HAIG WIDENS GAP IN THE HINDENBURG LINE

BRITISH GO AHEAD DESPITE STIFFENED DEFENCE OF FOE

GERMAN'S BITTER ATTACK WAS BROKEN BY BAYONET AND FIRE AND TURNED TO FULL ROUT

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.

With the British Armies Afield, April 16.—British troops fought their way forward in the outskirts of St. Quentin and Lens today. Just north of St. Quentin they took the village of Troissauvage. Around three sides of Lens they were fiercely fighting against German defenders, and slowly encircling the coal city. The Germans fought desperately, while in the town itself they strove frantically to remove guns and supplies.

Again early today Germans threw two more strong attacks at British positions at Monchy-le-Preux. Both failed. The British artillery, concentrated in a devastating fire, slaughtered the massed attacking forces of the Teutons.

British Field Headquarters, April 16.—The British apparently would like to take Lens without inflicting to it to great damage from extensive bombardment. They have always been in a position to reduce the city to ruins, but the shells have been directed against selected spots known to be used for military purposes by the Germans. Nevertheless the Germans continue their work of destroying the city by blowing up buildings.

A Bitter Attack.

Further details of the fighting yesterday show the desperate character of several German attacks on the new British positions. The attack which was essayed from both sides of Queant and temporarily pierced the British line at Lagnicourt was exceptionally bitter. It began at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning and continued for three hours without interruption. British advanced posts were driven in, but the support units joined the issue with the Germans.

Hand to Hand.

Many hand-to-hand encounters followed. There was also more actually aimed rifle shooting than for many months. During this fire the Germans fell in clumps. They attempted to seek cover behind bushes and in small thickets. The British fired into these with good results. When the reserves came up at last the Germans broke into full flight.

AIRMEN OF FOE TRAVEL IN GANGS, FIGHTING BRITISH FOUR TO ONE

British Headquarters in Field, April 16.—There has been notable air fighting over Monchy, and many machines have been brought down there in the last two days. Large German formations have attacked the British scouts and the patter of machine guns overhead has been almost continuous during the daylight hours. The Germans as a rule are careful air fighters, and virtually never attack unless they outnumber the British three or four to one. A single German machine is seldom sighted. They have come to be known as "gang air fighters," but their tactics of lying in wait high above the fleety clouds and darting upon an isolated foe does not perturb the British fliers. The British continue to police the air, not only behind their own front, but far into German territory, and say they naturally suffer the same casualties as a police force would from encountering ambushed attacks from outlaws. The weather continues favorable to the German methods of avoiding opening air conflicts. Even on the clearer days the sky is filled with clouds which offer protection and hiding places for the high winging German machines.

THREE RUSSIAN GENERALS ARE PLACED UNDER ARREST

Tashkent, Asiatic Russia, Sunday, April 15, via London, April 16.—Gen. Alexi Kuropatkin, governor-general of Turkestan, his assistant, Gen. Yerofeiff and Gen. Sivers, chief of staff, have been arrested by the Council of Soldiers' Delegates.

Gen. Borroff, commanding the 1st Siberian Brigade, and Gen. Tsuomillen, commanding the local brigade, also have been placed under arrest and confined to a guardroom. The officers are charged with distributing arms to Russians in various districts for defence against natives in the event of an attack. This action has been held to be of a provocatory character.

LONDON FIRM SUFFERS BY ST. JOHN, N. B., BLAZE

St. John, N. B., April 16.—Early Sunday morning fire in the Sands Building, Prince William and Water streets, caused $25,000 loss to the building and $50,000 to the tenants. These included Comeau & Sheehan, Limited, wholesale liquors; John Labatt, Limited, Knodell Typewriter Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and P. Campbell & Co. Comeau & Sheehan were the heaviest losers. All are insured.

RUSSIAN GUNS TURN BACK TEUTONS CARRYING FLAGS

Petrograd, Via London, April 16.—On various parts of the Russian front yesterday, says today's official Russian statement, groups of Teuton soldiers, carrying flags, attempted to approach the Russian positions. On coming under the Russian fire the troops fled back to their trenches. Russian scouts yesterday blew up a bridge crossing the River Styr, 15 miles northwest of Brody.

SUNK OUTSIDE ZONE.

Christiania, Norway, April 15—Via London, April 16.—Seamen saved from the torpedoed Danish ships Nanzy and Saxo have reported to the Danish consulate in Bergen that the ships were sunk 42 miles from land and four miles outside the blockade zone.

The Saxo was a Danish steamer of 711 tons gross, built in 1907, and owned in Copenhagen. There is no Danish vessel named Nanzy listed, but the Danish steamer Nancy, of 1,311 tons gross, built in 1888, owned in Esbjrg, is on the shipping records. There are no recent records of the movement of either of these vessels.

RADICAL SOCIALISTS OF RUSSIA WORKING FOR SEPARATE PEACE

Held Conference With Germans at Stockholm.

GOT PROMISE OF SUPPORT

English Flatly Refused To Have Anything To Do With Peace Movement.

Stockholm, April 15—Via London, April 16.—Recent reports concerning a meeting of Russian and German Socialists in Stockholm to further the agitation for peace now appear to have been anticipatory. Such a meeting, however, may be held in the near future.

The fact that Russian peace agitators have been permitted to cross Germany from Switzerland, seems also to indicate that the German Government at least does not desire to throw any obstacles in the way of such a movement.

In Sealed Coach.

The party which arrived here Friday included 30 Russians, who came through Germany in a sealed coach.

Among the principal members of the party were Nickolai Lenin, the Russian Radical-Socialist leader, and Zinovyof, another Radical and peace advocate. Both are members of their party's central committee and both are editors of party newspapers in Geneva, as well as being prominent figures in the Zimmerwald Congress. Another member of the group was Mischa Zhakaya, one of the founders of the party in the Caucasus and the man who brought M. Tscheidze, the Russian Labor leader, into the party.

While in Stockholm, the Russians issued a statement attacking England and accusing it of trying to "destroy one of the Russian revolution's results—political amnesty," and of refusing to permit Russian revolutionists abroad, who oppose war, to return to Russia. The statement reviewed the negotiations with Germany for permission to cross that country and declared that the Germans had loyally kept their agreement. It was disclosed in the statement that the Russians while in Switzerland had been in communication with French Socialists and German Radical Socialists.

Head Peace Movement.

The visitors were met at the Stockholm station by Mayor Lindhagen and some of the Swedish Radical Socialists with whom they held a conference during the day. Information concerning the conference was denied.

The Dagens Nyheter, however, declares that it learns that Lenin undertook the trip to head an energetic peace movement, and he and his friends already have won the promise of support from the German Radicals for a congress in Stockholm. Some French Socialists also approved of the plan, but English Socialists flatly refused to take part. The Dagens Nyheter says that M. Lenin plans to be back in Stockholm from Petrograd within a fortnight at the head of a Russian peace deputation. He is said to want universal peace if it is obtainable, but if the western powers, particularly England, reject the idea, he will endeavor to secure a separate peace between Russia and Germany. The Russian party is now on its way to Petrograd.

GEN. MICHAEL ALEXIEF TO COMMAND RUSSIANS

PETROGRAD, via London, April 16.—Gen. Michael V. Alexieff has been definitely appointed commander-in-chief of the Russian armies. He was appointed acting commander-in-chief a few weeks ago.

CLARION CALL TO AMERICAN PEOPLE BY THE PRESIDENT

Appeals For Unity and Efficiency in Great War.

TO KEEP WORLD FREE

Biggest Task To Supply Food For Themselves and the Allies.

Washington, D. C., April 16.—President Wilson, in the proclamation addressed to his fellow-countrymen last night, said:

"We are rapidly putting our navy upon an effectual war footing and are about to create and equip a great army, but these are the simplest parts of the great task to which we have addressed ourselves. There is not a single selfish element, so far as I can see, in the cause we are fighting for. We are fighting for what we believe and wish to be the rights of mankind and for the future peace and security of the world. To do this great thing worthily and successfully we must devote ourselves to the service without regard to profit or material advantage, and with an energy and intelligence that will rise to the level of the enterprise itself.

"These, then, are the things we must do, and do well, besides fighting—the things without which mere fighting would be fruitless:

Must Supply Food.

"We must supply aboundant food for ourselves and for our armies and our seamen, not only but also for a large part of the nations with whom we have now made common cause, in whose support and by whose sides we shall be fighting.

"We must supply abundant food for dreds out of our own shipyards to carry to the other sifle of the sea, submarines or no submarines, that which will every day be needed there and abundant materials out of our fields and our mines and our factories, with which not only to clothe and equip our own forces on land and seas, but also to clothe and support our people for whom the gallant fellows under arms can no longer work, to help clothe and equip the armies with which we are cooperating in Europe, and to keep the looms and manufactories there in raw material; coal to keep the fires going in ships at sea and in the furnaces of hundreds of factories across the sea; steel out of which to make arms and ammunition both here and there; rails for wornout railways back of the fighting fronts; locomotives and rolling stock to take the place of those every day going to pieces; mules, horses, cattle for labor and for military service; everything with which the people of England and France and Italy and Russia have usually supplied themselves but cannot now afford the men, the materials or the machinery to make."

Urges Efficiency.

The president urged efficiency on farms, in shipyards, in mines and in factories, saying that those employed in these industries were serving the country and conducting the fight for "peace and freedom" just as truly as the men in the trenches.

To the farmers he said: "Without abundant food alike for the armies of the people now at war the whole great enterprise upon which we have embarked will break down and fail.

"The time is short," continued the

BRAZIL MAY SEND 200,000 SOLDIERS TO THE WESTERN FRONT

Interned German Ships Are Taken Over.

Rio Janeiro, April 16.—Marine forces are taking possession of the German merchant vessels in Brazilian harbors in the accompaniment of manifestation of popular approvals of the step.

The minister of marine in issuing the order for taking over the German ships gave instructions to the chief of the naval forces to proceed courteously with the work, and up to the present no untoward incident has accompanied it.

The newspaper O Imparcial interprets the rupture of relations with Germany and the seizure of the interned ships as premonitary symptoms of a state of war. In this connection it sees the eventuality of sending to Europe a contingent of 200,000 men, which would be formed exclusively of infantry.

Brazil, it asserts, could easily organize such a contingent.

German Concrete-and-Steel Shelter For Machine Gun Crew

Advertiser Illustrations.

This official photograph of the recent British advance on the western front indicates why German machine guns are hard to silence. The scene is the remains of an enemy trench in Gommecourt, which was first attacked last July and fell only last month. High explosive shells have made the trench uninhabitable but the bastion remained until British occupation.

French Have Launched Great New Offensive

London, April 16.—6:25 p.m.—"News of the opening of the great French offensive has spread like wildfire through the British forces," telegraphs Reuter's correspondent at the British headquarters in France today.

London, April 16.—The fighting on the western front has assumed almost the proportions of a general engagement along the whole line, from the North Sea to the Swiss border. As yet the infantry has not been heavily engaged much to the north of Loos, in the Lens region, or east of the Soissons region, within which confines the battle of Arras and the struggle for St. Quentin are being waged.

The artillery duel, however, is growing in intensity in the region of Rheims, in the Champagne, and down the line to Lorrain and Alsace. Raiding operations by the French in these sectors also have assumed great importance and similar significant activities are being displayed by the Belgians north of the present great battlefield.

CANADIAN TRADE BOARDS WANT DAYLIGHT SAVING FOR ENTIRE DOMINION

Ottawa, April 16.—A delegation representing the Federated Boards of Trade of Ontario and the Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg boards today asked the Government to enact a daylight saving bylaw for the whole of Canada, effective between the third Sunday in April and the third Sunday in September. Sir George Foster, acting premier, expressed his sympathy with the movement, and promised fullest cabinet consideration.

CANADIAN PRESS MAN PROVES HIS COURAGE

Stewart Lyon Has Had Two or Three Close Shaves.

Ottawa, April 15.—Stewart Lyon, representing the Canadian Press at the front, whose dispatches recounting the gallant achievements of the Canadian army during recent stirring events in France have stirred the hearts of all at home and challenged the admiration of the world in arms, was, it appears, under fire early in his career as war correspondent. An Ottawa officer in high command at the front, writing to a friend in this city under date of March 25, says:

"I met Stewart Lyon over here, and had one of my staff officers take him down to the front line. He had two or three close shaves from shells, but the S. O. gives him a certificate of courage which will help him a lot in his business."

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT.

Kamloops, B. C., April 16.—J. H. McChesney, teller of the Imperial Bank here, was killed as the result of an automobile, in which he was riding, turning turtle. Lyle Bice, of the same bank, is also likely to die.

MAJOR BRYDON KILLED.

Kenora, April 16.—Word has been received by Mr. John K. Brydon that his youngest son, Major Robert G. H. Brydon, aged 25, was killed in action, April 9. He enlisted as a private in 1914 and secured his commission as major three months ago.

BALFOUR TO REACH WASHINGTON TODAY

New York, April 16.—A Washington dispatch to the Evening Sun says:

"Arthur J. Balfour, British secretary of state for foreign affairs, is due to arrive here at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Within 48 hours, it is expected, all the representatives of England and France will be assembled for the great war council which is to be held here."

AMERICAN GUNBOAT INTERNED BY TURKS

London, April 16.—An official statement issued by the Turkish war office says that the American gunboat Scorpion has been interned.

The Scorpion is a converted yacht, and has been stationed at Constantinople as a dispatch boat for the American embassy since November, 1900. A year ago members of the Scorpion's crew were reported to have clashed with German soldiers in Constantinople, and in March of this year the Italian newspapers printed reports that the Scorpion had been blown up. Constantinople dispatches denied this report.

TEDDY WANTS AMERICANS SENT TO FLANDERS FRONT

Washington, D. C., April 16—Theodore Roosevelt's plans for raising and accompanying a volunteer expedition abroad were laid before the Senate military committee today by Chairman Chamberlain at a meeting called to consider the administration's army selective draft bill. Details of the plan were submitted by the colonel to the chairman of the Senate and House military committee in response to a request made when he was here recently to confer with the president about his project.

While expressing hearty approval of the administration bill, Col. Roosevelt insisted that volunteers could be put on the firing line, and that the American force should be there at the earliest possible moment.

Members of the committee gave careful study to the proposal, but there was no definite indication that action would be taken.

SPAIN ASKS RESPECT FOR LIVES OF ITS CITIZENS

Madrid, Via Paris, April 16.—A semi-official note to the press deprecates "the false interpretation" given to the latest meeting of the cabinet, and says that the comments on the note to Germany are entirely contrary to the facts; that the Government has in nowise modified its policy, and that the note simply asks for respect for the lives of Spaniards.

The note alludes to the German declaration that unrestricted submarine war was a question of life or death to Spain, and that the overseas relations cannot be stopped without the immediate ruin of the country.

ST. LAWRENCE CLEARING.

Quebec, April 16.—The ice from Lake St. Peter is moving down the river and navigation is expected to open up to Montreal within a day or so. Ships left Quebec today for gulf ports.

WELCOME THE BOYS HOME!

Owing to a change in plans the 48 wounded and invalided soldiers expected to arrive Tuesday, will not come until Wednesday morning at 11:15 o'clock. As this is the largest party of returned men to return to the city at one time since the outbreak of the war, the Soldiers' Aid Commission requests that as many as possible be on hand at the C. P. R. depot to welcome the men home. There are fourteen Londoners in the party.

GENERAL STRIKE AT BERLIN CITY CAUSES RIOTING

Travelers Say Serious Industrial Turmoil Started This Morning.

London, April 16.—Travelers arriving in Holland from Germany, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam to the Central News Agency, say that a general strike was commenced this morning in Berlin and that riots have taken place in the German capital.

SUDDEN DEATH OF 2 WESTERN DOCTORS STARTS AN INQUIRY

Well-Known Physicians Victims of Poisoner.

Weyburn, Sask., April 16.—Two physicians, Dr. Hammill, of Assiniboia and Dr. Stewart, recently of the 249th Battalion, died here within two hours of each other under circumstances which point strongly to poisoning. Local medical men were called to the Royal Hotel at noon on Saturday, where Dr. Hammill was found in a precarious condition. He lived only a short time afterwards. Two hours later a similar call was made for Dr. Stewart and he also died suddenly.

Dr. Charlton, provincial bacteriologist, was brought down from Regina, but as the body of Dr. Hammill had been embalmed, he could do nothing in his case. He, however, secured the stomach of Dr. Stewart and took it to Regina for examination. Dr. Hammill, who was practicing at Assiniboia, was brought a patient into Weyburn Hospital last week. He was about 30 years old and leaves a widow. Dr. Stewart who formerly practiced at East End, left there some time ago to join the 249th Battalion as medical officer, but a short time ago severed his connection with the battalion.

Supreme Officers of Royal Arcanum Confer On Crisis

Question of Making Receivership Permanent To Be Discussed.

Boston, April 16.—Supreme officers of the Royal Arcanum held a conference here today to discuss means of preventing a dissolution of the order, for which Thomas J. Boynton was appointed temporary receiver on Saturday. A hearing will be held in the federal court next Saturday on the question of making the receivership permanent.

James B. McKillop, county crown attorney, who is prominent in the Royal Arcanum, today received from Sam N. Hoag, supreme regent of the Royal Arcanum, the following telegram: "Application for receiver was without citation and certainly without justification. We will move promptly and effectively to have appointment vacated, being absolutely solvent with all claims promptly paid and have surplus of four millions. We have nothing to fear."

Mr. McKillop stated that the society had a present membership of 169,533 and since organization had paid out to beneficiaries $189,669,730 and had a surplus now. The order was perfectly sound. About 250 members reside in London, and about 5,000 in all Canada.

LONDON PRESS APPLAUDS PRESIDENT WILSON'S APPEAL

London, April 16.—President Wilson's appeal to the American people is given great prominence in the evening newspapers, which print the proclamation textually.

"It goes straight to the heart of the great war problem," says the Westminster Gazette, "and will be read with great appreciation by the Allied nations.

"No message addressed by their governments to any of the countries at war," adds the newspaper, "has better combined an appeal to the heart with shrewd, practical counsel and shown a keener eye to the fundamentals of the situation."

SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE APPROVES REVENUES BILL

Washington, April 16.—The $7,000,000,000 war revenue bill which has passed the House was approved today by the Senate finance committee and will be taken up in the Senate tomorrow for passage.

THE WAR SITUATION

London, April 16.—Although British patrols have been in the streets of Lens, and General Haig's men are in the outskirts of St. Quentin, the fall of neither of these towns has as yet been officially announced.

The Germans, it is apparent, have sent in their reserves, and are making a desperate defence to enable their engineers to complete the destruction of the mines and factories of Lens, which might have been useful to the Allies.

Despite the fact that all along the line between Lens and St. Quentin the German resistance has stiffened, General Haig reports today the capture of Villeret, which straightens his line northwest of St. Quentin, and announces further progress to the northwest of Lens. Counter-attacks which the Germans have launched at Monchy and Lagnicourt suggest that the British are approaching dangerously near the German line, which according to unofficial accounts, the Germans had not had time to complete before the British offensive was launched.

WIDENING THE GAP.

British Headquarters in France, April 16, via London, 1:47 p.m.—(From a staff correspondent of the Associated Press.)—The British continued today gradually to widen the second gap cut in the Hindenburg line, north of St. Quentin, having captured the position known as "The Three Savages," east of Gricourt. St. Quentin continues to burn. Away to the north, Lens still holds out. The Germans have several strong positions about the city to which they still cling.

FRENCH PENETRATE FOE'S SECOND LINE IN ALSACE BATTLE

Bring Back Prisoners and Booty—Gain Along Oise.

Paris, April 16.—The French penetrated the German second line last night at several points in Alsace. The war office reports that great numbers of German dead were found in the trenches, which had been torn up by the French shell fire. Prisoners and booty were brought back by the French.

Further gains were made by French troops south of the Oise.

There was heavy artillery fighting during the night in Alsace-Lorraince, the Champagne, in the region of Soissons and Rheims, and south of the Oise. Between Soissons and Rheims the shell fire was particularly severe.

A Destructive Fire.

The statement follows:

"Between St. Quentin and the Oise we continued to direct a destructive fire at the defences of the Germans, who replied vigorously in the region south of St. Quentin. South of the Oise we made further progress eastward on the plateau between Berlise and Quincy-Basse and occupied several points of support of the enemy. Our patrols are in contact with the German positions on the western edge of the upper crest of Coucy.

"The artillery fighting became extremely violent during the night on the front between Soissons and Rheims. In the Champagne we easily repulsed two surprise attacks. East of Auberive French patrols brought back prisoners.

"In Lorraine and Alsace French detachments, after violent artillery preparation, penetrated the enemy lines at several points. In the forest of Parroy we found numerous German dead in the trenches blown up by our fire. In the Alsatian plain French detachments at six points reached the second German line and inflicted serious losses on the enemy. Prisoners and material were brought back."

SEVEN BILLIONS WAR REVENUE BILL PASSES THE AMERICAN HOUSE

Only Socialist in Congress Votes "Present."

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Without a dissenting voice, the House amid plaudits of members and the galleries, late last night passed the seven billion war revenue authorization measure. One member, Representative London of New York, the only Socialist in Congress, voted "present."

Owing to general pairs and absentees only 389 votes were recorded for the bill, but both Democratic Leader Kitchin and Republican Leader Mann announced that all of their members would have voted affirmatively if they had been present.

The bill authorizes $5,000,000,000 in bonds, of which $3,000,000,000 will be loaned to Entente countries, and the issuance of treasury certificates for $2,000,000,000 ultimately to be met by increased taxation.

MUCH BOOTY TAKEN

London, April 16. — The British captured last night the village of Villeret, southeast of Hargicourt, according to an official statement issued by British war office. They also made progress northwest of Lens.

Large captures of guns and war material were made by the British at Lievin and on the Souchez River, in the Lens region, the statement announces. The cannon taken include a six-inch naval gun of long range. Truckloads of new tools, many thousand rounds of munitions and quantities of bombs, grenades and engineering equipment also were captured.

THE STATEMENT.

The text of the statement reads:

"We captured last night the village of Villeret, southeast of Hargicourt and progressed northwest of Lens.

"Full particulars of the booty we took at Lievin and on the Souchez River are unavailable, but the fact is established that our captures were exceedingly large, including a long-range six-inch naval gun, many thousand rounds of ammunition of all calibres up to eight inch, a number of trench mortars and great quantities of bombs and grenades of all kinds. In addition, truckloads of new tools, many lengths of tram lines with trucks complete, and two large engineer dumps have fallen intact into our possession.

Bavarians' Losses Heavy.

"The attack at Monchy-le-Preux on the 14th was pressed by the enemy with great determination. The 3rd Bavarian Division, which was brought down to resist our offensive during the battle of Loos in 1915 and later on took part in the fighting near Highwood during the Somme battle in 1916, was again hurried down to reinforce the divisions already in line. It was ordered to retake Monchy-le-Preux at all costs. Its losses in this fruitless attack were exceptionally heavy, as has been the case with all the Bavarian troops throughout the whole recent operations. Of the prisoners taken by us since the 9th more than one-third are Bavarians."

RETURNED SOLDIERS STILL ROUNDING UP THE ALIENS

Toronto, April 15.—Organized visitations to downtown restaurants by returned soldiers with a view of rounding up unregistered alien enemies were continued last night, but there was no disorder, although crowds gathered in the expectation of some excitement. The night's haul consisted of one Austrian who had not reported for some months, and was held by the police and two Greeks, who were released. As a result of a conference held last night between a number of the returned men and Provost-Marshal Sinclair, it was decided to arrange a meeting with civic officials and a committee of war veterans. It is hoped to get a complete registration system of returned men showing their capabilities and to obtain the co-operation of employers

DID it ever occur to you that all teas are not "Just tea?" In reality, there is as much difference in teas as there is in silks.

There are many varieties of tea: Indian teas, Ceylon teas, Java teas, China teas, etc.—Indians and Ceylons being the choicest of all.

These teas are all just ordinary garden teas, while Red Rose Tea is a blend of teas selected from as many as sixteen different gardens, using largely Assam-Indian teas skilfully blended with Ceylons. The result is that rich strength and smooth flavor that has made Red Rose Tea so popular.

One level teaspoonful of Red Rose Tea goes as far as a heaping teaspoonful of ordinary tea—that proves the true quality and economy of Red Rose.

He was buried on Tuesday, and Lieut.-Col. Ibbotson Leonard attended the funeral.

PLAY ADDS $61.

ILDERTON, April 16.—The Red Cross play held at Dewar's School, 12th concession, Lobo, on Tuesday evening, was a huge success and netted the handsome sum of $61 for Red Cross work. The school building was altogether too small for the audience and many were turned away for lack of room. The Dramatic Club purposes giving the play at the town hall, Coldstream, on Tuesday evening next.

Little Boy Had Eczema

On Face and Hands—Local Doctors Treated Him in Vain—How Cure Was Finally Effected.

Trenton, Ont., April 16.—This letter will interest all mothers of young children, because it tells of the best means obtainable of overcoming the annoying and torturing skin troubles which come to so many children.

Mrs. Waldron had several doctors treating her boy for eczema, but all in vain. Finally she heard about Dr. Chase's Ointment and her letter tells of the wonderful results obtained by the use of this soothing, healing ointment.

Mrs. Samuel Waldron, George street, Trenton, Ont., writes: "About four years ago, my little boy had a rash on his face and hands which the doctor called eczema. He gave us a wash for it, and some ointment, which we used, but without benefit. I think we tried all the doctors here. Finally we tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and gave it a good trial. We could see that it was gradually healing. At first it appeared to burn the skin, then this skin would peel up, finally he got rid of it entirely. During the winters of the next two years we noticed a symptom of the disease under the skin. Each time we used more Dr. Chase's Ointment, curing it both times. For the last two years he has not had any return symptoms at all, so we think that he is now entirely cured."

PLAGUE OF RATS ON CITY SQUARE GREAT NUISANCE

Rodents Swarm Over Into the Stores Near City Hall.

PLAY ON THE CAR TRACKS

Eat All the Poison Set in the Cellars, and Come Back for More.

The city of London may own a paving plant, it may be into the garbage business heavily, but the latest wrinkle of the city hall fathers is a municipally owned rattery, or words to that effect. Up to date this fact has been kept as dark and gloomy secret, but today an army of rats that would make the original rat catcher green with envy was to be seen playfully gambolling on the much discussed Federal Square.

Their Fun Disturbed.

When an Advertiser reporter crept cautiously around the corner of the Soldiers' Club, a regular horde of rodents scampered for the good-sized opening in the last remaining wall of the old McCormick building. They crowded in with a merry squeak, but before the newspaperman left their public playground, little rats and big rats were peeping carefully out, anxious to continue their afternoon promenade. The business houses in the city hall block report that the rats are becoming more than a nuisance. The proprietors have procured enough poison to get rid of several million rats they say, but apparently the stuff is like so much molasses to the long-tailed rodents.

Come Back for More.

"I can't get rid of them," said a man who runs a store. "I have spread poison all over my cellar, but the rats keep on coming. It is a disgrace to the city, and something should be done right away."

He also stated that yesterday afternoon half a dozen squeakers staged a little fight of their own on the street railway track opposite the city hall, narrowly missing death under wheels of a car.

25 MILLERS FAVOR ERECTION OF ELEVATOR

Mr. Pocock Believes There is Great Scope for Business.

Philip Pocock, of the London Railway Commission, stated today that replies from 25 millers in Western Ontario had been received by the commission, supporting the proposition, and offering to assist in getting supplies for the elevator. "There is no elevator supplying Southern Ontario, and there is great scope for business," said Mr. Pocock. The work of construction will be started shortly.

URGING WILSON TO GO TO WAR CAUSES ILLNESS

Major John B. Jeffrey, California, one of the best-known Republicans of the golden state, is visiting his sister, Mrs. E. B. Graham, Princess avenue, recovering from illness caused by excessive labors during the recent presidential campaign. He was an ardent supporter of Judge Hughes, the Republican candidate. "Had President Wilson done some months ago what he has recently done, I would not have been a sick man," Major Jeffrey. "We wanted him to take this step long ago. The United States is now linked up with the Allies, in their great fight for democratic principles. That is where our country should have been months ago."

SAYS CITY COUNCIL MADE SURRENDER TO ENVY AND PREJUDICE

Bishop Fallon Irate at Refusal of Hospital Grant.

ILL-MANNERED BIGOTS

And Bankrupt Politicians Raised Objection to Justice, Declares Letter.

Bishop M. F. Fallon, of the Diocese of London, issued a pastoral on Sunday, which was delivered to all the Catholics in the city, protesting against the action of the council in cutting off the annual grant to St. Joseph's Hospital. His lordship made a request for funds, with which to make St. Joseph's self-supporting. The clergy have contributed generously, and the laymen are asked to do their share. Rev. Father Kennedy, rector of St. Mary's Church, is the treasurer of the found.

The pastoral in full is as follows:

Dearly Beloved Brethren:—Within the past month St. Joseph's Hospital has been the subject of considerable random discussion in and before the corporation of the city of London, with the result that a paltry grant of $3,000 has been refused to this institution of public benencence. Stripped of all pretences, this reckless economy on the part of a city council whose management of the civic finances has imposed upon us a tax rate of 34 mills, was simply a weak surrender to anti-Catholic envy, jealousy and prejudice. The existence of these sentiments in our regard is intelligible to us, if not highly creditable to those who entertain them. Catholics constitute barely ten per cent of the population of this city; our charitable institutions evidence a deeper sense of Christian generosity than do those of any half dozen of the Protestant sects combined. I do not propose, however, to devote much attention to the antagonisms that confront us as Catholics; they are a constant portion of our burden. But we are not obliged to submit to falsehood and misrepresentation without reply.

Perversion of Facts.

It was stated before the city council that St. Joseph's Hospital was conducted for gain by those behind it. Every member of the council knew that statement to be a gross and grotesque perversion of facts.

The Sisters of St. Joseph came to London just 50 years ago. For half a century they have been engaged in the work of housing homeless old age and helpless infancy, and in ministering to the ills that flesh is heir to. No distinction of color, race or creed has ever been allowed to interfere with their charitable activities. Like all other Catholic sisterhoods, the Sisters of St. Joseph are vowed to personal poverty; no penny of gain has ever reached an individual member. The poor clothes they wear and the humble fare with which they are supplied constitute their sole drain on their financial resources. What, then, has become of the surplus funds resulting from the personal sacrifice and remarkable economies of the Sisters of St. Joseph? The answer is very clear. The sisters have purchased the property of Protestants in the open market and have paid the stipulated price to the last dollar.

Profits To Protestants.

Protestant architects, Protestant builders, Protestant bankers, Protestant manufacturers, Protestant merchants have parctically monopolized the profits. Whatever Protestant money has found its way into the treasury of the Sisters of St. Joseph has been — with a few honorable exceptions—but a meagre payment for services rendered, and the institutions which the sisters comprehend stand to the credit and the benefit of the Protestant city of London. It is true that the title to the property is vested in the sisters; but they can neither run away with the buildings nor eat the land. And one would have expected to find in the city council sufficient broad civic pride and generous recognition of unselfish effort to rebuke the ill-mannered bigots and bankrupt politicians who raised objection to a small measure of decent justice being rendered to St. Joseph's Hospital.

In this, as in every other instance, the protection and defence of Catholic interests must rest on Catholics themselves. Envy, prejudice and bigotry exist in great bulk in our midst, and, as always and everywhere, they are blind, mean, narrow, cruel, hypocritical, unthinking and untruthful. The deep faith, the supernatural motives and the splendid generosity of Catholics must now, as ever, be the main support of Catholic charities.

Catholics Must Pay.

When the decision of the city council was announced, I called a meeting of the priests of the city to consider the situation. Their unanimous opinion agreed with my own judgment that Catholic self-respect called for an effective and vigorous protest. An insignificant money grant, a small portion of the contribution of Catholics to public funds had been denied; a generous money gift, the free will offering of the Catholics of London must be our reply to so unworthy an action, and the clergy of the city desirous of being closely united with their people in their protest against prejudice, and in this declaration of support to St. Joseph's Hospital, have given practical evidence of their feeling in the subscriptions attached to their respective names.

I therefore order that this letter be read at all the masses in all the parish churches of London on Sunday, April 15, and that at all the services of Sunday, April 22, a collection be taken up in each church for the benefit of St. Joseph's Hospital. Let every Catholic contribute and contribute generously. This is an occasion when money talks; let its voice be of no uncertain sound. Let the Catholics of London show that they understand the character of the opposition with which they have to deal; that they are not afraid of it; that it simply arouses their indignation and contempt; and that they propose to give expression to that indignation and contempt in a most intelligible manner.

The proceeds of this collection will be forwarded to the Rev. Joseph Kennedy, pastor of St. Mary's Church, London, and treasurer of the fund, for transmission to the Sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Given at London the 11th day of April, 1917.

M. F. FALLON, Bishop of London.

The clergy of London have subscribed as follows to St. Joseph's Hospital fund: Rt. Rev. M. F. Fallon, D. D., $200; Very Rev. D. O'Connor, V. G., $25; Rev. Joseph Kennedy, $25; Very Rev. P. J. McKeon, $25; Rev. F. X. Laurendeau, $25; Rev. J. A. Hanlon, $25; Rev. P. N. Dorle, C. S. S. R., $25; Rev. J. T. Foley, $25; Rev. F. J. Brennan, $25; Rev. J. A. Harding, $25; Rev. J. V. Tobin, $10; Rev. W. T. Corcoran, $10; Rev. J. A. Finn, $10; Rev. H. Richards, $10; Rev. A. Roy, $25.

SOLDIER-CONVERT BRINGS TWO PALS INTO THE FOLD

"Prayed for One, and Lord Gave Me Two," He Says.

"I prayed for one and the Lord gave me two," said Driver William Illingsworth, of the 63rd Battery, last night, after he had brought two comrades as converts to the meeting in the City Mission. After being converted himself Illingworth, who is big and husky and a former cow puncher in the west went back to camp and prayed for a long time. Then he set out to get a comrade to convert. He got two, and Drivers Scott, a Michigan man and Driver Bert Lowe, formerly in the imperial army and a crack shot. All three soldiers attended the meeting last night and took part in the services.

FEW EYES DRY AS LAST POST SOUNDS FOR COL. LEONARD

Memorial Service For Brigadier Most Impressive.

"SHALL REMEMBER HIM"

Extract From London Officer's Diary Read by Mr. Norwood.

"He shall not grow old as we that are left grow old,
"Age shall not weary him, or the years condemn,
"At the going down of the sun and in the morning
"We shall remember him."

These words, written by Lieut.-Col. Wood Leonard on Friday, June 16, 1916, somewhere in France, following the death of some of his companions-in-arms, were prophetic of his own case. The incident deeply impressed him, and he wrote the story of the day in his diary, which was forwarded to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Leonard.

They were read by Rev. R. W. Norwood, rector of Memorial Church, on Sunday morning at the memorial service to the gallant Londoner, and the reading deeply impressed the throngs that filled the church to overflowing. The service was most impressive, one of the most impressive ever held in London. Col. L. W. Shannon, Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown and the entire headquarters staff here, Mayor Stevenson, representatives from all the military units in training here, and Sergt.-Major John A. Barnhill, with two score of 12th Battery, and old 6th Battery men were in attendance. The church was decorated suitably for the occasion.

The Last Post.

Sergt. Nanfan sounded last post at the conclusion of the service, and as the wail of the instrument died away there was scarcely a dry eye in the congregation. Mr. F. E. Leonard, accompanied by his son-in-law, Major Innes Carling, attended the service. At the conclusion Mr. Leonard asked to meet all the men of the 12th Battery, and every man spoke feelingly of his regard for his late commander.

Mr. Norwood gave a brilliant sermon on Col. Leonard, appraising his great work properly. He was most impressive as he read the extract from Col. Leonard's diary, in which he spoke of the death of his companions. It was:

Deeply Affected.

Friday, June 16, 1916.

About 2 p.m. enemy started shelling the various batteries. Before long 4.1 guns opened on us an absolute enfilade. They got a direct hit on No. 3, wounding three men and setting ammunition on fire. Murray Bell and I put it out as detachment hors de combat. Later they got a direct hit on machine dugout in corner, killing Murray, Wills and Hockbert; also two machine gunners and wounding Allen and another. Helped to get bodies out and sent away. Poor Murray, badly mutilated, and others worse, a terrible business and a great shock. Murray's body was the first we got out, but at first I did not know who it was, he was so badly smashed up. Got some of his things out of pockets, but impossible to go through all; ring and watch apparently blown off. Wrapped him in blankets as decently as possible and sent him off in wagon in evening with note to Magann to arrange for funeral. Wills and Hockbert buried at railway dugouts. I thus lose a gallant and capable officer, of whom we thought a great deal, and two of my best men. Very much upset. Shelling continued all afternoon and evening, but no more damage done to us. Later the moon came up, almost full, cold and calm. Somehow or other under present circumstances it seems more unfeeling than ever, almost uncanny. Very cold, but bright.

"He shall not grow old as we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary him, or the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun and in the morning,
We will remember him."

Poor Murray, generous and capable; I wonder how many of us will survive him any length of time.

Many Seeing God.

"Many are seeing God vividly because of this service, because of Wood Leonard," said the speaker.

"As St. John the Divine saw his old companions going down one after the other, he had the one consolation, the vision. It was a rider on a white horse.

"That is the vision of the pure instrument, honest, clean, manly, frail. The Allies are riding the white horse of honest purpose and intention, while the enemy is riding the horse as dark as night. Compare the kindliness, the tenderness of our Red Cross nurses with the fiendishness of the German nurses.

"We would rather go down defeated than have our names blackened with such infamy, methods that would have stained the cheeks of the chiefs of Nineveh and Babylon. Our men have played the game, and they lie honored in death, and in their suffering.

"This bruitishness has not struck terror into our hearts, but has steeled our firm resolve, and has bound the world together in bonds of sympathy and friendship to down this awful horror.

"Our men at Vimy have done a deed so proud, a deed so beautiful, that even the Heights of Abraham pale in comparison.

"These heroes of Vimy are handing crowns to our Lord, and with the pure, clean hands are honoring our Lord and Master.

Power In Sacrifice.

"There is power in sacrifice, there is power in shedding blood. The souls of these boys have been made white by blood, have been made clean by sacrifice, and no man can say to me that it is otherwise. There is no defilement on their souls, as they died, fighting for God and humanity. There must be, there is a purifying process through which these heroes at Vimy passed, and they died in sure and certain hope of the resurrection to eternal life I wish we were all as clean as they.

"Wood Leonard has worshipped in this church since he was a boy. He has conferred a dignity, not only on London, but upon this parish. The inadequacy of words to speak of him is manifest to you all. London should be proud to have given such a man to the world. He has made history for London. He has lifted her into fame sun. Quiet, gentle, unassuming, a man of few words, a man like Ulysses S. Grant was, in his early life, and I am confident that had he survived this war he would have been one of Canada's great leaders. The personality of the man shines out in his diary, which I have read to you. He shall never grow old in the memory of this generation at least.

Worthy Example.

"Young men of London, many of you in civilian clothes today, pattern after his example. Fathers and mothers, give your sons to this cause. Many of you are holding back your sons, and it shall be to your everlasting shame and disgrace, if it should inspire every young man to don the uniforms and offer himself in this hour of our peril. These men are dead because of slackers, cowardly slackers, who are not doing their duty in this dread hour."

Chopin's Dead March was played by Miss Moore with striking effect.

A touching and beautiful tribute to the late Lieut.-Col. Woodman Leonard was paid by Rev. Dr. Flanders in the course of his short sermon to the junior congregation of the First Methodist Church at the morning service yesterday. "I am taking an unusual text for my sermon today to my junior congregation," said Dr. Flanders, "and one which is not found in the Bible. It is this:

"Two men looked out from prison bars, the one saw mud, and the other stars."

Different Outlooks.

"Have you ever thought that each one of us lives in a prison house, the body, and the direction we look out, determines the way we walk? If we fix our minds and our eyes on the mud, our feet will drag through the mud, but, if we fix our eyes on the stars, we will see the things people see who look up to the stars.

"Two London boys have been brought forcibly before my mind this past week, one of whom fixed his eyes on the mud and the other on the stars.

"One fixed his eyes on the mud and he thought the thoughts of the mud and walked in the way of the mud. He had a good home and good parents, willing to educate him and give him every chance in life, but his thoughts were fixed on the mud. He is in the city today, but is the servant of another. He has been the slave of the mud.

"The other fixed his eyes on the stars, the noble young man who is so prominently in the minds of many people today. When the war came, unheeding of comfort, self, and even life, he followed where honor and duty called and he went to fight for you me. All London mourns today with the parents whose hearts are sore, but who, in the midst of their sorrowing, are glad for the son who so gloriously, honorably and heroically did his part in the war."

MORE STRENGTH FOR FEEBLE OLD PEOPLE

If all the old people in London realized what Vinol will do for them, we would not be able to get enough of it to supply the demand. We quote from a recent letter received from Mrs. A. E. Carson of Kingston, N. Y.

She says: "I am 69 years of age, and had been ailing for a long time with indigestion. I got rundown, was weak, dizzy and could not sleep at night. I consulted two doctors who said I had hardening of the arteries, and at my age could not expect to be strong again. My daughter would give me no peace until I tried Vinol, as it had done so much for her. I have taken five bottles and my health and strength have come back, so I am able to do all the housework for my family of four, and I am recommending Vinol to all my friends."

The reason Vinol is so beneficial to old people is because it contains the very elements needed to replace declining strength with renewed vigor, viz.: beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates, glycerophosphates, and a mild tonic wine.

CHAPTER TRUE FRIEND OF ALL MEN IN KHAKI

A letter of thanks from the members of the A. M. C. draft which left here on Thursday last for an eastern training point, has been received by Mrs. Galbraith, regent of the Overseas Chapter, I. O. D. E. The letter says: "The lunches put up by your chapter are very much appreciated by the boys," and further that "your chapter is indeed a true friend to all in khaki. Keep up the good work, and we are sure that your efforts will be rewarded."

ARRANGING FOR TRANSFER OF REV. DR. FLANDERS

Rev. A. E. Smith of Brandon, president of the Manitoba Methodist conference, who is in Ontario for a meeting of the transfer committee of the Methodist Church, in connection with the transfer of Rev. Dr. C. R. Flanders from the London to the Manitoba conference, preached at the morning service of the First Methodist Church. Taking as his theme the death of Christ on the cross, "that they which live should no more live unto themselves, but unto Him who died for them, and rose again," Mr. Smith declared this to be the great end of religion, that the world might prove worthy of the sacrifice.

Referring to the great world conflict and the sacrifices which men are making at the present for ideals and righteousness, dying for those who remain at home, even as Christ died, the preacher said: "Let us practice the atonement. Let us seek to be worthy of the men who are sacrificing themselves for us. I sometimes wonder if Canada is really worth fighting for; worthy of the ideals which have impelled men to go to the front. I have wondered what the men will think when they come back, about this land. I wonder if in the years to come, we can rise to worthiness of the blood sacrifices, and can become a bigger and a better people, realizing that nothing is small but selfishness and great but love. I long to see the day when this land will be one of achievement for the ideals which we profess."

GOES TO TAKE CHARGE OF CYCLISTS' PLATOON

Lieut. Baty Accompanied by Three More London Men.

Lieut. Edward Baty, brother of Major W. Baty, D. A. A. G., and Q. M. G. of Military District, No. 1, left here on Saturday to take charge of the 5th London Platoon of Cyclists which is now taking further training in Toronto.

With Lieut. Baty went three men who were too late to go with the platoon when it left here, Ptes. Edmund P. Abey, Harry McDougall and Charles Miller. Pte. Abey is a son of the Rev. George J. Abey of 389 Queen's avenue, and Pte. McDougall is a Wallaceburg boy. Pte. Miller is from the Barnardo Home in Toronto, and after serving in the 7th Regiment Guard Details, he enlisted for overseas as soon as he became eighteen years of age. While serving in the Guard Details he saved $50, which he turned over to the Barnardo Home, where he had lived in Toronto. These men will join their comrades of the Cyclists Platoon in Toronto.

Lieut. C. H. Atkinson, who recruited and trained the platoon which has just left, has returned and is now organizing another platoon of cyclists in this district.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO GARDEN SUCCESSFULLY

Urges Vital Importance of Greater Production in Canada.

Speaking at the Majestic Theatre last evening on the greater production problem and back yard and vacant lot cultivation, George Baldwin of Toronto, by the use of illustrated slides and blackboard sketches demonstrated the best methods of successful gardening.

He explained the need of greater production and why it was necessary that every inch of vacant lots and backyards should receive the attention of all citizens.

"The food problem is more serious than we in Canada, the land of plenty, can and are ready to believe, and unless we all get busy we, too, may have to submit to the food card system, as is the case in Germany," he said.

The first of a series of slides showed the cultivation of flowers. The better way of planting and growing tomatoes, potatoes, cabbage and other vegetables was shown.

Yorke's Early Jewel he advised as the best variety of early tomato to grow.

His talk on the subject was most interesting throughout. As superintendent of the Toronto Vacant Lots Cultivation, the speaker was in a position to speak authoritatively on the subject.

Mayor Stevenson, as chairman of the meeting, made a stirring appeal to citizens to cultivate every inch of available ground in order to increase the production of food.

"It is absolutely imperative that food be poduced in greater quantities this coming summer, otherwise conditions will be more serious than we can at present imagine," said the mayor.

"Armour, the great meat packer, has told us that it won't be many months before America has meatless days," he continued.

At the conclusion of his address, he announced that Overseas Chapter, under whose auspices last night's meeting was called, had decided to offer eight prizes of $5 each to the pupil in each school growing the best twelve hills of potatoes. The Tony Cortese Orchestra furnished the music.

Songs were rendered by Miss Myrtle Hicks and Corp. Walter Neale.

LITERARY CLUB MEETS.—The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, April 17, at the Western University, at 8 o'clock. Dr. Tamblyn will speak on "Robert Louis Stevenson."

AMERICANS THINK CANADIANS DOING HEAVIEST FIGHTING

Principal Beal Finds This Sentiment Abroad in U. S.

SPECTACULAR IN NEWS

Exploits of Dominion Boys Get Most Attention in the Dailies of U. S.

C. J. Beal, principal of the Technical and Art School, has just returned from a trip to Washington, D. C. and Old Point Comfort, Virginia.

He says the sentiment all over the United States has changed remarkably and that Britain's praises are everywhere sung. At the same time there is a disposition to believe that the Canadians are being given all the hard fighting on the western front. Americans point out that the Canadians, according to press dispatches, have stopped the great German attacks, and that they have been in the great assaults and have never been beaten.

Mr. Beal explained to those who took this view that Canadians were given the place of honor in the line on many occasions, and that their fighting had seemed more spectacular because of the circumstances, and given more newspaper attention. Millions of British troops were not picked out for individual praise as the Canadians were.

While at Newport News, Mr. Beal saw a British and French commission land from Allied cruisers. They were shown the greatest deference.

G.T.R. RESTORES ALL TRAINS BUT TWO AT END OF MONTH

Old Train Service Will Be Practically in Operation.

SEVEN TRAINS PUT BACK

New Timetable, Making the Changes Effective, Is Received Today.

With the exception of two passenger trains the Grand Trunk will restore its former service in this district, the new timetable to take effect on Sunday morning at 12:01 o'clock on April 29.

This means that the traveling public will be again afforded a service that it has been deprived of since November last, when a general cancellation of passenger trains was made, affecting the whole system and particularly this district.

All But Two Restored.

A proof of the new timetable reached local G. T. R. officials today, and shows that the trains that will not be restored to service are two Lehigh Valley connecting trains. The westbound train to Detroit, known as No. 3, which departed from here at 10:23 in the morning, and the eastbound train, No. 3, leaving here at 3:25 in the morning, will not go into service again. The two trains, Nos. 3 and 4, will not materially affect the traveling public, as they were for Lehigh Valley connections and not used for local travel to any extent.

Trains That Go On.

The following are the seven trains to be replaced in this district, according to the proof of the new timetable:

Huron and Bruce, train for Wingham, leaving here at 8:30 in the morning.

Huron and Bruce train, from Wingham, due here at 6:10 in the evening.

Montreal to Detroit train, leaving here at 11:50 in the morning for Detroit.

Ontario Limited, leaving here for Toronto at 9 o'clock in the morning.

The Toronto and Stratford train due in the city at 1:45 o'clock in the afternoon.

Windsor to London train, due here at 3:55 p.m., departing for Toronto at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

London to Windsor train, now leaving at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, will leave at 5:35 o'clock in the afternoon. Pullman car now attached to this train will be added to No. 115, leaving at 11:50 in the morning for Detroit.

The reverting to former service will mean that a number of crews which have since November last been in freight service will again take their former runs on passenger trains.

REV. McCRAE APPLIES FOR LEAVE TO RETIRE AFTER 39 YEARS IN THE PULPIT

Distinguished Presbyterian Will Make Application to Assembly.

Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church is applying to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, through the Presbytery of London, for leave to retire from the active duties of the ministry. The retirement, however, will not take place for some time. The general assembly, which meets in Montreal in June, will have to take action in the first place. Later its decision is sent down to the presbytery, which at a subsequent meeting arranges for the time of retirement. Mr. McCrae is entering on his 39th year as an ordained minister, and has been for almost fifty years in public life. He is one of the prominent men in the church, and is known and beloved all over the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

SAYS KINGDOM OF HEAVEN IS WITHIN OUR HEARTS

Preacher From West Africa at Maitland Street Baptist Church.

Taking for his subject, "The Kingdom of Heaven," Rev. S. G. Pinnock of Nigeria, West Africa, delivered an impressive sermon in the Maitland Street Baptist Church on Sunday evening.

"We think of heaven as above us," said Mr. Pinnock, in his opening remarks, "but how would that work out when we consider that the earth is continually revolving. If it is above us now it would soon be at the left of us, to the right of us, and beneath us, and, in fact, on all sides of us, which is very near the truth, for it is all around us."

"We cannot imagine what the world would be like if we had not the principles that have come through the gospel, and through the establishment of the kingdom of God on earth. Were these eliminated Canada, and the city of London, would not be worth living in."

CHANGE THE ACT IF JUDGMENT IS QUASHED

Inspector Believes Justice Clute Will Decide for Doctor.

"I firmly believe that Mr. Justice Clute intends to quash the conviction in the case of the doctor who was fined by Mayor Stevenson and Henry Macklin, J. P., when found guilty in police court of issuing prescriptions to persons for the purpose of obtaining liquor by evasion in violation of the Ontario temperance act," said Inspector J. E. Keenleyside today in discussing the hearing of the motion on Saturday last at the courthouse.

"In the event of the high court judge's decision quashing the magistrates' conviction it will mean that an amendment will have to be made to the Ontario temperance act," he continued.

As the magistrates' conviction stood in the case of the four doctors it meant an established precedent upon which other prosecutions throughout the province would follow.

If Mr. Justice Clute's judgment is as it is expected to be the precedent will be short-lived, it is said.

COULD HAVE FINED THIS CITIZEN $200

But Magistrate Gave Man Found With Whisky Another Chance.

Methods of police magistrates are not the same, and the adoption of a different system by Magistrate Graydon than has been in vogue in the past few months is noted by those who attend the daily sessions at the Carling street mill of justice.

A young man appeared in police court this morning charged with being intoxicated. He admitted the fact and a fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

"But, your worship, he was found on the street with a half filled bottle of whisky?" said Inspector Birrell.

The young man frankly admitted that this was the case.

"Under the Ontario temperance act you could be fined as others have been in this court, $200 and costs, but I will give you a chance; so take this warning and never be found again with whisky in your possession on the street," said the magistrate.

The young man thanked the magistrate and said a "word to the wise is sufficient."

SUCCESSFUL LONDON BOY PROMOTED TO MANAGER

FRED S. BARCLAY of London, son of Mr. D. Barclay of Hyde Park, who has been contract agent for the London district of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, has been transferred to Ridgetown as acting local manager for Ridgetown, Blenheim and Merlin. After holding this responsible position for about a year he was then promoted to contract agent, where he has since been given his present position.

Prior to accepting the position at the Bell Telephone Company he was secretary-treasurer of the London Builders' Exchange, where he mad friends with a number of businessmen and was well liked by all who knew him. On his departure yesterday for Chatham he was wished by the Bell Telephone staff and all his friends every success in his new position.

ALLIANCE SUPPORTS CLERKS FOR EARLY SATURDAY CLOSING

Nearly 200 Workers Want Stores Closed at 6 o'Clock.

SOME EMPLOYERS READY

Seven Out of Thirteen Agree To Shut Up Shop If Others Do.

That the Ministerial Alliance will attempt to shorten the Saturday working hours of clerks in downtown stores seems certain from the attitude taken by that body at a meeting this morning toward a report presented by Rev. D. C. MacGregor. The matter was placed in the hands of the executive committee.

Mr. MacGregor read a petition which had been signed by 197 workers in drygoods, millinery and smallwares stores on Dundas street. The working hours on Saturday for some of these are 12½ to 14 hours on Saturday, and the majority of them are girls. It was inhuman that such a state of affairs should exist the minister said, and pointed out that seven of a possible thirteen employers had agreed to close at 6 o'clock on Saturdays provided that the other stores closed also. His motion that the Ministerial Association express its sympathy with the movement, was seconded by Rev. W. H. Claris, and carried by the association.

Speaks on Bilingualism.

The bilingual question was presented by Ex-Mayor Hockin of Toronto. It was no new question, he said, but had been in existence since the day of Ryerson, when the English-speaking people failed to realize the significance of it.

"One county after another came under French control, largely through the influence of their schools, until now has arisen a situation which we consider a threat to British institutions," said the speaker. "The design has been always clear to the French. It has been obscure to the English. It was to get possession of Ontario, and unless determination is shown they will get possession of Ontario."

"The schools in the eastern province, he declared, were not bilingual schools, but French schools. "It is an intolerable situation to exist in any part of the country," he stated, and a murmur of assent greeted the assertion.

Trouble From Leaders.

He claimed that the trouble is purely religious, although covered by political pretexts. "It is intended that the illiterate people who grow up under the system should become easy material for men with dishonest motives. There would be no trouble with the French if their leaders would leave them alone. The French-Canadians want their children to be educated, but the leaders want an uneducated, docile people for political purposes which have behind them a religious purpose which is to gain control of Canada."

Bishop Fallon Driven Out.

He credited Bishop Fallon with doing much to combat what he called the evil in 1910 by his attitude to bilingualism. It was dictated by patriotic motives, he believed. He said that the bishop was influenced by two motives. He did not wish to see his people growing up in ignorance, and that there was a feud of long standing between him and French-speaking priests who had attended Ottawa College with him and who, the speaker declared, had driven him out and other English-speaking priests from the school to further the growth of French control.

Rev. Dr. H. S. Dougal presented a report on the religious life of the various institutions in the city, such as the Home for Aged People and the Asylum.

Dr. H. W. Hill, M. O. H., and Dr. Craig of Byron Sanatorium, appealed to the ministers to join in the campaign to educate the people in reference to tuberculosis, claiming that the disease could be most effectively combatted by enlightenment of the people.

BROADER BROTHERHOOD WHEN BOYS COME HOME

Last evening in the absence of Rev. Dr. Silcox, Dr. E. E. Braithwaite of the Western University preached in the First Congregational Church. His subject was "War and the World's Outlook." In leading up to his subject, Dr. Braithwaite emphasized the international viewpoint of today, when the world was lined up on the side of right against a few nations so greatly inferior in population, wealth and area.

"The world has learned the difference between fundamental and superficial things," said Dr. Braithwaite. "Before the war, Germany thought that Great Britain was almost in the midst of civil war, with the Irish question and the suffragette movement, and that India composed so largely of Mohammedans, would easily be aroused by religious fanaticism. Today men of different national ideals, of different race and religion are fighting side by side for the same end. When these men come home after the war, there will not be the same denominational and class distinctions as we have now. There will be a closer union between the various churches and a broader, wider, more altruistic spirit in the world."

Although the individual counts much, it is the progress of the world which is the greatest thing. Although the war has caused individuals to suffer much in the loss of life and property, after it is over the world will be a better place for the advancement of God's kingdom. Already it is feeling its purifying effect, in the putting down of liquor and other evils. This war is not the devil's war, but the hand of God is seen in it, teaching the world great lessons, and even now, although the war may have to go on for a while yet, the world's outlook is brighter than one could possibly think.

RUSSIANS BATTLE, STAB ONE ANOTHER OUT OF SHEER JOY

Get Thrill of Abysmal Brute Out of Fighting.

FUNNY BRAND OF FUN

Magistrate Merciful Toward Three Russians Who Celebrate Czar's Overthrow.

Just a friendly little fight to celebrate the Russian revolution and the freedom of their native country from the autocracy of the czar, was the way that Fred Hunchurick, John Robinsky and Mike Papingo, explained their Sunday afternoon conduct at 63 Maitland street, when the trio appeared in police court today.

"We don't fight because we were mad—fight just for fun," explained the accused men through an interpreter.

Sergeant Bolton and Patrolman McCullough both testified that when called to the house Sunday afternoon that all three men were stripped to the waist, and the Hunchurick had the appearance of a person who had tackled a buzz saw in full motion.

Stripped Him for Fun.

"Why he didn't mean anything wrong. He stick me with a knife last summer just for fun: he like to figh for fun," said the interpreter to the magistrate.

"You men apparently have a peculiar conception of fun," said the magistrate.

The charge of disorderly conduct was laid under the city bylaw, and each was fined and paid $2 and costs.

Not His Whisky.

Although not a defendant in the action, W. Nichol of the postoffice staff was summoned to appear in court today to explain what he knew of six cases of whisky consigned to W. Nichol and seized on April 4th last by Inspector J. E. Keenleyside.

The evidence of Inspector Keenleyside and Mr. Nichol was taken. The latter claimed he knew nothing whatever of the liquor shipment, and disclaimed all knowledge of any circumstances in connection with it.

From the evidence Magistrate Graydon considered that the name had been used by someone whose identity has not yet been revealed.

Mr. Nichol accordingly was discharged, the magistrate being satisfied that he was not the consignee, although his name had been used.

A new information will be laid, and the consignor will be summoned to give evidence.

In the meantime the liquor will remain under lock and key and at the Grand Trunk freight sheds.

Montreal Whisky Did It.

Five citizens, each charged with intoxication pleaded guilty to the offence. All told the same tale that the whisky had been procured from Montreal by express, and had been imbibed in quantities greater than they were able to carry and still remain sober.

One, a foreigner, was so drunk that he was gathered by the patrol the police having to use the ambulance stretcher to place him in the vehicle.

All paid their fines.

Charged With Vagrancy.

Two women were committed to jail until Friday on a charge of vagrancy. In the meantime the police will investigate their records.

Armament-Artificer Sergt. Milmer of the Royal School of Artillery, Kingston, late Sunday afternoon completed his work of overhauling the guns of the 63rd Battery, and at 6 o'clock on Saturday night, the guns were in a special car, ready to be sent to Port Stanley.

Today there are three guns on the beach at Port, and a detachment of eight men are at work placing and erecting the argets. It is expected that gunnery practice will begin on Wednesday. This morning the battery boys engaged in driving drill, work with the guns being impossible, as nearly all the guns are at the lakeside. AN OPERATION AVERTED

Philadelphia, Pa.—"One year ago I was very sick and I suffered with pains in my side and back until I nearly went crazy. I went to different doctors and they all said I had female trouble and would not get any relief until I would be operated on. I had suffered for four years before this time, but I kept getting worse the more medicine I took. Every month since I was a young girl I had suffered with cramps in my sides at periods and was never regular. I saw your advertisement in the newspaper and the picture of a woman who had been saved from an operation, and this picture was impressed on my mind. The doctor had given me only two more days to make up my mind, so I sent my husband to the drug store at once for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, believe me, I soon noticed a change, and when I had finished the third bottle I was cured and never felt better. I grant you the privilege to publish my letter, and am only too glad to let other women know of my cure."—Mrs. Thomas McGonigal, 3432 Hartville street, Philadelphia, Pa.

READY RESPONSE TO CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS TO HELP ON FARMS

Nearly Twenty Per Cent Offer at Meeting Last Night.

ASSIST IN HARVESTING

Many Want to Give Their Assistance in Fall, Too.

If the employees of all London's factories respond as readily to the call for volunteers to help the farmers as the men of the Greene-Swift Company did last evening, there will be no labor scarcity at seeding time. A few seconds after a call was made at the meeting last evening almost 20 per cent of the 250 men present were on their feet. The firm's employees were entertained at a supper last night, and at its conclusion Mr. S. Frank Glass, M. P., was introduced by Mr. Greene, and asked to present the claims of the greater production committee of London and its relation to the enlistment of labor to assist in the work of seeding on the farms.

Mr. Glass said the meeting was unique and possibly the first one of its kind held within the province to promote the worthy object greater production. At the present time only such men as had experience in farm work would be useful for the purposes now pressing, that of seeding and preparation of the land for crops. It might be that not many of them had had such experience, but it was impossible to suppose that there were not some present who might not qualify and materially be of assistance.

World Condition.

Mr. Glass briefly reviewed the world's condition in regard to food supplies, with ten countries on short rations, and six others practically on the verge of starvation, with 60,000,000 men withdrawn from production and labor, either fighting in the trenches or manufacturing materials and supplies of war, the constantly decreasing supplies of food necessarily followed.

He said it was the pressing duty of Canada to strain every nerve and exert power for greater production. The man who works on the farm, he pointed out, is working for his country, and patriotism should be an inspiration for every man to do his bit so far as may be in his power.

The Government of the province had established a bureau of labor in London, at present conducted in the office of the district agricultural representative at No. 15 Dominion Savings Building. This bureau was to be a permanent institution, and would be a kind of clearing house for all kinds of labor. It had for its object the mobilizing of labor, as well as its distribution—in other words, placing those seeking employment in touch with employers. It would serve a useful purpose to both employer and employee. Applications from all over Western Ontario were coming in daily for help, some 40 having been received Friday. He was glad to be able to say that there was a ready demand for all labor offering, and both men and boys were being sent out to satisfy the calls for help.

A Pressing Need.

Mr. Green said that the need was a real pressing one, and any of the firm's employees who had had experience and wished to respond to the call would have every assistance from the firm possible, and their places kept for them. He asked those present with farm experience who would be willing to enlist to stand and about a dozen men responded; these were men willing to go at once and assist with seeding. Mr. Green then asked those who would be willing to assist later in the harvest to stand up and 35 more answered the call. A foreman of one of the departments said as so many men of his department had offered, he likewise would do the same and that he had had good experience in all farm work.

Application cards will be distributed today and an enrollment of the names of those who volunteered will be sent to the secretary of the board of trade, Gordon Philip.

St. QUENTIN AND LENS.

St. QUENTIN, the pivotal point of interest in warfare at this time, is a city about the size of London. The French census of 1906 gives the figures as 49,305. It carries on normally an active trade in building materials, coal, timber, iron goods, spun goods, sugar and agricultural produce, and is best known for its manufactures of pique and window curtains. Its church dates back to the twelfth century and is one of the famous Gothic buildings of France. The Hotel-de-Ville is another famous product of the 14th, 15th and 16th centuries.

Historically, it is interesting to note that St. Quentin was captured by the allied British and Spaniards in 1557, after a gallant defence by Coligny and a tremendous fight between the Spanish and a relief force. It was held by the Spaniards until 1559, and in 1560 was assigned as the dowry of Mary Stuart. The defeat of the French by the Germans in the battle of 1871 was the last stroke in the campaign, although in October, 1870, German attacks were repulsed at the city with great loss. Before the third century it was the meeting place of five military roads and it was the scene of many early battles, the Normans ravaging it three times.

It has never been a greater prize over which nations fought than today, controlling as it does the railways of a vast territory. A few months ago it was far away from the Anglo-French lines; tomorrow it may be within them.

Lens is thirteen miles northeast of Arras on the Deule, and on the Lens Canal. It had in 1906 a population of 27,692, and was noted for its iron and steel foundries, engineering works and manufactories of steel cables. It also occupies a central position in the coal fields of the department of Pas-de-Calais. Lens in 1648 was the scene of a celebrated victory gained by Louis II. of Bourbon, prince of Conde, over the Spaniards.

TODAY'S LINEUP.

IN THE LIGHT of the oft-quoted statement that the last dollar would win the war, the first step taken by the United States in moving to appropriate seven billion dollars for war purposes is evidence of the tremendous importance of Uncle Sam's enlistment. Half of this appropriation will be spent in the States in strengthening army and navy, providing home defences and in making guns and munitions, but much of it also will cross the Atlantic in the form of food and other supplies. Directly or indirectly, it will all be a contribution to the cause of the Allies, and it is only a small part of what can be contributed from the same source.

Britain and her allies were prepared to finance the war to a successful conclusion without the help of the States, even at the rate of $100,000,000 a day. At the same rate of expenditure the United States alone could finance the Allies probably for three years without feeling any effect. A combination of resources elliminates any possibility of doubt as to the outcome.

From the viewpoint of man-power, the entry of the States, China and Brazil into the war adds more than 500,000,000 people to the Allies' cause, making the Allies outnumber the Teutonic powers ten to one. There are one billion and a half people fighting for humanity and democracy, as against 150,000,000 supporting Prussian militarism.

Such is the line-up organized at a time when the cables record daily a new defeat for the Germans on the battlefield.

"BILLY" SUNDAY'S CAMPAIGN.

COMBINING religion and patriotism, "Billy" Sunday has opened a campaign in New York, one which promises to be his greatest effort even among many great ones. In his opening meetings he has drawn crowds which rival the attendance at the most important athletic meets in number, and leave them far behind in enthusiasm.

It is no feeble doctrine that Mr. Sunday preaches, but a virile gospel, compelling and with the ring of true manliness in it, and if his words and gesticulations are criticized by some, they appeal to others, and add weight to the message he brings.

His is a gospel of fight; fight the devil and his agents wherever they may be found, and fight them to a finish, therefore it is no surprise to find him urging the most forceful participation by young American manhood in the war against Germany. He sees in the militarist system of that country an agent of the devil whom he hates, and so he urges that it be utterly obliterated and blotted out from the world.

Sunday's call to arms is no less powerful than his call to Christianity. This time they are synonymous. He begs, or rather demands that the young men of the land rally to the banner of humanity and spend themselves in the greatest cause man has ever been offered the opportunity to support. He holds out the rifle as the implement of God, provided to strike down his enemies, declaring the epitaph that shall be written on the grave of Prussianism to be: "Died, 1917, by virtue of the will of God and the guns of every Christian nation on earth."

The fact that Mr. Sunday has chosen this month of this year in which to carry his vigorous message of religion to New York, looked upon as the most difficult proposition he has had to face, seems almost heaven-directed. No more favorable moment could have been selected. Inevitably a large part of his success depends upon emotionalism; first in arousing it, and then in utilizing it to make sinners "hit the trail." The declaration that the United States is at war has already brought public emotion near the surface, and the people will more readily respond to the preacher's invitation.

War revives religion, as witness the change that has come over Europe. In times of greatest stress, people turn to the Creator for help; so nations fighting for their lives turn to him for aid and guidance. This again lightens Mr. Sunday's task and increases his opportunity.

It would be idle to forecast the results of this New York campaign, either in religion or patriotism, but there can be little chance of error in prophesying that they will be momentous.

Y. M. C. A.'S GREAT WORK.

FOR THE SECOND TIME in succession the boys of London Y. M. C. A. have won the "Junior Hexathlon" in competition with every "Y" in Canada and the United States, a record of which the boys are justifiably proud, and which speaks volumes for the careful training they receive under the direction of Physical Instructor A. T. Taylor.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, it may be explained that this Hexathlon is a competition for boys under 18 years of age in proficiency in indoor sports, running, jumping and strength-testing. The competitors in each "Y" practice all winter, and the competitive records are made between March 15 and 30 each year. These are sent to the Central Y. M. C. A. authorities at New York, and there compared, each team being given a rating.

But the winning of laurels is only a small part of the benefits derived from the physical culture classes for boys, many of the young men of the city owing their present good health to the exercise. In one case a young London boy began his course by walking to the building on crutches, having a constitutional weakness which prevented him developing the full use of his legs. He was taken into the class, and with the aid of the training gained strength. This continued, until today he is a prominent athlete of the city.

Another boy was admitted not very long ago in a frail state of health. His father had the inspiration to send him to the "Y" classes in hopes that he would benefit. He did, and was one of the leading boys in the recent competition.

There are numerous other instances which could be mentioned where remarkable improvement in physique has been shown, in addition to the hundreds of cases of normal progress. It is doubtful if the full value of the excellent training given in the local institution is realized by citizens as a whole, but the work is growing, and the Y. M. C. A. is steadily advancing towards its rightful place as one of the great social, moral and physical influences of London.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"In full retreat." What welcome words when applied to the German armies.

When a Socialist presides over the Russian cabinet, the kaiser may well give up hope.

It's always pleasing to read that the commander of a whipped army is the chinless crown prince.

If the kaiser goes to Holland, is he not a candidate for an internment camp the same as any other belligerent?

If it were not for betraying military secrets von Hindenburg would inform Germany where the strategic retreat was to stop. Of course!

The failure through the intervention of Providence of so many pro-German plots clearly shows that the Allies are entitled to say, "God with us."

Washington's smart set is said to be going in for simplicity in dress during war time. But is this simplicity to be of the kind which fashion papers assert is the most costly of all?

A German military writer says Germany has the nerves to prevent the British breaking the line. The presence of "nerves" has been apparent among the enemy forces for some time.

It was the courtesy of the British officers who searched the steamer on which von Bernstorff went home which aroused comment, not the discourtesy. But then, possibly the Germans did not understand courtesy.

By the way, has Greece noted the turn of affairs in Russia? Are conditions in the former country not even worse than they were in the czar's land?

Woman is allowed to chance her mind, but that Cornwall girl accused of complicity in the murder of William St. Pierre changes it so fast she loses count herself.

The Kolnische Zeitung says it would not be too bold, perhaps, to say that the British victory north of Arras lay directly in the plan of Hindenburg. Certainly it would not; no lying is too bold for the German papers.

Sir Edward Kemp feels recruiting will be stimulated by the victory at Arras. Would it not be better to do something here to stimulate it, rather than wait for the boys at the front to become recruiters as well as warriors?

PRUNING THE CHERRY TREE.

The cherry is a very popular fruit in Ontario, both sweet and sour cherries being extensively grown. If properly cared for the tree will bear regularly and give a large crop also. Pruning with it, as well as with the other fruit trees, is now considered very important, although a few years ago it was thought that very little pruning was all that the cherry tree would stand. The sour cherry tree is naturally well formed and therefore does not need much shaping. However, all the intercrossing and unnecessary limbs should be cut off and the wood well thinned out, for the trees are usually dense and air and sunlight should be let in. Pruning will also stimulate new growth and this is necessary, as the old spurs soon get past the fruit-bearing stage. With sweet cherries it is a good method to keep the centre of the tree quite open. This will enable plenty of air and sunlight to get into the tree and then keep under the brown rot, a disease to which the cherry tree is subject. The cherry tree should be headed low in the beginning. From 18 to 24 inches below the first branch is a good height. From 3 to 5 main branches should be allowed to grow and all others cut off. The young tree does not need much cutting back, but should be well thinned out. The gardener should seek to produce a low, spreading, open-headed tree.

It is difficult to give any definite rules in regard to pruning, as each grower should study the habits of his special variety of cherry. Pruning is done in the winter or summer, according to what is its object. If new growth of wood is required, the pruning should be done in the winter, preferably just before growth in the spring. If bud formation is desired the pruning should be done in the summer about picking time. Where trees have become very unproductive, persisting in bearing almost all of their fruit at the tips of bare branches, severe pruning will have a wonderful effect. The main limbs may be cut back to from one to two feet from the trunk. This will force out a vigorous new growth and fruit will be borne all along the branches.

Pruning by letting in air and sunlight will help control the brown rot of the cherry and ripen the fruit more evenly. By keeping the trees low and open it will make pruning, spraying and picking easier. It will also strengthen the growth of the trees by eliminating all unnecessary branches. It will force out new growth of wood to take the place of the short-lived fruit spurs. Indeed, if citizens would pay careful attention to the pruning of their fruit trees a greater supply of good fruit would be the inevitable result.

THE GIRL WITH THE HOE.

A Scotsman's Farewell To the 241st (Highland) Battalion

The farewell address of W. T. Gregory, chairman of the Leamington recruiting committee, and recruiter extraordinary, to the 241st Battalion, Canadian Scottish Borderers, is regarded as one of the most striking public statements of the American-born Leamington booster, who has done so much for Canadian recruiting. Through his efforts to fill their ranks the 99th (Essex) Battalion and the 241st Highlanders are regarded by Mr. Gregory as HIS units. Thousands of men for these battalions, the various American legions of the C. E. F., and other corps have been secured through the personal efforts of Mr. Gregory.

At a farewell dance held in the Windsor armories last week, Mr. Gregory brought up three flour barrels filled with homemade doughnuts, expecting that the 241st would leave the next day. He also presented 100,000 cigarettes to the battalion, 10,000 of 10 each. Similar gifts were made to the 18th and 99th Battalions.

At luncheon in the 241st mess rooms on Tuesday last, Lieut.-Col. Walter McGregor, commanding officer of the battalion, presented a gold signet ring to Mr. Gregory. The ring bears the crest of the 241st and the inscription "Canadian Scottish Borderers."

In each box of smokes presented to the Kilties was the card: "Presented by William T. Gregory of Leamington, Ont., to the officers and men of the 241st Canadian Scottish Borderers with best wishes for a safe voyage and early relief to our battle-scarred heroes in France,. Peace with victory, and a speedy return to hearts as loving as ever welcomed heroes home."

The farewell address follows:

Soldiers of the 241st Canadian Scottish Borderers Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Forces:

My Scottish lineage has ever been to me a precious inheritance, but I was never prouder of the Scots than I am today. Scotland has been a dynamic factor in history. It has been a force rather than a country. The territory is small, the land is rugged and sparing in its reward to industry. Its far northern latitude brings the long winter with inhospitable climate; on the west the coast is precipitous with barren rocks and the east is washed by the cold grey Northern Sea. But this country has made on modern civilization the impress of its individuality and character. It has never been conquered. It has been rent by internal wars and attacked by powerful foes. It has been overrun by invading armies, but has never acknowledged a master. Here lives the race that never crouched in bondage. After the conquest of England by the Romans Agricula, the Roman general, marched into Scotland. Galgarcus, the chief, and his savage Picts or Scots, faced undaunted the victorious army of the imperial city. It was then that speaking to his followers, he hurled at the Roman power the defiance recorded by Tacitus: "They violate our homes and call that civilization; they make the land a desolation and call it peace." They died before the legions of Caesar but they did not surrender. In thought, in freedom, in the high purposes Scotland has been worth more to the world than mighty armies and vast empires. She has been a teacher of freedom, and of faith and has exemplified the triumph of courage and of loyalty. From her has come the literature that has helped to mold the thought of the world.

Of all the qualities of the Scottish character loyalty is the chief characteristic—loyalty to country, to chief, to plighted faith. "Loyal as a clansman to a Highland chief" is a saying worthy of acceptation. For the third time within the past two eventful years it has been my great privilege to address a battalion of Canadian soldiers on the eve of their departure to join their "battle-scarred" comrades in that land of woe that lies beyond the sea and to bid them God-speed on their perilous journey. Nothing could afford me greater pleasure than to have the honor of addressing today the battalion, of which every heart in this great city is proud—proud of every man, from the cook to the colonel.

True to Heritage.

The Canadian Scottish Borderers are not only a credit to Essex County—not only a credit to the first military district, not only a credit to this great and glorious Dominion of ours, but I have no fear that when tested in the crucible of the white heat of the world's greatest holocaust, you will prove yourselves a credit to the very uniform which you wear and which in all the annals of human history has never known defeat.

When the old "Fighting 18th" of blessed memory, under command of that born leader of men, Lieut.-Col. Ernest S. Wigle, left Canada, I said good-bye to them in London, and when I recall those I saw there that day, and who have long since gone to their reward, I am reminded of the immortal glory they won on many a hard-fought field, and also of the tragic price they paid.

One short year ago, when the long roll sounded for the "Pride of Essex," the glorious old 99th Battalion, to start on their journey to war-devastated Europe, I stood before that "crack corps," under the command of that splendid soldier, Lieut.-Col. T. B. Welch, looked into the eyes and shook the hands of free-born men who had forsaken family, friends and fortune to go forth to fight and if need be die for the eternal right. When I recall how thick the German death-hail has fallen upon that noble little band which marched forth so gallantly last May, a feeling of inexpressible sadness comes over me.

It is altogether fit and proper that we lay wreaths of loving memories upon their biers today—those gallant young officers and courageous men—who have laid down their lives that others might be free. "Greater love than this hath no man shown, that he lay down his life for his friend." They bore with them to Europe the honor of Canada, and stoutly have they maintained it. But, whatever the issue of the struggle, uncounted lives must pay the price. There is no other price that can be paid. Inexorable as fate, glory will have none other. Canada now knows the price. There is not a valley of British Columbia, not a plain of the great West, not a district of Ontario or of the Maritime Provinces that has not paid the price. As it has been so it will be.

To Become British.

Today I speak to you as an American citizen, but within a short time I hope to be enabled to pronounce the shibboleth "Civis Brittanus Sum," and I hope by that time there will be absolutely no difference between an American and a Britisher as far as this war is concerned. While I am proud of every man before me today. I am more than proud when I recall the fact that within the ranks of the 241st Battalion, wearing the King's uniform, are to be found many Americans—Roosevelt Americans—who, thank God, were "too proud not to fight."

I, myself, have always felt that this was the United States' war even more than it was Canada's war, because we have not only more to lose if Germany wins, but our greater size and importance carries with it greater responsibilities and greater duties. Well has it been said "that we ask for no treaty between the United States and Canada. The letter killeth and the spirit giveth life." But there is that which is stronger than any treaty—there is that which is stronger than any bond of steel. There is that God-given moral law which actuates kindred peoples, and as sure as the planets follow the sun so sure must it be that those nations must stand shoulder to shoulder, and if need be march side by side—yea, fight shoulder to shoulder for humanity, for justice and for freedom. You Americans in this the greatest voluntary army ever marshaled upon the American continent, are the pledge of North America to the world's democracy. You will fight side by side and shoulder to shoulder with the allied forces in the blood-soaked trenches of northern France in order that government "of the people, by the people and for the people," shall not perish from the earth. The battle line of Flanders is the bulwark of civilization, and thank God the American Government now realizes that if it gives way, not only Canada, but the United States itself would be drenched with blood, and every cottage would hold a widow, an orphan or a childless mother.

You are soon to embark for foreign shores, there to engage in mortal combat the most resourceful, formidable and unscrupulous enemy that civilization has ever known; but after looking into your eyes and seeing the look of determination upon your faces I have no fear but that you will live and if need be die upholding the glorious traditions of the "Scottish Highlander" whose valorous deeds fill more pages of the world's solemn history than those of any other soldiers, and whose very name is synonymous for indomitable courage and imperishable fame.

Great Destiny.

You are doubtlessly proud of your membership in the greatest volunteer army ever recorded in history. As a true patriot you are destined to be loved to the last syllable of time, and you shall ever be the favored sons of a grateful people, who will hand down to your children and your children's children the priceless heritage of a soldier's name. The true patriot is not the orator who sways the multitude; the writer that excels in his prowess of pen. The true patriot is born of the individual idea of rendering some service, and such service calls for sacrifice. Love of country, the passion which has moved every man in this battalion to serve his country, either in defending it from invasion, or protecting its rights and maintaining its laws and institutions, is true patriotism. Let us always hold in our hearts the individual image of the true patriot, "the Canadian volunteer soldier."

Canada now has under arms more than 400,000 men, and she is going to raise another 100,000. She now has an army in France greater than the one with which the Duke of Wellington humbled Napoleon at Waterloo; greater than Meade marshalled at Gettysburg; many times larger than Stonewall Jackson ever led; greater than Robert E. Lee ever mustered; twice as great as the army with which Napoleon brought the Prussians to their knees at Jena, and greater than any with which Marlborough ever romped to victory.

All of the wonders of the world fade into insignificance when compared to what Britain is doing today. A commercial nation with less than 50,000,000 people, suddenly summoned to arms—where no arms existed—has produced an army larger than ever before recorded in history, and a war machine that for wealth of shell explosion and war power, is at once the amazement of the Germans and the wonder of the world. Britain has done in 30 months what it took Germany 30 years to do. Starting without an airplane engine capable of encircling her own isles she has vanquished the boasted zeppelins, and is now mistress of the skies. Her grand fleet, which has been the savior of the world, has swept the seven seas of all hostile craft and has made the English Channel a multiple-track ocean railway to France. Fought in Africa, at the Canal, the Dardanelles, grappled with Turk and Bulgar, changed generals and admirals in command, changed cabinets, fed the armies of France, maintained the armies and the governments of Belgium and Serbia, and advanced $5,000,000,000 to her allies—a sum three times as great as the United States national debt, and she still has a "few pennies" laid away for a rainy day. In order to save the democracies of Europe and of the world, Britain has expended no less than $12,000,000,000, and is now preparing to double this amount.

Some Figures.

Such fabulous sums are scarcely conceivable by the human mind. For illustration, if we could lay $12,000,000,000 in one-dollar bills end to end, it would take the International Limited express, running at the rate of a mile a minute, day and night for three years without a stop or a slow-down, to run as far as the bills would reach. If her army was standing in columns of fours it would reach from Vancouver to Halifax, would take six months to march past a given point, and she now has safely stored away back of her lines in France sufficient high explosives to blast her way from St. Quentin to Berlin if it was solid granite all the way. You are soon to become one of the cogs in the wheel of that great and glorious army. Your equipment will be the very best that science can invent or that money can buy, and your officers are ones of which the oldest regiment in the service would be proud—sincere, brave, true, loyal, steadfast, and I have no fear, but that they will prove faithful even unto death. Your colonel is peculiarly fitted by temperament, training and tradition to lead a "kilted" battalion to victory. In his veins there flows the blood of that ancient clan whose proud boast it was "that despite their enemies, the MacGregors should flourish forever." In him we have combined the indomitable spirit of the Scottish Highlander, the bulldog tenacity of the English, and the resourcefulness and initiative of the Canadian. He will lead you to victory. Stand by him like a "stone wall" in the days to come. If eloquence shall want a theme to awaken the sublimest efforts or poetry shall seek some shrine at which to offer its most harmonious numbers, orator and bard need not go back to the romantic period of Agincourt or Crecy, when Henry Fifth led his armies to victory, and Douglas poured the vials of his wrath across the Northumbrian plains; no need to go away back there, but instead, they will tell of your deeds and the deeds of your immortal comrades-in-arms who fought with Byng or Currie or Burstall or of those who flamed the demigods of war where Alderson or Watson or Lipsett led, of those whose camp fires shone out on the dark walls of the Balkans or lit up by their glow the waters of the Meuse or the Marne or the Somme, of those who sleep tonight in graves consecrated forevermore where the stars look down through the Arras woods or St. Quentin groves. Of the long line, whose musketry rang out their sublime appeal in the early grey of that April morning at St. Julien, whose fierce battle shout at Givenchy or Festubert mingled with the farewell sounds that broke on those Canadians' ears, sounds scarcely stilled 'ere the acclamation of angels awaken them to sublimer greetings.

Saved the Day.

The oldest regiments in the service could not have done better. Not the Spartan band at Thermopylae, not the sacred battalion of Epamimonidas, not the tenth legion of Caesar, not the Imperial Light Brigade at Balaclava evinced more fortitude than these noble Canadians who, in their superhuman effort to stem the tide of the onrush of that mighty horde of barbarians were given credit by the commander-in-chief of the British forces, as having "saved the day." We may safely trust the story of their unequalled valor, the peerless chivalry of those awful days, to the verdict of the historian who will give full credit for every bullet that a Canadian soldier stops and for every grave that one fills. Gen. Hodgins has told you not to come back until you can tell us what the streets of Berlin look like, and my parting request of you is that you have that splendid band of yours play "Dixie" while you are marching down its most famous thoroughfare. It is sad for us to say good-bye to you. We bid you God-speed upon your perilous journey. Our hearts will be with you on all the weary marches, on all the gory battlefields, in the trench and in the dugout, in all the hospitals of misery and pain, in the prisons of hatred and famine; but human tongue can never tell what you will endure. Remember each day while you are absent from us to offer thanks to our Heavenly Father for having enriched our being with those faculties which prompt to noble endeavor. Rejoice in your power guided by His free spirit to overcome evil and to do good. Ask for the faith that will enable you to more clearly realize that in the end only truth and right can gain the victory. My prayer for you shall be: May the great Giver of all good, keep you ever physically fit to fight, and spiritually fit to die, and ever watch over you and keep each from all harm; and when all is over that you may return, not in defeat, but in victory and in honor and glory unequalled to hearts as loving as ever welcomed heroes home.

TORONTO, April 15.—Sir Lyman Melvin Jones, head of the Massey-Harris Company, and member of the Canadian Senate, died at noon today at Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, after a long illness.

He entered the hospital last January and underwent two operations and twice went through blood transfusion. He rallied slightly, but suffered a relapse, and for the last two weeks his death has been expected. He leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Crawford Brown.

Never Take Pepsin For a Weak Digestion

Like most sufferers from poor digestion, fermentation, sour stomach, gas, acidity, catarrh of the stomach, bloating, distress after eating or other stomach disorders, you doubtless think you must dose yourself with soda-mint tablets, pepsin or other digestive drugs that give temporary relief but weaken the stomach still further. Or else that you must endure the misery of a milk and nursery diet. But if you will form the pleasant habit of sipping a glass of water containing just a teaspoonful of pure bisurated magnesia with each meal you will soon find your digestion so much strengthened that you can eat what you like without the slightest distress. Bisurated magnesia is not a laxative and comes only in powder and tablets—never as a liquid or milk. It is sold by druggists everywhere.

$10,000,000 a Year Wasted On Trusses

How 60 Days' Trial Protects You Against Throwing Money Away

Away With Worthless Makeshifts

Ninety-nine out of every hundred dollars spent for elastic and spring trusses might about as well be thrown away.

Close to ten million dollars a year—in this country alone—is practically wasted on such contraptions.

And all simply because nine sufferers out of ten trust to a mere try-on, or hasty examination, instead of first making a thorough test.

A Mere Try-on is a Snare.

You can't possibly tell anything about a truss or anything else for rupture merely by trying it on.

A truss or so-called "appliance" may seem all right at first, and afterward prove utterly worthless.

The only way in the world you can make sure of exactly what you're getting is by making a thorough sixty-day test, without having to risk any money.

The Only Thing Good Enough to Stand a 60-Day Test.

There is only one thing of any kind for rupture that you can get on sixty days' trial—

We'll practically lend it to you that long—without asking you to risk a penny.

If it can't be made to keep your rupture from coming out or from bothering you in any way, no matter how hard you work or strain—if it doesn't prove every claim we make—it won't cost you a single cent.

Made on New Principle.

This guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Cluthe—is so utterly different from everything else for rupture that it has received eighteen separate patents. It is far more than just a truss. Made on an absolutely new principle.

Unlike everything else, it is self-regulating, self-adjusting — instantly and automatically protects you against every strain, so your rupture can't possibly be forced out.

And in addition to this constant holding, it provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness, which is the real cause of rupture.

Just how it does that—entirely automatically—is all explained in the book which the coupon below will bring to you.

No Belt—No Leg-Straps—No Springs

Does away entirely with the use of belts, leg-straps and springs. Those who have tried it say it is as comfortable as their clothing. Is waterproof, will hold in the bath. Also perspiration-proof and easily kept clean.

To Save You From Operation

This guaranteed rupture holder has so thoroughly proved its merit in nearly 300,000 cases that many physicians in all parts of the world now recommend it instead of advising operation.

It has completely cured—but and hundreds of people whose cases seemed almost hopeless.

The Things We Tell In Our Book

There are so many mistaken ideas about rupture that we have taken years to sum up in a book all we have learned during nearly half a century of experience.

This remarkable book—cloth-bound, 104 pages, 20 chapters and 23 photographic illustrations—is full of facts never before put in print.

It deals with rupture in all its forms and stages.

It shows the dangers of operations. It exposes the humbug "appliances," "methods," "plasters," "locks," etc.

It shows why wearing elastic or spring trusses is almost sure to shorten your life.

And it tells you about the famous Cluthe Automatic Massaging Truss—how simple it is—how it ends costly expense—how you can try it sixty days—and how little it costs if you keep it.

Also gives over 5,000 voluntary endorsements from benefited and cured people.

Send for this book today—don't put it off—the minute it takes to write it may free you from trouble for the rest of your life.

Simply use the coupon below or just say in a letter or postal, "Send me your book."

RED CROSS AND C.W.C.A.

"A JAR OF FRUIT, PLEASE!"

If, as we hear, recruiing among the men is not going on very briskly, let it be said in praise of the women that among them it never was better. Not a week passes but there comes to Hyman Hall news of a new Red Cross branch being organized, and how the older branches are working together! Only today there comes a letter from an organization saying they are grateful for the criticisms of their work, because it all tends to bring up the standard. That is the true co-operative spirit—the spirit that wins the war. The young recruit in the army finds the constant drilling monotonous and wearisome, and is inclined to think it is largely unnecessary. And so it was with the women's army at first. But we have now so many veterans, such a staunch, seasoned old guard of knitters and sewers all over Western Ontario, women who know the value of the early days of rules and regulations, that soon every centre of war work will be capable of teaching the folk at headquarters in England.

You remember the story of Pat's pride when he saw young Pat marching blunderingly down the street with his comrades-in-arms:

"Shure, my Pat was the only wan that was in step!" he declared.

And that seemed to be the way with many of our women's branches in city, town and country, in the early days of our work. Everyone was out of step but ourselves. But that day is past. We are learning the great lesson of co-operation. Our aim is one, the comfort and health of our boys, in hospital and trench; our methods must be one. We are a seasoned, well-drilled army, we women, and we are gathering all our forces for our spring drive.

The C. W. C. A. have just issued their report for last month, showing all the huge shipments sent from headquarters in England across to the boys in the trenches, and, like a refrain running through a song, sounds the old request for more and more socks. It would seem that we cannot possibly knit too many. So when we take up the housecleaning broom and the garden hoe these spring days let us see to it that we do not let the needles lie idle for many hours at a time. Our boys must have socks, even if we shouldn't shake a carpet until the war is over.

Speaking of housecleaning, when you clean your cellar and take a view of your fruit jars, to calculate just how much longer your supply will last, wouldn't it be nice to slip away a jar to give a treat to our returned soldiers in the hospitals in London? These poor lads, though well fed, sometimes find their menu just a little monotonous, and the kind of fruit that "mother used to put down" is not found in a big institution like a hospital. Perhaps some of us could leave a quart or so at any of our three hospitals for returned soldier within the next few weeks. Anyone bringing fruit from the country, who could not find it convenient to leave it at a hospital, would be doing a great kindness to call with it at Hyman Hall. The Red Cross Society will see that it is safely delivered.

The shipments for April 10, 1917, were as follows:

Red Cross—Thirteen boxes flannel shirts, 13 boxes pyjamas, 2 boxes helpless shirts, 1 box convalescent suits, 2 boxes dressing gowns, 1 box bed-jackets, 4 boxes sheets, 3 boxes pillow-slips, 3 boxes towels, 1 box day-socks, 2 boxes bed-socks, 1 box comfort bags, 5 boxes surgical supplies, 1 box old linen.

C. W. C. A.—2160 pairs socks, 45 day shirts, 690 towels, 200 trench suits, 64 trench shirts.

MARIAN KEITH, Press Secretary.

REAL PLAYS FOR REAL PEOPLE

(By Gertrude Kingston in the Chronicle.)

When little more than a child, I peeped into my older sister's story-books of American girls written by Louisa Alcott. My early impressions of America resolved themselves in a land of molasses, syrup and hot turnovers carried in one's muff and hominy interspersed with winter sports.

Then as I advanced in years I dipped into the novels of W. D. Howells and Henry James and New York appeared to be peopled by serene and deliberate women with arched insteps living in stately homes in the precincts of Gramercy Park and Washington Square. More recently all my foundations of belief on this head were shattered ruthlessly by the feverish "sets" in Robert W. Chambers's descriptions of society, and by the garish underworld depicted by Theodore Dreiser. These gave me a new impression of Gaboriau gone mad with absinthe or of Zola steeped in vitrolic ink in order to make a horrible unreality wear an appearance of truth.

When at last I reach New York in person, I find that in every place of entertainment, vice and crime and murder and license form the staple commodity of the dish set before the public. The picture theatres take the lead with "crook" comedies, "white slave" dramas and girls fleeing before colored men. The theatres come in a good second with plays showing policemen alternately bullying or blackmailing the people they are enlisted to protect, showing bankers "held up" by gunmen in their own counting houses showing how thieves may be taken in by their fellow-thieves, how morphia maniacs may be betrayed into murder; showing, in short, all the mechanical ingenuity of machinery that an experienced journalist-playwright can command and control, pressed into service to "amuse" the "tired" businessman and to give girls and boys out for a holiday their notions of life.

What wonder then, if the daily papers bring every moment some fresh story of crime more revolting than the last, what wonder that life is held cheap on Broadway, in Brooklyn and in the Bronx (that it is held dear enough—God wot!—"when it is a question of fighting for the Flag") if nothing but violence and villainy are put before the young of this city at "movies" and playhouses?

My plea then, for a theatre—in which plays may be seen that bear some resemblance to real life and humanity, some remote relation to the graver or the more serious or even the more comic incidents of the problems of existence, plays that even if they are abounding in farcical situations, are yet based on the gentler or grander questions of the day—shall not fall unheeded at a moment when the American people are faced at last with the sobering horrors of war, and when the nation, as every nation under such conditions, must give pause to find its soul.

No doubt the reader will laugh if I think that the theatre can help in this finding of a soul, yet the ancient Greeks knew that this was possible. So do most of the nations of the world excepting always the English-speaking nations, who have imbibed an inborn contempt of the theatre from their Puritan ancestry.

How many of "Louisa Alcott's "Little Women" would have visited the "movies" of today? I ask myself. How often would the slender sphinxes of Henry James and W. D. Howells have been seen to visit these plays with slang titles and thieves' jargon? Yet I have seen the "younger set" revelling in the escapades of their "betters," and I have observed the prototypes of modern fiction smacking their scarlet lips over a love scene in an opium den. How long will it be before men and women who think and suffer and feel and help in the world's work may be allowed a playhouse in which they can lean back in their seats without protesting that though they may laugh they are not amused, and though they may cry they are not moved?

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Who Can Oblige.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you be so kind as to print on your page or send me the song called "The Blacksmith's Dying Child?" These are some of the words, "For you I am praying, I'm praying for you." This is my first visit so I won't stay long.

HAPPY GIRL.

Ans.—Can any reader oblige "Happy Girl" with the songs.

Advises Liniment.

Dear Miss Grey,—In last Monday's paper a "Mrs. S. E. B." wanted something to help her little girl's arm, where she had burned it over a year ago. Now I do hope she will try this. I am as before. LOVER OF HOME.

Liniment for burns: ⅛ oz. oil of cedar, ⅛ oz. oil of hemlock, ⅛ oz. origanum, ⅛ oz. sassafras, ¼ dram oil anis, ¼ oz. of camphor gum, ¼ pint raw linseed oil. Mix small drugs good then add to linseed oil. Soak a soft cloth good and bind on carefully. This is a sure cure for ringworm.

Problem for Parsonage Mother.

Dear Miss Grey,—1. Can you tell me how the boundary line between Canada and the United States west of Lake Superior is marked? Is there duty on articles taken from United States to Canada (unless they are smuggled), such as Port Huron to Sarnia?

Yours was a fine letter, "Parsonage Mother." I was very glad when I saw your letter. I wanted your opinion on this: Being a minister's wife, did you ever meet anyone who is deaf? There is a girl in this part who is deaf. Her friend is studying for a minister. Now, do you think she would do right by marrying him, as I don't think she would be able to help with church work on account of her being deaf? She is a nice girl, and is smart. I would like "Parsonage Mother" to answer soon and give her opinion. INTERESTED.

Ans.—1. The 49th parallel is the defining mark, and as the boy in school wrote of the equator, "it's a menagerie lion running about the earth." There's parrot-learning for you!

2. Yes, most articles are liable to duty charges.

3. No doubt "Parsonage Mother" will give you the benefit of her opinion and wisdom.

Notes.

"Just Mary" and "Tory."—A letter is at hand for each of you from "Echo," but I do not seem to have either address. Please let me hear from you.

"Spring."—Your letter acknowledged. The two names inclosed will be well taken care of and supplied to a few of our inquirers.

"Dewdrop," please send address. I have a letter for you from "Grey Eyes," and one from "Just a Reader."

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

(All Rights Reserved.)

The six daily studies for this week constitute the International Sunday School Lesson for next Sunday. Read the Bible Story on which this study is based, as you ponder the following questions:

"Jesus Anointed at Bethany."—John, xii., 1-11.

Golden Text—"She Hath Done What She Could." Mark, xiv., 8.

1. Verse 1—Where was Bethany?

2. Would Lazarus be likely to have any memory of his experience in Paradise, and would he, probably, be inclined to discuss it?

3. Verse 2—Would you say, or not, and why, that Jesus would eat and drink more than necessary for health for the sensuous pleasure it affords?

4. Why may it be presumed, or not, that Jesus enjoyed a social time for the mere pleasure of sociability, and without making the occasion of any religious significance?

DON'T HURT A BIT!

Lift your old, torturous corns and calluses right off with the fingers.

This tiny bottle holds the wonder of wonders. It contains an almost magical drug discovered by a Cincinnati man. It is called freezone. It is a compound made from ether.

Apply a few drops of this freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a hardened callous. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callous so shriveled and loose that you just lift it off with the fingers.

You feel no pain or soreness when applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the skin.

Just ask in any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. This will cost but a few cents, but will positively rid your poor, suffering feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, or the tough callouses on bottom of feet. Genuine freezone has a yellow label. Look for yellow label.

ASSIGNS UMPIRES FOR INTERNATIONAL OPENING

NEW YORK, April 15.—Edward G. Barrow, president of the International League, today announced the assignments of umpires for the opening games of the championship season Tuesday next, as follows:

Hart and Tannehill at Richmond.
Carpenter and McBride at Baltimore.
Mullen and Blackburn at Providence.
Freeman and O'Brien at Newark.

Mr. Barrow will attend the opening at Providence.

PEORIA ALLEY TEAM TOPPLES 1,347 PINS FOR WORLD'S RECORD

PEORIA, Ill., April 14.—Louis Payne and Jack Powell are believed to have a new world's record for bowling to their record, as a result of toppling 1,347 pins here last night. Payne was errorless, while Powell had two blows in his second game.

BROOKLYN FANS FIND AN IDOL IN FABRIQUE

Brooklyn fans are preparing a pedestal upon which to enthrone a new idol this year, and they will be greatly disappointed if their expectations fail to materialize.

The new idol that Brooklyn is preparing to pay homage to is little Benny Fabrique, the new shortstop secured in the draft last fall from Providence.

Fabrique's work around the short field and his wonderful hitting in exhibition games with the Red Sox were a source of great satisfaction to Brooklynites, not to mention Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson.

Fabrique looks like the goods.

Cicotte Pitches the First No-Hit Game.

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—Cicotte, pitching for Chicago, was in superb form today and shut out St. Louis without a hit, Chicago winning 11 to 0. Meanwhile his teammates drove Hamliton and Park from the box in the second inning, when they piled up seven runs. Cicotte struck out five, hit a batsman and gave three passes. Shotton, who stole second in the first innings, was the only local player to reach that base.

Barring Gandil's fumble, which allowed Austin to reach first in the seventh, Cicotte received excellent support.

WELSH AND KILBANE TO FIGHT MAY DAY

Lightweight and Featherweight Champs To Go Ten Rounds at 135 Pounds.

CLEVELAND, April 15.—Managers of Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of the world, and Johnny Kilbane, world's champion featherweight, signed articles here tonight for a ten-round bout to take place in New York May 1. The boxers will weigh 135 pounds at 2 o'clock.

KINCARDINE BOWLERS' CLUB HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Incendiary Suspected In Friday Night Blaze.

KINCARDINE, April 15.—The Kincardine Bowling Club sustained a heavy loss Friday night, when the clubhouse was burned to the ground with all its contents.

Twenty-five pairs of bowls belonging to members, besides other paraphernalia, were consumed. The fire was of incendiary origin, as no one had been near the clubhouse this season.

There was no insurance.

EVERY BOY SHOULD BOX, SAYS REV. BILLY SUNDAY

Evangelist Puts O. K. On Ring Pastime.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Rev. Billy Sunday, the evangelist, is a boxing as well as a baseball enthusiast. Talking on the rig game recently, he said:

"Nothing wrong with it. Boxing, properly regulated, is not harmful, and does a certain amount of good. Certainly won't corrupt anyone's morals.

"There can't be any harm as long as they don't slug with the bare knuckles, as in the old days," added Sunday.

"Boxing makes a fellow courageous, makes him self-dependent. The boy or man who can box isn't afraid to. He knows he can protect himself, and you never find that sort of fellow seeking trouble.

Fist Beats a Gun.

"Every boy should be taught to box. Bully exercise. I want my boy to be able to box and protect himself. You never heard of a good boxer going around with a gun in his pocket, did you? No; you bet you didn't!

"I believe in boxing and all manly sports, just as I believe in universal military training. Good things for the nation at large. Makes boys and men strong of body and mind. That's what we want—strong men, not weak old fossils. Athletics keep you in good health. That's the main thing."

"And," concluded Sunday, with a wink, "I don't mind telling you that I can handle my own dukes pretty well. In my younger days I was somewhat of a boxer myself, and I haven't forgotten how."

Star First Baseman of Cubs Meets With Accident in Sunday Game.

CHICAGO, April 15.—Chicago lost the services of Vic Saier, its premier first-baseman today, and also lost the first game of the series to St. Louis 5 to 3. Saier broke his leg sliding into the home plate in the sixth inning. The visitors won the game early by hiting Aldridge opportunely. This, coupled with a wild throw by the recruit pitcher, gave St. Louis a lead which could not be overtaken. Score:

ST. JAMES TENNIS CLUB ORGANIZES FOR SEASON

Popular North End Club Will Hold Tournament May 24.

Although the weatherman is dishing up weather that savors more of hockey than tennis, the New St. James Presbyterian Church tennis followers have organized for the season.

At an enthusiastic meeting held recently, the following officers were elected:

Honorary president, Rev. James McKay; president, Wm. Murray; vice-president, Gordon Brown; secretary, Miss K. Ashplant; treasurer, William Mace; games committee, Miss Helen Woolley and Cy Edy.

A tournament will be held on May 24, with the players of another local church. The membership fee was fixed at $1.

The two courts east of the church will be put in the best of condition immediately, and the members are looking forward to a good season of sport.

BARROOM BATTLE, THIS

NEW YORK, April 14.—Carl Morris ended Fred Fulton's championship aspirations by stopping the lanky explasterer in the fifth round in their recent fight here. Technically Fulton lost on a foul by hitting below the belt, but that was merely his way of announcing that he had had enough. It was just as deliberate a surrender as though he had jumped through the ropes.

It was strictly a barroom fight all the way, due to the peculiar methods employed by Morris, who clung to the frail plasterer with one hand while belaboring him with the other. As this is a direct violation of the boxing commission rules, which stipulate that "contestants must not hold and hit," it is a mystery why Referee Bill Brown did not disqualify Morris at the very start.

LEADING TENNIS PLAYERS OF UNITED STATES ENLIST

NEW YORK, April 14.—Members of the West Side Lawn Tennis Club last night received word that four of the leading tennis players in the country will be lost to tournament play owing to their enlistment for the duration of the war. The players are R. Norris Williams II, George M. Church, Dean Mathey and Watson M. Washburn. It was impossible to learn last night in what branch of the service they enlisted.

SIBERIAN WOLFHOUNDS WIN BIG NOME DOG RACE

NOME, April 15.—Leonard Seppala, driving a team of Siberian wolfhounds, won last night the All-Alaskan Sweepstakes dog race for a purse of $2,500. Time, 113 hours. Victor Anderson was second. There were four starters. The race was over a course of 412 miles, from Nome to Candle and return. The start was made April 9. Seppala's winning team also won the races of 1915 and 1916.

SARNIA TO ENTER TEAM IN PORT HURON LEAGUE

SARNIA, April 15.—That the city of Sarnia will be represented in the Port Huron City Baseball League is now an assured fact. At a recent meeting held in the Border City, a representative from this city was present, and informed the officials that an all-star aggregation from the Imperial City would be entered in the race and asked for the first contest for the local team to be staged in Sarnia May 24, to which the officials asquiesced. A meeting of the local league is expected to be called in the near future when the plans and projects for a "twilight league" in this city will be discussed, as well as the Port Huron proposition.

The majority of the fans of the city are of the opinion that the Sarnia team stands a good chance of copping the laurels in the Port Huron League.

GODERICH BOWLING CLUB

GODERICH, April 13.—The Goderich Bowling Club held their annual meeting tonight. The following officers were elected: Honorary president, Rev. Dr. Meldrum of Cleveland, Ohio; president, Fred Hunt; vice-president, J. Powell; secretary, Wm. Lane; treasurer, C. A. Nairn; executive committee, Dr. Hunter, C. A. Humber, Thos. Prest.

The club is looking forward to a good year. The executive committee is looking into the matter of new grounds.

HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

TORONTO, April 15.—With President Louis Rubenstein of Montreal in the chair, the Canadian Wheelman's Association held their 37th annual meeting in the Queen's Hotel yesterday afternoon. The association adhered to last year's policy of running no championship meets. The chief feature of the meeting was the passing of a motion proposed by President Rubenstein that a combined cycle and motorcycle meet be held in Toronto in the future for the benefit of the returned soldiers. The date was left to the racing committee.

Another important item was the voting of $50 for comforts to C. W. A. boys at the front.

Treasurer J. Smith of Toronto submitted his report, which showed a balance of $130 in the treasury.

As a war measure the old executive will remain in office until next season.

FULTON AND FORCE SPLIT

ST. PAUL, April 14.—Fred Fulton, the heavyweight, and Frank Force, his manager, have split, according to reliable reports. It is said that Mike Collins, who recently obtained a judgement entitling him to a part of Fulton's winning, again will handle him. Fulton, it is believed, thought Force made a bad match in hooking him up with Carl Morris at a time when popular demand soon would have compelled Jess Willard to meet Fulton.

HOME-RUN BAKER BREAKS HIS THUMB

POLO GROUNDS, N.Y., April 14.—J. Franklin Baker, the crack Yankee third-baseman, had his left thumb broken in the second inning of today's game between the New York and Boston Americans, when he was hit by a wide pitch delivered by Pitcher Pennock. The injury may keep Baker out of the game for a month.

MORAN TO FIGHT CARL MORRIS NEXT

NEW YORK, April 14.—Frank Moran landed back in the fistic spotlight today with both feet, and made Carl Morris move over.

The big Pittsburger massaged the classic jaw of Tom Cowler, knocked out the "man mountain" in four rounds, and winning the chance to meet Morris in a ten-round bout, which will be staged here within three weeks.

Moran has not enjoyed much publicity in fistic circles since he met Jess Willard here, but today he is back again because boxing fans are convinced he still carries a knockout punch. They want to see what he can do to Morris.

GREEN JONES LOOKS CLASS OF KENTUCKY DERBY SPEED HORSES

Biggest Colt in Training Is Making Fast Time.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 14.—Among the busiest places in Kentucky with the possible exception of the army and navy recruiting offices, are the race tracks. From dawn until dusk eligibles are training here for the Kentucky derby, the $20,000 racing classic for three-year-olds, to be decided at Churchill Downs on May 12.

Training has progressed sufficiently to permit the candidates being given trials of a mile. Green Jones, which negotiated the distance in 1:45 2-5, the fastest to date, galloped the last eighth and pulled up strong. Green Jones, over 16 hands 2 inches high, is the biggest derby colt in local training.

North Star III., the imported Sun Star colt, for which A. K. Macomber is reported to have paid $60,000 as a two-year-old, was a recent arrival at Palmetta Park, Charleston, S.C. He is the probable favorite for the event and is counted upon as a sure starter with Star Master from the same stable.

Whitney Expected.

Other large racing establishments expected soon include those of Billings & Johnson, Harry Payne, Whitney, Grant Hugh Browne and W. R. Coe.

J. W. Schorr's Harry Kelly appears to be able to run fast and far. He will be sent to Lexington with Cudgel, Penrod and the other eligibles in the Schorr stable for a race or two prior to the derby.

The most advanced eligible so far is apparently Omar Khayam, from the stable of Billings & Johnson. Reports from Hot Springs state he went the full derby distance, a mile and a quarter, in 2:09 3-5, eased up, and carried the weight he will be asked to pack in the big race.

Other candidates who have negotiated a trial mile in impressive fashion include Harry Kelly, Midway, Top o' the Wave, Cudgel, Ticket, Vague, Atwell, Trevisco, Kenwood and Berlin.

Trainer James Rowe has not yet decided which of Harry Payne Whitney's colts he will ship from Brookdale farm in New Jersey, but they probably will be Rickety and Hwfa, which are said to be more advanced in their training. King Herod is regarded as the most promising in Grant Hugh Browne's collections, while Jack Mount is conceded to be best in W. R. Coe's stable.

No sickness or mishap among the candidates in training has been reported. As the race is a month off it is considered remarkable that none of the 76 nominations has been withdrawn.

BOYS BETWEEN 12 AND 19 LEARN SPORTS BEST

Coach Stagg, of University of Chicago, says the best time to train boys is between the age of 12 and 18 years. At that period their muscles are beginning to set and the youth is most in need of proper physical instruction. It is the most impressionable time of the boys' life says Stagg and a successful coach can wield a great deal of influence.

The Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve Overseas Division

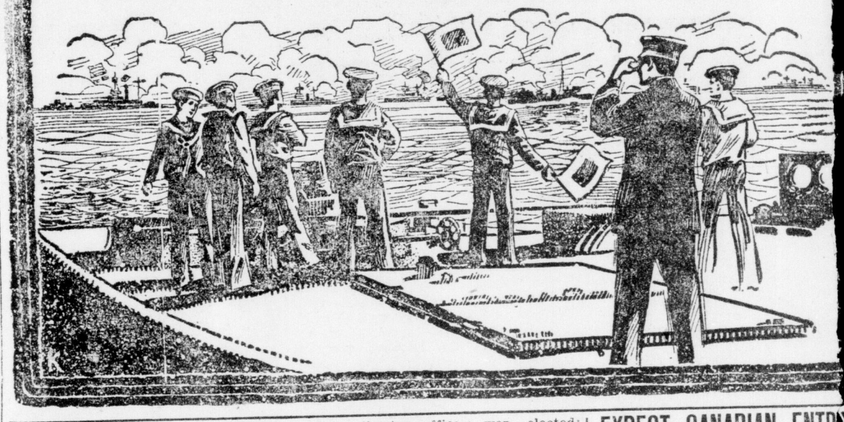

Never in its centuries of rule on the rolling waves has Britain's fleet done so great a work for freedom and humanity as in this war. It is saving the world from German "Kultur"—curbing their savage submarines—and keeping open the food lanes for neutrals as well as Allies.

Such a task needs thousands more men for the hundreds of new naval craft, and Britannia calls for Canadians to come over and help out. Here is your chance to "do your bit" with the best of the bulldog breed—to serve on the open sea where life has a tang and a man has a chance to keep clean!

And the British tar and his Canadian mates certainly make the most of this chance! Their love of cleanliness shows not only in spotless decks and shining brasswork, but in their own clean-shaven faces. These they owe largely to the Gillette Safety Razor, whose efficiency in its own line compares with that of the fleet itself. It is "Ready, aye ready" for action and a safe and perfect shave in any sea.

Slip a Gillette in your kit and enlist yourself if you can. If you cannot, see that some gallant lad fighting for you has one of these razors to give him a bit of home comfort.

For Home Service

"We should send overseas with as little delay as possible the troops now in Canada which have enlisted for overseas service".

CANADA

"It is necessary that the country should not be left without an adequate force for home defence in case of emergency".

SIR EDWARD KEMP, Minister of Militia and Defence.

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE—
You Men Who Cannot Go Overseas

Take these two statements above and you will realize your opportunity. Who will enlist for Home Defence, and release a trained soldier, ready and anxious to fight in France?

You can stay in Canada, yet serve the Empire in its greatest trial. In this day, when every man is needed, you can help to provide adequately for home protection by enlisting in the

Canadian Defence Force

The term of enlistment, training, equipment and clothing are the same as for overseas service. Pay the same as that for Militia on Active Service. Separation allowances for married men in addition to pay.

Enlist now in the Canadian Defence Force if you are between 18 and 45, physically fit, and anxious to serve to the best of your ability.

For full particulars enquire at Armories of the Regiments listed below.

MEN STILL REQUIRED FOR OVERSEAS IN THE CANADIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES.

More men are required for reinforcements at the Front. Those who desire to volunteer for Overseas service may enlist through one of the regiments ordered to mobilize for Home Defence.

BIG CASUALTY LIST SHOWS PRICE BEING PAID FOR VICTORIES

Over 1,000 Canadians, Mostly Wounded, in Latest Cables.

TWO LONDONERS KILLED

Lieut. James MacArthur and Pte. Lou Yeo Fell in Action.

OTTAWA, April 15.—The conspicuous triumphs at the front in the past week in which Canadians have participated so splendidly are not being accomplished without the human toll in killed, wounded and missing. The exact extent of the casualties are not known. All four divisions are reported as in the movement, and, on account of the numbers engaged, the losses comparatively are said not to be large. Some trouble has been experienced in notifying next of kin members of the first division. The addresses of many of them have changed in the three years nearly which have elapsed since the division was enlisted.

Week-end lists contained the names of 644 casualties, a goodly proportion being officers.

Over 1,000 names are contained in the latest lists of Canadian casualties. The names include many from London district, the great majority being wounded. The list is an indication of the work the Canadians have been doing in the terrific fighting by which Sir Douglas Haig is forcing the Huns steadily back.

Two Londoners were reported dead according to word received by relatives, Lieut. James MacArthur, son of James MacArthur, of 344 Piccadilly street, and Pte. Lou Yeo.

Lieut. MacArthur was 25 years old, and when the war started was working in a bank in Toronto. He came home and took his course here, and went overseas with an infantry battalion. The late Dr. James D. MacArthur was his uncle.

Pte. Lou Yeo, who was yesterday reported to have died of wounds, was for some time employed with Jackson Bros., butchers. He resided with his mother at the corner of Waterloo and Simcoe streets. He went over with a C. M. R. battalion.

Thos. Owen, of 11 Marmora street, was notified that Pte. James A. Owen was admitted to No. 3 General Hospital at Letreport on April 3, with gunshot wounds in the leg and arm.

A telegram for Mrs. James Read, Dundas street, announces the death of Pte. Robert James Read at No. 2 Eastern General Hospital, Brighton, Eng. His number is 1054633. Up to press time the telegram was not delivered, as Mrs. Read could not be located.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP YOU SHOULD USE MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

Sleeplessness is caused by the nervous system becoming deranged.

Perhaps too much worry has gotten on your nerves, perhaps you have overworked yourself, or have been excessive in your use of tobacco, but whatever the cause, the nervous system must be built up again before restful sleep can be assured.

Those whose rest is broken into by frightful dreams, nightmares, sinking and smothering sensations, who wake up in the morning as tired as they went to bed can have their old, peaceful, undisturbed, refreshing sleep back again by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. John Sloan, Haley Station, Ont., writes: "Over a year ago I was very nervous. I could not sleep at night, and I would faint at the slightest fright. I tried several doctors, but they did me practically no good. I noticed your advertisement, and immediately tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am proud to say they cured me."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BELGIANS OCCUPY GERMANS' SECOND LINE AT DIXMUDE

Five Trenches Vacated When Advance Is Made.

PARIS, April 15.—The French guns today continued to shell St. Quentin and the region roundabout heavily, says the official communication issued by the war office tonight.

Belgian troops penetrated Dixmude as far as the second German lines, which they found unoccupied. The statement reads:

"In the region of St. Quentin the artillery fighting was violent during the greater part of the day. Our batteries caught under their fire and dispersed concentrations of enemy forces reported north of Itancourt (southeast of St. Quentin).

"Artillery actions occurred in various sectors north of the Aisne and in Champagne. In Lorraine we carried out destructive fires on the German organizations in LePretre Wood and Parroy forest."

U. S. NAVAL SUPERVISION OF GREAT LAKES TRAFFIC

DETROIT, April 15. — Navigation through Detroit River and over the lake routes during the coming season will be conducted under the supervision of the United States navy department.

The navy will be represented on the Great Lakes by the coastguard steamers Morrill, Tuscarora and Mackinac. Under the law which created the coastguard service by uniting the former lifesaving and revenue cutter services, the personnel of the coastguard in time of war operates under the direction of the naval department.

The steamers Morrill, with headquarters in Detroit, and Tuscarora, with headquarters in Milwaukee, are known as the cruising type of steamers. The Mackinac, with headquarters at Sault Ste. Marie, is classed as a steamer in harbor service.

The Morrill will have general charge of the protection of Livingstone channel and other Government works along the Detroit River, and navigation of routes in the lower lakes. Similar duty on Lake Michigan, the Straits of Mackinac and the upper end of Lake Huron will be performed by the Tuscarora, which probably also will assist the Mackinac in Lake Superior.

NINETY HOURS IN OPEN BOAT.

Boston, April 16.—After 90 hours in an open boat, Capt. Theodore Doucette and four other members of the crew of the schooner John Beacham, were rescued at sea by the steam trawler Wave eight days ago, and brought here yesterday. The men were frozen so badly that it was necessary to lift them into the rescuing boat. For twenty hours they had been without food or water, and much of the time they were exposed to a snowstorm. The Beacham was bound from Liverpool, N. S., for New York, with wood pulp, when her seams opened in a stiff southwest gale, forcing the crew to take to the boats.

REPAIRING SEIZED SHIPS.

NUXATED IRON

The Power behind the Strong Vigorous Iron Men of Today

Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author, says: "There can be no strong, vigorous, iron men nor beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women without Iron—Nuxated Iron taken three times per day after meals will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, rundown folks 100 per cent in two weeks' time in many instances. Avoid the old forms of metallic iron which may injure the teeth, corrode the stomach, and thereby do more harm than good. Take only organic Iron—Nuxated Iron." It is dispensed in this city by Standard Drug Company, Limited, and all good druggists.

The hall was decorated with Easter colors and cut flowers.

Guests were present from London, Forest, Thedford, Poplar Hill, Parkhill, St. Thomas and Lucan. The young ladies were congratulated on every side for the way the evening was enjoyed, and, better still, the proceeds go to help the Red Cross, which is so greatly needed at the present time.

1,500 GERMAN DEAD LYING BEFORE BRITISH LINES AT CLOSE OF SUNDAY'S BATTLE

Germans in Desperate Effort To Save St. Quentin Gain Foothold in Lagnicourt---British Counter Drives Them Out To Be Slaughtered by Cannon.

London, April 15.—The civil population of Lens was evacuated Friday. The Germans then seized three months' rations gathered in Lens by the American Relief Commission, says a dispatch from British headquarters in France.

The British official communication tonight announced that the British troops are on the outskirts of the town.

The British official statement issued Sunday noon said German defences east of Lievin had been captured from Riamount Wood to the eastern corner of Cite St. Pierre.

Germans were repulsed Sunday with the loss of 1,500 dead and 300 prisoners in an attack on a six-mile front on both sides of the Bapaume-Cambria road. The enemy gained a foothold at Lagnicourt, but a counter-attack drove them out, and, coming under British artillery the Germans were mowed down.

Saturday midnight the British official report stated that Field Marshal Haig's troops were within a few hundred yards of St. Quentin, having fought their way south and east of Fayet. Sunday night's report recorded further gains. The village of Gricourt, a mile north of Fayet, was carried at the point of the bayonet, and the enemy, who resisted stubbornly, suffered many killed and a loss of over 400 prisoners.

On Saturday night the mining centre of Lens was virtually surrounded on three sides by the advancing British-Canadian forces. Lievin, southeast of Lens, was captured Saturday morning, and along the entire front from the Scarpe River to south of Loss (northwest of Lens), the British had advanced two to three miles east of Vimy Ridge.

Guns captured by the British are said to number over 200, exclusive of trench mortars and machine guns, thus greatly weakening the German's defensive power.

German prisoners, now held in such numbers, disregard entirely their officers. This absence of discipline was never noted before, and indicates a change of mind in the German army.

Going After Lille.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig's principal object in his advance on Lens is rather to turn La Bassee from the south, La Bassee and Lens forming the principal outworks of Lille, which is the key to the whole German position in Flanders, and once these two towns are in the hands of the British, Lille will be seriously threatened.

The German attack astride the Bapaume-Cambrai road today indicates the importance attached to defending the junction of the Hindenburg line to St. Quentin and La Fere with the line hastily organized between Lens and Bullecourt, near Cambrai, when the German chief of staff, von Hindenburg, realized that Vimy Ridge was seriously threatened.

Point of Attack Switched.

The British nearly broke through at Bullecourt, which is near this junction, last week, and although failing there, Field Marshal Haig transferred his attentions further north, and danger for the Germans still exists, especially as, according to the Associated Press correspondent, the Hindenburg line is still far from being properly organized.

The Reuter correspondent at British headquarters gives an interesting story of how the British officers studied beforehand a small model of Vimy Ridge moulded by an ingenious officer out of plaster, indicating every natural feature, the trenches, railways, defences, roads and streams, even the mine craters, prepared from aerial photographs and direct observation, and all available local knowledge that could be obtained, and that the knowledge thus obtained proved of immense advantage when the attack was carried out.

Bloody Repulse for Foe.

Fifteen hundred German dead were left in front of the British positions after an unsuccessful attack delivered early this morning by strong German forces along a six-mile front on the Bapaume-Cambrai road, according to the official report from Field Marshal Haig tonight. The British gained further ground in their advance upon both St. Quentin and Lens.

The text of the communication reads:

"Fighting again today northwest of St. Quentin, we gained ground east and north of Gricourt, and captured some prisoners. We also further progressed in the neighborhood of Havrincourt wood and east of Lievin, where our troops are approaching the outskirts of Lens.

1,500 German Dead.

"Further particulars of the enemy attack this morning astride the Bapaume-Cambrai road show that his losses were even heavier than at first reported. The attack was pressed with great determination under a heavy fire from our infantry and artillery. In addition to the 300 prisoners captured, 1,500 dead Germans were left in front of our positions.

"Our airplanes carried out successful bombing raids yesterday. Valuable work was performed in co-operation with our artillery. Severe fighting occurred in the air throughout the day. Four German airplanes were brought down, and eleven others were driven down by our machines. Ten of our airplanes are missing."

Lens Entered by Canucks?

British patrols entered Lens between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning, according to a dispatch received from the special correspondent of Lloyds' News. The village of Lens was beleaguered by Canadians.

The official British statement issued at noon today said that British troops had captured the German defences east of Lievin, from Riaumont wood to the eastern corner of Cite St. Pierre, and were pushing on in the direction of Lens.

An attack this morning by the Germans on a six-mile front on both sides of Bapaume-Cambrai road was a failure. The Germans gained a foothold at only one point, at Lagnicourt, and were driven out there with heavy losses by a counter-attack.

NO BLADE OF GRASS LEFT ON VIMY RIDGE.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, via London, April 15.—(By Stewart Lyon, Special Correspondent of the Canadian Press.)—This dispatch is written in the depths of a German dugout near the crest of Vimy Ridge. It is Sunday morning. The battalion commander and staff, who are occupying the dugouts, are snatching a few hours' sleep, after a long day of hard work upon the roads. The work of this sort already done is wonderful. The battlefield, across which trails and roads had to be constructed, was so pitted with shell holes that, as an officer said, not one blade of grass remains, and there is not a spot without either a shell hole or a mound thrown up by the explosions.

How any men lived in the trenches through the bombardment which produced these amazing results on an area of over two million square yards is inconceivable. Dante never imagined any inferno like it. That great numbers of the enemy were buried in their trenches becomes evident as the clearing up proceeds. Many so buried were disinterred by later shells, which destroyed their place of sepulture.

Surface of Earth Changed.

The disaster which overtook the German army here on the ridge of Vimy will remain a perpetual monument in the unparalleled destruction of the hill as though by some convulsion of nature that changed the surface of the earth. Sheep may graze in the trenches, craters and shell holes, but months of labor by a great army would not prepare the soil for the plow.

The enemy is doing his best tonight to add to the desolation. He has been shelling steadily the crest of the ridge with his big guns located in the vicinity of Lens, which, at this time, still holds out against us, and points well out on the plain to which he has been driven. Since his retreat began his efforts to stay the forwarding of our guns and supplies have been pitiably futile. Our answering fire is increasing steadily in volume as night passes and fresh batteries come into action. The captured enemy guns are playing an important part in convincing the Germans that the vicinity of Vimy Ridge is a most unhealthy place for them.

Thirty Feet Underground.

Despite the vibration of the gunfire when at its worst, this dugout evidently was occupied by some high German officer as a safe and comfortable place. Its safety is proved by the fact that while the ground thirty feet above the ceiling is pitted with shell holes the beams of the ceiling remain unshaken. In the matter of comfort the former occupant was evidently a specialist. The wall is covered with burlap in green and below a yellow dado. A wooden moulding runs around the room and an engraving after Millais is a feature of the decorative scheme. The heat is supplied by a good stove and it is now heating the place so well that some of the men, accustomed to the Alberta temperature, have just insisted upon more ventilation. There are racks for books, and papers are plentifully provided. The bed of the herr commandant is most comfortable.

The "Impossible" Done.

It was the boast of its garrison that Vimy could not be taken. In building their underground habitations the enemy gave evidence that they believed their boast could be made good. The westerners who have hung their belongings on the German commandant's clothes pegs are, for the most part, amateurs, who regard the colonel as their big brother, and express their hope that they may get back to the ranch soon. It would bring the blush of shame to the herr commandant's face to hear what they say about war as an exact science, and of the former occupant of this dugout as an exponent thereof. Besides those two million yards of churned-up earth and the German dead who await a burial party at daylight prove that the herr commandant was not a scientist, but a blind leader of the blind.

Sunday has been quiet. An officer and ten men on patrol were captured by the Germans out on the plain. Later all succeeded in getting away, except one man who was killed.

CLARION CALL

president. "It is of the most imperative importance that everything possible be done, and done immediately, to make sure of large harvests. I call upon young men and old alike, and upon the able-bodied boys of the land, to accept and act upon this duty—to turn in hosts to the farms and make certain that no pains and no labor is lacking in his great matter.

Increase Production.

"I particularly appeal to the farmers of the country to plant abundant foodstuffs, as well as cotton. They can show their patriotism in no better or more convincing way than by resisting the great temptation of the present price of cotton and helping, helping upon a great scale, to feed the nation and the peoples everywhere who are fighting for their liberties and for our own. The variety of their crops will be the visible measure of their comprehension of their national duty."

There is a special appeal, perhaps a note of warning, in the address to the middlemen.

Warns the Middlemen.

"The eyes of the country will be especially upon you," they are told. "This is your opportunity for signal service, efficient and disinterested. The country expects you, as it expects all others, to forego unusual profits, to organize and expedite shipments of supplies of every kind, but especially of food, with an eye to the service you are rendering and in the spirit of those who enlist in the ranks, for their people, not for themselves. I shall confidently expect you to deserve and win the confidence of people of every sort and station.

"To the men who are on the railways of the country, whether they be managers or operative employees, let me say that the railways are the arteries of the nation's life and that upon them rests the immense responsibility of seeing to it that these arteries suffer no obstruction of any kind, no inefficiency or slackened power. To the merchant let me suggest the motto: 'Small profits and quick service,' and to the shipbuilder the thought that the life of the war depends upon him. The food and the war supplies must be carried across the seas, no matter how many ships are sent to the bottom.

"Let me suggest, also, that everyone who creates or cultivates a garden helps greatly to solve the problem of the feeding of the nations; and that every housewife who practices strict economy puts herself in the ranks of those who serve the nation. This is the time for America to correct her unpardonable fault of wastefulness and extravagance."

In closing his appeal, the president asked all editors and publishers to give wide publicity to the statement, asked advertising agencies to distribute freely and suggested that clergymen of the country make it subject "of comment and homily from their pulpits."

FAVORS SECESSION IF LIQUOR TRAFFIC IS CONTINUED IN ENGLAND

Rev. James McKay Says Thousands of Canadians Are Ruined.

Declaring that thousands of young Canadian soldiers are becoming moral and physical wrecks because of conditions in England, Rev. James MacKay, a Scotsman, and pastor of New St. James' Presbyterian Church, denounced the moneyed interests which, he claimed, were responsible for the continuance of conditions against the will of the great majority of the people. He stated that he had seen in London, England, a hospital maintained solely for Canadian soldiers stricken with disease as a result of the immoral conditions which prevail through liquor. These men, he said, never reached the front and returned to Canada to be a blight on the national life.

He urged wartime prohibition, furthermore, because of the economy it would effect in grain supplies. He had little sympathy for Great Britain in the matter of a food shortage, he said, while it allowed the liquor interest to drain the resources of the country. He would favor Canada's secession from the mother country if she continued to permit the traffic.

INFANT DAUGHTER BURIED.

The funeral of Louise Dicks, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dicks who died on Saturday, was held today from her parents residence on the Base line to Woodland Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. William Walker of the London South Baptist Church and by Rev. Dr. H. S. Dougall of the Askin Street Methodist Church.

ST. QUENTIN AND LENS BOTH DOOMED TO FALL; IRON RINGS TIGHTEN

Civilian Population of Lens Has Been Removed.

RELIEF RATIONS SEIZED

Fierce Battle at Lagnicourt, Where Germans Are "Cut to Bits."

[From a Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.]

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, April 15, via London.—Fighting like men with their backs to the wall, the Germans are making desperate resistance to the British advance, especially along the Hindenburg line, from Queant to St. Quentin. This line has been definitely broken between Queant and Arras; consequently the Germans are attempting to hold from Queant southward.

In the meantime Lens was being approached late today from three directions. The civilian population was evacuated by the Germans on Friday; no person was allowed more than 30 pounds of baggage. With the departure of the civilians the Germans seized three months' rations gathered at Lens by the American relief commission.

Lens and St. Quentin Ablaze.

Fires continued to glow in Lens today, while far away to the south fires were seen within St. Quentin, towards which the British and French are converging. Realizing that the important town of Queant, the switch point of the Hindenburg line, was threatened by the close proximity of the British, the Germans early today launched an attack from there over a six-mile front. While suffering immediate reverses everywhere else, they managed by the concentration of artillery to recapture Lagnicourt, opposite Queant, which was taken from them several weeks ago. Their victory at this point was short lived, however, for the British immediately counter-attacked and retook Lagnicourt with more than 200 prisoners, and, catching the retreating Germans under an intensive field gun fire, cut them to bits. Thus ended the first real "defensive offensive" the Germans have attempted since the battle of Arras began.

Nervous and Jumpy.

From one end of the British front to the other the Germans are palpably nervous and jumpy. Where they have been driven from their old positions they are feverishly digging in at every opportunity, particularly at night. Each morning new airplane photographs show the result of the nocturnal activities behind the temporary line. Most of the new trenches are merely emergency defences built at angles, with a view to giving cover to machine guns, with which the Germans hope to delay the British advance until their further work can make the rear defences tenable.

It is now stated that no part of the Hindenburg line was expected to be completed until the end of April, despite the claims that the recent western retirement has been entirely according to German plans.

Easily Made Panicky.

Where the Germans still hold their old positions to the north of Loos the slightest movement on the part of the British sends them into a panic. Flares and signal rockets of all colors spring from their trenches. Bombs are cast into "No Man's Land"; trench mortars set up a defensive barrage and artillery help is frantically called for.

Some of the German flares and lights are most amusing, as well as spectacular. Their latest star shells have a parachute attachment and hang suspended in the air for a long time, lighting up the surrounding country for several hundred yards. They break into three balls and the British soldiers call them "pawn brokers."

The Germans in the front line have long been worried by the inferiority of their artillery to that of the British. A recently-captured report makes complaint that the artillery often fails to answer the call for help, and continues:

Morale Sure Is Shaken.

"For our infantry, which since the Somme battle has been on the defensive, it is from the point of view of morale of importance to be able to count upon artillery support. Infantry that comes to regard itself merely as a target for the hostile artillery must in the long run give way. A prompt and effective reply to hostile shells has a recuperative effect on the morale of the troops, even in the most difficult situations."

Conditions within the German lines just prior to the battle of Arras and the depressed state of many of the German soldiers are eloquently described in translated extracts from letters captured during the recent fighting. Two letters in particular, both written by Bavarians in regiment opposite Arras, are wonderfully impressive. One of them indicates clearly the disheartening effect the entry of the United States into the war has had. It is dated April 6 and reads:

Cause No Longer Righteous.

"We now have a very bad position at Arras, where we have been under a continuous hurricane of fire for six days. The English at times fire gas shells, which are not exactly pleasant. When everything imaginable is turned against us one cannot stand it, then everything is over. It is enough to drive one mad.

"It is no longer a righteous cause; of that I am convinced. But one always begins to hope again, and think that it must come to an end. But it is not possible. The world is still in too mad a state. We are the tools and allow ourselves to be belabored.

"Now America comes in to make it last longer. Everybody wants to chip in. I believe it will never end; peace will never return to the land."

The second letter, dated Easter, which was the day before the British attack began, tells how unwelcome to the Germans have been the weapons of their own invention when turned against them. It says:

British Gas Deadly.

"For the last four days the English have been firing gas shells all over the country in order to harm the Germans as much as possible. This regiment—the 8th Bavarian—has already had considerable losses in killed and gassed. The sad point is that the English gas is almost odorless, and can only be seen escaping from the shell by the practiced eye. The gas steals slowly over the ground in a blueish haze, and kills anyone who does not draw his mask as quick as lightning over his face before taking a breath.

"The night before last I was in the front line. What a sight! The last time we were in the front line trenches we were easily accessible. Now all communications and all parapets have been shot to pieces. It is a gruesome sight there. The prospect looks terrible. Our people say that things were not as bad at Verdun as here."

Expected Arras Attack.

Another captured document shows that the Germans fully appreciated the meaning of the extensive British preparations about Arras, but had no idea that the blow was coming so swiftly or with such force. The presence of the Canadians within the zone of probable attack had a particularly disquieting effect.

It further declares that to succeed in their plans the British would have to take Vimy Ridge, leaving the inference that the Germans thought this task an impossibility. German officers taken during the battle were incredulous when told that the British not only hold Vimy Ridge, but have pressed far beyond. They say that the plans and the orders to all reserves were to counter-attack at once if the British threw the Germans off the crest.

Canadians Determined.

However, when the Canadians, ably assisted by an English division, went after Vimy Ridge this time, it was with the determination to place that long-disputed vantage ground once for all within the allied lines.

It is one of the petty perversities of the great world war that some of the most homeric fighting on Vimy Ridge should have been about a place rejoicing in the name of "The Pimple."

The Associated Press correspondent met some worn and muddy Canadians returning from beyond "The Pimple" yesterday afternoon. Among them were many Nova Scotians. They had been fighting from Sunday night until Friday night, and declared they had enjoyed every minute of it.

Tired, But Satisfied.

They were not in "The Pimple" all this time, but well beyond it. Before the Pimple could be cut out, however, it was necessary to drive the Germans back through several converging tunnels, which were fortified in such a manner that they were believed to be absolutely impregnable. The Germans within those tunnels said they felt so safe that they hoped to remain there for the rest of the war.

Some of the Canadians had subsisted on "iron rations" for five days, and had practically no water for three days. But they never thought of turning back for food or drink until their task was completed. They swung along with the dog tired, but satisfied, gait of men returned from a successful hunting expedition.

ARMLESS WONDER IS TEXAS JUDGE AT ROTARY CLUB

Judge Quentin D. Corley Has Overcome Great Obstacles.

TO AID WOUNDED MEN

Inventions Will Be Demonstrated For Men Who Have Lost Limbs.

As an object lesson in overcoming difficulties, Judge Quentin D. Corley of Dallas, Texas, is one of the most inspiring examples who has ever visited London. With his right army completely gone, and his left cut off above the wrist, he can take care of himself without the slightest assistance, using machines of his own invention to put on his clothing, in brief to do everything for himself that an ordinary man can with two arms.

At the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club, Judge Corley, who is a prominent Rotarian, delivered a most inspiring address on "Overcoming Difficulties." He demonstrated how he overcame the handicap of a terrible crippling, and made himself not only physically independent, but financially and mentally independent of others. He is on his way to Ottawa, where he will demonstrate his inventions to the militia authorities, in order that the cripples coming from the war may be made independent. There was a large attendance of the members and many visitors.

Help, Not Sympathy, Needed.

"We have all difficulties and handicaps," said Judge Corley. "The loss of my hands was not my greatest handicap. You men with two hands do not realize that the loss of one's hands means. You do not understand what a cripple is up against. You do not understand his thoughts. What a cripple needs is help, not sympathy.

"One in my position is met by many curious questions, and when in the hospital I resolved to answer all questions frankly and courteously. I did so, and instead of making people feel bitterly towards me because of discourtesy or grumpiness, I made friends.

"The worst handicap I encountered was that the people did not seem to realize that a man crippled such as I was could do anything. I tried to get work, but could not do so. Nobody believed that I could work. For three months I tried to get a friend to give me a position, and he finally gave it to me. I became a straw boss, that is, I bossed a lot of teams and men in some grading work. Public opinion, as I said before, was against me, but I determined to make good on that job, and I did. Later I superintended the construction of a number of houses.

Perfects the Inventions.

"During this time, being mechanically inclined, I set to work to invent means of making myself independent physically of others. For months and months I worked, and I have at last perfected my machines.

"Being ambitious, I took up the study of law, graduated, and was received at the bar. Later I was elected a justice of the peace, and now I am county judge of Dallas County, and have been for three terms. Altogether it has taken from eight to nine years to get all the apparatus ready for my use, and I think that it is as near perfection as possible. It represents an outlay of $1,500, and fully 365 days' time, working 10 hours a day, if it were computed that way. I feel pride in my work, and I am trying to help others overcome the handicaps that I have overcome."

What He Can Do.

Judge Corley then demonstrated how he put on his ties and collars, his coats, ties his shoes, shaved himself, wrote letters, in fact doing all the ordinary things that men do. It was an inspiration, and left no arguments whatever for the pessimist. He wrote a message to the Rotarians:

To the Rotarians of London, Ont.:

Gentlemen, I am glad to be with you today and trust that I may say or do something of benefit to those unfortunate men who have been wounded in the war.

Sincerely,
QUENTIN D. CORLEY.

Further, he told how he drove his own automobile, did his garden work and the repairs about his home.

Give Them a Chance.

"My message to you is that cripples do not want sympathy, they want help," he declared. "These men can do more than you think. Give them opportunities to help themselves. Give them a word of cheer and helpfulness. Give them something to ocupy their time and help them. When the boys come home from the war, you will be kind and generous to them. Take the cripples, and show them how they can help themselves, how they can be of great service to themselves and the country by doing honest and useful labor."

Judge Corley will talk to the soldiers at the Convalescent Hospital today.

The matter of naming delegates to attend the Rotary convention in Atlanta, Ga., this summer was left to the executive. The question of giving wounded soldiers automobile rides was left with a special committee, who will make all the necessary arrangements. The executive will also name delegates to go to Montreal to a "Win the War" convention in May.

MUST PAY $30 FOR SUPPORT OF WIFE

Robert Ingram Must Also Make Up "Arrears."

Robert Ingram of Trafalgar street, was ordered by Magistrate Graydon in police court today to pay $30 a month towards the support of his wife and child. Husband and wife have been separated for some months, and the wife claimed that her husband had not paid her any allowance for four months.

He paid $50 on the arrears today, and will pay $10 a month on the balance of $70 arrears in addition to the $30 a month ordered. The evidence was heard in camera.

57 WEEK-END "DRUNKS."

New crop futures at first showed a downward tendency on account of better weather conditions, but later rallied owing to strength of cash wheat and of the May option.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

London, April 16.—The excellent war news at the end of the week caused the stock market to open confidently today. Fair buying improved Allied bonds, while Argentine rails continued to lead the advance in the foreign section. In the speculative issues, rubber, oil and metal shares were active and firm. American securities moved narrowly and irregularly, with a small turnover in low-priced issues. Money was in good demand in preparation for treasury bill payments and to meet the calls for the French and British loans this week. Discount rates were firm and bills scarce.

WALL STREET.

New York, April 16—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Gains and losses, for the most part fractional, were quite evenly distributed during today's early dealings, trading being light in volume and of a cautious character. Equipments and munitions were variable with the several groups of war issues. Rails developed further irregularity, especially coalers, Reading losing half a point, with 2 points for Norfolk and Western. This was offset to a degree by the strength of Baltimore and Ohio and Louisville and Nashville. Gas shares were again among the weak features, People's Gas losing 3 points. United States Steel reacte from its firm opening, with similar tendencies in other prominent industrials.

Noon. — Operations broadened and pressure became more regular. Soft spots were recovered by the increasing selling of professional traders, and additional liquidation seemed to result from the president's proclamation emphasizing the need of economy and small profits. United States Steel fell 1¾, with 2¼ for Bethlehem Steel, new stock, and 1 to 3 for most industrials and war supply issues. Marines weakened on reports that Great Britain had extended its control over ships of British registery, and rails made further concessions. Bonds were irregular, with United States Government ½ to 2½ points lower on call.

1:30 p.m.—The list continued to lose ground in the afternoon, shippings showing acute weakness at an extreme decline of 5 to 7 points. Steel and high-grade rails also registered further losses. Specialties and minor issues followed the general downward trend.

LIEUT. RICHARDS GOES TO AN IMPORTANT POSITION

Prominent S. A. Officer Becomes Secretary to Commissioner.

A special service was held at the Salvation Army Citadel, Clarence street on Sunday evening by Adjutant and Mrs. Kenrall of Toronto, as a farewell to Lieut. Webber, who after thirteen months service as cashier and secretary to Brigadier Rawling, divisional commander, is leaving on Thursday to take up his new duties as private secretary to Commissioner Richards, chief officer of the Salvation Army in Eastern Canada.

Lieut. Webber in a brief address, spoke of the pleasant time he had spent in London, and of the pleasure it had afforded him to be of some little assistance to those with whom he had come in contact in his work.

He said that when the 142nd Battalion had gone overseas, practically the whole Salvation Army had gone with it, and that it had been one of his duties to create a new band. New players were taught and the band had again been brought up to its strength of 22 members.

In conclusion, he stated that he would always remember London and his friends here, and when an opportunity to return was afforded him, he would come back with a great deal of pleasure.

The ladies of the band are providing a supper as a farewell to Lieut. Webber, who has conducted the band for the past year, on Tuesday evening.

With the departure of Lieut. Webber the London staff of the Salvation Army loses one of its most capable officers. During his short stay in this city he has proved himself most efficient, both in his work with the band, and in the divisional office. He was always found willing to do a good turn, and his place will be hard to fill. He leaves for Toronto on Thursday to assume his duties as secretary to Commissioner Richards, and he will take with him the congratulations of his friends on his promotion to a more responsible position, and their good wishes for his future success.

THE NARRAGANSETT SUNK

Great Tanker Torpedoed Off the Coast of Ireland.

New York, April 16.—The British tank steamer Narragansett, a ship of 9,196 tons, and one of the largest carriers of bulk oil ever built, has been torpedoed and sunk somewhere off the Irish coast, according to word brought here today by officers of a British ship.

The Narragansett was owned by the Anglo-American Oil Company, represented here by E. A. Eames. At the office of the company it was said no word of the vessel had been received, although several reports that she had met with disaster, had reached here from unofficial sources.

The Narragansett was last reported when she left here for a British port on March 5. She was built in 1903 at Greenock, Scotland, was 512 feet long and could carry 11,000 tons of oil.

CITY BREVITIES

FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS.—The returned soldiers at the convalescent home will be treated to an excellent program of songs and dances Tuesday night when the Munro-Robinson Concert Company, assisted by the Lombardo Orchestra, will put on a high class entertainment. The artists will also provide refreshments for the boys.

FIELD DAY FOR CADETS. — A meeting for the purpose of organizing a field day to be participated in by the various cadet corps of the public schools of the city, will take place this afternoon at 4:30 in the city hall, and will be attended by the principals and the cadet instructors of the public schools of the city. Inspector Edwards and Capt. A. C. Barclay, organizer and inspector of cadet corps for this district, will also be present, and it is expected that instead of holding a separate inspection for each of the school corps plans will be arranged for a massed inspection of all the corps on the same day, as has been done in St. Thomas and other places with good results.

A BUMPER BANQUET.—The members of the Latter Day Saints' Church held a bumper banquet in the basement of their new church on Maitland street. Arrangements were made under the management of John Vasbinder, who also acted as toastmaster. Refreshments were in charge of a committee headed by Mrs. W. A. Hardy. A toast list included "The King"; "The Church," by Elder James Winegarden; "Canada," by Elder W. I. Fligg. A special toast, "A Light Subject," was responded to by Jack Judkins of the hydro power station. J. C. Mottashed was unable to respond to his part on the program through illness. A night letter was sent to the general conference, now in session at Lamoni, Iowa, by the banqueters, expressing support and fidelity. A neat sum was realized to reduce the church debt.

TROUSERS, NOT MONEY, HIS CHIEF CONCERN

Glencoe Man Mentions Loss of Money Only Incidentally.

A citizen of Glencoe writes High Constable Watterworth that someone entered his residence three weeks ago and purloined a pair of trousers hanging on the wall. After relating in detail the theft of the trousers, he calls attention to a minor detail in connection with the theft. He says: "The trousers contained $155 in money, besides a number of valuable papers."

Reading further on in the letter, the writer informs the high constable that last Thursday while out driving he found a leather purse containing a sum of money.

"The purse is identical with the one I lost, and the bills correspond, being the same denomination and issued by the same bank," he says at the conclusion of the letter.

"I wonder if this fellow thinks I am an expert on Chinese puzzles," commented the high constable.

WEDDING BELLS

QUIET WEDDING.

A quiet marriage was solemnized Saturday evening at the King Street Presbyterian Church manse by Rev. W. R. McIntosh, when Tryphena Catherine Thompson of this city became the bride of Herbert Willmot Thompson of Detroit. On account of the recent death of the bride's mother there were no friends present. The couple were unattended and will reside in Detroit.

SAME OLD ALIBI

As Germans Report It, Nothing But Repulses for the British.

Berlin, April 16.—Via London.—Between Soissons and Verdun, says the official statement issued today by German army headquarters, the British and French yesterday lost eleven airplanes, mostly of the latest type.

"On the northern bank of the River Scarpe," says the official statement, "our destructive fire kept down the British attacking waves and a storming attack could not be carried out.

"Northeast of Croiselles our fire rendered abortive a strong British attack, the enemy suffering severe losses.

"North of the Arras-Cambrai road," the statement adds, "our thrusts drove the enemy back on Lagnicourt and Boursies. To the sanguinary losses of the Australians must be added the loss of 475 prisoners and 15 machine guns, which have been brought in, and also 22 guns captured and rendered useless by explosion.

"Near St. Quentin," says the announcement, "the artillery fire again has increased.

"From Soissons to Rheims and in the Western Champagne there was exceptionally heavy artillery fire and mine-throwing.

"After the failure of enemy reconnoitring thrusts yesterday infantry fighting developed this morning over wide sectors."

INGERSOLL'S FALL FAIR TO BE BEST POSSIBLE

INGERSOLL, April 15.—A meeting of the directors of the Ingersoll North and West Oxford Agricultural Society was held in the council chamber on Saturday afternoon, when various questions pertaining to the fall fair were under discussion. A deputation of young men waited upon the board with the request that a standing field crop competition in oats be held, and that the age of the contestants be limited to 25 years. There are a number of young men in the vicinity have taken the department of agriculture's short course, and they are interested in the standing field crop. The directors finally acceded to the request, and it is believed there will be a big list of entries. A canvass will be made at once in this connection.

It is the aim of the society to improve the fair this season, and no efforts will be spared in obtaining attractions and increasing the prizes in several respects. The fair last year was probably the most successful in the history of the society, and it is hoped to do still better this year.

We know what is wanted here and we know where to procure the shoes to suit our trade. We buy from American and Dominion shoe manufacturers who have made a great reputation for their output. It takes time and study to achieve this, and our steadily increasing trade with men, for dependable shoes, testifies to our success along these lines.
The Smart Styles are the leaders in sales this year, and owing to our good fortune in having our orders placed early last year, before the great advance in leather and findings, our prices are lower than would be possible to make for the same quality of shoes bought today.

BLAMES CATHOLICS FOR LOWER CANADA RECRUITING APATHY

Ex-Mayor Hockin Addressed Big Meeting of Orangemen.

CANADA'S OPPORTUNITY

Great Future for Dominion When the War Is Over.

Claiming that Roman Catholic influence had caused the defeat of conscription in Australia, and was responsible for the apathy of the French Canadian population here, towards the war, H. C. Hockin, ex-mayor of Toronto, delivered a rousing address on "Protestantism and the War" to a large sized meeting in the Orange Hall Sunday night. He called on the members to make known the attitude of the French Canadian to the Allied cause and what he was doing to aid it. There would be attempts after the war, he said, to elaborate the part taken by the French Canadians and it was necessary that this attempt should be combatted now.

He claimed that in France, once recognized as a Catholic country, the corruption and abuse which the church practiced through public institutions and establishments of its own caused the people to drive it out of the country. Thousands of its members who left because of the restrictive laws went not to Catholic countries, he claimed, but to England and Canada and other British possessions. They found freedom only under British rule, freedom which they used, only to gain control of the government and country.

With the Kaiser.

He called on the members of the Orange order to lose no opportunity of making it known that it is Catholic countries and Catholic peoples fighting with the Kaiser. It was not the policy of the papacy to do anything else but that because it was the most autocratic organization in the world. The pope, he said, claimed not only the religious obedience of his subjects, but the political obedience as well.

"The war will be won by the faithfullness of two great Protestant countries, England and the United States," said the speaker and added that although the States was not yet deeply involved it would undoubtedly become one of the deciding factors of the struggle. "If it had not been for Britain separate peace treaties would have been made long ago by some of the countries influenced by Catholicism."

He pointed out that although Germany was called a Protestant country, half of her people were under Catholic influence. It was not in so-called Protestant countries that the greatest opposition to papal rule was found, he said. Laws in Italy, one of the Catholic countries of the world, forbade priests to enter the home of persons married by the mayor of the city and not by church officials, to declare that the marriage was illegal and their married life wrong. The jail sentence imposed for that in Italy, he said would be regarded as persecution here.

Can't Hold Land.

Mexico, another Catholic country, he claimed had found it necessary to pass laws forbidding the church to hold land and also to prohibit the establishment of nunneries. The inhabitants found that every young woman who possessed wealth was being cajoled or co-oerced to enter a nunnery that the Catholic Church might gain control of her wealth and lands and through them the control of the country was gradually passing into the hands of the church and its officials. All the presidents he said had violated these laws but Carranza was attempting to restore them. The promotion of trouble in Mexico, he claimed to be due to Catholic influence.

Outlining the part in which Orangemen are playing in the war, he said: "If at any time in history we had reason to be proud of our institution, it is today. The time will come when we will have in Canada the most powerful nation in the world. We are laying the foundations now and we must lay them in the manhood and womanhood of our country. They should be instructed in the fact that Protestantism gave liberty to the world, and it was William of Orange put an end to the 'divine right of kings' when he accepted the crown from the British people.

Last Great Nation.

"Canada with its immense resources will be the last great country in the world to be settled, the last great nation to arise. Make it an example. That is your task and mine. It can only be done when each man does his best in a spirit of fervent loyalty to God, king and country. One of the things we must fight is the power which is seeking to dominate the world.

"It must be a fight waged without bitterness, and must be against the Roman Catholic power as a political institution rather than a religious belief." The fight was absolutely necessary he claimed and no greater calamity could befall the country than the fall of the Orange Order as it was now the only organization keeping up the struggle. "The pulpits are silent, the ministers will preach anything but opposition to papacy because of constant requests to 'let us have a good understanding. Don't stir up strife!'"

There was no treason in talk merely because it stirred up strife, he said and claimed the same right which he said Bishop Fallon exercised in his denunciation of Lloyd George's Irish policy.

Protestantism has become anaemic, according to the speaker. He claimed that the average minister's fears of being called a bigot made him one of the biggest cowards in the world. It was because of this that Protestantism was weak, he said and quoted Emerson to the effect that "God will not have his words made manifest by cowards."

Stirs Opposition.

Every movement, he said, stirred up opposition but if those behind the movement had the conviction in their hearts that the cause was right they would see it through. The women, he stated, are to play an important part in the next election in furthering the cause. Canada, he declared, would become a great country because of the virility of her people.

SAYS PRESS AND POLITICIANS "KOW TOW" TO CATHOLICS

E. T. Essery Warns Orangemen to Beware "Judas In Our Own Party."

That the political leaders of both parties "kow-tow" to the Catholic vote was the claim made by E. T. Essery at Orange Hall last night, and added that the newspapers, being, he claimed, subservient to the political leaders, were subservient also to the Catholic rule.

"If Bishop Fallon was to baptize a nigger baby tomorrow and make a speech with it in his arms, the newspapers would report it word for word," he said and added that speeches by prominent Orangemen were given no publicity at all.

The Orangemen he said had been betrayed by men they elected to Parliament.

"It is easier to watch the enemy than the Judas in our own party," he declared in accusing them of betraying their promises to Orangemen. Commending the part which Orangemen are playing in the war, he declared that every third man in the 1st Contingent was an Orangeman and that the same ratio was being preserved throughout the enlistments.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

VICTORIA PARK.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

When so much money is annually spent upon the upkeep of our parks it appears to be an offence to allow Victoria Park to be so disfigured by the public making short cuts across its swards and by walking along the edges of the grass bordering on the walks. Reference is made more particularly to the plot lying between the centre east gate and the fountain, and the walk on the west side of the park between the south and centre gates. In the former case the grass is so worn down that no matter how favorable the season may be the damage done will be an eyesore the whole summer. The latter for some eight inches on either side are completely bare of grass—with the semblance of a path and the sign "please" beside it appears to be accepted by many of the public as an invitation to travel it. To many a surface of well-kept lawn is as pleasing and refreshing to the eye as a bed of blooms. Perhaps Park Superintendent Smith is not aware that there is a bylaw protecting his care from these invasions. Some years ago members of the police were detailed for duty in the park to enforce the bylaw (but one bylaw at a time is as much as our chief and his stalwarts can cope with), with the result that a score or more of the offenders were summoned and fined. The trespassing soon stopped. Would it not be well to again invoke the aid of the guardians of the law while there is yet time to preserve our "breathing spot" as a "thing of beauty," and not converted into a common, which it will soon become if the perversity of the selfish ones is not curbed?

There is quite a difference between strolling on the grass, which does it no harm, and making short cuts across it to and from the city.

J. M. ROSS OF LUCAN LIBERAL CANDIDATE IN EAST MIDDLESEX

Chosen at Rousing Rally Held Saturday Afternoon.

FOUR WOMEN DELEGATES

Bungling Methods at Ottawa Criticized by Archie McCoig of Chatham.

James M. Ross, merchant, Lucan, reeve of that municipality, was chosen as the Liberal candidate for the House of Commons for East Middlesex, at a rousing meeting Saturday. He was not present, but allowed his name to go to the convention. He will announce his decision during the week, but it is expected that he will run.

The convention was largely attended, although before the decision was reached, practically only the executive remained. The matter of a choice was left to that body. It happened that two names were left on the list, Warden Archie Blaikie's and Mr. Ross'. There was no direct information as to Mr. Blaikie's intentions, as he could not attend. Late in the afternoon, he arrived at Hyman Hall, and announced that he could not be a candidate. The executive named Mr. Ross without opposition. The delay was unfortunate, and left matters in a confused state for some time. However, the difficulty was finally straightened out, and Mr. Ross will be given the loyal and enthusiastic support of the Liberals in this riding.

Four Women Present.

The convention was the first to have women delegates. Four ladies responded to the call, Mrs. James Walls, Mrs. Dugal Thompson, Miss Mary Rosser and Miss Elda Demaray. None spoke or took part in the discussion but they evinced great interest in the proceedings. They knew more about the game of politics than some of the male delegates.

Ten names were placed before the convention: James Ross, Lucan; Dr. P. Banghart, Dorchester; C. R. Sanagan, London; J. Harry Fowler, London; Dr. Geo. A. Routledge, ex-M.P.P., Lambeth; Warden Archie Blaikie, Middlesex; Controller E. S. Little, London; Thomas Ramsay, Hyde Park; W. E. Grieve, Westminster, and W. F. McGuffin, West Nissouri. All retired save Mr. Ross.

"I have done my duty as a candidate," said Dr. Routledge, "but I have not done my duty as a Liberal. I will do my utmost to help any man chosen at this convention. There never was a more opportune time for victory than now."

No Easy Task.

"We have no easy task in East Middlesex, but with hard work, and the enthusiasm that is manifested here, there is no reason why we cannot redeem East Middlesex," said Controller E. S. Little. "Such rottenness as rules in this Government was never known in the history of the Dominion. I am too busily engaged to be a candidate, but I am behind any man you name."

"Canada needs statesmen at this time, and the Liberal party can furnish the statesmen," said Dr. Banghart. "We don't want politicians at Ottawa, but we do need men of vision and foresight, and statesmanship. If I were in a position to accept, I would count it my greatest privilege to lead the Liberals of East Middlesex to victory.

The other speakers all declined in brief speeches, but pledged their support to the candidate.

C. R. Sanagan moved that a unanimous nomination be tendered to Mr. Ross. The motion was seconded by Thomas Ramsay.

W. F. McGuffin raised the point as to whether or not Warden Blaikie would allow his name to stand. He was not present, and it was essential, in his opinion, that Mr. Blaikie's position be made known.

A hunt was started for Mr. Blaikie, and in the interim, the selection of a candidate was held up.

Praises Women.

A. B. McCoig, M.P., for Kent, delivered an excellent speech while information was being sought from Mr. Blaikie. He paid a glowing tribute to the women of Canada, who have shown such amazing qualities during the war. The gift of the ballot, at the demand of the Liberal leaders, was no more than their due. He also spoke of the magnificent bravery and courage of the Canadian soldier, who had emblazoned the fame of Canada throughout the whole world.

"It is very interesting to read the speeches and note the attitude of the Conservative politicians, now that the United States had joined the Allies in the fight for freedom," said Mr. McCoig. "A few years ago, the Liberals were accused of disloyalty because of a trade agreement, and the Tories wanted no truck nor trade with the Yankees. Now that has all changed, and they are glad of the protection of the Americans on the Atlantic seaboard."

Arm Chair Farmers.

Mr. McCoig took a fling at the arm chair farmers in charge of the departments of agriculture at Ottawa and Toronto. Instead of having practical farmers in charge, they had lawyers, and what not, with the result that agriculture was in a worse state than ever before. No person in authority understood the situation, and the blundering that took place was scandalous in the extreme.

"The same holds true of every department, almost," continued Mr. McCoig. "We have Hon. Tom Crothers as minister of labor, a man who knew absolutely nothing about labor problems or about laboring men. What is needed at the head of that department is a practical labor man.

"When the Liberals wanted to open a seat and allow a practical farmer, a man who understood the situation from beginning to end, to be made minister of agriculture in the Ontario House, the Conservatives would not stand for it, with the result that a lawyer was placed in charge. Dr. Creelman, whether he be Liberal or Conservative, should have that place, and the Liberals would have allowed him an acclamation.

"Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, knows flowers, but he does not know farming. You can't feed a nation on flowers.

"A man in Kent who had a lot of cattle, but no feed, tried to get feed from his son in the West, who had no cattle, and the Government placed an embargo on the fodder. As a result, the cattle had to be sold, and this country must suffer because of this folly.

Buying Bungled.

"The Government bungled the buying of horses, with the result that the farmers were discouraged, and went out of the breeding business. Now Canada must suffer the loss of millions of money. The officials have been asleep on the job."

Organizer Adams, Toronto, for the Federal House, made a short address and urged that the riding be thoroughly and systematically organized.

In response to a demand from Organized Rean, of the Provincial House, it was decided to call a convention for the naming of a candidate for the Provincial House, after seeding. Several good men are available.

A resolution of condolence to the family of J. H. Elliott, Westminister, an active worker in the party, was passed unanimously.

The following officers were elected: President, W. E. Grieve, Westminster; vice-president, W. F. McGuffin, West Nissouri; secretary-treasurer, C. R. Sanagan.

Township vice-presidents:

London Township—Messrs. Anderson, Fortner, Cody, J. A. Hughes, George Cairncross.

NEARLY HALF MILLION WORDS IN ENGLISH

"The English vocabulary has grown to great size," says Professor Clark S. Northup of Cornell University, one of the editors of The New Universities Dictionary now being distributed by this paper exclusively to its readers; "the number of words found in Old English literature does not exceed thirty thousand; recent dictionaries have listed more than four hundred thousand, mostly of foreign origin. Yet most writers use mainly English words.

"Shakespeare used ninety per cent of English words; the English Bible contains ninety-four per cent; Milton, eighty-one per cent; Addison, eighty-two per cent; Tennyson, eighty-eight per cent. Most of our shortest and simplest words are of native origin.

"If any language comes into close contact with another, there is likelihood of word-borrowing. English is one of the most cosmopolitan of languages. From the French it began to borrow even before the Norman conquest; after that, as intercourse with France increased, it borrowed heavily from the Norman and Parisian French. Many Spanish and Italian words have come in as a result of commercial activity."

Floods of coupons continue pouring in for The New Universities Dictionary. The distributing clerks are kept busy. The publishers have been ordered to keep a big supply bound and ready for emergency calls. It looks as though the raid on the supply would soon make a replenishment necessary. Such a rush was not expected, but this paper is greatly pleased to see readers taking such enthusiastic advantage of its educational offer.
