Typewriters at a Bargain!

A FIRST-CLASS Typewriter at $65.00.

Exactly the same as that we sold one of the largest local manufacturing companies 5 years ago, and which, writing to us in Nov. of last year, they said: "The Typewriter purchased on March 4th, 1913, is exactly the same as you represented it at the time of sale, and is still giving entire satisfaction." You can have the same service and the same selection if you buy your Typewriter from us, for every Machine we sell carries with it a DOUBLE GUARANTEE—the Manufacturer's guarantee and our guarantee.

We have also just received a WIFE CARRIAGE UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER, only one, you get it for $60.00, which is from $50.00 to $75.00 less than you can buy this Machine anywhere to-day. Come in, and see it. If you can afford to pay $50.00 for a Typewriter, come in and see the No. 1 REMINGTON we have, that we are selling at $50.00; you never saw a greater bargain. No excuse to do without a Typewriter now—at these prices it is a necessity. Remember, we guarantee them, and remember we are

IN THE TOILS; But Happiness Comes at Last.

CHAPTER XI.
FORGOTTEN PROMISES.
The next moment he was in the room—which his stalwart figure seemed to fill and dwarf ridiculously. "Well, Flo!" he said, in his clear, musical voice, as Lady Florence rose and gave him her warm, soft hand. "Here I am, back again, like a bad shilling. Jove! how comfortable you look," glancing round the room and warming his hands. "How have you been?" he went on, looking at her with approving admiration. Certainly Lady Florence was a beautiful woman; the room seemed to frame her, it was all such a delicious contrast to the bleak, cold outside. "Your looks answer for you—and how is Lady Fanshaw? Didn't I see her go out of the other room? No? Fancy, I suppose. What's the news?"

"I ought to ask that question," said Lady Florence, looking up at his stalwart form and handsome face with a soft light in her eyes. "Won't you sit down?" and she put her hand on a chair beside her. Charlie looked round, then dragged a cushion from the chair to the rug and threw himself down almost at her feet. He did not see the quick, glad flush that flashed across her face as he did so, nor did he feel the soft touch of her hand, which almost pressed his broad shoulder as it came into momentary contact with it. "Heigho, but this is very jolly, after that beastly journey," he said, with his usual oracular grunt of relief and comfort.

"You have only just returned?" "Just," he said, looking lazily at the fire. "Looked in at the club, and dressed and came on here." Lady Florence smiled with sweet content. "And how did you find the marquis?"

Lord Heatherdene laughed. "As ever. Got a worse attack than usual, though, I think. The first words he said were: 'For Heaven's sake, mind my feet!' I don't know whether he thought I was going to embrace him." Lady Florence laughed. "No, you are right," he assented, with a smile; "but more followed. He grumbled at everything—wanted to know why the dev—I mean, why I didn't come down oftener; and the next moment got into a rage because I had not been in the House to vote with the party on the land question. I didn't know how I could well be in London and at the castle at one and the same time. Then he began to tell me about young Polignett, and got into such a rage about it; though how it concerns him I cannot see."

"What has Lord Polignett done?" asked Lady Florence. "Married a governess—no, an opera singer," said Lord Heatherdene. "Poor Lord Polignett!" murmured Lady Florence, with contemptuous pity. "Oh, I don't think he wants any commiseration," laughed Charlie. "They tell me that she is a remarkably pretty girl, and a clever one to boot, and that Polignett is as happy as a sandboy!"

"An opera singer! How I pity poor Lady Polignett!" said Lady Florence. Lord Heatherdene laughed. "Yes, the countess is wild enough. The earl said that she came over to the castle to tell him, and wept—I think they both wept together. It's a strange thing for Polignett to do."

LEMONS BRING OUT THE HIDDEN BEAUTY. Make this lotion for very little cost and just see for yourself.

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes, to bleach the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty? But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white in this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and you have a whole quart pint of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost of one usually paid for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will remain pure and fresh for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it should help to bleach, clear, smoothen and beautify the skin.

Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons. "Certainly," added Charlie. "Both he and Lady Florence remembered that little comment in the after years. "Well, and what else?" she asked, bending over him, as she stands before him all unconscious. "Did he ask after me?"

Lord Heatherdene nodded, with rather an embarrassed smile. "Yes—oh, yes," he said. "What did he say—did he grumble at me?" "Oh, no," said Charlie, stricken dumb. "Should he repeat the old man's question, asked a dozen times during each day of his visit?"

"I am afraid he did," said Lady Florence, "and yet I thought that I was a favorite of his." "So you are—the favorite," said Lord Heatherdene. "He wants you to go down, you and Lady Fanshaw. I told him I would tell you, but perhaps it would have been more merciful to you to have forgotten it."

"I shall be glad to go after we come back from Mentone," said Lady Florence. "Mentone!" said Charlie, looking up with a sudden surprise. "Are you going?—when?—why?"

He looked up with quite a novel expression of perplexity and hesitation which did not escape Lady Florence. "I scarcely know," she said softly, and with a little sigh that ended in a smile. "Mentone is as good as anywhere else. One must go somewhere, and—town is empty."

"Mentone," repeated Charlie, rising abruptly, and leaning against the mantelpiece with a curious flush on his face. "Why should you go—so far. What on earth will become of me when you are gone?" Lady Florence looked down with a little tremor of the lip. "I don't think you will miss me, Charlie," she said.

"Miss you—it isn't the word for it," he said earnestly, looking round the room and back at her downcast face. Lady Florence's heart beat fast. "I shall miss you terribly. Why, this is as good as home, and I turn in as naturally as if it were home. For Heaven's sake, don't go to that outlandish place."

"It is very pleasant now," she said, softly, yet sadly. "Why should I stay?" "Why?" he echoed, then he paused abruptly, drew a long breath, and looked down at her with a sudden nervousness, which was as strange as reason—"why? I know of only one reason, and, perhaps—perhaps you would not consider it one." She raised her eyes; there was an expectant light in them, and her face had suddenly grown pale. "And that?" she asked, almost in a whisper.

He made a half step forward to seat himself beside her; had opened his lips to answer; had, indeed, almost sealed his fate, when the door opened and the footman announced: "The Marquis de Ellington!"

Charlie started back into his original posture, then went forward with something of a flush on his face. Lady Florence sank back, her face deathly white, with her lips set hard. Another moment and he would have been hers. If a wish could slay the five feet two of the nervous little marquis, he would have been extended on the carpet instead of fidgeting, hiding with embarrassment beside her chair.

"Quite too bad to put in an appearance," Lady Florence, he said, taking and holding her hand nervously, and then seizing Charlie Heatherdene's hand again. "Quite too bad; but—by the tickets you—you know. You were kind enough to ask me to get—"

"The tickets!" echoed Lady Florence, with cold surprise. "The little marquis nodded with eager humility. "For the Boudoir, to-night. The new actress—you know. Don't you remember my telling you of the fuss they were making about her, and the fight there was for seats—booked a month in advance, by Jove."

Lady Florence leaned back with languid indifference. What a contrast to the attitude, the face, the whole expression, five minutes back. "I have a faint recollection of hearing you tell Lady Fanshaw of something of the sort."

"I—I thought you were listening," Lady Fanshaw said you would like to go," said the marquis, his handsome face quite piteous in his anxiety to prove his case. "Everybody is going, you know. Here's Heatherdene, he continued, turning to Charlie, who stood leaning against the mantelpiece and wondering why the marquis—usually the most self-composed and fluent of persons—should be so abashed and embarrassed, so different to his ordinary self. "Heatherdene, don't you remember? The new actress—Adrienne Haldine—Katrine Haldine's sister; why, you booked a box; you and Fitzgerald and Hamilton, and asked me to dine with you at the club. You don't mean to say that you have forgotten it?" and his lordship held out his gloved hand agreeably.

Charlie started. "By Jove! I recollect!" he said. "I had forgotten it, Ellington; and I am very glad you reminded me." And he looked at his watch. Promises and engagements were strong points with Charlie, and those who knew him best were known to avow that he never broke either. "I'm glad you reminded me," he repeated, "or I should have forgotten it. Yes, we were to dine at Hamilton's club, and go on to the Boudoir."

The marquis nodded. "That's right. I met Hamilton this morning and he said you were coming. Everybody will be there," he added, repeating the former assertion. "They say that there hasn't been such an actress as this Adrienne Haldine since Siddons."

Lady Florence looked from one to the other with a strange smile in her face. Charlie Heatherdene was consulting his repeater. Would he leave her, this evening of all evenings, to see this new actress? Surely not, she thought. But much as she loved him, deeply as she had studied him, she did not know how greatly he prided himself on never breaking a promise or an engagement. He looked at the clock. "I should have forgotten all about it," he said; "I am so sorry!" looking at Lady Florence. "I must not keep them waiting. Will you go, Florence?"

"Do," said the marquis imploringly. "I assure you that everybody will be there. The rush for tickets was something awful. I don't think there will be a seat in the house. You will go, Lady Florence? I refused to join Heatherdene's party, hoping that you would allow me to escort you and Lady Fanshaw."

Use "Cascarets" for Liver and Bowels When Constipated.

When bilious, headachy, sick for sour stomach, bad breath, bad colic. Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headachy coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

"You said you would not go," said the poor marquis innocently. "But I promised!" exclaimed Lady Florence, with a swift glance at Charlie. "I don't care which it is," responds the marquis eagerly. "There are the tickets for the Boudoir, if you care to go. If not, I will escort Lady Fanshaw—and you—to the duchess."

"A promise is a promise," said Lady Florence, still looking at Charlie. "I promised the duchess." Charlie came forward; hitherto he had been content to watch the argument and await the result. Now he came forward, and if Lady Florence had known it, her fate was in her own hands. (To be Continued.)

Household Notes.

Any cooked vegetables left over can be used in salads, but they should be carefully dressed. If you use cleaning powder for saucapans, be sure to wash out the pan afterwards with cold water. Suet crust spread with jam or preserves and rolled up before steaming makes a delicious roly-poly. A suet crust steamed for an hour on top of a plain, well-seasoned meat stew is very good and wholesome. To have delicious mince meat use the following idea: To a gallon crock of mince meat add a pint of preserved citron.

REVOLUTION IN COSTA RICA. San Juan Del Sur Nicaragua, Feb. 25.—A revolution is in progress in Costa Rica. Wire communication has been interrupted between the frontier and Los Chiles. It is known that the towns of Alajula, San Mateo and Heredia are in the hands of the revolutionists. It is reported Los Chiles and Panta Areas probably will fall shortly.

WILL RESTORE RUSSIAN MONARCHY. LONDON, Feb. 25. Germany plans to restore the monarchy in Russia, according to a telegram from Petrograd to the Morning Post. It says the Grand Duke of Hesse has been appointed commander in the Riga section of the German army. His sister, the despatch adds, former Empress Alexandra, as guardian of her son, former Tsarevitch, is the favorite Germany can dictate, for the former Emperor will not accept the throne from German hands. The Bolsheviks have provided a form of Government which the Russians alone can understand, pure despotism; they have paved the way for the return of the monarchy.

RELEASING ARISTOCRATS. PETROGRAD, Feb. 25. General Count Morbach, commanding the armies occupying Estonia and Livonia, has issued a manifesto to the population declaring that they are now under German police power. He orders the release from prison of all barons of Estonia, declaring they are under the protection of Germany.

PROMOTING ANOTHER STRIKE. AMSTERDAM, Feb. 25. There are numerous indications in Germany of a very systematic campaign to promote a new general strike, says a Berlin despatch.

GERMANS ENFORCING DISCIPLINE. PETROGRAD, Feb. 25. The Germans late Saturday were still advancing into the provinces they had decided to occupy. ### REVOLUTION IN COSTA RICA.

San Juan Del Sur Nicaragua, Feb. 25.—A revolution is in progress in Costa Rica. Wire communication has been interrupted between the frontier and Los Chiriquis. It is known that the towns of Alajula, San Mateo and Heredia are in the hands of the revolutionists. It is reported Los Chiriquis and Punta Arenas probably will fall shortly.

WILL RESTORE RUSSIAN MONARCHY.

LONDON, Feb. 25. Germany plans to restore the monarchy in Russia, according to a telegram from Petrograd to the Morning Post. It says the Grand Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha has been appointed commander in the Riga section of the German front. His sister, the despatch adds, former Empress Alexandra, as guardian of her son, former Tsarevitch, is the favorite Germany can dictate, for the former Emperor will not accept the crown from German hands. The Bolsheviks have provided a form of Government which the Russians alone can understand, pure despotism; they have paved the way for the return of the monarchy.

RELEASING ARISTOCRATS.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 25. General Count Morbach, commanding the armies occupying Esthonia and Livonia, has issued a manifesto to the population declaring that they are now under German police power. He orders the release from prison of all barons of Esthonia, declaring they are under the protection of Germany.

PROMOTING ANOTHER STRIKE.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 25. There are numerous indications in Germany of a very systematic campaign to promote a new general strike, says a Berlin despatch.

GERMANS ENFORCING DISCIPLINE.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 25. The Germans late Saturday were still advancing into the provinces they had decided to occupy. In this connection it is reported they are executing Red Guards, treating them as outlaws, but releasing and disarming soldiers of the regular army. The Pravda, the Bolshevik organ, declares that the Germans are restoring shoulder straps to Russian officers and forcing Russian soldiers to salute them.

LENINE'S SPEECH.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 25. "Their knees are on our chest and our position is hopeless," declared Nikolai Lenin, Bolshevik Premier, in the course of his speech to the Central Executive Committee of the Russian Council of Workmen and Soldiers' delegates in which he insistently urged the acceptance of the Austro-German peace conditions, however oppressive and unfortunate they might appear. This peace must be accepted as a respite, he continued, enabling us to prepare a decisive resistance to the Bourgeois and Imperialism. The proletariat of the whole world will come to our aid.

EXPECTS ELECTION.

LONDON, Feb. 25. An official report of an address delivered at a meeting of Liberal whips and agents on Friday shows that former Premier Asquith declared that a general election was now inevitable and that preparations should be made to meet it. His speech dealt mainly with the changes brought about by the last franchise bill, especially women's vote and indicated the possibility that an election might come even within a few weeks.

AMERICANS MAKE CAPTURES.

With the American Army in France, Feb. 25.—An American patrol in the Chemin des Dames sector in conjunction with a French patrol early yesterday penetrated a few hundred yards into the German lines and captured two German officers, twenty men and a machine gun.

EMBASSIES WILL REMAIN.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 25. Allied Ambassadors at a conference today at the American Embassy determined to remain in Petrograd pending developments. The general belief in embassy circles, is that German terms which the Bolsheviks have agreed to accept are couched in such ambiguous terms that they must be cleared up thoroughly before the actual status of Russia can be ascertained. Some members of the American embassy staff already have left, while others will leave by way of Siberia on a special train to-night. The Ambassadors, however, have not reached a decision.

ACCEPTS LABOR PROGRAMME.

LONDON, Feb. 25. At a luncheon given to-day in honor of the Foreign Delegates to the Inter-Allied Labor Conference which has accepted the war programme of British Labor, Arthur Henderson announced that an international conference will be called to consider the establishment of a League of Nations. This would involve an international co-operation for disarmament and the prevention of warfare in the future. The restoration of Belgium, Serbia, Roumania and Montenegro and only territorial changes in the future based on justice and rights. James Ramsay MacDonald said that the next step of labor and socialism was to bring the matter before the German and Austrian people themselves.

Expressions of Condolence.

CURLERS' SYMPATHY.

A special meeting of the St. John's Curlers' Association was held last night at 9 o'clock, a large number of members being present. President Joseph Peters occupied the chair and in opening the meeting explained the object was to give expression to the sorrow with which the members had learned of the loss in the Florizel tragedy of seven prominent curlers, and to place on record a resolution of condolence to the relatives. In an appropriate address, the Junior Vice-President, Mr. W. J. Higgins, then moved the following resolution:

WHEREAS, in the loss of the S.S. Florizel this Association has had removed from its roll seven of its most valued and respected members, namely, Messrs. John S. Mann, Fred C. Smythe, Michael O'Driscoll, Geo. A. Moulton, Edgar Froude, Robert Wright and John C. Parsons; BE IT RESOLVED, that we place on record an expression of our deepest sympathy with the relatives of the deceased, whose tragic passing has not only created a void in the civic and industrial life of the community, which it will be difficult to fill, but has taken from us curlers whose sterling qualities of good-fellowship and true manhood will long be remembered in the hearts of those who have had the privilege of this friendship.

The motion was seconded in a very feeling speech by Major Montgomerie, and supported by addresses of a most touching character by Revs. Thomas and Dickie and Hon. President C. R. Duder, and Messrs. F. W. Bradshaw and J. R. Bennett. It was adopted by a standing vote, the members remaining uncovered while Mr. F. V. Chesman played the Dead March. Before adjournment the President announced that all fixtures for the week were cancelled.

I.O.O.F. PASSES RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

At the regular meeting of Atlantic Lodge, No. 1, last night the smoker set down to take place was postponed until the last week in March. After general business had been "gone through, Bro. Hilary Carey moved the following resolution which was adopted unanimously:

WHEREAS, since our last convocation, Bro. C. H. Miller, honored and beloved, has been called upon to lay down his life and to enter the Grand Lodge above; BE IT RESOLVED, that the Lodge express its profound sense of the great loss that it has thereby sustained, the Brother having won the esteem, confidence and affection of the Lodge; RESOLVED FURTHER, that this Resolution be entered in the minutes of the Lodge, and that a copy thereof, with a letter of sympathy on behalf of Atlantic Lodge, be sent to the relatives of the deceased Brother.

Messages of Sympathy.

The following messages of sympathy from the Duke of Devonshire, the Governor General of Canada, and Major Timewell of the Pay and Record Office, London, and the replies thereto, were received and despatched by His Excellency the Governor, Sir C. Alexander Harris, yesterday:

FROM OTTAWA.

"Have heard with deepest regret of Florizel disaster. Please convey sympathy of Government and people of Canada to relatives of those who have lost their lives."

REPLY.

DEVONSHIRE. "Governor-General, Ottawa: "I know that people of Newfoundland will deeply appreciate sympathy of their closest neighbor. The blow has been indeed terrible. We have lost so many of our very best."

FROM LONDON.

"It is asked that Your Excellency may be pleased to convey to the people of Newfoundland the profound sympathy of the Nid. Regiment, Staff and Forestry Corps, who desire to join the many others staggered by the news of the Florizel disaster. At present only known here the bare fact. It is sincerely hoped that the reports implying total loss with all hands may be modified. Please telegraph names and particulars to meet numerous and anxious enquires made to this office."

NFLD. RECORD OFFICE.

In answer His Excellency cabled: "The people of Newfoundland will be touched when they receive sympathy of headquarters of their brave Regiment. Loss of Florizel is a terrible blow to the community. Only about 50 saved; 100 lost, including Thomas McNeil, J. S. Mann, J. I. McCoubrey, Edgar Froude, but Major Sullivan of Forestry saved. Will endeavor to send full particulars later."

GVERNOR.

Copy of Telegram Received by Harvey & Co., Ltd., Agents of the Red Cross Line, Dated February 25th, 1918.

On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, representing the mercantile and financial community, please extend to the people of Newfoundland, our sincerest sympathy in the terrible calamity which has deprived them of the lives of so many of their citizens and of the service so essential in those times of the steamship Florizel.

W. J. HERDER, Proprietor. TUESDAY, Feb. 26th, 1918.

Mourn for the Lost!

NEVER in her history has the City of St. John's been called upon to meet such an appalling calamity as that which has stricken her to the heart by the loss of the Florizel and the attendant destruction of life. Some of the brightest and best of our citizens have been hurried into eternity, and from the homes of rich and poor alike there is heard the sound of "Rachel weeping for her children, and will not be comforted."

Governor's Sympathetic Letter.

Through the courtesy of Mayor Goelling we are permitted to publish for the information of the country the following exchange of correspondence between His Excellency the Governor and Mayor Goelling, and we feel sure that all will appreciate the kind words of sympathy from the representative of His Majesty.

Government House, St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 25th, 1918. My Dear Mayor:— Through you as Chief Magistrate of the City it seems to me most appropriate to convey formally my deep distress at the loss of the Florizel and my very real sympathy with those who have suffered loss.

I should like to write separately to all of them, but I fear I shall not accomplish that. I have in the short time I have been here realized what the Florizel was to St. John's. Coming in and out of the harbour week in and week out she stood for a bond of security with the outer world. Something so solid and permanent as to be beyond the reach of accident. Her terribly sudden loss with some of the best of the City's manhood has been a blow to all of us which leaves us numb and confounded.

If I can feel this, as I do, then how impossible is it to gauge the sorrow of those who have been robbed of their dearest. I have no wise words in which I can ask you to express the sympathy which I feel. Yours very truly, (Sgd.) C. ALEXANDER HARRIS, Mayor.

Heroes All.

From the stories of the survivors the main facts of the Florizel tragedy are now sufficiently clear; it is perhaps as well that most of the harrowing details will never be known. With the consequences of the disaster—an inquiry into the cause, which we are convinced will exonerate everyone concerned; the effect upon the country's trade of the loss of this almost priceless ship; and the measures to be adopted to prevent as far as possible a recurrence of such a wreck and to provide better and speedier means of salvage from sea and land, measures which this country and its neighbours cannot longer afford to neglect—with all these we need not now occupy ourselves. For the moment the feelings of the whole community are divided between sorrow and sympathy for those who have gone and with those who remain to mourn them and gratitude to the band of heroes who performed the truly marvellous work of rescue. It is this latter which relieves with the one bright gleam of light the darkness of the whole tragedy. Possibly in other places, better equipped for such emergencies, speedier and perhaps better assistance might have been rendered, though it is doubtful, but we may be forgiven the pride of asking whether the handicaps and hardships of that terrible day and night could have been faced with such courage and overcome with such success by any other people in the world than the seamen of the little ships that brought away safely every soul that still lived on the doomed liner. From the imperfect accounts which we have certain incidents stand out conspicuous even in a story which is one of heroism all through, such as the devotion of the Hawk in staying by the Florizel all night, the personal bravery of Captain Perry of the Gordon C. and of Captain Dalton, and the skill and seamanship of the men in the little dories who risked imminent death every moment in approaching the Florizel and taking off her helpless crew. Such bravery has had its best and most fitting reward in the success of the efforts it marked and the feat of saving every one of the exhausted survivors will live as one of the most wonderful in our annals of the sea. Next to that the best reward we can offer it is to make it known and preserve to memory every detail that can be ascertained. What country would not take pride in such a story? For though it is one of horror and tragedy it is also one of sacrifice and heroism, of men who were not afraid to face death and knew how to meet it when it came.

Our Honored Dead

JOHN S. MUNN. John S. Munn was born in Harbor Grace about 55 years ago. His father the late William Munn, was the head of the great house of Munn, which for half a century took a leading part in the history and fortunes of Conception Bay. His mother, who, some years after the death of his father, married Sir Edgar Bowring, survives him. Mr. Munn was married to Miss McCowen, daughter of the late Inspector General McCowen. Mrs. Munn had been at New York undergoing treatment, and her husband was taking their only child to see her, with the intention of spending a few months in the South, together, when the tragedy of Sunday last occurred. On the doubly stricken young wife and mother the blow falls with crushing severity, and to her, as well as to the mother of the late John S. Munn, the deepest sympathy of Newfoundland's people is extended.

THOMAS M. McNEILL. Thomas McMurdo McNeill was the eldest son of the late John McNeill, and grandson of the late Thomas McMurdo, founder of the Drug Store which bears his name. The late Mr. McNeill had not long left school, when his father died, and the responsibilities of the business then fell upon him. With characteristic courage and ability he continued to conduct it with ever increasing success. His invaluable service to the Brigades of the city and the Volunteers, will never be forgotten. In him the Presbyterian Church has lost one of its most valued and helpful members and St. John's a citizen of the best and manliest type. His widow is a daughter of the late A. M. MacKay, formerly Superintendent of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company, and with three children mourn the loss of husband and father. His brother Jack, a South African war veteran, is now doing duty at the front. Mrs. Alan Goodridge, Mrs. R. F. Goodridge, Mrs. Blackburn and Mrs. McNeill of the city, and Mrs. Eason, who lives in Canada, are sisters. To all these in their great sorrow, the sympathies of our people go out.

JAMES H. BAGGS. Was born at Broad Cove, Bay de Verde, 40 years ago, and in 1901 married Miss S. R. Roberts, a sister of Mrs. John LeDrew and of Dr. William Roberts and Mr. J. H. Roberts, of this city. Five children, three brothers and one sister with the bereaved wife mourn his loss. The late James H. Baggs by his untiring energy had succeeded in building at Carling, Bay of Islands, one of the largest and most progressive businesses on the West Coast, in which his only surviving brother, Mr. Eugene Baggs, has been associated. Newfoundland, and the West Coast particularly, will regret the sad demise of one who bore the promise of great things.

CAPTAIN JOSEPH KEAN. The country at large will feel a pang of regret on learning that Capt. Joe is numbered with the lost. No steamship master was so well known and so well liked. Ever genial and cheerful, under all circumstances and difficulties, he was an object of affection to his men and many times was the recipient of honours from those whose privilege and pleasure it was to travel under his command. It is perhaps a fitting termination to a life so much on the bosom of the ocean, that it now claims him, though we could wish that the manner of his taking had been otherwise. To his widow and children and parents the sympathy of the whole island is tendered.

Our Honored Dead

MISS A. DALTON. Miss Dalton was lately the fore lady of the British Clothing Factory, with whom she severed her connection last week and was on her way to New York where she had secured a most lucrative position in the same line. She is a daughter of Mr. James Dalton, of Western Bay, Bay de Verde, one of the best known and most respected residents of that District.

GORDON IVANY. Gordon Ivany, one of the missing stewards of the Florizel, was a son of Mr. Martin Ivany, of 57 Charlton St. He was unmarried. Mr. Ivany is also mourning another son, who was with the First Royal Newfoundland Regiment, and who has been reported missing since the 3rd of December last. Other notices are in course of preparation and will be published later.

Our New Press.

We will be pardoned for, under the circumstances, making a short reference to our new press recently installed, when we say that but for its modern construction and high speed we would not have been able to supply the demand for the Telegram yesterday. Hundreds of people were waiting about the office long before press hour, and it is not with any idea of blowing our own trumpet when we announce that the new press which was started at 2.50 p.m. yesterday, and stopped at 3.40 p.m. had in the 40 minutes run off nearly 20,000 copies, most of which were on the street before the last sheet had left the cylinders.

Methodist S. S. Institute.

The Sunday School Institute, which owing to the inclemency of the weather, was postponed, was held this evening, in the hall of the Methodist Church, at 8 o'clock. The Sunday School is the most important department of Church work. The Church of to-morrow is in the school of to-day. A consideration of its problems, therefore, ought to commend itself to all who are interested in Christian work. The officers and teachers of the four city schools and all parents are asked to make a special effort to be present. A paper on the Sunday School and its problems will be read by Mr. W. G. Currie, after which a round-table discussion will be conducted by the Rev. N. M. Guy. An offering in aid of the General Sunday School work will be taken.

Old Harps Reported.

To the Fisheries Department:— Nippers Harbor—Moderate, fine and mild; few old breeding harps seen on Saturday. St. Anthony—Moderate S.W. winds, dull and mild. Twillingate—Wind S.E. light, mild and hazy, ice started off, not much water in Bay, no seals reported. Greenspond—Light E. wind and thick fog. Change Islands—Light S. E. wind, ice black. Flowers Cove—Light southerly wind with sky overcast, mild; small lakes of water near the coast. Seal Cove, White Bay—Light S.W. winds, very mild weather; no ice in bay; a few seals seen.

PROSPECTS GOOD.—A report to the Board of Trade from Channel states the codfishery prospects are good and the boats secure fair catches whenever weather permits them to visit the grounds. You can depend on Stafford's Drug Store, Theatre Hill, being open until 9.30 every night. Feb. 25.

years, and more recently with the firm of James Baird, Ltd. About two or three years ago he took over the Commission business which was conducted by his late brother in which he was eminently successful. Endowed with a considerable amount of push, energy and ability he was successful in working up a very flourishing business in his line. He was on his way to New York to confer with his firm of which he was the Nfld. representative when the last call came. The deepest sympathy is felt for his wife and family of little children.

NEWMAN SELLARS. Mr. Newman Sellars was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sellars, Barte's Hill, and a brother of Lieut. Rev. F. M. Sellars, late of the Nfld. Regiment, but now a member of the Flying Corps in France. An insurance agent by profession, travelling for one of our well known Companies, few were better known around the country, especially in the District of Bay de Verde, of which he was a native, having been born at Western Bay, where he travelled extensively for business. He was also prominent in our athletic sports, being a well known figure in the Terra Nova Hockey Team for the past three or four years. Newman was on his way to Toronto to join the Flying Corps. He was about 23 years of age. To Mr. and Mrs. Sellars, with whom the writer of this note is intimately acquainted, both by friendship and ties of relationship, the sympathy of the whole community goes out.

MISS A. DALTON. Miss Dalton was lately the fore lady of the British Clothing Factory, with whom she severed her connection last week and was on her way to New York where she had secured a most lucrative position in the same line. Death Train Reaches the City!

The remains of seven persons who lost their lives in the ill-fated Florizel disaster, and was picked up at Cappa Hayden Beach, reached the city by special train last night. The bodies were embalmed, dressed and coffined in beautiful dark oak polished caskets by Undertaker A. Carnell and assistants, and on arrival at the station were placed on hearses and taken to their late homes. The remains of Mrs. Butler were taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. James McCoubrey, Leslie Street, whose husband is among the missing. Corporal Snow's body was taken to his father's home, LeMarchant Road. The remains of Edgar Froude were taken to the residence of Mr. Geo. E. Moores, York Street, with whom he boarded. Second Officer King's remains were given in charge of City Waterman Flynn, who had them conveyed to his home, York Street. The bodies of George Long and Stan Squires were taken to their late homes on Flower Hill and Tessier Place, off Carter's Hill, respectively. The remains of Mr. W. E. Bishop, of Burin which were not identified until reaching the city, was taken to Undertaker Carnell's mortuary parlor, from where it will be sent to Burin, by the first boat, for interment.

Major Sullivan's Account of the Disaster.

Our readers will have, to-day, an opportunity of deriving from Major Sullivan's story of the tragedy of the Florizel, published below, an idea of the conditions on the wrecked ship, and will also learn, in a measure, how a number of the passengers met their fate. It has already been told with what fortitude they endured, and while we lament their death, we cannot but admire the courage and heroism displayed by all, even when the inevitable was known. Major Sullivan's escape was miraculous, and his coolness and resource under such a trying ordeal is a further testimony to the individual as well as the collective bravery of Newfoundlanders.

Major Sullivan who was up and dressed at the time when the ship struck and was going on deck to learn what caused the unusual rolling was speaking to Mr. J. S. Munn and had an orange with him about 20 minutes to five. Five minutes later she struck and in ten minutes all the lights were out, the ship having settled by the stern so that the water flooded the engine room putting the dynamo out of commission. He had a pocket electric lamp with him at the time which afterwards came in useful for the Marconi operator in signalling to the rescue ships. When he got out on deck he saw some of the officers near a boat at which a few minutes later was broken in pieces by a heavy sea. It was here that Capt. Joe Keen had his leg broken. Major Sullivan saw one of the crew, Messrs. Munn, Wright, C. Miller and T. McNeil, going to the smoking house while he made for the bridge and remained there till Captain Keen had been brought up. He was in the wheel house when a huge sea broke in pieces, smashing the minnacule and wheel to which he was clinging and almost carrying him overboard. He then went on the lower bridge and about 20 minutes later a wave took all on the upper bridge, about fifteen in number, overboard. Several of those who had sought shelter in the lee of the saloon also perished. Corp. Snow who had found refuge in the latter position held out till about noon Sunday but then became exhausted and was swept away with a lifebelt on him. Sunday evening some of the passengers got forward and found shelter under the forecastle deck, and Capt. Martin and Seaman Dooley thought of getting a line ashore by swimming but had to abandon the idea as impracticable. A heavy gale was blowing and huge seas breaking over the ship all the time and those on board suffered terribly having neither fire nor food. After the ship struck Mr. Munn who had on pyjamas and an overcoat left his stateroom, but quickly being drenched by the spray entered the saloon. Major Sullivan last saw him near the rail on the upper deck about 10 a.m. but after a heavy sea had boarded her he had disappeared. Mr. Smythe, of the Woollen Mills, had his arm broken and was among the first to be lost. The loss of life was due in a large measure to exposure, most of the people being sparsely clad. After a sea had destroyed all the upper structure but the Marconi house in which over thirty had found shelter, Major Sullivan reached the sddley where himself Chief Officer James, Walter James Dwyer, Ralph Burnham and one of the Spanish firemen remained till rescued. While daylight lasted Mate James signalled the shore with a handkerchief to let the people gathered there know that some were still alive on board and at night the electric flashlight was used for the same purpose. Ralph Burnham was hauled in on the sddley by Mate James which saved him from being washed overboard. During the night they kept themselves warm by hauling a piece of canvas tightly over them and breathing heavily, also by stamping about. Major Sullivan was told by one of the stewards that Mr. McNeil who came on deck when the ship struck and learned what had happened expressed no anxiety, evidently expecting the steamer to hang together till rescue arrived. He was never seen afterwards. Major Sullivan had been with him up to 11.30 at night. When the bridge house was carried away Major Sullivan became entangled in the wreckage and was badly bruised about the arms and legs and later became caught between the side of the saloon, when it was knocked out, and some planks. From this position he cut himself free with an axe which fortunately was within easy reach. He was almost smothered by water and will be confined to his room about a week, his arms and legs being terribly swollen while his back is considerably bruised. There was no chance of assistance from the shore and a dory which was seen to be launched was quickly upset. The whistle of the steamer was kept going as long as steam lasted and a large number of people collected on land but could do nothing to help. With the flashlight the Marconi operator signalled the steamers Sunday night and a reply was received that boats would be sent to the rescue at daylight. About 7 a.m. the dories from the Hawk got to work and directed by Capt. Dalton did magnificent work. The latter is now suffering from shock as the result of his dory upsetting and throwing him into the icy water. From Saturday night till rescued, Major Sullivan and companions had nothing to eat and were obliged to chew everything in the shape of tobacco they possessed. In attempting to board a dory Major Sullivan got into the water but was saved by Alec Ledingham who caught and held him. After being towed a considerable distance another dory was secured and being tipped on its side, the Major who weighed over 200 pounds and was heavily clothed was rolled into it and saved. But for the promptness of Alec Ledingham in grabbing him he would undoubtedly have drowned.

Body Brought to Town.

The body of William E. Bishop, recovered from the Florizel disaster, was brought in by train last evening and was identified by the Rev. T. E. Darby, M.A., and other friends of the deceased. Mr. Bishop was a member of the well known firm of Messrs. C. F. & W. Bishop, Merchants of Curin, and was on his way to Gloucester on business in connection with a vessel of the firm's now due at the above port with a cargo of herring. Mr. Bishop was well and favourably known both in Burin and in this city for his quiet and retiring disposition. He leaves to mourn him at Burin a wife and four children, his aged father, Mr. Daniel Bishop, sisters, and brother, Charles, senior member of the firm, all of whom the Telegram tenders its deepest sympathy. The body is now being taken care of by the firm of Bishop Sons & Co., Ltd., and is being embalmed, preparatory to being sent home by the S.S. Prospero for interment.

Kindness Without Act.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"I had a young girl here once," she said, "who used to insist on darning all my stockings for me."

"Wasn't that perfectly lovely?" said.

She wanted to be let alone sometimes.

The smile broke into a laugh. "No," she said, "and that's what I was smiling at. I suppose you'll think I'm wicked and ungrateful, but the truth is I thought that girl would drive me crazy."

"I don't mean just her wanting to darn my stockings," she went on, "but she was simply determined to help me about everything, and it made me fearfully nervous."

Not One of the People Who Want to Manage One's Affairs.

"Did she want to manage your affairs?" I said. (I've had troubles of my own with that kind.)

"No," said the woman thoughtfully, "I can't say she did, but she was simply at me all the time, and though I hated myself for feeling that way I was glad to see her go."

"It proves how horrid I am," she finished. "I ought not to have told you."

But as she isn't horrid at all, I couldn't admit that it proved that.

Even Kindness Must Be Flavored With Tact.

It seemed to me that it proved a more or less obvious and more or less ignored truth—that you've got to show that even about trying to be kind. Tact is the salt of the earth. Generosity, helpfulness, sympathy, unselfishness, all lose some of their flavor if they are not seasoned with a little salt of tact. The best salt, I am told, should not really be tasted, it should simply bring out the flavor of the things it is used to season.

And so it is with the salt of tact. Masonville, June 27, '13. Minard's Liniment Co., Limited. Yarmouth, N.S.

Gentlemen,—It affords me great pleasure and must be gratifying to you to know that after using 38 bottles of your Liniment on a case of paralysis which my father was afflicted with, I was able to restore him to normal condition. Hoping other sufferers may be benefited by the use of your Liniment, I am, Sincerely yours, GEO. H. HOLMES.

When you want Steaks, Chops, Cutlets and Collops, try ELLIS'.

Your Boys and Girls.

You do not need to buy the expensive bath and food thermometer for baby's use unless you choose. You will find it just as satisfactory to plunge your bare elbow into the bath water to ascertain if it is hot or cold enough, and you test the baby's bottle for the temperature of the milk by dropping a few drops on your bare wrist.

Night lights often become a serious item of expense, but one may buy, now a tiny electric bulb pocket lamp at a very small outlay. If no kind soul bestowed a hot water bottle on your baby at Christmas, bear in mind that, in case of colic, a muslin bag, filled with bran or salt and heated between two plates, is both convenient and safe to apply to baby's stomach.

Some babies seem to take cold on the slightest provocation and it is often due to the fact that they have been kept in too warm a room or have been clothed too warmly. At night keep baby's room at a temperature of sixty-eight degrees and in the day at a temperature of seventy degrees. Have the thermometer at about the level of the baby's head when he is in his crib. When baby has a cold and his nose is stopped up, twist a bit of cotton about a wooden toothpick and insert it a little way up the nostril, being careful not to push it up too far.

PATRICK HENRY. If Patrick Henry, the well-known after-dinner speaker, had lived he would have been one hundred and eighty years old on the twenty-ninth of May and it would not be necessary to put up with the high-school graduate's merciless assaults upon his orations. It is estimated that Patrick Henry's immortal request for liberty or death has been quoted with more misdirected gestures and string-halting pronouncements than any other passage in American literature except the epic phrase: "Can you loan me ten until pay day?"

Patrick Henry was born in Hanover county, Virginia, and while still in the cradle showed great lung power and versatility of expression, often waking his parents at night to give utterance to some weighty thought which sat heavily on his stomach. He engaged in business several times, but went broke with ceaseless rapidity, being short on mathematics and long on tick. He then turned his mind to some genteel and lucrative pursuit which did not require much previous preparation and decided to practise law. He rose to great heights in the law, and whenever he turned his massive, neatly-chiselled accents loose upon a trial jury the opposing counsel had to be bolstered up with ether and other alcoholic beverages before attempting to reply.

Soon after Mr. Henry was elected to the Virginia Legislature he began to show his dislike of King George the Third, with whom he was not on speaking terms. Every few days he would arise in his seat, clothed in indignation and a one-button frock coat of some dark, clinging material, and ask if there was any reason why King George should not be hurled head first from his throne and compelled to work out by the day. As this appeal, with great force to all present, the motion was adopted by a rising vote. It was about this time that Mr. Henry remarked: "If this be treason, make the most of it," a master stroke which has been the stock in trade of every man who has been elected to Congress in the past forty-five years.

There was nothing shifty orvasive about Patrick Henry. If he had anything to say about anybody he walked right up and discharged it at close range. At a crucial period in American history he stood up and was counted. If we had more Patrick Henry's in public life to-day, the Nation would not have a sore toe on either foot.

Improvements in Egg Production

The efforts of the poultrymen in managing the laying flock should not only be concentrated upon present production, but upon means and methods of increasing future production. Improvements in this line necessitate a close study of the individual, for it is the individual which makes the average, and a few poor birds greatly reduce the average of the good ones. In a flock of 100 hens it will be found that on the average 10 to 30 per cent. rarely lay an egg during the profitable months of the year, and another small percentage may be barren, while the remainder are fairly good layers. The only way is to weed out the poor layers and keep only the best. It often pays better to take one hundred hens out of a flock of one hundred and fifty, after which, with less labor, one can get nearly as many eggs and a much more profitable yield per bird.

Where the selection is not made, the poor birds are fed at the expense of the better ones. Improvement can come largely through the union of two factors: (1) Right selection at the end of the pullet year, and the mating of a breeding pen from the best birds. (2) By producing relatively early hatches and selecting rightly throughout the season, keeping only the best youngsters for future production.

Everyday Etiquette.

"When I am introducing my sister should I mention her last name?" asked Mary. "Yes, it will avoid confusion. Sometimes one's sister is married or not a blood relative and the omission of the last name causes a great many mistakes," was the reply. When pens are scorching, use a stiff wire whisk to get the burned food off the bottom. Orange and grapefruit marmalade can be made a little at a time all through the winter.

Improvements in Egg Production

The efforts of the poultrymen in managing the laying flock should not only be concentrated upon present production, but upon means and methods of increasing future production. Improvements in this line necessitate a close study of the individual, for it is the individual which makes the average, and a few poor birds greatly reduce the average of the good ones. In a flock of 100 hens it will be found that on the average 10 to 30 per cent. rarely lay an egg during the profitable months of the year, and another small percentage may be barren, while the remainder are fairly good layers. The only way is to weed out the poor layers and keep only the best. It often pays better to take one hundred hens out of a flock of one hundred and fifty, after which, with less labor, one can get nearly as many eggs and a much more profitable yield per bird.

Where the selection is not made, the poor birds are fed at the expense of the better ones. Improvement can come largely through the union of two factors: (1) Right selection at the end of the pullet year, and the mating of a breeding pen from the best birds. (2) By producing relatively early hatches and selecting rightly throughout the season, keeping only the best youngsters for future production.

Everyday Etiquette.

"When I am introducing my sister should I mention her last name?" asked Mary. "Yes, it will avoid confusion. Sometimes one's sister is married or not a blood relative and the omission of the last name causes a great many mistakes," was the reply. When pens are scorching, use a stiff wire whisk to get the burned food off the bottom. Orange and grapefruit marmalade can be made a little at a time all through the winter.

From the Wreck.

SEAMAN QUINTON SAFE.

Mr. Eric Bowring received a message from Capt. Kennedy of the Terra Nova, which harbored at Cape Broyle last night, stating that Naval Reservist Quinton who was reported as losing his life while assisting in the rescue of the survivors was safe on board the Terra Nova and quite well. We since learn from passengers who came in on the Trepassey train this morning from Cape Broyle that Quinton while at the scene of the disaster was engaged doing deck duty and at no time was he in the small rescue boats. Hon. Tasker Cook, Mr. J. Baxter of the Reid Navigation Co. and others who remained at the wreck, returned to the city by this morning's train. They report having heard from fishermen that the body of a young boy could be seen late last evening drifting towards the shore, but cannot say if the body was rescued this morning or not. The shore is strewn with wreckage of all descriptions, including packages of herring and fish, ship's doors, fittings, clothing and the belongings of passengers and crew, and numerous other articles. All within reach is being salvaged. The greater part of the hull still holds on to the reef as if by defiance of the angry sea that pound against it. The Terra Nova has gone back to the scene of the wreck and will resume the search for the missing bodies as soon as the sea permits.

Few Cents Destroys Your Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy and beautiful—by this! Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scrub of the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have then appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Hr. Grace Notes.

A terrible gloom was cast over the town as no doubt over the whole island, when the news was flashed along the wires that the S. S. Florizel with her 150 souls on board had been lost yesterday morning near Cape Race. The news this morning was a little better when it was learned that some 40 survivors had been rescued. Several Harbor Guards are known to have been on board.

Miss Rose Sheppard, daughter of Mr. L. Sheppard, had decided to go to Boston by the Florizel this trip, but at the last moment changed her mind, deciding to wait until the middle of March.

A rumour was current in town that the home of one of our prominent citizens had been quarantined for smallpox. If such is the case, then no expense should be spared in keeping this troublesome disease under control, and eventually putting it under altogether.

Dr. W. S. Goodwin, Miss L. Butt, Miss M. McKay and Mr. R. Hanrahan were among the passengers from St. John's by Saturday night's train.

Owing to the illness of Rev. A. A. Holmes, the Rev. E. S. Coffin occupied the pulpit at the Methodist Church in the afternoon, and in the evening Rev. T. H. James, D.D.

Mr. Thomas Ryan of Carbonar Road, died early this morning after an extended illness. Mr. Ryan was a successful farmer and his opinion on all farming matters were very valuable, and freely given when asked for. He leaves one sister and niece to mourn his death.

To-Day's Messages.

RAMPANT PRUSSIANISM.

LONDON, To-day. Reuter's Ottawa Agency—An article in the Westminster Gazette on the Russian-German peace terms is worth quoting, because it not only echoes the general feeling on these terms but reflects opinion in many quarters which had hitherto been disposed to give the Bolshevik regime a run and judge it solely by results. The situation again reveals the Prussian in his true colors. The article says he has no mercy on those unable to resist him. He is dismembering Russia as his forebears partitioned Poland, and there will be no Russia left in the coming century if he can help it. The Baltic provinces and marine under one form and another are to be ransoms of the Central Empire. Poland becomes enslaved and helpless at the disposal of the same powers. Its boundaries are cut and carved with fiendish ingenuity to keep the various races and nationalities in the greatest possible discontent with each other, so they cannot combine against their over-lords. The Turk is to be reinstated in Armenia and given the opportunity of exterminating the population which survived the massacres. For cynicism and callousness the thing is without parallel and if it stands it means an insupportable legacy of trouble, strife and discontent for the world. The article proceeds to show the impossibility of the Allied and Labor war aims and the Prussian aims. It points out that the aims of Labor are in the present circumstances a renewed call to arms and not a pacific Vade-mecum, and that those subscribing to these aims must be prepared to fight, sacrifice and endure until their will proves stronger than the enemy's; for the aims cannot be secured in any other way. The Bolshevik way of words and phrases finally leaves those who pursue it, at the mercy of the conqueror. The article concludes, "and those who read the war aims of Labor might be inclined to ask helplessly how they can make good? What can we do for the Poles? How can we redeem the Russian provinces now in the clutches of the Central Powers? We answer that greater forces are still on the side of the Allies, who control, apart from military forces, the whole world outside Europe and can place their veto on the enemy's commerce, and his access to the sea, and force him to pay a ruinous price for his aggressions in Europe. It is our part to say we won't sanction this aggression and dismemberment and that we stake all our resources and all that we own upon procuring a just and civilized control by an international system for the world and upon that line we can appeal to the working people of the allied nations.

FROM FRONT TO FRONT.

PARIS, To-day. Official report from the War Office to-night says there were reciprocal bombardments in Champagne and in the region of Chaume Wood. Eastern theatre—Artillery actions took place in the region of Doiran. Enemy establishments were bombed by Allied aviators in the Vardar Valley and East Struma. On the western part of the front a violent storm hampered activity.

WEEK'S CASUALTIES.

LONDON, To-day. British casualties reported in the week ending to-day were 3,751, being the lowest of any week for some months. They were divided as follows: Killed or died of wounds, officers 24, men 738, wounded or missing, officers 17, men 2,784.

FROM PETROGRAD.

PETROGRAD, Sunday. A report that 20,000 German soldiers had refused to attack the Russians in a new campaign was given out to-day by the Bolshevik Telegraph Agency. Polish troops in some instances are said to have fled. Assurance of war reports was begun to-day, the following communication being given out: On the Socialist defensive front in the region of Borisoff (45 miles northeast of Minsk) a detachment was sent to destroy bridges. Borisoff and Plotka are in the hands of the revolutionary forces. Sansanc and Vendin have been taken by the Germans, who fought a battle with Lettish troops. The station of Korsavuk and the town of Osirov have been occupied by the Germans. The Poles are advancing from Mohle towards Dobrusk, but often the troops take flight in large bodies. According to reports from Arensburg, 20,000 Germans refused to attack.

ONLY TO BE EXPECTED.

LONDON, To-day. Ensign Krylenko, the Russian Commander-in-Chief, was shot and slightly wounded on Saturday in Petrograd by a Socialist. His assailant was arrested.

LITTLE RESISTANCE.

LONDON, To-day. War Office announces that British forces operating along the Euphrates River in Mesopotamia, have occupied Khatia Buroyal, meeting with little resistance from the Turks.

GENEROUS DONATION.

MONTREAL, To-day. The Carnegie Corporation has made a special grant of one million dollars to McGill University, in recognition of its services and sacrifice toward Canada's part in the war, and as an evidence of appreciation and sympathy for Canada on the part of Americans.

NEW RATIONING SYSTEM.

LONDON, To-day. New plan of food distribution went into effect to-day, and every person desiring to make purchases of meat, butter or margarine was required to produce a ration card. The Food Ministry announces that no complaints have been received, and the plan is working smoothly. Persons of the poorer classes appear to be well pleased with the change because they are no longer compelled to stand in line at the markets. The success of the plan, as far as it relates to the conserving of available supplies of meat and to bring about more even distribution among all classes, was indicated quickly. Restaurants and hotels offered meat dishes for luncheon as usual, but few purchased them. At one of the largest restaurants in the city only four meat orders were served and at others, few, if any, were dispensed, as butter and margarine virtually disappeared long ago in restaurants. The rationing plan is little noticed except in homes where distribution is undoubtedly more even.

TO PROTECT LOBSTERS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. Further removal of the sources of irritation between U. S. and Canada, by prohibiting the importation into U. S. of lobsters taken in waters outside of, and opposite to, territorial waters of Canada, during Canadian closed season, is proposed in the Department of Commerce in a Bill introduced by Chairman Alexander of the House Merchant Marine Committee, to-day. The Bill is aimed to protect the catch of lobsters off Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Coasts.

RUSSIA'S ONLY MAN.

ZURICH, To-day. The Breslau Tagblatt says that the Bolsheviks have ordered a trial of Grand Duke Nicholas by the revolutionary tribunal. He is charged with attempted high treason against the Russian republic.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

COLUMBIA, To-day. Ten persons were killed outright, two died of injuries, and between 25 and 35 others were more or less seriously injured in a rear-end collision between two passenger trains to-day on the Columbia-Greenville branch southern railway.

SPANISH ELECTIONS.

MADRID, To-day. Election returns are still very incomplete, but earliest indications, however, are pointing to a defeat of the Socialists and Radicals.

FLOODS IN ONTARIO.

LONDON, Ont. To-day. Heavy damage from floods, in London and other districts, is reported to-day. Following a mild day, rain fell heavily for two hours and the river rose rapidly. In the vicinity of White Oak and Dingman's Creek, it is reported to have risen nearly six feet, flooding the fields and barns and causing heavy damage. Grave fears are entertained for those in that district, and in the Komoka district all efforts to reduce floods caused by a seven mile log jam failed to-day, and with a huge volume of water sweeping from all over the country the greatest flood in years is expected. Hundreds of people remained up all night, and many have vacated their homes fearing trouble. All cattle were driven from the danger places.

LOST — On Saturday night, between Charlton and Casey Sts., a Gentleman's Gold Ring, with initials F. J. E. Finder will be rewarded on returning same to this office.—Feb 26, 11.

WILL REJOIN THE STAFF.—Mr. A. E. Gardiner, formerly of the reporter staff of the Telegram, called at this office this morning and with the exception of a little stiffness in his right leg is feeling as good as could be expected considering his trying experience. He has been offered his former position and after a short rest at his home, Britannia, for which he leaves on Thursday's express, he will rejoin the staff. Mr. Gardiner lost a considerable amount of money and other valuables in the wreck.

AT THE MORGUE.—The bodies of three men, supposed to be members of the crew of the ill-fated Florizel, one of whom has the appearance of a Spaniard, arrived by the Trepassey train this morning and were removed to the Morgue by Undertaker Carnell. The remains of two were in perfect condition while the other is badly battered.

BABY SLEIGHS.

There are none on sale in the city, but we can supply an extra good substitute. We have Bright Metal Runners which can be attached to your baby carriage without any trouble.

All you have to do is to remove the wheels from the axle and put the Runners right in their places, this can be done by means of little clutches that go with the runners.

You will then have a most comfortable sleigh with hood and springs, which all will admit is much more cosy than the ordinary sleigh, which has neither hood nor springs.

any at that time. The vessel anchored at about three cables length from the stranded steamer and a boat manned by Capt. Dalton and two Naval Reservists was lowered, which went as near Florizel as safety permitted. No evidences of life were observed at this time and because of rising sea the boat could not approach any nearer. A second attempt was made to get alongside by the same boat and crew from Hawk but was unavailing. At 3.30 a.m. to-day Prospero appeared, and at the same time Hawk's boat in making third attempt took along Capt. Simonsen as an additional help. They heard people calling from Florizel and worked flashlights in hope of getting response from those whom they were now sure of being on board wreck, and rowing nearer "hatted" which was answered. Capt. Simonsen asked how many were left alive? to which they fancied that the reply was 40, but owing to the noise of the sea the reply could not be distinctly heard. Boat then went back to Hawk to report, and in the meantime Prospero sent off a boat, which, however, filled with water and washed out chief engineer, two men and one fireman who formed the crew. They were rescued by Hawk boat's crew and taken on board Prospero, which boat was righted and taken back to the ship. At daylight the Gordon C. Capt. Perry, which had been riding out the sea at Farmhouse, came on the scene and at once sent off a boat. All ships now got out kedges, and a line was got to the wreck when two lady passengers were taken off by the Gordon C.'s boat. The next lot was taken off by the Hawk's boat, this vessel being now within 60 yards of the wrecked steamer, and making supreme efforts to hold this position, though at times they were obliged to back away. The sea was now mounting and all the while, nevertheless, in one and three-quarter hours 33 passengers were transferred to the Hawk, all without accident. On the return to the wreck for a final haul, a heavy wave struck the Hawk's dory which filled and capsized, throwing Capt. Dalton and two R. N. R. men into the water. They were promptly rescued by boats from the others ships and brought to the Hawk. Capt. Dalton was injured somewhat at this time. Right away the Hawk had now to back out, as all her space was filled up with the rescued people. On her way out she hailed the Prospero and asked her former position and after a short rest at his home, Britannia, for which he leaves on Thursday's express, he will rejoin the staff. They heard people calling from Florizel and worked flashlights in hope of getting response from those whom they were now sure of being on board wreck, and rowing nearer "hatted" which was answered. Capt. Simonsen asked how many were left alive? to which they fancied that the reply was 40, but owing to the noise of the sea the reply could not be distinctly heard. Boat then went back to Hawk to report, and in the meantime Prospero sent off a boat, which, however, filled with water and washed out chief engineer, two men and one fireman who formed the crew. They were rescued by Hawk boat's crew and taken on board Prospero, which boat was righted and taken back to the ship. At daylight the Gordon C. Capt. Perry, which had been riding out the sea at Farmhouse, came on the scene and at once sent off a boat. All ships now got out kedges, and a line was got to the wreck when two lady passengers were taken off by the Gordon C.'s boat. The next lot was taken off by the Hawk's boat, this vessel being now within 60 yards of the wrecked steamer, and making supreme efforts to hold this position, though at times they were obliged to back away. The sea was now mounting and all the while, nevertheless, in one and three-quarter hours 33 passengers were transferred to the Hawk, all without accident. On the return to the wreck for a final haul, a heavy wave struck the Hawk's dory which filled and capsized, throwing Capt. Dalton and two R. N. R. men into the water. They were promptly rescued by boats from the others ships and brought to the Hawk. Capt. Dalton was injured somewhat at this time. Right away the Hawk had now to back out, as all her space was filled up with the rescued people. On her way out she hailed the Prospero and asked her former position and after a short rest at his home, Britannia, for which he leaves on Thursday's express, he will rejoin the staff. Mr. Gardiner lost a considerable amount of money and other valuables in the wreck.

any at that time. The vessel anchored at about three cables length from the stranded steamer and a boat manned by Capt. Dalton and two Naval Reservists was lowered, which went as near Florizel as safety permitted. No evidences of life were observed at this time and because of rising sea the boat could not approach any nearer. A second attempt was made to get alongside by the same boat and crew from Hawk but was unavailing. At 3.30 a.m. to-day Prospero appeared, and at the same time Hawk's boat in making third attempt took along Capt. Simonsen as an additional help. ### Capt. Perry, of the little steamer Gordon C., in rescuing a number of survivors of the ill-fated Florizel as told us by an eyewitness is another example of seamanship worthy of recognition by the Humane Society or other such organizations. Capt. Perry, in company with the Chief Officer of the Gordon C., were the first to reach the doomed ship and taking the two women survivors first returned to a lifeboat that was standing by a short distance away.

Seaman Budden then took the place of the chief engineer in the rescue boat and twice more did they succeed in bringing the shipwrecked passengers and crew to the lifeboat.

A terrific sea more violent than ever now swept over the doomed ship and in making the fourth attempt to get alongside the Florizel the little rescue boat was capsized and its occupants thrown into the sea.

After much difficulty the apparently lifeless form of Capt. Perry was picked up by a crew from the S. S. Home, who taking him on board their ship worked unceasingly for three quarters of an hour before bringing him to.

"Till I Exchange My Sword

FOR THE VICTOR'S CROWN MY HAND IS ON THE HILT!"

FATHER VAUGHAN.

Father Vaughan has been on the minutographs this week, making good "copy" in cassock and biretta. He told his Trafalgar Square audience recently that he appeared before them in his clerical uniform to let them know that since being a Jesuit he was just as patriotic an Englishman as he was then a civilian. Told by one of the crowd: "Your Pope would not agree with your war views," he replied: "And why should he? If common, ordinary folk like you and me have a right to our views about the war, its origin and aims, surely so august a personage as His Holiness the Pope may be allowed to have his." (Cheers.) Asked by another if he was not wretched for a priest he replied: "You must remember that I do not belong to the Church Triumphant, but to the Church Militant. When I can exchange my sword for the victor's crown I will do so, but till then my hand is on the hilt." Father Vaughan having suggested a cold sea-bath for the peace-at-a-way price may someone want to know whether he could find that doctrine in Scripture. "Yes," replied the speaker, "and a stronger dose than mine, because a stronger dose than mine, because the Divine Teacher suggested that a millstone should be hung about the neck of a scandal-monger before he was thrown into the sea." "To me," added the speaker, "the peace-at-any-price man is a scandal-monger; call him back for the millstone." (Cheers and laughter.)

Father Vaughan said that one of his Monday audience had written to ask him whether he was aware that Christ was the Prince of Peace. Father Vaughan said he would answer that question by putting another: Did his friend know that Christ was the Lord of Hosts? If, in one hand, He carried the olive wreath of peace for men who were of good will, in the other He bore the sword of justice for those who were not. Some, perhaps of his own

The White Ladies of Worcester.

A ROMANCE OF THE TWELFTH CENTURY.
(By Florina Barclay.)

Nora, the leading character in this story, believing she has lost her betrothed lover, Hugh D'Argent, either through unfaithfulness or death, while he is absent on a crusade, enters a Convent. Hugh returns and tries to prevail upon her to leave the Convent but she determines to remain true to her vows. To the Bishop of Worcester falls the task of bringing the lovers together, and Nora at last gives herself to Hugh, persuading herself that she is following God's will. Bound in cloth.

Price, $1.25 and $1.50. Postage, 4c.

Typewriters at a Bargain!

A FIRST-CLASS Typewriter at $65.00

Exactly the same as that we sell to one of the largest local manufacturing companies 5 years ago, of which, writing to us in Nov. of last year, they said: "The Typewriter purchased on March 4th, 1913, is exactly the same as you represented at the time of sale, and is still giving entire satisfaction." You can have the same service and the same satisfaction if you buy your Typewriter from us, for every Machine we carry with a it a DOUBLE GUARANTEE—the Manufacturer's guarantee and our guarantee.

We have also just received a TYPEWRITER, only one, you get it for $95.00, which is from $100.00 to $150.00 less than you can buy this Machine anywhere to-day. Come in and see it. If you can afford to pay $50.00 for a Typewriter, come in and see the No. 7 REMINGTON we have, that we are selling at $60.00; you never saw a greater bargain. No excuse to buy without a Typewriter now—at these prices it is a necessity. Remember we guarantee them, and remember we are saving you from sixty to eighty dollars, according to the Machine you buy.
