PRESIDENT OF THE LIQUOR DEALERS' ASSOCIATION DENIES ALLEGATIONS OF E. S. CARTER

T. H. Haley Declares no Liquor Dealer Contributed Money to Members or Supporters of Government, Neither Were They Asked for Any—Complete Repudiation of Scandalous Statements—Another Cheap Lie Publicly Nailed.

St. John, N. B., July 23, 1918.

The Editor of The Standard,

Sir:—The men engaged in the liquor business were surprised to read in the Daily Telegraph of the 23rd inst., that they, or anyone representing them were called upon to pay and did pay large sums of money in connection with legislation at Fredericton, affecting their interests.

The Telegraph asks:

"Did agents representing, or purporting to represent the local government or members of it, blackmail the brewers, hotel keepers and liquor dealers of St. John City and County to the tune of thousands of dollars last spring when the government was giving the temperance people hope that prohibition would be introduced?"

"Were the liquor men told—before they paid their money—that the government in conference had been in favor of a prohibitory measure by one vote? And were they told after they paid their money that the government had decided against prohibition by one vote?"

To all of the above questions, I acting for the liquor men as President of their association, and personally as a member of the Executive and having full knowledge of all business in connection with the liquor interests, say emphatically that there is no truth whatever in Mr. Carter's charges and I answer "no" to all of the questions asked.

Understanding that legislation effecting the liquor law would be considered at the session of the local legislature just ended, we retained men to act for us as has been our custom for years past. We believed and we still believe that it is our privilege, just as it is the privilege of corporations to be represented at Fredericton when legislation affecting our interests is contemplated. We did not directly or indirectly, receive a promise from the government, any member of it or any member of the legislature respecting our interests. Neither did we send a delegation to wait upon the government and none went. We did not pay one cent directly, or indirectly, to a member of the government or a member of the legislature, neither did we contribute, directly or indirectly, or promise to do so, to any campaign fund. We were not held up by solicitors or agents for any money whatever or for any promises and every cent we paid was paid for services rendered and was paid legitimately, freely and voluntarily and not the slightest threat was made or compulsion used.

It seems to us that knowing as we do that the Government, the members of the Government individually and the members of the legislature did not receive a promise or a cent from us or from any person representing us, directly or indirectly, that these charges are made for the purpose of placing those engaged in the trade in an unfavorable light; and I say emphatically the charges made by E. S. Carter are without foundation in fact and are wholly false and untrue.

Yours etc.,

T. H. HALEY,

President of the St. John Licensed Victuallers' Protective Association and for the Executive of the Association.

RECRUITING MEETING BROKEN UP BY ROWDIES

Disgraceful Scene at La Fontaine Park, Montreal, Speakers Stoned—Protest Against Conscription

Montreal, July 23.—Between 1,200 and 1,500 disorderlies, among them a great number of boys, shouting, "We won't have conscription," succeeded by organized hooting, hissing and stoning and egg throwing in breaking up a recruiting meeting at La Fontaine Park tonight when more than five thousand persons were gathered to hear Major Emile Ranger, recently returned from the front, appeal for recruits for the Sixtieth Battalion, one of the newer units being organized under French-Canadian auspices. Major Ranger was not allowed to speak, and when he tried to secure a few minutes' hearing he and several officers from local battalions, with an escort from the 65th Regiment and the band of the 60th Battalion, became a target for the stones and eggs. Finally all left the platform and the park, a path being forced through one side of the audience.

La Fontaine Park, which is in the heart of the French-Canadian section of the city, has been the scene of such disorders on three successive nights. Crowds of men and boys, plainly organized, have attempted to create a disturbance whenever the speakers in behalf of the units being organized attempted to address them. Socialists and Nationalists are said to have been in evidence and leading the uproar.

A meeting was to be held tonight under the auspices of the staff of the Sixtieth Battalion. Before eight o'clock many thousands of persons were gathered about the platform, and it was apparent from the attitude of a large number of groups scattered through the audience that trouble was coming. At eight thirty o'clock, when Major Emile Ranger, and Captain C. Zeug and Lieut. Le Blanc of the 65th Battalion, who were to be the speakers, arrived, escorted by a company from that regiment, and the band of the 60th Battalion, they were greeted with hoots and hisses. Major Ranger walked to the front of the platform and asked for a hearing, but the uproar was redoubled, voices shouting "we don't want conscription," "we won't have conscription." The police charged the disturbers and ejected several, but with no re-

MARYSVILLE LODGE OF PYTHIANS SHOW THEIR PATRIOTISM

Inaugurated a Campaign to Raise Fund to Purchase a Machine Gun

Fredericton, July 23.—Marysville lodge, Knights of Pythias, have taken the initiative in starting a campaign to raise a fund in Marysville for the purchase of a machine gun for the overseas contingent from that town. At a special meeting last evening it was decided to hold a field day on August 6th to raise funds and ask co-operation of other societies as well as of the churches of Marysville to assist in making the affair a success.

After a half hour wait the party left the park. Afterward the mob began a march through the streets toward the newspaper offices, threatening to "smash them up," but police reserves arrived and dispersed them before they had gone many blocks.

KILLING OF NEUTRALS INDEFENSIBLE

Washington Informs Berlin in Note Made Public Yesterday.

FREEDOM OF HIGH SEA WILL BE INSISTED UPON

Germany is Expected to Make Immediate Reparation for Lusitania Disaster, Note Says.

Washington, July 23.—The text of the American note on submarine warfare, presented at Berlin today by Ambassador Gerard, was made public here tonight. It reveals that the imperial government has been informed that the United States is prepared to regard as "deliberately unfriendly" any repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of American rights.

The United States announces that it will insist upon freedom of the high seas, "from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost."

In official and diplomatic quarters the communication was received as the strongest and most emphatic pronouncement that has come from the Washington government since the beginning of its correspondence with the belligerents of Europe. President Wilson returned to Cornish, N. H., tonight to await developments.

Referring to the German government's expression of hope in its last note that the freedom of the seas may be established in some measure before the end of the present war, the United States declares that this object can be accomplished and invites the practical co-operation of the imperial government. The American government adds, moreover, that it "holds itself ready at any time to act as the common friend who may be privileged to suggest a way" to assist in establishing the freedom of the seas.

DECISIVE ACTIONS ON EASTERN FRONTS NOT EXPECTED FOR FEW DAYS

Austro-German Drives Against Warsaw Continue, but Natural Defences Favoring Russians Who Have Prepared Strong Positions—Reported Enemy is Massing Troops at St. Mihiel, in West, for a Drive Against British and French.

London, July 23.—The Austrians and Germans are pushing their three great attacks against the Russian armies defending Warsaw with undiminished energy, and at some points report that progress has been made.

They are operating, however, through a country which the retreating troops have laid waste and in which what roads there are little suited for the movement of the heavy artillery which is necessary for the bombardment of the great fortresses that bar their way.

It is not expected, therefore, that decisive actions on any of the fronts will be fought for a few days yet, although the battle between the Vistula and the Bug rivers, where the German Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army is advancing toward the Lublin-Cholm railroad, has about reached a climax.

Here, according to the German official communication, issued this afternoon, the Germans have succeeded in breaking the obstinate resistance of the Russians at several points and forced them to retreat.

The Russians, however, have had lots of time to prepare a series of positions and it is believed that they will make every effort to hold them until, if it becomes necessary, their army is able to retire from Warsaw.

To the south of Warsaw, in front of the fortress of Ivangorod, the Russians have retired to the Vistula river, which with its forts and a lack of bridges, it is believed must form a barrier which the Austrians and Germans will find it difficult to overcome.

The northern German army under Field Marshal Von Hindenburg also is reported to have made progress; but it is stated that it has not yet been able to cross the Narawa river, another natural defense of the Russian triangle behind the Polish capital.

In fact, all along this front the Russians have resumed their counter-attacks from the fortress of Novo Georziensk but these, according to the German accounts, failed in their purpose.

Before Rozan, another of the river fortresses, the Germans declare they have stormed and taken two fortified villages and captured a number of prisoners.

Opinion here is still divided as to whether Grand Duke Nicholas, the Russian commander-in-chief, will accept a decisive battle or is simply trying to inflict as heavy losses on the enemy as is possible before withdrawing from Warsaw and the whole Polish salient to Brest Litovsk and the Bug river line.

Enemy Massing Troops at St. Mihiel. Severe fighting is still going on in the Argonne and in the Vosges on the western battle front, but without bringing any very material changes in the positions of the opposing armies.

It is reported unofficially that the Germans are massing troops at St. Mihiel for a more extended offensive, but the official communications do not indicate that anything in the nature of a serious engagement has taken place there as yet.

That the Germans will attempt an offensive here is considered by the military observers as quite likely as they assert that the recent activity of the German Crown Prince's army shows that they are hoping to weaken the French hold on Verdun.

Paris, July 23, via London.—The following official statement was issued by the French War Office tonight: "Today it was comparatively quiet along the whole front."

In Artois there was the usual artillery activity on both sides. "Some shells were fired on the suburbs of Soissons and on Rheims."

"In the Forest of Le Petro in the course of last night we regained a line of trenches previously lost. Two German counter-attacks were repulsed with considerable losses to the enemy."

"One of our flying squadrons employed on bombardment duties yesterday evening dropped twenty-eight shells on the railway station at Cocquains and forced two German aeroplanes to alight in their lines."

Petrograd Report of the Struggle. Petrograd, via London, July 23, (10:45 p. m.)—Field Marshal Von Mackensen, operating between the Bug and the Vistula, continues his wild sledge hammer blows against the Lublin-Cholm line of the Russians, directing them now particularly against the city of Lublin. His immediate objectives are Belzyce, Travnik, Voselavitz and Grubechow. Belzyce is twelve miles southwest of Lublin.

Of only slightly less importance in this region are the battles on the Bug, between Krylow and Dobrotova. West of Warsaw the Russians have moved back to their second line of defenses at Blonie and Nadaryn and their positions in front of Ivangorod. The latter positions are regarded the strongest in the Russian line, as is indicated by the fact that the Germans assaulted them furiously in their two former campaigns against Warsaw and were unable to breach them.

To the northward battles are raging at Novo Georziensk and along the Narawa line, which embraces the strong points of Pultusk and Rosen, commanding the crossings in the bend of the river. On the Niemen front the fighting is concentrated at Koslovaruda, southwest of Kovno, on the railroad which runs to Gumbinnen.

In the Baltic region the Germans are seeking contact with the Russian main forces between Mitau and Shavli. The Germans appear to be more closely co-ordinating these separate movements. The resulting general battle on the three fronts protecting Warsaw is regarded by the Russian military critics as the most important of any struggle heretofore in the eastern theatre. They compare the entire circumference region to a great fortress.

The central idea of the German campaign is assumed to be to secure control of the Vistula line. With this strong natural barrier adequately fortified, the military critics say, Germany might hope to keep Russia in check with comparatively small forces and then throw her entire weight against France.

THREATENED SALT FAMINE IN Nfld. HAS BEEN RELIEVED

St. John's, Nfld., July 23.—Two large steamers with cargoes of salt from Spain arrived here this week, thus relieving the salt famine, which previously existed and threatened seriously to hamper operations for fishermen around the seaboard, who required salt for curing their catches.

NEW NAVAL PROGRAM FOR UNITED STATES

BIGGER NAVY IS PRESIDENT WILSON'S PLAN

Must be on Equal Footing with That of Other Great Nations.

NEW NAVAL PROGRAM UNDER CONSIDERATION

President Also Plans to Have Provision Made for Military Training for Citizens.

Washington, July 23.—President Wilson has called for reports on the subject of national defense. These will be made to him personally by the heads of the war and navy departments. The fact that this action had been taken became known here tonight after the release for publication of the note to Germany relating to submarine warfare.

Without regard to present day controversies, the President in association with various heads of departments has been giving consideration for some time to the preparation of a reasonable and adequate naval program which he will propose to Congress at the proper time. He will study this subject on his visit to Corinth, N. H., and when he again returns here may be prepared to discuss it with his advisers.

Men of the army and navy who have been most directly in touch with conditions of defense that have been evolved in modern experience have been called upon for their views. The President not only wishes to hear from those who have knowledge of actual conditions of warfare existing in Europe today, but he is seeking light from those who are able to understand and comprehend all possible phases of altered conditions on both land and sea. He particularly wishes the navy to stand upon equality with the most efficient and serviceable fighting sea force maintained by any power.

As to the army it is known here that the President is preparing to incorporate in his next message to Congress a definite program relating to the development and equipment of this branch of the service. It will provide a plan for the proper military training of citizens in every way consistent with American traditions and the national policy, and which the President believes will commend itself to all patriotic and political minds. In this matter the President is working with the Secretary of War and his professional associates. It is understood that on this portion of the President's general national defense program some very definite conclusions already have been reached.

TWO ARRESTS

Officer Chas. Morrell took William Lawson in charge last evening at ten o'clock and lodged him in the Central Police Station. The prisoner is a Dane, aged thirty-one years, and hails from Parrsboro, N. S. He had failed to report as a convict out on license.

Herick Hendrickson was arrested on Water street shortly after ten o'clock last evening by Officer Hunter. The prisoner is a Dane, aged nineteen years, and is charged with desertion from a Danish ship lying at West St. John.

STRIKERS MOB POLICE AT BAYONNE

More Rioting at Standard Oil Works—Thousand Strikers and Sympathizers Stone Detectives

New York, July 23.—A fresh outbreak late today disturbed the comparative quiet which prevailed in Bayonne after the cessation of the rioting of the previous three days when three were killed and scores injured. It occurred when Sheriff Kinkead led a batch of fifty deputies through the streets and was attacked by a crowd of more than 1,000 strikers and sympathizers, necessitating a call for the police reserves. Although the sheriff made an impassioned appeal to the crowd to disperse they answered with showers of clubs and stones and were only quieted after priests and strike leaders appeared among them and counseled with them to go to their homes. Many shots were fired but the only known injuries consisted of sore heads and bruised limbs.

While the rioting was going on the two mediators from the Federal Department of Labor were in conference with officials of the Standard Oil Company in an effort to bring about an amicable settlement of the strike of workers at the plant of the Standard Oil, which caused a shutdown of the Tide Water Company's plant.

The mediators announced that they would have no statement to make tonight regarding their efforts.

SENTENCED TO THREE WEEKS IMPRISONMENT BY GERMAN COURT

Paris, July 23. (5:10 p. m.)—The Geneva, Switzerland, correspondent of the Havas Agency sends the following:

"The criminal court at Constance, (Germany), sentenced a factory workman named Radolfzell, 19 years old, to three weeks in prison, for giving

MANITOBA COMMISSION MAY CALL IN EXPERTS

Two Hours' Session Yesterday Practically Completed Parliament Buildings Investigation

Winnipeg, July 23.—With a sitting of two hours this morning the Royal Commission practically concluded its investigation into matters concerned with the construction of the Manitoba parliament buildings. The commission then adjourned sine die, Chief Mathers stating that certain expert testimony might still be summoned, or, if further material witnesses present themselves the commission will, he said, be glad to hear them.

Two witnesses were heard today, Hugh Armstrong, formerly provincial treasurer, and H. Boddington, partner of P. W. Simon, architect.

Mr. Armstrong testified in relation to a check given him by J. H. Howden, formerly attorney-general, for $3,000. The money was said to have been for a private business deal in which Armstrong and Howden were concerned. Armstrong cashed the check, and turned the money over to Howden, who later repaid a similar amount in the bank. C. P. Wilson, chief Liberal counsel, asked the commission to find corroboration in Mr. Armstrong's evidence of his (Mr. Wilson's) contention that Mr. Howden had committed perjury in his evidence regarding the disposition of this money. The Liberal counsel asked the commission to believe that this money was not for a private transaction, but was a portion of the $10,000 staked to have been produced for William Salt, and of which Hook, the messenger, claimed he was robbed in Omaha.

Mr. Boddington described an interview he had with the Hon. Dr. Montague towards the end of October, 1914, in which Dr. Montague proposed to cut out extras on the parliament buildings to the amount of $700,000. Dr. Montague proposed, he said, to cut out sculpture and other interior decorations to reduce the total by that amount, saying that "nothing mattered."

The witness said that he objected very strenuously, and that the interview had been an uncomfortable one. He stated that he had been given false information concerning the economic situation in Germany in a letter to his parents in the United States.

PRISON AND FINE FOR BOER REBEL LEADER

Seven Years in Prison and Fine of $5,000—Case Differs From That of De Wet

London, July 23.—Lt. Col. Kemp, leader of a body of Boer rebels in the South African republic, who, with his troops, surrendered to the British forces early in February, has been sentenced to serve seven years in prison and to pay a fine of $5,000, according to the Pretoria correspondent of Reuters' Telegram company. The correspondent states that Col. Kemp's defense at his trial was that he rebelled, not in order to cooperate with Germany but to make a demonstration against the coldy fighting Germany. He declared that he wanted to maintain neutrality. The correspondent continues:

"Justice Lane in passing sentence emphasized the difference between the cases of General Christian De Wet and Col. Kemp. The latter held His Majesty's commission until shortly before he rebelled and after that actually cooperated with Lieut. Col. Maritz and the enemy, whereas Gen. De Wet repudiated Maritz when he found that Maritz was cooperating with the Germans."

Gen. De Wet recently was convicted of high treason for heading a rebellion and was sentenced to six years imprisonment and fined $10,000. Col. Maritz was arrested the latter part of February, but later was reported to have escaped.

DON'T BELIEVE SCHEME FEASIBLE IN UNITED STATES

Organization Like Netherlands Overseas Trust Not Considered Workable Owing to Government Opposition

London, July 23.—American representatives her of detained cargoes do not believe there is much hope of forming in the United States an organization such as The Netherlands Overseas Trust to insure imports against falling in the hands of nations at war with the United Kingdom.

Such an organization, they point out, is unworkable unless it has at least the tacit recognition of the government where it exists, and they have no hope of securing such recognition from the American government, which developed its policy at the time the cotton agreement was made, when Washington took pains to make it clear to all concerned that it extended no official recognition to an arrangement made by the British government with American cotton shippers.

Promoters of the idea here also fear that the traditional opposition of the American government to the recognition of monopolies will also act to prevent the formation of such an organization.

Profits Unknown Yet

While the committees of the Retail Merchants' Association have not as yet all reported on the receipts of the different departments at the picnic on Thursday, it is probable that the net proceeds of the affair, which are to be turned over to the Red Cross, will amount to a considerable sum. It was pointed out by officials of the association yesterday that a larger sum might have been realized if gambling devices and lotteries had been permitted. This is felt to be not in keeping with the spirit of business, and no lotteries, or similar money making schemes were permitted.

WORK FOR GERMAN PRISONERS.

Fifty four German prisoners from the detention camp at Amherst, passed through Moncton on Wednesday en route to Valcartier Camp, Quebec, where they are to be put at useful work in connection with the necessary improvements being made at that place.

Arrangements are being made whereby a large number of German prisoners now under detention at Amherst will be put to work at the Experimental Farm at Nappan. The plan is understood to be to have the prisoners clear some of the farm property which is not now under cultivation. Several hundred of the prisoners will be put on the Nappan job.

While they will work at Nappan, it is understood that they will not be kept in a camp there, but will go to and from the farm every day. A strong force of guards will be with them at all times.

HAMILTON, ONT., PLANS TO GIVE 200 MACHINE GUNS

Hamilton, Ont., July 23.—There has been a very liberal and prompt response to the request of a local committee for machine guns. The committee plans to present at least 200 to the government. More than thirty have been promised.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Jane Gunn. The death took place on Thursday afternoon, at 46 St. Patrick street, of Mrs. Jane Gunn. The deceased, who had been a life long resident of this city, had been ill for only a few weeks. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. A. Beal, of Dorchester, Mass., who was here visiting her mother at the time of her death, and three sons, William of the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Co., Nelson of Charlotte street and Stanley of Boston.

Mrs. Eliza Stockford. The death of Mrs. Eliza Stockford, widow of I. T. Stockford, formerly of St. John, occurred on Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Coates, Hampton, Kings county. Mrs. Stockford, who before her marriage was Miss Eliza Barton, was a native of Tyrone, Ireland, and came to this country with her parents, about sixty-two years ago. She made her home in St. John until a few weeks ago, when she removed to Hampton on the advice of the physicians who had attended her during a lingering illness. Mrs. Stockford had reached the advanced age of eighty years and during a long and useful life had earned the highest respect and esteem of all who knew her. She was a member of Coburg street Christian church. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Coates and four sons, Joseph of Moncton; O. B. of Okotoks, Alberta; E. N. and William of this city, besides four sisters and one brother. The funeral will take place from her late residence, Thorne Avenue, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

William Elmer Young. The death occurred yesterday, after a short illness, of William Elmer Young, only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Young, of 149 Gullford street, West St. John. The boy, who was much liked by his associates in school life, and had endeared himself to many by his cheerfulness and happy disposition, is survived by his father, of the toll office, West St. John, mother, and one sister, Mammie. The funeral will be held tomorrow at three o'clock, from his parents' residence.

MACHINE GUNS

James F. Robertson, who is at present at his fishing camp at Upsalquitch, has sent word to the committee which is securing contributions for machine guns that he will contribute the price of one gun.

The wholesale and retail druggists of the city are considering the contribution of a gun and it is expected that the full amount will be raised among them. This gives a total of more than a dozen guns which have been promised and as there are prospects for several more it looks as if St. John may be able to give enough for the entire complement of sixteen guns for one battalion.

Miss Viola A. Heckman of Lunenburg, N. S., is spending some weeks with Mrs. John C. Standing, De Mont street, West St. John.

Rights of Neutral on Principle Says in Regular Circular

Washington, July 23.—The American note to Germany delivered to the foreign minister of Berlin, July 21, contains the following text:

The Secretary of State for Germany.

Department of State, Washington, July 21. You are instructed to reply to the following note for Foreign Affairs:

The note of the Imperial Government, dated the 19th, has received the attention of the government of the United States, and it regrets to say that it has found satisfactory, because it falls far short of the requirements and indicates which the accepted principle and humanity may be grave matter in controversy. On the contrary, for a partial suspension of the principles insisted upon by the Imperial Government, without reservation of the principles insisted upon by the Imperial Government, has addressed a war of annihilation against the high seas, which the high seas are character and cargo of a vessel must first be ascertained can lawfully be seized and that the lives of men may in no case be put in jeopardy. The vessel resists capture, after being summoned to examination; for a sum of retaliation is per se the law, and the defense retaliatory is an admission of illegality.

Neutral's Rights Based Not Expedient

The government of the United States, however, keenly to find that the Imperial Government regards itself as free exempt from the obligations of the principles of neutral vessels are what it believes the position of the government. It is to be in the present regard to neutral commerce. The Imperial Government understands that the United States cannot policy of the government of Britain with respect to except with that government and that it must regard of other belligerent governments to any discussion of Imperial German government. The Imperial Government's unjustifiable violations of American citizens by commanders. Illegal acts, however justifiable thought to be against its belief to have the intervention of law and manifestly indefensible private neutrals of their rights, particularly when the right to life itself cannot be retained without infringing the lives as well as their property as well as justice and the dignity of neutral practice dictate that the practice be terminated.

If persisted in it would constitute a grave offense against the neutral nation of the United States, and it is believed that the radical alterations of and method of attack practice of instrumentalities fare which the nations cannot have had in existing rules of international law were formulated, and it make every reasonable these novel and unexpected of war at sea; but it cannot substitute any essential or right of its people because alteration of circumstances rights of neutrals in war based upon principle, not policy, and the principle able. MR. CARTER'S ALLEGATIONS

Mr. E. S. Carter, Liberal organizer, appearing before Mr. Commissioner Chandler in Fredericton on Thursday, read a statement in which he alleged that while liquor legislation was under consideration in the legislature, liquor dealers in the city of St. John had paid sums of money to a man representing the local government party.

Mr. Carter said he was prepared to lay formal charges in support of his statements and asked that the Commissioner investigate them. In order that Mr. Carter shall not have the opportunity of pleading that the Standard distorted his statement, we reprint it herewith, as it appeared in the Telegraph yesterday morning.

"Mr. Commissioner: In subpoenas to witnesses issued by you, I observe that your appointment as commissioner, under the great seal of the province, authorized you to inquire into the operations of any or all departments of government. These include that of the provincial secretary from which all liquor licenses are issued.

"Would it, therefore, be within your jurisdiction to inquire into the fact that many of the licensees under the provincial government in the city and county of St. John, including brewers, wholesalers, hotel and tavern keepers, during the spring of the present year, while the legislature was in session, and while prohibition and important changes in the liquor law were under consideration, were called upon to pay, and did pay, large sums of money.

"That these sums of money were not tendered voluntarily by those engaged in the liquor business, but were demanded by a man who is a well known Conservative and whom they understood represented the local government party.

"That these sums of money were requested in addition to the ordinary license fees which are paid into provincial revenues. That they were collected illegally and without warrant from licensees under government is, I think, the matter that should be inquired into by you, who are appointed a commissioner to investigate the operations of the government departments—as to why such money was demanded or requested, what disposition was made of them, and whether any part, or all of the amount, was used to influence liquor legislation.

"Should you decide, Mr. Commissioner, that these illegal payments, requested or demanded of government liquor licensees, are proper matters for investigation, I will lay charges before you formally, but before doing so I ask your assurance that in any investigation I or my counsel will be permitted to examine and cross-examine witnesses.

The Telegraph and Times, continuing the campaign of slander they have followed ever since the defeat of the Pugsley-Robinson plunderbund, seize upon the Carter statement and, while not daring to make charges themselves, endorse all of the allegations and demand that Commissioner Chandler shall investigate them.

A letter from Mr. T. H. Haley, published elsewhere in The Standard this morning, characterizes Mr. Carter's allegations as untrue and declares that the liquor dealers of St. John made no payments such as the Liberal organizer states. As Mr. Haley is president of the Liquor Dealers' Association, and as he writes in that capacity, his letter will at once be accepted as correct.

As far as concerns Commissioner Chandler's power to investigate Mr. Carter's allegations, Mr. Carter, the Telegraph and the Times know full well that the Commissioner was appointed to hold an investigation into matters affecting provincial departments. The allegations of Mr. Carter, even if they could be supported, are not a departmental matter and consequently cannot be investigated under the powers conferred upon the Commissioner.

Knowing this, the only explanation that can be made concerning Mr. Carter's latest effort to attract to himself some notoriety is that he is deliberately attempting to blacken public men by scandalous charges that he knows he cannot prove. Hitherto Mr. Carter has been engaged in making charges concerning expenditures for public works in Gloucester county. The picaresque character of these charges is being shown up every day the Fredericton hearing is continued and, doubtless, when the report of the Commissioner is presented it will be found that there is absolutely no evidence of any dishonest action on the part of any member or official of the Clarke Government.

In his latest achievement, Mr. Carter goes a step further; he asks for investigation of allegations, with which he knows full well Commissioner Chandler cannot deal, and in which there is not the slightest particle of truth. Mr. Haley's letter establishes the latter contention in the minds of men whose opinion is worth considering, and not only reveals Mr. Carter, as a petty partizan of a particularly venomous kind, but as a pitifully cheap public liar as well. The latter revelation will not come as a surprise to people of this province for in every community in which he is known the political and journalistic record of E. S. Carter is absolutely pure.

The Telegraph and Times, in their treatment of the Carter allegations, place themselves on the level of the maker of the allegations. They lack the spirit to make a direct charge against any man in the government or supporter of that government. Let them cease their slanders and insinuations and come out with a direct statement that any man in the public life of this province today illegally received from the liquor dealers of St. John one cent and then they can be dealt with as such scoundrels deserve to be dealt with—in the criminal courts of the country.

Premier Clarke is not a man who will tolerate anything savouring of corruption on the part of his Government or any of his supporters. Mr. Carter and the Telegraph and Times well know the character of the Premier of this province, so all they have to do is to place in his possession any facts they may possess with the full knowledge that he will at once take action.

The campaign being conducted by Mr. Carter and the Telegraph and Times is the most scandalous ever carried on in any province in Canada. Articles of a most scurrilous character, have been prepared in this city and sent to Fredericton for publication in the columns of the Fredericton Mail. Some of the productions have eventually found their way into the columns of the Telegraph, others not even suitable for the Times and Times can substantiate their allegations it is their duty to come out with plain statements and take the responsibility for them. Continuance of present methods places them in the same class with German users of poisoned gas.

THE STRUGGLE IN THE EAST. It is the opinion of close and well qualified observers like J. L. Marvin, editor of the Fall Mall Gazette, that Germany expects to win or lose the war in the next few weeks or months and looking to that end she is making a master effort in the east. Mr. Marvin points out that her hope and purpose is to entrap the Russians by a swift movement of three armies under the generalship of Von Hindenburg, Von Mackensen and Von Buelow. These armies are widely separated, on the north, northeast and southeast of Warsaw. Their purpose is plain enough. It is to effect a junction a hundred miles and more east of Warsaw. If the movement be successful it would compel the withdrawal of Russia from Warsaw and from Poland, or, failing this, would result in the capture of perhaps a major part of the Russian army, which would be compelled to surrender because of the cutting of its line of communication.

Grand Duke Nicholas is faced with a stupendous responsibility. He may elect to defend his lines, of which Warsaw is the salient. In this event he will have to fight desperately upon all sides, but with the advantage of having his troops in close touch with each other, being divided into three separate armies, as are the Germans. He will have his communications more direct and shorter than at any time since the invasion of Galicia. Or he may choose to play the game that he followed with marked success in meeting the Austro-German drive to force him out of Galicia, that of withdrawing steadily and in good order as the need might demand rather than to risk a decisive battle at any point. As Mr. Marvin points out, the Russians can retreat for months, "steadily strengthening instead of weakening as they went backward, until they could turn with crushing strength when the Germans were farthest from their bases."

"It is reasonable to expect that the Russ will not take large chances. Lacking assurance that he can overcome his foes, the Bear will be content to wait a more convenient season. He has had sufficient warning to prevent any serious measure of envelopment, and with his railroads intact he will be able to move quickly to the rear once this appears to be desirable or necessary. The difficulties of the enemy will increase as they attempt to advance and meanwhile the summer is passing. It is a tremendous task that the Germans have set themselves, since they are attempting the risk that Grand Duke Nicholas will retreat as he did from Galicia. Unless they can accomplish something decisive before the era of bad roads and the approach of winter they will be confronted with the necessity of passing the winter in Russia, long distances from their own frontier. This of itself will be an exhausting process. The position will have to be maintained against an enemy who is closer than ever to his source of supplies, and who is able to employ the time in preparations that will bring him more nearly to even terms with the foe when the spring operations open. A feature of this situation will be the impossibility of Germany swinging large bodies of her troops over her strategic railways from the east to the west front and vice versa as the need arises. Germany's frontiers will have become dangerously wide apart, which should be to the great advantage of the allies."

In the meantime all eyes are on Russia. There is no need to lack confidence in the result of the mighty operations being carried out there. The people of Russia have been spurred by defeat to an awakened sense of the task ahead of them. The awakening is of great earnestness and must be a deciding factor in the struggle now being waged in the vicinity of Warsaw.

Held at Arm's Length

That's too far to hold your paper or book. It's as sure a sign that you need glasses as it is to hold what you read only a few inches from the eyes.

It amounts to much more than the inconvenience of holding things at arm's length. It means a constant strain on the eyes which, unless ended by properly fitted glasses, will result in serious sight troubles.

If you can't see best when your paper is about 15 inches from the eyes, come to Sharpe's and get a pair of glasses which will give you this normal sight. You need such glasses.

The American league has ruled that Ty Cobb will not be permitted to allow his name to be signed to those baseball articles after his contract with the syndicate expires in three weeks. This will deprive the Georgian Peach of his weekly thrill—reading the paper to see what he ought to think about the American league. It will also throw some good baseball writer out of a job as well.

MONTREAL'S TAX ARRANGEMENT
J. Hamilton Ferns sent copy of his report to local Board of Trade.

J. Hamilton Ferns, Chairman Board of Assessors, of Montreal, has sent the Board of Trade a copy of his assessment report for the present year. The value of taxable property for the year 1914, as returned by the assessors, is $635,283,376; value of exempted property $215,125,261—a total of $850,408,637. This is an increase over the previous year of $58,827,392. The estimated population of Montreal in 1914 was 620,000. Mr. Ferns incorporates in his report a sample land value map, together with the rule for determining the value of lots of a greater or lesser depth than 100 feet. He recommends the adoption of these land value maps. In order to give the public the fullest opportunity to inspect the assessment roll he suggests that the system be changed so that the taxes payable annually should be based on the valuation of the previous year. The suggested change, he says would enable a proprietor to know what his taxes were going to be for the ensuing year, before leaving his property.

JERE M'AUILLIFFE AND BIG MUSICAL COMPANY AT OPERA HOUSE
Old time St. John Favorite
Opens Here on Monday.

Jere McAuliffe, with Nance Shannon and the famous Horan Musical Revue, will open an engagement at the Opera House on Monday night presenting a continuous two hour program of music, comedy, classic and eccentric dancing, operatic numbers, comedy and dramatic playslets and the late popular songs of the day, all delightfully blended in a show in which there is not one dull moment from the rise of the first curtain until the last note is sung. There are 17 clever people with the company, mostly girls, all good singers and dancers. The company carries plenty of special scenery, beautiful costumes and elaborate electrical novelties. The principals are supported by a stringy chorus, full of life and "pep." Every girl a prize winner for youth, beauty and ability.

Seats are now on sale.

IMPORTANT LYRIC ANNOUNCEMENT
Departure from the usual programme next week—
An item of interest.

Somewhat of an innovation will be introduced at the Lyric theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when the management will specialize in an elaborate picture production of five parts. "On the Night's Stage" which serves to feature the famous dramatic star, Robert Edeson. This will be the first of the big picture specialties known as Mutual Master Pictures. It is a stirring story of wonderful merit enacted with force and skill. Mr. Edeson is supported by Miss Rhea Mitchell and Wm. S. Hart. One of the many wonderful scenes it contains is the fight, wherein over one hundred cowboys take part. The vaudeville attraction will be the knock-out comedy team, Brooks and Lorella. The price of admission will remain the same. Owing to the length of the program the evening performances will begin at 7:10. Special matinees every afternoon at 3 o'clock.

FUNERALS.
Bloomfield Station, July 22.—The funeral of Stanley Wetmore, son of O. A. Wetmore, of this place, took place on Friday, 16th. Service was held at his father's home. The remains were then taken to Christ church, where an impressive service was held, Rev. W. O. Raymond, St. John, assisted by Mr. Leatherborrow, officiating.

The esteem in which the deceased was held was shown by the number of beautiful floral offerings, among which was a beautiful wreath from the members of Happy Home Lodge, I. O. G. T., to which he belonged.

The pall bearers were Sterling Parlee, Ray Parlee, cousins of the deceased, and Kenneth Raymond and Lawson McVey.

The deepest sympathy of the community is extended to the entire family. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Wetmore, two brothers, Boyd A. and Frank O., at home; Mrs. F. W. Pickett, Boston; Miss Ada C. Wetmore, Mrs. Roy Raymond and Miss Julia P. Wetmore, of this place.

THE ISLAND OF GRAND MANAN NOTED FOR SCENIC SPLENDOR
An intimate story of the famous Island given in a recent issue of the Boston Globe—Fishing the Chief Industry.

The Boston Sunday Globe gives a full page of its issue of July 18 over to a description of the Island of Grand Manan. Four large illustrations are used and the article deals with the history as well as the present condition of the island. After reviewing the history and traditions of Grand Manan the Globe says:

It is not, however, to the student of history and myth that the island appeals today as much as to the lover of the beautiful and the grand, for in scenic splendor the climax of the Atlantic Coast is here reached.

One traveler has recently said that although the cliffs of Newfoundland and the Labrador are higher, they fall short in impressiveness of certain parts of Grand Manan.

Twenty miles from north to south, varying from four to eight miles from east to west, its whole western coast presents a seemingly unbroken wall of rock, varied in spots by a touch of green, where the hardy fir and spruce have gained a precarious foothold, yet with the summit rich with evergreen growth, a rare scene of mingled grimness and beauty.

But as one approaches the northern extremity from the west, headland after headland looms in turn from what before appeared impregnable cliff, like a succession of crouching monsters held in leash.

A portion of the eastern side is also rocky, ragged and pitted, but the greater part of the eastern coast on this side is in decided contrast with that of the western side.

Here are located the villages, five in number, North Head, Castalia, Woodwards Cove, Grand Harbor and Seal Cove.

Scattered along the eastern shore are numerous small islands, each with a name of its own, Nantucket, Lons Island, Ross Island, Cheynes Island, High Duck, Low Duck and others. The principal one of these islands is White Head, containing a fishing population sufficient to warrant a church, school and postoffice.

For two hours before and after low water it is possible to walk or drive across the bar connecting White Head with the main island. For the remaining 16 hours out of each 24 the inhabitants are shut off from communication with the main island except by boat—save for the telephone cable recently laid.

Wreckage—Straw Squally Point.
As the visitor to Grand Manan rounds the northern end of the island the deck of the steamer which runs from the main island for the remainder of a salubrious forgoth at Long Eddy Point. "The Whistle," as it is known to the people of the island, its peculiar note is characteristic and the moan of the whistle, with its dying accents, containing the coming and the going of the seafarer.

Just beyond The Whistle Squally Point looms up above the rock wreckage strewn about its foot, sharp as the prow of a cruiser, towering its hundreds of feet into the air, its red walls brilliant in the afternoon sun, seeming a sentinel standing constant guard over the waters that swirl around its base. "The Bishop" next comes into view, a detached rock at the base of a cliff, in which some have fancied a resemblance to the high church dignitary in his robes of office.

Just beyond the Bishop rises Ashburton Head, the scene of the two tragedies of the sea. Of these the better known is the loss of the ship Lord Ashburton on January 19, 1874. Of the crew of 29 men but eight were saved, three of these accomplishing the almost superhuman feat of climbing the nearly perpendicular cliff to the high land above.

Of the eight survivors one is still living, James Lawson, who, after more than five years spent in the hospital at St. John, returned to Grand Manan, and, crippled as he was by the loss of both feet through his terrible experience, learned the boatmaker's trade, married a Grand Manan girl, and is now spending his declining years in a comfortable home from whose windows he can look across the waters of Whale Cove and see, three miles distant, the very spot where nearly 60 years ago his ship and comrades met their fate and the cliff up which he climbed to safety.

A monument in the village cemetery at North Head, also looking across the cove to Ashburton Head, marks the burial place of the victims of the wreck and it is Mr. Lawson's wish that his final resting place shall be with the comrades of his early manhood from whose tragic fate he was spared.

Fishing the One Industry.
Only a few yards from the spot where the Lord Ashburton struck, the Sarah Sloane was dashed to pieces during a March gale in 1872. At 2 o'clock on March 12, Captain Sloane, master, with eight men aboard his vessel, left St. John harbor. At 6 o'clock the same day only one man was alive. Men and vessel were cut and ground to pieces by the merciless waves and cruel rocks. The fog whistle at Long Eddy Point, was erected as the result of this disaster.

Beyond Ashburton Head is a remarkable rock formation, called in the earlier days the "House of Cliffs," from the resemblance to masonry, but now more generally known as The Seven Days' Work. The strata stands out with wonderful distinctness, the cliff running perpendicular 200 feet into the air and stretching along the coast for a mile and half or more, while the presence of iron and copper ore gives an unusual play of color along its whole surface.

Swallowtail, with its lighthouse, next comes into view, the long promontory of rock taking its name from its shape as seen from the higher land where the rock juts out from the main island.

In a very few minutes the steamer is at her dock at North Head. Here is a very sizable settlement, with churches, schools, stores, postoffice, library and a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia. While catering to summer visitors is not a business of supreme importance to the residents of the village as a whole, the owners of some half-dozen or more places have seen the possibilities of profit, and in addition to the old hotel, recently opened, the visitor may find himself well cared for in the smaller cottages and remodelled homes of fishermen.

Fishing is the one industry at North Head, as it is at all the other villages of the island. Here the hake, had-dock, cod and pollock form the greater part of the catches, while farther down the island the catching and smoking of herring are the leading industries. The larger fish are caught, for the most part, by trawling, while the herring are seized from the weirs, in the winter lobstering takes its place as the most important industry, and between seasons handlining serves to fill in the working time of the year.

Loved by the Geologist.
The land birds include the gray and heron crane; gray, golden, dotterel, sand and little plover; ash-colored, purple, peacock curlew and little sandpiper; spotted gray and pied flycatcher; great-toed, three-toed, spotted and small woodpecker; hermit and American wood thrush; white-headed, orange-legged and sea eagles, in the same family the rock kite, falcon and hobby falcon; snow barn, gray, small screech, great and lesser horned owls; 60 varieties of warblers.

A son of the above mentioned Captain Moses resides at North Head, and has continued many of his father's studies of the ornithology of the island and a visit to the "Bird House," with its genial owner, is a treat which many a visitor to North Head recalls with keenest pleasure.

Geologically the island offers rare attraction to one whose tastes incline to that line of natural science. Fossils at Eel Brook's Work, of trap rock formation and the near Swallowtail, of basaltic columns at Southern Head, say nothing of the possibilities of geological study presented by the western coast or the porphyry, Jasper and agate pebbles of Whale Cove Beach—all these are powerful magnets to the devotee of the hammer and specimen bag.

Grand Manan is not a summer resort in the sense of being crowded with seekers after the pleasures of society. Dances, tea, musicals form no part of the life of the summer visitor to this island of the sea. A hundred or two genuine lovers of the sublime in nature come year after year and grow more devoted with each sojourn.

CAPT. DEFALLOT IN BANK HERE
Died as a result of wounds received in action at the Dardanelles.

Capt. Charles de Fallot of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who went with the first contingent as color sergeant in Capt. H. C. Sturdee's company, and was afterwards transferred to an English regiment, and sent to the Dardanelles, has died of wounds there. Capt. de Fallot was a graduate of the University of Toronto, a fine specimen of physical manhood and unmarried.

Mr. Hallamore, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, said he had mailed a letter to Capt. de Fallot.

Mr. Hallamore also said the deceased was about thirty years of age and had been in the St. John branch six months acting as discount clerk when the war broke out. Previous to that he had been in Montreal, Sherbrooke and Halifax, and had been also a naval instructor in the Japanese navy. He was an Englishman and one of the first to enlist in St. John. On the other side he gradually worked his way up, was transferred to the Royal North Lancashire Regiment and became a captain.

The day the war was declared Capt. de Fallot went to the front, and he would resign and go to the front, no matter what the bank did.

Two of the bank's accountants have since gone to the front.

POLICE COURT
Two men, arrested for fighting in Chesley street recently, were fined $20 or two months in jail in the Police Court yesterday.

John A. Pollock, arrested in Union street on charge of assaulting Walter Dunham, and also charged with violently resisting the police, was fined $20 or two months in jail for the first charge and $80 or ten months in jail for the second offence. The latter was allowed to stand against him pending his future conduct.

Claude Grant appeared to answer a charge of non-support. He pleaded not guilty and asked time to procure witnesses. The case was set for Monday morning. He was told that he would have to procure bail for $500 or else he would have to go to jail.

A man arrested a few days ago on a drunkenness charge was given another opportunity to take the pledge until after the war is over. He promised to go west with the first lot of harvesters.

Another man, arrested on a similar charge, was charged with an 188 standing against him.

Oscar Roberts, arrested a few days ago, charged with assaulting his wife, was allowed to go with a warning. He explained that he never would have struck his wife if he had not been drinking. He promised to take the pledge.

Mary Romley, who is charged with stabbing William Hanley with intent to kill, was brought in from jail while the evidence of a small boy, Walter Hayter, was being taken. He told of seeing a woman kick a man who was lying on the veranda of the Three Mile House. He was unable to identify her.

BASEBALL IN THE BIG LEAGUES

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburg 6, New York 1
New York, July 23—Pittsburg defeated New York in both sections of a double-header here today, the scores being 6 to 1 and 4 to 3. In the first game Pittsburg bunched four hits on Mathewson in the third inning and four more on Ritter in the fifth, scoring three runs in each case.

In the second game Tesreau had a bad start and a bad finish. He allowed two runs in the first inning, and then was almost invincible until the ninth, when with a one run lead, he permitted three bunched hits, giving Pittsburg two runs and the game. Catcher Doon of New York was ordered off the field in the second inning of the second game, and two innings later Empire Klein cleaned the entire Giant bench, chasing fourteen players. The score:

(First game)
Pittsburg 00203000—6 10 2
New York 10000000—1 9 1
Batteries—Adams and Schang; Mathewson, Ritter and Doon.

(Second game)
Pittsburg 20000002—4 8 1
New York 02001000—3 7 1
Batteries—Mannay, Cooper and Gibson; Schang, Tesreau and Meyers.

Brooklyn 9, St. Louis 7
Brooklyn, July 23—In a free hitting game that was full of loose holding on both sides, Brooklyn defeated St. Louis here today, 9 to 7. The score:

St. Louis 10013011—7 9 1
Brooklyn 06020010—9 11 1
Batteries—Doak, Nichols and Snyder; Dell, Appleton, Pfeffer and Miller.

Cincinnati 3, Philadelphia 2
Philadelphia, July 23—Bad work on the bases by both teams figured largely in the game which Cincinnati won from Philadelphia today, ten innings, 3 to 2. The score:

Cincinnati 00000002—3 9 1
Philadelphia 00000010—2 8 1
Batteries—Toney, Benton, Dale and Clarke; Chalmers, Baumgartner, Rixey and Kihlfer.

Boston 2, Chicago 1
Boston, July 23—Boston defeated Chicago, 2 to 1, in an eleven-inning game today. Singles by Maceo and Schmidt, a sacrifice by Smith, followed by Maranville's hit put the winning run across during the final inning. The score:

Chicago 00000100—1 6 0
Boston 00000100—2 7 2
Batteries—Vaughan and Bresnahan; Tyler and Whaling.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Chicago 3, New York 2
Chicago, July 23—Chicago made it three straight from New York today, when they won, 3 to 2. The score:

New York 00000011—2 6 1
Chicago 01100001—3 8 1
Batteries—Warhop, Donovan and Sweeney; Clotte and Mayer.

Cleveland 11, Philadelphia 3
Cleveland, July 23—Cleveland defeated Philadelphia, 11 to 3 today. Dressler and Pepper being wild and ineffective, Mitchell was effective with men on bases. Careless base running held Cleveland's score down. The score:

Philadelphia 01000200—3 8 1
Cleveland 20410100—11 13 2
Batteries—Dressler, Pepper and Lapp; Mitchell and O'Neill.

Detroit 2, Washington 1
Detroit, July 23—Holding Washington to three hits, Coeleskie outpitched Gallia and Ayres today and won for Detroit, 2 to 1. The score:

Washington 00000100—1 2 0
Detroit 00020000—2 7 0
Batteries—Gallia, Ayres and Henry; Coeleskie and Starnes.

Boston 8, St. Louis 3
St. Louis, July 23—Boston today defeated St. Louis, 8 to 3. Lowdermilk who started and Leverniz who finished for St. Louis, were wild and were hit hard with men on bases. Leonard who started for Boston, was hit on the knee while at bat in the fourth and

WILSON AND TAFT SIMILAR IN THEIR CHOICE OF SPORTS

One of these days some one will write of the sports and recreations of our President. Their various biographers are silent in most instances, whether from a lack of information or because most of our rulers were not athletically inclined, is a moot point.

In fact there are only four that were genuine sportsmen as we know the term. Cleveland was famous as a fisherman and gunner, and whenever the opportunity presented itself he took numerous fishing and gunning trips. Every one who has heard of the famous tennis cabinet of Roosevelt, in his college days the colonel was a boxer of no mean caliber, but as President we remember him best as a tennis enthusiast.

Fond of Two Sports.
Taft and Wilson are not only baseball fans, but golfers as well. The former was the chief executive who made golf popular with thousands of Americans who hitherto showed little or no interest in the game which now claims a half million enthusiastic devotees in this country. As a golfer there seems little doubt that he is the superior of his successor, although the two have never played together over the links.

That secret service men were assigned to guard him, proved annoying to Mr. Taft, but he had to submit to it good naturedly. At Chevy Chase, where he did most of his playing while President, the usual custom was that no players were allowed within two holes of the Presidential party. It had the courtesy of the links, and Mr. Taft never abused it, for he confined his playing to days when the grand majority of the players was absent from the links. Nowadays he is just an ordinary golfer, with no special privileges, and unquestionably he gets more pleasure out of the game under present conditions than when he was President.

It is hard to get a critical analysis of Mr. Wilson's golf. But as evidenced, Gregg replaced him but in turn was replaced by Collins after passing three of the four men who faced him. After the fifth Collins allowed St. Louis one hit. The score: Boston 102011210—8 9 1
St. Louis 00201000—3 7 1
Batteries—Leonard, Gregg, Collins and Carrigan; Lowdermilk, Leverniz and Severitt, Amswe.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE BASEBALL

ST. PETER'S LEAGUE

Maples, 8; Roses, 4
Last evening in the St. Peter's Y. M. League the Maples won from the Roses by a score of 6 to 4 in five innings. The batteries were McKenzie and McGowan for the winners, Harrington and Sharkey for the losers.

SOUTH END LEAGUE

Victorias, 9; Curlews, 2
Considerable excitement prevailed last night on the Barrack Green when the Victorias defeated the Curlews by the score of 9 to 2. The Victorias had the Curlews shut out until the last of the 7th inning. There were some brilliant catches by the fielders on both sides, particularly Mesivern, McDow-an and Killen.

Score by innings:
Victorias 3301200—9
Curlews 0000000—2
Monday night—Tartars vs. Lanlicks.

EAST END LEAGUE

Commercials, 5; Alerts, 5
In the East End League series last evening the Commercials and Alerts played seven innings to a tie, each team making five runs. The game was played on a time limit. The Alerts had the last half of the seventh with the score 5 to 3 against them, they made two runs with no person out when the time was up, and the contest was called a tie. DOINGS AND SAYINGS OF LATE TIM HURST

Tim Hurst, in his merriest day, was fond of conversing with the baitmen and the catchers, and many a time the crowd in the stands surged and boiled, imagining that Tim was handing out rufe, raw decisions, and that violent kicking was going on, when, as a fact, the conversation at the plate wasn't even baseball—the major part of it—therefore, there would be much laughter by Hurst and the players when they got together. A talk-fest like this would go about in this manner:

Mr. Hurst—Wan bahl.
The Catcher—See that 'good-lookin' one in Box 26, the one with one red hat, Tim? She come here just to see me.
The Batter—Get out? If she did it's because she looks dumb an' awful.
Mr. Hurst—His got you that time, Jimmy.
The Crowd—Robber, robber! Aw, give us a square deal!
Mr. Hurst—Wan sturkie!
The Batter—Was you up to the Zoo Sunday, Tim?
Mr. Hurst—I were not, Why?
The Batter—I thought not. Your cage was empty.
The Catcher—Haw-haw, ho-ho, whoops!
Mr. Hurst—Fow-ull bahl, Jimmy, was you at th' meetin' av th' Ancient Order uv Hibernians las' night? I were unable to be prisnt.
The Catcher—I was there. 'Twere a right enjoyable meetin'.
The Crowd—Horse-thief! Doormat! Grabber! Soak him!
Mr. Hurst—Two bahl. Tell me, Jimmy, what did they do wit' Raffery's application for mimbbershp?
The Catcher—Aw, they blackballed him.
Mr. Hurst—Two stur-rikes. Blackballed him, heh? Ah, too bad—it's a shame Raffery has so many inimies.
But tell me—were there many black balls cast agin him?
The Batter—Watch me bust into your old order, Tim. Betcha I get everybody's ballot. I'm some popular.
Mr. Hurst—Three bahl. Popular among woodchucks an' little monkeys, ye are, Jimmy. I asked ye, were there many black balls cast agin Raffery?
The Crowd—Aw, nall him with a bottle! Thief! Highbinder! Burglar!
Mr. Hurst—Were there many, asks you. Great herrings, Tim, we'd a thought somebody'd turn a fistful uv hectorie in th' ballot box!
The Bat—Bamm!
Mr. Hurst—Fair bahl!
The Crowd—Good thing for you he hit that one! 'Bout one more rotten decision an' we'd have down there an' got yah!

White Sox protested on a strike called by Tim.
"You're blind, Tim," yelled O'Neill. "According to the batting averages I am not the only one," retorted Tim. And when O'Neill became more vehement, Tim quietly whispered to the plate player:
"Take a bit of advice, me boy, don't get yourself put out of the game, for if you do, Commy will put in Pat Dougherty and you wouldn't have any more job than a man peddling ulsters in hades."

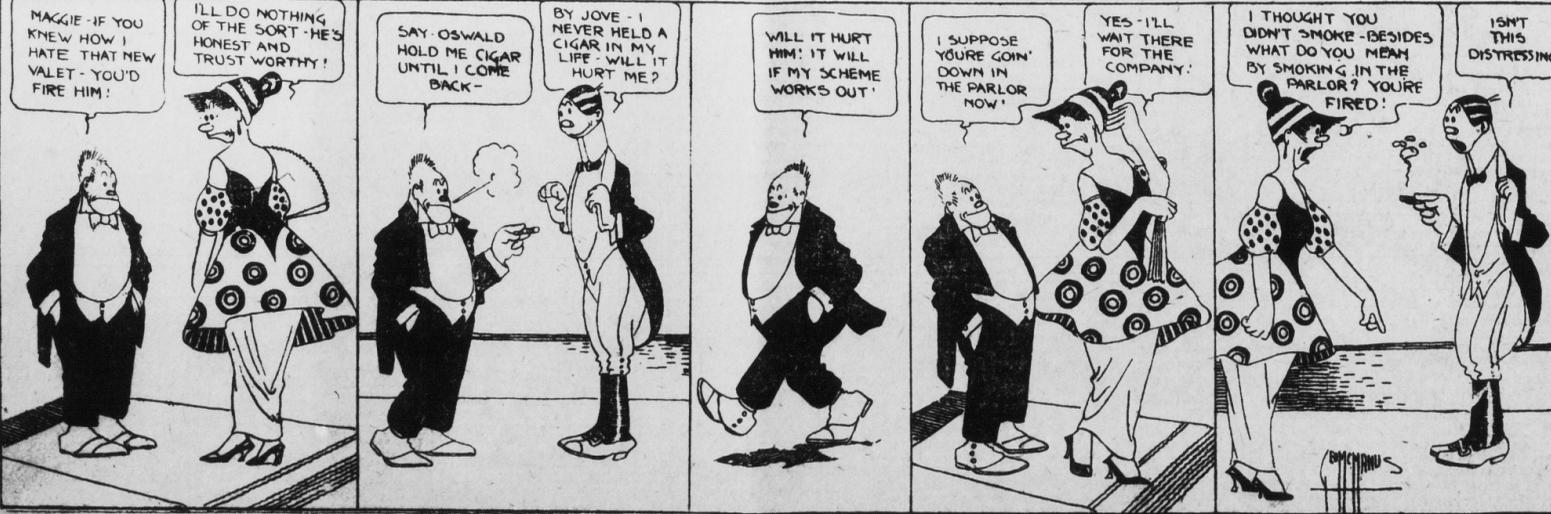

In 1907 nearly every pitcher was using the spitball delivery, or bluffing it. This fact caused the games to drag. President Johnson, peeved because it was taking over two hours to play every game, wrote his umpires for suggestions as to methods which might be used in shortening the contests. Most of the umpires replied at length, but Tim's answer was short and to the point. It read:
"Dear Ban: If you are really in earnest about shortening the games, try seven innings."

New York, July 23—The market which was irregular nearly all day, became firm at the close, its increase of strength being rather remarkable in view of the expectation that the President's note which will appear in the morning's papers, has abated nothing of the original demands on Germany.

THERE IS SCENERY IN THIS OLD PROVINCE MORE PICTURESQUE THAN MOST OF OUR PEOPLE KNOW

SEEING NEW BRUNSWICK FIRST, SHOULD BE THE MOTTO OF EVERY HOLIDAY SEEKER

Take a Trip Down the Fundy Coast to Grand Manan, Pay Your Respects to Grand Falls, and Do Not Leave Out the Falls of the Nepisiguit—No Disappointment Anywhere.

THE NEPISIGUIT FALLS

Have you ever seen the Grand Falls of the Nepisiguit? What do you know about the towering cliffs of Grand Manan? How many of you New Brunswickers have visited Grand Falls? There are three "Grands" worthy of their names, but most of us, in search of scenery, or of entertainment, have acquired the habit of looking outside our own province.

What proportion of our people have any idea of the beauties of the St. John valley above Fredericton? Are there any of us who, in the holiday season decide in favor of the Albert county shores as opposed to the Annapolis valley, the Bras d'Or lakes, or some of those other much advertised resorts?

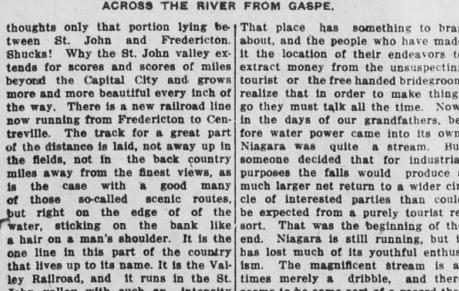

Coming right down to brass tacks, to what number of St. John people are the shaggy cliffs of the Fundy shore a familiar sight? And these are within a few miles of our homes, within an hour's motor ride, even within a pleasant afternoon's walk.

Some of these days the people of this province are going to wake up to a proper realization of the fact that right here at home they have a country which for scenic beauty cannot be touched in all America. When that time comes there will be such a revolution in the tourist trade that the Intercolonial, the C. P. R., the various branch lines and other transportation concerns will think the millennium of common carriers has come. It has become proverbial to speak of other and outside places as of surpassing beauty. The Annapolis valley is a pretty spot. It is favored by a reasonably large proportion of brides. But in its loveliest days that far famed section of our sister province never could hold a candle to the valley of the St. John. We in this city, in talking of the St. John valley, have the habit of including in our thoughts only that portion lying between St. John and Fredericton. Shucks! Why the St. John valley extends for scores and scores of miles beyond the Capital City and grows more and more beautiful every inch of the way. There is a new railroad line now running from Fredericton to Centreville. The track for a great part of the distance is laid, not way up in the fields, not in the back country miles away from the finest views, as is the case with a good many of those so-called scenic routes, but right on the edge of the water, sticking on the bank like a hair on a man's shoulder. It is the one line in this part of the country that lives up to its name. It is the Valley Railroad, and it runs in the St. John valley that any variation from the appointed course may be regarded as an unpardonable sin. And mile after mile, as the train creeps along this wonderful waterway there unfolds to the seeing eye such diversified splendors as make the route what it must soon become to all lovers of beauty. The Scenic Road of the Maritime Provinces. Twisting and turning as it follows the course of the river, this new line of travel compels attention for every moment of the journey, until one acquires a stiff neck and partial dislocation of the shoulders, through trying to look out both windows at the same time. If you haven't been over this line, go right away. It is beautiful.

One might make a safe bet that there are in this province one hundred persons who have visited Niagara for every one who has been to Grand Falls on a pleasure trip. Why? Did you ever eat a duck's egg? No? Why not? Are not ducks' eggs good to eat? Of course. Why hens' eggs? The answer is easy. You know something about hens' eggs. No hen ever laid an egg without advertising the fact to all the world within sound of her voice. But you never heard a duck utter a single quack in explanation of the fact that she had dropped an egg and that it was a good one. The hen is the greatest advertiser in the world, and the duck is one of the poorest. Everyone eats hens' eggs, but no one eats ducks'. And they are good eggs, too. It is the same way with Niagara.

TYPICAL COVE ON FUNDY SHORES

er may be seen descending over a series of cascades and rapids which abruptly cease and give place, one thousand feet below the falls, to comparatively calm waters which continue down the curving gorge to where it joins what is claimed to have been the original channel of the St. John. Where this marked change in the character of the river bottom commences, there is also a change in the character of the slopes bounding the gorge. Above, the walls are nearly vertical, but below they are much more rolling and in a general way are similar to those bounding the river above the falls. Never been there yet? Well, why don't you go?

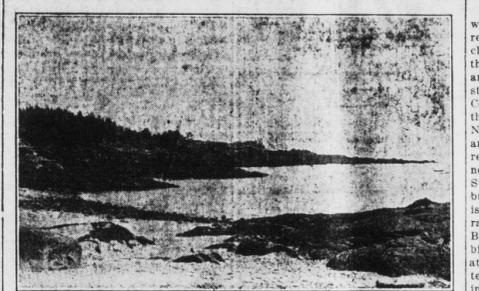

Now a little while ago something was said about the Grand Falls of the Nepisiguit. Only a few people who have had to do with the Bathurst Iron Mines, an occasional group of sportsmen, and perhaps a few dozen stray wanderers, know anything about this place. Why even the advertising department of the Intercolonial has never had this wonderful spot photographed. Of course the falls are not on the line of the I. C. R., but they are near enough to make the place an attraction if it were properly handled. Niagara is immense, Grand Falls is a star performer, but for pure and undiluted extract of concentrated beauty, the Nepisiguit for mine every time. The falls are much smaller than up the St. John river, but because of this smallness you can see practically the whole thing at once and do not have to tramp about the country looking for advantageous viewpoints. The Nepisiguit river—though it is sacrilege in this part of the country to say so—could, for a good portion of its distance, give clubs and spades to the St. John when it comes to looks, and at the spot where it decides to slip over the rocks, even Niagara would have to take a back seat. This Nepisiguit proposition is a doubtful one. The river, approaching the gorge, evidently is not quite certain in its own mind as to the proper course to pursue. It begins by feeling its way over a somewhat insignificant bit of rapids, but finding the sensation pleas-must bring delight to all who love nature at its best. Above Grand Falls the St. John river diverges from its general southerly course and swings easterly in a semi-circle. In this somewhat abrupt bend the waters pour over a vertical fall of about sixty feet and in the deep canon they descend in a series of cascades and rapids a further distance of fifty-five feet, the total drop in this part of the river being one hundred and fifteen feet. Above the falls, Little River, a stream of no mean consequence, empties into the St. John, adding its waters to the volume making up this greatest of New Brunswick's attractions. From the bridge over the St. John a splendid view is obtained of the falls at the head of the rockbound gorge. At the edge of this gorge the walls rise to a height of one hundred and sixty feet. Upstream the nearly perpendicular walls are even higher. Looking up the river from the quiet waters the riverable, decides to take a really definite step. This it does, with a gasp, and after a very brief pause for breath it moves along and does the same thing over again. Thus in a series of three jumps the Nepisiguit manages a drop of some seventy-five feet, tumbling all over itself in such a narrow gorge that the volume of water so confined makes the fall look much greater than it really is. The banks are sheer. Solid rock rises to a height of one hundred and twenty-five feet and in those sharp bends where, in the shadow of the overhanging cliffs the sun never shines, there are to be seen for the year round the eternal snows, covered in places with pulpwood dropped from the banks above, or patches of earth from the disintegration by spring freshets. They say—the people who live in that part of the country—that the falls disappear in the spring when the volume of water in the Nepisiguit swells to such an extent that it flows to the tops of the banks, and folks who are not too fussy about life and death can sail across what a month later is a sure enough canyon. After looking at this chasm it is hard to believe these stories. But they may be true. Anything almost might happen at a place like that, for certainly the fact that such a spot exists beyond the general scene of tourist knowledge is sufficient justification for almost anything that may be said about it. See Niagara and come home broke. See Grand Falls as a matter of provincial duty. And when you have tired looking at these places take a trip to Bathurst, branch off at Nepisiguit Junction, go by trolley or drive to Bathurst Iron Mines and have a look at the finest bit of scenery in Eastern Canada, bar none, the Grand Falls of the Nepisiguit river.

An old gentleman who was once connected with the press of St. John and who now, at an advanced age, is living quietly up river, once wrote these lines:

We have watched the stars for hundreds of years. And we are as young today as when, untroubled by doubts or fears, Champlain sailed up the Bay.

The Intercolonial Railway has asked The Standard to print the following article, written by a man who has visited this section of the country for a great many years:

BAKER'S HOTEL, GASPE.

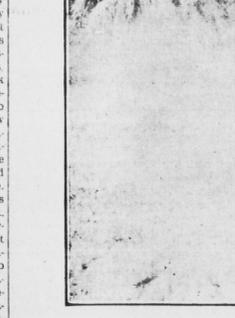

THE INTERCOLONIAL ALSO LIKES TO TALK ABOUT THE BEAUTIES OF GASPE COAST

GORGE BELOW NEPISIGUIT FALLS

will drop into their own. Then the Hopewell Rocks will be something more than pictures in tourist association booklets or on postcards labeled "The Rocks near Moncton" and the quiet beauties of the coast—not the feminine kind—will compel those branch roads to make at least one trip a week through the summer months whether it is raining or not.

But what's the use? A person can go to any part of this old province and fall over such scenery as can be equalled in no other section of the Dominion, scenery that is scarcely known to any others than those who live alongside of it and who, by reason of the location of their residences have. It is the same all along the north shore, from Shediac to Campbellton and back again. It is simply great around Woodstock, through Queens and Sunbury, and anywhere you like to go. The person who sets out to find beautiful places will find them. The one who keeps his eyes on the far distance misses all that is offered to him at home.

Then why go west, east, south? Why not try your own province for a change and have a look at some of those wonderful places so easy to reach that your ordinary church collection would pay the cost of the trip? Be like Charity. Begin at home.

And That Trip, by Boat or Rail, is Well Worth Taking—The New Valley Line from Fredericton to Centreville Opens to the Tourist One of the Loveliest Bits of Country in All America.

The Passenger Department of the Intercolonial Railway, entitled "La Baie de Chaleurs" recalls many interesting days passed in that region, when it was not so easily reached as now. A chance meeting on a train of the I. C. R. took one to Dalhousie, N. B., and from there to Gaspé Basin, on the old steamer Admiral, which for many years, with the exception of the Miramichi, direct from Montreal, was the only means of reaching that out-of-the-way corner of the world. At that time, except to a few who had interests there, Gaspé was practically unknown, and as thrilling stories had recently appeared of the wreck and sufferings of fishermen, and starvation during a hard winter, it was thought of in connection with the Labrador and the frozen seas.

The Admiral was a staunch old craft, formerly used as a despatch boat by the U. S. Government, and her outfit of china, which would be priceless now to collectors, was specially provided for the use of President Grant on a trip he made to the West Indies and the Spanish Main. Subsequently she plied out of Ogdensburg, and was then put on the Gaspé route, for which she was specially sited, in peddling a cargo to the numerous small ports along the north shore of the Baie de Chaleur. She was owned by the Connollys of Quebec. "Mick and Nick," they were familiarly known in connection with scandals which filled the papers a quarter of a century ago. A staunch old sea-dog, Captain Dugol, commanded the Admiral, and it was a pleasure to chat with him on the leisurely trips, of his experience in many years' use of the sea. She ended her days as a ferry across the St. Lawrence to Murray Bay, where she was burned to the water's edge.

As most people saw it, the journey down the Baie de Chaleur was a lady's trip, one seldom had any rough weather, and globe-trotters said it resembled much the fugged coast of Norway. Almost everything the inhabitants used came down on the Admiral and the landing of freight and passengers into small boats or scows, for there were few wharves, never failed to excite curiosity, and interest. It was a country of fish, and the table

CO-ED WHO EXCELS AT POLE VAULTING

MISS PAULINE SIEBENTHAL

In making a leap of six feet one inch in the pole vault event at Indianapolis recently Miss Pauline Siebenthal, a co-ed of Indiana University, bettered the record for women, the best previous mark being five inches below this figure. The girl athlete is confident that she can better her record breaking performance. She is being coached by Childs, the one-time Yale star.

Theatre, London, under royal patronage for the Girl Guides of which Miss Helen Powell is the president, and the Canadian Red Cross, of which Colonel Hodgkiss is commissioner, Major Fred McKeen and Capt. David B. Pidgeon rendered several selections and received flattering mention in several English papers.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dodd (Montreal), are receiving congratulations on the arrival on Wednesday, July 21st, of a little stranger, a daughter. Mrs. Dodd is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kimball, Carleton street.

Mrs. George Donald, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. John B. Macgee, returned to her home (Minneapolis), last week.

Hon. J. H. Barry and Mrs. Barry of Fredericton, were guests at the Royal this week.

A cable has been received that the Horse Artillery from Kingston, (Ont.), Colonel Norman Leslie, has come to the front. The artillery has been in England since the war began. Colonel Leslie is a son-in-law of Mrs. James Dever. Mrs. Leslie is in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mullin entertained most delightfully at a dance in honor of Miss Gertrude deBruy and her fiance, Mr. Skelton, of Montreal, at their summer residence, Woodman's Point, on Thursday evening. The pretty cottage had been lavishly decorated with greenings and flags, and the spacious verandahs were festooned with flags and Chinese lanterns. The grounds were illuminated with variegated lanterns and presented a fairy-like appearance. The delightful music was provided by accordions and violins. The guests were principally from Westfield and Woodman's Point.

Mr. James Manchester entertained the directors of the Bank of Nova Scotia and other prominent citizens at dinner at the Union Club on Tuesday evening. The guests were President Mr. Payzant and Vice President Mr. Archibald, (Halifax), Mr. Hector McInnes, general solicitor, (Halifax), Mr. J. Walter Allison, Mr. George S. Campbell, Mr. W. D. Ross, Mr. H. A. Richardson, (Toronto), Mr. W. P. Hunt, Mr. R. G. Wallace, Senator Thorne, Mr. W. Malcolm Mackay, Mr. John E. Moore, Mr. L. R. Taylor, Mr. George McAvity, Mr. R. B. Emerson, Mr. A. P. Barnhill and Mr. D. Walker, (Montreal).

A genuine surprise party was given Miss Fay Scribner at her summer cottage (Ketepec) on Tuesday evening in honor of her birthday. Miss Scribner was the recipient from a number of the guests present of a magnificent bouquet also many pretty gifts. During the evening dancing was indulged in by the merry party. Amongst the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Miss Blanche, Miss Drinan, Miss Connolly, Miss Jones, Miss Seaton, the Misses Blizog, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ketchum, Mr. Bonnell, Mr. Sutton, Mr. McVey, Mr. Holder, Mr. McFarlane, Mr. Dunlop, Mr. Flowers, Mr. Cromwell, Mr. Stephenson and others.

Mrs. George K. McLeod entertained at dinner at the Cliff Club on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Polly and son have moved to Riverdale, where they will reside permanently.

A large number attended the tea given by the Douglas Avenue Soldiers' Comfort Branch at the Bungalow yesterday afternoon.

At a concert given in the Queen's rooms for Wednesday, July 28 next, afternoon and evening for a patriotic tea and flower sale. If the weather is unfavorable it will be held on Thursday. Delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cake and tea will be served for twenty-five cents, also lemonade. The Westfield ladies are doing all they can to make this tea and sale a success. Trains leave the city at 1.10, 6.05 and 6.10, returning at 3 p. m. and 9 p. m. The Chimney Corner is well known by automobilists who will no doubt take advantage of the pleasant drive to Westfield on Wednesday and thus help a worthy cause.

Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, of Bermuda will receive many congratulations from friends in St. John on the arrival at their home on Thursday, July 22nd, of a little stranger—a daughter.

Mrs. A. C. L. Tapley and children, Halifax, arrived in the city on Wednesday and are guests of Mrs. Tapley's mother, Mrs. Estabrooks, Elliot Row.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Rising, Hon. J. G. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Allan, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tennant, Misses Tennant and Tennant and Miss Maud Tennant of New York, left this week for a week's fishing at the South Branch Club, Oromocto.

Miss Homer is a guest at Spruce Lodge, Sussex for a few weeks.

It will be of much interest to many friends in this city to hear of the promotion and honor conferred upon Captain Marshall, who went to the front with the first contingent, as Major, second in command of the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, and who was slightly wounded in the terrific fighting around St. Julien. Since then he has been promoted to the field, a Colonel, and is now in command of the 48th Highlanders, and was also one of the Canadians to be recommended by Sir John French for the D. S. O. Medal. Colonel Marshall will be remembered to have been in our city during Colonel Holt White's time.

Through the courtesy of Mr. G. A. Margetta, manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, a large number of ladies and gentlemen were allowed the privilege of witnessing on Monday evening, at the Imperial Theatre, after the last performance, a private exhibition of the Company's first release of a special production entitled "Sandal." The play was beautifully staged and the actresses and actors perfect. The theme as its title deals with the evils of idleness and shows how from a mere act of prudence circumstantial evidence was so woven round that several happy homes had been wrecked. It is a very strong and interesting play, and will no doubt draw the lowest scores. A special match was also played, the winner being Miss Edith Dalling.

Miss Frances Travers left on Thursday for Chatham where she will be the guest of Mrs. Neal.

Mrs. John Lawrence and Miss Alice Hea left on Friday evening for Upper Canada, having been called there by the sudden death of their aunt, Mrs. Hea.

Mrs. John McMillan and little niece Miss Mary Murray, are visiting at the "Inch Arran," Dalhousie. Mrs. Heber Vroom, who accompanied her mother to Dalhousie and visited for two weeks returned home this week.

Many ladies and gentlemen from the city attended the dance held at The Manor House on Tuesday and Friday evenings of this week. These dances are proving most popular.

Miss Mary McLaren returned home from her very pleasant visit at Summerside, P. E. I.

Mrs. Frederick Estey left on Tuesday for a visit to her sister, Mrs. Clarence Knapp, Sackville, and on her return will visit her sister, Frederick Emerson, Moncton for a few days.

Miss Nita Carrite returned last week from Toronto and will spend the summer with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson, who were spending a few days at Hampton, guests of Mrs. Smith, a sister of Mrs. Anderson, returned home this week and will leave on Monday on a trip to Prince Edward Island.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Flood, of Ottawa, arrived in the city on Monday. Mrs. Flood expects to remain in the city a few weeks.

WESTFIELD BEACH

Westfield Beach, July 22.—The finer weather of the last few days has brought many auto parties to Westfield and vicinity. A goodly number of these make it a point to call at the "Chimney Corner" to see the park and the delicious refreshments which are served here, and enjoy one of the most beautiful views of the river. Many from here are today attending the merchants' picnic at Crystal Beach which has been made possible by the splendid ferry service run by the Geneva running from the picnic grounds to the wharf on this side of the river.

On Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Sinclair an inclusive recital was given by Miss Ruth Van Buren, assisted by local talent, in aid of the Soldiers' Comforts. The program consisted of songs and cantatas which were well and good sung and added to the funds. Miss Van Buren is a graduate of the Boston School of Oratory and won fresh laurels on this occasion. She also gave a recital in the Methodist church here a few weeks ago.

A delegation from here went to Brown's Plains on Tuesday to attend a special meeting there in connection with the Westfield circuit of the Methodist church. Among those who went were Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Machum, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. James Baxter, Mr. S. V. Prime, Mr. Barrackough (St. John), and Rev. Mr. Steel (St. John). The trip was made in Mr. E. R. Machum's and Mr. W. S. Stephenson's autos.

By the Victoria on Monday Mr. and Mrs. Cruikshank moved from Fredericton to their new summer cottage at the station.

Mr. Sorrell of Newbon, (Mass.), has arrived to spend some weeks with Mrs. Sorrell, who has been at Woodman's Point for some time.

Mr. Hawkins of Fredericton spent the week-end with friends summering at Sand Point.

Quite a number from here attended the blueberry picnic at Westford on Monday.

Miss Helen Leah Reed, Miss Thompson and Miss Mahon all of Boston, are guests of Mr. R. M. Burden, Lonestar Farm.

Mr. J. M. Bates of St. John is spending a few days here this week.

Mrs. Edward Stephenson is visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Jones, Sackville.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Slipp are entertaining Miss Stella Sherman and Mr. Jack Edgcombe, of Fredericton at their summer cottage, Sand Point.

Miss Isabelle Bliss of Fredericton is the guest of Mrs. Ross Thompson at Sand Point.

Miss Ella Smith of Montreal is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Willard Smith at Hillandale.

Miss Bulyea who has been visiting Mrs. Elizabeth Bliss of Fredericton, has returned to Gasquetown.

Mr. R. B. Green is spending his vacation at his home in Digby, N. S.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker H. Currier of Upper Gasquetown have been recent guests of Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Casman.

Miss Isabelle Bliss of Fredericton, nurse of Boston, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stephenson.

Mr. Bennie Smith was a few days guest last week of his sister, Mrs. E. R. Machum.

Mr. C. E. L. Jarvis has returned from his vacation at his home here, and his many friends wish for his return to Gasquetown.

Mrs. Clarence Sharp of Montreal is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. R. McIntosh.

Mrs. Leach of St. John has been spending a week with Miss Mackay.

Mr. A. W. Amherst of the Bank of Nova Scotia, is the guest of Mrs. C. H. Hutchings over the week-end, and assisted the Methodist choir on Sunday morning.

Rev. C. W. Nichols conducted two open-air services on Sunday, in the morning at Sand Point, and at Mr. Jarvis' beach in the afternoon.

Mr. H. O. Bonk of the St. John Y. M. C. A., is the guest of friends here today.

Mr. J. E. Belyea is spending a month's vacation at his home here.

Mr. Willard Smith has returned from her visit to the United States.

Nestling at the foot of the harbor, and overlooking the land-locked Basin, from which it took its name, was the picturesque village, with only a few inhabitants, but with a hotel, "Baker's," which was beloved of the few travellers who knew it, for its hearty welcome and excellent table.

In after years we got to know it well and found it a veritable paradise, wherein to loaf and enjoy one's soul.

And the fishing! It was not permitted to every one to enjoy the killing of a salmon in either of the three lordly rivers—the St. John, York and Dartmouth—which mingle their waters with those of the Bay at this point, but the writer was fortunate enough to catch big fish in each of them. Trout fishing, however, such as comes to the lot of a very limited number of Walton's disciples, was to be had in tide-water without let or hindrance, and one remembers the huge sea trout, up to six or seven pounds each, their silvery sides gleaming in the sunlight as they kicked on the gravel beaches after a struggle which taxed all the skill and patience of the angler, and tried his tackle to the utmost.

It is easier to get to Gaspe Basin than it used to be. There is still a steamer on the outside route from Montreal, and possibly one down the bay from Campbellton, but as we learn from the I. C. R. pamphlet, the dream of years has at last become a fact. The Quebec Oriental from Campbellton to New Carlisle and the Quebec, Atlantic & Western from there to Gaspe along the shore all the way and a lovely scenic route every mile of it.

Chignecto Ship Railway. Newspaper readers will remember the many references in the press some years ago to A. D. Provand, of Edinburgh, who crossed the ocean over and over again to press the claims of a Scottish company which had undertaken and scenic beauty to build the Chignecto Ship Railway. Parliament failed to do anything for the company, which had spent three or four million dollars on the project. Cable messages now report Mr. Provand's death at Edinburgh, in his 74th year. Mr. Provand was well known in Amherst and Sackville.

of the Admiral, looked after by the capable steward, O. Lerol, who was a brother of the late Henry King of Cornwall, was always supplied with the very freshest cod and mackerel and lobster, not to speak of delicious trout and salmon.

Some of the finest salmon rivers in the world empty into the Basin de Chalour and early in the summer, one usually had as fellow-passengers wealthy Americans or Englishmen going down to enjoy what has been called the sport of kings.

One recalls the world-famed Perce Rock, populated by thousands of gulls, gannets and cormorants, and as the afternoon wore on, these were seen winging their way to their lofty shelter, and one heard the music of their cries in every phase of bird language.

The end of a day of delight brought one into the wonderful harbor of Gaspe, in which all the vessels of the world could ride at anchor, and which last autumn was the rendezvous of the armada which took the first Canadian Contingent across the Atlantic.

Nestling at the foot of the harbor, and overlooking the land-locked Basin, from which it took its name, was the picturesque village, with only a few inhabitants, but with a hotel, "Baker's," which was beloved of the few travellers who knew it, for its hearty welcome and excellent table.

In after years we got to know it well and found it a veritable paradise, wherein to loaf and enjoy one's soul.

And the fishing! It was not permitted to every one to enjoy the killing of a salmon in either of the three lordly rivers—the St. John, York and Dartmouth—which mingle their waters with those of the Bay at this point, but the writer was fortunate enough to catch big fish in each of them. Trout fishing, however, such as comes to the lot of a very limited number of Walton's disciples, was to be had in tide-water without let or hindrance, and one remembers the huge sea trout, up to six or seven pounds each, their silvery sides gleaming in the sunlight as they kicked on the gravel beaches after a struggle which taxed all the skill and patience of the angler, and tried his tackle to the utmost.

DORCHESTER

Dorchester, July 21.—Lieut. William A. Landry, son of His Honor Judge P. A. Landry, has received a commission with a battery now being mobilized at Sewell Camp, near Winalpoc, and leaves on Thursday for that place to join his battery. Shortly after the war broke out Lieut. Landry resigned a splendid position in the west and came home to enlist. He joined the 24th battery at Fredericton, which is now on the firing line. After drilling for three months as a private, he was transferred from the battery to Kingston, where he took an artillery course, qualifying as a lieutenant and making a splendid average. Lieut. Landry has many friends here who wish him all possible success and a safe return.

The death of Mrs. Hannah Thomas, widow of Benjamin Thomas, late of South Bay, N. B., and mother of Rev. B. H. Thomas, Protestant chaplain of the Dorchester penitentiary, occurred on Monday morning at the chaplain's residence. She passed away on November 26th, 1888, and was eighty-seven years of age. Death resulted from breakdown, due to extreme old age. One daughter, Mrs. D. W. Warner, of Marborough, Mass., and one son, Rev. B. H. Thomas, survive.

There are no surviving brothers or sisters. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The service was conducted at the son's residence by the Rev. W. H. Freda, pastor of the First Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Thomas and family have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

The Misses Valerie and H. Montzambert, of Amherst, are the guests of Miss Margaret Teed.

Reliable Recipes

Stewed Peas

Put large hard peas into a stew-pan with cold water to cover them; boil till they begin to soften; put into cold water for a few minutes, then drain, leave little lumps of peas on the cores; allow six ounces of sugar to each pound of peas (add what flavoring you like), boil into a syrup with a little water, add the peas and simmer until they are quite tender.

Veal Pie

After lining the pie plate with crust, take two pounds of veal cutlet and cut into squares, dust each piece with pepper, salt and powdered herbs, place them in the pie dish in layers and put four strips of thin slices of butter on top. Next take one cup of veal stock or white stock, thicken it slightly with a little butter and flour rubbed to a cream, season well and turn over the meat. Now put on the top crust, leaving a hole in the centre about two inches in diameter, and place over this a pastry ornament dusted with flour, so that it can be removed readily. Bake the pie from an hour to an hour and a quarter and when done and slightly cool remove the ornament and turn in to the pie a small tumbler of melted currant jelly; then put back the ornament. When the pie is cold it is ready to serve.

Mutton Pie

Take the remains of a cold leg of mutton and cut the meat into thin slices or small pieces. Line a pie dish with the crust, place a layer of potatoes cut rather thick or in balls on top of the mutton, and pour over this a mixture of mutton stock, pepper, salt, onion juice, a teaspoon of powdered herbs and then put on another layer of the meat. Keep on in this way until the dish is full; then pour in a small cup of cream in which a teaspoon of browned flour has been stirred until smooth and free from lumps, then put on the upper crust. Bake about an hour. This pie is good hot or cold.

Rice Cake

Take six eggs, and their weight in fine sugar, also of butter, and half their weight in flour of rice, and one-half wheat flour. Beat the eggs till they are as light as possible, then throw in the foregoing ingredients in their order. The butter must be dissolved but not heated and each portion of it well beaten into the mixture. Bake for an hour, or an hour and a quarter, in a moderate oven.

An advance winter style of boa and muff of blue fox fur. The beads, tails and paws arranged to elaborate the round muff and boa.

A pleasant variety of bread pudding with rhubarb. Wash enough rhubarb to make 3 cupsful when cut in small pieces. Mix 1-3 cupsful of sugar, add 2 tablespoonfuls of butter and melt to 1-1/2 cupsful of bread-crumbs. Put a layer of bread-crumbs on the bottom of a shallow pudding pan, then a layer of rhubarb, then crumbs and alternate until all is used. Have the top layer of crumbs. Cover and bake in a slow oven over half an hour; remove the cover and brown. Serve warm with cream and sugar.

Brown Scones

One pound brown flour, three teaspoonfuls baking powder, one quarter pound butter, two ounces dripping, one egg, a little milk, three ounces castor sugar. Rub the butter and dripping into the meal with the baking powder, then add the sugar. Beat the egg and milk together and stir with the meal into a paste. Roll out about one-half inch thick, cut into rounds and bake on flat tin for 20 minutes.

How to Make a Gumpie

There is a decided return this summer to the old-fashioned gumpie, to be worn with sleeveless coats and boleros, both in suit form and as part of summer frocks, has brought back the dainty white gumpie of net, organdie, or some other sheer material, and the summer girl has need of many such little under-bodices in order to have fresh ones whenever she needs them.

These gumpies are easily and quickly made, and the woman who is deft with her needle can turn out one or two in a morning. Long slim sleeves, edged with a frill, a soft rolling collar, and a chemise front are all that need be considered, for the body of the gumpie does not show and can be hastily sewed together by hand, hemmed at the waist line and run through with a piece of elastic so that it fits smoothly. White net, finished with a buttonhole edge makes a pretty gumpie. The net may be embroidered in a simple floral design at the corners of the collar, the corner of the sleeve-frill and a tendl down each side of the chemise, if desired.

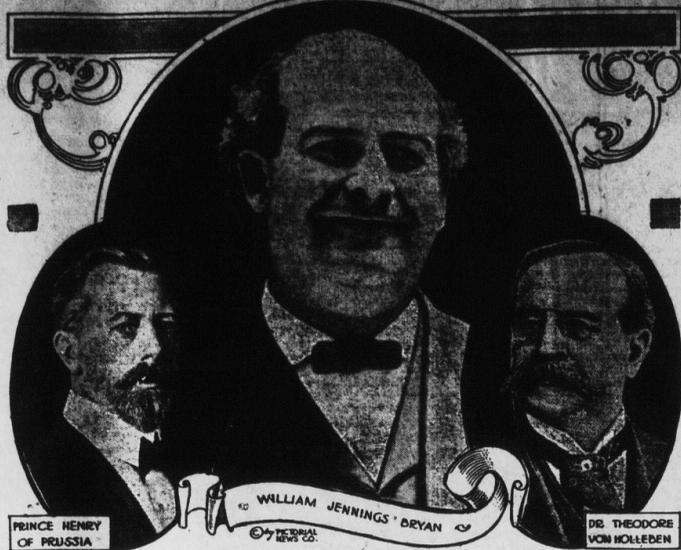

Organdie makes the prettiest gumpie its crispness and sheerness setting off almost any frock. Hemstitched, picot-edged or embroidered, it gives a charming finish to suit or dress. Marquisette, too, is used a good deal for this purpose, and for a slick afternoon dress chiffon makes an attractive gumpie. The gumpie may be either plain or embellished as much as one has time and inclination for. The many designs shown in the shops should give one all the ideas needed, and these designs can be duplicated by the needle-woman for a third of the price one would pay for the gumpie ready made.

GERMAN OFFICIALS FOUGHT FOR MR. BRYAN'S ELECTION

The course pursued by Mr. William J. Bryan during the latter days of his occupancy of the office of Secretary of State, makes it proper at this time to present a little known phase of diplomatic history. German official influence was welded in favor of the election of Mr. Bryan in 1900 because of his anti-imperialistic views, and that activity led to the effacement as a diplomat of the German Ambassador Dr. von Holleben. Dr. von Holleben was accused at this time by Herr Emile Witte of interesting himself improperly in American politics during the McKinley-Bryan campaign. These charges created a profound sensation. At the time of these accusations Prince Henry of Prussia was in the United States to a close. Dr. von Holleben had previously left for Germany without bidding President Roosevelt an adieu. Had Dr. von Holleben been recalled at that time, and particularly had his recall been due to any suggestion from the United States the most critical diplomatic situation must have resulted. However, since Herr Witte had been an employee of the German Embassy, and, moreover, had in his possession papers which he had proved the activities of the Ambassador, his assertions could not be ignored. Dr. von Holleben never since returned to America.

PLANS NEW YORK INVASION. Chicago, July 23.—Plans of the Federal League for the invasion of New York next year were learned today. Harry Sinclair, the Tulsa oil man who built the big grandstand at Newark and bought the Indianapolis franchise, will move the Newark Peeps to New York, using the grandstand in the New Jersey city for Sunday baseball. Mr. Sinclair will be the president of the New York club and Robert B. Wood will be associated with him.

Christy Matheron is the man upon whom Mr. Sinclair has his eye as the leader of the new club. Mr. Sinclair has already discussed plans for building the new park and, it is said, intends to erect a bowl to seat 40,000 persons. The site is secret, but it said has been obtained.

SHIP'S LIFEBOAT PICKED UP (Yarmouth Herald) A ship's lifeboat, apparently torn from the davits of some ocean-going steamer in a storm, was taken into Liverpool on Saturday by the Gloucester schooner Premier. There is no name on the bows of the lifeboat and it is evidently new. The covers are still in place, but the boat is half full of water. The hooks supporting it are gone and other evidence points to the fancy that the craft was torn from its davits in a gale. The boat is twenty-seven feet in length and has accommodations for thirty-one people. It was picked up by the Premier on Tuesday last when twenty miles southwest of Sambre.

BAPTIST

Win One Campaign

The committee on evangelism for the Northern Baptist Convention in their report had this to say: "Your committee on evangelism urge an immediate return to the New Testament method, 'Every disciple a discipler.' A pastoral and personal evangelism is the only kind that is sufficiently extensive. The pastor must become his own evangelist and every member of his church a personal worker. There is no evidence that Jesus ever meant to make ordained ministers responsible for the total salvation of the world, or to substitute the church as a corporate agency for individual effort. In the days that followed Pentecost the rank and file of the membership, with a consuming passion to win men to their Lord, went everywhere preaching the Word. We must earnestly urge that a committee be appointed to enlist, as far as possible, the entire membership of every church in a 'Win One Campaign.'"

Popularity of Dr. MacArthur

As indicative of the esteem with which people of all denominations regard Dr. MacArthur, it is of interest to know that when he recently visited Tulsa, Oklahoma, a town of about 40,000 people, to preach at the time of the dedication of the organ, in the great municipal auditorium, that all the Protestant churches in the city closed in the evening in honor of his being in the city and in order to give their people the opportunity to hear him. Tulsa papers reported that the auditorium had a seating capacity of 4,700, and that every seat was taken, the aisles were crowded, and that a thousand more people were turned away unable to get into the building.

Backed Up by the People

The Rev. Thomas Phillips, of London, Eng., writing in The Baptist Times on "Back to the Bible," says: "It is not the minister only that is called to save the world, but the Church. He is no more than a brother amongst brethren, the responsibility for the salvation of a neighbourhood rests upon the Christian fellowship. That is what is primarily called for to express the life of God and to spread His love. The minister becomes its voice, but not its substitute. Whenever he preaches as he ought to preach, the whole church preaches through him as though he were without a body; every fibre of the human organism is needed to produce a resonant tone. So the minister gathers up unto himself the solitude and the passion of the whole community. The very architecture of our buildings carries us away from this. Many of our modern architects erect chapels to pull down Nonconformity. The Anglican preacher is often a priest and his place is apart from his people. But the Baptist preacher is a brother man, and his right position is in the midst of his flock. In the old-fashioned meeting places he was always supported by the 'Amen' of his deacons. That is the use of deacons and Church members, to say 'Amen' to the preacher's sermon when he is appealing to the world. The appeal grows immeasurably in force when it is backed by the prayers and desires of the people. One can chase a thousand, but two can chase ten thousand. Every supporting and sympathizing saint multiplies the sermon by ten. If the duldest preacher has two hundred people praying for him he can do something. The minister that has not the sympathy of his Church is spoked, and the Church that does not back up the preacher by its prayers and yearnings is slowly committing suicide."

The Golden Hour of Opportunity

The Rev. J. Carlie of Folkestone, Eng., writing on "Sunday in the War Zone" says: "It would be a great gain if some of the larger Churches would give their ministers leave of absence for a year, so that they might become Y.M.C.A. leaders for special work. Men who know how to reach men are wanted. Will our churches see their duty and respond? What will our pastors do? Here are the men in a mood and spirit that will pass with the war. Many of them will not return. Final visits must be very costly. Our little cemetery will be very large before peace comes. The men who get back will never be quite the same. Now is the golden hour of opportunity; this is the mission field; our key to our home problems of religion is here. The men who return will be 'live wires'—they will be our strength or shame."

SOLDIERS' "SLANGUAGE" IS A PUZZLE TO CIVILIANS

British "Tommies" at the Front Pick Up Hindustani, French and other Expressions, Suiting Them to Their Own Pronunciation and Taking Them Home to England.

London, July 20.—Among themselves the British "Tommies" of today make free use of a "slanguage" that, previous to the war, at any rate, was practically unknown outside the ranks. It might be called "Soldiers' Hindustani"; really it is a selection of a few easily picked up and explanatory words of that alluring language which are indispensable to the soldiers who do their allotted span of "time" in India. It is by no means pure Hindustani, though most of the "Tommies" may think it is, and pride themselves on it. Rather is it a distortion of the words he picks up and suits to his own pronunciation, which in course of time and with constant use he accepts as correct. And when "Tommy" suits himself as to the pronunciation of a word, just as he does with the style of singing a song—well, that goes. It's "pukka"—the right way.

Not only Hindustani, though. The soldier at the front is keen now at picking up a little French phrase or word and adapting it to the importance of the moment or the embellishment of his conversation. But, just as with the corrupted Hindustani, this goes through the process of distortion, and its pronunciation till it becomes totally distinct and dissimilar from the original, and yet is never misunderstood.

For instance, the French "na plus," as signifying the end of a wounded soldier's interest in the war, is a phrase in common use today. The Belgian soldier, who himself is so badly smashed that it is certain he will never bear arms again, speaking to a wounded Britisher in his broken English, will say, "And you—yes, you go back to the front—yes?" And Tommy will boldly reply in what he thinks is good French, "Na, po!"

And "na po!" it is today all over the British army to signify "no good," or "no more for me," or "I've had enough," and even "it is finished." Probably there is no word derived, or adapted, from the Hindustani so much in use among regulars, reservists, or Territorials as "Kitchener's army," or "Kitchener's army," which is always rendered as "kitchy," and that a task is easy to perform.

"How's the sergeant major?" the recruit will ask the old hand.

"Oh, he's cushy to get on with—a pukka (proper) good sort"—that is, if the high authority happens to be well liked and is a decent chap—some thing of a rara avis among N. C. O.'s in fact, if the average Tommy is to be believed. But if the S.M. on the contrary is not exactly the well-beloved of his flock the answer will most likely be, "Oh, he's no—bottle," which is not Hindustani, nor even a corruption of the language of India, but from coolness knows where.

Tommy is cosmopolitan in his tastes, so far as expressive conversation goes, but you will rarely now find him using the rhyming slang so popular in certain circles a decade or so ago. Occasionally you will hear somebody asking for the loan of the "Cape of Good Hope" (meaning, of course, the soap, not the colony), but more frequently the request now is, simply and tersely, "Len's yer soap." Again you rarely hear a soldier ask, "What's the bird line?" when he wants to know the hour; it is always, "What's the bud-jee?" for "budjee" is Tommy's Hindustani for time, and when he knows even a corruption of Hindustani, which will express what he wants to say, he uses that and no other.

One word the barracks room or canteen nuisance—meaning the fellow who wears the rest with eternal talk about himself—will hear more often than any other is "chuprao," which is simply an expressive intimation to time against Winterhavel, situated to the south of Anlass, which was marked by a sad incident. A small group of chasers who succeeded in breaking through the barbed-wire entanglements found themselves under a crossfire of quick-firers. The men tried to construct a shelter with the tools they carried. The Germans cried "surrender!" Not one man answered. The quick-firers accomplished their work and the men were found lying with their faces to the ground as if they had dropped when drawn up in line for parade.

"Our attacks were now centered on Metzeral. The factory at Steinbruck was taken on the night of June 17, and a battalion entered Altenkof the day following. On June 21 our men came down from Barankopf, surrounded the village on the north and took the rail way station. The Germans in Metzeral, threatened with capture, placed quick-firers in several houses to protect their retreat and prepared to set the place on fire. Our artillery quickly demolished the houses in which German artillery had been placed and our troops entered the flaming streets from the north and west. The village was burned.

HOW FRENCH CAPTURED TWO TOWNS IN ALSACE

Obstinate battles waged, ending in loss to the Germans of Metzeral and Sondernach in the Fecht Valley--Destructive work of quick-firers.

Paris, July 15.—The operations by which our troops captured the towns of Metzeral and Sondernach, which are situated in the Fecht valley, says the official "eye-witness" today in recounting the French success in the battle of Metzeral, Upper Alsace, "have been remarkable because of the means employed and the results obtained and because the Alpine troops have been forced to surmount all possible difficulties."

Metzeral, the "eye-witness" explains is situated in a valley surrounded by high hills, the sides of which dropped precipitously down to the Fecht region. On these hills was stationed artillery, to the rear of which, within easy access, large reinforcements could be massed and brought to the front when needed.

"From the prisoners we learned," continues the account, "that the Germans considered their position impregnable. It was surrounded by several lines of trenches and barbed wire entanglements. We made long preparations for the attack, concentrating troops and bringing supplies up the Vosges through winding, narrow, and hastily constructed roads twenty miles in length. New trenches were dug, mines laid, and various other details attended to."

Hills Attacked First

"On June 15, after prolonged and heavy artillery fire on both sides of the valley the attack was begun against Hill No. 830, on which we captured trenches situated on the slopes. A portion of the trenches on Braunkopf also fell into our hands.

"At Eichwald we gained less, as here the German fortifications were strongest. At Anlass also, although many grenades were thrown, the fortifications were of such a character as to make it impossible to break through.

"On the following day the attack was resumed with the purpose of gaining us all the positions on Braunkopf and Hill No. 830. We began at this point to encircle Eichwald, as the road to Metzeral now lay open. The Germans remained at Anlass, where our attack always stopped, and with their fire across the valley on Braunkopf, made it impossible for us to proceed.

"All our efforts were now concentrated on Anlass. We attacked on June 18 and 19, and on the 20th the German positions fell into our hands. Our troops continued on down the valley, capturing 6 officers, 11 non-commissioned officers, and 140 men.

Germany Will Use Socialists to Pave The Way for Peace?

Next "Drive" Will Be On Sympathies of The People.

FRENCH PAPERS GIVE A WARNING

Socialists to plead in the name of "International Brotherhood."

It is interesting to note that a re-grouping has now taken place among the German socialists, and that the lines of cleavage among the new groups are fairly distinct. The Berliner Volkswacht enumerates the points of division between the four groups.

The first group has as its leader Herr Liebknecht, and includes Franz Mehring, the historian of socialism; the editors of the very radical Leipziger Volkszeitung and the editors of Vorwarts. This group sees in the war on Germany's part a war of conquest and not of defence. It admits that in view of the declarations of the King and Crown Prince of Bavaria, no true socialist can claim good faith in following the policy of the government. It admits, also, that it is impossible for the group to have at the present time in Germany an organ which openly expresses its views, and it has therefore chosen as its representative the Swiss newspaper, Berner Tageblatt.

The second group, that of Messrs. Kantaky, Hasse and Bernstein, differs from the first chiefly in a diminished intensity of feeling, or at least of expression.

The third group is the big one, the officially recognized socialist party, which at the beginning of the war enthusiastically threw in its lot with the government. It is the group of the great socialist, or so-called socialist, organizations and now also includes about one hundred members of the Reichstag who formerly expressed more or less revolutionary sympathies.

"This group," says the Berliner newspaper, "does not deny the imperialistic character of the war. It declares that it wishes to employ itself in making possible an early peace, but it demands that the enemy also show a similar disposition."

The most interesting of all is the fourth group. It is for annexation. It denies that it wishes to see Belgium taken over, but affirms that boundaries are not eternal and that a war like this cannot end without certain frontier rectifications.

The group includes Messrs. Keim, Schippel, Feus, Noske and Weening.

Close attention is being paid by the Allies to the activities of the German socialists. It is felt that when Germany gets ready to end the war she will employ the services of the socialists and that, with her usual thoroughness, she is already preparing the ground for their work.

The French newspapers have issued a warning to the public. The great German drive, about which so much is being prophesied, is they say, only a bluff. It will not be a drive at Paris or at Calais; indeed, it will not be a military operation at all. The great German drive will be in another direction. It will be a drive on the sentiment and sympathies of the people. It will be put into operation through the German socialists, who will plead in the name of international brotherhood and other fine phrases. The public must not be deceived.

The Italian press also insistently warns the public against the dangerous plans of German socialism, against the "Kamarad," which German word (comrade) they use to cover all that they declare to be insidious in the new campaign.

A message has been addressed by the German socialists to the comrades in Italy, conveying the pleasing news that Herr Quarsh, a socialist member of the Reichstag, has received the assurance of the German government that it will have no objection to German socialists meeting socialists of the Allies in Holland. Italian socialists are therefore invited to come on to Holland. The Italian newspapers declare that this cannot be allowed.

Highest Authority in America Selects RED BALL Ale and Porter

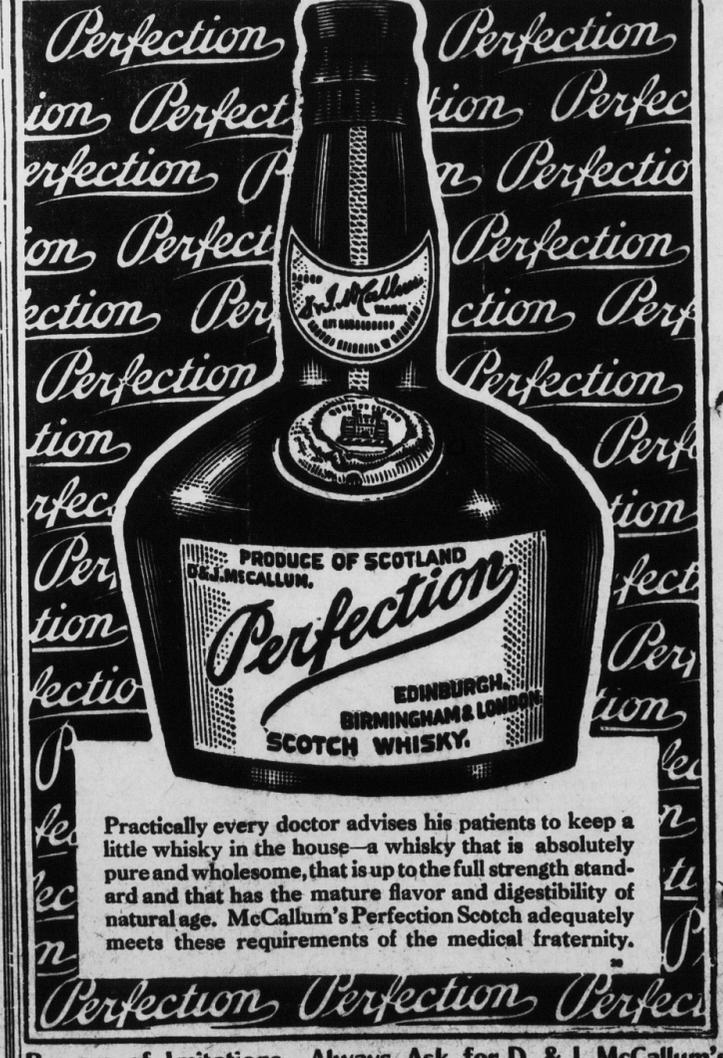

A short time ago, one of the highest officials in the United States Federal Government, was ordered by a physician to procure some porter for his wife, who had undergone a serious operation. He applied at once to the Government Analyst for reports on all brands of porter.

This officer, having in mind the purpose for which the enquiry was made, and with regard to tonic qualities and nutritive value, at once recommended "Red Ball Ale and Porter" manufactured by Simeon Jones Ltd., St. John.

This recommendation was followed by a series of orders from Washington, and subsequent correspondence went to show that this local product had given every satisfaction.

UNCLE WIGGLY AND LONG EARS

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"What kind of a pie are you going to make?" Uncle Wiggly wanted to know.

"Lemons," said Mary, "because we have lemons in the nest. I'll make a lemon pie."

"Well, I wish I could tell you just how Mary made her pie, but I can't because I don't know much about such things."

I know she mixed up some flour and water and sugar and spice and other things nice. I think she put in some lollypops and a bit of cocoonut, though I'm not sure. But anyhow Uncle Wiggly, the nice lemon pie baking in the oven up in the next house in the tree. "I'm sure Mary's pie will be the best in all the school," said the rabbit gentleman.

The next morning Mary flew early out of her nest house and knocked on Uncle Wiggly's door.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggly," she said to the rabbit gentleman, "will you please take me and my pie to school in your airship? It is such a delicate and tender pie that I'm afraid I might fall with it and break it or spill it."

"Of course I'll take you," Uncle Wiggly said.

Off they started, after breakfast, with Mary's pie on a sofa cushion in the airship, covered with a fine napkin that no moonbeams or sunbeams would fall on the top.

Everything was just lovely and the pie was almost safely at the school when all of a sudden, along through the air came flying a bad eagle bird.

"Wait! Stop!" screamed the eagle. "I smell lemon pie and I must have some, I want pie!"

"Oh, but you can't have it," said Uncle Wiggly, as politely as possible. "This is Mary's pie that she baked to show the lady mouse teacher and you mustn't touch it. You may look at it if you like, but you must not touch it."

"Oh, but I shall!" said the bad eagle, flying along after the airship. "I'm going to have that pie!"

"Please don't let him take my pie," begged Mary, the crow girl. "My lovely pie! Oh, dear!"

"Don't worry," Uncle Wiggly said, "he shall not have it. Let me have a pin, Mary dear."

Mary gave the rabbit gentleman a pin. Uncle Wiggly did not stick the eagle with it, but instead he reached up and pricked a hole in one of the top circus balloons that held up the airship.

"Bang! Bung! Boom! Crash! Smash! Pop!" went the burst balloon, just as yours does when it breaks.

"Oh, I'm shot! Some one is shooting a gun at me! Oh, I beg your pardon! I guess I don't want any pie today!" cried the eagle, thinking the noise of the burst balloon was from a gun. And away he flew, leaving Mary's pie safe.

And oh! how happy she felt.

One burst balloon did not in the least harm Uncle Wiggly's airship, and soon he and Mary with the pie were safely at the hollow stump school. And the teacher said Mary's pie was just lovely.

Just lovely teaches us that pins for sticking balloons are best outside of lemon pies and not inside.

And if the wooden spoon doesn't beat on the dishpan and wake up the olive oil down in the salt cellar, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggly helping Jimmie out.

Uncle Dick's Chat With the Children

My dear nephews and nieces—

You all appear to be having a real jolly time during your vacation, romping over the meadows, or roaming by the sea shore. I am also glad you are not forgetting others less fortunate than yourselves, but endeavoring to carry your happiness and merriment into the homes of those not able to enjoy the pleasures of summer. I am sure many a poor boy and girl who are laid up in bed through sickness, or are crippled, will be cheered by the flowers you gathered, and left with them, or the little deeds of kindness they were the object of. As you thus help to spread the bright sunshine, so you will, I am sure, enjoy your holidays the more.

I am glad so many have sent me in well made face cloths in aid of the poor wounded soldiers, but I trust are the contest closes a great many more will arrive. Altho the contest is for KNITTED cloths, I shall be also pleased to have more of the cheese cloth kind, the same as you made last time.

With best wishes and heaps of love

From your

Uncle Dick

P.S.—You are all doing splendid paintings and colorings of Jumbo, and making it quite a task to discover the best each week.

ANSWERS TO LETTERS RECEIVED BY UNCLE DICK

WANTS WORD-MAKING CONTEST
Dear Uncle Dick—
I wish very much that you would have another word-making contest. I am going to have my certificate of merit framed.
Francis Glenn Adney

A NEW NIECE
Dear Uncle Dick—
Would you like a new niece or have you enough. I hope to be accepted as one of your nieces.
Your new-found niece,
M. Geraldine Corey

RECEIVED HER PRIZE
Dear Uncle Dick—
Received my prize, very glad to get it. Thank you and my certificate of merit. It is very nice, thank you for it.
From one of your little nieces
J. Evelyn Kershaw

THINKS IT A LOVELY BOOK
Dear Uncle Dick—
Can I be your little nephew, I hope I can. I colored the picture of Jumbo. Will you please send me a Kaiser Button? Well good-bye.
Rogers C. Chown

A FIVE YEAR OLD NIECE
Dear Uncle Dick—
I was very much surprised and pleased at receiving a prize of such a lovely book, for good books are so nice to have.
With love and best wishes from
Myrtle Cox

SENT A PIN CUSHION
Dear Uncle—
I am sending you a red cross pin-cushion as I can't knit the face-cloths. My birthday is on Friday, I wish you would come up. I guess I will close.
From your loving niece,
Oliver E. Moxon

A LOVELY STORY BOOK
Dear Uncle Dick—
I received my prize yesterday, I wish you could see it. I guess I will close. I have started to read the book and I think it is a lovely story. While I was down to St. John I attended a girls' sewing club and helped sew for the soldiers. Are you going to continue the book come up. I guess I will close. Thanking you again for the book.
I remain your little friend as ever,
Hilda E. B. Case

A DANDY PRIZE
Dear Uncle Dick—
I received my prize yesterday, I think it is a dandy book. I will read the first two or three chapters and like it great. Mama says she is glad I got it.
Yours truly,
Hollis S. Baird

OLIVE E. MOXON—Many thanks for the pin cushion Olive, all wish other nieces who cannot knit were as thoughtful as you. I am sending you a merit card for good work, and along with it best wishes for your birthday. If you write to the Rev. McGuire, McAdam, N. B., you will no doubt get full information as to the guides. Yes, Nub, while cotton.

EDITH MITCHELL—I am glad you like the certificate, and trust it will not be the last you receive. I should like you to try and do some knitted face cloths.

NORA E. HAYES—I had not your full address before, and so I am mailing your Kaiser Button. Your sketches of girls heads are well done, are they copied? Try and draw just as you see things, and have a reason for each pencil line you put on the paper.

MARGUERITE MCKEL—Your letter has just arrived, so I am now sending off the book prize, which I trust you receive, alright.

J. EVELYN KERSHAW—I am glad you received your prize alright, and like same. You seem to be having a nice holiday. I received the face cloths alright, which are very well made. I shall look out for you. Will you please let me have your full name and address so that your Kaiser Button can be mailed to you.

EUGENE MONAHAN—I don't appear to have your address, will you kindly send me same so that your button may be mailed to you.

MYRTLE COX—I am glad you received your book alright, and that you like same. I trust it will not be the last you win. Your little brother has made quite a good attempt for his age. I shall look out for the face cloths next week.

REGERS CHOWN—Yes, certainly Rogers you can be my nephew, and I am sending you a Kaiser Button. I have made a clever little coloring, for your age, and I shall look for more of your work.

HILDA CHOWN—Thanks for the address of the other two nieces. Your scoutmaster has to supply the lack, and does much towards training the boy for place he will fill in the business and social world.

brother seems very clever for his age. I am sending you another button, and also two for Ida and Bessie.

GERALDINE COREY—Glad to welcome you to our Corner, Geraldine. Thanks for your interesting letter, and also the splendid coloring of Jumbo. You do good work. I should like to have some of your knitting work as well.

FRANCIS GLENN ADNEY—I expect the certificate of merit would reach you just after you mailed the letter, let me know. Yes, but space has prevented my publishing. Your Jumbo sketch was not enclosed in the envelope.

EUGENE MONAHAN—I wish I could spare a little time to take a trip up and see you whilst the strawberries are being picked. The best color to use, is white or leave the paper color to show thru. Don't use your colors so thick, keep them thinner, by using more water.

MYRTLE COX—Thanks awfully for the poetry, which I shall print when space permits, did you compose it yourself? In coloring take more notice of what you are coloring. Eunice Jumbo for instance has not brown skin.

ELSA GALE—I am sorry you have not been able to get the knitting cotton, perhaps you may manage before the contest closes. You have made a good coloring of Jumbo.

JAMES ALEX PAYNE, MILLFAX—I am pleased to welcome you to the Corner, James, and am sending you a Kaiser Button. In coloring Jumbo don't forget that his skin is the same color all over, but of course the clothes he has on are different. You however do good to be only six.

FRANCIS GLENN ADNEY—I shall have your work making contest shortly. I am glad you like the certificate of merit, and are going to have it framed.

Result of Last Week's Scout Contest

The number of mistakes made in the sketch reproduced last week in the scout corner was 25, but as no boy scout or girl scout was able to discover them all, the prize of a valuable book on scouting is being awarded to Archie McNeil, Summer Street, St. John, N. B., Lancaster Patrol, as he was able to find 31 errors. A Certificate of merit is being awarded to Margaret MacKenzie, St. Stephen, N. B., of the Thistle Patrol (Girl Guides).

PAINTING CONTEST
First Prize
Ella Longmire, 46 High Street, St. John.

Second Prize
Geraldine Corey, Gagetown, Queens Co., N. B.

Certificate of Merit
Rogers Chown, Milltown, N. B.

TO SCOUTMASTERS
Will scoutmasters and others connected with the scout movement kindly endeavor to send in, little items of news connected with different patrols in the district, which may be of general interest. Also notes of forthcoming events, and any photographs of interest, at work in the troop, as it is intended to make these columns the medium whereby scouts may learn what is taking place among the different maritime provincial, and city troops. Address communications to Scout Editor, The Standard, St. John, N. B.

True Stories About Scouts

A Scout and a Robin
Former County Treasurer Thomas Biddle thinks the birds, too, are in the scout movement. He says a robin that had become entangled in string in a tall maple. He sent to the Warren St. School for a boy scout.

The boy climbed the tree, released the bird, which had a broken leg, and slid down again with the robin in his pocket. He planned to set the leg.

When a coin was slipped into the youngster's pocket he would not accept it.

"The Boy Scout rules do not allow us to accept pay for things like this," he said.

"That's the kind of young men I like to see," Mr. Biddle said. Toledo News-bee, Toledo, Ohio.

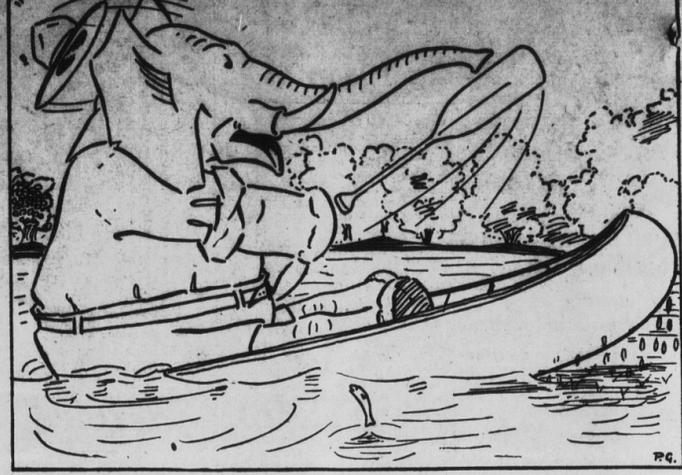

A Scout and a Baby Buggy
"You know Jim So-and-So," said a busy proprietor of a hardware store, mentioning the name of a scout who was a member of a local troop. "Well I was just about dumfounded the other day when he was in. I had a baby carriage which we had just mended, which I was to have delivered to Mrs. Jones that day. There wasn't any way I could get it to her, because I had to tend the store myself and I had no one else to send. Well I was just wondering what I could do when along came Jim."

"Of course, I never in this world could have thought of asking him to deliver the baby carriage for me. I know sixteen-year-old lads well enough to understand that they don't take a delight in pushing empty baby carriages—especially one like Jim, who takes such a pride in his personal appearance and likes to cut a figure with the girls. You can imagine yourself how they might twist him."

"I told Jim my predicament, though, and what was my surprise when he said 'I'll take the baby carriage along with me to Mrs. Jones; I'm just going over that way,' and before I could thank him off he went, down the street, pushing that baby carriage at a great rate and whistling away, as happy as a lark."—Boston, Mass.

I trust you have not forgotten that I am keeping a careful record of the work sent in, and awarding up to ten marks each week for same. This month I am sending Agnes Claris Short, Hatfield Point, N. B., the monthly prize of a pretty story book, as she has gained the highest number of marks.

THIS WEEK'S CONTEST PICTURE

This week I am not publishing the usual two verses of poetry descriptive of what Jumbo is doing, as I should like some of the boys and girls to see what they can compose instead. Just describe in two verses of poetry what you think is happening to poor Jumbo this week, and send them in to Full particulars of this and the Knitting Contest are given on page 5.

Canadian B.P. Boy Scouts

The training of the will and character of a boy during the critical age of adolescence says the Rev. J. Clifford Banham, Scoutmaster of 8th No. London Troop, in The Headquarters Gazette, is a task second to none in importance; there is no task which the church or the State ought to undertake with greater solicitude and seriousness. The adolescent boy (i. e., 12-17) is passing through the most critical period of his life. These are years of great physical change, moral conflict, spiritual doubt and unrest. "There is a space of life between boyhood and manhood when the soul is in a ferment, the character undecided, the way of life uncertain, the ambition thick-sighted." Practically every boy on the subject I have ever read describes the period as one of storm and stress. Evidently, then, the great decisions of life and character are made at this time.

The Physical Changes
Physically, the period is one of great change. The body grows rapidly, the muscles harden, the voice breaks, the organs of reproduction begin to function. The boy's bones and muscles outpace his nerves in growth, and the result is an awkwardness and clumsiness which is the despair of the ladies. He is alert and restless; he cannot sit still. He must be trying his new-found strength on something.

Practically every boy on the subject I have ever read describes the period as one of storm and stress. Evidently, then, the great decisions of life and character are made at this time.

The Emotional Changes
Emotionally, the boy is eager and responsive. He will pursue with feverish enthusiasm a quest that attracts him. He will sink into moods of morbid introspection and despair. This is the time when a father should cling to the boy with a steady, friendly companionship. The boy's best friend up to twelve has been his mother; now rather should step in. He should be "his boys best" pal.

Unhappily, many a father fails at this point. Either he is too occupied to find time for his boy, or else he fails to secure his boy's confidence and respect. Many parents are like the huckster, laying the eggs in other folk's nests and expecting them to hatch out all right! Well, that gives us our chance. "God has destined some of us to be parents, others only god-parents." At this period of hero-worship the boy will respond eagerly to a man's friendship. "The greatest thing a man can do for a boy," says William Forbush, "is to love him"—not with a sickly sentimentality, but with a strong, deep, pure, manly affection. Many of my readers, I expect, have tried it. I ask them, does not the boy respond?

The Social Changes
Socially, the boy is a strange mixture of shyness and friendliness. He is often the despair of his mother. Up to twelve the boy's normal playground has been his home. He has been happy with his toys and books and younger brothers and sisters. But now a new mood seizes him. With fresh physical powers and new social instincts, the home will not contain him. He longs for larger spaces, for a wider social environment. "He will get friends from the school or the street, and they will move in gangs on good or evil bent. The new devotion to the gang is most remarkable. Mother has many anxious evenings, for she sees but little of her boy save at meal times and at bed time. If she is wise and able, she will invite two or three other members of the gang to tea on Sunday afternoon in order that she may get to know them. It will be little use for her to compete against the gang, for the gang will always win.

A New Development
Later on comes a new development of the social instinct. The boy has got a girl! They are seen together, standing apart at an awkward distance chaffing one another, laughing at nothing, looking foolish enough. But he sees her home every evening. Later on they will walk arm in arm, with fingers interlaced! What are we to do with this phase? For long enough this problem vexed my righteous soul. I warned the boy against the waste of time, the lack of emotional control, the danger to his personal purity of thought and deed—all very salutary warnings. I used to implore him to give the girl up. But he didn't. Now I ask him to introduce me to her!

Going with girls and smoking cigarettes are not good habits for a young boy. When the boy gets old enough it is useless to forbid them. The chief harm then is not in doing them, but in doing them on the sly.

The Scout Movement in New Brunswick

There are today in New Brunswick thirty-six troops of Boy Scouts. These are distributed between sixteen different centres from St. Stephen in the south to Campbellton in the north. St. John has two hundred and seventy-four Scouts and the number is growing. The new powers of manhood are coming to birth, the fires of new passions are burning in his blood; the finest thing you can do for him is to supply him with opportunities of physical activity. If you would save him, you must give him plenty to do of the things he likes doing—athletics, gymnastics, carpentry—for, speaking broadly, the boy that is busy is good.

Preparation for war made necessary the terrible foe she is today; lack of preparation has prevented Britain from being nearer the goal set by her in this struggle—the crushing of Prussian militarism. So the boy who is prepared to face the situation that may arise in his life with the confidence that he is ready to meet it, the boy who will become a successful man.

For this reason, because it prepares the boy for the serious issues of life, the Scout movement is worthy of the support of every parent in New Brunswick.

During the two weeks beginning July 21st the readers of this corner will find some interesting Scout news from the instruction camp at Chipman. There are already one hundred and eighty-five enrolled for the camp, and more to follow. It looks at the present writing as if there would be considerably over two hundred Scouts present beside Scoutmasters and assistant Scoutmasters. Mr. F. R. Perrott, the organizing secretary for the Dominion, is to be instructor.

All boy scouts and girl guides are expected to be able to draw a little at least. Now this week I am going to give you a chance to show how much you really do know. Make a careful drawing of an aeroplane, on a piece of paper not less than 10 inches by 8 inches. Use pen and ink, and if you wish colors. When completed attach the usual scout's contest coupon correctly filled in, to same, and forward to Scout Editor, The Standard, St. John, N. B. All sketches to reach this office not later than Thursday, July 29th, 1915. A valuable book of interest to scouts will be awarded for the best drawing.

A Forest Ranger's Plan

Our troop is located in the East End, in the residential section of the city near Highland Park. One of our Scouts drew a map 3 1/2 ft. showing all the streets, in the Eleventh Ward, which is about two miles wide and three miles long. This we divided in half the long way, using a street as the dividing line. The entire ward is then divided into sections of about five or six squares and each Scout of our troop has a section, which we call "Fire Ranges" and the Scouts are "Forest Rangers." Each half of the ward is in charge of an Assistant Scoutmaster who is a "Forest Supervisor" and the Scouts or Rangers of his section report to him. It is the duty of the Scouts to cover their range at least three times each week and look for rubbish, or anything which might cause a fire; blocked or unsafe fire escapes; unsafe sidewalks; unsanitary conditions of any kind or anything which they think is unsafe. When they find anything of this kind they immediately notify the people living on the premises and if the conditions is not improved they notify the policeman on that beat. Should there be any one sick in their range they offer first aid services to him.
