HOUSE AND LOT FOR SALE.

House and Lot for sale on Delhi Street, Mitchell's Hill, Guelph, being Lot 23, in Division A, containing one-fifth of an acre.

At the expiration of our tour through the factory, we paid a visit to the offices, and were shown the plans for several additions soon to be made to the present buildings, thus rendering still more extensive what is already one of the representative features of the continent.

At the close of his admirable and truly Christian address, did the gentlemen receive marked manifestations of applause, but he was so greeted throughout his delivery, especially where allusion was made to a prospective union of the two Churches.

The Rev. D. G. McDonnell, B.D., Peterboro, and Mr. Croil, elder, Osnabrock, also addressed the Synod in terms of fraternal regard and brotherly love, each hoping strongly for a union of all the Presbyterians of British North America.

On motion of Rev. Mr. Inglis, a resolution was adopted, That this Synod had heard with great satisfaction the address of the respected brethren of the Pres-

Evening Mercury.

FRIDAY EV'NG, JUNE 11, 1869.

The Joseph Hall Machine Works Oshawa.

We copy from the Toronto Telegraph the following account of these works, the largest of the kind in the Dominion:—

The Pioneer Manufacturing establishment at Oshawa is known throughout the length and breadth of Canada, as the "Joseph Hall Machine Works."

Glen, President. This establishment does not confine itself to any particular article of manufacture, but is engaged largely in the making of all descriptions of general machinery.

The works are, however, better known to the general public as the headquarters from which issue forth every year hundreds of improved agricultural implements.

In this particular branch, the name and fame of the Joseph Hall works is both widely known and justly popular.

These works have a frontage of 400 feet, and cover nearly five acres of ground. The machine shop proper is built upon the centre of the premises, and extends back for a distance of 250 feet—the largest building of its kind in the Dominion.

The ground floor of this extensive structure is divided by partition walls into two separate departments, and used respectively for the following description of work:—1st, preparing iron castings, and the manufacture of all classes of agricultural machinery; the second and largest portion for the manufacture of general machinery, portable and stationary steam engines and boilers, gang circular and mule saws, flouring mill machinery, Leffel's celebrated double turbine water wheel, Norman's patent mill stone dressing machines, Washington, hand, and Gordon power presses, and the Taylor cylinder press, iron planers, drilling machines, and a variety of other works, embracing everything in the line of general machinery and iron castings.

To us the intended uses of the huge planes was anything but plain. Neither could we be drilled into understanding the true explanations vouchsafed us respecting drills and screw-cutters. We did, however, appreciate the knock-down arguments of some mammoth steam hammers, the echo of whose perspiration reverberated through the building.

We could also appreciate the clipping qualities of the shears, whose hungry maw went through with ease bars and iron, and the clang of wooden patterns. Piled up on every hand are hundreds of large and small wooden models representing the various kinds of work turned out by this firm since their commencement. Returning to the second floor, we traverse a tramway, at an elevation of fifteen feet above the yard, and forming a link of communication with another extensive building where the different machines are fitted together, after which operation, they pass below to the ground floor, and receive their last finishing touch at the hands of the painters.

Returning to the east portion of the yard, we find a group of buildings, comprising boiler, blacksmith and moulding shops. Our visit to the last was not a lengthy one. Our exit was not a dignified space; clouds of sulphurous smoke are not the sweetest perfumes. Fine, and brawny-chested artisans are these moulders, human salamanders seen through the steaming cloud that envelopes everything? These bearers of mollen fire brought to the mind thoughts decidedly infernal, added to the sight-seeing part of the business; and as if to intensify the mystery of one's surroundings, the incessant explosions greeted the ear, making one feel decidedly anxious to quit.

Next in order came the dressing house, a three minutes visit to the interior of which is sufficient to start the perspiration from every face. This baking process is administered to all lumber used in the factory, thus rendering impossible any after shrinkage or warpage. Travelling on through the various yards surrounding the different workshops, viewing the enormous quantity of lumber piled up on every hand, and the different storage sheds crammed with finished parts of the Dominion, the visitor begins to appreciate the size and importance of the works. The orders of last year alone, in moving and reaping machines, foot up to twelve hundred in number, a convincing proof of the farmers appreciation of the superior excellence of the machines manufactured at the Joseph Hall works.

The money value of agricultural implements at present building in the shops is over two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and this is but a single item selected from the enormous general machine business carried on.

At the expiration of our tour through the factory, we paid a visit to the offices, and were shown the plans for several additions soon to be made to the present buildings, thus rendering still more extensive what is already one of the representative features of the continent.

The pay sheet foots up 300 men who receive constant employment all the year 'round. This regiment of employees are fortified with undeviating regularity every fortnight. This circulates an amount of ready money in the town of Oshawa which tends to make it one of the most prosperous places of its size in the country. We cannot conclude these remarks altogether too brief as they are, to do justice to the importance of the subject, without commending the spirit, energy, and enterprise that have built up such an enormous trade, supplying a class of work which, prior to the inauguration of this establishment, it was necessary to import from the United States, and we have no doubt we echo the public opinion when we wish a still increasing prosperity to the Joseph Hall Machine Works of Oshawa, under the energetic and successful Presidency of F. W. Glen, Esq.

Canada Presbyterian Church Synod.

After some routine business, a number of ministers and elders, representatives and elders of other churches were introduced, and took their seats as corresponding members. Amongst them were Rev. Messrs. K. McLennan, of Whitby, and D. J. McDonnell, of Peterboro, and Mr. James Coril, elder, a deputation from the Synod of the Presbyterian Church of Canada in connection with the Church of Scotland.

Mr. McLennan addressed the Synod in touching tones and in a heartfelt manner. In substance he spoke as follows:—Moderator—We are charged by the Synod of the Presbyterian Church of Canada in connection with the Church of Scotland, whose annual session, held in this city, has just been brought to a close, to convey to you, and through you to the synodal court of your churches, as I have now the honor to do, the Christian and brotherly greetings of that Synod, and to assure you that it is the desire and prayer of those whom we represent that you may be guided and prospered in your Christian labors. The sympathies of the good and true are in this age yearning for the more cordial recognition of our common Christianity and our manifold points of resemblance. Earnest men are looking back to the early days of the Church's history, and to notable periods in later times, in order to gather fresh lessons of a simple faith—a simple worship—a sincere love; and, regardless of the minor distinctions which makes them as members of separate religious denominations, they have, with persistent purpose, sought out the grounds on which they claim that they are of one spirit and one faith. Differences of nationality, of policy, of worship, of traditional feud, or deep estrangement have given way or are being removed before the rising spirit of a growing oneness of heart and mind in certain portions of the Church of Christ, as are agreed in the main essentials of our common faith. As between Episcopacy in England and America—between Episcopacy and Presbytery in America—between Presbytery and Wesleyanism in Canada, &c., this spirit has found palpable expression—in Scotland between Presbyterians and Presbyterians—with what ultimate result your very existence this day declares this spirit is seen. And now is there any good reason why you and we should not think, feel, speak and act towards each other as brethren? On your part the answer to this question has already been given. In the deputation which recently visited your Synod you have spoken in tones of most gracious and welcome tones; on our part it is to be found in the mission of courtesy with which my friends and myself have been intrusted. Would it not be a shame, a burning shame, if we who have so much in common, who are so much alike that strangers cannot easily distinguish us, should yet be otherwise than conscious, deeply conscious, that we are in a peculiar sense "brethren." While in the motherland you have a Guthrie we have a McLeod, while you have a Cairns we have a Caird, your Duffs and Chalmerses, yea, and your Erskines were they not ours as well as yours? And the glorious Knox, Patriot and Reformer, do we not claim him as common to us and you? Whatever is solid in doctrine, whatever is simple in worship, whatever consists of the liberty of individuals, whatever in life harmonizes a vigorous reason with a trusting faith as embodied in the churches from which more immediately we draw our inspiration, is your heritage and ours alike. If it has been lived and labored apart, and perhaps may still do so for some time to come, we have yet a noble work, in which we may well vie with each other, that of planting in this land vigorous offshoots of the noble parent stem. It may be that you and we have fallen equally into the error of aiming to walk with measured steps in the paths of the churches from which we have sprung, now the sense of manhood is upon us, and we are thinking more of this land as a whole, we are striving to lay a foundation of a Presbyterian Church in Canada and for Canada. The question is being started, might we not prosecute this work most successfully if our energies were combined? Would there not be an economy of force, and means? Would there not be the momentum of a larger body? I am well assured many, perhaps all of you, believe there would; and, at least, of our co-workers entertain this view. We are glad, therefore, to have got on terms of visiting acquaintance; we shall endeavor on our part to keep up the good feeling which we so happily obtain. If our intercourse should become more frequent, our friendship firmer, our exchanges of good offices more numerous, and the differences of position and feeling become very microscopic, I do not see that any patriot or Christian should do otherwise than rejoice in such a result. In the meantime we would foster unity of spirit—but may exist where there never has been external union, where there is little prospect of its taking place—and surely it may, and if it may, it should exist between us. I am glad to know that our late brotherly intercourse has been productive of such kindly feeling. Your deputation was received by us with great satisfaction, and we sincerely hope that it be productive of a happy concert of feeling and purpose. I thank you again most heartily for this cordial and brotherly reception of myself and brethren of this deputation, and assure you that they and I esteem it an honor and a pleasure, and we heartily desire your prosperity in the Christian work in which you are engaged. A grateful expression of feelings of gratitude, anew I tender the respectful feelings of the Synod I represent.

Not only at the close of his admirable and truly Christian address, did the gentlemen receive marked manifestations of applause, but he was so greeted throughout his delivery, especially where allusion was made to a prospective union of the two Churches.

The Rev. D. G. McDonnell, B.D., Peterboro, and Mr. Croil, elder, Osnabrock, also addressed the Synod in terms of fraternal regard and brotherly love, each hoping strongly for a union of all the Presbyterians of British North America.

We regret we have not time or space to-day for the insertion of their speeches, but a synopsis of them will appear to-morrow.

On motion of Rev. Mr. Inglis, a resolution was adopted, That this Synod had heard with great satisfaction the address of the respected brethren of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in connection with the Church of Scotland, and pointed to the evidence of a desire on both sides to draw more closely the bonds of union and co-operation, which it is hoped, may very soon be consummated by the formation of a British American Presbyterian Church in this large and extensive Dominion.

June 10. Synod met at 10 a.m., Moderator in the chair. Business was preceded by praise, reading of scripture and prayer. Amongst other business the Committee on Overtures and Bills presented a report recommending that Mr. Andrew McLean be allowed to fall from his appeal against the Presbytery of Guelph.

—Granted. The Presbytery of Guelph protesting and craving extracts.

Town Council. An adjourned meeting of the Town Council was held on Thursday evening.

Present all the members; the Mayor in chair.

The Clerk read a communication from the County Treasurer respecting a lot in Town which he had sold for taxes. It belongs to Mr. T. J. Leslie, but had been sold in consequence of some mistake about the number.

Mr. Chadwick presented the report of the Finance Committee, which was as follows:

FINANCE COMMITTEE REPORT. The Finance Committee beg leave to report that they have prepared and herewith present the Financial estimate for the current year, based upon the reports of the various committees referred to them. The total estimated expenditure amounts to $39,824.77 and the expected revenue is $17,096.07, leaving a balance to be provided of $22,728.70. The assessed value of the Town for 1869 is a little over $1,532,000. A rate of 1 1/2 cents on the $ is calculated to raise $22,980, which rate they now recommend shall be levied. This rate will leave but a very small margin, and your committee urge upon all committees that the should keep steadily in view the absolute necessity of keeping their expenditure down to the lowest possible figure. They recommend that the Road and Bridge Committee shall consider their reports with a view to making a reduction to the extent of $1,325.—Adopted.

The reports of all the other committees (with the exception of the Road and Bridge Committee), which were referred to Finance Committee, were re-read and adopted.

Mr. McCarry wanted to know if the Road and Bridge Committee were in a position to begin work immediately.

Mr. Mitchell said the Committee wished first to amend their report in accordance with the recommendation of the Finance Committee. He then presented the plans and specifications, which he had received from the Town Engineer for a bridge at the Wellington Foundry. He did not recommend the present abutments of the Eramosa Bridge to be used for the Mosely Bridge. Within a short time timber has gone up 40 per cent, and this, together with filling makes the difference between the estimate ($450) submitted by the Committee, and the estimate now submitted by the Engineer, $1,000.

Mr. Chadwick thought if the abutments were not sufficient a one span bridge might be built, and the saving in consequence of their not having to build a pier would be considerable.

Mr. Robertson said he had examined the abutments carefully, and he was certain that if they were properly repaired they would stand for years.

Mr. Goldie wanted to know if there were none of the timbers of the bridge which had been floated away that could be made available.

With leave given a petition was read from Mr. H. W. Peterson and others, praying for a sidewalk on Albert-st. Referred to Road and Bridge Committee.

A petition presented by Mr. McCarry asked by Mr. G. Thorburn and a number of others praying that the provisions of the law against selling liquor on Saturday nights and Sundays be strictly enforced. Referred.

Moved by Mr. Mitchell, seconded by Mr. Wood, that the plan for a bridge at the Wellington Foundry now before the Council be accepted, and that the Road and Bridge Committee be instructed to advertise for tenders, and proceed with the work at once.

The Mayor said he thought the plans and specifications of all works undertaken by the Council should be filed in the Clerk's Office. Hitherto this had not been done; they had not even the plan of the Mosely Bridge.

Mr. Chadwick moved an amendment to the resolution that the bridge be not built this year.

The Mayor said the amendment was out of order, because a resolution to build the bridge had been passed already, and that resolution would require to be rescinded.

The Council went into committee of the whole on the plans and specifications.—Mr. Howard in the chair.

Mr. Chadwick thought there was no necessity for a bridge at the Wellington Foundry, that people from Eramosa might come down to Allan's bridge. The Eramosa and Neeve-at bridges should be proceeded with at once. He could not consent to the outlay of $600 until he saw where the money was to come from.

The Mayor thought Mr. Chadwick was wrong. It would be too bad to compel the Eramosa people to come to Allan's. It had never before been mooted in the Council that the bridge at the Foundry should not be built. Its construction is an absolute necessity, and he doubted if the Council would ever be so constituted as to curtail or cut off other things to bring their expenditures within the estimates. The Engineer's report on the abutments of the Eramosa Bridge should be obtained so that if they have to be rebuilt they may be begun at once.

Mr. Mitchell said there was no other course but to rebuild them, for the two Engineers had declared their insufficiency. The committee had $900 contingencies which was something to come and go on.

Mr. Goldie spoke in favour of the erection of the bridge at the foundry as an accommodation for workmen at the mill and the foundry, many of whom lived on the other side of the river, also as being of considerable advantage to the general public. If a bridge were not built there by the Council he would have to build one for his own accommodation. The Committee rose, Council resumed and the resolution was put.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Howard, seconded by Mr. Bruce, that the plan and the Engineer's report be laid over for further consideration.

Mr. McCarry said that prompt action in the matter of building the bridges was at present highly necessary, and on these grounds he would vote for the resolution.

The amendment was carried, 9 voting for it, and 8, besides the Mayor, for the motion.

The Mayor said he voted on this question, because he considered it of very great importance, and he wanted to throw the onus of the delay on the Council. This delay was causing great dissatisfaction, and he would renounce any share in it by voting for the resolution. He would also be very particular hereafter about calling special meetings. Before he would do so the requisition would require to show important cause, and be signed by the requisite number of Councilors.

The year and days were ordered to be taken down, and were as follows:—Year—Messrs. Richard and Robert Mitchell, Goldie, McCarry, Robertson, Wood and the Mayor—7. Days—Messrs. Chadwick, Sayers, Day, Hefferman, Holliday, Bruce, Buckland, Howard and Allan—9.

Mr. Howard asked if any progress had been made with the survey recommended by the By-Law Committee. He said that work had been begun on the upper portion of the line, and if action about getting the W. Station removed was delayed until after it should be begun this end the expense would be heavier.

Mr. McCarry said the survey would be made before next meeting, and the Committee would report.

The Council adjourned.

New York, June 11th.—The North German bark St. Bernard, from Bremen, with 380 emigrants, arrived last night. She had 20 cases of small-pox on board, and 4 deaths during the passage.

The Times Washington special says: New York hotel proprietors, railroad men and others here remark that travel from the South to the North has been larger for the last two weeks than at any season since the close of the rebellion. This is looked upon as an evidence that the South has in some measure recuperated from the effects of the war, and that prosperity is again returning to her.

Dominion Parliament.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Ottawa, 10th June.

Hon. Mr. Rose brought down a message from His Excellency, recommending to His Excellency's consideration of the House resolutions as to an extension of $200,000 for opening up the North-west. On motion of Hon. Mr. Rose, the House resolved to go into committee of the Whole to-morrow to consider the said resolutions.

Hon. Mr. Rose moved concurrence in the resolutions reported from Committee of the Whole on the subject of the union of Newfoundland with the Dominion of Canada.

Mr. Blake, in an able and eloquent speech, moved the following amendment, seconded by Hon. Mr. Holton, "That by the British North American Act of 1867, it is in effect provided that each of the Provinces by that Act united, should retain its public lands; that the public lands of Newfoundland proposed to be purchased by Canada at the price of $150,000 a year, or $3,000,000, do not pay the expense of management; that the public lands may be managed more efficiently, economically and satisfactorily by the Province in which they are situated than by Canada; that there is no good reason for a departure from the principles of the British North American Act involved in the proposed purchase; that the House, while prepared in settling the terms on which Newfoundland should be admitted into the Union to give its earnest consideration to any exceptional circumstances in the condition of that Province, is of opinion that these terms should be so arranged that Newfoundland would retain its public lands."

Mr. Stirton, in supporting the amendment, objected to the doctrine that all who endorsed the Quebec resolutions should always abide by them. Under what circumstances were these resolutions adopted? Under the statement that the resolutions must be adopted in their entirety or not at all. But already the Government themselves had violated that compact in London and subsequently, and it was absurd to endeavor to force non. gentlemen to cling to it, merely because it suited the occupants of the Treasury Benches. He would vote for the amendment believing this had purchase to be one which the country would not sustain. At the same time he was not at all desirous to throw any obstacle in the way of Newfoundland coming into the Union. He hoped to see that Union speedily and satisfactorily completed.

The House, after a lengthened debate, then divided on the amendment, which was lost—yeas 48, nays 93.

The remaining resolutions were then passed in reference to the proposed Union, and an address founded thereon was introduced, passed, and ordered to be sent to the Senate.

The House went into committee on the resolution respecting the admission of Prince Edward's Island into the Union, which was agreed to.

It is likely that the Government will push their new Banking Bill through the House this session.

THE ONTARIO BANK.—The Globe says:—"Our commercial readers would, no doubt, read with pleasure the annual report of the Ontario Bank published yesterday in the Globe. After paying its annual dividend of eight per cent. for the year, the statement of affairs shows a Reserve Fund of $250,000, and no less than $60,416 at the credit of Profit and Loss. It would also be observed that a movement has been made towards the removal of the headquarters of the Bank from Oshawa to one of the large commercial centres—we assume Toronto. Application has been made to Parliament for power to submit this change to the vote of the Stockholders—and it is understood that the feeling of that body is very favourable to the movement. We believe that the establishment of the headquarters of the bank in Toronto would be eminent to the advantage of the Institution; for prudent and successful as has been the management at Bowmanville, it cannot be doubted that were the Bank directly identified with the advancing fortunes of our prosperous city its success would be still greater in the future than it could be in the past.

A POINT SETTLED.—The report of the Finance Committee, which was presented to the Town Council on Thursday night and adopted, sets speculation at rest as to whether the Town would issue debentures to raise money for the construction of bridges. It has been determined to meet the expenditure at once by assessment, and for this purpose a rate of one and a half cents on the dollar will be levied. The tax may be heavy, but then it is comforting to know that all debts incurred will be cancelled, and nothing added to the liabilities of the town. Besides, there was just a possibility that if debentures had been issued there would have been for a larger amount than was absolutely required by the rules of strict economy, and works might be undertaken which are not indispensably necessary. There will be closer shaving to make ends meet this year than there has been for a very long time.

THE GALT REVIVAL CASE.—This case occupied the attention of the Synod yesterday, both afternoon and evening sessions. Our own special report of the case will appear to-morrow. No deliverance was given last night.

ANOTHER LANDMARK GONE.—One after another the pioneers of civilization and progress—the men who converted Canada from a cover for wild beasts and a hunting ground for savages to be the abode of industry and a nurse of christianity—are falling off. Their work is finished and they are garnered by Death, like stocks of wheat fully ripe. Our obituary to-day contains a notice of the decease of Mr. Thomas Armstrong who had attained the advanced age of 73 years. He outlived many who underwent toils and privations similar to his in endeavouring to reclaim the wilderness, and he leaves behind him but few whose settlement in the township of which he was so long a resident was co-temporaneous with his own. Mr. Armstrong was a native of Roxburghshire, Scotland, whence he emigrated forty eight years ago. Two years after his arrival he pitched his tent in Eramosa, and there resided, on the farm which he cleared, until about five years since, when he sold out and came to spend the remainder of his days in Guelph. He was a member of session of the Rev. Mr. Barrie's church, from the time of its formation until his removal to town. Peace to his ashes! they are those of a man such as Canada should delight to honour.

INVENTIVE GENIUS.—We have heard of goals being favorable to the development of inventive genius, but those goals were generally far away, in France or Prussia, or some place where criminals amused themselves by making watches, and performing other wonders out of straw which they appropriated from their pallets. But it is not improbable that two of the prisoners now in our County domicile may before long be making application for a patent, and then endeavoring to prove to the farmers that they had not forgotten their interests, even while banished from free society. In short, Merilban and Malligan have, as they think, perfected an idea for the construction of a machine for pulling and loading turnips. They have a rough draft of it made with a pencil on a board, over seen anything like it before. It is designed to be attached to a waggon, and they are certain it will pull and load turnips effectually and expeditiously. Their trouble is that they would like to have it at work in the fall, and as neither of them will get out for four or five months yet, they are in a quandary as to how they can procure a model without some person stealing their idea. They seem quite sanguine that there is nothing between them and success but the goal walls. They explained the intended working of the machine, but we confess obtuseness to the extent of not being able to pronounce upon its merits. However, whether the thing succeed or fail, it is pleasing to note that men in their condition live in hopes of being able to do some good for themselves and others in the world.

ever seen anything like it before. It is designed to be attached to a waggon, and they are certain it will pull and load turnips effectually and expeditiously. Their trouble is that they would like to have it at work in the fall, and as neither of them will get out for four or five months yet, they are in a quandary as to how they can procure a model without some person stealing their idea. They seem quite sanguine that there is nothing between them and success but the goal walls. They explained the intended working of the machine, but we confess obtuseness to the extent of not being able to pronounce upon its merits. However, whether the thing succeed or fail, it is pleasing to note that men in their condition live in hopes of being able to do some good for themselves and others in the world.

County Court and Quarter Sessions. COURT HOUSE, Thursday 10th. BROWN, vs. BRILL.— This action was brought by Mr. J. Brown, formerly of Guelph, and since of New York, on a promissory note made by James T. Brill, endorsed by George Tolton and George Robins, for $1,200, with 7 per cent., dated in March, 1868, and payable one year after date. The defence pleaded, was that the plaintiff was not the legal holder of the note. Verdict for plaintiff for full amount. Guthrie, Watt & Cutten, for plaintiff. Mr. Palmer, for defendant. The Grand Jury came into court and were discharged, having previously handed in the following PRESENTMENT: The Grand Jurors present that they have examined the goal, and find that the prisoners express themselves well satisfied with their treatment. The goal and yard are clean and in good order. Your jurors regret that they have to repeat the so oft recommended subject of supplying hard labor to the prisoners. They also find two insane persons confined in the goal, whom they would strongly recommend should be removed to the Lunatic Asylum if possible. Your Jurors also find the goal in a very insecure state, from the shrinkage of the wood, and would advise that it be repaired at once. F. EVATT, Foreman.

FRASER, vs. COCKBURN.— This action is one brought by Mr. Fraser, the surviving partner of the firm of Fraser & Henderson, against Chas. G. Cockburn, executor of the last will and testament of the late John Cockburn, deceased, for goods sold by the late firm to Mrs. Cockburn, the widow of John Cockburn, in his lifetime. The bill of goods bought comprised among other articles, a set of mink furs, the price of which was $60, and a silk dress. The whole account amounted to about $119. The defendant tendered $25 into court, and said that amount was enough to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. The defendant's contention was that the furs and several other articles bought were not such articles as a merchant should sell to the wife of a farmer in such circumstances as Mr. Cockburn was in. Verdict for $119.73 damages. Peterson for plaintiff; Guthrie for defendant.

CUMMINS vs. HARDY.— This was an action for arrest. The defendants recovered a judgment in Division Court, Halton, afterwards obtained a summons to show cause. Upon it, it was ordered that the plaintiff have to 1st of July to pay or be committed. Plaintiff made default and was arrested, and he now brings action for damages for the arrest. Defendants plead not guilty and justification, to which plaintiff has replied and demurred. Case stands adjourned till next court, to allow demurrer to be argued in the meantime. Messrs. Guthrie & Hall for plaintiff; Mr. Laidlaw for defendants.

FRIDAY 11th. The Court opened at 9:30 a. m. MOORE vs. ADAMS.— Action to recover amount of four promissory notes for $66 each, made by defendant and his son-in-law, George Smith. The defence was that Adams had only signed as surety for Smith on condition that two other persons should also sign as sureties, and that Kilburne to whom Smith gave the notes knew this and took the notes without getting other two sureties, and that Moore, the plaintiff, was only suing as trustee for Kilburne who was the real holder. Verdict for defendant. Mr. McCurry & Mr. Burns for plaintiff; Mr. Guthrie for defendant.

Sentences were then delivered as follows:— Fred Cord, storebreaking 3 months in goal at hard labour; O'Callaghan, aggravated assault, $50 fine or 2 months, and Doyle, cf Arthur, who pleaded guilty to a similar crime was awarded a similar punishment.

This closed the business, and the Court rose. COW KILLED BY SNAKES.—The Waterloo Chronicle has the following: A short time ago a cow belonging to Mr. J. S. Wood, Glenallen, died in the following strange manner. She was in quite good condition, and was turned into pasture as soon as the grass began to grow. After being in the field some length of time she took sick and soon died, notwithstanding all that could be done to prevent it. When dead, in consequence of the strangeness of the disease, Mr. Wood opened her to see if he could ascertain the cause of her death, when strange to relate, three snakes, one two feet long, and two small ones, six inches long, were found in her stomach.

Advices from Gaspé state that the salmon fishery is this year very prosperous. Many more salmon, and of much larger size, have been already taken than in former years up to this date. This improvement is ascribed to the protection afforded under the fishery laws, by which the fine salmon rivers of our coast are now rapidly recovering from previous exhaustion.

The Right Honourable Gathorne Hardy, at a banquet given in Leamington, made a strong speech against the Irish Church Bill. He said dis-establishment was a concession to Fenianism, and a direct injury to the loyalty of men who had hitherto been ultra zealous in devotion to the Crown, for the sake of conciliating traitors. These men were to be injured. It was the tenure of land, and not the Irish Church, which lay at the root of the grievances of Ireland. It was not for him to say what the House of Lords would do with the Bill. He would accept their verdict as a conscientious and constitutional decision, which the country should receive with deference.

Jeannie Sinclair,
OR,
THE LILY OF THE STRATH.

CHAPTER XXXI.
A NIGHT OF PERIL—THE CRUEL FATE OF MOSES LEVI—UNLOOKED-FOR AID—A BANGUINARY BATTLE—HOWEVER BLOOD.

Those of them who heard responded at once to the order, and closing in a body, like men who had been drilled and disciplined, they began an orderly retreat towards a ledge of rock which had closed the mouth of a narrow defile affording access to the rugged heights and the higher land which skirted the gorge. Against this rocky ledge the Captain set his back, sabre in hand, and refused to leap up its side till all his men who were with him had gained the top, and so made good their escape. When the last had gained a footing on the slope he quitted his vantage ground and vaulted up after them. A few of the Indians followed, not so much with a view to assail them in their flight as to make sure they really departed, and did not lurk among the bushes to renew the fight.

The battle was now over. Those of the robbers who had not fled were either dead or mortally wounded, and the anxiety of the victors now was to learn the fate of their friends. The exigencies of the night and the darkness which surrounded them had made it impossible for any one of them to notice how the others had fared; but now that victory was theirs and the struggle ended, they anxiously sought about for each other.

Hardly had the form of the robber Captain vanished in the darkness when William and Robert came together.
"Robert, my friend, you are safe I trust, cried William.
"Safe and sound—and you?" exclaimed Robert.
"Without a scratch, so far as I know, was the answer.
"Sae am I," cried Watty cheerily.
"Thank God," ejaculated Denman. "But what of our other friends? Where is Mr. Bardsley?"

The American was nowhere to be seen.—Josh, who made his appearance at the moment, knew nothing of him. His first care, he said, had been to make for the wagon and liberate Bree, and the dog with a savage howl, had bounded into the midst of the combatants, where he had been heard occasionally to bark. More than this Josh could not tell.

With lighted torches they began to seek about upon the ground for the American.—The sights they came on were sickening and harrowing. Human forms lay there stiff and distorted, dead and dying. Nothing, however could be seen of the American, till they heard the mournful howl of a dog on the other side of a clump of bushes. Guided by the sound they drew near with their torches, and came upon Bree lying beside two dead bodies. One of them was that of poor Jonathan, with his skull cleft in twain, the other was that of a stalwart robber, who held an axe in his hand—the instrument, doubtless, which had deprived the American of life.—Certain marks in the throat of the wretch showed clearly enough how he had come by his death—the marks having been left there by the fangs of Bree.

At their first approach, Bree, who lay crouching by his master's side, emitted a fierce growl, which subsided into a long melancholy whine when he recognized his friends. He turned his eyes mournfully towards them, then fixed them on the distorted face of his dead master. It was a sad sight, and in silence and sorrow they turned away for the present, to discover the condition of Moses Levi.

They found Shagar kneeling beside him, not far from the post to which he had been found, doing his best to staunch the many wounds which the knives had made, and weeping wildly when he found himself unable to stay the purple tide. The poor murdered one was dying fast, but he was conscious, though weak, and growing weaker every moment.

William knelt down by his side and spoke to him words of pity and tenderness. The Jew heard him, raised his drooping eyelids for a moment, then smiled and died.
Shagar threw himself on the dead and bloody body, tore his hair, and invoked bitter curses on his murderers. His mingled grief and rage was something fearful to witness, and the onlookers turned from the sight with a shudder.

The dawn was now breaking. The veil of darkness which had deepened the horrors of that dreadful night was drawn slowly and steadily aside, and the gray morning light stole softly over the ravine, disclosing the results of the tragedy which had been enacted.

Three Indians only had been killed, and a few more were slightly wounded, but nearly a dozen of the brigands lay dead upon the ground.
Eagle Heart and his dusky followers lifted the dead bodies of their friends, and after performing around them their wild, weird dance of death, scooped out three shallow graves side by side and laid them therein.—William and the others did the same and duty to the American and the Jew, and leaving the other bodies to bleach in the desert, they gladly bade farewell to the gloomy spot, and, escorted by the Indians who had rendered them such signal service, proceeded on their journey.

Eagle Heart and his braves accompanied them to the edge of the desert, and when they parted company, a handful of gold dust was considered ample reward by the simple sons of the wilderness. Having parted from their allies, whose skins were red, but whose hearts were true and faithful, the travellers proceeded on their journey, and reached San Francisco in safety.

Here they likewise parted company with Josh and Shagar. Bree had by this time attached himself to William Denman.
To reach Scotland and the Strath was now the chief anxiety of our three friends, and they lost no time in settling matters for the voyage. They found no difficulty in disposing of their gold dust, and of the monster nugget which had brought them into so much difficulty and danger—receiving for the whole over £3,000.

It was a fortnight, however, before the first vessel sailed for Europe, and this delay was a severe trial to their patience. But at length the joyful day came on which the Petrel—the sailing vessel in which they had taken passage—was to sail, and with light and buoyant hearts they found themselves on the blue water, and fairly homeward bound.

Incredible as it may appear that one compound should be adapted to the treatment of such a variety of diseases, it is nevertheless true that Dr. J. Briggs' All-levantor has proved of incalculable benefit in affording prompt relief in thousands of cases of painful and distressing attack. Its grand mission is to subdue pain and bring glad tidings to the suffering. The capacity of the All-levantor for doing good is unequalled, and no family should be without it, as it may be the means of saving life in those sudden visitations of disease that require prompt measures to prevent a fatal termination. It is conceded to be the most valuable medicine of its class on account of its adaptation to a wider range of diseases than any other preparation, and therefore more convenient as an every day remedy. Sold by druggists and country merchants. Dr. J. Briggs & Co., 208 Broadway, N. Y., and No. 6 King Street, West, Toronto. For sale by E. Harvey & Co., Guelph.

DR. McTAGGART.—We learn that Dr. McTaggart, of the Hamilton Infirmary, will again visit Guelph on Friday the 25th of June, and will remain until the evening of Saturday the 26th, at Coulson's Hotel, where he can be consulted by the afflicted. None should lose the opportunity of seeing him. He is highly recommended by the Press and medical men.

Another disastrous colliery explosion took place in England on the 10th inst. Two miners escaped from the pit, and 150 were killed.

DR. BRIGGS'
THROAT AND LUNG HEALER.

One of the safest and most reliable Remedies in existence for the speedy cure of Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Whooping Cough, Croup, Sore Throat, Asthma, Diphtheria, Difficulty of Breathing, Phthisis, Pain in the Side and Breast, Quinsy, Abscess of the Lungs, and all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Chest, including that worst of diseases—Consumption. This remedy is also valuable in Liver Complaint, Inflammation of the Kidneys or Urinary Organs, and all Internal Inflammation. This really superior remedy should be in the possession of every family, as a timely use of it in case of a recent cold will afford immediate relief, while cases of long standing and of apparently incurable character readily yield to its powerful soothing and curative properties. Its universal adaptation to the wants of mankind make it an indispensable necessity in every household. The Palliative virtues of the Wild Evergreen as an agent in the cure of the numerous diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Chest, which always in our ever varying climate prevail in a greater or less degree are well known, but the power of relieving, healing and during these diseases is enhanced when by scientific principles it is combined with other ingredients of equal value as healing agents. Until recently that terrible disease, Consumption, has been considered an affliction beyond the reach of medicine, or the healing art. But a new era in the management of Pulmonary disease seems to be dawning upon the scientific medical world, and since many distinguished physicians have acknowledged that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED, few there are who attempt to controvert their opinion. Price $1.00.

Dr. J. Briggs' Unrivalled Pile Remedy.

Is mild, yet efficacious, and warranted to cure Internal, External, Bleeding and Itching Piles, in the most satisfactory manner, without the least unpleasant sensation. It is well known that thousands upon thousands have been afflicted with this disease, many of whom have sought for relief, but have gone to their long homes without it. The number is innumerable who are dragging out a miserable existence at the present day, searching and trying for a remedy. We would say to those who suffer, go and get a box of Briggs' Pile Remedy, and the trial will not be in vain.—The relief is immediate, and a cure soon effected. Price $1.00.

Dr. J. Briggs' Modern Curative

Is without doubt the purest, mildest and most efficacious remedy ever discovered for the immediate relief and rapid cure of Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Chilblains, Frost-bitten Feet, and all Fish Wounds and Skin Diseases, such as Cuts, Bruises, Scalds and Frost Bites, Bites of Insects, Sore Lips, Sore Nose, Chapped Hands, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum Ringworms, Ulcers, Sore Feet, Feathers, Chafed Flesh, Sore Nipples, Scaled Breasts, Cancerous Scars, White Swellings, Scald Head, Scoury, Gunshot Wounds, &c. The proprietor in offering this compound to the public has the most undoubted confidence in its success, as it is composed of the most healing and painless substance known to mankind. The Curative, from the purity of its ingredients, will remain for years as sweet as when first made.—Lard, suet and other animal fat or oily substance have had their day. It is well known that the Serates Salves and Ointments in the market soon become rancid and unfit for use. The Modern Curative is the best household remedy in the world—simple and pleasant in its application, certain and effectual in its results. Price 50 cts. and $1.

Sold by E. HARVEY & CO., Guelph, and by all respectable druggists and country merchants everywhere. Dr. J. BRIGGS & CO., Proprietors, No. 6 King Street, corner of Yonge, Toronto, and 208 Broadway, N. Y.

CHAPTER XXXI.
A NIGHT OF PERIL—THE CRUEL FATE OF MOSES LEVI—UNLOOKED-FOR AID—A BLOODY BATTLE—ROYAL CANADIAN

Those of them who heard responded at once to the order, and closing in a body, like men who had been drilled and disciplined, they began an orderly retreat towards a ledge of rock which had closed the mouth of a narrow gully affording access to the rugged heights and the higher land which skirted the gorge. Against this rocky ledge the Captain set his back, sabre in hand, and refused to leap up his side till all his men who were with him had gained the top, and so made good their escape. When the last had gained a footing on the slope he quitted his vantage ground and vaulted up after them. A few of the Indians followed, not so much with a view to assail them in their flight as to make sure they really departed, and did not lurk among the bushes to renew the fight.

The battle was now over. Those of the robbers who had not fled were either dead or mortally wounded, and the anxiety of their victors now was to learn the fate of their friends. The exigencies of the fight and the darkness which surrounded them had made it impossible for any one of them to notice how the others had fared; but now that victory was theirs and the struggle ended, they anxiously sought about for each other.

Hardly had the form of the robber Captain vanished in the darkness when William and Robert came together.

"Robert, my friend, you are safe I trust, cried William.

"Safe and sound—and you?" exclaimed Robert.

"Without a scratch, so far as I know, was the answer.

"See am I," cried Watty cheerily.

"Thank God," ejaculated Denman. "But what of our other friends? Where is Mr. Bardle?"

The American was nowhere to be seen.—Josh, who made his appearance as the moment, knew nothing of him. His first care, he said, had been to make for the wagon and liberate Bree, and the dog with a savage howl, had bounded into the midst of the combatants, where he had been heard occasionally to bark. More than this Josh could not tell.

With lighted torches they began to seek about upon the ground for the American.—The sights they came on were sickening and harrowing. Human forms lay there stiff and distorted, dead and dying. Nothing, however could be seen of the American, till they heard the mournful howl of a dog on the other side of a clump of bushes. Guided by the sound they drew near with their torches, and came upon Bree lying beside two dead bodies. One of them was that of poor Jonathan, with his skull cleft in twain, the other was that of a stalwart robber, who held an axe in his hand—the instrument, doubtless, which had deprived the American of life.—Certain marks in the throat of the wretch showed clearly enough how he had come by his death—the marks having been left there by the fangs of Bree.

At their first approach, Bree, who lay crouching by his master's side, emitted a fierce growl, which subsided into a long melancholy whine when he recognized his friends. He turned his eyes mournfully towards them, then fixed them on the distorted face of his dead master. It was a sad sight, and in silence and sorrow they turned away for the present, to discover the condition of Moses Levi.

They found Shagar kneeling beside him, not far from the post to which he had been found, doing his best to staunch the many wounds which the knives had made, and weeping wildly when he found himself unable to stay the purple tide. The poor murdered one was dying fast, but he was conscious, though weak, and growing weaker every moment.

William knelt down by his side and spoke to him words of pity and tenderness. The Jew heard him, raised his drooping eyelids for a moment, then smiled and died.

Shagar threw himself on the dead and bloody body, tore his hair, and invoked bitter curses on his murderers. His mingled grief and rage was something fearful to witness, and the onlookers turned from the sight with a shudder.

The dawn was now breaking. The veil of darkness which had deepened the horrors of that dreadful night was drawn slowly and steadily aside, and the gray morning light stole softly over the ravine, disclosing the results of the tragedy which had been enacted.

Three Indians only had been killed, and a few more were slightly wounded, but nearly a dozen of the brigands lay dead upon the ground.

Eagle Heart and his dusky followers lifted the dead bodies of their friends, and after performing around them their wild, weird dance of death, scooped out three shallow graves side by side and laid them therein.—William and the others did the same sad duty to the American and the Jew, and leaving the other bodies to bleach in the desert, they gladly bade farewell to the gloomy spot, and, escorted by the Indians who had rendered them such signal service, proceeded on their journey.

Eagle Heart and his braves accompanied them to the edge of the desert, and when they parted company, a handful of gold-dust was considered ample reward by the simple sons of the wilderness. Having parted from their allies, whose skins were red, but whose hearts were true and faithful, the travellers proceeded on their journey, and reached San Francisco in safety.

Here they likewise parted company with Josh and Shagar. Bree had by this time attached himself to William Denman.

To reach Scotland and the Strath was now the chief anxiety of our three friends, and they lost no time in settling matters for the voyage. They found no difficulty in disposing of their gold dust, and of the monster nugget which had brought them into so much difficulty and danger—receiving for the whole over £3,000.

It was a fortnight, however, before the first vessel sailed for Europe, and this delay was a severe trial to their patience. But at length the joyful day came on which the Fretel—the sailing vessel in which they had taken passage—was to sail, and with light and buoyant hearts they found themselves on the blue water, and fairly homeward bound.

Incredible as it may appear that one compound should be adapted to the treatment of such a variety of diseases, it is nevertheless true that Dr. J. Briggs' Alleviator has proved incalculable benefit in affording prompt relief in thousands of cases of painful and distressing attack. Its grand mission is to subdue pain and bring glad tidings to the suffering. The capacity of the Alleviator for doing good is unequalled, and no family should be without it, as it may be the means of saving life in those sudden visitations of disease that require prompt measures to prevent a fatal termination. It is conceded to be the most valuable medicine of its class on account of its adaptation to a wider range of diseases than any other preparation, and therefore more convenient as an every day remedy. Sold by druggists and country merchants. Dr. J. Briggs & Co., 308 Broadway, N. Y., and No. 6 King Street, West, Toronto. For sale by E. Harvey & Co., Guelph.

Until recently that terrible disease, Consumption, has been considered an affliction beyond the reach of medicine, or the healing art. But a new era in the management of Pulmonary Diseases seems to be dawning upon the world, and since many distinguished physicians have acknowledged that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED, few there are who attempt to controvert their opinion.
