For Daisie's Sake

CHAPTER XXXVII.
FOR ROYALL'S SAKE.

She held her face up bravely for the kiss she knew he wanted, and the nurse, just leaving the room, thought it was a reconciliation.

"All will go well now," she said.

Daisie fought with herself for power to seem glad and kind. As she read in his eyes the love that filled his heart she determined that she must try to forget and forgive the fraud by which he had won her, because of his great love. She would pray Heaven as she had never done before to let her forget a pair of haunting dark eyes, lips that were sweeter than honey, a voice like music, and to put in her tortured heart a wife's love for her husband.

When she saw him looking at her so fondly, she blushed and murmured:

"Am I not hideous—all my curls gone?"

"They will grow again, just as beautiful as ever, and you could never be hideous to me, anyway."

"Thank you. But I know I look wretched. My cheeks so thin, my eyes so big and hollow! But I have been ill. It is a wonder I did not die."

"I was afraid that you would, dear. I began to feel that fate was against me in everything, and that you would be taken from me in punishment for the fraud by which I won you. It was wicked, I know, but perhaps God will forgive and let me find happiness with you at last—because I love you so."

"It was pathetic, pitiful—this mad love that had broken the barriers of Right and Duty for its own sake. But would Heaven indeed forgive?"

Royall Sherwood never considered any one but himself in the struggle for Daisie's love—not even Daisie herself. Still less than he had robbed of his love and cheated of his happiness. Would he indeed prosper at last on the wreck of another's hopes?

He looked so yearningly at Daisie that she murmured:

"I—I have not told you yet how glad I am that you are well again."

"Glad? Oh, thank you for that sweet word! If you had been sorry, darling, it must have broken my heart. Now you will be truly mine! I have been making such plans, dear, for our future. As soon as you are well enough to travel, I want to take you abroad on a real bridal tour. Will you come with me?"

"Yes I will come."

Her cheeks were ashen, and the light of her eyes grew dim, but the promise was made, and he thanked her so eloquently, adding proudly:

"Before long I shall make you love me as fondly as I love you. Will you try, Daisie?"

"Yes, I will try, Royall."

But it startled her to find that she did not feel as tender over him as she used to do. It was only pity then, and now he was well and strong, he did not need it, and there was nothing to take its place.

He continued anxiously:

"When you get really fond of me, dear Daisie, perhaps you will forgive poor Luttie's sins—will you?"

She made no answer save a flash of her eyes, and he added:

"Poor Luttie, I feel sorry for her, because she was so madly in love with Dallas Bain, and could stop at nothing to win his heart in return. Why, she has even followed him to California, still hoping to catch his heart in the rebound."

"Do not let us speak of either of them. I hate her—and I must forget him," Daisie faltered valiantly.

"Forgive me, I will not, dear," regretting his slip of the tongue.

He stayed with her an hour; then the nurse came in to say she had talked long enough to-day; Mr. Sherwood might stay longer to-morrow.

He took the hint, and rose, though he grumbled that it was very hard to drive a man away so soon from his own sweet wife.

The nurse went to the window so as not to embarrass the parting, and then Daisie whispered, with a kindling blush:

"We had better begin all over again, Royall—like sweethearts, you know. You may come and court me every day, but we will pretend we are not married till—we go away—on our bridal tour."

"It shall be as you wish, my angel," he answered tenderly, in the great happiness of feeling that she would soon be all his own. Who could not be patient, having gained so sweet a promise?

So the April days came and went, till it was three weeks since the fire and his coming to Gull Beach.

Annette had written to say that Ray Dering—all knew him by his own name now, for when he believed himself dying he had confessed his sin to Royall and won his forgiveness—was convalescing fast, and would soon be well again. She was busy buying her wedding clothes in New York, and mamma had consented for her to marry Ray in June, when they would go abroad for a trip.

Royall had told Daisie of Ray's confession, and added:

"But we must never betray the poor fellow's secret to any one else—not even Luttie. He saved my life so nobly that his confidence shall be sacred."

Daisie was more glad to hear this secret than he guessed, for she had been tormented by the mystery of who had wounded Royall ever since Mrs. Fleming had told her she had seen Dallas Bain commit the crime—not that she believed the story, but she feared the wicked woman might dare to accuse Dallas of it to gain revenge for his scorn.

The first day of May—would Daisie ever forget it!—Royall remained all day with his "sweetheart," as he gaily called her, humoring her whims; and on kissing her good-by, he said tenderly:

"A dozen kisses this time, sweetheart, because I am going to New York to-night, to be gone a few days, to meet poor Luttie, who has written me that she has come home, disappointed, from California, and wants to see me about pressing business matters."

How glad Daisie was afterwards that she let him take all the kisses he wanted, and that she even clasped her white arms tenderly about his neck, and sent him away happy, confident that he was winning her love at last.

Was it true? Was she going to find happiness with him at last, or was it only a pitiful playing at love?

He was fated never to know.

Between the dark and the dawn, his train broke through a trestle, and crashed down into a raging hell of swollen waters. The twosome souls among whom he perished were hurled in an instant from life to death.

CHAPTER I.

One afternoon in early June, about the happiest-looking girl from England stood at the entrance of the new lions' house in the Zoological Gardens.

She stood looking in wistfully and longingly, and then glanced, with a little sigh of regret, at a group of ladies seated under the trees on the lawn a little way off. She had been seated in the group, listening to the small-talk for nearly half an hour, and that half hour had just meant so much wasted time to her; for she loved, adored, animals of all kinds, wild or tame, and she hated gossip. So she had got up quietly and strolled off, knowing full well that to stroll away from your chaperon and guardian in an act of disobedience and wickedness of almost the last degree.

With a sigh, she was going back to the group, when, unfortunately for her, the lion—the big one with the mane—gave a groan and then a roar. This was irresistible, and the girl, abandoning the proprieties, passed through the door-way, and with ecstatic enjoyment sauntered down the house, watching the animals. There were not many people in the place, and she almost had it to herself, and no words can tell how she enjoyed it. Sometimes she leaned with both elbows on the iron bar which rails off the cages from the promenade, and now and again she climbed up the steps facing the dens and sat on one of the seats, her elbow on her knees, her chin resting in her gloved hands.

She was very happy; first, because she was young. Oh, it is good to be only twenty! Secondly, because she was perfectly healthy and thirdly, because she had not eaten of the fruit of the Tree of Knowledge. That is to say, she was as innocent of all evil as the doves that cooed in the cages in the south walk. Alas, how few girls of twenty are there who could lay their little white hands on their hearts and claim a like ignorance! But this child of nature, as her aunt, Lady Pauline Lascelles, called her, had been exceptionally brought up, as will be seen presently.

She was so absorbed in the lions and the tigers, the black panther with the temper, and the leopard who declined to change his spots, that when she had got to the end of the carnivora house, instead of returning to the group, she, caught by the splash of the seals who live just outside, passed on and instantly grew as absorbed in them. Leaning on the bar, she watched the keeper put the intelligent soft-eyed little fellows through their stereotyped tricks, and frankly, with an "Oh, thank you, thank you; how clever—how very clever they are!" gave the keeper a shilling from the silver-netted purse which she extracted from the mysterious pocket which ladies favor and no man has ever been yet known to find.

From the seals, she sauntered on to the monkey-house; but the evil smelling place was too much for her, and, suddenly awakened from her kind of dream, she remembered her aunt, and retraced her steps by way of the lion's house.

As she went through it again, her pace grew slower, and she lingered, just a moment or two, before the big lion's—Victor's—cage. While she was looking at him admiringly, the keeper's private door between the cages opened, and the keeper came out. He was followed by a gentleman who paused a moment to look around him; then, passing something into the keeper's hand, nodded, and walked on. The keeper pocketed his tip, touched his hat with marked respect, and, looked curiously after the gentleman.

The young girl looked after him, too, and a little enviously; for, fancy being privileged to go "behind the scenes" at the Zoo!

She left the carnivora house and walked quickly toward the lawn; then she stopped and looked round, rather agitated, for the group had gone from under the trees, and Lady Pauline was not to be seen.

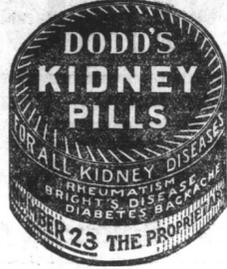

She was not alarmed, because she was neither nervous nor timid; and she felt sure she could find her aunt, who was both tall and stately and not easily hidden. So, almost as happy as before, she wandered round and about, just pausing on tiptoe, so to speak, before some particularly enticing cage, and keeping her eyes—I will tell you about those eyes very shortly—on the alert. But after half an hour spent in this way, and no aunt in sight, she began to get—well, a little grave and serious.

The Zoo is not exactly a wilderness—though there are plenty of wild animals in it—and there are numerous keepers, of whom one can inquire one's way; and the girl was not afraid of being lost; but she knew that Lady Pauline would be anxious and as angry as she could ever find it possible to be, and the girl was getting vexed with herself.

The Association has been formed to build houses to rent. These houses will be let to tenants at reasonable rentals or will be sold to tenants on easy terms of payment.

Additional objects of the Association are: To remove tenants from houses which are unfit for human habitation to homes of health and comfort; to destroy all hovels within the city; to adopt a proper town planning scheme; to lay out modern streets with a perfect system of sanitation; and to rebuild certain sections of the city gradually so that workingmen can live with their families amid cheerful surroundings.

The proceeds of the sales of houses bought by tenants will be reinvested in Government securities to provide a redemption fund to pay off the Capital.

The programme outlined by the Company is to build one hundred houses during the year 1921. In order to carry out this work the Directors make an appeal to the people of Newfoundland to take up the necessary Shares without delay, so that arrangements can be made with Lumber Mills and Contractors for work to be done. The one hundred houses will be built on Merry Meeting Road, in accordance with a Town Planning Scheme, prepared by the City Engineer and adopted by the Municipal Council in 1919. The thirty houses to be built by the Company this year and now nearing completion, will give the public an idea of the class of house to be erected. A more suitable site for a garden suburb would be difficult to find, it being situated in the country and yet within ten minutes' walk of Water Street.

To live in a suburb of this sort with pure air, plenty of space around the house, and modern interior sanitation and improvements is to ensure health for the residents who will realize to the full the advantages of good living. In a Garden Suburb children thrive, they grow up vigorous in mind and body; their daily association with trees and flowers, birds and all the manifold delights of nature develop in them a love of all things beautiful and a better understanding of life.

We appeal to the public to subscribe the Capital without delay for the erection of one hundred houses to be built and ready for occupation before the end of the year 1921.

An Orgy of Murder in Belfast.

Northern Irish City in State of Anarchy--Homicidal Mania Possesses Population--No Monarchy for France--French Threaten Soviet Russia--Councillor Lynch Shot in Self-defence.

(SHOOTING IN BELFAST.)

BELFAST, Sept. 27. The Falls District of Belfast was seething with excitement to-day, as the result of the murder on Saturday night of a policeman, the wounding of two others, and the rapid vengeance exacted in the killing of three civilians, who were shot down in rapid succession by bands of men who visited their homes. Previously the shootings in the city had occurred in the heat of rioting, but now for the first time deliberately planned killings have been carried out. That affair had its beginning around 11 o'clock last night. As constables Leonard and Carroll were patrolling Fall Road, when passing a public house they heard footsteps behind them. Swinging around they were confronted by two men armed with revolvers who ordered "hands up." Simultaneously with the hold-up order, fire was opened upon the officers and Leonard fell dead, the first bullet taking effect in his breast. His companion had a miraculous escape. Four shots were directed at him, three of them missed and the fourth lodging in his thigh. Apparently thinking both men dead the assassins made off. About the same time constables Farrell and Kearns were fired upon in a locality about a mile from the scene of the attack. The assailants pounced upon the policemen unexpectedly. Farrell was shot in the arm. Kearns was knocked down and several shots were fired at him while he was on the ground. Some of the bullets passed through his cape without touching his body and he came out of the affair unscathed. Farrell was taken to a hospital. The reprisals came swiftly. Shortly before three o'clock this morning, Sunday, three civilians, Edward Trodzen, John MacFadden, and John Gaynor, who lived near the scene of the attacks upon the policemen, were slain in their homes. Different parties visited each house. Four men took part in the shooting of Trodzen, who was a barber. After knocking at the door they fired a shot through the barber shop window. Trodzen's son opened the door and men wearing masks rushed upstairs. They dragged Trodzen to the yard, where several shots were fired at his head, shattering it. The men left immediately without molesting the other occupants of the house. The scene of the second shooting was a hundred yards from Springfield Road barracks. Here three men knocked. As MacFadden opened the door several shots were discharged at him and he fell dead on the doorstep. Gaynor met his fate further along Springfield Road. His mother answered the tapping on the door and the men entered. She told them she would get a candle, but they rushed to a room at the top of the house where they found their victim partly dressed. They made him walk down the stairs ahead of them and fired three shots into his body killing him. The distracted mother declares she can identify the men of the party. All day Sunday large crowds congregated outside the houses where the tragedies had occurred, forming lines to view the bodies. Few police were seen on the street, but armored cars large body of military was on duty. As were patrolling the Falls section and a result of a conference the military authorities decided to restore the curfew law which had been suspended, but twenty-four hours notice being essential, the restoration will not go into effect until Monday. To-night fierce rioting broke out in the north of Belfast, the scene of clashes and assassinations a few hours earlier. Reports from hospitals were that five gunshot cases and many other injuries were being treated.

FRENCH GOVT. GETS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

PARIS, Sept. 27. The Chamber of Deputies, following a debate on interpellations concerning the foreign and domestic policies of the government, voted confidence in the government this afternoon by a vote of 507 to 80. Premier Ley-guand then read a decree adjourning the extraordinary session of Parliament. Premier Millerand delivered his first message to Parliament to-day. He declared the present foreign and internal policies of the government, approved by the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate during the past eight months, would be continued. Millerand said he had accepted the Presidency in order to continue these policies with more strength and continuity. The nation is forever attached to a Republican administration, President Millerand asserted.

RIOTING IN KOREA.

KOREA, Sept. 27. Twenty-five persons were killed in rioting here Thursday night, when Korea students attacked and destroyed the Ordananger branches of the Korean Industrial Bank and Oriental Development Co. and seven Japanese houses.

FIVE KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH.

LONDON, Sept. 27. An inland passenger airplane crashed in the outskirts of London this afternoon. The pilot and four passengers were killed and another passenger seriously injured.

A FRENCH THREAT.

LONDON, Sept. 27. The French threat that unless all French prisoners in Russia are repatriated by Oct. 1, the French Black Sea fleet will take action against Soviet Russia, has brought the reply from M. Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister, "we must bow to brute force." According to a wireless from Moscow M. Tchitcherin protests against such action by the French, declaring that Russia has no guarantee that the Russians in France will be repatriated.

CONFERENCE RESUMES TO-DAY.

RIGA, Sept. 27. The Russo-Polish conference will be resumed to-morrow. The Soviets are expected to answer Polish counter proposals, M. Joffe having agreed to this at M. Domski's request, in spite of the fact that the Poles are not yet ready to answer the Moscow declaration presented on Friday.

POLES NOW PRESSING RUSSIANS.

WARSAW, Sept. 27. Hard fighting is taking place in the vicinity of Grodno in Neimar, a stronghold which is being hard pressed by the Poles in their campaign of their northern army against the Russians, says the Polish communique, issued shortly after midnight, dealing with Saturday's operations.

BOSTON TRUST CO. CLOSED.

BOSTON, Sept. 27. The Cosmopolitan Trust Co. of this city was closed to-day by State Bank Commissioner John Callen, with nearly $13,000,000 deposits in its banking and saving departments. Slow loans and inability to meet a continued heavy withdrawal of deposits were given by the commissioner as the cause of the bank's difficulty and the reason for his action. An opinion that half a million dollars of the state funds on deposit in the bank was absolutely safe, announced by State Treasurer James Jackson, gave depositors reason to feel that their money was not greatly endangered.

LADY CAVENDISH DEAD.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 27. The Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of Canada, received word on Friday of the death in England of his mother, Lady Emma Cavendish.

HOW BAY DE VERDE IS SUFFERING.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—The fishing situation is causing serious concern to all interested and people are alarmed over the gloomy outlook which is becoming worse as time passes away. No merchant or shopkeepers will take a quintal of fish even in trade and as a result several firms doing business here will close down after this season.

The fact that such firms as Monroe & Co., Hickman, Co. Limited, Baine Johnston & Co., are hampered owing to the iniquitous fishery regulations is causing distress and will ultimately impoverish hundreds of fishermen not only here but all over the country. The St. John's firms were enjoying the confidence of the people here until the fishery regulations were made law and ever since trade has been hampered and business paralyzed.

In the meantime the young men are leaving the country never to return and valuable fishery premises are being offered for sale, at low prices. A feeling of despondency has settled like a funeral pall over the land, and wherever you go people are talking over the serious outlook. Coaker's work is fast ruining this unfortunate country and misery and want will be felt in many homes during the coming winter season. Angry threats are heard on all sides and a storm of indignation is rising.

The Evening Telegram's editorials are eagerly read here and your widely circulated paper is plainly telling the truth about the perilous condition in which our country is placed to-day when the fishery industry, our mainstay, is being jeopardized by a government of time servers and country ruiners. If we are to retain our autonomy something will have to be done and that very soon. The Prime Minister Squires in an interview with a London paper said this was an island of content. What a bare faced falsehood. An island of discontent would have been a more appropriate term to apply to this unfortunate Dominion.

It is poor consolation to the fishermen to be told that Coaker has fixed prices at nine and ten dollars for fish when the drastic cull will reduce it to five or six dollars. What fishermen can exist and support a family on such a price with provisions at such a high figure. The firms of Baine Johnston, Hickman, Monroe & Co., and others have kept fish prices up in this District but now they are tied up and not buying here owing to Regulations. The season is getting late and it will not be an easy task to get fish away as we have no safe harbors on this shore and schooners are not easy to get to freight fish to St. John's.

When Sir John Crosbie represented this district steamers were always available to take fish to St. John's and the S.S. "Cabot" made many trips here. To our regret we have not Sir J. C. Crosbie and Hickman to-day, but we have two men who can do nothing to help out the fishermen. To-day the Squires Government is exonerated here by the very men who voted for it in the elections.

What about the prices offered for fish several days before polling day when messages were sent to nearly every place in the district offering $12 per quintal for fish? However, it is no use crying over spilt milk; the fishermen made their bed and they will have to lie on it, and continue to pay 30 to 35 cents for sugar, which if it had not been for the Government would now be selling at 22 cents per pound. How much longer will the people tolerate such a condition of affairs. Who will save us from destruction? Are we going to be led like lambs to the slaughter? Awake men awake! Rise from the lethargy, in which you have so long been. You are standing on the brink of commercial and financial ruin which threatens to fling us into the yawning abyss of destruction and disaster. You have had enough of the cry "Down with the merchants." Do you want to see the well known firms of Monroe

These firms have been doing business with you for years, and harmony has existed between supplier and supplied. The Hon. W. B. Grieve sounded the note of warning and this gentlemen's word is honoured and respected all over the country.

There is no use in denying the fact that we are approaching ruin and desolation and it is up to the people to arise in their indignation before it is too late. It is rumoured that at least one of our representatives has been seen recently joy riding in St. John's in company with a Doctor from this district. He would be better employed in attending to the wants of his constituents, who are now cursing the day that they voted for a Liberal Reform Government. ## Address Of The Right Rev. The Lord Bishop of Newfoundland.

Delivered At The Opening Of The Twenty-Fourth Biennial Session of The Diocesan Synod, Wednesday, Sept. 15, 1920.

In immediate connection with this Appeal, and as containing the responsible opinions of the Conference, the following Resolutions should be carefully weighed:

Resolutions Dealing With Re-Union.

10. The Conference recommends to the Authorities of the Churches of the Anglican Communion that they should, in such ways and at such times as they think best, formally invite the authorities of other Churches within their areas to confer with them concerning the possibility of taking definite steps to co-operate in a common endeavour, in the lines set forth in the above Appeal, to restore the Unity of the Church of Christ.

11. The Conference recognizes that the task of effecting union with other Christian Communions must be undertaken by the various national, regional, or provincial authorities of the Churches within the Anglican Communion, and confidently commits to them the carrying out of this task on lines that are in general harmony with the principles underlying its Appeal and Resolutions.

12. The Conference approves the following statements as representing the counsel which it is prepared to give to the Bishops, Clergy and other members of our own Communion on various subjects which bear upon the subject of re-union.

(A) In view of prospects and projects of re-union—

(i) A Bishop is justified in giving occasional authorization to ministers, not Episcopally ordained, who in his judgment, are working towards an ideal of union such as is described in our Appeal, to preach in Churches within his Diocese, and to Clergy of the Diocese to preach in the Churches of such ministers;

(ii) The Bishops of the Anglican Communion will not question the action of any Bishop who, in the few years between the initiation and the completion of a definite scheme of union, shall countenance the irregularity of admitting to Communion the baptized but unconfirmed communicants of the non-Episcopal Congregations concerned in the scheme;

(iii) The Conference gives its general approval to the suggestions contained in the report of the Sub-Committee on Re-union with Non-Episcopal Churches in reference to the status and work of ministers who may remain after union without Episcopal ordination.

(B) Believing, however, that certain lines of action might imperil both the attainment of its ideal and the unity of its own Communion, the Conference declares that—

(i) It cannot approve of general schemes of intercommunion or exchange of pulpits;

(ii) In accordance with the principle of Church order set forth in the Preface to the Ordinal attached to the Book of Common Prayer, it cannot approve the celebration in Anglican Churches of the Holy Communion for members of the Anglican Church by ministers who have not been Episcopally ordained; and that it should be regarded as the general rule of the Church that Anglican Communicants should receive Holy Communion only at the hands of ministers of their own Church, or of Churches in Communion therewith.

(C) In view of doubts and varieties of practice which have caused difficulties in the past, the Conference declares that—

(i) Nothing in these resolutions is intended to indicate that the rule of Confirmation as conditioning admission to the Holy Communion must necessarily apply to the case of baptized persons who seek Communion under conditions which in the Bishop's judgment justify their admission thereto.

(ii) In cases in which it is impossible for the Bishop's judgment to be obtained beforehand, the priest should remember that he has no canonical authority to refuse Communion to any baptized person kneeling before the Lord's Table (unless he be excommunicate by name, or, in the Canonical sense of the term, a cause of scandal to the faithful); and that, if a question may properly be raised as to the future admission of any such person to Holy Communion, either because he has not been confirmed or for other reasons, the priest should refer the matter to the Bishop for counsel or direction.

13. The Conference recommends that, wherever it has not already been done, Councils representing all Christian Communions should be formed within such areas as may be deemed most convenient, as centres of united effort to promote the physical, moral and social welfare of the people, and the extension of the rule of Christ among all nations and over every region of human life.

14. It is important to the cause of re-union that every branch of the Anglican Communion should develop the constitutional government of the Church and should make a fuller use of the capacities of its members for service.

15. The Conference urges on every branch of the Anglican Communion that it should prepare its members for taking their part in the universal fellowship of the re-united Church, by setting up before them the loyalty which they owe to the Universal Church, and the charity and understanding which are required of the members of so inclusive a society.

16. We desire to express our profound thankfulness for the important movements towards unity which, during the last twelve years, have taken place in many parts of the world, and for the earnest desire for re-union which has manifested both in our own Communion and among the Churches now separated from us. In particular, the Conference has heard with sympathetic and hopeful interest of the preliminary meeting of the proposed World Conference on Faith and Order about to be held at Geneva, and earnestly prays that its deliberations may tend towards the re-union of the Christian Church.

It will be readily agreed that the manifold witness of the Church would be intensified and extended beyond all measure if it came from an undivided Society of Jesus Christ. To restore the unity of this Society therefore, would be to increase the effective force of this witness in every part of the world to a degree which in these days can scarcely be imagined. No one who is not blind to the signs which abound on every hand can doubt that the Spirit of God is moving in this direction in a way which must bring home to the authorities of all Christian Communions a deep sense of responsibility in the face of an opportunity which is almost without parallel in the history of the Church.

The pronouncement of the Conference upon this subject has been said to be the most momentous in its significance of any utterance of the Anglican Communion since the Reformation.

The full effects of its proposals will take time to mature. There can, of necessity, be no immediate action resulting in organic union between us and our separate brethren until the various Provinces or other authorities in various parts of the world have had an opportunity to consider the steps which should be taken. But that an immense impetus has been given to the movement towards the ultimate re-union of the now scattered flock of Christ cannot be denied; and surely we in this Diocese will follow with earnest sympathy and continued prayer whatever the several authorities of our Communion may undertake towards giving effect to the Appeal I have read to-day, and the Resolutions which accompany that Appeal.

I would, however, most earnestly deprecate hasty judgments on the part of any of us in regard to such of these or other Resolutions of the Conference which might seem to be inconsistent with the traditional practices of our Church. The fullest knowledge is necessary before any judgment can be found. The Conference had to consider the whole question from the point of view not of England only, nor of the Colonies only, nor even of the Empire, but of the whole Christian world—East and West, North and South. This must be borne in mind as we ponder statements which at first sight seem to us revolutionary, if not actually of a compromising character. I am persuaded that no principle has been sacrificed, though it is obvious that we might not all wish to express what has been said in exactly the same way. I will now only add one word:

The hearts of all men of good will everywhere are being deeply and strangely moved in prospect of closer union amongst believers, and we shall do nothing by word or deed to hinder the full action of the Divine Spirit of Love and Unity as He leads us towards the fulfilment of our Lord's great desire that His Church might be One.

Other Resolutions.

Like fullness of treatment cannot at this time be given to the other important subjects which claimed and received the attention of the Conference. Some of them indeed have only an indirect bearing upon our work in this Diocese, though that in itself does not lessen their intrinsic value since the interests of the whole Church are our interests, and we share with our brethren in every part of our Communion the measure of life which they enjoy.

I must, however, be content with commending to the painstaking study of those members of the Synod who have opportunity to do so, the Resolutions regarding "Christianity and International Relations," the "Position of Women in the Councils and Administrations of the Church," "Spiritualism, Christian Science and Theosophy," "Problems of Marriage and Social Morality," and especially those on "Social and Industrial Questions."

Missionary Problems.

If I may still presume upon your patience for a few brief moments it is that I might refer to one Report which has more than ordinary interest for a Missionary Diocese. I am thinking of that which deals with "Missionary Problems," and here I am convinced that the majority of those who hear me will readily accept the statement that "It is always found that the Church or the Parish in which the missionary spirit is the most active is the most abundantly enriched with all spiritual blessings. There is no question here of a Home Department and a Foreign Department. This is not a counsel of perfection. It is implicit in discipleship itself; it cannot rightly be evaded."

"Yet we confess with shame that the prayers and efforts which belong to the missionary spirit still fall far short—in spite of real and increasing improvements—of which loyalty and love to Christ demand. Bishops and Parish Priests must preach this duty more constantly; the public prayers must be full of it; in every Council of the Church, from the Parish to the General Synod, it must hold a conspicuous place among the Agenda; it must be among the cherished aims of every Christian home, of every Christian heart. For it is unreasonable that men should claim a place in the fellowship of the Church unless they are ready to share this obligation which the Lord laid upon all disciples, at all times, in all places, amid all ordinary occupations as well as by direct evangelization, to be witnesses for Him."

S. P. G. Peace Thankoffering.

In intimate connection with the carrying out of the principle just enunciated, I may here pause to remind the Synod that no better illustration of the growing desire on the part of our own people to respond to its missionary obligations can be desired than that recently furnished when the Executive entrusted me with a draft of £1,000 sterling to hand to the S. P. G. as a contribution towards the Peace Thankoffering which the Society is now raising for the furtherance of its work.

Letter from the Right Rev. the Secretary of the S. P. G.

The Right Rev. Bishop King, the Society's new Secretary, in acknowledging the amount wrote as follows: "I need hardly say yourself must have observed yesterday, namely with what real enthusiasm the Society received the generous donation of £1,000 as a Thankoffering for Peace, which you presented yourself as a gift from your Diocese. Will you kindly convey to your Diocese, the Diocesan Synod, and the Board of Missions, our very deep sense of gratitude for what you have done?"

The fact that you have acted in this way is worth many thousands of hard cash for us on this side of the water, since it is a witness to the fact that the work of the Society is valued where we have been allowed to go. Your gift should call forth many more of the same kind.

We do indeed thank God that the Society has been able to do work in your Diocese, and we trust that if in the future we can help in any scheme for missionary venture that you may have, you will ask for our collaboration if you need it.

I enclose the official receipt, and can only assure you again that this means a big encouragement for us. Believe me,

Yours sincerely,
GEORGE L. KING,
Bishop.

Our Own Missionary.

If further evidence were needed to prove that the duty of extending the Kingdom of Christ, by a right use of material means, is taking a firmer hold of our people, such evidence may be found in the fact that we have been able to assume the financial responsibility for the support of "Our Own Missionary" in China, and have seen our Home and Foreign Mission Fund increase 300 per cent. in three years.

The Diocese.

And now I must turn to consider the more immediate affairs of our own field, and in doing so must pass under review some results of my own observation arising out of the past two years' work.

I had entertained the hope, when we last met in Synod, that before another biennial period had expired, I might have had the opportunity of personally visiting the whole Diocese, and thus be in a better position to suggest, where it was necessary, some more comprehensive policy as regards our whole field.

My hope has not been found capable of realization, for thus far my visitations have covered only those parts of the Diocese which lie between Cape John on the north and east coast, to Codrington on the West. As a consequence I cannot speak with that authority which can only come by personal touch with the work of about one third of the scattered flock, (not including our Labrador Missions) committed to my care.

And here let me make acknowledgment of the immense assistance which I have received from the Clergy and many of their people, who at great inconvenience oftentimes, placed their motor-boats, and other means of transport at my disposal day after day, frequently without charge to the Bishop's Visitation Fund. For it must be borne in mind that there is now no Church ship in which the Bishop can travel, and Coastal Boats and other public facilities provide no adequate means for reaching the large majority of settlements. After two lengthy visitations I give it as my considered judgment that no Bishop

Mrs. Sanford's Message to Working Women.

Laurel, Miss. — "Eight years ago I was suffering with pains and weakness caused by a female trouble. I had headaches, chills and fevers, and was unable to do my work part of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me and I took twelve bottles of it, and my health has been good ever since. I am able to run the machine and do dressmaking besides my housework. You are at liberty to publish my letter if it will help some poor suffering woman." — Mrs. J. C. SANFORD, 1237 Second Ave., Laurel, Miss.

Thousands of women drag along from day to day in just such a miserable condition as was Mrs. Sanford, or suffering from leucorrhoea, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, headache, nervousness, or "the blues."

Such women should profit by Mrs. Sanford's experience and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find relief from their sufferings as she did. For special suggestions in regard to your ailment write Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their long experience is at your service.

Three-Fold Safety.
The Remington Model 51 Automatic Pistol is absolutely safe. There is no danger of accidental discharge because:

1. The automatic grip safety must be pressed in by grasping the stock firmly in the customary manner, in addition to pressing the trigger, in order to discharge. If the pistol should be dropped by accident the jar cannot discharge it.
2. The thumb-operated safety lever locks the hammer hard and fast. Positive intention and a definite thumb push are necessary to bring the lever down to firing position.
3. Removing the magazine automatically locks the hammer in such a manner that a cartridge left in the chamber can not be discharged.

Harbor Grace Notes.

The S.S. Sagona, Captain Burgess, arrived here yesterday afternoon on her way to the Labrador. Owing to her being filled up, no freight was shipped from here, which was very disappointing to those who were anxious to get goods off by her. She left port again after a short stay.

Nurse Agnes O'Neil, who made the round trip on the Sagona during her last voyage, enjoyed her sailing immensely.

Mr. E. Simmons came in by last night's train from the city.

The Danish schooner Maagan, which arrived here on Tuesday, is awaiting discharge.

Dr. W. S. Goodwin accompanied by his assistant, Mr. E. Whiteway, left by the S.S. Sagona yesterday for Bonavista and nearby places to attend to his business in that direction. No doubt he will be kept quite busy, as he usually is on his annual visits to these places.

Mr. Robert Telford left by the S.S. Sagona yesterday for St. Anthony to visit his daughter (Bessie), Mrs. D. Moore, who is living there; also to join his wife, who has spent the summer at the same place. It is not unlikely that both Mr. and Mrs. Telford will remain there and spend the winter months with their daughter.

The schooner Gordon W. J. Johnson master, arrived here yesterday afternoon. She is bound to Seldom-Come-By with a load of coal from North Sydney for Mr. F. D. Scott, and put in here because of head winds.

Messrs. Munn & Co's schooner James O'Neill arrived here yesterday and is awaiting discharge.

Mr. Thomas Thistle leaves by this afternoon's train to join the S. S. Prospero en route to Engle, to act as agent for E. Simmons, Esq., who is doing business there and at Hooping Harbor. He will be away about two months.

At about 10.30 this morning the noise of the fire-bells ringing surprised us a little bit, but it turned out to be nothing serious. Just a slight fire in the back apartments of the Cable Company's, which did not amount to much, and was soon extinguished by the application of a bucket or so of water thrown on by

What came near being a very serious accident occurred here to-day, when the six year old son of Patrick Madigan was run over by an automobile driven by Mr. A. E. Parsons. The car passed over the boy, breaking one of his legs, and causing a lot of flesh wounds about the face. In this particular case it seems no blame whatever can be laid to the driver, who took every precaution to avert the accident, but without avail. All of the details have not yet come to hand.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

STREET ANGEL HOUSE DEVIL

A young neighbor of mine went to live with her father and mother - in - law while her husband was away at the war. Her husband has come home now (she is among the thrice blessed) and they have come back to our neighborhood to live.

Naturally she is very happy. "It didn't seem to me," she said once in an outburst of frankness, "that I could have stood it another month. Our own little apartment seems like a bit of Heaven to me. You know how it is, being in the house with your in-laws, especially when you have children."

"It must be difficult," I said. "We were afraid you would find Mrs. C. rather hard to live with, but we knew Mr. C. would do everything to make it pleasant for you. He is such a pleasant, thoughtful sort of a man."

She looked at me a moment in the way people do when they cannot quite make up their minds whether to keep counsel or break loose, and then she broke loose.

Never a Cross Word Outside. But—"Is he?" she said with sarcastic emphasis. "Yes, I suppose that is what people think and they rather pity him for having such a quiet, unobtrusive wife as Mrs. C. Well, let me tell you something. I don't suppose he ever said a cross word outside of the house, but he said mighty few pleasant ones inside it. He'd get up in the morning and be like a thunder cloud, he'd scold his wife because some of his shirts hadn't come back from the laundry, and make an awful fuss if one of the children happened to be in the bathroom and he had to wait half a minute, and never speak a word at breakfast except to find fault, and then he would go out of the house and I would see him going down the street with one of the neighbors smiling and talking. It used to make me so mad.

"I really shouldn't have minded so much his being so ugly in the house if he wasn't such a such a—" swallowed a qualifying adjective in a manner quite as expressive as its use would have been—"hypocrite. This is the first time I've said a word but I should have burst if I hadn't said something. Mrs. C. is all right, we didn't agree about everything but we got along very comfortably. She isn't a street angel, but she isn't a house devil either."

A Queer Double Personality. A picture of Mr. C. came to my mind with his amiable, almost ingratiating manner, and it was nearly impossible for me to graft upon it the picture of Mr. C. at home, as she painted it. And yet I knew that it must have been substantially true, for she is a truthful person.

What a queer kind of double personality this street-angel, house-devil sort of man is, isn't he? We have all known some examples of the type, I think, and we have all rubbed elbows with more whom we did not recognize because we never saw but one of the two personalities and never were told about the other. It is only relatives and the families of very intimate friends who reveal their home as well as their street personalities to us. Indeed, we do not always know the families of our intimate friends.

Why They Left Home. I had another shock of this sort when a friend confided that the reason all the children left home and went to work in the city was because they could not live in the house with her father. Yet he had seemed to me one of the most charming and amiable men I knew. If it had been only one child who could not get along with him, that might have been a case of antagonistic temperaments, but there were four of them.

If there are any unpardonable sins, I think constant irritability in the home is one of them. Of course irritability is sometimes a manifestation of ill health, but when it can be controlled so perfectly outside the home, no such alibi can be claimed.

Heaven preserve us from the man who is a bully in the home and a doormat outside of it.

THE FISHERS.

The fishers, sailing look to me like men of dautless daring; and they'll come homeward, o'er the sea, with loads of kippered herring. Before the dawn is fairly sprung I see their boats departing, and fishers old and fishers young on danger's round are starting. Oh, they are brave and buoyant wights, and they are stalwart laddies, and they come whooping home o' nights with loads of finnan haddies. Their vigils in the fog they keep, they know all Neptune's glories, they see the little bay before my sawed-off dwelling; I visit them at close of day, when curlews quit their yelling. "Oh, hoary farmer of the sea," I say, to some old chappie, "hand out a salty yarn to me, and you will make me happy." "There's nothing doing on the deep," the fisher says a-sighing; "a delegate should landward keep—that's where the news is flying. I always knew that Fulton stiff would never be a winner; it only needed one good bluff to paralyze that sinner. The prize ring now is run to cheese, and most of it is schweitzer; the British champs have some disease, the Frenchman's punk you're right, sir. Oh, yes, we sail our dorics out, through all the spray and smother; but there's no yarn in that, old scout—one day's just like another."

THINGS HAPPEN FOR THE BEST.

Things mostly happen for the best. However hard it seems to-day When some fond plan has gone astray Or what you'd wished for most was lost

An' you sit countin' up the cost With eyes half-blind by tears o' grief While doubt is chokin' out belief You'll find when all is understood That what seemed bad was really good.

Life can't be counted in a day. The present rain that will not stop Next autumn means a bumper crop. We wander why some things must be. Care's purpose we can seldom see. An' yet long afterwards we turn To view the past, an' then we learn That what once filled our minds with doubt Was good for us as it worked out.

I've never known an' hour of care But what I've later come to see That it had brought some joy to me. Even the sorrows I have borne. Leave'n' me lonely an' forlorn An' hurt an' bruised an' sick at heart In life's great plan have had a part. An' though I could not understand Why I should bow to Death's command. As time went on I came to know That it was really better so.

Things mostly happen for the best. So narrow is our vision here That we are blinded by a tear An' stunned by every hurt an' blow Which comes to-day to strike us low. An' yet some day we turn an' find That what seemed cruel once was kind.

Most things I hold, are wisely planned If we could only understand.

The Tragedy of the West Coast.

Optimism may be defined as the disposition of humanity to take the most hopeful view, and no one can deny but that a hopeful view of present conditions is one which should commend itself, if at all possible; but unfortunately the stern facts which have to be fed render people humanly incapable of being able to cheerfully look at the situation as it is. Hope there may be, for when hope dies then indeed is the way dark, and as "hope springs eternal in the human breast" so there are many, perhaps, who are waiting for the ray to be shed upon the present blackness. Yet it is patent that a condition of things exist which do not arouse any sentiments but those of despondency. It is a pity "and pity 'tis 'tis true." Therefore the facts have to be taken and presented in all their baldness and bareness if only to show one part of Newfoundland how the other part is living, or subsisting to use the correct word. Witnessing such conditions and hearing the related experience of persons who are wondering where to turn or what to do, it would be a dereliction of duty if the whole truth were not told, the full picture painted of "man's inhumanity to man," that inhumanity which makes "countless thousands mourn." The inhumanity in the present instance is that by which certain enactments have been made, certain restrictions placed upon free trade in exports, such restrictions interfering with and hampering the operations of men who have carried on the fishery for years and has practically compelled them to suspend their labors on the sea and seek other and less congenial employment, far from home and among strangers, in order that their families might be fed and clothed and themselves kept going until such time as they could return to their chief occupation, and fish with profit and immunity from vexatious restrictions.

That tragedy is very real on the West Coast there is ample proof, and to-day there is no need to go farther in support of our statement, than the publication of a letter from Push-through, Hermitage Bay, District of Fortune Bay, which appeared in the Trade Review on Saturday. The source from which we have taken this communication is fair testimony for its accuracy, for the Trade Review is not by any means, at least now, hostile to the present Government, and anything appearing in its columns may be supposed to have passed a strict censorship. This letter is signed "Hermitage Bay Fisherman" and dated September 11th. Its contents are undeniable, and the tale it tells is not varnished. The writer gives conditions as they actually are, and to his statements there can be no contradiction:

LABOR SACRIFICED.

(Editor Trade Review.)
"Dear Sir:—Allow me space in your valuable paper to make a few remarks with regard to conditions on the West Coast at the present time. I feel sure that in Newfoundland's history, she has never faced what she is facing at present. viz:—Poverty, Starvation, and in the end, Bankruptcy. It's those of us who have toiled at the fishing this season and now watch the fruits of our labor sacrificed for nought, that feel this the hardest. We are bound hand and foot, and ragged, and dare not open our mouths to protect the fruits of our labor.
"I doubt if the Control Board is aware of the manner in which our fish is sacrificed on this coast. We have men to inspect our fish who know nothing whatever about a cod-fish only just enough to eat one—trying to show our merchants and fishermen a No. 1 fish, who were born as it were with a fish in their hand.
"The consequence of it all is, that winter is approaching us. People with their accounts half paid, which should be independent if justice had been dealt to them. The feeling on the West Coast to-day among the fishermen is, that if they were as well fixed as some of the merchants, they would quickly rid the West Coast of these inspectors and cullers or die in the attempt. We are in a pitiful condition at present: the women lamenting because of the pests destroying their vegetables, and the men, because of Coaker and his clique sacrificing their fish.
"Our appeal is that someone may come and help us to shake off the yoke of bondage once more, and save our country from destruction."

The Labrador Boundary.

The greatest farce of all is the Labrador Boundary. The idea of Squires and Warren putting up a case against Canada just now is too ridiculous for words, when we consider that before many months they will be compelled to go with hat in hand to this same Canada and falling on their knees beseech her to take us in. This is the way the tide is running now, and nothing but a miracle can stop it. What folly, then, to be saying that they have a good case against Canada about the Labrador Boundary Question.

Anglican Cathedral.

Evensong at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Baptist yesterday was well attended. The order of Evening Prayer was said by Rev. J. Branton, the first lesson being read by Rev. Dr. Facey, of Queen's College, the second by His Lordship the Bishop, Canon Jeeves, Rector, read the second portion of the prayers and made the announcements. The sermon was preached by Rev. E. J. R. Nichols from the text, "Brethren, I declare unto you the Gospel," and was a masterly exposition of the meaning of St. Paul's expression in this connection. Following the offertory His Lordship the Bishop pronounced the Benediction. Many outport clergymen were present at the service, which was of a most inspiring and uplifting nature. Rev. Nichols' discourse being most timely and appropriate to every day life in the church and home.

Battle Harbor-Humbermouth Service

It is stated that the steam trawler Sebastopol, now undergoing repairs at the dock pier, will sail from here about Thursday or Friday next, taking up the Humbermouth-Battle Harbor service in conjunction with S. S. Diana, which will go on later.

More Horses for Newfoundland.

Another batch of horses, numbering forty, were forwarded by the steamer Kyle to Newfoundland last night. This makes a total of something over one hundred choice draft animals to be forwarded from here to the ancient colony, the majority of them to be used in the lumber woods. All were purchased in Montreal.—North Sydney Herald, Sept. 22.

GOVERNMENT CATTLE.—A train load of pedigreed stock for the Government Model Farm, arrived from P. E. I. yesterday.

Police Court.

A 17 year old boy, charged with the larceny of a suit of clothes belonging to a seaman, pleaded that he did not steal them. The evidence showed that the suit was given to the boy to bring to a cleaning establishment, and the accused afterwards received $5 from the owner to pay for the work. $2 was paid, the balance was spent and the clothes sold to a second hand store for $5. The prisoner was fined $50 or 3 months imprisonment. The receiver of the goods will likely get into trouble also.
A teamster was charged with assault on a young woman of the West End. Giving evidence the plaintiff stated that the accused on Friday night last at 12.45 while she was standing on New Gower street came along and hit her twice, this he denied and said he only put his hand over her mouth as she was abusive to him. The defendant was fined $25 or 30 days.
A laborer who created a disturbance in his home on the higher levels was put under bonds, and also fined, but went to prison for 10 days instead.
One of the two men who created a disturbance in a restaurant Saturday night was fined $10; the other was allowed to go.
A shipwright who figured in an affair at Western Bay some years ago when a Government leader was knocked over the wharf was charged with assault, and misconduct at his home in Pleasant Street. The accused was put under his own bonds for $100 and also paid a fine of $25, which is to go to the owner of a coat, whom he attempted to stab.

A Voice in the Wilderness.

TOPICAL SERMON AT ST. MICHAEL'S.

This is a short account of a sermon preached at St. Michael's Church on Sunday evening last, Sept. 19th, by the Rector of Bay St. George, Rev. E. A. Butler.

Text—St. Matt. III. 3: "The voice crying in the wilderness, 'Prepare ye the way of the Lord.'"

At the beginning of the Christian era a voice was lifted up, sending forth a message to mankind. It was man's voice, but the message was God's. John the Baptist was the voice, and the desert of humanity was the wilderness in which he spoke. Mankind living in selfish contemplations had to be aroused to a life of higher, broader and better things, and that is what the voice then began to do, to arouse man from his selfish slumbers, to show him the need of preparing for the new order of events that were about to begin, to make preparation for the coming of the Lord. All through the ages since then the voice has spoken, the voice of man delivering God's message; so the voice has never been silent.

A new order of events is being ushered in now, and man has to be taught to prepare for it, and to adapt himself to the new conditions. The great war, with its effects, and after effects, has turned or is turning the world upside down, and we Christians have to take a hand in this evolution. We have to direct the new energies that are being developed, direct them into channels where they will do most good. We have to be the voice now, the preachers of today.

But John the Baptist was more than a preacher; he was also a prophet, a man of vision, and we have to be men of vision, to look into the future, and as far as we can make preparation for the stirring events it will bring into our lives. Solomon says, "where there is no vision the people perisheth." The young man starting life with a vision does not live only for to-day, does not live an aimless life. He is always looking ahead, and making preparation for future claims upon his time and talent. That man's usefulness increases with his age, and he leaves the world better than he found it. His vision does not fade, even when he fades, for it is further visualized through others upon whom his spirit may fall. He leaves "foot-prints on the sands of time" to guide others.

Dr. Fahey, the new Principal of Queen's College, is a man of vision. He sees the future needs of the Church in this Diocese, and wishes to make preparation for them. Further, he is a "voice crying in the wilderness." Directly or indirectly he has been crying out for months, "Prepare! Prepare!" and we want that voice to be lifted up and sound far and near, the voice of man with its message from God. We have a college, almost the oldest in the mission field, and within those aged walls most of our clergy were trained. But clergy, like buildings, grow old and fall into decay, and we find ourselves growing older every year, and the time is not far distant when some of the workers shall cease from their labours, with perhaps no others, or very few others, to take their places. Here in St. John's you may not realize the need of more clergy, as we do in the outports. You only see things as they are in the city, or your knowledge of outport life limited to Conception Bay, where fifteen of our clergy minister to fifteen thousand people along a coast line of about 100 miles. But along the South Coast and the West Coast, from Placentia Bay to Flower's Cove, we have only the same number of clergy ministering to twenty thousand people along a coast line of over a thousand miles. We need at least fifteen more men on these coasts, and much the same is true of other parts. Work could be found to-day for thirty more clergy, if we had them. And we must have them, but first they have to be trained for their work. We do not need to go outside of the Diocese for men, because Newfoundland's sons are equal to any on earth. They have proved it on the battlefields, they have proved it in a thousand ways. And Dr. Fahey can find students for Queen's College; he can bring them from the fishing boats, from the farms, from the offices of business, and we must help these men to come and prepare for the great call to the Master's service. This is a duty which rests on all our people. We cannot expect all our young men to become clergy, for the majority of them turn aside from living the simple life of the John the Baptist's in this Diocese to-day. But those who cannot or will not answer the call for service should be ready to assist those who can. They should be ready to do something to make the work easier and the burdens lighter. They can and they must, if our church is to have its proper influence in building up the lives and characters of our people.

Therefore besides men we need money—seventy thousand dollars for Queen's—that is the minimum sum we can do with. Twenty thousand of this from St. John's, that is when the church people of this city are asked to pay. "A large sum!" do you say? Nay, it is a small sum—the cost of only three or four motor cars. The voice has spoken, the message has been delivered. It is God's message spoken to you, and through you to others. God needs your assistance, the church must have your help. Will you put your shoulder to the wheel, and help? Not your hand merely, nor your foot, but your shoulder. Yes, yes, I think you will. Because you are men and women with living souls, I know you will. May God grant it on your part, and all others.

The Feast of Tabernacles.

During a period of eight days, beginning on the eve of the twenty-sixth day of September and ending on October the fifth, the Jews will celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles.

Once a year Israel revives its love of the soil, and makes public avowal of the fact that even an industrial civilization, such as ours, depends primarily upon the elements of nature. This re-statement of love for and confidence in Mother Earth is indeed a fact of Jewish religiousness. We know and we reassure ourselves that God is at the centre of life through all the seasons and that the prosperity and the satisfaction we seek come or do not come according to His Law.

Judaism is a religion in the very midst of the passions, aspirations and complications of life. Nowhere are these more insistent than in the economic interests of men. Here religion has a duty as well as an opportunity. Judaism endeavors not merely to fortify men in their difficulties as to their daily bread, but also to keep them moral, large-hearted, and just.

The Sukkoth Festival is meant not as a season of self-congratulation on having garnered in the product of the farm or the gains of business, but as time for thought on the larger-scope social interests of men in the national and international life. The Jews are the first to have recognized political economy as the field where religion and morality must operate for the good of men.

In its modern form the suggestiveness of this truth of the Sukkoth Festival is made more effective by the fact that it occurs at the beginning of the Autumn, coincident with the increased activities of the economic agencies. It is, as it were, a timely lesson for each one to interpret his life as of larger scope, related to the national life and made possible in fullness only within it.

The "dwelling in booths" as characteristic of the Biblical phase of the Festival and observed as an archaic symbolism nowadays is a suggestive domestic ritual which re-affirms the lessons of "the simple life" and the democracy of the Jewish household. The five symbolic plants hint that, as the gifts of God in nature vary and in their totality make human life sweet and satisfactory, so the difference among men, as to service and character, may serve to make "society" an organization in which each one of us has a place and can make a helpful contribution. Some more effective, some less; some noble, and some commonplace; some for the day and some for all time, according to what they do and what they are.

The Sukkoth Festival is the culminating lesson of the series of holidays of the month. It addresses itself to the facts of life which we might, otherwise, leave sordid. It widens the horizon of our individual interests. It approves our vocations and labors not when they bring private satisfactions but when they vitalize our common humanity and make us more efficient in the work upon which depend the weal, the peace and the joy of the community.

C. C. C. BAND CONCERTS.
The C. C. C. Band will probably give their final Concerts in the Parks as follows (weather permitting): Wednesday next, Victoria Park; Thursday, Bannerman Park. ### To-Day's Messages.

A SWISS REFUSAL.
BERNE, Sept. 26. The Swiss Government has decided not to open political or ceremonial relations with Soviet Russia.

VALUABLES RECOVERED.
SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 26. The careful watch kept on trans-Atlantic liners, owing to the recent reports that passengers have been losing valuables, resulted to-day in the recovery of a ten thousand dollar ring and a valuable brooch from a seaman of the Olympic, when the liner arrived.

INSURANCE RESERVATIONS.
CORK, Sept. 26. The fact that Saturday night passed quietly has greatly allayed the fears that reprisals will be made for the attack on General Strickland. There has been a rush of property owners to take out insurance, which Lloyds have revived after the recent suspension. The rates are extremely high and no policies are issued if the applicant, or any near relative, is connected with a political organization.

NO MORE CUBAN SUGAR.
OTTAWA, Sept. 26. There is now little likelihood of Canada receiving more sugar from Cuba this year, the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Havana, Cuba, writes.

NOT SERIOUSLY ILL.
PARIS, Sept. 26. Former President Dischanel, who has entered a sanitarium at Reuil, five miles west of Paris, is not seriously ill, according to a statement of his physician, Dr. Trepsa, published by Le Journal.

WEAK AND EXHAUSTED.
LONDON, Sept. 27. MacSweeney passed another bad night and was in a weak and exhausted condition this morning, says a bulletin of the Irish Self-Determination League.

IRISH DISORDERS CONTINUE.
LONDON, Sept. 27. Cork was shaken by a great explosion at an early hour this morning and one of the largest dry goods stores in the city was completely demolished. The explosion was followed by the sound of rifle and machine gun fire, says a despatch to the Evening News. Several persons were sleeping on the premises at the time and, the despatch declares, the military authorities allege bombs were placed inside a window. There is serious rioting in Belfast, and it is said a number of wounded persons have been received in hospitals. Large forces of troops with armoured cars are patrolling the streets.

POLES CAPTURE GRODNO.
WARSAW, Sept. 27. Grodno, an important city of north western Russia, was captured by Polish troops after severe fighting, says an official statement, and a large number of prisoners and much war material was taken by the Poles. The city has been a concentration point for Bolshevik forces.

HELD BY KIDNAPPERS.
CHICAGO, Sept. 27. Convinced that Ambrose J. Small, Canadian multi-millionaire is held a prisoner here by kidnapers, who hope to obtain one hundred thousand dollars, Chief Detective James L. Mooney to-day started a search for him and his secretary, John Boughty, who disappeared last December.

PEACE FORESHADOWED.
LONDON, Sept. 27. Several United States business-men have recently had daily interviews with Leonid Krasin, head of the Russian Bolshevik Trade Commission here, regarding the opening of commercial relations with Russia, says the London Times. General opinion in Soviet circles is that Russia will soon be at peace with Poland, providing that country does not press claim for a large indemnity.

SNIPING CAUSED PANIC.
BELFAST, Sept. 27. Shooting by snipers and others, which occurred in the centre of Belfast yesterday, caused a panic among a crowd promenading the Royal Avenue after church hours.

BOLSHEVISM IN MEXICO.
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27. Violent harangues, urging social revolution, were made to a great throng yesterday by agitators, who managed to enter the Central Palace and speak from the central balcony. There were cheers for Russia and the Italian metal workers, and demands that food supplies be turned over to the people.

THE GREATEST IMPEDIMENT.
BRUSSELS, Sept. 27. The greatest impediment to the financial reconstruction of Europe is the movement for the socialization and nationalization of industries, with the accompanying burdens of Government, it was declared by R. H. Briand, British Vice-President of the International Conference, in opening the debate to-day.

ADMIT GRODNO'S CAPTURE.
LONDON, Sept. 27. Retirement by the Russians in the Grodno region is admitted by the Soviet War Office in an official wireless statement to-day.

Along the Waterfront.

Along the waterfront this morning things were looking brighter than last week. A few crafts were discharging fish. The owners of others were either seeking better prices or looking for places where the cull is not too strict. At Barr's premises there is one schooner discharging, the Gamecock, from Port au Port. At Hickman's are the Alice Roberts, from Lower Island Cove, and Little Jean, from Cape Broyle. The Annie Gover, from Marystown, is discharging at Bishop & Sons. The Stella, Millie H. Scott, and Sinclair are at Goodridge's. Schr. Maple, from the North Shore, is discharging at Baine Johnston & Co. Schr. Minnie Gladys, from Trinity Bay, and the Eva Gertrude, from Fortune Bay, are at Bairds'. Schr. Nellie M., from Conception Bay, is discharging Labrador Shores at Jobs'. Schr. Ripple, Capt. Vey, from Great's Cove, is also in port discharging a cargo of splendid fish, White Napes.

No. 1 Labrador is selling for $8 per quintal; No. 1 White Nape, $11; Madeira, $9. One of the schooners has a load of last year's fish. The coopers are getting busier now and are working three-quarter time.

Last year, at this time, hundreds of schooners from all parts were discharging fish and coopers and laborers had all the work they could attend to. Notwithstanding the present activity many fishing schooner masters are displeased with the average price and freely express the opinion that if they do not receive better terms, their fish will be taken home again.

The Gas Supply.

A SERIOUS SITUATION.

The notice in the press, in which the Gas Company state that unless adequate assistance is given the company by the Government it will have to discontinue the gas service to the city on October 31st next, will surely bring home to gas consumers and the public generally the necessity for prompt action if this essential service is to be maintained. At first glance it might appear to be a matter which concerned the shareholders only. This might be so with an ordinary factory, turning out goods that might be procured elsewhere, but in the case of the Gas Company, it is a matter which seriously concerns the public. The loss and inconvenience resulting from the stoppage of the gas supply to the city would be most serious, affecting, at it would, both industrial and domestic life. All appear to agree that everything possible should be done within reason to keep the business going provided there is a reasonable prospect for the future prosperity of the undertaking.

With good gas coal obtainable from our local coal deposits, and the indications are that this coal will be available, sooner or later, there would not appear to be much doubt as to the ultimate result. Rather than permit the failure of the gas service, consumers would be willing to pay, for a period, high rates for gas. There is an excellent local market for residuals, such as tar, coke and sulphate of ammonia, and with plants of gas coal always available, a good revenue is assured. The Company did well up to 1916. At that time America joined the Allies in the Great War, and almost immediately thereafter it became impossible to make contracts for future deliveries, and prices began to soar. So that for the past three years, and especially for the past two years, the Gas Company has been operating at a heavy loss, hanging on in the hope that at the end of the war coal prices would become more normal. The reverse has been the case, and the Company has arrived at the position where the financial stringency is such that, without adequate help, it cannot continue in business.

Early in the year the attention of the Government was drawn to the possibilities of our local coal deposits, and the Prime Minister, taking a keen interest in the matter, appointed a special Committee in Council to deal with the matter, and investigations were made with regard to the St. George's Coal Fields. The reports being favorable in a special grant was passed during the past session of the Legislature to take over and operate this coal area. A trial survey was run for a branch line of railway from Cartwright to the mine, and it was the implied intention of the Government to rush matters so as to get out coal before the end of this year. The prospects looked promising, and the Gas Company was encouraged to keep going, with the hope of getting plenty of good gas coal at a reasonable cost. Some hitch has in the meantime apparently stopped the development of the proposition indefinitely. The prospect of securing a very large quantity of good coal from the "Jukes Seam" was most encouraging. The seam about five feet wide, outcropped above the level of the Barabois River, and large quantities could be mined at low cost. It would appear therefore, that any disagreement between the Government and the owners should not have been permitted to even delay the mining of the coal.

Meanwhile, it is intimated, that the Government is developing the coal deposits at South Branch, and, as far as can be ascertained, expects to be getting out coal about the middle of October, and has assured the Gas Company of supplies from this source. It appears that the Gas Company finds it essential to float a bond issue to the amount of $100,000 to meet its liabilities and to provide for the carrying on of the business, and has asked the Government to guarantee such bond issue to ensure its successful flotation. The ability of the Company to meet re-payment of bonds and interest, depends on plenty of good coal being available as required, and, in this regard the Government has apparently guaranteed such coal supplies, and therefore would assume no risk by giving such guarantee.

But, as the Government (which means the public) would be the means of keeping the Gas Company on its feet, as a going concern, all the earnings of the Company should be set aside for the payment of the bond interest, and the re-payment of the bonds on maturity.

On some such basis as outlined above, the Government would be fully justified in giving the necessary guarantee, and also to use every effort to supply the necessary coal.

With regard to our local coal, it is an interesting fact that nearly all our coal deposits show seams of excellent gas coal, low in sulphur, and much superior to Sydney coal. In fact, there is no coal in Cape Breton comparable to our local coal. There would be an unlimited market, at good prices, for any surplus of production after our local needs were supplied, for Coke Oven Plants, Gas Works and Smelting Plants. In Boston there is a coke oven plant using ten thousand tons of gas coal per day. The local coal is also most suitable for domestic use, and the bunkering of steamers. The coal burns to a white ash, does not clinker, and would eliminate almost entirely the burning out of furnace bars which is such a drawback with Sydney coal. It is stated that very promising indications of excellent coal have been found at Grand Lake, only 3/4 of a mile from the railway, so that it would appear that there is no shadow of a doubt of our local coal resources.

The Government should come to an immediate agreement with the St. George's Coal Company, and carry out forthwith the original program as to the development of this coal area. The question of ownership should not be allowed to stand in the way, and an agreement is surely possible between the parties concerned. In the meantime the press and the general public should see to it that the necessary steps be taken to continue the gas service to the city, and the Government will gain much prestige by taking prompt action with this desirable end in view.—Com.

MOVIE MAN TO PHOTOGRAPH OUR SCENES.

Mr. Kingsley Jacks who is here on the behalf of the Maritime Motion Picture Co., hopes to screen a 6000 ft. film depicting the Empire's "Oldest Colony and Youngest Dominion." This film will be composed of scenes connected with our beauty spots, our industrial development and in fact of anything pertaining to Newfoundland which would be of interest to the outside world. This picture will be shown throughout Canada, indeed if our generous Government will encourage them it will be shown throughout the Empire. As an advertising medium the screen is recognised as a big factor, and the advantage that this film will be to our island will be to say the least of it—of immense value, so it is a project well worthy of any support which the Government may give. The company camera man, Mr. McNeil, is at present in the city having come from Grand Falls where he took about 1000 feet of film.

A company such as that of the Maritime Motion Pictures is deserving of the support of every British citizen.

Their policy is to supply the demand—in many cases to create a demand—for British-made films. "Canada and Newfoundland" stated Mr. Jacks "pay approximately $18,000,000 to U. S. A. for film rental. Newfoundland's proportion to this is about $300,000." Now, "he continued," "for every dollar spent on American articles you pay a dollar and a half. Your duty is about 33% and your rate of exchange 14 or 15%. So you see we aim to produce an article of equal quality at a lower price. In order that every patriotic citizen may share in our profits, our shares are such as will permit any wage-earner to purchase them." When asked whether he thought they would succeed he said "Yes. The American companies made a mistake when they located in California. The sun is too strong there for successful film taking. They are rapidly finding that out now and so moving eastward. We are in Sydney where climate conditions are ideal for photography." Mr. Jacks hopes to photograph about 1000 feet of film here in St. John's.

"Lanterns of the Dead."

(From the London Times.)

Our Paris correspondent describes a monument to the Allied dead to be erected at Notre Dame de Lorette, in Artois. Even before the war, a little sanctuary on the hill was visited by pilgrims from the ends of the earth, for the dead of all the Allies will lie there, near where they fell. The cost is being undertaken by public subscription, to be collected in the Allied countries, and the generous response should be prompt and generous. The plans have been designed by M. Cordonnier, a member of the Institut de France, and a son of Artois. Fortunately there is to be no attempt at symbolism—that dangerous lure of the monumental architect. The main building is to be a domed and columned basilica, a stately hall depending on proportion for its beauty, historically apt for sacred or secular use. Like the Pantheon at Rome, it is to be flanked by two wings ending in corner towers, and in these the remains of the Allied dead will rest. The brief account already published refers to a "lantern of the dead" on a belfry tower surmounting the dome. Doubtless fuller details will clear this part of the description, in which there seems to be some verbal or architectural confusion. A belfry tower would be an unexpected feature on the dome of a basilica. Sometimes a campanile was placed alongside a basilica, and this might either contain a belfry or be itself a lantern des morts. The latter structures date from the eleventh and twelfth centuries, and a few still survive in the centre and west of France. The Zoological Society of London has erected in the gardens in Regent's Park, in memory of the members of its staff who died on active service, a lantern shaped from one at La Southeraine, in the valley of the Creuse. Lanterns were tall and slender towers, usually hexagonal. They were hollow, and contained a windlass by which a light could be raised to shine through spectrums in the conical roof, and stood alone, usually in the middle of a graveyard. Peter of Clury, called the Venerable, said that the light shining by night was a homage paid by the faithful to dead Christians sleeping their last sleep in blessed ground.

Wife Couldn't Walk A Step, Says Naylor

Was Helpless In Bed With Rheumatism When She Began Taking Tanlac — Friends Amazed At Her Wonderful Recovery.

"My wife was down in bed unable to walk a step when she began taking Tanlac, but now its a fact, she is absolutely well and all our friends are amazed at her recovery," declared Henry Naylor who resides at 207 Brunswick Street, Halifax.

"I believe my wife has suffered all the pain and misery that goes with a bad case of rheumatism. Her legs, arms and hands kept her in such pain that it was out of the question for her to do any of her household work. Her legs would swell up awfully and become so stiff that she couldn't walk a step. She complained of a dull, aching pain all the time and her feet were so swollen that she couldn't wear any shoes at all.

"She suffered a lot from shortness of breath and smothering spells and often her heart palpitated so, bad that it nearly frightened her to death. Her circulation was bad and her hands and fingers would get numb and cold and swell up twice their normal size. Finally she got so bad off that she couldn't get about at all and just had to keep to her bed all the time.

"This was her condition when we got Tanlac on the suggestion of one of our friends, and I can honestly say that I have never seen anybody improve as fast as my wife. The swelling and pains all disappeared and it wasn't long until she could get around as good as ever and was doing her household work all by herself.

"She is not troubled with shortness of breath or palpitation now and I never hear her complain of any ache or pain of any kind. She says she feels ten years younger and her friends are all astonished to see her looking so well and strong. I just can't tell how glad I am to see my wife in such fine health and I want to join with her in speaking a good word for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gullies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. Gushue, in Millertown by Ex-plotis Valley Royal Stores, Ltd., in Flat Island by William Samson, in Jamestown by Christopher Haines, and in Lewisporte by Uriah Preake—adv.

The Ladies and St. Joseph's.

The ladies in their motors, how merrily they ride!
Are they hastening to a wedding to fete some bonny bride?
Or to the Lawn Tennis to play a gay part?
Or to the Current Happenings to sip a cup of tea?
Or, maybe, they are speeding on the pinions of romance,
To where the young knights linger in the paths of dalliance;
When one is sweet and twenty, there's a magic in the air,
And the alchemy of fancy can transmute the mean to rare.
Or, perchance, with Mayor and Council they'd treat of babe hygiene,
Or of problems demogenic with the Minister of Marine,
Or of ethic jurisprudence with the archbishops of the Bench,
Or learn from wily members how to stay upon the fence?
The shocking cost of living must have brought communings deep.

And the sugar regulations proved anything but cheap.
And, perhaps, the ladies ponder if power were in their hand,
How better and how brighter were the fame of Newfoundland.

Maybe, on woman suffrage, then, they're drumming up the town,
And for the rights of their own sex the gauntlet have flung down;
Do they plan a boycott, or still worse, a hunger strike?
Do they mean to crush the government in an Amazonian fight?

No, they're speeding to St. Joseph's for the yearly harvest sale;
They mean to eat their hearts, and the fruits of earth impale;
And while the sun is shining, they will garner all their hay,
And ne'er regret nor sorrow when has dawned the rainy day.

And of dainties gastronomic they will taste a goodly store,
Of Siam Pein sweets and candy and marrons all galore,
Of pies and tarts and pastry, whose peer is yet to come,
And best of all a junket served up with sauce au rhum!

Impressive Ceremony.

LAYING OF CORNER STONE.

Yesterday afternoon His Grace the Archbishop, accompanied by Monsignor McDermott, went to Topsail for the purpose of laying the corner stone of the new church about to be erected there. On arrival at the village the Archbishop was met by the Pastor, Rev. Father Kelly, and a large gathering of the parishioners. After the ceremony His Grace addressed the people at some length.

He prefaced his remarks by saying that it afforded him very much pleasure to be present amongst them for the purpose of performing this ceremony and that for a twofold reason. In the first place he was always pleased to lay the corner stone of a new church, because every new church meant a further extension of the Kingdom of God; and secondly in the present instance for a personal reason, because of his long association with the Parish. He remarked that this was the first mission to which he had been appointed after his ordination, and that by a singular coincidence on the very same day, the 26th of September, he officiated for the first time in the old church which had been taken down a few days ago. He referred to the removal of the old church as being the passing of an historic landmark, as the old church, built by Father O'Connor, and extended by Father Morris, was one of the oldest in the country. He had hoped to be able to undertake the building of the new church at an earlier date, but owing to the destruction by fire some years ago of the church and school at Kelligrews and the necessity of replacing these buildings, it was only now that their pastor, Father Kelly, felt himself in a position to begin the work.

The Archbishop then announced that the new church would be dedicated to St. Thomas of Villa Nova, in order to perpetuate the memory of Father O'Connor, who had built the old church nearly three quarters of a century ago, and secondly to keep alive in their hearts the memory of another zealous priest of the past, Rev. Father Norris, whose work in connection with the Orphanage at Villa Nova was so well known amongst them. His Grace went on to say that there was at present in the Chapel at Manuels a stain-

Preserve and Beautify Every Surface

To retain the new brilliance of your furniture—to keep floors and woodwork brightly gleaming—to have on every wood surface a lustre that is clean and sparkling use O-Cedar Polish in every room.

It cannot fail to preserve and beautify. Your fine mahogany, your rich walnut, or your fumed oak, will take on that beautiful lustrous appearance which has come to be known as "The O-Cedar Result". A result surprisingly different to that obtained by any other method. A wet cloth, a few drops of O-Cedar on it—a light rubbing to remove all dust and film—then a brisk polishing with a dry cloth; and you have a surface that gleams brightly, with the grain-beauty of the wood revealed in all its original charm. A few drops of O-Cedar on the cloth when dusting, will prolong the life of this lustrous finish.

This same lasting brilliance is just as easily secured on floors by the O-Cedar Polish Mop. Whether for hard wood or soft wood, the treatment is the same; and your floors will be cleaner, brighter, prettier, than they ever were before.

Both at your Hardware or Grocery Stores.

ed glass window erected to the memory of Father O'Connor by Father Norris, and that it was his intention to have the window placed in the Sanctuary of the new church at Topsail when completed. In this way he said, the church would be to future generations a monument to the memory of two of the most revered and zealous priests of the past.

Concluding, the Archbishop said that he felt that Father Kelly and his parishioners would receive generous assistance from their many friends outside the parish and he hoped to have the happiness within a short time of coming amongst them again for the purpose of blessing and giving over to Divine Worship the new church, the corner stone of which he had laid to-day.

Diocesan Synod Closed.

The Twenty-Fourth Biennial Session of the Diocesan Synod of Newfoundland was prorogued on Saturday night at 11.15 o'clock, after a most interesting session, lasting since Wednesday, 15th inst. Much important business was transacted, and altogether the 1920 Synod will have left an impress on the history of the Anglican Church in Newfoundland. The attendance of clerical and lay representatives was greater on the average than at previous Synods, thus showing the increased interest taken by both sides of the House, and only on one occasion during the whole Session was there lack of a quorum. Most of the outpost clergy and laity have left for their respective parishes and missions.

IVORY PYRALIN is unquestionably the ideal toilet-ware. From the very first glance one is captivated by the beauty of Ivory Pyralin. In design it is flawless. It has the mellow lustre of old ivory and a delicate grain which is very exquisite, but only through the life-long service which Ivory Pyralin gives can you fully appreciate its remarkable qualities. It cannot tarnish, chip, nor break. It is easily cleaned and lasts indefinitely. Sold in all leading American Stores and at BISHOP, SONS & CO., LTD., St. John's, in Hair Brushes, Dressing Combs, Mirrors, Puff Boxes, Bureau Trays, Manicure Scissors, Files, Button Hooks, Cuticle Knives, Glove Stretcher, Shoe Horns.

Diocesan Synod Proceedings.

SATURDAY, Sept. 25.

The Session was called to order at 10.30 the Lord Bishop presiding. Prayers were read, the rolls were called and the House proceeded to business.

The Minutes of yesterday's session were read and passed.

Canon Bolt moved the suspension of the Rules of Order for the remainder of the Session. Agreed.

Canon Smart moved for the insertion of an omission in the Report of the Select Committee on Finance, adopted by Synod at last night's Session. Leave was granted and ordered that such insertion be made.

Rev. A. E. Tulk moved the third reading of the Bill to amend Chapter III of the Constitution and Rules. Agreed. Bill was read third time and passed.

Canon Smart read the resolution attached to the Report of the Board of Missions.

That the Synod relinquish its annual grant from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in foreign parts on motion duly seconded this was agreed.

By this resolution the Church in Newfoundland has determined that she would henceforth endeavor to carry on her work in this Diocese without outside aid, and she has been moved to do this principally because she feels that the calls of the Mission Field are so great on the venerable Society which has for so long contributed to the Church in Newfoundland.

It will be a great source of gratification and thankfulness to our Church members to learn that our Church has at length been able to become an independent Church, in matters of Finance.

Canon Smart moved the second resolution attached to the Report of the Board of Missions.

That a Field Secretary for Missions be appointed for this Diocese. Agreed.

Canon Smart moved the Report of the Special Committee on the Relations of the Board of Missions to the Executive Committee, and to define the duties of the Board. On being seconded, the Report was adopted.

Rev. G. Elliott read the Report of the Special Committee appointed by the Synod on Statistical Returns.

Mr. Elliott moved that this Report be received and referred to the Executive Committee for further consideration. This was agreed.

To Lay Readers, Sunday School Teachers and other Church workers throughout the Diocese, wishing them much blessing and happiness in their work.

To the Church people of St. John's for their kind hospitality to outport clergy during this Session of the Synod and to the Hospitality Committee for arrangements made.

To Rev. H. W. Facey for synopsis of proceedings of Synod published in Daily Press.

To the secretaries of the Synod during this Session in recognition of their work.

To City Press for publishing accounts of the proceedings of the Synod.

To His Lordship the Bishop for the patient and courteous manner in which he presided over the Sessions of this Synod.

On motion a vote of sympathy was passed to Mr. R. G. MacDonald in his illness.

The Scrutineers having returned to the House, His Lordship the Bishop announced the result of the ballot for the Executive Committee for the ensuing financial period.

His Lordship the Bishop, (ex officio); Rev. Canon Smith, Episcopal Commissary, (ex officio); Rev. Canon Bolt, (ex officio); Rev. Canon Smart, Rev. Canon Bayly, Rev. Canon Jeyes, Rev. Canon Field, Rev. J. Brinton, Rev. Dr. Facey, W. W. Blackall, Esq., B.A., D.C.L., Sir W. H. Horwood, K.C., Hon. W. B. Grieve, C. E. Hunt, Esq., J. W. Withers, Esq., Hon. R. Watson, J. R. Bennett, Esq., J. A. Cliff, Esq., K.C.

The Minutes having been adopted were signed by the President.

The Doxology was sung, the Benediction pronounced and the Synod prorogued at 11.15 p.m.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

CODFISH.—The report from the schooners on the Northern part of the Labrador coast is not at all promising, and it may be that when the catch is all collected that it will be found to be a much smaller one than anticipated. It must be further borne in mind that the number of schooners prosecuting the fishery is less by at least 100 this year than last. There are two steamers and a number of sailers on the coast of Labrador and the Straits leading for foreign markets, and we believe that they are rapidly securing the cargoes they require, on the basis of $8.00 for ordinary Prime Labrador.

CODLIVER OIL.—There is nothing whatever doing in Codliver oil, and hardly anyone is taking any interest in the commodity this year so far. We hear of sales at $1.20 per gallon and would not be surprised to see the price down to $1.00 per gallon shortly.

COMMON COD OIL.—The fishermen are all holding back what little oil they have made, and the buyers in the foreign markets are holding off from buying until prices go down lower than they are to-day. If there was any large quantity of oil manufactured, we would certainly see prices down to $150.00 per ton, but we think the fishermen will get $200, or perhaps a little more for all there is this year. If there is any advance on these prices it will not be likely to last long.

LOBSTERS.—There is nothing doing in the Lobster trade and no demand from the United States. The nominal price here is down to $20.00 and very low sales at this figure. Independent packers are holding up their pack in the hope that there will be a more favorable turn in their favor later in the season, which is very doubtful, as both American and French Governments are discouraging the importation of luxuries, and just now U. S. Banking institutions will not advance money to fish jobbers, while money is lent out so largely to farmers in the harvesting.

BEEF.—The Beef situation is practically unchanged from last week's strong position beyond slight fluctuations cabled from day to day.

It is expected by the Trade that to-day's prices will rule throughout

When Coffee begins to play pranks with your nerves or digestion, quit coffee ten days, drinking POSTUM in its place.

"There's a Reason."

the fall. There is very little beef running in the local trade, owing to the extreme dullness prevailing. This condition may result in a serious shortage later on in the season as there is very little being bought to arrive as compared with other years at this season. Prices in this market range from $29.50 to $36.00. Imports for the week 390 barrels.

PORK.—Ham Butt shows an advance of $3.00 per barrel over last week's quotation in the U. S. Markets. This is said to be due to the scarcity of this particular brand. Other grades such as Fat Back and Mess do not show much change. United States advices indicate a reawakening interest of the export question to Europe of the pork accumulations there, and the market is only waiting for a resumption of this demand. As soon as it takes place there will likely be a sharp stiffening in prices. Local quotations to-day are $54.00 for Ham Butt and Short Mess, and $44.00 for short cut Fat Back to arrive. Imports this week were 155 barrels.

SUGAR.—During the early part of the week no one was buying sugar in quantity lots, pending a decision of the Sugar Appeal Case. But now that the Government has issued a new Proclamation under "The Imports and Exports" (Restriction Act), it is felt that they intend at all costs to keep up the prices as set by the Food Control Board, and that these rules will continue in force at least till the end of this year. There are large stocks held in the city at present. The latest quotation in New York is 14½ cents landed here, as against the F. C. B. prices of 27 3-4 cents wholesale, 32 cents retail.

MOLLASSES.—The imports of molasses to St. John's to date amount to 7131 puncheons as against 10,522 last year. The "Mollie Fearn" is now at Barbados, and presumably will bring a load of molasses to this port, and two other cargoes expected should put the total up to about 3,000 puncheons, which will be a shortage of about 3,000 from the averages. The prices are $1.75 for Family and $1.65 for Choice in the St. John's Market.

FLOUR.—The question that is troubling the wheat men of Canada and the United States to-day is whether the statistical conditions or the financial situation is going to govern prices in the near future. Statistically the position is regarded as extremely strong, while the financial situation is the reverse. So far the demand for wheat from Europe has kept up at a most surprising rate, notwithstanding the remarkable low rate of foreign exchange that is depressing trade, coupled with the strained conditions prevailing in European countries. There is no ease off in prices by Millers of the choice grades of Manitoba Patents, and they cannot be imported less than $17.00 to $17.50 per barrel duty paid here. There has been an advance of forty per cent. in railway freight rates throughout Canada, and this has counterbalanced any reduction in the price of wheat.

POTATOES.—Local potatoes are now plentiful in the market and selling freely at $5.00 per barrel, and 20 cents per gallon. The crop is remarkably good and the potatoes are for the most part dry, sweet and large. Prices are expected to decline still lower next month, when the crop is harvested, probably to $4.00 a barrel, if not lower, as foreign grown can now be imported and sold at this price.

HAY.—The prevailing price of hay in St. John's is $54.00. Consignments to arrive in a few days will, however, sell at $52.00 per ton. It is believed by the trade that after the early part of October, the price will cease fluctuating and keep a strong upward movement, owing to the higher freight rates and difficulty of getting cargo space for this commodity.

COAL.—The imports of soft coal for the past week to St. John's amounted to 5,833 tons; five schooners and two steamer loads from Sydney. This gives a total for St. John's of $1,552 as compared with 65,000 at this date last season. The S.S. "Bozarsia," with a capacity of about 3,600 it is said, will continue bringing coal here all the fall. There will also be several schooner loads. The price continues at $19.50 per ton.

Personal.

Sir P. T. McGrath who has been attending the Press Conference, is returning by the incoming express.

Rev. E. V. Forbes, pastor of Gower St. Methodist Church returned from England on Saturday accompanied by his bride.

Mr. N. Snow who had been in the Old Country purchasing goods for Bowring Bros. Ltd., returned Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Snow.

Mr. Hector Ross, foreman carpenter with the Reid Co., is seriously ill at his home where he has been confined for some days.

Mr. H. Russell, Asst. Supt. of the Reid Co., accompanied by Mrs. Russell left yesterday's express to spend a holiday in Canada and the U.S.A.

Dr. S. Keane, who has been performing the duties of house surgeon at the General Hospital leaves shortly to take up practice at Brookfield, B.B. He is succeeded by Dr. Aiken, formerly of Hr. Breton.

Rev. H. J. Read, Rural Dean of St. George's and Rector of Channel Parish, left by this morning's train for Placentia, at which place he joins s.s. Gloucester for Port aux Basques.

Rev. J. B. Ryan, principal of St. Bon's College, returned by the steamer from Ireland where he had been attending a conference of the Christian Brothers. He and Rev. Bro. Cullane formerly of St. Bon's, were representatives from this side of the water.

Mr. George Penny, of the well known shipping firm of John Penny and Sons, Ramea, Nfld., is in Halifax on his honeymoon, says the Halifax Herald. Mr. Penny intends visiting the Upper Provinces before his return. Mrs. Penny was formerly Mrs. H. Clinton, of St. Jacques, Nfld. They were married at Grand River church, district of St. George's on Sept. 13th, and crossed to Canada by S.S. Kyle.

Corpl. Bob Clare of ours returned from England, Saturday, after an absence of six years. He was the second time wounded in the advance on Langemarck, and for three years has been in hospital where he underwent 27 operations. He has had his leg removed and will return to England later to have an artificial limb fitted.

Mr. Geo. Kempton, Supt. of Construction of the Imperial Oil Ltd., who the past nine months was engaged extending the wharf and warehouses at the Company's Southside premises, leaves by Friday's train for St. Pierre to erect a warehouse similar to the one just finished here. Mrs. Kempton who was spending a few months holiday with her husband, left by the Sable I. for home, delighted with her visit here.
