WEDNESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 3, 1888.

RAILWAY FINANCING.

Among Grand Trunk and Great Western proprietors in England a passing notice, though not of much interest to the Canadian public...

MORE LONG ORDITIONS.

Mail editorial yesterday: Yet M. Gambetta had a promising future before him. Foreign nations, especially Germany, felt great confidence in his personal disposition.

ABANDONING PRINCIPLES.

The career of Sir Charles Dike and the deceased French statesman Gambetta, who were on terms of intimate personal friendship...

EXTENSION OF THE SUFFRAGE.

We would direct the attention of the delegates to the fact that the present distribution of the right to vote is very unjust and unequal.

THE STREAMS BILL.

The boundary question presents itself to the ordinary citizen of Ontario in an altogether different light to that of the streams bill, and there is no doubt the former suffers not a little by being coupled with the latter.

THE COOK'S TRAGEDY.

Canada has seen some terribly black crimes, but the butchery of the Cooke family recorded in our telegraph despatches is one of the darkest in the record.

THE APPEAL COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The supreme court of Pennsylvania has decided that when a railroad company permits a passenger to travel without paying fare it does not avoid its responsibility as a common carrier by giving the passenger a printed pass conditional that the person accepting it assumes all liability of accident without claims on the corporation.

THE OVERCROWDING OF STREET CARS.

A very practical and well-merited rebuke from the Hon. Mr. Justice Mathien de Montreal. A Malaise Bruno, in endeavoring to get off a car some time since, had his dress caught among the feet of the passengers, who were packed even on the platform.

done is done and cannot now be undone. Let the Grand Trunk authorities, therefore, have full control and bear the full responsibility. Whatever may happen after this it will be something for the people of Canada to know precisely where both the power and the responsibility lie, without any doubt at all about it.

Of course the changes proposed are on the face of them financial merely, and should not affect the working and management of the road. All this may be admitted, and still we would greatly prefer to see one supreme control rather than a division.

Half-fusion can lead only to confusion; let us therefore have the whole thing or none.

The news cabled to the Globe of a present deficiency in Great Western earnings as compared with Great Western does not signify much. It shows merely that the remains of the old troubles, which forced the Great Western into fusion, still survive for a few months more or less after fusion.

These particular remains of former troubles cannot survive much longer, and the year just opened will probably see the end of them. To a dead certainty the shareholders of both companies will gain by fusion whatever loss. On this point Mr. Abbott is sound beyond dispute.

Mathien condemned the company to pay for $500, together with all costs, holding that the Grand Trunk authorities, therefore, have full control and bear the full responsibility.

The contract of the Montreal city council with the company, expires in a year or two, and it is proposed to renew the contract, but on the understanding that the price be $1 25 per thousand and $18 a street lamp. This is a considerable reduction from $1 90 a thousand, but there are many opposed to renewing the contract as they think light will be obtainable much cheaper in the near future.

THE GROCEERS' LICENSES. (To the Editor of The World.) Sir: The report of Aid. Davies to the council of the Alliance respecting grocers' licenses is well worthy consideration by both body and by the citizens generally.

His query, "What benefit will it be to the welfare of the people, besides the root of the whole matter, would his claim be a temporary reform of superior standing to the alliance and other temperance organizations will doubtless meet with all the credence and gratitude it deserves.

There are at present, speaking in round numbers, 100 grocers licensed. By separating the sale of liquors so that it shall be kept and sold solely and exclusively by itself, the public convenience would be as well if not better served by say twelve or fifteen or at the most twenty agents.

The temptation to have liquors supplied to the homes of the poor, and the consequent loss of revenue to the city, would be a very valuable one, and a corresponding loss to the public interest.

The business being in fewer hands would be much easier and better controlled; whilst it would be to the direct interest of the liquor dealer himself to keep well within the law, and as the privilege would be a very valuable one, a corresponding loss to the public interest.

There are four or five unlicensed salaried grocers who would be glad to accept of an equal plan, which will meet their hearty approval, and the public interest would not suffer while a substantial gain would accrue to the temperance cause.

When the liquor is sold by the grocer, it is a matter of course that the liquor is sold by the grocer, and it is a matter of course that the liquor is sold by the grocer.

The Abbott Engagement. The corrected report of the one which will be followed by the Emerson Abbott company this week, is as follows: Monday, Martha; Tuesday, King for a Day (St. J. Etas Roi); Wednesday, Lucia Bride of Lammermoor; Thursday, Chimes of Normandy; Friday, La Sonnambula and an act from Donizetti's Elisir of Love; Saturday evening, Traviata; and Saturday afternoon an, as yet, unannounced bill which will appear. These works combine to afford one of the most attractive repertoires ever offered in this city and will certainly give Miss Abbott ample occasion for the display of that wide range of musical talent which she is known to possess for a day and in which she has special demands upon her dramatic abilities and her success in this requirement is in nothing inferior to her vocal proficiency. The opera will have the aid of chorus, orchestra, correct costumes and in fact every element of complete success. The first night will begin to-morrow morning and will surely be large.

WALTING FOR CHARITY.

The House of Providence Calico Ball at Horticultural Gardens.

"And the greatest of all these is charity." The calico ball at the Horticultural gardens pavilion last night in aid of the house of Providence, equipped all former events of a similar nature. This is applicable to the number of dances, the love-ness of the costumes, the music, the attendance in the galleries and the success generally of the ball. The word "calico," as applied to social events of this kind in the present day, is out of place and should be supplanted by "fancy dress." In days gone by a "calico ball" was a calico ball, and the maidens fair and gentlemen all who attended them paraded the product of the calico loom in a very pleasing way before the eyes of the spectators. It was not that the young ladies would appear for a dozen nights preceding the ball and with their own deft fingers cut, baste, fit, blouse, trim, lace, and sometimes be made of calico of some delicate and novel pattern. A young lady who peeped from beneath a calico head coverlet that was just too nice for anything, and around the fair throat was gracefully entwined a collar, set off with a neck of bow-calcot beaux. [They were a secondary consideration.] The gentlemen, too, appeared invariably in full dress suits with calico facings. Now, however, every conceivable costume is introduced. The World reporter who was up at the Pavilion last night does not say that the innovation is not a pleasing one, for a more enchanting throng than that which glided over the waxed floor during the season's festivities in Toronto. The scene was the gayest of the gay, and was watched with admiration from the crowded galleries of the pavilion until well past midnight. The gentlemen who comprised the committee made every arrangement for the entertainment of the young ladies, and they were eminently successful. Capt. Law of India deputed such funds in the amount of $1000 for the house of Providence, and at 12 o'clock supper was served. The committee expected to get about $1000 for the house of Providence. About $170 was taken in at the doors last night.

RECOUNTING THE BALLOTS.

Mr. Withrow to Demand a Re-count Before the County Judge.

It is now understood that Mr. Withrow will demand a recount of the ballots cast for and against him in the mayoralty contest on Monday. [Glyk] Glad Roddy and his assistants were engaged all day, which will probably be declared to-day, when Mr. Withrow and his friends will immediately proceed to bring the matter before County Judge Boyd. This step has been decided upon by a committee of the reform party, and it is expected that the polling irregularities in some of the polling subdivisions. It is expected that the polling irregularities in some of the polling subdivisions. It is expected that the polling irregularities in some of the polling subdivisions.

THE REFORM CONVENTION.

All the hotels which contracted to receive the delegates to the reform convention were crowded last night. Many more will arrive this morning. The contingent from the east, which arrived at 1 o'clock this morning, numbered several hundreds, and came in two trains. [Whole stacks of telegrams were received at the hotels during the night to keep rooms for the delegates.] The convention meets at Shaftesbury hall at 2 p. m. The evening session will understand an address will be presented to hold at Horticultural gardens, which will be held at Mr. Mowat's.

Rejoicings at Alton.

A large number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Algie were assembled at the residence of Mr. Wm. Algie in Alton on the evening of New Year's day, to celebrate the thirty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. Friends and relatives from Toronto, St. Thomas, London, Brantford, and other places were present in goodly numbers. The guests sat down to a sumptuous dinner, which was followed by a grand ball, and music and dancing. They then adjourned to the Beaver wheel mills, of which Mr. Wm. Algie is proprietor, and danced till a very late hour in the morning. The occasion was an enjoyable one.

A Noted Female Thief.

Detective Hodgins last evening arrested Catharine Tracey, a domestic, who generally seeks employment in hotels. This woman has been arrested on several previous occasions for thefts from her employers. The detective searched her trunk and found a valuable lady's ulster, a new abet and a quantity of ladies' underwear of fine quality. The clothing is clean washed but unmarked. She had the appearance of having been stripped from a line. She was locked up at police headquarters.

A Coal Car Blockade.

The city coal dealers suffer much inconvenience by the almost continual blockade of coal cars on the Great Western division of the Grand Trunk railway. It is much worse at the present time than ever before.

Farwell, Oscar!

Oscar, farwell! Lack of space forbids, or we'd say, forever. Although the sun-never seeds you sowed in America last spring haven't amounted to a hill of beans, still we wish you well. The failure was no fault of yours. You have had a good time, truth tells, and when you get out of a job again, come over and see us. We are glad to hear that you are able to offer you a conductorship; or, if you wish something higher, the elevated railway men might possibly make room for you. Come again, but if you love to leave your sunflower at home, bring something else. Bring a pumpkin blossom, or a sprig of dog-foenul. Again, ad Oscar—bestie brother—farewell.

Lily's William Goat.

Lily had a William Goat. His strong point was his bank account. His weak point was his head. This goat followed Lily round wherever Lily went. And dollars by the thousand for changing the goat's head. The goat followed Lily's friend, in quite a jargon flow. Because it would not give her wine and flowers too. But Lily only smiled a smile. Her goat had been in the habit of following her. For names, let her prime.

A Javving girl in the house.

A javving girl in the house. Well, let it say, the Lily said, "I'm not a javving girl, but I'm a javving girl."

The Henchets was about.

The Henchets was about. A transatlantic boat, and in high deluge, led away from Lily and her goat.

Improvements in Chimneys.

The best chimneys are made by including hard-baked glazed pipe in a thin wall of bricks. Such chimneys will not only draw better than those made in the usual way but there will be less danger from "defective flues." A four-inch wall of bricks between us and destruction by fire is a fair barrier, especially if the work is carefully done or the mortar has crumbled from the joints. To build the chimneys with double or eight-inch walls makes them very large, more expensive and will not do good as when they contain the smooth round flues. To leave an air chamber between them for venting is better than to open directly into the smokestack. The latter will not do good as when they contain the smooth round flues.
