Editorial Topics.

GREETING. THE REVIEW has entered upon another year and extends its best wishes to all its readers. This year it is under almost an entirely new management, and hopes to be able to maintain that high degree of excellence which it has won in the past. The year of 1898 has gone with all its joys and all its sorrows, and THE REVIEW has had its share of sorrows, for it has lost two able helpers, one by death, the other by ill-health. To the retiring editor-in-chief, Mr. McEwan, THE REVIEW extends its congratulations upon his attainment to the rank of Bachelor of Arts, and wishes him every success in life.

THE REVIEW. The past year was a very successful one for THE REVIEW financially, as for its literary success we leave that for others to judge. We again cordially invite the men in College to send in literary contributions, for we must not forget that THE REVIEW is a College paper and should be enthusiastically supported by all the men. There is no lack of literary ability in College, so if the men would only bestir themselves THE REVIEW would be greatly benefited. The editor-in-chief will be very glad to receive contributions at any time.

YEAR FEELING. During the past two or three years there has been in Trinity a marked decadence of that abstract quality known as year feeling, and we feel sure that Trinity has benefited thereby. In past years there were many men who sacrificed the good of the College for the good of their year and naturally this led to disastrous results. We are in Trinity one large family so there is no occasion for internal divisions and we hope that year feeling has become a thing of the past, never to be revived. Of course, it is quite natural that we feel most kindly towards the men of our own year, but when a point is at stake that affects the whole College, let us cast aside year prejudice and act for the best of Trinity.

A PROVINCIAL REFERENCE LIBRARY

A meeting was held last month at the Canadian Institute, which inaugurated two movements for the advantage of the people of this province. The proposals were first made in a paper read before the Institute by Mr. Bain, who in his position as Librarian of the City of Toronto has done so much for the cause of Higher Education. Of these proposals the first is for the establishment of a great Provincial Reference Library in Toronto. In the City Public Reference Library there are about 45,000 volumes. The Canadian Institute has a valuable collection of transactions of different societies, and the Legislative Library has a large number of volumes of a nature not specially required for legislative purposes. Could these three collections be combined as one library in a suitable building, and both city and legislative make grants for its maintenance and extension, and arrangements be made for students all over the province to share in its use, we believe a boon would be conferred on Ontario, the extent of which we cannot properly estimate. The expense would not be very great, and once the value of the library were understood, and the benefit which the whole province would obtain, appreciated, we are sure that even greater expenditure than is proposed would not be grudged, and we have also every confidence that valuable additions to the library would be made by the gift of collections of books, pamphlets, etc., on special subjects which exist here to a greater extent than is probably recognized. A strong committee, of which our Provost is a member, was appointed to take the preliminary step to obtain the support of the city and legislature, and we hope the movement now initiated may soon bear fruit. To the second of these proposals, that for the establishment of Travelling Libraries, we hope to return in a future issue.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE.

It is upon these two nations that the eyes of the whole world are fastened today; and the outcome of the present unsettled relations between these two countries is being watched for with the keenest interest. The recent foreign and domestic affairs of France have revealed certain conditions and characteristics which may be interesting to note. Perhaps one of the most important events that have aroused Frenchmen at home, is the Dreyfus agitation. This case is highly interesting in that it has revealed to us the repulsive spectacle of an entire people with its army, press, politicians and clergy rising up against a defenceless and wretched man; a government whose press organs publish the names and addresses of the jury before they have given a verdict; an army whose select representatives threaten the jury with their resignation if the verdict be different from what they expect, and a legislative assembly whose enlightened members refuse to raise their voices on behalf of the victim of injustice, lest at the coming elections they should lose their seats. The fact of the illegality of convicting Dreyfus by the production of a secret document which was withheld from the accused and his counsel, must appear as the greatest distortion of the forms of justice. Again, France's troubles have not been confined within her own borders, in her foreign affairs she has been experiencing some very serious difficulties. The present complications between England and France in the East have been pretty thoroughly discussed and commented upon by both the leading magazines and newspapers. Mr. R. Dorsey Mohun, formerly United States agent in the Congo Free State, writing in The Century on this subject says:—"Who will be ultimately successful in this scramble for the Upper Nile? I say most emphatically, England, although France seemed to have a temporary advantage in the occupation of Fashoda. This occupation England cannot and will not permit to remain permanent. From the point of view of commerce and progress it would be preferable for this vast territory to be under the indirect control of England. Her possessions are never encumbered with large numbers of military and civil officials, and she does everything in her power to foster and develop trade on strict lines of partiality to none. With England at the head of affairs in this benighted country, there can be no doubt but it will develop its resources in a comparatively short time." Mr. Mohun was correct in his conjecture as to who would ultimately rule over this disputed territory. Already the English and Egyptian Governments have agreed to appoint a joint directorate over the Soudan, subject to the approval of the Privy Council. It is then readily apparent that France is not even holding her own, but rather going back. In The Contemporary Review appears an anonymous letter, in which France is summed up in the following words:—"So far as one can ascertain by a careful study of the intellectual, political and religious movements of the last hundred years, there is not the faintest trace of any ennobling principle, of any sublime ideal or even of any glorious aspirations which can be pointed out as French by origin, or even by adoption." While this may appear a rather pessimistic view or summing up of the condition of France, yet we cannot help but recognize and acknowledge the truth in the statement. What the outcome of this diplomatic struggle—for, so far it has been only a diplomatic struggle—will be it is hard to tell, we only know that many of the leading ministers in the French Chamber of Deputies are advocating a peace policy with England, and warning the French people to consider well before they act. England, as is her custom, is acting slowly but surely and seems to be outwitting France in every point of diplomacy. How long France will stand this is a very serious question, and one that time alone will answer.

We feel that there is some apology owed our readers for the late date at which this number of THE REVIEW has been issued. The reason for this is that the new board of editors was not elected till the middle of January after the term had opened, and consequently it was impossible to get our number out any earlier.

THE MAN AND THE BEAST.

It was now about midday, as he could see from glimpses of the sun through the thick growth of trees; and, being worn and hungry, he unstrapped his pack and rested on a fallen tree; as he prepared his meal, he sang softly, and his voice was good to hear. He always sang the lightest and merriest songs he knew.

Suddenly he ceased singing and sprang to his feet, for he thought he caught the sound of voices—the first he had heard for a week or more. He was not mistaken, for soon there appeared on the trail, a short distance from him, two men, and it was evident from their get-up that they were miners. They paused for some time, staring at him, and uttered exclamations of surprise.

"Don't 'pear ter be in trouble," said one.

"'E seems to be 'avin' a little-picnic by 'isself in the woods," remarked the other.

"Well, shoot me dead if he ain't got no gun nor anythin', an' looks consumptive-like too."

And then they both advanced to inspect the lonely man more closely.

"Gold-dust an' nuggets! But it's a bloomin' parson! Say mister, who yer calc'latin' ter do about here anyways?" The lonely man's breeding came to the rescue, and enabled him to adapt himself to the situation, and he answered: "Don't know old man, but if I can do the distance in the next two days I'll be satisfied."

"Yer not headin' fer Cal Hardin's, are yer?"

"Yes."

"What fer, gold?"

"No; souls."

"Say, yonker, what yer givin' us? Guess yer must hev' slipped yer keeper. Cal don't count much on sky-pilots, they ain't no good fer trade, an' if he don't perforate yer', most like ther boys will. Yer gone clean mad if yer go without perlice-perfection, an' yer can't get that."

"Would you turn back if you had come all this distance?"

"Not if I was wishin' ter have my lights shoo'd out—Say sonny, I likes yer way, an' I hates ter think o' yer gettin' hurt, but I tells yer straight ther' ain't no souls ter get, an' ther' ain't no God 'cept dust, so finish yer snack an' come back with us."

"Will they shoot me at sight?"

"Might, if ther' on a bend, an' ther' might be an accident—that's what happened ther' last one, and besides, ther' language ain't perlite."

"How long will it take me to get there?"

"Well, if yer go's fast as we've come, yer 'bout due ther' tomorrow night."

"Then this time the day after, I'll be dead, won't I?"

"Tangel-foot an' onions, you air a corker. An' yer still thinkin' o' goin'?"

"Yes, I guess I'll have to, old boy."

"Make haist, Pete, let the bloke go; 'e'll be a savin' of your soul if yer don't give 'im the go-by. It'll take us all we knows on to grub the bloomin' trail without more stops than needful."

"Well, young-un, yer dead game anyways, an' if yer won't come, yer won't, so here's t' yer!" And Pete, drawing out his flask, drank deeply.

The next minute the youthful minister was on the trail alone.

* * *

There was an incident in old Jake's life which he was never tired of relating, and the boys often asked him to recount his experience, when they met at the "corners" for a smoke, after the day's work; and old Jake, seated on the counter with a short black clay in his mouth, after the customary persuasion, would hold forth in this wise:—

"Wall, boys, y'all knows I done time fer shootin' Dan Murphy when I war young; an' Dan knows if he war desarvin' or no. Wall, after they had cut me loose, I war what might be tarmed a hardened krimin'l, an' I makes tracks fer the toughest ranch I could find, an' I landed t' Cal Hardin's, an' Cal's war bad, th' warst I ever saw'd. No parson, lest he's seen a gambling-hell in a minin' camp, 's qualarfied t' know how bad 'twar. Yer see, up tar this thar warn't no parlice roun', and, far that reason, it war chuck full o' men's bad an' warse 'n I war.

"Cal's war located mor'n two hundred mile from any whars, an' the lan' war wild an' unbroken.

"Thar war no red tape 'bout th' law t' Cal's. Th' boys war thar own judges, an' th' iorns acted fer lawyars, an' when thar pleaded, it war sharp an' right to th' point, an' war 's a rule fatal, an' thar warn't no pryin' kurrinar t' be reckon'd on.

"We used to wark hard all day so's we could gambel an' drink nights. Draw-poker war th' game an' rank dope th' drink. Th' limit war high 's war th' price o' th' dope.

"One night we war all to Cal's, some playin', others watchin', all drinkin'; an' say, boys, since I quit swarin' it makes me shudder when I thinks o' th' talk t' Cal's.

Cal war dolin' out th' dope in tins an' scoopin' in th' dust. He war a bad un, war Cal, 's bad's thar made.

"S I was sayin' afore, we war all drinkin' an' playin', when th' door open'd an' in walks a young man, an' he war a preacher, not much fer looks, but say boys, he had a great pair o' eyes.

"Ev'ry one war surprised, but Cal, he war angry, so he makes fer th' parson an' he sez, 'We don't want no d— devil-dodgers 'bout here, so git.' An' th' parson, he sez, 'I'm hungry, Mistar Hardin', an' yer wouldn't turn a darg 'way if he war starvin', would yer?' Say, if yer only could ha' heard th' soft way he spoke, it war great. But Cal, he swars an' sez, 'This ain't no d— rest'rant, an' yer ain't got no licanse 'bout with no foddar, so good-bye!' 'I havn't tasted anythin' fer th' last twelve hour, an' it harts, Mister Hardin',' says th' preacher.

"At this Cal thinks o' a big bluff ter spring, an' so he sez, 'Hungry are yer, wall jew-drop 's all we have ter sell, so I'll give yer a pull.' An' he crossed over ter th' cask, an' th' boys grinn'd an' spoke nasty things ter th' parson, an' some one throws a quid at him, but he just stan's 's quiet an' meek 's a sixteen year school-garl, but them eyes o' bisn! I tell yer boys, th' war fast cuttin' tracks in my in'ards.

"Yar must understan' we war all crowdin' roun' starin' at him.

"Wall Cal, he breaks through th' gang with a tin o' dope in his paw, an' tells th' preacher ter drink, but he sez 's par'lite 's yer'd wish, 'Bad tar drink b'far eatin', yer know.' War Cal mad? Wall I reckon. So he cuts loose an' swars awful, an' slidin' his han' ter th' left side o' his belt, he sez, 'Yer'll drink or sneak, see?'

"What d'yer s'pose come off next? Why, that thar young man, what 'peared no more 'fensive 'n a codfish, took that tin o' bug-juice, an' without no fuss, nar nothin', pours it on th' floor, an' sez, 'Not thirsty, Mistar Hardin', thank yer.'

"It war a clean case o' man 'gainst beast, an' th' man war makin' th' runnin'.

"When he saw'd th' juice go, he war white-hot, an' out comes his gun, an' he lets go at th' preacher, an' if it hadn't been fer Black George, guess my yarn be 'bout done; but Black George knocks Cal's arm up an' sez, 'Don't shoot 'while yet, old pard, let's have some 'musement farst.' An' that poor young man got whiter'n Mandy's apron a' Sundays, but he didn't 'pare a bit skared.

"Then Black George arsd' what he could do, an' he sez, 'I don't drink, but I have sang some.' An' th' boys all larfed, an' Cal yalps 'This ain't no d— camp meetin', an' we don't want none o' yer — — —.' An' then Cal, he lets out a string what made th' air soggy.

"Wall, at this stage o' th' game I flips in my ante, an' 'I sez, 'What d'yar say ter a song mates!' An' th' boys all hollared 'Let's have it.' So some of us stayed with Cal an' some puts th' parson on a keg, an' Big Bill sez, 'None o' yer psalm-singin' fer us, see? We wants somethin' perty nifty, thats what!'

"Say boys, 'twas more'n wonderful ter see th' way that thar preacher handl'd hisself; yer 'o 's well thought it war a Tea-Social he war at. When he starts ter sing th' boys war awful nois'some, an' some flipped cards at him an' made remarks, but when thar saw 'twar a niggarr song, th' war more quietar. Yer see, none o' us had counted on a parson singin' niggarr songs, an' so we war a bit surprised.

"Wall, when he stops, th' boys war a bit more respect-ful, 'cept Cal, and he keeps swarin' wars'n afore. But Black George had him t' hand.

"What follard nex' 's goin' ter stay right with me till I croaks—sure thing. Yer see, he had no show ter give his voice full swing in th' niggarr gabrish, but when he lets out with his voice 's clear 's runnin' warter an' 's sweet 's clovar, it war great, I tells yer, an' I had a quar feelin' t' my back-bone. But when he sings 'bout a home beside th' Sea, an' other things, why I forgot I'd kill'd my man, an' evar war th' brac'lets, an' ev'rythin', an' I could see th, old folks an' Lizar Jane, an' I'm darn'd if my eyes didn't leak. An' when he struck th' thard varse, even Cal war peaceful. Boys, I tell yer that young man had a magic voice, it war smooth an' prickly like, an' it went ter th' spot, an' he didn't sing no hymns neithar.

"He saw'd he had us when he got done singin', an' so he sez, 'I want ter tell yer a yarn; I'll be 'bout five min'ts.' An' so he started to talk an' calls us mates, an' when an hour passed he war still talkin', an' us listenin' —."

Here old Jake would stop, light his pipe, and hum a tune of which he was fond.

ARTHUR P. BODDY.

AN ADVENTURE.

An old Oxford man describes the following adventure with an "irreproachable" member of the police force:

Two belated men from Oxford
Members of a nameless College,
Lost their way geologising,
Reached the town long after midnight
Past the lawful hour of entry
By the gateway of the College.
But they did not rouse the porter,
For they knew the dean was wrathful
And had vow'd a weighty vengeance
On whoe'er knocked in belated.
So they gat them round a by-way
Where a wall divides the College
From intrusion of the vulgar.
Just above the wall was growing
An ancient elm tree that stretched downward
A great branch, whose head was nestled
In a tree in the enclosure
Thus affording means of entrance
To the artless man belated.
"Mac" had climbed the wall and sitting
Helped the "Fluffer," struggling upward,
When a Bobbie, a policeman,
Irreproachable policeman,
Came upon them round the corner,
And exclaimed: "Gent's I have caught you,
You're a pretty pair of wall-flowers."
Then he paused and seem'd to linger,
And he said: "P'raps I'd not see you,
See you over any wall get
If I happened to be looking
In the opposite direction
And my back was turn'd upon you,"
Quickly Mac cried to the Fluffer
And exclaimed: "O fellow Fluffer,
Have you any coin about you?"
And the Fluffer from his pocket
Drew the "bob," the silver shilling,
And the piece of six, the "tizzy"
And the piece of four, the "joey,"
And the double-bob, the florin,
And he strewed them on the pathway.
And the Bobbie, the policeman,
Irreproachable policeman,
Turned his back and gently whisper'd:
"Somebody has dropp'd some money,
I am lucky to have found it."
So Mac, the philosophic smoker,
And his friend they call "the Fluffer"
Got across the wall securely,
And the Bobbie, the policeman
Did not see them getting over
For he happen'd to be looking
In the opposite direction
And his back was turned upon them.

A MERRIE 'UN.

Rev. W. F. Webb, of Banff, was present at the Alumni meeting. He is making an appeal for men and money for the diocese of Qu'Appelle.

SPECIAL CONVOCATION.

The following Latin oration was delivered by Professor Huntingford at the Special Convocation held for the purpose of conferring the degree of D.C.L., honoris causa, on his Excellency, the Governor-General:

"Discedentem ex Provincia Proconsulem nostrum libentissime excipimus, cui, cæterarum Academiarum 'gradibus' amplificato, restat ut in hoc quoque collegio nos ultimum nostrum tribuamus honorem. Quod si ultimum, nemo certe dixerit id munus gratiæ conciliandæ esse tributum, sed potius optimo viro, proconsuli egregio, gratias agendi causa. Neque enim cuivis contingit proconsulare imperium adipisci sed nobilissimis; neque nobilium cuilibet, sed optimo alicui. Hic autem, gente Gordonia ortus—quam quis est, qui nesciat inter primas in regno Scotorum eam numerari?—comes de Aberdonia, eques ordinis illustrissimi Sanctorum Michaelis et Georgii haud sane eget honoribus ac titulis. Qui si parum ampli essent, adest, et decus atque famam etiam addit, illa tanta tamque præclara uxor—quam honoris causa nomino—consors viro suo laborum, et eadem bonorum consiliorum auctrix et inventrix.

Sed non idcirco nos hoc nostrum quodcumque honoris addimus; sed quum vir bonus, civis optimus, et rempublicam bene atque feliciter capessiverit, et in rebus privatis talem se præbuerit ut ab omnibus in omnibus locis gratiam, laudem, amorem mereatur quumque sit idem Victoriae, dominae nostræ, reginae piissimæ legatus, illum fas est solitos Academicos honores accipere.

"Atqui si vir, si magistratus, si imperium unquam digna fuere, certe in hoc omnia summa existunt. Quid de ipso viro dicam? Vos omnes cognoscite. Apud nos in hac urbe tres menses in Prætorio nuper erat. Nonne salutationibus saltationibus ludis populum delectabat? Quid multa? Populus plaudit. Et illi iuvenes plaudunt, qui si melius quid dicam intelligerent fortius etiam plauderent. Magistratum vero ita gessit ut officium putaret sibi commissum ut jus et libertatem conservaret utque suis beneficiis caeteros bene facientes ad operam impelleret et acueret. Qui autem summam rem obtinent iis parva requies laboris conceditur. Quid enim? Hic ad contionem habendam vocat, hic ad Valetudinarium vel Ludum visendum, ille, ut fit hodie vesperi, ad cœnam: Itinera per milliens milia facienda sunt, orationes semper et ubique habendæ. Servitutem quamdam crederes, non imperium. Quæ omnia tamen ita bona animo diligenter lepide, ita summa dignitate comitate urbanitate perfecit, ut quisque sibi uni præcipue illum favere putaret. Denique cum proconsulem ornatus nonne reginam nostram in illo honoramus, quæ una post hominum memoriam optima et maxima Populum magnum et ipsam incredibili studio ac pietate venerantem regit? Jamque domum tandem rediturus utinam haud minus iucundam Canadae memoriam secum auferat quam nobis Canadensibus reliquerit.

CHANCELLOR'S ADDRESS.

The public orator has I know, addressed Your Excellency in fitting and eloquent terms, which I hope will find a permanent place in the records of this day's proceedings, nevertheless, in view of the all too near departure from Canada, of Your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen, I feel that I cannot close this meeting of Convocation without offering to Your Excellency on behalf of Convocation and of all present here to day, in a language understood by all, the assurance of the deep sense—which in common with all Her Majesty's subjects in Canada—we entertain, of Your Excellency's unwearied devotion, in the discharge of the high and important duties of the office of Governor General.

Your Excellency's administration as the Representative of Her Most Gracious Majesty in this Dominion, will long be remembered, as that of an able, upright, and conscientious Ruler, who has sought in every way to promote the best and highest interests of this country.

We would desire also, to express our grateful appreciation of Your Excellency's and Lady Aberdeen's warm interest in, and active promotion of every good and beneficent work from your arrival among us, down to these the very last days of your sojourn in Canada.

Lady Aberdeen indeed, has established for herself a lasting claim on the grateful remembrance of the women of Canada, by the now complete organization through her exertions and influence, of the Women's Council for the Dominion—and by the establishment of the Royal Victorian Order of Nurses, Her Excellency has conferred a boon upon the sick and suffering throughout the Dominion, the extent and importance of which, can hardly yet be estimated.

But in addition to these claims upon our gratitude Her Excellency will long be remembered, and if she will allow me to say so, affectionately remembered, by those connected with the many other Institutions in whose work she has shown so much personal interest and such kindly sympathy.

Her visits to these, often made at the cost of no small exertion and fatigue, and amid many pressing engagements, will not be forgotten by those whose hands she has strengthened, and encouraged in their work, by her sympathy and friendly counsel.

And now in offering to Your Excellencies our respectful farewell, and our hearty good wishes—for Your Excellency that still higher position may await you in the service of the Sovereign and the Empire in the near future,—and that you both may enjoy long years of health and happiness, may we at the same time venture to hope, that when Your Excellencies are enjoying that well-merited rest from the cares of office, in your old and loved ancestral Scottish home, that Canada will not be altogether forgotten, but that its welfare and progress, will always have an abiding interest for you both,—and may I say also, that we of this University, confidently trust that in her latest and most honoured graduate, Trinity will always have a firm and lasting friend.

THE DIVINITY ALUMNI'S GATHERING.

The Third Annual meeting of Our Divinity Alumni took place on Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 10th and 11th. The meeting was largely attended and proved most successful in every particular. Each day there was a celebration of the Holy Communion at 7.45 a.m., and Morning Prayer at 9.30 a.m.

The Quiet Hours on Tuesday morning were ably conducted by the Lord Bishop of Huron, who gave two most stirring addresses. In the first he contrasted the Aaronic priesthood with the Melchizedek priesthood of our Lord, describing the characteristics and functions of the former and where it had failed, and pointing to Christ as the Melchizedek Priest, to whom all should turn for comfort and strength. In the second address he gave a very practical exposition of the passage in St. John's Gospel, describing the washing of the disciples' feet.

The different papers read before the gathering were interesting and instructive.

The Rev. R. Ker's paper on "The Ecclesiastical and Secular Press" created a lively discussion in which Rev. P. L. Spencer, Rev. Provost Welch and Rev. Professor Rigby and others took part.

The Rev. Professor Cayley read a convincing paper on "The Conservative tendency of recent New Testament Criticism." This paper which was clear and concise, showed that Mr. Cayley had a thorough knowledge of his subject. It has been published in full in the daily papers.

In his paper on "How to Make Rural Deanery Meetings more Interesting" Rev. D. Deacon made several valuable suggestions. He thought the laity ought to be associated with the clergy in these gatherings.

The Rev. H. H. Bedford-Jones read an interesting paper on the "Message of Amos" in which he showed the bearing of the Prophets upon the problems of to-day, and demonstrated the value of critical methods in the study of these inspired writers.

Papers were also read by Rev. Professor Sage, of London, on the "Teaching Office of the Church" with reference to "Bible Classes" and by Rev. Dr. Ker, of Montreal, on the same subject, with reference to the "Mid-week service."

At the public missionary meeting held on Tuesday night, stirring addresses were given by Rev. J. G. Waller and the Lord Bishop of Huron. At the close of the meeting the Provost announced that the church recently erected at Nagano, had been paid for and urged the necessity of building a church during the coming year for Mr. Kennedy, in Matsumoto. Several of those present volunteered to collect money for this purpose. In this way $700 has been guaranteed, and Mr. Kennedy may hope to soon see a suitable church built in which to hold his services.

On the last evening of the gathering an open meeting was held in the dining hall for the purpose of discussing the relation of the Kingdom of God to social problems. The principal speakers were Rev. R. J. Moore, Rev. G. H. Broughall, Rev. H. Symonds and Rev. Dr. Ker.

Before the meeting closed a very hearty vote of thanks was tendered the Venerable Archdeacon Houston for acting as chairman throughout the gathering.

Book Reviews.

THE RED AXE, by S. R. Crockett, author of "The Gray Man," "Lochinvar," with twenty-six illustrations by Frank Richards. Price, paper, 75 cents; cloth, $1.50. Toronto: Copp, Clark Co., 1898.

The Red Axe is, we hear, to be stayed. We are not surprised. It is extraordinarily vivid. Scene after scene stands out in the mind of the reader as he looks back over this tangled tale of love, rapine and intrigue in the days of the German robber Dukes, when the law of might was the law of right.

Mr. Crockett in this story has left his dialect behind at home. The story which moves somewhat slowly at first, but always pleasantly, at last quickens in movement and interest, and ends with a fine climax where the fate of hero and heroine hangs in the balances, which are held in the hands of the emerald-eyed maiden, who, swayed by love and jealousy, knows not what to do. Was she woman or was she tiger? This interesting story has something of the same freshness which characterized The Pride of Jennico, but it has one great point of superiority, The Red Axe begins early and moves steadily towards the climax of interest, whereas the first part of Jennico was the best. But both are good stories and well told.

A ROMANY OF THE SNOWS, by Gilbert Parker, D.C.L. Toronto: Copp, Clark Co., 1898.

This volume of short stories was published in England under the title, "An Adventurer of the North." It is a continuation of personal histories of "Pierre and his People" and contains the "last existing records of pretty Pierre." We hope not. Pierre, like Sherlock Holmes, ought not to be allowed to die. In Pierre's case there is just a chance that he may turn up again. For he is not rolled over a precipice, but is last seen riding madly before pursuers into a surf of fire. He was not alone, and no reader of "Pierre and his People" needs to be told that it was a woman he was trying to succour. We hope he succeeded.

These stories, like those in the earlier volume, are not all equal, but all are enjoyable, and we can promise several pleasant half-hours to any one who has still to make their acquaintance. In some respects "Pierre and his People," and its sequel, contain the most unique as well as the most interesting work that Mr. Gilbert Parker has done. At any rate, those who enjoy the works of this writer, and they are many, have a very soft spot in their hearts for Pretty Pierre.

VICTORIAN ERA SERIES.

ENGLISH NATIONAL EDUCATION, by H. Holman, M.A. London: Blackie. Toronto: Copp, Clark Co., 1898.

This is the seventh volume of the Victorian Era Series, and it is worthy of the series in which it takes its place. We have here a sketch of the rise of public elementary schools in England. It is written by one who is an enthusiastic believer in State schools. Indeed the impression which this treatise leaves on the mind of the reader is that it is the business of the State, and not of any other organization within the State, to look after the education of the people. This is not necessarily to advocate a secular system of education. But it means that in any other hands than those of the State, the standard of elementary education is apt to fall. It thus becomes the business of the churches to agree upon what religious teaching should be given. Provision should be made, as there is in England, for making government grants to "Voluntary Schools" if they come up to the government standards in equipment and efficiency. But this is not the view of Mr. Holman.

The titles of his chapters will but indicate the scope and trend of the book. The reign of the voluntary system the days of doles, the committee of council on education, a semi-state system, Codes and cram, the partial reign of law, Retrospect and Prospect. In fact this work outlines the struggle in England over the question as to whether the churches or the State should undertake the work of elementary education. What the Churches did, the State now largely does. The story of this contest has its interest for us and contains many morals. This is a work to be read by all advocates of voluntary schools.

Athletic.

A new proposition has been made by University of Toronto with regard to Inter-collegiate athletics, which should find favour in all the colleges in the Dominion where there is a desire to foster Inter-collegiate sport.

The proposal is that a union be formed for the development of field athletics among the colleges of Canada; it has been suggested that there be a meet either once or twice a year, in which competitors from all the colleges in the union may enter; also that each college pay an annual fee of ten dollars to defray, first, the expenses of the meet, and secondly, part of the travelling expenses of the competitors.

In connection with this, University of Toronto is holding communication with McGill, Queen's, McMaster, Osgoode and ourselves.

Mr. Griffith has been instructed by our executive to write to them, expressing our warm approval of the plan, and our willingness to enter the union, though, at present, there seems but little chance of any of our men being able to compete this year.

Two years ago, mainly by the efforts of Trinity, an inter-club meet of this kind took place, in which we failed to secure first place, only owing to a combination of two of the other competing clubs. At that time a proposal was made by our association that some such union as the one now proposed be instituted, but this plan unfortunately fell through. We hope, however, that the present scheme will have better fortune, and it has our best wishes for a grand success.

* * *

The rink, we are glad to say, is being rapidly put in order, though it has been considerably kept back by the warm spell during the first week of term. Our hockey prospects are fairly good, though we have not entered the O. H. A. this season. Mr. Parmenter has been appointed captain, and he has, undoubtedly, some promising material to work upon, especially among the freshmen.

* * *

The cricket prospects this year are particularly bright; we have nearly all of last year's team back, and we should have a valuable addition in Mr. Duggan, who has been on the T. C. S. team since '95. Mr. Griffith has been appointed captain, and arrangements are being made to secure the services of a good professional for the coming season.

* * *

The Athletic Association has been enriched to the extent of $125, presented by the management of the REVIEW, for which it returns its hearty thanks, for we, like all other athletic associations, have a great faculty for making away with money; it is probable, however, that we shall have a balance at the end of the year.

* * *

Arrangements are being made by the Secretary of the Athletic Association for a hockey match with R. M. C. The game will be played here some time in February, though at present we are experiencing a little difficulty in obtaining a rink.

* * *

A letter has been received by the Secretary of the Athletic Association, from the Secretary of the Cricket Association of the American colleges in regard to an International Inter-collegiate game. Some years ago, I think in 1896, a team from the American colleges came over here and played a team chosen from the Canadian universities. The game was played on our campus and was won by the Canadians. It was thoroughly enjoyed and all those who played have pleasant recollections of the game. Nothing definite has been arranged yet about a game this year, but in all probability one will be arranged and played in the United States, as it is our turn to go there. Trinity very heartily supports this idea and will do all in its power to arrange matters satisfactorily. We hope to meet representatives from Toronto University and Osgoode Hall very shortly and talk over the plan.

Obituary.

BISHOP SULLIVAN.

By the death of Bishop Sullivan which occurred at his house on Friday morning, the feast of Epiphany, Trinity has lost one of her greatest friends and graduates. The late Bishop was granted a D. D., degree honoris causa, in 1882, and has been ever since a very kind friend to Trinity. Speaking of the Bishop in The Canadian Churchman, Rev. Professor Clark says, "The death of Bishop Sullivan has fallen as a blow, not merely on the Parish of St. James', but on the whole community of Toronto, of Ontario, of Canada. Few men were better known to English Churchmen, and few were more highly valued in every part of the Dominion; and we believe we are expressing the universal sentiment when we add, few men were more steadily growing in the respect and affection of the people. It is, therefore, no mere formal or perfunctory tribute that we bring, when we offer the last tokens of sorrow and affectionate respect at his tomb. We are but speaking what all men are feeling.

"Of the high character of the late Bishop, of his devotion to duty, of his commanding abilities, of his splendid eloquence, it is not necessary to speak. These things are known to all, they are written in the story of his life, they are inscribed more deeply in the hearts of those who knew him. We all know what sacrifice he made when he accepted the Bishopric of Algoma, and when afterwards he was offered and declined the See of Huron. We all know how his self-denying labours in his difficult diocese broke down constitution, originally powerful.

"His end was peaceful and tranquil as the sleep of a little child, and the light of heaven was on his brow when he passed away. Well might he say with Simeon, 'Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace according to thy word, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation!' He is numbered among the blessed dead, who die in the Lord, blessed, for they rest from their labours and their works follow them. May we follow him as he followed Christ."

ARTHUR PERCIVAL BODDY.

Since the last number of THE REVIEW reached its readers a dark cloud has passed over the College—one of Trinity's most promising young men has been called away from our midst.

On Wednesday, December 28th, Arthur Percival Boddy died suddenly and unexpectedly from acute septicæmia.

When he left us at the end of last term, apparently in the best of health and spirits, little did any of us think that he should be absent from our midst when we reassembled for the present term. In Mr. Boddy's death the College, the Church, his many friends have sustained a loss.

As an enthusiastic athlete, ever ready to do his utmost to promote the welfare of all departments of sport, both by active participation and enthusiastic interest, Mr. Boddy won the well-merited affection and esteem of all his fellow students, and by his removal Trinity Athletics have indeed received a blow. But not only in the world of sport will he be missed. THE REVIEW now finds itself deprived of an editor, of great literary ability, who, both by contribution and active interest displayed, would have done much to raise its standard and extend its sphere.

Trinity has indeed lost a beloved alumnus and true friend.

The Church too, is now without one who, with his great natural talent, would doubtless have done much for her welfare. Mr. Boddy was, at the time of his death, a divinity student. His high ideas, his deep faith, his many manly qualities, would have, as far as we can judge, made him an ornament to the sacred ministry.

But though the Church and College cannot but feel his death, it is to his many personal friends that the blow comes hardest. His fund of good humour his generosity, his frank and kindly openness had endeared him to many.

But it is his close friends alone who can tell of his sympathy, his devotion, his loyalty.

THE REVIEW begs respectfully to offer to the Ven. Archdeacon and Mrs. Boddy, and their family, its very deep sympathy in this their hour of sorrow.

ARTHUR PERCIVAL BODDY.

DIED DECEMBER 28, 1898.

S. Hilda's Notes.

The need of an Athletic Club has long been felt at S. Hilda's, and although for some time the students have been endeavouring to start one, not till this year have any of their plans materialized. Although in its infancy, the club bids fair to prosper, as one and all seem to take a great interest in it and to be working hard to do their utmost for its advance. The first regular meeting was held at S. Hilda's on Nov. 12th, when the club was organized and given its name, and the following officers were elected:—Miss Talbot, '00, president; Miss Macdougall, '99, vice-president; Miss Kirkpatrick, '00, sec.-treasurer. On Nov. 21st another meeting was held at which was read the constitution which had been drawn up by the officers. Several amendments and a few additions were made. Owing to the lack of a gymnasium, very little can be done in the way of athletics till skating starts, when hockey will reign supreme. Full arrangements have been made regarding a rink for practising, and the eventful day when the S. Hildian's will first chase the puck is being eagerly looked forward to. Tennis and cricket are also being enthusiastically discussed and we hope to make arrangements whereby we can have suitable tennis courts after we have our long-hoped-for building, for the club will then have few difficulties to encounter and it is to be hoped will soon rival that of its elder sister? In the meanwhile, however, we hope to make a good start and thus pave the way for future S. Hildian's. May their tribe increase!!

HOCKEY NOTES.

The elections for captain of the S. Hilda's Hockey team were held at S. Hilda's on Saturday, Jan. 21st, there being a full attendance of members. Miss Macdougall, '99, was elected captain, with Miss Powley, '99, as practise captain.

The first practise match was held on Thursday, Jan. 19th, Miss Macdougall, '99, captained one side and Miss Kirkpatrick, '00, the other, Miss Macdougall's team winning, 5-3. Contrary to expectations "off-sides" were conspicuous by their absence. The cover points were kept in their places with great difficulty, as in the excitement of the moment, they insisted on playing forward.

It has not been possible as yet to arrange any outside matches, but we hope soon to be able to manage this.

The first meeting of the S. Hilda's Literary Society for the year '99 was held at S. Hilda's on Monday afternoon, Jan. 23rd, at four o'clock with a full attendance. The very interesting and instructive programme consisted of a reading from "A Voyage of Consolation" by Miss Wood, instrumental by Miss Kirkpatrick and an impromptu debate. The affirmative was taken by Miss Nevitt and Miss Austin, and the negative was upheld by Miss Scarth and Miss Parker. The decision was upheld in favour of the negative.

Then the subject of the Inter-year debates was discussed followed by some able remarks from the critic, Miss Macdougall. The meeting closed by Miss Goad reading a letter from Texas written to the S. Hildian's by Miss Harner.

On Monday, Jan. 23rd, a College meeting was held at S. Hilda's at which Miss Goad was elected scribe for Episcopon, and word was received that Father Episcopon would come on February 15th.

The annual Lenten lectures in aid of the building fund of S. Hilda's College begin on Saturday, February 18th. These lectures have been very popular in the past and we feel sure that this year will be no exception. The following list of lectures has been drawn up:

Saturday, February 18th.

"Oxford and English University Life."

G. R. PARKIN, D.C.L., C.M.G.

Saturday, February 25th.

"The Music of the North American Indians."

A. T. CRINGAN, Esq.

Saturday, March 4th.

"English Miracle Plays."

THE REVEREND PROFESSOR RIGBY.

Saturday, March 11th.

"Thackeray."

THE REVEREND THE PROVOST.

Saturday, March 18th.

"Chatterton."

JOHN FRANCIS WATERS.

NO SUCH WORD AS CAN'T?

Here in my room I sit,
The midnight oil is lit,
The madding crowd I've quit,
Joys that enchant.
All things are ready quite
Books to left and books to right,
Just to knock off a night,
To study kant!
Wheel out my easy-chair
Cushions—well, just a pair!
Pipe to my hand with care.
May the god's grant
No one disturbs my thought!
Now find page two two naught
Want to do what I ought,
But somehow kant!

Convocation Notes.

EDITORS.

A. H. YOUNG, M.A. THE REV. H. H. BEDFORD-JONES, M.A.

In consideration of a grant of $75.00 a year this space is set aside for the use of the Convocation of the University.

The Year Book for 1898 is being distributed as rapidly as possible free among all the graduates of the University, and associate members of Convocation. If any should fail to receive a copy the clerk will be happy to supply the omission by sending one.

Owing to the attempt made to issue the Year Book in September, it was thought unwise to print a list of members and associates in good standing for 1898 up to that month. Although it was presently found impossible to have the Year Book ready so early, it was so far advanced that the editor was unable to insert the list. We print a list of all Members and Associates in good standing for 1898 in this issue of THE REVIEW.

The Convocation editors extend their congratulations and good wishes to two members of the Executive Committee of Convocation, who have recently been elected to the Corporation, viz.: Mr. Kirwan Martin, M.A., and Mr. D. T. Symons, B.C.L. How hard these members of Convocation have worked for Convocation and Trinity, their fellow-members of the Executive know to some extent. We are sure they will continue to display the same energy in the more important positions they now hold.

N.B.—This issue of THE REVIEW is again sent to all associate members of Convocation. But after this issue it is to be discontinued except in the case of those who notify the clerk. To them it will continue to be sent free as before. If, therefore, there are any others who wish for THE REVIEW to be continued and have hitherto not sent in a notice to that effect, we would urge them to do so without further delay.

LECTURES, 1898-99.

GENERAL STATEMENT.

The Convocation of Trinity University offers courses of lectures upon various scientific, literary, historical, art and other subjects to the residents of the towns and cities of this Province, subject to the conditions stated herein. With a view to making arrangements for any of these lectures, correspondence is invited from clergymen and the officers of educational, literary and scientific organizations. One or more of the lectures may be chosen for any given place; but, the committee will limit the number of lectures where it may seem necessary to do so.

All correspondence about lectures is to be addressed to Rev. Professor Cayley, M.A., Trinity University, Toronto.

LECTURES.

The following is the list of lectures and lecturers for the next session 1898-9:

The Reverend Dr. Welch, Provost of Trinity College—(1) George Eliot; (2) Cambridge Fifteen Years Ago; (3) John Bunyan; (4) Archbishop Laud; (5) Some English Translations of the Bible; (6) The Revised Version of the New Testament; (7) Religious Revivals of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries.

The Reverend Professor Rigby, M.A., Dean of Trinity College—(1) Richard Brinsley Sheridan; (2) Early History of European Universities.

His Honour Judge McDonald of Brockville—(1) Walks in and about London; (2) A Fortnight in Italy.

The Reverend E. C. Cayley, M.A., Professor of Theology in Trinity University—(1) Matthew Arnold; (2) The Oxford Movement in Relation to the Church and the Age.

The Rev. E. W. Huntingford, M.A., Professor of Classics in Trinity University—(1) Why some things are beautiful, others not.

The Reverend Herbert Symonds, M.A., Rector of Ashburnham—(1) The Religious Elements of the Poetry of Browning and Tennyson; (2) The Problem of Christian Unity; (3) Dante.

M. A. Mackenzie, M.A., Professor of Mathematics, Trinity University—(1) Kipling; (2) The Soudan; (3) North Polar Exploration.

A. H. Young, M.A., Lecturer in Modern Languages, Trinity University—(1) Faust; (5) King Arthur and the Holy Grail.

The Reverend J. C. Farthing, M.A., Rector of Woodstock—(1) Fresh Light from Ancient Monuments upon Familiar Truths; (2) The Nation's Debt to the Church.

The Reverend H. H. Bedford-Jones, M.A., Lecturer in Theology, Trinity University—(1) Sir Walter Scott; (2) Some Modern Novelists; (3) * A Trip to England in 1897 (lantern views).

The Reverend W. H. White, M.A., Lecturer in Classics, Trinity University—Charles Dickens.

H. C. Simpson, M.A., Lecturer in Physical Science, Trinity University—(1) The Search for the Philosopher's Stone.

N.B.—In the case of subjects marked with an asterisk, a guarantee of probably $5.00 will be required for the magic lantern used to illustrate the lectures.

TERMS FOR THE LECTURES.

The terms upon which the lecturers have agreed to lecture are:—

(1) At least two weeks' notice shall be given a lecturer of the date upon which his lecture will be required.

(2) The lecturer's expenses shall be paid.

(3) The proceeds of the lectures, over and above the expenses, shall be absolutely at the disposal of the organization under whose auspices the lectures may be given.

Theological and Missionary.

Since the last issue of the REVIEW we have had the pleasure of hearing addresses from Rev. R. L. Paddock, General Travelling Secretary of the C.S.M.A.; Rev. F. Huntington who conducted our devotional service in the chapel on Nov. 15th; Rev. H. Gomery who gave us an interesting account of the work of the S.P.C.K.; from Rev. J. G. Waller, whose illustrated missionary address on Nov. 28th was listened to with much interest by those present.

Here it might be asked, "Is it not possible to increase the number in attendance at our meetings?" There is room for improvement in this respect, at any rate as far as the men in College are concerned.

* * *

It will be remembered that last February the Church Student's Missionary Association held a convention in Trinity College, one that was full of interest and fruitful in its results. The next will be held in Cambridge, Mass., on Feb. 9th, 10th and 11th, 1899. An attempt is being made to secure the necessary means to send a delegate from Trinity.

* * *

Those who were present at last year's convention will be grieved to learn of the death of Mr. H. L. Bland, who came as one of the representatives from the General Theological Seminary, New York. Mr. Bland, during his brief stay in Trinity won many warm friends among us. He was a roommate at the General Theological Seminary of Mr. R. H. Locke, who left Trinity in '96. To his brother, the Rev. Canon Bland, of Christ Church Cathedral, Hamilton, we extend our most heartfelt sympathy.

* * *

It is most gratifying to know that the debt on Mr. Waller's church at Nagano has now been entirely wiped out.

* * *

At the recent public missionary meeting held in connection with the Divinity Alumni's gathering, the task of building a much needed church in Matsumoto, where another of our graduates, Rev. F. W. Kennedy is working, was undertaken. From the interest already manifested in this work, Mr. Kennedy can reasonably hope to soon see the realization of his earnest wishes and to have a suitable building in which to hold his services.

Literary Institute.

The Inter-College Debating Union of Toronto has given ample proof that its formation was a wise step on the part of those colleges who joined in the undertaking.

The schedule of debates was drawn up by the executive during November, and the first series, consisting of three debates, was brought off last month.

The dates arranged were as follows:—

(1) Trinity vs. University College on Dec. 2nd.

(2) McMaster vs. Osgoode on Dec. 3rd.

(3) Knox vs. Victoria on Dec. 9th.

* * *

The first debate was held at Trinity in the Convocation Hall. The Varsity debaters were accompanied by a large number of supporters, both ladies and gentlemen, and as Trinity's friends were there also in force, Convocation Hall was full, very few seats being unoccupied.

The Provost took the chair shortly after eight o'clock, and in a short speech welcomed the visitors in the name of the College, expressing his satisfaction in Trinity being chosen as the place of the first debate of the Union.

The programme was begun by a reading by Mr. F. H. Kirkpatrick (of the School of Elocution), from "Nicholas Nickelby."

This was followed by the debate; the resolution presented for discussion was:—

Resolved: "That war is a necessary means to the advancement of civilization." Messrs. D. T. Owen and K. O. McEwen spoke for Trinity in support of the resolution.

and Messrs. W. H. Alexander and F. W. Anderson for University College against the resolution.

The debate was closely contested and followed with careful attention by all present. The different sides unfortunately disagreed in their points of view of the subject—the affirmative insisting on its being entirely a practical one, and the negative a theoretical.

On the conclusion of the debate, the referees, Rev. Professor McFadyen, Mr. B. E. Walker and Mr. Emerson Coatsworth, Jr., retired to consider their decision.

During their absence the programme was continued, Messrs. McCausland and Mockridge giving a piano duet, Mr. Kirkpatrick a second reading, and a number of members of the Institute a chorus.

Then the chairman, having received the finding of the referees, announced that the debate was awarded to the negative.

The proceedings closed with the singing of "God Save the Queen."

* * *

The other two debates of the first series were held as mentioned above. That between McMaster and Osgoode was held at Osgoode on Dec. 3rd. The subject for debate was:

Resolved: "That the permanent retention of the Philippine Islands by the United States would be advantageous to both the United States and the Philippines." The debate was awarded to the negative, the side on which the McMaster men had spoken.

* * *

The last of the series was between Knox and Victoria, at Victoria, on Dec. 9th. The subject for debate was:

Resolved: "That the present condition of the industrial classes is due more to the employee than to the employer." Knox won this debate, their side being the negative.

* * *

The three debates mentioned above were all held last term: it remained for the three successful colleges—University College, McMasters and Knox—to meet in the second series. At a meeting of the executive of the Union held in the end of December, it was decided by lot that University College and McMasters should first debate, and that Knox should meet the winner in the final debate.

* * *

On Friday, January 20th, the first debate of this second series was held in the Conservatory of Music, the question presented for the speakers to deal with was "The Advisability of an Immediate Formation of an Alliance, Offensive and Defensive, between Great Britain and the United States." McMaster supported the proposal, and University College were strong in their denunciations. The debate was excellent, both sides showing readiness in meeting their opponent's claims or objections. McMaster, however, found that they had undertaken to prove too much, in spite of their leader's assurances in his opening speech. The result was by no means a foregone conclusion, as the supporters of both sides were fairly confident of success. The judges gave their award in favor of the negative.

The eighth regular meeting of the Literary Institute was held in the Hall on Friday, January 20th. Mr. Madill, the President, was in the chair. The evening's programme was begun by Mr. Steacy, who read "The Lightning-rod Dispenser." Mr. Walker followed with a reading on "Discourse," from Bacon. Mr. Westman, of the first year, sent his essay with apologies for being unable to attend in person. His essay was read by a brother freshman. The subject of this, too, was from Bacon "Reading Maketh a Full Man." Then came the debate on the question of "Professional Pugilism." The meeting, by its vote at the conclusion of the debate, was found to be strongly opposed to professionalism in this line of sport. The critic for the evening was Mr. Johnston, B.A. It was decided at this meeting that the annual conversazione should be held, but not on so lavish a scale as in former years, when the expenses ran up to amounts far beyond the power of the men in College to meet.

* * *

The ninth regular meeting was held on Friday, January 27th. The chairman was Mr. Steacy. The first Vice-President, Mr. Broughall read a short poem from Kipling, and Mr. Spencer, a prose selection on "Glory." The essay was by Mr. Griffith on "John Greenleaf Whittier." The debate dealt with the social troubles of the day, but proved lamentably brief, only one of the four speakers showing any deep research. The latter part of the meeting was marred by considerable turmoil; a motion to adjourn was made, and the chairman, as is usual, vacated the chair without calling for a vote; several of those present called for a vote, and, on the Vice-President's refusal to return to the chair, Mr. Wright, the second Vice-President took his place. The motion to adjourn was then put and lost. Mr. Owen was then requested to act as critic, and did so to the satisfaction of all. The meeting then adjourned.

College Chronicle.

Among the many and important special convocations held here last term, none was more interesting than that held on Wednesday, December 22nd last, when Kenneth Oglivly McEwen and Newbold Coursolles Jones received the degree of B.A. The ceremony was of a very special and impressive nature, and attended only by those directly concerned.

The College deeply regrets the departure of these two popular and clever men, whose places will be hard to fill. In Mr. McEwen THE REVIEW loses an Editor-in-chief of great ability, and in Mr. Jones the Athletics of the College sustain a great loss. This paper joins with their many friends in wishing these gentlemen every prosperity in their respective professions of law and medicine.

* * *

At a College meeting held on Tuesday, January 17th, Mr. H. C. Griffith resigned his position of business manager of THE REVIEW, and Mr. R. Turley was elected to fill the position. Then the following were elected to fill vacancies on the Editorial Board of THE REVIEW: Messrs. J. R. H. Warren, D. T. Owen and J. J. Donaghy, and at a meeting of the Editorial Board afterwards, Mr. H. C. Griffith was appointed Editor-in-chief.

* * *

We are sincerely glad to know that Mr. Leonard McLaughlin, '99, is improving in health at Lake Saranac, N.Y., where he is spending the winter. May he soon be with us again.

* * *

Great efforts are being put forward to make the Annual Conversazione, which is to be held on February 7th, a great success. The different committees are working hard, and we all confidently feel that this—Trinity's great social function—will, this year, be not one whit behind those of former years.

* * *

The Compline room in the divinity corridor is about to be changed to the one which was occupied by the late Arthur P. Boddy, in memory of him.

GOOPS.

The Goops they lick their fingers,
And the Goops they lick their knives;
They spill their broth on the tablecloth;
Oh, they lead untidy lives.
The Goops they talk while eating,
And loud and fast they chew.
So that is why I am glad that I
Am not a Goop? Are you?

The Goop throws pickle bottles
All down the corridor,
And not a scruple has the Goop
In spitting on the floor.
He thinks smashed glass improves the grass,
And throws old cans outside.
I used to wonder, where in thunder,
Goops went when they died.

And when the Goop is angry
Is's sad to hear him cuss;
When walls have been made nice and clean
He writes up "rats," or wuss,
His nails are long and dirty,
And never washed for meals,
I don't suppose he cares or knows
How pleasant cleanness feels.

COLLEGE MEN ARE REQUESTED TO PATRONIZE ADVERTISERS.

Congratulations to Rev. R. S. W. Howard, B.A., of London, who was married to Miss Janet Tweedie, of Toronto, in S. Peter's Church recently.

H. W. Church, M.A., Bursar of S. Hilda's College, was married to Miss Pemberton, of Kincardine, on December 15th. THE REVIEW offers its congratulations.

The Rev. G. A. Field, '97, has been seen in hall quite often during this term. Rumour has it that other than business interests have occupied his time while in Toronto.

Day Baldwin, '96, visited the College just before Christmas on his way to England, where he is to take Holy Orders and become curate to the Rev. Mr. Webb Peplow, in London.

The Rev. F. DuMoulin, '92, has accepted the rectorship of S. Peter's Church, Chicago. He enters upon his new duties about the beginning of Lent. THE REVIEW congratulates him on his new appointment and wishes him every success in his work.

The Rev. J. C. H. Mockridge, '93, is to be congratulated on his recent marriage to Miss Beatrice Osler, of Toronto, as is also Rev. C. P. Sparling, '95, who was married on Thursday, Jan. 12th to Miss Nicholson, of Parkdale. The Rev. J. D. McCallum assisted at the wedding.

J. R. H. Warren, B.A., was ordained deacon by his Lordship, the Bishop of Toronto, on Sunday, Dec. 18th in S. Alban's Cathedral, the Rev. A. J. Broughall preaching a sermon on the "Priesthood of the Laity." At the same time Mr. Vivien Morgan was also ordained to the diaconate.

The Rt. Rev. P. T. Rowe, Bishop of the missionary Diocese of Alaska, and a distinguished graduate of Trinity, delivered a most interesting address in St. Philip's Church on Wednesday evening, Jan. 18th. He described the geographical features of his great diocese, the nature of his work and the difficulties met with in carrying it on.

He dwelt strongly upon the need for men—men who should go there and look after the spiritual interests of the whites who are pouring into the country in large numbers. It is a pity Bishop Rowe's stay in Toronto was too brief to enable him to pay Trinity a visit for the purpose of addressing the men. Had he been able to come he would have received a very hearty welcome.

The following account of the success of one of Trinity's graduates appeared in the Hamilton Times. Mr. Martin graduated from Trinity in '92, and took his law course at Osgoode:—"Mr Alexis Martin, son of Mr. Edward Martin, Q.C., of this city, went to British Columbia last spring, was called to the bar and hung out his shingle. The Victoria Daily Colonist shows that he has got to work. The steamer 'Horsa,' that paper says, is free from the custody of the marshal of the Admiralty Court. This came about yesterday as a result of Mr. Alexis Martin's application to the Chief Justice to have the ship set free. The 'Horsa' was seized on account of a claim against the vessel by the New Vancouver Coal Company for $254.65, balance due for necessaries supplied to the ship. The registered owner of the ship is James Norton, who resides here. Mr. Alexis Martin, acting for the mortgagees, claimed that the court had no jurisdiction in an action against the ship for necessaries supplied at the home port, but that the action should have been taken out against the owner. Mr. Moresby, of Drake, Jackson & Helmcken, appeared for the New Vancouver Coal Company, and contended that Mr. Norton was not the real owner, although the ship was registered here in his name. The Chief Justice decided in favour of Mr. Martin's contention, and ordered the ship released, which was accordingly done."

We again ask the men to remember that the advertisers to a great extent support THE REVIEW financially, consequently it is only fair for us to patronize those who help us.
