Village Council Meeting

The Village council met Monday evening pursuant to adjournment.

The Reeve and all members were present. The minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted.

A communication was received from the Provincial Treasurer acknowledging the receipt of certified copies of By-law No. 217 of the Village of Waterdown, also No. 654 of the Township of East Flamboro.

A deputation of ladies waited on the council setting forth the work the Community League is undertaking re the Memorial Hall. They invited the council to be present at a meeting to be held in the Township hall on June 11th, when the building of the said Memorial hall will be thoroughly discussed.

Mr. C. P. McGregor also gave his report of the Hydro Radial meeting which he recently attended in Guelph.

By-law No. 218 re closing that portion of Water street enclosed in the "right of way" of the South Ontario Pacific Railway was given its three readings and finally passed.

The following accounts were passed and ordered paid.

Geo. Potts, 3 months salary Bell-ringing to June 30th.....$15

J. C. Medlar, Clerk and Treasurer, 3 months salary to June 30.....$37.50

Mr. John Smiley was appointed Constable of the Village of Waterdown at a salary of $100 per year, to remain so at the pleasure of the council.

On motion the council adjourned to July 14th.

Court of Revision

The members were then sworn in as a Court of Revision of the Assessment Roll for 1919.

There were no appeals re amount of assessment of any property. Two dogs were added to the roll and Mr. Gordon was assessed for the Zimmerman property on Victoria street as owner, Ernest Fallis as owner of the Edge property on south side of Nelson street, and Albert Hemingway as owner of the Duffy property on Union street. There being no further business the Court arose.

The home of Mr. Norman Binkley of the fourth concession was thrown into a great state of excitement on Sunday last, when upon returning from a walk, they found that their home had been entered during their absence. The only clue Mr. Binkley has to work on is the lady that was locked in by the marauders. Despite Mr. Binkley's efforts at cross-examining his unwelcome guest. She refused to divulge the names of her accomplices or give any information whatever. Several neighbors have volunteered suggestions, while one lady about a mile west of Mr. Binkley's declared positively that she saw them pass her place acting suspiciously and at once phoned several other neighbors to apprise them of her suspicions but even with the efforts of the neighbors the culprits made a clean get away.

At time of going to press Mr. Binkley still has his newly found treasurer as an inmate of his home and altho Mr. Binkley has been an ideal host she still refuses to give any information that would lead to the arrest of the comrades.

We must confess that we take off our hats to the lady in question, she is acting in a very honorably manner considering the dastardly trick played on her, and we firmly believe it is Mr. Binkley's intention to give the poor unfortunate a home as long as she cares to stay.

WHAT HE REALLY WANTED

The candidate after tiring his audience, wound up as follows: "I want housing reform; I want land reform; I want educational reform; I want

"Yes," shouted a bored voice from the audience, "you want chloroform."

Guess Who?

There is a man called _____
(A name of no renown)
He did not go to fight Hun,
But lives in Waterdown.

His hair, once was very brown,
His eyes are brownish too,
He always meets you on the street
With a cheery "How do you do!"

He isn't a canny Scotchman,
Nor a "Parley-vous Francais"
He may have streak of Irish,
I would not like to say.

Perhaps he came from Yankee land,
They turn out such as he;
And he isn't a Tommy Bull-dog
Who has the grip— Oh, Gee!

But he was born a Johnny Cannuck
In the land of the Maple tree,
And I always call him father,
And he's over eighty-three.

Apples at $12 a Barrel

One of the fruit dealers on the Toronto market received a genuine surprise last week when a farmer from Waterdown drove in with two barrels of apples and stated that he had 12 more like them at home. They were Spies of large size and high color and when he delivered the 14 barrels he received $168, or $12 per barrel. The fruit was firm and good, it was cleared out of the fruit merchant's warehouse at an advance on the price paid, in a few hours.

Father's Time

We've Mother's Day and Children's Day,

And dog-days soon are due;
We've days to loaf and days to work,
And days for heroes, too.

And now a movement is on foot
(At least the papers say)

To honor one who pays the bills—
And have a Fathers Day.

This idea seems a little late,
But, just the same, it's right;

Should father be consulted, through,
We'll bet he'll take a night.

Greenville

Mrs. Elliot of Brampton is visiting at the home of Wm. Gumbert.

Miss Annie Morden, of Hamilton, spent Sunday with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Taylor on Sunday visited with Mr. James Smith at Westover who is quite ill.

R. S. and Mrs. Miller and Mrs. C. Shields, of Hamilton, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. John Surerus.

Bob Anderson is under the doctors care.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mae Kay, whose death occurred last Thursday, took place on Saturday afternoon to Christ Church cemetery. Rev. Mr. Rowland officiating. She is survived by one sister and one brother.

Wedding bells are ringing for three of our young men.

Aldershot

The Aldershot Soldiers' Aid which has been doing such splendid work during the war, held its final meeting recently, but will resume work this coming winter. They had 50 pairs of socks and bandages on hand, which were sent to the Brant Military hospital. The society had a balance on hand of $350.00, which will be used in cases of emergency.

"Why call our soldiers doughboys?" asks a reader. The origin of the name is supposed to be due to the fact that they have a Baker for a boss—which led another man to add that the allies needed them. Get it?

Community League

The meeting in the Township hall last evening, called for the purpose of organizing a Community League, was attended by a large representative of the citizens of this village.

Mrs. W. A. Ryckman, President of the Patriotic League, called the meeting to order and briefly outlined the object of the new league, the building of a Memorial hall in the near future. J. F. Vatee was elected chairman and the work of the evening was proceeded with.

It was decided to hold the annual Garden party, which in the past has been so ably handled by the Patriotic League, under the auspices of the newly organized Community League.

The various committees for the celebration were all appointed and arrangements will be made by them for holding a "bigger and better than ever" event here on July 16th.

Another meeting will be held next Wednesday evening in the Township hall at which a good attendance is expected.

NOTICE OF MEETING

A meeting of the electors of Waterdown and Ward 2 East Flamboro interested in the candidature of a peoples candidate at the next Provincial election, will be held in the Township hall, Wednesday June 18th at 8 p. m. J. Douglas and Mr. Dickson of Dundas, with Warden Biggs and others will address the meeting. Delegates from each polling division will be appointed to meet in convention at Dundas on Saturday June 21.

The Last Straw

"Yes," said the man from New York, who stood on the deck of a Cunarder leaving Liverpool, "England is the most awful corner for tips I ever struck. I've been rooked at every turn for the last month, but," he added savagely, "the last try-on was a bit more than I could stand."

"What was that?" inquired the man to whom the remark was addressed.

"Well," said the tourist, "I had tipped every man from the Captain of the House of Lords down to the man that gummed the wrong labels on my luggage, and I went into the waiting-room on the landing-stage to wash my hands, and what do you think stared me in the face when I was finished but 'Please Tip the Basin' I'm hanged if I did!"—"Tip-Bits."

A COLD BLOW

The minister went to visit a poor woman in Scotland who had just lost her husband. He tried to speak consolingly to her by pointing out that the deceased was in a much happier state.

"Just think, my good woman," said the worthy divine, "your dear husband is perhaps at this moment playing a harp."

"Na, na," interrupted the sobbing widow, "mickle auld that'll dae his rheumathms, sittin' on a cauld cloud blawin' a trumpet."

A NEW HERO

A group of housewives were having tea together at a restaurant and talking over the events of the day. The question under discussion was as to who had done most to win the war. Some said Haig, others Beatty, others Foch.

At last one woman chirped in. "I don't know who's done most to win the war," she said, "but I know who's been most talked about."

"Who's that?" came a chorus.

"Why, this 'ere Alice Lorraine that the French and Germans came to blows over!"

More and better shaves

Did you ever see a barber start to shave a customer without stropping his razor first? Never! Isn't this fact significant?

Stropping, you see, is needed to reform the saw-like edge that results from shaving; to keep the blade free from rust; and to give you for each morning's shave a keen-edged blade. The self-stropping feature of the AutoStrop Razor preserves the keen edge that makes shaving comfortable.

Stropping — shaving, cleaning, are all done without removing the blade from the razor.

THE EYEBROWS.

Give a Good Insight to Character.

It is now conceded that the Greek eyebrow is quite in accord with the conception of mere physical beauty in women. Like the rosy mouth, it does not indicate the highest order of intelligence, and the arch is expressive always of greater sensibility and greater sense of character, says London Tit-Bits.

Scant growth of the eyebrows invariably denotes lack of vitality; on the contrary, heavy, thick eyebrows indicate a strong constitution and great physical endurance. They are not beautiful on a woman's face, however much they may signify either mental or bodily vigor, and when they are not only heavy, but droop and meet at the nose, they are disagreeable and are said to accompany an insincere and prying nature.

Romantic women usually have a very well-defined arch in the centre of the eyebrow, while a sense of humor is indicated in the arch nearer the nose. Long, drooping eyebrows, lying wide apart, indicate an amiable disposition. Where the eyebrows are lighter in color than the hair, the indications are lack of vitality and great sensitiveness. Faintly defined eyebrows placed high above the nose are signs of indolence and weakness.

Very black eyebrows give the face an intense and searching expression; when natural, they accompany a passionate temperament. Very light eyebrows rarely are seen on strongly intellectual faces, although the color of the eyebrows is not accepted simply as denoting lack of intelligence. The form gives the key to the faculties and their direction. Red eyebrows denote great fervor and ambition; brown, a medium between red and black.

A SUCCESSFUL AVIATOR.

Something About the Temperament of a Flier.

What type of men does "the air" produce? The London Lanet has made some inquiries in this direction, and published a paper by "a pilot of 600 hours' experience" and a medical officer at a flying field. Their conclusions are as follows:

"The mark of the successful aviator is 'the possession of a suitable temperament.' He has, as a rule, 'a fund of animal spirits' and is athletic. He possesses resolution, initiative, five, presence of mind, sense of humor, judgment; is alert, cheerful, optimistic, happy-go-lucky, generally a good fellow, and frequently lacking in imagination. His amusements when off duty are 'theatre, music (chiefly ragtime), billiards and dancing, and it appears necessary for the well-being of the average pilot that he should indulge in a really riotous evening at least once or twice a month. As for the 'fighting spirit' as distinct from the ordinary aviator, he may be described as the same, only more so. He is full of the joy of life, has 'little or no imagination, no sense of responsibility,' and 'very seldom takes his work seriously, but looks upon 'fun-stuff' as a great game.' Oddly enough, it is—so these critics affirm—better that he should 'know little or nothing of the details of his machine or engine.' No exhaustive knowledge of mechanics seems to be desirable. Is this perhaps because it is necessary that his flying apparatus should become part of himself? He is constantly obliged to give his attention to something other than the conduct of his airplane, which becomes subconscious. A fit man upon a fit machine should apparently not be preoccupied with the state of his body or its mechanical adjuncts.

"Being absorbed in the interest of their subject, and anxious to compare their observation with that of others in a good position to judge, the aviators and the doctor issued a questionnaire to fully qualified pilots and found their own conclusions marvellously confirmed, many of their points being very strongly emphasized. For instance, a very large number of those who replied to their questions as to the mental make-up of the successful aviator declare lack of imagination to be essential. In slightly different words, one aviator after another enumerates this negative requirement. 'Very little imagination'—again and again we read the same thing all down the list. One witness is very concise, and declares the two essential characteristics to be simply (1) lack of imagination, and (2) audacity. It is not easy to be quite sure what they all mean by lack of imagination, but other phrases of a similar kind may throw light upon the matter. An aviator should show, we read, 'abandonment of care,' and the words 'happy-go-lucky' and 'suggestions of irresponsibility' are constantly repeated. Does 'imagination' mitigate against a light heart? We suppose that it does.

"The aviators who fell—i. e., who began well and do not finally make good—are those who cannot stand loneliness. They have pluck enough, they can stand any danger in company with an instructor, but 'solo' flying is too much for them. As soon as they begin to fly alone they are constantly faced with a terrible choice. They must fly too low for safety or go up and chance getting 'lost' behind a cloud. This getting 'lost' seems to be of frequent occurrence and no especially grave danger, but one can well understand that a man of 'imagination' could hardly bear it in solitude.

Worth Remembering.

Cold boiled cabbage may be baked in a dish in alternate layers of white sauce, sprinkled with grated cheese. Good!

One teaspoonful of baking soda in a pint of water makes a good wash for plants covered with insects.

A very simple and good remedy for weak, tired eyes is to open and shut them several times in warm, salt water. Do not have solution too strong. They will also tend to brighten the eyes.

You can keep nickel ornaments on a range bright with ammonia. Nickel should be rubbed up every day to keep it looking nice.

When using salt to remove stains from silverware, the salt should be melted and a strong solution applied, otherwise you run the risk of scratching the silver.

To take iron rust out of white goods, cover with table salt and saturate with lemon juice. Expose to the sun till stain disappears. If badly rusted, you may have to repeat the process.

An Epsom salt bath is said to be good for women who are nervous and have any kidney trouble. Dissolve two pounds of the salts in a bathtub of water and stay in the tub 10 to 15 minutes, soaking. Water should not be too hot. Take a good rest afterward.

DIEMAL SWAMP.

Would Be Very Valuable, If Drained.

Diemal Swamp, which lies just south of Norfolk, Va., partly in that state and partly in North Carolina, is one of the most picturesque wildernesses in the eastern United States. Although it may be reached from the busy port of Norfolk within a few hours by a boat which plies daily up and down a small canal, the Diemal Swamp remains an unspoiled wilderness where black bears and panthers still roam, while the smaller creatures of the wild exist in abundance.

The thick jungles and bottomless bogs at once offer perfect hiding places for the wild things and obstacles to the hunter which are often impassable. Then, too, the swamp is alive with snakes—the deadly copperhead and moccasin being especially abundant—and this fact alone detracts considerably from the popularity of the place as a pleasure resort.

It is nevertheless regularly visited by some hardy hunters and is the delight of naturalists and scientists of all kinds, who here find what they most love—unspoiled, primitive nature.

The Diemal Swamp has great possibilities of future usefulness. In the first place, it contains some of the deepest and richest deposits of peat in the United States, and this fuel is undoubtedly to be used in the country in the near future. Furthermore, engineers say that the swamp can be drained, and that it will then become one of the richest bits of farmland in America. Indeed, one man has already demonstrated this by draining a few hundred acres of the swamp and raising phenomenal crops on it.—Chicago Daily News.

For Preserving Thousands of the best housekeepers have discovered that using half sugar and half Lily White Corn Syrup makes preserving more uniformly successful.

To start with, the consistency is bound to be just right from the very nature of the syrup; there is no danger of the preserves crystallizing; the syrup brings out the natural flavour of the fruit; the keeping quality is excellent and the preserves do not have the cloying sweetness of all sugar.

For better preserves, use Lily White Corn Syrup.

AFTER-EFFECTS OF INFLUENZA

OFTEN AS SERIOUS AS THE DISEASE ITSELF—HOW TO GET HEALTH.

There are few homes in Canada that were not touched by the sorrow that trailed in the wake of the Spanish influenza epidemic. Estimates of the loss of life caused by this epidemic show that it was almost as great as the losses caused by the war, and these take no account of the baneful after-effects which are sometimes as fatal as the disease itself.

Victims of the disease are generally left with impoverished blood and a weakened system. In this condition they are exposed to many dangers unless precautions are taken to enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves. The debility that invariably follows influenza is not a disease of any organ. It is a general condition of unfitness. It must be met by a remedy whose good results will be quickly felt throughout the entire system. In this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found invaluable. The mission of this medicine is to enrich the blood, and this new, red blood carries renewed health and strength to every part of the body. The case of Mrs. George Louder, Hamilton, Ont., proves the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind. Mrs. Louder says: "I had a very severe attack of Spanish influenza which left me pale and very weak. My appetite completely failed me and I could not eat. I was under a doctor's care, and finally he advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I had not been taking them long before I could tell they were helping me. I used altogether nine or ten boxes and am now feeling as well as ever I did in my life. I believe if it had not been for these pills I would have been a chronic invalid."

Such proof as this must be interesting to everyone who suffered from an attack of influenza, and who still feel in any way weakened as the result of the trouble. It points the way to new health and strength, and if you are one of the sufferers you should avail yourself of this medicine at once. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE RACES OF EUROPE.

Quarrelsome Families Now Attending Peace Conference.

The American National Geographic Society, in a news bulletin, gives a general survey of the chief racial groups of Europe, an understanding of which is necessary in order to follow intelligently the peace parleys now taking place in Paris. This bulletin is placed upon a communication from Dr. Edwin A. Grosvener. It says:

The number of distinct human groups or races is variously estimated from the three, Japhetic, Semitic and Hamitic of the Bible, or the three, Caucasian, Mongol and Negro, of Cuvier, to the 11 of Pickering and the sixteen of Desmoulins. The estimate in 1781 by Dr. Blumenbach, the father of anthropology, has been withstood the attacks of time. He finds five races—Caucasian, Mongolian, Ethiopian, American and Malay.

Two main divisions are at once recognized among the Caucasians, designated as the Indo-European or Japhetic and the Syro-Arab or Semitic. Indo-European indicates the belief that Europeans come from the basin of the Indus. Syro-Arab means originating in Syria and Arabia.

The Indo-European includes eight branches or groups. These are: In Asia, the Aryas or Hindus of India, the Persians and the Armenians, the last two being often termed Iranians from the great plateau of Iran where they had their origin; in Europe, the Greeks, Latins, Celts, Teutons, or Germans, and Slavs.

Common usage treats these groups as races, so properly we speak of the Celtic race or the Slavic race or of the races of Europe. Because of the intimate relations of the Greeks and Latins and the cognate nearness of their languages, the two are denoted as the Greco-Latin race, German and Teuton are interchangeable, being synonymous terms.

The great majority of the peoples who have invaded Europe and whose descendants are now settled there belong to the Indo-European family. In addition, about 30,000,000 persons, or one-tenth of the inhabitants of Europe are Finno-Ugrians and Turks, members of the Ural-Altaic branch of the Mongolian family. All the rest, except the Jews, Maltese and Saracens (Syro-Arab) and possibly, except the Basques, are of Indo-European stock.

"Ural-Altaic comprehends peoples found between the Altai and Ural mountains. Finno-Ugric is specific of a westerly group of Ural-Altaic. The term is derived from Finn and Ugra, the region on both sides of the Ural.

The various routes of migration into Europe, the later wanderings of the immigrants, and their constant relocations may be directly traced to geographic causes, of which the mountain system, the rivers and plains had a determining part. The backbone and dominant factor of the continent is the Alps.

In the Alps are the fountain heads of the Rhone, Rhine and Po, and in the outspurs rise the Loire, Seine, Meuse, Elbe, Oder, Vistula and Danube. These rivers have each limited or determined the wanderings of peoples, the march of armies, and the boundaries of states. The Danube was a natural and inevitable western roadway of pastoral peoples from Asia.

"A line drawn from the mouth of the Pruth to the mouth of the Niemen, and thence prolonged through the Baltic and Gulf of Bothnia to the sources of the Torne-Elf in Scandinavia, gives an approximation of real or historic Europe's eastern frontier and extent. West of that line and north of the Alpine system, an enormous plain, broken only by the watersheds of its rivers, extends to the North Sea.

"When the Christian era began, all that plain was covered by forests except the marshlands in the east. That plain, as well as Scandinavia, peopled almost wholly by Teutons, was sometimes called Germania. East of that line was another still more enormous plain, Sarmatia, the home of the Slavs, a race almost unknown. The Alps, northern Italy, a part of Spain, France and the British Islands were inhabited by Celts. The centre of the Greco-Latin were Greece and Italy.

"Thus, at the time of Christ the Alps are the keystone of Europe, roughly pointing out where the races are to be found; north of the Alps, the Greco-Latin; in the Alps and to the west, the Celts; far east of the Alps, little affected by them, and therefore little influenced in it, the Slavs and the Finno-Ugrians."

Bad Breath IS CAUSED BY CATARRH

Canadians suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. On this account Catarrh is dangerous and should be checked at the outset.

It isn't necessary to take internal medicine to cure Catarrh. There is a far better method.

Doctors now treat Catarrh by sending a purifying, healing vapor through the breathing organs. In this way the germs of Catarrh are destroyed.

The only successful vapor treatment is CATARRHOZONE, which the patient breathes through a special inhaler to the real seat of the trouble. The rich, piney essences of Catarrhozone heal and soothe all the inflamed surfaces. They effectively treat the nose, throat and lungs with a powerful antiseptic that destroys irritation at once.

Catarrhozone brings into the system the balmy air of the pine forest. It cures completely colds, coughs, catarrh, weak throat and bronchitis.

Once tried, Catarrhozone is a way used. Nothing so pleasant, so simple, so quick to relieve, so absolutely sure to permanently cure. Accept no substitute. Large size lasts two months and costs $1; small size 50c.; sample trial size, 25c.; at all dealers.

She Was a Poor Picker.

"Shame has driven many a man into the ranks," declared Lord Northcliffe, "and in this regard we have to thank the women of the nation for turning many a would-be slacker into an excellent soldier. Sometimes, however, they are overzealous or make mistakes. A case of this sort happened recently on a London bus.

A young man offered a lady his seat. Imagine his surprise when she drew herself up haughtily and exclaimed: "I don't accept favors from slackers."

But he was not taken aback. Instead he regarded the lady critically, and then replied: "Madam, I was all through Gallipoli, and if we had had as much powder down there as you have on your nose, results would have been different."

A Cure for Rheumatism—A painful and persistent form of rheumatism is caused by impurities in the blood, the result of defective action of the liver and kidneys. The blood becomes tainted by the introduction of uric acid, which causes much pain in the tissues and in the joints. Paralese's Vegetable Pills are known to have effected many remarkable cures, and their use is strongly recommended. A trial of them will convince anyone of their value.

Such a Change in feelings and looks! "After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of my sex—my eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—I was restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce." So write many women. Changed too in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump.

Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid. It's a woman's best temperance tonic, made from wild roots.

HAMILTON, ONTARIO.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription helped me greatly at the turn of life. I commenced to have heat flashes and dizzy spells and became nervous and run-down. These conditions very quickly left me after I commenced with the 'Favorite Prescription.' I took several bottles of it and truly believe that I owe my good health to-day to the medicine I took and the care exercised at that trying time."—Mrs. ROBERT SMITH, 64 Bay Street, S.

KOREAN HOUSES.

Building Always Begin With Flues.

When a Korean begins to build a house he first lays down a system of flues where the floor is to be. These flues begin at a fireplace, usually built in an outer shed or in a closed alleyway connected with the house. From the fireplace the flues branch out like the ribs of a fan and end in a trench at the back of the floor space. This trench, in turn, opens into a chimney, usually built at some distance from the house. When the flues are completed the builder carefully covers them over with flagstones; he then cements the whole floor and covers it with a short of thick oiled paper for which Korea is famous. The rest of the house is then built round the completed floor.

The heating system works in this way: When it is time to cook the rice for the morning meal the housewife lights a little straw or brushwood in the fireplace in the outer shed. While the rice is cooking the heat from the fireplace passes through the flues heating the stone flags of the floor and diffusing a pleasant warmth that lasts until it is time to prepare the next meal. Two heatings a day generally suffice to keep the floor warm. On the floor the people sit by day and sleep by night. The heavy oiled paper that covers the floor prevents any smoke from entering the room.

The Oil of Power—It is not claimed for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that it will cure every ill, but its uses are so various that it may be looked upon as a general pain killer. It has achieved that greatness for itself and all attempts to surpass it have failed. Its excellence is known to all who have tested its virtues and learnt by experience.

Ship's Coins.

A superstition among seafaring men is that a coin should be placed beneath the mainmast of a newly-built ship. The coin should be of gold, though in a pinch silver will do. The coin should bear the date of the year the ship is built and before being placed beneath the mast it is carefully wrapped in cotton. Its resting place is the stepping of the mainmast.

Dealers in coins are aware of this long-continued practice, and the result is that when an old ship is broken up, especially abroad, there is always on hand a company of coin dealers desirous of obtaining the coin. It is said that in this way one collector obtained a specimen of the rare American dollar of the mintage of 1804, which has commanded a high premium for many years.

Warts on the hands is a disfigurement that troubles many ladies. Holloway's Corn Cure will remove the blemishes without pain.

Insects That Have Food Value.

Among insects which have been and are considered of gastronomic value are caterpillars, moths, a favorite in some parts of Africa; the pupae of the silkworm in China; ants, alive and roasted, are appreciated in Burma, as well as by the Indians of North and South America, while it is said the lumbermen of Maine enjoy an occasional meal of large wood ants. The beetle is eaten in the Nile valley, in Turkey, Lombardy, Java, Peru, and is said to be nutritious and fattening. In Central America the eggs of three aquatic bugs are made into little cakes and eaten. Mexicans make a strong drink by infusing a tiger beetle in alcohol.

Pale Cheeked Women Told About Restoring A Rosy Complexion

A few years ago the girl with pale, drawn cheeks scarcely knew what to do in order to restore her fading appearance. At that time there was no blood-food medium made that really would put color and strength into systems that were more or less worn out.

To-day it's different. The blood can be quickly nourished, can be made rich, red and healthy. All you have to do is take two Ferrozone Tablets with a sip or two of water after meals. The effect is almost magical. Mothers, look at your children. Are they ruddy and strong—do they eat and sleep well, or are they pale, weak, and anaemic?

FERROZONE will rebuild them. Take your own case—is your blood strong and rich? Have you that old-time strength and vigor, or are you somewhat under the weather?

FERROZONE will supply the strengthening elements you require. It is a blood-forming, nourishing tonic that makes every ailing person well.

FERROZONE is a marvellous remedy; it contains in concentrated form certain rare qualities that especially fit it in cases of anaemia, poor color, thin blood, tiredness and loss of weight.

Every day you put off using FERROZONE you lose ground. Get it today. Sold in 50c. boxes by all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

King Alfonso's Grim Souvenirs.

To King Alfonso of Spain belongs the distinction of possessing what probably is the world's most curious collection of souvenirs. Each article therein represents an attempt on the King's life. First in the collection, chronologically, is the top of a nursing bottle with which an attempt was made to poison Alfonso when he was eight months old. There are also a cane with which a servant tried to kill him, pieces of a bomb thrown at him in Barcelona, the skeleton of one of the horses killed by a bomb hurled at his carriage in Paris, and fragments of the infernal machine thrown at the royal carriage on Alfonso's wedding day.—The People's Home Journal.

No Rest With Asthma. Asthma usually attacks at night, the one time when rest is needed most. Hence the loss of strength, the nervous debility, the loss of flesh and other evils which must be expected unless relief is secured. Fortunately relief is possible. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has proved its merit through years of service. A trial will surely convince you.

Immense Indian Food Dishes.

The largest food dishes in the world were recently bought: of the Indians of Vancouver Island, British Columbia, for the museum of the American Indian, New York City. These dishes were purchased from a tribe named Kwakiutis, which in English means "Smoke of the World." They are used for special festivals when great numbers of Indians gather to celebrate some religious or ritual festival. The dishes are carved out of wood and soups are brought to a boiling point by dropping hot stones into the food. The carvings represent the clan to which the dish belongs, which in one instance is the "Wolf" and in another the "Eagle" clan.

Miller's Worm Powders are complete in themselves. They not only drive worms from the system, but repair the damage that worms cause and so invigorate the constitution that it speedily recovers from the disorders of the digestion that are the result of the work of these parasitic intruders. True to Life.

Raymond Carroll, the war correspondent, was dining with a certain novelist who was bragging about his experiences in France.

"I went over," said the novelist. "to write my description of a battle while actually under fire."

"And did you do it?" asked Carroll.

"Well, er, you see," stammered the novelist, "I began but the shells came thicker and I—"

"I see," laughed Carroll. "Instead of a full description of the battle you made a few running notes."—Los Angeles Times.

THE MANLY ART.

"Padre" Was Referee at the Championship Boxing Contests.

If anybody has any idea that boxing will be tabooed by the muscular Christianity which has grown up with this war, he should have been at Brussels, Belgium, Saturday, March 22 at the Canadian Corps' championships and watched a clergyman referee the boxing contests. Yes, sir! the referee for the championship bouts was a beloved "padre," a Military Cross man and a major to boot—Rev. Major H. Beauchamp, M.C. That combined with the fact that a couple of battle front padrees in the American army challenged each other to a game of padded clouts and that British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand and American chaplains have openly encouraged the boys in every form of healthy sport, including boxing. The officer in charge of the boxing was a Y.M.C.A. boy, Lieut. Tommy Armour, of Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. There were plenty of men well-known in sport around Ontario on the list of officers. Major Jack Maynard, theVarsity rugby star, was referee of the rugby contests, and Capt. Jimmie Clark, M.C., of Toronto Central Y.M.C.A.; Capt. Billy Wood, of Brantford, the first Canadian Marathoner to finish in the 1908 Olympic Marathon—the race in which Tom Longboat quit—were on the Grounds Committee. Lieut. Ernie H. Knott, who used to manage the Young Toronto Lacrosse Club, was a scorer. Lieut.-Col. Jack Ralston, D.S.O., of Montreal, a well-known M.A.A.A. man, and Major F. O. Tidy, of Toronto, a judge of field events. The team events were competed at the Leopold Club, Avenue du Tennis, Uccle; the indoor events at the Palais des Sports, Avenue Louis Bertrand, Schaerbeek; and the swimming at the Bains St. Saviour Rue Montagne, Aux-Herbes-Potagers.

Virtue's Reward.

Two Hooster teachers were traveling through Canada the other day. They had to take a very early train, and as a result intended to eat breakfast in the dining car. But there was no dining car on the train. Hungrily they faced the prospect of a day of fasting, for they would not arrive at their destination until late afternoon. "We have just two cakes of chocolate," said one, taking store of their possessions. "Will you eat yours now or wait a while?"

The second ate her cake then, trusting to luck to find a station lunchroom. But the first waited until noon and until a mother and two small children had settled themselves in the seat opposite the teachers.

Finally she took the cake of chocolate, eyed it in happy anticipation and then unwrapped it. But lo, the two youngsters were against her knee, and they, too, were looking at it with happy anticipation. Of course, it was divided between them.

Half an hour later the mother opened her grip and out came the family lunch of fried chicken, sandwiches, etc. But not one bite did the generous teacher get. "What was that about a cup of cold water?" she asked the other teacher hintingly.

The woman with the full basket stared at her coldly. Then she took a drinking cup from her grip and extended it. "You may have it," she offered, "but there's paper cups at the can."

THE THIRD MACKENZIE.

Temporary Leader of Liberal Party Has Never Been Defeated.

Daniel D. Mackenzie, the new temporary leader of the Liberal party at Ottawa, is described by Parliamentary observers as a "two-fisted, fighting man," a dour and capable Scot.

One may imagine the trusty and faithful type of the man from the fact that in twenty-five years of public life he has never been defeated in any election.

He is the third Mackenzie in the line of Liberal leadership in Canada, and it is just a century since the first, William Lyon Mackenzie, landed in Canada. That first Mackenzie was not a Liberal leader in the party meaning of the word, but stood for liberty and the free institutions in Canada. The second Mackenzie was Alexander, who was Liberal Premier of Canada for five years shortly after Confederation.

This latest Mackenzie has had a distinguished public career. He is now sixty years of age, having been born at Lake Ainslie, Cape Breton, in 1859. He entered the profession of law and served as mayor of North Sydney and Commissioner of Schools for Cape Breton County for five consecutive years. In 1906 he was elected to the Nova Scotia Legislature and to the House of Commons in 1904, in which he has remained ever since. From 1906 to 1908 he was judge of the County Court District No. 7 of Nova Scotia. As his name would indicate, he is a Presbyterian.

While a very aggressive fighter, Mr. Mackenzie has till the present, remained out of the limelight. In the Parliamentary debates in the first year of the war, when the Government was attacked on several points, Mr. Mackenzie took a prominent part. Sir Wilfrid Laurier thought so highly of Mr. Mackenzie that he chose him to sit as his deskmate in the Commons during the last season of Parliament.

The Sitka widow, when she has to put on mourning, paints the upper part of her face a deep black.

CAN'T PUNCTURE OR BLOW OUT

Dayton Airless tires in the past six years have been used by thousands of owners of light passenger and delivery cars in all parts of the civilized world, and have conclusively demonstrated:

- 1st—They can't puncture nor blow out.
- 2nd—They ride much longer as smoothly as pneumatics.
- 3rd—They give much longer wear than the average pneumatic.
- 4th—They absolutely will not injure the car.

They have been endorsed by 50,000 or more satisfied users, including the late George Westinghouse and Edward Grey formerly Chief Engineer of the Ford Motor Company.

Pliers of live elastic built about one inch apart inside the casing and vulcanized or welded to it take the place of an inner tube.

Nothing can happen but wear. We have standardized on 30x3 1/2 and the price is right.

BRUTAL MURDER ON HIGH SEAS

Cabin Boy Tells of Captain's Fiendishness.

Drove Sailor Overboard, Let Him Drwn.

New York Report—Seafaring of the sort that flourished in the early eighteenth century, when a foremast hand was virtually a slave, and his brawny skipper, armed with a belaying pin, his undisputed master, was described in federal court here to-day by John W. Campbell, a 22-year-old high school boy of Maquoketa, Iowa, who answered the call of the sea and ran away from home to skip with Skipper Adolph C. Pedersen, as cabin boy on the antiquated barkentine Puako.

Campbell was the first witness for the government, which has charged Pedersen and his son, Adolph, mate of the Puako, in a quaint, old-fashioned indictment, with the murder on the high seas of Axel Hansen, a seaman. They are alleged to have driven Hansen overboard by cruelty and to have left him to perish in the sea.

After reciting how the lure of the sea had drawn him from his studies and led him to embark with Skipper Pedersen at Victoria, B. C., as cabin boy, Campbell was asked to recite what happened on board the bark Puako on the morning of August 6, 1918, as the little vessel clipped through the waves with all sails set, for Capetown, South Africa.

"I came on deck at 1 a. m. to stand watch," Campbell began. "Jack Joe, Henry Riley and Axel Hansen were in the same watch and were already on deck."

"The captain's son, who was in charge, told Hansen to go aloft and loose the royal's. Hansen went aloft and loosened the sail. He then came down and I saw him talking to the mate. Suddenly I heard a sharp sound as if one man clapping another's face. Then I saw the mate strike and kick Hansen, and Hansen came racing down the deck with the mate close behind him. When he got to the starboard side, near the stern, he slipped under the rail and went overboard."

The mate, Campbell continued, ran to the wheel and ordered Jack Joe to bring the ship about, but a moment later Skipper Pedersen appeared, looked over the stern of the bark where Hansen was clinging to the log line, and then turned to the helmsman demanding to know who ordered him to swing the ship around.

"There is a man overboard, and the second mate told me, to swing the wheel about," Campbell said Jack Joe answered.

"To hell with the man overboard," Campbell declared the skipper yelled. "Then," the witness continued, "he ordered Jack Joe to turn the boat back into its course, and picking up a tiller pin ordered both Riley and myself to go below. As I started forward I looked back in the sea and saw Hansen struggling at the end of the log line and I heard him shriek for help three times. The vessel continued on its course and Hansen was left to perish in the sea."

During the trip to Cape Town, he declared, all the men on board, with the exception of himself and the ship's carpenter were taken below and after being placed in irons were beaten until their bodies were covered with welts. A heavy piece of wire and a razor strop, he testified were employed by the skipper and his son to administer the punishment. They also kicked the prisoners with their heavy boots, he declared. Skipper Pedersen, he said, referred to the punishment as the "third degree."

RHINE REPUBLIC.

U. S. Army There Seems to Be Skeptical.

Coblentz Special Cable—(By the Associated Press.)—Regarding the reports received here of the launching of the Rhineland Republic, to-day's summary of intelligence issued by the American army says:

"The events of the last few days, which have culminated in a definite attempt at Wiesbaden to proclaim a Rhineland Republic, independent of Prussia, but nevertheless part of the German Federation, might be regarded as in the nature of comic opera were it not for the fact that they involve the deliberations at Versailles to a certain extent. To the impartial observer, the importance of the movement consists chiefly in the opposition which has developed against it.

"One sees no concerted hilarious greeting of this proffered freedom from Prussian rule, but one does see and hear much to the contrary. It would seem that if, in the course of events, the Rhineland is to become independent of Berlin, it will require a set of German apostles better known than those who hitherto have been fathering the movement."

Detective Foster and Provincial Constable Ross, following an alleged confession of having killed his father, is thought to clear up a mystery that has baffled residents and officials since last fall. Sam Grummett, well-known farmer, disappeared from his home on October 30th, and nothing was ever heard of him. His horse and buggy turned up at a neighbor's, but no trace of the farmer was found. Detective Foster has been working steadily on the case ever since, and yesterday in company with Ross visited the Pettapiece home, and as a result of a conversation with the son, he was placed under arrest, and is awaiting preliminary hearing Wednesday morning.

Reuben Grummett is reported by the officers to have admitted shooting his father following a quarrel and to have buried the remains in a manure heap. The horse was then driven off a distance and sent galloping away, and was found at a neighbor's. Friction in the house followed by the ordering of the son and his wife, with whom Grummett, senior, lived, to move out, is said to have provoked the quarrel which ended in the killing.

PARTED BY GOLD

And he turned to where Mary stood, but did not lift his eyes. Mary came forward in obedience to a sign of her father's, and stood pale and silent.

Jack read the paper and signed it, then he handed Mr. Shallop the pen. Shallop signed it, and with a low bow presented the pen to Mary. She took it and looked around resolutely. "This—the paper," she said, "takes Mr. Hamilton's money from him and gives it to us, who have as yet not made good our right to it. Father, I will not sign it."

Mr. Montague stared and gasped for breath.

"Mary!" he breathed.

"Oh, father!" she retorted, bursting into tears. "How can you be so cruel and forgetful? Where's all your gratitude gone? Cannot you see he is sacrificing himself to us when he ought rather to be defending himself against our grasping covetousness? I will not sign it."

Then, turning to Jack, who stood, hat in hand, and almost as pale as herself, she continued:

"Oh, sir, do not put us to shame like this! You see him now at his worst; he was never unkind or cruel before. This wicked money has turned his head. I—I wish you had kept it, for it has brought us nothing but unhappiness already."

Jack could not speak, he did not dare to trust himself.

"The agreement is valid," he said, "one witness is sufficient. Mr. Shallop will arrange it. Mr. Pacewell, may the money bring you the happiness it conferred on me; with all my heart I hope you will live long and enjoy it well."

He turned, opened the door, and had almost got out of the room, when a thin voice cried:

He started and turned.

her chair and was stretching out her arms to him with two tearful eyes.

He made half a step back, but shook his head, smiled his old smile at her, and left the room.

There was still hard and unpleasant work for him.

He walked sharply through the snow and stood waiting admittance at the Pacewell Villa.

The elegant drawing-room was empty, and he stood wondering how he should get through the ordeal which he knew awaited him.

Presently a light footstep sounded behind him, and Lady Maud entered, her brightest smile, her choicest flush called up to receive him.

"Dear Jack, why have you kept from me? It has seemed an age," she murmured, as he took her hand and shook it.

"Indeed!" he said, speaking as away because I did not want to bring quietly as he could. "I have kept bad news, but it must come, and perhaps I am the best one to carry it."

"Bad news," she repeated, turning pale. "Any one dead?" she asked.

"No, thank Heaven!" he replied.

"The old Henry Pacewell, whom you all thought dead, has turned up, and the man you have promised to marry is—a beggar!"

"A—beggar!" she echoed.

"Well, not exactly, because I don't mean to be," he said, trying to speak lightly. "But a penniless man, with the world before him, Maud."

Her ladyship drew farther away and sank upon the sofa.

"When did you know this?" she asked.

"Yesterday," he said.

"And did not come to tell me!" she said, elevating her eyebrows, and speaking bitterly, for she saw now that between two stools, she had come to the ground.

"No—," he said. "Maud, I put off the ordeal for a few hours. Forgive me! I know how it would grieve you."

She burst into tears.

"A beggar!" she repeated. "I am to marry a beggar! Oh, aunt! oh aunt! Then she went into well-bred hysterics, and Jack rang the bell.

Lady Pacewell appeared, and amid Lady Maud's nicely toned shrieks, Jack told his story.

Lady Pacewell was really shocked.

"Wait here, Jack, dear, or dear! oh, dear! till I come down."

And then she took Lady Maud upstairs. Presently she came down, and Jack went over the story again.

Lady Pacewell cried, Jack comforted her. Her ladyship still wept, and at last she sobbed out:

"Of course, it is all over between you and Maud."

"Yes," said Jack; "if she wishes it, of course."

"Of course," said Lady Pacewell. "But it is an awful blow for her, poor girl."

Jack could not help smiling bitterly.

"And I must send the brougham horse back, I suppose, Jack, dear?"

"No," said Jack, taking up his hat and trying not to look wounded.

"Keep the horse and Maud, aunt. I will arrange about the former, and as for the latter, give her my love."

Then he kissed his aunt, who, poor woman, could not help her worldliness overshooting her love for her favorite nephew, and with a sinking at the heart, he left the villa.

On his way to his chambers he passed his club. A small group of men stood on the steps. He nodded cheerfully, and received in return the coolest of bows from the men who yesterday would have run down to meet him and shake hands.

He reached his chambers; his men-servants were waiting outside the door, and begged to know if they were to be paid.

He entered the room, and thereupon the table lay a heap of bills marked immediate, and accompanied by letters threatening him with instant proceedings by the very tradesmen who a few hours since were ready to lick the dust from his feet.

The news had spread. Indeed, Mr. Montague had taken care that it should, and had not only favored Mr. Montague with his views of Jack's conduct as regards the cheque and the other kindness, but had spent the morning in running around to the tradespeople and informing them of the change in Mr. Hamilton's fortune.

CHAPTER XIII.

In a small room that might have been dignified by the name of chamber, as it stood within the precincts of Lincoln's Inn, and was barely furnished with half legal and wholly uncomfortable table, chair and worn-out sofa, sat Jack.

The fire in the small grate was low, and it was bitterly cold. Jack sat over the tiny glow, and shivering, but it would have been the height of impudence to have put any more coal on, for it was only just six, and the small knob of coal in the box beside the fire had to last till midnight.

It was snowing outside, Jack knew, for once during the twilight he had gone to the window and looked down upon the umbrellas flitting by below.

He sat near the fire and poured himself out some tea from a small teapot. The tea was weak, the teapot a battered and used-up one. The bread and butter were unglorified, and the whole meal, to say the least, uncomfortable.

When Jack had finished his tea, he lit a lamp, put on a shade, and, drawing a large document toward him, set to work to copy it.

All this meant that Jack was poor, and working hard for a very miserable living.

He wrote on for half an hour, and then a tremendous clatter and burst of music caused him to look wearily up.

It was the bells bursting out into noise, like a lot of schoolboys let out for the holidays.

"Ding, ding! dong, dong!"

"Christmas Eve!" muttered Jack, trimming his pen. "A ram sort of Christmas Eve for you, old fellow! Last year you were dining at the club with Pop, and Beau, and the rest; this year I think you dined on a sausage roll without company. Christmas Eve, heigho!"

Then, having no time to spare for soliloquies, he fell to work on the copying again, and scratched, squawked, and scratched through another folio.

But the bells grew positively intrusive, and louder and louder, till the solitary slave to the pen laid it down and turned his chair to the fire.

"I think I'll just have a pipe. What a blessing tobacco is so cheap! What should I have been without my pipe? So this is Christmas Eve. Well, a merry time for some of them; a merry time at the villa, I dare say, and at the Pacewell's, too. Little Pattie, like a fairy, laughing over her new riches, and old Montague Pacewell as proud as a turkey cock. And she—well, bless her sweet face, wherever she is; she doesn't look happy, though! her old life clings to her, perhaps. I saw her the other morning in the lane. She was in their grand new carriage with one of my horses. She was pale enough and sad enough to be Mary Montague at the Signet again. And I stopped and looked at her—and the best of the joke was, she looked at me, but since I've shaved my beard off, and looked seedy, she didn't know the Jack Hamilton, who is foolish enough to think of her now. Six o'clock! half past by this time. I must finish this work, for I want my dinner to-morrow, Christmas Day, and working for my dinner! Well, if it wasn't so serious, it would be a most excellent joke. Heigho!"

With the pipe in his mouth, he turned around and picked up his pen. But there came a knock at the door at the instant and he looked up from the parchment to say:

"Come in!"

The door opened, and a short individual, having missed the step, precipitated himself pretty nearly into the grate.

"Come none of that," said Jack, in his old good-natured way, "you are not coo's, worse luck, and won't burn," and then added, having set him upright: "Who are you, and what do you want?"

He dropped the man's collar, and his tone changed from the easy, to a stern one, for the individual bore the likeness of Mr. Tubbs.

"What do you want?" he asked, stoutly.

"I beg your pardon, sir," said Mr. Tubbs, out of breath by his tumble and his evident nervousness at being so sternly confronted. "But you see it was the step as threw me up. Used as I am to tumble, as is natural on the boards, still, it was a mercy my 'ead wasn't jammed between them 'ere bars."

"What do you want?" repeated Jack.

Mr. Tubbs took off his hat and wiped his forehead. He seemed much agitated.

"I beg your pardon for intruding, sir," he said, "specially as you was busy, but I've brought a message."

"Where is it?" Jack said, as shortly as before.

The sight of the man was distasteful to him in the extreme.

"Where?" asked Mr. Tubbs, vacantly.

"Oh, ah, yes, of course, you mean what is it? It wasn't a written message, oh, no, she never writes, she don't. Her way, when she wants anything, is to say: 'Tubbs, I want so and so,' and Tubbs, meanin' me, 'as to get it if it's in Amarikey."

"Now," said Jack, sternly, "have the goodness to tell me your business."

"My business is this, sir, meanin' no offence," said Mr. Tubbs, "will you come along with me? You are wanted at once. It's most particular—Heaven knows whether she'll be alive when I get back."

"Who?" said Jack, starting.

"Why, haven't I told you?" said Mr. Tubbs, the tears starting to his eyes.

"Who? Miss Pattie, bless her heart."

"Miss Pattie Montague?" said Jack.

"And she wanted to see me?"

"Ay," said Tubbs. "She sent for me, and when they let me see her, 'Tubbs,' says she, 'go and fetch him. But, I says, I don't know where to find him! Go to the lawyer, Mr. Shallop, whispeer Miss Mary, a-cryin' all the time. And I goes to Mr. Shallop, he sends me on here, and after dodging about among these 'ere queer houses, which are all alike a purpose to puzzle a body, 'ere I am. For Heaven's sake, be quick."

Jack had been putting on his coat while the man had been speaking, and now took up the lamp and walked to the door.

"Go first," said Jack, "and I'll light you down."

Mr. Tubbs stumbled down the stairs in a way that would have made the clown envious, and Jack allowed him. There was a cab at the door, and the two jumped in.

"Where yer come from," said Mr. Tubbs. And the man drove off as fast as the snowy street would allow him.

"Is she very ill?" asked Jack.

"Oh, dreadful," said Mr. Tubbs, tearfully. "Poor little angel, it will hurt your heart to see her so white and patient-like."

Jack fell into silence a while, and the cab drew up to one of the grandest mansions in Grosvenor Square.

Mr. Tubbs jumped out, and a footman opened the door.

Jack, who seemed expected, was asked to step upstairs, and followed the footman to the door of a room at which the man knocked gently.

There was a hush about the house that was eloquent of suffering and danger.

The footman went down as the door opened, and Jack, on entering, found himself face to face with Mr. Henry Pacewell.

The old man had the same weary look upon him as the pirate in the greenroom had worn, notwithstanding the magnificent apartment in which they stood and the diamonds in his shirt front. He held out his hand, and Jack shaking it self that it trembled.

"She sent for you; has been crying for you. It is good of you to come."

"I would have come through fire for her," said Jack, simply.

The old man put his hand to his eyes and led the way upstairs.

Jack followed him into a semi-darkened room. A woman's figure moved from the side and peeped into the shadow of the curtains as he entered, and, although he could not see the face, he knew by the beating of his heart that it was Mary's.

As he approached the bed, a tiny, thin voice arose from it.

"Has he come, Mary?"

Jack stepped softly forward and bent over the bed.

"Do you want me, Pattie?" he said, lowering his musical voice to the gentlest of tones.

"Jack," she said, with a touch of her old naivete. "Yes, I knew you would come, though they told me you were too proud. You're not proud, are you? You wouldn't be proud to poor little Pattie?"

"No," he said. "Not proud to you, Pattie. See here, I am kneeling."

And he knelt at her side.

She put out her hand and touched him. Then laughed with a child's glee.

"What a big hand you've got," she said. "I could put both of mine into it and lose them. But you've cut your beard off, and you don't look so handsome as when you carried me to the window to look at the snow. Jack, you'll never carry me again, never again!"

"I hope, so many times," he said, a choking coming in his throat and a film over his eyes at the wistful tones of the child-woman.

"Will you carry me now?" she said, suddenly. "I should like so much to have you lift me up!"

Some one came with a shawl and wrapped it around her.

He took her in his arms and walked to the fire with her. No one interfered. Her wish seemed to be law.

"Oh, that's nice!" she said. "It reminds me of that day when you and Mary sat before the fire laughing in each other's faces and looking so happy." She sighed: "Poor Mary! Poor Jack!"

"Why poor Jack?" he asked to humor her.

"Oh, I know," she said. "You are poor now and we are rich; but my dear isn't cruel and unkind now, and he wants you to forgive him, Jack. He's very sorry for what he said that day, and he wouldn't have said it if that wicked, wicked Mr. Anderson hadn't put it into his head. And you'll forgive him, Jack, won't you, for my sake? And, Jack, I want to whisper something in your ear. Tell them to keep away. I don't want them to hear."

They drew back into a far corner of the room, and, putting one wasted arm around his neck, she whispered:

"But, my dear, what did I do at dinner that made you so angry?"

"You've disgraced me forever by your common manners. When the charlotte russe was set before you, you blew off the foam!"—Judge.
