INVENTIONS WE MAY EXPECT

(By Professor A. M. Low.)

For many years the inventor has been regarded as a fair game for both the cartoonist and the capitalist. The general public usually considers that anything new must necessarily be of rather doubtful ability, yet the inventor only differs from his contemporaries by the quickness with which he is able to adjust his relative points of view.

Invention might almost be described as the science of continually of thought, if a man can think consecutively and can reach a point ahead of other people's time, the results to him appear quite normal.

Our methods of travel have not progressed to any great extent during the last century. We require faster trains for short and long distances; an end only to be achieved by an age of electrification which would provide employment in a land where distances are so small that electricity should be within reach of all from coast to coast.

One of the most serious requirements of today is a means of communicating from railway train and from ships with our homes and offices. By the touch of an automatic telephone button, we should be able to communicate with our house in London while we sit in the Scotch express. It can be done, but such an invention requires money.

Our motor cars are inefficient, and the internal combustion engine is suitable for road travel only because its fuel is convenient to burn, easily obtained and light to carry. A motor car engine gives no power when it is running at low speeds, so that it is really unsuitable for traction work. At its best in the ordinary motor omnibus nearly 50 per cent of the hard bought fuel which it burns is wasted by means of the radiator and exhaust.

We spend large sums of money on radiators, and go to great trouble to rid ourselves of the heat for which we have paid. Even then we waste our money because we cannot get our engines unless they are relatively old. It would be a step forward if we could have an internal combustion engine, made to give its power at a low speed. Flying today is frequently quite an amusing process. We spend all day in driving to the aerodrome as we do in the air, and finally we rise off the ground supported by a collection of sticks and canvas and propelled by an engine exposed to many of the meretricious elements.

Methods of silencing engines and propellers on aeroplanes are badly needed, for if the sky were as full of aeroplanes as the road is of cars, life with our present state of mental development, would be impossible. What it will be like to the man of the future whose ears have not become sufficiently attuned by disuse to counteract the increased delicacy of his mind can only be conjectured.

KINGSTON

The community was shocked and saddened on Saturday night by the passing away of Mrs. Susan Tufts, which came very unexpected, death being due to heart trouble. The funeral services were conducted at the home of Mrs. Ruth Walton on Monday afternoon. She leaves to mourn her loss, one son, Col. I. W. Vidito of Dartmouth, and many relatives and friends.

Mrs. Winifred Armstrong spent the week end with friends in Halifax. Miss Gladys Troop visited her home in Belle Isle for the holidays. Mr. G. S. Smith who has been spending in Mr. Morgan's place in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, leaves today for the branch at Windsor.

Mr. Arthur Piggett of Windsor spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Piggett. Mr. Arthur Piggett of Acadia is spending the holidays at home.

All are good except those who bore.

A CANADIAN BUDGET SYSTEM

During the years 1920-1925, while Canada's gross debt was decreased by $300,000,000, her active assets were decreased by $300,000,000, so that her net debt was increased by $100,000,000. In comparing this record with that of the United States, for instance, where there has been a decrease in gross debt from $25.13 billion dollars in 1919, to $20.12 billion at the present time, one must recognize the fact that the Budget Director, receiving the steady support of the President, has played no inconsiderable part in securing the result.

In June 1925, when speaking before the Meeting of the "Business Organization of the Government," the President of the United States said in part:

"We have met this evening to take counsel together for the purpose of securing greater efficiency in government by the application of the principles of constructive economy, in order that there may be a reduction of the burden of the public debt upon the American people. The object sought is not merely a cutting down of the public expenditures. The only means, tax reduction is the end. The direct beneficiaries are composed of those who file the $100,000 tax returns. The indirect beneficiaries are all the rest of the American people, who must make an indirect contribution to the payment of the enormous sum of more than $100,000,000 every day in the year which goes out from the National Treasury. This is nothing more or less than a restriction upon the freedom of the people. This money has to be earned. Those who have earned it, instead of being able to retain it for their own benefit, must necessarily turn it over to the Government."

"Because this gigantic task is self-imposed, it is none the less a gigantic task. We are seeking to let those who earn money. This means more of it for themselves and gives more of it to the Government. This means better business, more of the comforts of life, general economic improvement, larger opportunity for education, and a greater freedom for all the people."

"That first meeting was held at the end of the fiscal year 1921. During that fiscal year our expenditures, exclusive of the money applied to the reduction of the Public Debt and the operation of the Postal Service, amounted to $1,116,000,000. Public Debt then amounted to $23,977,000,000. We are now paying the cost of the fiscal year 1925, the annual expenditures have been reduced to $81,000,000 and the Public Debt has been decreased $3,426,000,000."

"The public affairs will hardly show a parallel case of retrenchment in the cost of government. Not only will the cost of Federal expenditure, has been the relief of the people of this nation from the burden of taxation, but it has been reduced. The burden of the people has been materially lightened."

"Economy in the cost of government is inseparable from relief of taxes. We cannot have the latter without the former. From some sources the statement has been made that this continuing drive for economy in Federal expenditures is hurtful business. I have been unable to determine how reduction in taxes is injurious to business."

"Each tax reduction has been followed by a revival of business. If there is one thing above all others that will stimulate business, it is tax reductions. If the Government takes less, private business can have more. If constructive economy in Federal expenditure can be assured, it will be stimulation to enterprise an investment."

"We are still reductions to be made. There are yet wastes to be eliminated. I expect you to prosecute a campaign of relentless economy to that end, not only in expenditures for 1926 but in the preparation of estimates for 1927. I am convinced that in this way less wastefulness of the people of this country. Fidelity to our oath of office is of no other course. Wastefulness, careless administrators of the Government's substance are not out of place in the Federal Service. They will not be tolerated."

"If this policy means sacrifice—it is sacrifice for the benefit of 115,000,000 people. Their interests are paramount. Criticism by a few, who look askance at drastic paring down of

SACKVILLE WOMAN'S SUCCESS

Wine Two Big Baking Contests in British Columbia

Each year, British Columbia stages two important exhibitions—at Vancouver and at New Westminster—both of which are followed with the keenest interest. Among the many events each year is the baking contest. Valuable prizes are offered for the best home-made bread baked by a resident of British Columbia.

The baking contest this year produced a sensation in that Mrs. A. L. Wood, formerly Miss Louise Beal, of Sackville, New Brunswick, took first prize (McClary-Kootenay Range) at both exhibitions which were held recently.

According to the rules laid down, each contestant had to exhibit one white loaf, one brown loaf, one nut loaf, six baking powder biscuits and a sample of pastry. Points were awarded for general appearance (35) flavor (30) texture (30) lightness (15) and so on. Mrs. Wood's bread, a sample of fine bread making as a young girl from her mother in Sackville, was the best made, and she was patronized a commercial baker.

She is a thorough believer in home cooking as the best means to health in the family. Her own four sturdy children are wonderful examples of this doctrine.

A most striking feature of Mrs. Wood's remarkable performance is that she bakes with a range made in her own home town of Sackville. She uses an Enterprise Range. Thus does Mrs. Wood's triumph constitute a double victory for the Manufacturers.

All housewives who aspire to become perfect bakers, will be interested in Mrs. Wood's comment:—"I won first prize on my bread because I always bake bread in an Enterprise oven."

I was born in the town where the Enterprise Range is made, down in New Brunswick, and I have never had success in any other oven but an Enterprise. I heartily urge all who bake to buy an Enterprise Range. There are other good ranges, but for cooking and baking or just the right kind of a fire there can be none better than this range, and it is easy on fuel, also."

MAIL ORDER ECONOMICS

Clear Exposition of A Much Discussed Problem

Down in a certain town a man went to a store to buy an article and asked the price. It was $1.20 the dealer said.

"Good," said the customer. "I can get the same from a mail order house for $2.82."

"That's less than it costs me," said the dealer. "But I'll sell it on the same terms as the mail order house just the same."

All right," said the customer. "You can send it along and charge it to my account."

"Not on your life," replied the dealer. "No charge accounts. You can't do business with the mail order house that way. You'll have to pay for it."

The customer handed over the cash. "Now two cents for postage and I'll have it home for myself and be rid of this foolery."

"Hard it is to you? where do you think you are?" asked the dealer. "You're not in Toronto, and you will have to wait a week."

Whereupon he placed the article on the shelf and put the money in his cash drawer.

"That makes $2.82," he said. "It has cost you 6 cents more and taken you a week longer to get it than if you had paid my price in the first place."

Woman is stronger by reason of her feelings than man by reason of his strength.

At This Season of the Year

With its changeable weather and wet roads your car needs considerable attention.

Are you keeping the Spring Leaves Lubricated? Rusted Spring Leaves are often the cause of breaking. All Chassis Bearings should be greased very frequently with the proper grease. Grease is only preventive of friction and rust, and it is only when your car is thoroughly lubricated. We have in stock, Alemite, Grease L and Graphite Grease.

When washing your car why not protect the finish with a good waterproof polish. We have the best—Simon's Kleener and Simon's Brilliant Lustre and Loco Glose.

To those who are putting their car up for the winter we especially recommend the purchase of one of our Kennedy Auto Covers. These covers are easily handled and afford splendid protection to the car. If you find your lights aren't quite as bright as they once were, and not as bright as you would like them, drive in, we will fix it up for you. Our service is at all times quick and satisfactory.

WINTER QUARTERS FOR BROOD SOWS

(Experimental Farms Note)

The old method of wintering sows in pens in the piggery is becoming obsolete. The new method is to keep the close confinement encourages rheumatic troubles. Rheumatic troubles are caused by a more or less pronounced stiffness of the hind quarters, and in advanced cases the "ghost" walks on the hind quarters. This results in awkwardness, and losses at farrowing time. Exercise and dry quarters have been found to be the most effective preventive.

In Eastern Canada the cabin or colony house method has been adopted as the best means of providing small cabins, capable of holding two or more sows are located in sheltered paddocks or in the barnyard, and the sows are at liberty to take plenty of exercise. A day before farrowing they are removed to the farrowing pen in the piggery.

At the Experimental Station an experiment was begun in the fall of 1924 with the object of comparing results with sows wintered in cabins and sows wintered in pens. In the experiment, four in cabins and four in pens. From November 20th to March 13th the pen wintered sows made a total gain of 40 pounds as compared with a gain of 45 pounds for the cabin wintered sows. The ration for outside and inside wintered sows was the same, and the same amount of feed was consumed by each lot. Time winter of 1924 and 1925, was an exceptional one, which may account for the fact that more feed was not required for the outside or cabin wintered sows. The cabin wintered sows showed strong evidence of going lame in their hind quarters, and this tended to develop as the gestation period advanced. The cabin wintered sows remained active right up to from a litter standpoint are available from the above experiment as six of the eight sows were not raised at the Fredericton Station.

Under practical farm conditions, the regular pen opens on a fair sized outside yard, this partly supplies the desirable features required for best results with brood sows. The results of the experiment at the Experimental Station at Lennoxville gives his brood sows the run of a large open yard both summer and winter and reports that this has contributed greatly to the health and vigor of the stock.

FOR OCTOBER 1925

The October meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Armory on the evening of October 23rd. About 45 members were present and 13 visitors. The committee on arrangements for this session, with Mrs. E. R. Power, convener provided a most delightful and original program. The President put through the routine business with dispatch. The Hospital Committee expressed their pleasure at the generous response to Donation Day; also a report from Mrs. Turner that the $25.00 voted by the Institute to procure some more Hospital necessities had been judiciously expended. For that sum the following articles were procured: Silver knives and forks, 1 tea kettle, cups and saucers, 10 individual tea pots, 7 dozen tumblers and 5 cups and saucers more. Other new business relative to Federation Fund, Inter-Provincial Home Fund, place of meeting this winter etc. was brought up.

Miss Helen MacDougall, supt. for Nova Scotia, then gave a very interesting and instructive work of various kinds.

The roll call was responded to by Hallock's rhymes. A solo by Miss M. Parker was much enjoyed. Readings by Miss Marie Power of Kingston received the warmest appreciation and applause. A banjo quartette, the Misses Parker, Cox, Harlow and Mr. Cyril Jodrey were very delightful. Mrs. Jodrey's paper on "Hallowe'en" was amusing and most instructive. The decorations were charming and the "ghost" waited on the guests in the most approved style. Over $9.00 was raised for the Institute fund. We are getting new members with each meeting. Plenty of practical business and work is carried on with just enough entertainment to relieve the tension. We are merely beginners in the work, and the members of this year can be tarred to advantage next. We profit by experience. Let us all work together, for co-operation strengthens.

OBITUARY

Kelvington Lightizer

Kingston, N. S., Oct. 22—Kelvington Lightizer, of Kingston, N. S., aged 77 years, passed away at his residence early on Sunday morning. Mr. Lightizer was one of the best known and highly respected citizens of Kingston. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon and the large representative congregation testified to the esteem in which he was held. The interment was in the family lot at Greenwood. The service was conducted by the Rev. E. Baines, of Aylesford, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Watts, of Kingston, Rev. W. Howe, of Greenwood, and Rev. Wm. Ryan, of Auburn. Mrs. L. J. Jodney had charge of the music, and Mrs. Baines sang a solo. Mr. Howe spoke the eulogy of character and uprightness of purpose of his friend of many years. Mr. Ryan gave reminiscences of his friendship with him and his family extending over a period of 43 years. During all that time he had always lived up to high ideals and trained his family with faith and love. An example to all who knew him. His passing away was the loss of a dear one who had bound him in love to his family for a long period. He himself was now in his 72nd year and soon expected to join his friend in that Heavenly place where he now dwelt.

The late Mr. Lightizer is survived by his wife, who was Annie L. Neilley of Greenwood. Seven daughters, Mrs. Arthur Lee of Auburn, N. S.; Mrs. (Rev.) J. Norman Hiler of Caledonia; Mrs. Noble Potter, Wilmot, N. S.; Marguerite, Metros, Mass.; Evelyn, Halifax; Mrs. at home. Three sons, Everett L. and Clarence, Brookton, Mass., and Carman at home. His oldest daughter, Mrs. L. A. Piere, predeceased him 12 years ago.

The floral tributes were very beautiful. The funeral arrangements were efficiently carried out by Mr. Roop of Middleton.

To keep clothes a good color when washing, a tablespoonful of tannin can be put in the copper when it is filled, or a little blue water may be added just as the water boils. If preferred, a small handful of powdered borax or a tablespoonful of ammonia may be added to the first rinsing water.

After using an egg whisk, wash it thoroughly in cold water and then put it in the oven for a short time in order that all moisture is dried up. This will prevent it from rusting.

Men are the reason for women disliking one another.

DIPHTHERIA IN THE VALLEY

Some of the Valley communities had themselves threatened with Diphtheria, a number of cases having developed of late in such a way as to indicate wide spread infection. The type of the disease is mild. Up to the present there has been little or no loss of life. Indeed the very mildness of the attack has contributed very largely to the difficulty of recognition. This has moreover led many persons—acquainted only with the severer types, where deaths were frequent—to believe that the epidemic was nothing more severe than one of "common colds." Occasional severer cases, followed by paralysis, or in which fatal terminations were averted only by the administration of antitoxin in large doses, have indicated the true nature of the outbreak beyond a possibility of doubt.

The Local Boards of Health, under the direction of the Medical Health Officer, are now making determined efforts to limit the spread of the disease, though they are hampered in their task by the fact that the outbreak had already assumed quite wide spread proportion before the nature of the epidemic was recognized.

In their efforts to relieve the situation they are meeting with the wholehearted support of the communities. This is of the highest importance and promises well for early control.

The Boards are endeavoring to secure the safety of the public with as little inconvenience or as little disruption of business as is consistent with safety. Without a doubt some inconvenience will be experienced but the measures already taken ensure that the inconvenience will be the minimum amount, which is called upon for the individual or the community to undergo, and which is, at the same time, necessary for community protection.

By wholeheartedly supporting the Local Boards of Health, the communities will greatly assist them in their important though sometimes thankless duty.

"MOVE UP AND BE NICE"

During a holiday week in the busy part of a large city, passengers were boarding a train-car and struggling for a place. Unexpectedly the conductor called in commanding tones: "There is plenty of room if you will just move up and be nice." This seems to be a parable of the world's difficulties today. All races are travelling as passengers, crushing one another in the wildest fashion, and we need someone to give the order, "Move up and be nice." The world belongs to everybody and yet is one—materially, morally and spiritually. The cable, the telephone and wireless have brought us all very close together, and time and the world has become one great whispering gallery. But we need the trainman's philosophy as a way out of our present difficulties. We must begin each day to move up and be nice to ourselves and to those about us. One great end and another all in the meanwhile let us "Move up and be nice."

Every man complains of his memory but no man complains of his judgment.

OBITUARY

Deacon Alexander Banks
 The death occurred on Saturday evening, October 31st, 1926, at Harmony of Deacon Alexander Banks at the age of seventy four years, after a brief illness.
 Deacon Banks was the son of Alden and Seraphine (Patterson) Banks, born at Harmony, May 21, 1851, and lived his entire life in this place.
 In early life he was baptized and united with the Lower Aylesford U. B. Church. He was ordained a Deacon in 1889 which duties he performed with Christian fortitude until called to higher service.
 He was a man of sterling character, always ready to give his help and support in every good cause. To know him was to love him.
 He is survived by his wife (nee Edith E. Hutchinson) of Morristown, one son, Ulysses, at home, one grandson, Hartley, and one brother, Avery B. of this place.
 The funeral services were held at Greenwood Church on Monday, November 2nd, Rev. H. H. Phinney, his pastor, officiating, assisted by Revs. E. H. Howe and A. H. Saunders of Upper Aylesford.
 Pastor Phinney spoke very comforting words from Psalm 37: 37. Interment in Greenwood Cemetery.

There is no death; an angel form Wafts o'er the earth with silent tread
 He hears our best loved ones away
 And then we call them dead.

He leaves our hearts all desolate,
 He plucks the fairest, sweetest flowers;
 Transplanted into bliss, they now adorn immortal bowers.

The most wasted of all days is the day when we have not laughed.
 The reason of the strong is always the best.

How to Relieve Children's Colds

AVOID SERIOUS RESULTS BY USING BABY'S OWN TABLETS.

When a child shows the first symptoms of a cold, such as sneezing, redness of the eyes, cough or running nose, prompt measures for relief may avert serious results. Mothers should always have on hand some simple, safe and effective remedy for immediate use.
 Baby's Own Tablets act quickly, contain no opiates or narcotics, are tasteless and harmless. Mrs. Joseph Cadieux, Holyoke, Mass., says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children and find them a very satisfactory medicine. When my little boy had a cold I gave him the Tablets at night and he was well next day. I give them to the children for constipation and they always do good. I think Baby's Own Tablets are much easier to give a child than liquid medicine. I recommend the Tablets to all mothers who have small children and believe they should always be kept on hand."
 Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A SWIM TO SAFETY

(By Roe L. Hendrick)

"You can swim cattle or horses out if they get caught by high water," said Jim to the men at the Hooker ranch. "But don't try it with hogs. A hog will cut its throat with its mof if he has to swim more than a hundred yards."

No one appeared especially interested but Lish Hooker looked across at Jim and smiled. "Did you ever see a hog cut its throat that way, Kimmie?" he asked mildly.

"Why, I don't know I ever did," the lad admitted, "but everyone says they do."

"Did you ever see anyone who ever saw the thing happen?"

"Gene Crane was telling about it last summer, but I don't know he said he ever saw it himself."

"That throat-cutting story is what the teacher over at the Corners would call a myth," Lish declared. "Some hag, away back before the dawn of history, ran on something sharp while swimming, cutting his neck. Maybe the hog-herd was to blame, and in order to square himself, told the boss that the hog did it with its back. He was lucky enough to get the story believed and it has come right down the ages, ever since, with so many people repeating it that those who had found out better couldn't get a word in edge-wise."

"No one's keeping you from thinking right now, Lish," Joel Ransom said. "Bring on your proofs were all listening."

"Well," said Hooker, "I had proof enough back in the seventies when I was about Jim's age here. You remember old man Peascott—Henry M. Peascott—don't you, Joel?"

"Yes, a tall man, with side whiskers—kind of a speculator."

"That's the man. When I came here from Pennsylvania, I went to work for Peascott by the month. That was the last year the grasshoppers came, and they ate up everything in our county. Henry M. was luckier than many of his neighbors for he didn't depend on farming altogether for his living, but he was hard hit, just the same we got to the end of the year, he didn't have a cent to pay the balance due on my wages. He was grumpy, and hired me again—told me that if I'd stay by him through the lean years, I should have all there was coming to me in a lump when the fat years came. He kept his word, too."

"A boy gets nervous, though, he hasn't something to look at that stands for money, even if he can't handle the coin himself. Henry M. understood boys; so he gave me a bill of sale for 14 hogs—any that I should pick out of the 63 on the ranch and after that, he called me his partner in the hog business. Hogs in that lean year didn't mean very much, for they were just as lean as anything else, and in that condition couldn't be given away much less sold. In fact, it was doubtful whether we could keep 63 alive."

"We had planted a full quarter section of corn, and it looked nice before the grasshoppers came. After that it looked like almost anything except a cornfield. However, there was a few nibbles here and there, and so we turned the hogs into the bottom and left them to rustle for themselves. They took everything that the hoppers left."

"In spite of that, the poor beasts would have starved to death if it hadn't been for the quitters, the 'back Easters'; two of them saved the day for us."

"Bogardus quit early in September, and went back to Ohio. As I was going by his dugout a month later, I noticed some potato tops that looked pretty good; and a little diggin showed that the hills had a lot of small potatoes in them. By that time the hogs in the cornfield had gnawed the stalks down to the ground, so Henry M. and I drove them across to the potatoes. You ought to have seen those razorbacks root. They turned over every inch of ground, and I don't think that a single potato escaped them."

"That piece of luck carried them in to November when another famine arrived. Henry M. had some corn out cropping back at the second bluffs, and had arranged to trade a few car loads of it for some Iowa corn; but the corn hadn't been shipped yet, and it seemed probable that the hogs would starve before it came. Then we heard that Moses Belacsee, who lived six miles upstream from our place, abandoned his claim and started back to Missouri; Henry M. sent me there to see if I could get anything that a hog could eat."

"Blackslee's bottom lands proved a gold mine to us. He had planted 80 acres of corn between the bluffs and the timber strip along the river, and for some reason, probably because the trees had helped to save it, the corn was the best I ever saw any where in the country that year. Of course there weren't any prime ears, but there were ten bushels of nibbles to the acre. Moses Belacsee couldn't have had much backbone. Why, some of the pluckier people who didn't did n't have anything left except the bare earth, and they got comfortably well off afterward."

"I was afraid that someone else would find that good corn, and so I went home on the run. We figured that with two weeks of pen feeding on Iowa corn and slops, we could ship them to Kansas City in March as fat hogs."

"I looked after them, but it wasn't necessary for me to go up there more than once or twice a week. They couldn't have been driven out of that cornfield into the desert, and I opened up Blackslee's sod stable, in order to make shelter for them. They wintered all right, for it was a mild season."

"Late in February, Peascott went up the river to the state line, to sell some coal in the villages outside the grasshopper belt. We could have sold round home all we could dig, but would have had to take Peascott's notes for it that no one would cash. Henry M. wanted some real money to carry us through to trade spring wheat. We had a little spur track on our place, and I was loading a couple of 'jimmies' to be ready to make shipments in case of orders, when Mrs. Peascott came over the rise from the house, waving a piece of yellow paper."

"Go right up and get those cattle off the bottom over at Blackslee's," Lish she called to me. "There is going to be a flood."

"A what?" I said.

"A flood! I've just had a telegram from Henry. It's raining like sixty up there where he is—a regular cloud burst. He says the river will be all over the bottom down here before night, and for you to get those hogs up on the bluffs just as quick as you can."

"You know how the Saline is—kind of dusty most of the time, but a mile east every few years just to even up the bottom. I glanced over at the little stretch of shallows and couldn't see any reason for getting excited."

"Just wait till I get this car loaded," Mrs. Peascott, I said.

"No," she shouted, "drop that shovel and then stop at the house for a pall of lunch I've put for you, and get on old Jerry, he's the best horse we've got left, and ride hard! You've got to share in those hogs, remember!"

"I wasn't at all excited yet, but no one ever talked back to Mrs. Peascott, not even Henry M., so I obeyed her orders."

"As I was toting along past Murphy's barn, I saw for the first time that the river had risen to the top of its banks. It had come up six feet or more in the last half hour. That opened my eyes, and I made Jerry hustle the last three miles."

"The only way of getting down the Blackslee bottom was by a road that ran along the top of the bluffs. When I got to the foot of the slope, Jerry uplashed through a stream of water a foot deep. The rest of the bottom was already an island, with the buildings the highest part."

"It didn't seem to me that the river could come much higher, but I got those hogs up on the second bench just as soon as I could. Except in the oldest spells, I had usually found them working through the corn; but now they were too worried to eat. Although it was only the middle of the afternoon, every one of them had crowded into the old stable."

"It's funny, isn't it, how dumb beasts will be aware of a natural danger, and try to escape from it, long before a man notices anything wrong. These hogs, of course, used poor judgment in crowding into the stable instead of getting up on the bluffs, but they picked up the highest place on the bottom. The only trouble was that it wasn't nearly high enough."

"They wouldn't come out at my call, so I slipped off the horse, and ran inside to punch them up. I had no sooner got out of the saddle than old Jerry turned and made for the upland as fast as he could scamper. I yelled at him, but that only made him go faster; he too, scented danger, and meant to get out of the way of it."

"At first the hogs refused to budge from the stable. Finally I got a club, and drove them out; but I couldn't get them off the low knoll on which the building stood. It was easy to see why; by this time there was water all round it; the flood was a foot or two deep over the covered ground."

"That water rose an inch a minute. Before I could make up my mind to follow Jerry, it was too late; I should have to swim, and I was a mighty poor swimmer. The current made it impossible to cross the river."

"In twenty minutes my feet were wet, and I climbed up on Blackslee's house, which was built of stone, partly of sods, with a puecho roof. The hogs didn't go back into the barn but crowded together, close to the house."

"The Bread Basket of the Country".

Upper-Mixed farming scene in Saskatchewan. Left—Sheep on a mixed farm in Alberta. Centre—The Canadian Pacific Supply Farm, at Strathmore, Alta. Bottom—Three wheat farmers who have seen the wisdom of keeping at least enough stock to supply the needs of their households.

That the history of the agricultural adventures in the north-western regions of the United States is full of significance for the farmers of western Canada is shown in an article by Marquis James in a recent edition of the "New York Times." In 1917, 1918 and 1919, writes Mr. James, there were in the Dakotas, Montana and Minnesota, three complete crop failures in succession which had deplorable economic effects and produced something like a panic in the three states primarily concerned. But, continues the writer, this misfortune had one desirable result in that it pointed out to the farmers themselves and to the country at large the value of mixed farming, as compared to the one-crop methods which had obtained up to that time. The depression demonstrated the necessity for a change in farming methods and in adopting a policy of more extensive and intensive general or diversified farming. Mr. James believes that the North-western States solved their problems. For a time, says Mr. James, prior to the large successive failures, the wheat growers enjoyed a period of uninterrupted prosperity. They were wheat-growers, but not all of them were farmers. In an official survey by callings of the inhabitants of the bench country, one finds in one township, cobblers, bookkeepers, actresses, a school-teacher, Y.M.C.A. secretaries, dentists, motormen and soda-water dispensers—not pursuing their regular vocations, but farming, or, perhaps, it is better to say growing wheat. They were making money, too, because from 1912 to 1916 there was a phenomenal rainfall in that western section and the wheat yields were astonishing.

People thought this would last for ever. They even thought the rainfall would last. The story one hears in so many new countries was repeated and believed that the "breaking" and cultivation of the native soil would work a permanent increase in the precipitation. Government weather records fail to support this contention. But this and many other things were lost sight of in the heyday of the boom in the United States' Middle West. Land values soared. Everybody had money. Credit was too free. Over expansion followed. Then descended the three crop failures in a row—1917, 1918 and 1919. The previously ample rainfall dropped off and the 100-day farming methods were not equal to the occasion. The country was in a desperate fix. Banks had to lend more money after each failure to enable the farmer to put in another crop in the hope that the proceedings would cover earlier, as well as current loans. The crop of 1920 also failed. Thousands of settlers left and one bank in every three in Montana failed.

The same situation existed in modified form over the Dakotas and Minnesota, but the older localities had reserves to fall back on.

It is easy to be wise after the event and the moral to the above is that there has been a turnover not only in farming methods but in farmers. The 100-day wheat farmer—the dentists and soda clerks—have largely given place to agriculturists of the 365-day a year variety. Wheat is still the main money crop, but it is grown scientifically. Land is summer-fallowed and worked before and after planting. Wheat acreages are everywhere diminishing and crops are rotated and diversified. Rye, millet, alfalfa and flax have been introduced; dairy and beef herds established; poultry, bees and vegetable gardens cultivated. Thus, when wheat fails, as it sometimes must, there is something else to fall back upon. This lesson has not been lost in Canada. Farmers of the Canadian West who are succeeding are in most cases doing so because they have learned the sound economic value of diversified farming as compared to the one-crop method.

To Ford The Ocean In A Ford

What is it that goes over the sea, under the sea and never touches the sea?"

Appropos of what has gone before and to complicate further the puzzle, another question is suggested, "Is it possible to ford the ocean in a Ford?"

The correct answer to the second query is: "Yes and no." And now, "Let there be light!" The thing that goes over the sea, under the sea and never touches the sea, is—no, not an egg in a duck's stomach, but a Ford car in the hold of the S.S. "Melita". So that, in a way, it is possible to ford the ocean in a Ford, and the principals concerned in the performance of this unusual feat are the family Fox, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. and small daughter, Miss Josephine, the S.S. "Melita" and the Atlantic ocean. The family are from Parkstone, England; the S.S. "Melita" is a Canadian Pacific liner plying between Antwerp, Southampton, Cherbourg and Montreal; and the Atlantic is, of course, where everyone suspects it is.

It seems that the Foxes, after motoring all over the British Isles, not once but several times, since they covered 17,000 miles all told, and we too are all told that Great

(3) Canadian Pacific liner Melita which carried the car. across continent from Montreal to Vancouver began all in the same morning. Their routing will be north to Ottawa and on to Winnipeg via North Bay. From Winnipeg to get on with the story, this English family conceived the happy idea of conquering other lands in their veteran car, and keeping their triumphs within the Empire, chose the Dominion of Canada as an aid to victory. Half way across the broad Atlantic the news of the impending landing was wirelessly to Canadian Pacific headquarters in Montreal. That company immediately got in touch with the Ford Motor Company, of Canada, Limited, of Ford, Ontario, and when the ship docked special representatives of the car company were on hand to meet the invaders. A small army of Ford mechanics quickly assembled the car, the customs men were dealt with, a license procured and the 5,000 mile trek

The output of silver from Cobalt during July amounted to about 400,000 ounces, according to preliminary estimates. This had a value of less than $300,000, or at the rate of about $3,500,000 a year.

All attendance records for the Central Canada Exhibition were broken this year. There was a total attendance of 349,200, or 42,400 greater than the previous record of 307,000, made in 1922.

The first Italian ship to visit Vancouver in several years will be the steamer Piacenza, of the Navigazione Libera Trestina, due here at the end of this month. This boat will inaugurate a new service between this port and points on the Mediterranean.

Production of paper by the Powell River Company, at Vancouver, will be increased 80 per cent by the completion of a $5,000,000 development programme, now under way, according to an announcement made by Mr. J. Scanlan, a director of the company. At present the plant is turning out about 75,000 tons a year.

Signs of returning prosperity to Canada are evidenced by the fact that more Canadians are registered in the Canadian Pacific Rocky Mountain resorts during the past week than at any time since the beginning of the year. These resorts, which are usually filled almost entirely by Americans, contain a guest list last week which is 50 per cent Canadian.

Production of gold in Ontario for the first six months of this year amounted to $14,565,219, as compared with $11,810,960 in the corresponding period of last year, according to a report issued by the Provincial Department of Mines. Silver production increased from $3,262,100 to $3,792,662. Total mineral production was $41,560,355, as compared with $37,997,776.

John Edwin Hoag and Frank S. Wilton, who travelled across the entire continent in a small motor-boat arrived recently in Montreal and moored their craft to Canadian Pacific Pier No. 8 having come from Astoria, Oregon, via Columbia River, Celilo Falls, Fort Benton, the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers, the Chicago Drainage Canal and Lake Michigan since May, 20th. From Montreal they continued their journey to New York and returned to the States, via Canadian Pacific Railway to Vancouver and Seattle in order to see the country.

The groundwork for what promises to be a big industry is now being developed by the Singer Sewing Machine Company at Thurso, a point on the Canadian Pacific Railway, on the north shore line to Ottawa. It is planned by the Singer Company to manufacture at Thurso all the woodwork required for their numerous plants in different parts of the world. Work on the new plant is being pushed with all possible speed and it is anticipated that shipments from Thurso will commence sometime early next year.

While the Canadian Railway Commission is beset with all kinds of applications for reductions in Canadian freight rates, the Western group of railways in the United States is asking for a five per cent increase and the northwestern section of the group is asking more than that "as a measure of relief." Some of these roads are in the hands of the receivers. Yet these American railways already have higher rates than the Canadian roads, the freight revenues in the U.S.A. being 1,293 cents per ton mile on western lines as compared with 1,011 cents on all Canadian railways. The average American rate is 28, per cent above the average Canadian rate. Owing to the low grain rates in Canada, the C.P.R. average rate is 1,011 per ton mile, so that the average rate on American western lines is more than 30 per cent above the average C.P.R. rate.

BEAUTY'S THREE GOLDEN RULES

(By Lady Kitty Vincent)

I suppose no woman wants to grow old, but as that is inevitable, she wishes, at least, not to look old. It is vital to "let oneself go," and because one has reached the age of forty or forty-five to think that an elderly head and wrinkles are inevitable. There are three beauty "aids" which will preserve youth in a marvellous manner, but because they are simple, people are apt to think they are not as good as some expensive treatment. They are lemons and hot water, exercise and grease, grease and again grease. It is the combination of the three that make them so invaluable. If you have reached the age of forty and you examine your face in the cold and merciless light of dawn you will probably find faint lines running from nose to mouth, wrinkles under your eyes, and a generally "dry" look about your complexion. I expect you will also notice a distinct disinclination on the part of your muscles to perform bending exercises and movements, and if you persist, next day you will be unpleasantly stiff.

Now I have been this road myself, and I know how fatally easy it is to think: "Oh, I'll begin tomorrow to do something about it." Be warned in time and begin now. After all, some good cold cream and a few lemons will not cost much.

First of all take a glass of hot water with a slice of lemon in it three times a day, morning, mid-day, and at night. This will clear the uric acid out of your blood. Warm a little good olive oil before you go to bed and rub it in to your skin, and then massage in the cold cream. You will find that it works in that way much more easily.

If you have a naturally "glowy" skin use olive oil alone, as combined with the sun, it will give you a lovely warm tan like the real southern tint. Do not forget to treat your neck as well. It is no use having a young face and an old neck. Having rubbed the cream well in, cover your face with a towel for twenty minutes, and then wipe off what is left with a good lotion.

In the morning massage your entire face with a small lump of ice wrapped in the corner of a handkerchief. This will eradicate wrinkles. Last, but not least, walk at least three miles a day, and by walking I mean a sharp walk. If you can manage it a swim is even better and takes less time. Swimming reduces you in the right places and also rounds you where you need it. If you follow this treatment for a few months you will regain your lost youth, but you must combine the three aids, because they work together and increase each other's usefulness.

Lines for a Dining-Room

This room for cheer!
If you have scowls to scowl,
If you have growls to growl,
Grumbling or grumpiness,
Down-in-the-dumpiness—
Don't bring them here.
There's all the rest of the house.
Here is the best of the house:
This room for cheer.

Happiness here!
Silver's a little scratched,
Linen's a little patched, too,
Food's sort of simple, too,
Nothing much fine or new—
But never fear:
Daily we make our bread,
Daily we take our cheer,
Happiness here!

ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICE OF SIGNING ARMISTICE

Under the direction of the Middleton Branch of the Great War Veterans, the annual memorial service of the signing of Armistice, was held in the United Church, Middleton, on Sunday afternoon. Special speaker for the occasion being Lieut. Col. J. H. MacDonald, D. S. O., of Acadia University.

The returned soldiers and the local Cadets assembled at the Armistice and under the direction of Col. Bent, paraded to the Church. Nearly one hundred were in parade.

Unfortunately the G.W.V.A. was unable to procure the services of a band for the day, so the march was made with the aid of three side drums.

At the church a counter march was made and the boys assembled in the church occupying the front pews. Every available seat in the church was occupied by an interested and attentive congregation.

The impressive service was opened with an anthem by the choir, followed by a prayer and announcements by Rev. Peter Walker, pastor of the United Church.

The order of service then followed. Hymn: "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Scripture reading and prayer by Dr. MacDonald.

Duo: Messrs. Harold Reagh and Norman Baker.

Hymn: "Nearer My God To Thee."

Antem: "The Supreme Sacrifice" by the choir.

Hymn: "Lord of the Lands, make Canada Thine Own."

Benediction: Rev. Robert Miller.

Hymn: "Save The King."

Dr. MacDonald took as his text Dueteronomy, 4th chapter, 9th verse: "Only take heed to thyself, and keep thy soul diligently, that thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen, and lest they depart from thy sight all the days of thy life; but teach them to thy sons, and thy sons' son."

He urged upon his hearers to remember the armistice, remember what it meant and means for the world. To remember for their own sake. He believed in conscription, but would go further if another war arose, he would conscript wealth, as by doing so it would avert further bloodshed.

We must remember the day for the sake of generations to come, to tell their sons, so that they may know. We must remember the day for the sake of the old men from this district, who laid down their lives, we should remember, and Canada would be better for the great sacrifice, because of a more abundant harvest of manhood and peace. He touched on the Peace Pact that was made in Switzerland on October 18th, to which Canada was a party, because of her sons who slept beneath the poplars on Flanders fields. The Peace Pact was made to help prevent further conflicts in Europe. Dr. MacDonald's sermon was listened to with rapt interest and we should understand better the meaning of the great war, and the necessity to remember the Armistice and the men who faced a very hell to save Canada and the whole world.

After the service the soldiers marched to the Memorial Hospital where the great war was soiled. Col. Bent then spoke to the men in his discourse he reminded them that it was not the will of the G.W.V.A. that the great war which took place on the Eleventh Hour of the Eleventh Day of the Eleventh month should be linked up with any other memorial. It was distinctly their day (Armistice Day) and should be retained. It was the duty of every returned man and citizen to bring pressure upon the government to make November 11th, which is the day upon which Armistice Day can truly be held.

The march was then continued back to where armistice was signed. Addresses were delivered.

LAWRENCETOWN COUPLE, 42 YEARS MARRIED, CELEBRATE

Lawrencetown, Nov. 7—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Bishop of Lawrencetown, celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their marriage at their home on Bridge Street, on Wednesday afternoon and evening. A large number of guests gathered and tendered their heartiest congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop were married by the late Rev. R. D. Porter, a former pastor of the Lawrencetown Baptist Church. Mr. Bishop conducted a successful business for many years in South Williamstown, afterwards moving to Lawrencetown, where he has been prominently connected with every phase of the town's progress. He has also been a leader in the work of the church, having served the church faithfully as clerk for over thirty years, and for several years Deacon and Sunday School Superintendent.

Mrs. Bishop was formerly Miss Marianna Marshall, daughter of the late Calvin Marshall, of Williamstown. To them have been born five children, three sons, Calvin, Clyde and Fred; and two daughters, Mrs. Paul Durling and Mrs. Alton Brown, all of whom live in Lawrencetown.

Luncheon was served in the dining room which was decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Clyde Bishop presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Paul Durling and Mrs. Alton Brown. Mrs. Fred L. Bishop received the guests.

The honored couple were the recipients of several valuable and useful gifts, among which was a gift from the teaching staff of the Lawrencetown Baptist Sunday School and another substantial sum in gold from the five children.

WISE WORDS OF WISE MEN

Any unpurged mind will conceive of the Scriptural idea of prayer as the of one of the most down right, sturdy realities in the universe. Right in the heart of God's plan of government it is lodged as a power.

Amidst the conflicts which are going on in the evolution of that plan it stands as a power. Into all the intricacies of Divine working, and the mysteries of Divine decree, it reaches out silently as a power. In the mind of God, we may be assured the conception of prayer is no fiction whatever man may think of it.

In his garden, Mr. Palmer has at present growing about 150 different varieties, bulbs having been secured from all parts of the world, even Central Africa contributing its quota to this wonderful collection.

Having completed their tour of Canada as the guests of E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the ten British journalists left Canada early in October for England, to relate there the story of their experiences and to give their readers the impressions they have gained of the Dominion.

During the month of August 1,132 vessels, comprising 131 trans-Atlantic, 35 coasting and 966 inland steamers, entered the port of Montreal, these having a total net registered tonnage of 1,936,945, while in the same period 1,141 vessels went out, these representing 1,932,145 net registered tons. Since the opening of navigation 787 ocean-going vessels, representing 3,468,968 net tons, have entered the port, as compared with only 649, representing 2,200,072 net tons last year; these figures being up to the midnight of September 5th.

Y. F. Norcross, a well-known Chicago lawyer, had an amazing experience recently while staying at the Banff Springs Hotel and playing on the golf course there. His approach to the ninth hole was disrupted by a huge bull elk which tossed its antlers and stood pawing the ground with evident hostility as the lawyer prepared to play his ball.

Mr. Norcross was about to observe the better part of valor when the bull's attention was distracted by the appearance of a cow elk which made an effective substitute for the golfer and both animals disappeared into the neighboring bush.

Travelling in a five-passenger 1926 improved model Ford touring car from Halifax to Vancouver, J. L. S. Scrymgeour and E. Flickinger are performing a feat unique in the annals of motor travel in this country. From Franz, near Sauli, Ste. Marie, they travelled on the tracks of the Algoma Railroad to Fort William, having been granted the use of the lines by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The whole run of about 4,600 miles took nearly eight weeks, and a series of still and moving pictures were taken en route to commemorate the adventure.

The Question of Water for Your Country Home

In planning your country home nothing is quite so important as the question of water.

Formerly it was considered sufficient for the farm or country home to have a hand pump or windmill. But now the hand pump and windmill are as obsolete as the old unsanitary outhouse or chemical toilet.

Empire Duro Water Systems

made in many sizes and styles, enable any home anywhere, to have running water under pressure, all over the house, just like city water service.

Duro systems can be used with deep wells, shallow wells, cisterns or springs. They may be driven from high line current, farm light plant or gasoline engine.

A Duro system is a sound investment—it lessens labor and promotes health and cleanliness. It replaces drudgery and despair with comfort and happiness. And it is also a permanent improvement that adds to the value of your property.

Have your architect or builder ask for an estimate. Specify Duro.

SANTA APPROVES A CHRISTMAS GIFT

Santa Claus has been down a great many chimneys since he started business, and he is intimately acquainted with a large number of people. He knows that the best kind of gifts are those which please the whole family, and which bring the excitement and enjoyment of Christmas every week. That is why he looks so jolly when he receives hundreds of subscriptions to The Youth's Companion with which to fill his pack. And, being wise from long experience, he knows that people are likely to overlook things around Christmas, so he chuckles when he sticks a Companion into the top of a stocking. "Be as greedy as you like," he thinks, "the more, the better for you."

The 52 issues of The Youth's Companion for 1926 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts, and fun. Just send your order to the address below and Santa will take care of delivering the paper to your home or to the home of a friend. Subscribers will receive:

1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues in 1926, and
2. The remaining issues of 1925. All for only $2.00.

3. Or include McCall's Magazine, a monthly authority on fashions. Both publications, only $2.50.

THE BOOKWORM AND THE FLOWERS

He sat with back turned to me
And I saw the flowers
He did
All through the sunny morning
Hours
He hid
Himself inside a book
And didn't even take a look
At us.
And though we swayed with skirts
outfing,
We dears,
And wafted scents to nose down
Our fears
Were that he would not see:
He would not even notice me
And us.
And then he rose upon his feet
And went:
Said testy words about the heat
And bent
His head to read again.
How odd!
He knew not he's been close to God,
And us.
—Joseph Madden
