Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XIII.

There were many conflicting emotions in the heart of young Winterdick as he drove back alone through the silent night.

If he had been quite honest with himself, he would have admitted that he was feeling almost happy. But he had not yet reached the stage when he could be quite honest with himself. He felt shy of analyzing his emotions. There was a sort of secret wish at the back of his mind to wait a little longer—to avoid taking himself to task, or sorting himself out, as it were, till his wedding day.

Something had happened that evening which had given him a nasty shock, and, as everyone knows, a shock also often has the effect of bringing a sick man to his senses. The fact was that Philip Winterdick was almost sure in his own mind that Kitty Arlington had not really fainted at all. He hated to think it, but that is the did. He believed that the whole thing was just a pose—an elaborately-designed scene with which to play upon his feelings.

It had succeeded, too, up to a point. He had felt pretty sick with himself as he saw her fall from the chair. He had felt pretty sick, too, as he lifted her in his arms and carried her out of the room. For quite five minutes he had been convinced that he had broken her heart and half killed her by his faithlessness.

He had even been so utterly foolish as to drop a remorseless kiss on her golden hair when he thought nobody was looking, and had stood by in an agony of fear till she opened her eyes and looked—straight at him.

And that look had sown the seed of doubt in his mind. The more he thought of it, the more sure he was that the whole faint had been put on, and young Winterdick hated shams and artificialities.

Was there nothing genuine in the whole of her dainty composition? He wondered. Had he just been an easy fool, caught by her eyes and her smile and her pretty voice?

He thought of Eva in comparison with relief and gratitude; and during the evening Calligan had unconsciously fanned the flame of his feeling for her into something greater.

Then had followed that moment of jealousy when she had refused to answer his questions in the car, and then he had kissed her, and then . . . here he shied away from what he had thought then. Though he was alone and it was dark, he coloured hotly at the memory of that moment. He felt that the night had myriads of inquisitive eyes, all of which were looking at him. He drove the rest of the way at a terrific pace.

Calligan and Mrs. Winterdick and several other men who were staying in the house were waiting up for him when he got back. Apparently there was still more champagne to be consumed, and Philip was immediately presented with a glass of it.

Across the room he met his father's eyes. "Your health, my boy," said the old man.

Philip hesitated; then he raised his glass. "To the best woman in the world!" he said.

CHAPTER XIV.

There was a sound of wheels on a gravel path and a little flutter of excitement swept through the crowded church. Faces turned backwards towards the open door. There was a perturbed rustle of silken skirts.

In the front pew Mrs. Dennison grasped Mrs. Winterdick's hand.

"Has she come?" she asked in an emotional whisper. "Oh, my heart is beating so! I told her not to get here too soon, but—" Her voice was drowned in the swelling tones of the organ.

For the moment at least everyone forgot the bridegroom, and Philip Winterdick gave a little sigh of relief and squared his shoulders as he turned to look down the long aisle.

He knew now how great had been the dread in his heart that something would happen at the last moment to prevent his marriage. An enormous load was lifted from his shoulders as he saw the little procession at the foot of the church form itself and move slowly towards him.

He looked at Eva, and he was conscious of a sudden tightening at his throat. In a few moments this girl in the white frock and slimy veil would be his wife. The plain gold ring which he had secured Calligan a dozen times during that morning not to lose would be on her hand—she would call herself by his name—she would be his own, his very own.

His eyes never left her face as she drew nearer. He wished she would look at him. He took a little step forward as if to go to meet her, but Calligan nudged him violently and checked him.

Philip's head was swimming a little. For a moment at least he had forgotten to be nervous.

Eva was beside him now. He forgot the scent of the lilies she carried, and heard the nervous breathing of Mr. Dennison as he asked Calligan in a loud whisper if everything was all right.

And now Eva had raised her eyes—such sweet eyes they were—and for a moment she looked straight at Philip.

And then the parson spoke, and Philip listened like a man in a dream, and tried to believe that everything was real, and to realize what was really happening; to understand that this was his wedding day, and that instead of feeling a miserable captive, as he thought he would feel, he was feeling absurdly happy.

He put out his hand and found Eva's and held it, and when he felt how her fingers trembled his own nerves suddenly steeled down, and he felt himself years older than she was; and the desire to be good to her and make her happy wiped out every other thought; and then he woke to the fact that it was time to produce the ring, and that Calligan had given it to him, and then . . . well, then he lost himself in the

Appetite Good, Gained 20 lbs. Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts, Loverna, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, failed 25 pounds in weight, became very nervous and shaky and in fact given up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until I was fast becoming a total wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39.

"Then I read about people being restored by Dr. Chase's Medicines and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement each day and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and could not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."

seriousness of it all, and only woke again to realities when he and Eva were in the vestry, and somebody was saying, "I must be the first, to kiss the bride."

And he saw his mother take Eva in her arms and kiss her fondly, and then somebody kissed him, and he knew that it was Mrs. Dennison, and somebody else half shook his hand off, and somebody else wished him luck; and somebody else thumped him on the back; and then he signed his name with an abominable quill pen that squeaked, and there were more kissing and handshaking, followed by a walk down an aisle that seemed endless, with Eva on his arm, and thousands of people staring at them both—then a wild rush into a closed car to escape confetti and rice—the slam of the door—a frantic cheer led by Calligan—and it was all over, and he was driving away from the church—a married man.

And the sun was shining, and he had never felt so happy in all his life—and he still held Eva's hand, and suddenly he bent his head and kissed the finger that wore his ring—kissed it again and again.

And it was just on the tip of his tongue to tell her the wonderful discovery he had made during the past two days when the short drive was at an end, and there were more congratulations and handshakes and speeches; and a cake to be cut and champagne to be drunk, and telegrams to be opened; and though Eva stood beside him most of the time, everyone else was claiming her attention and kissing her, unconscious of the fact that Philip was one burning impatient to get her to himself and tell her that this was the happiest day of his life, because he knew now that he loved her—that nobody had ever meant to him what she meant; that whatever had gone before, it was all wiped out now and forgotten . . .

But the time dragged on leaden feet, and it seemed an eternity till someone took Eva away to change her frock.

Philip gave a huge sigh of relief—it was one step on the way at least. He looked round for an excuse to escape from the noisy throng, but Mr. Dennison bore down upon him—Mr. Dennison, who had drunk quite as much wine as was good for him, and got hold of Philip's hand, and refused to let it go, and called him "Dear Boy" and grew almost maudlin at the thought of losing his daughter, and was only finally persuaded to desist when a message came that Eva wanted to speak to him, and he was escorted off upstairs, and Eva came out to meet him on the landing, and slipped her hand through his arm and kissed his flushed face and tried to thank him for all he had done for her.

Mr. Dennison slapped himself on the chest with pride.

"I promised you a slip-up wedding, and you've had it," he said. "I'll give Apley something to talk about for weeks—eh, my girl? . . . I didn't mean to give 'em a chance to say I'd been mean where my only daughter was concerned." He fumbled in the pocket of his coat and produced an envelope.

"A little cheque," he said as airily as he could. "Just a little cheque to help pay for the honeymoon—eh?"

She laughed, though there were tears in her eyes.

PEOPLE WHO USE MISLEADING HEADLINES.

Not long ago I heard a woman complaining about a certain newspaper (needless to say, not this one) because the desk man put such sensational headlines at the head of their news columns.

"The facts they print are usually true enough," she said, "but they give a wholly false emphasis and twist to them by the way they take out some unimportant detail and blazon it forth in the headlines. I don't think I shall take that paper any more."

She minded the individual instance.

She was very indignant at that moment because some affair in which friends of hers were involved had been made ridiculous by that method. I don't really think she minded the method so much when it was used to savor for her delectation news about people in whom she had no personal interest.

Be that as it may, what interests me about her declaration was this. She is a great person for putting sensational, misleading headlines on things herself.

I once happened to be present at a conversation between her and another woman in which both got pretty angry. Later I heard her describing that conversation to a third person.

Ordered 368 "Dozen" Instead of 368.

Old V. C. Hero.

Because a clerk of Matthews, Towers & Co., Ltd., Montreal, unintentionally included the word "dozen" in an order he was preparing for Lazare Steinfeld, clothing manufacturer, the former's order read "368 dozen pairs of pants" instead of "368 pairs of pants."

This slip resulted in Lazare Steinfeld delivering the huge order, without question, which Matthews, Towers & Co. refused, protesting that they only wanted "368 pairs," not "368 dozen pairs."

Steinfeld replied that an order was an order, whether intended or not, and claimed that, under law, they were compelled to accept "368 dozen pairs."

The matter was accordingly brought before the Superior Court, which decided in the plaintiff's favor. Matthews, Tower & Co. however, took the case to the Court of Appeal. After hearing all the evidence, it was decided that the company's liability under its order extended only to the loss incurred, until the mistake was discovered—about one-half of the order as received by Steinfeld. For the balance, the latter's claim was disallowed.

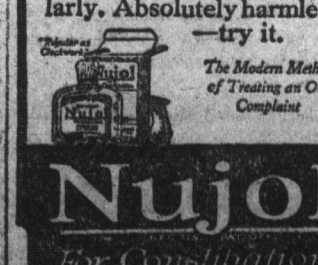

Fried bananas are delicious. Cut them lengthwise, then in two. After dipping in a batter of beaten egg, fry in hot butter. A sweet egg sauce flavored with lemon is delicious with them.

Stories of the Prince.

When the Prince was inspecting a hospital in New Zealand he said to one patient—an ex-soldier: "Is there anything you want?"

"I'm entitled to one bottle of stout a day," said the soldier. "Do you think you could get me another?"

The colonial is a much more easy-going person than the Englishman, as the following incidents from "With the Prince in New Zealand," by Hector Bolitho, prove. At Greymouth, the Prince was reviewing some veteran soldiers. "How old are you?" he asked one of them.

"Eighty-one and never in gaol yet," was the reply.

"How are you, old chap?" he inquired of another.

"Pretty well, thanks, young 'un," replied the veteran.

As the Prince was travelling during the night, on one occasion, all the people living in farmsteads and houses by the line turned out to give him a cheer.

In one place a loyalist, who had overstept himself, was seen in the cold and early hours of the morning standing by the line, cheering lustily—wearing only his night clothes and bare feet.

Griffiths Submits His Cabinet to Dail.

De Valerists Took No Part in Election--Great Feeling of Relief in Dublin--N. F. Prime Minister at Washington.

NEW IRISH EXECUTIVE.
DUBLIN, Jan. 10. Arthur Griffith was elected President of Dail Eireann at to-day's session. Eamon De Valera and his followers walked out while the vote was being taken in protest against the nomination of Griffith. Speaker MacNeill put the question and Griffith was unanimously chosen. After his election President Griffith made this announcement:—"Dail will continue to exist until the Irish Free State is set up." President Griffith nominated and Dail ratified the following cabinet:—
Minister of Finance, Michael Collins.
Minister of Foreign Affairs, George G. Duffy.
Minister of Home Affairs, E. J. Duggan.
Minister of Local Government, Wm. J. Conroy.
Minister of Economic Affairs, Brian Higgins.
Minister of Defence, Richard Mulcahy.
Eamon De Valera and his party immediately went into conference outside, promising a statement to the press later.

ADJOURNS TO 14th FEBRUARY.
DUBLIN, Jan. 10. When Dail Eireann adjourned to-night to February 14, the situation which last night seemed dangerous and obscure had been to a great extent clarified. The new President, Arthur Griffith, and the new Cabinet had been selected and the way had been smoothed to putting into effect the terms of the treaty. Immense relief is felt in Dublin at the turn events have taken and this will undoubtedly be experienced throughout Ireland. The temporary withdrawal of De Valera and his supporters from Dail proved to involve a permanent split. De Valera confined his protest to the session of the new President, declaring his unwillingness to recognize the authority to the post of a man who had bound to give effect to a treaty, which according to De Valera subverts the republic. After a private meeting De Valera and his followers returned Dail for the afternoon session. De Valera made it plain by numerous speeches that the decision of Dail to accept the treaty binds him and his adherents not to obstruct the new government in carrying out the treaty but reserved the right of free criticism should Griffith in the capacity of Chairman of the Provisional Government do anything incompatible with the right of the Irish people to the existence of the Irish Republic. He expressed fear of British hostility but gave a clear assurance of full support of his party in resisting an attack from an outside enemy. Griffith was repeatedly challenged by De Valera to define his position which De Valera described as a new case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Griffith frankly recognized during the transition period the existence of the Republic which he undertook to maintain, but said that when the Free State was framed and ready to come into operation there must be a general election so that the people could choose between the Free State and a continuance of the Republic. De Valera's attitude to Griffith was considerate and Griffith expressed his appreciation of this. Organized labor looks for practical results from the new government which was waiting to-day by a labor delegation urging consideration of the question of unemployment and the intervention of labor. It is believed, strengthens the supporters of the treaty.

PREMIER SQUIRES AT WASHINGTON.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. In a further effort to secure tariff concessions for Newfoundland, Sir Richard Squires, Premier, is in Washington to-day to confer with members of the Senate Finance Committee. Sir Richard is urging on the committee the advantage of mutual low tariffs and is especially seeking rates favorable to the Newfoundland fishing industry.

A TESTING TIME.
TORONTO, Jan. 10. The year just closed has been a testing time for financial policies of all business and especially banks, declared Sir John Aird, General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, at the annual meeting to-day. The annual statement showed net profits of $3-

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10. W. R. Allen, of Allen, Killam and MacKay, was elected President of the Union Bank of Canada at the annual meeting here yesterday. He succeeds John Galt, President since 1912, who has retired owing to ill health. Mr. Galt remains a director. H. A. Shaw was elected Vice-President.

SHRUNK TO PRE-WAR PROPORTIONS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. The construction of new merchant tonnage in all countries of the world has now shrunk to pre-war proportions, according to a statement of Lloyd's register to-day. While depression is general, the most marked decline is in the United States, the statement says. The world's aggressive tonnage under construction on January 1, was 4,457,063 gross tons, of which Britain was building 2,440,919 tons and the United States 216,428.

GIRLS! GROW THICK LONG, HEAVY HAIR WITH "DANDERINE"

Buy a 35-cent bottle of "Danderine." One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few moments, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

gressing to a limited extent whenever mild weather permits.

Since the Election, when perhaps the cry of unemployment was used to some extent as political campaign material, one hears less of cut-of-works, though there are always a number of laborers who get laid off at this dull season, but the number seems not larger than usual. Moreover, contrary to the threats held out by Mr. Meighen's party that the return of the Liberals would mean the closing of many factories, there seems to be a brighter spirit of optimism prevailing, and most people look forward to much better times for 1922 than the year just closed. I think this is shown to some extent by the reduction of the adverse exchange against Canada in the United States recently.

Newfoundland in Toronto.

OUR QUEEN CITY BUDGET.

The New Year being an excellent season for the making of good resolutions it has struck me that perhaps a good one to adopt at this particular time would be the resolution to write you a regular budget of doings in the Queen City, because so many Newfoundlanders have relatives or friends living here.

As the weather is always a safe subject with which to open a conversation, verbal or literary, one might remark that the New Year has been ushered in by very low temperature. There is barely a skim of snow on the streets, all of the sidewalks are bare, but with a clear sky and sparkling stars the air has a bite to-night that one rarely experiences in Newfoundland. There is hardly a breath of wind stirring, which is rather fortunate as every draft seems to penetrate through and through. Up till the present it has been comparatively mild, and on Saturday it was quite slushy underneath.

The New Year has been celebrated with even more mirth than Christmas. During the week preceding that festival the shops were gay and thronged with shoppers. All the children were well remembered, and very many needy families were supplied with a Christmas dinner, chiefly through the good efforts of the Toronto Star, which raised a fund of $150,000 for this purpose. This may seem large to your readers, but when one recalls that the population of this city is double that of the whole of Newfoundland it will seem less extraordinary.

During the fall, and just preceding the General Election, there was a good deal of talk of unemployment. Fortunately—at least for the unemployed if not for the taxpayers—the city, which had taken over the street car lines from the Toronto Transportation Company at the first of September, undertook a good deal of reconstruction as well as some extension, and a rearranging of many curves made necessary by the placing of quite a number of new and much larger cars in operation. This work employed many men up till the first week in December, when it was completed, though it is still progressing to a limited extent whenever mild weather permits.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruit" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

A Popular Lover.

The announcement of the betrothal of Princess Mary, sister of the Prince of Wales, to Viscount Lascelles, eldest son of the Earl and Countess of Harwood, has been hailed with pleasure, not only throughout Great Britain, but throughout the King's world-wide Dominions. An English writer states that "Special gratification is felt in respect that her Royal Highness is to marry a British subject of good old English stock." The family of Lascelles, of which the Earl of Harwood is the head, has been of importance since the reign of Edward I, when Roger de Lascelles was summoned to Parliament as Baron in the year 1295. He died without male issue and the barony fell into abeyance, but the family continued to be prominent and many members of Parliament, who was elevated to the peerage in June, 1796, as Baron Harwood, in the County of York. He was advanced to a viscountcy and then to an earldom, and so the head of the Lascelles family became Earl of Harwood. The present Earl is the fifth of his line, and Viscount Henry George Charles Lascelles, to whom Princess Mary is betrothed, is the Earl's eldest son. He was born on September 9, 1882. He is an old Eton boy, and from the great public school he passed into the army and served with the Grenadier Guards in which he held the commission of Second-Lieutenant. From 1905 to 1907 he was Honorary Military Attaché to the British Embassy in Rome. During the fol-

"White Coal" the Power of Future.

Paris, (Associated Press)—The linking of groups of the principal countries of the world into huge high-power transmission systems from which electrical energy sufficient to provide a large portion of commercial and transport needs could be taken is one of the problems which the International Electrical Conference in Paris had under discussion.
The meeting brought together delegates from 12 countries including the United States and Canada.
Electricity as a means of moving trains, ocean steamships and turning the wheels of industry is about to come into its own, according to the delegates and the only thing that prevents tremendous developments in electric energy is the present high cost of materials and the expense attached to changing from steam and other methods to electricity.
May Abandon Coal.
Nations had enough potential electrical energy in their waterways to eventually abandon the use of coal, experts at the conference said, but only government financing could provide sufficient funds to harness this dormant power.
The American delegates surprised the European experts when they outlined the extent to which electricity is made to work for the American people. The invasion of the American home by such labor saving devices as electric stoves, dish-washers, irons, etc., amazed many of the delegates who represent countries where as yet electricity has not figured in the home except in supplying light.
The conference studied methods for the standardization of equipment necessary in connecting the various high-power transmission systems. With such an international power arrangement as suggested France may in the near future supply electrical energy to the Italian States and points as distant as Poland and Russia.
The delegates were surprised at the progress made in electrical development in France since 1918. The use of French rivers in generating electrical energy will eventually place France second to none in the manufacture of electricity is the opinion of the delegates.

Profit and Loss.

The Rotary Club of St. John's is representative of twenty-four branches of Trade, Commerce and Industries, all of which do business in this country. It is scarcely necessary then to suggest that there are many advantages to be derived and much information gained by members at the weekly gatherings which are participated in by rotarians everywhere. A special feature of these luncheons is an address on some topical subject delivered by either a member or a guest thoroughly qualified to speak on and well acquainted with the subject chosen. On all the addresses so far delivered to St. John's Rotarians, the speaker has been an expert in his particular line. Great interest therefore was manifested at yesterday's meeting, when Mr. H. Stokes Waite was announced to be the speaker and his subject the one dominating all minds at present, the Humber Valley Development proposals. The guests on this occasion were far in excess of the average number invited, and composed managers of the four banks in the city, clergymen, business men, engineers and others whose profession leads them to a close study of economic conditions. The chairman in introducing the speaker referred to the subject of his address as the biggest proposition ever put before Newfoundland, and submitted that the question was whether the country was going to have it win or lose.

Mr. Waite took particular care to impress his hearers with the fact that Newfoundland had much to offer the promoters and they in turn had much to offer Newfoundland in return for whatever might come out of the interior development of the island by the company which he represented. Taking the matter of labor he said that at the outset not less than twenty-five hundred men would have to be employed, and that when the plant was in readiness to operate a sum not less than SEVEN MILLION DOLLARS would have to be spent on local labor and local products alone, in two years. The amount to be paid on labor in paper manufacturing only would at least be two million five hundred thousand dollars annually, to which would have to be added the earnings of the inhabitants in and about the town which it is proposed to erect along the site of the plant. And these people would not be in the direct pay of the Company but would make their earnings from indirect pursuits of farm and forest. The total value of all our products of the sea, exported during the year 1920, was estimated to be eight million, eight hundred and eleven thousand, seven hundred and twenty-seven dollars, ($8,811,727). Not a tithe of those exports was hauled over the railway, consequently no profit accrued to the freight traffic on this account. The Government guarantee of one and a half million dollars for operating loss on the trunk and branch lines will have to be paid indefinitely, unless an increase of haulage in freight is found for the road. And it is the duty of the Government, in the interests of the people whom they are supposed to serve, in order that this huge guarantee may be reduced, that they seek some means whereby such a consummation may be effected. It is a clear totting up of Profit and Loss, and no one desires that the loss shall forever be against Newfoundland.

St. Andrew's Church Congregation

ANNUAL MEETING. Last night the congregation of St. Andrew's Church assembled in its annual session to hear the reports for the year and the election of a Board of Management. The meeting held in the Presbyterian Hall was largely attended and opened at 8.30. The reports from the different Associations proved interesting and encouraging. Following their adoption the election of a Board of Management for the ensuing year was held and resulted in the following gentlemen being elected—D. Baird, P. K. McLeod, C. U. Henderson, J. C. Hepburn, J. A. Young, Angus Reid, A. Munn, J. W. Morris, Thos. Curran, D. M. Baird, J. C. Baird, Edwin Murray. These gentlemen assume office immediately.

Operetta "The Holy Night" performed in the Episcopal Library. Miss Katie O'Flynn, prima donna of the operetta, presented with a bouquet by His Lordship, Right Rev. M. F. Howell.

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain called "an infamous scoundrel" and the British Army "a gang of thieves and ruffians" in the German Reichstag. Count Von Buelow afterwards in an address practically apologized.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN?—What's going to come next? you'll ask when you see the comic stunts that will be pulled off for the closing night of the "Quaker Girl." It will be a riot of laughter from start to finish. Bring all the family.

Mr. R. G. McDonald was the lecturer at the monthly united service of The Young People's Bible Class of St. Mary's Church, on Sunday afternoon. The subject was, "Two Ordinances in Christ Church" and proved to be of great interest to everyone present. Howard Mann Colt Race

It has been decided that following the races to be held by the Horsemen's Association, which takes place on Feb. 8th next, a race by the progeny of "Howard Mann" will be run off on Quidi Vidi Pond. Mr. Harold Macpherson, owner of the horse, has offered a prize of a $50 Victory Bond for the fastest 2 1/2 year old colt sired by "Howard Mann." The meet should prove very interesting. Owners of the colts are being notified to prepare for the race, which takes place on Wednesday following the Horsemen's Association races. There are over thirty 2 1/2 year old colts sired by "Howard Mann," and some of them have shown remarkable speed.

S. U. F. Club

HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING. The members of the S.U.F. Club held their annual meeting in their rooms last night. In the absence of the President, Bro. R. Ledrew, Vice-President, took the chair for the conduct of business. The report of the Sec'y-Treasurer showed a most favorable year, the financial condition exceeding all anticipations. The sum of $100 was donated to the S.U.F. Widows and Orphans Fund (St. John's Lodge, No. 5) and $200 to Grand Lodge Building account. A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a handsome easy chair to Bro. R. Skeffington for the interest manifested by him in a special phase of Club work. Routine business being concluded the R.W. Grand Master conducted the election of officers, the following being chosen for the ensuing year:—Hon. President—Bro. Jas. Rendell. President—Bro. W. MacGillivray. Vice-Pres.—Bro. R. Ledrew. Sec'y-Treas.—Bro. W. Munford. Committee—Bros. Whitten, Gardner, Burrige, Skeffington, Lever, Hynes, James, Dave, Jenkins, Reid. Janitor—Bro. A. Edgewood. Honorary Members—Bros. J. T. Phillips, J. S. Curney, H. Pike, J. S. Rendell.

The services of the immediate Past-President, Bro. James Rendell, will be recognized in suitable degree at a later date. After the passing of customary votes of thanks, the meeting closed.

Funeral Yesterday.

The funeral of the late Miss Margaret McGillivray took place from her residence, Gower Street, yesterday afternoon. Interment was at the General Protestant Cemetery. A large number of friends of the deceased followed the remains to the graveside, where the Rev. Dr. Power read the burial service. Deceased was the daughter of the late Thos. McGillivray and was very well known throughout the town. One brother, Mr. W. McGillivray, and a sister, Mrs. Baidge, are left to mourn their sad loss.

Seeking Employment.

BUREAU'S BALD NOTICE. Since the closing down of railway work between Kelligrews and Holyrood, the men engaged on the job have been unable to find other employment. Daily a large number of men are seeking an opening from the Employment Bureau, but apparently there is little relief to be found in this quarter, as the following notice posted at the entrance to the Milling Building shows: "Men will be notified when work is to be done. It is no use hanging around this building."

Trouble in Paradise.

TERRESTRIAL THIS TIME. Paradise, but lately the scene of a moonshine raid, is again a troubled settlement. This time it is an assault and the matter was thrashed out in the Magistrate's Court this morning. The accused, a young man, had some quarrel with the plaintiff's son and when the old man interfered he was treated to a blow in the head which has compelled him to keep it bandaged ever since. His Honor decided that a fine of five dollars would meet the case. For a settlement with such a name, Paradise is certainly "going some."

Take Shelter in Cells.

MOTHER AND CHILD DESTITUTE. A woman with her three months old child applied for shelter at the Police Station last night. The unfortunate woman is homeless and friendless, and had no other course open to her. At present she is in the lock-up for the reason that in spite of all our charitable institutions, there is none which meets the particular requirements of this case.

What Lincoln said about story telling: "I am accused of telling a great many stories. They say it lowers the dignity of the presidential office, but I have found that plain people, take them as you find them, are more easily influenced by a broad and humorous illustration than by any other way, and what the hypocritical few may think I don't care." Thus spoke President Lincoln. Rev. Mr. Power tells a number of Lincoln's best stories on Friday night in the Presbyterian Hall. A musical treat is also promised all who attend and, what always appeals to everyone, the proceeds are for educational purposes.—Jan. 11.

HIS DIARY. January 10th.—All the talk of the town is of the Humber proposition and a great diversity of minds on the matter. Lou how this can be I know not, seeing how it is the hope left to the country and is like to be of great value to all. Some talk of the guarantee and do lay all grounds for objection on this, but it doth appear that the promoters offer very good reasons for it. Meeting Mr. W. McKay, he tells me how he is greatly in favor of the scheme. By the public despatches, I find that A. Griffiths has been chosen President of the Irish Parliament. Hearing how the House is like to meet this month, and to talk of the Humber scheme, I to Hon. W. R. Warren and he tells me it may come about.

Royal Humane Society Certificates

PRESENTED-AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE. This morning at Government House, Lawrence Hickey, a shoemaker at Parker & Monroe's, and John Daly, a grocer at J. J. St. John's, were presented with Testimonials awarded by the Royal Humane Society in recognition of their action in assisting to save a young man, John Lawlor, son of Mr. M. F. Lawlor, H. M. Customs, from drowning at Long Pond on the 13th July last. Amongst those at the presentation was Mr. M. F. Lawlor, who introduced Messrs. Hickey and Daly to His Excellency. The documents were presented unopened, and after they were read by the recipients His Excellency congratulated the young men on their gallantry. Mr. Lawlor at the close of the ceremony thanked His Excellency for the interest he had taken in the matter. The Testimonials are of two degrees, one on vellum, the other on parchment—the latter being given to Daly who, it will be remembered, helped Hickey when he had almost reached the shore. Hickey's Testimonial reads as follows:—"At a meeting of the Committee of the Royal Humane Society, held at the office, No. 4 Trafalgar Square, on the 8th day of November, 1921, present Alexander Travers Hawes, Esq., Treasurer, in the chair, it was resolved unanimously that Lawrence Hickey is justly entitled to the Honorary Testimonial of this Society inscribed on vellum, which is hereby awarded him for having, on the 13th July, 1921, gone to the rescue of a man who was in imminent danger of drowning in the Long Pond near St. John's, Newfoundland, and whose life he gallantly assisted in saving." (Sgd.) E. R. FREEMANTLE, President.

A. TRAVERS HAWES, Chairman. The matter of recognition for Hickey and Daly was brought to public attention by the Evening Telegram in its account of the occurrence." Mr. P. K. Devine, who was at Long Pond on the evening of the rescue, took an interest in the affair, and securing the witnesses had their depositions taken before Judge Morris. These he forwarded to His Excellency the Governor. Mr. M. F. Lawlor also communicated with His Excellency on the matter. We add our congratulations to Messrs. Hickey and Daly on this official recognition of their heroic conduct.

Scandal-Monger Assaulted.

WOMEN ENGAGE IN FISTICUFFS. Scandal will out and when it does the consequences are usually disastrous for the person who spreads it as was proved by a Police Court case heard before Judge Morris to-day. A woman sued a neighbour for assault, and it appeared that plaintiff had told tales about accused and the latter immediately took her to task. A terrific battle ensued and ended with the plaintiff being knocked out with a torpedo under the nose bow. (Our reporter's definition of a smack in the face.—Editor.) A fine of $1 was imposed on the accused.

Talented Composer.

Very few people are aware of the fact that there is a talented composer in our midst in the person of Mrs. Charles R. Ayre, who has written the words and music of several excellent songs. One of these will be sung at a local picture house to-night. Several of Mrs. Ayre's songs were sung by the Canadian Military Choir in London during the war, some being at command performances before Queen Mary. Mrs. Ayre possesses a congratulatory letter from Her Majesty.

C. L. B. Parade.

The C.L.B. held their regular Tuesday parade last night. There were a large number of all ranks present. A meeting of the Finance Committee was held and Paymaster Lieut. Lewis was able to announce that a bonus of one per cent. over and above the regular dividend, would be paid those with money in the savings bank. The proficiency examination for officers took place last night.

Curtis for petitioner, is heard. It is ordered that the petitioner be declared insolvent, and that the trustees be confirmed. Petitioner's costs to be paid out of the estate.

Hr. Grace Lady Dies Suddenly.

Word has been received in the city of the sudden passing at Harbor Grace yesterday morning of Mrs. Z. Simmonds, mother of Mr. Ernest Simmonds, a well known business man of that city. The deceased, though over seventy years of age, was in good health up to a short time ago. To her son, Mr. E. Simmonds and daughter, Mrs. Cole, of this city, the Telegram extends sympathy. Mr. Ernest Simmonds is District Deputy of the S.O.E. in Newfoundland, and was to arrive in the city last night for the installation of officers. The unexpected passing of his mother has prevented his coming.

Another Sudden Passing.

MRS. EDWIN ARNOTT. The sudden passing away of Mrs. Edwin Arnott, (nee Miss Daisy Wills) which occurred at her home on Mundy Pond Road, yesterday evening, came as a shock to her host of friends. Yesterday afternoon having completed her household duties, the deceased lady left her home to walk to Cochrane Street. At about 5.30 she became ill and was conveyed home in a cab. A doctor was called but before he arrived death had visited the home. An examination proved that heart failure was the cause. To her husband and family her passing came as a terrible shock as no evidence of the dread disease had been manifested at any time previous and she was in the best of good spirits at lunch time. The deceased lady was a sister of Mr. Walter Wills, of Bowring's and Mr. Edward Wills, Duckworth Street and leaves behind her besides her brothers and husband three little children, the oldest of whom is 10 years of age, to all of whom the Telegram extends sympathy.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

INTERNATIONAL FINANCE.
CANNES, Jan. 11.
 The Supreme Council has approved the formation of an International Finance Corporation, decided upon by the economic committee. It is agreed to appoint immediately a sub-committee composed of two French and two English representatives, and one Italian, Belgian, and Japanese representative to organize the corporation.

A WARM TIME IN DAIL.
DUBLIN, Jan. 10.
 During the afternoon session of Dail, Speaker MacNeill left the chair, which was taken by Liam Reisette, and descended to the body of hall, where he moved a resolution declaring, "Ireland as a sovereign nation, derived its sovereignty in all its aspects from the will of the Irish people. They recognized no suzerainty whatever." He stated that there was much medieval language in the Treaty, which might be misconstrued later, although Lloyd George in a letter had admitted equality of the status." Prof. MacNeill asked for a unanimous vote on his resolution, which commandant Mulcahey seconded. Valera regretted the introduction of the resolution, and thought the declaration inconsistent with the Treaty's actual terms. He moved an amendment, "that Dail Eireann reaffirm in the name of Irish people, the declaration of Independence made on Jan. 21, 1919." This declaration ratified the establishment in Easter Week of a Republic. Pierce Beasley argued that this was not an amendment. Prof. MacNeill said he was sorry the intention to move an amendment had not been communicated to him or he would have avoided any occasion for controversy. Therefore he withdrew his motion, notice of which he had given last Saturday. The Acting Speaker ruled that there was nothing before the House, and vacated the chair, which Prof. MacNeill resumed. President Griffith explained that his policy towards Southern Unionists agreed with a scheme to give them full representation but said scheme would form part of legislation, which had not yet been drafted. When Erskine Childers questioned Griffith whether the Provisional Government would function, under the powers conferred by the Partition Act, this caused an excited scene, several members pointing out that there was nothing before the House. Griffith rose angrily, and said "President Valera has made a general statement, an Irishman's statement, but I will not reply to any Englishman in this Dail." This was greeted with cheers and Childers replied, "my nationality is a matter for myself and my constituents, who have known me from childhood." Griffith retorted with great heat, "I will not reply to any Englishman in this Assembly." Mr. Childers said "I would be delighted to show President Griffiths, in private proof of my nationality, and can only say that if he had banged the table as loudly against Lloyd George as against me, we would be better off."

A FALLING OFF.
LONDON, Jan. 11.
 Annual Board of Trade returns show Britain's imports last year totalled £1,086,000,000, compared with £1,832,000,000 in 1920. Exports totalled £703,000,000 compared with £1,334,000,000.

BOMBING BELFAST.
BELFAST, Jan. 11.
 A bomb exploded last evening in West Belfast, injuring a little girl. Windows in the neighborhood were shattered. An outbreak of shooting followed but was quickly quelled by the police. Two other bombs were exploded in the streets, and six children at play were injured by splinters. A bomb was thrown at a tram car, bearing seventy-five persons this morning, but went wide of its mark, by reason of quick action of the driver, who put on full speed when he heard a revolver shot. The explosion splintered the car. A man and his wife, who went to the door of their house on hearing the commotion were shot dead by a volley of rifle bullets which swept the streets.

BRAND'S TASK.
CANNES, Jan. 11.
 The British Memorandum of the proposed Anglo-French pact, which was telegraphed to London, declares that Great Britain makes the security of France a problem of her own, and she will be ready again to throw in her forces as in 1914, if France should be attacked. Premier Briand will leave Cannes for Paris at three o'clock to-day it was announced, not only to inform the French Cabinet as to the status of negotiations here, but it is understood to meet and answer criticisms of certain groups of the opposition, and to demand that the Chamber of Deputies support or reject him. The principal differences between the Premier and the opposition, it is learned, are with regard to new terms of payment by Germany, adopted by Council's experts, but not yet ratified by the full Council. France, under these terms, would receive less than previous arrangements provided, but a greater proportion in kind.

A CALM ATMOSPHERE.
DUBLIN, Jan. 11.
 The supporters of the Irish Free State, having yesterday weathered the storm in Dail Eireann, which had hovered threateningly since Monday night, it was hoped to-day that a calmer time was in prospect. It was received a deputation from the Irish Labor Congress, the Secretary of which declared there were 130,000 persons out of employment in Ireland, and murmurs of a starving people pressed an earthquake, unless something was done quickly. The workers had done their part in the struggle for national freedom, and also freedom from capitalist bondage, and would not go back to the low standard of living obtaining before 1914, Secretary Johnson declared.

Vagrant Aerial Signals.
London (Associated Press)—Despite the most diligent research, experts are not yet able to say whence the mysterious "vagrant" signals come that every day, and particularly at night, are received on wireless aerials. "From the earliest days of long-distance wireless telegraphy the difficulties in reception due to vagrant or natural electric waves and atmospheric electric discharges passing down the receiving aerial have been the bane of the wireless telegraphist." Professor John Ambrose Fleming of London University told the Royal Society of Arts. He said: "Having regarded to the fact that the positive atmospheric electric potential gradient of the earth increases at the rate of about 100 volts per meter of ascent, roughly speaking, it is not surprising that aerials several hundred feet high may be traversed by quite large currents due to this cause alone which may utterly swamp the feeble signal currents." Professor Fleming is the inventor of the thermionic valve-receiver which revolutionized wireless telegraphy and telephony.

Wants Special Matinee.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—I note in a recent item that the final performance of the "Quaker Girl" will take place on Thursday night. I know the cast and chorus must be mentally and physically jaded after the unusually long consecutive run of the Musical Comedy, and the request which I have now to make, were it for any other purpose than the one I have in view, would almost surely be of impertinence but almost cruelty. To be brief, I would request the prominent principals, chorus and orchestra if they would consider the running of a special Matinee on Saturday next in order that the city orphans may attend. These little motherless and fatherless tots cannot enjoy any entertainments of the class of the "Quaker Girl" unless in the manner I have indicated, and God will surely reward any who bring a ray of sunshine into the lives of His little ones. I appeal to the generous heart of the "Quaker Girl," to the motherly Madame Blum, to the "princely" kindness of Princess Matilda, to the quick sympathies of Phoebe and Jerry and the other performers to render this service to those who are unable to ask it themselves but who will never forget the action if it is decided upon.

Yours truly,
 Jan. 11, 1922. MOTHER.

Slang of the Sailors.
 No compilation of slang terms used during the war would be complete unless it contained references to the every-day language which a blue-jacket employed in addressing his messmates, writes O. B. Stokes in a London paper.
 Jack, like Tommy, has special phrases for all occasions, and the uses of them comes to him like a second nature. If a civilian sat at a sailor's mess table he would be cordially invited to "dig out" on the comestibles, and if during the course of the meal he heard the remarks "tap me on the head" and "slip me in the gutter," and interpreted them literally, Jack would become very indignant. After the row it would probably be explained that he merely asked that the bread and the butter be passed to him. Should a voice like thunder bellow from the end of the table "Stand up, the visitor should not become alarmed. If, however, the salt was within reach, he should pass it on, for a sailor never likes to be kept waiting. Not only at the mess-table, but also on the lower deck, Jack resorts to slang. An A.B. might wish to explain that he had "dipped" his "killick's" anchor—meaning he had fallen in his attempt to pass a leading seaman's examination. Members of special branches of the Service have also their pet names. Thus a wireless operator is a "buzzer" or "sparks," a steward's assistant, "Jack in the dust," a ship's policeman, "the crusher," the paymaster "the pusher."
 But it is after Jack, with brother "maltoes" (the bluejacket's interpellation of the French matelot), has "spilled the main brace" and coars aboard "tinbats" or "three sheets in the wind," that naval slang has its full effect. The sailor never likes anyone to interfere with his "bubbly" (rum), and the "sky pilot" who steers clear of this topic finds Jack generally a good listener.

Woman Sheriff to Hang Murderer.
 A woman's hand, it is expected, will spring the trap when Earl Throst, confessed slayer of pretty Inga Marie, is hanged on March 9. Mrs. Gunder Martindale, Sheriff of Allamakee County, Iowa, is required by law to conduct the execution.
 She said: "I have to spring the trap on Throst and I'll do my duty."
 When Throst was captured after Miss Magnuson had been found slain in her lonely schoolhouse, it was Mrs. Martindale's strategy that prevented the slayer from being aided by a mob of farmers. The woman Sheriff captured the slayer after an exciting pursuit by bloodhounds.

Nothing New Under the Sun.
 London—A consignment of eastern vanity bottles 2,000 years old has just reached London. Some were found with mummies of Egyptian women of fashion; others came from a Roman tomb in Nazareth. They are stibium pots from the toilet-tables of vanished beauty. Stibium is a preparation of finely powdered antimony with which the Egyptian women darkened their eyelids and pencilled their eyebrows. Time has made these vanity bottles very thin and iridescent. They shine with beautiful prismatic tints of rosy gold, green, blue, purple and red. When they are revived, they were full of desert sand. Held against the light, they show that a dark deposit has eaten its way into the glass; it is 20-centuries old eye paint.

Prophecies for 1922.
 Here are the predictions of Europe's most famous prophets for the year 1922, as applied to the United States: Madame de Telesma, who replaced Madame Thebes as the greatest French prophetess, presages a political crisis in England and Germany, a revolution in Spain, bloodshed in Portugal, but says the year will be favorable to France.
 Mademoiselle Le Nourmand, 80-year-old seeress and former friend of President Loubet, predicts for Europe a general business recuperation, but sees grave diplomatic incidents towards the end of 1922, leading to a terrible war in 1925. She says Germany will not pay the indemnity and that France will be menaced with a war in which will come domestic catastrophes.
 The "Hermit of Toulouse" predicts a civil war in Asia that will bring about international intervention, and adds: "In January, American foreign policies are likely to undergo a great change, favoring Europe. In March, I see storms, especially in Mississippi. One of the largest American cities will be struck by a disaster."

 Death removed from amongst us, last evening, at 5:10 p.m., another of our old and respected citizens in the person of Alexander Griffiths. Deceased had been ill for some months past and his death was not unexpected. He was a life long employee of the late good old firm of Alan Goodridge & Sons. He leaves to mourn one daughter at home, one son, Sidney, who is at present at Xavier's College, Louisville, Kentucky, on the technical staff of the Christian Brothers, also one brother, Richard, of the South Side, besides a number of relatives and friends.

engaged in agricultural pursuits and worked in the fields till after his one hundred and thirtieth birthday. At 120, according to authentic records, he married a second time and became the father of a family. At 152 he was introduced to the court of Charles I. by the Earl of Arundel as a remarkable prodigy, but the change of air and new mode of living caused his death. A post mortem examination of his body was made, but no internal symptoms of decay could be discovered. A grandson of Thomas Parr died in Shropshire at the age of 120.

MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

Will your "Good Morning" last all day?

Easy to start from the breakfast table with zest and enthusiasm, but how easy is it to keep on?

Does ambition last, or lag, as the day develops?

The afternoon "slump" is a factor to be counted upon, in business or social life.

Usually, there's a reason.

Nerves whipped by tea or coffee won't keep on running, and they won't stand constant whipping.

Many a man or woman who has wished the afternoon would be as bright as the morning has simply been wishing that the nerves wouldn't have to pay the natural penalty for being whipped with the caffeine drug.

Postum gives a breakfast cup of comfort and cheer, without any penalties afterward. There's no "letting down" from Postum—no midday drowsiness to make up for midnight wakefulness; no headaches; no nervous indigestion; no increase of blood pressure.

Think it over. There's full satisfaction in Postum—a cup of comfort for anybody (the children included), any time.

You can get Postum from your grocer or your waiter today, and probably you'll begin to have better tomorrows, as so many thousands have had, who have made the change from coffee to Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

War Prevented by Cheese.

STORIES TOLD BY AN EX-GERMAN AMBASSADOR TO LONDON.

King Edward, some few years before his death, referred to his nephew, the Kaiser, as the "most brilliant failure in history."

The Kaiser was equally uncomplimentary concerning King Edward on many occasions. Once, at Cowes, when dining on his yacht the Hohenzollern with English people present, he called his uncle "a vain old peacock."

Swiss Minister Was Worried. The only wonder is that it did not come before. More than once, according to Eckardstein, we were on the verge of it, particularly during the Boer War.

In fact at one time an ultimatum was actually dispatched from Berlin to London, although fortunately it was never delivered. Directly he heard of it Baron Eckardstein started out for the Foreign Office to interview Lord Salisbury.

On the way he was stopped by the Swiss Minister in London, who was in a great state of agitation over some boxes of Swiss cheese, which had been seized by us because they were supposed to be for the Boers.

"Oh, bother your cheeses!" was the Baron's outspoken comment; but, as he was going to see Lord Salisbury, he promised to mention the matter to him.

On arriving at the Foreign Office (he says) I found Lord Salisbury very stiff and distant in manner, quite unlike his usual amiable self.

A Notable Snowfall.

The snowstorm experienced on Saturday, Jan. 11, 1913 in England and Scotland was said in both countries to be the heaviest known for 40 years.

In the central Highlands snow fell continuously for 24 hours and lay at an average depth of 18in., but in other parts of Scotland and England reports came in of a still greater depth, while the blizzard which raged caused drifts which shut many places out from the world.

Herds of deer, hunger-driven from the heights, took food from people's hands along the railway; while out of one snowdrift the carcasses of two were dug. A young shepherd named Christopher McTaggart, went to gather the sheep from Chugue High Hill, Ayrshire, during the snowstorm, and as he did not return a search party went out and found him unconscious in the snow; he died in a few minutes, and the body was left in a hut.

Twenty men returned with a stretcher and eventually brought him to his parents' house. On the canal side of Bishopscrag, the body of a labourer was found in the snow, and another victim was found near Corstorphine, a farmer who was walking to Edinburgh. A Mrs. Armstrong, who after visiting some friends at Dundee, was walking home to Lundie, was found in the snow next day. The bodies of other people were also discovered in snow drifts, the death-roll of the storm being increased to 17.

A party of four from Inverary Castle were motoring to Dalmeilly when the car got embedded in the snow at Cladich and they were forced to pass the night on the floor of a neighbouring schoolhouse. Cars, vans, and traps were abandoned in all directions. The mail-car driver to Carrsock, after hours of hard work in clearing away drift after drift, was brought to a stand still by a seven-foot wreath at Chippenkyle, and had to remain there until the afternoon of the next day, when he was rescued by a snow-plough. The first month of 1913 will be long remembered in the North.

Originator of the British Museum. Sir Hans Sloane, who died on Jan. 11, 1753, may be called the originator of the British Museum for it was his collection of curios, medals and books that formed the nucleus of the museum.

When the Kaiser Was Furious. Eckardstein then broached the real object of his mission, which concerned the seizure of certain German mail steamers by our warships on suspicion of carrying contraband to the Boers, and had little difficulty in getting Lord Salisbury to agree to their release.

Of course, the attitude of the Kaiser regarding the Boer War was perfectly well-known to King Edward and his Ministers, and in a lesser degree to the English people, who naturally resented it. Yet the German Emperor actually insisted on paying a visit to this country in the autumn of 1902, a few months only after the close of the war.

Japan's New Premier.

The murder of the late Premier of Japan, Takashi Hara, was not the outcome of a political conspiracy. It was somewhat in the nature of an accident. An insane schoolboy, chancing to be near the Premier at a railway station, was suddenly seized with a homicidal mania, and rushing upon the Premier stabbed him to death.

The new Premier belongs to one of the noble families of Japan and possesses great personal influence with the people—an important consideration for the government of Japan depends largely for its existence upon the elective branch of the Imperial parliament.

He is a man of a little past middle life. He was educated for an official career, and he brings to his high office a number of years' experience in the work of administering national affairs. For a number of years he presided over the Department of Finance, and his work there has been sound. The funds necessary for the carrying on of the imperial government have always been provided. Taxation has been high, but the country has borne its burden well, and, as a rule, borne it cheerfully.

Origin of Wild Goose Chase. The etymology of steeplechase is too obvious to need explanation. Founders of the sport merely fixed upon a distant steeple and rode straight to it, crossing gallantly hedges, ditch, paling, turf or timber, pasture, crops, moorland or ridge and furrow, whose riding straightest came in first and was winner.

The Nobel prizes, for their are several of them, were established by Alfred Bernhard Nobel, a Swedish chemist who invented dynamite, blasting gelatine and smokeless powders. His father was a former bookseller of Paris, and it was in that city that the gifted son was born on April 16, 1834. He enjoyed fine educational advantages, and at the age of 24 years he began to publish literary works. From that time to this he has been a literary man. His works are numerous—poetry, fiction, literary criticism, essays, history, and current comment. The great merit of his works both as regards matter and style was recognized long ago, and in 1888 he was elected to the French Academy, which admits only those who have distinguished themselves in the highest intellectual pursuits.

Bible City Found. The most valuable discovery yet made by the archaeologists in Palestine was the location of the city of Capernaum. Among its ruins have been found the remains of a synagogue believed to be the very one wherein our Saviour preached. For over nineteen hundred years the very site of such an important Bible city as Capernaum has been in dispute. It was thought that it stood at the northern end of the Sea of Galilee at a place called Tell Hum, where there are extensive ruins. A systematic examination of these, and the discovery of ancient documents, now make it clear that this, indeed, was ancient Capernaum. The ruins of a Jewish synagogue have been brought there in the days of Christ, and is the very building referred to in the Gospels. The position of the stones would indicate that it was destroyed by an earthquake. It is the belief of the excavators that the whole edifice can be reconstructed.

Needle in the Heart. A small steel needle was removed from the heart of a small boy, two years old, at the Elliott Memorial Hospital, Minneapolis. The child is expected to recover. He stumbled and fell while playing and a needle penetrated his left breast. Dr. A. C. Strachauer, chief of the surgical staff at the hospital, first opened the boy's breast, and then the pericardium, where he expected to find the needle, which, however, had entered the heart. At each contraction of that organ the head of the small steel needle came into view. With tiny forceps, Dr. Strachauer extracted it, and within a short time the heart, which had been beating 120 times a minute, returned to normal.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Mr. R. W. Strong paid a short visit to the city last week returning again on Friday.

Mr. C. A. Jerrett of Briggs was in on Friday of last week.

Mr. M. Yeman arrived from St. John's by Saturday night's train, having spent the week there on a holiday.

Mr. Charles Webber arrived from St. John's last week and came on to town.

Mr. G. G. Webber and friends, who have been absent from home for two years and will likely spend winter here with his mother, Mrs. G. G. Webber and friends. We welcome the young Capt. to his home and trust that his holiday will be very enjoyable one.

For the Christmas holidays, the great day schools resumed work on this morning (Monday). We are glad to see the little "let up" from the holidays will be very beneficial to both the scholars, and that they go back to school and take up their tasks again with fresh vigour, may the coming year's examination be a record year for the candidates entering to sit for same.

Mr. Leslie Chase of the Cable Office, St. John's, is in town spending his holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Chase and friends.

Mr. Robert Payne, who was in town to see his sister, Mrs. Samuelson, off on the S.S. Resaland, returned to town again by Saturday train.

Mr. Ben. Parsons of the Cable Staff, St. John's, is in town on a holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons and friends.

Mr. Frances (Navy, R.C.) Teacher at St. John's, spent the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Casey.

We are pleased to see Mr. J. A. Mann able to get out again, after being confined to his home for several days, as the result of a heavy cold.

It had been inclined to think that the "Mummers" were over, but it is not the case, for this time there is quite a number of boys of that special bit of talent. The festive season afforded a grand success in its usual way. If there were any so-called "kiss" or "bees" disguised as confabulations or "kiss" like, arrived on the night of the 7th or 8th.

great care was taken so that few, if any, would be the wiser of it. Therefore we might say "no drunks" were in evidence, and but for the Mummers, it would scarcely appear as Christmas at all; that is from the jovial point of view.

Miss Mollie Pugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pugh, is filling the vacancy left by Miss Fannie Parsons, who has resigned her position as Teacher of the Junior Department of the Methodist Superior School, and Miss Pugh commenced duties this morning. We wish her much success.

"In the midst of life we are in death" is indeed very true, but brought more forcibly to our notice during the last few days; and may we say, it matters not whether it be young or old, for the summons comes and the call must be answered. This time a young life has been removed from our midst; we refer to the sudden passing of Mr. William H. Kitchen, son of Mrs. and the late John Kitchen, who while on his way to undergo an operation at the General Hospital, St. John's, passed away on the train before having reached the city. He had been ill but a few days, and left on Friday morning for treatment, as above. He was very bright when leaving, and, no doubt, had great hopes of coming home again fully recovered, after a short time; yet it was willed otherwise, and the young lad has now entered into the other world. His widowed mother may be comforted somewhat by the thought that he was a good boy, and although his life with all its opportunities has been cut off at such an early age, he has, without a doubt, merited the smile of approval of the Divine Master. He was employed for some time as messenger with the Anglo-American Telegraph Co. here, where he was doing well, and gave every indication of becoming a competent operator should he continue. Although not out of his teens, he showed that he possessed many many qualities, and everyone had a good word for Willie, as he was mostly called. His body was brought on here by Saturday afternoon's train, accompanied by Mr. William Adams, who was with him going over to the city. The funeral took place yesterday (Sunday) and was one of the largest seen here for some time. The Teachers and scholars of St. Paul's Sunday School preceded the hearse and accompanied by a large concourse of young and old, the day being a beautiful one and the sun shone in all its splendour. Service was conducted at St. Paul's Church, the Rector, Rev. W. R. J. Higgitt officiating, and at the graveside when the body had been committed to Mother Earth the burial service came to a close by singing a verse of hymn "Abide With Me," and so, in sure and certain hope we leave the departed lad to await the glad Easter morn. The community extends deepest sympathy to the widowed mother, brother and sister in the irremediable loss they have sustained. May they feel the touch of Him who has promised to be near to those who mourn.—C.O.R.

St. John's, Jan. 9, 1922.

THE OLD BOYS.

I live here where many old boys come, to spend their years declining; no more for them the busy hum of commerce, they're opining. The heat and burden of the day they've borne, it seems, for ages, and now it's up to them to play, like birds released from cages. When they arrive they're all so glad it does me good to view them; but soon I see them looking sad, and fancies come and chew them. This is the life they thought would please, in years of stern endeavor, long days of play and restful ease, and hard work gone forever. This is the life of which they dreamed in years of busy toil, where trolleys clanged and whistles screamed and weary crowds were toiling. And now they wish they might be back amid the wild commotion; they walk along the sandy track, and rubber at the ocean. They gaze upon the views sublime, their faces split with yawning, and spend large portions of their time doggating and doggoning. Soon, soon they tire of luscious ease, of tennis, golf and fishing, of auto rides and quilting bees—for Old Head Work they're wishing. And one by one they go away in motors bravely chugging, to mix again in yonder fray where strong men do their struggle.

It is safe to assert, that given the means to do so, a large percentage of our working people would emigrate this spring to Canada and the States, and many who can afford to do so will not hurriedly take such a step now, as they will await the outcome of pending legislation on this most important matter.

Most people in discussing the subject deem it one of the most momentous proposals ever to be offered for legislative consideration. It is a matter that is pregnant with possibilities for the well-being of the State and its people, and in its discussion I have no doubt the people will expect, nay, will demand, that partisan politics be avoided, and each feature of the proposition be accorded a square deal.

I hold no brief for its originators, but I deem that it can be discerned, even by a casual glance at the prospectus, that they place implicit faith in the success of the venture, to which (even if we have to make sacrifices to do) we should, as a Dominion, contribute. I profess no intimate knowledge of the intricacies and intricacies of finance, and therefore deem myself unqualified to say much on this aspect of the case, but cannot conceive that the guarantee of a million dollars or so can, or should, be an impediment to the successful adoption of this scheme. How many millions of dollars have been borrow-

Workman Sees Possibilities

AN INTELLIGENT DISCUSSION OF A BIG QUESTION.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The outline of the scheme for the development of the Humber River Valley, which appeared in Monday's issue of your popular and universally read journal, affords a matter which will be perused with keenest interest by the people of the whole Dominion of Newfoundland, and will in a special sense appeal to the great laboring element; amongst whom must necessarily be included the fishermen. The repeated references in the Telegram to the possibility of Newfoundland's great codfishery (with its other piscatorial adjuncts) being inadequate to support the Dominion, come as a timely warning to the country, so that as an alternative to prospective financial and economic collapse, the means for the development of other industries must be sought and presented with promptness and vigor. As we all are well aware, Newfoundland, though the oldest of the British Dominions, is yet the newest, in the sense that its great natural potentialities (though more or less recognized) have never been utilized to any great extent, and a virgin country awaits the enterprise that will develop its undoubtedly great wealth.

It would seem to be providential that this Humber Valley Scheme should be promulgated in this unfortunate crisis in the history of old Terra Nova. Depression, the unfortunate result of the Great War, has seized all countries, but its grim effects are being felt here, possibly with more poignancy than any other, for want, in great measure of variety in industry. The "peasantry" of Newfoundland, recognized as its brave and hardy fishers, will always and successfully "troll the finny deep," but the day is coming, if it has not already arrived, when the hook and net will find powerful auxiliaries in the pick and drill of the miner, the axe of the lumberman and the "liquid crystal" of the river and lake.

Sir, I care not who has initiated the present effort to improve industrial conditions here, but I greet him or them and wish the movement the success it deserves. I write as one who must depend on the labour of his arms for sustenance, and cannot but deplore, with thousands of others, the conditions which impose enforced idleness on so many willing workers, at present. The movers in this attempt at developing the rich Humber Valley have assuredly launched this grand idea at the psychological moment, for never has the labor market in such a hopeless condition.

It is safe to assert, that given the means to do so, a large percentage of our working people would emigrate this spring to Canada and the States, and many who can afford to do so will not hurriedly take such a step now, as they will await the outcome of pending legislation on this most important matter.

Mrs. Barnes Declares Change in Her Condition is Truly Remarkable.

"The wonderful change in my health seems almost too good to be true; I owe it all to Tanlac and never intend to be without it after this," said Mrs. H. Barnes, 536 Cambie St., Vancouver, B.C.

"For more than five years I had stomach trouble in a bad form, and I suffered a great deal more than I can tell from indigestion, nausea and headaches. I had a constant ache in my back and this troubled me so much, especially at night, that I got very little sleep. My face was just the color of chalk and I was so weak and worn out I had to lie down most of the time. I had almost given up hope, but Tanlac has made me well and strong and I enjoy life now as I haven't been able to do for years. I will always praise Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

ed during the past 30 years and expended with little or nothing tangible to show? And shall this expenditure, even if necessary, nullify such a promising proposition? It is to be hoped not. To anyone who has read carefully the outlines of the proposition in the Telegram it must be apparent that the sincerity of the promoters is evident in every sentence. They have secured men of the greatest ability as engineers, surveyors and experts in the several departments of the work, and associated with them are the most solid and prominent financiers of the Empire, who would not, nor who could not, lend their aid to any scheme which might, peradventure, become a failure; for to do so would mean loss of credit as well as prestige in the Financial World and entail eventual disaster to them. Faith in the possibilities of this venture should be quickened when we contemplate Grand Falls, Bishop's Falls, Bell Island and the cross country railway, which, according to pessimists, would traverse a howling wilderness, but which, despite its vicissitudes, has been the key to the development of an otherwise inaccessible terrain, and an indispensable utility to the country.

Work for the people is indispensable to the recovery of Newfoundland, and this enterprise will afford it for several years to come while the pulp and other industries which it will originate will afford employment to large numbers for all time; so that the fishery alone will not, as it has in the past, be the only source of revenue. Much can be written as to the beneficial possibilities of this great enterprise for Newfoundland, and its people, and if you accord me the privilege of your columns I will have something more to say on the question later.

With thanks in anticipation of publication.

Yours truly,
 WORKMAN.

Liberal Donation.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—I have just received from one of our volunteer workers at St. Anthony a cheque for one thousand dollars for the Grenfell Association Endowment Fund. The donor says "when you have been on the coast and seen the institutions, and the extent of their help and good influence, you are glad to give something to carry them on." This makes over $10,000 given by volunteer workers at St. Anthony in the last twelve months to that fund. It scarcely looks like a blackmaling enterprise.

Very truly yours,
 W. T. GRENFELL.
 Boston, Mass.

Placentia Notes.

We are glad to welcome to our town Dr. O'Connell, who is henceforth to assume the medical practice of this place. Dr. O'Connell comes here from St. John's, whose people speak highly of his efficiency as a medical man. Already, by his genial and gentlemanly manner, Dr. O'Connell has made a large circle of friends here. We bespeak for him a large and successful practice.

We are informed that Dr. McKendrick, who for over 30 years has acted as physician to the people of Placentia, has now retired. Dr. McKendrick's name is a household word in Placentia. His gentle and courteous manner has made him much beloved by the people of this locality. His generosity towards those who were not blessed with a proper proportion of this world's goods, is well remembered by them with many "A God Bless Him." We hope he spends the remaining years in that peace and contentment which his labours have earned.

The Xmas season was replete with entertainment, as will be seen by the following. On St. Stephen's night the ladies of the Parish opened the Christmas Tree, which had a decidedly successful run of three nights. The different booths were well stocked with a splendid line of Fancy Goods, Toys, etc., and were well patronized. The arrangements and decorations were most tasty. The lines of fancy work displayed were the finest we have ever seen, and reflects most creditably on the handwork of the ladies and children of the Parish. We understand the financial returns were beyond all expectations. The organizers are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

On Thursday night, the 29th inst., under the direction of Mr. T. P. Kemp, the Jersey Side Dramatic Troupe presented to a full house a comedy-drama, "Hearts and Diamonds," which was heartily enjoyed by the large audience, the different actors portraying the characters of the play excellently. Special mention should be made of the stage settings and scenery, which were tasty and most realistic. Rev. Fr. O'Flaherty graced the performance with his patronage. We hope this troupe will give us such another entertainment in the near future.

We wish our readers a Happy and Prosperous New Year.—C.O.R., Placentia, Dec. 31, 1921.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Ready and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 1/2 ounce of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 18 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for 1/2 ounce of Pinex with full directions for use. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

MUTT FALLS FOR JEFF'S CHRISTMAS SPIRIT CHATTER.

Mixtures Which Make You Ill.

It is very unwise to give children milk pudding after meat. When you take milk into the stomach it immediately curdles.

If there is meat or fish with curds, the milk clots upon it, becomes hard curd and prevents the digestion of either the meat or the milk.

Milk should not be taken for at least four hours after meat has been eaten. There are other foods and drinks which, wholesome in themselves, may become almost poisonous when taken together. Bananas have a very high food value—greater indeed than almost any other fruit. But they should never be taken at the same time, for with most people the mixture prevents their digestion. As for drinking spirits of any kind on top of bananas, the result may be really dangerous.

Stout can be taken with oysters, but spirits should not be drunk with these shell fish. Whisky, in particular, renders them most indigestible.

Will You Cripple Your Ford

OR RENEW ITS LEASE OF LIFE!

When the Ford Car leaves the plant at Ford, Canada, it represents standardized production reduced to a science. There is no lost motion anywhere in its construction, and each part is of the material and temper best calculated to fulfill the function it has to perform. The result is not only a car at a phenomenally low price, but a car so sound in all its component parts that it will serve you satisfactorily for many years. Parts here and there will require to be replaced in time, and it rests with you at this stage whether you cripple your Ford or renew its lease of life. The use of spurious parts will accomplish the former. Genuine Ford Parts will assure the latter. Spurious parts allow a greater profit to the seller and will be pained off on you whenever opportunity offers. Take no chances. Demand Genuine Ford Parts and extend the life and usefulness of your car.
