LONDONDERY TIMES.

SEATURDAY, OCT. 6th 1888.

Light as Darkness.

Now that the long winter evenings are beginning to close in upon us, it would not be well for the people of Acadia Mines to take some steps whereby our town might be properly lighted.

There are many reasons why it would be a good thing to have an electric light system in Acadia Mines. It is a very attractive, gives it a business appearance and is the safety advantage of the numerous pedestrians whom business compels to patrol our unguarded streets at night.

We understand some of our leading men are now considering the advisability of moving in the matter, also that the manager of the Londonderly Iron Co. has kindly offered to place at the disposal of any company (free of charge) a site to place in engines, building them to obtain their steam power from the boilers now present use by the Co.

It is a splendid offer and one which the people of this place cannot afford to let slip through their fingers. We also understand that Messrs Chambers Turner & Layton of Truro who now supply the light for that town have consented to place electric lights in Acadia Mines at the same rate.

Now this is a very opportune time to take the initiative step to secure it. We do not suppose there is a man here who would not have it in his mind to decrease the cost for outside purposes. Who will make the start call a meeting and get the opinions of the Public.

Something new. Repine the labor candidate was elected for Montreal east by 672 majority. The workmen are evidently to be congratulated on their victory.

It has been impossible for us to receive our supplies, to enable us to fill our outside this week, will be willing to disappoint our readers and believing in the old adage that a halfa loaf is better than none we send out this issue containing the old-time reading.

A MAN TRICK. The manager has acted in rather an arbitrary manner when he gave notice of his intention to stop the two weeks pay, without ever intimating to the men his intention of doing so.

It must be borne in mind that it was not from the manager the men received the fortnightly pay, but from Mr Patterson managing director who heard the different reasons from the men why they wanted it and concluding it only right that the request should be granted, without hesitation acceded to their request.

He has on previous occasions intimidated the men with the threat that he would close the works if they offered any resistance to his despotic will, in trying to get certain concessions which were only just and right. Now we all know Mr Satecliffe owns neither this town or the works, and receives orders from his superiors, the same as the men get theirs from him, and so far as closing any department is concerned, it is outside of his jurisdiction. He could recommend this medicine for the men but it is doubtful if the Co. would act upon it, as they will not sink thousands of dollars to gratify the spleen of one or two individuals. We have no doubt had the manager contemplated to consult the men on his intention of returning to the old system of monthly pays, and put forward any good reason, if they would have made any serious objection. But there is one thing certain if the men wish is not granted note the Co. may find in the course of a few months they will be compelled (by law) to pay not only fortnightly but weekly.

My brother Henry went fishing Saturday night 18th only knew by his telling me and bringing part of a fish. That fish was all the provisions we had in the house. We had no flour for some time. But dug potatoes and lived on them.

All of the week long but Friday I don't think he told me 'till could play at the game' if I had said so before the magistrate I must have mixed up what others said. St. John, Oct 6. - After being out all night, the jury in the Taylor case, returned this morning with a verdict of manslaughter. Trafton and Phillips were sentenced to fifteen years each in the penitentiary.

St. John, Oct 2. - The case of Phillipine and Trafton for shooting the wife of Major Howes was given to the jury at 11.45 this morning, but up to 8.20 to night they had not agreed upon a verdict.

Anna Phillipine was recalled and testified: When my brother returned I asked him what had happened. He told me he had shot Mrs. Howes. I don't remember his words I said, my God, tell me it isn't you. He said it was not him. I said are you sure, how can you tell. He said the first shot and that only. He said Frank Trafton came for my brother he did not say anything. He said they were going to something. He said they were going to something. He said they were going to something.

Cross examined by Mr. Gregory was born in England. My father was Henry Frederick Phillipine, a banker and merchant in London. He died a year ago in August. I came to America seven or eight years ago. Phillipine, Pelissier & Co. was the name of the firm of which my father was a member. They failed in 1880. Emigrated to Halifax, bringing five children with him.

My mother died when I was eight years old. Father married again and had five children by his second wife. Neither she nor her children came out here, but she went back to her people in Switzerland. I am the eldest of the five, am 22 years. Mary will soon be 18 years. I have not seen her for about two months. I have seen her sister, and she is now in Halifax.

When the sheriff went after her, she did not come. I went to school three years in Switzerland and lived in luxury and comfortable circumstances prior to coming to this country. My stepmother went to her family connections. My father had some position in a Halifax shipping office of the Societe Postal and Atlantique and was wharf manager for three years when the agents would pay him, we then moved to Annapolis and tried farming for two years. When we left there for the Tobique we were almost bankrupt. Father came first and then sent Henry and Fritz up to Annapolis. I did not come until the 5th of August of that year. This will be my third year - that is I have been here two full years.

Mary and Eugene came up in June. I was the last. I tried to hire out at Annapolis and was at first unwilling to come here. Father did not come up at all. He tried to establish a cider business in Halifax when he died suddenly. Was found dead in his bed (witness was here overheard with evidence) since then the five of us have been endeavoring to make a farm on the Tobique. Peter Henry has been a good brother to me kind and affectionate. He is very strong and firm of principle. He was the head of the farm in an out door sense. On Saturday night 18th August last our family had no provisions at all. My brother went out that night. I was investigated by somebody to deny some of the statements I had made before the magistrates and I don't know the man of it I saw him again. I had not informed you nor anybody else that I was going to deny them. It was this morning before I came into the court house that I was investigated to deny the story. He told me to deny the story. He had told, but gave no reason or offered any inducement therefore. The statement I made before the magistrates were perfectly true in the sight of God. I gave the first

An extraordinary tragedy is reported from Cow Bay C. B.

It appears three little boys were playing "killing pigs." One of these was the six year old son of Mrs. Anderson who keeps the village hotel. He was bound hand and foot by his young companions and thrown upon the ground, when the little butchers out his throat with an old rusty blunt knife.

They made a big gasp, blood flowed freely, and the poor little fellow has died from the effects of the wound. His companions have not been arrested and do not realize the heinous nature of their play.

CORRESPONDENCE

Are they resolute.

Mr. Editor,

Have the parties who sell intoxicating drinks (who reside on the Co's land and who beyond a doubt have forfeited their land privileges granted conditionally by the Co.) outgeneraled the Co. or has the Co. of a late date made any new discoveries concerning their power in the premises, which would cause them to surrender or cancel any order or notice given to the parties violating any of the stipulations or rules of the Co., or has the whole of the beer business been subverted into a "laughable farce," several weeks ago there seemed to be an almost universal outbreak of rejoicing when a report was spread broadcast that a mandate had been legally placed in the hands of Mr. Geo. Romans the agent of the Co., that he had perambulated the lands owned by the Co., on what was reported a beer Cruickshank violating residents on said lands to assist their traffic or abate the consequence of the action of the Co. Imagination now dictates to me the protraction of this notice, otherwise something wrong in the operation of the movements.

If it is a game of bluff on the part of the sellers, it is assuredly a very defiant game on one side, and equally a humiliating imbecility on the other. If the Company have discovered anything (since the notice was given) which shows a want of power, it is to be regretted that they had not ascertained their true position previous to taking any action, without placing themselves in a position to be the laughing stock of unscrupulous and unprincipled parties who are still selling as much as before on the same old stands, while others are chuckling over the errors of the Co. and have opened new places on the Co's land. This looks very very thin on the Co's part. Those parties play quite a false trump card in the bluff game who simply carry on some other business as a disguise to enable them to sell intoxicating drinks. I trust I shall not be again compelled to revert to this matter, and if the Co. has the power it pretends to have and which we yet believe it has, surely those things will be for the welfare of this community the benefit and respectability of the Co. It immediately stamped out.

Thanking you for your patience and space. Trusting there may be no timidity in having this vexed question properly adjusted before you again hear from.

A foul deed.

A MAN FOUND DEAD IN A DITCH CIRCUMSTANCES POINT TO A POUL MURDER.

Early Thursday morning the usually quiet town of Springhill was startled with the report that a foul murder had been committed. The body of Joseph Ackles was found in the ditch near Drummond St., and by marks on the head and body pointed to foul play. All sorts of rumors are flying thick and fast coupling the names of different residents with the deed, but at the Coroner's inquest nothing which would substantiate such rumors or lead to the discovery of the perpetrators was brought to light. He has been a resident of Springhill for a number of years, he formally resided here and was well and favorably known.

Two mysterious murders were committed at Whitechapel London, last week. The women were of the same character as those previously killed, and were found to be murdered in the same manner. Their throats were cut from ear to ear, and one of them was dismembered. The city is shocked. The police are unable to obtain any clue.
