MISCELLANEOUS.
GENTLE HAND; OR WORDS FOR THE WISE.

I did not hear the maiden's name; but in my thought I have ever since called her "Gentle Hand." What a magic lay in her touch! It was wonderful.
When and where, it matters not now to relate—but once upon a time, as I was passing through a thinly peopled district of country, night came down upon me, almost unawares. Being on foot, I could not hope to gain the village, towards which my steps were directed, until a late hour; and I therefore preferred seeking shelter and a night's lodging at the first humble dwelling that presented itself.
Dusky twilight was giving place to deeper shadows, when I found myself in the vicinity of a dwelling, from the small uncurtained windows of which the light shone with a pleasant promise of good cheer and comfort. The house stood within an enclosure, and a short distance from the road along which I was moving with wearied feet. Turning aside, and passing through an old-hung gate I approached the dwelling. Slowly the gate swung on its wooden hinges, and the rattle of its latch, in closing, did not disturb the air until I had nearly reached the little porch in front of the house, in which a slender girl, who had noticed my entrance, stood awaiting my arrival.
A deep, quick bark, answered, almost like an echo, the sound of the shutting gate, and, sudden as an apparition, the form of an immense dog loomed in the doorway. I was now near enough to see the savage aspect of the animal, and the gathering motion of his body, as he prepared to bound forward upon me. His wolfish growl was really fearful. At the instant when he was about to spring, a light hand was laid upon his shaggy neck, and a low word spoken.
"Don't be afraid. He won't hurt you," said a voice, that to me sounded very sweet and musical.
I now came forward, but in some doubt as to whose rough neck he almost childish hand still lay. The dog did not seem by any means reconciled to my approach, and growled wickedly his dissatisfaction.
"Gain, Tige," said the girl, not in a voice of authority, yet, in her gentle tones, was the consciousness that she would be obeyed; and, as she spoke, she lightly bore upon the animal with her hand, and he turned away, and disappeared within the dwelling.
"Who's that? A rough voice asked the question; and now a heavy looking man took the dog's place in the door.
"There was something very harsh and forbidding in the way the man spoke. The girl now laid her hand upon his arm, and leaned, with a gentle pressure, against him.
"How far is it to G—?" I asked; not deeming it best to say, in the beginning, that I sought a resting-place for the night.
"To G—?" growled the man, but not so harshly as at first. "It's good six miles from here."
"A long distance; and I'm a stranger, and on foot," said I. "If you can make room for me until morning, I will be very thankful."
"I saw the girl's hand move quietly up his arm, until it rested on his shoulder, and now she leaned to him still closer.
"Come in. We'll try what can be done for you."
"There was a change in the man's voice that made me wonder.
"I entered a large room, in which blazed a brisk fire. Before the fire sat two stout lads, who turned upon me their heavy eyes, with no welcome greeting. A middle-aged woman was standing at a table, and two children were amusing themselves with a kitten on the floor.
"A stranger, mother," said the man who had given me so rude a greeting at the door; "and he wants us to let him stay all night."
The woman looked at me doubtfully for a few moments, and then replied, coldly.
"We don't keep a public house."
"I'm aware of that, ma'am," said I; "but might has overtaken me, and it's a long way yet to G—."
"So far for a tired man to go on foot," said the master of the house, kindly. "If it's no use talking about it, mother; we must give him a bed."
So unobtrusively, that I scarcely noticed the movement, the girl drew to the woman's side. What she said to her I did not hear, for the brief words, were uttered in a low voice; but I noticed, that as she spoke, one small, fair hand rested on the woman's hand. Was there magic in that gentle touch? The woman's repulsive aspect changed into one of kindly welcome, and she said:

"Yes, it's a long way to G—. I guess we can find a place for him. Have you had any supper?"
I answered in the negative.
The woman, without further remark, drew a pine table from the wall, placed upon it some cold meat, fresh bread and butter, and a pitcher of new milk. While these preparations were going on, I had more leisure for minute observation. There was a singular contrast between the young girl I have mentioned, and the other inmates of the room; and yet I could trace a strong likeness between the maiden and the woman, whom I supposed to be her mother—browned and hard as were the features of the latter.
Soon after I had finished my supper, a neighbour came in, and it was not long before he and the man of the house were involved in a warm political discussion, in which were many more assertions than reasons. My host was not a very clear-headed man; while his antagonist was worthy and specious. The former, as might be supposed, very naturally became excited, and now and then, indulged himself in rather strong expressions towards his neighbour, who in turn, dealt back wofully blows that were quite more irritating.
And now I marked again the power of that maiden's gentle hand. I did not notice her movement to her father's side. She was there when I first observed her, with one hand laid upon his temple, and lightly smoothing the hair with a caressing motion. Gradually the high tone of the disputant subsided, and his words had in them less of personal rancour. Still, the discussion went on; and I noticed that the maiden's hand, which rested on the temple, when unimpassioned words were spoken, resumed its caressing motion the instant there was the smallest perceptible tone of anger in the father's voice. It was a beautiful sight; and I could but look on and wonder at the power of that touch, so light and unobtrusive, yet possessing a spell over the hearts of all around her. As she stood there, she looked like an angel of peace, sent to soothe the turbulent waters of human passion.
Sally out of place, I could not but think her amid the rough and rude; and who, more than they, need the softening and humanizing influences of one like the Gentle Hand.
Many times more during that evening, did I observe the magic power of her hand and voice—the one gentle, yet potent as the other.
On the next morning, breakfast being over, I was preparing to take my departure, when my host informed me that I would wait for half an hour he would give me a ride in his wagon to G—, as business required him to go there. I was very well pleased to accept of the invitation. In due time the farmer's wagon was driven into the road before the house, and I was invited to get in. I noticed the horse as a rough looking Canadian. As the farmer took his seat by my side, the family came to the door to see us off.
"Dick!" said the farmer, in a peremptory voice, giving the rein a quick jerk as he spoke.
But Dick moved not a step.
"Dick! you vagabond get up!" And the farmer's whip cracked sharply by the pony's ear.
It availed not, however this second appeal. Dick stood firmly disobedient. Next the whip was brought down upon him, with an impatient hand; but the pony only reared up a little. Fast and sharp the strokes were next dealt, to the number of a half-a-dozen. "The man might as well have beaten his wagon, for all his end was gained.
A stout lad now came out into the road, and catching Dick by the bridle, jerked him forward, using at the same time the customary language on such occasions, but Dick met this us weally with increased stubbornness, planting his fore feet more firmly, and at a sharper angle with the ground. The impatient boy now struck the pony on the side head with his clenched hand, and jerked cruelly at his bridle. It availed nothing, however, Dick was not to be wrought upon by any such arguments.
"Don't do so John!" I turned my head as the maiden's sweet voice reached my ear. She was passing through the gate into the road, and, in the next moment, had taken hold of the lad and drawn him away from the animal. No strength was exerted in this; she took hold of his arm, and he obeyed her wish as readily as if he had no thought beyond her gratification.
And now that soft hand was laid gently on the pony's neck, and a single low word spoken. How instantly were the tense muscles relaxed—how quickly the stubborn air vanished.
"Poor Dick!" said the maiden, as she stroked his neck lightly, or softly patted it with a child-like hand.
"Nay, go along, you provoking fellow!" she said, in a half-clinging, yet affectionate voice, as she drew upon the bridle. The pony turned towards her, and tumbled his head against her arm for an instant or two; then pricking up his ears, he started off at a light cheerful trot, and went on his way as freely as if the city coach had rear entered his suburban track.

"What a wonderful power that hand possesses!" said I, speaking to my companion, as we rode away.
He looked upon me for a moment, as if my remark had occasioned surprise. Then a light came into his countenance, and he said, briefly:
"She's good!—Everybody and everything loves her."
"Was that, indeed, the secret of her power? Was the quality of her soul perceived in the impression of her hand, even by brute beasts? The father's explanation was doubtless, the true one. Yet have I ever since wondered and still I wonder, at the potency which lay in that maiden's magic touch. I have seen something of the same power, showing itself in the loving and the good, but never to the extent as instanced in her, whom, for a better name, I must still call "Gentle Hand."
"A gentle touch, a soft word. Ah! how few of us, when the will is strong with its purpose, can believe in the power of agencies so apparently insignificant. And yet all great influences effect their ends silently, unobtrusively, and with a force that seems at first glance to be altogether inadequate. Is there not a lesson for us all in this?—An Illustrated News."
COMMERCIAL POLICY OF CANADA.—On the 9th inst., the Canadian House of Assembly again had the question of their commercial policy under consideration, when most of the speakers approved of the course proposed to be adopted by the Government. Mr. Merritt proposed to take duties off British productions on the Imperial Government doing the same with Canadian, and to put 20 per cent on American goods. He then went over the reciprocity negotiation, in which he had been engaged, showing that it was impossible to expect to obtain reciprocity with Great Britain put her hand upon the fisheries, and maintained Colonial rights. She was bound to put the Colonies on the same footing as the United States.—New Brunswick.
Accounts from Washington of Monday last, state:—
Mr. Buchanan was nominated this morning as minister to England, and was, immediately confirmed; he declined, however. And another report runs that—Gen. Marcy's place in the cabinet. Mr. Dobbin is to be attorney general, and Commodore Stockton, secretary of the navy. Mr. Benton will be nominated minister to France.
We learn from the Vermont Herald—that Capt. Robert Sims, and Joseph F. Johnston, a lad of 14 years, were unfortunately drowned at Plymouth on the 21st inst. by the upsetting of a boat. They were engaged to bring sea wood from a neighboring island when the boat was upset by a heavy sea. A young man named George R. Johnston, who was also in the boat, was saved by clinging to it until assistance reached him from the shore. Capt. Sims leaves a wife and three children.
Gearing, fencing the nursery, clearing up the garden, the door-yard, the wood pile, and a variety of other things will require attention now. Let us lay hold of the work before us with cheerful and hopeful hearts, and pursue it with a well tempered zeal; the seeds shall spring upward from the sod, and He who gives us the increase shall gladden our hearts with abundant harvest.
"GETTING UP STAIRS."—A hotel is about to be erected in Albany eight stories high. A person seated in an elegant arranged car strikes a bell to indicate the floor to which he desires to be conveyed, whereupon, by means of a steam "dammy," they are elevated to the proper terraces in double quick time, thereby obviating the difficulty experienced in "getting up stairs."
Douglas Jerrold is a well-known wit, and often cracks a good joke with his literary and other friends in the social circle. At a private party in London, a lady, who though in the autumn of life, had not lost all dreams of its spring—said to Jerrold:—"I cannot imagine what makes my hair turn grey? I sometimes fancy it must be the essence of rosemary," with which my maid is in the habit of brushing it. "What do you think?"
"I should rather be afraid, madame," replied the distinguished dramatist dryly, "that it is the essence of Time." (Thyme).
"Young man, do you know what relation you sustain in this world?" said a minister to a young man of the church, "Yes sir," said the hopeful convert, "two cousins and a grand-mother, but I don't intend to sustain them any longer."

FREE PORTS.
PILOT'S REGULATIONS.

For some time past, a strong desire has been manifested by the inhabitants of Charlotte County to make the Islands of Campo Bello and Grand Manan free ports, where goods from all parts of the world might be stored free of duty. The subject has been brought before the Assembly during the present session, in consequence of a petition having been presented from certain inhabitants of Campo Bello, praying that it be established a free port. A committee was appointed to report upon the propriety of this step, who have submitted their report, in which they state:—
All history and experience have proved that the establishment of Free Ports, in commanding situations, has proved highly advantageous to the Countries which have them, when contiguous to Foreign Ports, where high tariffs or prohibiting duties are levied; and the committee conceive it only necessary to refer to Singapore, the Channel Islands, and the Island of St. Thomas as proof of this assertion.
The first of these Free Ports, Singapore, affords one of the most striking instances of these advantages; it has little or no produce of its own, and was considered almost a desert island when first constituted a free port; in fifteen years thereafter it has become a rich and flourishing settlement, with an export of merchandise amounting to three millions of pounds sterling annually.
The Channel Islands offer another striking example of the benefits of establishing in proper situations of an insular character great depots for commerce; it was at first supposed that rendering the Channel Islands free ports, would greatly encourage smuggling into England; yet such has not proved to be the case; no injurious effects have been found to flow from the privileges granted, but on the contrary, substantial benefits have accrued to the trade and commerce of the British Empire generally, and especially to the Colonies, from having access to these Islands as free ports.
The Committee have remarked, that free ports to serve as commercial stations, have almost always been established on Islands, and viewing the peculiar position of Campo Bello, they conceive it well placed for an island free port, open to the commerce of the world. They believe that establishing it as a free port, under proper regulations, would eminently benefit the section of New Brunswick to which it belongs, without detriment to any other part of the Province; that it would furnish constant employment to a profitable character to Provincial vessels, and would thus add to the general prosperity and increase the public wealth.
The great, and, in fact, only objection which has been urged against free ports in this Province is, that it would open a wide door for smuggling; but it will be seen by the above that such has not been the case with regard to the Channel Islands. There is no doubt, however, that the close proximity of Campo Bello to the main land, would compel the Provincial authorities to keep a very strict surveillance along the coast; otherwise an extensive illicit trade would spring up, greatly to the injury of the revenue of the Country, and disastrous to native industry.
The Committee then proceed to recommend that Campo Bello be established as a free port, into which all the products and merchandise of the world may be imported, at a uniform rate of duty of 1 per cent., except alcoholic liquors, which shall be subject to the same duties and regulations as if imported into any other port in the Province. That no drawback should be allowed on the exportation of any article from the island, and that when goods or merchandise so imported or exported from thence to any other part of New Brunswick, they shall be subject to the same rate of duties as if then first imported from abroad.
The establishment of Campo Bello as a free port would make it a place of great resort, both on the part of Colonial and American merchants. The subject is worthy of the most serious consideration of the Legislature.
Numerous complaints have been made lately at the Imperial Customs Department, that many vessels trading about St. John have not the name and port to which they belong painted on the stern, and as the penalty for this infraction of the Registry Act is £100 sterling, we have been requested to give this notice, in order that the owners of these vessels who have not as yet complied with the law in this respect, may do so at once, before any measures are taken by the authorities to have it enforced.
These remarks apply principally to wood-boats. [St. John Courier, 16th.

A Connecticut dame, the mother of a large family, was one day asked the number of her children. "La Ma!" she replied, rocking herself to and fro, "I've got twelve, mostly boys and girls."

Now Publishing, BY JOHN FALLIS & CO. OF LONDON, THE LIFE AND TIMES OF THE LATE Duke of Wellington;
By Lieut. Col. Williams; (a Companion in Arms of His Grace.)
Comprising the Campaigns and Battle-Fields of Wellington and his Comrades, the Political Life of the Duke and his Contemporaries, and a detailed account of England's Battles by Sea and Land, from the commencement of the Great French Revolution to the present time, interspersed with Anecdotes, Personal Incidents, and Adventures, etc.
ADDRESS.

The earthly career of Arthur Duke Wellington has closed; one of the greatest men of the nineteenth century, the foremost military commander of any age, has paid the debt of nature. The time has now arrived for giving to the world a History of the Great Captain—the Events of his Life and Time—a life marked by patriotism, public honour, and events the greatest which have ever agitated the civilized world, and whose influence will be felt upon society till the end of time. Such a work must appeal to the best and proudest feelings in the heart of every Briton—the glory of his country, the honour of its name and position among the nations—may his own existence as a freeman, are recorded and engaged in the annals of the well fought fields; and "the deadly imminent breaches, the immortal battles and the glorious sieges in which Wellington and his Companions in arms gathered honour and renown on the highest pinnacle of fame and glory, and tore the victor's wreath from the brows of heroes decorated with the trophies of Italy, Egypt, and Germany.
To supply such a desideratum in English literature, the publishers of the Life and Times of the Duke of Wellington have determined to produce a book which shall present to the reader, not only the dry details which a mere biographical sketch would afford, but a comprehensive work, embracing the contemporaneous history of the period; exhibiting the circumstances which brought about the great events in which the Duke and his contemporaries were engaged, and giving to the reader a connected narrative of the lives and acts of the great heroes, and participated with him in many a well fought field.
In order to carry out their views, the Publishers have determined that the work shall be profusely illustrated by Portraits of the Warriors and Statesmen of the last half century who have shed a lustre upon the history of their country; also representations of some of the most important engagements by sea and land from the period of 1780 till 1852; so that the work, when finished, shall form an Illustrated Gallery of the Naval and Military Exploits of England.
It has been well said, "Character is the true strength of nations; true glory their best inheritance. When the time shall come that the British heart no longer throb at the names of Crescy, Poitiers, Agincourt, Blenheim, Ramilies, Oudenarde, Malplaque; of Talavera, Salamanca, Toulouse, Waterloo,—the last hour of the British Empire will be struck." The promotion and elevation of national spirit and feeling is therefore the duty and interest of every true and loyal son of England. May Heaven inspire the hearts of every one of us with that spirit and feeling.
Conditions of Publication.—The work will be issued on the 1st and 15th of every month, in Parts of 12, 24, and 48 Divisions, handsomely bound at 9s. 6d. printed on Imperial 8vo. double columns, each part will be embellished by two highly finished steel Engravings, and will contain 32 pages of letter press. A beautiful steel Engraving, 13 by 19 inches, the storming of Seringe patam, the first victory in which the late Duke of Wellington was engaged in India, to every subscriber to the work.

FOR THE CURE OF Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Spitting of Blood, Night Sweats, Asthma, Liver Complaints, and CONSUMPTION.
DO NOT NEGLECT IT.

CONSUMPTION.
Can be and has been cured in thousands of cases by this only certain remedy.
JUDSON'S CHEMICAL EXTRACT OF CHERRY AND LUNGWORT, and no remedy has ever before been discovered that will certainly

CURE CONSUMPTION.
The most strongly marked and developed cases of Pulmonary Consumption where the lungs have become diseased and infected and the case so utterly hopeless, as to have been pronounced by Physicians and friends, to be past all possibility of recovery, and at times thought to be dying, has been cured by this wonderful remedy, and are now as well had hearty as ever.
It is a compound of medicaments which is peculiarly adapted to and essentially necessary for the cure of

COUGHS AND CONSUMPTION.
Its operation is mild, yet efficacious; it acts on the phlegm which creates so much difficulty, relieves the cough and assistance to expectoration, thus giving all diseased matter a free exit, producing a most delightful change in the breathing and chest, and thus affording the opportunity of the rest and quietude which are the treatment of kind during the progress of the disease, and affording to the patient the most certain relief to the consumptive sufferer.

THOUSANDS OF CONSUMPTIVE
persons have been cured in buying medicines which were said to be infallible cures, but which have proved very ineffective, but this medicine is not only a palliative but a cure for all the above. It contains no deleterious Drugs and one trial will prove its astonishing efficacy better than any assertions or certificates in curing consumption and all diseases of the Lungs, such as Spitting of Blood, Coughs, pain in the side and chest, night sweats, &c. &c.
About 1000 certificates of almost miraculous cures, performed by this medicine, from some of the best Doctors, Clergymen, and Merchants have been sent us for this medicine, but the publication of them looks too much like Quackery, [it will show them to any person calling at our office]. This medicine will speak for itself and enough in its own favour when ever it is tried.

CAUTION.—This medicine is put up in a large bottle and you must find the name of Constock & Brother, Proprietors, New York, on the wrapper around the bottle. All orders must be addressed to Constock & Brother, No. 9, John St.
New York.

TO OWNERS OF AND DEALERS IN HORSES.
CARLTON'S FOUNDER OINTMENT.
For the cure of Founder, Split Hoof, Horn bound Horses, and contracted and Feverish Feet, Wounds, Bruises in the flesh, Galled Backs, Cracked Heels, Scratches, Cuts, Kicks, &c., on horses.

CARLTON'S RING BONE CURE.
For the cure of Ring Bone, Blood Spavin, Bone Spavin, Windgalls, and Splint—a certain remedy.

CARLTON'S CONDITION POWDERS FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.
The changes of weather and season, with the change of use and feed, have a very great effect upon the blood and sinuous fluids of horses. It is at those change, they require an assistant to nature to throw off any disorder of the fluids of the body that may have been imbibed, and which, if not attended to, will result in the Yellow Water, Heaves, Worms, Bots, &c. All of which will be prevented by giving one of these powders, and will at any time cure it when any symptoms of disease appears to be in time. They purify the blood, remove all inflammation and fever, loosen the skin, cleanse the water, and invigorate the whole body, enabling them to do more work with the same feed. The action of these powders is direct upon all the secretory glands, and therefore have the same effect upon the Horse, the Ox, the Ass, and all Herbivorous animals—all diseases arising from or producing a bad state of the blood are speedily cured by them.
