Securities and other valuables are constantly disappearing—stolen, burned, or simply mislaid,—owing to the dangerous practice of keeping them at home or in other unsafe places. Even the office safe does not really ensure safety.

The highest degree of safety is obtained by depositing valuables with THE ROYAL TRUST COMPANY, which not only protects them but, if desired, saves all trouble by collecting the income for you.

Commons Pass Irish Free State Bill.

Millions of Chinese Facing Starvation--Statesmen Considering Egyptian Question--Body of Antarctic Explorer to Rest Within Circle.

PASSES SECOND READING.
LONDON, Feb. 17.
The bill establishing the Irish Free State passed its second reading in the House of Commons to-day after a brief discussion, offered by Captain Charles Craig, leader of the Ulster Unionists, for altering the boundary commission provisions of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, had been defeated by a vote of 202 to 60. Lord Hugh Cecil charged the Government with treating Sinn Fein as if it were a constitutional government. He added: "For that we have found that it is a government and that crimes of terrible character are breaking out in the districts which ought to be rejected." Continuing he said, "the Government are in the astounding position that they want a chief boundary commissioner to decide whether the Government should break faith with Sinn Fein. The Government are looking on with curiosity to see whether they are cheats or liars." Former Premier Asquith vigorously supported the bill.

CHINESE MILLIONS STARVING.
SHANGHAI, Feb. 17.
More than six million people are facing starvation in the Province of Kiangsu, in which Shanghai is located, and Chekiang and Anhwei, according to estimates compiled here. Unprecedented floods which wiped out twenty per cent of the rice crop in these districts are blamed for food shortages.

GERMANY'S ATLANTIC CABLES.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.
An international conference to consider the allocation of the former German cables in the Atlantic will be called in Washington next week. Representatives of France, England, Italy, Japan and the United States will be asked to meet and determine the disposition of the three cable lines taken over under the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles. The cables are now being operated by England and France under an agreement with other interested powers. Under the present arrangements Great Britain operates the cable from Halifax to Penzance, while France is in control of two running from Brest to Pernambuco and Brazil. The three cables operate by way of the Azores.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION.
LONDON, Feb. 17.
It is authoritatively announced that conversations held in London between Premier Lloyd George, Foreign Secretary Curzon and Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, British High Commissioner in Egypt and Sudan, have resulted in complete agreement on the policy to be pursued in Egypt and the proposals to be presented to the Egyptian Government. According to reports Field Marshall Allenby favoured following the line of policy of Lord Milner's report and threatened to resign the High Commissionership unless the British Government decided either to adopt a purely military policy, or to make the concessions urged by Lord Milner. The London Times says that it is generally assumed that Field Marshall Allenby will return to Egypt shortly with proposals which will enable him to continue his mission in a manner satisfactory to himself and the Egyptian Government.

WILL REST IN THE SOUTH.
MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 17.
The British steamer Woodville sailed to-day for the Island of South Georgia, bearing the body of Sir Ernest Shackleton which will be buried in the little English churchyard at Grytviken.

SECEDES FROM O.R.U.
CALGARY, ALTA, Feb. 17.
The monarch mine, Drumheller, belonging to the North American Collieries, Ltd., a stronghold of the One Big Union, passed under the jurisdiction of the United Mine Workers of America District last night when officers for a newly formed local were elected. This mine employs about 250 men and until recently strongly supported the one big union.

The short coat is gaining in favor. The evening cape-wrap is still in vogue.

The bateau neck line is still in vogue.

Sleeves are slightly less wide and flowing.

Many of the new skirts are wrapped.

Skirts with draped lines are new for spring.

The low waist line is a feature of spring suits.

The spring mode sponsors the slim silhouette.

Early spring will see many draped felt hats.

Innumerable pin tucks trim a sleeveless box coat.

Street costumes for spring will be subdued in color.

The skirts of evening gowns continue to end in points.

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

THE GOLFER'S HOPE.

I haven't done much with the wood. My putter is faulty and weak. For years I have hoped to be good. The ways of the skillful I seek. But always my golf I deplore. It stays in its commonplace groove. But the future I face out to improve.

I've thought it with each coming year. I know all my faults to a T. I know why my driving is queer. And just what's the matter with me. I know how to put but I don't. But I've all the instructions down pat. On the use of the iron and the wood. I've been always a dub—but, at that, Next summer I ought to be good.

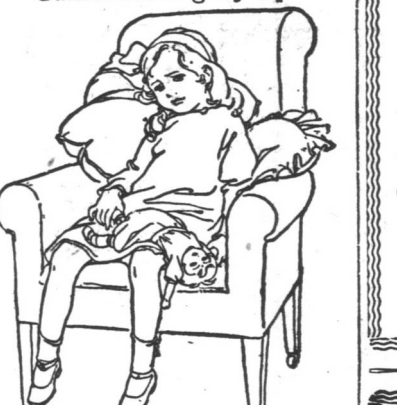

My style, I am told, is O.K. I've a finish superb to my drive. There's no doubt I know how to play. Yet I'm lucky to sink for a five. But I've all the instructions down pat. On the use of the iron and the wood. I've been always a dub—but, at that, Next summer I ought to be good.

Now the links are deep hidden in snow. And my clubs in the corner remain. But in fancy each time I go. To play through the course once again. And I mentally study my shots I can And go through the course once again.

Then I say to myself with a smile: Next summer, I'll show 'em the way.

ed to be amusingly interesting to those who had the privilege of hearing their conversation and exchanges of compliments. For example—Mrs. Hodder sent Mrs. Clothier half a dozen herring, for which Mrs. Clothier was very thankful, and she anxiously awaited the first opportunity to crystallize her grateful feelings into appropriate words. A few days later, they met at Green's Well, and Mrs. Clothier said to Mrs. Hodder—"You're welcome to the herring you sent me, Mrs. Hodder." In reply to this, Mrs. Hodder made her best bow, and put on her most appreciative smile, and said: "Thankee Mrs. Clothier." Then they went home, blissfully unconscious of the fact that they had reversed their compliments; thoroughly satisfied that each had said the proper thing—and prepared to do it again.

(Received Feb. 17th)
 People who are kind enough to read and to become interested in my contributions to the Evening Telegram, often ask me how I manage to get so many interesting, funny and amusing things about people of a general nature that have passed away before I was born. Well, there are two reasons for my success in this department—(1) It may be regarded as successful because I have been so successful in my writing, and (2) because I have had my father's help. I have been so successful in my writing, and (2) because I have had my father's help. I have been so successful in my writing, and (2) because I have had my father's help.

Record of Baptism of the family of Bartholomew and Christiana Coleman of Green Island Cove, South Side, Trinity.
 1805—Mary, 1807—Sarah, 1809—Peter Sullivan. 1811—Bartholomew.
 1818—Jeremiah. 1815—James.
 1818—Joseph. It is well impossible to look through the old Church Registers, and to read those entries of the baptism of the members of the family of Bartholomew and Christiana Coleman of Green Island Cove, over a hundred years ago; and then, during a summer-day-walk down the road on the South Side of Trinity, to turn off at right angles, and look down upon the Cove as it is to-day, without a sigh for the glory that has departed, an expression of admiration of the beauties of nature:—"Nature, which is but a name for an effect, whose cause is God."

The Island, covered with living green (that suggested the name by which the Cove has always been known) stands a silent sentinel and guardian just off the shore; and were it gifted with speech, it would be able to tell a deeply interesting and pathetic story of family life and happiness, as once lived on that plateau in the Cove—washed in front by the water of the Atlantic, and nesting under the South Side hills, that rise abruptly from the rear.

 PREPARED BY DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO.

In the middle of the plateau stands the old house (built by Bartholomew's sons) decaying and weather beaten. Some years, during the summer months, one of Bartholomew's great grandsons comes and lives in the old house, whilst he engages in the fishing—otherwise the Cove is deserted. At this time of year it shines in the absence of life and in the wintry desolation of the coast, as though it were in mourning for the past. With the return of summer, however, nature will deck it all again in living green and a riot of contrasting colours: the lambs will gambol around the old house; the sea-birds will rise and dip and scream over the Cove; the broad Atlantic will gently lap its shore, and at times, dash its spray in wild abandonment over it all—as though all had united to try its best to woo back again the happy, continuous family life, that once consecrated its cosy limitations.

It may never succeed in doing this; but there are many reasons why it should attract the summer visitors—those who, tired of the dust, and noise, and monotony of city life, are longing for pure salt air, quietude, and companionship with the ocean's changing and varied moods. A week spent there in summer, with a Kodak and some books; when the caplin are rolling by the millions on the beach; and with Trinity as headquarters, would, I am sure provide such a change, as (with fine weather) would be thoroughly enjoyed, and would give satisfactory returns for the investment. Beautiful Green Island Cove.

- 1817—William George Parrott, son of James and Joanna Lockyer.

The winter weather has been ideal for the securing of fire-wood. The early winter was cold, but with little snow, enabling the men to cut and stack the wood in the woods, and since the snow came, the roads have been fine for hauling. Owing to high winds the S.W. Arm was late in getting into good condition, but it is all right now, and will be till it thaws out. As I write the N.W. Arm, and the H.R. out to Admiral's Island, are fit for horses to work on, and the woodsmen are using it with profit to buyers and sellers.

Look for the Brand on the back of the Board.

A nice rug or mat will cost you about $9.00, but even the best of rugs will wear out after a few years' service; yet you wouldn't consider $9.00 too much to pay for a good rug or mat.

A Beaver Board ceiling will cost no more than a good rug, but unlike a rug, a Beaver Board ceiling will not wear out, it will last as long as your house, and after 20 years' wear will look as good as when first put on.

Within a month or so you will begin house cleaning, won't you decide to do just one ceiling with Beaver Board? It will wonderfully improve the appearance of your room.

If you do one room this year and your main hallway also with Beaver Board, you will be delighted and you will have a home to be proud of. Think it over.

A Beaver Board ceiling costs less and looks better than a plastered or V jointed ceiling. Beaver Board is good enough for your best room and cheap enough for your kitchen; about $9.00 worth of Beaver Board will cover your ceiling.

A dining room with walls and ceiling panelled with Beaver Board is the utmost in style and comfort. You can do your dining room—both walls and ceiling—with about $30.00 worth of Beaver Board.

This is the Beaver Board trade mark.

"E.R." New Harbor—I am glad to hear that some copies of the entries immediately before the morning service in St. Paul's Church, Trinity, on Sunday last, the newly elected Church Warden and Vestry were installed by the rector, Rev. Chas. M. Sticking, standing at the Chancel steps, in the presence of the congregation, they individually answered the rector's questions re faithfulness to their respective duties, after which each man's status was officially declared, and they and the congregation knelt and asked God's blessing on them, and for grace to help them to perform the duties of their office. The service used was authorized by the Bishop, and it was deeply impressive, and fraught with serious thoughts and lessons to every body in the congregation. The Church Warden are Mr. Fred Morris and Mr. William White; the vestrymen are, Mr. S. Halsey, Mr. Samuel D. Grant, Mr. George Bartlett and F. Somerton, Esq.

Correction.—In the first paragraph of my notes of last Saturday, instead of "The Indians" left us successors." Kindly read: left no successors.

in the old Church Registers interest you. I hoped they would. Yes, the intercourse between Trinity and New Harbor a hundred years ago, gave us some names in common, and caused us to know a good deal of each other. Rev. William Bullock visited New Harbor in July, 1829, and baptized more than fifty persons. I am sorry that the name Newhook has died out in Trinity.

"T.B." St. John's.—Yes, the hymn "We love the place O God" was written in Trinity by Rev. William Bullock, and sung from manuscript for the first time at the opening of St. Paul's.

"S.P." English Harbor.—I am sorry to hear that the name Lockyer is forgotten as one of the old residents of English Harbor. The Lockyers and the Potties came from the same place in England, viz: Christ Church, Hants. Richard Lockyer settled at English Harbor about 1765. He was married to Mary Pottie in 1769. He was a planter in English Harbor for many years. Eight children were born to them there, and his wife and four of their children died there.—W.J.L. Trinity, Feb. 11th, 1922.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

BEHIND TO BABY ONESELF.

To be always thinking of your feelings, always coddling yourself and trying to save yourself from colds and such illnesses is a weariness of the flesh both to oneself and to those with whom one comes in contact. It may seem to some firmer but in this connection I often think of the bible verse, "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it."

During the flu epidemic there was a case in our neighborhood who absolutely refused to nurse any of his cases. He was the only person in the neighborhood who died of flu.

On the other hand it seems to me that it is just as foolish to be unnecessarily reckless in exposing oneself to contagion and to be unwilling to do whatever can be done to shorten or prevent attacks when they do threaten.

There are just as many who veer to one side of this course as to the other.

She Was Very Generous.

I met a friend of mine the other day at a committee meeting who was evidently just coming down with a bad cold. She was taking pills for it and announced her intention of gargling when she got home. I suggested that she also take to her bed for 24 hours to keep out of draughts and get the proper rest. (She is one of those lucky mortals who could do that, if she would.) "Oh no, I couldn't think of doing that," she said. "I hate staying in bed, and besides I don't believe in so much fussing over oneself."

Three days later I met this woman again. Her cold was at its height. She was as thoroughly miserable as a bad head cold can make anyone. Another member of her family has a cold (in my youth we used to think it the strangest coincidence, not being as well acquainted with germs as we are now, that colds seemed to run through families). No one knows how many other people at the functions she persisted in continuing to attend because she didn't believe "in giving in and babbling oneself" were also sharing in her misery.

Would Save in the End.

If I were an employer of labor and had a staff I could trust not to abuse the privilege, I should ask them to take 24 hours in bed if they felt a cold coming on. I should also see that they were provided with a good remedy and gargle which it would be part of their job to use. I believe I would save myself hundreds of dollars worth of labor by thus preventing violent colds from going round the office.

We Hate to Give Up Any Plan.

Most of us have lives so chockablock full of plans that to fight off a cold or other minor illness by rest, as well as drugs, always means giving up some plan. And some people hate giving up a plan once they have made it almost as much as having a tooth pulled. And so they talk about the folly of "babying oneself."

There is a time to baby oneself and a time to forget oneself. Let us not confuse the two simply to justify what we feel like doing.

THE GOOD TURN.

One day I saw a ditcher, who feebly plied his spade; I took him out of a pitcher of kickless lemonade. His name was Peter Leary—and that's his handle yet—and he was hot and weary, and longed for something wet. "That drink was most delightful," the steaming Peter cried; "my thirst was something frightful, and burned up my inside." Long years had passed since Peter poured down that lemonade, and watched me calmly fester back to my fig-tree's shade. The other day while driving my corrugated car, it sunk, despite my striving, in mud as thick as tar. There I was mired completely, in glue-like gumbo stuck, and I orated sweetly about the daddled luck. Then came a whiskered granger who drove two sort of mares; "Will pull me out," he strangled me, "between my swears. He pulled me from the wallow—his team was strong and smart; I knew what was to follow—a bill to break the heart. For I've had farmers haul me from mud-holes now and then, and always they appall me, by their demands for yen. He said, "You make me weary! No money shall be paid! For I'm the Peter Leary who drank your lemonade!" I've cried, between my swears, "He pulled me from the wallow—his team was strong and smart; I knew what was to follow—a bill to break the heart. For I've had farmers haul me from mud-holes now and then, and always they appall me, by their demands for yen. He said, "You make me weary! No money shall be paid! For I'm the Peter Leary who drank your lemonade!" I've cried, between my swears, "He pulled me from the wallow—his team was strong and smart; I knew what was to follow—a bill to break the heart. For I've had farmers haul me from mud-holes now and then, and always they appall me, by their demands for yen. He said, "You make me weary! No money shall be paid! "SCRIBATORS" IDEAS CONTESTED

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—I beg to take issue with Scribator upon the subject of State Schools which appeared in your paper on the 11th inst. under the heading of "Men and Things." Scribator has chosen a rather unfortunate pseudonym for the word means to scrutinize, to examine closely, whereas he passes over the subject very lightly using very superficial arguments, which he himself admits, for he says they "pass in quick review." Scribator says,—"take, for example, the case of the United States. There we see in operation the most perfect secular system in existence." To what system does Scribator refer? The United States are composed of 48 States, all of which are divided into a number of districts, and every district has a separate system, no two systems being alike. Thus (perhaps Scribator will enlighten us) "the most perfect system?" Again Scribator says,—"Religion is the excellent thing, an indispensable article, something, in fact, that we can hardly have too much veneration for. But still it must not be forgotten that upon the intelligence of the people depends, in a great measure, the prosperity of the State." Now that paragraph appears to have been written by a person who has no religion, or by one who is incapable of understanding the meaning of it; but who wishes his readers to think that he has a great respect for this intangible, inexplicable thing, which he imagines to be religion. Now I would like to point out to Scribator that Religion and Education are not two separate entities, as he appears to think.

WHAT IS EDUCATION?

This is a question which needs to be answered before we can go any further. Education is not cram. To cram a child's mind may enable it to pass an examination, but it will not make it an educated man or woman. By "Cram" I mean just getting so much knowledge into a child's mind that it can answer questions in an examination. Cram is much more common in schools of all kinds than is often supposed. Education again is not the same as instruction. "Instruction" means "putting in." "Education" means "drawing out." To educate, means to draw out and develop to their best all the different parts of the child's nature; so that the boy or girl may go out into the world with each part of his or her being as fully developed as possible. Now every child often helps a fellow who groaned beneath his pack, and never found one so yellow he wouldn't pay me back.

Mr. Morine Defines His Position.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Thursday last, editorially, under the name "Revising the Tariff," you made certain incorrect references to the 1898 tariff revision under me. I desire to set you right. You say: "In 1898 Mr. A. B. Morine, then acting Minister of Customs, completed an entirely different tariff from that formerly in use, basing it on the Canadian Tariff in form and Assembly of Heads and Items. It was a tariff of confusion. There was no index, and though the various departments were supposed to be arranged alphabetically, the sequence or regularity was not maintained. . . . If an importer wanted to find the rate of duty on 'Tanned Paper,' he had to look for it under the head of 'Stationery' . . . It might be good mental exercise to engage in a game of 'Chase the Item' through the tortuous chaos of arrangement or disarrangement." Your remarks constitute a comedy of errors. Let me explain: In 1898 I was not "acting," but the actual Receiver General, Head of the Customs Department. The Revised Tariff was not based on the Canadian Tariff, but on the United Kingdom Trade Returns, supplied by the British Government, and in use throughout the British Empire for statistical purposes. There was no confusion. It was, in fact, the first classified tariff in the Colony's history; there has been none so good since 1901. It was published with a complete index, copies of which you can get to this day. "Tanned Paper" happens to be classed with other paper products because they were all put under the head of "manufactured goods." It finds itself in exactly the same place in the British Trade Returns. There was no difficulty about it, because it was specifically mentioned in the Customs Index, so that "the that runs may read." In 1901, under the late E. M. Jackman, at the request of certain Water St. merchants, the arrangement and classification of articles was changed, with the result that the utmost difficulty in preparing statistical returns has ever since been met with by the Customs authorities.

A COMMISSION OF ONE.

The general election of 1897 took place on the 25th day of October. The Whiteway Government was defeated, and the Winter Administration took office. The bye-elections of office holders under the new Administration took place on the 6th day of December. About the 15th of December, I, then being Receiver General, was appointed sole Commissioner to prepare and report upon revision of the tariff. I was assisted by H. W. LeMessurier, present Assistant Collector of Customs. I took evidence from all persons who wished to make representations, and completed my work early in February, 1898. The Legislature met on the 27th of January, and prorogued on the 30th of March, being sixty-two days in session. The Tariff, as revised, passed without amendment. To prepare it had been a work of great difficulty, because of the non-existence of any previous classification, and an almost absolute absence of statistics which could be of any use. There had been a deficit in the finances of the Colony in 1897, which had to be made up, and as trade was very dull that year, to make adequate provision for the future, and at the same time properly arrange tariff schedules, was a work of extreme difficulty. The results were better than I had dared to hope, because in 1901, soon after the Bond Government came into office, it was able to announce, as the result of my work, the first substantial surplus for many years. As to revising the tariff, I want to say here, Sir, that, in my opinion, the method of appointing a large commission is a mistake. The work was done quickly in 1898, because I, the responsible head of the Customs Department, centralized it entirely in myself, with the able assistance of Mr. LeMessurier. The Minister of Customs of the day, whoever he may be, ought to receive the evidence and make the revision on his own responsibility; otherwise signal instances will be offered of the old saying that too many cooks spoil the broth. The first object of tariff making is Revenue. The second object is, incidental protection to manufacturers. I aimed, beside, to give as near as possible a free breakfast table; reducing tariff duty on such articles as tea and sugar. I provided for the importation at a reduced rate of raw materials

Progress in 1921

THE results achieved by the North American Life Assurance Company during 1921 continue to establish beyond question the strength and security of the Company. The following outstanding figures will be very gratifying to all interested in the welfare of the Company:—

Policies Issued and Revived . . . $ 20,279,954.00
Amount of Insurance in Force 106,006,667.00
Assets . . . . . 21,877,767.36
Payments to Policyholders . . . 1,963,950.04
Net Surplus . . . . . 3,025,364.90

These records are the outward evidence of the unexcelled financial position attained by the Company, and of the solid foundation upon which it has been built. In the North American Life, policyholders' interests are paramount, over 99% of the profits earned being allotted to them. If you are contemplating new insurance, see one of our representatives. Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I notice in your issue of yesterday a letter signed J. Gardiner, Chairman of the Unemployed Committee, in which the writer says every man volunteered to pay 20 cents per week, but unfortunately we have in our ranks "pikers" whom we do not class with the men. Are we not come to a pretty pass when a foreigner can come to this city and call us out of our name. I wonder what the other five Committee men think of this gentleman. I think if he were home on his own bricks he would find out where he could pick the best. As one of the Unemployed Committee, I worked just as hard as Mr. Gardiner, and I dare him to call me out of my name. The less slang of this nature we hear the better for all concerned.

Yours truly,

THE FINAL PERFORMANCE.

After a successful run of four days to crowded houses, the curtain rang down for the last time on "Billeted" last night. There is no great depth to the play, and the audience is not kept guessing concerning the final denouement, but none the less, it is a pleasing little comedy, and one which cannot fail to amuse. The story is laid in an English village during the early days of the war and while it is simple, yet it provides scope for good acting. As "Penelope Moon," Miss K. Fraser scored a tremendous success, and the play will be remembered, if only because it served to introduce this talented young lady to the local amateur stage. Miss Fraser's diction was clear, and her stage appearance and expression distinctly good. Her gestures alone were eloquent and she well deserved the loud applause which frequently greeted her performance. During the evening Miss Fraser was presented with a beautiful bouquet. Miss Mary Ryan gave a charming portrayal of the role of "Betty Taradale," especially in the reconciliation scene in the third act. Mrs. Outerbridge gave an excellent character study, depicting the prim Vicar's sister to the life. Mr. F. J. King played a part that suited him in a manner that suited it. He was perfectly natural and at ease, and the many aphorisms which fell to his lot to say, were uttered in a way which gave full effort to them. One of his best was "Hope springs eternal in the bankrupt's breast." Mr. H. J. Dewling was most amusing as the old colonel who was still capable of feeling Cupid's dart. His misquoted Shakespeare "Men must weep and women must work" brought down the house. Mr. Karl Trappell has recently shown himself to be a character artist of no mean ability, and he scores another triumph in his portrayal of the country vicar. The specialties at last night's performance were very good indeed. The dancing of the Mt. Cashel Boys was very pleasing, while Miss Krentzlin showed herself to be possessed of a charming voice of which local music lovers will have to hear more. The Wallace-Jardine-Hickey trio were their old inimitable selves. Mrs. Baxter deserves great credit for the manner in which she staged the performance. She was not only the manager but the organizer also, and her efforts have succeeded in raising a very creditable sum in aid of Mount Cashel.

Veteran Broker Honored.

The following address, with a presentation, was made at the Board of Trade rooms this morning to Mr. Lawrence Parker the veteran broker, on the 77th Anniversary of his birthday.

Dear Mr. Parker:—We, the undersigned, have gladly taken advantage of this, the 77th anniversary of your birthday to tender you our most hearty and sincere congratulations, and to express the hope that you may live to enjoy many more happy returns of your natal day. We have always admired your cheerful and buoyant attitude that you have always kept up in conquering those inroads and senile attacks that growing age makes on most of mankind, and we have long ago come to the conclusion that you will keep up your juvenile spirit and cheerful defiance of old age 'till the last, and that though you may die at last you will "never surrender."

MRS. NINA BABER.

"A short time ago I was one of the most nervous and miserable persons on the earth, but thanks to Tanlac I'm well and happy now," said Mrs. Nina Baber, 448 Parnsworth Ave., Aurora, Ill.

"It was just about two years ago that I began to be distressed after every meal. I had awful smothering spells at times and my heart beat so irregularly that I often thought I wouldn't live through the attack. Headaches were the bane of my existence and I shudder every now when I think of them. My back hurt me, too, and it was just agony for me to bend over and straighten up again. Tanlac has done for me far more than I expected and I'm like a different person altogether. In fact, I'm in perfect health now. In my opinion, Tanlac is the best medicine under the sun."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

an idea that the secret of perpetual youth could be found, and a gentleman by the name of Ponce-de-Leon sailed from Spain to the New World determined to find this fountain of perpetual youth. Had he come to "Young Parker" as he originally intended he would have got the secret free-gratis, and to-day would be alive "A snug man." In writing for your kindness to me to-day I have decided to give you all my secret—it is to keep in touch with the young men like my friends, Long and Payn, and always have some light jokes and jocular conversation on top, and above all to ever keep in cheerful mind, and if it is had to-day all the more reason it will be better to-morrow (please God).

The sentiment expressed in your address are so elevating and rejuvenating that it is doubtful whether you have not removed altogether the necessity for the use of the beautiful stick you have given me; anyway maybe I shall want it when I get old. It is the best kind of a "stick" to get in these rooms, and I must regard myself fortunate in getting one of those other "sticks" that have been handed out so often the past year in the Council Room of this building. I sincerely trust that my kind young business friends have every success in life and never get the other kind of "sticks." I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

A STYLE GOOD FOR MANY OCCASIONS.

3831-3377. A frock like this may be worn at formal and informal "functions." Made of velvet and brocade it is smart as a dinner gown. In gabardine, with floss silk embroidery, or in serge with braid trimming, it is fine for street or afternoon wear. The blouse has the new wide sleeve. The lines of the skirt are straight, but provide graceful fullness. This design is for remodeling. The caps may be omitted.

The Waist Pattern, 3831 is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. The Skirt 3377, in 7 Sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34 and 36 inches waist measure. The width of the skirt at the foot is 54 inches. To make this dress for a medium size of one material, will require 6 yards of 36 inch material. To make as illustrated will require 3 3/4 yards of plaid, and 3 3/4 yards of figured material, 27 inches wide.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. FOR EACH pattern in silver, or stamps.

COMBINATION OF COMFORT, PRACTICAL STYLE AND UTILITY.

3822-3795-3628. What could be more desirable for sports use or general wear, than a suit as here depicted. Comfortable knickers to which a simple blouse is joined, and over which a jaunty jacket, with a convertible collar, and neat pockets. Not only for golf and other sports are the knickers popular, they are filling a long felt want in general dress lines. The Skirt may be finished with a "button closing" in front, or only

FALSE ECONOMY.

It is often remarked by customers, "I must try and make my old clothes do for the winter." Perhaps the winter may mean very much longer. To protect your body against our cold winds you want warm woollens. An investment in a good Suit or Overcoat may save you months of illness. Durable material cut and moulded to your figure by expert workmen is in the garment at HARVEY & CO., Suits and self-measuring cards sent to your address.

COKE.

CHEAP FUEL FOR EVERYBODY.

Coke may be obtained at the Gas Works in sacks at seventy cents per sack throughout the Winter.

Sacks may be returned for re-filling at sixty cents each.

What is Your Verdict!

Is it not safe to assume that the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, who manufacture in their own huge perfectly equipped plant practically every part of the Ford car, are the people best qualified to make replacement parts at the lowest price compatible with the high quality which must be maintained? Manufacturers of spurious parts, operating as they do on a small scale with limited capital and inadequate equipment, cannot possibly make parts of the same quality or accuracy at anywhere near the low price you have to pay for Genuine Ford Parts. Yet you are asked to believe that these spurious parts not only equal Genuine Ford Parts in quality but can be produced to sell for less!

We rest our case here. The verdict we leave to you. DODD'S GARAGE, LTD. Catherine Street, St. John's, Newfoundland. Authorized Ford Agents for Newfoundland.
