

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Medicine Which Made Surgeon's Work Unnecessary.

Astoria, N. Y. — "For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of tonics. I was getting worse every day. I had chills, my head would ache, I was always tired. I could not walk straight because of the pain in my back and I had pains in my stomach. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under an operation, but I did not go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improving from the very first bottle, and in two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and did not have the operation." — Mrs. JOHN A. KOENIG, 502 Flushing Avenue, Astoria, N. Y.

Every one dreads the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Sometimes nothing else will do; but many times doctors say they are necessary when they are not. Letter after letter comes to the Pinkham Laboratory, telling how operations were advised and were not performed; or, if performed, did no good, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used and good health followed.

If you want advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential), Lynn, Mass.

NOTE AND COMMENT

New York Sun: No doubt the reports of a German food shortage are exaggerated in the Scandinavian countries where they originate and it may be supposed that the reports lose nothing in the telling in London. But one has only to make a rough calculation of the amount of provisions for which the German population is deprived by the British blockade to realize that after nearly two years of conflict the pinch of hunger is beginning to be felt in Germany. It seems inhuman as to the dire want imposed on beleaguered Paris in 1871 was inhuman. The end was capitulation when the straits to which its people were reduced were too harrowing to describe. Germany might be able to hold out for years with elaborate organization, but only a great victory in the field will save her from cumulative suffering.

Thamesville Herald: Some portions of The Assessment Act, are certainly not very fair. The business tax is particularly unfair. A man in a cheap, frame building may do twice the business and make twice the profits of his neighbor, who is in a good brick building, yet his business assessment will not be near as high as that of his brick store neighbor. One would think the Legislature could improve on that. If we remember rightly the objection taken (when the Act was before the House a dozen or so years ago) to basing the assessment on the business turnover or profits, was that it would be awkward getting at correct figures. The Workmen's Compensation Board seem to have no difficulty in getting correct statements re wages.

For years Mother Graves' Worm exterminator has ranked as the most effective preparation manufactured, and it always maintains its reputation.

Not Another Winter Campaign

The situation may be summed up at the present time as follows: The German reserves are nearing the limit of exhaustion; the Allies' total output of shells is increasing; greater attention is being paid to the manufacture of big guns; the Russian army has been re-formed and well-equipped and is proving the truth of that fact victoriously in the field; finally, a hundred and fifty thousand Serbians had been landed at Salonika, thoroughly refreshed after the terrible retreat across the mountains in the winter and adequately supplied with all the necessaries of war.

No expert will be deceived when the German Chancellor pits his "conquered territory" against the new position of the Allies. The Russian and British and Italian armies are increasing daily, Verdun has magnificently proved the skill and valor of the French, and in finance Great Britain is still supreme in the world. The Central Empires have reached their apogee and are now rapidly declining. It is no idle hazard to predict that the beginning of the end is in sight and that we shall not experience another winter campaign, unless something very unexpected happens.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Should be a Lesson.

On Sunday night last what might have been a fatal accident on con. 13, Dawn. Two Ford car owners thought they would try their mettle on a level piece of road. One car was owned by John Carr of Euphemia, and besides himself he had two ladies with him. The other car was owned by Bob Leeson, and with him was his brother Irwin and a man named Johnston. When they were both going at a terrible clip—some say 50 miles an hour, if that is possible with any car—the Leeson auto got too close to a ditch eight feet deep, and in it went. The two side wheels were broken off, and the car was otherwise badly smashed. Irwin sustained a broken leg at the knee, and his brother Bob and the man Johnson were badly shaken up. This should certainly be a lesson to drivers of cars; but if such men are bound to be foolish, why they should be alone in the cars, and not endanger the lives of others.—Dresden Times.

The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holloway's Corn Cure is its strongest recommendation. It seldom fails.

Such An Intelligent Dog!

There was, once upon a time an old lady who rented a furnished villa for the summer, and with the villa a large dog also went.

In the sitting room of the villa there was a comfortable armchair. The old lady liked this chair better than any other in the house. She always made for it the first thing. But, alas! she nearly always found the chair occupied by the large dog.

Being afraid of the dog, she never dared bid it harshly to get out of the chair, as she feared that it might bite her, but instead she would go to the window and call "cats."

Then the dog would rush to the window and bark and the old lady would slip into the vacant chair quietly.

One day the dog entered the room and found the old lady in possession of the chair. He strolled over to the window, and, looking out, appeared much excited and set up a tremendous barking.

The old lady arose and hastened to the window to see what was the matter, and the dog quietly climbed into the chair.

The Clucking Hen

The old grey hen has thirteen chicks and round the yard she claws and picks, and toils the whole day long; I lean upon the garden fence, and watch that hen of little sense, whose intellect is wrong. She is the most important hen that ever in the haunts of man a waste effort made; she thinks if she should cease her toil the whole blamed universe would spoil, its institutions fade. Yet vain and trifling in her task; she might as profitably bask and loaf throughout the year; one incubator from the store would bring forth better chicks and more than fifty hens could rear. She ought to rest her scratching legs, get down to tasks and lay some eggs, which bring the valued bucks; but, in her vain perverted way, she says, "I'm dorned if I will lay," and hands out foolish chicks. And many men are just the same; they play some idle, trifling game and think they're sawing wood; they hate the work that's in demand, the jobs that count they cannot stand, and all their toil's no good.—Walt. Mason.

Vienna scientists in testing the effort on the human system of food plants containing iron have succeeded in making several vegetables absorb more iron from the soil than normally.

German textile experts have succeeded in treating wool yarns by a process similar to that of the mercerization of cotton, the wool being given a bath of bisulphite of soda at high temperature.

To protect engineers' eyes as they look ahead from locomotives a shield has been invented that deflects air and dust past an opening so that no glass, easily blurred by ice or water, is needed.

For sifting and removing ashes at the same time there has been invented a scoop with a double screen in the bottom, one portion of which is agitated by an attachment on the handle.

Gin Pills

FOR THE KIDNEYS

Why Demanded

"Gin Pills did for my husband and me what no other remedy could. I have advised two other parties to use them, one of them being my mother who has been a great sufferer for upwards of 20 years, and one box cured her, so as to enable her to sleep on her left side, something she could not do for many a year. The doctors told her they could not cure her, but could relieve her by an operation for a floating kidney, but on account of her age they did not think it advisable for her to go. Upon my advice she tried Gin Pills which cured her and for which she is ever ready to speak in terms of praise."

An English inventor believes he has improved on the miners' safety lamp by employing perforated plates instead of gauze to admit gases to the flame.

To lessen the smoke nuisance, an inventor proposes drawing locomotive smoke beneath the engine and moistening it so that the soot and cinders drop to the ground.

HISTORIC BRENNER PASS.

This Alpine Gap is a Famous Pathway For Great Armies.

The mighty Brenner pass is the Thermopylae of Tyrol. From times immemorial the northern tribes have sought the refinements and culture of the south over this wonderful Alpine saddle, first in fame among all the gaps in the rugged Alpine defenses against the north, and a way which has echoed to the dying cries of warriors and clashing accoutrements of myriad Roman legions and to the noisy disorder of the passage of many armies through more than 2,000 years of restless history.

Innsbruck, the Tyrolean capital, is at the northern terminus of this way, while Botzen, the largely Latinized metropolis of the south, lies 3,600 feet below. Innsbruck is exclusively of the northland, surrounded by plums, apples and fir trees, and Botzen, like Italy beyond the mountains, is in the midst of a region of vines, figs and olives.

Historic points crowd one another along the Brenner. Guidestones of the time of Caracalla and Septimius, Severus have been found buried here. Some of the world's greatest generals have traveled this path, north and south, and here the Tyrolean peasant, Andreas Hofer, the simple, untaught Austrian hero, proved himself greater than one of the best officers of Napoleon.—National Geographic Bulletin.

Conditions Reversed.

One of the finest examples of "pawky" humor is placed to the credit of an old gardener who was in the service of Admiral of the Fleet Sir Alexander Milne. The admiral was a grand old man, full of goodness and kindness, but a strict disciplinarian. The gardener having omitted to do something which he had been told to do, his master said to him:

"When I was on board ship I would have had you put in irons for disobedience."

The old gardener was not much perturbed at the idea, but, leaning on his spade, replied:

"Aye, maybe, Sir Alexander, but when ye were on board ship ye had a hunder men tae dae ae job, an' noo ye hae ae man tae dae a hunder jobs."—London Tit-Bits.

Emotionally Senile.

I know no more dismal spectacle than a man talking shop on a moonlit hill in August, a woman gossying by the rail of a steamer plunging through the sapphire of the gulf stream or a couple perusing advertisements throughout a Beethoven symphony. I will not advance as typical a drummer I once saw read a cheap magazine from cover to cover in the finest stretch of the Canadian Rockies. He was not a man, but a sample fed, word emitting machine. These people, emotionally speaking, are senile. They should not try to read poetry.—Henry Seidel Canby in Harper's Magazine.

A Trick With an Egg.

Place two V shaped wineglasses of the same size near the edge of a table. In the right hand one put an egg, just fitting the rim of the glass. Hold the bases of the glasses firmly down, the top rims touching each other. Now with a quick, sharp breath blow upon the line where the egg and the glass meet. The egg will jump to the other glass. With a little practice this can be done every time. Be careful to blow in a line with the left hand glass, or the egg will jump in the wrong direction and land on the table.

Submarine Wonders of Hawaii.

Nowhere in this wide world are there such rainbow fish as in Hawaii, of every color and shade and hue. If there is any tint or grandeur of tints in the prism that is not reflected in the scales of the finny tribes in the waters around the islands I should like to see it. A visit to the Honolulu aquarium (far superior as it is to the world famous one in Naples), or to the Coral gardens, where we see the fish through a glass bottomed boat, disporting themselves in their own front yards, so to speak, is well worth while.

Go Light on Buckshot.

Buckshot should be relegated to the past along with the buffalo gun and the market hunter's "cannon." It will inflict a painful wound upon deer and yet will not kill except at very close quarters.

Mail for Lambtons 149

All mail for soldiers in the 149th Battalion should be addressed in care of the Field Post Office, London, Ontario. To avoid confusion and to ensure prompt delivery the address should contain the following information: Regimental No., Rank, Name and Company to which the soldier belongs. Example:

Pte. James Peterson,
No. 84345, A Co.,
149th Os. Bn., C.E.F.,
Field Post Office,
London, Ontario.

The government of New Zealand supports and regulates the beekeeping industry and maintains an experimental apiary, where students are trained.

quarters. Even the poorest shot can usually score a hit with buckshot, and he will in nine cases out of ten be tempted into "letting her have it" when the game is absolutely out of effective range. About the only useful purpose for which buckshot can be recommended in self defense against a human enemy at close range.—Outing.

The Total Sum.

The three children came and stood in a row in front of their mother.

"Mamma," they said, "what would you like for your birthday?"

The mother looked down benignly upon the group and answered:

"My dears, mamma wants nothing for her birthday, nothing but three good children. She'd like that."

"But then, mamma," cried the eldest, "then we'd be six."

Had an Answer.

"She looked killing."

"How can a woman look killing?" demanded the purist.

"I suppose it is when she looks dangerous," answered the resourceful party of the first part.

They Mostly Do.

She (recalling college days)—What became of our man of might? He—Oh, he married the woman of mustn't—Judge.

Weights and Measures.

One-half kitchen cupful equals one gill.

One kitchen cupful equals one-half pint, or two gills.

Four kitchen cupfuls equal one quart.

Two cupfuls of granulated sugar equal one pound.

Two and one-half cupfuls of powder sugar equal one pound.

One heaping tablespoonful of butter equals one ounce.

One heaping tablespoonful of sugar equals two ounces, or one-quarter cupful.

One cupful of butter equals one-half pound.

Four cupfuls of flour (one heaping quart) equals one pound.

Eight round tablespoonfuls of dry material equal one cupful.

Sixteen tablespoonfuls of liquid equal one cupful.

A Garden Hint.

Cuttings from many plants growing in the window garden will root readily at this season, and in conservatories and greenhouses cuttings should be made freely now.

Clean, sharp sand is the best for rooting cuttings generally, though geranium cuttings can be made and potted up in thumb pots. The cuttings should be made just below a bud, trimming off all the foliage except a leaf or two at the top of the cutting, and the top half of these leaves may be clipped off.

Be careful to have the sand firm about the base of the cutting, setting it half its length below the surface. Water thoroughly and shade from the sun, not allowing the soil to become dry.

What Women Can Do.

There are certain things women can do on the lighter and more fancy side of life on the land; but for a life on the land it must be such as will earn a living throughout the twelve months of the year, and this is restrictive. In emergency women patriotically inclined could render service by becoming good milkers, in tree grafting—a much bigger business in the future than many conceive—and so on; but they must do it in earnest, and those who will submit to it should do it at once so they may be trained by the time they are most needed. The idea that three weeks' training in farm work makes an efficient worker must go by the board; yet it was seriously entertained a few months ago.

Patti's Rules.

Mme. Patti, who has recently celebrated her seventy-third birthday, in explanation of her perpetual youth, says: "Up to forty I stunted myself in nothing. After forty I took to a comparatively strict diet, and since then have eaten no red meat and drunk only white wine and soda. I never go to bed early."

Ontario Department of Agriculture

Lambton County farmers adopt scientific farming. The campaign of the local branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Petrolia, conducted this Spring for the treatment of seed oats for smut was responded to readily by the farmers. By the reports from the druggists throughout the County to the District Representative there has been an increase of 300% in the sale of formalin in the County this spring, over last spring's sales. This means that 57,000 bushels of seed oats have been treated for smut this spring; or enough seed to sow 25,000 acres. This number of acres is only a little better than one-third of the total acreage of oats grown in the county each year. The ravages of Loose Smut of oats have been increasing each year until last year reports show that it lowered the yield of oats from 10% to 15% per acre. This increase in the use of formalin on the seed oats will add very materially to the value of the oat crop this season. It will demonstrate to the farmers within the County to their own satisfaction that Loose Smut of oats can be successfully combated, increasing the yield of grain, making threshing cleaner, leaving the barn cleaner and the straw brighter and more palatable to the stock.

The Department is calling attention of the farmers to prepare to protect their potato crop against Late Blight and Rot. The disease is carried over from season to season as mycelium in or on the tubers. There is very little evidence that their spores can live over in the soil. The conditions favoring the disease are: 1st, humidity during July and August; second, relatively low temperatures from 65 to 70 degrees, cool damp nights and muggy days; third, excessive moisture in soils, especially clay land. To prevent this disease developing the potatoes should be sprayed when about six inches high with Bordeaux Mixture, made from 4 lbs. of Bluestone, 4 lbs. of unslacked Lime and 40 gals. of water, spraying every ten days or two weeks. This treatment, if fully carried out, will combat the disease and increase the yield of potatoes over and above a normal yield. Further information and directions as to the use of Bordeaux Mixture can be had by writing the District Representative, W. P. Macdonald, Petrolia, Ont.

GLYCERINE AND BARK PREVENT APPENDICITIS

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ika, astonishes Watford people. Because Adler-ika acts on BOTH lower and upper bowel, ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-ika is astonishing. NOTE AND COMMENT

Montreal Star: The British military authorities have clearly decided that the salient must be held just as it stands. Indeed, so firm are they in this opinion that they have just sent in the Canadians to win back a section of the original front. No one will for a moment doubt the judgment of the headquarters staff.

The Calgary News-Telegram:—The Western Grain Growers, Guide predicts a steel famine for the world which will be most marked in Canada. It is stated that wire fencing will soon be beyond the buying powers of western farmers. If this falls true it will have to be worth its weight in gold, for the farmer of the prairie is fairly coining money these days.

The Philadelphia Record says that an American observer has been looking back over history to discover if the British navy ever was defeated. In order to find a serious defeat he had to go back 250 years, to June 1, 1666, when the Dutch fleet under De Ruyter defeated a British force of fifty-seven ships under Admiral Monff off the Flemish coast. The Dutch had the best of it for nearly two months, but on July 25 of that year they were badly beaten and driven back to their ports.

In many of the mercantile establishments of the west, the three-price system in the sale of goods is being adopted and its success, depending upon the backbone of the merchants, has been an agreeable as well as a satisfactory surprise to both the shopkeeper and his customer. The merchant sells a service with the goods. The cost of the goods is the same to every customer, but if the buyer desires to have the commodities delivered, that is a service, if he wants credit that is another service. If he wants the goods on credit and they be delivered, he pays a certain price. If he carries them home himself he gets a five per cent reduction. If he pays cash and takes the goods home, thus getting rid of both credit and delivery, the customer is allowed ten per cent off. If the buyer does not want the delivery service or the credit service he does not have to pay for them which is apparently fairer than sticking to the one price principle, whether or not the credit and delivery service are included. How many of the high-up dames of the city will insist upon the delivery of a spool of thread or box of matches rather than soil their hands in handling the goods and put the merchant to an expense of five times the value of the article in its delivery, and so it is in the same sense in the purchase of other commodities.

TORONTO, June 27.—Receipts at the Union stockyards to-day were 601 cattle, 221 calves, 883 hogs and 258 sheep and lambs. With a very light run of fresh cattle to-day buyers apparently decided that they were not particularly in need of cattle for a day or two, in view of yesterday's heavy purchases. An active demand to-day would probably have met a little stiffening in prices. As it was, with most of the buyers holding off, prices held just about steady with yesterday.

Hogs were again the exception and with several buyers in the market competing prices were run up another 10c to 15c. This will probably be the peak price for this week, as a heavy run is in sight for to-morrow's market.

Lambton Farms Wanted

A seventh list of farms for sale in Lambton County will be published by the Lambton Publicity Association on the 5th of August, 1916.

Farms that appeared in the last list will reappear in the forthcoming list if request be sent to the Secretary before above date and present price of farm stated. These lists will have wide circulation at the Canadian National Exposition, Toronto, and other places of concourse.

Those who have farms for sale will please send a full description, the price and post office address of owner to the undersigned, in order that the parties enquiring may be brought into personal touch with those who have land to sell.

There will be no charge or commission of any kind, and the parties furnishing descriptions are not bound in any way. Give details as to situation, acreage, roads, improvements, soil, distance from churches, schools, towns, railways, telephone service, etc., etc., that would be of interest to prospective purchasers at a distance. When sale of farm takes place, please notify the Secretary so that it may be struck off the list. Parties offering large farms, suitable for fruit growing, would do well to offer them in lots of 15 to 50 acres. The Publicity Association exists for the purpose of advertising Lambton County and for no other purpose. It consists largely of the members of the County Council and the expense of the advertising is paid by the County.

The information is wanted for the purpose of placing a list of farms in the hands of those who wish to buy and who have written to the Secretary in answer to general advertisements and descriptions of Lambton which have been published in various newspapers in Canada the United States and Britain.

The description may be sent by mail to R. Stirrett, Secretary of the Association, not later than Saturday, August 5th, 1916. J 30-2t

Utility Keypote of C. N. E. Prize List

A glance over the Premium List for 1916, just issued by the Canadian National Exhibition, shows a marked tendency throughout to give encouragement to utility breeds and types and with this object in view the Dominion Government has again contributed $5,000 to the prizes, the Exhibition has added another $1,000 and the Hereford Society a similar amount. A full classification has again been given to all grades and for the first time reserve ribbons will be given in all classes of the stock.

Among the new classes in the horse section are for aged Standard Bred stallions in harness, one for trotters and one for pacers.

In the Poultry section the breeding pens, added for the first time last year, will be repeated and liberal treatment is again assured the utility breeds.

Several changes are noted in the Fruit Section including the addition of two extra classes in apples and pears in 10 box lots and a 9 x 24 display of Canadian fruits. For the latter prizes amounting to $400 will be given.

The Honey men will again have a chance for competition. They retired about two years ago, but have again asked for representation.

The butter-making competitions will be repeated. Among the changes in the Dairy section is a class for standard creamery packages of 56 pounds in place of the obsolete "not less than 50 lbs." classification.

The Live Stock buildings, barns, stables and pens have all been disinfected and approved by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa and exhibitors need fear no evil results from the recent occupancy by the Military horses.

WATFORD HIGH SCHOOL
Names of Successful Candidates.
Part I Examination of Lower School.

Maximum with French 1200
Required Aggregate 720
Maximum without French 1100
Required Aggregate 660
Required pass by subject 40 per cent; 60 per cent aggregate. Students below this line in one subject are required to take a supplemental examination in October before receiving standing for Part II Lower School. Each parent or guardian will receive a detailed statement of the entire First Form Class of the Lower School in the course of a week or two.
All students whatsoever who risked their examination standing on circulars
Nos. 7, 11, 11A and 11B of the Department were warned and are again warned that the awarding of examination standing lies wholly with the Educational Department and not with High School and College principals.
All farmers who employ student labor are warned that each student must present a certified statement of at least three months' continuous farm labor of a satisfactory nature from the farmer for whom he labored. Farmers are warned that it is no kindness to a boy to allow him to shirk work and thus receive a benefit from the Educational Department on a dishonest basis. Students are warned that only faithful work will be considered by principals.
From the Watford High School only such students were released who could and did present a written statement of requirement from parent or guardian.
The aim of the Department was to benefit farmers and not students and all students who took to farm labor because they knew they had wasted the most valuable and perishable of quantities, namely, time, did so at their own risk and that of their parents. In this regard it must ever be kept in mind that it is the parent's or guardian's duty to hold his or her student at school, down to the reasonable required hours of home work—one hour for Form I, one and a half hour for two hours for Form II and three and three and one half hours for Forms III and IV. The class room work is the business of the respective teachers, the home work is wholly that of the parent or guardian. It is the chief essential in education to compel respect for property, for discipline in the home and school, for the legal rights of others and for the digity of all kinds of honest labor. Dredging is and ever has been the price of success. Kitchener did not raise his vast army in a night, in a year. He was over forty years preparing his vast personal power to fit him for the great hour of his great life work. All life is one long drawn examination and can never be told off in a few hours of ill answered questions or ill performed labor. Examination is necessary.

The Watford High School is one of the highest graded schools in the Province and in many respects it has been pronounced one of the finest schools for secondary education in the country. In the recent government inspection the teachers, their work, and the practical work of the students in science and in art and history and the languages received the highest grading. The school building and its equipment are graded I and the school in the aggregate for science and for art is placed in the class of the comparatively few "Approved High Schools" in the Province. The entire grading of the school has been raised by the Educational Department. In the recent inspection in April the High School Inspector in his report to the Board of Education that he was pleased indeed to find the buildings so much improved and beautified outside and within, and the high efficiency of the teaching power of the staff which reported the Watford High School "one of the very best of our four mastered schools."

The Board of Education he compliments in high terms of commendation for their reasonably just and worthy interest in and expenditures on foundational essentials. The High School slogan is,
"Waterford the beautiful little burg of Western Ontario." May all the people join.

FRESH CURTAINS.
How to Make Home Laundering Really Effectual.

AN EXPERT SPEAKS UP.

After Twenty Years' Experience With Window Hangings, a Professional Tells Us Just How to Manage Unruly Frames and Sopping Wet Curtains.

"Many women," says an expert,
"think that the proper way to mount a curtain on a stretcher is to first fasten down each of the four corners and then to stretch the edges into shape by pulling from the corners."
"This is entirely a mistake, and curtains mounted in this way are almost sure to have the mesh broken or torn in several places, even if the pattern and the scalloped edges dry to look straight and even."
"In mounting a lace curtain over a stretcher, one should always begin at the middle point of the long border edge. Slip this over the pin at the center on the top edge of the frame; then, working from the center, first to the right and then to the left, slip the successive scallops over pins until the entire long border edge is attached to the pins on the upper bar of the frame."
"The curtain is now hanging with its unpatterned edge falling loosely downward. The next step is to attach the bottom end of the curtain to the frame pins. This usually has the same border as the long, patterned edge. In fastening it to the stretcher work downward from one of the top corners until you have all the patterned edge attached to the pins."
"Now notice how many inches on the top bar of the frame are covered by the long border edge and how many inches at the side and then adjust the remaining two sides of the frame to correspond exactly in the number of inches.
Fasten the other short edge of the curtain, which will be the top edge when hung, and lastly fasten the other long edge to the frame pins."
"The last edge may have to be puckered a little to make it fit over the pins, but the puckering will not show when the curtains are dry, and, what is more to the point, the edge will not pull down after it is dry."
"One other thing that should be emphasized is that the long border or patterned edge of lace curtains should always be dried at the top of the frame.
Removing the curtains from the stretcher after they are dry requires some care. One should not try to take the edges from the pins until the frame has been sufficiently loosened, so that there will be no strain on the delicate mesh; otherwise threads are almost sure to be strained and broken."
"A curtain stretcher to be entirely satisfactory should have movable pins and should be made of well seasoned wood. Stretches having stationary pins may or may not have the pins placed at intervals which will match the scallops in the particular curtains one wishes to clean, and unless they happen to match exactly the size of the scallops it is not possible to dry the curtains in good shape. Stretches which have movable pins can be perfectly adjusted to either large or small scallops."

Westgate—Metcalfe
From the Regina Leader, June 21.—A quiet wedding took place yesterday morning at Westminster manse, when Miss Phyllis Young Metcalfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John James Metcalfe of Mantario, Sask., was married to Arthur Walker Westgate. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John W. Nelson, D.D.
The bride was attended by Miss Cora Loucks, and the groom was supported by Dr. Seymour Ross. The bride was becomingly attired in a suit of golden brown silk-poppin, the coat opening over a blouse of shell pink Georgette crepe, and wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom. The couple left on a trip to Eastern Ontario amid showers of confetti and good wishes. On their return they will reside in the Beta Apartments.

The law protecting rabbits is having its effect and the little cotton tails are getting so numerous that fruit trees will undoubtedly suffer when winter comes around. This is a poor law to protect these fast growing pests. There should,
of course, be a limit to a day's hunt.

INEZ HERRERA

A Story of Old Mexico

By F. A. MITCHEL

In the early part of the nineteenth century Don Manuel Herrera, a grandee of Spain, suddenly sold all his effects in that country and set sail for Mexico. The reason for this change of residence was that Don Manuel's daughter, Inez, a girl of fifteen, had become infatuated with Jose Alvarez, a young man whose reputation was none of the best. Alvarez, though but twenty-five years of age, had already been a leader of several uprisings against the government, and his methods indicated not only a turbulent disposition, but that he was conscienceless. By changing his residence from the old to the new world Don Manuel hoped to rid his daughter of such a suitor.
Don Manuel, on arriving in Mexico, purchased a ranch in the state of Durango, near the base of the Sierra Madre chain of mountains. On the property he built a handsome residence and became an influential citizen of the country. His wife, who had been loath to quit Spain, left her heart there. But Inez took kindly to the new country. Young as she was, she had had no taste of the formal life led by the higher classes in Spain and delighted in the freedom she was accorded in Mexico.
Inez had not been in her new home long before she was considered the best horsewoman in the state. She grew very fond of hunting and, though living in a country always more or less subject to lawlessness, did not fear to go anywhere alone. This her father permitted because he could not prevent it, though so great was her popularity among those living in the vicinity of her home that he felt she was always in a measure protected. Added to this, she was always well armed.
Among Inez's many suitors was Miguel Coral, a young man who had when he came of age inherited a hacienda near that of the Herreras. He was as much in favor with Don Manuel as Jose Alvarez had been in disfavor. Coral was the soul of honor, and Don Miguel did not hesitate to trust Inez with him anywhere. Time and absence seemed to have cured her of her infatuation for Jose. At any rate she never mentioned him and turned a not unwilling ear to Miguel. In the hunting season Inez was fond of riding up among the foothills of the mountains for game, and Miguel was often her attendant on these excursions. This was permitted not because Mexican etiquette allowed a young girl to go off with a man alone, but because Inez had a code of etiquette of her own. What she did another could not do, and much of what others did she disdained to do, making them deceitful.
When the Herreras had lived in Mexico eight years and soon after a revolution which had been unsuccessful, the Sierra Madre mountains became the lair of a band of robbers, who made occasional descents upon the people of Durango, each time carrying off booty or levying contributions of money. Every ranch or hacienda that was worth plundering except that of Don Manuel Herrera was robbed. Why he was left immune while others far less promising of plunder were attacked was a mystery.
One thing, and one only, was known about the band. It was composed of persons that had been engaged in the unsuccessful recent revolution in the City of Mexico. It was reported that their leader had been one of the lieutenants of the leader of the insurgents, and some said that he was the leader himself. At any rate but few of the insurgents were captured; but, being hunted for their lives, most of them took to inaccessible points and lived by robbery.
In the autumn Inez was eager to go up into the hunting grounds. Her father objected to her going. The lair of the robbers was supposed to be in the region where she usually hunted, but they had been quiet for some time, and it was surmised that, having gained all they could get from Durango, they had gone elsewhere. Inez, who seemed to have a fancy for danger, started on horseback one morning alone to spend the day at her favorite sport. Besides her rifle she carried pistols in her holster and a knife.
Having attained considerable height, she was riding on a plateau when she met a horseman coming toward her. He was dressed in the costume of a Mexican gentleman, including the gaudy trappings. Bringing her rifle to a position which would enable her to use it readily, Inez rode on. The man drew rein a few paces from the point of meeting. She, too, stopped.

What was her astonishment to recognize Jose Alvarez. He had changed somewhat in his appearance since their separation, but not from age. That devil may care look that had fascinated her when she had scarcely budded into womanhood had become intensified. And Inez saw what she was blind to then—the spirit of evil in him.
"What are you doing here?" she asked, biting her lip to maintain her courage.
"I came here because you are here. I cannot live without you."
His voice was soft and smooth, that same voice in which he had made love to her in Spain. It caused her bosom to rise and fall more quickly than from fear.
"You have lived eight years without me."
"You were a child when we parted. I could not rely on one so young. Now you are a woman."
"As a woman I shall not act as a child."
"Then you no longer love me?"
She hesitated. She did not know whether she did or did not. Her heart was fluttering.
"You are mine. You were born to be mine. You shall be mine."
There was something in his looks, his tone of voice, when he said this that excited not exactly fear, but a realization that she had to deal with one who might make trouble for others, if not herself. She was drawing quicker breaths, but said nothing. Emboldened by her silence, he continued:
"I am going with you to your father to demand your hand."
"And suppose he refuses you?"
"You will not fall me."
Inez felt that this was an evasion. Something in the man told her that he was changed from what she had believed him to be when she was a girl. He had been sinking morally from what he had been then, and though she knew nothing of this descent she felt the difference. She was not afraid of him for herself, but for others. The image of Miguel Coral came up before her, and between him and this man she had loved so passionately she saw a great difference. She dreaded a meeting between them. She concluded to show Jose that all was over between him and her, trusting that he would leave her and those she feared for in peace.
"Jose," she said, "my love for you was that of a child. As a woman I will never be yours. I am going home. Goodby."
She said this resolutely, at the same time riding on. She did not look back. Had she done so she would have seen him start to follow her, then change his mind and turn away.
When a bad man, a reckless man, is in love there is no knowing what he will do. We constantly read in the daily journals of such men killing the women they love, then themselves. Jose Alvarez's love that had been no great passion for the child was fanned into a flame at meeting her again as a woman. He cared nothing for his life, and he was ready to take any chance to gain his ends. It was his disposition to do desperate deeds that had fascinated her as a child. He believed that he could play the same game with her as a woman.
One day Don Manuel, his wife, his daughter and others of the household were sitting on the veranda of the house when a horseman rode up to the gate, dismounted and came up the walk to the house. Inez recognized Jose Alvarez at once. The others did not recognize him till he had reached the veranda and, holding his conical hat in his hand, thus addressed Don Manuel:
"Senior, I am Jose Alvarez. When your daughter was budding into womanhood you refused her to me. Now that she is a woman and capable of deciding for herself I have come again to ask you for her."
"There is no need," said Inez, rising and confronting him, "for you to ask my father for me, for you have my own answer refusing you."
It was evident that his bold stroke was not successful. But he had not hoped for success at once. He was about to speak again when all were startled by a shot. Alvarez paused and clapped his hand to a pistol at his side. From every direction men were seen converging upon the house. When they came nearer all were seen to be carrying rifles in a position for immediate use. In advance of the others was Miguel Coral, and he seemed to be their leader.
Alvarez understood what this meant, though the others with him did not. He knew that it was a matter of life and death with him or rather the kind of a death he should die, for if these men who were coming took him—and their taking him was inevitable—he would be executed for a felon, and he was thinking of taking his own life. Raising a pistol to his head, he looked a farewell to Inez. That look prevented his intended action. Don Manuel, who was now beside him and slightly in his rear, knocked the weapon from his hand.

Those coming closed in on Alvarez and seized him.
"What does it all mean?" asked Don Manuel.
"This man," replied Miguel, "recently led a revolution in the City of Mexico to depose the president and put himself in his place. The movement was a lamentable failure, but its leader escaped and with a number of his men took to the mountains above us, and it is they who have been robbing us. Recently I organized a force to hunt them down. We were in the mountains watching an opportunity to bag them when one of our men saw this one about to descend the mountain and recognized him, having been robbed by him. We followed him and tracked him here."
"What are you going to do with him?" asked Inez excitedly.
"Take him to the capital."
"Jose," she continued, "if I can save you will you promise to quit Mexico never to return?"
"Inez," said her father sternly, "you cannot save him," then to the others, "Take him away."
Alvarez was taken to Mexico, where he was executed by the garrote. Most of his band, deprived of their leader, were captured. Inez was kept in ignorance of the fate of the man she formerly loved. Indeed, she never asked what had become of him, for she married Miguel Coral.

Miller's Worm Powders will not only expel worms from the system, but will induce healthful conditions of the system under which worms can no longer thrive. Worms keep a child in a continual state of restlessness and pain, and there can be no comfort for the little one until the cause of suffering be removed, which can be easily done by the use of these powders, than which there is nothing more effective.

A POET IN A PANTRY.

The Surprise That Awaited Tom Taylor, the Playwright.
Writing of Tom Taylor, the famous playwright and former editor of Punch, Leslie Ward in "Forty Years of 'Spy'" says:
"At dinner his appearance was remarkable, for he usually wore a black velvet evening suit. A curious trait of the dramatist's was his absentminded manner and forgetfulness of convention. Sometimes when walking in the street with a friend he would grow interested and to emphasize his remarks turn to look more directly into the face of his companion, at the same time placing his arm around his waist. In the case of a lady this habit sometimes proved rather embarrassing.
"Mr. Tom Taylor was a man of unbounded kindness in helping everybody who was in need of money or in trouble. . . . One day Mr. and Mrs. Taylor returned from a walk to be met by a startled parlor maid, who announced the presence of a strange looking man who was waiting to see them. Her suspicions being aroused by his wild appearance, she had shown him into the drawing room. On repairing to the pantry with curiosity not unmixed with wonder they discovered Tom Taylor—quite at home and immensely tickled by his situation.

NOT A LOST CHORD.

Bach Had the Melody in Him and Just Had to Get It Out.
The Duke of Saxe-Weimar once invited John Sebastian Bach, the Nestor of German music, to attend a dinner at the palace. Before the guests sat down to the feast Bach was asked to give an improvisation. The composer seated himself at the harpsichord and straightway forgot all about dinner and everything else. He played so long that at last the duke touched his shoulder and said, "We are very much obliged, master, but we must not let the soup get cold."
Bach sprang to his feet and followed the duke to the dining room without uttering a word. But he was scarcely seated when he sprang up, rushed back to the instrument like one demented, struck a few chords and returned to the dining room, evidently feeling much better. "I beg your pardon, your highness," he said, "but you interrupted me in a series of chords and arpeggios on the dominant seventh, and I could not feel at ease until they were resolved into the tonic. It is as if you had snatched a glass of water from the lips of a man dying of thirst. Now I have drunk the glass out and am content."

St. Catharines, Ont.—"Two years ago I was in a very nervous, generally run-down condition, so that I awoke in the morning more tired than when I retired. The doctor thought I had heart trouble and treated me for it but I got no benefit. I heard of Dr. Pierce's remedies through a friend who had been to your Invalids' Hotel for an operation (which proved entirely successful) and I at once got the 'Favorite Prescription.' I took three bottles altogether and at the end of three weeks I felt entirely cured and have been well and strong since, without a single bad spell. I stopped taking it about three months ago and am glad to tell any one how splendidly your medicine has healed me."

POLITENESS IN CHINA.

It Takes a Peculiar Form at Times, Particularly at Dinner.
A Chinaman prides himself on his politeness more than on anything else. So when he meets you he shakes his own hand. When he goes to leave you he holds his hands across his breast and makes three bows.

Some places in China it is considered polite, when you are invited to a friend's house, to throw the chicken bones on the floor. As you are having dinner and chatting about the rice crust it is proper form, when you get through with a drumstick, to toss it on the floor and go on with the conversation. The host takes this as a compliment, for it shows that you know that he has servants enough to clean the things off the floor. If you put the bones on the plate it reflects on the number of servants that he can afford to keep.

If you leave a dollar on your dressing table your room boys wouldn't steal it for anything; he would lose face if he did, but when your back is turned he will exchange it for a counterfeit. He can do this and still keep his face. If you miss something about your room and know positively that your boy stole it and accuse him he will deny it as long as he has breath. Under a slow fire and salt he would still deny that he had taken it; to admit that he had stolen your knife would be to lose face.

But after accusing him, if you will let it go for a day or two the knife will mysteriously return, or you will find it under a handkerchief on your dresser. You know that he has returned it, and he knows that you know, but his face has been saved, and as a result he is light hearted and happy.—Homer Croly, in Leslie's.

How to Build a Campfire.

For a noon halt gather a couple of heaping double handfuls of dry twigs about the size of a lead pencil. If there are no leaves at hand for tinder shave a few of the twigs as finely as possible with a sharp knife, leaving the shaving attached to the twig at one end. As a support for the kettle set two flat stones on edge at an angle about two sides of the fire with their rear edges touching, so as to keep the "fireplace" from collapsing. The bright blaze which this little fire gives at the start will get up steam in short order, and the glowing coals which it leaves will be just right for frying. If no stones are handy the kettle may be swung from a forked stake driven into the ground at an angle so that it will jut over the fire.—Outing.

English Golf Courses.

A glance over the plans of the seven championship golf courses of Great Britain reveals the fact that not one possesses a single hole which measures 550 yards, the longest being the seventeenth at Westward Ho, which is 542 yards. St. Andrews possesses two holes of over 400 yards, the fifth is 535 yards and the fourteenth of the 516 yards. The twelfth at Prestwick measures 508 yards and the sixteenth at Hoylake 510 yards. There is not a single hole at either Muirfield or Deak which measures 500 yards.

SOLDIERS' STATIONERY.

700 Different Kinds of Army Forms Are Supplied.

A shrewd observer once remarked that an army marches, not on its stomach, but on its army forms. This in a great measure is true, for the army would be powerless without its army stationery. The stationery organization of the army comprises a score of officers and some 250 men, according to a special correspondent at the general headquarters, who deal daily with millions of forms and papers for the administrative purposes of the army in the field.

The Stationery Service supplies an unending variety of army books (106 types), army forms (about 700 different kinds), books of regulations (136 varieties), and sixty different sorts of writing-paper, ten of envelopes, twenty-one of pencils, and no fewer than twenty-six descriptions of inks in powder form (black, blue, red, green, and violet, waterproof ink, drawing ink, etc.). Figures speak, they say. Up to last June the Stationery Services had supplied some 52,000,000 field service postcards (printed in English, Hindoo, Urdu, and Gurmukhi), the last three for the different races among the Indian troops), nearly 100,000,000 army message forms, 7,000,000 message envelopes, 2,000,000 war diaries and intelligence Summary of Events (for army record purposes), and 50,000,000 and 35,000,000 respectively of two different types of army form.

There are several hundred different kinds of labels for goods, etc., in use. The stock usually stands at somewhere about 2,000,000, and it will probably come as a surprise to people who have visions of army commanders pencilling despatches in tents at dead of night to know that there are considerably more than 1,000 typewriters, in special traveling cases, in use in the field at the present time, and these are kept in order and repaired by traveling mechanics in the Stationery Service.—Tit-Bits.

Great Titles Won by the Sword.

Will the present war produce a new British dukedom? Probably it will, for it is a curious fact, and one apt to be overlooked, that although the minor peerages are filled by all sorts and conditions of men, access to the highest rank of all has usually been won in the first instance by the sword. The first Duke of Marlborough, for instance, was given the title for his services to his country. So, too, was the first Duke of Wellington. The first Duke of Norfolk died fighting for his King on Bosworth Field. The first Duke of Manchester fought for King William at the Battle of the Boyne. The first of the Dukes of Somerset—whose sister, Jane Seymour, married King Henry VIII.—fought for his Royal brother-in-law in France and Flanders. The Dukes of Argyll began as fighters, and they have been at it pretty well ever since. The first Duke of Grafton commanded the troops in Somersetshire sent against the Duke of Monmouth, and later on saw fighting in Ireland, where he was wounded. An ancestor of the present Duke of Sutherland was standard-bearer to Prince Edward, son of Henry VI., at the Battle of Tewkesbury. The present Duke of Rutland is descended from the famous Marquis of Granby, who upheld the arms of England in Germany throughout the Seven Years' War. The Dukes of Northumberland have been fighters ever since the days of the crusades; while the first Duke of Portland was descended from the earl of that ilk who accompanied William of Orange to England, and fought as a lieutenant-general at the Battle of the Boyne.

Wonderful Runners.

The feats of professional runners seem insignificant when compared with the regular performance of an East Indian caste. These Kahars, who are also known as Jhinwarb, live in the Punjab, where for centuries they have acted not only as runners, but as fisherman and as water-fowl catchers. It is said that these men are able to accomplish a hundred miles a day without resting. There is offered an instance; apparently well authenticated, of one Tika Ram carrying dispatches 300 miles in three days—from Meer-Mir to Meerut. It is further said that so far from shortening their lives these performances really conduce to longevity in the Kahars, many of whom are able not only to withstand the strain of covering great distances, but to thrive under it. The Jhiriksha man, too, notwithstanding his irregular diet, excessive use of liquor, and exposure to the elements, lives to a reasonable age. In Tokio, when a census was taken of the Jhiriksha men some time ago, there were found to be more than 1,300 who were over 55 years of age.

Spider Superstitions.

Spiders, according to common superstition, are always omens of good fortune and money, therefore to kill them provokes wrath and invites disaster. Superstitious people will tell that the bride who finds a spider in the folds of her wedding gown may look forward to a married life of great prosperity, and that if by any chance you are sitting in a room with other people and a spider singles you out from the rest and wends its way towards you, it means that a large sum of money will be yours at some future period. The belief that the appearance of the little red spider indicated the receipt of money may have originated in the belief held by Cornish miners that the spiders scent out gold, and that their presence will always show where gold may be found.

Planning Work.

What gigantic plans we scheme and how little we advance in the labor of a day! If there is one lesson which experience teaches surely it is this, to make plans that are strictly limited and to arrange our work in a practicable way within the limits which we must accept. Others expect so much from us that it seems as if we had accomplished nothing. "What! Have you done only that?" they say, or we know by their looks that they are thinking it.—Hamerton.

Insane.

"I went down to an east side neighborhood house the other evening to preside at a debate of the children," said the teacher as she faced her companions at the boarding house table. "The subject was capital punishment, and the disputation closed with a harangue by a youth of twelve, who said: 'I disagree with capital punishment. Any one that commits murder ain't in a sanitary condition.'"

His Regular Cue.

"What made you start clapping your hands when that woman stepped on your foot in the cars yesterday?" "I was dozing," answered Mr. Currox. "I thought mother and the girls were having a musical at home and one o' them was signaling that it was time to applaud."

Dilemma.

Husband—Why don't you put your mind on it and get a good cook? Wife (sweetly)—I don't think I know how. I don't seem to have any faculty in selecting people to live with.

An Indication.

"Is your daughter getting on well with her music?" "I guess so. The neighbors are getting so they speak to me civilly again."

Big Exception.

"I never knew a man yet who wanted to listen to other people's troubles." "Then I guess you've never known any lawyers."

Wise Girl.

Maud—Would you object to a husband who smoked in the house? Marie—Most decidedly. But I shall keep quiet about it until I get one.

Gravity is the ballast of the soul,

which keeps the mind steady.—Fuller.

Impurities of the Blood Counteracted.

Impurities in the blood come defects in the action of the liver. They are revealed by pimples and unsightly blotches on the skin. They must be treated inwardly, and for this purpose there is no more effective compound to be used than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They act directly on the liver and by setting up healthy processes have a beneficial effect upon the blood, so that impurities are eliminated.

Wesley and Tea.

In his younger days John Wesley found it difficult to stop drinking tea. He wrote in 1740: "We agreed it would prevent great expense, as well of health as of time and of money, if the poorer people of our society could be persuaded to leave off drinking of tea. We resolved ourselves to begin and set the example. I expect some difficulty in breaking off a custom of six and twenty years' standing, and accordingly the first three days my head ached and I was half asleep from morning to night. The third day my memory failed almost entirely. On Thursday my headache was gone, my memory as strong as ever, and I have found no inconvenience, but a sensible benefit in several respects from that day to this." Later in life Wesley returned to the use of tea, as his big teapot preserved in his house in London shows.

Its Virtue Cannot be Described.—No one can explain the subtle power that Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil possesses. The originator was himself surprised by the wonderful qualities that his compound possessed. That he was the benefactor of wonderful Oil. So familiar is everyone with it that it is prized as a household medicine everywhere.

COUNTY BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

Ontario Department of Agriculture

Lambton County farmers still organizing and preparing for greater things in the future. On Thursday, June 22nd, the various delegates to the number of 75 appointed to represent the 45 Farmers' Clubs, the Corn Growers' Association, the nine different Fruit Growers' Associations; the Live Stock Association, the Beekeepers' Association, East and West Lambton Women's Institutes and various other agricultural associations within the County, together with the representatives of the Boards of Trade of the city of Sarnia and the town of Petrolia, met in the office of the District Representative, Petrolia, and organized a County Board of Agriculture. The meeting was characterized with that "Get-Together" spirit which is so strongly implanted in the citizens of Lambton County.

An address of welcome to the delegates was tendered by Mayor Stirrett who congratulated them on the high ideals and motives which was the cause of the delegates assembling together and wished them every success in their new organization, in which he expressed himself in accord with. Mr. Charles Jenkins, President of the Board of Trade of the town of Petrolia, expressed himself as thoroughly in sympathy with the movement made by the representatives at this time and spoke at length upon what could be accomplished by thorough organizations and cited Germany as an example, by her thorough organization delving the world. He hoped the new organization would take up the deeper and broader questions dealing with the whole county, such as good roads and a thorough system of drainage. Mr. W. P. Macdonald, the newly appointed District representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, expressed his pleasure in the move being undertaken in forming a County Board of Agriculture. He enumerated the number of agricultural organizations in the County and was enthusiastic over the move now being taken to consolidate all these organizations into a central organization to act as an Advisory Board and to work with him in the development of the agricultural resources of Lambton County.

Mr. W. G. Bell, representing the Institute Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, outlined the working and object of a County Board of Agriculture. He expressed himself as sorry, for to-day the farmers were burying the old system of Farmers' Institutes which had done more in the past probably than any other agricultural organization in assisting and developing agriculture within the province. He expressed his belief that Farmers' Institutes had outlived their day and in re-organizing under a county Board of Agriculture he was firmly convinced upon the new foundation was a timely move and a stronger, more serviceable and outreaching organization would result. Professor Coulter, of the Field Husbandry Department of the Agricultural College, Saskatoon, a Lambton County boy, was present and congratulated the citizens of Lambton County on their agricultural organizations and said he has been watching with interest the rapid development of agriculture of all lines in Lambton County and was much pleased with the spirit of this meeting and could see but a bright future for the new organization. He gave a brief outline of the various accomplishments of the various agricultural organizations in the Canadian North West and said they were still organizing and were going to organize until the north west farmers got what they wanted.

Warden Wm. Hall expressed his sympathy with the new movement and pledged his hearty support. Mr. John Farrell, "Chairman of Lambton County", Mr. Peter Gardiner, President of the Lambton County Farmers' Co-operative Association; Mr. Albert Brock and Mr.

E. F. Augustine, the respective Presidents of West and East Lambton Farmers' Institutes, all spoke as being highly in favor of a County Board of Agriculture. Mrs. Leonhardt and Mrs. Grant, of Sombra, and Mrs. Connor and Miss Dyer and Miss Pettypiece, of Forest, representing West and East Lambton Women's Institutes, expressed themselves as heartily in accord with the new Board and promised the support of the Women's Institute in all matters.

The officers elected are: President—Albert Brock, Enniskillen Vice Pres.—Robert White, Moore Sec.-Treas.—Alex. Jamieson, Forest. The Executive Committee is composed of the President, Vice President, Secretary-Treasurer and two directors—Mr. W. A. Annett, of Watford, and Mr. Will sic; of Theford—the Secretary of the District Women's Institute and the District Representative of the Department of Agriculture.

The Board of Agriculture will be the central organization for the discussion of all topics of interest to the farmers of the County. The Board will consider such questions as Improvement of Roads, Consolidation of Telephone Systems, Betterment of Educational Facilities, Regulation as to Telephone rates, Establishing of general Drainage Systems, Community Breeding, Dairy Problems, etc.

Address and Presentation

The members of the Bethel Methodist church met in the basement of the church on Wednesday evening, June 21st to bid farewell to their pastor, Rev. H. J. Fair, who is about to leave for another field of work. Mr. Fair was very much surprised to find the regular weekly prayer service turned into a social evening. A program had been prepared and many of the men present were called upon for short addresses and solos were rendered by Messrs. C. Richardson and W. H. Luckham. At the close of the program Mr. and Mrs. Fair were called forward while the following address was read by Mrs. George Brent, Jr., and Mr. Harvey Vance presented them with a well-filled purse. Mr. Fair gave a suitable reply in which he expressed his regret at leaving their church. The ladies then served lunch and the evening was closed by singing, "Blest be the tie that binds."

TO MR. AND MRS. FAIR:—We, the members and adherents of this church having learned that, under the supervision of the London Conference of the Methodist church you are to be taken from this field of labor to be placed in another for the purpose of continuing the work of the ministry to which you have been called by our Heavenly Father and to advance the interests of the Master's Kingdom in another part of his vineyard, we have gathered together to express regret at your removal and to wish you God speed. It has been our privilege to enjoy your ministry longer than is usually vouchsafed to Methodist congregations and we thank God daily for your seven years of faithful and conscientious work among us. Like the Apostle Paul you have labored with all boldness to magnify Christ in the body and to hold forth the word of life. Your labors have ever been to promote the spiritual welfare of the congregation, not only by precept but by your example. As you have gone quietly but persistently about your duties as pastor of the church, we have felt the power of the Master and his Holy Spirit working through His servant and beckoning us to follow. Through listening to your sermons from time to time, we have been led to realize our dependence upon our Heavenly Father and the responsibility resting upon each of us. We trust that this seed you have sown has fallen upon good ground and will bring forth a bountiful harvest. As a slight token of the esteem in which you are held, we would ask you to accept this gift.

Chaplain's Letter to Mr. Wm. Lamb

The following letter from Major Owen, chaplain of the 6th Infantry Brigade, to Mr. Wm. Lamb, on the death of his son Pte. Thomas A. Lamb, will be read with interest:—

6th Inf. Brigade, 2nd Can. Div. B.E.F.
Army Post Office, England,
June 1st 1916.

DEAR MR. LAMB:—May I extend the sincere sympathy of the officers and men of the 25th Bat., who knew your son and whose name has now been worthily added to the Honor Roll of the Empire. It is impossible to describe what these men have gone through and the heroic work they have done. We can anyhow look forward to a day of rewards when all will get their due reward and when we shall meet to part no more. The Pioneers will erect a wooden cross to mark the grave and the men placed a wreath of wild flowers on his grave. The Adjutant will forward the personal effects to you.

Yours very faithfully
C. C. Owen, Major
Chaplain VI Inf. Brigade.

A WOMAN'S HEALTH NEEDS CONSTANT CARE

When the Blood Becomes Poor
Disease Speedily Follows

Every woman's health is peculiarly dependent upon the condition of her blood. How many women suffer with headache, pain in the back, poor appetite, weak digestion, a constant feeling of weariness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, pallor and nervousness. Of course all these symptoms may not be present—the more there are the worse the condition of the blood, and the more necessary that you should begin to enrich it without delay. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are beyond doubt the greatest blood-building tonic offered to the public to-day. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood which goes to every part of the body and brings new health and strength to weak, despondent people. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are valuable to all women, but they are particularly useful to girls of school age who become pale, languid and nervous. Thin blood during the growing years of a girl's life usually means a flat-chested, hollow-cheeked womanhood. There can be neither health nor beauty without red blood which gives brightness to the eyes and color to the cheeks and lips. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do all this as is proved in thousands of cases. Mrs. Wm. Rowe, Carlaw ave., Toronto, says:—"I have received so much benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I feel it my duty to recommend them to others. I was about completely prostrated with anaemia. I had no appetite, was terribly weak and subject to fainting spells. I suffered greatly from dizziness, and the various other symptoms that accompany a bloodless condition. Remedy after remedy was tried but to no avail until a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before completing the second box I was again enjoying splendid health, and have since remained in that happy condition."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Port Elgin Times takes a whack at the medicos who charge extortionate fees, the case in point being a fee of $250 for a few minutes work extracting a button from the throat of a child. It is true, perhaps that the big surgeons do charge a startling price for the "know-how," but taking into consideration everything, we hardly think the charge can fairly be made against the average practitioner. Especially is this true of the country doctor who is at everyone's beck and call night and day, in good weather and bad. We believe he earns all he gets.
