solicitor governing the erection of the spur.

An opinion of the by-law from Mr. Wilson, the city's solicitor, was read in which he advised strongly against adopting the by-law drawn up by the L. E. & D. R. R., as if it were passed the city would be held liable for all damage.

Ald. Scane, for the Finance committee, presented the following report:

1. That Messrs. P. B. Fetterly, A. Stevenson, E. T. Williston, G. G. Martin, R. Duff, A. Schevis, and A. Miller be remitted dog tax.

2. That the taxes of Mr. Jackson and Mrs. Brady on Catholic land be remitted.

The report was adopted.

Ald. Marshall, for the Board of Works, presented the following report, which was adopted:

1. Re the complaint of G. H. Turrill re sprinkling, the matter has been attended to.

2. Re the complaint of Mr. Baskerville, this has also been attended to.

3. We recommend the payment of the account of F. G. Judson for $5.50.

4. We recommend the payment of the account of Geo. Heaton for $275 for sprinkler, less $5.50 for lettering same.

5. Re complaint of J. J. Ross re defective sidewalk, we have notified Mr. Kime of same but he has not attended to it.

It Means Something

To have the largest circulation in Western Ontario, to carry more advertising than any other newspaper printed or published in this district. It means that . . .

"The Planet"

gives an advertiser the kind of satisfaction he wants, at a price he is satisfied to pay. It is the real reason—The secret others are seeking to solve. That The Planet is ever winning increased patronage and approval.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 20.

EXPLANATION.

Patrons of The Planet are entitled to an explanation of the unfortunate fact that the paper was some three hours late in leaving this office last evening.

The trouble was in the press rooms. One of the two engines utilized by this journal in running its large newspaper press became obnoxious and totally declined to operate. It was consequently found necessary for the other engine to do the work alone.

The matter will be remedied promptly. The Planet at once telegraphed for a large new engine—with greater power than both of those now in use—which it is hoped will be in operation within a few days.

The new engine will be a material acquisition to The Planet's already excellent and unsurpassed mechanical equipment, and will give this great home journal still further facilities for catering to its large and increasing clientele.

MR. CRAWFORD'S EXPLANATION.

Mr. Thomas Crawford's name has been freely mentioned in connection with the Hon. John Dryden's Dakota ranching venture. In Friday's Toronto World, the member for West Toronto explains his connection with the business. He says:—

"I went out there," said Mr. Crawford, "to inspect some cattle the Canada and Dakota Cattle Company were proposing to buy for the ranch, to see if they were worth the price asked, for them and came away with a good impression of the cattle and of the country as a ranching land."

"Then you have no interest in the ranch?"

"I can't have much interest if I have no money in it."

Continuing, Mr. Crawford said he was asked by J. F. McLaughlin, the organizer of the company, and Mr. Dryden, to go to Dakota with them. Mr. Dryden had been out there before and evidently thought the proposition was a great one in a business way. He, Mr. Crawford, did not know anything more about the transactions of the company. He did not know if the company had been formed, or if any money had been subscribed. They had a charter, though, and so far as the speaker knew, they were going ahead with the enterprise.

The interviewed reasserted that he was not interested to the extent of one dollar in the Canada and Dakota Cattle Company beyond having made one trip to Dakota, to look over the ground for Mr. Dryden and Mr. McLaughlin.

"Why did you not say so, then, while the newspapers were talking about you and connecting you with the enterprise?" he was asked.

"I can't help what the newspapers say," he replied. "I am not in newspaper work just now, and I have quite enough to do to attend to my business affairs. It would keep me busy setting the papers straight, and I am not going to commence the task. All this talk has not worried me in the least, and I was contented to make a satisfactory explanation when the proper time came around."

THE CENSUS.

A special assistant commissioner was appointed by the Government to look after the interests of Quebec, says the Hamilton Spectator. No other province was so favored. "Confidential" circulars were sent out. The Liberal press was instructed to preach that the census of ten years ago was stuffed "particularly in Ontario."

These things, and others, led to the suspicion that a special endeavor was to be made to boom the Quebec figures, that the representation of Ontario in parliament might be cut down.

The census figures show wonderful growth in Quebec, and but little increase in Ontario.

Do you think the figures are correct?

ARE SENATORSHIPS FOR SALE?

Speaking of Canadian Senatorships, Bystander observes in the Weekly Sun: "Sold in effect they now are, such of them at least as are not claimed by the superannuated politicians of the party. Of that fact Mr. Cook's evidence was not needed to inform us. The appointments spoke for themselves." The price of Senatorships is a carefully guarded party secret, although the public has been assured that $10,000 was the sum demanded in one case. Would it not be a good move on the part of the organ to publish the quotations from day to day so that aspiring statesmen might understand the current price of advancement? It would certainly be interesting to know to what extent it boomed the market recently by the announcement that there is to be no reform of the Senate.

HIS WELL-KNOWN MODESTY.

Mr. Hall Caine, whose reluctance to bring himself or his writings to the attention of the public is well known throughout two continents, has at last yielded to the general clamor for details about his brilliant career. He has not only consented to allow his life to be written for a volume in the series entitled, "English Writers of To-day," but he will himself contribute an introduction. By the singular irony of unkind fate, the literary editor who makes this gratifying announcement is led to remark that the introduction will be "modest." Why it was necessary to remind anyone that Mr. Caine—of all men in the world—is modest, will forever remain a mystery, for surely no editor would deliberately rouse in the mind of an unsophisticated reader the horrible suspicion that Mr. Caine has ever been anything but a shrinking, sensitive plant.

AN OLD TRUTH EMPHASIZED.

At the Pan-American last Saturday the attendance was 52,000, and on the previous Saturday it was 106,000, the largest since the Fair opened. The Fair for that day was advertised in the newspapers, with the result that double the crowd was brought out that attended on any previous Saturday.

Nearly everybody knows that the Buffalo Fair is open, and nearly everybody who is within reach of it has decided to drop around and see it before it closes, but maybe they will never just get up and go unless they read something about it that causes them to jock their grips and go on a particular day. This is what the managers of the Pan-American have found out. Merchants who advertise find this out for themselves. By advertising they not only tell people where they can get what they want, but they remind them of what they want and when they can get it and how much it will be. The transaction is begun right there, while the man—or the woman—reads. For one day, and one day only, the Pan-American was advertised in a number of newspapers, and the attendance was doubled; the advertising ceased and the attendance fell back to where it had been. The simple meaning of it is that people read the papers and that advertising pays.—Toronto Star.

A TEMPERANCE EXPERIMENT.

An experiment is being tried in St. Petersburg with the object of inducing the drinking workpeople to amuse themselves in a less baneful way. A place of genuine amusement and refreshment has been substituted for saloons in the congested district of the city. In a large building are a theatre, capable of seating 2,500 persons, and several restaurants. The performances are entertaining and instructive, and the price of admission is about five cents. In the restaurants meals are served at correspondingly low prices. The hall was crowded at the opening, and the people were apparently delighted with the drama, which will be varied with popular concerts and other entertainments. That the people will swarm to the hall on every occasion is a foregone conclusion; but how far the resort will displace the dram shop can be determined only after a considerable experience.

Speaking of the census, wonder if we couldn't demand a recount.

The Grit party in Ontario is evidently in a bad way. Commodore Dan McGillicuddy is publishing Signals of Distress.—Ottawa Citizen.

Children's choruses will be more acceptable to the Duke than stilted addresses, aptly remarks the Guelph Herald. Give the little ones a show.

Lord Kitchener varied his weekly report yesterday to the extent of saying that the catch of Boers last week was "the largest yet," says the Ottawa Citizen. Kitch is becoming quite loquacious.

The Banner-News has once more toddled to the footlights to recite its little piece. It wants to say that this great home journal is somewhat of a humorist. Maybe so, little one. It's very difficult, we confess, to take you seriously.

Of course it isn't really "humor" in the sense in which we understand the word, but then, it causes lots of amusement, just the same, to witness the Banner-News perpetrate a treatise one day and seek to explain it a couple of days later.

As we haven't mentioned it for a couple of days, and lest the good people of Chatham might forget it, we must point out again that the human blockade gathered at the approach to the dock on the arrival of the boat isn't the most conducive impetus to comfort and good temper in the passengers and their friends.

The Police Magistrate of Hamilton has decided that ice cream is a food and can be sold on Sunday, says the Stratford Beacon. There should be no obstacle now to the grocery stores, meat shops and restaurants of Hamilton doing a thriving business on Sunday, a la Buffalo. If the liquid refreshments the pretty bar maids dispense were only brought within this classification Hamilton's joy would be unconfined.

And, speaking about "humor," wasn't it really funny to see the Banner-News come out and declare, in reference to Police Court cases, that thenceforth it would publish all names, irrespective of all circumstances and relationships, and then systematically withhold them. Perhaps the Banner's promises—always observed by the deliberate violation thereof—may be that paper's distorted idea of real, rich "humor." But the "humorist" should see to it that it is not his wabbling and undependable personality that causes the mirth of the public.

HE IS NOT SO MANY NOW.

Toronto Star.
We do not want to chortle or gloat over Uncle Sam because of his yacht race, but he should abandon the idea that a boat must necessarily win a race if it has its flag stuck up on top of it.

WOMEN IN ARMS

Unless Men Have Faces Clean Shaven They Will Adopt Monstrosities of Bygone Days.

Berlin, Aug. 18. — German women have begun a crusade against whiskers, and are filling the columns of the Berlin and provincial papers with warlike communications insisting that beards and moustaches must go, unless the men of the nation desire reprisals in the form of hoopskirts and long trained dresses.

Francoise Haby, the Kaiser's barber, and the designer and keeper of the Imperial moustache, said to-day:—"This talk is utter nonsense. One might as well ask the men of Germany to wear rings in their noses as smooth faces. From time immemorial the Germans have believed a handsome beard and moustache to be not only man's proudest heritage, but the hallmark of the nation's greatness. Our whiskers have really come to mean more than that, because nowadays a whiskerless face is the monopoly of waiters, cab-drivers, butlers, and trench diggers."

"I fear these ladies have undertaken a hopeless task."

SERIOUS CHARGE

Man Under Arrest For Alleged Poisoning of Drinking Water.

From information received by Wm. Douglas, K. C., from a man named Wilson Price, living on the last lot in Dover, a serious charge has been laid.

Price has a well about 12 or 14 feet deep, formed by putting down a pipe, which has a cover over it. On Friday evening water had been drawn from the well and found to be all right, but on Saturday morning Price noticed Paris green on the cover of the well and also on a pole near by. This naturally aroused his suspicion, and he uncovered the well, to find that the water was green. There was easily enough to kill any drinker.

Mr. Price attributes the attempt to poison his household to Alex. Peltier, who lives just below him, as bad blood exists between the two men.

The man Peltier has been arrested by Constable Bugalt, of Jeanette's Creek, on the charge of attempted poisoning, and will come up for trial a week from to-morrow before the acting magistrate, Ald. E. W. Seane.

HAVE INVADERS BULGARIA.

Constantinople, Aug. 19.—Two companies of Ottoman troops have occupied the Bulgarian frontier, and the Bulgarian Charge d'Affaires has demanded their recall within a specified time.

STUDENT DROPPED DEAD.

Perry Sound, Aug. 19.—Thomas K. Scott, a fourth year student and medalist of Queen's University, Kingston, died at French River on Friday night from the effects of a paralytic stroke. Deceased suffered from a stroke at Kingston late one night last November, and was picked up on the street and taken to the police station as a supposed drunk, where he was kept in the cells over night.

Premier Roblin, of Manitoba, who is visiting Belleville, says the reports as to the damage to wheat by rust in the Prairie Province have been greatly exaggerated.

EXAM. RESULTS

List of Successful Candidates for the Commercial and Junior Matriculation.

The results of the commercial specialists', commercial diploma and part II. junior leaving examinations are given below. Junior and senior leaving certificates will be awarded on application to such candidates for scholarships at matriculation as are entitled to them.

The certificates of successful candidates and the marks of unsuccessful candidates in these and all other July examinations will be forwarded to-morrow to the High School principals and Public School inspectors concerned.

In no case will the candidates receive certificates or statements of marks direct from the Education Department.

In order to avoid unnecessary trouble and expense unsuccessful candidates are recommended to obtain the advice of principal, after receiving their marks, before making an appeal. All appeals should be made before September 20th.

SHOT A BURGLAR.

Barrie, Aug. 19.—Jack Burridge lies in the hospital here, shot through the right leg. On Saturday night he was caught burglarizing Milton Gray's house. Mr. Gray heard the noise of the thief's operations, and brought him down with a shot from a 34-calibre revolver. The police were summoned, but instead of taking him to jail, it was necessary to put the prisoner in the hospital.

BOLD BURGLARY

Chatham Residence Entered in Broad Daylight and Money Taken.

A very bold burglary occurred yesterday afternoon between the hours of two and three o'clock, when the residence of Joseph Barassin, Duluth street, was broken into and a small sum of money taken.

The robbers were evidently of the boldest sort and must have been well acquainted with the lay of the house and the pursuits of the family. At present Mr. and Mrs. Barassin are the only ones at home, the Misses Barassin and their cousin, Miss Ozard, of Winnipeg, who is visiting them, being this week in the country visiting a number of their friends.

At the time of the robbery Mr. Barassin, who is employed in Heyward's grocery, was, of course, at work, and Mrs. Barassin had gone out to visit a neighbor, who is ill, so that the house was entirely empty. Mrs. Barassin returned in about an hour's time, and when she came back the deed was done, so that one of the party must have been watching her movements and been looking for her return.

The robbers made a thorough search through the house, gaining entrance through the kitchen window by cutting the screen. They first went to the kitchen sideboard where, in one of the drawers they found a purse with about a dollar in change. They then went to Mrs. Barassin's bedroom, rummaging through everything in the room found three silver dollars. They then ransacked all of the bedrooms up stairs but as far as is known did not take anything. Everything through the house was found by Mrs. Barassin, when she returned, to be in a rumpled condition. The robbers had literally turned everything upside down. They also secured a number of pipes and a quantity of tobacco.

Not a single trace can be found of the robbers. They evidently came out by the same way they went in, which is thought to be very queer, as they would have been liable to have attracted attention if they had gone out through the back door. A queer circumstance in connection with the robbery is that the houses in that vicinity are very close together, and the window by which the robbers gained their entrance is directly opposite a window in the next house, but the men were never seen.

Police Officer Groves was at once notified and he immediately set out on the track of the robbers, but as yet has found no trace of them.

BLOOD POISON

If you ever contracted any blood disease you are never safe unless the virus of poison has been eradicated from the system. At times you see alarming symptoms, but live in hopes no serious results will follow. Have you any of the following symptoms? Sore Throat, Ulcers on the Tongue or in the Mouth, Hair Falling Out, Aching Pains, Itchiness of the Skin, Sores or Blotches on the Body, Eyes Red and Smart, Dyspeptic Stomach, Sexual Weakness—indications of the second stage. Don't trust to luck. Don't ruin your system with the old fogey treatment—mercury and potash—which only suppresses the symptoms for a time, only to break out again, when happy in domestic life. Don't let quacks experiment on you. Our New Method Treatment is guaranteed to cure you. Our guarantee is backed by bank bonds, that the disease will never return. Thousands of patients have been already cured by our New Method Treatment for over twenty years. No experiment, no risk—not a "patch-up," but a positive cure. The worst cases selected. We treat and cure Nervous Debility, Sexual Weakness, Gleet, Blood Poison, Stricture, Varicocele, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, and all diseases peculiar to men and women.

CURES GUARANTEED.

THE UNDOING OF A DOUBT
BY HUGO ST. FINISTERRE, M.D.
AUTHOR OF "WHO'S WHO" ETC. ETC.

COPYRIGHT, 1898 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

No doubt lingered in my mind that the negro intended treachery. If not, why had he failed to call me, as he promised? I was mildly astonished that he had not robbed me in my sleep, but accounted for that on the theory that he intended to deliver me intact to the white men who were hunting for me. This fancy became more reasonable when I reflected that Pete must be an object of suspicion to his neighbors because of his numerous forays upon their property. In what more effectual way could he square himself with them than by delivering me into their hands? He had gone forth to open communication with them, and as soon as he could do so would bring them to the cabin, where I should have been caught like a rat in a trap.

I stepped to the small window on the right and peeped out. The small clearing stretched away to the wood and showed no sign of a living person. The same view met my eye from the opposite window. Then I lifted the latch and looked along the trail over which we had come to the building. That, too, was equally devoid of persons, but the chickens were industriously scratching the ground in quest of their breakfast, as much at home as if with their rightful owners.

Feeling that every passing minute was of value, I drew the door fully open, stepped forth and latched it after me. A hurried glance on every hand failed to show any cause for additional alarm, and I walked rapidly over the path toward the creek where the dugout had been left.

There was danger of meeting Pete at any moment. I resolved if I did so to charge him directly with playing me false and if he proved ugly or attempted to detain me to use one of the remaining charges in my revolver upon him, but I reached the stream without sight of him.

I had passed, debating the best course to take, when I heard the murmur of voices in the undergrowth on my left, the sounds indicating that two persons at least were approaching the spot where I stood. I instantly stepped out of the trail and crouched among the dense undergrowth, where I was invisible unless the parties continued across the path. Drawing my revolver, I prepared for the contingency.

The fear of being detected held me so low in the shrubbery that I could not see either of the men, though I recognized their voices as those of Pete and of Cy Walters. By some means the two had established communication, and doubtless other members of the man hunt were within call.

The two continued talking, but to my exasperation it was in such low tones that it was impossible to distinguish a syllable. This was the more remarkable when it is remembered that I was within a bicent's toss of where I was crouching. Perhaps I should have heard enough to catch the drift of their conversation had they not changed their position by moving farther along the path in the direction of the cabin. Waiting several minutes, I ventured to steal forward a few paces into the trail in the hope of catching sight of them and making my own position more advantageous. Unfortunately, however, a turn in the path shut them from sight, and I dared not approach any nearer through fear of betraying myself.

At last, in the light of after-events I had caught but a single sentence of that extraordinary conversation going on so near me!

At that moment the distant baying of a hound sounded through the swamp. There was no mistaking the hideous sound nor could there be any doubt of the fact that the brute was on my trail. Moreover, now that the man hunters had been given time to gather and formulate their plans they were sure to provide themselves with more than one of the frightful creatures.

The warning could not pass unheeded. The dogs would follow my footsteps straight to the twisted tree and then up the creek to where I had entered the dugout of the negro Pete. Cy Walters was already in the company of the African, so that the trail to where I was crouching at this instant was as I could not see either of the men straight as a string. Furthermore, no matter what direction I took, except that by water, I could not elude the dogs.

But the best means in the world was at hand. I decided to enter the stream with my clothing and swimming an indefinite distance, and there was no call to do so when the dugout was within arm's reach.

With no hesitation, I shoved the clumsy structure clear, picked up the paddle and balanced myself within. The boat was of awkward build, but it was easy to paddle through the water with its leeward current. Being convinced that by going up stream I would enter deeper into the swamp, I headed the craft in the opposite direction. I was determined to reach the open country, instead of hiding in the wood to perish of starvation.

For some minutes I paddled as vigorously as possible consistent with silence. I could not forget that my relentless enemy and the owner of the craft were but a few rods away and were liable at any time to notice its departure. It was evident that the two would soon visit me as prisoner while I slept. Finding I had gone, they would suspect the course taken, while the absence of the dugout could leave no doubt of the means used.

Thus, with every incentive for haste, I swayed the paddle first on one side and then on the other and with the slight help from the current made good progress. It was not to be forgotten, however, that I had doubled on my own trail, so to speak, and was approaching the curved tree which had served me as a bridge in crossing the stream. My pursuers must use the same means, and it would be an awkward complication if we should arrive at the same moment. Because of this feature I slowed my progress as I drew near the spot.

My calculation was well made, for, upon creeping around the bend I had fixed upon in my mind as affording the view, the odd looking tree came into sight, resembling a gigantic sleigh runner, pointing toward the sky. Backing water, I held the boat motionless and listened.

The stillness was unbroken. But for that one cry of the distant bloodhound and the voice of the two men I might have believed I was the only inhabitant of the hundreds of miles of dismal swamp.

Prudence required that I should run the boat under the bank and keep of sight until my pursuers had passed. The time was short, and I was too precious to do so. My dread was of Cy Walters and the negro Pete. They must soon discover my flight and would hasten along the bank in pursuit. True, they would have no means of telling which direction I had taken, and therefore would probably search in both directions. But I could not be sure they could travel as fast as I could paddle was doubtful, though both were accustomed to a life that made them experts at that sort of thing.

Halting for only a few seconds, I decided to push on and gain all the distance possible while the opportunity was mine. My head of the creek should be nearer, with my nerves keyed to the highest pitch and my sense of hearing strained to the utmost. Nothing alarming was seen or heard, and I shot beneath the misshapen trunk, holding my breath and with compressed lips.

But the danger was imminent until the next bend of the creek should be passed and the natural bridge was out of sight behind me. I had not far to go and bent all my energies to the task, not looking back until I was almost on the turn. Then I turned my head, and as I did so saw that I had been discovered.

CHAPTER XVI.

I had been discovered not by a man, but by one of my four footed pursuers. The bloodhound had trailed me straight to the curving tree, along whose trunk he trotted with a sure foot, when he caught sight of the dugout and myself.

Baggage man's Backache

A Berlin Baggage man Recommends Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Hauling heavy trunks and lifting heavy trunks strains the back and injures the delicate fibres of the kidneys.

No wonder so many baggage men complain of backache and kidney troubles.
For baggage man's backache, as well as for all kinds of backache, kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, there is no remedy equal to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.
Read what Mr. Geo. Bremner, baggage man, G. T. R. station, Berlin, Ont., has to say about them: "For three or four years I have suffered from a severe backache due to kidney trouble. I have tried all kinds of kidney remedies, but am forced to say until I procured a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets of A. J. Ross, druggist, I never had much relief. The tablets, however, soon took hold, and the result is comfort again. I am only too pleased to recommend them as easy, safe and sure."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

he stopped, and without emitting any cry stared wonderingly at me.

If ever there was a puzzled dog, it was that particular specimen. As I have remarked, the species ranks low in intelligence, and there was something in the situation that was beyond the comprehension of that brute. He had been put on the trail of a fugitive fleeing on foot and had done his work so well—that he speedily reached the place where I crossed the stream. When in the act of following up the scent, he caught sight of me.

No doubt he asked himself whether it was possible I was the gentleman wanted. Marvellous as is the power of those animals, it could not have revealed to this one that I was the man whom he was trailing, because of which he stared at me in mute wonderment, while he pondered the question. What he ought to have done was to announce his predicament by some sort of howl and brought his masters to the spot, but the animal didn't know enough for that. He must have decided that his duty was to attend strictly to the business on which he was engaged, for, withdrawing his gaze, he trotted the remaining brief distance and jumped heavily to the ground. At that moment he emitted a howl and pressed his pursuit of me by taking a course directly the opposite of the true one.

Having thrown all my enemies to the rear for the time being, I must quickly decide upon my future course.

Anxious as I was to get out of the swamp and reach the open country, it was manifest that I would surrender an immense advantage when I did so. The news of the escape of the supposed horse thief, Hank Beyer, had spread through the country by this time, and doubtless searching parties were scattered over a space of many miles. Nothing rouses the bloodthirstiness of a mob more than the hunt for a victim with success delayed. If the fugitive can remain beyond reach for several days, their passions are likely to cool, but for a time it is a raging volcano.

It will be noted that there was no possibility of following me even with the help of the finest bloodhounds that had ever been trained. So long as I remained on the water the brutes were powerless. I could land at any point I chose, and the dogs might grope for hours before finding me, or they might do so in much less time than that. To disembark and leave the dugout to show where I had done so would be to surrender all chances of ultimate escape.

The plan I fixed upon while paddling down stream was simple. It was to land at what seemed to be a suitable point, and then set the boat adrift. It would float a greater or less distance without betraying the spot where it and I had parted company.

The problem, however, remained to decide upon the best place to do this, for it will be remembered that I was wholly ignorant of the location and size of Black Man's swamp. But, reasoning from the scant knowledge picked up the previous night, I inferred that I was near the boundary of the dismal tract. The time had not yet come for me to leave it altogether, and since each side of the creek was overhung with undergrowth I carefully ran the dugout close to shore and under the impenetrable curtain. The branches were secured and arranged around me with a care that would have done credit to an American Indian. By parting the interstices immediately in front of the screen I could look out upon the way, and, being observed by any one on the opposite bank or who might be navigating another craft past my hiding place, while behind me the dense vegetation was equally friendly.

For the first time I felt safe. Even if my pursuers should suspect my artifice they would have to push the matter until they came directly upon the dugout itself. That they should succeed upon the first attempt was out of the question. I could rest and meditate for awhile in peace.

Great Caesar, but wasn't I hungry! Although I had eaten but one regular meal, I felt as if famishing. The plain food would have been a godsend. I could devour anything edible and would have masticated and swallowed the leaves on the branches and the bark on the trees had I not been afraid of serious consequences. I was so unacquainted with the flora of those southern swamps, but knew they contained a great deal of noxious vegetation that was as likely to prove fatal as the toothpicks of our northern states. So I reluctantly refrained my craving, though ready to do almost anything desperate that promised to relieve the gnawing hunger.

Some 15 minutes of profound silence passed, during which I wondered at hearing nothing of the baying of the hounds. The pursuers must have reached a conclusion by that time and probably the means of my flight had been discovered long before.

Sh! Something stirred among the bushes on the opposite bank. Perhaps it was a hopping bird or some animal making his way stealthily among the vegetation, but it was safer to set it down as one of my enemies.

Again the gentle stir fell on my ears, and I softly parted the bushes before my face and peeped out. As I did so I saw Cy Walters, who had come to the edge of the creek and was peering first down stream and then across to the spot where I was hiding. He was so near that I kept the peephole at the smallest dimensions possible through fear that those keen eyes would detect me. He wore the same slouch hat and his grizzled beard covered his face and breast. He held his Winchester in his right hand, while with his left he kept the bushes apart to gain an unobstructed view. One huge booted foot was thrust so far forward that the water covered the foot.

"Confound you!" was my thought. "I should be justified in serving you as I did that bloodhound in the clearing. You are seeking the life of an innocent man, and he would serve you right to take yours."

Curious Bits of News.

A Chinese writer says that "among the 400,000,000 of Chinese there are fewer murders and robberies in a year than there are in New York State."

Half a century ago a thin stream of Niagara Falls was first led aside to turn a grist-mill. To-day a larger stream, which diminishes seriously the amount of water that passes over the fall, furnishes almost half a million horse-power.

Doctor Voge, the director of the Ayres National Board of Health, reports that during a recent trip to Paraguay he accidentally discovered that naphthalene is an excellent remedy for mosquito bites. It neutralizes the poison, he says, even when the bite has caused considerable inflammation, and if a fresh bite be rubbed with naphthalene no swelling follows.

One of the great packing-houses of Chicago has prohibited profanity upon its premises. The primary purpose of the order was to protect employees against abuse by swearing foremen or overseers. In commenting on the order the Chicago "Post" says: "It is one of the better signs of the times that in these days the men at the head of affairs are presumed to be, if not Christians, at any rate gentlemen. They find ways enough of making their wishes intelligible and effective without resort to bluster or swaggar or the indecencies of blasphemy."

Comparisons between the cost of government in France to-day and during the last year of the empire are being made to the disadvantage of the republic. In 1898 the total cost amounted to $355,000,000. In the year ending March 31, 1901, the expenditures amounted to $690,000,000. Meantime the population has remained almost stationary, and the per capita cost of government for the last fiscal year amounted to $18. The increase in cost is due largely to the ruinous French policy of refunding debts and annual deficits and to the cost of maintaining unproductive colonies.

In Tonkin, Indo-China, there is a timber-mine in good working order. In a sand formation, at a depth of from four to twenty feet, a deposit of trunks of trees has been found, and from this deposit the people dig timber. It is procured in good condition, and is used for making coffins and troughs and for carving. The trunks are many of them three feet in diameter and forty-five feet long, being apparently the remains of fir-trees which were buried thousands of years ago by an earthquake. These trunks are found in this sand formation, and the timber, although it has been buried so long, is not in the form of coal. This somewhat strange fact is accounted for by the peculiarly resinous character of the wood and the sandiness of the soil. Access to the mines is obtained by gangways.

Free medical advice. Men and women suffering from chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., by letter, absolutely without fee or charge. For more than thirty years as chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce has devoted himself to the treatment and cure of chronic diseases. Assisted by his staff of nearly a score of physicians, each man a specialist, his success has been phenomenal, ninety-eight persons in every hundred treated being absolutely and altogether cured. Women have especially availed themselves of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter, thereby avoiding the unpleasant questioning, the obnoxious examinations, and odious local treatments considered necessary by some practitioners. Over half a million women have been treated by Dr. Pierce and his staff for diseases peculiar to women with unvarying success. Write without fear as without fee. Every letter is treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential, and all answers are sent in plain envelopes bearing no printing upon them. Address Dr. R. V. A Mummy as Hostess.

GUINET, the celebrated Orientalist, who has founded in Paris a museum which bears his name, gave the other day a five o'clock tea. "To meet the beautiful Thais," relates a correspondent in Paris. Thais, as one knows, was the famous courtesan who lived in the third century, and was so blonde and lovely that all the gentlemen of Alexandria lost their appetites and sleep on her account. The smartest people were invited, and, to begin with, an excellent luncheon was served. This was a wise precaution, for—who knows?—they might not have been able to enjoy the rare Oriental sweets of M. Guinet after they had paid their visit to Thais, in her sarcophagus, for Thais was a mummy.

The once beautiful lady received her visitors lying down on her narrow couch of white marble. A gossamer veil of gold was on her face, which is somewhat damaged, while in her dainty slippers of scarlet cloth embroidered with real pearls very little feet were to be seen. She wore her hair, which was once blonde, now somewhat faded and of a vague color, though abundant and silky. Round her neck was a necklace formed by two rows of amethyst pearls. Her wondrous yellowish gown is of a texture so fine that nothing of the kind could be found nowadays, and she wears a dress of orange striped silk, which is tied round her waist by a sash of the most delicate salmon-pink hue.

Beside her were many pretty things, such as a bread-basket in silver filigree, two mugs of chiseled gold, two bronze crosses—for Thais became a Christian while she was still young and lovely—and a sort of prayer-book, a light lath of pale wood. A few other mummies keep her company, most of them being also surrounded by quaint and curious things very interesting to look at. One of the most clever lady writers was so struck by the mummy she is going to write a series of articles on the subject, beseeching the friends and relations of our modern dead to imitate the people of antiquity and fill their tombs with articles that were once beloved by them, so that some 2,000 years hence scholars and artists may form an idea of the Parisian civilization in the twentieth century.

Some Scotch Examination Papers.

London "Chronicle."

A correspondent proposes the following questions for the next matriculation examination at the Scotch universities: First—Geography—Draw a map of the United States, marking London, Glasgow and Birmingham. Second—History—Write an account of the work in four days, how much quicker will an American do it at half the salary? Third—Political Economy—The Yankee millionaires over here state they "feel as if this were their own country." The German Emperor, when last visiting us, declared he felt "perfectly at home." Account for this. Fourth—History—Write an account of the invasions of Great Britain and the rebellion and subsequent subjugation of the Yanks. Give dates of the accessions of Yerkes II., Sloan, Morgan the Contractor, and the other conquerors; also of the bestification of St. Carnegie. Say what you know of any of these. Fifth—Trade Problem—You are an English manufacturer. An extensive order is received for locomotives for a trans-African railway. Which would you demand an entire alteration of the railway to fit the six locomotives you have in stock, or recommend an American rival? Sixth—Travel—You are an American millionaire traveling for recreation. Which would you take back with you—London or Paris? State your reasons for preferring one of these trinkets.

Le Gallienne as Satirist.

IN the "Rambler," Numb. 210, Richard Le Gallienne, Esquire, has what he himself would no doubt call a "little paper" on "The Desire of the Star for the Moth." We help ourselves to the following excerpts:

"Of course, there are very big successful Stars who affect that the Hero-worshiper Moth is a nuisance; and build themselves about with Bastions of Privacy, through which no Ray of their Shining can reach the most persevering Moth—but then, you see, they are so sure of their Moth. I wonder if the little should come when the Flocks of Little Pilgrims up to their dizzy Ranks begin to shudder, and the Roar of Moth-Wings outside their guarded Country-seats to grow fainter—and it has happened so with some very great Stars indeed—if they would not become a little less sure of their Feeling of Stargazing, and perhaps even at last unshutter a Window, and let slip a Beam of their celestial selves; lest the Moths should grow discouraged, and perhaps cease coming at all."

"I have heard that some Stars of this Magnitude charge the Moth Half a Guinea for their Autographs—strictly, of course, for the Benefit of the Hospitals. Such Stars are, you can imagine, very sure of themselves. But there is another Kind of big Star that makes quite as big a Bid as those of which I have been speaking, yet is by no means so unsoal; on the contrary is smilingly, even eagerly, accessible to every Moth that is so kind and appreciative as to take the Trouble to call with its Homage. It often indeed asks the Moth to stay for Lunch, and makes it promise to be sure to come again."

It is somewhat unusual to find Mr. Le Gallienne playing literary satirist in this rather obvious manner. But at the moment he is living in New York, which possibly accounts for it. Possibly, too, suggest the "Outlook," the falling-off in the stream of moths which formerly drifted in a certain direction has filled his soul with revolt.

ESTABLISHED
1854.

The house now known as RYRIE BROS. is one of the oldest and best established jewelry houses in Canada.

Although established in 1854 it has only been under its present management for one-quarter of a century.

We have striven to conduct it upon such lines that
"if it is from Ryrie Bros.
you know it is good" has come to be an accepted axiom.

If you have any need in the jewelry line, however small, write us a letter, and try our Mail Order Department—it is positively good.

Pain-Killer
(PERRY DAVIS)
From Capt. F. L. Lyle, Police Station No.
Montreal:—We frequently use PERRY
DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER for pains in the stomach, rheumatism, stiff joints, neuralgia, children, cramps, and all affections which attend men in our position. I have no hesitation in saying that PAIN-KILLER is the best remedy I have ever used.

Used Internally and Externally.
Two Sizes, 50c. and 50c. bottles.

FIRST AID
TO THE INJURED
POND'S EXTRACT
ON BURNS, SPRAINS, WOUNDS, BRUISES
OR ANY SORT OF PAIN.
Used Internally and Externally.
CAUTION! Avoid the weak, watery, witch oil preparations, represented to be "the one as" Pond's Extract, which easily runs off and contains "wood alcohol" an irritant externally and, taken internally, a poison.

Curious Bits of News.

A Chinese writer says that "among the 400,000,000 of Chinese there are fewer murders and robberies in a year than there are in New York State."
Half a century ago a thin stream of Niagara Falls was first led aside to turn a grist-mill. To-day a larger stream, which diminishes seriously the amount of water that passes over the fall, furnishes almost half a million horse-power.

Doctor Voge, the director of the Buenos Ayres National Board of Health, reports that during a recent trip to Paraguay he accidentally discovered that naphthalene is an excellent remedy for mosquito bites. It neutralizes the poison, he says, even when the bite has caused considerable inflammation, and if a fresh bite be rubbed with naphthalene no swelling follows.

One of the great packing-houses of Chicago has prohibited profanity upon its premises. The primary purpose of the order was to protect employees against abuse by swearing foremen or overseers. In commenting on the order the Chicago "Post" says: "It is one of the better signs of the times that in these days the men at the head of affairs are presumed to be, if not Christians, at any rate gentlemen. They find ways enough of making their wishes intelligible and effective without resort to bluster or swag or the inequalities of blasphemy."

Comparisons between the cost of government in France to-day and during the last year of the empire are being made; to the disadvantage of the republic. In 1889 the total cost amounting to $385,000,000. In the year ending March 31, 1901, the expenditure was amounted to $590,000,000. Meantime the population has remained almost stationary, and the per capita cost of government for the fiscal year of 1901 amounted to $18. The increase in cost is due largely to the ruinous French policy of refunding debts and annual deficits and to the cost of maintaining unproductive colonies.

In Tunkin, Indo-China, there is a timber-mine in good working order. In a sand formation, at a depth of from fourteen to twenty feet, a deposit of trunks of trees has been found, and from this deposit the people dig timber. It is procured in good condition, and is used for making coffins and trunks for carrying. The trunks are many of them three feet in diameter and forty-five feet long, being apparently the remains of fir-trees which were buried thousands of years ago by an earthquake. There is an extensive forest in this sand formation, and the timber, although it has been buried so long, is not in the form of coal. This somewhat strange fact is accounted for by the peculiarly resinous character of the wood and the sandiness of the soil. Access to the mines is obtained by gangways.

How Romance Had Vanished.

"Is romance dead?" sighed the tall Beef-and-Girl, as she wiped from the marble-topped table
the bits of sinkers and combination coffee whistles. A twohundred-and-fifty-pound traveling salesman had left. "I fear me that such is indeed the case. When first I came to this place and found myself surrounded on every side by the kindling masculine eye, how thrilled I was in every fibre! Every putty-faced ribbon clerk I regarded as a potential admirer, every nickel I found beneath the butter-plate I received almost as a caress. How bitterly I do loved!
In all too short a time I learned that the languishing glances cast on me and all the apparent favors of those who came to 'No. 17' every noon, were but deceiving wiles to ensnare me into giving three slices of bread instead of two with a ten-cent order, or two portions of syrup instead of one with the buckwheats!"
"Thus, with the knowledge that the beings whom I served had thoughts no more ethereal than the sinkers they devoured, died my poetry within me.
As I ceased to feel any fervor for those around me, so I began to lose interest in myself. My voice, which was dulcet when first I called, 'Draw one—without!' has now been hardened to sordid harmony with the clattering knives and falling plates, and with the utmost indifference I enunciate, 'Brown the hash—seventeen, 'Corn-beef-an-
New York,' and the other phrases in my melancholy vocabulary. No more so I view with tense interest the pie-cutter in hope that his wedge-shaped sle will slip and a fraction more of coconut or cornstarch than the regulation allows be bestowed on a new customer with a blonde moustache. No more do I tip into his dish an extra spoonful of apple-sauce, nor smile rapturously when he asks me if I know anyone who'd like to take a little blow down to Coney some warm evening.
Too often have I been deceived.
"Naught is left for romance, but pesimism and ennui. Lobsters and champagne? Bah! Food I see too much of and too often. Diamonds and silk petticoats? What good are clothes to me?
I must wear my black and white and eather belt and number 'seventeen,' and that is all. Romance? Ah—'tis dead! And as for life, I say, as does the egg man when he has boiled 'two medium.' Take it away! Take it away!"—New York "Evening Sun."

A Fortunate Delay.

In "Life and Sport on the Pacific Coast" Mr. Horace A. Vachell relates one of his narrow escapes from a "friend's bullet."
"My cousin and I had been camping and hunting for several days in a sort of Paradise valley. One day, during a long ride on horseback, we had seen a great many rattlesnakes, and killed a few—an exceptional experience. That night my cousin woke up and saw, by the light of the moon, a big rattler snaking across my chest. He lay for a moment fascinated, horror-stricken, watching the sinuous curves of the reptile. Then he quietly reached for his sheep-skin. But he could not see the "reptile's head, and he moved nearer, soberly and yet quickly, dreading some movement on my part that should precipitate the very thing he dreaded.
And then he saw that it was not a snake at all—only the black and yellow stripe of my blanket that gently rose and fell as I breathed. Had he dreamed, it might have been bad for me,
for he confessed that his hand shook."

Free medical advice. Men and women suffering from chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., by letter, absolutely without fee or charge. For more than thirty years Dr. Pierce has been consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Sanitarium of Buffalo, N. Y. Doctor Pierce has devoted himself to the treatment and cure of chronic forms of disease. Assisted by his staff of nearly a score of physicians, each man a specialist, his success has been phenomenal, ninety-eight persons in every hundred are cured. Women have especially availed themselves of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter, thereby avoiding the unpleasant questionings, the obnoxious examinations, and odious local treatments considered necessary by some practitioners. Over half a million women have been treated by Dr.
Pierce and his staff for diseases peculiar to women, with unvarying success. Write without fear and without fee. Every letter is treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential.
Letters are sent in plain envelopes bearing no printing upon them. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, World's Dispensary Medical Association,
Buffalo, N. Y.

A Mummy as Hostess.

M. GUIMET, the celebrated Orientalist, who has founded in Paris a museum which bears his name, gave the other day a five o'clock
tea, "to meet the beautiful Thais," relates a correspondent in Paris. Thais, as one knows, was the famous courtesan who lived in the third century, and was so blonde and lovely that all the gentlemen of Alexandria lost their appetites and sleep on her account. The smartest people were invited, and, to begin with, an excellent luncheon was served. This was a wise precaution, for—who knows?—
they might not have been able to enjoy the rare Oriental sweets of M.
Guimet after they had paid their visit to Thais, in her sarcophagus, for Thais was a mummy.

The once beautiful lady received her visitors lying down on her narrow couch of white marble. A rosewater veil of gold was on her face, which is somewhat damaged, while in her dainty slippers of scarlet cloth embroidered with real pearls very little feet were to be seen. But she still wore her superb hair, once like liquid copper, now somewhat faded and of a vague color, though abundant and silky. Round her neck was a necklace found by two rows of unpolished pearls. Her woolen yellowish gown is of a texture so fine that nothing of the kind could be found nowadays, and the whole body of orange striped silk, which is tied round her waist by a sash of the most delicate salmon-pink hue.

Beside her were many pretty things,
such as a bread basket in silver filigree,
two mugs of chieftain gold, two bronze crosses—for Thais became a Christian while she was still young and lovely—and a sort of prayer-book in light lath of palm wood. A few other mummies keep her company, most of them being also surrounded by quaint and curious things very interesting to look at. One of the most gloomy lady writers was so struck by them that she is going to write a series of articles on the subject, beseeching the friends and relations of our modern dead to imitate the people of antiquity and fill their tombs with articles that were once beloved by them, so that some 2,000 years hence scholars and artists may form an idea of the Parisian civilization in the twentieth century.

Some Scotch Examination Papers.

London "Chronicle."

A correspondent proposes the following questions for the next matriculation examination at the Scotch universities: First—Geography—Draw a map of the United States, marking London, Glasgow and Birmingham. Second Rule of Three—If a man does a piece of work in four days, how much quicker will an American do it at half the salary? Third—Politics—Boomer—
The Yankee millionaires over here state they "feel as if this were their own country." The German Emperor, when last visiting us, declared he felt "perfectly at home." Account for this.
Fourth—History—Write a note on the invasions of Great Britain and the rebellion and subsequent subjugation of the Angles. Give dates of the successes of Kerk of Sion, Morgan the Contractor, and the other conquerors; also of the beatification of St. Carnegie. Say what you know of any of these. Fifth —Travel—You are an English manufacturer. An extensive order is received for locomotives for a trans-Africa railway. Which would you do —demand an entire alteration of the railway to fit the six locomotives you have in stock, or recommend an American rival? Sixth—Travel—You are an American millionaire traveling for recreation. Which would you prefer back with you as souvenir—London or Paris? State your reasons for preferring one of these trinkets.

Le Gallienne as Satirist.

In the "Rambler," Numb. 216, Richard Le Gallienne, Esquire, has what he himself would no doubt call a "little paper" on "The Satirist of the Star for the Month." We help ourselves to the following excerpts:

"Of course, there are very big successful stars who affect that the Hero-worshiper Moth is a Nuisance, and build themselves about with Bastions of Privacy, through which no Ray of their

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Such was the Finding at the Inquest on the Late John Graham.

How he did not See the Approach of the Express Remains a Mystery.

The inquest touching the death of John Graham, which was adjourned from Friday, was concluded last evening with the jury bringing in a verdict of accidental death.

The first witness called was Alex. Webster, the night operator at the G. T. R. diamond. He knew deceased by sight only, and last time he had seen him alive was when he found him after the accident. About ten or fifteen minutes after the express had gone through he had heard some one call, and on coming nearer heard groans as of someone in great pain. He found the deceased in the ditch on the north side of the track in a very bad condition, although he was sensible. Witness then straightened him out as best he could and went back to the tower and asked permission of the dispatcher at St. Thomas to leave for a time in order to get assistance, having told him what had happened. Leave was granted and he sent a message to the operator at G. T. R. station to have a doctor sent out at once, and then he started out to get assistance when he saw a C. P. R. freight coming from the west, which he stopped and had the deceased put on and taken to Chatham. He then went back and sent a message to the operator at the G. T. R. to have a doctor and ambulance at the C. P. R. station. It just took 35 minutes from the time I heard the deceased call first till he was on his way to Chatham, said the witness. Next morning witness noticed pieces of clothing and parts of the velocipede along the track. When questioned he said it was a clear night and that the headlights of the train could be seen for many miles, and that the train crossed the diamond at about 12 miles per hour. There were no marks at the place where he was hit of his trying to get out of the way.

W. L. Badley, night operator at the C. P. R. station, was called and said that on the arrival of the freight train on the morning of the 15th the conductor came running in and said he had an injured man on the train. Witness telephoned at once for the ambulance and the C. P. R. doctor, and had afterwards seen the deceased carried and put into the ambulance.

Joe Fitzpatrick, the engineer on express train No. 4, said he knew nothing of the accident until he got to the station and noticed a piece of rag carpet hanging to the front of the engine, and also other indications of having struck something, and at once called the conductor and explained that he had struck something. He had a good headlight burning and there was no reason why the deceased should not have seen it.

Donald Menzies, conductor on the freight train that brought the deceased to the city, was the next witness called. He said that his train had been stopped at the diamond and that the train had brought the deceased man to Chatham.

Geo. Burr, fireman on C. P. R. express No. 4, corroborated Fitzpatrick's statement.

Dr. J. P. Rutherford, the C. P. R. surgeon, was then called. He said that he had examined deceased and found him suffering a broken skull and that the outer pate of the skull was fractured and bleeding, and that his right arm was broken in two places, he had two short cuts in his face, his scalp was lacerated and that the outer pate of the skull was fractured. He was asked and refused to answer at three different times how the accident happened.

There was no smell of liquor on his breath and, in fact, he had refused liquor when it was offered to him. He had a very good pulse and the cause of death was from injuries to the brain and his other injuries. He lived about twelve hours after the accident, and died in a convulsion at about four o'clock in the afternoon. After the coroner had addressed the jury they almost immediately brought in the following verdict: That the deceased, John Graham, came to his death Thursday, August 15th, from injuries to brain caused by his having been struck by express train No. 4 while on his way to his home in Ringold, and that no blame is to be attached to any other party as contributory to his death. This was submitted by W. E. Hamilton, foreman.

SUICIDE

Miss Walsh of New Brunswick, threw herself in front of a train at Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 19.—A young woman was killed on Saturday evening by an Illinois Central suburban train in the South Park station, in the presence of a throng of suburbanites, and was last night identified as Joanna Eugenia Walsh, a student of the University of Chicago. Miss Walsh is a native of New Brunswick, Canada, where her mother still resides. Eye witnesses to the tragedy affirm that Miss Walsh deliberately threw herself upon the track in front of the approaching engine, and allowed herself to be ground to death. Her friends declare their belief that she, being afflicted with heart disease, fell accidentally before the train.

MURDERED

Watchman Asked a Suspicious-Looking man his Business and was Shot Down.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 19.—Matthew McBride, a private watchman employed by residents of the fashionable district in this city, was shot and killed by an unknown man early this morning. McBride was patrolling his beat when he came across a suspicious-looking man, and asked him his business. Without replying the man drew a revolver and fired direct into the officer's face and then fled. McBride died soon after relating the fact of the shooting. It is supposed the murderer was a burglar.

FROM RUSSIA

Corea Forbids Exportation of Rice—Sailed for the Pacific.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—Despatches received here from Seoul say that the Corean government has forbidden the exportation of rice on account of the bad crops, and that the Japanese government has instructed its minister at Seoul to inquire whether the measure is justifiable. Japan has an agreement with Corea forbidding such action, except in the case of dire necessity.

The cruiser Varig, recently built in the United States for the Russian government, sailed yesterday to reinforce the Russian squadron in the Pacific.

The marriage of Rev. D. M. Robertson, of this place, to Miss Stein, of Bright, is announced for Wednesday 21st. His Rev. is to be congratulated on his decision to join the army of the benedictine. A warm welcome is awaiting Mr. and Mrs. Robertson on their return home.

The Darrell football team play the clippers of Harwich, on Saturday afternoon, at six o'clock. The 24th inst. play to begin Alex. Clarke, teacher at McCully's, has just returned from visiting the Pan-American, and reports very favorably of the exhibition.

Our Strong Point

In calling your attention this way lies in that one word "VALUE". Where's the store that takes as much pains as we to deserve your trade? And who is as ready as we to refund money if goods aren't exactly as represented?

It's pretty well understood by this time that we make Clothing fine and sell it cheap in competition with the leading tailors and clothiers of Canada. We maintain that Chatham is equal to any of the larger cities as regards style, and that our facilities are not to be discounted by any store the country over.

As a matter of fact, we're doing a splendid business. As a matter of course, there must be reasons for it all, and those who study them will fare better than those who don't.

THE SAME OLD STORY

Ald. Taylor, for the Property committee, presented the following report, which was adopted:

1. Re the matter of placing a hydrant at the corner of Emma street near the Ursuline Academy. We recommend that the same be done.

Ald. McCoig called the attention of the Board of Works to the fact that weeds are being allowed to grow wild on Cross street.

Ald. Marshall said that he had been informed by the city engineer that all the weeds in the city had been cut. He would call his attention to it, however.

Ald. Scane also called attention to the weeds on the Athletic Park and Ald. Edmondson to those on Sheldon avenue.

McCoig, of the Parks and Cemeteries committee reported that he had the walk across Tecumseh Park measured and it was estimated that a granolithic walk would cost about $200. It will be put down in blocks so that it can at any time be removed.

McCoig—Scane, that if the city can secure the consent of the Militia Department to have the use of the Park, the walk be put down.—Carried.

Marshall—Mounter, that the city notify Mr. Kime to have all side-walks in the city under his jurisdiction repaired within the next ten days.—Carried.

Marshall—Mounter, that Lynch & Lynch be notified to commence the work of refuting the King street sewer within the next ten days.—Carried.

Mounter—Marshall, that in view of the fact that Mr. White, a commercial traveller of Montreal, and a lad by the name of Morrison have committed deeds of bravery in averting two drowning accidents, that this Council write the Humane Society to have their deeds suitably recognized.

Ald. Marshall introduced the street sprinkling by-law, which was put through the various readings and finally passed.

A delegation from the Binder Twine Company was present and heard within the bar re the matter of putting in the spur to their factory, as related to in the letter from Mr. Mount.

Mr. McKay and D. A. Hutchinson both addressed the Council relative to the matter. They wished that the matter be attended to as speedily as possible in order to save them all unnecessary expense in regard to the same.

Ald. Taylor—It is too bad that the work has been retarded, but the Council are perfectly willing to do their part. It looks very much like a bluff on the part of the railroad and they seem to be acting a little mean in the matter.

Ald. Scane—I think we ought to make a compromise of the matter.

Ald. Mounter—I think that it would be a good plan to notify Mr. Woollett, and arrange a meeting with him and the city solicitor.

Mr. McKay—Could a spur be put in from the C. P. R.?

The Mayor—Yes.

The Mayor—The track that the L. E. & D. R. R. have now on Colborne they have at the good will of the people. When it was first put down it was to be used solely for running to the station and not for shunting purposes.

Moved by Ald. Scane and Taylor, that we issue a notice to amend the by-law and arrange a meeting with Mr. Woollett and the city solicitor. Carried.
