Insurance for Salaried Men

Lloyd George says: "The willingness to take risks is, in the great merchant or capitalist, a virtue. It is to him that courage is to a soldier, or imagination to a poet. But the willingness to take risks is in the wage earner or the salary man, a weakness, yes, even a vice. The contrary of the vice of gambling is the virtue of thrift, and the system of life insurance has given the thrifty man his opportunity."

Life insurance is a supreme benefit to the capitalist, the manufacturer, and the man of fixed income; but it is absolutely essential to can be employed by which most salaried men can hope to leave an estate.

HON. FRANK CARVELL IMPRESSED, BUT HIS QUESTION STUNNED

Deputation Would Not Say If City Would Do Its Share.

Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles, father of the federal square scheme in London, arrived here on Ottawa Friday night after presenting the case to the minister of public works and the minister of militia.

"Hon. Frank Carvell, minister of public works, gave us a good reception and seemed impressed with the case," said Col. Coles this morning. "My impression was that the deputation lacked pep. The men did not present their case strongly enough."

"I feel quite sure that the Government will relinquish its scheme," said Col. Coles. "I put it up straight to the delegation asking that if the Government would let the city do its share? His question was greeted with silence. I then hit the case on the bench favorably, and had elected me as controller of the city platform."

"Ald. William Wilson knocked the scheme for all it was worth. He told the minister that no one wanted the federal square project."

Wants Public Meeting. Col. Coles went on to say that he would like to see a public meeting called and have the question thrashed out. Before anything was done the question should be sent to the people. If the public turned the scheme down he even if the majority of the city council would let the city do its share? The assistance of other citizens interested in the project.

Those present at the meeting in Ottawa were: City Solicitor T. G. Merrill, Wilson, Mayor C. R. Somerville, Major Glass, M.P., and Lieut.-Col. Coles.

Results of Spring Cleaning Are Evident in Market Offerings

Flood of Apples Greeted the Buyer After the Scarcity—Maple Syrup Also Offered in Considerable Quantity.

It is spring the housecleaning season for farmers and market gardeners as well as for town people? It seemed so this morning, for the market was a collection of goods disgorged from winter cellars. Apples, which have been exceedingly scarce all winter, were thrown upon the market in large quantities, together with root crops, such as rutabagas, and the earth of the pit. Heaped up in baskets of every kind they stood in the market, and if any one feared to miss a sale altogether, in the presence of the appetizing puffs of steam from the fresh Hubbard, parsnips, young onions and radishes, nearly humbering to do duty in salads.

Beautiful Flowers. "Oh, mamma, look at the beautiful Easter lilies," said a small child. And she had reason to exclaim for an excellent lot of these flowers, which were on the market this morning, and with them was a large quantity of the most beautiful plants, pointing to the fact that Easter is not far away.

Maple Syrup. The first run and $2.00 for the second run, "sang out a maple syrup vendor, and this was the typical price for maple syrup, which, however, ranged anywhere from $2.00 to $2.50 per gallon. There was a fair amount of the delectable sweet on the market in a satisfactory quantity, and the price was about the same as in the past few weeks.

SNIDER SUFFERED MOST ALL HIS LIFE

Feels Better After Taking Tanlac Than He Has in Thirty-Five Years.

"I am feeling better than I have in thirty-five years and it's all due to the Tanlac I have taken," said James A. Snider of 17 Jackson street, Hamilton, Ont., recently.

"I had suffered from a bad stomach nearly all my life," he continued, "I had no appetite, and had to force myself to eat. Gas would form on my stomach and I would nearly double up in misery, my heart would flutter, and I often would have smothering spells. I suffered so with rheumatism in my knees that at times I just couldn't straighten up."

"Tanlac has put my stomach in good condition, gas has stopped forming, and I never have those smothering spells any more. My food agrees with me and I have gained several pounds in weight. The rheumatism is about gone, and I can walk as good as anybody, all the pain and misery is gone from my system, and I just can't praise Tanlac enough for the good it has done me."

"Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town."

The Most Artistic Roof

is the one that completely harmonizes with the design and finishing of the house. For this reason there is a steadily increasing demand for Brantford Asphalt Slates for the modern style of homes.

Brantford Asphalt Slates have a surface of crushed slate embedded into our asphalt coating, the base of the roofing being felt saturated with asphalt. They are cut the size of shingles, and their beautiful soft colors of reddish brown and dark green give a roof a most artistic appearance. The colors are the natural shades of the slate as it comes out of the quarries. Brantford Asphalt Slates are, therefore, unfadeable—never require painting.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are accurate in size and pliable, which makes them very easily handled and quickly laid, saving time and labor, and therefore costing less to lay.

Brantford Asphalt Slates make an artistic, durable and economical roof. Booklet describing them mailed on request.

TORONTO, April 11.—The Homer liquor drama is drawing to an end. The royal commission investigating the Dewar-Ayearst charges today all evidence was taken. After Homer had heard, the commission will commence the investigation of the Slavin case.

Before hearing evidence, Sir William Meredith read the following letter from Mr. P. F. Cronin, reporter of the World: "Toronto, April 11, 1919. "Sir William Ralph Meredith, C.J., "Osborne Hall.

"Mr. Commissioner,—When the witness, Smith, today undertook to state what he had heard, or thought, concerning the removal of liquor from the Provincial Government warehouse, you ordered that he should strike from the record.

"When the witness, White, who had admitted being, undertook to utter a libellous suggestion of his, concerning me, you refused to permit my objection.

"On account of long journalistic connection with your own political career, I did not pursue my protest. I hereby make a memorandum of the obviously unfair and partial ruling by you in your conduct of the commission. I am respectfully,

P. F. CRONIN.

Sir William Displeased. When he had read the letter, Sir William said: "That is a most improper letter for Mr. Cronin to write. I could impose a severe penalty, a fine or other penalty upon him, but I think the best punishment is to make the letter public, and have it entered in the records of the commission.

A. J. Ayearst, formerly chief provincial inspector, now appearing as a private citizen, declared that he and Chairman J. D. Flavell were the only two in the department who knew of the contemplated coup which the employers' Detective Agency planned to pull off at Homer's. He had no knowledge of the details of the scheme. He merely knew that a cargo of liquor was being sent from Toronto to Homer and planned to have some officers on hand at the time to take liquor and hand when they arrived.

No Political Significance. Mr. Ayearst denied that he had ever said anything that could be construed as meaning that the money to pay for the liquor had come from the department. The coup had no political significance, and it had not occurred to him till he got to St. Catharines and saw the bills in the windows that there was an election on.

Question as to a World report which suggested that the arrest of Smith and Lavell was a "frame up" to cover up an attempt to corrupt the riding. Mr. Ayearst declared that he had regarded this as the ramblings of an unbalanced mind, or of one who was bound to tell falsehoods to make trouble.

Mr. Ayearst's counsel, T. L. Monahan, took him through the various points in the speech of H. H. Duffin in the Legislature, which resulted in the inquiry and the witness denied them all. He admitted that he had used the expression, "the blackest lie out of hell" but that was in reference to the statement that the liquor was to be taken into Homer for election purposes.

Booze Left Unattended. Mr. McKay asked Mr. Ayearst: "With all the knowledge of the department the liquor was delivered without any of the officers being on the ground and it was left unattended." "Yes, for two or three hours."

"And the conclusion was drawn by some people that it was done for some purpose?" "I never heard of any such conclusion."

"Had the business been properly managed the officers from the license department would have been on the spot?" "Yes, if nothing interfered to prevent the proper carrying out of the arrangements." It was the intention of witness to have his men there. He could not explain why the men were not there.

He did expect the men would have been taken at the time. "It would be expected the source of the liquor would be traced back?" "Certainly we should have traced it as far back as we could."

"They did not see any trail or trace of the liquor?" "No."

Double Shortage. "Was it fact that there were five cases short?" "There was a double shortage. It has not been proven that there has been anything beyond five cases short in the delivery." "No, it has not been proven."

"There is this in favor of Smith," said Mr. McKay, "that he was always open and above board. I never saw any liquor used. I never used any."

Mr. McKay—"I see it is a case of these hands are always clean." Every political gentleman says that."

Mr. Ayearst—"I am saying it under oath."

Duffin Tells Story. Harold Duffin, the man who drove the truck from Toronto St. Catharines and Homer, professed to know nothing as to the nature of the mission. This commissioner declared that he was telling only half a story, and questioned whether it was too late to prosecute him for his share in the affair. The commissioner said Duffin might be prosecuted for conspiracy.

The evidence this afternoon indicated the collapse of the Dewar charges against the license board as based upon articles appearing in the World. P. F. Cronin, who wrote the articles for the World during the St. Catharines election, admitted this afternoon that his sympathies were in favor of the Labor candidate, as also, he thought, were those of W. F. MacLean, M.P. He denied, however, that he was out to advocate the election of either candidate.

That there was a political significance in sending the liquor to Homer was a suggestion which would occur, he thought, to any mind. It was pitiful that the board should have allowed it and a public scandal that it was done.

Information Not Different. He admitted having written articles accusing the department of being involved in a scheme which had a political purpose upon insufficient information. He had accepted the statement of what Peter White, K.C., counsel for the Government, described as a self-confessed drunken whiskey peddler, again the sworn statement of the men employed to run him down. He had written articles condemning the department in an effort to secure further information from the department.

"Blackmail!" suggested Mr. White. "I won't answer that question," said Mr. Cronin.

"Yes, answer it," ordered the commissioner.

vote favorably for clause three. The bill states that the date for the taking of the vote will be fixed by proclamation. It also makes it clear that each question stands alone. If the O. T. A. is repealed and yet the electors want the sale of light beer it will remain upon the statute books, but will be amended to read "the sale of light beer. The same applies to the sale of beer in standard hotels and the sale of spirituous and malt liquors by the Government.

This Car Warrants Its Price

GRAY DORT

There are many reasons for the price of a motor car. The car may be built down to a selling price. The price may be forced up to a profit mark. There may be weight, size, speed, that you do not need. But the Gray Dort price is the lowest price at which a big, efficient organization can build a fine light car. The Gray Dort is built right first. It is built with real big car quality and comfort and appearance. It is built to give you all the service you need, free from trouble. Then by factory efficiency the price is kept low. So when you buy a Gray Dort you are putting every dollar into real motor car value. Ride in a Gray Dort—then you will see how greatly cheaper cars fall short of it—and how light cars higher-priced give you no more or not as much. The touring car is $1245; the Gray Dort Special—the car with added refinements and extra equipment, is $135 extra; there are also a coupe, and a sedan. All prices f.o.b. A Hot Spot Chalmers Knows Neither Altitude Nor Weather

ANYONE who has motored much knows how a change of altitude—even of 600 feet—affects the average car. And when the weather changes, even if you never leave your home town, what a terrible affair it is to get your motor "running right."

A Hot Spot Chalmers knows neither altitude nor weather. For the Hot Spot device is proof against both.

No matter what the day, no matter where you are on the map, the Hot Spot carburizes the gas into a "dry" vapor from which all the power is wrung with amazing ease.

It is thrifless, frictionless power, and on a cold day the engine runs warm in an instant or on a hot day runs cold consistently.

For "pulverizing" gas nothing yet has equalled the Chalmers Hot Spot, and for forcing it into the cylinders (a trick that is highly important), nothing has ever been made to approach the Ram's Horn.

Either one of these two magnificent devices are worth an hour of any man's time. Both of them provide you a mental feast on modern engineering that you'll long remember.

Come see them. They've made the Chalmers one of the few great cars of the world. Quality First

SIR WILFRID'S THOUGHT ON IMMORTALITY.
Death! Why speak of it? If there is life here, there will be life after.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

I cannot think the stab that cuts my heart
Can cause my soul to vanish and be dead,
The blood that runs and ends my body's throbs
Is not the life that like a cloak is shed.

This body only is a place of calling.
An inn that houses me while I am here;
I may spend many days within such portals,
Before my final bidding place comes near.

Quebec Votes Moderation As Best Liquor Policy

By a majority of 127,000 the people of Quebec Province have decided to remain "wet" to the extent of light beer and wine. The referendum was brought on through the war's conclusion nullifying the Legislature's war prohibition measure. That was to have gone into effect in June. The "wets" demanded a return to the old conditions, but the Government declared against whiskey and for a vote on light beer and wine.

Many reasons are given to explain the swamping of the temperance forces. A strongly organized "wet" campaign, the influence of leading figures in the industrial, professional and financial life of the province, a split in the ranks of the Anti-Alcoholic League are put forward as some of the reasons for the landslide. No doubt all of these agencies helped to pile up the enormous majority, but the balance is so overwhelmingly in favor of light beer and wine it seems clear that back of everything else is the feeling that a "bone dry" province is too radical a step for the present.

An element amongst the defeated charges that the French-Canadian majority was rallied to the support of "wet" legislation by an appeal to race and religion. In this connection it is worth noting that Quebec City, the most French Catholic community of the province, has for some time been "bone dry," following a local option contest, and by its vote of Thursday further approved that stand. Sherbrooke City and county, the most English Protestant section of the province, went "wet" by a majority of nearly 3,000. Classic Westmount, model municipality, eighty per cent of whose citizens are English-speaking and Protestant, gave a majority against prohibition. As for Montreal, that city in recent years has become too cosmopolitan to be greatly influenced by racial or sectarian cries. Race and religion do not appear to have figured in any decisive degree in the contest, if we may judge by the above instances.

In the larger centres much was made of the fact that, if prohibition won, many thousands would be added to the already large army of unemployed. Of course, the "wets" utilized Ontario's experience, pointing to the "prescriptions" in an attempt to prove that prohibition was "mischievous."

As the new liquor legislation goes into force within a few days, the people of this province will follow its administration with keen interest in view of the coming referendum. How successfully or unsuccessfully Quebec carries out its experiment in moderation may have considerable influence on the voting in this province.

The Lord Loves a Learner

Surely heaven will help the man who is striving to learn, however clumsily, however blindly. The man who is searching for knowledge must be adjusting his life to the divine schedule, for if the Lord hates anything he must hate ignorance. And he must dislike slothful, contented ignorance, most of all. An old friend, living in a primitive community certainly not distinguished for its longings toward erudition, once remarked: "I don't dislike these people because they don't know anything, but I do dislike them because they don't want to know anything."

All of us, of course, are ignorant about a vast majority of things, but one thing about which to make a joyful sound is that most of our discontent lies in the exercise of our mental muscles toward understanding. Life can be just a blank or a tremendous muddle. Certainly no one can comprehend it in a sentence, or a million sentences. The best one can do is to fit the parts together which we have come to understand, and to keep on studying the more intricate bits.

Now For the Days of Play!

Spring ushers in the playboy and the playgirl. The broad fields of outdoor pastime are open to him and her. The marbles click upon the streets, the skipping ropes whip the walks, balls are tossed through air, the cry of "fore" sounds over the golf course, horses are restless to break into a gallop over the hills and far away, lakeside and river banks call thousands to aquatic diversions, the motorist scans his road maps, and the summer parks take down their shutters from the hobbler-de-hoys that thrill youth and old age—the whole world bursts forth for the innocent and wholesome pleasures that "do not bite tomorrow."

The play instinct is a ruling passion, stronger, some would have us believe, than the love instinct, because it comes earlier, almost the primary of all instincts. The baby plays almost as soon as it is conscious. And all the seven stages follow the baby; we work that we may play. We often work hard at play, and we often play hard at work. All humor is play, all vocal sounds that are not serious. Each glad "hello," and each gesture that goes with a smile, is of the play instinct. Much of what we read, much of what we do in the way of seeking entertainment, is play. One thinker goes so far as to say that there never would be any great museums nor art galleries were it not for the instinct for collection that grows from the instinct for play, play that gathers birds' eggs, and fills boys' pockets with weird occupants all the way from toads to thistles. Children play through pictures, living in imagination the deeds in works of art or cheap prints. They play on through all their books of adventure, and man takes up the thread and keeps on playing through more intricate games. We learn to work much through play, for if education is worth anything it appeals to the child as a kind of play. The only irksome things are the duller elements that lack the theory of play.

But the primary physical games are upon us now. The season of the sports has arrived to remain for many months. The sporting pages become the bearers of news that to thousands overshadows the chronicles of all other events. There is found the drama—or the comedy—of a community at play. The sporting editor who is merely "sporty," who indulges in the vernacular of the baseball "bug" or the racetrack "tout," does not hold rank with the writer who sees in baseball and bowling and racing and tennis and football an expression of the sense of play, and who treats it, if not heavily, with a certain dignity and a conception of the keen and intelligent interest displayed in such an event. Bert Perry, for many years the conductor of The Advertiser's sporting pages, was such a sporting editor. He sensed the spirit of play which dominates the season, and he made his work vital in writing of these activities. The Advertiser has held open his place while he has been overseas, and soon hopes to announce his return to his old desk and his old following of readers.

On with the play, on with the sports of summer, new health and strength and more fresh air for the multitudes, and always a sense of fair play for the contesting gladiators of our modern Olympics!

Important Problem Solved

According to an official announcement of the peace conference the Saar Valley problem has been solved by placing it under the economic and political administration of the league of nations through France for fifteen years. At the end of that period it will be left to the inhabitants themselves to decide as to their future. This decision removes an awkward obstacle to an amicable conclusion of the peace conference. For some weeks the question appears to have deadlocked the negotiations at Versailles. If semi-official report, and rumor, were correct, the whole conference was close to being wrecked because Clemenceau could not see eye to eye with Wilson and Lloyd George on this matter. The French Premier held out for permanent occupation—a buffer between France and any new attack from the north, but apparently has given in to the view of Wilson and Lloyd George that that would upset the Allied policy of no annexations. If that had been approved similar action might have followed along every front of the war. Fifteen years of control of Germany's richest mining district will repay France for the devastation at Lens and the peace of the world will not be endangered by a new Alsace-Lorraine peril.

Things to Keep in Mind

The result of the temperance referendum in Quebec may or may not have a bearing on the temperance issue in Ontario. But there are certain facts that the friends of temperance reform should bear in mind when they seek to advance the cause, and to save it a decided setback. Some of these facts are:

1. That the present Ontario temperance act was placed upon the statute books as a war-time measure.
 2. That Sir William Hearst declared after the armistice it would not be repealed for one year from the day peace was signed.
 3. That something happened to force Sir William Hearst to give a wide-open referendum on the question; he was frightened by the turn public opinion seemed to be taking in regard to the act.
 4. That the people of Ontario, except in the name of helping to win the war, have not expressed themselves for even a slight measure of temperance reform.
 5. That the people of Ontario refused to vote for even so mild a reform, considering present conditions, as the abolition of the bars, and the continuance of the shops, as proposed by Mr. Rowell.
 6. That the administration of the Ontario temperance act and the methods of procedure are at present under a cloud, and that much has come about to discredit the whole administration.
 7. That there is a danger of reactionary voting by the people of Ontario unless they are guided carefully, and unless the temperance movement is in the hands of men who may be trusted and who are worthy of that trust, and are not merely politicians snatching at office.
- There is a serious danger that Ontario will go much farther than Quebec when the vote comes. That will be a duplication of what occurred in Scott act days, when an obnoxious law was overwhelmingly reversed by the communities which

A SPRINGTIME THAW.
By Anna Redfern.

Big Bill Sheldon was decidedly not a westerner. One could have guessed that fact by his air of reserve—a refined, courteous, but nevertheless clearly obvious, I-am-sufficient-for-myself manner. The manner, however, was not of Bill's own choosing; rather was it a product of environment. Moreover, it was a source of deep grievance to him, for try as hard as he might he could not make friends, with a reserve as hypocritical as the Rock Gibraltar rising between himself and everyone he met. Even the glad spontaneity of a merry laugh, he stopped for a moment by the rule rather than the reverse, seemed to make the ice. How could he himself that within his six feet bulk of a big, muscular, athletic man, desire for adventure as knowledge lay a 32-year-old devotee of Nick Carter's, or look longingly at the prospect of every new and then from his deep grey eyes betokened only the strong desire to somewhere, sooner or later, someone would notice him and really like him in spite of himself. No wonder he moped, and no wonder Aunt Della stood at her will's end to entertain him. She had fed him to the fattening point, had introduced him in turn to everyone she knew; she had waited a long time, and she had her own mother would have done, and she looked bored," he said after the first week of agony, "that I shall have to be starting for home. Father can scarcely run the show about as much as I would like to stay," he added as a polite after-thought.

There was a reason that Bill was homesick. And whether 6 feet, 200 pounds, and whether 32 years of age, he had no heart to answer. Blue to the bottom of his boots, he paced the gloomy ground Aunt Della's sunny comfortable living-room, impatiently bumping his feet against the chairs. Fourteen times without stopping he paced. On the fifteenth round he stopped by the long picture window with a jerk. He pulled aside the blue cretonne curtains, and drawing himself erect in the seat, he gazed out at the street in the pleasing sight through eyes and nose and mouth.

The morning was clear and fair and radiant; the clouds were blue and soft and light; the lawns were lush and green with young grass, the trees were newly in leaf. But a fainter sight than all this met his eye, and his attention in a neighboring yard, scarcely two rods away, there flashed a maiden back and forth with movements as graceful and dainty as those of some wood nymph. With a few deft movements she drew up the seat and fastened it to the tennis court. She tried out her balls and rackets with a bubbling, boyish exultancy, as if the tone of springtime had found affinity with her feet. "Yough, gasped Bill, and "Yough, gasped Aunt Della, who's the young lady next door?"

Aunt Della carefully set her pie crust in the yellow mixing bowl, washed her hands and came at her young nephew's excited call.

"That's no young lady," she corrected. "That's Irene Roberts. Why, I've known that child ever since she was born."

"How long is that, auntie?" Bob persisted.

"Well, now, let me see. It must be twenty years or thereabouts." Bob raised his eyebrows quizzically, but Aunt Della rattled on. "Yes, and just as you see her now she's always been—jumping, running, playing, riding, horseback. She's a regular tomboy."

To Aunt Della Irene was just the same mischievous little girl that she had always known from childhood up. Not so to Bill. He stood by the window and watched the lively young neighbor's gyrations with distinct approval. "She is flame and action," he mused as her red-knitted bootees flapped in the sunshine. Altogether he approved of her—of her trim white flannel dress and high-cut russet boots of her own design, graceful figure swaying in the sheer delight of motion, and her frank, boyish activity, so much did he approve that the wistful look came back into his deep brown eyes, and the homesick feeling formed a hard lump and settled in his throat.

That she had no companion in her game seemed not to bother Irene at all. Back and forth she sallied, her tennis ball now on one side of the net, now on the other.

Suddenly she threw down her ball and started toward Bill's point of observation. "Auntie Bascom," she called, "I'm counting in to see you."

Bill's experience of twenty-two years did not include instruction in chain-lightning action. Of course, he wanted to meet the girl. For that also he had been planning during the last fifteen minutes but for this. However, this was such a sudden call that he could not hastily draw back from the window and began measuring with his eyes the distance from his window to the kitchen where Aunt Della kept busily at work. In three leaps, but here there was furniture to intervene. Too, Irene had seen him, and she glared at him with a seemed no graceful way of escape. So Bill threw back the long French window and sat on the floor, waiting for events to happen.

"Irene, this is my nephew, Bill Sheldon, from the East," called Auntie Bascom from the other room.

Bill gravely acknowledged the introduction with a bow, striving meantime to down the rising reserve which was always intensified by a meeting with a stranger.

"I'm pleased to meet you," Irene's full-throated voice rang out pleasantly as she extended her firm white hand and raised her blue, blue eyes to his. She waited for no reserve to melt in fact, she neither felt nor noticed any such thing.

"Do you play tennis?" she inquired,

CONNIE MACK EXPECTS TO HAVE A WINNING TEAM THIS SEASON

Many Star Players on Philadelphia Line-Up—Plenty of Material.

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—In the opinion of baseball sharps who have been watching the Athletics in practice stunts at Shibe Park, Connie Mack is building up another winning ball club. Ever since the veteran manager disrupted his champions in 1915 by selling Eddie Collins, Jack Barry, Frank Baker and other stars he has vainly tried to produce another first-class combination. But this year Mack has more and better material with which to work and already his team begins to look formidable in every department.

GOVT. DENIES PROBE INTO RURAL LIFE

Hon. George S. Henry Declares Country Population Is Not Falling Behind.

U. F. O. MEMBERS SPEAK

New Element in Legislature Views Situation With Misgivings.

TORONTO, April 11.—A night session of the Legislature resulted from Nelson Parliament, Liberal, for Prince Edward, moving a resolution calling on the Government to appoint a commission to investigate the falling off of rural population in Ontario. Amendments to the motion were introduced by Hon. G. S. Henry, minister of agriculture, and J. T. H. Keenan, South Wentworth, opposing the appointment of such a commission, and expressing approval of Ontario's agricultural record during the war, and of the Government's efforts to increase agriculture in the province.

Mr. Parliament submitted figures to show that there had been a falling off of 11,000 in rural population during the last 40 years, and that the city population had increased by over a million in the same period.

Suggested Reforms. Among the reforms which Mr. Parliament desired were: a more exacting immigration policy; more chartered banks in rural districts; extension of the system of district agricultural representatives, and better agricultural education. He appealed for a building up of a strong viable agricultural population.

"We have talked about rural depopulation for a decade," declared Hon. Mr. Henry. "We speak of the decline in agriculture, and the fact that the young men and women are going west to promote the same organization there as exists in old Ontario. The honorable gentleman would lead the House to believe that we have been in a decline during the war, whereas during that period 550,000 additional acres of land were brought under cultivation. We are not going backward, but forward."

"I see no use in appointing such a commission, knowing the conditions will not remain as they are now," concluded Hon. Mr. Henry, who announced that an agricultural survey will be established at Kempenfelt.

U. F. O. Members Approve. Benoit Bowman, Manitlin, and J. W. Middlefield, North Ontario, both United Farmer members, spoke in defence of Mr. Parliament's resolution, insisting that the falling off in rural population was a question which necessitated investigation and the possible prevention. Both submitted that the resolution did not imply any criticism of the Government's policy.

Hon. Dr. Coady's consolidated school bill received second reading, and was considered in committee of the whole. The debate on the bill was concluded by Z. Macgregor of Sturgeon Falls, who expressed confidence in the future of the educational department under the administration of Dr. Coady, and asked that the age for admission to English-French training schools be lowered from 14 to 12 years, in order to render children who passed the entrance test at the latter age eligible.

Suffered Since Childhood

Kidneys at the Root of the Evil

Think of it! The joys of youth marred by agonizing pains, and all hopes of a bright future blotted out by thoughts of a life burdened with backache and other sufferings. Such was the case of Mr. A. Cail until a good friend advised him that there was a remedy for his trouble and he would find it if he used Gin Pills. Read what Mr. Cail says: "I was troubled with my kidneys since childhood and spent a large amount of money on doctors trying to get cured. Instead of getting better I kept getting worse until a friend of mine advised me to try Gin Pills. I did so, and after taking one box I was able to get out of bed and walk around. Two more boxes relieved me completely and since then I have had no return of the trouble."

This remarkable testimonial was written by a man whose statement can not be doubted. Mr. Cail's reason for writing this history of his case was gratitude for the relief that Gin Pills brought him. Wouldn't you do the same if your case was similar? If you suffer now—don't suffer any longer. Use Gin Pills and obtain relief from Kidney or Bladder Trouble, and the pain, suffering and inconvenience that they cause. So, buy a box. Sold everywhere. Write for sample box. COMPULSORY AGE FOR SCHOOL MAY BE RAISED TO 18

New Bill Is Introduced in Ontario Legislature by Premier.

PART TIME EDUCATION PROVIDED FOR FROM 14 TO 18 YEARS OF AGE

(Special to The Advertiser.) TORONTO, April 11.—Thursday's debate in the Legislature on the extension of the school age has brought its results. The adolescent age which was raised to 18, Dr. Coady at that time was introduced in the House tonight by the prime minister, Sir William Hearst. The chief feature of the bill is that it provides for compulsory part-time education of the boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18. Apparently the Government decided to comply with the request of H. Harby, Liberal, and place the draft bill before the Legislature, even although it may not be adopted by the prime minister.

The bill introduced by the prime minister divides adolescents into two classes: Those between the ages of 14 and 18, who will be required to continue part-time education for 400 hours each year, and those between the ages of 16 and 18, who will have 220 hours' part-time education each year.

The philosophy of the bill is such that boys and girls between the ages of fourteen and eighteen will be able to produce school dismission certificates at university or has completed a course of examination equivalent to matriculation.

However, there are a number of exceptions provided for in the act. Those who are physically or mentally deficient will be taken as an excuse, and in the case of a boy or girl under sixteen, the act will not apply if he or she has passed the matriculation of recognized university or has completed a course of examination equivalent to matriculation.

The act also places upon urban centres of 5,000 population or over the duty of providing such courses for "drop-outs" from the public schools. However, even if the act is passed this session—and it is expected—it will not become law until the Lieutenant-governor issues a proclamation.

Proved in War Service

The splendid service rendered throughout the war by the Indian Motorcycle has put it in the highest esteem. Its steady-going, trusty machine has upheld the operations of every branch of war service. Put into action under the most trying conditions, strained to utmost of mechanical endurance—it has gone through each grueling test with its powers unimpaired.

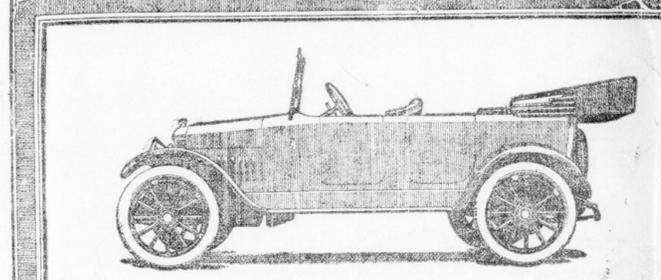

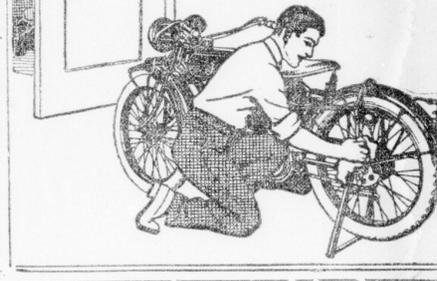

Throughout the period of military activities incessant war demands necessitated the complete tie-up of Indian production. We closed our factories to civilian markets. The substitution of other motorcycles for civilian use only proved the superlative merit of the Indian. Over 60% of the motorcycles used by the American Government in war were Indians.

Now that the war is over and our more urgent duties to our government have been performed, no effort is being spared to supply Indian dealers with their full quota of machines. See the Indian Motorcycle at your dealers. See the Indian Bicycle at the same time.

Maxwell —a car of rare charm and—able

YOUR first impression of this present day Maxwell as it passes you on the street is one of decided beauty. Your first ride in it, whether at the wheel or in the tonneau, tells you of its rare charm.

But after six months you find a new admiration for the Maxwell. You find it shuns the repair shop, that it runs and runs and never stops running.

Then after a year is past you develop an enthusiasm for it that dictionary words don't seem to fully describe.

And then after you have had it for more than the average life of a motor car and you find it far better than even the Maxwell salesman said it was you search for the reason. This is what you find:

For 5 years Maxwell cars have been built on the single chassis plan. To date 300,000 have been turned out on this plan. Each car better than the other. Each one better looking than the other.

There have been more than 1000 refinements in the Maxwell, but never once have the Maxwell executives swerved from the original program.

You conclude that reliability was designed "into" the car and built "into" it, and that a policy of 300,000-all-alike is the soundest kind of reason for writing your check for a present day Maxwell.

TORIES ARE BLOCKING DEWART; FEAR FACTS MAY HURT IN ELECTION

Chairman McCrae Tells Government Vendor Not To Answer Questions as to Bad Whiskey Sold During 'Flu' Epidemic—Out Improper Questions Out of Record, Says Hook.

TORONTO, April 11.—Liquor seized by Government inspectors and sold to Anson Woods, Limited, the Toronto Government vendor, as inferior goods, has been sold for medicinal purposes.

An admission of this kind was made in the House of Commons this morning by Frederick Woods, manager of the business. Woods did his best to avoid unpleasant questions, but he had to admit that some of the liquor had been sold for medicinal purposes. He admitted also that the cheap gaudy labels on the seized liquor were taken from the bottles.

"But not to my knowledge," was the best Mr. Dewart could get from him when he asked him if he did not know that the cheap "bootlegger" whiskey was sold for medicinal purposes. He bottled and sold with the Anson Woods label.

Blocks the Probe.

Chairman Charles McCrae helped hook Mr. Dewart's probe today on an important question in which the public is interested. It is quite apparent that the Tories are on keeping Mr. Dewart from learning too much. They fear an election.

Replying to Mr. Dewart regarding standard bottled goods witness said: "In most cases the labels were damaged or the inland revenue seals broken, and could not be offered for sale."

Mr. Dewart: "What did you do with that?"

Mr. Woods: "I do not care to answer that."

Chairman McCrae: "You don't have to answer that."

Mr. Dewart: "I want to know."

Chairman: "The Government wants to give you assistance so far as the Government is concerned in its transaction with Mr. Woods. But so far as Mr. Woods' business is concerned as a Government vendor only under regulations he should not be asked to answer. There have been numerous rulings on that."

Mr. Dewart: "I would insist upon an answer."

Helped By Chairman.

Mr. McCrae's chairman, "unless the witness desires to answer it or the committee hold otherwise, I would like that he should not answer."

Mr. Dewart: "I put the question."

Mr. Woods started to give reasons why he should not answer the question. The chairman said: "You need give no argument if you don't want to answer just say so."

"I don't think I should," answered the witness.

Explaining to Mr. Dewart the meaning of an entry why he was asked, Mr. Woods said this was poor whiskey which he had bought from "Recreation Bys," however Mr. Woods explained, was a standard brand bottled by "Maple Leaf" brand was sold at $4.50 per case.

"What do you mean by 'local bottling'?"

Mr. Woods: "Local bottling" was a term applied by brewers to brandy, etc., with the labels of local dealers.

"No—But—"

Asked if the inference was not that it was stuff raised from high wines, Mr. Woods replied, "Positively not," but again said the term had been applied by his brother.

Mr. Dewart: "Take this item of local bottling. Was not this sold under your own label, after the other had been removed?"

"I do not know."

Mr. Dewart: "Will you swear that it was not?"

Mr. Woods: "No."

Mr. Dewart: "Do you not know as a fact that this was sold under your own label?"

Mr. Woods: "I don't think I should answer that."

The chairman said it was not necessary to answer the question.

Mr. Dewart: "How did you sell that stuff?"

Mr. Woods: "We never relabel it."

Went Unanswered.

Further questioning regarding how such goods were sold went unanswered by Mr. Woods, who said that he had much local bottled goods in stock.

Mr. Woods said his firm did not buy local Scotch. "We took it," said Mr. Woods.

"Did the Government force you to take it?"

"No; personally I did not want to take it."

"Intending to resell it at a profit?"

"That is a private affair, the company's business."

"Did you relabel the bottles?"

"That is our private business. Do you think it is when you were one of the two licensed vendors in Toronto during the epidemic?"

"I don't think it concerns the committee."

The committee represents the people of the province, who have a right to know whether such sales of liquor were made and relabelled, when they were.

Chairman McCrae: "The facts concern only what Woods paid the Government for the liquor."

"Your attitude doesn't help you any," commented Mr. Dewart.

Mr. Woods refused to answer his questions.

Wasn't and Was.

Referring to the cheaper whiskey, Mr. Woods said he did not know that this kind of whiskey was put in barrels and relabelled and sold again.

"You say it was not done to your knowledge?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"Did you direct anybody to do it?"

"No."

"Despite the fact that some of your employees would swear that it was done?"

"It was, with one exception in regard to a certain brand of brandy, during the 'flu epidemic."

"Pretty poor stuff, wasn't it?"

"If it was cheap, it was good and it was good stuff."

Mr. Woods said he had charge of the business at that time in 1918.

Regarding a shipment of whiskey Mr. Woods said he thought it came from Montreal.

"Regular bootlegger whiskey, isn't it?" commented Mr. Dewart.

Mr. Woods: "I don't know anything about that."

Mr. Dewart: "What became of that whiskey?"

Mr. Woods: "I was brought up to strength by adding brandy to it."

Mr. Dewart: "While respectable would you put it in a cask?"

Mr. Woods: "I don't understand you."

Mr. Dewart: "You say you added brandy to high wines to bring it up to strength?"

Mr. Woods: "I don't understand the mode of this investigation. It only concerns our private business, and has nothing to do with the committee."

Tom Hook: "Are those questions that are not allowed and the answers are not to be given?"

Chairman: "I have told the witness he does not need to answer questions regarding his own business. If he does, the answer is put on record. I told the witness what happened after the woods had been sold was his private business and he need not answer."

Mr. Hook Nervous.

Mr. Hook: "If these improper questions are put in the record the fact that he refuses to answer may be used against us on the platform. If the question is asked and

But Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Evidence from Cape Breton that the Most Deeply-Rooted Forms of Kidney Disease Yield to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Red River, Inverness Co., C. B., April 11.—(Special).—That even the most deeply-rooted kidney disease yields to a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills is shown by the statement of Mr. James N. Timmons, a well-known resident here. Mr. Timmons says that he inherited his kidney trouble from his parents, and suffered severely from it for six years.

"I used two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they did me a lot of good," Mr. Timmons states. "If I had followed on with the pills I believe they would have completely cured. I am always glad to tell others how much benefit I got from using Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Mr. Timmons suffered from many of the various ailments that accompany any kidney trouble. He had rheumatism, cramps in the muscles, backache and headache. His sleep was broken and unrefreshing. He felt heavy and sleepy after meals, and he was always tired and nervous.

If you have any of these ailments you can be sure your kidneys are out of order or diseased. Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills will not help you.

Mr. Dewart: "I take it we are investigating only the Ontario temperance act."

Chairman McCrae: "I read from the record of previous investigations confirming his ruling."

Mr. Cameron: "Owen Sound said Mr. Dewart might as well ask the witness how many all the tickets he has in his back yard."

Mr. Dewart: "It is a matter of the utmost importance to the people of this province to know what kind of liquor is being bought and sold outside the purview of the committee which is only examining the accounts for the years mentioned."

Make Record Complete.

Mr. Dewart insisted that both questions and reply should be contained in the record to make the evidence complete as it would be in any court. The chairman refrained from giving any definite ruling as to whether these improper questions would be struck out of the record or not.

Mr. Mageau asked further about the length of time between the receipt of the goods and the fixing of the price. The chairman explained that during the time Mr. Woods' business the department entered the price, but held settlement in abeyance until after the death of the late Mr. Ambrose Woods.

Chairman McCrae read an invoice dated June 1, 1918, which contained various numbers of liquors supplied to the Woods Liqueur store from March to June 1, 1918.

The prices were fixed in the books of the license commissioner at the time of each shipment.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening grey, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as age brings in its age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyneth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, but when washing the next day, the hair is as soft and shiny as ever. It is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair, that this medicine also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance, which is so attractive.

Mothers' Advice

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The right influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl. When a girl's thoughts become sluggish with headaches, dizziness, or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs and a desire for solitude, her mother should come to her aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of this medicine, and what it has done for their daughters.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For 3 months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I did not know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more. She is pink and strong and she is doing well. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. F. Methods used in making these military searches have received sufficient publicity to make the average man familiar with them and it is pretty generally known that but little respect was paid to the feelings of modesty which were natural on the part of women who fell into the toils of those ordered to make the search.

SEEING THE WORLD AND ITS WONDERS FROM OPERA CHAIR

Burton Holmes Travelogues and Scenic Pictures at the Majestic.

BY "E. O. S."

The following is contributed by the Majestic Theatre Press agent:

"Is there not one of us who in building our day dreams, spend many a pleasant hour, imagining ourselves touring by motor or otherwise through far-off foreign lands? Everyone nearly takes a delight in pictures of countries and customs different from our own. What better way to enjoy your travels than seated in a comfortable chair watching an ever-changing panorama of great cities and towns, world-famed scenes of mountains and great seaports, seeing the curiously garbed inhabitants of other lands, their quaint architecture and mode of living.

"In the Burton Holmes travel films, shown at the Majestic Theatre every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and the beautiful scenic pictures every Thursday, Friday and Saturday, that popular amusement centre has led its patrons on journeys through such places as picturesque Peking and old Canton and New Shanghai in China; amongst the mountains and fjords of Norway; from Madrid to Madeira; shown them the wonders of the national parks of Canada and United States, cruised amongst the tropical isles of the Southern Pacific, and introduced to ancient Egypt and its pyramids and ruins. The Majestic will continue to show views so interesting as to make it almost as good as traveling in person. See all the wonders of the world through the magic eye of the camera at the Majestic."

Luigi Romanelli, famous violinist and orchestra leader, who is to direct the big augmented orchestra for "The Unpardonable Sin." Signor Romanelli, who is regarded as one of the foremost orchestra leaders of America, has since coming to this country, directed his genius to the proper adaptation of special musical programs to photo-play productions. Brought to Canada by the Allen Theatrical Enterprises to arrange special musical programs for their pictures and to direct the great symphony orchestra of their Allen Theatre in Toronto. Signor Romanelli has been secured by great good fortune to direct the special augmented orchestra with "The Unpardonable Sin" at the Majestic next week, and that the engagement will be a musical event of importance.

"EAST LYNNE WITH VARIATIONS" A MACK SENNETT COMEDY

Showing at Majestic as Added Attraction Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

It's all there—the stuff that we used to hang over the gallery rail to see when we were little chaps—the deserted mother with her che-ild in her arms, followed around the stage by a vindictive snowstorm; the heroine lashed to the rails by the cruel villain; the chase (also chased) young lady fastened to the buzz-saw of a sawmill and about to be transformed into a fricassee. And, hat! the aliked wretch with a mustache and a cigarette!

There are all seen in Mack-Sennett's newest comedy, "East Lynne With Variations," shown as an added attraction at the Majestic Thursday, Friday and Saturday next week.

In the middle of the play the head scene-shifter got jealous of his wife, who was the leading lady of the show, and insisted that she take off her make-up and go home. Nothing, if not successful, her rushed down into the audience and kidnapped a fascinating young bride from her husband's side and made her play the heroine's part.

The climax of the disaster was when a very peculiar and most tragic accident happened by the show-storm. An equally tragic catastrophe juzzed up the ocean upon which a storm and a submarine were playing at cross-purposes.

Two drunks were sitting in a box by the side of the stage, and the fascinations of the lovely Marie proved to be too much for them. They got up and walked through the middle of the ocean after her.

This comedy is not such a burlesque on an old-fashioned melodrama as it is a satire upon the old-fashioned ham actor troupe who used to tour the country in these thrillers.

A SPRING TONIC GREATLY INCREASES YOUR EFFICIENCY

Lay the Foundation of Good Health Now By Building Up Your Blood and Strengthening Your Nerves.

The good, old fashion of taking a tonic in the springtime, like most of the customs of our grandparents, is based upon sound common sense and good medical practice. No matter how mild the winter it is a trying time, even in the most favored climates, for those who are not in rugged physical health. Many men, women and children go through the winter on reserve strength they have stored up during the sunny, summer months, and grow increasingly pale as the spring days approach. A tonic for the blood and nerves at this time will do much for such people, by putting color in the cheeks and banishing that tired feeling that worries thousands at this season of the year.

You can not be energetic if your blood is thin and weak, or if your nerves are frayed or shattered. You cannot compete with others if you do not get refreshing sleep at night, or if you are losing weight. You need a tonic at this time to add to your efficiency now, as well as to save you from suffering later on. And in all the realm of medicine there is no safer or better tonic than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills make new rich, red blood, which circulates through every portion of the body, strengthening jaded nerves and run-down organs, and bringing a feeling of new strength and energy to weak, easily tired, despondent men, women and children.

CURED BILIOUS HEADACHES.
Mr. D. C. McClure, Hefley Creek, E. C., says: "As a spring tonic I know of nothing else that can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Last spring I felt weak and run-down, and suffered a great deal from bilious headaches. I got a dozen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking them, I felt like a new man. The lassitude from which I suffered had disappeared, I had a better appetite, and was in every way stronger and better than before I began the use of this medicine. Almost everyone needs a tonic in the spring, and for this purpose I can strongly advise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

NEVER FELT SO WELL.
Miss Beatrice Bishop, Fendale, N. B., says: "I have never felt so well as I do since taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I began their use I was very much run-down. I had no color, no appetite, could not go up stairs without stopping to rest on the way. I had frequent headaches and a feeling of despondency. I took Pink Pills regularly for about eight weeks, and while I felt a benefit from them almost from the first, at the end of that time I was in better health than I had ever enjoyed before. I really give you permission to publish this letter as my experience may be the means of pointing the way to new health to some other weak and run-down girl."

BUILD UP YOUR BLOOD.
The purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing and they do it well. They are, for this reason, an invaluable remedy in disease arising from bad or deficient blood, such as anaemia, rheumatism, neuritis, pains in the back or side and the after-effects of influenza or fever. If you are suffering from any troubles due to weak, watery blood, or shaky nerves, a fair use of these pills will restore you to full health and strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

DOMINION RAILWAY BOARD CANNOT COMPEL COMPANIES TO ADOPT STANDARD TIME

Chairman Drayton Says Matter of Time the Country Shall Observe Belongs to Parliament, and Sends It There—Daylight-Saving Time Is Adopted For the House of Commons Sittings After Judgment Is Announced.

OTTAWA, April 11.—"Daylight saving is a matter for Parliament, and the board having no jurisdiction, cannot pass upon the merits of the issue one way or the other," says Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the railway board, in a judgment handed down today.

Following the judgment of the railway commission on daylight saving, Parliament this evening adopted local time for the sittings of the House. Just before the House adjourned, Hon. Arthur Meighen, who was leading the Government, rose and stated that the effect of the judgment was that the setting of standard or local time was a matter for provincial jurisdiction. That being the case, he suggested that the House, when it adjourned tonight, should meet again at 3 o'clock summer time on Monday.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux congratulated the Government on its timely decision. He appreciated the fact that the Government had come to terms with common sense, and that in future the time outside the door of the Parliament Buildings would coincide with that within the buildings.

Mr. D. D. McKenzie suggested that the judgment of the railway board, which could only have been reached after a great deal of deliberation, be placed on Hansard.

Mr. Meighen agreed to this suggestion, and the House adjourned.

Protests Go For Nought.
It will be recalled that when the question of daylight saving was the subject of an adverse vote in Parliament, the will of Parliament being thereby expressed, the railway board called upon the railways to justify the advanced in the time of their clocks, which they had made on the morning of March 21, in order to enable them to maintain their passenger connection and freight operations with the American roads which were advancing their time in accordance with the United States daylight saving legislation.

The judgment is based upon the evidence taken at this hearing on April 11. Further representations were made by members of Parliament, opposed to daylight saving, with a view to having the matter opened up, and, if necessary, further hearings held.

Hon. W. B. Nantel, the deputy commissioner, adds a statement to the judgment setting forth his attitude and concludes as follows:
"In view of the evidence given at the hearing in this matter, for one, would be willing to report favorably, as I think it is, in advance, on any of the (the railways) have acted for the benefit of the public in general."

Sir Henry Drayton declares there is no Dominion law fixing the board any basis on which to fix railway time.

Change in "Summer Time."
"If it had to be 'sun time,'" he says, "it would in most instances depart entirely from local time as fixed by local legislatures and would bring about chaos. If the railways were to be run on provincial standard time, the provincial acts, arbitrary changes would have to be made in former railway practices of many years' standing. Again this year the local time in British Columbia is summer time, and if local laws are to be adopted, the change in time between British Columbia and Alberta would be two hours, and the necessity are more or less of a nuisance and more or less a danger in railway time tables."

However, Sir Henry says further: "It is unfortunate that the question of public safety, which is a matter interwoven with the discussion of the question, unfortunately, under the law as it is, is not a matter to be adopted in Canada, more or less danger will result to the Canadian travelling public."

The commissioner expresses the view that, considering "what Parliament intended to say" by its daylight saving measure, of last year, there is no doubt whatever that the act should expire with the year 1918, and that it is the duty of the board to take jurisdiction, however absolute it might be in law, he declares that the board should not exercise that jurisdiction.

"This is a democratic country, governed entirely through its representative assemblies and the wishes of Parliament, whatever these wishes may be, ought to prevail," he says, adding the circumstances, can take action under the daylight saving act of 1918."

Remaining standard or local time is determined in Canada by provincial law. Sir Henry goes on to say that as a matter of fact time changes on the railways have not observed the provincial enactments. "The railways set no direct jurisdiction in what time the board to compel railway companies to alter any specific time. As a matter of fact, the judgment says, the railways have never fixed their time either according to the standard meridian or by standard time as adopted by the provinces. The points selected for change of railway time are either terminals or divisional points where the necessary changes can be made with the least danger to the travelling public."

Ontario Stands Unique.
"The only province in which the question of railway time," added Sir Henry, "seems to have been considered, is in Ontario, where specific authority is given to the local railway and municipal boards to fix the time of all railway companies subject to its control, but this of itself particularly to the act of last year is treated as lapsed, would not discharge any direct jurisdiction which might be found elsewhere."

The commissioner says emphatically that the board has "no jurisdiction which will enable it to legislate the standard of time as such that the railway companies shall use."

Sir Henry then goes on to discuss the question from the standpoint of public safety and convenience, and declares that the point was perfectly well taken that international connections had to be maintained, and that, therefore, it was necessary for the railroads to adopt the daylight saving time. He does not regard the action of the railway companies as against the accommodation and convenience of the public, but on the other hand states that these considerations of necessity compelled the railways to take the action which they took. A further consideration was that, in the summer months, the railway centres had adopted summer time locally, and he says, "I know of no law which would prevent any more individual, keeping what time they desire."

Should Be Favored.
In view of the fact that the majority passenger earnings are earned in the towns across the street now, which for the movement is either into or out of urban centres, the convenience of those who do business to do in the cities, he says, is best served by trains which fit into the business day at the point of destination. Therefore, having regard to the convenience of the travelling public, and the fact that the new time schedules could well be justified.

Referring to the confusion which exists in a municipality where two times prevail, Sir Henry says it is a matter of general experience that mistakes are made in appointments and misunderstandings occur. "This doubtless is well appreciated in Ottawa," he says, "owing to the fact that while Parliament observes standard time the hotels, shops, business institutions, and the general Ottawa public observe summer time. I have no doubt this has proved a great personal inconvenience to members of Parliament owing to the fact that their hotels and the great majority of the people they do business with observe summer time. Sir Henry makes this comment: 'It is impossible for the board to hold that the railways, in adopting the time used on the American lines, have done anything which militates against the safety of the travelling public, or the employees working on the trains. On the other hand, what has been done is in the interests of public safety.'"

DOCTORS STAND AMAZED AT POWER OF BON-OPTO TO MAKE WEAK EYES STRONG—ACCORDING TO DR. LEWIS

Guaranteed to Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent In One Week's Time in Many Instances

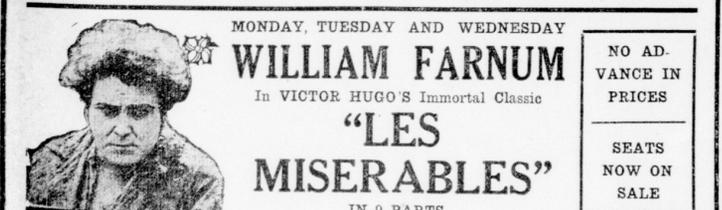

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Used at Home.
Philadelphia, Pa. — Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription, and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "It was blind, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another writes: "I was unable to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel like all the time. It was like a miracle to me. A lady who used it says: 'The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses.'"

"I was bothered with eye strain caused by overwork, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the newspaper in the morning before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can read the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the newspaper in the morning before me. converted to the cause of right. His conscience becomes his guide. Lives Under Assumed Name. Through the years that follow, Jean Valjean lives under an assumed name, his life is pursued, and he is loved and respected as a good citizen of the community. His philanthropy and benevolence cause him to be known throughout the district, and he is elected mayor of his town. Then he learns that a man has been arrested as Jean Valjean, the ex-convict. Jean is torn between the desire to do what he realizes he should and the desire to let the past be buried now forever. After an all-night struggle with himself, he decides to renounce his life of respectability. He makes known his real identity to the authorities. He is arrested once more, but his odious cunning mania itself again, and he escapes. For many years he evades pursuit. He adopts a little girl, the daughter of a young worker in the jet factory, which he owned in Malesherbes, and who died at the time of his arrest. This girl is Cosette, who later falls in love with Marius, a dashing revolutionary leader of Paris. Though he knows that he is sacrificing his own happiness and the one he loves with his whole soul, Jean Valjean goes at the risk of his life among the guillotines in the streets of Paris, rescues the wounded Marius and brings him back to Cosette. Valjean also rescues the young girl's tutor whom the revolutionists have made captive, and who has hounded him from the day he was first sent to the galleys. In return for this generous and unexpected action, Javert afterwards gives Jean his own freedom. The last years of Valjean's life are spent in loneliness and poverty. He has abandoned everything that Cosette and her Marius may not want. The two find him one morning sobbing softly in the big chair in which he sits, with the little regard for his own health, were as a child. They understand then, but it is too late. The great heart slowly broken—and Jean Valjean has passed on.

Made of the finest of Mother Nature's gifts to man, including wheat, which furnishes the system with proteids to create albumen and carbohydrates; malt, a product of grain, which creates an appetite and acts as a system builder; sugar, made from sugar cane or beet root, which provides stimulant for the system; salt, a mineral which helps with the digestion of proteids, together with water, which contains hydrogen and oxygen, and shortening and milk, which provide fats.
