REPORTS OF MERRY-MAKING

Celebrating in Honor of Glad Christmas Time.

MANY FINE DINNERS SERVED

In Feasting, Dancing, Giving and Receiving Presents, the Day and Night Were Spent.

From Tuesday's Daily.

One of the most successful events of the season was the surprise party given to Messrs Coffey and Bean by a number of their friends Saturday evening.

The party was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Watson and was most successfully planned and carried out, being a complete surprise to the young men in whose honor it was given.

The evening was pleasantly passed with games, singing and dancing until midnight, when an adjournment was made to the dining room, where refreshments were served by the ladies.

Those present were Messrs. J. H. Volekart, Frank Watson, McIntosh, Doolin, Misses Herold and Steager, Messrs. McDade, Moore, McElroy, Nicholson, McLeod, Trabold, Volekart, Watson, Morley, Bean, Coffey, Vincent, Jacob and Rowl.

Christmas on Lower Bonanza.

Jack Grant, of No. 66, invited a few friends to a sumptuous dinner.

Mrs. Frame, of No. 33, gave a dance. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the floor was in fine shape and about 45 couples were there. It was a grand success both socially and financially.

On No. 28 Mr. Anderson had a Christmas tree laden with candies, nuts, apples, and oranges for the little ones, much to their delight.

No. 25, the Occidental Hotel, served a big dinner to a large number of invited guests.

Thos. McMullen, of No. 14, also served a grand dinner to a large number of invited friends. Tom excelled himself in the manner in which he entertained his guests.

On Ore Fino Hill Mr. and Mrs. Seebom invited a few intimate friends to spend the afternoon and evening with them.

We cannot do credit to this small gathering, for who can tell in words the pleasure of being at a place where everything is like home, and nothing is spared to make it pleasant for all. Messrs. Seebom and Hickey played some beautiful pieces on the Aeolian grand and mouth organ which were received with rapturous applause. The rest of the evening was spent in singing and dancing. A nice luncheon was served at midnight. All departed well pleased with the enjoyable evening spent. The following are the names of those present: Mr. and Mrs. Dave Schaal, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Seebom, Miss Flora Hollingsworth, Messrs. Howell, Hickey, Peterson and McCuall.

Anyone wishing to employ good dance music would do well to see Seebom & Hickey.

On Gold Hill Messrs. Peterson & Sanstrom with a few friends were having a sociable game of whist.

Kinsley & Kinsey had a very large number of invited friends from the Forks, whom they entertained to the King's taste.

Eldorado.

The dance given by the Kangaroos on No. 26 was a grand success. The Grand Forks Social Club turned out in full force, so needless to say a large crowd was present and a good time was had. Mrs. Thomson furnished the refreshments to about fifty couples.

On No. 31 Mr. and Mrs. Vanwart invited a few friends to eat ice cream and cake with them.

On No. 38 H. O. Perkins, the instructor of the singing society, was looking over his notes while five Barshies of the same place was taking a snooze.

At No. 18 a dozen swordsmen from that vicinity had gathered together and were telling stories, singing songs, drinking hooch and smoking cigars.

Mr. G. H. Gibbs of No. 16 received a very valuable gold ring from his employees and wishes to extend his thanks through the columns of this paper to show his appreciation of the gift.

Upper Bonanza.

On No. 21 Mr. Reaney gave a dinner prepared by himself to a large number of friends.

Potter & Murray, of No. 33, gave a dance, and a large crowd was present. The most beautiful feature was the supper, which was served from 6 p.m. till 10.30 a.m. Hot coffee, sandwiches, pie and cake, roast turkey and in fact everything that could be thought of was there all the time, and everything fresh. Dancing was kept up till 11 o'clock next day and no doubt they would still be dancing and eating had not the stage called and taken the ladies away.

No. 60, the Colorado Road House, served a swell dinner to a large number of friends from the Forks and Upper Bonanza. Mr. Adams of 23 above Bonanza had his photograph there and gave some of the latest songs, which were greatly appreciated by the audience.

Time forbids us to do justice to the many good times that were had on Bonanza and Eldorado on Christmas Day. However we return our sincere thanks to the many patrons for their many acts of kindness and good will extended to us on Christmas Day and at other times. It is impossible to mention the numerous persons who extended their kind hospitality and words cannot express our heartfelt thanks to the big and kind hearted miners who we daily meet on our rounds. We wish all a prosperous and happy New Year and that success may crown your endeavors in taking from the various claims, rich returns for your labor, and that no accident shall mar your happiness.

To the road house people and others we wish a year of phenomenal success in your business enterprises and hope and trust that the good feeling now existing will always continue, for it is a pleasure in making our daily rounds to meet such a fine class of big and open-hearted citizens. May the New Year bring glad tidings to all.—Nugget Carrier.

AN OBJECTION IS ENTERED

Mr. J. J. O'Neil Mining Expert Did Not Report on Lone Star

He Thinks the Property All Right But Objects to Having His Name Used Without Authority.

Dear Sir:—If you can find space in your valuable paper to publish a few lines from me regarding the Lone Star group of mining claims, it would be doing me a great favor and justice to the public. I have been in charge of the development work on the Lone Star group of mining claims since the first of last September and know nothing about the work done on this property since that time except by hearsay. I am well posted and satisfied as to value and merits of the property and expressed freely my opinion that it would make a paying mine if properly developed. I made several visits to the mine in July and August while I was in charge of the development work on the Eldorado tract and Mr. W. A. Johnston of Dawson. About five hundred feet south-easterly from the Lone Star main workings on a ledge of No. 6 I opened up the Lone Star group showing the same character of quartz and also a large body of water. I had my instrument back the dip and course of the ledge and made a survey which took me into the main workings of the Lone Star group. There is no doubt but that Eldorado property is as the Lone Star ledge. I have been in every quartz camp on the ledge of the globe in any hole for the past twenty years and I should be able to spare me for thirty years more. I would not claim that I could show it all at the end of that time. I am only in the Yukon six months and during that time I have been all over the district. I think I have a good showing of quartz in a great many places, but not much work done in the claims to demonstrate their value. What I object to is the report published in the pamphlet I speak of in which appears the following with my signature attached:

"In regard to the Lone Star quartz Hayler lodes at Dawson...

...I have never seen any of the property that will pay for the work done on it and I think it is a waste of money to continue to work it."

I think that report is a very unfair and untrue statement of the facts and I object to its being published in your paper without my authority.

Yours truly, J. J. O'Neil

Juvenile Minstrels: On Wednesday night, Jan. 1st, the Juvenile Minstrels will give a repetition of their former production at the New Savoy Theatre on 1st avenue, commencing at 8.30.

From Tuesday's Daily: REPRESENTATION NOT AFFECTED.

The form of government, to be selected for the administration of the affairs of this city has absolutely no bearing upon the question of Federal representation. There is a simple business proposition before the voters of the community which they are at perfect liberty to decide either one way or the other. There are certain material interests of the town which require proper officers to care for them. A sum of money in the neighborhood of $150,000 is to be raised each year and expended for the benefit of the community at large. Every citizen and taxpayer is interested in seeing that the utmost economy is observed in distributing the public funds, and that the highest possible efficiency is obtained in every department of the public service.

During the past two years Dawson has been administered practically by the Commissioner of the territory. In that time the public interests have been carefully guarded, there have been no wasteful or extravagant expenditures and taxes have been kept down to the minimum. There has never been a suggestion of maladministration connected with the management of the town's affairs, and in fact the wheels of the local administrative machinery have run so smoothly and satisfactorily that almost without exception, the heavier taxpayers have been desirous that no change in the system should be made.

The Yukon Council has seen fit, however, to incorporate the town, irrespective of the wishes of the taxpayers, and it now rests with the latter to determine which form of government they desire. An appointive commission will ensure a continuation of the same sort of government that has been in vogue in the past. The Governor will appoint three commissioners who will be charged with the task of conducting the business of the town under the incorporation ordinance and who will be directly responsible to the executive for their behaviour in office.

It is the conviction of those who favor this form of administration that the town will be governed just as effectively and with a stricter regard for economy than will be possible under the more elaborate elective system. It is simply a business proposition which the taxpayers themselves are at liberty to determine, and no motive, which it is decided, the question of Federal representation will not be affected in any particular.

The advocates of a commission are just as much interested in seeing the territory represented in parliament as are the most enthusiastic supporters of the elective system.

Wine Vault Workers.

Even to the non-bibulous there is something novel and impressive in the spectacle of a vast underground world "peopled" with millions of bottles of champagne, on the contents of a fleet might float, and where thousands of pounds' worth of wine run in the gutters as tittle regarded as so much water.

These underground "temples of Bacchus" are seen at their best under the Old World town of Epernay or the Roman architecture of Rheims, where the corridors, hewn out of the solid rock, stretch in all directions for miles, and where the floors descend one below another, like the different levels of a mine, to a depth of 147 feet.

Along these miles of corridors are stacked hundreds of thousands of bottles of wine, undergoing the processes of refining and maturing, and a walk along them may be as fraught with danger as to cross the line of fire in a battle. For at any moment a loose spark or light and a burst of flame will set something of the force of shrapnel.

Into these vaults hundreds of workmen disappear at 6 o'clock every morning, only to emerge into the upper air 12 hours later. Unfortunately the conditions that are best for the wine are almost as uncomfortable as one could conceive for the human population of the vaults. All the year round, whether in the height of summer or the depth of winter, a uniform temperature of 45 degrees must be maintained, and the air is so saturated with moisture that it runs in rivulets down the walls, and the screens which separate the cellars are heavy with it.

In the damp, dark corridors behind these screens are men whose sole duty it is to run the thousands of bottles, one by one, and give them a slight shake, so as to dislodge any sediment that has formed, and this process, probably the most monotonous and under the conditions of cold, moisture and darkness, the most dreary man, is repeated hour after hour and day after day for a whole lifetime.

An expert worker will turn as many as 60 bottles a minute and maintain this rate for ten hours a day, handling 36,000 bottles in a day's work. It is any wonder that after years of monotonous drudgery these men develop all kinds of strange moods and fancies? They become gloomy and taciturn, and get the strangest ideas into their heads. Some of them profess that the vaults are haunted, and refuse to see eyes glaring at them from obscure corners and figures flitting past them—possibly the eyes of men who have burned bottles before them, and cannot refrain from revisiting the haunts of their earthly days.

But naturally all the work in these underground worlds of Bacchus is not of this lugubrious description, for here a small army of men and girls are engaged in cooking, putting on the tinful which makes the bottles so pleasing to the eye, and labeling.

The corking is done at the almost incredible rate of a hundred bottles an hour. The bottles are handed in rapid succession by a boy to the "disgorger," who, with marvellous dexterity whisks out the corks, discharges any sediment that may have collected, rinses them up with champagne, and passes them on to the corker. The corking has for many years been done by machinery. The machine seizes the cork, compressing it to the proper size, and pushing it into the neck of the bottle. The bottles are then ready for the girls, who put on the mashing frock with tin foil and labels.

As may be expected, these processes, especially that of disgorging, are not free from danger, for at this stage a bottle of champagne may be as risky a thing to handle as a live bomb, and accidents more or less severe are fairly common. It is estimated that at Rheims alone 1,000,000 worth of champagne is wasted every year through the bursting of bottles.

Stroller's Column.

"That ain't no use talkin', every time the weather turns slightly chilly, say like his bin for the past two days, my old bones limbers up once more and it'd be went for my loneliness I reckon I'd be about as good a man as I ever forty-odd year ago."

OF ALL THE BEDLAMS EVER BEHOLDEN I NEVER THIN

After dropped into a remembrance that day, I had a next summer mood and delivered himself of the remark, "I was looking for something that would be a dearer than Hudson Bay, but I was looking for a man, I would like to know," said the chieftain.

"Recollections," I said, "did you know, after one year look at me that I had come into a bottle."

"DAM ME, SUH, I AM A CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF THE STATE."

DAWSON IS ALREADY INCORPORATED

The Voters Have Only to Determine Which Form of Government They Prefer—The Coming Election Will Not Decide For or Against Incorporation, but Will Simply Determine Whether the Taxpayers Are in Favor of an Elective Mayor and Council or a Commission Appointed by the Governor of the Territory—In Either Case the Incorporation Ordinance Will Not Be Affected Business Men, Property Owners and Wage Earners Favor Appointive Commission.

A strong effort has been made by the so-called incorporation committee to create the impression that the voters will be called upon at the election which is to occur on Jan. 9, Dawson is to all intents and purposes to decide for or against the incorporation ordinance. They are seeking by every means within their power to lead the tax-payers to the belief that in order to secure incorporation they must decide in favor of an elective mayor and council. Their argument is that if the voters determine to place the control of affairs in the hands of an appointed commission, that the commissioners so appointed will not be restricted by the incorporation ordinance and when that mayor or council or whether the voters prefer to leave the matter in the hands of a commission to be appointed by the governor. Should the latter alternative be determined upon, the commissioners who will be appointed will be given the same powers as will be enjoyed by the mayor and council if a decision in favor of that style of government is reached. A more definite understanding of the situation is reached among the taxpayers they are rapidly forming to the support of the commission idea.

AFFECTING REPRESENTATION

Of Crown Claims Bought at Auction a Year Ago.

From Saturday's to Monday's Daily. An order in council has recently been received from Ottawa which will have the effect of setting at rest the minds of a great many people who have been anxious to know the result of the public auction of such land July 1, 1902. As the time of the sale was approaching, it was known that the government had been paid a survey of all the public lands in the Yukon territory, and that the survey had been completed. The result of the survey was that the government had a large area of land which it had to dispose of. The land was sold at auction, and the proceeds were used to pay the expenses of the survey.

The Skagway conspiracy was not a secret to Ottawa. The government had been informed of the conspiracy long before it was carried out. The good old-fashioned clambake has long before Christopher Columbus set sail this way it was a popular dish in this country. It was certainly on the bill of fare during the stone age. Recent investigations of peculiar life in the shape of sea shells along the Massachusetts coast have developed an interesting fact that each mound marks the spot where a clambake was held in the days of long ago.

HOBSON GETS THE CLAIM

A decision has just been handed down by Gold Commissioner Speller involving the title to some claims on the right fork of Last Chance which were recently re-located. The plaintiff in the action was Thomas G. Anderson, the defendants being M. Lapstrom and H. Hobson. The gold commissioner's decision is as follows: "It appears from the evidence that the defendant Anderson staked 250 feet adjoining the lower end of claim No. 15 on the right fork of Last Chance creek upon the 10th day of May last, between 8 and 11 o'clock in the afternoon, and applied for record upon the 17th day of May."

The defendant Lapstrom stated the ground that he discovered on Nov. 14 on the right fork of Last Chance on the 10th day of May at about 12.30 in the afternoon. He states his lower post was about 250 feet from the upper post of claim No. 12. The defendant Hobson stated what he describes as the upper half of claim No. 13 on the right fork of Last Chance on the 7th day of May last and applied for record on the 10th day of May. He states in his evidence that his lower stake was about 250 feet from the upper stake of claim No. 12, evidently covering the same ground as the defendant Lapstrom. "I must hold, however, that the latter itself must be dismissed with costs."

Jury Disagreed.

New York, Dec. 6.—Herman Treutz, 18 years old, has been placed in jail in the Richmond county court. Treutz is charged with manslaughter in that he was responsible for and aided in the death of Ida Dupuy, 16 years of age, his sweetheart. The jury disagreed and was discharged. It is not likely that he will be tried again. Treutz and the girl were in love and wanted to be married. This was forbidden because of their ages. On July 22 they left their home in Freshkills, Richmond borough and spent that afternoon and evening at Midland beach. There their money became exhausted and they feared to go home. In their plight they went to the fishing and oyster sloop James K. Park, belonging to Austin Dupuy, father of the girl. They were found there late in the night of July 31. Both were wounded and the girl's wounds were mortal. Treutz, on the stand said he was not in the cabin when the girl shot herself.

ULTIMATE SUCCESS ASSURED

London, Nov. 15.—Two of Lord Kitchener's monthly reviews dated August 8 and September 8, were published in the Gazette this evening. They are chiefly summaries of wide-sweeping movements through all parts of the disputed territory with the results, casualties and prisoners captured, as previously reported. At astonishing number of horses were captured, those in August alone numbering 15,570. About 20 per cent of these are fit for remounts, and others are brood mares and foals. DAWSON AND BOSTON EQUAL

That Both Will Witness Same Drama Next Week.

"Arizona" Delights New Yorkers for 35 Consecutive Weeks. Will Cast Local Company.

From Saturday and Monday's Daily. "The return of the conqueror" is the very proper phrase in which is announced the return to the Tremont Theatre for a month, beginning Monday, Dec. 2, of Augustus Thomas' excellent American drama, "Arizona." For "Arizona" has surely won the title, not only in Boston, where it delighted crowded houses for four weeks season before last, but in New York, in which it has achieved two separate "runs" aggregating 35 weeks almost within the year. "Arizona" is buoyantly and enthusiastically American, wonderfully human in motive, tone and characterization. Its scenes are laid in the picturesque Southwest, and the people are hearty, healthy, wholesome and of that breezy section of the national domain.—Boston Herald, Nov. 24.

The people of Dawson will next week be permitted to enjoy the same entertainment that will delight Bostonians at the same time, as Manager Bitner will present the famous drama at the Auditorium each night. There are sixteen people in the cast and so far as presentation of the play is concerned it will equal that in "Burrville." For one week, at least, Dawson will be the equal of the eastern city.

Will Not Affect Canada.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—"The spirit of the day in the United States appears to be consolidation," said Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific today, speaking of the big railway deal. "With what object?" "For the purpose of regulating rates and of securing the operation of the railroad properties involved on what is considered a more economical basis."

Will it affect Canada?

"No, why should it?" "Or the Canadian Pacific Railway?" "There is no reason why it should have any effect upon the Canadian Pacific, our methods and motives are quite different from those covering the properties involved in the consolidation." "Will it have a beneficial effect?" "If the objects are attained of economizing management and of establishing stability in rates, it will be beneficial. I don't think there is anything else to be said about it, the objects are very fully explained in the dispatch." The views of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy were, to a certain extent, endorsed by Mr. J. E. Dalrymple, assistant to the general manager of the Grand Trunk railway.

Scott's Co. cert.

The tickets for the Scotch concert to be held in St. Andrew's church on Wednesday evening next, are going off with great rapidity, and a crowded house is already assured. Mr. Seare has spared no pains in making the programme to be submitted one of the most attractive ever presented to a Dawson audience, and there will not be a dull moment the whole evening. A special feature will be the introduction of one of Edison's latest improved phonographs. The male quartette which appears earlier in the evening will sing into the instrument in the presence of the audience, and the record thus secured will be immediately re-produced. Tickets for the concert may be obtained at Orling & Rogers, J. P. McLennan's, D. Milne's, Reid & Co's, or the stamp window at the post-office. The price has been fixed at one dollar.

SMOKERS ARE HYPNOTIZED

And Persuaded That They Should Break Off Habit

Many Instances Are Cited Where All Desire for Smoking Has Been Permanently Removed.

Some singular experiments have been made from time to time on inveterate smokers by a hypnotizer. One case was that of a smoker sixty-three years old, who was a slave to tobacco.

He began the habit at sixteen, and continued it without a break for forty-seven years. He had made some attempts during recent years to moderate his passion for tobacco, but without success.

The warning of his physicians were in vain. They went so far as to tell him that he was showing symptoms of a lesion of the stomach which might turn into cancer, and that this was simply due to the abuse of the weed. They also promised him a complete cure if he would only stop smoking. But it was of no use.

At this stage the hypnotizer, — that marian of modern medicine — appeared on the scene. He offered to try the effects of suggestion. After some hesitation the smoker consented. He believed himself a doomed man, but was willing to give his last chance of salvation a trial. The doctor held up the index finger of his left hand. In less than three minutes the patient was fully hypnotized.

Then the suggestion was made to him, "Your desire for smoking no longer exists. From this moment you will not give another thought to tobacco. You will smoke no more cigars, cigarettes or pipes. You will refuse all tobacco, cigars or cigarettes that may be offered you by your friends. Tobacco will disgust you."

The patient joyously announced next day that he had not smoked since, and that he had no desire to do so.

"To ascertain," said the doctor in his account of the treatment, "whether he was resolved, in accordance with the suggestion of the day before, to refuse any offer of tobacco made to him by another person, I took a box of cigarettes out of my pocket and offered him one. He gave me a decided refusal. I begged him to try a smoke, but he would not. He seemed to have forgotten all about it."

A friend called a few days later to see the former smoker, and knowing nothing of what had taken place, offered him a cigar. It was at once refused, and further the hypnotist sought proceeded, much to the other's astonishment, to make a present to his friend of all his own remaining cigars, declaring that he could no longer bear the sight of them.

"Another case was that of a man of forty-six, who also was an inveterate smoker. He had begun when fourteen years old, and he smoked on an average twenty cigarettes a day. He felt that his health was suffering, and he was hypnotized at his own request.

The suggestion made to him while in the hypnotic state was, "Your desire for smoking has disappeared. You will smoke no more cigars or cigarettes and will accept none from others. If you try to smoke a cigarette you will be ill." This took place in the morning, but in the afternoon the patient felt a desire to smoke. No sooner did he try to do so than he was afflicted with a feeling of nausea and with contraction of the throat. He was obliged to throw away the cigarette which he had just lighted. He made no further attempt to smoke that evening, but the following day he tried on three occasions, and each time with the same unpleasant consequences.

So far the suggestion had only partially influenced him. On the next day, the third, it had ceased to influence him at all, and he was able to smoke again as comfortably as ever. Forthwith he was hypnotized again, and the first suggestion was repeated. The result of the second attempt was all that could be desired, for from that time to the present the patient has not smoked.

A remarkable hypnotic experiment was performed by Professor Kenner, a well-known hypnotist in Houston, Texas. He succeeded in hypnotizing two men by talking to them by telephone from Beaumont to Houston, seventy-five miles distant. Several physicians and other spectators witnessed the test. The two men selected as subjects placed the telephone receivers to their ears, and a few minutes afterwards fell insensible. The physicians present made every effort to restore the men to consciousness, but without effect. Professor Kenner reached Houston two hours and a half later, entered the room, snapped his fingers and said, "Come, boys, wake up," and immediately the subjects opened their eyes and came to their senses.

The subject of one of the most curious cases that have ever engaged the attention of Dr. Lancaux, of the French Academy of Medicine, was a young country girl, fourteen years of age, who fell into a cataleptic trance of the most profound description. All her members became rigid as a bar of iron and it was impossible, notwithstanding the greatest efforts, to hold her arms or move her legs in any way. Deep prickles made at the skin resulted neither in pain nor bleeding, and there was a complete insensibility of variations of temperature. Dr. Fourtner saw the patient in company with a confere and a third person skilled in hypnotism. The latter tried, but unsuccessfully, to make the patient speak.

However, on the suggestion that she should cry the tears came to her eyes, and on the suggestion that she should laugh she laughed most heartily. She was told to raise her arms and immediately the member which had been immovable became supple and was slowly elevated. The day following she was ordered to rise. She replied, "No, no," and refused to do so, but added that she would get up two days later at three in the afternoon. And on the day she had fainted, about 2:30 p.m., after several deep breaths, her muscles began to relax. Her limbs first then, gradually she heard all the questions that were put to her, and exactly at three o'clock she awoke out of the trance in which she had lain for eight weeks. She continued well for twenty days, when she was seized with a return of all her former symptoms. She was then at once removed to Vancouver, where Dr. Fourtner happened to be and she rested there. He should no longer be in the power of the hypnotist who had cast her into her former slumber. He then, immediately, advised her, and from that time she has had no more hysterical fits.

Kitchener's Sense of Justice. A servant of the Postal Business who has just returned from the front tells the following story of Lord Kitchener's sense of justice. In the servants' company there happened to be a private who always did his duty in a quiet, unobtrusive manner, which earned him a certain respect from his comrades, officers and company. One morning this man presented himself at the office and reported that he was ill and could not do his duty. He was ordered to appear before the medical officer of the camp, who examined him and found that he was suffering from a severe cold.

Against this order there was an appeal, and the soldier returned to his work as usual, reporting that he was well. The medical officer, however, was not satisfied with this report, and ordered the man to be brought before him again. The man, however, refused to do so, and the medical officer, in a fit of anger, ordered that the man should be flogged. The man, however, refused to be flogged, and the medical officer, in a fit of anger, ordered that the man should be shot.

Each of these things were done in the presence of the man, who was a private in the 1st Battalion of the 2nd Division. The man, however, refused to be flogged or shot, and the medical officer, in a fit of anger, ordered that the man should be shot. The man, however, refused to be shot, and the medical officer, in a fit of anger, ordered that the man should be shot.

Canada's First Newspaper. On Thursday, April 18, 1793, appeared at Newark, N. J., the first number of the first newspaper published in Upper Canada. As it was designed to fill the double role of serving a record of the acts of the Government, while celebrating the events of the settlement, it was called the double issue of the Upper Canada Gazette. It was a double issue, containing a small amount of news, and a large amount of editorial matter. It was published by a printer named John Galt, who had been educated at Government House, and afterwards took a course in a Canadian college. When he had been graduated he got a clerkship in the Indian Department. He is a distinguished young man with prominent Indian features. He is a good writer and a good editor. Some time ago Cooke began publishing the Onkwawane, a semi-monthly magazine, printed in the Mohawk language, and it was so successful that he has decided to turn it into a newspaper, the first of its kind in Canada and the second in America. There are other Indian publications not newspapers, but the majority of them are issued by missionary societies and they are edited by white men. The Onkwawane is the only Indian newspaper in North America.

The Onkwawane will publish some telegraphic news from different parts of the world, market news and reports of prices of furs, skins, fish etc. and will have an inquiry department, which will be edited by leading features. Cooke answered: "An Indian is an Indian who has native blood in his veins, and who is on the reserved lands under the protection of the Government."

The Onkwawane recently published the following story about an Indian living near Eggenville, not many miles from Ottawa.

Indian John, a celebrated Mohawk guide, who is now 80 years old, has been sleeping in his coffin for many months. John, although still a vigorous man, knows that he must soon leave for the happy hunting grounds, so some time ago he made himself a coffin and began sleeping in it.

Since then he has had no other rest, and he has told his family that if death comes to him, while he is lying in his coffin, they are to put the lid and bury him. Until the call comes John will continue to hunt in the land of the Mississaugas.

Sixty years ago he entered the land and began to hunt near Eggenville, which was then a wilderness. The Mississaugas would have no dealings in their territory, and he lay eight of them out after Mississaugas. They came upon him when he was sleeping, and made him a prisoner.

Placing him in a canoe, the Mississaugas started for the Mohawk country, on the way John became very troublesome, that they had to put him on shore before they had gone far. Grabbing a tomahawk, John smashed the prow of the canoe and hit him. Although the others did not like this, they were afraid and did not interfere. From that day to this John has lived in the Mississaugas country.

She Got a New Hair. A woman who had been suffering from a severe case of hair loss, had been advised by a doctor to use a certain hair restorer. She had used it for some time, but with no result. She then decided to try a new hair restorer, and she got a new hair.
