that have yet been offered for sale in this District. They are located on Grand, Russell and Fulton streets, one block and a half from Gowman's store.

This is not an ordinary subdivision as the adjoining property is built up, and lies very close to schools and churches. The lots are 33x 147 —prices from $300 to $325 and will be sold on the following easy terms:

$20.00 down and balance on Monthly Payments of $10 each. No Taxes to pay for 1913 Special Discount for Cash.

We expect this property will sell very quickly owing to location, and would advise intending purchasers to be on the ground promptly at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon next. Blue prints open for inspection at our office.

This section of the city is growing very rapidly, and this property is bound to increase in value, and we can recommend the property as a good buy at prices quoted.

We have arranged conveyances for down town buyers. Auto will be at our office at the disposal of intending purchasers Saturday afternoon, and our representative will be on the Connaught Park premises.

TERRACE HILL and GRAND VIEW are growing faster this year than any other part of Brantford. Land is high and dry, level, and in a most healthy district possible to find. Almost all the conveniences and advantages of down town, with township taxes and garden area on these lots.

Information now available. Call or 'phone us. If you want a home, this is choice; if an investment, it's good.

Foreigner is Being Charged With Murder in High Court.

[Canadian Press Despatch]

HAMILTON, Ont., April 4 .- Another man was placed on trial for his life at the assizes here to-day when Wasil Boyka, accused of hacking to pieces with a hatchet Casimir Linkiewitz, fellow countryman, during a drunken orgy last February, faced a charge of murder. The crown and defense challenged every city man called and Boyka's fate will be settled by a ury of farmers. Witnesses at this morning's session described the scene in the house the night of the tragedy. They told how the two men sat up late carousing. During the night they heard a heavy object being dragged across the floor. In the morning they found a trail of blood that led out into the yard, where the victim had been dragged Boyka, the police said, admitted the crime. Boarders told how he said he would cut up everyone in the house. The case will probably go to the jury ides of several cars, a number of oors being hurled long distances. There was also an attempt during the night to blow up Oxted station n Surrey, on the London, Brighton & South Coast railway, but the damage caused by the explosion was inconsiderable, only the windows and doors of a lavatory being shattered. A traveling basket was found in the lavatory containing a clock timed to go off at a 3 a.m., and some cans of petrol. A fuse had been set into a small package of gunpowder, which evidently exploded without igniting the petrol. A revolver was found outside the lavatory, which apparently had been dropped during a hurried flight.

HAMILTON, April 4 .- On Sunday evening in the James street Baptist church, the pastor Rev. J. J Ross, will give the Hamilton public a statement upon the libel action brought against him by Pastor C. T Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle. Mr Ross has not yet given a statement on any aspect of this case, which has attracted such widespread interest. He says he regrets the case did not go to trial, and in order that the facts known to the defence may be given to the public, he feels that he should freely discuss the matter on Sunday night. He has specially invited followers of Russell to attend the service.

Bisley Try-Outs.

The Cadet Bisley Try-outs were held yesterday afternoon at the armories, Capt. Butcher, R.C.R., and Capt. Marshall were present to take charge. The results were not as good as in former years in view of the fact that only juniors are eligible this year. Yesterday was so dark and cloudy that the shooting was not so successful as heretofore. However, taking into consideration the fact that this is the first year that many of the cadets have shot in a tontinament the results are very good. Cadet A. Howard headed the list with 163 out of a possible 280. Cadet Kew second with 141 and Cadet G. Matthews third with a score of 135. These three Sergt. Major Oxtaby considers are the only ones that have a good chance.

The extension will all be in the rear of the building which will be widened to the size of the present front part and it will also be extended back to the fence. "At the present time we have ten distinct classes of books" stated the Librarian including fiction and the board purposes to have a small separate room for each class; in which there will be a reading table and chairs, and any one wishing to secure a book on historical lines may go in, look over the books and having found one is at liberty to get it out," This, said the librarian, will make the whole library more or less of a reference library. The room at present used as a board room will be greatly enlarged, and will be in future used as a lecture hall for the children's story hour and other meetings of various kinds. The library will be much larger and roomier and will be much more adequate.

Artistic Display Wall Papers!

You may not know that you are indeed a true lover of Art-you unconsciously have a feeling that you are not satisfied with the hangings of your rooms, and when you see an effect that is the something that appeals to your ideas of what is pleasing, you say: "Now, there is the style I have wanted for a long time, but it must be very expensive and difficult to make." Yes, perhaps you are right, but then, again, you may not be-there are many very elaborate effects attained by simply "knowing how." We make a specialty of "knowing how," and will be pleased to give any person the benefit of our advanced knowledge of the proper styles in paper hanging, and also of a stock that is right-up-to-now in

When Explanations are Due

By RUTH CAMERON

THERE is such a thing as doing too much explaining and apologizing. There is also such a thing as doing too little.

The man who is always justifying himself loses our attention and our respect; the man who is always too proud to justify himself often loses his A man was telling me the ther day about a misunderstanding which octurred at his business office. Two young men, of whom he was one, were lamed for a mistake. The fault really lay with the other man. He, himself. was blamelss, he said, and as he is an exceptionally fair-minded man even about things which concern himself, I believed him. But the other man went to their employer and made explanations which threw the blame on my confidant. "And so, you see." he concluded his story, "I'm in bad."

But wouldn't your employer believe your side of the case?" I asked.

He threw back his head proudly. "I didn't give it o him," he said. "If he couldn't believe in me without my coming to him with explanations, he will have to disbelive.'

Now that is what I call a very unfair attitude. And yet it is the point of view which proud people often take. They go through the world demanding that they shall be understood and appreciated without any effort on their part. They regard such an effort as lowering themselves. They do not realize that this is a very busy world, and if people are going to be understood and appreciated, they've got to come half way.

To withhold an explanation as that man did is to deliberately lay one's self open-to misunderstanding.

If one of the two parties fails to appear in a court of law, after due warning, the case goes against him by default. The presumption is that he did not have any case, and that is the natural presumption against any man who fails to present his side of such a misunderstanding.

A thoroughly nice young girl was once caught in a combination of circumstances that looked decidedly bad. Had she been one of those people who think their friends ought to believe in them without explanation, she would have been hadly misjudged. But she was more reasonable than that. She said, "I wouldn't blame my best friend for being suspicious of me under such circumstances. We never really know what anyone will do, and it certainly looks bad on the surface." So, instead of waiting for people to talk, she went to one of her most gossip-loving friends and told her everything, with the proof. The gossip, delighted to have inside information, spread the explanation abroad, and a scandal was averted.

Implicit and unquestioning trust is a rare quality, even among friends. Since we seldom give it, we have no right to expect to receive it.

March 15, at Dublin-Scotland Ireland I. March 17, at Bristol- England . Wales 5.

These results give three points each to Wales and Scotland and two each to England and Ireland, the latt " being the only country to have an adverse goal record, while Scotland is alone in having had less score against her than she has obtained. England has more goals than either of her rivals, but that is discounted for by the fact that she has given her position or to make it worse than chance. it is at present.

It is satisfactory to know that the international championship this sea-son will not depend upon goal ave -age. Either England or Scotland must come out on top and the chances favor the Thistle, whose representatives have only to draw at Chelsea to make certain of the championship, for Scotland would have four points against the three of England and Wales

Why Goals Were Prolific. A football match was arranged between the C. and D.
