

Turkish Nationalists Wish To Solve Own Problems INTEND DRIVING OUT GREEKS AND RE-TAKING CONSTANTINOPLE

Mustapha Kemal Believes Syria and Mesopotamia Adequate Price for Defeat in Great War—Fear Bolshevism Contact.

(Associated Press by Mail) Ankara, Asia Minor, July 11.—The Keraal government, with the aid of its army, is determined to solve the Near Eastern problems itself; a fact to which the Allied western powers are said to be blind. This is the chief impression which the Associated Press correspondent received after a trip of hundred miles by sea and land from the beleaguered Constantinople to the clear atmosphere of this little city, situated on a wide plateau, where the Nationalists have withdrawn their political tents. The stranger, putting his foot on the soil of Nationalist Anatolia, feels a few air. It is not a privilege extended to all and sundry; but once good faith has been established, the doors of primitive hospitality are opened wide, and the stranger may do what he will or go where he pleases. Re-visiting the interior after two years, when the Nationalist government had just received its baptism by the declaration of rights of the Turkish people at Sivas, the correspondent found the same hallows, befouled, treacherous distances, the same halting pensants in the same dull villages and towns. But the air is charged with a new purpose. The correspondent saw Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Halide Hanum, the woman Nationalist leader, and other personalities with whom he talked at length two years ago. Today, they make the same declarations as then: they are fighting for their homeland and for national existence; they will have nothing more and nothing less. They are close students of American history; they compare their war to America's struggle for independence.

The Auburn team of Cambridge, Mass., arrived in the city this morning on the Halifax express and will play St. John's this afternoon and evening. The betts is booked to pitch the afternoon game and Callaghan this evening. The team played fourteen games, winning thirteen and losing one. While they are here they hope to add two more wins to their list, but their opponents are figuring that their thirteenth win should prove a hoodoo and more especially as this is the thirteenth of the month.

Went Through Their Clothes

Frederick Mall—The four young scullers from the R. K. Y. C. and the John Amateur Rowing Club who scullled here last evening, had a most unfortunate experience while racing. Their shells had been placed in the parliament buildings before the races and they left their clothing there while in sculling. Upon their return they found that in the absence of a member of the caretaking staff someone had entered the room where their clothing was and gone through the pockets, taking what money had been there.

LOOKS BETTER AT WESTFIELD

No smoke was visible from the Westfield fire this morning and the air was very clear with a light wind. Some of the men who have been fighting the fire have been released from duty and it is expected that others will be freed soon. The force of approximately 200 men which has concentrated there will prove more than sufficient for present needs though the number will not be decreased beyond what is considered necessary, it was announced today.

OUTSTANDING GENEROSITY

One incident in connection with the Westfield fire is particularly well worthy of note. Among the houses destroyed in Onneton was that of William Block, a native of the Old Country who had come here a short time ago and acquired a farm just back of the golf links of the Westfield Country Club. With him came his wife, and the two made many friends among the summer residents as well as the permanent ones. Mr. Block conducted a dairy business and was doing well. The end of his dreams, for the time being, came on last Saturday. House, barns, outbuildings, machinery, stock—in short, everything on the farm went to feed the flames. F. G. Spencer, whose own home was then in flames, drove Mr. and Mrs. Block and a farm helper to Onneton where he considered they would be safe for a time at least. Mr. Block, a volunteer, took them in and care for them until they could find a place to live. Of a kindly and generous disposition, Mr. Block impressed the ladies of Onneton with his fortitude in the face of what seemed overwhelming defeat. On Tuesday arrangements were made through the kindness of the Warwick family at Onneton whereby Mr. and Mrs. Block were enabled to make their home temporarily in the Warwick household, where they are now comfortably settled. In the meantime Mrs. Sydney C. Young and Mrs. Roy Robinson of Onneton went to the farm to see the ladies there and solicited subscriptions to a fund to re-establish Mrs. Block's kitchen. In a remarkably short time the sum of $100 had been raised and last evening Mrs. Young and Mrs. Robinson went to Onneton and presented that amount to Mrs. Block, who expressed her gratitude, but those who had worked the fire, and who had felt well repaid for their efforts. It is incidents such as this that give silver linings to many a dark cloud.

THE FOREST FIRES.

The Times today reprints a graphic story of the Miramichi fire of 1920, the most terrible forest fire that ever swept any portion of New Brunswick. It was accompanied by great loss of life, as the sweep of the flames was even more rapid than that which a week ago wrought such devastation near Westfield.

The statement that the crown lands department of the province has had to fight more than three hundred fires this year cannot but justify the announcement that legislation will be sought to lessen the danger from careless campers. Obviously the department has been compelled to make a very heavy expenditure this year for forest protection, and this at a time when so little lumber is being cut to yield revenue, and the lumber operators are seeking a reduction in stumpage, confronts the province with a grave situation. It is a situation for which the government is not responsible, and yet one which it must face courageously in the interests of the province. We may not, and probably will not have a dry season for many years, but the lessons of this year are too painful to be ignored. The forests must be protected. It has been said by those in a position to know that we have been cutting down our timber at too rapid a rate, and if to this were added serious savages by fire the position would be so much the worse. It is true that this year's fires have not ravaged the heavily timbered areas, but they have destroyed much that was of value; and when the fire burns into the open country it did this year because of the protracted drought, it makes the land of little value for a considerable period. It is clear that all the people must show a deeper interest in the protection of the woods from fire, so that never again may the experience of the present year be repeated.

TRAGEDY OF RUSSIA.

The tragedy of Russia nears its crisis. There is no longer an effort on the part of Lenin and Trotsky to conceal the fact that millions are starving, although they declare the present conditions to be the result of a capitalistic war. Unless help comes from abroad the famine will stalk over vast areas, for there is a crop failure. Why is it that a country which formerly exported enormous quantities of foodstuffs is today starving? It cannot be honestly attributed to crop failure except on the ground that the peasants, weary of being pillaged, determined not to do more than provide for their own wants. They did not plant the usual crop, and therefore the harvest cannot be reaped. No doubt the universal drought affected the crops that were planted, but the shortage is chiefly due to the hopeless apathy of a people crushed under a worse despotism than that of the czar. The stories that come out of Russia telling of people fleeing from the famine, and in their frenzy abandoning their children, are heart-rending, and relief must be sent. It will not, however, bring prosperity back to Russia. That can only come with sane and stable government, and the abandonment of the theories of Bolshevism. The rest of the world is warned to keep its hands off Russia, and yet is invited to feed Russia, leaving Lenin and Trotsky still in the saddle. No doubt those who give this advice have ground for their belief that it is best to let Russia work out her own salvation, but there is a very natural impatience with a state of affairs which practically compels other nations to help to pay the cost of the mad experiment which has brought that great country to its present helpless condition.

EDUCATION IN ENGLAND.

An educational official from London who is attending the imperial conference of teachers in Toronto has given to the Toronto Globe an interesting account of the method which enables any child to have at least the opportunity to attain the highest scholarship. We quote: "By a system of scholarships in operation all over England, the children of the poor, from the poorest districts in the country, may rise (as one of them did last year) to be Senior Wrangler at Cambridge, or win the most coveted honors at Oxford. This system begins at the elementary school (which are actively supported by public money, half from the rates, half from the government) and 1,600 scholarships, 800 for boys and 800 for girls, are awarded in these schools. The scholars are thus enabled at eleven years of age to go on to the secondary schools, where, at the age of sixteen, the best are picked for further scholarships, which will carry them on to the matriculation standard. At this stage there is a further skimming of the cream and pupils of promise are awarded larger scholarships which will take them through their university course."

The advantage of such a system is apparent. It gives the poorest child the opportunity to go forward without imposing a burden upon parents who are nearly overburdened. Many a bright child is thus saved to the nation. In England provision is also made for the seat opportunity for vocational training, and for keeping all children at school or in touch with classes until they have received sufficient education to enable them, according to their capacity, to become self-sustaining and useful members of the community. Along with this is such a system of child-welfare work, from pre-natal care to careful medical inspection in early childhood as makes for vigorous physical and mental health.

WESTERN CATTLE TRADE.

While the grain men of the west are looking forward to the successful harvesting of a great crop of high quality livestock men are facing a crisis. They declare that the market for western unfinished cattle is in danger of destruction, and that there has been a decrease of more than ten dollars per head in the average value of these cattle. They further say that "financial pressure is causing many farmers to sacrifice their cattle and sheep at prices considerably below the cost of production, thus destroying their own assets and demoralizing still further an already demoralized market." They have therefore called upon Premier Meighen to "call a conference presenting the banking, transportation (rail and ocean), farmers, stockmen, manufacturers and other interests concerned, to be held at an early date to consider the condition of the live stock market from all angles, and remedies for same, and especially to consider some means of credit extension to farmers and stockmen so that they may not be compelled to throw their breeding and unbreeding stock on the market at sacrifice prices."

The cattle trade of western Canada has grown to great proportions, and a check to its further growth would be a severe blow to the interests of the whole country. If markets are not available, many interests will suffer. The unfavorable conditions in regard to live stock make the prospect of large grain crops all the more welcome.

THE LAGGARDS.

Milly—Men live faster lives than women. Billy—Perhaps you are right. At any rate it takes a woman half an hour to get ready for the day, while it takes a man only ten minutes. In the Dark. "I told him he mustn't see me any more." "What did he do then?" "Switched off the lights."—Life.

Did All Dotted Out.

The bride entered the room on the arm of her father, who was a gown of champagne satin trimmed with Venetian point lace and with a veil of the same. Seen in a Chicago paper.

His Opinion.

"What is your opinion of bobbed hair for girls?" "For girls of sixteen it's all right, but it's no style for girls of thirty-two or over."—Detroit Free Press.

They Couldn't Catch Him.

Brown was a testy fellow, and if there was one thing more than another that he hated it was to be caught. As a consequence, he was very suspicious of any deed or word that meant anything which he could not understand. Once when he visited a menagerie he had an interesting chat with one of the keepers, and as he was about to leave the man asked: "By the way, sir, have you seen our black-faced antelope?" "Ah," thought Brown, "he's trying to make a fool of me." "No," he replied stily. "May I ask with whom your black-faced antelope is?" "Jones was operated on for appendicitis yesterday, and after it was all over he found he had left one of his scalps inside Jones before he sewed him up."

Had Him Both Ways.

Things had gone wrong at the office all day, and the chief was in a red-hot temper, which rose to white heat when he broke his glasses and could only read with difficulty the figures his clerk set before him. "Just look at this 91," he roared. "It's exactly like a 7." "The figure is a 7, sir," replied the clerk. "Then," roared the old man, "why does it look like a 9?"

WESTFIELD FIRE.

About one-third of an inch of rain fell here yesterday, and in the Westfield district it was of incalculable benefit. The ground was in a receptive state for rain owing to dampness and heavy fog. G. H. Prince, chief forester, said last night that though the rain had done much good it had not been sufficient to extinguish the fire completely. There were no actual losses, he said, except in one or two isolated sections, and certain portions of the fire line were completely out. Some men have already been laid off, and others will be laid off today.

"POOR LITTLE NIPPERS"

(Ottawa Journal.)

Youngster was killed while playing on an Ottawa street yesterday. Poor little nipper. The street is a dangerous place to play in, yet the children must play somewhere. A properly planned city would provide play places easily accessible to every district. But what city ever is properly planned? Cities just coming into existence in this country of wonderful spaces are still, as in the past, growing any old way like Tokyo. Even their parks are not made for children. Between "keep off the grass" signs, the embargoes of landlords, and the dangers of fast traffic child-life in a city is a schedule of limitations. Poor little nipper.

OLD ROADS.

If you turn west from the sunken river, And toil through the trees up the mountainside, You will come upon traces of old roads, fashioned long ago. By folk that long ago lived and died. Here are the stones of their leafhatched sidewalks, And here are the tracks that their wheels have worn. And the broken spans of their rotted bridges Amid a tangle of weed and thorn. They wind on, these roads, past foot-roads fallen; Past crumpled chimneys, forsaken and cold; Past unpruned orchards where yet in August The harvest apples hang out their gold.

Where by these roads now the tireless fowler, Seeking grouse, through the thickets may stray, Men once went trudging with cumbersome flintlocks, Bound to muster or training day. Along these roads to the springtime, jowling With a whistle men strode in days gone by. Now the only music amid the stillness Is hidden woodbird's grieving cry.

There, round the hearths that were home for someone, Cling lines in riot and matted grass; There, where the haymakers passed at sunday The shy, wild shapes of the forest pass. G. S. B., in New York Tribune.

LIGHTER VEIN.

The Question. "Now, friends and comrades," said the street corner politician, "after a long speech made in the pouring rain, 'any question?'" "Yes," piped all that remained of his audience in unison. "Can I have the box you're standing on to make a go-cart with?"—The Evening News (London).

Too Late.

A member of one of the theatrical club tells of a stranded but still haughty leading man, who was obliged to put up at a dilapidated country hotel. He glanced frowningly about the office, reluctantly signed the register, and took the brass key from the proprietor. "Is there any water in my room?" he demanded. "There was," replied the proprietor, "but I had the roof fixed."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

TEACHING BUSY LITTLE FINGERS

Make Beautiful and Useful Things.

Idle Vacation Days are Turned to Profitable Account for Children of All Ages at the Hester How School.

(Toronto Globe.)

Basket weaving, dressmaking, embroidery, knitting, tatting, crocheting—these are some of the accomplishments learned by the children who attend the Hester How Vacation School held each morning from 9 to 12.

Situated in the midst of a densely populated district, the Hester How School, with its spacious, well-ventilated rooms, is a boon to the younger people during the idle vacation days. Here they love to congregate, and here they learn, under the happiest conditions, lessons that will make life easier and homes brighter in years to come.

Attendance is high. This season 1,100 children have registered, and although the attendance was fluctuating, there has been a daily average of over 400.

In the kindergarten, which is in charge of Mrs. Burke and Miss White, 400 little tots have enrolled this summer, and the average attendance has been 125.

The Junior sewing class, conducted by Mrs. Brennan and Miss Heaton, has had a membership of 300 and Miss Charlton, who teaches sewing to larger girls, reports an average of 80 for the summer.

In the basketry department, conducted by Miss Lush, 88 boys and girls have registered.

These are your youngest pupils," asked a Globe reporter of Miss Jamieson, the Principal of the Hester How Vacation School.

Catching Them Young. "Well," replied Miss Jamieson, "they come at all ages. Here is a little girl now with her tiny sister. How old is the little one?" "Miss Jamieson," "we let them come at any age, and long before they are able to do any work. We care for the children of three."

Beginning with the simple kindergarten practice of working with wool on needles, the teachers of the Vacation School lead their pupils on to remarkable achievements. In the junior department they begin by making simple pen wipers and needle cases, working with wool on canvas. They are taught various stitches and by degrees learn how to make all sorts of useful articles. Yesterday Mrs. Brennan proudly displayed some very neatly made kitchen towels and aprons, also guest towels trimmed with pretty crocheted edging, aprons, robes, cushion tops, dolls, and many other articles.

One clever little needlewoman of thirteen—Mary Polito—had in five weeks made a beautiful centerpiece on a pin cushion cover in French and eyelid embroidery, the quality of the work being well high perfect. Another girl of eight, Sadie Gidyczka, had outlined a design on a cushion top with remarkable success.

The dressing of dolls is also taught, and many garments are cut out by the teacher for the weavers and sisters. The dolls are made by the children, who are never so proud as when making something for Tony or Baby Bess.

In the senior class Miss Charlton supervises the making of dresses, aprons, fancy bags, fur coats, etc., and also the knitting of socks. One dress, made by hand in her apartment three years ago, has been twice over since and is still quite wearable. Another frock, constructed in this workshop last summer, the same girl is to wear by the way of a child there.

Produce Fine Tatting. Girls aging from ten to thirteen have, with the assistance of Miss Lean, produced some beautiful tatting and pretty woven woolen tans. Their evenly-knit sweaters should also receive honorable mention.

A fine array of baskets testify to the success of the classes conducted by Miss Lush. For the past few weeks Mrs. Warner, a former instructor, has been assisting, and under her direction, articles of more intricate design have been made. All the materials necessary for the various departments are supplied by the board of education, and the teaching charge free of cost.

Samples of basketry and of sewing will be sent, as usual, to the Exhibition. Last year in an open competition thirteen pieces of needlework out of the fifteen displayed by the Hester How School received prizes.

KING HARD HIT BY GREATER EXPENSES

Orders Further Economies and Declines a Suggested Civil List Increase.

London, Aug. 12—King George has been hard hit by the increased cost of living during and since the war. This statement was made in the House of Commons by the Rt. Hon. Austen Chamberlain, Government leader, who said that the King's civil list (the sum provided from public household) has shown a progressive deficit for several years.

The deficit in 1919 was £24,800, and in 1920, £48,000, and it probably would be greater in 1921, despite a suggestion that the government temporarily increase the civil list, being unwilling to involve the public with an additional charge, in view of the serious state of the national finances.

King George also had favored a material reduction in the ceremonial splendor traditionally associated with the British throne, but the government had advised him that parliament and the great mass of the population of the empire would prefer to maintain the customary dignity of the crown.

Meanwhile great economies had been introduced in the royal household. The royal expenditure was only 14 per cent. greater than in 1910, and the King believed that his economies were possible and was appointing a committee to examine into the question of salaries.

King George wished to make further contributions, but that the government had advised that he contribute to public charities instead of to the exchequer.

Mr. Chamberlain, recalling that the King in 1916 voluntarily contributed £20,000 to the national treasury, said King George wished to make further contributions, but that the government had advised that he contribute to public charities instead of to the exchequer.

There are sixteen good reasons, says The Wall Street Journal, for believing that great headway has been made toward normalcy. SIR WALTER SCOTT'S 150TH ANNIVERSARY

Halifax Celebration Today in Honor of Event—Gathering of Scots from All Over the Province.

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 13.—(By Canadian Press).—Scotchmen are gathered together in Halifax for a week-end celebration, under the auspices of the North British Society, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Sir Walter Scott. The event will be commemorated with a revival of the Brae Mar games this afternoon and a literary and musical festival to be held in the largest theatre in the city Monday evening. The celebration of the centenary of Scott by the North British in 1870 was memorable, and it commemorates this year promise to be no less worthy of the fame and genius of the great Sir Walter.

Scores of the brawny sons of New Scotland from all parts of New Scotland and from over its borders are here to witness or take part in the sports of their forefathers. "Throwing the hammer, tossing the caber, tugs of war, competitions in playing the pipes and dancing the old wild steps of the glorious Highlander, will be some of the ancient contests revived this afternoon. Included in the membership of the North British Society are a good many of the notables of Nova Scotia and those, with distinguished representatives of similar organizations in Halifax and elsewhere, will be honored guests at the festival Monday. The North British have been at pains to prepare a programme suited to the importance of the occasion. Sir Walter Scott's songs will be sung and his poems recited. Rev. Dr. Clarence Mackinnon, chaplain of the Nova Scotia Highlanders, is to deliver the oration on the man himself. An original poetic tribute has been presented by Rev. A. L. Fraser, pastor of Park street Presbyterian church, Halifax.

Explaining the object of the celebration to the Canadian Press, Alvin F. Macdonald, president of the society, said: "These folk purposes are designed to stimulate interest in the life and works of Scott, to encourage the study of Scottish literature and history and to prepare the way for the establishment of an appropriate permanent memorial which will be an enduring symbol of our attachment to the homeland of our race and our veneration for its heroic figures."

In furtherance of its aims the North British recently erected a bronze statue of Robert Burns on one of the main thoroughfares of the city, and shortly to become godfather to a troop of Canadian Boy Scouts "with kilts and feathers and a sword." Its history since its foundation in 1768 has been inextricably interwoven with the life of Halifax and Nova Scotia. The society is said to be the oldest of its kind in Canada and the only organization in America which has been continuously in existence for 153 years. On the roster are the names of such distinguished figures in British colonial affairs as Earl of Selkirk, Lord Dalhousie, Lord Falkland, General Sir Colin Campbell and many famous generals and admirals. Four chief justices and two lieutenant-governors have in recent years served as presidents of the organization, and it has had the honor of having had a member of the royal family as its guest.

GERMAN JEWEL DEALERS FACE A FINANCIAL CRISIS

Berlin, July 26.—Trade in precious stones has experienced such a slump in the past twelve months that many of the jewel dealers are facing a serious financial crisis, according to Berlin reports, and have been investigating the causes of an unusual situation.

The diamond markets are especially threatened, for the men and women who made much money during the war and invested heavily in diamonds, recently have been selling brilliant stones extensively, while the old families of established wealth, upon which the trade once depended, have ceased to buy. It is said 50 to 60 per cent of those who brought jewels with war profits in Germany and England have either sold their purchases or offered them for sale within the last few months.

The synthetic diamond, as well as the artificial ruby, sapphire and spinel, also has invaded the market to the detriment of the trade in legitimate stones, not only because many artificial stones are sold as genuine, but because the artificial jewel is preferred by many because it is less expensive, and often can be differentiated only by the connoisseur.

The business in synthetic stones has grown immensely during the last few years, with Germany and France the principal competitors, and Switzerland and a close third. Raw materials for the manufacture of the artificial ruby, which is accomplished by an electrical process, are purchased by Swiss manufacturers from Germany, which has handicapped Switzerland in the race for control of the world market.

Although the production of artificial jewels has greatly increased, the prices have risen which is attributed by the experts to the improved technique. Prices of synthetic rubies and sapphires have increased 20 fold over pre-war prices.

Owing to the stagnation of the trade in genuine diamonds, many have ceased importing from South Africa, where their chief supply was secured, and others have greatly reduced their purchases of raw diamonds.

NEW U. S. TARIFF HITS WESTERNER

In the opinion of George Lane, the veteran Alberta rancher, the new American tariff means a reduction of 20 per cent in the value of western cattle and 30 per cent in western land. That Mr. Lane has under, rather than over, estimated the amount of injury caused is made apparent by statements of actual transactions recorded in Farm and Ranch Review of Calgary. During the last month, Farm and Ranch Review says, two-year-old fleckly Alberta steers, for shipment to St. Paul, have sold at $2.75 per cwt. A mixed car of cows and steers sold in Calgary market for $1.75 per cwt. Windermere Lake realized $111 for the shipper after paying freight and other charges.

Mr. Lane further says that in his opinion the new U. S. tariff, which was professionally intended to benefit American stockmen, will prove an immediate injury to them, because they will find it

POLICEMAN THREW RUNAWAY HORSE

Animal, Dragging the Front Wheels of Buggy, Jeopardized Children's Safety in Montreal.

(Montreal Gazette.)

Jumping at the head of a runaway horse which had bolted across the grass plots of Lafontaine Park, near Parthenais street, at 8:15 o'clock last night, and was in danger of injuring the crowd of persons sitting around, Constable Colangelo of the Rachel street station threw the animal to the ground and was slightly injured on his foot when the wheel of the buggy, from which the animal had broken, passed over his foot.

The animal, which had also been injured by the piece of broken axle which it was dragging, was sent to Dr. D. Genereux's establishment, 440 Amberst street, Colangelo, after having the injury dressed by Sergt. Charbonneau, of the Lafontaine Park station, was sent home in a motor side car.

Sergt. Archambault and Constable Colangelo were patrolling the park when a horse, driven by Ernest Nantale of 428 Garnier street, suddenly bolted. After the shafts and front wheels broke from the buggy, leaving the driver in the vehicle. The animal, at the time, about to crash into three parked automobiles, containing children, when Colangelo jumped at the animal and brought it down.

SLAVISM AND TEUTONISM

The Struggle for Supremacy in the Balkans—Still a Dangerous Point.

(Hamilton Fish Armstrong in New York Evening Post.) Williamstown, Mass., August 8.—Baron Sergius A. Korff made a valiant attempt this morning to untangle for the members of the Institute of Politics the criss-cross intrigues for Russia and Austria-Hungary for domination in the Balkans—the great conflict between Slavism and Teutonism, which, developing all through the last half century, finally flared up in the great war and now, though momentarily dormant, is not dead.

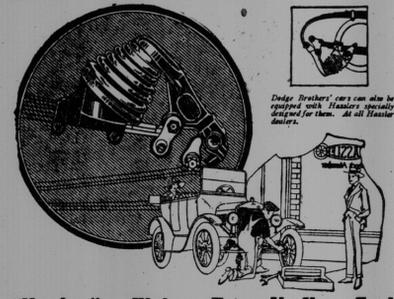

traps and unyielding policy by which Austria-Hungary strove incessantly to spread her dominion southwards, which in turn was to provoke a counteracting pan-slav movement. "With Russia," said Baron Korff, "pan-slavism was promoted much more by the greed of the Germans than love of the Slavs, and Vienna paid far too little attention to this factor. It soon proved to be the main source of trouble between Austria and Russia. For a long time it disturbed the peace of Europe and unfortunately the question is still with us: Is it solved?" Bismark, while encouraging Austria, spent much time and effort endeavoring to build up an understanding with Russia. "He displayed his usual great diplomatic skill," said Baron Korff. "Harping on the monarchical idea, he conceived the three Emperors of the necessity of a personal meeting to further strengthen their autocracies. "One can easily judge of the involved game Bismark was playing by the fact that simultaneously he succeeded in reinforcing the Dual Alliance by the addition of Italy, which was to act by the same time as a counterweight to the developing between Bulgaria and Russia. Austria. The Balkan trouble, just added fuel. Thus the web of diplomatic intrigue was woven unabatingly by the Eastern autocracies, which were finally fated to perish themselves, strangled in the vicious meshes of their own construction." Proceeding then to a description of Count d'Arenthals, Austria's canny and enterprising Minister of Foreign Affairs, Baron Korff detailed his intrigues to establish Hapsburg supremacy in Serbia and out Russian influence from the Balkans, leading up to the sudden coup of October, 1908, when Austria-Hungary annexed Bosnia-Herzegovina. "This was a deliberate infringement of the Berlin Treaty," said Baron Korff, "and was a terrible blow to all the Slavs. The Serbs were very much alarmed, considering D'Arenthals' policy a direct threat to their kingdom. Finally, Italy looked askance on the increase of Austria's strength, and here we see probably the first fissure in the Triple Alliance. "Now, that Austria-Hungary is dead," said Baron Korff in conclusion, "none is found to say a word for the old lady, for the simple reason that there is very little good one can possibly say; she is unregretted. "A possible Austro-Hungarian achievement was the school of bureaucrats she developed. They were polished and clever, but slippery and small. She knew great men in older days—but long ago." Don't Be Misled Into Buying Cheap Lamps. Do you realize you are making a mistake when you buy cheap Electric Lamps? For your health's and comfort's sake you need good lighting in your home. And good lighting can only be produced from good quality lamps. When you consider that about half of your waking hours are spent under artificial light, it pays to get the best light. Poor lighting from cheap lamps injures your eyesight, creates nervous disorders and undermines health. Any kind of glass bulb that produces a light when the switch is turned on isn't a good lamp. There are grades of quality in lamps just as in other necessities of life, and it pays to get this quality. The difference in cost between poor lamps and quality lamps is a trivial fraction of the cost of lighting your home, so why not insist on quality lamps? Quality lamps not only give better light but last longer and consume relatively less current. In a series of advertisements we are going to show why it is to your advantage to insist on equipping your home with Nitro Lamps—one of the Laco types of lamps. Exciting Play.

The Black's Harbor nine were killed yesterday, one in the afternoon and the evening, but rain interfered these plans and only the evening game was played. The game was staged on the W. E. diamond and was a technical one. The visitors won by a five to four score in seven innings. The game was exciting throughout. When the runners ran out on the field for the 11th inning, the Black's Harbor manager contended that it was too dark to play. The game was
protest from the large number of spectators. The manager was advised to play, and he was willing to play. The game was nothing left, it is said, to the manager, who umpired, to

HOUSE IN MILFORD

A two-story house and store in Milford, owned and occupied by William Stout, was burned to the ground last night. The damage, which will total several thousand dollars, is only partly covered by insurance. Part of the furniture and groceries were saved. The owner of the building was at the time of the fire in Musquash, where he is employed.

Black's Harbor nine were killed

Black's Harbor nine were killed yesterday, one in the afternoon and the evening, but rain interfered these plans and only the evening game was played. The game was staged on the W. E. diamond and was a technical one. The visitors won by a five to four score in seven innings. The game was exciting throughout. When the runners ran out on the field for the 11th inning, the Black's Harbor manager contended that it was too dark to play. The game was continued after a storm of protest from the large number of spectators. The manager was advised to play, and he was willing to play. The game was nothing left, it is said, to the manager, who umpired, to award the game to the locals.

Batteries were:

Graphic Description Of Great Miramichi Fire

Nearly a Hundred Years Ago—Hundreds of Lives Lost—Immense Area Was Burned Over—An Awful Scene.

The ravages of fire in various parts of New Brunswick during the past month has turned the thoughts of older people to the great Miramichi fire of 1823, the most terrible conflagration the province has ever known. The following vivid description of that fire is from Illustrated Sketches of New Brunswick, published in 1861, by W. & A. McMillan, for E. J. Russell of Bathurst:—

"In 1823 occurred the memorable Miramichi fire. The season had been very dry and excessively hot; very little rain had fallen; and in October every inch above the surface of the ground was intensely dry, even for that dry season. In various parts of the province fires raged in the woods, and in lower Canada, the adjoining part of the United States and Nova Scotia, the forests were similarly visited.

"In the beginning of October the heat increased almost beyond bearing; the atmosphere became charged with smoke, and the sky assumed an unnatural color. All nature seemed weighed down under the oppressive heat, and the sun, focusing heat. So dreadful was the condition of the atmosphere that even the disposition of the animals seemed affected and changed, the terrified cattle collecting in groups in the fields, and the wild animals leaving the woods to seek refuge among their domesticated fellows. Man alone seemed regardless, confident in his distance from the burning forest.

"On the evening of the 7th of October the dreadful scourge was let loose upon the devoted settlements. A gale sprang up, and soon increased to a hurricane, which swept before it over the whole countryside, a deluge of fire. The wind roared horribly; the air was filled with clouds of flying cinders, burning sticks, and vast volumes of smoke; and the whole face of the country-side was drowned with a flood of fire.

"Such a scene of horror no narrative can adequately depict. Men, women and children flying hither and thither; the shrieks of the burning, the cries of relatives seeking each other; the agonies of the sick and infirm, whose only chance of safety was in the mercy of others; the howls of domestic animals and of the denizens of the forest. The only hope of safety lay in reaching the river. By burying themselves in the water, or by betaking themselves to boats, rafts, or even single logs, many managed to save themselves from destruction.

"When the morning dawned, the country presented an awful scene. Six thousand square miles of forest and field lay blackened and reeking in the eye of day. All the villages on the north side of the river, including Douglastown and Newcastle, were little else than heaps of cinders. Five hundred human beings had perished by fire or by drowning in their attempts to escape. Thousands of wild animals were destroyed, and in the simulating waters of the brooks and streams fish lay dead in heaps.

"Of the inhabitants who escaped with their lives, few brought off much else. The amount of loss in personal property, crops, etc., was estimated at two hundred and twenty-seven thousand pounds; while the value of the forests destroyed were guessed at half a million. For the relief of the sufferers about forty thousand pounds were raised in the provinces, United States and Great Britain.

"On the same day extensive and destructive fires occurred in other parts of the province."

TO ASK PROVINCES TO ASSIST WORK OF EMPIRE LEAGUE

Teachers' Convention Pass a Resolution— Mutual Recognition of Certificates Approved.

Toronto, Aug. 12.—In accordance with a resolution adopted by the Imperial Teachers' Convention yesterday, the provinces of the Dominion will be asked for financial assistance for the work of the League of Empire, particularly for the establishment of a residential club in London. Thanks was extended to the Rhodes trustees for their financial assistance and their further aid was requested. The conference decided that teachers making exchanges for a limited period should be given credit at home in the calculation of their salaries for the period in question. These periods of exchange should also in their opinion be counted in reckoning pensions. Mutual recognition of certificates by the various dominions and the mother country was accepted as a principle to be adopted.

CUT IN FREIGHT RATES ON CATTLE DUE ON MONDAY

Back to Pre-war Level on One Canadian Railway, Says Montreal Board of Trade.

Montreal, Aug. 13.—Freight rates on live stock will have been reduced to practically pre-war levels by one of the big Canadian railways next Monday, according to an announcement by the transportation bureau of the Montreal board of trade today. The substantial nature of the reduction, it was said, is seen in comparing the new rates with the old. For distances from ten to fifteen miles the rate is to be 7 1/2 cents a hundred pounds, against the old ten cents. From 170 to 200 miles it was 29 1/2 cents, and it will be reduced to twenty-two cents.

NOT ANXIOUS FOR THE APPOINTMENT

Nor Has High Commissioner-ship Been Offered Him, Says Hon. C. C. Ballentyne.

Ottawa, Aug. 13.—Hon. C. C. Ballentyne, minister of marine and fisheries and of the naval services, asked on his return to Ottawa if there was any foundation for a rumor that he was to succeed Sir George Perley as Canadian high commissioner in London, replied that there was no truth whatever in these rumors, that he had not sought the position nor had it been offered to him. He said that he would, under no circumstances, accept if the offer had been made, and that there was no position in the gift of this or any other government that he either sought or desired.

CARELESS PEOPLE MAY COMPEL SOME DRASTIC LAWS

Serious consideration is being given by the administrators of the forest resources in the various provinces to a scheme for curbing the gross carelessness of camping parties in needlessly starting forest fires. The job of extinguishing timber conflagrations resulting from the fires set by campers and cigarette smokers has caused the public treasuries such a sum of money that some means of curbing the evil will have to be devised.

Already the province of New Brunswick is considering the classification of its woodland area with a view to prohibiting the entry of fishermen and others who may employ camp fires or drop lighted tobacco and matches. Such a regulation might work a hardship on many sportsmen, but as a class fishermen, hunters and campers generally would have only themselves to thank for whatever penalties might be imposed upon them in the interest of forest protection. To leave the camp fire burning has been shown over and over again to have vicious possibilities. The value of the forest resource is such that it is a new fire can be burned without the people as a whole paying a serious penalty.

WEST SIDE GARDEN PARTY. The garden party in aid of the Martello Orphanage will be continued this afternoon and evening. The Martello band, who are donating their services, will play at intervals through the evening. It is hoped by the committee in charge that the affair will be as great a success as it was on the opening day.
