STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER XL

He had come to London first; and from there he wrote to ask if he had permission to visit Lady Allammore at Scaredale. Of course the answer was "Yes," and the end was not difficult to forecast, Kathleen loved him, and promised to marry him. With something like despair in his heart Harry watched the most fortunate lover; but he comforted himself with the idea that Gertrude was worth a thousand Kathleens, and consequently worth so much trouble to win.

Kathleen was very happy. It was agreed that the Prince and Princess Colonna should pass six months of the year at the prince's palace in Naples, and the other six in Kathleen's home, the beautiful old Manor of Deerhurst. The news of Kathleen's engagement caused a great sensation in the countryside; people said that they did not see the marriage of a prince every day.

"If it be not love, what can it be?" sung Gertrude, to herself, on this bright morning in autumn. There seemed to be a certain magic in the words. Just as they died upon her lips Lord Fleiden came in. She rose quickly; of late Miss Gertrude had avoided meeting him alone.

If not love, what was it? She rose and in a half embarrassed manner said—"Mamma is at home, and she wants to see you."

"Nay, Gertrude, but I want to see you," he replied; and there was that in his face which told her that the time had come when she must listen. "I want to see you, and you only," he went on. "Why do you avoid me? You know that I love you with all the strength of my heart. I do not think that since the world began any man has ever loved a woman so well as I love you."

She who was so quick of speech and ready of wit had no answer for him.

"I must remind you of one thing, Gertrude," he said, after a few moments—"the reward you promised to

The New Baby

They say it's hard to be a first baby. So it may have been years ago; but nowadays there is VIROL—which, added to ordinary cows' milk or packed milk, endows it with all the digestible and life-giving elements necessary to baby's health and growth.

Virol contains bone marrow, malt extract, eggs and lemon syrup with the salts of lime and iron. Perfectly balanced, and readily assimilated by the most delicate digestions, Virol is the best and safest food to wear a baby on. Virol builds sturdy limbs, good teeth and a strong constitution.

"What a way in which to ask me, Harry! What can you expect me to say? You have not mentioned the word 'love'."

"Yes, I have," said Harry. "I have been thinking of nothing else since I saw you on that day in the Pitti palace—it is you who will not listen. I have been your faithful friend, your devoted slave, your true lover, all these years; now I ask boldly for my reward. Marry me; and marry me on the same day that your sister becomes Princess Colonna. Will you?"

"You do not deserve that I should say 'Yes,' you are so—so masterful about it, Harry."

"You see, my dearest, I am compelled to be so," he rejoiced. "You would, I believe, let me live in suspense for twenty years longer Gertrude. Does it ever occur to you how completely I have given to you the last three years of my life?"

"You have been very good to me," she faltered.

"Good to you! That is a weak expression. I have worshiped you—simply worshiped you. Ah, my darling, do not be coy with me—do be kind to me! I love you, my Gertrude, with all my heart. You will not send me away?"

"No," she said gently, "you know that I will not."

Then his arms were suddenly clasped round her, and her fair face was hidden upon his breast; so that it was love after all.

The two weddings took place on the same day, amid the rejoicings of the whole county. Kathleen Rhysworth became Princess Colonna. Such perfect content, such complete happiness as these young people enjoyed, is rarely known. Gertrude always liked to remember her mother's farewell. She had held her tightly clasped in her arms.

"I owe the entire happiness of my life to you," she whispered. "Good-by, my golden heart!"

A QUEEN UNCROWNED

— OR —

THE STORY IN THE LONE INN

CHAPTER I

"Lor, captain, behave yourself, can't ye?" said Mrs. Rowlie, jerking herself away, and wiping the offended cheek with her check apron; "please goodness, you've no more manners nor a pig. Hey! who's this?" Lor' bless me! where did this uncommon handsome young gentleman come from?" she exclaimed, suddenly, catching sight of Jacinto, who was still leaning carelessly against the door.

The boy doffed his cap and bowed with a smile to the old lady, who gazed at him with unconcealed admiration.

"From Spain, Dame Quickly. If you ever heard such a place," said the captain. "But never mind his beauty now, while there is more important matters to attend to. Do you know I've had nothing to eat since early noon, and now it's almost night! Come, be spry! I hear something a-singing in there, and if my nasal organ does not deceive me, something good, too. What is it?"

"Stewed rabbit," said the old lady, whisking the dust off a chair with her apron, and bringing it over to Jacinto. "Do sit down, sir, and make yourself comfortable. Yes, Captain Nick, yes; everything will be ready directly. Lor' bless me! how excessive handsome that young gent is, to be sure!" said Mrs. Rowlie, sotto voce, as she hurried into the tinner's room.

"Yes, that's woman-kind, all over," said Captain Tempest, bitterly. "Let them see a handsome face, and old loves and old friendships are alike forgotten. Curse them all! every mother's daughter of them. I say! Old and young, rich and poor, they are all alike. Even this old fool, now, the moment she sees the handsome face of this young Spaniard, she is ready to forget and neglect me—she who has done more for her than he ever will or can do in his life. And these are the things that men love—that men every day stoop to love, and make fools of themselves for. Talk of cherishing vipers—there never was born a woman yet who would not be a viper if she had it in her power!"

It was evidently some inward feeling, in which good little Mrs. Rowlie had no share, that sent Captain Nick Tempest so excitedly from his seat, and caused him to pace with such an angry, ringing tread up and down the little room, his face full of such furies, repressed passion. Mr. Rowlie gazed at him, for a moment, in stolid surprise, and then busied himself in filling a black, stumpy pipe with tobacco; and Jacinto, sitting toying with a little gray kitten, cast furtive glances at him from under his long eyelashes.

"Smoke!" said Mr. Rowlie, sententiously, holding out the black, stumpy pipe to Jacinto.

What Do You Think of a Fluid

That will draw roaches and ants out of every hole, crack, or crevice before killing them and not poison food?

That will kill bugs instantly and not leave an unpleasant odor?

That will knock flies off the wall and not harm paint or paper?

That will keep the bedroom, kitchen, or verandah clear of flies, mosquitoes, etc., for several hours after a few sprays?

That will take fleas off a dog and not harm the dog?

That will destroy chicken lice without any injury to your stock?

That applied in small quantities to the exposed parts of the body will insure you from Mosquito bites?

That as a general disinfectant is stronger than the ordinary carbolic solution.

THAT FLUID IS

SAN-O-SPRAY.

No insect can live where San-O-Spray is used. Yet San-O-Spray is non-poisonous to human beings and can be used with perfect safety in pantry, kitchen, dining room, and cellar, moreover San-O-Spray has an agreeable and delightful odor, removing all fetid or unpleasant odors. In addition San-O-Spray is a disinfectant and germicide. Keeps the home sanitary and free from infectious diseases.

Borden's PURITY BRAND CONDENSED MILK

The favorite on land and sea.

"No, thank you; I never do," said the boy, with a half laugh, as he declined the civility.

Mr. Rowlie said nothing, but immediately clapped it in his own mouth, and was soon puffing away until he could be just faintly observed, looming up dimly through a cloud of smoke.

"Come, captain," called the voice of Mrs. Rowlie, at this juncture; "come, young gentleman—I don't know your name," said Captain Nick. Call him Mr. Jacinto, if you like. I forget his second name, now; but it's a stunner, and would knock you over stiff as a mackerel if you attempted to say it. Draw in, my young hearty. One word as good as ten—cut away. Amen. There's a grace! Now fall to."

And, following precept by example, Captain Tempest immediately "fell to" with an appetite six hours old, and sharpened by the sea breeze to a terrifying extent. Jacinto partook lightly of Mrs. Rowlie's dainties, and looked on between laughter and dismay, as she heaped up his plate for him.

"I say, old woman," said Captain Nick, when business in the supper department began to slacken a little, "when did you see that old witch of Hades—Grizzle Howlet?"

"Let me see," said Mrs. Rowlie, leaning meditatively on her broom. "She hasn't been here, I don't believe, since the night you left. No, she ain't—not since then."

"Humph!" said the captain, thoughtfully as he resumed his knife and fork, but in a far different manner than before.

At this moment a sudden bustle in the bar arrested their attention; a sharp, harsh voice was heard addressing some question to Mr. Rowlie—evidently the voice of a woman. Mrs. Rowlie looked at the captain and uttered an ejaculation, and that worthy mariner dropped his knife and fork, pushed back his chair, and half arose.

"Marry sakes!" exclaimed the little woman. "Did you ever? Why, I do declare! that ain't her own blessed self!"

ADVERTISING.

My bus wasn't doing as well as it should; the work wasn't coming right; under the hood; mechanics would tinker around it and curse; they made the air pinker and made the car worse.

Grown tired of the acres of grief and expense I wrote to the makers in language intense. "There is no device," I said, in my note, "a worse advertising, for you, than my boat."

"An expert we're sending," they wired me that day; "you'll soon find him mending your sumptuous dray." He came with his spanner, his crowbar and drill, his Chesterfield manner, and oodles of skill. And when he had finished, in three hours or two, the knock was diminished, the pistons rang true. And here in my dwelling, and all through the grad, my neighbors I'm telling of service I had. "My grief was titanic," I often have said; "they sent a mechanic, nor charged me a red." No ad can rank higher in value, I mean, than praise from a buyer of service he's seen. Now business is falling for Yapper & Young; for Jimpson is walling of how he was stunk. They sold him a chisel, and said it was fine, and it proved a fizzle, the blade out of line. And Jimpson is roasting this firm in his talks, the letters he's posting are loaded with knocks. And people, on hearing the taunts from his tongue, quite widely are steering from Yapper & Young.

Automatic Teller Takes Deposit

An automatic teller that receives paper money deposits and issues receipts for them is a new device designed to encourage saving among industrial employees. Bills of one, two, five or ten dollar denominations are put into their proper slot. Pushing the handle directly beneath the slot produces a correct receipt for the money, which drops into a regulation safe below.

The machines are placed in industrial plants, where deposits may be made at any time. At the close of each workday the cash deposited by all employees is taken from the machine and re-deposited in a near-by bank. There each employee is given credit for the amount of his deposits when he shows his receipts.

The device is said to bring in many new savings accounts and increase deposits greatly.

Locatelli Reaches Iceland--Body of Matteotti Bears Visible Traces of Wounds--Premier King Says There Will be no Election This Year.

ITALIAN AVIATOR REACHES ICELAND.
HOEFN, Hornafjord, Iceland, Aug. 16.—Lieutenant Locatelli, the Italian aviator, who is making a trans-Atlantic flight, arrived here at noon to-day, from Thorshaven, Faroe Islands.

LOCATELLI AT REYKJAVIK.
REYKJAVIK, Aug. 17. Lieut. Locatelli, Italian aviator, arrived here to-day at eleven o'clock, flying from Hoefn, Hornafjord. He made a safe landing in the outer harbor.

ZANNI'S GASOLINE SUPPLY GIVES OUT.
BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 16. A despatch received here from Matamoros, the Argentine aviator, says he was forced to land at 11.50 a.m. yesterday at Tavoy, Burma, because his gasoline supply became exhausted. Zanni left Rangoon, capital of Burma, at 7.35 o'clock, this morning, for Bangkok.

SIX DROWNED.
MONTREAL, Aug. 17. Three men and three women disappeared and are considered drowned, two men and one woman were saved in a row boat in which they were crossing from the Island of Montreal to Boucherville Island capsized early this morning in the River St. Lawrence in the east end of the city.

WILL CALL AT ST. JOHN.
BOSTON, Aug. 16. The U.S. Army fliers will break their jump from Picton, N.S., to this city, by a stop at St. John, N.B., if they follow the suggestions of Major-General Mason K. Patrick, Chief of the Air Service, as a means of easing the task on the men and the machines. General Patrick to-day directed that another landing be established at St. John.

A NEW OIL WELL.
VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 17. Completion of a new well at Wainwright, Alberta, which will produce more than five hundred barrels of oil a day, was announced by Newton W. Emmons, Supt. of British Petroleum, Ltd., at last night's annual meeting of the Company, held here.

PICTOU PREPARES TO WELCOME FLIERS.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. A message Saturday from the Mayor of Picton, N.S., where the U.S. fliers will touch on their arrival on this side of the Atlantic asked that a schedule be arranged which would permit the town to extend a Canadian welcome to the airmen.

ARCTIC OUT OF RANGE.
OTTAWA, Aug. 17. No communication has been received from the Canadian Government steamer Arctic, by Government Radio Stations, during the past week. It is believed the Arctic is in Pond's Inlet on the North Coast of Baffin Island and temporarily out of range.

THE STOCK MARKET.
NEW YORK, Aug. 17. The division of speculative interest to stock trading reacted against the Bond Market to-day, prices fluctuating within limits and failing to develop a definite trend. News that the Allies and Germans had accepted compromise agreement on the evacuation of the Ruhr imparted a firm tone to French and other European obligations. Trading in these issues, however, was not heavy enough to cause any marked changes in prices. Contrasting price movements featured dealings in the railway group. Philippine Railway fours after declining at the start snapped back two and a half points to a new 1924 top price at 47 1/2. Industrial Bonds were firm. Public offerings will be made next week of nine million dollars Illinois railroad bonds and three million dollars of the States Soldier Bonus issue.

PRICE OF PAPER TO COME DOWN.
MONTREAL, Aug. 17. Lord Beaverbrook, proprietor of the London Daily Express, who is staying here, believes that the Canadian producers of newspaper will soon have to cut the price of their product. Canadian firms are getting too high a price for newspaper at the present and the price is sure to come down, he said. By this time next year it will not be so high as it is to-day.

A COMMUNIST MANIFESTO.
LONDON, Aug. 17. The Communist Party has issued a Manifesto on the subject of the withdrawal of the prosecution of John Ross Campbell, arrested at the instance of the Director of Public Prosecutions, on a charge of publishing an article with the object of seducing members of His Majesty's forces from their allegiance. Referring to the newspaper articles adversely criticizing the circumstances of Campbell's release, the Manifesto says the forces of reaction already are endeavouring to make an offence of the labor movement through the Labor Government, and that attempts are being made to raise an issue on the question of political interference with the judiciary.

EVACUATION AUG. 15, 1925.
BERLIN, Aug. 16. LONDON, Aug. 16. August 15, 1925, is the date finally agreed upon for the evacuation of the Ruhr. The French and Belgians also agree to evacuate all other towns and points outside of the Ruhr which are not in the district they are occupying under the Treaty of Versailles.

FRENCH PREMIER WILL REPORT.
PARIS, Aug. 17. The Cabinet will meet next Tuesday at which time Premier Herriot will outline the definite results of the London International Conference. Parliament will be convoked on the afternoon of August 21st.

GERMAN NATIONALISTS REJECT COMPROMISE.
BERLIN, Aug. 17. The German Nationalist party without waiting for news of the latest developments from the London Conference, last night published a declaration announcing its rejection of the results of the Conference, and asserting that the compromise, which appears to have the consent of the German delegates contradicts most important points of honor the demands drawn up by the German National Reichstag party.

A RECAPITULATION.
LONDON, Aug. 16. The final sitting of the Reparation Conference has been called for 6.30 o'clock to-night. A spirit of optimism prevails this morning and the delegates expressed the opinion that the conference would end successfully to-night. A meeting was held this morning in Premier MacDonald's official residence, at No. 10 Downing Street, where the delegates conferred over the text of the letters which it is proposed to exchange to-night, and which will have the binding effect of agreement for settlement of the Ruhr situation. There will be meeting of the council this afternoon, and to-night and plenary session which is expected to wind up the conference. While the Germans and French failed again yesterday to reach an agreement on the terms of the Ruhr evacuation, statements issued by both delegates indicated hope for a settlement to-day. The Germans said "positive" results might be expected while the French had "hope of a favorable result." The general feeling in conference circles is that the crisis in the negotiations has been passed and that the French and Germans will come to terms making it possible to launch the Dawes reparation plan provided the consent of the German Reichstag and French Parliament is forthcoming. The Berlin despatches show that the German Government is preparing public opinion for the terms of the agreement. Receiving the German editors yesterday, Dr. Jarres, the Minister of the Interior and Acting Chancellor, admitted that "the solid front presented by the Allies at the Conference rendered further resistance by the Germans useless and that the Reich's delegates would merely strive to rescue as much as possible out of the situation."

MATTEOTTI'S BODY FOUND.
ROME, Aug. 16. The body of Giacomo Matteotti, Socialist Deputy, who disappeared June 12, has been found about five miles from Rome, near the spot where his coat was found sometime ago, the newspapers declared to-day.

BODY BORE TRACES OF WOUNDS.
ROME, Aug. 17. A body believed to be that of Giacomo Matteotti, Socialist, who disappeared June 12th, under circumstances which caused an investigation.

DE VALERA THE IRRECONCILABLE.
DUBLIN, Aug. 16. Eamon De Valera, speaking at Ennis yesterday, declared he had no new policy to announce. He declared "We need no new policy, our policy of 1917 and 1921 stands. Kings may be forced upon us, we may be temporarily forced to submit to certain things, but our aim is to never gain." Continuing, the speaker accused the British Government of propagandizing throughout the world with the view of persuading the world that the Irish national demands have been conceded. He said, regarding this phase, "To illustrate the effectiveness of this propaganda I need only cite the speech of John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for the United States Presidency, as briefly summarized in the press a few days ago. Few foreigners have had such an opportunity of understanding Ireland's real aspirations as Mr. Davis, yet he speaks of Ireland as now having taken off her long subjection. That Ireland's friends abroad particularly in America may not be driven and tempted to relax their efforts in Ireland on behalf of real freedom, I want you to send forth this message from here: the so-called treaty, imposed upon them by threats and force, that purports to deny their sovereignty and partitions their country, is not accepted by the Irish people and is not regarded, and never will be regarded, by them as binding either on their honour or conscience."

NO FEDERAL ELECTION THIS YEAR.
MARKHAM, Ont., Aug. 7. There is to be no Federal election this fall. This was Premier King's statement at the close of his address at Markham on Saturday afternoon on the occasion of a picnic tendered by the North York Liberals in his honor. The reason why there was to be no election, he said, was because he thought the Government was doing extremely well, because the people were satisfied with it because the country was on the high road to prosperity.

DO YOU PULL OR DRAG?
We were chatting on the veranda of a neighbor's house, a half dozen of us, one day recently, when the young man of the house, a lad of some 16 summers, drove up in the family car and stopped long enough to tell his mother that he was going to drive over to an adjoining beach with some other young folks.

THE FAITH THAT MOVES MOUNTAINS.
"I'll always remember," she added with a reminiscent smile, "the time I found out that he was going around with a pretty faced, cheap little creature who was visiting in the neighborhood. My first impulse was to tell him that I was ashamed of him and forbid him to have anything to do with her. But I remembered just in time and I said: 'I saw you out with that little Smith girl to-day.' And when he flushed defensively I added carelessly, 'I was sorry for you. I could just believe that you were bored to tears. A little lightweight like that isn't the type to make any very great his with you.' He agreed with such a funny, little ashamed yet grown up air."

JUST FAITH.
The faith that removes mountains. That mother's faith in her boy's sure judgment and good sense. Isn't that the better way of dealing with these problems? Why not pull your boy up to your belt and faith in him instead of dragging him down by your doubts and fears?

ALL HE HAD EVER HEARD.
There was once a poor old half-wit who worked on a farm where I was staying one summer. He did odd jobs around the house, in his blundering way and had to stand a good deal of scolding from his impatient boss. He passed me one day muttering to himself. Over and over he was saying: "I'm no good. I never was any good. I never will be any good." Poor old soul. No one had ever placed any faith in him. No one ever believed in him at all. All he had ever heard all his life was that he was no good, and never would be till he had lost all faith in himself.

Many a man traces his success to someone's faith in him, a faith he just had to live up to and in so doing made good.

My neighbor's boy is a lucky lad and a good one.

You see his mother has such faith in him that he has to be.

The Advocate Justifies the Loan Bill

In our comments on the proposed loan we made a distinction between the policy of the Government and that which was followed by former administrations. In this case there are specific objects on which the money will be expended and from which a definite return may reasonably be anticipated, but we have had such an orgy of extravagance during recent years that it is not surprising that the very mention of a loan is received with scepticism and mistrust.

What cared they for results? What consideration was shown by them for the fishermen and the laboring classes for whose welfare to-day they are so solicitous? Even in their methods of relieving destitution their first care was ever to see to it that the distributors of their bounty were themselves well recompensed for their labours.

On Saturday the mouthpiece of these very administrators pretends to work itself into a fury over the proposals to provide public utilities, which are not fancy schemes, but which have been advocated by clear headed business men for years as sound undertakings. Not only that, they are intended to provide honest labour which will be productive, instead of employment on such extravagant operations as the cutting of pit props for the benefit of the few, or the breaking of stones which netted the country a loss per ton equivalent to the price of an anchor.

This wordy article in the Advocate appears to be a formidable denunciation of the policy of the Government, while as a matter of fact it is the strongest kind of endorsement that the Government could have. We confess to having been deceived at first by the general appearance of the Editorial, but the gratification was all the greater on that account, when we discovered that instead of condemning the Government's proposal it had blessed it altogether. A perusal of the article will clearly indicate how very deceptive appearances can be.

The borrowing of 1,600,000 is justified by the Advocate in the following words: "It is generally conceded that money must be found to pay any deficit or bills that the Colony might owe at the present time."

"There may be sufficient justification," says the Advocate, "to raise money for rolling stocks for the railways; for a new steamer for Cabot Strait; for repairs to the Dock; for repairing the sheds and new machinery for the machine shops, and other matters in connection with the railway."

Here is a summary of the Table with financial data: amounts of the loan which the Advocate considers justifiable. Includes items like To meet deficit, Rolling stock, Cabot St. Steamer, etc.

Again the Advocate states that $800,000 is a ridiculously low estimate to put in the loan bill to rerail 151 miles of the road bed. If this figure is ridiculously low, and we confess to ignorance in the matter, we presume we are justified in at least doubling the allocation in order to bring it up to an amount which the Advocate would consider reasonable.

The stumbling block is the $2,000,000 for road building. There's the rub! May we ask with whom this excellent idea originated? Was it not with the author of the Road Booster, one time Chairman of the Roads Commission, and at present editor of the Advocate? Everyone has a perfect right to change his opinion, but we trust that his retirement from the Roads Commission, of which he was such an active member, has not in any way affected his views on this question.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

August 16th.—The weather still might be unsettled, and like to remain so, if my wife be right, since I do not say her admittance to be a true friend of mine. Little news all this day and in the dull day I can remember this long time. In the morning, to board S.S. Rosalind to see farewells to Scuibh, he going to Halifax for awhile, and a good place for him, being the worst gossip possible and the greatest bore. The ship left to his very capacity, and even the officers give up their rooms for the passengers. Indeed, I am told how at the next Stiva there be 100 found trippers coming from New York. All the talk of the town of the Government's road building scheme, which do everywhere meet with the highest approval, and is the best thing that could be done to improve the country. Indeed, it is like by increasing the tourist traffic, to high double our Customs revenue, and like to prove almost as great an asset as the fishery. The evening being wet, I to stay at home and read two novels. So to bed.

August 17th (Lord's Day)—Lay long, being the first day of my so doing for many evenings, and feel all the better for the rest. This the first wet day for the summer, yet many trippers go out of town, being that the summer is high at an end and but a few holidays left. I to bathe in the sea but the undertow great and makes it mighty unpleasant.

The members of Victory Lodge, No. 277, L.O.B.A., tendered a banquet on Monday evening, August 11th in the Stirling Restaurant in honor of the Most Worshipful Past Grand Mistress Sister Flora Burrows, of Hamilton, Ont., who was on a visit to Newfoundland. At the banquet the toast list given through Sister Burrows, W.M., presented a beautiful whitecoat to our distinguished visitor, Sister Burrows, on behalf of the members. Sister Burrows then replied in a most pleasing manner thanking the members for their kindness. A poem composed in honor of our distinguished guest was then read by one of the sisters. A programme of speeches, songs and recitations was rendered. After which a pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and Auld Lang Syne.

Susu in Port

FISHERY SHOWS SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT. S.S. SHEN, Capt. Jacob Keen, arrived from the Fogo Mail Service yesterday morning at 4.30, having made all ports of call as far as Change Islands. The captain reports a big improvement in the fishery around Fogo during the past week. At Tully Harbor and other places the crews have done very well. On Thursday night last several crews left Joe Batt's Arm and remained out all night. On the following morning they returned with from 10 to 15 quintals each. The indications are that the fishery has improved all over the north. The prevailing easterly winds during the past few days has made a big change for brighter prospects and more encouraging reports are expected from now on. Squid is reported very plentiful. The Susu brought upwards of twenty passengers for this port. She sails again to-morrow at 2 p.m.

THE FIRST PEACE TREATY. LONDON, Aug. 18. Characterizing the agreement reached since the war, and more, "the first peace treaty," inasmuch as the delegates at conference had turned their backs on war and war mentality, Premier MacDonald addressed the delegates to the International London Conference before they left the Foreign Office last night.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE COMES TO SATISFACTORY CONCLUSION. LONDON, Aug. 17. Peace between France and Germany came one step nearer last night when representatives of the Allied Powers and Germany assembled in Premier MacDonald's rooms in the Foreign Office and signed or initialed a protocol, providing means for putting into effect the Dawes Plan, designed to settle the Reparations problem. The Conference, after thirty trying days, was brought to a successful conclusion. Premier MacDonald, as President of the Conference, presided at last night's meeting, which was attended by about 200 delegates and experts, from various powers. The session was conducted in a friendly and unobtrusive manner, and lacked spectacular features as the entire Conference has. It was a business meeting in a business office and more like a Directors' Conference than a diplomatic function. The British Prime Minister and Premier Herriot and Thomsen, Chancellor Marx, Ambassador Kellogg, Baron Noyah, Jagan, and Professor de Dienam, Italy, all made brief addresses, expressing satisfaction over the successful conclusion of the Conference.

Nelson appeared to be cheerful over the decision to go to Frederiksod. Lieut. Smith said he was very glad the question of a landing place had been settled and that he and Nelson would make their start from Reykjavik on the first day the weather conditions are favorable.

Belgium Mine Shafts Sunk in Columns of Ice

In order to mine rich coal beds in Belgium that were practically inaccessible by marsh land lying over them, engineers devised a means of sinking the shafts in columns of ice. Two such shafts already have been sinking the shafts in columns of ice, of more than $1000 a foot. The system consists of freezing portions of marshland in the form of cylindrical columns of ice in which the shafts are sunk. To do this several holes about a yard apart are drilled in a large circle around the proposed shaft. A vertical pipe sealed at one end then is sunk in each of these holes and a freezing solution of salt run through them, forming a ring of ice. The shafts are sunk until it joins zones of adjoining pipes. The refrigerating machines used are based on the evaporation of liquefiable gases, such as ammonia and carbon dioxide. These are compressed and liquefied in coils of a condenser that are kept cool by passing water over their surfaces. The liquefied gases then pass through refrigerating coils over which the freezing liquids circulate. As the gases evaporate they create intense cold, freezing the water around them. Several months were required to freeze the first shaft, and it is thought the shaft at a rate of little more than three feet a day.

Fisherman's Race

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir.—I was asked by a number of young men from the nearby settlements if it were possible to hold an afternoon regatta for fishermen only, as they could not take part in the Annual Regatta owing to the fish striking in late and preparing for their crops they could not give the time for practice they would require, and as the fishing season is drawing to a close, if it could be arranged by the Committee to hold a series of races the first or second week in September, as crews from Outer Cove, Flatrock, Torbay, Logy Bay, Broad Cove and others would take part. Now, you will ask, where is the money coming from to pay for the prizes? I will tell you that the wheels of fortune and a collection on the gates at the lakeside and a sweep, if necessary, would pay the boat clubs and give them a good profit. Give the carmen substantial prizes, say ten dollars an oar; one prize only with three boats in a race and twenty dollars an oar for the Champion Race; in all about six races. As the Fisherman's Race is always looked forward to as the principal item on the program, the biggest attendance ever seen will be present at this race, should it take place. The amount involved is said to be in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Victim of Accident

Mr. Michael Murphy, who met with a nasty accident at the Central Bakes on Sunday week last, and for whose recovery very little hope had been held by the doctors owing to the severe injuries received, passed away at the General Hospital at 12.30 today. The deceased, a baker by trade, was well and favorably known and his demise will be regretted by many. He leaves to mourn, a wife and four children besides one brother and one sister, to whom the sympathy of the community will go out in their hour of bereavement.

Facing a Shortage

It is stated that the Auditors recently called in to examine the accounts at the Customs are endeavoring to trace the proceeds of some auction sales which had taken place from time to time. The amount involved is said to be in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Obituary

JOSHUA BURT. It is with deep regret that we have to announce the passing of Mr. Joshua Burt, which occurred after a very trying and severe illness, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at his residence, 279 Southside. Born at old Perlican fifty-nine years ago, he spent his early days at his native place and in early manhood came to St. John's and joined the Newfoundland Constabulary, of which for a number of years he was a valued member. Resigning his position from that body he accepted a position with R. H. Whiteway, as a dry goods assistant. When that firm went out of business he joined the staff of Jesse Whiteway and showing marked capability for his work, soon found his way ahead and received the appointment as foreman and for thirty years and up to the day of his decease he held that position. Always held by his employer in the highest esteem, he was regarded more as an equal than as an employee, he was absolutely trusted and the trust was never betrayed. As a citizen he took a keen interest in public affairs, and was generally very highly esteemed. Some months ago he began to complain but thought it was only a minor trouble as in his thirty years service at Whiteway's he was never absent from business through illness for ten days altogether. On March 1st last he could not continue work longer and remained home and on March 12th entered the General Hospital, where it was discovered by X-ray examination that the disease had made serious inroads in his system. After a few weeks he was discharged as incurable and during that time he calmly waited the inevitable. As stated above the final summons came yesterday afternoon and his sufferings were terminated, suffering such as few men have been called upon to endure. Mr. Burt was twice married, first to a widow Mrs. Clayton who was formerly a Miss Chafe, sister of Messrs Levi and Herbert Chafe of this city, and then to Miss March of Old Perlican by whom he is survived. Besides his widow he is survived by two sons, Gladstone who is residing in London, England and Ralph at home and by one daughter, Miss Muriel, also at home, all children of the first marriage. Mr. Burt was a member of a respectable and esteemed family of Old Perlican, four brothers of whom survive, James and John of this city, Stephen of Old Perlican and Hayward of Lady Cove, Trinity Bay. The funeral takes place tomorrow from his late residence, to the surviving widow, sons and daughters much sympathy will be extended.

Random Remarks

Borrowing from "Observer" in the "Weekly Star" we quote the following: "Nature has a balance for everything—a cure for every disease, a remedy for every poison. Its aim by the basic law that for every action there is an equivalent reaction. The very existence of a problem means that a solution of the problem exists. Now is it not strikingly strange how backward many of us are in ability to express our beliefs? Subconsciously ninety per cent of us have always believed those remarks, but in one of the deeper beliefs on which we remain happily inarticulate until someone swerves from the beaten path and discovers a fresh revelation, still—well, I am down with the half-brotherly intentions of writing about one of our safety problems for which no remedy has yet been found, and I see your pardon for bungling."

A PROBLEMATICAL PROBLEM.

Probably it is a habit of mine but I cannot refrain from spilling the contents of my mind on this problem, also by asking another question. Can the present past and present failure of the shore fishery be called a problem? I am, of course, just for argument sake assuming from the above that if a problem arises from which there is no solution, it must be open to question if such is a problem at all. If it is a problem where is the solution? The sea holds many mysteries, but in the study of local ocean-life, nothing is more mystifying than the habits of the sea. Is it a problem, I ask? Not, I should think, one that comes within man's powers of solving, though I do not mean to say that scientific investigation could not find reasons for its periodical absence, but no one can accept the problem of scarcity as solved until means has been found to bring it in-shore, that is to say within capturing distance by fishing out and applying certain means. Doubtless, you will agree that this is impossible. In that case then while science might provide us with much knowledge on the habits of the sea if it leaves us still powerless to increase the catch it does nothing more than mark off an isolated example of impotent wisdom.

THEORIES.

One thing is quite evident. Generally speaking the shore fishery along our eastern seaboard is, if I might use the expression, fast becoming obsolete and we have yet to discover how to work upon theory with a view to increasing the catch. The temperature of the water may be wrong, but can we correct it? Goddard may be and is naturally a deep-water fish, but how shall we begin to change that natural inclination and turn it to our advantage? Polluted waters, that is, waters befouled by a tank of nature itself would from close observation seem to be the one overruling reason for the present unprecedented scarcity of fish along the eastern coast, but we are as powerless to change the situation as you are looking out upon the surface of the ocean, to read the many mysteries concealed beneath its surface. Yet for every problem there is a solution. The inspiration is splendid, but on the means of securing the absent cod, is an inspiration with "a worm in the heart of it."

CHANGES.

One cannot overlook the fact that change follows change very rapidly. A very conspicuous feature in connection with every change—whether the change is natural—is the atmosphere of objection which surrounds such change invariably. Yet if we study history but casually we have to accept the fact that many of the great changes against which the human family have kicked have eventually proven themselves to be the very things needed. Thus the development of our highest civilization has time and time again met with much opposition. Every one of us has felt that inward objection in some form or another, but who knows but that "destiny which shapes our ends" may possibly understand that the shore fishery can never again become the support it used to be and may mean to prop us up on our timber and mineral resources until finally the land has become a desert at for the fishery, it makes possible extensive agricultural pursuits and resultant crops hitherto undreamt of. Who knows? "Nature has a balance for everything..." The very existence of a problem means that a solution of the problem exists. OBSERVER.

Daring Thieves at Work

At an early hour this morning two men who are still unknown to the police smashed a large pane of glass in the shop window of Kearney's Clothing Store, on Waldegrave St. and robbed everything they laid hands on which was on display in the window. The thieves made good their escape, but a full description of them has been given the police by a man who saw the outfit at work.

FOOTBALL GAME ARRANGED.

By kind permission of the Newfoundland Football League, St. George's Field has been given over for tomorrow night, when the exhibition game of football will be played between the Cadets and Saints, the proceeds for which will be devoted to the funds of the City team on their trip to Grand Falls. The participating teams tied for third place in the regular league championship fixtures, and this match will decide as to which is the better team. The same promise to be strictly kept because of the fact that two gentlemen, prominent in athletic circles, have generously donated medals for the winners. Twenty-four players will make the trip to Grand Falls within a few days, and as the expenses will be very heavy it is hoped a large attendance will be present and thus help to swell the funds. This line-up will appear in this column tomorrow.

FINAL GAME.

The last game of the Senior Football League, takes place at the St. George's Field tonight, when the C.E.I. and C.L.B. teams will face-off to try conclusions. A series of games for the Tie-Cup will be commenced when the City team returns from Grand Falls.

Well Known in St. John's Twenty Years Ago

There is an old saying that there is no popularity like renewed popularity and this certainly applies to the case in point. Twenty years ago Pearline was so popular as a washing powder that it was practically the only one used in the City and throughout the outports. Then it stopped coming in here on account of changes in the method of distribution. Years passed, and it appeared as if Pearline was as dead as the "dodo" but it has just come back again and is now a bigger seller than ever. Those who know it in the old days are so enthusiastic over Pearline that they are gathering new users for it every day. Without doubt Pearline is the most popular washing powder that ever came here. Every woman should use Pearline. It sells for ten cents at all grocery stores, and has no equal for cleaning, scrubbing, washing, etc.—L.

CENTRAL LEATHER'S BUSINESS BETTER.

How Has Arison That Company Will Show Profit This Quarter—Has More Cash Than It Can Conveniently Use. (Boston News Bureau, Aug. 12th, 1924) NEW YORK—After a month's improved business, resulting from better shoe trade coupled with depleted leather stocks of shoe manufacturers, hope has arisen that Central Leather Co. will show a profit this quarter. In the previous two quarters deficits of $389,813 and $744,787, respectively, were result of high overhead due to operation at 45% capacity, poor business except in January, and inventory depreciation from decline in hide market. There is no fear of the latter this quarter. Hides have been strong, heavy native steers being quoted at 15 1/2 cents, against 13 1/2 at end of June, and frigorific steers at about 14 1/2 cents, against 12 1/2. In spite of noticeable firmness in leather owing to increased demand, strength in hides has brought it below replacement value, which would mean losses today when present hides come through as finished leather. Therefore tanners are not expected to yield to further advances in their raw material, and will probably curtail even more drastically rather than buy higher than they can afford. In the first six months leather was above replacement value and was sold advantageously, as shown by Central Leather's profit of $1,887,244 before fixed and general expenses. Recent reports of early retrenching by the company to take care of its first 65 maturing April 1, 1925, were premature. While arrangements, no doubt, have been discussed in a general way, officials explain that it would be poor policy for the company to increase its cash with a bond issue on which interest would have to be paid, since the present outstanding bonds are not callable and are being held by their owners more and more tenaciously as maturity approaches. They are now selling at 93% against a low of about 87 in November, 1923. Final arrangements must depend on state of the money market next spring. Central Leather already has more cash than it can conveniently use, as a result of keeping output at an annual rate of about $15,000,000 less than it is selling. The management has attempted to lend some of the surplus funds, but banking competition is too keen and money rates too low. Of $191,104 bond interest subtracted from income in the first six months, over $375,000 has accrued to bonds previously repurchased by the company and, in line with policy followed heretofore, has been added to a special depreciation reserve. This item, which stood at $2,635,000 December 31, last, is invested in the company's own bonds.

Simple Pocket Catch

SAFEGUARDS YOUR WATCH.

A catch with two tiny metal fingers secreted at the top of the trousers watch pocket has been devised to guard timepieces from slipping out and dropping to the floor when the trousers are hung upside down. A neatly concealed spring base plate is inserted on the inner side of the watch pocket. Spring fingers run along the top of the pocket and meet at the center, closing over the watch chain. When the watch is in place, it is securely held in an upright position so that the trousers may be shaken and folded without any danger that the watch will fly out and crash to the floor. When the watch is to be removed, pressure on the inner spring separates the fingers far enough to permit the chain to pass through. This can be done quickly, with a simple movement of the fingers.

Legislative Council

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION OF 1921.

To His Excellency Sir Charles Alexander Harris, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and Honourable Order of the Bath, Commander of the Royal Victorian Order, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Island of Newfoundland and its Dependencies.

Your Excellency—The members of the Royal Commission have the honour to return the Commission and to submit with it a statement of their findings and a list of their recommendations.

Its members held very many sessions in St. John's and also a number of sessions at Port Union during which they took very considerable evidence in the form of sworn testimony, answers to interrogatories and police records. They have enquired into and considered the Prohibition Act 1915 and the Amendments thereto; (1) the object, scope and defects thereof; (2) the Administration of the said Acts; and (3) the evils which have arisen since the said Acts became law.

The Commission itself sets out the representations contained in two petitions presented to the House of Assembly in the session of 1920; one petition praying for greater stringency in the enforcement of the said Act; and the other praying for the providing of facilities for obtaining alcoholic liquors as beverages under a system of control.

Your Commissioners observe that both petitions point out the existence of certain abuses which have developed under the Prohibition Act.

- (1) Sale of "Dope"
- (2) Abuse of prescriptions
- (3) Manufacture of "Moonshine"
- (4) Increase in smuggling of liquors.

The enquiry has satisfied Your Commissioners of the existence of evils which call for adequate remedies.

One of the first evils which grew to considerable dimensions under the Prohibition Act was the use of essences commonly called "Dope" for beverage purposes. The evil, which was apparently inappreciable before Prohibition, gradually grew in spite of partial blacklisting of particular essences until last summer, when stern steps were taken to suppress it. Up to that time most of the "drunks" and "disorderlies" arose from the drinking of "dope". This is borne out by the police records of arrests of "drunks" and "drunks and disorderlies". The numbers are as follows:—

1918	95
1919	228
1920	276

In 1917 and 1918, the police records do not show the number of drunks etc. due to "dope". But in 1919 and 1920, the evil has grown to such a proportion that the police began to keep a record of the cases which were leading to a marked increase in drunkenness and disorderliness.

In 1919 there were over 200 more arrests than there were in 1917 and 1918 together. This was due mainly to the drinking of "dope" of the 228 cases in 1919, 160 were due to "dope" and of the 276 cases in 1920, 98 were due to "dope, showing an increase of nearly 25 per cent. of 1919.

The first four months of the present year show a marked decline of drunkenness from this cause. Out of 83 arrests reported by the police 14 were due to "dope" or an average of 3 1-2 monthly in 1919. This may be attributed partly to the steps taken last summer in blacklisting a large number of essences, the activity of the police and other causes. Last September, the police began to keep a record of the information they elicited from persons arrested for drunkenness as to what they had been drinking. This record points to liquor obtained by smuggling and on scripts as manifest causes of drunkenness.

Further the decline in the use of "dope" in St. John's has seen another evil springing up, viz: the use of "moonshine". The police records show that during six months dating from and including Sept. 1920 to the end of February 1921 there were four arrests for "moonshine" in the last two months, March and April—there were nine arrests for the same cause.

Another ugly feature shows itself by the comparison of the figures of 1916 and 1920. In 1916 less than one-third of those arrested were disorderly. In 1920 about half of those arrested were disorderly. This makes clear that the use of "dope" or "moonshine" creates far more disorder than the use of ordinary liquors.

Your Commissioners are satisfied that the use of moonshine is prevalent not only in St. John's but extends over the Island. Out of the 23 places from which evidence was gathered 19 reported the manufacture of moonshine; 48 reported no moonshine. Out of the 66 places giving evidence outside of the South West Coast 38 reported the manufacture of moonshine 27 not any; of the 17 places on the South West Coast furnishing evidence only one reported "moonshine".

The close proximity of St. Pierre and the general preference for ordinary liquor to "moonshine" give the clue to the dissimilarity of the proportions.

Dr. Brehm expressed the opinion "that the fustil oil in moonshine has a definite poisonous effect, is bad for the nerve centres, will sometimes cause blindness and in the case of women and children the effects would be more pronounced and especially in a child. It certainly would have a bad effect on the progeny of those addicted to it."

This evil calls for special remedial measures and a strong determination to enforce them. Your Commissioners are of opinion: 1st, that the possession of a still for the distillation of spirits should be a substantive offence, and that the possession itself should be presumptive evidence it is possessed for that purpose; 2nd, that possession, giving, selling or treating any person with moonshine should be a substantive offence; and that the penalties provided should be double of those provided for the illicit sale of liquor.

Your Commissioners are also of opinion that an educational campaign should be inaugurated to teach people the danger of the use of "moonshine" and "dope," and suggest that this campaign be conducted through the churches, the Sunday schools, public schools, the press and by the distribution of leaflets and pamphlets.

The matter of "prescriptions" has received much attention and there can be no good purpose served in disguising the fact that a large proportion of the liquor obtained by prescriptions is used purely as a beverage and not for medicinal purposes.

While your Commissioners are loath to attempt to suggest "regulations" which would unduly interfere with the exercise of the discretion of a medical practitioner who honestly prescribes "Liquors" for medicinal purposes, they find there is need of a strong check to stop the loose giving out of prescriptions. They consider it should take the form of a refusal for a period of time, to fill the prescriptions of any medical practitioner who gives out prescriptions loosely under the guise of preserving liquor for medicinal purposes.

In many parts of the Island, particularly where medical practitioners are not resident, there are no facilities for obtaining liquor for medicinal purposes, and even where medical men reside in places outside of St. John's, the cost of the prescription, the high cost of the liquor and the frequent loss on transportation through pilfering place the use for this purpose out of the reach of the poorer members of the community.

Your Commissioners consider that some quantity should be obtainable for a household without a prescription from a medical practitioner under as strict a safeguard as can be provided by rules and regulations, not to exceed the rate of:

- A. 24 oz. of Spirits, 24 oz. of Wine, 2 doz. 12 oz. bottles of beer or stout, or
- B. 24 oz. Spirits, 48 oz. of Wine or C. 24 oz. of Spirits, 4 doz. 12 oz. bottles of Beer or Stout every three months, or the same proportion monthly or half yearly, as the Board may deem circumstances warrant.

Your Commissioners are of opinion that the method of distribution in the city and the outports should be left to a Board of Control, under a system of identification of the applicant and the recording of the quantities obtained.

Your Commissioners find, further, that in the present Act there is no provision for the supply of liquor for the medical chest of steamers and vessels.

The question of smuggling has also received attention. From the evidence gathered there is good reason to believe that St. Pierre liquor finds its way into not only the west coast and south coast, but also into St. John's and the Northern Bays. Liquor is smuggled from many other places than St. Pierre.

Your Commissioners are of opinion that in order to successfully grapple with it, the detective force should be augmented. Its present strength is too inadequate for the constant vigilance necessary to cope with liquor smuggling. Special rewards might be offered to police and customs officials to stimulate their vigilance.

Your Commissioners are convinced that the success of the administration of the Prohibition Law depends on the efficiency of the authority controlling the distribution of liquor.

They are of opinion that the present dual control should be abolished. Your Commissioners have considered the question of the ordinary liquor and are of opinion that no liquor should not be sent out which has not been analyzed and the analyst is satisfied as to its purity.

Your Commissioners have also considered the question of manufacturing of beer and stout locally and are of opinion that local manufacturers of beer should be allowed, provided manufacturers are allowed to sell only to the Board of Control hereinafter recommended.

Your Commissioners have considered carefully the matter of providing supplies of liquor for beverage purposes purely, in limited quantities and under strict supervision, but they have not found sufficient grounds to justify in going further than appears in this Report.

RECOMMENDATION.

1. The retention of the Department for the purchase, dispensing and distribution of liquor.

2. The abolition of the office of the Controller.

3. The placing of the sole control of the Department under a Board of three members; a Medical Practitioner, a Clergyman, and a Business Man, who shall retire in rotation, the medical practitioner at the end of the first year; the clergyman at the end of the second year; and the business man at the end of the third year. Retiring members to be eligible for reappointment. Appointments of original members and the filling of vacancies to be made by the Governor-in-Council.

5. The power of the Board to include terms of engagements of officials and servants and all financial arrangements to be in the Board.

6. A general manager to be appointed to take charge of the Department. The power of appointment, suspension, dismissal, and direction of the general manager and other officials and servants to be in the Board.

7. Rules and Regulations (including penalties) after approval by the Governor-in-Council and publication in the Royal Gazette, to have the force of law.

10. Prescriptions to be filled in the City of St. John's only by the Department and the Department to be kept open at such hours on working days, Sundays and holidays as the Board may from time to time appoint.

11. The possession of a still for distillation of spirits to be an offence; and possession itself to be presumptive evidence of possession for distillation.

13. The right to search and the indemnity in regard to search for illicit manufacture, importation and sale of liquors, or of possession, manufacture, sale or gift or treating persons to "moonshine" and of the possession of stills for distillation to be similar to the provisions of the Licensing Act 1908.

14. The Board to be given authority to sell to the heads of households, and under rules and regulations, with penalties, certain quantities of liquors not to exceed the rate of:

- A. 24 oz. of Spirits, 24 oz. of Wine, 2 doz. 12 oz. bottles of Beer or Stout, or
- B. 24 oz. of Spirits, 48 oz. of Wine or C. 24 oz. of Spirits, 4 doz. 12 oz. bottles of Beer or Stout

every three months, or the same proportion monthly or half yearly, as the Board may deem circumstances warrant.

15. The Board to be given authority to supply under rules and regulations, with penalties, vessels, and steamers, going coast-wise or foreign, with liquor for medicinal purposes.

16. The Board to be given authority to supply under rules and regulations with penalties, manufacturers with liquors for manufacturing purposes, provided that where the manufacture is not of medicines, essences, food-stuffs, or aerated waters, it shall be made non-potable before it leaves the Department.

17. The onus of proof for offences under the Act to be on the accused.

18. Imprisonment without the option of a fine to be imposed for fourth and subsequent convictions from the date of new Act.

19. Special rewards to be offered to police officers and customs officers who show marked vigilance in enforcing the Act.

20. Detective force to be increased for the enforcement of the Act.

21. No liquor seized by the police to be sent out until its purity is ascertained by analysis.

22. Manufacturers to be authorized to sell to the Board of Control such beers and stout as the Board may order.

23. Provision to be made for carrying on an educational campaign on the detrimental effects of drinking "dopes" and moonshine."

24. The whole statute law as amended to be consolidated for the purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

Chairman.

Hon. Mr. Miley—Mr. President, I rise to oppose the second reading of this Bill, and in doing it is not my intention to delay on with any lengthy remarks. I wish first of all to state that I have not been waited upon by any individuals, clerical or lay, asking that I take this stand, I am acting entirely upon my own convictions in this matter.

I have no desire at this time to discuss the law now upon our Statute Books, or the one which is now before us, all I ask is that time be given to that all who wish may have an opportunity to give their views either for or against, or in favour of some other legislation, so that with all opinions before us we may be better able to bring into force an act which will, as far as possible, harmonise the many conflicting opinions which we are now up against.

Just one word here with regard to the act now in force, or to be more correct, that act not force. The Prime Minister stated in the Lower House, a day or two ago, if he is rightly reported, that no helpful suggestions had been offered by those opposing the passing of this new act. Well, I'll give a fact well known to all that the Controller's department—which is the department which has the responsibility of carrying out the Act—has been staffed by individuals who are known to be opposed to the very principles of it. In saying this I do not blame or criticise these men because of their opinions, but I do blame successive Governments for allowing them to occupy positions in which they are asked to carry out a law in which they do not believe. One of these very individuals has done more during his tenure of office to bring this country into disrepute in the eyes of the outside world, than all the rest of our civil servants put together a dozen times over. His opposition to the principles of the Act were well known to everybody, and I have very little hesitation in saying that he was appointed to the position in order that the government of that day might "take the lid off" and go ahead with the open and gross violations of the law which they contemplated when they introduced the notorious estimate of over $400,000 for intoxicating liquors. Now, what am I driving at? Just this, clean out the Controller's Department, and put in charge a staff who are as notoriously in favor of the principles for which the Act stands, as the past staffs have been opposed, and see what the result will be. We are told that four ex-Ministers of Justice have stated that the Act could not be enforced. Did it ever occur to them to put its carrying out into the hands of men who were anxious to do it? If it did then they were never very anxious to find out whether the law could be enforced or not for no attempt was ever made along that line. Imagine a business man to-day employing in his office or premises any man who he knew was opposed to the very principles upon which the business was run. I have given this suggestion for what it is worth, it is put forward in answer to those who say that no alternative to the proposed legislation has been offered. I do not wish it to be understood that I am in favor of the present law, as it now stands, but I do think an honest attempt should be made to carry it out, with some amendments that do not conflict with its principles, which will make it a common sense law.

Now my chief reasons for opposing the measure, as set forth in the measure, are these. In the first place, the number of protests, which do not so much oppose the measure, as ask for sufficient time for its consideration. These have come from gentlemen who are in high esteem in this community and we think they should not go unmentioned. I might mention Rev. Mr. Elliot, of St. Thomas, Rev. Canon Hart, of Heart's Content, Rev. Mr. Crank, of Carbonear, Rev. Mr. Cracknell, Rev. Mr. Higgitt, Rector of St. John's Harbour Grace, and others whose names have not yet been given to the public. Then I have no need to mention individually the names of any Methodist Clergymen, for that denomination is entirely in sympathy with prohibition principles. The fact that some of the laity do not agree with their clergy is no reason that the opinions of these people should be considered sane and reasonable, while that of the clergy be absolutely ignored. These gentlemen have the general welfare of the community at heart and are not personally affected by any prohibitive or non-prohibitive legislation, but in the pursuance of their sacred calling they feel convinced that caution should be observed before we rush through a bill of this nature without mature consideration. Some people have been kind enough to call these gentlemen cranks, fanatics and lunatics, yet when they want to be married, when they want to have their children baptised, when they want their sick and suffering to be comforted, they call these same cranks, fanatics and lunatics that they send. No gentlemen, let us listen to these men, in so far as they speak for the community, and let us see if they are not well advised. In the second place, then between now and next session, they will have ample opportunity to consider this legislation, proposing amendments or alterations, suggestions, which can be submitted to us at that time. It may be that after due consideration this very bill will be the best obtainable under all the circumstances, and if so, it is then become law with the consent of those who seem now to be very much alarmed about it.

In the second place I ask for delay because we have not had time to consider what may be involved in future years because of the precedent we establish if we pass this bill now. It is a well known fact that hitherto all provinces, countries or towns that have become "dry" by a vote of the people, that have since become "wet" have so done by a further vote of the people. I am not asking for a plebiscite, but I am suggesting that the matter of a plebiscite should receive careful consideration before we pass this act.

It has been stated that this House will meet in January next, why not delay his matter until then? In the meantime the necessary thought can be given to it, and instead of waiting a week or more, as we usually do, at

As regards moonshining he did not think there was nearly as much as some people thought and was of opinion the number of stills was very few. In his opinion the death knell of the enforcement of Prohibition was sounded when the Cornwall was sent to Bonavista Bay to enforce the law, and the proceedings made political issue of. The fact that four Ministers had said it was unable to be enforced did not in his mind condemn its effectiveness. During the early years of the Bill, it was comparatively effective. He realized that the law had not been perfectly kept, if he said all laws were perfectly kept, what need were there of men to deal with offenders. He added that in 1914 25,000 persons voted in favour of Prohibition and only 4000 against it. Why was it then he asked it could not be carried out.

Mr. Morine replied that it was impossible for the Government to enforce it.

Sir P. T. McGrath stated that the main of the Outports wanted it and the whole machinery of justice had become so demoralized that at the present time it could not be enforced. If those who were responsible for putting the Prohibition Law on the Statute Book were prepared to carry it out, Sir Patrick said he would vote for it again.

Mr. Morine interposed that 250,000 police would be necessary in the carrying out of it.

Sir Patrick did not agree that that was necessary and quoted the United States as an example.

Mr. Morine said it cost the United States millions of dollars to try and enforce the law.

Sir Patrick agreed and said it may cost them millions a few years longer, but the conditions in America were better as a result and he was convinced that the Prohibition Law had done a great deal to add to the comfort and welfare of the people there, and he wished that the law could be the same here. Such a state of demoralization existed in America that this House should defer legislation to enforce the law, he added and the Government, not of to-day, but each in turn had let the bars down until the whole thing was a scandal.

Because of the existing state of affairs Sir Patrick stated he would support the Bill before the House and give it a trial, a year or two would show whether the experiment were satisfactory or not. The Act, he said, had a good many teeth in it and if the machinery provided were effective the result may be beneficial.

He knew of cases during Prohibition of men getting 8 or 10 books of scripts a month. If the nominal charge of $1 were made per script an income of $1000 a month would result. And again of medical men from the Outports selling scripts in town. They, however, were prosecuted and fined.

He was not altogether in agreement with the measure proposed to carry out the measure and intimated as much upon signing the Committee Report, making a reservation that registration or some form of machinery should be proposed to ensure further restrictions upon the issue of spirits.

All his life he had been connected with an institution whose main endeavor was to check the abuse of intoxicating drinks and for over half a century a good deal was accomplished in that direction. While thus engaged, though being fully aware of the evils resulting from excessive indulgence, he had never regarded the deed as an unforgivable sin, and was always of the opinion, though voting to give Prohibition a trial, that moral suasion helped on by Legislative enactment would be more effective than any measure of an arbitrary nature and the feeling was always strong and it is so to-day that when a person who arrives to the age of manhood his last stride to think and act should not be too closely circumscribed. He therefore thought that in this case every man should be allowed reasonable scope to exercise his own judgment as to how far he would make use of the privilege embodied in a Bill—such as the one now before the House. The chief defect he saw in the new Bill was that it had no provision for registration or other machinery to prevent abuse in the way of parties getting excessive quantities of liquor. He believed in a system of individual licenses such as he understood they had in Sweden. Under this a man applied for a certain quantity each week or month and was issued a license accordingly. In his opinion such an arrangement for license in the case of a family should be contemplated by the wife and not issued otherwise. This permit would have to be produced at the Control Store every time a quantity of liquor was sought. By this means one of the greatest opportunities for practicing fraud would be prevented. of detection of the parties who furnished them with liquor. Another horrible aspect of the subject was the use of so-called substitutes. When men had to resort even to the consumption of shoe polish to take the place of spirits. When the Bill goes into Committee he would have some amendments to propose which he hoped would be helpful. He supported the second reading.

Hon. Mr. Murphy said it was very well to talk of Prohibition but who was going to enforce the law? Are good men to be penalized for the actions of the offending. That is just what Prohibition has done and it is up to us to remedy the existing state of affairs. This may not be an easy task but if the new law now being introduced is found unworkable in any respect then by all means we can make room for amendments, as soon as abuses crop up. No state of affairs would be any worse than those now existing.

Hon. Mr. Ellis congratulated Mr. Morine upon his clear explanation of the new Bill which should go far to dispel the wrong impressions that were current regarding it.

As a member of the Joint Committee he had gone into the matter very thoroughly—and he had decided to support the principle of the Bill because he thought it was the one most likely to be enforced.

When this Bill was before the Select Committee of both Houses, a few days ago, he had endorsed its principles, being convinced that the Prohibition Act in force in this country the past 8 years was unworkable and that this condition gave rise to lawlessness throughout the country to such an extent that respect for our laws generally would be feared, soon be held in utter contempt.

He was not altogether in agreement with the measure proposed to carry out the measure and intimated as much upon signing the Committee Report, making a reservation that registration or some form of machinery should be proposed to ensure further restrictions upon the issue of spirits.

All his life he had been connected with an institution whose main endeavor was to check the abuse of intoxicating drinks and for over half a century a good deal was accomplished in that direction. While thus engaged, though being fully aware of the evils resulting from excessive indulgence, he had never regarded the deed as an unforgivable sin, and was always of the opinion, though voting to give Prohibition a trial, that moral suasion helped on by Legislative enactment would be more effective than any measure of an arbitrary nature and the feeling was always strong and it is so to-day that when a person who arrives to the age of manhood his last stride to think and act should not be too closely circumscribed. In his opinion such an arrangement for license in the case of a family should be contemplated by the wife and not issued otherwise. This permit would have to be produced at the Control Store every time a quantity of liquor was sought. By this means one of the greatest opportunities for practicing fraud would be prevented. This would enable the Board to make a fairly close estimate of the requirements in the way of liquor from year to year.

Hon. Mr. Morine craved permission to correct some of the statements made by Mr. Milley. He had stated in his speech that the Premier's Manifesto said that "if a repeal Bill was introduced it would be as the result of the work of a Commission." The manifesto really stated that "a Bill shall be introduced and referred to the Joint Committee of both Houses" which had been done. The only part he thought to which exception might be taken was the statement "and before which representative people shall be able to fully and freely express their views." Sufficient time may not have been given for that but a Commission would be appointed after the passing of the Bill which could get all the information necessary during the next three months before the House meets again.

Now nothing had been said by him in any way criticising the motives of those opposing this Bill, but on the contrary ulterior motives were attributed to the members of the Government and those supporting the Bill, and that is one of the sad things in connection with it, that people are ever prone to criticise and attribute motives to the motives of those who are in this country in his claim as a Prohibitionist, but the Committee were absolutely unanimous that the Prohibition Act had failed; the Bill could not be enforced and they were compelled to introduce a Bill of this kind. Why was it not possible to alter without having ulterior motives?

All the arguments he had heard from those not favouring the Bill had been of a criticising type, they had offered nothing materially constructive and he assured the Hon. Gentlemen that the members of the Government in constructing this Bill were as pure as those of the Rev. gentlemen who had pleaded their cause at the Bar of the House. He was convinced that they were sincere but he was also convinced that they were wrong.

As to Hon. Mr. Milley's statement that the Controller's Department had never been properly staffed he concurred, but surely the Controller was not to be blamed for the existing traffic in dope and smuggling and moonshining. By the passing of this Act an efficient Board of Control will be invested with adequate powers so that there will be no excuse for failure of enforcement.

He also reminded Sir P. T. McGrath that statistics very often lie. The number of arrests for drunkenness in the city was no proof of what was happening in the outports and many reasons were accountable for the falling off of the number of arrests in 1917 for drunkenness other than the actual enforcement of Prohibition, such as the number who enlisted for war service, the feeling against Prohibition as well as it being a general "dope" period.

As far as the use of stills were concerned it was seemingly very general, and in 1919 on the North Side of Bonavista Bay, nearly every house had a still. But when he had made an honest attempt with Magistrate Millem to remedy this state of affairs the action was made use of as a political weapon against him and the Government did not follow matters up to a proper sequence and enforce the law. After the Cornwall incident and the new Government came in and pardoned the offenders, the whole machinery of keeping the law broke down, as the Government had shown itself in sympathy with the people who broke the law.

Mr. Morine said, when he spoke of the Government Act as being unenforceable, he referred to the condition of public and political sentiment. No Government since 1919 had tried in even one instance to enforce it, and he could not believe any Government could be so demoralized as to enforce it. There are other matters, and if this were made as the breaking point and defeated Government after Government, we might have others coming in power which might do much worse in other respects. Take the late Government from 1919 to 1923, their first act was to dismiss the charges against the "Flat Island" was largely transferred to the country to some more remote place and embark on the selling of liquors by wholesale, and put the control in the hands of Meaney, and today they are Temperance advocates. In his opinion you cannot get a Government in this country so composed that it will make an issue of strict enforcement of the Prohibition Act and put it in full practice and when he said it is unenforceable, he comprised within his view everything of that nature. We force nothing to an issue. We pass laws and never enforce them, and that is going on and is bound to go on.

Mr. Morine stated that politically, geographically and educationally, the conditions were such as to make it impossible to carry out the law. The reason that it did not get the support of the country was not because of the fact that people did not believe in it, and it did not get their sympathy on that account. He did not believe that every man who was a "wet" was opposed to good Government, as a matter of fact he was desirous of it. This had been argued, was in evidence in recent drinking and he believed it would have the support of 90 per cent of the people and be enforced with their aid.

Sir P. T. McGrath said again that the death blow to Prohibition was given when the law was made in the case of the case in Bonavista Bay, its descent after that was disastrous. He contended that at the outset the public were disposed to respect and live up to it, and adhered to his opinion that if the people had not wanted it they would not have voted for it.

Mr. Morine said many voted for Prohibition because of religious and patriotic sentiment, and after doing so were sorry.

Sir P. T. McGrath pointed out that smuggling was not a matter of Prohibition times only. He gave an instance of a tremendous smuggling crusade many years ago, organized because of the smuggling of liquor into the stores and basements along the waterfront of St. John's. Neither he contended was "dope" a new thing. He remembered cases, years ago, of prominent men getting drunk on Jamaica ginger, and a regular business was done in Beef, Iron and Wine and later Tanlac. He stated he would vote again for a Prohibition Bill, if there were a prospect of its being enforced, and for conditions would be much better.

The motion being put was carried and the Bill was read a second time, and will be committed on to-morrow. House then adjourned until to-morrow Friday at 4 o'clock.

FRIDAY, AUG. 15.
 House met at 4 p.m. pursuant to adjournment.

The House went into Committee on the Bill respecting Alcoholic Liquors Hon. Mr. Murphy in the chair.

Hon. Mr. Gibbs moved as an amendment to Section 3 that members of the Board of Liquor Control should hold office "during good behaviour" instead of "during pleasure." He pointed out that the powers given the Board were very great, in fact, "no other person in the Government's employ is vested with such powers. It will have the control of the expenditure and collection of hundreds of thousands of dollars free from control except an audit of accounts. It may pledge borrowed money, guarantee loans, but in the most important essentials, that is the personnel of the Board, the officials come under the control of the powers that be. You cannot have efficiency and honesty when the Board and its officials are subjected to political control, at least not in this country. There will be branches opened, officials will be required in those branches, and the party supporter will go to his representative and demand one of the positions. The representative having to depend upon the votes of the applicant and his friends to retain his seat in the Legislature, will bring pressure to bear upon the Board to have his political supporter appointed, not because he is the most capable of the applicants, but because he has sufficient political pull to get the position. In this manner will the work of the Board be rendered nugatory, and instead of efficient administration there will be the very opposite. He contended that if the members constituting the Board were to hold office during pleasure, they would be subject to the control and domination of the powers that be, and would carry out the wishes of the Government in power at the time. In other words, he added, the Board would be made a political football of as the Controller's Department was in the past. He thought that this amendment would not only fail to the Board which should be appointed, but would also be greatly to the country's interest in the carrying out of the Bill.

Mr. Morine replied that the success of the Bill depended upon the way in which the members of the Board carried out their duties. He stated that when the Act was drafted two arguments appeared which were met by a compromise. In the first place if the members were appointed during good behavior, no matter how incompetent they proved the Government would have to sit helplessly by for the added members holding office on good behavior cannot be removed because of old age or inefficiency. On the other hand, he said, if office is held during pleasure, the Government if displeased could discharge members who were not giving satisfaction. If it were a political Board, Mr. Morine considered, it was political business, and the Government should be responsible. To meet this, it was proposed that the chairman hold office during good behavior and the other members during pleasure; so that the two men would not be removed if the Board were not functioning properly but this had been overruled, and it was decided to appoint all three during pleasure. After all the responsible Government of the country should have power and if the Board did not do its work properly, the Government should interfere and appoint others who would.

Sir P. T. McGrath thought that the Bill called for a superman as chairman. If a wrong man were appointed the Bill in his opinion would be wrecked. If he proved a headstrong man he could not be interfered with, and a faro would be made of the whole thing. The holding of office during good behavior, Sir Patrick thought would act as a check. He referred to the fact of the Auditor General as one holding office on good behavior and he considered that it had not in any way interfered with his position. The Hospital Board was also mentioned as being non-partisan. This Board, he said, had jurisdiction over Sudbury Hospital, the Sanatorium and the General and he did not think any member had ever been assailed or interfered with because of political opinion. He thought that if the right men were appointed to the position on the Liquor Control Board, neither would they be interfered with. The great difficulty, however, in his opinion was to get the kind of men to carry the law out as desired.

Mr. Gibbs thought that to contrast the duties of the Hospital Board with those of the Control Board was ridiculous. In the first place he said that the Medical Board had no position as to its disposal, no nominations to offer while the Board of Liquor Control had to appoint every officer, clerk or other employee required for the operation of the Act from one end of Newfoundland to the other, and he thought they should be free from Government Control. If on the other hand, the Government wanted to assume the responsibility as in the case of other departments, he did not see why they should not. Judging from his experience, he added, that a man who catered to the whims of a Government got more out of it than a man who faithfully and honestly performed his duties.

Hon. Mr. Morine differed with Mr. Gibbs in the idea that the faithful official did not reap the reward due him. He considered such men had the respect of all Governments and were practically able to defy the Government. Then as regards the Board being responsible for appointments, purchasing liquors, etc., he considered his the better way, rather than have an already overburdened Governor-in-Council with the usual list of political seelers, appointing officials, purchasing liquors and etc. If a reliable and competent Board is appointed, why should the Government be made to bear the additional responsibility which is bound to occur? It is one of the greatest advantages for a Government to be able to rely on a good and competent Board and it is for this reason that such a Board has been constituted. It would soon be seen that his Board would be regarded as "the rock of Gibraltar" and they could be relied upon to thoroughly enforce the law as it will be composed only of public men with public confidences.

Hon. Mr. Gibbs knew from experience that in many cases officials and heads of Departments have been over- ridden and things done over their heads. Here we have an act which affects the whole country and it is only natural to expect that great pressure will be brought to bear on them by those desirous of obtaining privileges, whereas if they were entirely free from Government control they could deal with such matters without interference of any kind.

Hon. Mr. Shea thought that the faithful performance and operation of the Bill depended entirely upon the calibre of men appointed. Whilst he agreed with Sir Patrick McGrath that it would be a hard task to get three competent men, we must nevertheless place through confidence in them once they are obtained. He would give the Board unqualified powers and put no restrictions on them. He hoped the Government would find them, and they and the people would have to put their trust in them. He thought the Government would have to take the chance of getting the right men, and that the amendment should not go in.

The amendment being put was lost, the section passed in its original form.

Hon. Mr. Gibbs thought that the acceptance of Section 5 would be creating a dangerous precedent. It reads:—"The Board or any member thereof may not be prosecuted for doing or omitting to do and act in the performance of its or his duties prescribed by this Act, unless by consent of the Minister of Justice."

If any ordinary individual not a member of the Board breaks the law he is at once prosecuted but here it is left to the Minister of Justice, who is himself influenced by politics to give consent or withhold it for the taking of legal proceedings. He thought it a dangerous precedent to establish in a bill of this character.

Hon. Mr. Morine wished it to be clearly understood that this was not creating a precedent. The section had been taken verbatim from the Quebec and Alberta Acts and is intended to prevent the Board from being harassed continually by all sorts of petty complaints. He further pointed out that in any criminal proceedings the Minister of Justice can just as well refuse to carry on.

Hon. Sir P. T. McGrath thought an explanation of the Section was unnecessary as it was clearly intended to prevent a needless waste of expense by charges of a visionary character being piled up. It had even been found necessary in England a few years ago to pass a special Act of Parliament to prevent a madman from taking action against the King.

Hon. Mr. Ellis said there were two points on which he was not satisfied; first in that the Prime Minister was quite justified in view of the conditions existing throughout the country in making a declaration in his Manifesto that he would deal with this liquor question and second that his Government were also justified in concluding that the people were desirous of obtaining a quantity of liquor. The report of the Commission appointed in 1920 which was before the Joint Committee and which Hon. Mr. Morine included in his speech yesterday recommended that a limited quantity of liquor for family and social requirements be provided for the country. That Commission was composed of representatives of every shade of opinion on this question and as was pointed out by Mr. Morine yesterday practically 22 of its 24 recommendations are included in the present Bill. With the main principle of the Bill he was in full accord but of course did not subscribe to every detail of it. One which he took exception to is that there is no provision for registration which provision he sincerely believed would be most essential in enabling the people to give expression to their wishes as to the use they would make of the privileges granted by the Act and the prevention of abuses of the measure and he proposed an amendment to cover that point, as follows:—"To put into operation a system of registration of applicants for spirits and the issuing of individual permits therefor to the residents of this country and that no spirits shall be sold or delivered to any person unless he has been so registered and issued a permit and all applications for such permits shall in the case of a married man be countersigned by his wife.

Hon. Mr. Morine said the Government appreciated the support of the previous speaker had given the Bill. His good work for the cause of Temperance was well known and he therefore regretted that the Government could not accept his amendment. It was absolutely unworkable, not sound in principle and would cause a great amount of detail work that would constitute much unnecessary trouble and delay. He had never thought he was a man with sinister designs, but now being unmarried himself he wishes to interfere with all married men in the country and put a premium on celibacy. If this passed, no man who wanted a drink would dare get married as he would have a continual fight with his wife on the contrary she could get all she wants. It was indeed a funny idea to hold that a man who couldn't resist the temptation of a bottle a day and might be suffering from the effects overnight can be trusted to sit down and make a cool calculation for the amount of liquor he would consume in a year and as to the man's wife having a say in the amount he should require, in his opinion, the only result it would bring would be a great amount of domestic discord. We have either to trust to moral suasion or Prohibition and in this country, Prohibition has only proven itself to be a great temptation and a stimulator of public tastes. First we had hope, then moonshining and smuggling and in so far as a restraint is put on people, a premium is put on and men get a taste for them. Perhaps the best restraint on this sort of thing would be to give people the best kind of cheap liquor.

Hon. Sir P. T. McGrath suggested that in spite of the Hon. Gentleman's playful consideration of the matter Hon. Mr. Ellis's suggestion was entitled to more serious consideration. As regards the permit, we had Mr. Morine's admission that in Alberta some form of permit is in vogue. It was therefore not unreasonable nor impossible. He thought some steps should be devised for dealing with distribution by the Board. In Sweden, under the Gottenburg system every man is licensed, and such licence must be presented before he can obtain a bottle. He suggested Hon. Mr. Ellis's amendment might come before the proposed Commission for consideration before the next session.

Hon. Mr. Ellis did not think his suggestion would cause friction in the home. He doubted whether the Hon. Gentleman understood the temperament of the people of this country where such matters would be considered jointly by husband and wife should cause mirth; he himself was perfectly serious about it. He was not bound as to the quantities to be supplied, but he hoped in time to see the bill in much better form than it is to-day.

The House took recess until 7.30 p.m.

Unsolicited Appreciation

On the 8th inst., we mailed a cheque to an out-of-town claimant who had only recently recovered from a six weeks' disability. On the 12th we received this answer, unsolicited and unexpected:

"I must indeed thank you and your Company for the prompt and generous settlement of this claim. It speaks volumes for the stability, integrity and square-dealing of the Company you represent."

For 36 years this Company has shown the same promptness square dealing and stability. All obligations assumed by us are met when due without needless red tape or undue delay.

Playground Association

"Playgrounds are better preventative of delinquency than courts."—Judge Ben H. Lindsey U.S. Juvenile Court.

Is there anyone in St. John's who has not heard about the playgrounds for the children at Bannerman and Victoria Parks? Are you in favor of them? We are going to give everyone in the city who is in favor of continuing these playgrounds next year the privilege of joining the Playground Association of St. John's which is soon to be formed for the purpose of continuing and expanding these playgrounds.

Memberships will be:
Honorary membership... $100 and up
Associate membership... $50 and up
Voting membership... $25 and up
Sustaining membership... $5 and up
Contributing membership... $1 and up
Make your membership fee as large as possible for it is through this means that the playgrounds are going to be supported. A public meeting will soon be held for the purpose of organizing this association. May we count on your presence at this meeting and your support? Invest in Health and Happiness—join the Playground Association.
"The universal impulse in children to play is a divinely ordered thing. If God gives the instinct, man ought to provide the playground."

HERE IS WHAT THE PLAY- GROUNDS DO FOR THE CHILD- REN.

- PLAYGROUND DEVELOPMENT.
1. Health—By providing natural spontaneous outdoor play.
 2. Physical Efficiency—By promoting full development of the vital organs and exercising all the larger muscles through play.
 3. Morality—By strengthening will power through developing character building activities.
 4. Initiative—By giving the child an opportunity to express himself.
 5. Self-Confidence—By giving constant experience in effective action.
 6. Co-Operation—By having them work together in groups under their chosen leader.
 7. Obedience—By showing the necessity of leadership.
 8. Justice—By giving daily experience of both sides of a situation.
 9. Happiness—By providing an outlet for the play instinct in every child.
 10. Citizenship—By developing thorough participation and co-operation, a sense of responsibility to the group.

PLAYGROUNDS DIMINISH.

1. Idleness—By calling to the child in every minute of leisure time.
2. Temptation—By training energies into proper channels and making wholesome activities more attractive than less desirable ones.
3. Exclusiveness—By giving each his part in the game and emphasizing team play.
4. Social Barriers—By mixing all groups.
5. Selfishness—By teaching the child team work.
6. Gang Spirit—By turning that instinct in the right direction.
7. Rowdiness—By substituting real conflicts for bluff.
8. Unfairness—By teaching true sportsmanship.
9. Delinquency—By satisfying the boys normal craving for excitement in a wholesome way.
10. Reformatories, and Court Cases—By filling leisure time with desirable activities.

Harold Lloyd in "Girl Shy" at the Nickel

AN EPIC IN SCREEN COMEDY—A FEAST OF FUN.

Get ready for the big laugh and also the big entertainment, which you will surely get by seeing Harold Lloyd in his latest and greatest seven-act comedy "Girl Shy," at the Nickel tonight.

He was bashful—and dreamed that he was brave and bold.
He was shy of girls—and longed to master them.
He made a study of girls—and feared of them.

Every girl who spoke to him struck him dumb! Every girl who came near him scared him silly. But, though in real life he fell far below his idea of a conquering Romeo in the world of ideals into which he retired when his day's work was over, Harold was an expert with the girls. So expert, that he was writing a book that was to be his gift to the world—the book that told the secret of making love by "One who knows, and knows, and knows."

At last the book was finished and he took the precious manuscript to a publisher in the city. On the train every seat was occupied save one, which was next to a starry-eyed miss. And in the short ride to the city she accomplished what no other girl had ever done—she made him forget his shyness, and he told her of his novel.

Then followed days of his novel, the time when he would be successful and rich and could tell the girl how much he loved her, but all his hopes were crushed when his story was not accepted. So he told her that he was only experimenting with her and she, out of pity, became engaged to another. But, on her wedding day he received word that his story would be published as a humorous book and called "The Diary of a Book." He also discovered something about the bridegroom that sent him on the world ride that makes Paul Revere's book look like a baby parade.

Girls here, there, and everywhere. Short ones, tall ones; blonde and brunet; flappers and vamps—girls of every kind and description. Picked by a beauty expert! No wonder he was girl shy—surrounded by such a crowd of pulchritude and "pertness!"

And the girl is Jobyna Ralston, the cute, seventeen year old little miss who was an instantaneous hit in "Why Worry." Men lose their hearts to her; women envy her. She is young, beautiful, charming, radiant, and wears lovely clothes in the way they should be worn.

Carlton Griffin is the villain without whom no good story could speed along to a happy ending. Mr. Griffin is new to films, but well known to the stage. Miss Marjorie Hutchings, who it will be remembered made such an excellent impression on St. John's music lovers a short while ago, will appear again at the Nickel, commencing tonight. Miss Hutchings possesses a beautiful contralto voice of velvety tone and marked expression.

Yesterday's Garden Parties

Despite the inclemency of the weather yesterday, the Garden Parties at Bay Bulls and Flatrock were largely patronized and proved very successful. Motor buses conveyed the patrons to Flatrock, but after arriving there the people were forced to remain indoors. The G.O.C. Band was in attendance and rendered delightful selections. A number of ladies from the city assisted in the serving of tea. At Bay Bulls the spacious Hall helped to make matters as comfortable as possible. The tea tables were largely patronized; while a dance at night was well attended and proved very enjoyable. The music was furnished by an orchestra from the City.
