What Does Not Make where the people are repeatedly asking fer us." Donations may be a Gentleman.

The highest form of social pleasure s conversation; but conversation does not mean a monologue. Good isteners are as highly appreciated in society as good talkers. A good listener often gives an impression of great wisdom which is dispelled the moment he opens his mouth Mr Gladstone was charmed by a young lady who sat next to him at dinner : he concluded that she was one of the most intelligent women he had ever met, until she spoiled it all by eaying with effusion, "Oh, I love cabbage!"

A young man should neither talk too much nor too little, and he ple know that their names are Irish death, at Folkstone, of the Rev less he is forced to. Brodeur will not be obliged to eat The Canadian Pacific Railway Comout of crockery dishes and drink pany has exerted itself to build up an Oriental trade. By means of its transcontinental railway and its line of Pacific steamers it gives through transportation between Yokohama and all parts of Canada. An advantage to our neighbors and a handicap to us in the trade with Japan has been the latter's tariff. That tariff has two grades of duties, a higher and a lower. The lower are known as the conventional duties, because they apply to the goods of only those countries that are parties to Japan's standard treaty of commerce. When the opportunity to be included in this treaty was first proffered by Japan it was instantly seized by the United States as well as by Great Britain and the countries of Europe. When the British government enquired if Canada wished to be admitted, the Ottawa Government declined, and throughout the whole period of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Administration we have had to pay Japan's high duties, while goods from the United States were entered at the low duties. The odds which our own Government put against us in the trade with Japan were very much like those it put against us in the trade with Germany. From both Japan and Germany our goods have been practically excluded by the folly or incompetence of the Ottawa Minis ters, while the goods of the United States have had access to these markets on favored terms. Fortunately for us Japan did not hold us to our first bad choice as Germany has done. The Mikado's Government was considerate enough to reopen the privilege after Sir Wilfrid Laurier made a humble regiest in have Canada included in the treat. The trea y was signed the other day, and our goods are now admitted into Japan on the same tariff terms as are those of the United States. Canadian exporters can be trusted to turn the concession to the best account, bu after a start of so many years and a ead of $50,000,000 in the annual value of thir sales, the shippers of the United States will not notice our compeniion. There was no Mass at North Drayton that morning. Betty, the house-keeper, waited until half-past eight, then she went and told the faithful few who had waited in the church till then, that his Reverence was away at a sick call. Father de Winton never knew just at what hour he reached home-he made a long detour so as to avoid passing through the town, which brought him to the back door of his house. Betty nearly fainted when she saw him; he checked her cry of alarm with a gesture of his hand and went to his study.
