PRINCE HENRY'S VISIT. The visit of Prince Henry of Prussia to the United States is attracting attention in Paris, and there is a tinge of irony in the newspapers' comments. which betray some feeling of pique at the enthusiasm of his reception. The Temps says: "This time it is not the iron glove but the hand the glove of silk and velvet that Prince Henry stretches out. It is somewhat significant that the Washington birthday fetes passed almost unperceived among the brilliance of the reception of the prince who represents one of the monarchies of effete Europe. The great republic is launched in the midst of the international melee and no longer has time to devote itself to the jealous and almost ex-clusive worship of the glorious memories of its history." The Journal des Debats remarks:

A Regent To Be Appointed by the But in the Presence of a Brilliant Cecii Rhodes Said To Be at the and Notable Assemblage.

> Miss Roosevelt Named the Yacht and Sent the Trim Craft Careening Into Its Destined Element.

> New York, Feb. 25.-In a drizzling rain and in the presence of a brilliant assemblage, amidst cheering and the roar of cannon, the German emperor's new schooner-yacht Meteor was launched from Shooter's Island, at 10:30 a.m. today.

> Unlike the weather, the arrangements were perfect, and no untoward incident marred the occasion. The president, Mrs. and Miss Roosevelt, Prince Henry, and the distinguished party accompanying them, were enthusiastically cheered on arriving at the platform built just back of the bow of the Meteor.

MISS ROOSEVELT'S WORK. Without delay, after greetings had been exchanged. Miss Roosevelt stepped forward, and taking hold of a silver-covered bottle containing German champagne, broke it on the side of the vessel. Immediately she seized a silver axe and severed the rope which released the weights holding the Meteor. The Meteor went gracefully into the water, with the American flag breaking out at the traffrail. American and German national airs were played, and from the scores of crafts containing excursionists came enthusiastic cheering.

Miss Roosevelt wore a dress of sapphire blue velvet, a large black hat trimmed with ostrich feathers, and a fur muff and boa. ARRIVAL OF THE DISTINGUISH-ED PARTY.

The special train bearing President Roosevelt from Washington to the launching reached Jersey City at 6:40 a.m. The president remained on board until the arrival of the prince's train, cabling from Buenos Ayres says that the Welsh in the Chubut district have inder head on the engine of the prince's informed the government that they train blew out and the train was more than an hour late in reaching Jersey

Soon after 8 o'clock the president and the prince and their suites embarked on a boat for Shooter's Island, where the launching took place. The weather was most inauspicious.

A fine, cold rain was falling, and the harbor was covered with mist. The boat proceeded direct to Shooters Island, where a guard of police and naval militia has been on duty since early morning.

When the prince alighted from the train, and, accompanied by his suite, passed through the station to the boat, there was the usual great crowd of commuters, who cheered him heartily. The ovation was repeated when a few minutes later President Roosevelt traversed the same route. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt. He touched his hat time and again to the cheering multitude. He was followed by Secretary of War Root, Mrs. Root. and Miss Root, and by the other members of the party. Detectives and secret service men brought up front and

The president and prince, with Mrs. and Miss Roosevelt, arrived on the platform at 10:22. The prince conducted Miss Roosevelt to the small platform immediately under the bow of the boat. On this platform at the time of the launching were President Roosevelt, Prince Henry, Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Roosevelt, the mayor of New York and

The wedges flew up and out. The yacht trembled, started forward, and then slid slowly down into the water to the cheers of the distinguished gatherings. She took the water safely, and brought up in the middle of the Kill Von Kull without accident. Prince Henry and Miss Roosevelt were then photographed. The prince presented Miss Roosevelt with a silken cap ribbon of the new yacht Meteor, and she wore it on her left arm as she stood before the cam-

Gray, second vice-president of the society, the last speaker. He launched into an attack of the popular demonstration accorded Prince Henry. The diners were thrown into confusion, and at the conclusion of his remarks most of them hurriedly left the room. "I do not approve of this reception and this great ovation of this American people to a German paper admiral which has itself denied scant credit to a real admiral, an American," Mr. Gray said, "it is the height of flunkevism."

Take a long, searching look at American money that chances to find its way into your hands. This advice is prompted by the appearance of a Pinkerton detective from Chicago, who arrived here yesterday. His assignment for some months has been to look for a dark-eyed man who is alleged to have been passing counterfeit money. The suspect is supposed to have arrived here on Saturday, Feb. 8, and is thought to be here yet. The detective has trailed him through Cleveland, Detroit and Port Huron, and at last followed him here, two weeks behind, however. The Pinkerton man has in his possession a photograph of the supposed swindler. Resolution of Condolence From Executive of London Curling Club.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the London Curling Club, of which the late Postmaster Thomas A. Browne was chairman, held last evening at the office of J. W. Jones, the latter was elected to fill the position made vacant by Mr. Browne's death. The following letter of condolence was drafted, which the secretary was instructed to present to Mrs. Browne:

"Dear Madam,-It is with feelings of profound sorrow on our part, and some appreciation of the great loss that you have been called upon to sustain, that we venture at this time to assure you of our sincere sympathy with you in the sad affliction that has visited you in the sudden and unexpected death of our friend and esteemed fellow-member, your beloved husband, Mr. Thos. A. Browne. "Not only was Mr. Browne one of the members of long-standing in the London Curling Club, but he was also one of our most reliable players and one of our best-loved friends. "The enthusiasm which he carried into all his work characterized him in this recreation to which he was so attached, and only those who have shared with him the enjoyment of the game, knew how often he inspired others with his own buoyancy of spirit and intense interest.

"This influence was always on the side of the things that are best, and both by conduct and by open advocacy he could be counted upon to support measures that make for true manliness and a pure and an honorable life. "The sad circumstance that it was from our rink where his cheery tones had so often been heard in all the vigor of life, that his body was carried to his home, gives added sorrow to our grief. Not at All Characteristic of the Race-Melodies That Are All But Forgotten.

"Did it ever occur to you that we have had in this country during a little more than a half-century, three distinct types of negro songs?"

The speaker was a retired minstrel performer of the old school, who has been spending a few days in Washington, says the Star.

"Perhaps it would be more correct to Bay two, for the so-called 'coon' or 'ragtime' songs are far from typical of the American negro," he continued. "The first that I would speak of are the ante-bellum melodies of the type composed by Stephen C. Foster, 'Old Elack Joe, 'Down on the Suwanee River, 'Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground,' 'Off for Charleston So Early in the Mornin',' 'Old Uncle Ned and 'Down Mobile' are of the class to which I refer. They are songs that depict to a considerable degree the conditions of the southern negro in the days before the war, or suggest something of his feelings during that period. The melodies of not a few of those songs are, of course, familiar to the present generation. Foster's melo-

There was AN AWFUL CRASH, followed by the sound of escaping steam, and then silence.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 25.-Dr. Bryce this morning received from the Ottawa health authorities a vigorous protest against what is said to be the chief cause of the continuance of smallpox at Ottawa-the permitting of lumbermen to return home from camps where they have been exposed to the disease. The victim is a child, and is supposed to have caught the disease from a colored man who came from unknown parts a few days ago, to work for a farmer named Ouelette. The hotel and several houses in the vicinity have been quarantined.

Fisher & Carroll's "Put Me Off at Buffalo," which appeared at the New Grand last night, is well described as "a musical absurdity," with considerable more absurdity than music. Its chief purpose seems to be to allow Harry E. Fisher to show his ability to bark like a dog, an accomplishment which enables him to raise a laugh every time. The piece also serves as a rack on which are hung some very good specialties. Fisher is one of the funniest knock-about comedians seen here for some time, and to him was credited much of the laughter of the mier, as Willie Neverwork, a tramp; Jack Sample, as Will E. FOR CHILDREN-If your little boy or girl comes home from school or play with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Omega Oil. There isn't a bit of danger in using it freely, for there is no turpentine or ammonia in it. A whole barrelful of it would not burn or blister the tenderest skin. Children like to have their mothers rub it on them, because it smells so nice and is such a beautiful green color. It is a pure vegetable oil lini. ment, which does not evaporate, and you must keep rubbing it in until it is all taken up by the peres. Mothers ought to remember that "a stitch in time saves nine," and keep a bottle of Omega Oil in the house all the time. A bottle of it on the shelf is a necessity in every home. It is a protection much the same as a lock on your door.

You may not need it very often, but when you DO need it, you need it bad.

KILLED BY A BULL. Niagara Falls, Feb. 25.-Telesthores Seigl, a brother at the Carmelite monastery at Fall's View, was killed by a Jersey bull on Saturday. Brother Telesthores, who was employed as a farm hand, is supposed to have gone into the stall where the bull was kept to feed him, when the bull attacked him, knocked him down and trampled him to death. The brother was found dead with the animal standing over him. Brother Telesthores had been connected with the convent and monastry for the past fifteen years, he having come from Germany, and was 50 years of The bull was never known to be vicious animal.

It is a great affliction for a woman to have her face disfigured by pimples or any form of eruptive disease. It makes her morbid and sensitive, and robs her of social enjoyment. Disfiguring eruptions are caused by impure blood, and are entirely cured by the great bloodpurifying medicine-Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It removes from the blood the poisonous impurities which cause disease. It perfectly and permanently cures serofulous sores, eczema, tetter, boils, pimples and other eruptive diseases which are caused by the blood's impurity. It increases the action of the blood-making glands and thus in-creases the supply of pure rich blood. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements in a paper, and obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

A SHARP BLOW TO THE STOCK MARKET.

Roosevelt's Recent Decision.

New York, Feb. 24.-Henry Clews & Co.'s circular of Feb. 22, says: "The action of the administration againt the Northern Securities Company was a sharp blow to the stock market, and will be likely to deprive it of much of the support given upon the expectation that the merger would be sustained in the courts. As other important mergers than the Northern Pacific and Great Northern were under way, and would undoubtedly have been carried through in event of a favorable decithe various bankers' plans for combination will meet with much delay if not final defeat, depriving the market of one of its recent supports. It is not to be supposed, however, that these plans will be quietly aban-The case will be stubbornly contested in the courts; and, if this method of controlling competition or giving community of interest some tangible form through security-holding companies is not successful, other means will unquestionably be attempted. It is far better, therefore, that the uncertainty should be settled before the creation is ventured of a vast mass of securities whose legal status could be upset after they had been distributed among the public. "The market will require some time to recuperate from disappointment over the Northern Securities developments. Considerable liquidation has resulted and more may follow, as large quantities of stocks have been held in anticipation of a favorable decision. The outlook now is for a prolonged contest between legal giants. The issues are finely drawn, and no one can foresee the final decision of the Supreme Court, which it may be months and perhaps years in rendering. Stocks will now have to sell more closely on their merits, and holders must congratulate themselves that their value is now dependent upon present national prosperity and not upon indefinite 'community-of-interest" fictions."

Ontario.

The Ontario Minister of Agriculture has issued a valuable pamphlet on New Ontario as a field for settlement, and Old Ontario as the banner agricultural Province. From the contents of the pamphlet we propose to draw freely in the following article.

It is contended with truth that no portion of the American continent offers greater advantages to the settler who with little or no capital desires to establish himself and attain a comfortable independence than does the Province of Ontario. Embracing a total land area of 219,650 miles or 140,grain belt of North America, endowed the fertility of its soil, the wealth of its mineral deposits and the value of its timber, and possessing a climate eminently healthful and bracing, Ontario ranks as the most progressive and advanced agricultural community in America. Indisputable evidence of her superiority in this respect was afforded at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893, when Ontario was adjudged the front place as to live stock, dairy and fruit exhibits and stood equal to any competing Province or State in the variety and excellence of her general farm products. Today there is no division of the continent that produces in such perfection and variety the grains, grasses, roots, fruits and live stock to be found on the farms of Ontario. The natural energy, industry and intelligence of the people are unsurpassed elsewhere, and the advantages of the soil and climate have been supplemented by the adoption of the agriculture. For many years the government of the Province has devoted special attention to the encouragement twenty-nine years, ending with 1900, is

The agricultural instruction and experimental work carried on at the Guelph Agricultural College has done much to raise the standard of agriculture throughout the Province. Trained specialists in every department have placed their knowledge and skill at the disposal of the farming community, more especially in the important branches of live stock, dairying and horticulture. The result has been the attainment of such a high standard of excellence in many Ontario farm products as to lead to a continually increasing demand in Britain for our agricultural staples, more especially in round numbers about $5,000,000.

Since the establishment of dairy schools and the sending out of traveling dairies as a means of instructing farmers in the best methods of butter making equal progress is being made in that department, and the butter produced in the Province is attaining an excellent reputation abroad as shown by the great increase in quantity exported.

Cheese in Ontario is produced entirely in factories, mostly run on the cooperative plan, and the same system is being rapidly introduced in the manufacture of butter, though most of the latter product is still produced by the domestic dairies. The number of cheese factories in operation in the province in 1899 was 1,203, producing 123,323,923 pounds of cheese, valued at $12,120,887, while the number of creameries or butter factories was only 323, producing 9,113,964 pounds of butter, valued at $1,746,363. Even this shows a rapid increase in butter factories, as there were only 74 in 1893. The area under pasture in 1899 was returned by the municipal assessors as 2,710,263 acres. In connection with the dairy Industry the following figures of live stock in the province for the year 1900 are of interest: Cattle, 2,429,330; horses, 617,309; sheep, 1,797,213; hogs, 1,771,641; poultry, 9,541,241. These figures fairly represent the relative proportions of the various kinds of live stock under the mixed farming pursued in Ontario.

The latest returns of the Ontario in bushels was as follows: Fall wheat, 23,369,737; spring wheat, 6,940,333; bar-1.874.261; beans, 820,373; potatoes, 21,-476,429; mangel-wurzel, 24,728,525; car- lessened. Then as for the suggestion rots. 3.469.123: turnips, 59.330,395; corn (maize), 27,093,561. Hay and clover man of science" counts pests, in the were produced to the extent of 3,133,- carnival of death, it may be found 045 tons, and the tobacco crop amounted to 2,854,900 pounds.

During the last generation the province has witnessed a complete revolution in agricultural methods and processes-largely owing to the educational work carried on by the Government. This has resulted in the substitution of mixed farming for the system of raising little else besides grain, who object to it are not the best which was formerly general. The ad- friends of the side he espouses. In vantages of the change are obvious from every point of view. When the farmer places his sole or main dependence upon the wheat crop the failure of the harvest for a single season entails severe hardship, if not absolute ruin. With mixed farming in operation, the loss of a season's grain crop is much less heavily felt, as there are other sources of income in stock and dairy produce. In addition to this consideration, mixed farming on a stock-raising basis contributes greatly to maintaining the fertility of the soil, which is rapidly impoverished by successive grain crops unless its productiveness is renewed by lavish manur-

The great amount of attention now devoted to stock-raising and dairy production has given a great impetus to the prosperity of Ontario farming, despite the decrease of prices which has affected agriculture throughout the world. Other branches which have made specially noteworthy progress are fruit-growing and poultry-raising, which have materially increased the farmer's source of income and enlarged the sum total of agricultural production. The character of the soil and climate of Ontario are admirably adapted for mixed farming. All kinds 516,000 acres, lying within the great of stock and poultry thrive well with proper care, and the greater attention with magnificent natural resources in now devoted to breeding and the choice of the best varieties has been abundantly rewarded by the position now held by the horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry of the Province and their various products in the markets of Britain and the United States.

Significance of the Lisgar Victory.

The victory of Mr. Stewart, the Libtral candidate in Lisgar, is even more significant than at first evident. The Legislature of Manitoba was adjourned in the closing weeks of the campaign, and the Conservative Ministers and their followers flocked into the constituency to aid their candidate, Mr. Toombs. When election day came, however, it was found that he was hopelessly in the rear, not polling enough of votes to save his deposit. This is explained by the fact that a most advanced scientific methods of few days before the election, when it became evident that he could not win the word was passed around by the Conservative managers that he should of agriculture in all its branches, in be sacrificed, and that all hands should which they have been heartily sup- vote for Mr. Richardson, the "Indeported by the Legislature. The total amount to overcome Mr. Stewart's personal expended by the Government for the popularity and the strength of the encouragement of agriculture during Government case. The outcome of the election is another personal triumph for the Minister of the Interior, for while it is true that the policy of the Ministry was subject to some attention, the great effort of the opponents of the Liberal candidate was to bring Hon. Mr. Sifton into disrepute with the electors. This is not the first contest in which such tactics have been put in use against the Minister of the Interior, but he has never flinched in face of his antagonists, and he has invariably brought them to confusion and disaster. We congratulate this talented son of Middlesex on his latest noteworthy achievement.

The silly season is not yet due, but we note that the Spectator (London) has opened its columns to a correspondence on the euthanasia, or what, for those who prefer English to Greek, we may call "The Happy Dispatch." It is suggested that those who are weary of the world may be allowed to depart in the pleasantest fashion possible. Men do not believe in Dante's hell of suicides, and they question Shakespeare's statement that the Creator has fixed his canon 'gainst self-slaughter. It is stated in the course of this controversy that the famous Mr. Nobel offered to endow a death chamber in Italy to be used by those whose sufferings made life unbearable; they were to have a good banquet, and good cigars after, and then the gas was to be turned on which in a few minutes would do the deadly business. It is stated that this remarkable man always carried an effective poison, to be ready in case he was struck by a painful and mortal malady. In his case nature did the business so speedily that no assistance was needed from science. Such discussions may serve a purpose, but from our point of view they are decidedly morbid. In justice, we must say that the Spectator itself decidedly opposes any lessening of the responsibility with regard to bearing one's own burdens and doing one's own duty. The temper and religion of Britons, as Department of Agriculture for 1899 a rule, leads them to take a healthy show that the assessed farm lands of view of this subject and to regard life Ontario comprise a total of 22,670,958 as a sacred trust, so that it is a shameacres, of which 13,111,292 acres are ful, cowardly thing to flee from one's cleared and under cultivation. Mr. Hyman and the Railway Committee.

The Toronto Globe, speaking of the appointment of Mr. C. S. Hyman, M. P., to the Chairmanship of the Railway Committee, has the following to sav: "There could hardly be a better choice for Chairman of the Railway Committee of the House of Commons than Mr. C. S. Hyman, of London. This committee is perhaps the most important of all the committees of Parliament. Its decisions have great weight with the House, and it is only at its meetings that measures sought by railway promoters and railway corporations are thoroughly considered. Mr. Hyman is far from being a popularityhunter, and as yet has taken a very modest part in the business of Parliament. It is questionable, however, if there is an abler man in the Liberal contingent from Ontario, and he is certain if he remains in politics to become one of the very first men in the House. He is quick, firm, even-tempered, and, we believe, sufficiently resolute when the public interests need to be protected. As Chairman of the Railway Committee he has it in his power to do very great public service."

Mr. Crawford, M.P.P., says he did not invest a dollar in American ranching lands. Neither did Hon. Mr. Dryden. He simply had an interest in the cattle that occupied the Dakota ranches. The Conservatives papers do not yet seem to have caught on .-Kingston Whig.

Crooks on Kron Prinz-One Had $40, 000 of Unset Diamonds on His Person—The Emperor's Yacht.

Washington, Feb. 23.-Special preparations had been made for the reception of Prince Henry of Prussia and his suite at the White House. All of the state departments on the first floor had received much attention from the government florists, but the decorations of the three communicating parlors, the blue room, where the president and the prince met and exchanged greetings, the red parlor, occupied by Mrs. and Miss Roosevelt, and the green room, where there were assembled the members of the cabinet and their ladies and a few invited guests, were exquisitely beautiful.

The prince and his party were received with all the honors due the oc-casion, and the party was quickly ushered into the east room, and from there the prince alone was conducted to the blue parlor, where the president was in waiting to receive him. In conformity with diplomatic eti-quette the president received the royal visitor in private and without introduction. After greetings had been extended the president led the prince into the red parlor and introduced him to Mrs. Roosevelt and his daughter, Miss Alice. After a few words with them the royal visitor was conducted into the green room and introduced to the members of the cabinet.

The party then proceeded to the east room, where the members of the prince's suite were introduced to the president. The entire ceremony occupied just 30 minutes. The conversation between the president and the prince was of a purely formal nature, and had no political significance fur ther than that contained in the usual general expressions of international amity and good-will.

AT THE GERMAN EMBASSY. Prince Henry arrived at the German embassy shortly after 11 o'clock, the approach of the party being announced by the shrill notes of cavalry bugles. A battalion of engineers fronted the embassy. As the party came into sight the Engineers' band broke into "My Country, 'Tis of Thee.' Once within the German embassy his imperial highness was indeed at home, for in diplomatic parlance, this was the same as the native soil of the fatherland. Tremendous cheering from the crowds at 11:40 announced the coming roadbed, etc., was in a disgraceful of President Roosevelt to the embassy to return the call of Prince Henry.

Every woman will read with interest the following letter from a lady who has been cured of a serious illness by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. She says the testimonials she reads are not half strong enough, Benjamin Hatfield, Hillyard street, St. John, N. B., writes: three years I was a sufferer from extreme nervousness and female weakness, and found it necessary to undergo a very painful operation. I was pale and weak, had no appetite, and would sometimes faint two or three times a day. For seven weeks I was under the doctor's care, but he seemed unable to help me. Despairing of recovery I took the advice of a friend, who told me that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food would build me up and make me strong and well again. After four months' use of this preparation I found myself greatly improved, but continued the treatment for one year, using in all sixteen boxes. I have been blessed with a young daughter now, and believe that I am as strong and well as ever in my life. As a result I cannot say too much in favor of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It has performed a complete and thorough cure in my case, and I am healthier and fleshier than I have been for years. The testimonials I see are not half strong enough. I tell my friends and acquaintances about it, and many of them join me in pronouncing Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the most effective restorative obtainable. Desiring that other sufferers may benefit by my happy experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I willingly give you permission to use this testimonial.'

TOMBS ANGEL DEEPLY REGRETTED

Mrs. Rebecca Foster Had Endeared Herself to Hundreds of Prisoners.

New York, Feb. 25 .- Memorial services have been held in the Tombs prison for Mrs. Rebecca Foster, known "Tombs Angel," who was burned to death in the Park Avenue Hotel

For twelve years Mrs. Foster seldom missed a Sunday in the Tombs. It is many years since she obtained the "run" of the prison. For a long while, like others, she went to the warden's office daily and obtained a pass to enter the gate. The daily issuance of passes became a burden, and finally, on his own responsibility, Warden Failon gave her permission to enter the place as she pleased. This courtesy was extended to her by other wardens. In the woman's prison one service was held. Hardened women, who had withstood the efforts of Mrs. Foster, and who, time after time, when taken from their evil lives by her, had gone back to their old careers, cried like children. Florence Burns, who is accused of killing Walter Brooks, was one of the last to come under the influence of Mrs. Foster. Convinced that the girl was innocent, Mrs. Foster had several talks with her. When the "angel" did not appear on Saturday, Florence asked for her, and was told she had been killed. Florence was much affected, but it was not until the service yesterday that she gave way. Then she laid her head upon the shoulder of one of the matrons and sobbed.

All the co-workers with Mrs. Foster spoke of her self-sacrifice, and the place she had filled in the hearts of hundreds whom she had rescued and sent away to lead better lives. In the men's prison there was a service at which prisoners in whom Mrs. Foster had taken an interest were present. Some of the men wept when her name was mentioned.

Sophia Beach, 61 years of age, guest of the Park Avenue Hotel, who was burned about the face and body Saturday morning, died in Bellevue Hospital Sunday. She is the nineteenth victim. All the other five victims in the different hospitals probably will recover. Rev. Advice to Mothers

If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Nerviline freely—a whole bottleful wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles, 25 cents.

There was an exceedingly small attendance of farmers at the market here this porning. The light offerings is partly due to the bad roads and the fact that farmers as a rule have very little produce to sell. We need not expect any large attendance till Easter.

Hay and Straw-Only about 10 loads on sale, and as yesterday's offerings were light, the priced advanced 50c to $1 per ton, selling at $9 to $10 per ton; the demand is good.

Butter and Eggs-The offerings in this line are light, with prices as quoted; there is an excellent demand for both butter and eggs.

Apples and Vegetables-Very few of the first-named article on sale; prices are unchanged.

Potatoes-More plentiful, and prices are inclined to be easier; 70c per bag was paid for a couple of choice loads. Poultry-In fair supply, at 11c to 12c per lb for turkeys; geese, ducks and chickens hold their own, with prices steady.

Dressed Hogs-About 30 on sale; mostly at $7 50 to $7 75 per cwt, and in a few instances $8 per cwt was paid. Live Hogs-Mr. D. McIntyre paid $5 75 per cwt, for about 100 choice hogs, which he shipped from here yesterday.

Meats-Firm: the supply is fair. Wool-Easier in price; washed selling at 11c to 12c per lb: unwashed at 6c to

A LIBERAL HOPE IN TAXATION. London, Feb. 25.—The prevailing depression on the Liberal side is regarded by practical politicians as unreasonable. One of the best informed Unionists has admitted to me that a reform of taxation, both imperial and local, is the great question on which the partties are likely to divide in the near future, and that the Liberals may return to power sooner than anybody now expects, if the ministers are unable to adopt a practical policy for lightening the burdens of the people ith moderate noomes. Lord Lords Tweedmouth, supported by Spencer and Rosebery, contended in the lords that a strong prima facie case has been made out already for an inquiry of a sweeping nature. Lord Salisbury turned a deaf ear to all the demands of the united opposition. Mr. Brodrick is under fire daily in the commons on the same question, Mr. Labouchere being among the surest and most persistent marksmen. DOMINION PARLIAMENT

Tariff Resolution.

Favors a Tariff Based on the Principle of Reciprocity in Trade

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Feb. 24.-While the attention of the United States is turned tiste, bound for St. Malo, France, eastward towards Germany and its crown prince, the great republic itself is receiving no little attention from the Canadian Parliament. First it was Bourassa and the Alaskan boundary, with Maclean as his aide-de-camp, carrying the bugaboo of "Americanization"; then Gourley, of Colchester, with breathings of war and annexation of capitals; and now it is John Charlton, of North Norfolk, who offers the United States reciprocity in natural products, and in the event of the rejection of this proposal, he, too, makes threats of war. Not, however, war of the Gourley stamp, in which trenches, bullets, and such unpleasant incidentals figure, but a war of tariffs. Mr. Charlton today wished the house to say that in its opinion Canadian import duties should be arranged upon the principle of reciprocity in trade conditions so far as may be consistent with Canadian interests. If the United States does not grant this reciprocity, he would give a rebate of not less than 40 per cent-even more, if necessary, though that amount was mentioned in his motion-of the amount of duties imposed upon dutiable imports from nations or countries which will admit Canadian natural products into their market free of duty. But, if Canadian interests were injured by this rebate of 40 per cent or more, the scale of Canadian duties affecting these interests, should be made sufficiently high to avoid such injury. His speech in support of his motion teemed with ponderous statements of statistics. It was received jubilantly by the opposition, one of whom, A. C. Bell, of Pictou, N. S., was the seconder. The motion was in line with Mr Charlton's propagation of the reciprocity idea, which he has vigorously conducted in Canada and in the principal centers of commerce in the United States. He believes that the reciprocity treaty which existed from 1854 to 1866 proved that reciprocity is advantageous to Canada; that it should not have been abrogated; and that the United States now owes it to Canada, in justice and neighborliness, to re-enter into that agreement so far as it effects the free admission of our natural produts into that country. He believes further that such reciprocity would be beneficial to the United States, as well as to Canada, but he is equally convinced that the Americans do not see it that way. He has taken upon his

in which they now live. Mr. Charlton would expect the United States to grant free admission to lic statement. Canada of natural products-absolute and unrestricted reciprocity in this particular line-and in return receive nothing more from Canada than the republic is receiving at the present time. It should do this, he said, because we buy from them three times as much as we sell to them. We buy three times the quantity of agricultural products as we sell across the Our manufacturing imports border. come chiefly from the United States, and Canada stands third in the list of countries purchasing it. Our trade was in 1866, the year in which the reciprocity treaty was abrogated. For 35 years the United States has oblitthat time they have been intolerant and unfair. Because of these facts he believed that the United States should grant us nothing short of free trade in natural products and expect in return no reductions in the existing Canadian tariff. Already the States was getting from this country more than enough to satisfy such a demand. If it were refused Canada should apply the policy of self-protection. England might grant to Canada a 10 per cent preference on wheat, in which event we would need to bother no more about the republic's attitude. Reciprocity then could be turned down. Or Great Britain and the Empire might raise a tariff against the outside world and the desired end would thus be accomplished; or again -and this was the immediate remedy proposed by Mr. Charlton, should the United States refuse to entertain our proposition, Canada might offer a discriminating rebate of 40, 50, even 80 or 90 per cent to countries which would free the natural products of the

Mr. Charlton's contentions were supported by voluminous quotations of statistics, which tended to show that while Canada was virtually barred from the American market, our liberal. low tariff favored the States even more than Great Britain or the rest of the world. Our imports from the States had increased from 281/2 millions in 1866 to 11914 millions in 1901, or 318 per cent, while our imports from Great Britain had increased in the same time from 40 to 43 millions, or only 7 7-10 per cent; and this notwithstanding the fact that the United per cent in that time, and Great Britain's had increased 527 per cent. imported 63 per cent of our goods from the United States, 22 per cent from Great Britain, and 14 per cent from the rest of the world; and yet the United States had a balance of trade against Canada of 71 millions. Five million Canadians bought from United States $23,000,000 more than the 63 millions of Latin Americans, and the republic's trade with this country was 27 times greater than its trade with the 10 millions in the Philippine Islands, for which the United States had paid so dearly. Mr. Charlton gave an abundance of other statistics in support of his assertion that fair, neighborly, mutual and just arrangements in trade matters should be submitted to by the United States. W. C. Edwards (Russell) opposed Mr. Charlton's contentions upon the ground that his plans tended towards protection, which was class legislation, and was bound to curse the community in which it existed. He dissented with the mover of the motion when the latter said that his plan was best as a principle; but agrees that it was best as a policy for this country, no matter what course the United States pursues. He admitted the great growth of the States, but said it was due to falla-States. cious beliefs concerning that country's freedom, entertained by old word peo-ples who emigrate, and to its geographical advantages-not to its high tariff. It was in consequence of Canada lowering its tariff to give Great Britain a preference that it was now enjoying its greatest prosperity; and the more we lowered it, the more prosperous would we become. His belief was that if Canada had never had the curse of protection, our population would have been twice what it is today, and our manufacturers twice as many.

The debate was continued tonight by Messrs. Bell (Pictou), Heyd (Brant), Sproule (East Grey), and Maclean (To-Hon. Mr. Fielding adjourned the debate. He said that it would not be expected that the government would make an announcement of its views at this stage, as such questions were always left to be dealt with in the budget speech. By adjourning the debate the question could be taken up again or merged in the budget speech. He informed Mr. Borden that the usual notice of the budget debate would be Riding an Avalanche.

"In all my wild mountaineering I have "In all my wild mountaineering I have enjoyed only one avalanche ride," writes that lover of nature, John Muir, "and the start was so sudden and the end came so soon that I thought but little of the danger that goes with this sort of travel, although one thinks fast at such times." It was after a fresh fall of snow several feet deep that Mr. Muir set out to climb one of the mountains in the Yosemite Park.

"Most of the way I sank waist-deep, in some places out of sight; and after spending the day to within half an hour of sundown in this loose, baffling snow of sundown in this loose, baffling snow work, I was still several hundred feet from the summit. But I still hoped to from the summit. But I still hoped to reach the top for the sunset.

"I was not to get top views of any sort that day; for deep trampling near the canyon head, where the snow was strained, started an avalanche, and I was swished back down to the foot of the canyon as if by enchantment. The plodding, wallowing ascent of about a mile had taken all day, the undoing descent perhaps a minute.

"When the snow suddenly gave way, I instinctively threw myself on my back and spread my arms to try to keep from sinking. Fortunately, although the grade of the canyon was steep, it was not inof the canyon was steep, it was not in-terrupted by step levels or precipices big enough to cause outbounding or free plunging. I was only moderately embed-ded on the surface, or a little below it, and covered with a hissing back-stream ing veil of dusty snow particles; and as the whole mass beneath or about me joined in the flight, I felt no friction; although tossed here and there, and flurched from side to side. And when the torrent swedged and came to rest, I found myself on the trop of the crumpled pile without a single bruise or scar. And after many years the mere thought of it is still an exhilaration."

NO HEADACHE NOW.

An Open Letter Telling How Backache and Headache Were Permanently Cured.

Val Racine, Que., Feb. 14.-Emelien Clouatre is well again and has given for publication a letter which gives to Dodd's Kidney Pills the credit for the cure. In part, it reads as follows: "For a long time I suffered with Kidney Trouble and a terrible pain in my back. I had a dreadful headache nearly all the time, so bad as to prevent me from getting more than a little sleep or rest, and I would get up in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed.

> DEFEATED THE BICYCLIST. "Go and hitch up the ostrich," is not at all an absurd command on an ostrich farm. There these great birds are often harnessed to a carriage and make fairly good substitutes for horses. Although they cannot draw a heavy load, their speed is a recommendation.

At Jacksonville, Fla., there is a bird named Oliver W. that can run a mile in two minutes and twenty-two secwith the States is three times what it ond. His owners claim that he is more satisfactory than a horse because he eats less, never shies at anything. never runs away, and goes steadily at erated our farmers' trade, and in all a good pace without laziness or fatigue. This particular ostrich appears to like his work. When the little carriage is brought out he comes running toward it at full speed, with both wings spread out, ready to have the harness put on. On one occasion a cyclist tried to pass Oliver W. on a long, smooth stretch of road. He came up behind the carriage, thinking to get ahead and escape the dust. Oliver W. thought differently. He threw his head high in the air, gave a flap with his wings, and went forward with a speed that astonished the cyclist. Putting forth more effort, the latter made another attempt to pass the ostrich, but the faster the pedals of the bicycle moved the faster sped the long legs of the It so happened that the cyclist had a record as a fast rider, and to be distanced by an ostrich was not to his liking. For two miles he tried to pass his feathered rival, but was obliged to give up the race, defeated. Some fast horses have tried conclusions with Oliver W., who seems to like nothing better than testing their speed, starting slowly to make think it easy to distance him, and then gradually increasing his pace. HOLLOWAY'S CORN CURE destroys

An Apt Pupil.

The Chinese are noted for their aptitude at imitation and the fidelity with which they follow instructions; but according to an incident related in Life, the trait sometimes leads to embarrassments. When the Andersons went to Caliall work. The house was well situated | Twenty-eight young geese passed her "I feel it my duty to make this pub- Lee proved to be a good cook, clean and respectful. As soon as the Americans were settled the neighbors began to call, and it was then that the fact was discovered that Wing was absolutely devoid of any ideas as to the ushering out of guests. So one morning the la-dies determined to instruct him. Providing him with a tray, Miss Anderson went out, rang the bell, was shown into the parlor, and waited while the alm Chinamen carried her card to Mrs. Anderson. This was repeated several times unil the ladies were quite satisfied that Wing was perfect in his role. That evening at half-past eight the bell rang. Wing scuffled majestically to the door, while mother and daughter hung breathlessly over the banis-ters to watch the result of their teach-They heard a gentleman's voice ask if the ladies were at home. They saw Wing present his tray and receive a card with an air which made them mentally pat each other on the back, and then they saw him draw a card from his sleeve. "Mine!" gasped Miss Anderson, "The one we used for the lesson!" Wing compared the two carefully, and returning the one which the caller had just handed him, he remarked "Tickee no good. No can and calmly shut the door in the face of the astonished guest.

The President's Little Joke.

To his other qualifications as a popular man President Roosevelt adds a fondness for a good-natured joke. Washington correspondent recalls this amusing incident of the time when the President was assistant secretary

The squadron had been out for two days at target practice, and the chief officers had been invited on board the flagship as the guests of Mr. Roose velt. The conversation on marine topics was long, and for some time there had been a clearing of throats and a significant exchange of glances. Mr Roosevelt took the hint.

"Will you step into the cabin and have some tea?" he said. The movement towards the cabin was prompt and unanimous. There, in the center of a great table, rested a punch-bowl of magnificent proporons, filled nearly to the brim with a liquid a shade darker than amber. In its center floated an island of ice. Sprays of mint extended their slender leaves over its brim, and pieces of lemon and other fruits floated on the surface of the cool and tempting flood. The old commodore, with the color of the sun on his face and the dryness of the desert in his throat, turned eagerly toward this oasis. He stirred the ladle lovingly in the bowl, while others gathered about him. He held his glass, filled to the brim, between his eye and the sunlight that came in through the cabin as each officer filled to the occasion. With an air of contentment and anticipated joy the commodore brought the glass to his lips. Then, as all lifted their glasses to follow his ex-ample, a look of astonishment passed over his face. His hand trembled, and the glass almost fell to the table.

"Be blowed if it ain't tea!" he through the cabin window, and the clatter and clink of glasses sounded gasped. And, indeed, that is just exactly what it was.

THE great lung healer is found in that excellent medicine sold as Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It soothes and diminishes the sensibility of the membrane of the throat and air passages, and is a sovereign remedy for all coughs, colds, hoarseness, pain or soreness in the chest, bronchitis, etc. It has cured many when supposed to be far advanced in consumption.

A Parody On Whitman.

Some very worthy wag who writes for the Chicago Record-Herald has announced the discovery of a poem by Walt Whitman-for some reason omitted from his published works—which he says has been sent to the Record-Herald from New Jersey. It was "written upon a sheet of brown wrapping paper that the poet evidently tore from a bundle of groceries," and here it is:

Twenty-eight young geese, and each Twenty-eight young geese, and she all gooseless.

She drums upon the pane and sees the She sees them going past and likes their waddle

Which of the young geese does she like Ah, one among them sets her fond heart And do they know that she is shyly watching?

Yes, each has peeped from the corners Do they know, the garrulous young geese, which of them all she loves?
Each of the young fools thinks she's watching him.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Feb. 25.-A big deputation of beet sugar men from the Wallaceburg, Dresden, Berlin and other districts were in Ottawa today, looking after the interests of their industry. They were met by the premier, Hon. Messrs. Fielding, Patterson and Fisher, to whom they were introduced by Mr. Charles S. Hyman, M.P., of London.

The deputation asked for countervailing duties equal to the amount of the bounty given by foreign countries upon exported sugar, a readjustment of the existing duties on raw and refined sugar, and an extension of twelve months from April of the right to import beet sugar machinery free of duty. The deputation was closeted with the ministers for several hours. As their requests would affect the tariff, they will probably be further considered after the budget speech.

Toronto, Feb. 25 .- In the railway committee of the legislature this morning, the bill of the Southwestern Traction Company, which is backed by London capitalists, was put through, with some slight amendments.

The concern proposes operating a system of electric railways in a number of municipalities in and around the Forest City.

The preamble of the Aylmer, St. Thomas and London Electric Railway Company's act went through intact, despite stormy opposition. Mr. T. G. Meredith, city solicitor for London, fought it on the ground that the new line would not grant any privileges to any municipality not benefited by the London and Port Stanley Railway. It would at present be a parallel road.

Session of Executive-Not All Smooth Sailing-Great Confusion Marks

Proceedings. Toronto, Ont., Feb. 25 .- The convention of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance began this morning at the pavilion with a large attendance. The members were eager to get at the last the issue was reached, there was a red-hot time. Rev. Dr. MacKay, the president, made an impassioned appeal for unity.

A local paper had published a cartoon showing the sun of prohibition on the horizon, with the query, "Is it rising or setting?" There was danger that if the tricks of politicians, the money of the liquor interests and the unseemly divisions of temperance workers would Wagner requested the spectators to prevail, that it would set, but it must rise again.

"Partyism, the doctor said, was one of the great stumbling blocks, and it was, he admitted, difficult to free oneself of that; but on this occasion the worm had turned. The referendum was unjust and unsatisfactory and as affording liquor men an opportunity not only to stay home while the temperance men go out the votes, but of boycotting those who did go out and work for prohibition." Dr. MacKay urged that a better date, and one avoiding these difficulties, would be the date of the provincial or municipal election. As to the Gothenburg idea and Earl Grey's proposed visit, he declared that it was stated that the liquor men were behind it, and that the ears of the ass were to be seen under the lion's skin.

The question was declared open, and twenty delegates in all parts of the hall were on their feet to present resolutions. A scene of great confusion followed, and the chair was power-

UPROAR BEGAN AGAIN. When Dr. Courtice sat down the uproar began again. Rev. W. Herridge, Brampton, presented a resolution af-firming that the government had carried out its promise. This was received with groans, as were resolutions something like it by E. Fielding, To-ronto, and R. W. Dillon, St. Marys. Mr. Spence rose to read the report of the executive and of the joint com-mittees of the alliance and the temperance committee of the Methodist General Conference, and Dr. Carman in-terposed to declare that the Methodist Church had nothing to do with it, that it was not represented on the floor, and that he and the other members present were there as prohibitionists. The resolution, when read, expressed disappointment with the referendum feature of the bill, especially the large majority required under it, and suggested that a straight majority moved and that the date be set at the time of the municipal elections. More resolutions came pouring in until the chairman declared that he could receive them no longer. Finally an adjournment was made, during which they will be spried out,

A ship at sea is an isolated world. Not only does the little floating village depend on the stoutness of the planks beneath it, but the safety and comfort of those on board depend on obedience to intelligent orders. Mr. Frank T. Bullen, author of "The Men of the Merchant Service," is no advocate of violence on the part of officers, but, as he explains, if there is no weight of force behind an order, men will always be found who will disobey. One of Mr. Bullen's earliest recollections of sailor life is of an incident on board the East Lothian.

The men had been demoralized by a cowardly second mate, who was finally discharged at Bombay. His successor was a splendid specimen of a seaman, not too tall, finely proportioned, and of a very pleasant face.

The first morning he was on board we were washing decks. Mr. Eaton, the new second mate, was having a look round the ship, and stayed forward, where two men were passing water out of the big wash-deck tub. As Mr. Eaton passed, one of them, carelessly slinging a bucket toward the other, dropped it and cut the deck with its edge. With a glance at the new officer, he burst out into furious cursing at the other man for not catching it. Mr. Eaton turned quietly to him and said:

"If you don't shut that foul head up, I'll shut it for you!"

The man, a huge New York nondescript, deceived by Mr. Eaton's pleasant look, strode up to him, swearing horribly and threatening to kill him. For answer the second mate leaped at him and seizad him by the threat and waisthand and ed him by the throat and waistband, and the next minute he was flying over the rail into the sea.

Mr. Eaton turned swiftly, and was just in time to catch the other man in midrush at him with a squarely-planted blow on the chin, which landed him a clucking heap in the scuppers.

By this time the other men had seen the fray, and rushed forward, shouting "Kill him!" Presently Eaton was the center of a howling gang threatening his life. But he armed himself with a "norman," a handy iron bar from the windman," a handy iron bar from the wind-lass, and none of them dare face him with that terrible weapon. The skipper and first mate came rushing forward, and ranged themselves by the side of the second mate. In two minutes the whole tone of the ship was altered. It is related that on the last tour of President McKinley in the south, Andrew Carnegie was in the party, and all were asked to attend a negro church in Tomasville, Ga., where a very fervid colored minister officiated. It is said that whenever a lull came in the services, the deacons took up a collection, but through hospitable motives avoided pressing the box to the white visitors. The old pastor rose at last and preached a sermon that was at the same time eloquent, earnest and ridiculous-preaching right at the white folks-and his description of the poverty of the church was so impressive that when the deacons passed the contribution boxes around for the third time, Mr. Carnegie intercepted one and dropped a $50 bill in the box. The old preacher counted their contents. When he had finished he placed a handfull of small change on one side and a crisp greenback on the other. Clearing his throat, he said:

"Breddern, we have been greatly blessed by dish yer contebution. We has heah fo' dollahs an' fo'ty cents dat is good, an' if de $50 bill put in by de white gemman wid de gray whiskers is also good we is blessed a whole lot moah." But Monsieur Lefort came forward to his own window. Mrs. Price had been far more formidable to this French gentleman than all the canaille of the town could possibly be. He turned very pale, indeed; but it was because of the insulting shouts that reached Marie's ears as well as his own. Having sent his daughter, who, brave as she was, was certainly not too brave to tremble, with the two children into a back room, he went straight to the window and displayed to the crowd the barrel of some ancient weapon of the blunderbuss order. As an answer to this piece of bravado went up a roar, half of anger, half of laughter; and then a stone went up also, sufficiently well aimed to hit the old Frenchman on the shoulder.

The sting of the stone roused up the spirit of combat in him who felt it. "Let's rout out the lot of 'em!" cried The mob answered with a confused burlesque of the shouts of the hunting field, and a charge was made at the street door of the house, which, barred and bolted as it was, could not resist the rush for long. In a minute or two it gave way, and the two or three men who were immediately pressing against it were sent flying into the entrance passes of the country of the strength of the country o sage, and in a second trampled under the feet of their followers. The shop was soon in the wildest disorder, and a few of the invaders, eager for mischief, were beginning to mount the stairs. Marie was on her knees, praying to saints and angels with all her strength; the boot-maker and his wife had followed the example of Lorry. Suddenly the sound of a shot was heard, and then a cry from the street.

Marie sprang from her knees in wild alarm; and the mob was hushed for an instant into silence. But only for an instance, for in another there went up to the skies such a roar as Denethorp had never heard. Stones flew like hail and at random many recolling upon the heads of those who threw them. Meanwhile not a few of the rioters disconwith this barren mode of attack, into the house itself, and were, little by little, and step by step, forcing those who had already entered it up the It seemed only a question of whether the second story itself should be reached, whether Marie's own room should be invaded by this horrible tide.

It was a terrible moment. But, thank heaven, "when bale is hext, boot is next"—so it is always. The longing ears of the mayor were at last gladdened by und of the galloping of hoofs upof steel. In another instant the end of street that opened upon the market place was filled with a welcome vision of shining helmets and scarlet coats and

It is nonsense to say that an English mob has any peculiar respect for the law; but it has a peculiar fear of the law when reminded of its strength by the sight of a sword or a truncheon, and this goes far to sup-ply the want of respect. Poor Monsieur Leford, too proud to leave the window, had been struck on the temple during that last wild storm of stones; and, when she emerged from her own room, she found him dead.,

CHAPTER VII.

Hugh's wound had left him in a very feeble state of convalescence, so that he was now just in that condition which a woman, however much of manliness she may have in her character, is likely to may have in her character, is likely to fix upon as giving her a good opportunity for bringing a man to task, and in which a man is no match for the weakest of women. For it is impossible to rebel against an affectionate nurse, even were it not a trouble; and when a Mader Clear is the nurse and a Hugh Madame Clare is the nurse, and a Hugh Lester the patient, the impossibility is more impossible still.

The demand for timber has also increased, owing to the rapid diminution of the supply of natural timber in the Mississippi valley. A Lesson Regarding and Signing of Bills.

Bill to Incorporate Huron, Bruce and Middlesex Railway Company Referred Back to Committee.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Feb. 24.-Hon. J. M. Gibson, read the members of the legislature a lecture this afternoon on the practice of lending their names to bills in which they apparently take no further interest. The matter was brought up through a motion, by Mr. Taylor, of North Middlesex, to recommit to the committee on railways the bill to incorporate the Huron, Bruce and Middlesex Railway Company, which was introduced by Mr. Conmee. Mr. Conmee was not in and Mr. Gibson, while admitting that there was reason that the bill should be sent back, said that members took the responsibility of signing their names to bills far too lightly. They appeared to think that, having given witnessed by over 500 people, was one or the fastest that has been played here this winter. The Delawares certainly have an enviable record for this season't work, having won in every game played with London teams. The following is a list of games and the scores:

brought up. The attorney-general added that he understood all the members for Mid-dlesex, and the member for London as well, were opposed to the bill, which gave very wide power.

Mr. Whitney sympathized with the attorney-general, but did not see any hope for a change, while the house was as courteous as it was. Mr. Hill (West York) moved that the bill respecting Toronto Junction be referred back to the private bills committee on the ground that he had received several letters in opposition to it, and the people of the junction were opposed to several of the clauses. One of the letters, he said, was from an ex-mayor

Hon. Mr. Harcourt wished to know what clauses were objected to, and Mr. Hill replied that his correspondents took exception to that respecting the new stock yards. He further said that when the bill was discussed at committee only about one-third of the members had been present. Mr. Whitney did not see that they need discuss the matter longer. Mr. Hill had given no reason why the bill should be referred, and the house would not insult its dignity in sending it back. Hon, Mr. Harcourt said that bills should be referred only when the com-mittee had been received or when all the evidence in the matter had not been received. If they permitted reference in other cases the house would sit six months out of the year.

Mr. Hill pressed his motion, but it was lost on division. It was point

Hon. Mr. Gibson introduced a bill to amend the manhood suffrage registration act and a bill to amend the joint stock companies winding-up act.
