CHAPTER IV.

Love's Sweet and Bitter.

'There are plenty of new dresses in New York. I am sure you know where to buy one.'

'Yes, I think I do.'

'Well then, my darling?'

'Have you thought about father?'

'I spoke to him long ago. He knows that I love you and that my great desire is to make you my wife.'

'But after this health? Clara told me yesterday that he would never make any more money.'

'I know.'

'That he will be poor—very poor. We will not permit that.'

'I suppose I am very poor also?'

'Do you think I care whether you are poor or rich, Amber? Do you not love me, my selfish alone?'

'As you love me, dear one!'

'Yes, truly so. Now, I am glad you spoke to me so plainly. Now, I shall always put my trust in you. Tell me the inmost thought in your heart, Amber. If it is against myself, and you tell it to me, I will be just and kind. And I will keep back by thought from you, nothing that happens me. We must be so clear as the day with each other. It is the only way to be happy.'

It was near midnight when Robert bid Amber 'Good-night,' but everything had been arranged.

'And I am not sleepy, Clara,' she said. 'Come to my room, and talk to me.'

So they went upstairs together and sat down by the open window. In the bright moonlight, they could see Robert slowly strolling down the country-lane to the hotel. The eyes of both women fell upon him.

'How good he is! How kind! How considerate!' said Clara.

'Yes, but it is a poor wedding! Not at all what I expected.'

'We are poor people now, Amber. What is the use of telling me that over and over again? I say it is a poor wedding. I expected something very different.'

'What did you expect?'

'I intended to have St. Azarius trimmed with palms and flowers, I expected fine music and a couple of clergymen—more especially the curate who asked me about 'love marriages.' I had chosen my bridesmaids—eight of them. To be sure, I did not like any of them but Bessie; but they were splendid 'set-offs' to each other and myself. I had the dresses and the gifts, the bouquets and the ushers and other details perfect. It is a little hard to give up all for a family wedding in a country church; no music, no bridesmaids, no wedding-breakfast, no wedding-dresses, really.'

'Robert did not seem to care.'

'Robert was delighted. He said he did not see what the world had to do with our marriage, anyway. He said that 'show marriages' were infinitely vulgar, and that society would make a decree to that effect very soon. He said also that it was vulgar to receive presents and make a spectacle of ourselves, and that it would be far better and happier to enter life together by the modest portal that love desires and which does not offend good fortune.'

'He spoke very wisely.'

'Very wisely, indeed! I asked him if he had learned what he said out of a book. And he answered he had learned out of the Book of Life.'

It was natural enough that Ambrosia should have at least one little grumble over the collapse of her girlish dreams. Especially as she never

MOTHERS NEED Scott's Emulsion

Many mothers have learned how much they need Scott's Emulsion by taking it to show their children that it was a sweet medicine. For thirty-five years it has been the best known specific against fatigue and enfeeblement, as well as the standard remedy for warding off and relieving colds and affections of the throat and lungs.

again alluded to them. Indeed, she was so full of endeavoring self-disparagements and of little compunctions for her happiness, that Clara thought she had never been so lovable and so charming.

And during these last days—days so full of hopes, dreams and desires—Robert was a different Robert. Even Will was astonished at the manner—the chivalry and the magnificent generosity of his husband's love. For there is a Don Quixote in every Sancho Panzo; and Robert Carter was, perhaps, for the first time in his life, at the topmost reach of his best self. The actual world was under his feet, he was living in an ideal one, full of beauty and of self-abnegations. But it is not in this life—not in this life—we are able to live long in the ideal, however good and charming it is. We are not satisfied with ideals; and alas, for realizations! Be they ever so sweet and good, they are of the earth earthy.

CHAPTER V.

WHEN "LOVE IS LORD OF ALL"

Count nothing won till Love be Lord of all.

'Domestic happiness, thou only bliss Of Paradise that has survived the fall.'

There is in souls a sympathy with sounds; And as the mind is pitched, the ear is pleased.

With melting airs, of martial, brisk or grave; Some chord in unison with what we hear.

Is touched within us; and the heart Replies.

Perhaps it was well the interval before the marriage was so short. Every one was at an unnatural strain, and every one was somewhat relieved when the beautiful bride, amid lifted hats and smiling faces, stepped lightly from her old life to her husband's side. Robert was almost impatient of the ceremony; impatient of the strain. He wished to realize his power to take

Now I am entirely well, and the pimples have all disappeared from my face. I can truthfully say that Cascarets are just as advertised; I have taken only two boxes of them.'

Pleasant, palatable, Potent, Taste Good, Do Good, Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripes. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C. C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 927

'He spoke very wisely.'

'Very wisely, indeed! I asked him if he had learned what he said out of a book. And he answered he had learned out of the Book of Life.'

It was natural enough that Ambrosia should have at least one little grumble over the collapse of her girlish dreams. Especially as she never ing won the love of a being so superior to the rest of the world.

And Ambrosia now really loved her husband. A young girl is not sure of her feelings. A young wife is either supremely happy or supremely miserable. It seemed to Ambrosia that she had no wish left to gratify. Even her girlish desire to have unlimited silk and lace was remembered. However, when the trial of her self-restraint came, Robert found that Ambrosia was quite able to spend wisely and that her pretenses of extravagance were one of those willful hypocritical women are not ashamed of.

In fact, he was astonished both at her prudent outlays and her still more prudent reservations. During their courtship, Ambrosia had held in reserve the practical side of her character; but when she was a wife, Robert soon understood that she knew very well how to obtain a dollar's worth for a dollar. And he considered this ability an additional charm, for he thought he was a generous man, he knew that generosity was meant for great occasions and that to be generous every day and always is waste and folly.

Their headquarters were in London or Paris, and from these cities they made delightful excursions not curtailed by railway-time and not hampered by trunks and valises. Some of the glorious September days were spent among the laurels of Windsor, others in the terraced streets of Edinburgh, that—

'Towered, templed metropolitan, Waited upon by hills; River and widespread ocean, tinged. By changing light or draped and fringed. As changeable vapor wills, Or hanging like a Cyclops' dream, High in the shifting weather gleam.'

Here they grew silent and confidential in their happiness, answering each other's thoughts by glances and smiles, sitting in the lonely palaces full of dreams, or hand in hand, climbing the stony way to the gravel castles. The October they linked with ancient towns and the songs of the grape-gatherers and the romances of the Mediterranean. Then, half reluctantly and half willingly, they turned their hearts and faces westward.

Both felt that the May of their love was over and that it would be folly and disappointment to prolong what had come to a legitimate conclusion. Yet there was no sorrow in this recognition. Was not the rich summer and autumn of love before them? So though they turned backward with a sigh, as they stepped on board the homeward-bound steamer, the next moment they looked forward with a smile. They began to talk of New York; to recall its crash and rattle, its multitudinous cries, its snatches of talk and laughter, its bells and clocks and chimers; all demanding, insinuating, clamoring, at the ear and the heart.

They wondered about their house, and if Will had got the workmen out of it, or if they would have to camp in a hotel. And like a long-forgotten, but imperative friend, Robert's work appealed to him with an irresistible authority. The thought of his laboratory was pleasant to him; his unfinished experiments assumed new interest to him. All the positive ideas of actual duty which had seemed antagonistic to all his love-dreams blended now with the ozone in the salty air and the noise of the waves and the breath of the great west winds blew them into his heart and brain. Every day, as he drew nearer the shore, the thought of his work was better and sweeter.

Ambrosia also had her plans of life. Young wives are all perfect housekeepers, and she had heard something from Will of the tyrannical reign under which he and Robert had been permitted to keep house. She intended to alter such conditions very quickly. Her servants must be well-bred, and her arrangements without flaw or hindrance. She had a great many people to astonish, she had some to snub, and a few whom she would delight to honor. The waves rocked her to and fro, and she lay in her steamer-chair with closed eyes, thinking of and planning for the satisfaction of these diverse feelings.

There was a little squall on the evening of the day before they landed, and with her hand in Robert's hand, and her head against his shoulder, Ambrosia thoroughly enjoyed the tumult of the waves and the winds and the noise of the rattling sails and the hoarse cries of the sailors. After the dreary monotony of days of calm, it brought to her that quickened sense of life which is like wine.

But it was a tame sensation compared with the welcome New York shouted from all her wharves and streets. There happened to be some military display, and they landed at noon while the cannon were firing and the sharp regularity of military bands was striking fire and sympathy through the city's heart. Then they understood how much more powerfully men are affected by the noise men make than by any noise of nature's.

'The double, double, double best of their handiwork! Oh, and the shouting of the captains and the cheers of the crowd stirred Ambrosia as the voice of the winds and waves never did. She said to Robert: "I feel New York in all my veins. I breathe it. I live it. I would not give my three-score-and-ten years in it for a cycle of Europe. Would you, Robert?"

'And he was still lower enough to answer: "Not unless the cycle was surely to be spent with you."

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms can be Cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, and the feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion, and I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often wake up with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden."

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a few of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at—

DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, 100, Water Street, and Theatre Hill. Small size, 25 cents; postage, 5c. Extra; large size, 50 cents; postage, 10c. extra. Mail orders must be accompanied by remittance.—oct29, 11

Two-pieces of ancient tapestry which were recently discovered at Langford Hill, a Jacobean house near Bude, Cornwall, were sold the other day in London for £6,600. The principal piece, measuring some thirteen feet square, was one of a set of panels of fifteenth century arras tapestry, originally belonging to Cardinal Wolsey and representing the seven deadly sins. Three other of the panels are now hanging at Hampton Court Palace. The second piece was part of a frieze fourteen feet by two, originally made for Hampton Court Palace. Small pieces of the frieze still hang there in the Great Hall. The tapestry was found packed away in a box at Langford Hill. The house belongs to two maiden ladies who were unaware that their roof was harbouring such treasures. It was stated in the sale room that some years ago the panel, packed in a box and described as a carpet, was sold at auction for £1 10s.

Minard's Liniment Co. Limited. Gentlemen.—Last winter I received great benefit from the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT in a severe attack of LaGrippe, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of inflammation.

Twitching of the Nerves

Wonderful cases brought about by DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD. It is only by watching the symptoms of nervous exhaustion and applying restorative treatment that you can ever hope to ward off locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

Mrs. E. J. Vanderburgh, of Eastern Weyland Ave., St. Catharines, Ont., states:—"For twenty-one years I was badly afflicted with heart trouble, nervousness and cramps in the limbs, also twitching of the nerves and nervous headaches. I became weak, debilitated and emaciated. My condition was distressing and I was made worse through worry and loss of sleep. "I tried a hundred remedies in vain. After having used half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food my old troubles had entirely vanished, and I was enjoying better health than I had since childhood."

Such cases as this prove the wonderful efficiency of Dr. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures in Nature's way by enriching the blood and its benefits are lasting. 50¢ a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

In a book of essays that I was reading the other day this sentence smote me into thoughtfulness: "How many, many homes there are from which gaiety has been banished not by sorrow but by grievance and bly complaints."

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States more women's secrets than any other country. These secrets are not secrets of the secret of suffering and they have R. V. Household Notes.

In building or remodeling a house, before the final boards are put on the pantry have it lined throughout with mosquito wire. It will make it forever mosquito-proof.

To clean gilt, try touching it with a little at a time with a can of soda brush wet in alcohol. Don't let it dry, but rub off with a flannel. Soda should be changed frequently.

Never scrape cooking utensils of any kind. Clean them out as much as possible, fill with water and washing soda; cover and allow them to steam. They will then clean easily.

Before washing silk stockings, soak in borax water, then wash gently in tepid soapsuds. Don't wring, but squeeze out and after rinsing in several waters hang up to dry.

Come Suspicious Persons

Enquired if we were "hiring" a certain "weekly" paper to abuse us.

Of course every time a spot light is turned on from any source it offers a splendid chance to talk about the merits of the products, but 'pon honor now, we are not hiring that "Weekly."

The general reader seldom cares much for the details of "scraps." A few may have read lately some articles attacking us and may be interested in the following:

Some time ago a disagreement arose with a "Weekly." They endorsed our foods by letter, but wanted to change the form of advertising, to which we objected.

The "Weekly" discontinued inserting our advertisements while they were negotiating for some changes they wanted in the wording and shape of the advertisements, and during this correspondence our manager gave instructions to our Advertising Department to quit advertising altogether in that "Weekly."

Quite a time after the advertising had been left out, an editorial attack came. We replied in newspapers and the scrap was on.

Then came libel suits from both sides, and some harsh words. Generally tiresome to the public.

That "Weekly" has attacked many prominent men and reputable manufacturers.

Our Company seems prominent enough for a sensational writer to go after, hunt for some little spot to criticize, then distort, twist and present it to the public under scare heads.

Distortion No. 1 stated that we have been accustomed to advertise Grape-Nuts and Postum as "cure alls for everything."

It has never been the policy of this Company to advertise Grape-Nuts or Postum to cure anything.

We say that in cases where coffee disagrees and is causing sickness its dispensed will remove the cause of the trouble, and we suggest the use of Postum for the reason that it furnishes a hot palatable morning beverage, and contains natural elements from the grain which can be used by nature to assist in rebuilding nerve centres that coffee may have broken down.

Likewise Grape-Nuts food does not cure anything, but it does assist nature tremendously in rebuilding, provided the indigestible food that has been used is discontinued and Grape-Nuts taken in its place.

Charge No. 2 states that the passage of the National Food & Drugs Act compelled us to drop from the packages some assertions regarding the nutritive value of Grape-Nuts.

We have never been "compelled" to make any change.

Since the beginning it has been a universal rule to print clearly on every package exactly what the contents are made of.

Before the passage of the Pure Food Law the packages stated that Grape-Nuts food was made of wheat and barley.

We did not esteem the small amount of salt and yeast as of value enough to speak of, but after the new Law came in we became as technical as the officials at Washington and added the words "yeast" and "salt," although we have no recollection of being asked to.

We believed that our statement that Grape-Nuts will supply elements to nourish the brain and nerve centres is true and bring authorities to support the fact.

Some state chemists believed this a gross exaggeration and inasmuch as the Food Dept. at Washington could easily harass grocers, pending a trial on the disputed question, we concluded that much the better way would be to eliminate from our packages such claims, however certain we may be that the claims are true.

Another statement objected to read as follows:

"The system will absorb a greater amount of nourishment from one pound of Grape-Nuts than from ten pounds of meat, wheat, oats, or bread."

Some Department chemists deceive themselves as well as the public.

"Calorie" is the word which defines a unit of heat determined by the amount necessary to raise one kilogram of water one degree centigrade. On this basis a table of calories is prepared showing the percentage of different kinds of food. Butter shows 8.60; Grape-Nuts 3.96; milk 0.70. Remember the statement on the package spoke of the nourishment the system would absorb, but did not speak of the calories of heat contained in it, for the heat is not nourishment, and the nourishment cannot be Judged by the number of heat units notwithstanding the fact that certain chemists would have the public believe so.

As an illustration: Attempt to feed a man sixty days on butter alone with its 8.60 calories. The man would die before the experiment had run sixty days.

Then take Grape-Nuts with 3.96 and milk with 0.70—the two combined equal 4.66—about one-half the number of calories contained in butter. The man fed for sixty days on this food would be well nourished, and could live not only sixty days, but six months on that food alone, and we do not hesitate to say from our long knowledge of the sustaining power of the food that a man at the end of sixty days would be practically the same weight as when he started.

If he be a man of normal weight, we will suppose that from his work he lost a pound a day and made up a pound each day from food. If that premise proved to be true the man in sixty days' time would make sixty pounds of issue to replace what had been lost, and he would be as fat as Grape-Nuts and milk with half the number of calories of butter, upon which no one can sustain life.

Therefore we have reason to believe that our contention is right that concentrated food like Grape-Nuts, which is partly digested and ready for easy assimilation by the body, presents more nourishment than any system will absorb than many other forms of food, and we will further say that in cases of digestive troubles where meat, white bread, and oats cannot be digested, that Grape-Nuts and milk contain more nourishment than the system will absorb than many pounds of these other foods.

Distortion No. 3 charges that our testimonials were practically all paid for and re-written in Battle Creek.

These testimonials were demanded by the opposing lawyers. Naturally testimony at the trial brought out are held in vaults and kept safe to prove the truth, and are not to be delivered up on demand of enemies.

Testimony at the trial brought out the fact that we never printed a single testimonial that we did not have the genuine letter back of. Many of these letters came spontaneously. A record was kept of twelve hundred and four (1204) letters received in one month from people who wrote that they had either entirely recovered their health or been benefited by following our suggestions on food and beverages.

On three or four occasions in the past ten or twelve years we printed broadcast in papers offers of prizes to users of Postum and Grape-Nuts—two hundred $1.00 prizes, one hundred $2.00, twenty of $5.00 and five of $10.00 each, stating that each must be an honest letter with name and address.

We agreed not to publish names, but to furnish them to enquirers by letter. These letter writers very generally answered those who wrote to them, and verified the truth of the statements.

Under this agreement not to publish names literally scores of letters came from doctors. We kept our word and neither printed their names or surrendered the letters.

Right here notice an "imitation spasm." The "Weekly" says: "Post

So an attorney from New York spent more or less time for months in Battle Creek hoping to find impurities in our foods, or dirt in the factories. After tireless spying about he summoned twenty-five of our workmen and took their testimony. Every single one testified that the foods are made of exactly the grain and ingredients printed on the packages; the wheat, barley and corn being the choicest obtainable—all thoroughly cleaned—the water of the purest, and every part of the factories and machinery kept scrupulously clean.

That all proved disappointing to the "Weekly." There are very few factories, hospitals, private—or hotel and restaurant kitchens that could stand the close spying at unexpected times and by an enemy paid to find dirt or impurities of some kind.

In an ordinary kitchen or factory he would find something to magnify and make a noise about.

But he failed utterly with the Postum Works and products. Twenty to thirty thousand people go through the factories annually and we never enquire whether they are there to spy or not. It makes no difference to us.

He next turned to discover something about our advertising that could be criticised.

An analysis of the methods and distorted statements of the "Weekly" may interest some readers, so we take up the items one by one and open them out for inspection. We will "chain up" the harsh words and make no reference in this article to the birth, growth and methods of the "Weekly" but try to confine the discussion to the questions now at issue.

got those testimonials by advertising for them. In New York he used for that purpose the New York Magazine of which his editor is now in the Federal Penitentiary for fraudulent use of the mails. For example, Post announced in the magazine in 1907, etc. (then follows our prize competition).

We used nearly all of the papers and magazines in New York and the rest of America, but the sensational writer gives the impression to his readers that the only magazine we used was one "whose editor is now in the Federal Penitentiary," etc. something that we know nothing of the truth of now, and never did. Spague was bought in the magazine spot, and never yet have published a testimonial of a business basis for the reason that it went to a good class of readers. The incident seems to have furnished an opportunity for a designing writer to deceive his readers.

We look upon honest human testimony from men and women as to the means by which they recovered health as of tremendous value to those in search of it. Our business has been conducted from the very first day upon lines of strict integrity and honesty, and we have published a testimonial of human experience.

Many of these letters covered numerous sheets; some, if printed, would spread over half a page of newspaper. If we would attempt to print one such letter, in every one of the thousands of papers and magazines we use, the cost for printing that one letter would run into many thousands of dollars.

We boil down these letters exactly as a newspaper writer boils his news, striking sacrilegiously to the important facts and eliminating details about the family and other unimportant matters. This matter of boiling down, or editing, is done honestly and with a full knowledge of our responsibility, but notice the art of the "writer" in the way he presented his readers this matter of testimonials.

Distortion No. 4. This is a bad one. It reads as follows: "The only famous physician whose name was assigned to a testimonial was produced in Court by Colliers and turned out to be a poor old broken-down hopeopath, who is now working in a printing establishment. He received ten dollars ($10.00) for writing his testimonial."

We will wage ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) with any investigator that we have, subject to inspection of any fair committee, upwards of three hundred (300) communications from physicians, many of them expressing the highest commendation of our products, but these will not now or ever be turned over to the publisher for his use.

Notice the statement in this charge: "The only famous physician whose name was assigned to a testimonial was produced in Court by Colliers and turned out to be a poor old broken-down hopeopath, who is now working in a printing establishment. He received ten dollars ($10.00) for writing his testimonial."

The truth is, this Dr. Underwood was one of a great many physicians who have not only written commendatory words about the value of our foods, but every now and then some physician writes an article on coffee or on food, and sends it to us with a suggestion of compensation for his time and medical knowledge. Previous to the time when we employed and neither printed their names or surrendered the letters.

expression of his opinion and research. The "Weekly" hunted up this physician, and because he seemed to be poor, and as it says, "broken-down," had him brought to Court to be exposed before a jury as the "only physician that had ever endorsed Grape-Nuts," but much to the chagrin of the "Weekly," when our attorneys asked him if the article he wrote about coffee was true, he replied, "yes."

Statement No. 5 reads: "The health officer of Mich., Minn., Penn., New Hamp., and other states in their official bulletins have for years been denouncing as poisonous and fraudulent the claims made by the Postum Cereal Company." We do not recall any criticism except from Mich., Penn., Maine and S. Dakota. The average reader might think that the opinions expressed by the State officials are always correct, but that conclusion is not borne out by facts. As an illustration: About thirteen years ago the Dairy and Food Commission in Michigan was quickly and heatedly by what to him was a curious and not well-understood method. Sufficient to say he became a well man, weighing about 135 pounds.

This experience challenged his investigation into causes of disease and their amelioration. Those studies and experiences developed a very profound reverence for a Supreme Power which directly operates upon the human being, and this reverence for the Infinite became to him a form of religion which included honesty of purpose towards his fellowman. A statement which will be endorsed by everyone who knows him closely.

He will make a public announcement in detail of these facts, and the Postum Company will cause that statement to be published in newspapers and magazines in due time. We suggest the reader look for it.

Prevarication No. 8. "Post" spends nearly a million a year in advertising and relies on that to keep out of the newspapers the dangerous nature of the fraud he is perpetrating on the public.

The Postum Company does pay out upwards of a million a year for trade announcements. Newspaper men believe our statements truthful or they would not print them. Large numbers of newspaper men use our products.

They are capable of telling the public whether or not we "bribe" them.

It may have escaped notice that we did not "bribe" that particular weekly.

No. 9 states that the amount of the verdict will "be devoted by the 'weekly' to exposing fraud."

This is almost a humor.

We have two suits pending against the "weekly," total, $500,000.00.

We haven't "devoted" the sum to any particular purpose yet.

Item 10 is a "discovery" that wheat bran is a part of Postum.

But the criticism neglected to mention that for years every Postum package announced in plain type that

Grape-Nuts food has been a great blessing to tens of thousands of people, and we hope will continue to bless a good many more in the succeeding years.

No. 7 is a live wire. It refers to C. W. Post and his studies and experience in "Suggestive Therapeutics," or "Mental Healing," which further lead to a most careful and systematic study of the effect of the mind on the digestive and other organs of the body.

He attended clinics in Europe and fitted himself for a future career in which he has become known as one of the food experts of the world, fitted to judge both from the material as well as the mental side of the question.

For about eight years previous to 1891 he was an invalid. In that year, after being under the care of several well-known physicians he was quickly healed, by what to him was a curious and not well-understood method. Sufficient to say he became a well man, weighing about 135 pounds.

This experience challenged his investigation into causes of disease and their amelioration. Those studies and experiences developed a very profound reverence for a Supreme Power which directly operates upon the human being, and this reverence for the Infinite became to him a form of religion which included honesty of purpose towards his fellowman. A statement which will be endorsed by everyone who knows him closely.

Some Facts

Battle Creek, Michigan, December 30, 1910.

We the undersigned certify that never to our knowledge has a testimonial letter been printed by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., which did not have behind it a genuine letter signed, and believed to be an honest statement.

To the best of our knowledge and belief the Company has received upwards of fifty thousand, (50,000) genuine testimonial letters.

This Company has never knowingly made nor permitted an untruthful statement regarding its products or its methods.

M. K. HOWE, Treasurer. (With Company about 14 years.)

L. J. LAMSON, Inspector of Advt. (With Company about 9 1/2 years.)

F. C. GRANDIN, Advertising Manager. (With Company about 12 years.)

R. M. STERRETT, M.D., Physician in charge of Scientific Dept. (With Company about 4 1/2 years.)

CHESTON SYER, Advt. Writer. (With Company about 3 years.)

CHARLES W. GREEN, Advt. Writer. (With Company about 5 years.)

HARRY E. BURT, General Sup't. (With Company about 13 years.)

H. C. HAWK, Assistant to Chairman. (With Company about 7 years.)

C. W. POST, Chairman. (With Company 16 years, from the beginning.)

The outer covering of wheat (bran), made part of the beverage.

They ignorantly fell into a trap here, not knowing enough of food value to know that "Taka-Diastase" the article used by physicians the world over for "starch indigestion" is made from "wheat bran."

So we use that part of the wheat berry because it contains the element needed to develop the valuable diastase in manufacture. Good Postum is impossible without this part.

These self-appointed critics do make some laughable blunders through ignorance, but—be patient.

Item 11 is an illustration of the twisting and twisting of the sensational writer delivering distorted matter to his readers.

While on the witness stand Mr. Post testified to his studies in Anatomy, Physiology, Dietetics and Psychology—all relating to the preparation and digestion of food. Asked to name authorities studied he mentioned six or eight from memory, and commented on some clinical experiments covering several years in annual journeys to Europe.

Now notice the distortion. (Copy from the printed criticism.)

"He (Post) pointed out a pile of books in 'possession of his attorneys as the very ones he had read.'"

(Notice—"the very ones he had read," leading the reader to believe that they were the only ones.)

"Did you consult the books from these editions?" was asked.

"From those and various editions," answered Post.

The attorney "picked up a book after book from the pile and showed the title pages to the jury—all except two had been published since 1905."

This is an example of distortion and false coloring to produce an unfavorable impression.

The facts are Mr. Post purposely introduced the latest editions that could be obtained of prominent authorities to prove by them the truth of his statements regarding appendicitis and the analysis of brain, also the latest conclusions in regard to the action of the digestive organs. These works are:

Human Physiology, by Raymond.

Physiological Chemistry, by Simon.

Digestive Glands, by Pawlow.

Hand Book of Appendicitis, by Ochsner.

Physiological Chemistry, by Hammarsten.

Biochemie System of Medicine, by Carey.

The "Weekly" carefully eliminates from its printed account, testimony regarding the years of research and study by Mr. Post in fitting himself for his work, and would lead the reader of the distorted article to believe that his education began since 1905.

Distortion No. 12 reports Mr. Post as a "dodging witness."

His eye is not of the shifty kind observed in the head of one of his chief critics. On the witness stand Mr. Post looks quietly but very bravely straight into the eyes of the gagging twisting lawyer, trying by all his art to ask double-barreled questions and bull-doze and confuse a witness.

The "dodging" it seems consisted of replying, "I don't know."

Opposing counsel holds a book in his hand while he queries—

"I want to know if there is a single thing in your whole book here that suggests any particular kind of food." Then followed some discussion between attorneys.

When Mr. Post was allowed to reply, he said, "I don't know until I read the book over to see."

This book, it turns out, was written by Mr. Post seventeen years ago and probably has not been read carefully by him in the last fifteen years. It would require a remarkable memory to instantly say "yes" or "no" as to what a book of 147 pages did or did not contain, without reading it over, but such conservative and well-laid answers are construed by sensation seekers to be "dodging."

The attorney sought by every art to impress the jury with the fact that Mr. Post's belief in the power of Mind in relation to the body branded him as unreluctant and worse.

The following is quoted from one of the questions—

(The lawyer reading from the book)

"The writer of these pages desires to say nothing of himself other than as a simple instrument through which the Divine Principle chooses to manifest itself by precept and example."

"Skill in mental practice is gained in the same way as skill in any department of science—by observation, study, experience and the ability to evolve correct conclusions."

"Read carefully, thoughtfully no more than twenty pages daily. Afterward seek an easy position where you will not be disturbed. Relax every muscle. Close your eyes, and go into the silence where mind is plastic to the breathings of spirit, and where God talks to the Son. The thoughts from Divine Universal Mind come as winged angels and endow you with a healing power. If you go into the silence humble and trusting, you will come out enriched and greatly strengthened in body by contact with the Father of all life and all power. You will feel refreshed in every way and food taken will digest readily as the stomach works smoothly when under the influence of a Higher Power."

"I ask you if you did not write that, and if you did not believe it when you wrote it."

For a moment the Court Room was in absolute silence.

Mr. Post slowly leaned forward over the rail, pointed his finger at the Attorney to drop he said, "Yes, I am proud to say I did."

America Wants Free Bait for Nothing!

A perusal of the message from Washington makes it apparent that a settlement has not yet been reached as regards the fishery regulations which are in force in the waters where American fishermen can fish.

The kernel of the situation is: What are America's terms? What concessions does she want for the withdrawal of the sit?

Is America asking for free bait in return for not pressing suit at Hague against the Fishery Regulations?

Curiously the following despatch was published in the Halifax papers on Saturday, but for some strange reason was not sent on to the newspapers here.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. Newfoundland was not represented at the conference to-day, as Premier Morris has returned to Newfoundland for the purpose of consulting his colleagues in the Cabinet before giving a final answer to all the changes in the Newfoundland regulations desired by American fishermen.

Distortion No. 12 reports Mr. Post as a "dodging witness."

His eye is not of the shifty kind observed in the head of one of his chief critics. On the witness stand, Mr. Post looks quietly but very steadily straight into the eyes of his haggling, winking lawyer, trying by all his art to ask double-barreled questions and out-bulk and confuse a witness.

The "dodging" it seems consisted of replying, "I don't know."

Opposing counsel holds a book in his hand while he queries.— "I want to know if there is a single thing in your whole book here that suggests any particular kind of food." Then followed some discussion between attorneys.

When Mr. Post was allowed to reply, he said, "I don't know until I read the book over to see."

This book it turns out was written by Mr. Post seventeen years ago and probably has not been read carefully by him in the last fifteen years. It would require a remarkable memory to instantly say "yes" or "no" as to what a book of 145 pages did or did not contain, without reading it over, but such conservative and well-balanced answers are construed by section-seekers to be "dodging."

The attorney sought by every art to impress the jury with the fact that Mr. Post's belief in the power of Mind in relation to the body branded him as unreliable and worse.

The following is quoted from one of the questions.— (The lawyer reading from the book.)

"The writer of these pages desires to say nothing of himself other than in a simple instrument through which the Divine Principle chooses to manifest itself by precept and example.

"Skill in mental practice is gained in the same way as skill in any department of science—by observation, study, experience and the ability to solve correct conclusions.

"Read carefully, thoughtfully no more than twenty pages daily. Afterward seek an easy position where you will not be disturbed. Relax every muscle. Close your eyes, and go into the silence where mind is plastic to the breathings of spirit and where God talks to the Son. The thoughts come Divine Universal Mind come as winged angels and endow you with a ruling power. If you go into the silence humble and trusting, you will come out enriched and greatly strengthened in body by contact even in a short time with the Father of all life and all power. You will feel refreshed in every way and food taken will digest readily as the stomach works smoothly when under the influence of a Higher Power."

"I ask you if you did not write that, and if you did not believe it when you wrote it."

For a moment the Court Room was absolute silence.

Mr. Post slowly leaned forward over the rail, pointed his finger at the City's face to emphasize, his reply and with eyes that caused those who are Attorney to drop he said, "Yes, I am proud to say I did."

P. S. A.

At the meeting of the P. S. A. yesterday Mr. J. S. Burke read an interesting paper "Stainly About Books." The speaker made a brief reference to the origin of books and then spoke of some of the more important changes down to the present time. In the early days of printing heavy literature was regarded as indispensable for a good education. In the present age a lighter vein of literature is more generally appreciated and the novel is more in evidence than formerly. Many authors were referred to as useful to the average reader since a book should have an educating as well as an entertaining influence. Mr. Currie presented his thoughts and experiences in a very pleasing style. Mr. Tucker rendered "He Shall Feed His Flock" from the Messiah in a very pleasing manner. The P. S. A. meetings are interesting in popularity.

Here and There.

RETURNED HOME.—Four of the Calypso's crew who have finished their term on this station, returned to England by the S. S. Mongolian to-day.

PLENTIFUL AT BURGO.—A telegram to town this morning says that codfish and halibut are plentiful at Burgo, good catches were made Saturday last.

OLD FRIENDS.—Price Webber and wife, Miss Edwina Gray are now at Sydney. They intend to visit St. John's should they be able to negotiate successfully for a hall.

LOST HER MAINSAIL.—The schr. Dorothy Duff, Capt. Burke, 4 days from Sydney with coal by W. Duff & Sons, Carboneau arrived here Saturday afternoon. Saturday forenoon she met it rough off Cape St. Francis, when a sudden gust of wind tore the mainsail in pieces and she had to run for this port. After getting repairs she will proceed to Carboneau.

DEER STILL MOVING.—People who arrived here by the Bruce express Saturday say that numerous caribou recently crossed the tracks at Gait Topsails, as their tracks could be seen in the snow. The animals have remained longer this year than for many years past on the northern feeding grounds owing to the mildness of the winter.

Dynamite Bomb in Home of Chicago Judge

Chicago, an 11.—A dynamite bomb was found to-day in the vestibule of the home of County Judge John E. Owens, recently elected on the Democratic ticket. It was about seven inches long and an inch in diameter, lead covered, and its fuse appeared to have been fired, but to have burned out.

Judge Owens himself discovered the bomb as he was about to leave the house for his office. It was beside the wall of his library, where he was accustomed to spend part of his evenings. "I thought at first, it was some sort of a joke" said the Judge to-day. "Then when I saw that the fuse evidently had been lighted, I thought I had better turn it over to the police, which I did. I cannot imagine what would prompt anyone to blow up my house, and I am thinking that it later will be found to have been a joke."

When the lead casing of the bomb had been cut into by the police it was seen to contain a crossive powder which had become wet. It was believed by the police to be high power blasting powder. The bomb was sent to the Bureau of Explosives.

"Semi-Tototalers" is the name of a new society or organization in England, which claims a membership of about 250,000, about 75,000 of whom have been added during the last year. The pledge of the association requires the members to abstain from drinking intoxicating liquors between meals, including only at luncheon and dinner. The secretary notes the somewhat important fact that the work of the association tends to produce total abstainers. He reports that "many of the pledges issued have been returned with the words 'except at my mid-day and evening meals' be struck out, the signatories thereby becoming total abstainers."

A PRESENTATION.—When Dr. Howlett took leave of the C. C. C. a few days ago he was presented by the boys with a handsome set of pocket safety razors. Dr. Howlett heartily thanked the donors.

Big Deal in Pulp Land

Hon. W. C. Job, with M. A. De J. Milley and R. F. Goodridge, secured some time ago an option on 900 square miles of timber land at St. John's River, Hamilton Inlet. Lateral's rental on which is $28,000. The land adjoins the Dickie property, on which is erected lumber and other mills, which is worked each season by 100 gangs of lumbermen. The property owned by those alluded to above, said to be timbered and the owners are in negotiation with a big syndicate of British capitalists. It is believed that this week arrangements will be finalized for the purchase of the property, when the sum of $2,000 will be transferred to the owners. The prospective purchasers require the land for pulp and paper making purposes and will erect works to acquire the property large in for this purpose.

The Biggest Price for Herring.

Last week there were eight American herring catchers at Bonaville looking for fish, which were not very plentiful. Six of these vessels have gasoline motors as auxiliaries to their sails, and tow their boats from the fishing grounds in stormy weather. These Americans want herring, and must get them at all hazards. They are offering splendid inducements to the men catching the herring to work hard for the record sum of $3 per barrel out of the net. This is the highest price ever offered for herring in the annals of the fishery, and some private contracts were filled at even an advanced figure to this. The scarcity of herrings, it is said, which has brought such a fancy price, and the catchers made splendid wages at the fishery last week.

The Doctors' Fees.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir—When the Municipal Council attempts legislation on Medical Acts, and medical practice, they go before their province altogether and display nothing but ignorance. As a voter, I say it is not what we put them there for. Let them copy some of the doctors, enlarge their ideas by a trip abroad, and when they return they will see the dirt and filth of St. John's, and perhaps make a better attempt to clean it. At present they seem more anxious to get credit for what they say in the meetings than to do an honest work in the city.
Yours truly,
PHYSICIAN.

McMurdo's Store News

MONDAY, Jan. 16, '11.
On Saturday we opened a large consignment of splendid Sponges. As everybody knows, good Sponges appear to be more difficult to get every year. This time we have gone to "the head of the well" and secured these direct from a Greek company, thus saving all middlemen's profits. The use in Sponges for this lot than has been possible in St. John's any time during the last few years. We have pieces from the smallest slate to the largest lath sponge; from the carriage sponge to the finest "velvet" for any lady's toilet. The prices range from 10c. to $3.70, and they are at least 30 per cent. better value than Sponges usually sold at the price—adv.

Wedding Bells.

KING-DOOLEY.
A very pretty wedding took place on the 12th inst. at St. Patrick's Church when Mr. William H. Dooley and Miss Mary J. King were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. McDermott. The bride was attired in a very pretty costume of cream tulle with hat to match, and was assisted by Miss Julia McLoughlin, who was attired in a pretty gown of cream voile with hat to match. The groom was attended by Mr. R. J. Coady. The happy couple received several useful presents. After the ceremony the party took the train for Placentia, where the honeymoon will be spent. We wish them every happiness for their future.

At the R. C. Cathedral.

Rev. Fr. Kelly preached at the Cathedral at Vespers last night on the text, "And thou shalt call his name Jesus." He dwelt on the great necessity of refraining from desecrating the Holy Name by irreverent use and blasphemy. The name of the Saviour was the greatest that the world had ever known, and when all the other names of the world's great men would have been forgotten, the name of Jesus would be honored and worshipped on earth till time would be no more. His Grace the Archbishop, occupied the Throne. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament followed, Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan officiating.

Big Deal in Pulp Land.

Hon. W. C. Job, with M. A. Duffy, J. Milley and R. F. Goodridge, secured some time ago an option on 9,700 square miles of timber land at N. W. River, Hamilton Inlet, Labrador, the rental on which is $38,400. The land adjoins the Dickie property, on which is erected lumber and other mills, and which is worked each season by large gangs of lumbermen. The property owned by those alluded to above is said to be timbered and the owners are in negotiation with a big syndicate of British capitalists. It is believed that the week arrangements will be finalized for the purchase of the property, when the sum of $200,000 will be transferred to the owners here. The prospective purchasers require the land for pulp and paper-making purposes and will erect when they acquire the property large mills for this purpose.

Cleaned out the Till.

While the family were away back in the kitchen at the rear of the house Saturday night, some thief entered Mrs. Robert Parsons shop at Hamilton Street in a very stealthy manner and getting inside the counter opened the till, taking all the money which it contained, which would be anywhere from $7 to $10. Mrs. Parsons thought she heard a noise, and coming out she heard a noise, and coming out she was just in time to see the thief vanish through the front door, though she was not near enough to get a description of him. Burglars and sneak thieves seem to be enamored of the West End, judging from the series of robberies and thefts which have recently occurred there.

McMurdo & Co. have an invigorator that will grow hair or money back. The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.
If your hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.
The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment to the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed. A large bottle for 50c. 6

St. Patrick's Church.

Yesterday at last Mass Rev. Fr. McDermott spoke from the pulpit on matters affecting the parish. In future residents of the West End about to enter into the matrimonial contract must have their marriages performed at St. Patrick's Church, and the same applies to baptisms. For the administration of these sacraments at the home a special fee must be paid.
In speaking about repairs to St. Patrick's Church, it was announced that the Ladies' Committee had collected through their efforts the very substantial sum of $1,500. Much is still to be done with the church, and in the spring the work of raising the tower and putting a steeple on it will be pushed forward. After last Mass yesterday the Building Committee held a meeting.
