We gave chase for at least ten miles, to where we expected to camp for the night, a point we reached about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. We had hardly taken off our saddles before the enemy was seen surrounding our camp at a distance of 2,000 yards completely hemming us in. Two troops of one of my squadrons (I was in command of three) had not yet come into the camp and were cut off by the Boers and lost heavily. They fought viciously, with only the bladed grass as a shelter. Their courage was of the veritable bull dog type, and under no circumstances could they be compelled to surrender. They held their ground until almost every man had been killed or wounded. A few survivors were stripped and sent into us naked. We fought hard for two hours and managed to last to beat off the Boers, who greatly outnumbered us. Our men at once began entrench ing themselves, fearing a night attack, and they did their work so well that no living force could have dislodged them from the position they held. The British loss in the engagement was about 150 killed and wounded, while the Boers, it is estimated, lost over 300. Our green men did splendid work and proved themselves to be wonder-fully adapted for the conditions under which the battle was fought. About twelve Canadians were killed and 40

Before we left there we were at Fort Medcalf for a few days and we had a swell time; the only trouble we had lots of duty, but they were easy. We got all the peaches we wanted at a farm about a mile away. When we would go down for a swim we would help ourselves. I was sorry to leave there. We marched from Newcastle to a place called Volksrust, and on the way we had lunch at the foot of Majuba Hill and over Lany Nek tunnel. We were at Volksrust two days when we took the train for here. While we were there I saw a wedding. It took place in the court house. I was talking to s man and he told me that they always get married in the court house instead of the church. It took us two days to reach here, and we have done nothing since we have been here. We expect to move out any time. We are going after De la Rae and De Wet. I hope we will capture them, for I think it will about wind up the war. I would like to see it over in time for us to go to the coronation services. I would like to see them. We are camped about five miles out of the town, and there are camped around here about five thousand of us, and all are mounted. The other night I was talking to a R. H. ## HOSPITAL ENQUIRY

After an adjournment of a little over two months, the commission which is investigating the charges against the management of the General Public Hospital, resumed its sittings Wednesday. Four doctors who had been connected with the institution were examined, but no evidence of a sensational nature was elicited. All admitted occasional faultiness in food and general discipline, and were agreed that many improvements could be made, though they thought that considering the money at the disposal of the commission, good work had been done. Among the improvements suggested were the remodelling of the huilding along modern sanitary lines; the employment of an executive supthe employment of an executive sup-erintendent, leaving the resident surgeons free to attend to the medical and aurgical dpartment; the employ-ment of more nurses, with trained nurses at the head of each ward; the addition of a kitchen to each ward and changes in other details, the carrying out of which would entail great ex-

The hospital enquiry was continued morning and afternoon Wednesday, testimony being received from a physi cian attached to the staff of the institution. ensuing. The church was originally a branch of the Norton church, but was set off as an independent body about fifty years ago, although it subsequently declined and lost visibility until it was resuctated June 21st, 1877. The proceedings next month will occupy at least two days, and will form the base for special religious and social services, in which many ministers as well as laymen are expected to take part.

The Rev. J. M. Gladstone, the new Anglican curate of this parish, arrived by special mail train from Rimouski on Sunday monning, having been a passenger by the first Allan liner to make the northern passage this season. Although naturally tired from his long railway journey without the comfort of a sleeper, the reverend gentleman at once entered on his duties and preached at the evening service in the Chapel of the Messiah, at the Station, to a large congregafort of a sleeper, the reverend gentleman at once entered on his duties and preached at the evening service in the Chapel of the Messiah, at the Station, to a large congregation, taking as his subject "The gift and operations of the Holy Spirit," founded on St. John xvi. 7: "It is expedient for you that I go away, for if I go not away, the comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart I will send Him unto you." The sermon was much enjoyed by all who heard it. Mr. Gladstone is a member of a collateral branch of the Ghadstone family which the late "Grand Old Man," the Hon. W. E. Gladstone, made for ever famous. He has been acting as curate in Bloomsbury parish, in the centre of London, one of the largest and most crowded of the parochial divisions of the great metropolis, and he comes not only with an attractive and curiosity-provoking name, but with a record of earnest and faithful service in the field he has left. Hs says his first impressions of Canada have been of the most favorable character, and he is particularly struck with the picturesque

Thomas H. Carvill, who is back at his old paternal home, has renovated and renewed the house and made it ready for the occupancy of his sister and her husband, Mr. Lloyd, who comes from Boston next Monday to join him in his new enterprise of raising fowls for the U.S. and British markets. He has built sheds and laid out runs for a large number of fowls, his stock of which comprise focks of thoroughbred Barred Plymouth Rocks, White Plymouth Rocks, Buff Bramahs, White Wyandottes, and many other handsome and high priced strains. A number of both cocks and hens in his stock were first and second prize winners in last year's competition and show at Taunton, Mass., and other exhibitions. He has also four incubators in operation, capable of holding a large number of eggs, which will be run to their full capacity in addition to the product by the usual method of setting hens. The property is situated in one of the most picturesque spots of this beautiful locality, with an outlook over the lake and marshes, bounded by the grand hills which fiank the Kennebeccasis on its northern bank. The farm, which extends back to the Station, presents stretches of grassy fields and woody stopes, suggestive of summer joys and rural rest. It is Mr. Carvill's latention to go into the strawberry and other small fruit business as soon as his henery is in full operation.

THE WAR HORSE.

(London Spectator.)

The horse in war is expensive, fragile, and a fool; he is greedy, and his food is as bulky-as himself; he requires an expert to keep him efficient under hard work, and a miracle to keep him alive under heavy fire; he must be watched and guarded more carefully than the lines of communication both in action and in camp; he is a coward; the race of them that snorted "ha! ha! among the trumpets, the noise of the captains, and the shouting" is dead, if it ever lived at all outside the inspired mind of the plague stricken poet; he is a traitor, and will desert to the enemy at the first opportunity, probably with three days' rations in his saddle bags and a useful rifle in the bucket.

Blair Defends His Private Contracts With Willard Kitchen.

He Makes Contracts Without the Knowledge of the Chief Engineer and Deputy Minister.

The Grosse Isle Double Price Tarte Government System - Pleasant Tributesto Sir Mackenzie Bowell-Flatly Contradict Premier Peters of P. E. Island and Attorney-General Pugsley of N. B.

OTTAWA, May 7.-Nearly all the estimates for the current year are voted at the time of writing, but there is liable to be a little more discussion in concurrence. The supplementary estimates for next year, asking for more than five millions, were brought down this morning. The house is probably within a week of prorogation and it would be difficult to find a pre cedent where the supplementary estimates were so late. The public accounts committee is winding up its work, having had some interesting and instructive meetings, but it is painfully apparent that the committee would not be allowed to discover much more than is convenient to the ministers to have the public know. Obstruction has been reduced to a fime art here, and the process of excluding all witnesses concerning the Intercolonial railway, except those employed on the road and subject to dismissal, is re markably effective.

At yesterday's meeting some additional information was produced concerning the Grosse Isle expenditure. The manager of James Robertson and Company, of Montreal, who furnished the same kind of goods as those purchased from this station, was examined at length on oath on a previous day, and afterwards sent a price list of goods furnished by his house. He is a much larger dealer, of course, than Harry Gaudry of Quebec, who is Mr. Tarte's friend, and who sup plied the goods on this occasion. It is quite clear from the evidence which he furnishes that $10,000 was paid for galvanized from pipe and supplies which could have been bought for half the money. For instance, there is one purchase of galvanized iron pipe five inches in diameter, for which the price charged was $1.40 a foot, wherea at the date when it was supplied Messrs. Robertson were selling precisely the same article in small lots at 78 3-10 cents. For this pipe country paid $3,086.78, whereas the right price would have been $1.786.36. is another purchase of $766 worth of larger pipe at $2.82 per foot, when the right price was $1.27. Another lot cost $62.10, which should have been $20.52. Still another was purchased at $70.06 which was worth only v cents a foot was p for pipe that was worth 44 cents, and the whole consignment of pipe, elbows. flanges, etc., was charged at $4,799.03, when the same goods could have bee bought in ten dollars lots for $2,445.25.

It is claimed by the minister that though these goods were supplied in September the bargain was made for them in February, when the price was higher. But as a matter of fact the February price would have been less than $3,000, and there was no earthly excuse for paying February prices. The February order was filled when it was made, and in May the department wrote to the contractor stating that his order was completed and everything mentioned in it had been received, asking him for prices for goods afterwards required. It was these goods for which the country is paying $4,800, when they could have been bought the previous February for $2,800 and at the time of delivery for $2,400. This is a comparatively small business, but it is a sample, and it appears that the same state of affairs prevails over the country generally, especially in the department of public works. For purchases of this kind Mr. Tarte disdains tenders. As Mr. Kemp points out, he procures price lists from two or three people, but he is careful to exclude large dealers like the Rob ertson Company, who would make the same rates for the government that they would for private purchasers. This class of people do not hang around the lobbies looking for small contracts. And the Quebec man who supplied Grosse Isle is a person doing business in a smaller way. He gets the business of this kind by favoritism and obtains great prices for his goods. Mr. Kemp happened upon this account accidentally, and there is no reason to suppose that it differs from others.

In the commons yesterday Mr. Blair defended his private contracts with Willard Kitchen for the balance of the Murray Harbor railway. He says that the contract for the first 111-2 miles was sufficient to fix a fair price, and that the extension of the schedule rate over the whole 30 or 40 miles was given with the approval of the whole government after the matter was explain ed. It was hard to reconcile this answer with the statement made in the senate by the secretary of state on the 8th day of April. At that time Mr. Scott was asked if any further contract had been made on the road, and stated that only one contract, and that for the first 111-2 miles, had been given. Mr. Ferguson then told him that work was being done beyond section No. 2, and Mr. Scott promised to look into it. On April 9th Mr. Scott was again asked, and he said: "I have already given the answer to that question. I have enquired of the department, and they still adhere to the correctness of the answer."

On the 14th of April Mr. Ferguson

lottetown to Murray Harbo than on section 2 is being proceeded with by day's labor. If not, now is this work being done?" To this Mr. Scott replied: "The answer which I have, signed by Mr. Schreiber, is that no work is being done by day's labor, nor is any work authorized by the depart-ment to be proceeded with beyond 11 1-2 miles.'

Now Mr. Blair's statement is that at this very time Mr. Kitchen was going on with the work outside of sectio. two on a contract which was an extension of the two contracts. Mr. Kitchen was certainly at work, but whether he had the contract then or whether he secured it afterwards does not yet appear, since somebody is evidently making an incorrect statelast quoted statement in the senate, he ascertained that it was not correct and he sent over a note written to him by Mr. Schreiber, Mr. Schreiber stated that as far as the information the department possessed was concerned, the answers previously given were correct, but it had since come t the knowledge of the department that the contractor for No. 2 was proceeding to do work on the rest of the road and that orders had been se t to him to have that work discontinued. It was some time later that the information was furnished that Mr. Kitchen was working on the other 40 miles at the same prices as he was receiving for the first 111-2 miles.

The date of the order in council extending the contract has not been given, so far as I know, but Schreiber shows that Mr. Kitchen went on beyond his contract without consulting the department, and with out the knowledge of the deputy minister or the other officers at Ottawa Mr. Schreiber, when he heard that Mr. Kitchen was at work, ordered him to stop, but the order was disobeyed Then it turned out that Mr. Kitchen had a contract to go on and that the whole thing was arranged by order-incouncil. It must have been so arranged when Mr. Scott made his incorrect statement in the senate. This goes to show that orders-in-council may be passed without the knowledge of some ministers and they are allowed to remain in ignorance of them and to deny publicly that they have been made. It also appears that Mr. Blair makes railway construction contracts without the knowledge of the chief engineer and deputy minister, and that the deputy sometimes sends statements afterward to parliament that the contracts have not been

A pleasant tribute was paid to Sir nzie Bowell by his friends in the senate last evening. The banquet to the opposition leader was almost purely a domestic affair. From the other nouse only Mr. Borden, the opposition leader, and Mr. Porter, who represents Sir Mackenzie's former constituency of West Hastings, were invited. The gathering was therefore a family one and passed off in the most agreeable way. Naturally there was some discussion of political matters, Sir Mac kenzle dwelling somewhat emphatically on the preferential trade question, but the compliment paid to Sir Mackenzie was rather personal than political, still the sturdy ex-premier is regarded as a rather vigorous politi-cian not only in parliament but in the country, and he is now carrying on in servative journal of which he was edi for before he entered political life and of which he is now the principal owner. There will never be any uncertainty and opportunism in the Belleville Intelligencer. The statements of Premier Peters of Prince Edward Island and of Attorney General Pugsley that the fishery award claim would be sumbitted to arbitration and that everything had been arranged about it, has again been contradicted, this time by the minister of finance. Mr. Fielding was even more emphatic than Sir Wilfrid Laurier. I quote his words: "There has been omewhat hazy claim in regard to the fishery award in the air a long time, but no understanding whatever has been arrived at between this government and the provincial governmen of P. E. I. . . . No understanding whatever has been come to between this government and the local government upon the subject." Dr. Sproule uggested that several hazy accounts had been paid before and the same thing might happen again. Mr. Fielding resumed: "There has been no time within the past ten or twelve years when some one or other of the provinces has not claimed that it was the province and not the dominion which hould have received the amount of the fishery award, and the claim is just in the same position as it has been at any time in the past. There will always be somebody in some provincial legislature who will raise the claim that the province should receive the money, and of course we cannot prevent any such contention being raised. But all I can tell the hon, gentlemen is that there has not been any understanding whatever arrived at between the government and the government the subject." This seems to be a direct and em phatic contradiction of the statement made by the chief law officers of the two provinces. S. D. S.

OTTAWA, May 8 .- When the main stimates for the coming year were brought down all the government organs announced that there was a reduction of nearly a million dollars in the expenditure as compared with the outlay for 1901. It was remarked at the time in these letters that when the supplementary estimates came it would be found that the reduction would be turned into a considerable increase We have now the first set of supple nientary estimates for next year adding between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 to the amount required on current account, and bringing up the current expenditure to nearly $2,000,000 over that of last year. But this is not all. There will be a second supplementary before the session is out, and perhaps a third. Next year when the house meets a further vote will be asked to meet unlooked for expenditure which has taken place or will take place before the fiscal year closes. Several millions again asked "whether the work of have been voted this year to meet the grading now being done from Char- shortage of the last session's vote, and also known as a man of force, who may not be the fault either of the par- to run out a new embankment, estab-

pen again, but even without that there is a considerable excess over last year as every year since this governmen in power has shown an increase

And this reminds me that Mr. Blair has been playing a rather low game on the minister of public works. The aim of Mackenzie and Mann which is to be paid on this year's account amounts to $237,000. It was incurred y the authorization of the contrac tors to go to work on a railway withconsent of parliament. erte had nothing whatever to do with he culprits were Mr. Sifton and r. Blair, and it is fair to say that r. Sifton was the main man. It was riginally a Sifton deal, but Mr. Blair ment. After Mr. Scott had made he had to father it as it was in his dertment, and he had charge of the measure. But when the bill of damtres comes in it appears in the estiates as "on account of public works hargeable to capital." There is no eason why it should be put down to ublic works any more than any other railway road, and certainly there is no reason why it should be charged to capital. There is nothing in the Yukon for anywhere else to represent this expenditure, which is a dead loss and n no sense a capital outlay. If it had been charged to income it would have educed Mr. Fielding's surplus, which is already rapidly fading away.

> The railway committee is getting nore stormy as the session advances towards a close. Mr. Oliver has suceeded in heading off a Red Deer bill and obstructing the Edmonton railway bill until he has got it changed to suit him. All this meant a great amount of shouting and unseemly clamor. Occasionally the committee was occupied listening to outbursts of song when Yesmembers were trying to speak. terday a member of Quebec and other capitalists were trying to get through a new railway project to cut across corners between Bay of Chaleur and the St. Lawrence, where the Intercolonial takes a long way around. Three or four members of parliament, including Mr. Talbot, are down in this bill as incorporators. Mr. Talbot anrounces that he is a sentimental rather than a financial promoter.

This enterprise is mixed up with the old Baie des Chaleur or Atlantic and Lake Superior enterprise, which has been in one form or another before the public for a dozen years, and has hatched out more scandals than any other speculation in the country. At various places on the line workmen have not been paid and men representing them now demand that they shall compensated before parliament gives gives any further privileges to the company. There are also bond holders involved and they demand that no legislation shall be passed giving laborers or contractors a preference over them, thus impairing their security after they have taken it in good faith. Mr. Tarte and Mr. Blair have been urging delay while some of their most vigorous supporters, including Mr. Talbot and Mr. Prefontaine, if the latter can be called a supporter of Mr. Tarte, are in a hurry for legislation. This collision of forces in the railway committee room produces the usual tumult, and any stranger who should have dropped into the committee room about noon yesterday would have thought he had struck some city in the south of Europe the midst of a riot. What condones to uneasiness, if such an awful racket can be described by so mild a term, is the fact that there are a number undisputed private bills on he order paper which cannot be taken up until controversial measures are settled. The promoters of these innocent measures get very angry over the ob-

Dr. Roddick's bill to provide for a good understanding among the doctors of the various provinces has got its third reading at last, and goes to the senate very much amended. The exaggerated distrust which some of the Quebec men have of any measure which seems to infringe on the powers of the province was specially in evidence in this matter. All the doctors are in favor of this co-operation. Medical colleges strongly urge it and no human interest can possibly be injured by its adoption. The purpose of the oill is to enable the medical people of various provinces work together for their mutual advantage. They desire to be able to move from one province to another, or to practice in more than one province, and to establish some system of registration and examination which will qualify medical men to practice in any part of Canada. The result must be in every way beneficial, raising the standard of the profession and establishing a general medical council.

It is true that the provinces have jurisdiction over medical affairs, but the provinces cannot legislate for all Canada, and such a measure as this cannot originate in any province. Dr. Roddick's bill guards the autonomy of the provinces by providing that this general act shall not go into effect until each of the provinces has legislated to bring it into force. Even Mr. Lemieux, who seemed to be leading the opposition in the measure, was satisfled with this arrangement. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden both supported the bill, the premier arguing that it would be the greatest possible advantage to Quebec, as there were French groups all over the dominion and it was desirable that French prac titioners educated in Quebec should be in a position to go and practise in other provinces among their compatriots. But after Mr. Lemieux was silenced by these concessions Mr. Bourassa broke out. At the third reading he forced the measure to a vote and succeeded in getting 16 of his compatriots to vote for a six months' hoist. As there were not 30 French members in the house at the time Mr. Bourassa succeeded in controlling more of his fellow countrymen than the three French speaking ministers who supported the measure. Every minister of the crown in the house voted for the bill.

Mr. MacLaren of Perth, Ont., is very well known throughout Canada and many other countries by reason of the MacLaren cheese. In parliament he is sets himself to we ns and works them out with gree . He has not said much this se but took opportunity yesterday to the transportation problem. MacLaren says that Canada exported last year about $40,000,000 worth of butter, cheese and bacon. It cost over a million dollars more to send these goods to England than it would have ost if they had been produced in the United States at the same distance from the seaboard. Another million dollars was lost for the want of proper cold storage on cars and steamers This $2,000,000 was taken out of the pockets of the farmers, and the loss is increasing every year as the country develops and the demand increases The member for Perth has a theory that the question of transport would be best solved by the establishment of a line of large steamers to ply between Lake Superior ports and ports on Georgian Bay. From Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario he would either use rail route or one of the waterways that are projected. Mr. Tarte of course swears by French River, and other members pin their faith on the Ottawa River route.

Mr. MacLaren would have a line of steamers from Toronto to the St. Law rence with good facilities at Montrea and a first class line from that place For summer business he would establish an inland transportation system with large carriers of small draft plying between Lake Ontario and some Nova Scotia port carrying produce to the Nova Scotia depot for shipment to England and from the Nova Scotia port to the west transporting coal, iron, and such European goods as might be brought to the depot for re-shipment. Mr. Bell (Pictou) is considerably interested in this project, and spoke strongly in favor of it.

Mr. MacLean put his views into the form of a motion, setting forth the facts of the case. The latter part of his motion reads:

Wheras it is in the interests of the domin on at large, in view of the conomy of water transportation, that great use shall be made of our waterways between Lake Superior and the seaboard, thus affording cheaper and better facilities of stransportation of the seaboard. ion for our exports from the western terri-ory and Ontario and the development of

or interprovincial trade;
Thefore, in the opinion of this house it is both expedient and indispensable that the government shall at once inaugurate such a policy in connection with our waterways and the shipbuilding industries as will speedily lead to the completion of a Canadian system of both inland and ocean transportation. the shipbuilding industries as will speed lead to the completion of a Canadian sys of both inland and ocean transportation.

Mr. Fisher and Mr. Tarte both agreed with most of the facts and arguments of Mr. MacLaren, but they insisted that he should withdraw his motion as it was moved in amendment to supply and therefore equivalent to a motion of want of confidence. This was queer position to take in view of the fact that less than a week before Mr. Bourassa proposed a resolution as an amendment to supply, asking the government to take up the question of the cattle embargo, and the government accepted it without claiming that it was a want of confidence motion Mr. MacLaren declined to accept such a discrimination and pressed the question to a vote, meeting defeat with straight government majority.

In the course of the debate Mr Fisher announced that $280,000 was to be spent this year in improving the navigation of the St. Lawrence. Mr. Tarte made an interesting speech, explaining his own operations at Port Colborne. The minister of public works again expressed alarm over the Morgan steamship combine. He says that Mr. Morgan and his friends control many American railways and if the get control of the Atlantic steamships, are sure to work them together. thus injuring Canadian routes and Canadian ports.

On the same day there was a debate on the Georgian Bay canal bill, which is a measure to extend the time for the completion by a company of the propect of connecting the St. Lawrence with Georgian Bay by deepening the Ottawa river into a navigable stream. This is an old project which has been advocated and organized in late years by Mr. McLeod Stewart and has the privilege of the assistance of Atorney General Pugsley in the capacity of solicitor. Some say it will cost $10,000,000 or $15,000,000. Others place it at $200,000,000, which allows a considerable margin for speculation. The discussion gave Mr. Tarte an opportunity, of which he has had about twenty this year, to exploit his French river scheme. He improves them all, and everybody knows now that whenever Mr. Tarte starts out to talk on transportation his road will lead him to French River.

Yesterday Mr. Tarte announced that this scheme of French River would cost $5,000,000, which is a very small sum of money if the enterprise would have the effect of reorganizing the whole continent, as Mr. Tarte seems to S. D. S.

think it will. OTTAWA, May 10 .- Some five hours of the valuable time of the commons were invested yesterday in perfecting government legislation appertaining to the west. The Yukon representation bill is expected to produce a member of parliament from that section when the house meets next year. The bill required a good deal of doctoring There was no particular reason why the measure should not have been at tended to earlier in the season, when the house was in want of business But it is the custom to delay govern ment bills until the last two or three weeks of the session and then rush them through in a panicky way. How ever, there was no particular rush over the Yukon bill, which Mr. Borden and Mr. Lancaster overhauled and criticized in the attempt to get it into working shape.

More important to a large area of country is the grain inspection bill which not only deals with the classification of grain, but with regulations and rules about providing cars and giving chances to all shippers alike Western men who represent grain growers and members representing transportation routes were very much interested in this measure, which required several hours' discussion. It is probably not yet satisfactory, but that liament or of the department of trade and commerce, inasmuch as the business is much complicated and there are various more or less conflicting interests. But the matter should have been disposed of in March or April instead of May.

One effect of the legislative stampede is the appearance of twenty or more titles of private bills on the orde paper after all the private members' days are gone. Some of these are important measures for the incorporation of companies or the revising pi charters It was found necessary set aside another day or a part of two days to get clear of this business. This forenoon was added to the private members' allotment.

But before this was done the members in charge thought that yesterday's one hour after dinner was all they had left. At the top of the list was the Montreal subway bill, which its promoters were anxious to get through, while the other nineteen were equally desirous of having the way cleared. But the house was not unanimous about the subway, and at this stage in the session a single dissenter is as good as a hundred would be in March. There were many objections to the road under the St. Lawrence. even if it had not been mixed up with the C. N. Armstrong enterprises, and were not involved in the strained relations between Mr. Tarte and Mr. Pre-fontaine. The ex-mayor now wants the subway bill to go through. He first supported a bridge bill of Mr. Armstrong's, which would be a competitor to the tunnel scheme. That was abandoned by Mr. Prefontaine, who in the committee opposed and killed the measure which stood in his own name. He next took hold of the second bridge scheme, of which the incorporators were the New York people now famous as members of the Dominion Securities Company. The alliance of Mr. Prefontaine with Dr. Webb's company seemed promising until Mr. Blair and Mr. Tarte opened fire in the committee by repudiating their New York friends and suggesting investigation of their responsibility. Before the committee reported came the collapse of the Webb-Meyer syndicate, and this bridge bill seems to have been dropped.

Next we find Mr. Prefontaine advocating the subsidy which Mr. Bicker dike and others in Montreal, some of them rich men, are supporting with their names. Wise men have come to see that the appearance of a rich man's name in connection with a railway charter does not imply an in-Vanderbilt flavor about him, and was president of about six companies concerned in Canadian enterprises, had no money in them, as he now declares. When Canadian politicians quoted him as a capitalist interested in Canada they were leading people astray.

Those opposed to the subway bill got some comfort from Mr. Tarte, who at first threw cold water on the enterprise, but afterwards expressed himself satisfied with certain amendments that were put in the bill. Dr. Sproule and Mr. Ball were not yet reway would be no particular benefit to the people in the south of the St. Lawrence who want to get their goods to market, but would not feel like walk ing or driving their carts through five miles of tunnel. He urged that the subway will cost so much that it will prevent the construction of the bridge which is very much needed. Dr. Sproule's argument may have been very good, but its chief virtue as an attack on the measure was its length. It continued until ten minutes to nine, and at nine o'clock the committee would rise. The remaining ten minutes had been assigned apparently to Mr. Georges Ball. Mr. Ball is a lumber merchant at Nicolet, who is classed as a French Canadian, but is Scotch on the paternal side. This is his first parliament and he was selected for distinction by appointment as the conservative whip for the French Canadians in the house. His duties in that capacity were to keep Mr. Monk, Mr. Morin and Mr. Casgrain in line. The election of Mr. Leonard added one to the number, and Mr. Ball thereupor resigned the onerous duties in favor of the new member for Laval. But he made a very funny ten minutes speech in which he set forth at length Mr. Prefontaine's connection various companies, and observed that the ex-mayor had bought a number of Armstrong's liabilities at one cent on the dollar and tried to exploit certain companies on the strength of it. Mr Armstrong occupied a seat in the galand seemed to be somewhat entertained by the proposition, but the subway was talked out, and it was passed this morning.

Mr. Tarte expounded to the committee of supply the Quebec end of his scheme about transportation. He has great hopes of Quebec as a summer port and is investing public money quite heavily therein. It is pretty well known that the Quebec docks were built by the harbor commissioners of that port with a dominion government guarantee, and that the burden rests upon the dominion, which has had to pay the interest for a number of years. Mr. Tarte explains that this breakwater has been moving and requires to be strengthened. Besides he is going lishing a new harbor, which Mr. Morin says will only hold two ships at once: it will cost a million dollars This is to be a straight charge on the dominion, though it appears to be just such a work as the private docks and wharves at Halifax and the Sand Point facilities at St. John. Tarte proposes to work at it for two years and hopes that Quebec may then be in a position to accommodate the fast line steamships. It ought perhaps to be stated here that Mr Tarte is asking for $500,000 for St. Lawrence navigation to be spent this year in addition to this Quebec vote.

The other end of this enterprise is Port Colborne, on Lake Erie, at the western end of the Welland canal. For this Mr. Blair is asking in the main estimates for $300,000 and in the supplementary estimates for $145,000. It is pretty hard to distinguish between Mr. Blair's operations at Port Colborne in connection with the canal and Mr. Tarte's in connection with the harbon which forms its entrance. But Mr. Tarte is asking, in addition to Mr. Blair's vote, for $100,000 in the supplementary estimates and $220,000 in the main estimates. When the whole thing is completed several million dollars will have been spent around this fresh water harbor.

Mr. Tarte and Mr. Blair seem to be working a good deal at cross purposes, and occasionally in the railway committee it is difficult to say which has the responsibility in regard to any particular enterprise, such, for instance, as the Ottawa River and Georgian Bay canal. The Trent canal. which is a kind of waterway connecting a series of lakes, is under charge of Mr. Blair, but the French River navigation, which is of the same character, is a monopoly of Mr. Tarte's. There is the same kind of confusion between Mr. Tarte and Mr. Mulock. The postmaster general established a system of mail delivery in Toronto by ocompbiles, as he called them. They have been discontinued after several machines were broken to pieces. These ocomobiles are said to be one-third of the time in use, one-third in the ditch, and the other third in the repair shops.

But a peculiar feature of the matter is that the expense of repairs is charged to the department of public works, and several thousand dollars which has been wasted and which pught to ition to Mr M deficit, is unloaded upon Mr. Tarte's department.

Mr. Tarte explained to the house in most candid way that Mr. Mulock set these machines to work when Mr. Tarte was away to Europe, implying that if he had been home he would have taken Mr. Mulock by the throat and restrained him. Mr. Mulock also has a convenient way of getting his mail carried into the Yukon by the mounted police and charging it up to the expense of that department, while he turns in the revenue as the income own department. The postmaster general is evidently an accomplished anancier. In private life these methods would have made a man rich if conciled. Dr. Sproule says that a sub-, there were no courts of justice in the country.

> The affair of Judge Dugas and the ianitors and matrons who have been waiting upon his household at public expense was further ventilated this evening. Mr. Tarte explains that the judge was living in the court house, and therefore had some right to claim the services of these man servants and handmaidens. Mr. Borden hardly sees it in that light, since the judge is paid a large salary and has been getting some eight or nine thousand dollars a year of living expenses besides. It seems that Mr. Tarte's officer ordered these public servants to wait upon the judge in a servile and domestic capacity. Mr. Tarte does not explain why this order was given, and in spite of Mr. Borden's humorous reflections upon his want of information, the minister refused to be further informed but repeated the declaration, which has become so familiar in the last five years, that it will never happen again.

Mr. Gourley thinks it is time this whole Yukon expense business was investigated. He is getting a little tired voting salaries larger than are paid elsewhere, and then supplying the public officers with dwelling houses and paying them living allowances enough to keep two or three families. New that direct communication is open to Dawson, and prices are getting down to a reasonable basis, he does not see why a judge who receives about double the salary that a magistrate of the same standing in the east would get should also get $5,000 a year living allowance. Mr. Belcourt, who figures on his professional cards as a sort of parliamentary agent for Yukon enterprises, insists that it costs five times as much for everything at Dawson as it does here. Dr. Sproule with a Dawson paper and price lists was able to show that he was quite wrong and that the tradition of the excessive prices has been handed down from a time when the country was almost inaccessible.

In the Great Canadian Prairie

Fast Horses and Persian Lamb Coats for the Granger's Wife and Daughters - But Domestic Help is Scarce.

(Special Cor. Toronto Globe.) BRANDON, April 10.-Business men here who know the condition of the country easterly to Winnipeg say that the acreage of wheat in Manitoba will be considerably reduced this year. Last fall the farmers were so busy getting in their grain and threshing it out that very little ploughing was done before the spell of wet weather that was the characteristic of the late fall. The floods and excess of moisture this spring have kept thousands of acres of land under water that with normal conditions would at this season be in course of preparation for the crop. There will therefore not be time to put in seed as large an acreage as last year. This of course applies only to Manitoba, and more especially to the stretches along the Red and Assiniboine rivers. Brandon district is not so seriously affected, but east towards Portage la Prairie there will be a serious reduction in the crop area.

Fall trade may be lessened as a re sult of these conditions, but Mayor Fraser, Kenneth Campbell, secretary of the Brandon board of trade, and other citizens who keep close tab on affairs, believe that the obligations of the farmers have been so well met that even a crop failure, which is not at all anticipated, would not hurt

HOME BUILDING NOW.

While surplus money is going to same extent into land purchase, there is a very general movement toward the improvement of dwellings with a view to making life more pleasant for cent years the farm life of Manitoba was a much harder life for women than for men, more especially in the sparsely settled districts, where neighbors were few. The mother with a brood of little children had a hard life, and domestic appointments in those early days were not of the best. Now all that is fast changing. Many farmers are becoming wealthy, and to a man who takes off a crop of 8,000 or 10,000 bushels there is no trouble in making his wife and daughters very comfortable. In the old days, for example, many of the wells were open draw wells. The correct thing now is a pump worked by windmil power, which obviates hand drawing or pumping. Some wealthy farmers in this district, who have creeks or other good natural drainage in their land, have supplemented the windmill water supply with a complete installation of plumbing for bath and kitchen.

In the provision for social life great improvement has been made. During the years of struggle horses were too valuable and too scarce to be kept for pleasure, but now most of the well-tohave a driving horse of team that their women folk can use to go visiting during the day.

THE SCHOOL MA'AM'S PART.

Socials and visiting during the winter season have become marked features of Manitoba life, and a taste for literature is fast developing - among people who in Ontario would read little else than newspapers. The school ma'am is playing an important part in this intellectual movement. She is required to become fairly proficient in her duties before entering on the practice of her profession. It is no un common thing to find her marrying at the end of the first or second season some stalwart young farmer in her school section. The loss is, of course, rather serious to the province, which must keep educating young women to fill the vacancies, but the school ma'am as a farmer's wife becomes a centre of intellectual activity in her neighborhood and raises the standard among the members of her own family and those who come under her influence. A well known public man tells me that the school ma'am in the home has been a very great influence for good in Manitoba. DOMESTIC HELP VERY SCARCE. The problem of domestic help is one of the most difficult of solution. It is almost impossible to secure domestics, and this condition, it is believed is a permanent one. Even in the towns toward which girls seeking employment as domestics gravitate the wages are about $15 a month for a good general. The real hardship of life for the farmer's wife lies in this failure of the supply of domestics. On a wheat farm in winter the men have a fairly good time, but the housewife whose children are small is tied up at home. There are, of course, compensations in a higher standard of living than the small Ontario farmer can afford. A partner in one of the leading dry goods houses, who before coming here had experience of the country trade in London and other Ontario points, says he was astounded at first at the high quality of goods demanded by Manitoba purchasers. Where Ontario farmers' wives would buy a fifty cents a yard dress the Manitoba woman would pay twice that amount. So far as millinery is concerned I had ample demonstration. There are in the Brandon show rooms stocks of trimmed hats that are in the main copied from the latest Parisian and New York styles. They are bought largely by farmers' wives and daughters. Looking at the little church and schoolhouse on the township line, where the lads and lassies do most of their courting, one sometimes imagines that the fabrics sold are too rich for the environment, but fine feathers make fine birds all the world round, and the Manitoba girl is no whit behind her eastern sister in the exercise of the faculty of dressing well and giving no man knoweth, but the sale is enorus. The gentleman I have already times sold in one day fur coats to three and four members of the same family, including a Persian lamb one for the god wife. One bill he remembers was $400 in cash for one family's afternoon fur buying.

I am repeating these stories, not as a matter of idle gossip, but to give the eastern merchant some idea of the remarkable per capita purchasing power of the prairie farmer in a good sea son. As the expenses attending the purchasing of land and the erection of comfortable dwellings is overcome and the second generation begins to enter upon the debt-free property accumulated by their fathers, this disposition to live up to a high standard will naturally increase. If the Ontario farmer on a hundred acres can live in comfort, what should be the purchasing power of the Manitoban farming 320 acres clear of debt and yielding from 4,000 to 6,000 bushels of wheat at an average price of fifty cents. As for the men who farm a section or over they are not farmers at all in our use of the 000 and $50,000 before they pass middle age, and would be counted rich in the east. To these men all reasonable luxuries are attainable, and it would surprise no one to see in the west a quarter of a century from now species of residence corresponding to that of the English gentleman farmer and with the conveniences and refine-

The trees are being placed only on the left hand side of the road going out, and are twenty-five or thirty feet apart. It is thought that the numbe already purchased will be sufficient to reach as far as the entrance to the rural cemetery. Efforts are being made by the club to obtain from Fernhill additional trees, and should they do this the planting will be continued farther out. This is only the first step in the plan the club have of making the Marsh road a beautiful avenue and should the work done this year prove successful the other side of the road will be given a share of the tree

I am ment. This was especially noteworthy in the case of Robert W. Woods, who at the solicitation of Rev. Dr. Fotherlant in reporting offenders against the ingham went around the city one Sunlaw as they might be, especially in the cases of druggists selling soda water. day evening to ascertain if there was any violation of the Liquor License Act. His evidence was that about the last day of August Rev. Dr. Fotherngham called upon him, asking him water a sale took place. I do not if he would care to take a run around on the first of September, being Sunthis. No evidence was offered as to day, and see what information he could get towards the Sunday violatheir knowledge of any sales having taken place on Sunday. In regard to tion. Witness said he told him he the sale of soda water, one of the would, providing he would not have to liquor license commissioners for the go into court and swear or convict city admitted on being examined by anyone. Dr. Fotheringhim told him the counsel for the memorialists that he did not think he would, only just he had instructed Mr. Hoben, a drugto go around and see what he could do gist, to sell soda water on Sunday, and and make a statement to him. In when asked how he came to tell him to sell, answered: "Well, in the inprocuring evidence of violations in this terest of temperance for one thing; I claim if people could get a glass of but was broken in secret. soda water they would't ask for any-thing else. I told Mr. Hoben to sell."

And we can readily understand how fore, in such a large city. Taking the evidence altogether, it is abundantly clear that the city of St. John is well governed, and that while violations of law take place on Sunday, it is what must necessarily be expected, and nothing short of a miracle would prevent it. If the police force on a Sunday consisted of a hundred men, in my opinion they would not be able to prevent the law being broken.

From the evidence given by the chief and the policemen it is very evident that the city of St. John, as regards law and order, is not behind the best governed city of its size on the continent of America.

ST_JOHN, N. B., MAY 17, 1902.

HON. A. F. RANDOLPH.

In the death of Mr. Randolph, Fredericton has lost its best citizen, and the province of New Brunswick one of its foremost men. Mr. Randoph's business career since 1860 covers the business history of the provincial capital. He began in a small way as an ordinary retail grocer and by square dealing achieved wealth. Out of his bounteous activities there sprang up in Fredericton other business concerns that still live and prosper. A narrow minded man would have strangled them in their infancy. Mr. Randolph was as broad in his religion as in his business. As banker, merchant and church member he was the one and same man. He had no special rule for the counting room and another for the church vestry. Unosteatatious in his published in the Toronto Globe a series of articles against provincial prohibiand preferring the home circle to all other attractions, Mr. Randolph lived a good useful life. For politics he had no love, and his temporary seat in the legislative council was accepted to help a friend in necessity. Generous in all his ways, there are scores of families which will regret his death even more deeply than the Baptist church and those educational institutions to which he was a liberal benefactor. Mr. Ran dolph, while forceful in all his ways and in his dealings with his fellow

Nor is it right to say that Dr. Grant courted popularity. More often he was on the unpopular side. He was not a great reasoner nor a leep thinker, but he had a strong mind and very strong convictions. His sympathies were frequently on the side of weaker people, whether they were right or wrong, and he had a habit of speaking with great emphasis and fearlessness whatever for the moment was in his mind. The charge of inconsistency could easily be made out against him, and he would have been the last to oppose it. For like Emerson he believed consistency to be the hobgoblin of little minds, Following that sage's advice, he spoke what he felt to be the truth today in words as hard as cannon balls and let tomorrow speak what tomorrow thought in words as hard again, though it should contradict what he said today. When he spoke it was the spontaneous voice of a healthy nature, usually cheerful and hopeful, always sincere and unselfish, and almost always in the interests of what he believed to be greater freedom and a larger

Principal Grant's deliverances and controversies during the last forty years would be an interesting commentary on the history of the country. He was no pope, and his encyclical addresses, which were sent out from Queen's University in one form or another discussing current questions, had no more validity than their merits deserved. But they were sought after and attracted attention, and had a very considerable influence, while they made Dr. Grant himself an object of comment and very often of severe attack. He had no friends so flattering that they would always say he was right, and no enemies who would say that he was not sincere. The very impulsiveness and haste with which he expressed his convictions gave them the stronger air of sincerity and genu ineness, and since he was recognize everywhere as a bread-minded an patriotic man, his utterances com respectful attention.

We have said that he was more ofter than not against the popular side, and frequently the side he advocated he would afterwards admit to be wrong. Almost at the beginning of his ministry he was pastor of a strong church in Hallfax. Probably most of his parishioners were, like himself, admirers and supporters of Joseph Howe. Dr. Grant, who had then his career to make, came out as a strenuous advocate of the union of the provinces, and seriously offended many of the leading members of his congregation. Yet he held to his course, publicly and privately advocating confederation, and boldly affirming his rights to discuss the question. No doubt he lost to the church some influential members, but he retained the respect of many largeminded men and in the end was probably forgiven by the others. Later he was among the promoters of the union of the Presbyterian churches in Can-ada, which also was a subject of acrimonious discussion. A quarter of a century ago he led the fight in the general assembly at Halifat against the condemnation of the late Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, who was charged with heresy. In Nova Scotia Dr. Grant was a strong advocate of university feder-ation. In Ontario he opposed a feder-

of which he was the head. Perhaps the most unpopular course that a Presbyterian minister could pursue in the general assembly was t as the leader of the minority in this crossion, and first and last voted of spoke against these resolutions. If he had been more often wrong than he was right, more hasty than he usually was more of a dreamer than he appeare to be, he still might be described in the beautiful language which Matthew Arnold uses towards his old university of Oxford. He was never a Philistine. His mind might sometimes be the "home of lost causes, forsaken be liefs, unpopular names, and impossible loyalties," but he has been a strong and wholesome force in Canadian pub lic life and his name will be respected and cherished for many years to come

CHARACTER IN MEDICINE

There is character in Dr. Chase's Ointment-just such character as has made Dr. Chase esteemed and admired the world over. Dr. Chase's Ointment has stood the test of time and remain today the only actual cure for Piles and itching Skin Disease. It is the standard Ointment of the world. You can rely on it just as you rely on Dr. Chase's Receipt Book, because know that it is backed by the sterling character of Dr. Chase-America's Greatest Physician.

One theory is that America was peopled by migration from northwest Europe and northeastern Asia by land in the stone age.

Letter From Lieut, Ralph Markham.

en before the Last Fight at Hart's River-Boers Stripped All Prisoners.

KLERKSDORP, March 28. Dear Sun:-We are back again after our first long trek. We left here five days ago at 7 o'clock in the evening: we rode all night long, making 45 miles by 5 next morning. We were under Colonel Cookson. The next day we started back again on the drive There were several thousand troops moving all over the country. The result of the drive was over 100 prisoners and five guns. The night march was very trying. We trotted nearly all the time and of course several horses pegged out. Most of these men, who could not keep up, were captured, the Boers taking horse, arms, ammunition and in some cases their clothes. We captured Delaray's adjutant, so we presume he was in the neighborhood. One of the prisoners told me that dur ing the night we went withn 20 yards of the Boer General Kemp's tent, where he was wth twenty men. The prisoner I talked with seemed to be a very intelligent chap. He fought at Ladysmith, Spion Kop, Belmont and other big battles. He formerly vas in the Staats Artillery and has taken a course in the Boer Artillery, school at Ladysmith. I asked him how the Boers were getting rations, and he said they were getting mealles from the Kaffirs. He said that he was not sorry to be captured, and judging from his appearance I should think he would be, as he had no socks and his clothing was covered with patches of sheep skin.

There were 21 men of our regiment the season is considered a very early one.

Rev. R. B. Macdonald of Rustico was inducted today into the pastoral charge of St. Mary's church. Souris, to succeed the later Rev. D. F. McDonald. Rev. Dr. Chaisson of Palmer Road will assume the pastorate of Rustico. He in turn will probably be succeeded by Father Blacquiers, a native of succeeding the pastoral charge of hay. taken a course in the Boer Artillery.

There were 21 men of our regiment missing, but they have all turned up save two. Those who were captured lost everything. Some walked into Klerksdorp in their underclothing. ST, ANDREWS.

Sentenced to Two Years in Dorchester Penitentary.

ANDREWS, May 14.-After the circui court opened at nine o'clock this morning, Mr. McMonagle resumed the cross-examina-tion of Maggie Doherty. Charles Doherty, her brother, in dence said he did not hear about the mental incident until he heard of the com-plaint made by Maggie against her father. He never knew of Maggie being a bad girl. The prisoner went on the stand. He fatly contradicted the charges made against him by his daughter. The first he knew of her contradicted the charges made against him by his daughter. The first he knew of her misconduct was when told of it by Mr. Berrie, Methodist minister, and another clergyman. This was about a year ago last fail.

Mrs. Daniel Burns, a witness for the prosecution, stated that one morning in August, when Maggie Doherty came to her house for milk, noticing that she did not look well, Mrs. Burns asked her what was the matter with her, and she said that George McNab ill-treated her last night. "I asked her if her father knew it. She said he did."

Mr. McMonagle addressed the jury, making out a good case for the prisoner. Mr. McKeown in a clear, dispassionate speech gave his reason why the jury should convict. The second and fourth counts of the indictment he withdrew for lack of confirmatory evidence, so that the jury would only have the first and third to consider.

The judge in a short charge gave the case to the jury. who retired to the jury room. They returned into court after three-quarters of an hour's deliberation. Their foreman, Dugsid C. Rollins, for them staed their verdict was guilty on the third clause, indecent assault. The judge then pronounced sentece, two years in prison in the Dorchester penitentiary, the term commencing with today.

The jury was dismissed and court. adjourned until Tuesday next the 20th instant at

J. M. O'Flaherty to see it some arrangement could be made for Maggie Doherty's future. These gentlemen saw the priest, who said he would write to Bishop Casey at St. John and enquire if she could be admitted to the Home of the Good Shepherd in that city. Meanwhile, pending the bishop's reply, Maggie will be left in charge of Jailer Kendrick. gie will be left in charge of Jailer Ken-drick.

It is reported that George McNab, for whose arrest a bench warrant was ordered to be issued, left town, where he has been in hiding, on his bike, presumably bound for Calais, Me.

FERROZONE.

Furnishes a Convenient Form. a Tonic-Laxative Which Cures Constipation and a Host of Other Diseases More or Less Common.

The entire length of the intestinal anal can be gently and thoroughly cleansed of all foul, decaying matter, by taking Ferrozone after each meal. Ferrozone helps the kidneys and liver to do their work, and by preventing the pores of the skin from being clogged up, it clears and beautifies the complexion. Ferrozone relieves irritation and pressure on the tissues of the brain and nerve centres, and insures a healthy, vigorous condition of mind and body.

The great merit of Ferrozone is that it instantly relieves constipation, and permanently cures it without interfering with business or pleasure, and never causes inconvenience or distress. It keeps all the bodily functions regular, and is the only medicine for constipation that acts gently, acts quickly, acts surely, without grip or grippe.

Ferrozone is especially efficacious in cases of over-work, headache, brain fag, torpid liver, weak memory, and melancholia. It relieves that "tired feeling." and puts elasticity into every movement. Ferrozone gives strength to the regenerative organs, and for the relief of nervous prostration, nervous debility, or decline of mental or physical power, is certainly superior to any curative agent the world has ever

The range of adaptability of Ferrozone is simply wonderful. It is entirely vegetable in composition, and quite free from any possibility of injurious effect even under long continued use. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, and no uncertainty of mistake as to the proper quantity or dose can ever arise.

Ferrozone is recommended and sold by all druggists, price 50 cts. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. Remember the name and see that the genuine Ferrozone is supplied. Refuse a substitute. Sent safely by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or A. Chipman Smith & Co., St. John, N. B.

SEVERE PAINS IN LEFT KIDNEY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Before reading Mr. Gallant's letter, which is quoted below, look over these symptoms and see if your kidneys are in a healthy condition. Scores of people attribute their sufferings to stomach troubles or indigestion, when the real cause of the discomfort is in the failure of the kidneys to properly filter the blood.

When paisonous impurities are left lurking in the system, disease of the most painful and dangerous kind is bound to show itself sooner or later. It is possible that you have kidney disease and have not recognized it as such tidney disease and have not recognized it as such.

The symptoms are, pain in the back and ever the kidneys, sediment in the urine after it stands for 24 hours, unusual desire to urinate, pain in passing water, gradual loss of flesh and weight, pains in limbs, not unlike rheumatism, dry, itching skin and brittle hair, fulness under the eyes and dropsical sweffing of the legs, sleeplessness- indigestion and constitution.

If you have any of these indications of cal swering of the legs, seepresence and gestion and constination.

If you have any of these indications of the kidney disorders, it is time for you to begin the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, the most thoroughly reliable treatment for kidney and liver disorders that is known to science. Many of the best people in the land take a pleasure in recommending this great remedy of the famous doctor, because it has cured them when other remedies failed.

it has cured them when other remedies falled.

Mr. Ellis Gallant, Pacquetville, Gloucester Co., N. B., writes: "I feel it my duty to write you, as I have received much benefit from the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I was taken three years ago with a pain just below the ribs of the left side, and right over the kidney. At first it did not cause me much suffering, but a year ago the pain, at times, was very severe.

"After hearing repeatedly of the value of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I decided to make a trial, and after using two boxes the path has completely disappeared and I am well, thanks to this remedy. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment and found it worth its weight in gold. You may publish this letter if you like, as it may induce some other sufferer to profit by my experience."

IT STRIKES THE HEART.

Not only is the victim of Rheuma tism a constant sufferer, but he lives in continual dread that the disease will reach the heart, which means sudden and unexpected death. Rheumaism can only be cured when the uric acid is removed from the blood by the healthy action of the kidneys. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills make the kidneys healthy and vigorous, and so gradually and thoroughly cure Rheumatism by removing the cause. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

John Scott of Golden Grove is farmer of renown. He is also a trapper on a small scale, and a short time ago, while visiting one of his traps which had been left in a promising looking position, he found in it a full grown female fox. From certain signs visible only to the initiated, Mr. Scott believed that there was a family of foxes concealed somewhere in the vicinity, and having heard that these creatures had holes in the ground he instituted a search. The result was gratifying. Mr. Scott found in a small league of three teams was formed, and as a result some interesting games have been played. The representative teams expect to play in Chatham on did not catch it, although the crow gave him good caws, nor did he feel the necessity of possessing a rabbit's foot, so his attention was wholly confined to the five young foxes, and these he removed to his own house. Here they have flourished and are now the about their own age. Since making his capture Mr. Scott has received many requests from persons in the city for the foxes, but as yet he has not parted with any of them.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Judgment of Magistrate Ritchie Regarding Market Fees.

Yesterday Magistrate Ritchie de livered judgment in the case between F. L. Potts and J. F. Taylor of Rothe say in regard to the payment of market fees on six carcasses of beef. This case was heard some weeks ago. The facts are briefly that James Minehan went to Mr. Taylor's place at Rothesay, looked at the cattle, named a price which was refused, then mentioned another price per pound of dressed beef, which was accepted. Mr. Mine han's man went out for the cattle They were brought in, killed, and the beef taken to the market. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Minchan together weighed the teef, and F. L. Potts demanded fees. Mr. Minehan, being a stall holder, was not liable, and Mr. Taylor claimed that the beef was not sold in the market, the title to the cattle having passed at Magistrate Ritchie yesterday desay, before the price of the cattle could be found, and as that something—the weighing—was done in the market by Mr. Minehan and Mr. Taylor, the title to the cattle did not pass at Rothesay. He found Mr. Taylor liable to pay the fees, or upon refusal, to a fine of eight dellars are attentially about three years. In the Juvenile branch several Bands of Hope have been organized under promising auspices. The two district divisions in Kings and St. John counties are doing good work, but both are crippled for lack of funds. It is hoped that by Occording the fees, or upon refusal, to a fine of eight dollars or fifteen days in jail for violation of the market by-laws Mr. Taylor refused to pay the fees and the fine was imposed. Mr. Potts also refused to accept the fees, as he says that this matter of the six cattle is not the only one. The thing has been going on for a long time. On behalf of his father, W. F. Taylor asked for a stay of proceedings, pending appeal to the supreme court.

PROVINCIAL NEWS.

GRAND MANAN, May 9.—Capt. Pratt in the cruiser Curlew has been at White Head investigating complaints regarding the violation of the order in council prohibiting the killing of fish with dynamite. As a result of his court of inquiry the Curlew yesterday steamed out for St. Andrews with three prizes, the United States fishing schooners Nellie T Gaskill and Satellite and the Grand Manan fishing boat Zelma, and it is understood he has information against a large number more. Your correspondent's opinion, based on the evidence of and experience of practical fishermen who have used the explosive, is that the use of dynamite is not half as bad as it is represented to be, and that if the fishermen of White Head Island had been allowed to use that mode of fishing they would now or at the end of the fishing season have been hundreds of dollars better off, whereas they are just that much out of pocket. The first year of its introduction as a measure of killing fish a host of people predicted the total annihilation of fish of all kinds. It has now been in use two years, and the facts of the case as yet do not bear out the predictions of these prophets. All kinds of fish still seem to frequent these waters in abundance, as of yore. Our poor fishermen have it hard enough now to draw from the sea a precarious living for their families and those dependent on them. Every year the products from old ocean seem to be depreciating in their market value, so that it absolutely renders it necessary that they by all means in their power prosecute their avocation of fishing as long as it does not injure their neighbors. They claim that the use of dynamite does not do this, and that it is as justifiable as any other mode of fishing. As the matter now stands it would be a help to the fishermen to have the government rescind its regulations re dynamite and appoint a commission to investigate the whole The Ashburton Club of North Head bids fair to be one of the social and educational features of this island. Its object, as your correspondent underestands it, is to advance the social, intellectual and moral state of society in not only its members themselves but in society in general. In its members by their social gatherings and regular sessions and in society in genseral by public entertainments and lectures, all for the elevation and progression of the inhabitants. The lectures are given by the best talent obtainable on the island and elsewhere All look forward to a bright future for the club. Its members number about forty ,and include some clever and bright young men. The Knights of Pythias gave a lobster supper in the school house hall at "Grand Harbor on the 2nd inst. As usual, it was a success, and netted the lodge a nice sum.

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., May 12.-The funeral of the late Mrs. John E. Holt of Bocabec was held last Saturday. Rev. J. W. Milledge of Oak Bay conducted a service for the family and friends at the house. The body was hearse, and followed by a large num ber of friends and neighbors in carriages, was carried to God's acre at Chamcook church, where interment was made. The casket was carried into the church, where the first part of the burial service was read by the Rev. R. J. Langford, rector of All Saints', St. Andrews. Rev. J. W. Milledge preached a short sermon appropriate to the occasion. Rector Langford said the commitment at the grave side. The deceased leaves five sons and four daughters and forty grandchildren. Save two all were present at the funeral. A son residing in California and a daughter, Mrs. Storr of St. Stephen, were prevented from attending, the latter being sick. Four of the sons performed the mournful duty of pall bearers. The late Mrs. Holt was a woman of very hospitable disposition, beloved by her family, to whom she was a kind and affectionate mother. The large following at the funeral showed the respect and eswas a token of sincere sympathy for the bereaved family.

The American fishing schooners the Grand Manan fishing boat seized by Capt. Pratt, they having on board at the time of seizure dynamite, presumably for illegal fishing purposes are still lying at anchor in the harbor under the gun and watchful eye of the officers and crew of the Curlew. Capt. Pratt is awaiting instructions from the minister of fisheries, to whom he reported. The masters of the American schooners sought the advice and assistance of the United States vice "consular agent here, George H. Stick-ney, to whom they told that they had been fishing outside the three mile limit and had run in for a harbor, which under the treaty they thought was their right and privileges; that they had not used and did not intend to use the dynamite found on board by Capt. Pratt in Canadian waters.

A BARRISTER'S VIEW Said a prominent barrister yesterday to the Sun: Ther appears to be an idea prevalent that there is soon to be a vacancy in the judgeship of the county courts of Northumberland, Glouce ter and Restigouche, although Judge Wilkinson is a very active man and it is said does not desire to retire. In the event of a vacancy, it is generally conceded that the appointment would go to Premier Tweedie if he desired it, but apparently he does not desire it, for he is said to be urging the dominion government to give the office to a recent convert to liberalism, R. A. Lawlor of Chatham. At one time Robert Murray of Chatham was suprosed to have a chance of securing the appointment, but he is now said not to be in the running. A number of Acadian liberals are pressing claims of N. Landry, now of Bathurst but formerly of Westmorland, who is a brother of Judge Landry of the supreme court. H. F. McLatchy, an Albert county man, now living in Campbellton, is also spoken of as a possible appointee, and has the support of James Reid, M. P. WILL VISIT IRELAND.

Rev. J. J. O'Donovan, west side, is about to take a holiday trip to Ireland, which he expects will occupy two or three months. He has been very busy in the material affairs of his parish during the past few years while not neglecting the more important spiritual concerns, and the result is that the property of the church is in excellent condition. One of the most important improvements was the placing of a heating apparatus in the church. Another was the building of a house at Sand Cove for the care ing painted and the premises fenced. A handsome new carpet is to be put down this week in the sanctuary of the church, the money for which was collected by the promoters of the League of the Sacred Heart. Father O'Donovan has not a wealthy parish, but he succeeds in having a large amount of work done. It will be conceded he has a good claim for a long consecrated Steven Lodge, No. 37, A. ## PARLIAMENT.

Leader of the Opposition in a Clear Cut Speech

Duty of the Pre

OTTTAWA, May 12.-The whole of the morning session was occupied with a discussion of the private bill incorporating the Gaspe Railway, Creditors for labor and material supplied to the Baie des Chaleur Railway, which is part of this enterprise, demand priority for their claims, while bond holders of the old railway insist that they should not lose their security. The light began in the railway committee and was continued all forenoon in the house. Mr. Casgrain secured some important changes required by the bond holders, and in the afternoon the bill passed its third reading.

There was a long discussion in the afternoon on the bill to incorporate the bishop of the orthodox Russo-Greek Catholic church for North America and the Aleutian Islands, who has a considerable flock in Manitoba and the west.

Mr. Lariviere said the bishop was would be an outrage to pass this bill without consulting the people directly interested, namely the Galicians. He objected to the use of the word Cath-olic in the title of the bill, as Bishop Tikhon wanted parliament to acknowedge that his was the Catholic church. Mr. Belcourt-No one has got the monopoly on that name. Mr. Lariviere-Well, you have not, Mr. Belcourt-Do not the Episcopalians call themselves Catholics? Mr. Lariviere—Supposing they do! the mother country against Canada.

They do not ask this parliament to Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he would be They do not ask this parliament to confirm it by act of parliament.

John Costigan did not see any par ticular objection to the title in the bill, but he cited a New Brunswick case under which the legislature had changed the title of an act of incorporation of a Baptist church in the province because it was liable to conflict with an existing Baptist church.

Mr. Lariviere said that at one place in the west land was given to the Catholic section of the Galicians, upon which they built a church. The money was supplied by the Roman Catholics but afterwards three trustees were induced to join the Greek church and transferred the building to that body. The matter was now before the courts, and the solicitors who prepared this bill wanted parliament to recognize this Orthodox Russo-Greek church as time this day six months. This was lost by 34 to 71, and the bill was then read a third time and passed. were advanced a stage.

In reply to questions of Mr. Gourlay, the premier said no negotiations were in progress respecting the union of ations for Fenian raid r had been made on behalf of the "Rothesay Blues' 'and second Colchester regiment.

Mr. Hackett was informed that in the autumn of 1901 Dr. Seward Webb and his party had been carried over the P. E. I. railway by a special train free of charge, and that the trip was made on Sunday by authority of the general passenger agent. Mr. Mulock informed Mr. Clarke that the government had no information concerning importation of alien machinists to Kingston, Ont., to take the place of strikers.

Mr. Borden. Halifax, opened up in an able speech a discussion of the future attitude of the premier on the subject of imperial commercial relations. The opposition leader pointed out that Laurier had declared that in the coming imperial conference he had no disposition to discuss imperial defence or He would, however, discuss questions of imperial commercial relations. This was understood to mean that the premier proposed to open up negotiations for mutual tariff preference. Only at last the premier had declared that no such preference was possible unless Canada should give up her protective tariff and even her customs duties. He had also informed England that Canada did not desire a preference in return for ours. If that situation was such that a preference for Canada was impossible or undesirable it hardly seemed worth while for Mr. Laurier to waste a good holiday in attendance on that conference. Mr. Forden went on to speak of the grat. duties recently imposed by the imperial parliament, and pointed out that if the Canadian government had done its duty the attention of the imperial government would have been called to desire of Canada that our grain should be exempted. If Laurier had not sent such a communication he had not done his duty. The imperial government had taken a step which Canadian ministers had over and over again said could never be taken. Now this country wanted to know what the Canadian government proposed to do, or had done in the matter. The time had come for the government to take the people of Canada into its confidence and state its own policy and purpos in the present circumstances. Mr. Borden closed an hour's spee with the statement that he intended to propose an amendment to the motion for setting forth what he considered to be the duty of the government and the desire of the Canadian people. He had, however, concluded that it would be better not to take a party advantage for reasons. He would now say that if the premier would propose a resolution in favor of an imperial preference tariff the opposition would gladly support this motion and make it unanimous. He (Borden) would go that far to subordinate party interests for the public good. He would therefore await with interest the announcement of the government as to the policy which representatives of the

Mr. Bordea's speech was loudly applauded on the opposition side. Mr. Laurier, who was cheered by his supporters when he rose, complained that Mr. Borden brought his motion up too late in the session. He would say that at the imperial conference he would take part in the discussions, but he would discuss them in the tone of the Canadian message to Hon. Mr. Chamberlain. There is in Canada, said Sir Wilfrid, as there is in England, a school which seeks to intro-duce into the colonies the spirit of militarism, which has been the curse of Europe. He would oppose that

As to political union he would nov say nothing, as Mr. Borden had not dwelt upon it.

Regarding preferential trade, Mr. Laurier said he was prepared to advocate such action, but since Mr. Bor den was giving advice he would thank him for instructions as to the subjects in which Canada would give Britain additional preference. Would the member from Toronto consent to the preference in woollen goods? "Certainly if Britain gives us preference in return." Laurier said he was glad

Premier Laurier then stated he was going to England to discuss commer ial relations. No doubt Chamberlain had something to propose, otherwise subject to the Czar of Russia, and it he would not have invited the colonial premiers to discuss colonial relations. He (Laurier) conceded that the situation today was quite different from that of 1897. What was not proposed then might be proposed now. The adoption of food duties by Britain had made a complete change in the situation. The first step had been taken leading to something that was impossible before. He did not feel five years ago that he ought to advocate food tariffs and thus create a prejudice in perfectly candid. He would go to the conference to listen to what England might propose and then he would advocate mutual tariff preference throughout the empire in that interest He would be glad to confer with Mr. Borden as to the form of resolution which should be favored unanimously by the house, such resolution to be adopted by the whole parliament and which might have a great influence in imperial negotiations.

Mr. Brock, conservative, Toronto, said Laurier was himself to blame for the late hour this subject had come up, as his government had 'withheld all information as to its intention. The premier had pursued a remarkably devious course in his negotiations with and declarations to Britain, and it was still impossible to learn from Lau-Catholic, so that they could retain the rier's language what his present views property belonging to Roman Cath- and intentions were, but some sympathy was due the leader of the government in view of the difficulty in which his supporters had placed him. Mr. On the third reading Mr. Lariviere Bourassa had given him this trouble moved that the bill be read a third in the house, and now had bought a

The death occurred Tuesday morn ing under particularly sad circum stances of Mrs. Annie Louise Murray wife of Isaac B. Murray, accountant with J. M. & C. W. Hope Grant. Mrs. Murray was formerly Miss Northrup, but had lived from childhood with her aunt, Mrs. Robert J. Dibblee. She was but 23 years of age and a bride of less than a year. On Sunday afternoon the deceased contracted a sudden cold which, in a few hours, developed int congestion of the lungs. The same evening she gave birth to twins, one of whom has since died. Mrs. Murray was a consistent and faithful member of St. James' Episcopal Church and news of her death will be heard with

SERMON.

In This Sermon the Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage Paints a.
Picture Which Will be Recognized as Familiar in Many Homes Throughout the Land

CHICAGO, May 11.-In this sermion the Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage paints a picture which will be recognized as familiar in many homes throughout have a boy in the great, wicked city of the land. His text was Luke xv., 13, Chicago. I fear he is not doing right. "The younger son gathered all together and took his journey into a far country.' The old homestead is turned upside down. One of the two boys, the younger, is about to leave the parental roof. The eaglet is tired of being warmed by the protecting breasts of the old birds. With ruffled feathers he stands upon the edge of the eyric ready to fly off. Sad is the disruption of a home. When the children say "Goodby," the families talk and laugh and joke. But they are only laughing to sustain their courage. The wedding bells weep as well as sing. At the marriage the guests may congratulate the parents of the bride upon having gained a son. But the daughter is never the same after the wedding. On that day the bride goes forth to make her own home, build her own nest, rear her own young, and live her own life. Instead of belonging to the parent she becomes another's. Instead of the mother being first now she is second.

ding of a very dear friend. The slipper had been thrown, the rice tossed, the farewells shouted. I followed the old gray haired father down to the garden gate. While we stood there in the moonlight he turned to me and said: "Frank, I know she has married a good man. I do hope she will be happy. But it is hard, awfully hard to give her up. She was my baby girl. She is my youngest. It breaks the heart." Children are born. They pass boyhood and gorlhood days under the parental roof. They grow up into manhood and womanhood. They begin to scatter. Death knocks at the front door and summons some. Love hovers among the spring flowers and breathes through the orange blossoms and wooes others. Business and pm fessional duties becken to others. last the old nursery is vacant. Father and mother sit again alone at the dining table as they once did when they hemselves were bride and groom. The old homstead is deserted save by the old folks. The text is a tragedy.

The mother did not sleep much last night. Though she tries to look cheer ful, her eyes are red from weeping. Every little while she disappears into the pantry or goes up stairs. makes an excuse as though she was looking for something. We know leaves the room for one purpose. wants to have a good cry.

INTO A FAR COUNTRY.

The father is giving his last instruc-tions. He is handing the young traveller some letters of introduction to a prominent merchant with whom the son will lodge in the next town. A noise is at the gate. Servants are bringing out the horses and strapping the baggage upon the pack males. They talk in subdued whispers. Even they feel sorry. The young "master" the house. "Oh," answered the young was a happy, jolly, go lucky boy. He also a mother to her son, who was putting on his coat and hat, preparing to leave they feel sorry. The young "master" the house. "Oh," answered the young the home early, mother. Iers. The only happy creature this amount of the work of the work of the work of the house of the born. The young man passed down the street. He sounded a low sportsmen for a week's hunt. His hills are the corner, "Boys," he said stone at the brute and shouts, "Go back to the barn." Slowly the dog of the want me to leave home. I must be a mother to her son, who was putting leading them into a slaughter bouse, "Was not a slaughter bouse, "Where they are to be killed." After the house, "Oh," answered the young the benediction this aristocratic lady turned to her son and said: "Was not turned to her son and said: back to the barn." Slowly the dog turns. His lowered head and tail are the canine signs of abject wee. He stops now and then expecting to hear the familiar huntsman's halloo. Perhaps he realizes for the first time he is taking a last lok of larewell. I always did think that a bright dog was smarter than a stupid man. The farewell words are now being said. The father gives his benediction. We must turn our heads away. The mother is having her last convulsive clasp. These are the snapping of the heartstrings. A mother rarely realizes that the baby she once nocked in a cradle can grow into a man. He is always her boy. Suddenly the young man breaks away. He leaps into the saddle. The spurs cut deep. Parents and friends shout their farewell to the cavalcade. Then they wave and throw kisses. The old father wipes his face vigorously with a handkerchief. He scolds the servants. He bids them to be off. He does not want them to see him cry. The mother has no such tride. As the horses disappear over the last hill the aged wife buries her head upon her husband's breast. She sobs as though her heart would break. The husband tenderly puts his arm about the sad heart. He draws her to-

Slowly they walk up the tree arched path. They stop a moment on the porch to glance down the road. Slowly the sighing father opens the front door. The men go back to the fields, MISTAKEN PARENTAL KINDNESS the female servants to the kitchen. The domestic machinery is started. The neighbors, returning to their homes, say, "Is it not too bad that the younger son should gather all together and take his journey into a far

He has written me that he has attended your church Will you pray for him?" The national capital. Sometimes sin is intrenched in a pulpit of the land where a minister has become an apostate and, Judaslike, has sold his Christ for thirty pieces of silver. Wherever the far country of sin may be is the place where the nobler and purer and better parts of man's life are being strangled. Once a sailing vessel was sighted floating among the icebergs of the Arctics. The captain of the approaching vessel put the trumpet to his lips and shouted: "Ship ahoy! Whither bound? Whither bound?" No answer. again the trumpet called, but the only ound heard by the captain was the frozen dead in the pilothouse, the capsailors frozen to death in their bunks. The derelict had been drifting about ed his physical constitution by for thirteen long years, with a crew or furl a sail.

The far country is the land of sin, where the inhabitants are dead to God.

A WORD TO YOUNG MEN.

Though the far country of sin may be anywhere, yet it is always a great distance away from the fireside of a Christian home. As soon as the younger son determined to revel in sin he wanted to get away from the presence of his aged Christian father. He practically said: "Father, give me the hare of money which will come to me when you are dead, and I will leave home and live independently. I do not want to see your loving eye and feel the kiss of holy affection upon my lips. I want to go with evil companions and not associate with you, even though you are my father." The Christian nome ought to be the happiest place on earth to a child. It is a happy place where the child wishes and tries to do the greatest preacher of his day. Rowright. But the Christian home is a repulsive place to live when the boy wants to do those things which should this way: "The other day I saw a be left undone. did not want me to leave home. I must be more careful. Come, let's have some fun." That night in a place of evil resort this group of young men gambled and smoked and sang lewd songs. It was great sport! They did not cease their carousal until the morning sun announced to the night watchman that his was done and it was time for him to go to bed

A few years ago in an eastern city in a noted murder case the jury brought in the verdict of murder in the first degree. When the judge asked the de-fendant why sentence should not be passed upon him a young man arose He turned a pale face toward the judge. As he began to speak we see he was the same young man of whom I have just spoken. "Your honor," said he. "I am not afraid to die. If I committed murder in that drunken row a few months ago, I should be put to death. But, sir, before sentence is passed upon me I should like to speak a word to the young man crowding this courtroom. I would like to tell them that I started on the road which will lead me to the gallows when I used to leave my home at night to go out with evil companions. When I went out thus I always directly or indirectly had to deceive my mother." The far country of sin may seem to be only a step to the corner saloon. It is as far away as if it were ten thousand million miles away, from the fireside of the

The far country of sin generally has broader and smoother highway for the younger members of a family to for the older sons and daughters. When the son said, 'Father, divide and give me in that low saloon or cheap theatre or my portion,' the father should have said: 'You show a bad spirit. I will make you go without your share.' the younger son spent his all. We can readily picture this young man when he first left home. He had plenty of money. The tavern keepers bowed and smiled at his approach. They regretted when his party left. The gay young folks of the region to which he went felt proud to be seen in public by his side. His bachelor apartments were furnished in the most expensive style. The banks would honor any echo of his own voice. A small boat drafts he made upon them. He was a was lowered. When the derelict was hall fellow, well met. He was as much hail fellow, well met. They are so dead that come anxious and demand payment they will not hear the Divine Father's and full payment at once. What hapcome anxious and demand payment voice calling them back to the heavenly pens? Why, the story of the prodigal son then tells us that there was a famine in that land. As soon as a sinner's money is gone his sinful friends immediately leave him. The bright winged humming birds have little use for the rose bush when the flowers are gone. This younger son began to be in want. He became helpless and friendless. To earn food enough to sustain life he tended a herd of swine. This social condition was the worst to which a Jew could ever sink. He was flat upon his back in the lowest pit of despair.

An aristocratic lady living in London had a very dissipated son. A friend said: "Why don't you take your son to hear Rowland Hill preach? Perhaps he can save him.' The mother answered, "I will." Next Sunday night she sat in Mr. Hill's audience to listen to land Hill arose, gave out a text and began a sermon upon the prodigal son in meant. He meant that I was the prodigal son being led by Satan into he far country of sin, where I would be destroyed as swine are killed by the butcher's knife in a slaughter house."

THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS.

The far country is never so far away but that the penitent prodigal can find his way back from it to the heavenly homestead. When the younger son became so poor that he had no decent clothes for his back, so friendless that not one of his old companions would speak to him, when he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat, then he thought of his father's past love. "Surely," said he, "father will give me enough to eat. He will care for me as much as he would for one of his hired servants, even though I have done wrong." But the good father was ready to do more than that. No sooner did the younger son come within sight of the old home stead than the father ran to meet him He fell on his son's neck and kissed nim. He kissed him in the same manner the Livine Father is ready to gree every one of his wayward children. He gave a loving kiss of elephal pardon He kissed him, as God will kiss us if we will only come back to Jesus' side and stand under the shadow of the atoning

One moonlight night at Ashbury Park a party of young people were gathered on the beach. As the waves came rolling up the sands the conversation dragged. Then a young girl with voice as sweet as a bird's began to sing. Her many friends joined in and made a large chorus. After awhile this young girl started the tender home melody of Robert Laurie:

Oh. could I see you now, my boy As fair as in olden time, When prattle and smile made home joy And life was a merry chime!

When the last notes of this song died away, an old man came toward the group and said to the young people: "Will you please sing that song again? My wife and I have a wayward boy. We do not know where he is tonight He ran away from home. We do wan him to come back before we die." God, the Divine Father, is waiting. He is waiting for some of his wayward children to come tonight to the gospel fire-

Just then an old man came in. He stamped the snow off his great boots. This gray haired woman looked up and "Pa, have you brought a letter? Have you been to the post-office? Is it not strange he has not written. He has been gone now five long years. Do you think God will let me live long enough to see him just once before I The old man said nothing. He went to the door and looked down the road. He shaded his eyes as though he could "see a great way off." Then he said: "Mother, that is a fine calf we have there in the barnyard. She is getting fatter each day. We must kill her soon. Perhaps we can have a big feast when our boy comes home." They sat by the fire a little while after the dishes were wiped. The old folks were too tired to stay up late. They were too tired to sleep.

They took down the Bible, said: "Pa. won't you read that story of the prodigal son? Somehow ! never can hear it enough. You read it last night. It is in the fifteenth chapter of Luke. Read about the younge son that went away and starved and was too proud to come home." the old folks knelt. As they prayed the little candlelight began to flash in sympathy. The tears trickled through the four withered hands. There the two tired, heart-sick parents stayed upon their knees, pleading with God for the return of their wayward boy, until an angel in heaven could bear their grief no longer. He fluttered away and whispered to me the secret that I am now telling. My son, will you not go home? Before the old folks are dead do go home. Leave this far country of
