BISHOP FALLON'S CONSECRATION IMPRESSIVE AND BRILLIANT VAST AUDIENCE PRESENT

Very Imposing Ceremonies Carried Out at St. Peter's Cathedral This Morning---Great Gathering of Church Dignitaries Participating in the Installation of London's New Roman Catholic Bishop—Archbishop McEvay the Consecrator.

A SCENE OF MAGNIFICENT SPLENDOR

Many Representatives of Federal, Provincial and Civic Authority Were Present—Bishop's First Blessing Was Bestowed Upon His Aged Parents.

Right Reverend Michael Francis Fallon, D. D., was consecrated bishop of the Diocese of London this morning at one of the most impressive and brilliant consecrations ever witnessed in this part of the Dominion. Despite the lowering weather and the intermittent rain, crowds began to gather on the walks around St. Peter's and on the cathedral grounds, as early as 8 o'clock. By 9:30 the time designated for the march of the prelates to the church from the palace there were thousands gathered to witness the sight which all knew would be a memorable one.

Before 9 o'clock the cathedral had been filled with those to whom tickets had been given, and there was not the slightest confusion or misunderstanding.

Many Notables Present.

There were many notable personages at the cathedral, who had accepted invitations to attend the consecration. Some were personal friends of the bishop, some were prominent Roman Catholics, and some were those who were prominent as representatives of federal or provincial authority. Amongst them were Hon. Charles Murphy, minister of state of Canada; Hon. Senator R. W. Scott, late minister of state, both of Ottawa; Major Beattie, M. P., London; Hon. Adam Beck, M. P. P., London; Judge Doherty, Montreal; Mr. D'Arcy Scott, of Ottawa, the vice chairman of the railway commission of Canada; M. P. Davis, Ottawa; Judge Latchford, of Ottawa; Col. Hodgins, D. O. C., London; Major Shannon, Major Wynne, London; Judge Talbot Macbeth, London; Mayor Beattie, London; Water Commissioner Pocock, Senator Thomas Coffey, ex-Mayor Dr. Ol. T. Campbell, Mr George C. Gibbons, K.C., chairman of the international waterways commission, and many others.

Battery of Cameras.

In front of the palace, tripods of newspaper photographers of this city of Ottawa, of Toronto, and of Buffalo, were seen, and a battery of cameras were trained on the wide steps leading to the palace door.

In the rain all waited for the procession to begin. At a few minutes before the time set for starting the weather cleared a little, and a faint-hearted April sun beamed for a few seconds. The hearts of the newspaper men and photographers beat high then for there were great chances for a good picture of the splendid procession. But in another minute, the sun forgot its promises and backed away behind a murky reef of clouds.

Then the doors of the palace opened, and the procession hove into view.

The Knights of Columbus, the C. M. B. A., the Catholic Foresters and the Separate school board, all of whom were represented by several members, led the way.

Rev. Father Stanley, of Woodstock, came next, with two acolytes, and a censor. Next a priest carried a cross of gold, and immediately behind were numerous acolytes, some in surtans of black and some in purple, with white surplices.

Then came about one hundred priests in surplices and surtans, followed by the bishops in robes of purple, while the archbishops who were next, wore red robes.

Magnificent Sight.

The sight was a magnificent one, and those who witnessed it will not soon forget it. Majestically, the procession moved out of the palace grounds and westward on the north side of Dufferin avenue to the cathedral entrance.

When Bishop Fallon came in view there was a cry of delight from the multitude, "There he is—there he is."

The new bishop, handsome, massive and solemn, walked with a stately step, and despite the fact that there were many archbishops and bishops present, some of whom were well known to the crowds, all eyes were turned on Bishop Fallon.

There was a slight pause coming out of the palace grounds, and the newspapermen took advantage of it to photograph the new bishop. He noticed the delay, and imperturbably waited for the procession to move. It did so in a few seconds, and soon the notable and long line of clergy, of assistants and of prominent citizens, passed to the church, between two lines of separate school children, who had been drawn up on the lawn.

At the Cathedral.

At the cathedral doors were stationed Major McGuire and P. C. Thos. Noonan. The major had a squad of men at the church, but the entire congregation was so orderly that there was not so much as a "move on" order given to a child.

Besides Major McGuire and P. C. Noonan, Sergt. Dunlevy and Ordnance Officer Hessian, of Wolseley Barracks, were on the inner doors, and no one could pass unless a ticket was presented. Inside, a score of ushers did excellent service. They were Messrs. Edward Cook, Joseph F. Nolan, George A. Henry, Charles Wilson, A. Tillmann, Claude Brown, R. M. Burns, J. P. Forristal, Daniel Wilson, Richard Forristal, James Gleason, Fred Stewart, Mr. Taschereau, E. R. Dromgole, Joseph Hickey, J. Bowles, John Givens, James Overend, Joseph Sullivan.

By the time the ecclesiastical procession had reached the church portals, all the ticket holders had been seated, and the way was clear for the clergy. As the incense bearer swung his censor in the sacred edifice, the magnificent organ pealed out a hymn of welcome, and the choir, composed of male voices only, sang splendidly.

Many Visitors.

In the cathedral were a large number of Protestants, very many of whom had come from a distance. Buffalo was represented by a large delegation, coming here in a special train over the Wabash to St. Thomas, and thence to London via the M. C. R.

Toronto Catholics and their friends reached here in a special. Ottawa was well represented, and all the surrounding cities and other places had sent large quotas. Practically all of the clergy of the diocese, with the exception of those in the north, who could not reach here in time, owing to the train service on the L., H. and B., were in the city.

As a consequence, the spacious sanctuary of the big cathedral was not large enough to accommodate all the visiting clergy and the local priests. All were cramped and crowded, but this could not be overcome. It was a brilliant sight indeed when the procession wound inside the altar rail. The hundreds of electric bulbs burst forth in splendor, shedding a brilliant light on the magnificent robes of the archbishops, bishops and priests.

Then the ceremony of consecration commenced, and it was impressive. All the splendor and ceremony of the historic old church were brought forth, and the result was one of the grandest sights ever seen by Catholics of the Diocese of London.

A Splendid Speech.

The bishop's reply to the address from the laity was a magnificent piece of oratory, and the outburst of a sincere and grateful heart. In glowing words he pictured his gratefulness for the kindness which had been extended to him since his elevation to the bishopric of London. His humility was evident in every line. There was not a trace of pride in his address, but a thankfulness to the great Almighty for the blessings which had been showered upon him and an appreciation of the great responsibility which now rests upon his shoulders. As he addressed himself directly to the people in the congregation, to his old friends, and his new friends, the clergy and the laity, and lastly and more personally and particularly to his father and mother, whom he thanked for their direction of his footsteps from youthful days, there was scarcely a dry eye in the church.

A Pretty Incident.

There was a pretty incident at the consecration. As is the custom at the conclusion of the ceremony, the new bishop left the altar, and, passing through the aisles of the church, bestowed his blessing on those assembled.

The first to receive the benediction were Bishop Fallon's aged parents, his father and mother having come from their homes in Cornwall for the consecration.

As he bent over them with hands uplifted in prayer and murmured his blessing the sight was a memorable one. Many of the spectators were moved to tears.

After Mgr. Meunier had read the address from the clergy, he read a short address in French from the French-Canadian clergy of the diocese. Then all the priests made their first obeisance to his lordship.

The Bishop's Reply.

Bishop Fallen replied briefly.

"My one and only ambition is to work with you," said his lordship. "We must preach the gospel of Jesus Christ and work together for the Catholic faith. Bishop and priest have the same burden. We must plow the same furrow. We must sow in common ground, and we must reap the same harvest. I shall make no promises. I will do my duty, under God's grace, and try and follow in the footsteps of the apostolic brethren who are my predecessors in this holy place. They laid the foundation and raised the superstructure, and it falls to me to do but little other than complete the details of that work. I want your prayers, and I want your goodwill. I want more. I want your support and love. I come here a stranger in a strange land. Until raised to this office I did not know a priest in the diocese. I did not know a single individual in the city of London. I was in every sense a stranger. I know, I am sure that I have a body of priests who will carry out to the letter the beautiful sentiments expressed in your address today. We must work together for peace and justice. We must work for the interests of the province and of Canada, both from a religious and every other standpoint. When we come to know each other better we

COTTON CROP DAMAGED BY FROST AND STORM

Thousands of Acres in the South Have Been Injured—Prices Going Up.

New Orleans, April 25.—Reports received today from many sections of Louisiana and Mississippi indicate that thousands of acres of cotton have been severely damaged by the cold of last night and the night before. In many instances replanting will be necessary.

New York, April 25.—Reports of severe damage to young cotton over a wide area in the south, as a result of the storm and freezing temperature of the past two days, caused an advance in the cotton market at the opening here this morning. Business was more active than for days past, and the advance which extended to some 30 points, or $1.50 per bale, on most of the new crop months, reflected excited general buying. Scores of telegrams were received in the local market from southern correspondents claiming that replanting would be necessary in six or seven of the big producing states and in many instances these advices reported a scarcity of seed.

In addition to storm damage, which was no doubt the chief factor in the advance, the market was influenced by covering against cotton supposed to have shipped by the recently failed southern firm, particularly in Liverpool, and there was, moreover, some buying placed upon a report compiled by local authorities.

EARTHQUAKE LOSS TOTALS MILLIONS

Costa Rican Towns Racked by 38 Shocks in Two Days—Business Suspended a Week.

New Orleans, April 25.—Passengers arriving from Costa Rica say greater damage was done by the recent earthquake than was first reported. There were 17 distinct shocks the night of April 4, and 21 the next night. In Cartago, 60 houses were destroyed; in San Ignacio, 36; in Turribad, 28; in San Pedro de Mougin, 30; in San Rafael, 40; in Santa Barbara, 25; in San Jose, the capital, over 100 houses were wrecked, including the Temple of Paul, under construction, and the Lyceum and annex, the latter two beyond repair.

Nearly every house in Guadaloupe, Racayas and Paralso was destroyed with a loss of $1,000,000. Telegraph and telephone service was interrupted, and business entirely suspended for the week in the capital and other neighboring towns. The people sought the parks and plazas and remained there all night.

During the earthquake criminals in the penitentiary became panic-stricken and broke out in revolt. A large military force was required to suppress them. The panic was intensified by the fact that the quakes kept the church bells ringing all night long, and that graves in the cemetery were broken up and the bones of the dead exposed.

Except at Cartago, no lives were lost, as the first shocks were the lightest. The frightened people ran from their homes to the public squares before the more severe shocks brought down the buildings.

SAW THE CHESAPEAKE TOWED INTO HALIFAX

Mrs. Sarah McCully, Who Once Taught Sir Charles Tupper, Dies in Her 102nd Year.

Mrs. Sarah McCully, who on Feb. 22 celebrated her 101st birthday, died this morning at the residence of her grandson, Ralph McCully, 753 Lorne avenue.

Mrs. McCully had been ill for some days, and had been in failing health for some months. She was born at Halifax, Nova Scotia, in 1809, and when a young woman taught Sir Charles Tupper, who was then a lad in Sunday school. She remembered seeing the Chesapeake towed into Halifax harbor by the Shannon when she was a little girl of 4.

In 1833 after a stormy passage up the lakes, she arrived with her husband at Port Stanley, Ontario was then a great unbroken forest, and Mrs. McCully had a number of most interesting reminiscences of the hardships the pioneers had to undergo.

She is survived by two sons and two daughters: Dr. J. McCully, of Cedar Springs; Dr. S. McCully in the States; Mrs. Rowell, of Blenheim, and Mrs. Westlake, of Kingsmill. The funeral was held this afternoon to the Grand Trunk depot, and interment will be made at Blenheim.

Toronto, April 25.—A terrific wind and rainstorm this morning did considerable damage along the beaches, the island shore and the harbor front. The wind at times blew at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

A strong gust of wind caught John Scott, aged 61 years, of 172 Mutual street, and the rig he was driving along Yonge street at Front street, this morning, throwing him violently from his seat to the ground. He fell upon his right shoulder and head, and was badly injured. He had to be removed to St. Michael's Hospital.

KING EDWARD FAR FROM WELL

British Monarch's Health Continues Source of Anxiety.

WORRYING OVER A CRISIS

Is Radical at Heart and Blames the Lords for the Present Confusion.

London, April 25.—King Edward will return to England from Biarritz next Wednesday, and there is keen anxiety on the part of those who know the alarming reports which have been current about his health to see for themselves whether his continental sojourn appears to have done him much good or not.

The official statements regarding his majesty's ill-health are far from reassuring to those who are aware of the facts, and have tended to increase the alarm felt. And now almost on the eve of his return there is a renewal of disquieting news.

Blames the Lords.

It is considered particularly unfortunate that the crown should have been dragged into the arena of party politics at such a time. Both sides are wrangling as to which of them is responsible. The King himself is deeply perturbed, and there is no question that he lays the blame on the Lords.

From the outset of the strife over the budget he has strongly deprecated the action by the House of Lords, which has brought about the present situation. It was on his representations that Lord Rosebery refused to vote for the rejection of the budget he had inveighed against with all his eloquence. The royal previsions of fears have been realized to an extent which suggests the possibility that to an even greater extent than is yet the case they may prove to have been farsighted.

King Edward, it is well known among his personal entourage, is a radical at heart, though he has never departed by a hair's breadth from the strict impartiality by which as a constitutional monarch set above parties he has been guided in all his public acts.

In the case of the Prince of Wales the boot is very much on the other leg. He is strongly Tory, and makes no concealment of the fact.

London at the present moment is buzzing with the story of an incident which occurred a couple of Saturdays ago, when the prince attended a university football match at the Queen's Club. During an interval in the game he was noticed to be talking somewhat emphatically and excitedly on some subject. What that subject was speedily became apparent, for the prince in the heat of discussion raised his voice to such a pitch that it was heard by scores of persons in his neighborhood. He was roundly denouncing David Lloyd George and "his gutter budget."

PRODGER PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO SHOOTING OF MISS FRANK

Many Witnesses Called in Police Court in Preliminary Hearing This Morning Tell of Seeing Bareheaded Man, and Detectives Tell of Tracing Ownership of Hat—Prisoner Remanded.

John Prodger appeared before Magistrate Love at the police court this morning for his preliminary examination on a charge of shooting and shooting with intent to kill Miss Elizabeth Frank at her home on April 5. Prodger was represented by F. H. Bartlett and W. R. Meredith, and pleaded not guilty. He listened with the greatest interest to the evidence, and was particularly attentive when the hat found at Miss Franks was produced, and also when the evidence regarding his identification was being given.

When court opened Mr. P. H. Bartlett asked that if the detectives were going to be called as witnesses that they be excluded. Mr. McKillop stated that as far as he knew the detectives would not be called.

"I am not going to be bound not to call them, though, if facts develop later on," said Mr. McKillop. "I want that unlerstood."

The First Witness.

Sidney Clark, of 127 High street, first called, stated that on Tuesday afternoon, April 5, he was standing on his verandah, which is directly across the road from Miss Frank's home, and about 700 feet away. He heard a shot and after a few moments saw Miss Frank appear as if she had come out of her back door. Witness saw another party appear, apparently dressed in black, and heard another shot. Miss Frank was then about fifteen feet from the party. Mr. Clark could not say whether the person were a man or woman.

Saw Miss Frank Run.

After the second shot Miss Frank started to run, and the other person went back to the house. Witness could only see the head and shoulders of the person on account of fences and shrubbery. This was about 4:15.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bartlett, witness said he was quite certain the

SIR WILFRID LAURIER DOESN'T LIKE CLOSURE

Revising Rules in the Interest of Expedition—Several Changes Made.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Ont., April 25. — Each year as business increases and sessions lengthen, Parliament endeavors to adjust itself to congested conditions by revising the rules in the interest of expedition.

There has been a committee at work this session, on which Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden have sat, and it has brought in its report. The closure is not yet included in the recommendations. Sir Wilfrid is not in favor of the limitation of speech by regulation, and if it can be limited by common sense that proposal will stand over.

The chief changes to expedite business will be that certain questions may be answered in writing. In committee the rules will be so changed that the chairmen will be required to keep the speaker strictly to the point, and if he wanders more than once he will be compelled to step altogether.

FOUND ON THE TRACKS WITH LEG CUT OFF

Stranger Brought to City From Newbury and May Not Survive Injuries.

A man supposed to be George Moore, of Sarnia, was brought to Victoria Hospital this afternoon with one leg cut off above the knee and such severe internal injuries that it is feared he cannot recover. He was found lying on the Grand Trunk tracks about a mile and a half east of Newbury by the train crew, and was at once taken to Glencoe, where Dr. Walker attended him. As soon as the wound was dressed he was sent in to London on a freight train and taken at once to the hospital. An unknown man, who was on the train gave the authorities all the information they have. He was in such an intoxicated condition that upon the arrival of the train at Glencoe he was placed under arrest, and is at present in the jail there.

Moore, when found, was in a semi-unconscious condition, and very weak from loss of blood. It is supposed that he was either stealing a ride and slipped under the cars or else was struck some time during the night while walking on the tracks.

Brigade Out Twice.

The fire department had two calls this morning. The first was to the residence of J. D. Crocker, 472 Ontario street, where a chimney was on fire. No damage resulted. Smoke issuing from a defective furnace pipe caused people to believe that there was a fire at Mrs. Thompson's house at 191 Queen's avenue, and the brigade was called. It was found, however, that there was no fire.

Late Mrs. Langford.

The funeral of Mrs. E. M. Langford was held this afternoon from the residence of her son, A. A. Langford, 692 Waterloo street, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Richard Whiting, assisted by Rev. Mr. Kennedy. The pall-bearers were five sons of deceased and Mr. Fred Matthews.

The late Margaret Anderson had resided in Westminster Township, lot 22, con. 5, for the past 50 years, and her tragic death will be regretted by many.

She was born in Merrishire, Scotland, 78 years ago, but has been almost a life-long resident of Westminster Township.

NEXT APPEARANCE MAY BE HIS LAST

Magistrate Threatens to Send Youthful Citizen to Institute at Guelph.

John McKenzie, a young man who has been making a record for himself by the number of times he has been appearing before Magistrate Love for being drunk, was told this morning when he came up, that if he appears again he will be sent to the inebriate institute at Guelph.

"I am convinced that that is the only thing that will save you," said the court.

Frank Davidson, another citizen who finds it hard to keep on the wagon, was put on the Indian list to see if that will help him any.

Eugene Moriarity caused much amusement when his name was called.

"Dis is de first time I have been pinched since I have been away," he told the court.

"No doubt that was simply because you were away," said the magistrate. "I fine you $5."

THE DAMNABLE SIN THE DARLING SIN

During the next nine days Londoners will have an excellent opportunity of hearing Herbert Booth, son of the renowned head of the Salvation Army. The nine days' mission was opened Sunday, Mr. Booth preaching at both services at the First Methodist Church. The meetings will continue until May 2, on which night the story of the early Christians will be told, illustrated by bioscopic pictures.

There were good congregations out at both services, while the Auditorium was well filled in the afternoon, many being desirous of hearing such a renowned preacher.

Mr. Booth does not particularly resemble his father, the aged general of the Salvation Army, in appearance or manner. He is more of the evangelist type, and frequently resorts to the exclamation, "Listen! Listen!" to emphasize his remarks.

He especially likes perfect silence and rapt attention on the part of his audience, for yesterday morning in the middle of his sermon he stopped abruptly and requested the organist, Mr. A. D. Jordan, to shut off the water-power to prevent the creaking of the organ bellows.

His morning text was, Judges xvi., 30: "So the dead which he slew at his death were more than they which he slew in all his life."

Mr. Booth said some strong things. "I know the door where sin would come in like a flood," said he, "and I suppose you, like others, will bar every door, and leave that door open just a little, because that is the darling sin. The damnable sin is always the darling sin."

MAY HAVE SIGNAL TOWER

That of C. P. R. on Richmond Street to Come Out a Few Feet.

The C. P. R. have received permission to move the Richmond street signal tower out to the street line. The reason for the change is that in its present position the Murray Shoe Company hides the view north. In order to obviate this difficulty the signal tower is now moved out three feet.

A new up-to-date interlocking plant is also being installed to operate the signals on both the C. P. R. and the street railway.

The city granted the request on the understanding that the company move the tower back on request.

While the shift is taking place the street car conductors are forced to act as their own flagmen, jumping off the cars, running ahead and signalling to the motormen if the track is clear.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE

Mrs. Margaret White, a Pioneer Hotel-Keeper, Dies at the Age of 73 Years.

Mrs. Margaret White, one of London's pioneer hotel-keepers, and a resident of this city for 73 years, died on Sunday after a brief illness at the home of her son, Mr. J. B. Jennings, proprietor of the Western Hotel. Mrs. White was in her 91st year, and came to this country from King's County, Ireland, with her father, an artillery officer. After the rebellion of 1837 he moved to London, and entered into the hotel business. Mrs. White had conducted many hotels, among them being the North Street Hotel, on the site where the United States Express Company now have an office on Carling street; the White House, where the London Club stands; the old Revere House; the White Hotel, now the Metropolitan, and a hotel which stood where the postoffice now is. Mrs. White and Sir John Carling were playmates when they were children.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery, and the services will be conducted by Canon Dann, of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Everyone Thought She Was Going Into Consumption.

Gained Ten Pounds in Two Weeks by the Use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Fred. Biggs, Kingston, Ont., writes:—"I was completely run down, my blood was out of order, and I used to get so weak I would be compelled to stay in bed for weeks at a time. I could not eat, was pale and thin; every one thought I was going into consumption. I tried everything and different doctors until a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I did not have one bottle used when my appetite began to improve. I used six bottles. I gained ten pounds in two weeks. When I began to take it I only weighed ninety-three pounds. It just seemed to pull me from the grave as I never expected to be strong again. I will tell every sufferer of your wonderful medicine."

The blood reaches every portion of the body to distribute nutriment and remove effete matter and waste products. Clearly then, any influence, good or bad, affecting the blood, must necessarily affect the entire system for good or evil as the case may be.

Get pure blood and keep it pure by removing every trace of impure morbid matter from the system by using Burdock Blood Bitters. It exerts a curative influence unapproached by any other remedy.

One of the Best Equipped Educational and Religious Institutions in the Country.

The Sacred Heart Academy and Convent on Queen's avenue, one of the finest educational and religious institutions in Canada, is a place with a history, both as to its foundation and its students. It is connected with one of the most prominent Catholic orders in the world, having been established by a number of nuns sent out from the mother house in France over 50 years ago.

The present site, which comprises four acres—about three-quarters of the block bounded by Queen's avenue, Dundas, Maitland and Colborne streets—was selected when London was in its infancy, and the beautiful place provides an excellent recreation grounds for the sisters of the order here, as well as for the academy and sparate school students.

In the former there are at present 91 pupils, while 150 children attend the separate school, in a well-equipped building on Queen's avenue.

The academy has turned out some of the most talented ladies in local social circles, the graduates representing all denominations.

The languages and music are included in the subjects taught, and students are prepared for either collegiate institute or university education.

The convent is in charge of Rev. Mother Lewis, who came to this city from Chicago some months ago.

Bishop Fallon's mother and father, who come from Cornwall, are at present guests of the Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

MR. T. E. MARA CALLED SUDDENLY BY DEATH

Well-Known London Merchant Succumbs to an Attack of Heart Failure.

Thomas Edward Mara, the senior member of the firm of T. E. Mara Company, died suddenly Saturday afternoon at his residence, 484 Waterloo street, from heart failure.

Mr. Mara had not been in the best of health for some time, having had pneumonia during the winter. No serious results were anticipated, as he had apparently recovered from the seizure. He contemplated a trip to the Southern States to entirely recover, and was making preparations for the journey.

About 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon he complained of a pain in his heart and before aid could be summoned he expired. The suddenness of his demise was a great shock to his friends.

Deceased was 39 years of age, and came to London eighteen years ago from Galt to take over his father's business. During that time he built up a reputation as a keen business man, and the great success of the business was largely due to his untiring efforts. Mr. Mara was considered one of the most brilliant of the younger businessmen of the west.

He is survived by his widowed mother, one sister, Miss Minnie, at home, and three brothers—Wilfred, who is in the business; Harry, of Seattle, and Dr. Clifford Mara, of Allantown, Pa.

Mr. Mara was an adherent of the First Methodist Church, and was closely identified with sports in London during the past few years.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made at Mount Pleasant. Rev. R. Whiting, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will conduct the services.

BERRY---PEGLER

Church Wedding in West London — Popular London Couple to Reside in the West.

A pretty church wedding was solemnized by the Rev. George W. Dewey in the Empress Avenue Church on Saturday afternoon at 4:30, when Robert Wilbur Berry was united in marriage to Celia Alberta Pegler, both of this city.

A number of friends of the contracting parties were present. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Stead, organist of the church. Miss Theresa Pegler, of Mandaumin, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. Chester R. Moule, of this city, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry left on the 7:10 C. P. R. train for Vernon, B. C., where they will reside.

Mr. Berry was for several years with the Greene-Swifth Company, of this city, and was later a merchant in the village of Arva. He has been in the west only a couple of months and returned several weeks ago for his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry will both be missed from the Empress Avenue Methodist Church. Mr. Berry was a member, while his bride sang in the choir.

FORBES ROBERTSON AT THE GRAND

"Passing of the Third Floor Back" Delights Large Audiences.

SUPERBLY PRESENTED

The Foremost English Actor in His Touching Portrayal of the Stranger—Sweet and Wholesome Play.

Two great audiences were laid under the spell of a tender and beautiful art at the Grand on Saturday. Such art, when exercised upon such a play, is a spiritual experience. It was sweet, uplifting, purifying. Measured by severe artistic standards, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," is not a great play, but its lesson and spirit cover and even adorn its dramatic shortcomings, and its interpretation by Forbes-Robertson and his company would have glorified mediocrity itself. In its appeal to the heart and soul it fell like a benediction.

This symbolic comedy from the pen of Jerome K. Jerome has for its locale a London boarding-house. The character in the prologue are a catalogue of all the vices—a cheat, a snob, a sloven, a painted lady, a shrew, a hussy, a satyr, a coward, a rogue, a cad, a bully. The landlady waters the milk, overcharges the boarders, and overworks the little slavey. The boarders cheat the landlady, and one another. A sordid, selfish, snarling crew, they cross the stage one by one, each exhibiting some ugly side of human nature. There is not a glimmer of grace, not a redeeming touch. Only the slavey seems to have sensed the soullessness of it all. "You're a cheat; I'm a cheat; we're all cheats," she cries to the landlady. "What's the good of us anyway? What are we here for?"

* * *

In the midst of this colloquy comes a knock at the outside door. The slavey goes, and returns with an awed look. It is a stranger come to rent the vacant room. "What's he like?" asks the landlady. "I don't know," replies the drudge, "only he doesn't seem to be like the rest of them." "Is he old or young?" "I don't know." The stranger is ushered in, and is informed by the landlady that the vacant room is on the third floor back. "My usual price for this room," she says, "is two pounds ten per week, but I'll let you have it for two pounds." "Thank you," said the stranger, "but is that fair to yourself? If the price is two pounds ten I must insist on paying the ten shillings." The woman is startled. Something in the mien and manner of the stranger puzzles and penetrates her. "Did I say two pounds ten? I was thinking of another room. The room on the third floor back is only one pound ten, sir." "Ah," said the stranger, "you women are always unfair to yourselves, and you kind women are the worst." The stranger goes to his room and the curtain falls with the landlady standing in the middle of the room, repeating his words with a note of mingled wonder and self-reproach in her voice.

* * *

In the play proper, or the second act, a transformation is wrought. The gentle, searching challenge of the stranger goes to the soul of each of his fellow-lodgers. He appeals to their essential manhood and womanhood, and their better natures respond. The Jew, presuming on the apparent simplicity of the stranger, proposes to sell him stock in a fraudulent silver mine. The stranger at once jumps at the offer, and thanks him profoundly. "Some of my dearest friends and some of the noblest men in the world are of your people," he says. The astonished Jew returns the money, protesting that he would never forgive himself and would feel as though he had sold the honor of the Jewish race if he had led a friend into an unfortunate investment. The bibulous old race-track gambler renounces the girl he wishes to buy, and makes her happy by financing her impecunious artist-lover. A quarrelsome old couple, the bully and the shrew, become Darby and Joan again when the stranger brings before them the picture of their youthful love and their courting days. The painted lady discards her wig, her paint and her brummagem jewelry, and reappears as a modest grey-haired, sensible woman in her forties. The snob remembers that she has a poor sister in need of her help. The youth who pounds the tinny piano is encouraged to cultivate his talent and to aspire to be an artist for the sake of giving pleasure to others. The landlady becomes trustful, thoughtful, considerate; she thinks of sending the slavey to the seaside for a rest. The little slavey is made to realize the dignity of her womanhood. There is a flood of sweetness and light where all was drab and dun and drear. If the cynic says that the stranger works the miracle by delicate flattery, and by turning the foibles of each into a means of ingratiating himself into their confidence—then so much the worse for the cynic.

* * *

In the epilogue, or third act, we see all the characters regenerated and playing their new parts. They have risen on the stepping stones of their dead selves to higher things. They serve one another in the spirit of loving friendship.

The stranger bids them farewell: "My work here is done; I must go elsewhere." He passes out into the night and through the open door there streams a mysterious light—and the curtain falls.

Mr. Forbes-Robertson, as the stranger, presented a study that lifted his hearers to the highest pitch of admiration. He was more than graceful—he was the essence of grace. His beautiful enunciation and finely-modulated voice were music to the ear. His facial expression, the play of his mobile features, his irradiating smile, the flash of his eye, were part of his art, but it was an art transcending art. His portraval of the Christ-like peacemaker and sorrow-soother was so sincere as to carry one's convictions beyond the confines of the theatre, no matter how quickly they might dissolve in the actual test of mollifying an obstreperous world on the morrow.

It was a perfectly balanced company. Perhaps Miss Molly Pearson, as the Slavey, carried off the honrs, next to the star, but it seems invidious to say so, considering the excellent work of Miss Wright, as the Painted Lady; Miss Weeden, as the almost immolated daughter; Mr. Poulton, as the Jew; Mr. Thomas, as the Bookmaker, and Miss Skinner, as the Landlady. If the others are not mentioned, it was because their roles were not so outstanding.

Partello Company Tonight.

The Partello Company will open a three nights' engagement at the Grand tonight with "The College Girl." Tomorrow night "A Royal Prisoner" will be the offering. Special bargain matinee will be given Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 when "Lena Rivers" will be presented. The company will close their engagement Wednesday evening with "A Man From the West." Ladies' 15c tickets will be issued at tonight's performance, and are limited to 200. These must be reserved before 6 o'clock.

The Lady Minstrels.

One of the features of the St. John's Ladies' Minstrel Show on Wednesday and Thursday will be the double sextette of singers and dancers in "Scene from Flowerland." The burlesque sketch, "Mrs. Black's Pink Tea," will be a scream from start to finish. It is a take-off on modern society, and will be played by ten black-face comediennes. Another feature will be "The Butterfly Dance," a new dance creation by one of the best lady dancers in the city.

CLEAN JOURNALISM

A Virginia Editor's Criticism of the Journalism of Today.

New Haven, Conn., April 23.—Major J. C. Hemphill, owner and editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, made a plea for cleaner journalism and cleaner newspapers in an address at Yale University in the first lecture under the Bromley Foundation. His subject was "The Public and the Press."

"The press in these abundant times," said Major Hemphill, "speaking generally, is in the business for the money there is in it. Little or no independence is actually possessed by the journalists who preach independence.

"The yellow streak runs not less through the press than through the people." The shame of the press is that it has catered to the worst tendencies of a corrupt and mtlodorous age. Its mission ought to be the elevation of the public. Instead, it advertises its degradation, fairly shrieking against any restriction upon its liberty. It converts its liberty into license."

HAMILTON REGIMENTS MAY NOT COME HERE

Inspection Likely to Interfere With Proposed Three Days' Trip to Forest City.

The Hamilton Spectator of Saturday says: Col. Hodgins, of London, was in the city last night in connection with the invitation extended to the two local regiments to go to London for a three days' trip, including Victoria Day. Owing to the fact that the men are to be inspected on May 26, it has been practically decided that the trip will have to be given up, and that no meeting of the officers was held to hear Col. Hodgins' proposition. No definite announcement has yet been made, though, and the officers are trying still to arrange the inspection and trip so that they will not conflict.

MICHIGAN FRUIT RUINED BY STORM

Ninety Per Cent of Crops in Southwestern Belt Is Totally Destroyed.

St. Joseph, Mich., April 24.—Latest reports from nearly every section of the fruit belt of Southwestern Michigan show that the crop is almost totally ruined.

The freezing temperature of Friday night continued all day Saturday, weather conditions ameliorating during the night. Today a drizzling rain has prevailed over this section. There is a faint hope that if the temperature does not rise too high within the next few days and cloudy skies prevail a small percentage of the buds will give off the frost and survive. The plum, cherry, pear and apple yield is totally ruined.

Some reports indicate that here and there in the districts contiguous to Lake Michigan some of the peach buds have been spared. Ninety per cent of the grape yield is lost and the same is true of all berries, with the possible exception of strawberries. A larger portion of this variety retains life. Not more than one-tenth of the vegetable crop has been ruined, owing to the fact that there was but a small proportion of this class of vegetation above ground.

Communications from the grain district south of here state that this crop escaped unscathed.

The estimated loss in Berrien County will be $2,000,000. The damage to the grape crop in Van Buren County is estimated at $1,000,000.

FASHION DECREES FRILLS, FURBELOWS

The Norfolk coat is one of the prominent revivals this spring that has returned as a coat for girls and suit for boys.

Children wear patent leather belts or those of the dress fabric; in the latter case a buckle is made of the same goods.

The Dresden patterns in ribbons are not confined to ribbons of taffeta and moire, but may be found in velvet, as well.

Many a foulard which did duty last season may be furnished to look decidedly up-to-date by the addition of a tunic of silk voile.

Hand embroidery, in combination with Cluny lace, will give a note of distinction to many a smart tailored linen suit this summer.

A very handsome wood button in green and tan colorings in which is a bronze dragon or reptilian design, is among the buttons shown.

Linens so closely resembling the time-tested whipcords that they are deceptive at first glance, are admirably suited to tailor-made suits.

The natural rough-woven Shantung and Tussah will be worn this spring. Long travelling coats of this material will be especially smart.

Silk crepes with most stunning borders are among the new dress-stuffs, and these borders, with bird or floral designs, are the most stylish and unusual.

The long hip effect is present in the spring models almost without exception. In fact, this seems to be the feature up-to-date corset design.

Some of the new parasols are of a solid color, veiled with a net embroidered in a thread the same color of the silk, or contrasting strongly with it.

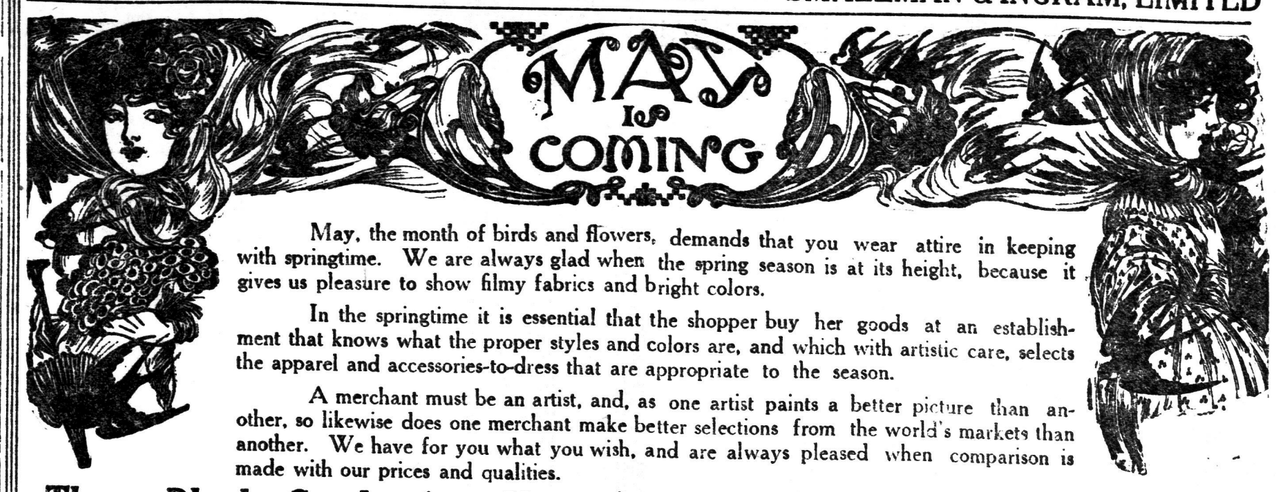

Most of the new wraps and hats show a hint of shining metal somewhere about it in clasps or buttons or bands.

It is difficult to say what will be the greatest favorite the coming summer—foulard or pongee. Both foulards and pongees are shown in many attractive varieties.

There are indications from Paris of a lowering of the bust-line. Many of the higher-priced domestic models are showing the same trend, and there seems to be a tendency in this direction.

One of the new shower-proof foulards is most suggestive in its design of the present rage for chantecler effects. The curious swirls of color cannot but bring to mind the plumage of the rooster.

WOLTER SINGS HYMNS

The Convicted Slayer of Ruth Wheeler Also Eats Heartily.

New York, April 25.—Albert Wolter, convicted of killing Ruth Wheeler joined vigorously with his fellow-prisoners of the Tombs yesterday in singing hymns. No one called to see him, but he was cheerful all day, and ate three hearty meals. The warden said his appetite improves all the time. He seems not to dread being seated on Wednesday.

POKING FUN AT T. R.

Paris, April 25.—The radical papers poke fun at Col. Roosevelt, with the exception of Gil-Blas, which calls him a charlatan. In an article by Frederick Masson, headed "Hail Caesar," Roosevelt is characterized as a demagogue, and he is said to be arranging for a "circus-like appearance" on the American stage. In sarcastic terms the former president is referred to as going home to save the country and possibly to stir up anarchy, pillage, and arson in industrial centres. Roosevelt is characterized as the American Caesar, who, while he may not please the Latins, at least pleases Americans.

ELECTIONS IN FRANCE WERE VERY QUIET

President Takes His Turn in the Line of Waiting Electors.

Paris, April 25.—The polling for members of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday (Sunday) throughout France and the colonies was marked almost universally by the same calm, apparent indifference, which was characteristic of the campaign. Nothing reliable has yet been obtained to indicate the result. An illustration of the extraordinary number of candidates, it may be stated that several seats each had ten aspirants, while some had more. Avignon made a record with 48 candidates for one seat.

Paris sent, it seems, more voters to the polls than it did in 1906, when political passion was higher. President Fallieres took his place in a line of waiting electors at the Madrie of the eighth ward. He was not recognized, and it was not until his voting ticket was dropped into the ballot urn, and the presiding officer, in accordance with custom, shouted "Citizen Armand Fallieres has voted," that the people realized that the stout, white-bearded man leaving the polling booth, was the President. Then people took off their hats, and respectfully greeted him.

Curiosity regarding the vote polled by women cannot yet be gratified, but it is stated by a protagonist that Madame Durand polled only 34 votes in the Montmartre district. Her candidature has not yet been legalized.

At Claville, in the Cognac district, the mayor, who was presiding at the election, was shot with a revolver and fatally wounded by a voter as he handed in his ballot paper. The shooting was due to a private quarrel.

THREE LONDON BOYS LOCKED IN BOX CAR

Carried Off to Hamilton and Spend Two Days Without Food.

Hamilton, April 25.—When the yard checker at the G. T. R. opened a car of furniture consigned to James Arnedt of Hamilton, on Saturday, he was very much surprised to find the car was also occupied by three lads, Willie Arnedt, George Sachwell and George McLean. The boys had been on the road for two days without a bite to eat, and it was a great relief to them when they were allowed out. Mr. Arnedt was working in London, and secured a position with the D. Moore Company here. While he was loading the car in London a couple of days ago, the three boys were playing in it, and the yardman, not knowing that they were inside, sealed the car, and that night it was pulled out for this city. The parents of the missing boys were worried about their absence, and when word was dispatched to them this morning of the three having been located, they were much relieved. The Arnedt boy was turned over to his father, who is in this city, and the other boys were sent back to London.

MARK TWAIN WROTE A SERIOUS BOOK

It Was Published Anonymously—His Only Daughter Gets His Millions.

New York, April 25.—It has developed that Mark Twain wrote a serious work on religion, entitled "What Is Man?" It was published anonymously in 1906 and was circulated privately, only 250 copies being published. Friends of the dead author are today explaining that he did not assume responsibility, because the public preferred not to consider his writings as serious.

The book sets forth, in the form of a dialogue between an old and a young man, its author's notions of the hidden springs of human character. Its lesson is that religion is chiefly a matter of temperament and environment, and that beliefs are acquirements, while temperaments are born.

The Daily News remarks that it was only during the last decade that the bigness of his personality was fully revealed.

Opinions differ as to his exact position in the Valhalla of letters. The Saturday review says he was irresistibly comic but not a humorist. The Spectator, on the other hand, says the world loses not only an original humorist, but also a great humanist who never wrote a line that he had cause to be ashamed of.

Many of the newspapers concede that he was the most typical American man of letters, and the embodiment of American temperament, more so even than Hawthorne or Poe.

Twain's Millions.

Redding, Conn., April 25.—Mrs. Clara Gabrilowitsch, only surviving child of Mark Twain, will inherit all his property, with the exception of a few minor bequests to personal friends, according to a statement made here this afternoon. It is said that the dead author drew a new will following the death of his daughter Jean last December.

ELGIN COUNTY WOULD SEND PATIENTS HERE

Elgin County is desirous of sending patients to the new tuberculosis sanatorium at Byron. To effect arrangements a delegation came up from Elgin County on Saturday afternoon, and were shown over the building and grounds by Hon. Adam Beck and Sheriff Cameron, president and secretary respectively of the London Health Association.

The delegation consisted of the following: Dr. McKillop, West Lorne; Drs. Geo. and W. Lang, West Dutton; M. McKnight, Aylmer, and J. J. Mistele, Rodney.

The visitors were very enthusiastic over the matter, and will submit a proposition at the June session of the Elgin county council, which will probably be favorably regarded. The delegation also met Dr. McCullough and went into the matter pretty thoroughly.

The health association appears to be favorably disposed to the admission of Elgin County patients if suitable terms can be arrived at. The matter came up at the annual meeting about a week ago, and no objection was then raised.

"As far as St. Thomas is concerned," said Sheriff Cameron to The Advertiser, "that city will have to make separate arrangements, as no contract with Elgin will be binding to St. Thomas."

J. S. LARKE DEAD

Ottawa, April 24.—Mr. F. C. T. O'Hara, deputy minister of trade and commerce, received a cable message from Sydney, New South Wales, today, conveying the news of the death of Mr. J. S. Larke, who since 1894 had been Canadian trade commissioner at Sydney. Mr. Larke, who was Canada's first permanent trade agent and one of the most capable men in this branch of the public service, was 70 years of age, and a widower. He was for many years a resident of Oshawa, where he owned and edited the Vindicator. Mr. Larke enjoyed a reputation as a platform speaker. Two years ago he visited Canada, and addressed the boards of trade of the large cities on Australian trade conditions and the opportunities for the development of our export trade to the island continent.

LONDON, MONDAY, APRIL 25.

DEATH OF J. S. LARKE.

Intelligence of the death of Mr. J. S. Larke, Canadian trade commissioner in Australia, will surprise and grieve many of his fellow-countrymen. He was a native of Oshawa, Ont., where he was for years publisher and editor of The Vindicator. Later he became a stove manufacturer in the same town, but won more reputation and success as a politician. There were few better stump-speakers in the Conservative party, or in the country, than Mr. Larke. Old campaigners in this city will remember him well; he spoke many times from the political platform here. In 1894 he was rewarded by Sir Mackenzie Bowell with the new post of trade commissioner of Australia, which he continued to hold until his death. He was in much demand in the Commonwealth for public functions because of his talent as an orator, and he represented his country with distinction and credit. On his last visit to Canada three or four years ago he was in this city in the interests of Australian trade. The public loses a good servant in the death of Mr. Larke.

SUBSIDIZED STEAM SERVICES.

The encouragement of trade with other countries by means of steamship subsidies has been part of the policy of Canadian governments for many years. In continuing it the present Government has had an eye single to the benefit of the Canadian producer. The service established between St. John, N. B., and Cuba, for instance, has been very successful in developing trade, and has given the utmost satisfaction to shippers. The claim has been made in some quarters that the steamship line from Halifax to Cuba should afford all the accommodation necessary, but, as Hon. Mr. Pugsley recently pointed out, Halifax is too far away from the point of production in Nova Scotia to be of any advantage to the people producing hay, potatoes, etc., in the valley of the St. John River, one of the best sections in Canada for the production of these things. By means of this steamship service these people have been able to market their potatoes in vast quantities, for the tubers are a great favorite in Cuba. The result has been very profitable to the farmers of the St. John River Valley. Under the agreement with the steamship company it is bound to give one sailing per month, but as a matter of fact since the steamers have been running the line has given from three to seven sailings per month, owing to the development of trade and the necessities of the public.

Another valuable subsidized service is that between Canada and Mexico on the Atlantic and Pacific. Originally the Mexican Government paid $50,000 a year, but as all the trade was outward and not much coming back it did not seem disposed to continue its share of the subsidy. From the Canadian point of view, however, the traffic is most encouraging, and the Canadian Government, rather than see the service abandoned, granted an additional $25,000 per annum. The tonnage carried outward during recent months has been as follows: September, 160 tons by measurement; October, 23 tons by weight and 53 tons by measurement; December, 67 tons by weight and 24 tons by measurement; January, 30 tons by measurement. Mails are carried on all subsidized steamers as a condition of the contract, but there is no specific allotment for mail purposes.

CANADIAN TOBACCO.

It has been pretty well demonstrated that tobacco of a very fine quality can be grown in Canada. The climate of this country seems to be very suitable for the growing of a good many varieties of "the weed," and growers here are able to put into the hands of the manufacturers tobacco that will make a superior quality of "plug" and cigars.

Tobacco-growing was for a long time mainly confined to the Province of Quebec, the habitant raising and curing it almost entirely for home consumption. Finally its cultivation was experimented with in Essex and Kent counties, Ontario. Large crops were produced, but a few years ago there was a glut in the market, the reason being that the tobacco was not properly cured. Mr. Fisher, minister of agriculture, was convinced that this was a crop which could be raised advantageously in Canada, and he made some investigation, discovering that there was nobody in this country who was able to grow and cure tobacco according to the best scientific methods. He took it upon himself to send to France, where a very large branch under the Government is doing that kind of work, and where a lot of scientific men are studying the culture of tobacco, and the best means of treating it. He succeeded in engaging the services of Mr. Charland, an expert, who has proven himself in every way qualified for his duties. The prejudice which a few years ago existed against Canadian tobacco has almost disappeared. Mr. Fisher is authority for the statement that as a matter of fact a very large proportion of all the cigars that are smoked in Canada are made in Canada of Canadian tobacco. During the last year or two there has been a ready sale of all the tobaccos produced in the country.

Meanwhile the area of growth is extending less rapidly than the quality is improving. In some localities there is an increase in the culture, but the growth is mostly confined to the counties of Montcalm and Rouville in Quebec, the county of Essex, Ontario, and part of British Columbia. The people are taking much more interest in tobacco and much more care in the management and cure of it, and they get more money for their crop. This year the Government again has an item of $5,000 in the estimates to encourage the production and sale of tobacco.

BRITAIN HOLDS HER OWN.

Lord Brassey, president of the Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom, made some encouraging statements in the course of a speech at the annual meeting of that body recently. Since the fiscal policy became a party question the board of trade had given statistics without commentary, but he admitted that there was to be found no material displacement of British manufactures by Germany, the latest returns being most reassuring. In the export of manufactured articles, he says, Britain has shown a decided gain over Germany, its exports during the last decade having increased by seventy million pounds sterling as compared with Germany's fifty-nine million pounds.

In the opinion of Lord Brassey, Great Britain is well able to bear all the necessary burdens of keeping up the two-power standard of the navy; indeed her burdens are lighter than those of other nations, especially Germany's. In Great Britain the line of exemption from income tax is drawn at £160; in Germany at £45, and in France, under recent legislature, at £50.

If Lord Brassey had his way there would be new taxes on amusements. He contends that "threepence on stall tickets for theatres, and halfpennies on admissions to see cricket and football matches would not be burdensome." Such taxes, he estimates, would yield £1,000,000 to the exchequer.

Believe not each accusing tongue,
As most weak people do,
But still believe that story wrong
Which ought not to be true.

MARRIAGE A FAILURE.

[Prose Poem by Walt Mason.]

Her life is a failure, the whole world knows; her illusions have gone to smash, for she married a cane and a suit of clothes, and a smile and a blonde moustache. When first she was bound to wed I talked to her long in vain: "The man you have chosen is cheap," I said, "Maria Samantha Jane. I've known him well since he was a lad, in days of the long ago; he grieves his mother and slights his dad, and that's all I need to know. Just write it down in your new spring hat, Maria Samantha Jane, that man is mean as a Norway rat who causes his parents pain; I know he's slick as a bunco man; you think he is free from guile; but you will find it a risky plan to marry a dazzling smile. His parents' hearts he has tried to break; he's worried them all his life; and he'll be mean as a one-eyed snake to you when you are his wife. Oh, turn him down while you have the chance!' Don't fall for his bridal wreath! Don't marry a hat and a pair of pants, and a set of gold-filled teeth!" She shooed me off from her garden gate, and called me a bird of prey, and soon hooked up with that smiling skate, and threw her young heart away. I hold it true that the wayward lad whose mother has wept and sighed, who has no love for his patient dad, will gold-brick his blushing bride.

WHEN THE GOOD MAN DIETH.

[Brooklyn Life.]

Murphy—Poor O'Reilly is dead. And a good old man he was.

Casey—Yis, and a thoughtful wan, too. Shure, before he died he called all his creditors to him and told them where they could borrow enough to cover what he owed them.

NOT ACTUALLY NECESSARY.

[Chicago Tribune.]

The lawyer proceeded to examine the witness.

"Pardon the question, Mrs. Chucksley," he said, "but your answer constitutes a part of the record. How old are you?"

"Why, you ought to know, Mr. Sharpe," she answered; "my birthday is the same as yours, only I was born ten years later than you were."

"Ah, yes, I remember. Well, it isn't important, anyhow. Go ahead, Mrs. Chucksley, and tell the jury what you know about this case."

PA CONSENTS.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

"But, father," the fair maiden pleaded, "I am sure you misjudge him. He is awfully nice, really, and he has a rich uncle who has promised to give him $100,000 on the day of his wedding."

"Has he got any documents to prove that?"

"He doesn't need documents. I have met his uncle and heard him say it."

"If that's the case, go ahead. You can have him, even if he does use perfume on his handkerchief."

ACCORDING TO HER COUNT.

[Chicago Tribune.]

"Yes," said the young wife; "Philip and I have lived together a whole year, and we've never had the slightest quarrel."

"What are you talking about! You and Philip were married seven years ago!"

"To be sure we were, but you forget that he's a travelling salesman."

GENIUS AND POULTRY

[New York Press.]

It is remarkable what great intellects, from Darwin and Tegetmier down, have interested themselves in the science of poultry and pigeons. The commercial side of this study has reached its highest degree in the American chicken market, the leader of the world. A little special scientific knowledge will often save a whole farm full of chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese, and every family raising poultry or bees needs good bee and poultry books in plain, simple English for the boys and girls to read and study. Almost all children take a natural and vivid interest in the mysteries of the barnyard.

WOMEN'S CLOTHING.

[Westminster Gazette.]

Dr. Haig Ferguson, in a lecture at the Edinburgh Royal Infirmary the other day, had some severe things to say about the clothing of the adult woman. It was hampered by fashion and superstition, and nothing could be a greater tribute to the strong nerves and powerful muscles of women than the fact that their health had survived for centures their habits of clothing.

A woman's clothing was the despair of the hygienist. Children and girls were more sensibly clad, but when girls grew up they were often clothed in a way which made them unable to walk, run or breathe. Weighty skirts, low-necked gowns, "pneumatic biouses," the modern hat, the high-heeled shoe with its pointed toe, were all condemned. But then, women will have it so, and so it will remain.

THE COLOR SCHEME.

[McLandburgh Wilson.]

When she set snares for Smithers
She made her plans aright,
Found out his favored color,
And dressed herself in white.

When Jones was her admirer,
She showed a business head;
To cater to his liking
She garbed herself in red.

Another change she managed
When Algy came in view;
Chameleonwise she shifted,
And gowned herself in blue.

You ask which hue chromatic
Became her married catch?
The color of his money
Was what she had to match.

TITLED WOMEN KEEPING CHICKENS.

[The Gentlewoman.]

Lady Salisbury's success with eggs and hens recalls to mind that poultry keeping is one of the crazes of the moment. Queen Alexandra shows the way, and her Silkies have won many prizes at the poultry shows.

Then Lady Dorset owns some of the costliest birds in existence, and a pair of her Black Orpingtons were sold for £100 at the Crystal Palace. Lady Craven is another prominent exhibitor, and her American Wyandottes are of much beauty and value.

Lady Chesterfield is yet another fancier, and so are Lady Aylesford, Lady Kathleen Pilkington, Lady Burton and Lady Tichborne. And in the old days Evelyn Lady Alington had the finest store of bantams in the word at Crichel, in Dorset.

In Scotland Lady Home has some good poultry, as also Lord Rosebery, who wins prizes with his Minorcas, and the story goes that his old poultry man once in a melting mood admitted: "Those birds will make your lordship's name famous one of these days."

BRITAIN'S EXPORT TRADE.

[London Daily News.]

Let us take the particular phase of trade that the Tariff "Reformers" consider most precious, namely, exports. The following are the shares of three leading countries on on average of the five past years:

United Kingdom	£368,500,000
Germany	£311,500,000
United States	£359,300,000

When we consider the greater population of those countries doing a less trade than ourselves, the exports per head come to:

United Kingdom	£8 0 0
Germany	5 3 10
United States	4 9 10

Adding these averages together, and dividing by three, it appears that the proper share of the world's exports, so far as these three countries are concerned, is £5 17s 11d per head of the population. Thus the proper share of the United Kingdom is £271,000,000, and if this means anything it is that under the tariff reform our exports will fall by £97,000,000, or over 25 per cent.

AN EASTER IDYL.

[Natalie Price, in Life.]

It's just a simple bonnet
With a single rose upon it,
And the little face beneath it is quite serene and still.

But it took a week to buy it,
And it takes an hour to tie it,

GREAT CATTLE CARGOES

Port Huron, Mich., April 25. — The Grand Trunk Railway has secured the contract for hauling the National Car Line Company's cattle trains from Chicago to Boston, which means that over three hundred cars of cattle will pass through the tunnel every week, and that additional men will be given employment at this terminal. There is also a probability that feeding and watering quarters for the cattle will be erected at this point.

PRODGERS PLEADS

suit was dark. He could not say whether or not the party wore a hat. He did not think the shooting unusuad as last fall he heard considerable shooting around Miss Frank's place.

Down Found Hat.

Detective W. H. Down stated that he had been called over to Miss Frank's, and arrived there with Detective Egelton at 4:35. Seven paces from the north door a man's dark Christy hat lay on the ground. The hat lay northeast from the door, and just east of the hat, two and a half feet away, he found a lady's hair comb.

Traced the Footmarks.

There were footmarks on the ground around a window at the south side. Witness traced them through a gate and around some lumber, to a fence adjoining the brick wall. Prodger was arrested on the next day and his boots taken over and placed in the tracks. They were found to correspond exactly.

Cross-examined, Detective Down asked regarding the nature of the ground, said it was soft and most favorable for obtaining impressions. He had covered the marks he wished to examine so that they would not be changed. Witness covered one track particularly, as it was a good one, using an old stable door which kept the rain from erasing the marks.

Magistrate Love asked what was the size of the hat, and upon examination it was discovered to be a 7⅜. Witness said he had not fitted it on Prodger. The steps in the yard, he said, were just ordinary paces, and he would judge that whoever made them was walking at the time.

Hat Was Fitted.

Detective Egelton gave similar evidence regarding the finding of the hat and comb. Witness tried the hat found on Prodger, and it fitted him all right.

"Did you make it fit?" asked Mr. Bartlett.

"No," said the detective. "I didn't make it fit. I put it on and it fitted exactly."

Recalled by the crown attorney, Detective Egelton identified a hat produced as one he had obtained at Prodger's boarding-house. The hat shown was very old and dusty.

"How long after the shooting was Prodger arrested?" asked Mr. Bartlett.

"Twenty-two hours," said Detective Egelton.

"Where did you get the hat?" asked Mr. Bartlett.

"Half an hour after Prodger's arrest," was the reply.

"Did you find out any more about the hat?"

"Yes. Mr. Bremner told us he had given it to Prodger about 5:30 on the afternoon of the shooting."

Saw Hatless Man.

Wm. Campbell, a laborer employed by Mr. Burgess, said he was plowing on the Whetter farm about 4 o'clock, and saw a man coming along the road without a hat.

"Who was the man?" asked Crown Attorney McKillop.

"That is he," said Campbell, pointing at Prodger.

Prodger regarded Campbell steadily as he said this, and appeared quite collected.

"Did he speak to you or you to him?" asked the crown attorney.

"No."

"Did you ever see him before?"

"No."

Cross-examined, witness said Prodger was going east, and was about twelve or fourteen feet away from him. He heard of the shooting about twenty minutes after.

Witness had described the man to the detectives as a man about 5 feet 8 inches tall, 35 years old, clean-shaven, dark hair, and with a bald spot about as big as a half-dollar. He was wearing dark clothes, and looked as if he had been rolling about in the mud. He was walking at a pretty fair gait, and after getting about 30 rods away he started to run. Then he turned south, and disappeared.

Fred Burgess, of Westminster, stated that on the afternoon of the shooting, about 5 o'clock, he saw a short, stout fellow come out of Frank's swamp and run along by the fence. Witness was working about half a mile from where Campbell was working. He said Prodgers appeared to be the man, but could not identify him positively as the man turned his head away and he could not see his face.

W. H. Robinson, who lives in Westminster Township near Vauxhall bridge, said he was working in the flats when he saw a man going towards the river.

"That looks like the man," said Mr. Robinson, pointing to Prodger.

Witness said the man was walking until he came to a little creek, and then lay down. Witness told him to get and keep moving or he might go to sleep. The man had no hat on and was wearing black clothes. The trousers were torn near the thigh.

Wm. Mason, of Ormsbys street, a foreman at George White & Co., testified that he was out walking between Egerton and Smith streets when he saw a man walking on the south side of the river bank. The man was hatless, and witness at first thought it was Fred Prodgers, but when the man saw Mr. Mason looking at him he took off his coat and put it over his head. The man crossed the river.

"Who was the man?" Mason was asked.

"I can't say," he said.

Fred Durham, of 76 Wellington street, was working at McClary's south-end works when he saw a man come around the corner of the building apparently from the L. E. and D. R. tracks. He had no hat and was wearing a dark blue coat and trousers which had been light but were considerably worn and torn at the thigh.

"Have you seen the man since?" asked Crown Attorney McKillop.

"Yes, that is the man sitting there," said Durham, and pointed at Prodger.

"Have you any doubt about his being the man?" asked Mr. McKillop.

"No." said Durham.

Bremner's Story.

Robert Bremner, of 122 Adelaide street, said that on the evening of April 5 he was at his home trimming some lilac bushes about 5:30. His house is about two long blocks from the McClary works. He saw a man coming from the west side of the road towards his place.

He said: "Hey; have you an old hat you can spare?"

Witness went and got two hats from a back shed, and when he held them up Prodger took one, said "I guess that will do," and went away.

"Who was the man?" asked the crown attorney.

"John Prodger," said the witness.

"Did you know him?"

"I had known him, but had not seen him for some time."

"Is that the man sitting there?" asked the crown attorney.

"Yes," said Bremner.

"Is this the hat you gave him?" said Mr. McKillop, producing the hat found in Prodger's room.

"Yes."

Cross-examined, witness said he had often passed Prodger on his way to work, but did not remember seeing him this year.

Witness most positively identified the hat produced as the one he had given Prodger.

Mrs. Eliabeth J. Ewen, of 592 Hill street, quite near Mr. Bremner's, saw a man coming up Adelaide street on the west side about 5:40. Witness noticed that he was bareheaded and went across to Mr. Bremner's. She saw him get a hat.

"Where is the man?"

"The man is there," she replied, indicating Prodger.

"Have you any doubt about it?" Mr. McKillop asked.

"No."

Witness had seen the pictures in the papers of Prodger and said they looked younger than he was. She remembered he was wearing a dark coat.

Prodger was remanded for a week for further examination.

"I want to get through with the case just as soon as we can get Miss Frank," said Crown Attorney McKillop. "I do not think she will be able to come before two weeks."

HOLMES SAYS DEVIL PROMPTED CRIME

Slayer of Grenville County Farmer Captured After Two Days in a Swamp.

Brockville, Ont., April 24.—Albert Holmes, the Edwardsburg farmer who murdered Nathan Bolton with an axe at his farm on Thursday morning last, was lodged in Brockville jail late Friday night to stand his trial for the terrible deed. After being a fugitive from justice for over two days, Holmes was eventually driven from his hiding place in the swamp by the pangs of hunger. Friday evening he was found in an exhausted condition, sitting behind a pile of ties alongside the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway, opposite his own farm and a short distance from where he was seen to disappear in the woods after committing the crime. The railway sectionmen returning to Cardinal after completing their day's work detected Holmes and promptly took him into custody, subsequently handing the prisoner over to Constable McGhie, of Cardinal. The man presented a sorry appearance. Weak in body and troubled in mind, he was barely able to walk and required assistance in his removal to the village, a few miles away. The physical suffering which he had undergone by lack of food and exposure to the weather showed its effects on the stalwart frame. He says the devil tempted him to murder.

BLOODY AFFRAY AT SOO

Two May Die as Result of Mix-Up Among Italians.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 25.—Salvatore Gianola lies at the point of death in the hospital, and Bengotti Salvatore is perhaps fatally wounded as the result of a quarrel among Italians at the steel plant late Saturday evening. The shooting was done by Veto Longo, who is still at large.

Longo, who was with two friends standing near the coal pile, called Gianola to him, and immediately pulled a revolver and fired three shots, severely wounding him. Longo threw the revolver away, and Gianola picked it up and fired two shots after him. Gianola then went to his boarding-house and telephoned to the police. Entering Palumbo's store he was met by Salvatore, who was with Longo when the shooting was done.

Salvatore said: "What, are you not dead yet?" at the same time he pulled a revolver and razor. Gianola wrested the razor from Salvatore and cut him so badly that he is in a precarious condition.

It was claimed by Italians tonight that Longo had been injured by a shot fired by Gianola, and was in hiding in the Italian quarter.

MR. FASKEN AT THE FIRST CHURCH

Former Londoner Delivers Two Powerful Sermons—Will Speak Again This Evening.

There were many old friends in the congregation which greeted Rev. Geo. R. Fasken, of Toronto, at the First Presbyterian Church yesterday. Mr. Fasken was formerly a member of the Collegiate Institute staff, and referred to the pleasure it gave him to be in London again and to renew acquaintanceships. He delivered two impressive sermons, which were illuminating expositions of his texts, marked by reasoning power and deep earnestness. In the morning he preached from Acts, iv., 19-20, and in the evening dealt with the theology of Job, and the lesson of his experience.

Tonight Mr. Fasken and Dr. McCrae will speak at the young men's banquet at the First Church.

TWENTY MILLIONS IN COAL PLANT

A Company to Take Over All the Dunsmuir Collieries.

Ottawa, April 25. — Twenty million dollars is the capital stock of "Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir), Limited," whose incorporation, with its headquarters at Victoria, B. C., is announced in the Canada Gazette. The incorporators are: Frank H. Phippen, K. C., Gerard Godfrey Ruel, Geo. E. Macdonell and Reginald H. M. Temple, barristers, and J. H. Phippen, student, all of Toronto. The company is said here to be a Mackenzie & Mann enterprise, formed for the purpose of acquiring the Dunsmuir collieries on Vancouver Island. It is given extensive powers to acquire and operate coal and iron mines, and in conjunction with them, power plants and steamship lines.

Other new companies are: The Island Mines, Limited, of Hamilton, with a capital of $3,500,000; the Consolidated Ice Company, Montreal, capital $2,000,000; Limestone Knitting Company, Kingston, capital $50,000; Thornton & Douglas, Limited, Hamilton, capital $250,000. The last-mentioned company will acquire the business now conducted in Hamilton, Stratford, Guelph and Berlin under the same name.

The Gazette also announces that the customs outport of Tillsonburg, Ont., is detached from the Port of Ingersoll, and established as a separate customs port and warehousing port.

AN AERIAL DERBY

Contest From London to Manchester For a Prize of $50,000.

London, April 25. — An aerial Derby from London to Manchester is in prospect for Wednesday. Both Graham White, who failed in his attempt last week, and Louis Paulhan, the French aeronaut, who has arrived here, are planning to start for the $50,000 prize on that morning.

M. Paulhan gave official notice to the Aero Club today of his intention to attempt the 186-mile flight Wednesday, weather permitting. He is confident that the repairs to his machine will be completed in time to permit him to ascend simultaneously with the Frenchman.

Paulhan contemplates a continuous flight, though according to the rules of the contest two stops are allowed. Both men will use Farman biplanes.

Misfortune continues to dog the airships of the British army. The one which recently made such successful trial flights was caught by a gust of wind at Farnborough, when it was taken out of its shed this afternoon and quickly turned turtle. The gas-bags were torn to shreds and the framwork smashed to bits.

THE COTTON CROP KILLED BY FROST

New Orleans, April 25. — Freezing weather and snow in many parts of the south sent cotton up 1.75 in the local market today. The new crop is reported killed in many places.

A LIFE'S DEVOTION

BY

FRANK H. SHAW.

Author of "A Daughter of the Storm," "First at the Pole," etc.

(Copyright in U. S. America. All Rights Reserved).

As her escort left the place two men entered, talking together animatedly. She recognized their voices; one was Harold Fortescue, the other Sir Percy Fleeton. Marion, unwilling to meet either of them there, shrank back a little, and drew her skirts closer around her feet. But at mention of a name, she sat eagerly upright, losing sight of the fact that she occupied the position of eavesdropper. Fortescue was talking now—she listened intently, and as she listened the blood forsook her face completely; her limbs trembled; she felt a wild desire to snatch at something and tear it to pieces.

"So, what with one thing and another, I'm firmly convinced that Scroggs knew a jolly sight more about that murder than he cared to admit," said Fortescue in a low, hard voice. "In fact, I wouldn't mind going further and saying that he did it. He'd everything to gain by it, hadn't he? Didn't he marry the dead man's daughter?"

CHAPTER XXV.

Doubt and Suspicion.

Marion sat there frozen stiff, and yet, in spite of the numbness of her body, her brain was working with almost lightning-like celerity. Of course, ran her thoughts, such a supposition was foolish to the verge of absolute madness. Ebenezer was no murderer; good God! the very idea was absurd. The man who had shown her such a wealth of tender love, the man who had given her her child—that he could have soiled his hands with her father's blood was a thing unthought of, not worthy of a moment's consideration. No; these two men were deliberately traducing an innocent man behind his back, and the sooner they were informed of the fact the better. She tried to rise from her seat, but she could not move; she was held there, vice-like, by the freezing chill that had congealed her blood in her veins. Fleeton had said something which she did not catch, his bleating voice had no great carrying powers at the best of times; now, mildly surprised as he was, it was inaudible except to the man at his elbow.

"It can't be—it's too hideous for thought," said the girl fiercely to herself. "I won't stay here to listen to any more of it, and Harold Fortescue, of all men! Why, he's the man whose honor was saved by the man he's traducing! Well, well, Ebenezer was right. Do a man a favor and he'll hate you all the rest of his life." She made another effort to rise, and this time she succeeded. Forcedly calm, proudly upright, she gathered her train up into her hand and moved out from behind the shelter of the palms, past the two men. The place was but dimly lit; not until she was almost upon them did they see her. There was an unintelligible exclamation from Fleeton; a stony silence on the part of Fortescue.

"You made an accusation just now, Mr. Fortescue," said Marion coldly. "If it were not so utterly ridiculous I should demand your apology, but as it is beneath contempt, I treat it with disdain." And she swept out towards the door, from whence came sounds of music and mingled voices.

As she emerged into the light she caught sight of her husband hastening towards her. He looked at her fondly, and as she caught the soft adoration of his eyes, she grew ashamed of the momentary suspicion that had been allowed place in her mind. This man a murderer! The suggestion was contemptible. He stood there amongst the people, towering above them, a man amongst men, the superior of most there, acknowledged by all, at last, as a moving force in the narrow limits of the county. Why, a very great personage indeed was making his way through the crush towards him now; one hand held out, an entreaty on his face. This man a murderer.

"I sent Hindhead away to look after another girl," he said merrily, taking his place at her side with an air of calm possession that she loved. "He told me where you were, and I said I'd fetch you myself, sweetheart. Who has a better right, anyway?" And his smile broadened.

She clung to his arm almost hungrily now, and its unfaltering strength helped her to gather her reeling senses together. He noticed the clutch.

"What's wrong, wife o' mine?" he asked. "You don't look as fit as you might. Been overdoing it?" Should she tell him what she had overheard or not? Was it not almost necessary that he should be put on his guard against these malicious slanders that were flying about the air? Sidelong she looked at him—at the triumphant smile on his strong mouth, at the intent eyes bent on her face. No, her hand must not be the one to strike at him. He loved her—she loved him; that was all-sufficient. Base calumny should never pass through her to him, she would veil the infamous suggestion in impenetrable silence.

"I don't know," she said, with a suggestion of hurriedness in her manner. "It must be another return of that chill before we came. Perhaps there is a picnic established over my grave, and people are probably passing over it all the time!" No, he must never know. He stood there before all the world—their world, the world that counted—as a model of integrity. Not hers the hand to strike now, ineffectual though the blow must inevitably be.

Afterwards Marion Scroggs took thought and wondered what it was in reality that kept her from speaking the words aloud. At the moment she said that it was consideration for her husband's feelings, and hugged herself at the thought. Had anyone told her that streak of cowardice was in her constitution, that she feared to speak lest there should come a look of terror to Scroggs' face, she would have told that one fearlessly that he lied. And yet, considering the matter afterwards, she said that it was fear that held her silent. Her love was so much to her; she had not the courage to mar that love with one single hostile word.

"This is our dance, too," said Scroggs, piloting her through the press to the open space where a few couples were already rotating to the strains of a perfect band. "Come on, sweet, here's Partridge coming our way, and I can see possession in his eye. Let's clear out of his road." The great personage was deliberately making towards them; he held up one hand in a gesture of meaning, but Scroggs looked the other way.

"I haven't a blind eye to put to the telescope," he smiled, "but I have no eyes at all in the back of my head, and what we won't see we can't see. As if I was going to be done out of my dance by all the prime ministers in the world!"

"I don't think I want to dance," she said, a trifle wearily. "I would much rather sit it out. Not in the conservatory—no."

"All right, my wife; so that I'm with you it doesn't much matter where I am. Shall I get a wrap and take you into the grounds? It's quite warm, really."

She allowed herself to be protected, and smiled inwardly at the tenderness of his capable hands as he wrapped her about. Then they passed out on to a terrace, lit along its length by sparkling lights. It was a still, windless evening. One of the many colored lights had been broken, the opaque glass had vanished, and a shaft of clear light struck down to the ground. Almost under this light they halted, and Marion looked into her husband's face. It was plainly revealed.

"Ebenezer, I wonder if they'll ever find out the truth about poor papa's death?" she said. She could not tell why she said it. The words seemed forced from her without her volition—it might have been another woman speaking through her lips.

Was it her fancy, or had his face blanched ever so little? Assuredly her distorted imagination, fired by those sinister words she had heard in the conservatory. For when he spoke his voice was perfectly under control, without a suspicion of weakness or tremulousness.

"I wonder," he said slowly. "I wonder." Then his lips moved soundlessly, and God might have known that this strong man was praying in broken words: "God grant that they may never find out!"

Then it is that the wonderful power of Nerviline can make itself felt—it cures so quickly, you would think it was made to cure cramps, and cramps only.

"My cries attracted a neighbor, who came to my assistance, and in a moment or two handed me half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in some sweetened water.

"It seemed as if an angel had charmed away the pain. In ten seconds I was well. Nerviline has a wonderful name in this locality, and is considered best for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, stomach and bowel disorders. I urge all my friends to use Nerviline.

Rioting at Changsha Resumed—British, German and Jap Warships En Route.

Pekin, April 23. — The rioting of natives at Changsha has been resumed The situation is grave.

The British River service steamer Snepe, which ran aground 30 miles from Changsha, has been refloated and has proceeded to Changsha. The Japanese gunboat Uje left Hankow yesterday for Changsha. The German vessel Otter passed Hankow today en route up the Yangtse Kiang for the capital. The United States cruiser Cleveland arrived at Hangkow this morning and will remain there till further orders.

Rioting occurred at Pingkiang, fifty miles north of Changsha, on Tuesday. The Western Missionary Society has a station at that place, but the whereabouts of the missionaries are unknown. There has been rioting also at Chuchow, 25 miles south of Changsha, where offices have been abandoned.

The city of Changsha has been to a great extent deserted.

The new governor of Changsha is at Hankow.

The English wires from Hansha to Changteh and Pingh Siang, which were restored by the Chinese troops, have been cut again by native mobs.

TORONTO CARPENTERS

Want an Increase in Wages, But Cannot Strike on May 1.

Toronto, April 23.—The Toronto carpenters will not strike May 1. A mass meeting of the members of the Amalgamated Association of the Brotherhood of Carpenters was held, when it was resolved to ask the international executive boards for their approval to demand 37½ cents an hour and for authority to strike with financial assistance of the employers refuse to meet the demand. The two carpenters organizations will have to call a mass meeting to ratify it before the request can be forwarded to the international executive board, and the first of May will have passed before this procedure can be followed. The carpenters' section of the Employers' Association had offered an increase from 33 to 35 cents an hour, but this does not meet the favor of the men.

St. Catharines, Ont., April 25. — The ratepayers of this city voted on the bylaws to grant exemption to the Canadian Crocker-Wheeler Company, Monarch Knitting Company and the St. Catharines Woollen Mills Company, all three being carried by large majorities. These are the bylaws the Legislature refused to ratify, sending them to the people for a two-thirds vote of those voting. The Crocker-Wheeler bylasw carried by 848 for to 45 against, the Monarch Knitting Company by 773 for to 58 against, and the Woollen Mills by 786 for to 56 against.

ENGLISH TRIBUTES TO MARK TWAIN

Press Dwells on His Nobility of Mind and Character—Kipling's Message.

London, April 25.—In their editorial on Mark Twain, the English press dwells as much on the nobility of his mind and character as on his pre-eminent qualities as a writer and humorist.

The Daily News remarks that it was only during the last decade that the bigness of his personality was fully revealed.

Opinions differ as to his exact position in the Valpalla of Letters. The Saturday Review says he was irresistibly comic, but not a humorist.

The Spectator, on the other hand, says the world loses not only an original humorist, but also a great humanist, who never wrote a line that he had cause to be ashamed of.

Many of the newspapers concede that he was the most tipical American man of letters and the embodiment of American temperament, more so than Hawthorne or Poe.

New York, April 23.—A cable message from Rudyard Kipling on the death of Mark Twain is printed in the World today:

"In Mr. Clemens' death," says the distinguished English writer, "the world loses a great sage and humorist."

TEN ATTRACTIONS FOR THE COMING SEASON

Affiliated Societies Met in Y. M. C. A. the Other Night and Made Selections.

The other evening the affiliated societies representing a great many of the churches of the city met in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. and elected their officers for the coming year. The following officers were chosen: E. R. Wilson, president; Mr. Herbert Gibson, secretary-treasurer; Mr. A. McLeish, first assistant; Mr. Roy Roberts, second assistant. The object of the societies is to bring to the city noted literary and musical attractions during the fall and winter. There were three representatives from the following Lyceum Bureaus at the meeting, and presented their talent: Mr. H. W. Hughson, representing the Redpath Lyceum Bureau, Chicago; Mr. F. H. Hershey, representing the Central Lyceum Bureau, Rochester, and Mr. Sebern, representing the Coit Lyceum Bureau, Cleveland. In these bureaus is represented most of the best literary and musical talent from the Dominion of Canada and the United States. The committee selected the following ten attractions for the coming season, opening up with the Chicago Glee Club, a male quartette and company that is unsurpassed, the regular trombone quartette work, Mr. Dixon, impersonator.

2. Katherine Ridgeway, the most-sought-after attraction in the Lyceum world, a dramatic and humorous reader.

3. Hon. George R. Wendling, formerly a brilliant jury lawyer and literary writer, said by Rev. Mitchell, pastor of the St. James' Presbyterian Church, to be the best lecturer on the platform today.

4. The College Singing Girls and Walter Eccles, reader, comprising 8 young ladies, professional singers, fine voices, young women of culture and refinement, given with enthusiasm characteristic of college life.

5. Phidelah Rice, the noted monologist in Edward E. Kiddler's "Peaceful Valley."

6. Southern Jubilee Singers, said by the Chicago Tribune to be "Those tuneful black folks."

7. Rogers and Grilley, entertainers, who have been to London twice before, and need no introduction. Their worth and charm has been proven already.

8. Edward Amherst Ott, "successful orator." His lecture on "Sour Grapes" has been delivered over eleven hundred times, and is a gem.

10. Music Makers, product of Ralph Dunbar, comprise a male quartette, vocal soloists, stories in verse and song, and a Marimbaphone Band.

The arrangements and idea of the affiliated societies is that of co-operation. Any money accruing after all expenses are paid is divided among the societies. Each society guarantees a certain percentage of the cost of the attractions. The object is not to make money, but to give good wholesome talent at a very moderate cost.

CHAPEL FOR PRISONERS.

Ottawa, April 25. — The provincial inspectors of jails, Dr. Bruce Smith, has ordered the county of Carleton to provide a chapel for religious services in the county jail here.

Man Shorn of Strength

WEAK LIVER SO UNDERMINED HIS VITALITY THAT HE ALMOST DIED.

"Early manhood vigor easily led me to view irregularities of my system as incapable of affecting my strength. I am a barrister," writes a well-known legal light, "and there are times in our professional work so exciting and exhausting that any weakness reveals itself in all its naked awfulness. Pressure of work prompted me to ignore some of the distressing symptoms of impaired liver activity—sour stomach, fulness after eating and dullness of intellectual activity. It was not until a severe attack of sleeplessness, following an exacting session of court, and a nervous excitability that later developed, that I realized fully my condition. My physician ordered complete change and rest, but my engagements rendered impossible this course.

"To correct the system I began using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and to my delight, not only did they establish regularity, but the liver activity of my earlier days returned. The solution of my health problem was immediate, digestion improved, appetite became active, and my nerves were speedily up to my old fighting mark. Please head me as a Dr. Hamilton Pill man."

No medicine so valuable for those leading a sedentary life as Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold in yellow boxes, 25 cents, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Canada.

INAUGURATION OF SUNDAY EXCURSIONS

Many Londoners Took Advantage of It Yesterday Despite Disagreeable Weather.

The first cars out of London for many a long year were run to Port Stanley yesterday afternoon over the London and Lake Erie Railway.

A regular service beginning at 7 a.m. was run, and every car was comfortably filled.

Although the day was dark, and the weather by no means warm, a considerable number went to Port Stanley, and spent the day at the lakeside. Had the day been fine and warm, there undoubtedly would have been many more go down.

The afternoon service was the more attractive. The noon cars took down quite a number, but the 3 o'clock car was filled to capacity. A majority of these stopped off at St. Thomas.

The early trains coming to London brought quite a number to the city. Among them were four old ladies, who came to attend church here.

There was no disturbance anywhere along the route. The crowds were orderly, and there was not the least trouble along that line, nor were there any hostile demonstrations noticeable. Some of the curious anticipated trouble, but there was no evidence of anything on that line.

The management of the company were well pleased with the returns. The service will be continued regularly from this time on.

The Lord's Day Alliance have made no move as yet to have the Dominion Railway Commission interpret the charter of the London and Lake Erie Company, but it is expected that some definite action will be taken in the near future, probably this week.

STABBED WITH SCISSORS

Toronto Woman Wounds Herself in the Neck and Chest.

Toronto, Ont., April 23. — While temporarily unbalanced, Mrs. Thos. B. Corbett, of No. 194 First avenue, inflicted wounds in the left side of her neck and chest with a pair of scissors last evening. She is now in the Western Hospital, and her injuries are not regarded as being of a very serious nature. For some months Mrs. Corbett has been very melancholy, and last evening after tea she went up to the attic of the house, and stabbed herself. She then called to her children, who were downstairs, and they, coming up, found her bleeding.

Dr. W. Ambrose Fish, of 685 Queen street east, was summoned, and after dressing the wounds had Mrs. Corbett removed to the hospital. Her husband, who is a contractor in the employ of the C. P. R., has been working for the company at Victoria Harbor.

HOOKWORM COMING NORTH.

Washington, D. C., April 25. — The Government employees are much perturbed over reports which indicate that the hookworm disease, the dread foe of all work, is approaching the national capital. In Virginia, only a short distance south of Washington, it was found in one school that 37 of the 39 pupils harbor hookworms, while the two children who did not have them had moved to the country from Washington only last fall.

LIEUT.-GOV. GIBSON COMMENDS Y. M. C. A.

What the Association Is Doing for the Young Man.

Toronto, April 25.—The Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Hon. J. M. Gibson, is a believer and supporter of the Young Men's Christian Association. This is shown in his remarks at the recent opening of the new Y. M. C. A. building in Oshawa, when he said:

"The boys of twelve to eighteen—the period when the Young Men's Christian Association reaches them—are the material out of which men are made. During those years there is more man-making than during all the rest of life. It is the all-important and critical period. Either good men or indifferent men are the result. Before the boy drifts from this period of transition, muscles form, habits form, everything forms. Bad habits are the result of bad surroundings. Licentious, of not criminal, habits usually follow the breathing of an atmosphere which is corrupt. The Young Men's Christian Association does not ask the boys to turn from the ordinary enjoyments of young fellows, but encourages them to train their muscles, to be hardy, rough-and-tumble boys at the proper time and occasion. Continuous attention is as necessary to the physical life as it is to the mental, moral and spiritual sides. Boys are here taught to wrestle with difficulties, to meet them squarely and to conquer them, and with the habit of conquering difficulties a man may go into life with confidence. It is from such boys, brought into and trained in the association, that this great country must expect to get men for the managements of its affairs, and the working out of the destiny of our great empire."

BIG DINNER EASILY DIGESTED

Enjoy What You Eat. Don't Be Afraid of After-Distress. Mi-o-na Makes the Stomach Strong.

Eat, drink, and be merry, and do it over again next day.

Thousands will say, "Oh, I wish I could! — I only wish I could enjoy a good, square meal, but I can't! It almost kills me every time I try to eat one."

Thousands of people have chronic indigestion, cancer and other tormenting diseases of the stomach, and thousands more are going the same way, simply because they do not understand how to take care of the stomach.

Stomachs have a habit of becoming obstinate once in a while; every stomach has a lot of work to perform in digesting the food that is put into it, and when too much labor is urged upon it, it rebels, goes on strike, as it were, and is apt to kick up a painful disturbance.

This disturbance can be stopped in five minutes by Mi-o-na Tablets, which are guaranteed by W. T. Strong to cure indigestion, or money back.

Mi-o-na is the prescription of a physician who is a very successful specialist in the treatment of diseases of the stomach. In the opinion of thousands who have been restored to health, Mi-o-na is the greatest prescription for indigestion and various stomach disturbances ever written.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents a box, and is positively guaranteed to cure dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, nausea, heartburn, sour stomach, belching of gas, dizziness, heavy stomach, nervousness, despondency, sea and car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and the after-effects of over-eating or drinking—or money back.

Parisian Sage is the only certain destroyer of the dandruff microbe which is the cause of 97 per cent of hair troubles.

These pernicious, persistent and destructive little devils thrive on the ordinary hair tonics.

Parisian Sage is such an extraordinary and quick acting rejuvenator that W. T. Strong, who is the agent in London, guarantees it to cure dandruff, stop falling fair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

It is a magnificent dressing for women who desire luxuriant, lustrous hair that compels admiration.

HOMES FOR NOTHING IN NEWFOUNDLAND

New York, April 25.—Sir Edward Morris, premier of Newfoundland, has come to New York with an offer of a free home for anyone who wants it and is willing to live in Newfoundland. Sir Edward is on his way to The Hague, where the fisheries dispute between England and the United States will come up for final adjudication in June. He was primed with facts and figures about his country, which he said had a great future.

"There are millions of acres in Newfoundland capable of producing every crop which can be raised in New York States," he said. "We can offer to immigrants some land absolutely free, while in other tracts they may buy land unconditionally at a nominal price. Any man may buy 1,000 acres at 30 cents an acre."

Sir Edward talked at length of the virtues of the codfish, which is found in great abundance in the waters of Newfoundland. Failures of various attempts to obtain reciprocity between the United States and Newfoundland he described as the opposition of the New England States, whose fishing settlements considered that their business would suffer if Newfoundland fish were brought in.

"There are millions of people in the United States who never have a chance to eat fresh codfish," he said, "who might have it at four or five cents a pound, or one-third what they pay for inferior meat, if we could ship in our fish from Newfoundland."

VICTIM OF HICCOUGHS

Man Wastes Away Under Strain—Had No Natural Sleep.

Graham had finished a hearty meal when the attack came upon him. He did not become alarmed, thinking that the hiccoughs were due to slight indigestion, but when all the simple remedies were tried to no avail, a physician was summoned.

Attempts to ease the suffering were futile, and the attack became more and more severe. For nine days Graham did not have an hour of natural sleep. The only way that the awful strain could be relieved was by the use of anesthetics. In that short period Graham wasted away.

MISS SULLIVAN'S MISTAKE

New York, April 25.—After she sold an old stove to a second-hand dealer for 30 cents, Miss Nora Sullivan, aged 70, of Newark, N. J., learned that it was really worth $600.

A package which dropped from the stove unnoticed by the purchaser was picked up and found to contain sixty $10 gold pieces.

The money was turned over to the police and will probably be returned to Miss Sullivan.

STREET CAR WAS BADLY SMASHED

Wrecked by Passenger Train at a Kingston Crossing.

Kingston, April 25.—The collision that occurred at the Montreal street crossing between a Kingston and Pembroke passenger train and a Depot street railway car outbound, caused injury to six persons. The car is a total wreck, and was knocked about fifteen feet off the track by the collision. It was struck in the middle, and that whole side was stoved in.

Messrs. W. Buck, R. McGill, and J. K. Wallace, of Toronto, who were on the street car, escaped with slight bruises.

The cause of the collision is attributed to a defective semaphore.

The casualties were:

Ruth Doyle, aged 9, seriously injured about head and face.

C. L. C. Lampe, aged 55, seriously injured about head and neck.

James Watson, aged 12, injured about face.

Thelma McDermott, aged 10, injured about face.

Lillian McDermott, aged 12, slightly injured.

It is proposed to hold a census of India in 1911. At the last census 300,000,000 people were counted.

YESTERDAY IN SOME OF LONDON'S CHURCHES

Rev. Mr. Howard Preached a Splendid Sermon to Englishmen—Points From Other Sermons.

There was a spendid turnout of the members of the English societies at St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday afternoon, when Rev. R. S. W. Howard, of Christ Church, conducted a special service in honor of St. George's Day. Mr. Howard pointed out that the British people have been called to do a very high work in the world.

"England," he said, "has always been a great civilizing and Christianizing force wherever her people have gone. The great bulk of the world's missionaries are Anglo-Saxon. God calls to us today by giving us opportunities to do his work. He is leading us both as individuals and as a nation. England has been guided by him at many crises in her history. In a new country like this there are new conditions and opportunities for service, and chances that men cannot obtain in the old land.

"We should, however, try to preserve all the things that have made England great—the sense of honor, of duty and righteousness, for after all, it is righteousness that exalteth a nation. If you want to be loyal to England, be loyal to Canada, and if you want to be loyal to Canada, be loyal to God."

At the conclusion of the service the members of St. George's Society returned to their hall, and very hearty votes of thanks were passed to the church officials, the choir, and to Mr. Howard.

Snatches From Sermons.

Rev. R. S. W. Howard at Christ Church: "Remember the Sabbath to keep it holy. This is one of the Ten Commandments. We are not given the liberty to pick and choose which we shall obey. While Christ did not agree with the scribes and pharisees, he always spent the Sabbath in worship or in doing good. Our Sundays ought never to be days of mere pleasure and idleness."

Rev. Walter Moffatt, at Chalmers Presbyterian Church: "Directors of companies which profane the Sabbath will be among those who appear before the great white throne on the judgment day. Most of them do it for greed and gain. If they live twenty years they will have more than a thousand Sabbaths to account for, and will have to answer for putting temptation in the way of the young simply for the gains they derive."

Rev. George R. Faskin, of Toronto, at the First Presbyterian Church: "Can we be just to God? Job said no. We cannot if we want to dispute that he is master of everything. But when we learn that he is behind all things and is working in every way for our good we will come to his side and array ourselves with him, and then we can be just to him."

Church Notes.

Special Sunday school anniversary services were observed in the Empress Avenue Methodist Church yesterday. Rev. H. A. Graham, of Wellington Street Church, spoke in the morning, and in the evening platform addresses were given by Mr. A. M. Hunt, superintendent of the Askin Street Sunday school, and by Mr. William Jeffrey, superintendent of Wellington Street Sunday school.

The officers who were elected for the year last week will be installed at the regular meeting of the Epworth League of the Askin Street Methodist Church this evening.

The choir of the Chalmers Presbyterian Church is giving a Scotch concert in the church on Tuesday evening.

Rev. G. F. B. Doherty, of Tillsonburg, was the preacher at St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday morning.

Rev. R. S. W. Howard, of Christ Church, will give an illustrated address on "English Cathedrals" in the schoolroom of the Church of St. John the Evangelist tomorrow evening.

Rev. J. Gibson Inkster was in Toronto yesterday conducting anniversary services at the church of Rev. G. Faskin.

Rev. T. E. Barclay, of Toronto, the secretary of the union for the extension of Methodist work, occupied the pulpit at the Askin Street Methodist Church yesterday morning.

Rev. Dr. Hannon conducted both the morning and evening services in the Colborne Street Church yesterday in the absence of Rev. F. E. Malott.

The Rev. A. J. Vining, at Talbot Street Baptist Church Sunday night: "The only chain that will bind the nations together is the gospel. Germany is casting jealous eyes on the British navy, and is ever jealously straining to compete and get at close grips.

"If a man is saved, it is his bounden duty to help his fallen brother, who is down and out. Christianity that won't do that isn't the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ. God expects Great Britain to reach a hand out to the east and Canada to the west until the world is united not only in commercial relations, but for God's kingdom."

Rev. Professor Jeakins, of Huron College, at the Church of St. John the Evangelist: "It is no wonder that people become indifferent and do not attend church when the pulpit is made the forum for sensational subjects. Men do not want to go to church to hear a preacher give his views on courtship or marriage, or the controversy over the discovery of the North Pole. They want to hear the living Word of God."

The Rev. Ernest H. Peatfield was still to ill to occupy his pulpit on Sunday. The Rev. F. A. Stevens, of the China Inland Mission, preached both morning and evening. In the morning he said: "God doesn't kill a man to chastise him, but he often kills many men to chastise a nation. Revolutions, disasters and great catastrophes are God's strange ways of punishing a nation. It would seem that sometimes God answers persistent prayer to the hurt of the asker. Let us bow willingly to God's chastisement."

A special Epworth League anniversary service was held in the Wellington Street Methodist Church yesterday. A. J. Thomas, of Brigden, preached both morning and evening to large congregations. The musical service was exceptionally fine, and during the evening service, Miss Taylor rendered "Just As I Am" most acceptably.

MEDALS FOR PROVINCIAL CHAMPIONS.

Bradford, April 23.—Four times provincial champions in seven years is not a common record for a lacrosse club, and as this is the record of the Bradford Club, a concert was held last evening, during the course of which the individual championship medals, provided by the C. L. A., were presented to the players of last year's team by L. A. Doyle, of Newmarket, president of the C. L. A., 1909.

As can be imagined there was a bumper house.

FEAST OF THE PASSOVE BEGAN SATURDAY NIGHT

A Week of Solemn Ceremonies Will Then Be Inaugurated.

For the unnumbered hosts of the children of Israel scattered throughout the world Saturday was the most significant day in the year, the day when the feast of the Passover commenced. From sundown that night until sundown a week hence the solemn ceremonies will be conducted, with the same solemn ritual and significant emblems that the feast has been celebrated with for over thirty centuries. No Jew, no matter how careless he may be in his life, nor how little he regards the teachings and observances of his faith, but hastens to celebrate the feast of the Passover. Three thousand years of pious ancestors assert their claims upon his conscience.

But it is in the home after the opening service in the synagogue that the real feast begins. It is not a feast in the ordinary sense. Matza, an unleavened bread, is the principal food, and charoseth, a sweet mixture like wine, the principal drink. A roasted lamb bone, a roasted egg, various sweet and bitter herbs, and some salt, and water, make up the other dishes. To this feast, the "Seder," which is held on the first two evenings of Passover week, all the members of the household are bidden to come.

"I invite you all to partake of this bread of affliction which our fathers ate in Egypt," says the head of the family as he bids the guests partake of the food. Continuing to read from the "Hagadah," the history of the slavery and deliverance of the Jews in Egypt, he says: "This year we observe our feast here, next year may it be in Israel. This year we are still but little better than slaves, next year may we be altogether free."

After the elder has finished, the youngest child at the table who is able to read inquires, "Why is this night different from all other nights? Why do we eat bitter herbs? Why do we dip our herbs in water twice, and why do we eat reclining?" etc.

Then the elder replies, explaining to all present the significance of the feast, the pascal lamb which the bone typifies, the egg which is reminiscent of the days of the great temple at Jerusalem, the salt and water, the bitter herbs and the charoseth typifying the tears, the bitterness and the sorrow which their fathers bore before their deliverance. At the conclusion of the service all join in singing psalms and songs of praise.

This year the feast of the Passover is later than usual, owing to it being leap year among the Jews. Ordinarily, it occurs in the same week as the Christian Easter.

SOME RENEWED OTHERS EXTENDED

East Middlesex Commissioners Deal With London Township Licenses.

The East Middlesex license commissioners are unshaken in their determination to secure improvement in some of the hotels on the outskirts of the city.

On Saturday afternoon the commissioners sat for over two hours listening to the arguments for renewals of parties interested in London Township licenses.

Renewals were granted Harry Norris, of the Palmer House, London Junction, and M. Larson, of the St. Johns House, Arva. Richard DeCourcey, the license-holder at Birr, was given three months' extension in which to effect some necessary repairs to the interior of the hotel. Miss M. E. Bradshaw, Fanshawe, was given 30 days' extension in which to dispose of her stock, at the end of which period the license will be cancelled. The application for a license for the Hotel Graham was laid over until the next meeting.

The first case taken up was that of the Birr hotel. Mr. A. T. Rowell, of Matheson, Ont., landlord of the Birr Hotel, through his agent, asked that the license-holder be responsible for repairs to the hotel. The commissioners agreed with this view of the matter, but refused to grant a renewal. A three months' extension was allowed.

Mr. M. Larson, proprietor of the Larson House, requested a renewal. The reason for the commissioners' hesitancy in granting a renewal was because of certain reports which had been circulated regarding the hotel. As there was no direct proof, and Mr. Larson emphatically denied these rumors, the license was granted.

Things grew a little warm over the license of the Hotel Graham, three miles out on the Hamilton road. It was finally decided to leave the matter over until the next meeting.

The meeting was an adjourned session from the previous Saturday. The following were present: Mr. Frank Shore (chairman), Mr. R. A. Powell, J. Crocket and Inspector Thos. Duffin.

NINETY-FIVE PERSONS WERE DROWNED

Belgrade, April 24.—The River Morava continues to rise. Already 95 lives have been lost, and the property losses amount to more than $2,000,000. Two hundred persons have been injured. The town of Kraguyevatz is completely submerged.

DEATH OF JAMES KERR

A Resident for Over Half a Century Passes Away in This City.

James Kerr, formerly of concession 5, London Township, died on Saturday at the home of his son, Henry Kerr, 779 Waterloo street, after an illness extending over some weeks. Mr. Kerr was in his 79th year, and came to this country from the north of Ireland. He settled in London Township 53 years ago, and resided there until recently, when he came to the city to live with his son.

He is survived by five sons: Henry, of this city; John, of Wingham; Robert, George and James, of Toronto. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

GIANT CUNARDER

Another Big Steamer for the New York-Liverpool Route.

Liverpool, April 25.—Mr. Alfred A. Booth, chairman of the board of directors of the Cunard Steamship Company, announced at the annual meeting that the line was planning for another great steamer to take its place beside the Mauretania and Lusitania in the Liverpool-New York service, and that tenders already have been invited for the construction of another vessel of the Franconia type.

On the general subject of transatlantic shipping Mr. Booth said:

"The future of the New York trade lies not with the ten thousand ton cargo boat, but with the forty thousand and fifty thousand ton combined passenger and cargo steamers."

He warned Liverpool that it behooved her to hurry up and make proper accommodations for such vessels before others stepped in and lured them elsewhere.

The new vessel of the Franconia type will be added to the Boston service.

VOTE TO STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., April 25.—A vote to strike has been taken by the members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Order of Railroad Conductors employed on the Michigan Central Railway System.

When the management declined to increase the wages of these men a ballot paper was sent out to each member, asking him to mark it for or against a strike. Fifteen hundred have responded, and it is almost a unanimous vote in favor of a strike. If the company further refuse to submit the case to arbitration, then the men will go out.

The vote taken does not include the Brotherhood of Engineers or Firemen. The demands of the railroad men are in accordance with the plans of their eastern association to standardize railroad wages on all roads of the Mississippi—42 in all. This standard scale has already been adopted in a slightly modified form by Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the New Haven.

Anderson, for Cincinnati, was wild, giving four bases on balls and allowing a sacrifice to the first five men. Suggs was hit hard also. The score:

MERE FORMALITY FOR PITTSBURGS

Pirates Overcome Four-Run Handicap and Win From Cards as They Please.

Pittsburg, April 23.—Five singles and a free base off Camnitz, with Byrne's error in the first inning, gave St. Louis a 4-to-0 load, which Pittsburg did not overcome until the seventh. A clean hit by Miller, with bases filled, then brought a local victory, and in the eighth two runs not needed, making the score 7 to 4, were forced in by three bases on balls off Harmon in succession. A sensational one-hand catch by Leach was the feature. Moore, succeeding Camnitz in the sixth, was effective. The score:

Pay Your Money and Take Your Pick

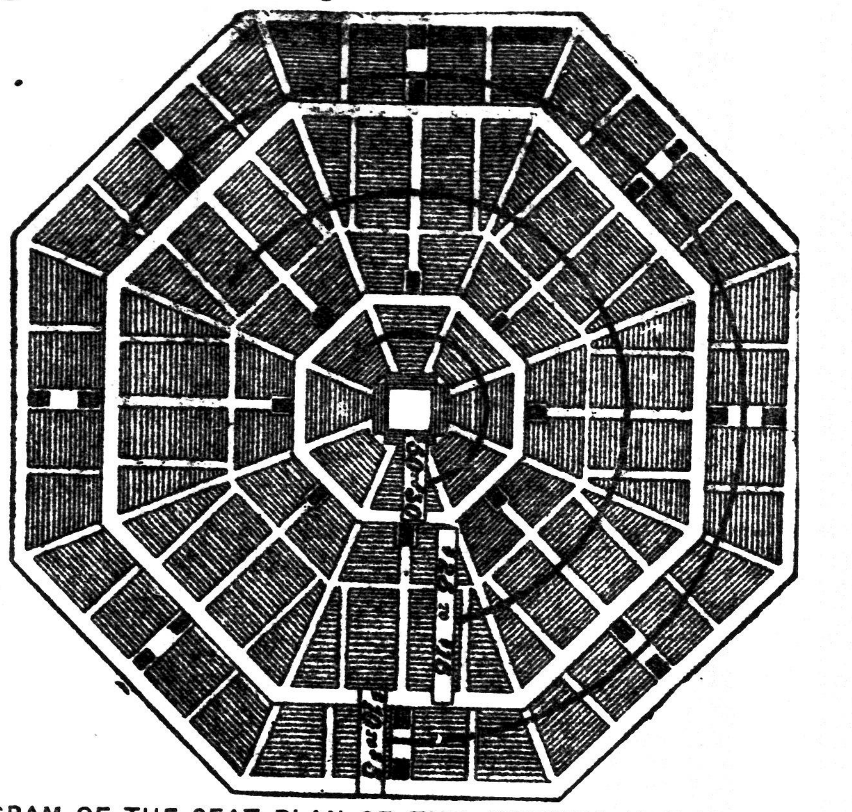

DIAGRAM OF THE SEAT PLAN OF THE JEFFRIES-JOHNSON FIGHT ARENA.

Are you going to see Jeffries and Johnson fight?

If so you can glean some sort of an idea regarding the location of your seat from the accompanying reproduction of the architect's blue print of the seating scheme.

Octagonal in form, the arena is planned to seat 30,000 at present, but it can be enlarged to accommodate twice this number should the occasion warrant. The highest priced seats will be $50. These will be ringside boxes. Right behind them are the $30 seats, then two divisions of $25 and $15 seats, and around the outside the $10 and $5 seats.

RAIN RULED AT DETROIT SUNDAY

CHICAGO AT NAPLAND

Yesterday's Contest Cannot Be Worked In On a Sunday Now as There Are No Dates.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Detroit, April 25.—Though hope was not given up until the last moment, the Detroit and Cleveland clubs were forced yesterday to postpone another Sunday game, which can never be made up. That is, it cannot be played off as a Sunday contest, though it will be attended to either on some off day or as a part of a double bill, later in the season.

Not until it was absolutely certain that the field could not be put in such shape that it would not be dangerous for the players, was the game called off. The Naps were anxious to return to Cleveland, if no game could be contested, and were held at the Cadillac, ready either to dress or to make a dash for the train, until the last moment. Then, along about 2 o'clock, they were given the word, and immediately drove to the station. They play at home today with the Chicago club.

It was, perhaps, just as well that they didn't try to play, as comparatively few spectators would have been out, and more rain descended just about the time that the game would have been well under way.

RECORD ASCENT OF LA SOUFRIERE

Norman Lamont, Scotch Alpinist, Made It in Less Than Two Hours.

Kingstown, St. Vincent, British West Indies, April 23.—Mr. Norman Lamont, the Scotch traveller and Alpine climber, and at one time member of the British Parliament, ascended the Soufriere volcano in one hour and fifty minutes, establishing what is said to be a record in point of time occupied. He also climbed the northern lip, at an altitude of 3,709 feet, and accomplished a circuit of the crater.

In ascending the volcano Mr. Lamont had the advantage of excellent weather, and was enabled to take observations and photographs besides collecting many geological specimens.

The climber found the crater quiescent, with no steam escaping from the fissures. It presented, he says, a weird scene of desolation, relieved only by the vegetation that has crept toward the crater on the leeward side. Mr. Lamont is enthusiastic in his description of the view obtainable from the northern peak, which, he says, surpasses in grandeur anything he has before seen.

La Soufriere is a volcanic mountain on the island of St. Vincent, Lesser Antilles, made notable through its eruptions. The eruption of May 7, 1902, was particularly destructive, causing the death of some sixteen hundred persons. The scene of that eruption was the so-called "old crater," which has a diameter of about 4,100 feet. Northeast of it is the minor or "new crater," which opened in 1812. The height of the volcano is about 4,050 feet.

The Procession.

The processional was in the following order.

Censor bearer.

Separate school board and representatives from the different societies in the diocese.

Cross bearer.

Acolytes.

Parish priests.

Monsignors Meunier and Shahan.

Bishop Hickey, Rochester, and chaplain.

Bishop Colton, Buffalo, and chaplain.

Bishop Barrie, Chatham, N.B., and chaplain.

Bishop Casey, St. Johns, N.B., and chaplain.

Bishop Lorain, Pembroke, and chaplain.

Bishop Larocque, Sherbrooke, and chaplain.

Bishop Emard, Valleyfield, Que., and chaplain.

Bishop O'Connor, Peterboro, and chaplain.

Bishop Foley, of Detroit, and chaplain.

The Archbishops.

Then followed the archbishops in order:

Archbishop Donent-Will, superior-general of the Oblates, with chaplains.

Archbishop McCarthy, of Halifax, and two chaplains.

Archbishop Quigley, of Chicago, and two chaplains.

Archbishop Gauthier, Kingston, and chaplains.

Archbishop Bruchesi, Montreal, and chaplains.

Archbishop Langevin and chaplains.

Chaplains.

Bishop Fallon.

Archbishop McEvay, the consecrator.

Insignia bearers.

The procession was most brilliant, the gorgeous robes of the bishops and priests standing out in strong relief against the dull background.

As the processional entered the church the organ pealed forth a triumphal strain, and the congregation stood up.

Moving majestically up the aisle the processional entered the altars, and the ceremony of consecration was celebrated.

It was most impressive, and held the rapt attention of the congregation from beginning to end. It was a long service, but the interest of the listeners never lagged.

After the consecration, Mgr. Meunier read an illuminated address from the clergy. It was illuminated by the Sisters of the Holy Name of Jesus, Windsor. The work was brilliantly done.

Senator Coffey then read the address from the laity. It was also beautifully illuminated, and was the work of the Sisters of the Sacred Heart Academy, this city. A prettier piece of illuminating work could scarcely be imagined. To each of the addresses his lordship replied briefly. He thanked them heartily for their generous offers of sympathy and support.

After the ceremony the visiting clergy were entertained at dinner in St. Peter's Hall, at which many of the ecclesiastics delivered addresses.

The Consecration.

In the spacious cathedral all who had received tickets of admission were seated as the procession reached the door. As the portal was crossed the entire congregation rose to their feet, and the striking pageant slowly marched to the altar. It was a tribute to his ability for organization, his tact and his devotion to his task, that the entire ceremony was carried out without error or delay, through the efforts of the indefatigable rector, Rev. Father Aylward.

The ordination of a priest is in itself an event of striking ceremonial in the Catholic Church, but the consecration of a bishop to the care of a diocese of 75,000 or more, such as is the diocese of London, is an occasion of supreme solemnity and grandeur.

This portion of the liturgy of the Roman Catholic Chruch is solemnly impressive. It is divided into three parts, the preliminary examination, the consecration and the investing of the bishop with the power to govern his many flocks, that power coming directly from the Pope, Piux X. The first part consists in the ascertaining that the bishop-elect has the right to episcopal consecration; of receiving his oath of admission to the Holy See, and of probing the orthodoxy of his faith. The bishop must profess categorically his faith and his belief in the different matters of faith that have been particularly denied by those whom the church declares to be heretics, especially the doctrine of the incarnation.

Then the consecration is gone on with, and later the investiture takes place.

An Impressive Occasion.

While the preliminaries were taking place the large numbers present had an opportunity of observing the splendid preparations which had been made for the consecration. There were two chapels—the larger one for Archbishop McEvay, the consecrator, and smaller one for the bishop-elect, Rev. Father Fallon.

On the centre altar was placed a cross, and on either side were candlesticks and wax tapers.

On the floor were laid rugs, upon which the new bishop prostrated himself, but upon which the consecrator, Archbishop McEvay, knelt. Here also had been prepared all the pontifical vestments for the occasion, and the office of the mass, such as sandals and amice, ald, cincture, pectoral cross, stole, tunic, dalmatic, gloves, chasuble, precious mitre, the pontifical ring, the maniple, the pastoral staff and the gremial. A faldstool had also been prepared for the archbishop, and three seats for the bishop-elect and two assistant bishops, a missal and a pontificate.

The altar of Mary Immaculate, at one side of the main altar, had been prepared for Bishop Fallon. Upon it were a cross and but two candlesticks, a missal, a pontificate, and the pontifical vestments.

The Mandate Read.

The consecrator, the archbishops, bishops and priests, having spent some time in prayer before the altar, Archbishop McEvay was seated in his chapel on the faldstool, where he donned the brilliant vestments for the consecration and mass. All the other archbishops and bishops also were robed in their vestments.

Then the bishop-elect was led, vested and wearing his berretta, between the assistant bishops, who were vested and mitred, before the consecrator, to whom he bowed reverently.

Turning to Archbishop McEvay, Right Rev. Monsignor Meunier said:

"Most Reverend Father, our holy mother, the Catholic Church, asks that you promote this priest, here present, to the burden of the episcopate."

"Have you the apostolic mandate?" asked the consecrator, in Latin, as he had been addressed.

"We have."

and the mandate was read aloud by Rev. Father Aylward from the pulpit to the people assembled, while all heads were uncovered.

Bishop's Oath of Office.

"I, Michael Francis Fallon, elected to the church of St. Peter and the Diocese of London, from this hour henceforward, will be obedient to Blessed Peter the Apostle, and to the Holy Roman Church, and to our holy father, Pope Pius X., and to his successors canonically elected. I will assist them to retain and defend the Roman papacy without detriment to my order. I shall take care to preserve, to defend, increase and promote the rights, honors, privileges and authority of the holy Roman church, of our lord, the Pope, and of his aforesaid successors. I shall observe with all my strength, and shall cause to be observed by others, the rules of the holy fathers, the apostolic decrees, ordinances or dispositions, reservations, provisions and mandates. I shall come when called to a synod, unless prevented by a canonical impediment. I shall make personally the visit ad limina apostolorum every ten years, and I shall render to our holy father, Pope Pius X., and to his aforesaid successors an account of my whole pastoral office, and of all things pertaining in any manner whatsoever to the state of my church, to the discipline of the clergy, and the people, and finally to the salvation of the souls which are intrusted to me; and in turn I shall receive humbly the apostolic mandates and execute them as diligently as possible. But if I shall be detained by legitimate impediment I shall fulfill all the aforesaid things through a designated delegate, having a special mandate for this purpose, a priest of my diocese, or through some other secular or regular priest of known probity and religion, fully informed concerning the above-named thiigs. I shall not sell nor give, nor mortgage the possessions belonging to my mensa, nor shall I enfeoff them anew, or alienate them in any manner, even with the consent of the chapter of my church, without consulting the Roman pontiff. And, if, through me any such alienation shall occur, I wish, by the very fact, to incur the punishments contained in the constitution published concerning this matter."

The Examination.

The examination of the new bishop was then gone on with in detail. Father Fallon having responded in the affirmative to all the questions, the bishop received the pectoral cross. Then he was vested with the tunic, dalmatic, chasuble and maniple.

After the chanting of a litany and a psalm, the consecrator said solemnly: "Whatsoever you shall bless, may it be blessed, and whatsoever you shall sanctify, may it be sanctified; and may the imposition of this consecrated hand be profitable in all things unto salvation."

The apostolic ring was then presented with the words:

"Receive the ring, the symbol of fidelity, in order that, adorned with unspotted faith, you may keep inviolably the spouse of God, namely, his holy church."

The mitre was then placed on Bishop Fallon's head, and wearing his apostolic ring, he was led to the faldstool which had been vacated by the archbishop and consecrator, which he occupied.

After more ceremony the new bishop went to his altar, and laid aside his vestments. This concluded the consecration.

The mass was offered up by Archbishop McEvay and Bishop Fallon simultaneously.

Address From the Clergy.

The following address, voicing the sentiments of the clergy of the Diocese of London, was read by Right Rev. Mgr. Meunier, administrator:

To the Right Rev. M. F. Fallon, D.D., Bishop of London:

My Lord,—The echoes of the notes of joy and exultation still reverberate from arch to column of your cathedral. In the hearts of your clergy, too, there throb the emotions but a few moments ago syllabled from gladsome lips in the majestic grandeur of the "Te Deum." The priests who now pride to call you their first pastor have united in mind and heart and voice to proclaim their gladness on this signal day, and it is not a transient jubilation: it is more, it is a lasting and twofold joy. We rejoice, and it is with the universal church that we join the anthem of praise, for today a successor in the jurisdiction of the apostles receives the shepherd's crosier, today a bishop is consecrated to continue in the ministry and labors of the apostles, chosen and set "to rule the Church of God." (Acts, xx., 20-28.) We rejoice, too, each one in personal and intimate mood, for today with loyal welcome, we welcome you, elect of God, chosen by the Master of the apostles, and by his bidding voice, re-echoed from the hill of the Vatican, sent with mission sealed with the seal of the fisherman of Galilee, to rule pastors and people in the Diocese of London.

We are glad, my lord, and with the apostles of Thabor, we exclaim: "It is good for us to be here," on this solemn day, when in the liturgy sublime of mother church, by that spanning of time which none but Catholicity may hazard to adventure, when in the thought, voiced by the apostles of the nations all times and ages are here as are her founders—Jesus Christ yesterday and today and the same forever—when, in the mind of the church, the century of apostolic times, joins hands with the century that is ours, when this solemn occasion takes us back and links us with the day when first men chosen by the Holy Ghost, by the imposition of hands, received the grace of the apostolate, and became laborers with the chosen band to evangelize the nations.

The joy which the church today experiences, is, too, the emotion that is predominant in the hearts of your clergy. You have parted from the scenes of your faithful and blessed labors, and at your going sadness has filled many a heart. But now the parting syllables give place to unbounded and heartfelt welcome among the priests who henceforth will be your co-laborers in your fair diocese. My lord, I present then, to you, a loyal and devoted clergy. I speak from the experience that has been mine during the months of my administration. My lord, they are good priests, zealous and self-sacrificing, men whom the charity of Christ presseth on (II. Cor., v., 14.), willing after the example of the apostles to spend themselves and to be spent (II. Cor., xii., 15), for the salvation of souls. We recall with pleasure the words of the Holy Father addressed to your reverend predecessor: "That he should be a very happy bishop, since he had under him such a zealous body of priests." What they have been to your immediate predecessor, believe me, my lord, they will be to you. For they realize and follow in their lives the mandate of the apostle: "Obey your prelates, and be subject to them, for they watch as being to render an account of your souls." (Heb., xiii., 17.)

My lord, the priests of your diocese bid you welcome. You come to us a stranger, as it were, yet not unknown, for we review with honest pride your long and eminently successful labors in the services of the Master, your erudition drunk in at the fountains of learning in the Eternal City. But to eulogize were superfluons, perhaps intrusive. Suffice it to say, that you come to us at God's bidding, the most sublime eulogy of all, and by the voice of the Father of Christendom.

We greet you, my lord, and welcome you to our diocese, ruled from its inception by apostolic men. Organized by zeal and in wisdom, it has been conserved and augmented by kindly and fatherly care, its foundations struck deep and enduring by the untiring labors and far-seeing policy of a master mind, its churches everywhere erected unto the glory of God, and wherever a church points its spire heavenward, a school stands upon its shadow.

Once again, my lord, amidst the "Te Deum's" joyful tones, we welcome you our first pastor. We pray that God may grant you many years among us, "Ad multos annos," and that he may bless your labors and ours.

Address From the Laity.

Following the address from the clergy came that from the laity of the diocese read by the Hon. Senator Coffey:

To the Right Rev. M. F. Fallon, D. D., Bishop of London:

My Lord,—May I, on behalf of the laity of the Diocese of London, convey to you our tribute of filial joy and respectful greeting. You have been appointed to rule a diocese over which first came the Right Rev. Dr. Pinsonneault, one of the princely line of the old regime. He was succeeded by Right Rev. John Walsh, a native of Ireland, a country that has given the church many of her brightest jewels. In turn came Right Rev. Denis O'Connor and Right Rev. Fergus Patrick McEvay, of Canadian birth and racy of the soil. One and all left marks of true greatness, eminent piety and apostolic zeal, and builded well the foundations for that progress in matters of faith which may today be noticed in every part of the western portion of Ontario. We are now privileged to welcome one who also personifies the divine authority of the church, one who has been set over this household of the faith to give us food in due season, and whose mission is not only to preach and to rule, to correct wrong and defend the right, but to perpetuate among men, as far as it is possible for human nature, the humility, charity and dignity of Jesus Christ. The dread significance and responsibilities of your sacred office we leave to other lips more worthy than our own, but we your children of the laity may be pardoned for saying on this day of rejoicing that your past career inspires the hope of seeing your splendid and varied talents bringing forth more and abundant fruit. As an educator Ottawa holds your memory in benediction.

Your untiring zeal for the advancement of learning, your salutary influence over the young and your personality, that disarmed hostility as well as opened hearts, are not forgotten. And when you went to our brethren of the neighboring republic you so gave of your garnered wisdom of years and kindly tact and sympathy as to write your name on the hearts of many in Buffalo. Your career as parish priest has been an unbroken series of successes. Your work in Buffalo throbbed with the vitality, the courage, the enthusiasm that made your name one to conjure with in the old days, when under your touch and guidance your students at Ottawa took their places amongst the highest in the land. As parish priest, as educator, as superior of your Oblate brethren, you championed always any cause that could ennoble your fellowmen. Your voice was ever eloquent and your heart ever with the simple and humble and the children, giving them all your paternal affection. And while proud of your luminous intellect and your comprehensiveness of view we cherish the hope that your tact and kindness may be for burdened and harassed souls a kindly light to lead them home.

More we might say but we feel that a father's heart can divine what a measure of love is in the hearts of his children. We reverence you as the successor of the apostles. We know that you have been placed with the princes of the people of God and elevated to the highest possible dignity here on earth. Your responsibilities can be but imagined. As watchman on the heights you will be exposed to the lightning flash and to the fury of the elements, but we can assure you you can ever depend upon those who dwell in the valley, on a self-sacrificing, earnest and loving laity. The ties that bind us to you are, because forged and fashioned in faith, indestructible. Our love and loyalty not only to authority but to every interest of our bishops can be seen in letters of gold all over the history of the diocese of London.

May the Bishop of Bishops grant you all the light and grace and wisdom with health and strength to work for many years for the honor and glory of God,

BOY IN HOSPITAL, HIS DOG GOES, TOO

Mike, Saved From the River by Alfred Sample, Shows His Love Is Strong.

New York, April 23.—There was hardly a full-sized bark left in Mike when Alfred Sampee, 11 years old, of No. 328 East Twenty-sixth street reached over the stringpiece of the East River pier at the foot of that street, last Christmas morning, and pulled the shaggy-haired mongrel out of the water. Since then Mike has loved Alfred with each of the breeds that serve to make him the most cosmopolitan animal on the lower east side.

Try as the boy might he could not prevent Mike from trotting after him last night during a game of tag the boy played at First avenue and Twenty-first street. Suddenly the dog darted between his master's legs and Alfred fell.

The boy's head struck the curb and he remained unconscious. The other boys kept on running. With Mike it was different. He stood by waiting for young Sampee to rise only long enough to realize that something was wrong. Then he set up a howling that attracted two boys.

Edward Stapleton and Frank Carey were the first to hear Mike's signal of distress. They took the injured boy in their arms, and, with Mike trotting beside them, carried their companion to Bellevue Hospital, six blocks away.

At the gate Frank Nugent, a doorman, tried to keep Mike outside, but he dodged and crept into the receiving ward when the door was opened to permit his master to be taken in.

Mike watched the proceedings timidly while Dr. Hooker quickly restored the boy to consciousness, and then trailed after the rolling cot on which the patient was removed to another ward to be kept until the morning.

No one seemed to notice Mike until the door of the second ward closed, shutting him away from the cot. For the next twenty minutes the hospital yard was in an uproar, attendants trying to chase the howling mongrel to the street. He scratched and bit at the restraining door and at every one who tried to catch him. Finally Mike was caught in a rope and taken home.

THE POETS' CONVENTION

London, April 23.—About 250 members and guests of the Poetry Recital Society dined together on Tuesday night, and although the assemblage included bearers of names like Shakespeare, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Shelley, Dryden, Southey and Tennyson, one guest only (who had Keats in brackets after his name on the list of diners) showed any of the traditional signs of being a poet by wearing long hair and a velvet coat.

Direct and collateral descendants of most names famous in English verse were present. Democratic respectability was the keynote of the meeting, although Lord Coleridge, representing Samuel Taylor Coleridge, and Britain's premier peer, the Duke of Norfolk, representing Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, were there. No one was barred by his position, as was shown by a little anecdote told by another Coleridge. He was taking his ticket at his underground station to go to the banquet when the ticket clerk said:

"Going to the poets' dinner, sir?"

"Yes."

"So is my father, as a descendant of Warton, once poet laureate."

Chaucer was represented by a lady claiming direct descent and by a gentleman descended from the poet's father-in-law. There seems a strong tendency among the descendants of poets, collateral or direct, to enter the church. The most important of the seven claimants of relationship with Shakespeare was the Rev. J. W. Shakespeare, a Baptist minister. Wordsworth's representative proved to be a typical high church curate, a great-grandson of the poet, who modestly said he represented a "name and nothing more."

CENSUS QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Enumerators Have Queer Experiences on Their Rounds.

Sayre, Pa., April 24.—Census enumerators have queer experiences, particularly with "fresh" people who love to show off their smartness. One in this district reports the following:

"What is your name?"

"Are you a collector?"

"No. I am taking the census. What is your name?"

"Cornelia Carrot."

"What's your relation to the family?"

"Boss."

"Your sex is female; your color is ——"

"Well, what does it look like? This is my regular color."

"How many years married?"

"Twenty, but it seems like 120."

"Any children?"

"Fourteen."

"How many living?"

"Fourteen. Whose do you think these was in here?"

"Where were your father and mother born?"

"I don't know; wasn't there."

"Are you alien or citizen?"

"Democrat."

"You speak English, of course. What's your trade or profession? Are you an employer or employee, or do you work on your acount?"

"No, I work on account of having to."

"Were you employed during all of 1909?"

"Yes, and will be all of 1910, 1911, 1912 and till I die, and I don't care who gets my job, either."

"You read and write?"

"Fluently."

PRICE OF LIVE HOGS STILL ON THE DECLINE

Slump in Dressed Pork Looked For—A Blue Monday Market.

Each Monday sees a slight decline in the price of live hogs. They are still going down gradually but perceptibly. This morning the price was $8 65 per cwt, as compared with last Monday's price of $8 80 per cwt.

The drop in the price of live hogs is expected to cause a slight slump in dressed pork prices. It will not be large, however.

The market habitues termed it a "blue market" this morning. There was very little doing in any line. Only one load of hay was offered, the farmers being evidently afraid to trust the elements. This load remained on the market soaking in the rain, and was not sold at a late hour.

No straw or oats were offered for sale. Following are the quotations:

Business Science Club.

Toronto Globe: Mr. John A Cottam, of London, Ont., addressed the members of the Business Science Club, of Toronto, at their monthly luncheon at the St. Charles on Saturday night. "Contentment and Progress" was his subject, and he handled it with particular cleverness. The other features on the programme consisted of addresses and discussions on business topics. A quartette sang several selections, and a number of readings and recitations were given by members of the club. Mr. T. J. Pugh, the president of the club, was in the chair.

Retiring, he came to London about eight years ago. Besides his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. C. Love, and four sons: C. H., Wesley and George W., of Littlewood, and Dr. James Baker, of Lelowna, B. C. The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 2 o'clock to Scottsville Cemetery.

CAPT. ROBSON BACK

County Clerk Tells of Conditions in the Old Country.

Captain Robson, county clerk of Middlesex, and wife and child, arrived in London today after a most enjoyable trip through England and Scotland.

He has been absent just ten weeks. The return trip was made on the steamer Columbia of the Anchor Line. New York was reached yesterday morning at 8 o'clock and London at 4 o'clock this morning.

Speaking to The Advertiser this morning, Captain Robson said: "We had a most pleasant trip over. The first three days were rather rough, but the remainder of the voyage was most enjoyable. While over there, I visited most of the big shorthorn breeders in England and Scotland."

Captain Robson states that the emigration from the old country to Canada this year is reaching immense proportions. "On the day I sailed," he said, "I was told that the largest number on record sailed that day for Canada."

Captain Robson did not have a great deal to say about election echoes or trade conditions. He said: "It looks very much like another election, but I did not mix in politics at all."

"There seems to be a very large number of poor and poverty-stricken people in the big cities, which a Canadian would naturally notice."

Captain Robson stated that he had intended visiting Ireland, but sickness had prevented him visiting the "Emerald Isle."

ANTI-COMBINES BILL TAKEN UP IN HOUSE

Minor Amendments Accepted—Two Conservative Members Indorse Principle.

Ottawa, April 25. — The anti-combines bill was taken up in the Commons this morning under the direction of Hon. Mackenzie King. A number of minor amendments were accepted at the suggestion of members who wished to make the bill perfectly clear.

Then two Conservative members not only accepted the whole principle of the measure to investigate where it is believed that there is a combine for the purpose of affecting the price of articles to the consumer, but they want it extended to cover certain producers.

Mr. Taylor, of New Westminster, and Mr. Crosby, of Halifax, each reported a combine among the purchasers of fish, who are the canners on the Pacific, and the cold storage men on the Atlantic. The object was the same in both cases—to keep down the price they paid to fishermen for their catch.

Hon. Mr. King said that he would not like this movement to go too fast. He thought that it would be better to deal with the consumer's protection, and if he investigation was found to work well in this case it might be extended to the fish buyers.

A BRITISH FORCE IN A TIGHT PLACE

London, April 25.—From Obudu, on the borders of the Munchi country in Southern Nigeria, comes news of the siege there of five Englishmen and a few native troops by cannibal hordes.

The Munchis are almost the only Nigerian tribe not subdued by the British advance. They are tall, powerful savages, and fight with poisoned arrows, a long native sword and a kind of chisel knife strapped to the back of the right hand.

The besieged Englishmen are District Commissioner Weld, Dr. McKinnon, Capt. Lang, Lieut. Graham and Color-Sergt. Henderson. They have with them a company of the Southern Nigerian Rifles and two Maxim guns. The Munchis have been attacking them spasmodically for three months past. Recently the British were reinforced by another company of native troops.

One of the severest attacks was made on the morning of Feb. 1, when the Munchis tried to rush the station, but were finally beaten off at nightfall on Feb. 15. During the fourteen days the troops had practically no rest. Three-quarters of the company were on outpost duty round the station, and the whole company were under arms every day from 3:30 a.m. till an hour after dark. One officer sat up every night, and the rest slept in their clothes.

A few days ago the Munchis tried again to beat the camp, and now they are waiting for any small party that ventures out of the station. A few men who ventured out under Lieut. Graham were nearly cut off and had a severe fight before they got back to safety.

It is expected that an expedition will have to be sent out to deal with these cannibals, as the position of the friendly tribes on the border is precarious, and the troops defending the station are unable to cope with raids at a distance.

AGAINST EXERCISE

London, April 25.—A distinguished London physician, Dr. Alexander Bryce, has started a discussion by asserting that office workers should not take exercise after their day's work. He says:

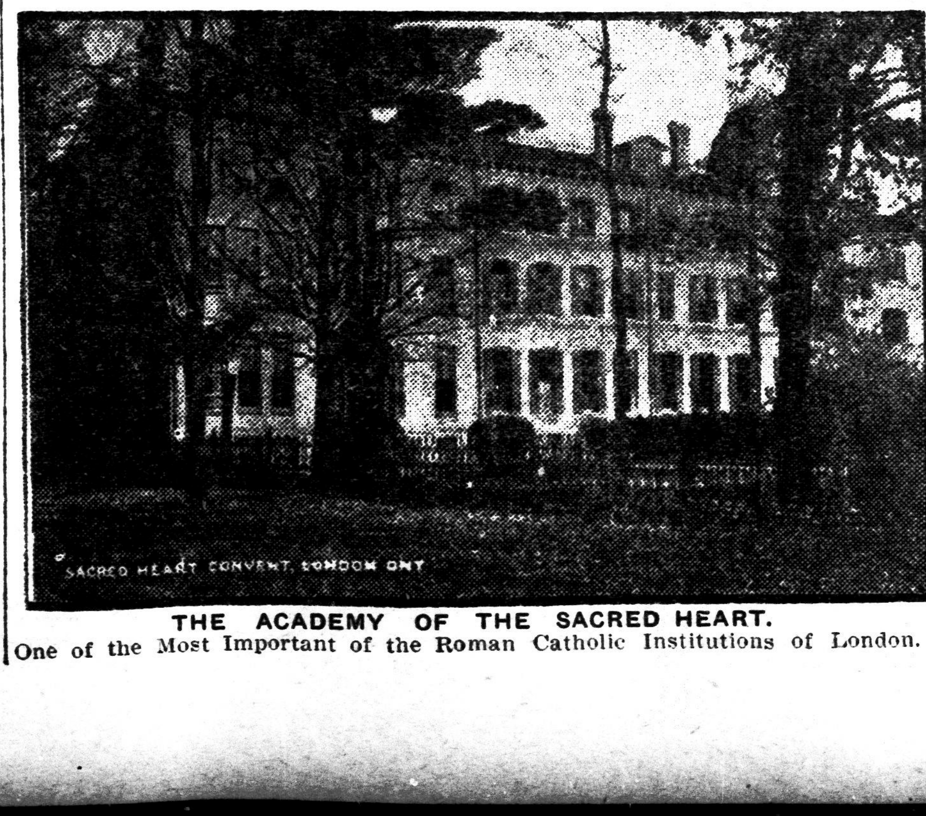

"The root season is that though head work is not exercise in the sense that it develops the body, it most decidedly is exercise in that it quickly induces 'fag' and physical lassitude. So it is almost pathetic for a man to expect any good to come from taking more exercise when the exercise involved in the day's work has already tired him out.

"One takes it that young people have had sufficient outdoor exercise to reasonably develop their frames before beginning office work. So when once they have started in the office in earnest it is much better for them to realize at once that their days of hard, physical strain are over and done with, and that henceforth they must confine these efforts to week-ends and holidays. They can follow this advice calmly enough, for it does not mean at all that they are going to deteriorate suddenly into wrecks

"The body and system easily attune themselves to circumstances, even to overcivilized and consequently rather unnatural circumstances, and indoor head workers will soon find that a very decent state of health can be maintained with little or no apparent exercise.

"For all people living under the undoubted inconvenience of earning a livelihood, a most excellent rule of thumb in regard to this much misunderstood question of work and exercise is the following: Never try to mix the two, and stop exercising at once if you do not find that it gives you real enjoyment.

"And I need only add," he concluded, "that the rational way home after a day's work in the office is by train, tram or omnibus, not walking, and that the proper time for real exercise is when no thought of work need intervene for at least 48 hours after the exercise has stopped."

will announce a programme. From the bottom of my heart I welcome you, and bless you. Together may we be fruitful in every good work."

His lordship then delivered a short address in French to the French-Canadian clergy.

Address to the Laity.

Senator Coffey and the representatives of the laity then read the address of the laity.

Bishop Fallon's reply was most feeling and stirring, and when he completed there was scarcely a dry eye in the cathedral.

"I can do no better," said Bishop Fallon, in response, "than repeat what I said to the clergy. I have come among you a stranger. None of you were known to me a week ago. I am sure it would be most unbecoming, most foolish, to outline a programme or make promises. You don't know me, and I don't know you. My reputation, of course, has come to you, but you do not know me. When we get better acquainted we will then learn what is best, and you will understand what is in the best interests of us all.

"It is true that I have never had any difficulty with the laity or the clergy where I have labored. I have not, by undue means, endeavored to cultivate their goodwill, but somehow the earnestness and sincerity with which we have worked together has made for peace, and prosperity. When I left Ottawa it was with great pain, for I realized then what the laity meant to me. When I left Buffalo, the same was true. We have worked together, and we have known each other, and under God good has resulted.

"I want your high-minded, generous support. I can assure you that my endeavors will not be the less earnest in London than they were in Ottawa or Buffalo, and if the results are not as good, the blame must rest with you.

"I desire to walk in the footsteps of the apostolic men who have preceded me.

"I want to do what they left undone. I purpose to emulate them—to be a disciple of theirs.

"I will work with all the laity of the city of London and of the diocese, that together we may receive the blessing of God, the love of Jesus Christ, and follow the faith of the Catholic Church.

"I thank the bishops and assistants and the priests who have attended the consecration here today. Pray for me. Support me by your counsel and love. Do not let me go astray for need of kindly advice. I take nothing of the visit of so many bishops from the United States, where I labored so happily for many years, and from Canada, my country, in a personal sense."

"You have come to honor the church in this. It is almost an ecumenical council. It will show the faithful of London the highest ideals of social and religious service, and all people that the Catholic Church stands for the best in patriotism and social progress.

"Among this gathering I have few acquaintances. You came to glorify the holy church. I return thanks for that.

"And I thank you, my old, old friends of yesterday. You all hold a peculiar place in my heart. You who will be my friends tomorrow to take the places of the friends of yesterday. I thank you for your presence. I thank the representatives of the Federal and Provincial Governments, and of the city governments for their presence. This is the outcome of a broader, bigger, better day, when all men who call themselves Christians work together for the things upon which they agree, and spent not so much time in controversy upon the things upon which they do not agree. We will strive for our principles, but we will not go out of the way unnecessarily to look for points of disagreement. We will work together for the things that are worthy."

"This is an indication of the work I must do here. I must stand for faith and rest, and not for unbelief and unrest. I must work first and mainly for the glory of the church, and the welfare of my people, and then as far as possible work for the welfare of the province and the Dominion in religious, educational and social matters. This is my native province to which I have come home again. To old friends of long ago, to the friends of yesterday, to the friends of tomorrow, I ask you to think of me sometimes in your prayers.

"My two families are here today—my religious family and my natural family. I cannot break off the intimate friendship that I have enjoyed these 25 years with the order to which I belonged, without regret. All the glory of the consecration cannot destroy the pain of separation.

"It will be keener tomorrow, when the ceremonies are past and gone. For old acquaintance sake, for auld lang syne, remember me in your prayers. No regalia can hide the long years of happiness we had together and the prayers.

"To my natural family, to my father and mother, to whom I owe everything, I return thanks. Your advice was always to pray, not to be proud. You will continue to pray, you and I, that I may not be proud. I hope to be a worthy son of a worthy father and a blessed mother.

"To all those of all creeds and faiths who have come to welcome the new bishop, I return thanks."

The Sermon.

Mgr. Shahan, of Washington, delivered the sermon, and dealt at some length with the work of a bishop. He pointed out the authority of the office, and spent some time on its burdens and difficulties.

The sermon dealt largely with dogma, and was a fine literary effort.

The ceremonial was explained at some length, the meaning of the vestments, and other parts of the robes being demonstrated most effectively.

Mgr. Shahan congratulated the diocese on the good fortune that had come to them in the appointment of Bishop Fallon. He was in the prime of life and youthful vigor, and had many years of usefulness before him. He was rich in fullness of priestly authority, and also in the fullness of great services for the church. The love and affection of two great congregations were unique, memorable and prophetic of the great work he was destined to accomplish in London Diocese. There were few in the Canadian church upon whom were centred such great hopes.

He asked the prayers of the people for the new bishop.

COWS IN DOVER DIE WITH RABIES

Three Victims Inside of a Month—Collapse of a Cold Storage Plant.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, April 23.—A valuable cow belonging to Thomas Burke, of Dover Township, died Thursday night from rabies. The cow had been in quarantine for some time, and is the second that Mr. Burke has lost. This is the third cow that has died within the month in Dover from rabies. They are all supposed to have been bitten by the Moorehouse dog, that was killed at Wallaceburg on March 4. Another cow belonging to Thomas Sloan, of Harwich, also died of rabies Thursday. It is claimed that the farmers in the townships are not carrying out the muzzling regulations.

Oliver Harvey, driver of one of Tremble's bread wagons, has for years been carrying a gold-headed needle, lodged deep in the flesh of his right shoulder, without having the least suspicion of its presence. Harvey was getting out of his wagon, when he struck a post, experiencing a severe pain in his shoulder. The pain increased to such an extent that he consulted Dr. George T. McKeough, who made an examination, and discovered the needle buried deep in the flesh. Mr. Harvey has no knowledge of how it got there, and it is probable that it has been in his body since he was a child.

The Flavelle-Silverwood ice and egg plant, situated on the bank of the Thames, collapsed on Friday morning and slid into the river, carrying with it 800 tons of ice and half a ton of feathers. The building and contents are a total loss. The building, which had been used as a cold storage plant, was built 28 years ago. It fell with a crash that could be heard for blocks.

His Lordship Chancellor Boyd reserved judgment in the case of Everitt vs. the Townships of Harwich and Raleigh. This is the case in which the plaintiff, Everitt, is bringing action against the municipalities to recover for injuries sustained by him and his wife from an accident while driving along the Harwich and Raleigh town line on Nov. 1 last. Eight people, including the plaintiff and his wife, were driving along the road at night, when the rig upset, and Everitt and his wife were thrown against the pipe line of the Volcanic Oil and Gas Company, which runs along the side of the road. Everitt's arm was fractured and his shoulder dislocated, and Mrs. Everitt had an elbow dislocated. According to their agreement with the townships, the Volcanic Company have to become liable for any damages the townships are subjected to on account of this pipe line, so that the case is in reality against the Volcanic Company. Lewis & Richards represented the plaintiff; Wilson, Pike & Co. appeared for the townships, and J. G. Kerr acted for the Volcanic Oil and Gas Company. About 20 witnesses were called in the case, which lasted a part of Thursday and all of Friday.

ALYMER.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Aylmer, April 23.—The East Elgin license commissioners met here on Friday, all being present. Little business of importance was transacted, other than the granting of the licenses as follows:

Aylmer—F. H. Trim, Brown House; Harry McLean, Columbia; W. H. Ralph, Central.

Port Stanley—J. W. Coffee, Loney House; Cyrus Stocton, Franklin; Thos. Donnelly, Invererie.

Port Burwell—George Van Order, John Ingram.

Vienna—E. C. Palmer.

Straffordville—John Reeveley.

Bayham—W. Smuck.

Corinth—Albert Pearson.

Springfield—Charles Herrick.

On account of the exterior of the Mansion House being badly out of repair, a license was not granted, the proprietor, George Sears, but was laid over pending improvements, until April 29, when the commissioners will again meet.

Rev. Mr. McConnell preached at both services in Knox Church on Sunday.

The Aylmer fire brigade met Thursday night and presented to their comrade, Alva O'Brien, an address and a handsome locket and chain, as a token of remembrance previous to his leaving for the Canadian West, where he will in future make his home. Mr. O'Brien was secretary of the fire company for some time, and filled the position with much satisfaction.

Mrs. J. N. Carter & Son left for Toronto Friday afternoon to spend Sunday.

On Friday at noon, while Talbot street was lined with people, an exciting runaway occurred, when William Charlton's horse became frightened at an automobile, and broke away from the post to which it was hitched, and dashed around the corner of King and Talbot streets, coming in contact with a tie post in front of L. A. Ball's furniture store, smashing the buggy badly. The horse was captured by Earl Lindsay none the worse for its wild run.

Captain J. N. Carter has leased from I. N. Newell for a term of years his white brick residence on John street north.

O. Bentley, a former Aylmer boy, has disposed of his business in Toronto, and is visiting in Aylmer and vicinity, before leaving for a trip to the coast.

BURIED ROMAN SHIP FOUND.

Part of a burned and mud-buried ancient ship has just been discovered in the harbor near Christ Church, Hampshire. At first it was considered to be a viking vessel, but further excavations and expert criticism of the articles discovered have established the fact that the ship belonged to the Romans. A small incense cup of graceful outline, 3½ inches high and 2⅝ inches in diameter, was sent to the British Museum authorities for examination, with the result that Mr. C. H. Read replied it was of Roman date. Altogether more than twenty articles of iron, bronze and pottery have been found.—London Chronicle.

The farm is rented to Mr. Coates, who has been living on it, for about six weeks. The loss will be heavy.

Mr. Marks at Hamilton.

Editor J. T. Marks, of the Industrial Banner, addressed the Hamilton Labor Educational Association on Friday night on the factory for unemployed established in this city a year ago last winter. He showed samples of the toys manufactured from old tin cans and other waste material, and stated the factory could compete with the product of Germany or any other country in this line. He said the factory served a two-fold purpose: It gave employment to waste labor and it reclaimed waste material. The association had been doing educational work through the columns of the Industrial Banner and by holding meetings in the various cities in Ontario. It was trying to overcome the indifference manifested by workingmen in questions which vitally affected their welfare. He said that a large proportion of workingmen would be of more use to society dead than alive. Their indifference made possible all the evils which afflict society today.

A PASTOR SURPRISED

Presentation to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Mackay, of London Junction.

On Friday evening last one of those pleasant little surprises that bring gladness to a pastor's heart took place at the manse, London Junction, the closing meeting of the Boys' Missionary Brigade of St. George's Church, being held there. Mr. and Mrs. Mackay were at the same time presented with a beautiful group photograph of the boys, with an address expressing at once their appreciation and goodwill.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackay both testified to the unfeigned pleasure they had found in working with and for the boys, and expressed the hope that the good work done in the past would not only continue but be quite surpassed.

After a while spent at lively games and rousing choruses, refreshments were served, and the boys departed well pleased and leaving behind what will prove a happy memory.

The brigade is one of but two or three in the Presbytery of London. Its chief interest has hitherto been in the Mission Hospital at Vegreville, to which it has once and again contributed.

BISHOP PRESENTED WITH A CROZIER

BISHOP'S FIRST ADDRESS

Is a K. of C. Himself and Speaks Eulogistically of the Order—A Kindly Speech From a Kindly Heart.

At St. Peter's Palace on Saturday afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock, Bishop Fallon was presented with a very handsome gold crozier by the local order of the Knights of Columbus. About 20 of the knights were present. The presentation ceremonials were simple in the extreme.

His lordship responded briefly in reply to the address, and thanked the local council for their kindness and thoughtfulness. The address was not a formal one, by any means, but the expression of real, heartfelt gratitude.

The first address from the new bishop was one of affection and love for the people with whom he will labor in the days to come, and was a happy augury indeed for the future happiness and prosperity of the diocese. Bishop Fallon is an orator in the real sense of the term, his every utterance conveying sincerity and absolute honesty of purpose.

The knights assembled at 4:30 o'clock, as arranged. Promptly on time, his lordship appeared, and Rev. Father Aylward, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, introduced Bishop Fallon to the visitors.

A seat was offered the bishop, but he refused, saying that all would look better standing.

The Address.

Grand Knight J. O. Dromgole then read the following address:

To the Right Reverend Michael F. Fallon, D.D., O.M.I., Bishop of London:

Your Lordship—We approach you today to express the gratification, the sincerity, the warmth of feeling with which we welcome you to our midst.

"Mindful of the aims and obligations of the Order of the Knights of Columbus, we hasten to pledge loyalty, reverence and devotion to you, our chief pastor, and to assure you of our active co-operation in all things within our sphere and power, which may tend to aid you in your divine mission. As an earnest of these pledges, and reflecting in a very small measure the sentiments which prompt us to offer it, we ask you to accept this crozier. We beseech Almighty God to bless you, preserve you in health and length of years, that you may, under his divine guidance, accomplish to the greatest degree the task to which he has called you.

"We ask you to remember us in your prayers and at the holy sacrifice of the mass, to the end that we may receive the necessary grace to enable us to stand steadfast in the faith and the practice of our holy religion.

"On behalf of London Council, No. 1410, Knights of Columbus.

"Signed, John O. Dromgole, grand knight; James J. Callaghan, deputy grand knight; Claude Brown, chancellor."

Mr. J. J. Callaghan made the presentation. The crozier is a magnificent one, and embellished with many jewels.

The Bishop's Reply.

"I am very, very glad that my first official visit is with the Knights of Columbus of the episcopal city in which I will make my home for the future," said his lordship in reply. "I am glad the meeting is in this little room, for it emphasizes the closeness with which you and I will work together in the future. I was a Knight of Columbus before I was bishop. I was a Knight of Columbus when it did not mean so much as it does now, when it was not looked upon with so much favor by some bishops as at the present time, and when one had almost to fight to be a knight. Now it is a favor and a blessing.

"In my travels from one end of Canada and the United States to the other, speaking generally, for there is nothing perfect, I have found the knights to be a devoted body of Catholic laymen. While at Ottawa College, some of my very best friends up to that time belonged to the order. Since that time my knowledge of them has broadened. I was named first state chaplain, and was thrown in touch with the officers of the state jurisdiction, and to meet them was to love them, whether in Charlottetown or Victoria.

Bishop Bespeaks Support.

"I want your assistance and loyal support, and I know I will have these, in our constant endeavor to keep aloft the high principles of faith and high standard of conduct of our order.

"When I went to Buffalo, I was met cordially by the nKights of Columbus there, and they made my going into exile much easier than it would otherwise have been. Since that time, I have done extensive travelling, and everywhere I have found them loyal Catholics, devoted to their organization and its principles, and standing straight and strong for Catholic faith and practice.

"And now coming to London, I am met by the Knights of Columbus of the cathedral city, and I am confident my stay among you will be a continuance of the blessed happiness of the past fifteen years.

A Personal Welcome.

"I take this as a personal welcome. You will find little of the official about me. Some time you may even stare and start at the apparent lack of episcopal dignity, but you will understand me when I say that I have gone through as a Knight of Columbus all that you have gone through, and that will explain all things. (Laughter.)

"I hope you will never fail to find a friend in me. I will go to you when I want assistance and loyal support, and you will come to me when you want assistance and help. With this personal, loyal, affectionate contact, under God, what is there to prevent us from making Catholic manhood, Catholic knighthood, Catholic faith more honored and more respected because of its uplifting influences?

"I thank you again most sincerely for this magnificent gift, so symbolical, so spiritual in significance. It will be the staff of God's grace and God's Blessing, and never the the staff of unnecessary authority. I take you to be typical of the diocese over which I, though so unworthy, must rule, and I hasten to assure you that the rule of the crozier will be a rule of love and affection, and that it will not ever be a burden to you or chafe you. My hope is that you will pray for me, and I will pray for you. I accept this gift with sincerest gratitude, as an earnest of that more golden gift of love you have shown a simple priest, raised by the call of God to be your bishop."

Beautiful Rings.

His lordship spent several minutes conversing with the knights assembled, and showed them two rings, the episcopate ring, the gift of Mr. M. P. Davis, of Ottawa, a really magnificent ring, and another the gift of a friend in Buffalo.

He then gave his blessing to the knights and retired. Among those present were Knights J. O. Dromgole J. J. Callaghan, Dr. Claude Brown, R. M. Burns, R. H. Dignan, Phil Lewis, Dr. W. J. Tillmann, J. O'Meara, T. R. Bindner, J. O'Meara, M. P. McDonagh, W. Pace, Jos. F. Nolan, D. A. Quarry, W. Pleasance, M. McKeough, Jos. Pocock, T. J. O'Meara, Charles H. Weir, J. Doyle, J. P. Forristal, Inspector Sullivan, Capt. Manley, Q. M. S. Dunlevy, C. Wilson, Fred Coles, George McCartney, J. Givens, J. Connors, G. Pocock, F. Smith, J. J. Austin and Mr. Fitzgerald.

THE NEW BISHOP AND HIS FAMILY

Aged Parents of a Distinguished Son and His Brothers Meet.

The reunion of the Fallon family was one of the most interesting events in connection with the consecration of Bishop Fallon.

On Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. James Fallon, and their other sons, Joseph L., Thomas D., and Vincent, of Cornwall; Frank E., of the department of state, Ottawa; Rev. Charles Fallon, O. M. I., Tewkesbury, Mass., and Rev. J. P. Fallon, O. M. I., Ottawa College, with Mrs. J. P. Dunn, Ogdensburg; Mrs. Denham, Ottawa, and Miss Vera Fallon, granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Fallon, arrived on No. 15 over the Grand Trunk from the east.

His lordship was naturally anxious to meet his aged parents, and in Mr. Phil Pocock's auto, he was taken to the station. He impatiently walked up and down the platform waiting for the train. As it came in, he was instantly surrounded by a number of clergymen, extending their congratulations. He broke through their ranks, and seeing his aged father and mother, he rushed towards them.

He grasped his mother, and kissed her, saying, "Oh, mother!"

Tears welled up in the little old lady's eyes. The big bishop affectionately greeted his father, and the rest of the party.

He accompanied the old folks to the Sacred Heart Academy, where they were billetted, and the two priests, Father Fallon, of Tewkesbury, and Father Fallon, of Ottawa, went with him to Mount St. Joseph. The other sons registered at the Tecumseh House.

The seven boys form a striking family. They are all big men, strongly made, and athletic. No wonder their parents' faces shone with pride as they watched the seven big men walk down the station platform.

Yesterday the bishop spent a quiet day at Mount St. Joseph and St. Peter's Cathedral. In the morning mass was celebrated at the chapel, at which the family of the bishop, and some immediate friends attended. Later in the day he was taken to the palace, where he met some old friends. Among them were Hon. R. W. Scott, former secretary of state. The greeting was very cordial, for they had been warm friends.

"I am more than pleased to see you," said the bishop. "You were always so good to me, and I owe so much to your kindness and assistance."

D'Arcy Scott, of the railway commission, and other prominent laymen were introduced to the bishop, and a large number of the visiting priests came to pay their respects.

There were masses in St. Peter's Cathedral in the morning, but there were no vespers, or afternoon services.

The last mass this morning was said at 7:30, the church being locked until 9 o'clock, when it was opened for the ceremonial of consecration.

MANY COME TO SEE THE CONSECRATION

Bishops, Priests and People From Every Part of the Country Are in London Today.

Hundreds of visitors are in the city today attending the consecration of Bishop Fallon in St. Peter's Cathedral. The hotel accommodation of the city is taxed to capacity, the Tecumseh House being particularly crowded with visitors. In addition practically every Catholic home in the city has a guest, and many have quite a number.

A number of prominent Canadians are among the visitors, among them being Hon. Chas. Murphy, secretary of state; Hon. R. W. Scott, formerly secretary of state; D'Arcy Scott, vice-chairman of the Dominion railway commission, and others of less prominence.

There is a bewildering array of clergymen in the city, including practically all the prominent archbishops and bishops of Canada, with many distinguished American divines.

The inferior clergy from the diocese have nearly all arrived. It is estimated this morning that about 75 of the 80 priests in the diocese had arrived, and the others would come during the course of the day.

On every train coming into the city came visitors, and a number of prominent Catholics had a busy day welcoming the distinguished ecclesiastics and visitors to London.

The Buffalo delegation arrived during the night from the Bison City in a special Wabash train—the best that ever left that city. They came to London from St. Thomas over the L. and P. S., and the train was left in the yards. It will be the living place of these visitors during the day. It's thoroughly equipped for the purpose.

The visitors come from long distance, east and west, Ottawa sent a large delegation. Buffalo sent hundreds. Hamilton, Toronto, Detroit, Windsor, St. Thomas, Montreal, all sent their representatives not so numerous, but yet sufficient numbers to make their presence felt.

Every parish in the diocese from Windsor to Woodstock, and from the southern limits to the northern part of Bruce County, is represented not only by the parish priest, but by some prominent layman of the church.

The clergy form a far-flung line. From Charlottetown, on the east, and Winnipeg, on the west, and from Washington, D. C., to Chicago, across the line, have come ecclesiastics to do honor to the former Oblate priest raised to the bishopric of London, one of the most important positions in Canada.

It is a striking tribute to the popularity of the man, and the grip he has upon the affections of the clergy and laity throughout the country.

TWAIN LAID TO REST BY SIDE OF WIFE

Funeral Service Held in Room Where Deceased Was Married.

Elmira, N. Y., April 24.—Under a tent on the grassy slope of the Langdon plot in Woodlawn Cemetery, with rain beating fiercely against the canvas cover, a little group of mourners silently watched today as the body of Samuel L. Clemens was lowered into an evergreen-lined grave beside the bodies of his wife and children. The Rev. Samuel E. Eastman, pastor of Park Church, and a close friend of the late humorist, conducted a brief and simple service, and Mark Twain's final pilgrimage was at an end. Tonight he lies sleeping under a grave piled high with flowers, the tributes of friends from far and near.

The body lay in state in the very parlor where the marriage of 40 years ago took place, and some of those who attended the wedding were there today to look for the last time on the face of their friend. Neither the Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, nor the Rev. Jos. Twichell, who performed the wedding ceremony, was present, however. Mr Beecher died several years ago.

DIED OF HIS INJURIES

Mr. Daniel Deacon Passes Away at the Advanced Age of 94 Years.

Mr. Daniel Deacon, who on Thursday afternoon fell down stairs at the home of his son, J. R. Deacon, and fractured his skull, died late on Saturday afternoon without recovering consciousness. Mr. Deacon would have been 94 years old had he lived until December, and was a man of wonderful agility and vigor. Since coming to London some years ago he had been a regular attendant at the Askin Street Methodist Church, and had attended the regular service a week ago Sunday, and was at the Epworth League meeting on Monday night, and at prayer meeting on Wednesday evening. Rev. A. K. Birks made feeling reference to his death in the course of the services yesterday.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

EARLY DAYS ON THE OLD GREAT WESTERN

Londoners Who Formed Part of the Old Brigade—An Accident Recalled.

The Hamilton Spectator publishes an interesting letter from Mr. John Paterson, caretaker of the Provincial Government buildings at Winnipeg, and at one time employed on the old Great Western Railway. The letter deals with the early days on what is now the middle division of the Grand Trunk, and contains reminiscences of local interest. Among other things Mr. Paterson says:

"Although over thirty years have elapsed since I left the Great Western, I still remember others of the old-timers. Few of them survive, doubtless, and not one of them, possibly, is still in the service. They were all well known in Hamilton, although their homes may not have been there. Some of them resided at the Falls and others at London. Among them were Davy Porteous, Johnny Love, Billy Love and Johnny Wylie, engineers, and all from Ayrshire, and who made their homes in London; Conductors Thorpe, Dick Furness, Patchen (or Patching), Knill and Brodie, and Engineer Simmy Mason, who retired from the road a few years ago, and resides in London with his daughter, Mrs. Carson, wife of a Grand Trunk engineer.

"The boys of the old brigade, were they alive, could tell by the hour of the good old times they had in the early days of the Great Western, when the Elk, Reindeer, Stag, Greyhound and others were the pride of the locomotive department—quite a number of the engines in those days had such names as these. George Morgan was running the Elk when it went into the washout at Flamboro. Davy Porteous, I am told, was stricken with paralysis while backing his engine into a stall in the roundhouse at London. One of his sons is running on the Grand Trunk out of London now, I believe, while another is an engineer on the Pere Marquette out of London. As I have said, Davy was an A1 engineer. I am told the sons are just as good as their father was."

Mr. Paterson recalls an accident which led to the appointment of Sam Sharp as mechanical superintendent at Hamilton:

"Sharp was popular. The men almost idolized him. If my memory serves me right, Sharp had been appointed to succeed a man Braid who was shortly afterwards killed while coming down from London on the night express. The train plunged headlong into a washout at Flamboro. Braid was sitting next to a window, and in a seat with John Wilson, locomotive foreman at London. In the wreck Braid's chest was crushed in with a heavy iron bar, or bolt. Wilson escaped unhurt. George Morgan, of London, was the engineer of the express. He was instantly killed. I remember Morgan was a thrifty fellow. The day before the accident, or else that very day, he had paid off the mortgage on his house on York or King street, in London, and was very proud of what he had done. In conversation with a friend he spoke of the matter, 'but,' he added, 'if I should get killed my wife would have only $3 in the house.' On his next trip he met his death."

MARSHALL FIELDS ESTATE

Chicago, April 25.—Interesting figures of the estate left by the late Marshall Field were made known when Judge Rinaker in the county court entered a decree in the inheritance tax litigation, which has been appealed to the supreme court. The decree finds that the fair market value of the estate was $83,459,032 38. Legal deductions on account of debts, claims, trust funds and various fees, totalled $4,196,373 86. This amount included $1,000,000 paid to the widow, Mrs. Delia S. Field, under an ante-nuptial contract.

This leaves the net value of the estate $79,262,658 52. Taxes on cash legacies amounting to $3,060,000 have been fully paid.
