The Deep Hollow Road

Cool in the summer mountain's heart,
It has a deep mysterious shade, Left on the highway turning in
With grassy rut and easy grade.
The warblers and the sea behind,
The sunset, 6-blue hills before;
Hark! the sun for heavy heart,
And this is the weary Free-foot's floor.
O fellows, I have known it long,
For joy of life turns in with me;
We thence with peace tonight,
And good-by to the howling sea.
You hear! That's master Thrush. He knows
The voluntaries & for June,
And when to fall on the fate,
In the stately of noon.
A mile or two we follow in This way struck through forest gloom,
From the simple orchard shade,
And all the earth one sunny bloom!

Margie's Promotion.

It was Saturday morning, and the factory where Margie and ninety-nine other girls worked at making bags, was humming like a bee hive. From the basement, where the powerful engines, silent, shining and spotless, worked without haste or rest, to the fifth floor, where the great bales of cloth really began to be bags, there was not an idle man, woman or machine. In the office the superintendent was making out his pay-roll, the clerks were busy with orders received on the early mail, the stenographers were clicking off correspondence on their type-writers. Drags loaded with bales of jute from Calcutta and cotton from miles East and South drove up to the warehouse, as still other drags, loaded with bales of finished bags, drove away to the different mills and freight depots of the country. Porters loaded the bales on trucks and wheeled them to the elevator which hoisted them to the fifth floor. There they were taken in hand by other workmen who fitted them to curious machines which un-wound the cloth, dampened it, ironed it, folded it and cut it in even lengths. Even with so simple a thing as a cotton flour sack, the process of making is complicated, requiring many machines and much money, to say nothing of the skillful fingers of an army of workmen.

'Whist, now! I'ld denie, the pur-ter, had said to his grandson, who was 'out of a job,' but desirous of securing some more exhausted occupation than the Bag Factory afforded 'whist, now! Whin ye know there's ye'll be wiser. If that's the way ye feel about it, I've no doubts whether the boss'll have ye. The makin' of a bag takes brains.'

On the fourth floor, where the buzz of the electric power sewing machines was like that of a thousand swarms of very busy bees, a steady stream of muslin sacks was passing under Margie's hands. Some of them had come up from the printing presses on the third floor, gorgous with 'Rising Sun', 'Swan', 'White Lily', 'Blue Ribbon', 'Banner', 'Apple Blossom', or whatever other device the public had chosen to persuade the public that his particular brand of four was purer and better than any other. In piles of one hundred they were placed beside the sewing girls.
When they had sent them whirling through the machines, the overlook-ers cut the unbroken thread and piled the bags ready for still other girls, who turned them right side out.
Oh, it makes work for many hands, the hum-b'le little cotton sack!

Margie was a overlocker, and a good one, too. She had to be to keep up with Sue Noonan, who held the championship record for sewing—eight thousand five pound sacks in a single day! Margie had cut and piled the whole eight thousand, according to snipping and fingers flying in time with Sue and the power machine. How they had grugged the time for oiling that day! How they had hurried through their lunch and gone back to their places to be ready to take advantage of the first moment when the power was on! Ah, it was a great day, and Sue and Margie gloried in the memory of it.

And now old No. 9 holds the championship, they always added, when telling the story, for no girl in the other factories of 'the Company' had been able to beat Sue's record.

That something better was just about. Sue was to be married, and Marie, as the oldest overlocker—older in point of service, not in years, would be promoted to 'the machines.' Before long she would be earning her ten dollars a week with the best of them, and to a girl who had only been getting four, there are so many possibilities in ten a week, it had improved every chance to leave to run the machine. When a young girl was sick it was Margie who slipped into her chair, and with one foot lightly on the lever, guided the cloth under the flying needle.
The harder her foot pressed, the faster the needle flew. Sue worked with the lever hard down and Sue sometimes made twelve a week. But Margie was wise and did not despise the day of small things.

'The good for seven dollars to start with, she thought. I'll go slow till I can get the hang of the machine. Then I'll be the champion myself or know the reason why.'
So she hummed a little song as she snipped and tugged her bags. Nobody heard it, not even Margie herself, because of the buzzing machines, but it was there, on her lips and in her heart. Seven a week is decidedly better than four.

The whistle blew for noon. The power off, and the sewing girls, over-lookers and turners made ready for lunch. Margie sat down beside Sarah Hill and set out her sandwiches, hard-boiled eggs, caraway cookies and banana on a red serviette. Sarah was eating bread and butter and radishes, but the cover was on her lunch box.

'Who's going to talk to us to-day?' asked Margie, putting her white teeth through a sandwich with relish and chipping the shell of her egg.
'Nobody, I guess,' answered Sarah.
'One of the U. W. C. A. secretaries was going to, but she's sick.'

'Good!' said Margie. 'Oh, I don't mean that!' she added hastily, as Sarah looked shocked. 'I'm sorry she's sick, of course. The folks are splendid, only sometimes I like to splend. Don't you?'

'Yes,' answered Sarah; and Margie rattled on, not noticing Sarah said little.
'It's Sue's last day at the factory—do you know that?' she asked, beginning on her second sandwich.
'Sue's going to be married. Wednesday. You ought to see her dress!
It's just lovely—white lawn, all busy and ruffly. There must be miles of lace edging on it. She's going to wear white slippers and gloves.
Don't you wish we could get off long enough to go to the church?'

'Yes,' said Sarah. She had finished her bread and butter and radishes, but she did not open her lunch-box.
'The Company has sent her a present,' Margie went on. 'A silver tea-set—just think of that! You know she's been in the factory nearly ten years. Goodness me! are you through your lunch already? Here, have a cookie and half this banana to keep me company. Yes, you will, too,' as Sarah hesitated. 'What's the matter with you, anyway? Are you sick?'

'Oh, no!' Sarah took the cookie and sipped at it half-heartedly.
'I'm well enough, but I've got the blues, I guess. We—I—oh, never mind me! Tell me some more about Sue's wedding.'

Margie shook her head.
'You tell me what you're blug about,' she said. 'Is Neddy worse?' Sarah nodded. There was a big lump in her throat. She could neither speak nor swallow the caraway cookie.
'That's too bad,' said Margie sympathetically. 'But maybe he'll be better soon.'
'Mother's down, too, said Sarah when she could speak. 'Lottie'd like to leave her place and come home to take care of them. Father's only working half time now, and there's medicine and extra ice and milk, and —oh, dear! everything seems so hard that I'm clear discouraged.'

'It is hard,' Margie's bright face was very sober as she tucked the red serviette inside her lunch-box. 'I wish I could help you, I'll bring Neddy some panais after supper.
Ours are lovely this summer.'

Lots of Vigor,
Nerve, Vitality

To Get Bracing Health, Feel Good, Sleep Well, Enjoy Life, Use
FERROZONE
A TRUE NERVE TONIC

When you read the following experience of Mrs. N. E. Peabody of Trenton, you will realize what enormous benefit sick people get from Ferrozone. Every woman will recognize in Mrs. Peabody's case symptoms from which she has suffered herself.

AMONG HER TROUBLES WERE:
Headaches, Weariness, Nervousness, Weakness,
Palpitation, Loss of Flesh,
Dizzy Spells, Poor Appetite.

HER STATEMENT:
'I was stricken with nervous disease of the heart and stomach.
Violent headaches made life a torture.
I was so nervous and weak I could scarcely walk. Work was impossible. I couldn't eat or digest anything. When completely wrecked, Ferrozone restored me. To-day I am vigorous and strong and well.'

Thousands of men and women are unable to do work requiring power and vigor. It is a tragedy to see so many good-looking, intelligent, industrious men and women, in the cloak-room, restlessly brushing the lint from her hair before putting on her sailor hat. At the door she meets the fore-woman.

'You'll take Miss Noonan's machine Monday. No, I, she said, and was passing on when Margie caught her sleeve.
'Miss Jennings,' she whispered breathlessly, 'let Sarah Wise take my machine. She can sew as well as I can, and her mother's got typhoid fever, and Neddy, too, and her father is only working half time, and, oh, please Miss Jennings, can't she have Sue's machine?'

The forewoman looked Margie over keenly.
'Yes,' she answered in her crisp business-like tone, 'she may take the machine if you'll take her place in the line. Sue's No. 4. You can't give up the machine and still be first overlooker. Taint fair to the others.'

'No, no!' agreed Margie. 'I'll be No. 4.
Will you tell Sarah to-night, please? It—it'll kind of cheer her maybe.'

'No, 4' called Miss Jennings.
As Sarah stepped out of the elevator Margie slipped into her place and went down. At the superintendent's desk she got her envelope and hurried home. She had no wish to meet Sarah Wise. She was still an overlooker No. 4, instead of being a better sewer were very small.
Yet the song came back to her heart and she hummed a gay little tune as she walked briskly along.

And, though she knew it not Margie had won her promotion—to something better than 'the machines.'

Friends Were Anxious About Conductor McLeod.
Last spring I was very much reduced in flesh and weak from an extreme bad cough, so much so that my friends were anxious about me. A friend offered to send me a bottle of your "Amors Essence" of Cod Liver Oil. This I took according to directions, and was greatly pleased with result. My cough grew gradually better, until it has now ceased to trouble me, and I now feel as strong, as ever and have regained my usual weight. I might say that I was very much pleased with the taste, the cod liver oil and iron being completely disguised.

WM. SAUNDERS,
Director Experimental Farms,
OTTAWA, December 1st, 1904.

TO THE AGENT FOR NOVA SCOTIA OF AMOR'S ESSENCE OF COD LIVER OIL:
Dear Sir,—It is only fair to you that I should drop you a line stating the benefits my family have received from using Amor's Essence of Cod Liver Oil. Last winter three of my children had a severe attack of bronchial trouble, and hearing of AMOR'S ESSENCE, we decided to give it a trial. We purchased a dollar bottle, and before half of it had been used the children were greatly relieved, and after the second bottle they were quite recovered. We kept on giving it to them, however, for some time as we found it made them more robust, and, unlike most of cod liver oil preparations, they did not refuse to take it, as the taste was so completely disguised. I can recommend Amor's Essence for all kinds of coughs, colds, and other ailments affecting the throat.

as very truly,
(Signed) W. E. Hryn.

Protests against the election of successful candidates at the federal elections in Halifax, Queens-Shelburne, Annapolis, Kings, Hants, Colchester, Cumberland, Pictou and North Cape Breton, were filed at Halifax on Tuesday. The petitioners charge the respondents with corrupt practices by themselves and their agents and pray that the election be declared null and void. The petitioners seek both to disqualify the members declared elected and also to have the election declared void. In the case of the members for this county the petitioner is Mr. W. F. Town Council.
The regular monthly meeting of the Council was held on Wednesday evening, Dec. 7th, Coun. Lawrence only being absent.

Coun. Black, on behalf of the Police committee, reported concerning the work done during the month. The report dealt with the resignation of Policeman Taylor, the appointment of Mr. Freeman S. Crowell, who will go into service on Dec. 14th, and other matters relating to the work of that department.

The Street committee reported through its chairman, Coun. Duncan, that during the month most of the work had been clearing out ditches and catch-basins. The sidewalk on Highland avenue had undergone some repairs.

Coun. Tingley, chairman of the Poor committee, also reported routine work done during the month.

A letter was read from the United Electric Co., Ltd., of Toronto, asking that in case specifications had been issued for the installation of the proposed addition to our electric light plant, a copy be sent them so that they might be able to tender for same.

A letter was received from Mr. George Webster, asking permission to keep two pigs within the town. On motion, permission was granted on condition that the pigs be kept in such a way as to be unobjectionable to persons living in the vicinity.

A petition was presented from residents of Highland avenue, asking that a street light be placed at the junction of Highland avenue and Pleasant street.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Mrs. Irene Fitch	$12.50
John Ellis	3.50
W. S. Wallace	3.25
Miss Annie M. Stewart	1.10
Davison Bros.	19.00
Rockwell & Co.	20.50
Town Clerk	3.32
E. Appleton	90.00

T. L. Harvey COOL LIVER OIL: S. A. Stevens, fair to 50; Robert Wakeham, 6.00; Messrs A. F. Little and G. H. Wallace were appointed to audit the accounts and books of the Town Clerk.

The report of the Plumbing Inspector was read, enumerating different work inspected.

Port Williams.
Our quiet little town was the centre of excitement on Wednesday, Dec. 7, when one of the fair ones Miss Naomi Borden, was united in marriage to Dr. S. C. Farrell, of Rat Portage, Ont. By 2 o'clock the auditorium of the Baptist church was filled to witness this event.

About 2.45 the bride who was very becomingly attired in a travelling suit of brown broadcloth, with white and gold trimmings and hat to match, and carrying an exquisite bouquet of white, entered the church, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by Miss Alice Welton.

The bride was attended by Miss Sadie Chase, while the groom was supported by Dr. S. Rockwell of Kentville. The bride received many valuable and costly presents which shows the high esteem in which she is held. Mr. and Mrs. Farrell accompanied by many friends drove to Wolfville, where they boarded the train amid showers of rice and best wishes for their future happiness.

Miss Mildred Campbell, of Acadia Seminary, spent Sunday at home. Miss Blanche Steadman left last week for a short visit with her parents in Sackville.

Dr. Morse has been visiting in Amherst the past week. The ladies of the Baptist church intend holding a fancy sale in Temperance Hall Tuesday evening, Dec. 20th. A Pink Tea will be served in connection with the sale. Tea will be served from 4.30-7.30. Admission and tea 25 cts. Children 15 cts. Miss Chipman and brother were the guests of Mrs. W. H. Masters on Saturday. Mr. Chipman is attending Horton Academy.

Mr. W. G. Doull, paid a flying visit to Starr's Point on Friday. Mr. F. L. Lockwood spent Sunday with friends in Cambridge. We are glad to learn that Mr. Caldwell is doing a flourishing business in our vicinity. We wish him success.

Wolffville Exhibition has a Surplus.

To the Editor of the Acadian,
DEAR SIR.—Herewith I hand to you a copy of the auditors' report of the financial standing of the Kings, Hants, and Annapolis Exhibition.

The exhibition at Wolffville was a success, although the weather was cold for the season of the year, and on Thursday, the second day, rain came down in torrents, notwithstanding all this over 3000 people paid to go through the turnstile. On Friday, the last day, the attendance was 1613. The exhibits have been spoken of very highly by those capable of judging the merits of such. Gentlemen who had visited the St. Louis Fair and other large fairs made the remark that the show of Fruit at Wolffville was superior to any that they have ever seen. Mr. G. H. Vroom, Government Inspector of Fruit, and a gentleman who has been judging fruit at the exhibitions throughout the Maritime Provinces, in his report of this show wrote as follows:

At the Wolffville show where I had the honor to act in the capacity of Judge, taking the exhibition as a whole it was the finest I ever saw (and I have seen a few). In the single plates it was often necessary to reject a plate on account of one small spot, the competition was so keen. The collection in the five, ten and twenty varieties were exceptionally fine, and it was very hard to pick the winners, and while I had nothing to do with the other fruits, I congratulate the exhibitors of the 1904 exhibition at Wolffville on the fine exhibits in this line.

The show of bbls. packed for market was creditable and some very fine examples of good packing was in evidence.

The boxes did not make so good a showing, but considering the fact that very few growers have had experience in this line the exhibit made was very good indeed, no doubt my judgment will be questioned, in some cases I expect this. I worked diligently and independently without knowing any exhibition numbers, and the books will reveal the results.

The building used was the property of the Apple Storage Company of which Dr. G. E. DeWitt is president. This company very generously offered their building free of charge to the executive with the condition that should there be a surplus that the executive should pay a rental in proportion to the surplus. The thanks of the executive is extended to Lt. Col. Curren, of Halifax, for the free use of two marines, and to the manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway for the free use of the grounds and for other privileges granted. All things considered it was an ideal place to hold an exhibition.

The committees in charge of the exhibition, considering the fact that their efforts to make matters easy and pleasant for the exhibitors, and many compliments have been showered upon them by appreciating persons.

In conclusion I wish to thank all members of the committees and officials connected with the exhibition for their constant efforts to aid me in the discharge of my duty and for their indulgence of my services so feebly rendered.

Thanking you in advance for your valuable space, I am
Yours truly,
F. J. PORTER
Secretary of the executive of the exhibition.

To the Executive Committee of Kings, Hants and Annapolis Exhibition, GENTLEMEN—The Finance and Auditing Committee for the above named exhibition herewith report as follows:

Canada's new Governor General, Earl Gray, with his family and suite, arrived at Halifax last Friday night on the Allen liner Parisian, after a rough passage. Hon. R. W. Scott, represented the Prime Minister of Canada and received the distinguished party on their arrival. This is the second time since Confederation that a representative of the Crown has landed in Nova Scotia and received the oath of office in the historic Assembly Building at Halifax. His Excellency was sworn into office by Mr. Justice Sedgewick, of the Supreme Court of Canada, and addresses were presented to him on behalf of the Province of Nova Scotia and city of Halifax, both of which were fittingly replied to.

Principal Patterson Honored.
Principal Patterson, of Acadia Villa School, Hortonville, celebrated his 75th birthday on Wednesday, the 14th inst. and appears as hale and hearty as he did years ago. At the close of the evening meal the students and teachers presented him with an envelope containing a considerable sum of money and the following address, which shows the position Mr. Patterson holds in the hearts of his pupils present and past:
MR. A. MCN. PATTERSON, M. A. Principal, Acadia Villa School, Hortonville, N. S.

A Halifax Merchant's Opinion of Amor's.
I would not be without AMOR'S ESSENCE of God Liver Oil for fifty times its value in money. I find that it is the only medicine that will cut the phlegm and loosen my cough immediately; all other medicines that I have tried only hardened it, and I was nearly racked to pieces. My wife thinks that AMOR'S ESSENCE is a wonderful tonic; she thinks there is no remedy like it.
Yours truly,
W. E. CROWE,
Of W. E. Crowe & Co.

DEAR SIR—On this, your seventy-fifth birthday, it gives the teachers and students of the present year, also a large number of the students who have come under your care during the past five years, a great deal of pleasure to be able to show in some measure their appreciation of the work you are doing, have done and, we hope, may be spared to do for some years longer. We rejoice that you are enjoying such remarkable health for one who has seen so many birth-days come and go. The years seem powerless almost in their attempts to age you. True, they have silvered your hair and added lines to your brow, but apparently you have said, "Thus far shalt thou come and no farther," for those of us to whom you have been a familiar figure for some time can trace little difference in your bearing; and, certainly, your activity, oversight, interest and influence in the school are as keen as ever. This is a matter for thankfulness; and your teachers and students offer their hearty congratulations and we are joined in this, as we before stated, by a number of the students of recent years. We intend to place in your hands the letters received from these students that you may learn the high place you hold in their respect and their esteem. Just here we would like to quote from one who writes thus:
"I was very glad to hear from the school where I spent three of the happiest years of my life. It is now three years since I left there, but many and many are the times that I think of it and wish that I could be back again, for I never attended a school where I felt more at home than at Acadia Villa. A person cannot over-estimate the value received at a boarding school run on such lines as those of Acadia Villa. There is a great advantage in getting the right start in life and having the right ideas placed before one. I wish to convey to Mr. Patterson my appreciation of his kindness to me while at school, and I hope he may live many years to carry on the good work."
In closing we ask your acceptance of the accompanying envelope, the contents of which we desire you, if it meets with your approval, to use in the purchase of a fur coat, which may serve the double purpose of shutting out Jack Frost and keeping warm in your heart and memory the kindly thoughts and good wishes of which this is a slight tangible evidence. And when life's lessons are ended, and school for us all is forever dismissed, may we, Principal, teachers and students, gather at the feet of the Great Teacher where some of the problems that puzzle us all now shall be solved in the light of His countenance and we shall continue to add to our knowledge and wisdom and holiness and happiness to all Eternity.

Mr. Galletty, engineer of the Elder-Deuster Line Steamer Atlas, was in Wolfville over Sunday, visiting his aunt, Mrs. R. H. Tweedell. His vessel was at St. John, from which port he sailed this week for South Africa.

Mr. Galletty, who is a very intelligent and genial young Scotchman, the son of a Presbyterian clergyman, was well impressed by this, his first visit to Nova Scotia.

We regret that owing to a disappointment in connection with the printing of our Christmas number we are prevented from issuing it as intended. The number which we intended giving our readers at this holiday season was to have been an exceedingly well gotten up journal, and we are keenly disappointed in not being able to give it as promised. However, in the year to come we shall endeavor to make compensation to our readers for the future.

Our ladies of the Baptist church at Port Williams are arranging to have a 'Pink Tea,' with a sale of fancy articles, in the Temperance Hall at that place on Tuesday evening of next week. The object is to raise money to be used in lighting the church. A good time will no doubt be had.

Messrs. E. E. Harris and C. M. Vaughn left on Saturday last for Boston, en route for London. They sailed from Boston on Tuesday by the Cunard Steamer Saxonis, one of the finest Atlantic liners. They expect to be away about five or six weeks, and will be in London in time to look after the Skoda's cargo. They will probably wait until after the arrival of the first Furness Steamers arriving in January, and will be in a position to look after consignments of apples from this side for persons who desire their services. We wish them a safe and pleasant trip.

For the Next

Two Weeks.

Mr. W. Marshall Black has disposed of his steam-car and purchased a handsome new automobile. The new carriage is fitted to carry four passengers and is a stylish and well equipped vehicle. It has been much admired on our streets this week.

The new policeman, Mr. Freeman S. Crowell, of Peregua, entered upon his duties on Wednesday. He appears to be well qualified for the position, and we trust he may receive the support and assistance of all citizens in his efforts to preserve good order in the town.

Fruit and Pound Cake at 25 cents per lb. at Young's Bakery.

The annual roll-call of the Baptist church was held on Thursday evening of last week. There were a large number of the members present, and those absent sent letters to be read in answer to their names. Addresses were given by Pastor Morse and visiting clergymen. Tea was served in the vestry of the church. A thank-offering was taken, the proceeds of which are to be applied to the purchase of a new motor for the organ.

Gift Books, at greatly reduced prices, at Wolfville Book Store.

Miss Elvira Archibald leaves today for Bisbee, Arizona, where at Christmas she is to be one of the principals in an interesting event, particulars of which will appear in due time. Miss Archibald will be much missed in Wolfville, particularly in St. Andrew's church, where she has been an active and faithful worker since her residence in this town. THE ACADIAN joins a host of other friends in best wishes for a safe and pleasant journey, and a happy life in her new home.

Fancy Note Paper in Boxes. Lay in your supply while it is going—100 and 250 Counters.

Pedestrians passing McKenna Block this week must have been attracted by the very tempting window of Mr. S. A. Stephens' grocery. The display of fruits and confectionery presents a beautiful appearance. In boxed chocolates Mr. Stephens claims to have the largest and best stock ever shown in Wolfville. The prices range from 30c to $3.50.

In place of the annual Merchant's Day before Christmas the merchants of Wolfville are this year offering their goods every day at such prices as should catch the trade. The stores are heavily stocked with seasonal goods and make a very fine display. Out of town buyers will make so mistake in coming to Wolfville this year to do their shopping. Cash prices here will be found to be as low as anywhere in the Dominion.

Fruit Growers in Season.

The annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Fruit Grower's Association which was held at Windsor for three days last week, was a very successful and profitable one. There was good attendance of representative fruit-growers. Vice-President Eaton was in the chair, and the discussions were taken part in by Dr. Hannah, of Kings College, Mr. A. McNeil and Dr. James Fletcher, of Ottawa, and a number of local men.

Officers and committee for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President—Ralph S. Eaton, Kentville.

Vice President—John Donaldson, Port Williams.

Secretary—S. C. Parker, Berwick.

Asst. Sec'y—J. H. Cox, Cambridge.

Treasurer—G. W. Munro, Wolfville.

Auditors—J. W. Thompson and R. E. Harris, Wolfville.

Executive Board—The President, Vice President, Secretary, Asst. Sec'y, C. A. Patrinquin, A. C. Starr, G. J. Miller and R. S. Messenger.

Exhibition Committee—A. C. Starr, P. C. Whitman, C. A. Patrinquin, A. H. Johnson, Mrs. William Hargest, Rev. H. Howe.
