BRITISH-U.S.-JAP CONFERENCE PLANNED

MANHATTAN SEETHES WITH FRENZY AS TIME OF FIGHT DRAWSNEAR

Press of New York Devotes Pages in Superlative Display to "Greatest Heavyweight Encounter in History of Sport."

New York, July 2.—New York and the entire metropolitan area, which reaches out and embraces the now famous "Boyle's Thirty Acres" in Jersey City, seethed today with a frenzy of excitement wholly unprecedented in the annals of sport as the hour rolled slowly on for the fistic clash for the world's heavyweight championship between Jack Dempsey, United States titleholder, and Georges Carpentier, idol and champion of Europe.

New York's mansions and her gorgeous hotels early began disgorging brilliant parties of men and women, intent on threading in ample time the cluttered automobile highways that lead to Promoter Tex Rickard's mammoth arena in Jersey City. Less opulent fight fans had begun the scramble toward Jersey City hours earlier by ferry, by flivver and by train. But even the earliest arrivals this morning found themselves outgeneraled by an advance guard of about three hundred men and boys who had spent the night in line at the big arena waiting for first crack at the $5,50 unreserved seats.

The day opened with a brief flash of sunshine, but by 9 o'clock the sky was overcast and a threat of rain was in the air, despite the weather forecast which had promised fair weather with a temperature of 80 or 85 degrees.

Dempsey Primed and Eager.

Champion Dempsey, primed and eager, awaited the hour to defend his title in a Jersey City residence, to which he had been spirited from his training camp at Atlantic City late yesterday. The challenger left his quarters at Manhasset by automobile shortly after breakfast for Port Washington, where a yacht waited to bear him to the fight city. Both had issued minute statements asserting they were ready for the battle of their lives and breathing confidence in the outcome. Odds favoring the champion had shortened markedly in the last hours of betting, but Dempsey still reigned a 2 or 2½ to 1 favorite over the French challenger, Carpentier, however, ruled the sentimental favorite.

New York newspapers, whose accounts of the coming fight were measured today by pages rather than by columns, were a study in superlatives.

The fight was described as "the greatest heavyweight encounter in the history of sport." It will be staged in "the biggest arena ever constructed" before "the largest and most brilliant assembly ever turned out for a sporting event." And the purse—$500,000—is "the most generous in the history of the ring."

Dempsey is described as "the greatest heavyweight champion since John L. Sullivan," while the handsome Frenchman, who has been called variously a "Greek god," "mystery man," "man of destiny" and "wonder man," is acclaimed as "the greatest heavyweight Europe has produced."

The bout unquestionably has excited the greatest interest ever aroused by a pugilistic encounter. The crowd that was struggling its way out toward Jersey City all through the forenoon, assembled from ever corner of the world. Representative citizens from Far west, middle west, south and east, have been rolling into the city for 48 hours on every train, hundreds came from Canada, while steamers deposited hundreds of enthusiasts from Great Britain, France, Spain, even from far-away Japan and China.

Promoter Rickard announced last night that the seat sales had exceeded the $1,250,000 mark, and he estimated the final sale would pass $1,500,000, with at least 80,000 of the 91,163 seats in the huge arena taken. A full arena would mean a sale of about $1,750,000.

WEATHER CLOUDY.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—Partly cloudy weather with a temperature of between 80 and 85 degrees and a good deal of humidity was the weather bureau's forecast this morning for weather conditions around the New Jersey arena when Dempsey and Carpentier go into the ring today.

BETTING BRISK.

Paris, July 2.—Betting on the fight opened briskly this morning. Several large bets were recorded with Dempsey the favorite at 3½ to 1.

Purchasers who bought seats from speculators at advances of 400 to 500 per cent over marked prices groaned today when they learned that some of the "scalpers" had become panic stricken and cut prices to 20 and 30 per cent below Rickard's prices. Even at these prices, the speculators' tickets went slowly. This was believed to be due more to the scare over counterfeit tickets, however, than to a lessening demand for seats.

WILL TRY TO SETTLE GAS DIFFICULTIES

Consumers in Westminster Township To Meet Company.

INSPECTOR TO ATTEND

Large Gathering Is Expected At Court House.

Gas consumers of Westminster Township and those residing on Brick street, patrons of the Southern Gas Company, meet the representatives of that corporation at a mass meeting this afternoon at the courthouse. The provincial gas inspector will attend as mediator between the two opposing factions.

The company notified its patrons in the township several days ago that on or about August 1 it would find it necessary to discontinue its service. Although the claim was advanced that the supply of natural gas was fast being exhausted, the people of the township are inclined to believe that it is merely a preliminary move by the company in seeking increased rates. A compromise is expected today, however.

FIGHT NEWS TAKES FIRST PLACE IN PARIS

Paris, July 2.—Crashing banks, wars, reparations, Silesia and other public questions were thrust into the background by this morning's newspapers, which gave the most prominent place in their columns to the news regarding the Dempsey-Carpentier battle in Jersey City. Even Communist organs devoted themselves to dispatches from New York dealing with the coming international glove combat. Each newspaper in Paris had made its own arrangement for proclaiming the result, and the scenes to be enacted in Paris tonight bid fair to rival those which accompanied the announcement of the signing of the armistice.

LIBERALISM IS CANADA'S GREAT NEED, SAYS KING

People Realize They Have Been Robbed Of Their Liberties.

POLITICAL AUTOCRACY

Deprived Of a Representative Parliament and Responsible Ministry.

BROME, Que., July 1.—By Canadian Press.—Speaking at the Dominion Day celebration here this afternoon, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal Opposition in the House of Commons, said Toryism was the ill from which Canada was suffering in government, and that Liberalism was the need of the present and the future.

The great war had, he said, as in the case of England a hundred years ago, inevitably led to the ascendancy of Toryism in Canada, and at its close the political power of the Liberal party was at a comparatively low ebb.

Parted With Liberties.

Developing his parallel, Mr. King said Canadians were beginning to discover wherein the liberties they had previously enjoyed had been parted with to a degree never dreamed of before. The people saw themselves deprived of the rights of a representative parliament, and a responsible ministry. They saw the functions of government "carried out by a usurper who exercises his authority, not in virtue of any power derived from the people, but solely as the outcome of arbitrary enactments and political might. They see this usurpation of the authority of government maintained through a combination of political autocracy and industrial plutocracy brought into being by war conditions and fostered through war necessities."

Has No Authority.

Speaking of the conference of overseas premiers in London, Mr. King gave it as his view that of all the premiers there assembled, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen was the only one who had come without any authority from the people of his country, and he added that Canada was the only country among the nations which comprise the British Empire, the electors of which had been denied the right since the termination of the war, of choosing a representative government to deal with post-war conditions. He cited two resolutions moved by him in Parliament, the first urging that there should be no change in the relations of Canada to other parts of the Empire and no action taken at the conference implying any obligation on the part of Canada to undertake new expenditures for naval or military purposes. This was defeated by Mr. Meighen and his following.

Befitting Silence.

The second resolution asking the fullest publicity on all matters of public expenditure was also defeated. In view of these facts, Mr. King claimed that Mr. Meighen should have preserved a befitting silence with respect to the rights of the people to full information when he was abroad.

In conclusion he said that the imperial conference might well have taken as a model for the world disarmament the relations that had existed for a hundred years between the United States and Canada, and he urged that solution upon the United States, Great Britain and Japan in regard to the limitation of armament on the Pacific Ocean.

CRONYN STATEMENTS FIND OBJECTIONS

Postal Clerks Never Get a Chance At Ottawa Jobs.

Strong objection was taken today by representatives of the postal clerks to statements by Major Cronyn relative to promotions in the civil service, and notably among those of the postal department.

"Major Cronyn states that many Londoners have been promoted at different times to Ottawa," commented the representative, "and that if the rule is adhered to that only local men in each office be promoted, then they will never have a chance to strive for the better jobs at Ottawa.

"He is right when he says many have been given berths at Ottawa, but what he does not say is that they have been placed in the different branches of the inside service. As we understand these departments have always reserved the right to bring men from all over the Dominion, and, as it is, every center has its quota. Both political parties in the past have always taken advantage of this rule.

"But what must be understood is this, that in the postoffice at Ottawa the railway mail service or in the postoffice inspector's office there are none but Ottawa men. And these are the departments which we are interested in, and which affect us."

ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE.

Montreal, July 2.—Canadian Press.—Charged with the murder of Georges Jobin, who was killed in his fur store at 297 Amherst street on May 14 last, Raoul Berlinguette, 40 years old, a laborer, who gave his address as 273 Wolfe street, was placed under arrest last night.

He was arrested in a hotel at the corner of Amherst and Demontigny streets, within a block of the scene of the murder.

TOO MUCH STRENGTH TO EVENING BREEZES WAFTED OVER CERTAIN SECTIONS OF THE CITY, DECLARES INSPECTOR RICHARD H. SANDERS

Obnoxious "Sniffs" Are Daily Released From a Fertilizer Plant On East Street—Thames River at Dundas Street Bridge Also Comes In For Criticism From West London Residents—Remedy Is Promised.

As a result of complaints regarding "disagreeable smells," received from citizens residing in various parts of the city, Sanitary Inspector R. H. Sanders of the local board of health is out on a clean-up campaign.

The first complaints received were concerning that district in the vicinity of C. S. Hyman's plant on Richmond street north, which complaints Inspector Sanders has declared are warranted. The odor of objectionable aroma, in his opinion, emanates from tanks used for washing animal hides, and as improvements were promised, following his inspection, the matter has been left in abeyance, pending a reduction in "smells."

The bone of contention with residents of East London in the vicinity of Ealing School, is the obnoxious odor which is daily released from the fertilizer plant on East street, near the city limits. According to board of health officials, dead horses and cows, from which the fertilizer is prepared, are responsible for the strength of evening breezes which waft about the nostrils of citizens of that district. Improvements have also been promised here, and if the nuisance is elliminated as promised no further action will be taken by the board of health.

Dundas street bridge is the last evil-smelling section on the list of complaints. Incidentally it is the least of these three, and the cause of the unpleasant olfactory stimulants here is unknown, although the River Thames at its low water mark, is blamed for the high odors. There is little hope of remedy here, as the Thames cannot be diverted, or dried up, to eliminate the nuisance. However, board of health officers are investigating to ascertain if there is a solution in sight.

While officers are investigating all three causes of complaints, with improvements promised in two of them, it is understood, that these nuisances will be reported to the London Board of Health for discussion at the next regular meeting, and if not eliminated by them, more drastic steps to accomplish same may be ordered by the board.

Little Hope That Irish Conference Proposed by Lloyd George Will Be Anything But a Failure

Fiscal Autonomy Will Be Rock On Which the Negotiations Will Break, Is Belief in England.

London, July 2.—(By Grattan O'Leary, Canadian Press staff correspondent).—Solution of the Irish question, brought within the range of probability by Premier Lloyd George's dramatic offer to De Valera to attend a peace conference in London, once more appears doomed to fail.

During the last week the Canadian Press correspondent has been afforded close touch, not only with the Irish office but with the leaders of the Unionists and of the old Nationalist party, and as a consequence is convinced that even if the conference be held, which now seems less likely, the chances of reaching an immediate settlement are extremely remote.

The rock head upon which the proposed conference would almost certainly split is the question of fiscal autonomy.

De Valera, who still talks about the Irish question as if the North did not exist and whose attempt to relegate Sir James Craig to a position of inequality in the conference was a blunder to begin with, will, it is known here, put forward complete fiscal autonomy as the irreducible minimum of his demands. This, it can be stated on the soundest authority, Lloyd George is not prepared to grant.

Fiscal Autonomy.

"If by fiscal autonomy you mean increased powers of taxation over those which are incorporated in the present

MEIGHEN AFRAID TO FACE PEOPLE, ASSERTS CLARK

Member For Red Deer Flays "Reactionary" Government Unmercifully.

HIGHLY DANGEROUS

Over 12,000 People Attend West Middlesex Farmers' Picnic.

[By Canadian Press.]

STRATHROY, July 1.—Mercilessly flaying the "protectionist" Meighen Government and terming it reactionary, unprogressive and highly dangerous, Dr. Michael Clark, federal member for Red Deer, Alta., addressed at some length the third annual gathering of West Middlesex farmers here today.

The speaker's occasional remarks relative to the recent Government defeat in Medicine Hat never failed to incite a demonstration of feeling by his hearers, as did his comment upon the obvious reluctance of the Union administration to go to the country at the earliest opportunity.

On the platform with the member from the west were John G. Lethbridge, M.P.P., West Middlesex, and Andrew Hicks, M.P.P. for South Huron, and U. F. O. whip for the district. Donald A. Graham, president of the West Middlesex United Farmers, presided and spoke briefly.

Record Attendance.

Dominion Day proved a day of records for Strathroy. Last year's attendance at the fair grounds was smashed with comparative ease. Not even standing room was available in the stand long before the afternoon races. Officials of the United Farmers placed the total number of visitors at the conservative figure of 12,000. The heat was a trifle excessive during the middle of the day, but the doughty picnickers weathered through. The track was fast and when it is realized that the one-mile trotting record for the Strathroy course was made, one can readily conceive that the program of horse races was well above the average.

Defeated Appin.

Strathroy came "out from under" and inflicted a masterly defeat upon the Appin collection of ball-tossers in the morning game, and the Strathroy Collegiate Institute quartet of runners bested twelve teams, representing every township of Middlesex, in the relay race. Undoubtedly, as everyone agreed upon the homeward journey, it was a big day for Strathroy, however reckoned.

In his opening remarks Dr. Clark explained that on personal grounds he was more pleased to be among the electors of West Middlesex, and touched upon his long period of friendship, first with the peerless leader, the late St. George Ross, and subsequently, up to the present, with his son.

Unity Is Essential.

"I am glad," asserted the speaker, "to be with you today as a man from French Report Many Moslems Assassinated by Departing Greeks.

Paris, July 2.—A detachment of United States marines has been landed as Ismid, a town about fifty miles southeast of Constantinople, in Asia Minor, for the purpose of protecting United States citizens there upon the retirement of Greek troops, says a dispatch to the French foreign office.

A small French detachment is at Ismid, and it reports that a number of bodies of Moslems who were assassinated before the departure of the Greeks have been found. The French, however, succeeded in saving 4,000 Turks in the town, it is said.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE.

Smyrna, July 2.—Several soldiers and civilians were killed and a large number were wounded when a Greek benzine supply depot and a large amount of ammunition blew up and burned here today. Several houses were destroyed by fire which followed the explosion.

ANGLO-JAP TREATY STANDS TILL 1923, SAYS BIRKENHEAD

British Government Notifies Japan of Lord Chancellor's Decision—The "Thunderer" Hostile To Government in Its Comment On Situation Created by the Ruling.

London, July 2.—Great Britain has notified Japan that, owing to the decision of Lord Birkenhead, the lord high chancellor, to the effect that the Anglo-Japanese treaty, even if denounced July 15, will automatically run for another year, the question of a three months' extension of the treaty has been dropped.

AWAITS DENUNCIATION.

London, July 2.—The London Times, dealing with the Imperial conference in an editorial today, argues that the opinion of Lord Birkenhead, the lord high chancellor, that the Anglo-Japanese treaty automatically would continue unless denounced, alters the whole angle of the premiers' approach to one of the largest international problems.

The paper says that Lord Birkenhead pointed out that the treaty itself provides that, unless it is denounced by Great Britain or Japan, it will remain in force until one or the other party does denounce it, and will even then continue for a year after denunciation.

"Careful Concealment."

In this connection the paper declares:

"It would seem, indeed, that had the dominions been frankly informed of this simple legal position before the departure of their premiers, a vast amount of misunderstanding, unnecessary speculation and controversy might have been spared to the press, public and politicians of the whole world."

After commenting on what it terms the Government's careful concealment of Lord Birkenhead's speech, the Times continued:

"The tardy recognition of the true position appears to modify the whole character of the present conference. The fact that the treaty needs no renewal and cannot immediately be annulled, removes from the deliberations of the conferees the most anxious of their preoccupations.

"In a year's time the Pacific problems hinging on the treaty question may be viewed from a totally different standpoint, since it is hoped, and is probable, that the powers concerned will have adjusted many of the positions which now seem, if not reconcilable, at least difficult and potentially dangerous."

MEIGHEN ARGUMENTS NULLIFIED.

London, July 2.—By Grattan O'Leary, Canadian Press staff correspondent.—The demand for a conference between Great Britain, the United States and the Pacific dominions on the one hand and Japan on the other, in an effort to solve the problems of the Far East and bring about disarmament, has won a great triumph in the conference of premiers.

While no official announcement of the decision reached has been made, and no announcement is likely to be made, nevertheless there are the best reasons for stating that such a decision was arrived at at yesterday's session of the conference.

Meanwhile the Anglo-Japanese alliance remains in force for another year, due to the fact that Lord Birkenhead, the lord chancellor, gave it as his opinion that as the necessary twelve

CROWDS HAVE NO USE FOR NEW PT. STANLEY TERMINAL

Hundreds Had To Stand in Line For Hours Before Boarding Trains—Last Passengers Reached City at 6 a.m.

While complaints at the new terminal arrangement at Port Stanley Beach, relative to the fences which prevented crowds from boarding moving trains, were almost universal among the 10,000 people who traveled from the lakeside Friday night, Philip Pocock, chairman of the London and Port Stanley railway commission, states that the new terminal "worked very well."

The crowds were required to line up before three gates, opened by uniformed attendants as trains pulled in. However, many, including children, who lined up shortly after 8 p.m., Dominion Day, did not board a train until 11:45, being compelled to stand in the heat for over three hours. This hardship is a time-worn necessity in view of the thousands gathered at Port for the holiday, but the crowds became irate, when they were not allowed to swarm over the tracks and take a chance on obtaining a seat.

The idea of the new terminal is to prevent this, and to prevent passengers from boarding moving trains. Many Londoners complained that very few were allowed through one gate, while the others were thrown wide open, and they declare this to be unfair. One citizen declares that during the arrival and departure of two trains but two persons were allowed through one gate.

Finally, one ingenious youth, with the assistance of wire cutters or similar tools, succeeded in making an opening in the heavy wire fence, and in a few moments the idea became contagious, with the result that scores of men, women and children poured through the gaps about 10 p.m. The attendants were powerless to prevent this assault on their ramparts, and opened the gates. Several women fainted during the rush.

Other complaints registered were that only a limited number of passengers were allowed on each train, the crowds not being allowed to fill aisles and vestibules. While the people realized that the company took this course for the comfort of its patrons, they unanimously signified their willingness to "herd in" on the trains, rather than be compelled to remain standing by the fence for hours. The last arrivals from Port Stanley reached London at 6 o'clock this morning, so great was the traffic on the London and Port Stanley Railway.

"The new terminal worked out very well, I understand," Commissioner Pocock informed The Advertiser today. "Only some people did not get on to the working of it. Yesterday was our first test, and I have heard no complaints, in a general way. It is the proper way to handle the crowd, although it may be difficult to understand.

"Of course, a lot want to do as they please, and the women and children have no chance. They have under the new system. It works all right elsewhere in controlling traffic crowds. There is always the danger of accidents in boarding a moving train. In addition, young fellows rushing on hold others back. We first had plain-clothes attendants on the gate, but later found that it worked better to have men in uniform. We will endeavor to keep the people properly lined up in future."

General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the Public Utilities Commission admitted to The Advertiser this morning that he had heard comments on the new system inaugurated on Friday. Asked the type of comment, he said, "Not favorable."

"If the new terminal does not work successfully, the London Railway Commission will take steps to make it right," he declared. "The members are trying to safeguard the public, and they have failed in the first attempt they will go at it and solve the problem. I was not at Port Stanley on Dominion Day, and do not know how the new terminal worked out."

CALLS T. D. M'CULLOUGH BIG 'BLATHERSKITE' AND 'WIND BAG'

City Clerk Baker Airs His Views of Social Service Secretary and Forwards Him Letter Along Those Lines—Controversy Over Mothers' Pensions.

"He is merely a 'blatherskite' and a big 'windbag,' and he is the one trying to start something, not me," replied City Clerk Baker today in answer to a charge said to have been laid against him by T. D. McCullough, secretary of the local branch of the Social Service Council.

"He probably wants to get a good job at the public's expense—possibly juvenile court judge, if such is ever established here."

It has been repeatedly claimed by certain civic officials that widows residing in the country had been moving into the city from time to time, and thereby securing aid under the mothers' allowance act, at the expense of the residents, rendering a severe drain upon the city's resources. A further charge has been made recently by a citizen, J. Brand, among others, that a number of pensioners of foreign birth, but not yet naturalized, were likewise receiving benefits under the provisions of the same act.

"I made no reference to the city clerk that I know of," commented T. D. McCullough when informed that City Clerk Baker was forwarding a communication to him today. "I was referring to a letter from John Stuart. However there has been too much talk by some at the city hall who are pretending they are doing so much to safeguard the city's interests. And as for that other matter, Brand points out that I am not infallible. Well, I do not claim to be, but I am that infallible that I know whether Britishers are benefiting under the mothers' allowance act or not. It does not require much more than the average allotment of human intelligence to keep watch on that."

MEIGHEN AFRAID

the West to say a few words and exchange ideas, and I find that it is not only in Medicine Hat that I perceive enthusiasm for the new movement, but throughout Ontario as well. There are today some of these lewd politicians of the baser sort who in recent days have mentioned there is a possibility of an acute division between the East and the West. I am sure that you will agree with me in that, on this natal day, the 54th birthday of our glorious Dominion, that no duty comes nearer the hand and the heart of any true Canadian than to proclaim widespread that whoever shall take any occasion to preach any division among the races, creeds or others, is strictly against the best interests of not only Canada, but the British Empire. If we all have the ability and energy to study the problems of Canada, we will find that what is a problem for the East will be the same for the West. Canada's problems are one, and we should evince the one patient desire to settle all these questions in common interest.

Lost His Deposit.

"We are attracting considerable attention at this moment in the West. About a year ago they held a federal by-election in Saskatchewan, when the old-line party candidate lost his deposit money. We have, as you all know, just experienced one in my own province, and the old-time Tory candidate, we find, has lost the deposit money. I don't know yet what the majority is, but the last I heard it was creeping up to 8,000. These events are unprecedented in the history of the country."

I heard a man at Newmarket last evening expressing pleasure that the farmer movement was growing. I desire to broaden out on that statement. I am glad to be able to predict the birth in this country of a new democracy. Why is this movement spreading? Where does this new departure manifest itself?

In these last two instances I have referred to the people as an entirety, not the farmers alone, have spoken. All classes and conditions of men have obviously moved away from the old-line party machines. By small and large subscriptions they have raised the necessary finances for their campaign. It was the most remarkable spectacle, this departure from the old political procedure, since the day of the Confederation. How did it used to be? You know all about the old schemes. Well, this time they were conspicuous by their absence. The old methods were present, of course, but they were powerless. Democracy has taken the affair in hand from now on.

What is the cause of this abrupt upheaval in the minds of the people of Canada? I referred in Newmarket to the political origin of the new movement. I wish now to touch a few moments on the economic origin.

Reform Is Needed.

"The first duty of the people, if we are to progress, is to object to follow the capitalistic, reactionary, obstacles to reform, the Meighen Government at Ottawa. To go about our duty intelligently we must have a definite idea of our object in view. What is our object? First, to get a square deal for the rank and file; second, a clean government; third, keep the country's resources for the people, and fourth, build Canada to such a pinnacle of success that it will become an object of friendly envy on the part of other nations.

"I want to point out to you that the Meighen Government has a specific platform upon which it will fight the next general election. It is now being confronted by an enormous national debt and a rapidly increasing taxation. In this country of unparalled possibilities it surveys unemployment on every hand. It faces many difficult problems, and our good friend, Dr. Meighen, with his old quack medicine, unchanged after 50 years, still proposes to dose the patient, after all these startling symptoms, with something that can be summed up in one word—protection.

Helping the Few.

"Now, what is this protection that the Meighenites are going to champion if we ever get them to go to the country? (Cheers.) In a phrase, it is 'money help to certain interests.' Not all industries will be helped. This cunningness, masquerading under the garb of help, is but taxing one community to help another. If certain industries are to be helped, the money must come from the others.

"Protection is founded on injustice, and is morally wrong. As in a family, what right has a nation to have favorite sons? Why should it take from the agriculturists to pass over in artificial aid to those of another calling? And I have another charge. Protection is economically 100 per cent wrong. In economics the Government will be traveling backside foremost and upside down."

A Wrong Policy.

"What has happened to agriculture at the hands of all the administrations since Confederation? Likening agriculture, the basic industry unto a tree, they have actually attempted to develop it by restricting the stems and manuring the branches. They talk of protecting the industries. That is pure and simple bunk thrown up wholesale to the people. Just consider the two greatest industries of the country—the railroads and agriculture. How are the roads weathering under the protection theory? You know as well as I that they are next to bankrupt. And if the price of farm products grows much lower in the west, I'm afraid the farmers will soon be in the same predicament. Probably if you were conversant with the real situation you would be aware that most of the businessmen are experiencing a hard time securing credit. The governments since Confederation have given scant attention to farming, the fundamental industry of the country, but we propose to reverse the program.

Best Encouragement.

"If we have successful, contented, prosperous farmers, what better encouragement could the manufacturers wish to build up their business? We'll take agricultural implements. The Americans soon found out to leave them on the free list even on their new tariff. How can the farmer contend with high prices when he finds implements on the free list below the line? Take another branch, boots and shoes. When anyone comes around, as they will do, and raves about protection, ask this practical question, 'How is it that boots, even with the new tariff, are on the free list below the line?'

"Another iniquity of protection is that it shuts up your markets. Makes your produce a drug on the market, decreases its price value and at the same time increases the cost of other commodities that you must buy.

How It Works Out.

"They say you should depend upon the home market. We'll take wheat for an example and we produce three hundred million bushels. We dispose of 75,000 bushels of this in the country, and if you depend upon home consumption, what can you do with the remainder?

They produce a very fine crop of potatoes down in New Brunswick, about five per cent of which is consumed in the Maritime Provinces. It wouldn't pay for transporting them anywhere else in the country. What can be done then? Well, according to the protectionist theory, the farmer must only raise the five per cent that he has a market for, and await patiently until the Lord sends sufficient of the manufacturing element who will consume what he would have otherwise produced."

"There will be people coming here to urge retaliation upon the U. S. Don't listen to them. Retaliation is economically and morally wrong. I am not a prophet, but the Yankees are shrewd fellows and they will soon realize, I venture, that by their high tariff they are merely putting up an obstacle against being paid their own debts. The best system to combat hostile tariffs is with a free list. Even now the bankers and big commercial men of the U. S. are loud in protest."

Urges Broad View.

In his concluding remarks the speaker urged the farmers to discard provincialism and assume a broad outlook on the world in general. One of the greatest, far reaching results of the great war had been, he said, the birth, to a large degree, of the glorious spirit of internationalism. It was not a fact, he stated, that one nation's good was necessarily another nation's evil. The reverse is true, he claimed.

"Those of you who have studied economics and history," he said, "realize that nations like men were not for slaughter, hatred or selfishness, but were here for mutual benefit and co-operation with unselfishness."

"They will come up here," Dr. Clark continued, "and say it's all very well for Clark to talk platitudes and tell the farmers' trials, but how about the industries and the wages. Well I'd be a greener Englishman than I am if I believed that protection ever built up industries, or increased the workers' pay."

Keenly Contested.

As anticipated, the splendid program of events for the youngsters found plenty of eager aspirants for cash prizes. Every race was keenly contested. Following were the results of the morning's activities:

Boys, 75 yards, 11 years and under—B. Nichol, J. Walsh, Fred Butler.

25 yards, boys and girls under 5—Thelma Whiting, Earl Campbell, Mina Connelly.

The Relay Race.

In the relay race the Strathroy Collegiate team won handily with twelve Middlesex township teams competing. The result: Strathroy, Lobo, Melbourne.

With the morning game on ice as it seemed Strathroy went to bat in the last inning, and with some nifty pinch-hitting, coupled with the odd wild throws contributed by the Appin infield, finished in proper "garrison" style. The score by innings:

Appin ..... 220 400 0—8
Strathroy ..... 410 010 3—9

Appin: Squires, c.; Skinner, s.s.; Hamilton, 2b.; M. Fletcher p.; A. Fletcher, r.f.; T. McIntyre, 3b.; Galbraith, l.f.; E. McIntyre m.; A. D. McIntyre, 1b.

A Tight Contest.

With substantial cash prizes awaiting the victors, the racing schedule was run off with a greater number of entries than ever before.

TWO-CENT INCREASE ON CHEESE MARKET

BROCKVILLE, July 1. — Compared with the prices of one week ago, cheese took an advance of almost two cents at the meeting of the board yesterday, when 1,005 boxes of white and 3,108 colored brought 18⅝ cents, with the exception of 350 boxes of cool cured that sold at 18¾ cents. The secretary-treasurer, J. B. Wilson, called the attention of the members to a proposed dairy producers' act regarding the grading of cheese, which, he believed, should not be passed, as it means extra expense attached to the milk producers and would have no noticeable effect on the improvement in the quality of cheese. The matter will be fully discussed next week.

M'GARVEY WILL IS FINALLY PROBATED

Former Londoner Had Vast Interests in Germany.

Because of the unsettled conditions resulting from the war, the documents and will relating to the immense estate of William Harvey MacGarvey, formerly of this city and Petrolea, who died in Vienna, Austria, has just been filed in the local probate court.

The estate consists of a huge fortune which Mr. MacGarvey accumulated in the oil fields of Europe. For many years he resided in Austria, and his daughters married into Austrian families.

The will involves funds amounting to $22,904 in Ontario, $7,500 in Manitoba, £18,516 sterling in England, 2,398,011 kronens in Austrian money, and one house and lot in Petrolea. Frederick James MacGarvey of Vienna, Austria, is the sole executor of the estate.

Mrs. M. McDaniel of Petrolea has been geven the right to dwell in the house in that town rent free until the end of her life. She will also be given an annual grant of $300. On her death the house will be sold and the proceeds will be given to the Petrolea Hospital.

The bulk of the estate is divided as follows: To Frederick J. MacGarvey, one-third of the residue; to Helena Van Alstyne of Winnipeg, $3,000; to Mary Helena, Countess of Zeppelin, one-third of the residue, and to K. Zurie Van Lavandal, one-third.

HONESTLY ADMITTED AS THE LEADING RESTAURANT

The Metropole Cafe, 378 Richmond, under the ownership and management of Messrs. Zafirion Bros. (4), has shown great signs of improvement in every direction, toward completion of an up-to-date restaurant system, and it is honestly admitted among people interested in restaurants that this cafe is considered the nicest and cleanest restaurant in this city.

A close examination of the large and sanitary kitchen where the meals are prepared by their new chef de cuisine, experienced in catering to the public with Americanized and Oriental delicacies for many years, their bill of fare with moderate prices, their washrooms, for the accommodation of their patrons, the dressing room for the accommodation of their employes, the system of keeping all food well-covered, being away from dust and flies, and many other up-to-date restaurant needs, have justified the words: "Improvement toward completion of an up-to-date restaurant system."

The wish of the management is not only to bring about system, or display of marbles, or decorations of mahogany, but to maintain permanent cleanliness and sanitation and to use and serve the most wholesome food at all times at moderate prices to every class, rich and poor, as long as they are respectable, has aided to the increase of the business of this cafe. b belief to persist until the lord chancellor's statement fell among the conference with disconcerting precipitancy.

The speeches delivered on the subject were, so far as can be ascertained, all based on the belief that a renewal, if there was to be renewal, was a matter of urgency and brooking of no delay. It would seem, indeed, that had the dominions been frankly informed of the simple, legal position before the departure of their prime ministers, a vast amount of misunderstanding and unnecessary speculation and controversy would have been spared.

As it was, there was nothing left for the opponents of the alliance to do but accept the situation for the present and base their fight upon the need of a conference of the Pacific powers between now and next year. In this, as indicated, they were successful.

Hold a Conference.

Summed up, therefore, the position is: First, that the alliance remains in force until next year; second, that an effort will be made to hold a disarmament conference.

As far as the conference of premiers itself is concerned, it is being greatly injured by absurd secrecy. Premiers Meighen and Smuts favored publicity, but their protest appears to be feeble. At all events, the doctrine that the people cannot be trusted with their own affairs has triumphed from the beginning, and the position is becoming worse as the conference progresses. The Times and the press generally has protested against this, but to no avail. The result is a flood of wild rumors and an impossibility on the public's part to understand or judge what is being done.

Premier Meighen today leaves for France to unveil a cross to the Canadians who fell at Vimy Ridge.

R. cars yesterday, among their victims being Thomas Wiley of St. Thomas, W. Crittle, 699 King street, city, and J. McLaren, R. R. No. 1, London. Police say that every summer there pocket thieves work in St. Thomas and Port Stanley.

Church, St. Petersburg, Fla., will preach in the morning on "Growth," and in the evening on "One Road to Happiness." Dr. Carnine will be in the First Church for the month of July. Rev. E. W. Hardley, who died of heart failure yesterday morning, had been staying with Mrs. Langford. Police here searched for the woman wanted but so far have been unable to locate her.

The proceeds will be used to send industrial delegates to the provincial leaders' camp at Port Bruce from July 12 to 23.

TUSSOCK MOTH MAKES APPEARANCE

London's beautiful trees are in real danger following a disastrous invasion by the Tussock moth recently. The Public Utilities Commission is attempting to cope with the situation, and warns citizens to telephone the hydro shop as soon as the pest is detected on their trees. A spraying outfit will then be put on the job free of charge, to exterminate the caterpillars infesting trees.

The authorities declare that the present epidemic is the worst for years, and will clean the trees of all foliage, ultimately killing them if allowed to continue. Chestnut and basswood trees are particularly susceptible, with maples also in danger. The pest may be identified by the presence of caterpillars on the trees, or clusters of eggs resembling little bundles of cotton wool. The spraying outfit is now on duty in some parts of the city where ravages of the Tussock moth have been reported.

IS FINALLY ADMITTED TO WESTMINSTER HOSPITAL

Red Tape Brigade Takes Belated Action in Interests of Insane Veteran.

Authority for admission to the Westminster Psycopathic Hospital of the returned soldier who became suddenly insane last week, and has been confined in the county jail since that time, was received Thursday. This soldier, a veteran of the 135th Battalion, became insane at Bridgeburg, and was brought to London by a companion, only to be refused admission in local institutions for the insane because there were no documents covering his case.

He was remanded to jail last Saturday, and returned soldier companions expressed indignation at this humiliating procedure. Early this week Police Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon ordered him committed to the Ontario Hospital, following an examination conducted by the jail physician. Before this could be brought about the military authorities at Ottawa telegraphed instructions to have him admitted to the Westminster Hospital under observation, which has been done.

Considerable condemnation on the red tape delaying action in this case is rife among district veterans, who resent imprisonment of their fellow, who labors under the delusion that he is being persecuted as a German spy.

AGAIN IN TROUBLE

Wm. Andrews Mixed Up in Tecumseh Park Scrap.

Because William Andrews, 12 Kensington street, obstructed a police officer while in the discharge of his duties at Tecumseh Park yesterday morning he will be handed over to one of the judges of the county court to be sentenced for receiving stolen goods, of which crime he was convicted at the courthouse recently and allowed out on suspended sentence.

Andrews admitted that after the game at the park yesterday, when Constable Agmon Barryman went to the assistance of Umpire Edmund Delave, who was being mobbed he grabbed the officer by the throat. Barryman said that first he was grabbed in front, and that when he shoved the prisoner aside the latter again grabbed him, this time by the back of the neck.

The prisoner's excuse was that he had been drinking.

DEATH OF W. D. HANNAH.

Montreal, July 2.—The death occurred here yesterday after ten day's illness at his home at 847 Maplewood avenue, of William Dunn Hannah, former general fuel inspector of the Grand Trunk Railway. Mr. Hannah was born in Newton Stewart, Scotland, 77 years ago. Soon after arrival in Canada as a young man he entered the service of the Grand Trunk Railway.

"CRICH" APOLOGIZES TO THE HON. "UMPS"

Appeared in Police Court This Morning.

Leslie Crichlow, London's star center fielder, was brought to police court by Umpire Edmund Delave for assaulting him, but was allowed to go when he apologized and paid the costs.

Delave said that when he was going to his dressing-room yesterday morning at Tecumseh Park Crichlow walked up behind him and struck him on the nose (although such an action is hardly believed as probable).

Crichlow wanted the case adjourned to obtain witnesses, but when it was found that the witnesses would not give material evidence, he waived adjournment.

"What have you to say?" asked Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon.

"He has been challenging all the ball-players," declared the center fielder. "He said he could whip us all."

Herbst, one of London's pitchers, told the court that Delave had remarked that the London players were "rotten" and that there was not a decent fan in London.

"Are you willing to apologize?" asked the magistrate of Crichlow.

"Anything, judge," he replied.

"I've been in baseball for years, and I know that an apology in baseball does not come from the heart," declared the complainant.

Magistrate Graydon declared it was unfortunate that such a thing occurred once every two years. He said that it hurt baseball.

Crichlow said that he would not have hit Delave on the field, although the umpire had jurisdiction over him and could suspend or fine him for his actions after the game, just as he could while a game was in progress.

Herbst said that he felt that Crichlow had committed the assault in a moment of anger, and would not do it again in a hundred years.

"Thank you!" chorused the two players when the court finally decided the case.

MAY PROTEST, BUT LIKELY TO ACCEPT WAGE REDUCTION

Million and a Half Railway Employees Affected by Lower Schedule Now in Effect—Union Leaders Are Meeting in Chicago To Discuss Situation.

CHICAGO, July 1.—One million five hundred thousand railway employees today went to work at reduced wages, while 1,000 of their union leaders, including representatives of 20 Canadian brotherhoods, assembled here for conferences that are relied upon to keep transportation channels open and to decide what action railway employees will take regarding wage cuts.

While union leaders voiced general dissatisfaction of the rail workers toward the United States Labor Board's decision authorizing a wage cut, there were predictions that they will vote to abide by the order, with some formal protest, these being based on the fact that the union leaders have the authority to do so, and, with their knowledge of industrial conditions, will not advocate swelling the ranks of the unemployed.

A decision on their part to order a walkout would in any event not be final, as such an order would first be submitted to a referendum vote of many organizations that have not yet voted on the question.

Dempsey Plans Party At Belmont If He Wins And Jaws Are in Shape

Gets White Silk Trunks From Landlady of "Slim" Days—Carpentier Will Make Trip in Power Boat.

Jersey City, N. J., July 2. — Jack Dempsey is going to put on a "big party" at the Belmont tonight to celebrate the ending of his long training grind and his expected victory over Georges Carpentier, provided his massive jaws come out of today's battle in good working order.

"It all depends upon how the old jaw is," Dempsey said when asked about his after-the-fight plans. He grinned broadly and caressed the jaw the challenger is expected to aim at as he responded. Then, to show how he felt about his ability to evade a knockout punch, he hastened to add that reservations for the big party already had been made. His guests will include his two brothers, Bernard and Johnny; Mayor Bader of Atlantic City, where the champion trained; Manager Kearns, Trainer Hayes and other members of the Dempsey training squad.

The champion arrived here from Atlantic City late yesterday evening and, with his party, was conducted by Mayor Hague to the home of a Jersey City millionaire to spend the tedious hours before the battle.

Dempsey appeared as gay and carefree as a schoolboy and retired shortly after 9:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Mae Brown of Chicago, a friend of Dempsey, and his forbearing landlady in the days of "slim pickings" that preceded his rise in the pugilistic world, arrived here last night with two pairs of hand-made white silk trunks, one of which the champion selected to wear in the ring today.

CARP'S SCHEDULE.

Manhasset, N. Y., July 2.—Arising this morning at the usual hour, 6 o'clock, Georges Carpentier breakfasted, spent fifteen minutes at setting-up exercises and then permitted himself to be amused by his comrades while the hours passed by. Manager Descamps has mapped out the day to coincide with the training schedule the challenger has followed for six weeks. Luncheon was scheduled for 11:30 o'clock, then the motors were to take the party to Fort Washington, on Manhasset Bay, to go aboard the 65-foot power yacht Lone Star.

One of the bunks was fitted up for Georges, and he had planned to sleep an hour while the little craft sped down the sound to a Jersey City dock. There a closed car and special guard of six motorcycle policemen awaited the party.

Georges had a brand new pair of white trunks with blue stripes down each side. He said this morning that he did not intend to wear a belt of the tri-color of France, as had been reported.

The confidence of Carpentier's comrades in his ability to defeat Dempsey was displayed today in the announcement that several of them had bet close to $5,000 that Georges would win by a knockout. They said they had been given three and five to one.

DE VALERA INTERVIEWS GRIFFITH AND McNEILL

Dublin, July 2.—Shortly after the release from Mountjoy Prison of Arthur Griffiths, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, on Friday, Eamonn de Valera went to Mr. Griffiths' home in Clontarf and conferred with him. De Valera also conferred with Professor John McNeil, president of the Gaelic League, who was released with Mr. Griffith. The Irish republican leaders are in general accord, and will state their common case at the conference in the Mansion House here on Monday.

The attitude of the southern Unionist representatives who will attend this conference is understood to be favorable to acceptance by De Valera of the invitation of the British prime minister, Mr. Lloyd George, to confer with representatives of the British Government and North Ireland in London. They are said to be in substantial agreement with the republicans in deprecating the separation of Northeast Ulster, and their suggestion will be in the direction, it is believed, of increasing the power of the central council, which will bind together the northern and southern parliaments.

The Ulsterites, on the other hand, it is understood here, are disposed to favor increased financial powers being exercised by each parliament separately, and are not willing to agree to intrust them to the central council. If the conference is held in London this will be one of the chief points discussed.

ALL-CANADA TEAM PICKED.

Winnipeg, July 2.—Canadian Press.—The All-Canadian football team selected to play against the touring Scottish professionals in Montreal on July 9 was announced by the official of the D. F. A. yesterday as follows: Halliwell, Ontario, goal; Adams, W. Smith, Quebec, right back; Prince, Manitoba, left back; McPherson, Alberta, right half; Jim Wilson, British Columbia, center half; N. Sheldon, Saskatchewan, left half; Wouterz, Quebec, outside right; McDill, Manitoba, inside right; Lavery, Ontario, center forward; Alex. Smith, Quebec, inside left, and Tiny Toombs, Ontario, outside left. W. Buchanan, New Ontario, was selected as first reserve.

AMERICA AND AFRICA BATTLE FOR TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP LAURELS

Wimbledon, July 2.—William T. Tilden II, of Philadelphia, the tennis champion of Great Britain, met B. I. C. Norton, the young South African star, in the challenge round which marked the culmination of the men's sinbles in the British turf lawn tennis tournament. The winner of this contest will wear the championship tennis laurels.

The final and championship rounds in the men's doubles, women's doubles and mixed doubles were also on the program for today. Randolph Lycett and Max Woosnam opposed the Lowe brothers in the men's doubles, while in the women's doubles Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen and Miss Elizabeth Ryan met Mrs. Beamish and Mrs. Peacock of England. In the mixed doubles Max Woosnam and Miss Howkins appeared against Randolph Lycett and Miss Ryan. The final round for the All-England plate was played by F. M. Fisher and J. B. Gilbert.

LITTLE HOPE

months notice of non-renewal had not been given, the treaty could not be denounced, and must remain in effect until July, 1923. This, of course, nullified the arguments of Premiers Meighen and Smuts in favor of the treaty being denounced at once, but they were more than compensated by securing an undertaking that no effort would be spared to bring about an understanding between Japan, Great Britain and the United States within the coming year.

Came As a Bombshell.

Lord Birkenhead's statement of the true position with reference to the Japanese treaty came as a bombshell to the conference, not so much on account of its interpretation of the clause in the treaty providing for its continuance or denunciation, but because of the moment chosen to announce it to the dominion premiers. The conference, or at least the dominion section of it, appears to have assumed in the absence of any statement to the contrary, that the treaty would expire this month. The foreign office allowed this home rule act," said an authority high in the Irish office to the Canadian Press, "then certainly Ireland may have it. But we will never give any part of the British Isles the right to levy duties upon the goods of any other part. That would be absurd, as if Ontario were permitted to have a tariff against Quebec, or the East against the West." And so there in the same old familiar vicious circle of a century the problem would appear to revolve. It may be, of course, that this view could be whittled down, but no one here on the inside of what is going on believes that that is possible. They are most inclined to the melancholy belief that the conference, like so many of its predecessors will be a failure before it starts.

A fact making for failure, which is yet but little realized is that not only the Irish delegates, but the British ministers who would attend the conference are divided in views. It will perhaps come as a surprise to most Canadians that the two prime movers behind the step towards Irish peace, so far as the Government is concerned, are the Right Hon. Winston Churchill and Lord Birkenhead. Such, however, is the undoubted fact. The once redoubtable F. E. Smith (Lord Birkenhead), who was Sir Edward Carson's right-hand man in Ulster in 1914, has formed an alliance with Churchill, and these two, supported by J. Austen Chamberlain and one or two other minor members of the cabinet, are out for a settlement.

Curious Combination.

Lloyd George was not a supporter of their policy, nor is Hamar Greenwood, secretary for Ireland, but Birkenhead and Churchill, backed by Lord Northcliffe and, curiously enough, by Lord Beaverbrook, still a power behind the scenes, were able to induce him to put forward the offer for a conference. Dispatches sent to United States papers claim that Mr. Lloyd George acted under pressure from the premiers of the dominions. This statement has no basis in fact. Premier Smuts, it is known, is working hand in hand with Churchill and Birkenhead, but the conference as a whole attempted no action.

The movement toward a conference began nearly two months ago, when T. P. O'Connor and Joseph Devlin, members of the old Nationalist party, were able to arrange the now famous meeting between De Valera and Craig. That meeting was a failure because De Valera talked one hour and three-quarters on the wrongs of Ireland and only got as far as the act of union. A beginning had been made, however, and quiet negotiations have been proceeding since.

The movement, as already stated, had little backing from Lloyd George, but under the vigorous direction of Churchill and Birkenhead, backed strangely enough by erstwhile Unionists of the most pronounced type and also by a little group of Nationalists, as well as by detached statesmen like the Cecils, progressed to the present point. Whether it can progress further depends upon three things—first upon whether De Valera insists upon impossible terms at the outset; second, whether, in the event of his coming to London he does not insist upon a republic, and, third, whether, in the event of De Valera coming to the conference and dropping his demand for a republic, Lloyd George will agree to give him fiscal autonomy.

Cabinet Disagrees.

Upon the last point, as already indicated, there is disagreement in the cabinet. Birkenhead and Churchill may be depended upon to go a long way, but what it is asked, if Lloyd George rebelled and went to the country on the cry of "No Surrender to Sinn Fein." Almost certainly in the present temper here he would be swept back into power. Nobody knows this better than Mr. Lloyd George himself. He is without a peer as a strategist, and peace the fear and doubt prevailing.

Then again both Arthur Griffiths and Eamonn De Valera are exposed to prove hopeless as negotiators. None disputes their idealism and few doubt their courage, but nobody who knows anything of their calibre as practical statesmen has the least respect for their ability. "One is ridiculously taciturn, and the other is colossally verbose," is the way a leading Irishman, acquainted with both leaders, summed them up today. Nor can much more be expected from Michael Collins, commander of the Republican army. Collins, it appears, lives mostly in the imagination of the London press. At one time a clerk in the postoffice in London, he is supposed to have certain military capacity, but few who know him believe he could contribute anything practical or useful to a conference such as proposed.

Finally Ulster.

Finally, there is Ulster. The Ulster Parliament is a reality. It will have difficulties in the way of finance and its best friends admit that it falls far short of being all that could be desired, but not even the strongest Nationalists believe it will not function. Will Ulster agree to subordinate this Parliament to a Parliament in the South. If not could the South have a tariff on British goods and the North admit them free? Or would South and North further emphasize their antagonism by a tariff wall between them? These are some of the problems that suggest themselves as too much for a conference of the kind being called. They cannot be solved by fine phrases, but only by good will and few in authority here believe that good will on either side is available.

THERE WOULDN'T BE ANY ENGAGEMENT RINGS

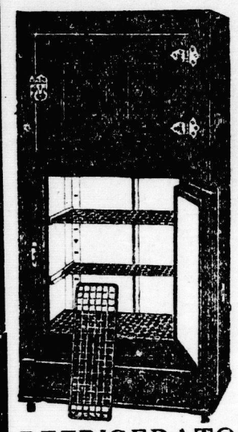

If people waited till after they were married to buy the diamond ring they wouldn't buy one at all in most cases, as so many other things crop up to take the necessaries. This is the Great Diamond Month. Safety first idea—buy her a perfect blue white diamond from John A. Nash, My Jeweler, 182 Dundas street, where you will eventually buy. b

AVOIDS SPECIFIC REFERENCES TO PORT STANLEY

Attorney-General Issues Only General Instructions For Elgin County.

ENFORCE LORD'S DAY ACT

Sunday Bathing Will Not Be Interfered With At Present.

ST. THOMAS, July 1.—The attorney-general did not refer specifically to Port Stanley when orders reached the crown attorney's department here to have the Lord's Day act enforced. Neither did Crown Attorney McCrimmon, in his instructions to the county magistrate, the high constable and chief of police. The attorney-general directed Mr. McCrimmon's attention to the fact that the Lord's Day act was not observed "in the county of Elgin." The attorney-general in denying that "there was nothing in the report, possibly forgot that Port Stanley was in Elgin County.

Mr. McCrimmon is not going to interfere, nor has he any intention of interfering with the people bathing at the lakeside unless an information reaches him that acts or appearance of bathers are offensive to public morality. The crown attorney has left this interpretation of the section to the police magistrates, the high constable and chief of police. The section cannot be misunderstood, notwithstanding the objection to a strict enforcement of the act, raised by the authorities at Port Stanley, the crown attorney's department will proceed against any and all persons who openly defy the provisions or intention of the act. And this move on the part of the crown attorney applies to all parts of the county of Elgin, whether it be Port Stanley, Port Bruce, Port Middlemarch or any other haven in the county.

The Lord's Day Alliance has in its survey of the Sunday conditions in the county, first and foremost Port Stanley. And the members of the alliance are insisting that Port Stanley be punished if it sets at defiance the "profanation of the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday."

It is claimed by High Constable Hopkins that at some of the resorts cigars, candies and ice cream are being purchased and carried away from the premises where bought. It is also charged that visitors go out fishing on the Sabbath. Baseball, too, is said to be included hereafter in the Sunday sports. The act enumerates a dozen of harmless pastimes.

But the basis and spirit of the act are that no person may follow on Sunday the work or pursuits he may be engaged in during the week.

The rumpus created over the bathing situation, say the courthouse authorities, is about of as much moment to the prosecuting officers as an explosion of near beer would be in a teapot.

Indians Dou't Count.

Another remarkable feature of the act that its provisions do not apply to "people called Indians."

Lost Traveler's Certificate.

Thomas Warden reported to the police that he lost his commercial traveler's certificate and some street car tickets when in the tent today and looking at the lions.

Auto Stolen.

The auto of Mr. McLandress, Dutton, was stolen this afternoon from the circus grounds while the owner was watching the performance. The license number is 713-303.

2,000 Attend Big Dominion Day Celebration At Victoria Park

Canadian Clubs and Associated Organizations Stage Splendid Holiday Program—Military and Civic Authorities and Other Citizens Participate in Lengthy Exercise.

Two thousand people looked on while the 54th birthday of the Dominion of Canada was celebrated in a fitting manner at noon on Friday in the Victoria Park. It was the first celebration of its kind ever held in this city, and according to one of the speakers, it is hoped that it might be a germ from which an organized country-wide celebration might grow.

The ceremony was marked by several speeches, a salute of 21 cannon and three volleys of rifle fire, an inspection of the Hussars and the Royal Canadian Regiment by Brig.-Gen. H. A. Panet, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., and his staff, and by a general march-past. Starting at 11 o'clock the celebration, which was held under the joint auspices of the Women's and Men's Canadian Clubs of this city, lasted for nearly two hours.

Robert Greene Presides.

The speakers were introduced by Robert Greene, president of the Men's Canadian Club. From a stand erected before the monument he welcomed the many people gathered in the park on behalf of the Canadian Clubs.

It was Mrs. F. E. Leonard of the Women's Canadian Club who made the suggestion that the day should be celebrated by organized methods in the future, and that there should be a committee formed to see to it. Canada of today, she said, owed so much to the fathers of confederation that July 1 should be kept in a fitting manner.

It was afterwards learned that the matter will probably be brought up at the next annual convention of the Canadian Club, to be held in Winnipeg.

Greeted With Applause.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson was greeted with considerable applause as he rose to speak. After expressing his appreciation for being called upon to speak, he said that Dominion Day renewed the consciousness of a great Canadian people regarding their imperial heritage, for with it there came a message from the past.

"Impulses of patriotism are revived when thoughts are turned backwards on this Dominion's history and fresh visions are given to inspire the building of the future.

"At no period in our history could a Canadian people look back upon a mightier and nobler achievement than that of the victorious conclusion of the great world war in which the forces from this land played so great a part for the final vindication of the ideals of liberty and justice.

"In the maintaining of this high cause this Dominion was united to the motherland as one, and in adversity they were drawn together by more enduring bands. The spirit of this great empire has been quickened and never before was this Dominion so conscious of the magnitude of its mission in the world or so fully prepared to realize its destiny.

"This is finding expression in the meeting of the Imperial Conference which is now sitting in Old London, where representatives of this Dominion are meeting with others from every part of this great empire to detemine collectively the course of imperial policy.

Serious Consideration.

"Bright as the prespects for the future are, the clouds of industrial troubles give rise for serious consideration. Spiritually this Dominion continues to be vigorously alive. This same sentiment prevades the whole Empire. But those who are anxious for the Empire's good have not failed to notice the threatening danger of dissension. Our foremost need is unity.

"With aims divided the Empire cannot stand, and the greatest force the world has ever seen for the world's good might be destroyed. For the peace of the world it is essential that the Empire of which we are so great a part should maintain its solidarity. And so with a common heritage for us all a common interest and one great ideal, the Empire will rise to the height of its stupendous opportunity, for Britain has emerged from the war with a greater trust than has been, and this great Dominion will not be found wanting.

"The celebration of this day will be turned to the best account if it leads us to realize this great and growing responsibility which rests upon up and which Providence has entrusted to us. It will be our truest glory in the ages to come to have at this critical moment in the world's history, shown the devotion of our race to the principles on which the progress of the world depends. And so this day becomes, year by year, a more noteworthy and more important event."

Why Called Dominion.

Miss Grace Blackburn told how this country came to be called the Dominion of Canada. When the delegates met in London to effect the Confederation there was much dissension as to the name of the new country. Many names were suggested and as many were rejected, until one of the delegates opened his Bible at the book of Zechariah, and there he read:

"His dominions shall extend from sea to sea and from the rivers unto the end of the earth."

Because this description applied so well to Canada stretching as it does from the Atlantic to the Pacific and, from the St. Lawrence to the Poles, it was called the "Dominion of Canada."

Spirit of Co-operation.

Hume Cronyn, M.P., said that in the confederacy there was a spirit of co-operation. Without that spirit, he claimed that Canada would still be a colony, instead of a wonderful dominion. There was also a spirit of sacrifice involved, because it was only through much hardship that confederation had been brought about. He touched upon the struggles of the early pioneers and the great sacrifices of the men overseas. Yet, he said, it was only through these sacrifices that Canada could go on.

G. Russell Taggart, American consul in this city, electrified the crowd when he gave with much vim at the conclusion of his speech the yell of the Canadian Club:

One eight six seven, July one,
Canada became a dominion;
C-A-N-A-D-A!
That's the way to spell it,
This is the way to yell it—
CANADA!

Lay Strong Foundation.

He said that now was the time for Canada to lay strong foundations for the future. He pointed out that in 1867, while Canada was forming a Confederation, the United States was going through a period of reconstruction to perserve her unity after one of the severest struggles of all times. He claimed that the Americans had gained their freedom because they had not been treated as Englishmen should have been treated by fellow countrymen, but he said that Canada had always been treated well. While he was speaking the military units arrived, with band playing, and Mr. Taggart said that it was just as hard to talk against the Canadian militia as it was to fight against it.

In the large opening before the bandstand the R. C. R.'s, under Lieut.-Col. Reason lined up for inspection with the brass band and the fife and drum bands of the Royal Canadians stationed between the two. During the inspection the general was accompanied by Major W. J. Lawless, Col. Robinson, Major D. Corrigal and the heads of the departments and services.

21 Rounds Fired.

The salute of 21 rounds was given by three cannon of the 12th Field Battery under the command of Major K. Ingram. After the seventh, fourteenth and twenty-first rounds the Royal Canadian Regiment fired a salute with rifles. Each of these salutes was followed by a verse of "God Save the King," played by the brass band. The royal salute was then given, after which everyone joined in the singing of "O Canada."

The Hussars headed the march-past. The general and his officers took up a place opposite the monument as a saluting base, and there he received the salutes of the Hussars, the Royal Canadians and the 12th Field Battery in turn.

EARLY MORNING FIRE DESTROYS DWELLING

Fire from an unknown origin completely destroyed the interior of A. Rottenburg's dwelling at 51 Adelaide street about 2:40 o'clock on Friday morning. Mr. Rottenburg, who with two or three boarders was asleep when smoke was noticed coming from a shed at the rear of the building, immediately gave the alarm to the other men and all only had time to don a few clothes and escape.

The shed was a frame structure and the fire spread rapidly. The damage is estimated at $500.

HENDERSON REUNION HELD AT LAKESIDE

Splendid Program of Sports Was Greatly Enjoyed by Crowd.

Ideal weather favored the annual reunion of the Henderson family at Lakeside. During the morning more than eighty members of the family arrived from Paris, Woodstock, Ingersoll, Thamesford, Thorndale, Kintore and vicinity. After the usual round of handshaking all sat down to tables laden with good things. The afternoon was spent in boating, bathing, playing games and races. J. H. McKay rendered a few Scotch airs on his bagpipes, which were much appreciated.

A feature of the entertainment was an exciting game of baseball between Harry Johnson's Cubs and Maurice Henderson's Giants. When the dust cleared away, and the scorer had time to total up the score it was found that the former had won by a close margin.

Much credit is due Adam Henderson, the retiring president, for the success of the outing. Horace Henderson, of Paris, was appointed president for the coming year. Mrs. Alonzo Youngs of Woodstock, vice-president, and W. H. Henderson, of Thamesford, secretary and treasurer.

The races resulted as follows:

DISASTROUS FREIGHT WRECK AT NEWBURY

NEWBURY, July 1.—A serious wreck occurred this afternoon at about 2:30 on the Grand Trunk Railway, a quarter of a mile east of the Newbuy station. A westbound freight train, while running at a speed of about 30 miles an hour ran ful speed into an open switch. When the engineer and firemen saw what had happened they jumped, and the fireman was seriously injured, being badly cut and bruised, especially about the head. He was taken to the St Thomas hospital. The engineer escaped with but a sprained ankle. None of the train crew was injured.

The engine after leaving the track plowed deep into the roadbed and was not seriously wrecked. One car, however, was completely smashed, two others are lying on their side on the track, while one is upsidedown in the ditch. About ten of the cars broke away from the train and jumped the switch rails. There they held and were carried by the momentum down to the station. Luckily the wreck did not close all traffic on the road. It is not known who is responsible for the open switch.

BIG CELEBRATION WAS HELD AT WINGHAM

[Special To The Advertiser.]

WINGHAM, July 1.—Dominion Day was celebrated in Wingham today in royal style. The weather, though hot, was fine, and the attendance at the games was large. The Wingham citizens' band and the Henderson juvenile kiltie band of London provided the music in the streets and in the park. The principle features of the day were baseball games between Lucknow and Teeswater, resulting in a win for the latter by a score of 7 to 2, and one between Palmerston and Wingham, in which the latter won by a score of 9 to 7. A lacrosse match between Hanover and Wingham resulted in a draw, the score being 9 to 9. In the evening a band concert was given in the park, which was crowded. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School assisted in providing eats for the visitors by serving lunch and dinner in the church grounds, the proceeds of which go to the church forward movement funds.

BRANTFORD GIRL IS MYSTERIOUSLY MISSING

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, July 1.—The Hydraulic Canal was drained here over night, when fears were entertained that Violet Davison, a 15-year-old girl, missing since Monday, might have taken a rash step. Nothing was found, however, and the mystery of her disappearance is still as great as ever. The police are preparing circulars to send country-wide. A number of possible avenues have been searched, but nothing found to throw any further light on the mystery.

SUSPENDED FOR YEAR.

TORONTO, June 30.—Dr. D. C. MacKenzie of Fort Francis, was found guilty by the Ontario Medical Council here today of "disgraceful conduct in the practice of his profession," and suspended from practice for one year. Dr. MacKenzie was convicted last December in the civil courts on two charges of selling and keeping liquor.

PICNICS AT THE PORT

12,000 AT LAKESIDE.

Port Stanley was the mecca for residents o fLondon and district Dominion Day, over 12,000 people visiting the lakeside on the holiday. Over 8,000 Londoners were carried by the London and Port Stanley Railway, while thousands from St. Thomas were also present.

The auto parking sites on the beach and Invererie Heights were packed to capacity with motors cars from the surrounding district, and a bumper sports program run off under the auspices of the London and Port Stanley Railway, provided pleasure for many of the merrymakers.

With sweltering weather prevailing, many refreshment booths were sold out of soft drinks before 7 p.m., and trains were run until early this morning carrying crowds to this city. The new system of keeping passengers off the railway tracks by wire fences did not prove successful, many persons gaining access to trains by means of a huge opening torn in the heavy wire netting by the crowd.

Sports Program a Success.

The London and Port Stanley Railway sports program proved a decided success, and, in addition, members of local Salvation Army commands and the Baptist Young People's Union of this city staged their annual picnic at Port Stanley Friday. The railway sports were open to everyone present, and included races, dancing, water sports and a carnival in the evening, with fireworks as a grand finale.

All events were keenly contested, and provided merriment for the many spectators. Possibly the most amusing thing on the program was the bun-eating contest for boys, who, with hands pinioned behind their backs, were compelled to eat buns hanging on a line. However, as the said buns were liberally smeared with molasses, which, in turn, smeared the faces of the contestants, this feature kept the crowd in an uproar.

The ladies' nail driving contest brought out so many experts that three heats were necessary to decide a winner, who hammered 23 heavy nails into a stout plank in one minute. The pillow fight was also a laugh producer. Water sports were in favor with many, and catching the duck, with hundreds of youths in Lake Erie attempting to round up this bird was the main event in this section.

The beach movies in the evening drew its quota of the crowd, who, being denied an opportunity to board a train for home, pleasantly whiled away two hours watching feature films. A fancy dress carnival on the board walk was also included on the evening program. Daylight fireworks, an innovation at Port Stanley, were accorded a tremendous ovation, the various rockets sent up releasing parachutes and balloons in many beautiful designs. An added interest was in order here, when scores of small boys chased the balloons until they came to earth, determined to obtain them as prized souvenirs.

Suspected as Pickpockets.

There were no accidents reported to mar the day, but there was considerable excitement at the foot of the incline railway about 6:30 p.m., when Chief of Police Harry Phillips and Special Officer W. Hammersely arrested three men as suspected pickpockets, after Charles Thompson of London had laid a complaint to them. The men, who protested their innocence, were held a few hours and later taken to St. Thomas, where they will be held on suspicion.

The London and Port Stanley water and land sports concluded about 7 p.m.

Seasonable Pointers For Farmers

Proper Time To Market Hens and Other Poultry

A Good Plan Is To Cull Out All the Hens Not Required For Breeding—Ducks Should Be Sold When About Ten Week Old.

Distribute the sale of market birds over as many of the twelve months as possible. Sell when the price is good and have birds ready. As far as possible get out of the habit of marketing everything in the fall of the year. Watch the markets, and have your birds ready when you can get the prices.

The best prices are received for hens in the spring of the year. A good plan is to cull out all the hens you do not intend to keep over for breeding purposes another year and sell as soon as the egg yield drops. This will occur after the breeding season is over, and usually along about the 1st of July for the poorer ones; the better layers a little bit later.

Whether these birds should be killed before selling will depend upon the demand. In some large cities a better price is paid for the live bird than for the dressed. The killing, therefore, will depend upon the prices paid.

Which Hens to Market.

When trap-nesting is followed the matter is simple, for the non-producers can be picked out at any time. Where trap-nests are not used, the selection is made much more convenient if leg bands are used to distinguish the hens from the pullets, and the early-laying pullets from the later ones. With these marks the hens and the low-producing pullets can be disposed of. The aim should be to keep over the summer months only the birds that are paying well for their keep, and that are to be kept for breeding purposes the next spring.

In the case of Leghorns or other light breeds, it may pay to keep all pullets over the summer, but this must be determined by the number of eggs they are laying; as soon after their egg production comes below their cost of keep even Leghorns should be disposed of.

Broilers.

Broilers are chickens weighing not over four to five pounds to the pair. In recent years. In recent years the demand and the prices have risen for broilers, and now for those who are close to a good broiler market it pays to sell their cockerels as broilers rather than hold them until fall and sell them as roasters. It is a good plan, therefore to get rid of as many cockerels as you intend to sell during the broiler stage, if the price available at that time makes it worth while, and usually it does. The selling of broilers at this time of the year cuts down on the feed bill and leaves more room for the pullets to mature.

Ducks.

The only time to sell market ducks is when they are about ten weeks of age, and can be marketed under the trade name of "green ducks." Usually where there is a demand for this class of ducks they will bring a bigger price per bird at this stage than at any later stage, and the cost of production is materially less.

Roasters.

In spite of the number that can sell as broilers, the bulk of the cockerels will be sold as roasters, weighing from 4½ to 6 pounds in the fall. In disposing of roasters it pays to crate feed. The last pound of flesh is the cheapest part of the whole carcase, and enhances the value of the entire bird. Do not dispose of any class of poultry stock without special feeding, and for the larger cockerels, especially, the crate feeding system is best.

Turkeys and Geese.

Geese are becoming more popular each year, and deserve more attention on the average farm than they have received. The grass-feeding habit of the goose is an added reason for goose-flesh being one of the cheapest poultry meats produced.

Turkeys continue to be our highest-priced poultry flesh, and no doubt will maintain this position for some time, for the ravages of blackhead each year seem to make it harder to produce turkeys. In marketing turkeys, almost more than any other class of poultry met, it is essential that they be well fed. Turkeys cannot be too fat, and in disposing of them keep in mind that turkeys are used for festival occasions. Have them ready, therefore, in plenty of time for Thanksgiving and Christmas, and do not leave the marketing of them too near the time at which they are required for eating.

INTERNING CAMP FOR BROODY HENS.

The way to get the broody hen and get her right, says N. E. Chapman, of the agricultural extension division, University of Minnesota, is to shut up every bird found on the nest at night. Broody hens reduce production. The important thing is to confine them at once.

"A broody-coop is necessary to break up broody hens quickly," says Mr. Chapman. "It should be light and airy, with slatted or wire bottom and sides. a convenient size is 3 feet by 3 feet and 3 or 4 feet high. It should be near the spot where the flock is fed, either indoors or outdoors. If outside, a good location is under a tree for shade. There should be a roof to protect it from the rain and sun.

"Broody hens should be fed rather more than the laying flock, so as to keep the egg-producing organs from diminishing in size and activity. Feed both grains and egg-mash, and give milk to drink. Greens should also be supplied.

"The older the hens the more persistent they are, but three or four days, if confined as soon as they are found on the nest, will generally suffice. Sometimes a strong, vigorous rooster may be put in the coop as jailer. The broody-coop may be emptied every three days, and all that go back to the nest shut up again."

HEMP FIBRE FINDS READY MARKET

Can Be Successfully Grown in Canada and Is a Great Weed-Killer.

A recent hemp-breaking demonstration in Winnipeg proved conclusively that hemp can be successfully grown in Canada, and that a machine has been found capable of converting the hemp stalks into marketable hemp fibre, which can be manufactured into practically anything from the coarsest rope to the finest linen. The demonstration was conducted by Col. William Grassie, D.S.O., president of the Canada Fibre Products Company, Limited, and was witnessed by 100 persons, including agricultural experts and prominent businessmen.

The hemp stalks used were grown at the Manitoba Agricultural College, and lay under the snow all winter. The seed was secured from Kentucky, and cost $16 a bushel. Under normal conditions hemp stalks will grow to a height of 15 feet, and when cut and dried will yield between four and five tons to the acre. Such farmers in the province as are growing hemp for experimental purposes this year are being paid $15 a ton for their product.

"Hemp is the greatest weed-killer among growing plants, and will undoubtedly appeal to farmers of Western Canada," Col. Grassie said. "The use of a three-year crop rotation will do away with the necessity of summer fallowing. When all other grasses and grains are killed from frost in early spring or summer, the hemp grows on," Col. Grassie stated.

The skin of the stalk is what is used for hemp fibre. The wood in the center, following the separation process, is broken into small pieces, and as a by-product finds a ready sale for purposes of making paper pulp. The machine used to separate the fibre from the wood is an intricate affair, operating on a similar style to a grain separator.

Col. Grassie stated it was the intention of his company to establish plants in various parts of the country which would manufacture the raw material into the finished product, and thus furnish more employment for the workers, as well as build up an industry that would do away with the necessity of importing hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of fibre products.

Fine Field of Sweet Clover On Western Ontario Farm

The above picture represents a field of sweet clover on the farm of John Scott, Londesborough. This crop has come very much into favor in recent years, and provides excellent fodder. What was formerly treated as a weed is now a valuable asset to the stock raiser.

It Is Wise To Prepare For the Next Lamb Crop

Notes and Records Should Be Kept of All Important Items —Selection of Rams and Ewes Requires Great Care.

Successful sheep husbandry requires careful preparation for the next lamb crop. It matters little what time of the year it is, whether the ewes are just bred, the lambs just weaned or the lamb crop just due, preparation for the next crop should be kept in mind. No time is more important than during the previous lambing season. At that time notes and records should be kept of all important items regarding the behavior of the ewes, the number of lambs each raises and whether they are good mothers or not, whether their udders are healthy and well balanced, or any other valuable notes of this kind. Any ewe that does not successfully raise her offspring should be culled rather than re-bred.

Great care should be exercised in the selection of the ram to be used. He should be a typical, uniform, good-sized, pure-bred animal, full of vigor, active and in good bloom. It is wonderful the influence a ram may have upon the offspring of a flock of ordinary ewes.

Selection of the Ewes.

The selection of the ewes is also a very important feature in connection with the lamb crop. This selection may be done when the previous lambs are weaned and again at breeding time. The shepherd has in mind at this time uniformity in type. The more uniform in appearance the ewes are the more uniformity will be shown in the offspring, and hence the better the prices to be obtained when marketing time arrives. Nothing attracts the buyers like uniformity, not only in good condition, but in size, age, appearance and type. The ewes' teeth should be examined, and if any defects are found the ewes should be culled. As a rule, ewes are not profitable for breeding after they pass five years of age. Not only should severe culling be done to the mature ewes, but careful selection should be practised in choosing future breeding ewes from the lamb crop, always being careful to retain those as near the ideal type as possible. Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the culling process.

Culling and Selection.

After the culling and selection work has been completed the ewes are prepared for breeding. They must be well fed and put in good condition, but not over-fat. As the breeding time approaches they should be flushed on some good, green succulent pasture. As many as possible should be bred at the same time, so that the lambs arrive in a group and the lambing period will not then be spread over a long period, which is objectionable.

As the lambing period draws near, the shepherd appreciates the fact that his busy time is approaching. He looks to the increased comfort of his flock. If the lambs are to be born in the barns the buildings are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected; hurdles, lamb-creeps, feeding racks, disinfectants, record books, docking and castrating tools are all put in readiness for the coming harvest, which will represent his profits on the business.—W. H. Hicks, superintendent, Experimental Farm, Agassiz, B. C.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Air-slaked lime and paris green sprinkled over cucumbers or melons discourage insects.

One thorough watering is better for house or garden plants than frequent light sprinkling. Be sure the roots are moistened when you water your plants.

The June showing of roses this year was the best in years.

Roadside markets furnish good ways of disposing of vegetables, fruits and flowers, if one happens to be living on a well-traveled highway.

Too many trees about a home ground damage rather than improve it. Prune and thin so that there will be plenty of sunshine. Neither plants nor animals thrive without sunshine.

Late plantings of beans, lettuce, carrots and beets may be made now. Carrots and beets planted now will be of much better quality for winter storage than those planted early.

Delphinium or larkspur is one of the most useful of perennials. It is hardy and long-lived. If the flower stalks are cut off as soon as it is through flowering, new flowers come on late in the autumn.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION AT UNIVERSITIES.

Agriculture being the basic industry of the country, every advance made in the development of agricultural education is of national value. Recently, several provincial universities have presented extension courses for the benefit of farmers and others. To this end the educational authorities have co-operated with farmers' organizations with highly encouraging results. In the case of Manitoba a course of lectures was given on rural economics and sociology, supplemented by special lectures on a variety of subjects appealing to other sections of the community. In Ontario, also, the University of Toronto was induced to give a similar course. A noteworthy feature of the course was the taking of students to the stockyards, the abbatoirs, and other places of a practical illustrative value. It is felt that the alliance thus established between the agricultural industry and those engaged in educational work will tend to a better understanding of economic problems which affect the welfare of town and country alike.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' BACON CLUBS

Dominion Department of Agriculture To Offer Prizes For Encouraging Raising of Pigs.

During recent years, and particularly during the war period, Canada's export bacon trade developed very rapidly. This is proven by the fact that last year exports of bacon from the Dominion amounted in value to $34,000,000, and that our killings of hogs in eight years doubled in number, while those of Denmark and Ireland decreased considerably. With the return to normal conditions, vigorous efforts will have to be made in order to maintain this position. The live stock branch of the Dominion department of agriculture has entered upon a special campaign to stimulate the production of hogs of the bacon type.

In co-operation with the provincial departments, an arrangement has been made to offer attractive prizes to the members of boys' and girls' pig clubs who exhibit at local fairs, both for quality of product and ability in judging. Where such clubs do not exist, attempts or organization will be made. The idea is not only to stimulate and sustain production, but to circulate knowledge of actual market requirements, and thus to create a standard type of bacon hog for the entire Dominion. When it is stated that the British market import annually 500,000,000 pounds of bacon, understanding is possible of the value of the trade that is at stake.

It is hardly necessary to suggest that the hearty co-operation of farmers and everyone interested is hoped for. Rules and regulations governings competition may be obtained from the Dominion live stock commissioner at Ottawa.

SPRAY POTATOES FOR BUGS, BLIGHT.

Even the lowly potato is beset with foes which work day and night to take its life. All through the season the grower must fight diseases and insects. Experience has shown that spraying is a matter of insurance with the grower, provided it is done at the proper time and with mixture of the proper strength applied to both sides of the leaves.

Bordeaux mixture is the only preventive for certain potato leaf diseases. Besides acting as a control for early and late blight, it will greatly reduce the injury from leaf hoppers and beetles. If combined with paris green, the danger of the latter burning the leaves will be avoided. Increased yields, averaging from 20 to 30 bushels an acre, have been made in this state by spraying with bordeaux; in some eastern states the increase is much greater.

Bordeaux for potatoes should be made up in the proportions of 5 pounds copper-sulphate and 5 pounds of quicklime and 50 gallons of water. The copper sulphate should be placed in a gunny sack and suspended in several gallons of water about three or four hours until entirely dissolved; then add more water to make 25 gallons of solution. The lime should be slaked slowly by adding a little water at a time and when thoroughly slaked water to make 25 gallons should be added. When ready to spray, equal portions of the above stock solutions should be poured together as needed. The stock solutions will keep indefinitely, but bordeaux mixture is never good after standing. Copper sulphate solution or bordeaux mixture should not be put in tin or iron containers, but should always be kept in wooden pails or barrels.

Spraying should be started as soon as potato beetles are noticed in the field. Either one and one-half or two pounds of powdered arsenate of lead or one pound paris green should be added to the 50 gallons of bordeaux. Spraying ought to be repeated every ten or fourteen days to keep new foliage covered. If no insects are present and the weather is dry the intervals may be lengthened.

A barrel spray pump is recommended for fields between one-half of an acre and three acres. It can be mounted on a 50-gallon barrel and carried through the field on a light farm wagon. Commercial growers will find that it pays to use a good traction sprayer. A machine that can maintain a pressure of at least 120 to 150 pounds will be most effective. The spray nozzles should deliver the liquid as a fine mist. The cyclone or eddy chamber type, such as the vermorel, gives best results.

Topping Tobacco Plants Essential To Success

Aim Should Be To Leave Only As Many Leaves As Plant Can Develop—Leaving Flower Buds To Mature Is a Waste of Energy.

Topping is a very important part of tobacco culture, because topping too low will cause the leaves to be coarse and thick, and topping too high will cause them to fall short of their growth. Uneven topping will cause uneven ripening in the field, thus making harvesting tedious, and giving trouble all the way through.

The number of leaves to be left on the plant must be determined by the man doing the topping. He must be able to judge each and every plant, and he should top with a view to making the plants mature as nearly at the same time as possible.

In eight to nine weeks after transplanting the plant will begin to show signs of flowering out. As soon as this occurs the young seed head or "button," should be pinched out. Leaving the bud until it has fully developed and begins to flower out is an unnecessary waste of plant food, and also retards maturity. In topping, the grower must take into consideration the season, moisture content of the soil, soil fertility, how the crop is fertilized, and he must then be able to judge the capabilities of the individual plant. His aim should be to leave only as many leaves as the plant can bring to their fullest development. In order to get the tobacco to ripen uniformly, it is usually necessary to go over the field twice at different dates in topping. This is due to resets and later plants, which should be topped later and two to three leaves lower.

Care should be exercised in pinching out the seed head or button not to damage the tender top leaves left on the plant, because when injured at this time they seldom develop satisfactorily. —H. A. FREEMAN, Tobacco Specialist.

TALE OF A SNAKE

Last Sunday while the Poet Bill and his wife and his little girl and a neighbor were sitting out on the lawn trying to keep cool in the tropical temperature which then prevailed, the conversation took a scientific turn, the particular subject under discussion being the efficacy of a fresh, newly-killed snake as a cure for throat trouble, the modus operandi being to tie the still quivering reptile round the neck like a new kind of collar.

There is an old saying which asserts that "if you speak of the foul fiend he is sure to appear," and sure enough through the grass there came a snake, which at first sight appeared to be in the boa constrictor class, and a candidate for the Springbank Zoo. Bill and his lady companions immediately began to demolish the garden rockery in their endeavors to annihilate the descendant of the creature that tempted Eve, and, appropriately enough, it was a woman that did for the reptile, the neighbor, Mrs. Ard, planting a rock right plump on the serpent's medulla oblongata, the shot going home in great style.

Bill has taken a photograph of the remains of the cruel, crafty monster who thus disturbed the peaceful calm of the day of rest. He says it is green with black spots and is nearly two feet long. Anybody with a sore throat may have the loan of it on application.

"O, YE OF LITTLE FAITH."

Listening to the confused noise of conflict among men and communities over the issues of labor, property and liberty, mingled with tumults of lawlessness and a delirious quest for sensuous stimulation, some are crying out in Tennyson's ballad line "God of Battles," was ever a battle like this in the world before"? But Sir Richard Grenville, in his lone, battered ship, did not quail in the long night fight with the galleons of Spain, nor did the great English poet ever loosen his hold on the prayer of faith or abandon a buoyant hope in the triumph of the right. Because of some foolish rejection of the idea of authority and order, there is confessedly much to disquiet in the giving way of wholesome restraints. Under the drive of individual desire the logical outcome would be to land society in moral anarchy. Small wonder then if at such times unstable hearts fail them for fear of the future. There is, however, another and more cheering side of the picture. In the long history of Christian faith there have been darker days and eclipses from which the church emerged into clearer light. She has lived down divisions in her own ranks and weathered fiercer gales. Today, to use a homely figure of speech, some shingles may have been blown off the roof and the siding hammered with hail, but the eternal foundations have not moved, and the framework stands sound and secure. In 1867 it was predicted in England that 50 years would see all churches and religion disappear like spilled water on the ground to trouble nobody thereafter. Well, the half century is over—gone, and the prophecy of collapse is hopelessly discredited.

A more insidious pessimism lurks in the fear that the march of human knowledge will overturn religion and the Christian church. Any real discoveries of knowledge can do that. Fundamental truths regarding God and the soul and their relations do not change. Our conception and expression of them may vary and grow, but the truth itself cannot; it is eternal. Science has made wonderful strides in the understanding and application of natural forces. This is so in regard to the conditions of life and growth, but we appear to be no nearer its origin than the four words of Genesis: "In the beginning, God." Splendid as are the achievements in material progress by scientific research and as an aid to our appreciation of the testimony of nature to the Supreme Being, no essential has been added to the Scriptural disclosure as to the relation of the human and the Divine, Redemption and Eternal Life. Job, like other perplexed inquirers, knew that the deeper things of God are not found out by the search of scholarship, though it does serve as a shrine on which to burn "the altar fires of heaven." Nor is the theistic interpretation of life a humiliation to philosophic pride, but rather its crowning glory. In a remarkable compendium by a group of eminent specialists edited by Francis S. Marvin, F.R.H.S., covering developments in European thought during the wonderful period from about 1870 to the Great War, the paper on the Evolution of Religion goes to show that while religion changes it remains the same in essence, being identified with the spiritual experience of communion with God, duty and the active principle of love. There is individual variation, but also continuity. Human intelligence does not supply anything really new to the teachings of the Redeemer—save the effort to comprehend and apply. The love of discovering and achievement continues to explore the future and delve into ancient records and origins, but as George Borrow, the eminent English philologist, once said, it is not enough to see the sources of rivers, but to drink of them. One might perish of thirst in that search while the stream of life flowed past. So it is with the revelation of spiritual truth to the mind and heart. From the candid thesis of Professor Leonard Doncaster, F.R.S., on the progress of biology during the past 60 years, it is clear that science becomes less and less dogmatic, and it is admitted that the "problem of human evolution" is much less simple than was once supposed, and that the conundrum of life is far from being solved by the biologist. In fact, the paper concludes with the naive confession that one of the chief results of the great increase in knowledge has been to show the immensity of the field to be explored. The devout student has therefore no reason to be "afraid of evil tidings" in regard to truth, nor to doubt the triumph of the Divine order. The tasks of the church are diverse and difficult, nor is it her lot to recline on flowery beds of indolence. If it were, she would lose her vital element of faith and forget the resources of the Holy Spirit. Without conflict and faith she would lapse into desuetude. "Woe to them that are at ease in Zion" is as true now as in the day of Amos.

SWEET PEAS.

With wings of gentle flush or delicate white,
And taper fingers catching at all things,
To bind them all about with tiny wings."

"One thing that proves the high evolution of flowers in the spiritual world, as well as in the physical, if, indeed, proof were neded, is their gayety," writes Agnes Edwards. "For gayety," she adds, "it seems to me, is one of the very last qualities to crown a creation. Only with refinement of feeling may one acquire the light touch. Flowers are nearly always gay; even the heavy-footed hollyhocks and the thick-stemmed petunias and the clumsy-stepping sunflower join the floral dance and take their part in color and motion, all their brief, bright lives."

To sweet peas, of all summer flowers, belongs this "fleeting joyousness," this captivating flutter of silken petals caught in the colorful maze of wind frolics and demure hesitations of summer stillnesses. Like gorgeous tiny butterflies of frailest wings the sweet peas swing on their trembling vines in all the characteristic beauty of happy flower life.

To capture this riot of colors in the early morning, when dewdrops lurk in little petal nooks, is to come into intimacy with the brilliant flames of sunset and the delicacy of dawn tints over a drowsy sky. Three four and five flowers, in varying heights, on slender, furry stems, plead for human notice by their ready and lavish replacement of blooms for every flower removed from their vines.

To study the amazing variety of soft shadings, the exquisite delicacy of difference between one degree of coloring and another, the blending of many-colored blooms en masse is strangely harmonious and beautiful. Deep night purple flowers touch wondering petals to others of faint mauve; soft amber wings point tenderly to those of shell pink, which in turn enhance the pure gradations to deep rose. From flowers of haunting flame evolve richest petalings of deeper self tones and warm crimsons, and pervading every silken curled petal is the slow, inexhaustible sweetness of fragrance which is the mysterious language of color, the "whispers of flowers in the dark to tell us where they are."

Nothing of the plebeian marks the loveliness of sweet peas though so profuse in bloom in hedge and garden. One remembers choice old gardens here and there and everywhere, where one has been at liberty to ramble, and always there have been hedges of sweet peas, not only as foils for paler blossoms, but for the utter joy of the soft dancing bits of color and the sweet breath of them. This Francis Bacon declares is "far sweeter in the air (where it comes and goes like the warbling of music, than in the hand." The sight and perfume of flowers in any setting brings associations, and with the butterfly touch of sweet peas comes the memory of a lovely garden in fascinating shadows of late afternoon, where roses dreamed in June very close to a hedge of budded sweet peas, and near which a little path enticed through cool shade to a grape vine trellis where later hundreds more blossoms "on tip toe for a flight" would "catch with taper fingers" the curled tendrills of the vine" to bind them all about with tiny wings" of galaxy of bloom.

Sweet peas seem to love the touch of each other and yield to the folding of soft wings together in the curious confinement of clusters arranged by human hands. Even then there is a suppressed gayety in the very quietness of their pure curves, as if laughter lurked in their hearts that found interest and happiness in every circumstance of their brilliant brief blooming. Enough of dewdrops that loved to hide and elude the sun, enough of warm winds that taught the meaning of petal-wings, enough of raindrops with silver music in their hold, enough of sunshine that vivified their manifold colorings, enough of bird-flights that enticed in whirr of free wings, enough of moonsheen that showed how other flowers sleep, enough of leaf-song to have caught the happiness of summer trees and the rhythmic play of little shadows, enough of all the summer world to leave untouched their ecstatic gayety in the silence and strangeness of human companionship in cool dim rooms.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The "Better Sires" slogan of the Ontario Department of Agriculture is bearing fruit. Forty-two Shorthorns have been sold at Guelph for an average of $659.75.

One of Chicago's "Big Five" packers announces that he will offer a good job to the loser of the Dempsey-Carpentier prize fight. This ought to be some encouragement to one of them to go in and lose.

One of the men who stole the silver from the works at Oneida was badly burned with acid when he was removing the bars. The biter in this case was bitten, and the police will use the acid test in identifying the thief.

The most prosaic of thinkers "dream of a time when war shall be no more," says Sir Auckland Geddes, "but only the most optimistic dream that the age is at its dawn." Just so. No one can foretell when the end of the world is due, although a good many have attempted to do so.

It is suggested that the following sum should be added to the Ontario arithmetic books: A farmer purchased $4,007 worth of cattle last fall and fed them all winter the crop that grew on 170 acres of land. He sold them about eight months after purchase for $4,023. How much did he make?

SMOKING COMPETITIONS.

A London workman recently succeeded in keeping a pipe alight for two hours and five minutes. Pipe-smoking competitions have long been held in Belgium. The prizes to be won are not inconsiderable, and a competition is recalled in which the winner received 500 francs. All the competitors were given a certain quantity of tobacco, a long churchwarden clay pipe, and a box of matches. Then at a given signal they all lit up and smoked away. The winner made his pipe last well over two hours. He was a very old Flemish peasant of patriarchal appearance, and his victory was well earned, for he smoked in solemn silence the whole time, only diverting himself by copious draughts from his chopin of beer, which was frequently replenished during the course of the contest.

THE FOLLY OF BOLSHEVISM.

The White Paper issued by the government, giving the report of the committee appointed to collect information on the economic and political situation in Russia, is a document of extraordinary human interest. No parallel, it declares, is to be found in history for the conditions which have been brought about by three years of Bolshevist rule. "We doubt," say its members, one of whom, it should be remembered, was chosen as a representative of Labor, "whether so much human misery as has existed in Russia during the last three years has even been the lot of any people within so short time in the history of the modern world." Disease caused by malnutrition and neglected sanitation has been widespread, especially among the poorer classes, and the annual mortality of the population at the present time is actually said to have reached the appalling figure of six per cent. The establishment of soviets of workmen in the factories led to a heavy fall of production; the area of land under cultivation began to decrease; the peasants ceased to bring their grain to the towns in consequence of the fall in production and the increase in the prices of manufactured goods; and the general result was a paralyzing shortage of food in the towns, aggravated by an almost complete lack of the ordinary necessaries of life, brought about partly by these economic conditions and partly by the breakdown of the whole system of transport. Unless there is a complete renunciation by the soviet government of propaganda directed to the destruction of the political and economic order existing in other countries, the committee believes there can be no question of capitalist aid in the reconstruction of Russia. Without such capitalist aid from outside, reconstruction in the near future is impossible. By destroying capitalism in Russia, the Bolshevists have brought about a complete collapse of industry in that country, and, in face of this collapse, the soviet government is actually inviting help for the reconstruction of Russia from capitalists in the very countries where the destruction of capitalism is their avowed object. The irony of the situation surpasses the imagination. Lenine and Trotzky have had their way. They have done whatever seemed good in their eyes, and all that they have brought about is the complete economic and industrial destruction of their country.

OTHERS' VIEWS

A CONTRADICTION IN TERMS.

[Los Angeles Times.]

Alice Robertson, Congresswoman from Oklahoma, reaffirms her position as an anti-suffragist and declares that the work of Congress is of a kind that makes it peculiarly and properly a man's job. It does seem funny that the only lady we have in the national legislature should be one holding the opinion that women should not vote or hold office. Still funnier is the fact that she is doing more to give the lie to her argument than almost any woman who has invaded the capital. She seems to be making good as a representative and is received on terms of complete equality with the men. Yet she admits and insists that she is merely a congressional accident, not to be repeated.

TROUBLE ABOVE.

[Worcester Telegram.]

The army plane which crashed with seven men aboard didn't fall in a populated neighborhood, but it might have done so. On the same day another machine narrowly missed plunging into a crowded grandstand. What will happen when flying becomes really general? Shall we be forced to armor our roofs? And will the newspapers daily report of tragedies, substitute for news of railroad wrecks the news of the speed plane which ran off the track into a thronged department store? How common will be the dropping on somebody's skull of propeller blades, monkey wrenches and spare parts?

JEALOUS FOR QUEBEC LAWS.

[Le Devoir.]

Premier Taschereau's speech at Toronto was excellent on many points. He insisted with refreshing frankness on the marked difference between the two races, and pronounced himself against all efforts to bring about a uniformity of Canadian laws, to the detriment of the French-Canadian laws. That part of the prime minister's speech is remarkable. Without questioning the good faith of those who would like to make us renounce part of our laws and substitute texts and judicial doctrines of Anglo-Saxon origin, Mr. Taschereau pointed out that even in the British Isles there is actually no uniformity of laws, and neither business nor the general interests suffer as a consequence. It is noteworthy that it was at Toronto, and in the university circles, that Mr. Taschereau took this attitude. Those who in this province are attached to our institutions, our laws and to the spirit of our civilization, can do no other than commend the premier for having by his declarations taken such a firm and unmistakable stand against those who advocate and would make the laws uniform throughout the Dominion.

DICKENS AND PUBLIC HANGINGS.

[Toronto Star.]

The discussion which has been going on in the press with regard to capital punishment recalls the fact that it was Charles Dickens who had perhaps most to do with directing public attention in England to the degrading effects of public hangings. The abolition of this practice ranks with the discontinuance of imprisonment for debt and the reform of workhouses among the practical achievements of the great novelist. It was in 1849 that Dickens wrote an indignant series of letters to the Times after himself witnessing certain hangings in Horsemonger lane. At first his views were violently opposed, and it was not until 1868 that they were finally accepted.

BRITAIN SLIPPING BACK.

[Montreal Gazette.]

The heavy balance of trade against Great Britain is causing uneasiness among men of affairs in that country. The May returns of a seriously diminished volume of trade show an excess of imports over exports of £43,320,000, a condition that has caused Lord Inchcape to ask in a letter to the London Times: "Where are we going?" It is true that trade statistics are shrinking the world over—the foreign commerce of the United States has declined upwards of a billion dollars in the last ten months—but the case of Great Britain is aggravated by strikes, and in some important commodities that country has for the time being ceased to be a serious competitor. Lack of cash and credit, in other words, reduced purchasing power in Europe, reacts upon industry in producing countries, and if employment was as eagerly sought as it now seems to be willingly avoided, there would not be demand enough to produce activity. The process of deflation proceeds, the inevitable reaction is in play, and until the downward movement has run its course trade everywhere will be relatively "flat, stale and unprofitable."

Lord Inchcape expresses alarm over the decline of British exports. Comparing the January-March quarter of 1913 with the corresponding quarter of 1921, he finds a drop in imports of 25.7 per cent after reducing this year's values to the prices prevailing eight years before; while in the same periods and on the same basis exports fell off 46.5 per cent. He goes on to say:

"We cannot employ our population unless we manufacture; we cannot manufacture unless we have raw material; we cannot pay for raw material unless we export—coal or manufactured goods. And if we cannot export coal and manufactured goods, we cannot employ our ships—our freighters especially—and make up by "services" some part of the "adverse balance" of trade caused by the normal excess of imports over exports, which is necessitated by the fact that we do not produce enough food to feed the population."

The task set Great Britain to right and restore her foreign commerce is formidable. An excess of imports over exports has long existed concurrently with increasing national wealth and prosperity, but as Lord Inchcape points out, conditions have changed. Great Britain may not yet have become a debtor nation, but it is certain that she has ceased to be the great creditor country of pre-war days. Her foreign public debt is well over £1,000,000,000, imposing an annual drain of not less than £50,000,000 on interest account, and to this sum must be added the large adverse trade balance. In the opinion of Lord Inchcape, a high authority, "there is no hope for the nation except through the re-establishment of that world trade, in which, before the war, it was supreme." We quote again:

"For a time at least we must export more than we import in order to pay off our foreign debt. If we set to work quickly, all classes in co-operation, we may still get the lion's share in supplying those things which the world requires to set it on its legs again after the war. But if we let the months pass in sulking and wrangling, others will be there before us. Germany, chastened but not killed, is setting to work, and she has a one-third advantage over us by reason of the exchange. If we do not speedily make up our minds to work and save, we shall inevitably 'lose the peace.'"

It is not a roseate picture Lord Inchcape paints, but it is a truthful one. All is not well with Britain, nor will it be until labor learns its lesson, learns that toil is the price of life, and that wages can never permanently rise above the line of profit in the product of labor. Prostrated industry is teaching the moral at enormous cost.

POETRY

A GATINEAU GARDEN.

I have an upland garden, 'mid the everlasting hills,
Its centrepiece a balsam fir, its borders sparkling rills;
For sundial there's a granite rock that saw Creation dawn,
And a level spot a glacier smoothed does duty for a lawn.
A fence stops ranging cattle that the little vines may range,
But more than that, from hand of man, it doth not suffer change.
I cast no seed into the soil, the plowshare here hath rest—
Just keep out man's devices and let Nature do her best.
The trillium and the violet, the bramble and the weed,
Alike may reach their perfect state, alike may go to seed;
The groundhog and the squirrel kind, the meadowlark and jay,
Are welcome to my garden ground to live their lives and play.
It is to me a joyful thought that things that live in fear,
The gliding, shrinking garter snakes, have sanctuary here.

I do not lack for income from that field of boulder clay;
Some reap their crops in autumn, but I reap mine each day.
I see the long wind sweep the grass, I watch the chipmunk play,
And lo! the turmoil of the world has faded clean away!
And when the glorious sun goes down, the orb, through cloudy rents,
Glows like the glory of the Lord o'er heaven's battlements.

Some call my plot a wilderness, a waste, a shame to see,
Nor think of all the peace and joy it bringeth unto me.
And some praise city gardens, and the wealth of blooms they bear,
The size of great exotic flowers, the shade, the perfume there.

I have seen your city gardens and I own that they are fine,
But while some man made your garden the Great Gardener made mine.

JAMES LAWLER.

Ottawa, June 26, 1921.

WASHINGTON STATUE IN ENGLAND.

[Henry Van Dyke, in London Times.]

O Chief who twice for England fought
Against her savage foes,
And once, withstanding England's King,
A patriotic army dared to bring,
Injustice to oppose!

Honor was written on your heart,
And fealty on your hand;
For England's ancient cause you stood,
Her Magna Charta you made good,
In fair Columbia's land.

What gladness filled your soul of late,
When from high heaven you saw America and England fight
Together on the side of right,
For liberty and law!

Stand here on this ancestral ground,
Virginia's greatest son;
Nelson will look you in the face
And greet the grandson of his race—
Immortal Washington.

While that deep-rooted friendship holds
Across the storm-swept sea,
No mad mob-dreams, no tyrant's wrath,
Shall turn true Freedom from her path
Until the world is free.

JUNE TWILIGHT.

[Edna Mead, in New York Times.]

The twilights are so wonderful in June!
They seem to pour the color of the year
Like a long draft before our thirsty sight
Till even Day turns back upon his heel
Reluctant to give passage-room for Night.
They have no mist of heat to dim the heart
Of the deep West; the mounting after-low
Is blocked in vividness against the rose,
Till Youth seems very clean and Love most dear—
As though the Wielder of the Palette knows
How men have need of twilight that is long
And sweet to still the hubbub of their days,
And paints them June's to leave not incomplete
The timid beauty buried in drab ways.

THE TREE'S DREAM.

[Elizabeth H. Thomas.]

Little green tree, so slim and small,
Standing under the school house wall,
Planted there upon Arbor Day,
Tell me, what are you doing, say?
So quiet you stand, and so still you keep,
I really believe you have gone to sleep.

"Oh, I'm dreaming now," said the little tree,
"Of the pleasant days that are to be,
Of the robins and bluebirds that every spring
Will come and sit in my boughs and sing,
Oh, plenty of company I shall see
In my gay green tent," said the little tree.

"I am dreaming of all the little girls,
In gingham aprons and yellow curls,
That under the shade of my leafy boughs
Will make for themselves a wee playhouse,
With nice burr-baskets, the dear little souls,
And pepper-pod teapots and sugar bowls.

"I am dreaming of all the barefoot boys
That will fill my branches with merry noise,
And climb my limbs like an easy stair,
And shake down my nuths till the boughs are bare.
Oh, what a jolly comrade I shall be
When I grow up," said the little tree.

THE ECHO.

[Westminster Gazette.]

Across the waters of the mind,
Beyond the little space I keep
With weeded beds and garden seats,
And a bay where curious things I find
And motion wakens out of sleep,
An echo catches and repeats
A call thrown on the wind.

As when a vase at random jarred
Rings and sets free its secret song,
Over the common waters flow
A thousand waves of sound unbarred,
And to this edge of coastline throng
Where all our tiny gardens grow,
Each with its fence as guard.

But even as they touch they fade
And cold the shifting waters lie,
And silence settles like a pall.
Then, of the unknown deeps afraid,
We turn in haste from sea and sky
To the fenced plots, secure and small,
The labors of our hands have made.

SPANISH DOUBLOONS

BY CAMILLA KENYON

Had Mr. Tubbs but continued bland and wily, had he taken his fair confederates into his counsels, who knows how fat a share of the treasure they might have voted him. But he had abandoned his safe nook behind the throne, and sought to come out into the open as dictator. Sic semper tyrannis! So had the mighty fallen.

Faced with the failure of his coup d'etat, Mr. Tubbs' situation was, to say the least, awkward. He had risked all, and lost it. But he maintained an air of jaunty self-confidence, slightly tinged with irony. It was all very well, he seemed to imply, for us to try to get along without H. H. We would discover the impossibility of it soon enough.

Aunt Jane, drooping, had been led away to the cabin by Miss Higglesby-Browne. You now heard the voice of Violet in exhortation, mingled with Aunt Jane's sobs. I seemed to see that an ear of Mr. Tubbs was cocked attentively in that direction. He had indeed erred in the very wantonness of triumph, for a single glance would have kept Aunt Jane loyal and prodigal of excuses for him in the face of any treachery. Not even Violet could have clapped the lid on the up-welling fount of sentiment in Aunt Jane's heart. Only the cold contemning eye of H. H. himself had congealed that tepid flood.

The morning wore on with ever-increasing heat, and as nothing happened I began to find my watchful waiting dull. Crusoe, worn out perhaps by some private nocturnal pig-hunt, slept heavily where the drip of the spring over the brim of old Heintz's kettle cooled the air. Aunt Jane's sobs had ceased, and only a low murmur of voices came from the cabin. I began to consider whether it would not be well to take a walk with Cuthbert Vane and discover the tombstone all over again. I knew nothing, of course, of Mr. Tubbs' drastic measures with the celebrated landmark. As to Cuthbert's interrupted courtship, I depended on the vast excitement of discovering the cave to distract his mind from it. For that was the idea, of course—Cuthbert Vane and I would explore the cave, and then whenever I liked I could prick the bubble of Mr. Tubbs' ambitions, without relating the whole strange story of the diary and the Island Queen. I was immensely pleased already by the elimination of Mr. Tubbs from the number of those who need have a finger in the golden pie. I thought that perhaps with time and patience I might coax events to play still further into my hand.

But meanwhile the cave drew me like a magnet. I jealously desired to be the first to see it, to snatch from Mr. Tubbs the honors of discovery. And I wanted to know about poor Peter—and the doubloons that he had gone back to fetch.

But already Capt. Magnus had forsaken the post of duty and departed on an unknown errand. Could I ask Cuthbert Vane to do it, too? And then I smiled a smile that was half proud. I might ask him, but he would refuse me. In Cuthbert's simple code, certain things were "done," certain others not. Among the nots was to fail in standing by a friend. And just now Cuthbert was standing by Dugald Shaw. Therefore nods and becks and wreathed smiles were vain. In Cuthbert's quiet, easy-mannered, thick-headed way he could turn his back calmly on the face of love and follow the harsh call of duty even unto death. It would not occur to him not to. And he never would suspect himself of being a hero—that would be quite the nicest part of it.

And yet I knew poor Cuthbert was an exploded superstition, an anachronism, part of a vanishing order of things, and that the ideal which was replacing him was a boiler-plated monster with clockwork heart and brain, named Efficiency. And that Cuthbert must go, along with his Jacobean manor, and his family ghost, and the oaks in the park, and everything else that couldn't prove its right to live except by being fine and lovely and full of garnered sweetness of the past—

At this point in my meditations the door of the cabin opened, and Miss Browne came out, looking sternly resolute. Aunt Jane followed, very pink about the eyes and nose. She threw an anxious fluttering glance at Mr. Tubbs, who sat up briskly, and in a nervous manner polished with a large bandana that barren zone, his cranium, which looked torrid enough to scorch the very feet of the flies that walked on it. It was clear that on the lips of Miss Browne there hovered some important announcement, which might well be vital to the fortunes of Mr. Tubbs.

With a commanding gesture Miss Browne signaled the rest to approach. Mr. Tubbs bounced up with alacrity. Mr. Shaw and Cuthbert obeyed less promptly, but they obeyed. Meanwhile Violet waited, looking implacable as fate.

"And where is Capt Magnus?" she demanded, glancing about her.

But no one knew what had become of Capt. Magnus.

As for myself, I continued to sit in the shade and tat. But I could hear with ease all that was said.

"Mr. Tubbs," began Miss Browne, "your recent claims have been matter of prolonged consideration between Miss Harding and myself. We feel—we cannot but feel—that there was a harshness in your announcement of them, an apparent concentration of your own interests, ill-befitting a member of this expedition. Also, that in actual substance, they were excessive. Not half, Mr. Tubbs; oh, no, not half! But one-quarter, Miss Harding and myself, as the joint heads of the Harding-Browne expedition, are inclined to think no more than the reward which is your due. We suggest, therefore, a simple way out of the difficulty. Mr. Dugald Shaw was engaged on liberal terms to find the treasure. He has not found the treasure. He has not found the slightest clue to its present whereabouts. Mr. Tubbs, on the contrary, has found a clue. It is a clue of the first importance. It is equivalent almost to the actual discovery of the chest. Therefore let Mr. Shaw, convinced I am sure by this calm presentation or the matter of the justice of such a course, resign his claim to a fourth share of the treasure in favor of Mr. Hamilton H. Tubbs, and agree to receive instead the former allotment of Mr. Tubbs, namely, one-sixteenth."

Having offered this remarkable suggestion, Miss Browne folded her arms and waited for it to bear fruit.

It did—in the enthusiastic response of Mr. Tubbs. Having already played his highest trump and missed the trick, he now found himself with an entirely fresh hand dealt to him by the obliging Miss Higglesby-Browne. The care in his countenance yielded to beaming smiles.

"Well, well!" he exclaimed. "To think of your takin' old H. H. that literal! O' course, havin' formed my habits in the financial centers of the country, I named a stiff price at first—a stiff price, I won't deny. But that's jest the leetle way of a man used to handlin' large affairs—nothin' else to it, I do assure you. The Old Man himself used to say, 'There's old H. H.—you'd think he'd eat the paint off a house, he'll show up that graspin' in a deal. And all the time it's jes' love of the game. Let him know he's goin' to win out, and bless you, old H. H. will swing right round and fair force the profits on the other party. H. H. is slicker than soap to handle, if only you handle him right.' Can I say without hard feelin's that jest now H. H. was not handled right? Instead of being joshed with, as he looked for, he was took up short, and even them which he might have expected to show confidence"—here Mr. Tubbs cast a reproachful eye at Aunt Jane—"run off with the notion that he meant jest what he said. All he'd done for this expedition, his loyalty and faith to same, was forgotten, and he was thought of as a self-seeker and Voracious Shark!" The pain of these recollections dammed the torrent of Mr. Tubbs' speech.

"Oh, Mr. Tubbs!" breathed Aunt Jane, heartbrokenly, and, of course, a tear trickled gently down her nose, following the path of many previous tears which had already left their saline tracks.

Mr. Tubbs managed in some impossible fashion to roll one eye tenderly on Aunt Jane, while keeping the other shrewdly on the remainder of his audience.

"Miss Higglesby-Browne and Miss Jane Harding," he resumed, "I accept. It would astonish them as has only known H. H. on his financial side to see him agree to a reduction of profits like this without a kick. But I'm a man of impulse, I am. Get me on my soft side, and a kitten ain't more impulsive than old H. H. And o' course the busines of this expedition ain't jest business to me. It's—er—friendship, and—er—sentiment—in short, there's feelin's that is more than worth their weight in gold!"

At these significant words the agitation of Aunt Jane was extreme. Was it possible that Mr. Tubbs was declaring himself in the presence of others—and was a response demanded from herself—would his sensitive nature, so lately wounded by cruel suspicion, interpret her silence as fatal to his hopes? But while she struggled between her maiden silence and the fear of crushing Mr. Tubbs' the conversation had swept on.

"Mr. Shaw," said Miss Browne, "you have heard Mr. Tubbs, in the interest of the expedition, liberally consent to reduce his claim by one-half. Doubtless, if only in a spirit of emulation, you will attempt to match this conduct by canceling our present agreement and consenting to another crediting you with the former sixteenth share of Mr. Tubbs."

"Don't do it, Shaw—hold the fort, old boy!" broke in Cuthbert Vane. "I say, Miss Browne, this is a bally shame!"

Miss Browne had always treated the prospective Lord Grasmere with distinguished politeness. Even now her air was mild, though lofty.

"Mr. Vane, I must beg leave to remind you that the object of this expedition was yet unattained when Mr. Tubbs, by following clues ignored by others, brought success within our reach. Mr. Dugald Shaw having conspicuously failed—"

THE SILVER LINING

By Fullerton Waldo.

YOU DO—OR DON'T.

There was a football team of [illegible] class losers at Yale some years ago, and Tom Shevlin left his lumber business up in Minnesota and came snorting down to New Haven to find out what was the matter.

"You are or you aren't," he told the men. "You do or you don't. Time and again when I used to play I'd get so tired I'd think I was dead. Then the quarter-back's signal would come, and I'd be off down the field faster than ever, with the ball under my arm.

"If you think you can, you can. If you think you can't—why, then, the football field is the last place on earth for you."

He fired them with the will to win, and filled them with his own ginger, and they came up from so far behind that none could see them, beat Princeton and tied Harvard.

William James, that wise man who brought philosophy down from the imperturbable skies to the earth level, used to say that we can all do a little bit more than we think we can.

We found that out in the war. Even weak and silly people surprised themselves with the strong and sensible things they did.

Mothers loving their children are able to do for them beyond belief.

Live hard enough—love hard enough—and you CAN.

NO. 8—TO WINNIPEG AND THEREABOUTS.

A Little Trip it may be called to Winnipeg, and it is as surely in Big Canada, for the traveler begins to realize the immensity of area in this country of half-a-continent when the Portal City of the West is reached.

It is a miracle among Canadian cities in its rapid and steady growth; in its civic pride and consciousness, and in its bright future. It falls to a few centres of population to be the queen city for a thousand-mile stretch to the Rockies, with room on every hand in which to expand, and with nothing to prevent it but the shores of Hudson Bay or the Arctic Ocean, or the western mountains.

What kind of a bill-of-fare has "the Peg" to offer a visitor? If it is so new, must it not follow that it is raw and crude and inartistic, and therefore, uninteresting? Nothing of the kind. Even if it is new, being a mere trading post as late as 1870, with a population then of only a few hundred, it has a historic background tinged with a romance that is peculiarly western.

Why, the very first sight on leaving your train, if it be an Imperial Limited, is the original locomotive, "The Countess of Dufferin," that drew the first through train across the continent in the eighties. What a pigmy it is measured by the mogul of a modern express train. And yet this striking difference in size and style is the measure of the development of Winnipeg; indeed of all the Canadian West. It bridges the gulf between yesterday and today.

Another measurement standard is had on emerging from "The National" train, in all that is left of Upper Fort Garry—merely a gateway and square tower, where Time has covered its age-creased walls with foliage and vines. What stirring tales the relatively ancient pile could tell; of the stormy days of the Red River rebellions; of Louis Riel and his short-lived "provisional governments" of the murder of Scott by Riel, and of all the storm and stress involved in setting up modern and stable government.

One of the many striking contrasts of the city is had in the massive pile of the Fort Garry Hotel, dwarfing the little gateway into a mere detail of rough masonry. Whoever makes the Little Trip should also see the lower Fort Garry, still intact on the banks of the Red River at Selkirk, and there link up the past of the Hudson Bay Company, the Coureur de Bois, the red men and their dog teams.

And before leaving Winnipeg, see every park, sail up the river, motor over the wide tree bordered avenues and around the crescents where the fine houses are. Don't miss the new Parliament Buildings—one of the most exquisite specimens of architecture in all Canada. Make a note of the exhibits in the Industrial Bureau Building, look in on a school with twenty-five nationalities represented, and finally see Winnipeg by night and day from the roof of the Fort Garry as a good-bye impression.

JEWITT—RUNDLE.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

WINNIPEG, June 30.—Etta Ruth, daughter of the late W. P. Rundle and Mrs. Rundle, was married to Oliver Jewitt, son of Rev. and Mrs. George Jewitt of Wyoming, Ont., last evening at the family residence of the bride here. Rev. P. Bruce Thornton officiated. The house and spacious verandas were artistically decorated with baskets of ferns, crimson peonies and wild orchids. The bride descended the stairs with her brother, Rev. J. E. Rundle of Moose Jaw, who gave her in marriage.

GILES—STEWART.

A very pretty June wedding took place at noon Wednesday at the home of Capt. and Mrs. H. W. Stewart, Algonac, Mich., when their daughter, Thelma May, was united in marriage to Fred Giles of Glencoe, Ont. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. G. W. Sowers of the Algonac Methodist Church.

The bridal party marched to the strains of "Hearts and Flowers" rendered by Mrs. A. J. LaCroix, and met amid a bank of white June blossoms.

The bride was attended by her sister Romaine, and the groom by his brother Ernest of Detroit. The bride wore a beautiful embroidered pigeon grey georgette gown over blue canton crepe, and carried white bridal roses. She wore orange blossoms, received from her grandfather in Florida, in her hair. The bridesmaid wore blue organdy and carried pink roses.

A beautifully appointed dinner was served to thirty-two guests.

The bridal party was escorted by many friends by auto to Port Huron from where they will leave for an extended trip to Grand Bend and other points in Canada. They will make their home in Detroit after August 1.

ARMSTRONG—PHIBBS.

A very quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. W. W. Cummiford, May avenue, Windsor, on Saturday afternoon last, when Miss Margaret Lee Phibbs of Sarnia, became the bride of Mr. Lloyd William Armstrong, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Armstrong of Sarnia. The drawing room was prettily decorated with ferns and exquisite pink roses, while smilax trailing from the chandelier to windows, made a lovely bridal arbor. The bride was charmingly gowned in white satin and carried a beautiful bouquet of orchids and roses. Mr. Oliver E. Armstrong of Montreal acted as best man, while Miss Bessie Cumiford of Windsor, gowned in white organdy, made a charming bridesmaid. The wedding march was played by Miss Lillian Swetman of Windsor, and Miss Edith Cummiford of Windsor sang very sweetly "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register, Rev. A. E. Plan, B.D., of Walkerville, performed the ceremony.

After the wedding rites a dainty luncheon was served in the dining-room, made beautiful with a profusion of white carnations and pink roses. After a brief honeymoon, the young couple will reside in Detroit.

MELBOURNE U. F. W. O.

The garden party held recently at Melbourne under the auspices of the U. F. W. O. was a success. The people came from far and near. As the chairman, J. W. Freeborn, M.P.P. for East Middlesex, remarked: "The people came by the acre," until the crowd was all that could be wished for. Roselle Pococke, leader of the 1st Hussars Band of London entertained the large gathering with violin solos and community singing until the lights came on. The Hudson male quartet of Detroit were present and delighted the audience with their well-selected and well-rendered numbers. Although Owen Smiley of Toronto has entertained the people of this community many times they never grow weary of his number and are always ready to hear him again. Miss Gwendolyn Anthistle, elocutionist, of London convinced the large gathering that she is a most talented reader and impersonator. Harry Bennett, Scotch comedian, of Toronto was present and gave everyone a good laugh with his fun-making selections. Refreshments were served on the grounds, and nearly $500 was taken in at the various booths, while the gate receipts were almost $800. The proceeds will go towards a community hall.

CHATHAM G. W. V. A. AUXILIARY.

The Women's Auxiliary to the G. W. V. A. held its regular meeting in the club rooms, Chatham. Mrs. Roberts, the president, occupied the chair, and after the opening exercises encouraging reports were received. An interesting letter from Mrs. Chisholm, a former member, who is in England, was read. Business matters were discussed, and the members decided to hold a lawn social on the lawn of the club rooms the third Wednesday in July, which affair promises to be one of the outstanding social events given by the auxiliary. The conveners are Mrs. Corbett, Mrs. Gow, Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Turner. One new member was received, and fourteen applications for membership were read. The ladies decided to assist the Red Cross Society in the well baby clinic, and a donation of a dollar will be made by each of several members. A pleasant social time followed the business meeting, and Mrs. Roberts, the hostess for the evening, served ice cream. At the first meeting in July the annual reports will be given.

AT CUPID'S CALL

BY MAY CHRISTIE.

XVII.—HE FRIGHTENS ME!

Half-doubtfully, Dick drew out his cigarette-case.

"Do you mind if I smoke?" he said shortly.

He sat down on the sofa by her and moodily lit a cigarette.

Louder and louder grew the music. The place was getting crowded now. An air of conviviality hung over everything.

But to Mary's sensitive heart a "something" seemed to be missing. A wall had risen up betwen herself and Dick Calardin. She didn't understand his moody silence.

Oh, if she were only better versed in the gentle art of handling men! She wanted Dick to care for her—

They'd been so happy all alone at dinner, without the presence of this noisy crowd!

Her previous experience of dancing had been in private homes—in intimate affairs. This place was so large, so grand, so packed!

She couldn't be her right self here. What Julian Vandaveer had told her was in a measure true. She was infinitely more at home upon the moors, the hills, the quiet places—

"Mr. Calardin, please let us get away from here! Oh, you must think me foolish, changeable! I wanted awfully much to see this place, I know. But, now I've seen it, it—it seems so hot and crowded—and one cannot talk at all. And Mr. Vandaveer is sure to come back, and—and ask me to dance with him—and, oh—he frightens me!"

Without a word Dick rose. But he was smiling now. His equanimity was restored.

"Yes, I'll be glad to go. Only—I can't let you go home so early. I've got a plan—" His vivid blue eyes were sparkling. "Get on your things and meet me in the hall. And then we'll fix it up!"

Mary, too, was smiling as the attendant wrapped her velvet cloak about her. Eve and Dick's enemy—she wanted so to get away from them. She wanted to be all alone with Dick Calardin!

She came out to the entrance hall—a slim, pretty, eager figure. Her escort was awaiting her.

"It's only nine o'clock," he said, "and—and full moon. A glorious evening. Mary—Miss Drew—I want to take you for a motor run. You wouldn't be afraid to go with me I 'phoned the garage for a car I've driven quite a lot—a big, eight-cylinder Cadillac. She's great at speeding. But I promise you I'm quite a careful driver. Do say you'll come! Ah, do!"

The pleading in his attractive voice would have melted a heart of stone. But Mary, the conventional, hesitated a moment. Was it "correct," this moonlight drive, alone with Dick Calardin?

Ah, but one only was young once! This time might never come again.

Mary grasped at pleasure with both hands.

"Thank you! I'd love to come!" She put her hand on the young man's arm, and together they stepped out to the pavement. And there, close to the curb, was drawn up a long, low, cream-colored car, its bright lights gleaming.

Dick ushered Mary into the front seat, and she sank down into the leather-covered depths. How comfortable it was! So close beside the driver, too!

Then Dick mounted to his post, released his clutch and the great car darted forward.

Over her shoulder Mary flung a backward glance. She was afraid that Eve and her companions might at the last moment stop this glorious trip. Or maybe they might follow!

Then her heart gave a painful jump. For Julian Vandaveer—clearly silhouetted in the arc of light that illuminated the entrance to the night club—was standing bareheaded on the pavement and waving frantically to them to stop!

It was quite three minutes before Mary gave this priceless news to her companion. By then they had traversed Columbus Circle, and were speeding on through the Park.

"Confound the fellow's impudence!" was Dick's sole comment. "I wouldn't dream of paying any attention to his signals!"

The backwoodsman was a wonderful chauffeur. The car leaped forward like a panther to his touch. It darted in and out of traffic, taking every sort of hazard and coming out victorious every time. Miraculously Dick could slow it up, too, when necessity arose.

He drove for the most part with one hand upon the wheel. But Mary's confidence in the young man was limitless.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

Beating the Law of Gravitation.

The maintenance of a normal erect posture is a constant struggle to beat the law of gravitation. If Professor Einstein or anyone else can devise some means for repealing this law, a lot of unfortunates with the anhedonia of sagging abdominal organs will have reason to be grateful.

There are several ways to skin a cat.

The depraved state of visceroptosis, be it prolapsed stomach, sagging colon, movable or floating kidney, or whatnot loose inside, is caused and maintained by the force of gravitation. All right. Then the cue is to fool gravitation, by a simple twist of the wrist, reversing the application of the force of gravitation so that it will undo some or all the damage it has done. Gravitation is indeed a great obstacle and stumbling block in the pathway of evolution. Maybe it would have been better had we remained on all fours, instead of making highly trained monkeys of ourselves.

In order to beat the law of gravitation and make gravitation work for the benefit of the victim of ptosis or sagging of abdominal organs, it is not only necessary to put the patient abed in the horizontal posture, which merely throws gravitation into neutral, but the patient must be more or less inverted for a reasonable part of the time in order to gain the advantage of reverse action by gravitation.

There are numerous expedients for thus utilizing gravitation. The foot of the bed may be elevated on blocks eight to sixteen inches above the head of the bed. Three or four times a day the patient may lie for half an hour at a time, preferably following meals, on an inclined plane with the hips elevated a foot or more above the level of the shoulders. The ironing-board or any other contrivance which will place the body at an angle of about 45 degrees with the level will serve for this purpose. While lying in this position, if it is not uncomfortable, the patient may gently rub and stroke the abdominal wall from the lower right corner upward and over toward the upper left corner, but not downward.

For splanchnic anhedoniacs who are underweight—and practically all victims of visceroptosis who have any active symptoms from their displacements are below normal weight—from one to two weeks of absolute bed rest, with these postural procedures to vary the monotony, will be found the best kind of relief in cases not complicated by other diseases. It is a peculiar characteristic of the so-called "dyspepsia" or "indigestion" complained of by splanchnic anhedoniacs, that, whereas any and every article of diet if taken in sufficient quantity to furnish adequate nourishment "disagrees," almost anything may be taken freely and with perfect comfort if the patient remains in bed and takes advantage of these little tricks on gravitation. That means regaining the weight that has been lost; re-accumulation of the wasted fat deposits in the abdomen and restoration of something like the natural supporting pads of the wandering organs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Exercises for Round Shoulders.

Please tell me the best exercise to help correct round shoulders. I am a girl 16 years old, doing office work, and my health is all right. Mother and father have great faith in your advice.

MISS H. T.

Answer.—Swimming, some of the setting-up exercises, and chinning yourself or doing the exercise which imitates those movements, thus: Stand erect, raise arms straight above head, as though grasping a bar, clench fists hard, draw in the chin, draw in the abdomen, draw up the chest, and slowly rise on your toes as high as you can, always toeing in, as you slowly pull down your arms as if lifting your weight, and all the while breathing in, until your clenched fists are down beside your hips, then breathe out and repeat. Do this three or four times, thrice daily, at first, and increase gradually until you do it about fifteen times thrice daily.

Which Sex Is Hard to Please.

I am 17 years old, and on putting on my last year's dress I notice it does not have to be lengthened. I am 5 feet and 6 inches tall. Please tell me how I can grow taller. M. K.

Answer.—The average height of women is 5 feet and 5 inches—that is considered the perfect stature. But be that as it may, I do not know how anyone can increase height.

The Healthy Life.

SUMMER SILKS.

Some of the light silks listed as suitable for summer wear are chiffon cloth, crepe de chine, crepe georgette, faille, foulard, habutai, India silk, pongee, rajah, and taffeta. These, of course, differ among themselves in price and weave, and are suitable for various purposes. Chiffon cloth is a soft, gauzy, plain-woven fabric, more durable than chiffon, suitable for blouses. Crepe de chine is one of the best known and most used of all the silks, for gowns, blouses and underwear; it is a plain weave, of semi-lustre, and crepe surface, from 40 to 45 inches wide. It washes very well. Georgette is a plain weave 40 inches wide, used for blouses and the sheer sleeves and yokes of gowns. Faille is a corded weave with surface in light ridges, a yard wide, used for coats, frocks, and trimming. Foulard is the favorite for the summer silk gown, as it comes in a great variety of attractive colors and patterns and keeps its shape and lustre. It is a twill weave, 27 to 40 inches wide. Habutai is a Japanese silk of plain, lustrous, close weave, 30 to 36 inches wide, at a wide range of price and quality; it washes well, and is much used for white blouses. India silk is an old standby of plain weave, lustrous and thin, usually a yard wide. It makes useful dresses. Pongee and rajah are rough silks, washable, used for suits and coats, coming in natural colors or dyes, very serviceable. Good taffeta, unadulterated, remains the best all-round silk for the money, in wear and appearance. It is a plain weave, in plain or changeable colors.

radishes to make a hundred calory portion. Obviously we do not eat radishes for their nutritive value. No very extended analysis has yet been made of the protein content of the edible roots, such as radishes and celery, but we know that they are more like the leaf foods than like the grain and tubers.

Radishes are used as a relish. One occasionally reads of them stewed and served in cream sauce, but so far, cooked radishes have not come into general favor.

To prepare radishes for the table, remove leaves, stems and tip end of root, scrape them and serve them whole on crushed ice. The skins of radishes are rather indigestible, and should not be eaten, unless the radishes are very young and tender, so that the bitter principle has not yet developed. Round radishes look very pretty when cut to imitate tulips. For this they should not be scraped, but six incisions should be made from the tip end of the root, through the skin, three-quarters of the way up the radish. The knife should then be passed close under the sections of the skin as far as these incisions go. The radishes are placed in cold water, and the sections of skin fold back of their own accord.

A little chopped radish, with its red and white, served very fresh on a salad, gives a very pretty effect, and a delicious flavor, and one gets so little radish actually that one is less likely to find it indigestible. One reason why people find radishes indigestible is that they do not chew them thoroughly; thus chopped radishes are less indigestible than whole ones.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

No past can be empty or squalid, no events can be wretched; the wretchedness lies in our manner of welcoming them. And if it were true that nothing happened to you, that would be the most remarkable adventure that any man had ever met with.—Maeterlinck. gether depraved.—Carlyle.

Veranda Chats.

Dear Miss Grey,—As this is my third letter, I thought I would try again. I certainly do enjoy your page. Seeing where someone sent in the words and music of the following songs, "Margy," "Feather Your Nest," "The Sunshine of Virginny," "I Know What It Means To Be Lonesome" and "The Bells of St. Marys," I would be awfully pleased to get them, as I also take music lessons, and would like to correspond with the others. I am sending a recipe for caramel pie, and will send hospital mite later. I am also inclosing five cents in stamps and my address. I must go now. Thanking you in advance,

BUSY BEE.

Caramel Pie—Put in a pan to boil one cup brown sugar and butter the size of an egg; then thin out with one cup hot water; mix one tablespoon of cornstarch, one teaspoon vanilla, yolks of two eggs with water and stir in. Have crust ready, and pour filling in, using whites of egg on top. This will make one pie.

Ans.—I am sorry, Busy Bee, but the songs you asked for have been sent out. I have to put the stamps in the mite box.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wrote once before to the Mail-Box asking for a sachet, but there were none in the Mail-Box at that time. Please send me one this time. If there isn't any in, just put my name down for one if any more are sent. I saw in today's paper where Teasing Sis wanted the words of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." I am sending them in. Inclosed find a mite. I see someone has taken my pen-name (Sardonyx), so will sign myself

A BERRY.

Ans.—Thank you for hospital mite and words for Teasing Sis. Have put your envelope on file for a sachet.

Dear Cynthia,—Here I am again to your cosy corner. I really can't stay away, as it is so interesting. I would like very much to get some of those lily of the valley roots, as I see where a lady has some to spare. I forget her pen-name, but she will see my request. I will pay postage on the same. Where is Jakaloo gone? She is sure some girl, but it takes the fun out of it when I know who she is. I wonder if she ever goes for any more car rides? Eh, Mabel? Well, I had better hang up, as I have talked long enough. Hoping to be of some help next time, I will sign myself as before.

SUNBEAMS.

Ans.—Am mailing you A Wife's address, and you can send direct to her for the roots. Am sorry I did not inclose patterns, and have forgotten what you asked for. Let me know and I will send them.

Wrong Address.

Dear Miss Gre,—How are you and all the boxites? Enjoying this warm weather, I suppose. I read the letters every day and like them. You surely have the patience of Job to answer the foolish questions that some ask you. I wrote once before but did not see it in print, but I have found out since that I addressed it wrong, so it was my fault. Well I guess I had better say what I am here for and get, or the W. P. B. will devour me. I saw in the paper where One in Need wanted clothes. I have a few perfectly good ones which I have outgrown, so if you would be so kind and obliging as to disoblige yourself by obliging me, and send me One in Need's address I will be very thankful, and also the words of "Golden Gate" and "Always Take a Girl Named Daisy." Well, if I lengthen this epistle out much longer your eyes will be sore looking at it.

I will now close with best wishes to the Mail-Box. (Am inclosing mite for S. C. H.). From BLUE HAIR AND CURLY BROWN EYES.

Ans.—Am mailing address requested, but the songs you ask for are not in at present. Thank you for hospital mite.

To Can Soft Fruits.

Strawberries, blackberries, dewberries, blueberries, sweet cherries, grapes, peaches, apricots, plums. Can the same day fruit is picked, if possible. Wash the fruit by pouring cold water over it through a strainer. Pack immediately in jars or cans. Add boiling hot syrup. Place rubber and top in place and partially tighten. Sterilize in hot water bath twelve to fifteen minutes. Remove and tighten covers. Invert to cool and test joints. Wrap glass jars in paper to prevent bleaching, then store.

Sour berry fruits, such as currants, gooseberries, Cranberries and sour cherries—Blanch in hot water one minute. Remove and dip quickly in cold water. Pack berries closely in container. Add hot syrup. (These fruits may be canned successfully without blanching). Sterilize 16 minutes in hot bath.

Hard fruits, such as apples, pears, quinces—Blanch one and a half minutes and plunge quickly in cold water. Core, pit and remove skins if necessary. Pack whole, quartered or sliced as desired. Add boiling syrup. Sterilize in hot-water bath 20 minutes or until fruit is soft.

Scalding means dipping the product in boiling water for a moment, or having boiling water thrown over the products.

Blanching means holding the products in boiling water and allowing the water to boil for a certain length of time.

Where Is Heart of the Night Wind.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my third letter to the Mail-Box, and as my second letter did not appear in print I thought I would try again.

I saw where Paulina Lisle was asking for the words of some songs, and although I do not know them all I am sending one of them.

My, but you must be hot, sitting in your office working at the numerous letters which you receive every day. Don't you wish you were in the country sitting beneath a grand old maple reading some books? That is what I delight in doing as I also am a lover of books. My favorite authors are: Gene Stratton Porter, Ralph Connor, Margaret Burnham, L. T. Meade and Martha Finley and L. M. Montgomery. I have read the 28 Elsie books, and although some of them were rather absurd others were very nice; especially "Elsie's Holidays at Roselands" and "Elsie's Girlhood."

Where has Heart of the Night Wind gone? I have been looking in vain for a letter from her for some time. She certainly must have an imagination like that of L. M. Montgomery to be able to write such interesting letters.

Well I had better ring off or Miss Grey will be showing me the door.

Yours sincerely, CLOUDY DAYS.

P. S.—What do you think of my writing?

Ans.—If Paulina Lisle will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will forward song. You write very well Cloudy Days.

A Request.

Dear Miss Grey,—Please excuse the pencil. I would like you to put this note in your column if you don't mind. I'm asking anyone if they have a doll carriage to part with? My 6-year old girl never had one, and I can't afford a new one. I have four others, so it doesn't allow much for toys. We take The Advertiser, so will be looking for an answer. MOTHER.

Ans.—If anyone has a carriage to give Mother, they may have her address from the Mail-Box.

Dear Miss Grey,—Seeing so many asking for songs, I thought I would copy a few and send in. I am inclosing "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" for Teasing Sis; I am sending "Beautiful Ohio" and "Let the Rest of the World Go By" for Goldie No. 2; am sending in "Casey Jones," "Just Before the Battle, Mother," "Red Wing" and "I Know What It Means To Be Lonesome" for Hope; I have copied them for you, Hope, and you need not retrun them. I saw your thanks in the paper, Truly Needy, and you needn't bother about the postage. SARDONYX.

A Real Farmerette.

Dear Cynthia and Boxites,—Well, this has been a beautifully rainy day. I say beautiful, because it is such a long time since we had rain that it seems beautiful.

I cut some hay this morning, and oh, it was so very hot. I am sure if I had been all sugar I would have melted. I am 17, and have worked outdoors since I was 13. There are no boys in our family, so I have to be my father's right hand man. I rather like the job until it comes to doing the winter chores, and oh, don't I hate them! We have a silo and feed quite a few cattle. Dad had been sick off and on all winter, so that left the feeding of the cattle for me, and I sure did get sick of the job. I learn how to do something new each year. Last year I learned how to plow with a two-furrow plow. I plowed about 13 acres for wheat. This year I learned to plant oats; I planted about 7 acres. I can do anything from plowing to seeding. I don't like to harrow or drag, as some people call it. There is too much walking for me. What I like to do best is to cut the grain and hay. It is fascinating to watch the grain dance for a moment and then fall as the binder cuts it.

My favorite authors are Gene S. Porter, Ralph Connor and a lot of others, which certainly don't include May Christie or Bertha Clay. I think they write the mushiest stories I ever read.

Are any of the Boxites going to summer school at Alma College, St. Thomas? I am, and I was wondering if someone who was going would write to me, and then we could meet there. I know two or three persons who are going, but that is all. My address is with Miss Grey. This letter is getting much too long, so will close. MUTT'S SISTER.

Wants Address.

Dear Miss Grey,—It's so doggone hot today I don't know what to do with myself. I wonder if anyone can keep cool?

I saw in the Mail-Box where Wilkesport Chums wanted to correspond. Will you please send their address?

Sussex was in a pretty bad fix. Is he a she? or is she a he? Perhaps "It" would suit better. I would like to correspond with he, she or it, which ever is right.

Could anyone let me have the words of "Hand in Hand Again"?

What do you think of my writing, Miss Grey?

So long for this time, and don't work too hard. CARROT TOP.

P.S.—Just received today's paper and saw where June Rose wanted me to write. Please send me her address.

Ans.—Am mailing you the addresses of June Rose and Wilkesport Chum, but Sussex's is not on file. You write a very good hand, Carrot Top.

THIN, WATERY BLOOD MEANS ILL HEALTH

Rich, Red Blood Brings Bright Eyes and Rosy Cheeks.

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes pale. She not only tires out easily, but often suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite.

In this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found to have a beneficial action on the blood. Miss Delima Lafreniere, St. Ambrose, Man., has proved this in her own case, and advises others to use these pills. She says: "Before I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I felt like a complete wreck of my former self. My blood was poor and thin. I suffered from faint and dizzy spells, and had backaches and headaches almost every day. I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and by the time I had used three boxes I felt much better, and I continued taking the pills until I felt as well as I ever did. For what they did in my case I cannot recommend these pills too highly."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Puppy Stories
(by Vincent G. Perry)

Part Eleven.

It was a sad little prince who arrived at the cottage of the old witch that night. The prime minister had been freed, but the poor king and queen were to remain in prison. Even the encouraging smile of his cousin, the little princess, had not lessened the sadness of Prince Philip's heart.

"Don't give up," the old witch told him encouragingly. "Just you wait, and you'll see that the Grand Duke won't be satisfied with the bag of gold—he'll be wanting more riches, mark my words."

There was a second reason for the little prince to feel sad. His faithful dog Tingles had carried the prime minister to Fairyland for safety, and the little prince did not expect his pet to return. But just then there was a familiar scratch at the door, and in walked Tingles.

"I thought you had gone back to your friends, the fairies," the little prince cried in delight. "How glad I am you have returned!"

"I will never leave you," Tingles promised. "I am going to help you get your father and mother out of prison."

For many days the little prince and his dog stayed with the old witch. Then one day the old witch came back from a visit near the castle, with wonderful news.

"It is just as I told you," she announced. "The Grand Duke, not satisfied with the added riches the bag of gold has brought to him, now seeks more riches. He wants the bag of jewels guarded by the three wicked sisters at the bottom of the ocean. No one has dared try to get the jewels, for once man looks at the three wicked sisters he is turned to a sea serpent."

"There is no task too hard for me to try if it is to save my father and mother!" the little prince declared stoutly. A few minutes later he set off for the castle to interview the Grand Duke.

"So you are to try this task, too?" questioned the Grand Duke, as the little prince and the faithful magic dog were brought before him. "You'll find this a harder task than the last one."

"First I must know, will you free the king and queen if I succeed?" Prince Philip asked.

The Grand Duke scowled as blackly as he could. Who was this insolent youth who demanded the surrender of the Grand Duke's enemies, he wondered. Just the same he did want the jewels at the bottom of the ocean, for they were more precious than any jewels in the world.

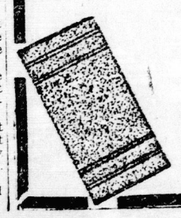

"I will free the queen, but not the king," the Grand Duke offered. "But mind you, you must bring me the jewels first."

It was better to have half his request carried out than lose all of it, thought the little prince, so he consented to try to secure the jewels for the greedy ruler.

Both Fighters Step Into Ring This Afternoon Confident and Fit

WOLVES MAKE IT THREE STRAIGHT, TAKING TWO MIXES ON THE HOLIDAY

First Protested On Ump's Decision in Fifteenth Frame, After Daylight Robbery All Through—Wheeler and Collins in Duel in Second.

Bay City Wolves made it three in a row by taking both games on the holiday. They took the morning game after they had tied it up in the eighth, and then went on a regular rumpus in the fifteenth, scoring six runs to the one scored by the Tribesmen in their half, the total hitting a 12—7 jangle. The afternoon game was regulation size and went to a 2—1 ending for the visiting pack.

The ante-luncheon affair was protested, when Cuyler was put out at the home plate in the fifteenth frame and then put back to second base because Umps DeLave bet his eyesight against everybody in the grounds, declaring the ball rolled through the ropes, thus calling for a two-bagger.

Fifteen frames of awful umpiring had their culmination when Crichlow met DeLave at the players' exit from the stands, and straightaway put a headlock on him. After that it was a tangle of players, police and some fans mostly on top of the umps, the arrest of a fan for obstructing the police following.

Crichlow did not appear in the afternoon game.

The only difference between DeLave and the rest of the "second story" workers that could be spotted in the morning game was that the former did not wear the usual handkerchief below his eyes nor carry a "jimmie." Outside that he had something to show the most daring of motor bandits as to what could be done in daylight, if done smoothly enough. However, he got a little rough in his work, in the fifteenth, and the protest goes in.

The Morning Game.

Boothby opposed Pinto and Delotelle for the fifteen inning session. London had given Pinto four runs to work on by the fourth, getting a pair in the first inning on a walk, an error and a sacrifice fly, and another brace in the fourth, on two hits, a walk and some jagged throwing around the Pack's infield.

Bay City got the first two back in their third, Boothby's double scoring Reinhart, and Koehler's single scoring Boothby. They got the other two back in the sixth, when three singles filled the bags, Calbert's error on a slow roller to right shoving over one run, and Kelly's out at first pushing in the second. Pinto was yanked here, much against the wishes of the fans, and Delotelle went to work, on what proved to be a full game, with only one gone and two on. A fielder's choice nipped Cuyler at third, and Ohlin grounded out.

The Londoners forged ahead again to the extent of another brace of counters in their half of the sixth, when Malmquest and Shay came in on Delotelle's triple to right field.

In the seventh, Shay's bad peg to the plate allowed Reinhart home, and in the eighth two errors by Crichlow and Curry's high peg over Stutz's head brought in the tieing run. This was the "job" no clues could trace to the ump. Cuyler tripled this trip, but was left stranded.

Both teams clouded up at intervals until the fifteenth frame, with nothing turning up in the run line, and Delotelle getting slightly the best of an argument with Boothby but the first of it with DeLave, thus splitting fifty-fifty.

Calbert made the fans take back one of their remarks, when he pegged a perfect one from deep right to Reinhart at the plate in the seventh. Cuyler also brought the fans to the pop-eyed stage when he threw from behind the signs in the tenth to the pitching box, Boothby making the play which caught Shay after his triple.

The fifteenth came along just at a time when it looked like "Old Twenty" would have to change his name to "Old Forty." Cuyler's disputed hit put him in second, by the umps' orders. Ohlin was struck out. Curry dropped the ball, but touched Ohlin, Umps DeLave said he didn't, and he was on first. Reinhart attempted to sacrifice, but Delotelle pegged wild to first and Cuyler came in. Boothby's single to centre unloaded the bags of two runners, completing the trio of runs. Hegedorn ingled and Koehler beat out a bunt, Hegedorn scored behind Boothby on Shaley's sacrifice fly. Kelly drew a pass and so did Cuyler, starting his second time around, and this populated the bases. Ohlin was hit and a run was forced in—the last one, and the sixth.

London got one run in the fifteenth, when Briger beat a throw to the plate, the choice being made there. Six runs looked too much to the Tribe even.

In the Afternoon.

Wheeler and Collins engaged in a pitching duel after lunch, two errors by Bill Kuhn in a heap in the second and a wild pitch by Wheeler himself in the eighth being indirectly responsible for the two tallies the Wolves found sufficient for a win.

Otherwise both teams were playing air-tight baseball the full route.

The Wolves drew the first crimson when Ohlin shot one down at Kuhn, who threw it over his own head, and came in when Bill handled Stumpf's dash the same way.

Whaley drew a walk to start the eighth, went to second on a wild pitch and came in on Cuyler's long hit to right. Carmen made one of the nicest plays of the day when he caught Ohlin's high fly and whipped the ball to third to catch Cuyler. Stutz was waiting for the fast Wolf outfielder with the ball in his hand.

Stutz drew a charity trip to start the sixth, was sacrificed and came in on Calbert's single to left. The Londoners didn't have anything to threaten with either, and only in the third with three men on did they threaten before this. Calbert hit into a fast double play and this threat wasn't.

BOSTON, July 1.—The Braves, third in the National League race, and aspiring to higher place, are leaving no stone unturned in their effort to find greater strength. Jack Slattery, Harvard baseball coach, has been engaged to tour the Southern States during the next few weeks on a scouting trip for players. A left-handed pitcher and a reserve infielder will be especially sought.

MOFFAT OF GALT BEAT PRO'S TIME

Gas Bike Cop Shows Merry Ride At Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, July 1.—The international motorcycle meet here today drew a crowd of 5,000 people, who witnessed a first-class card of motor, bicycle and auto races. The feature riding of the day was no doubt done by Moffat of Galt, who won all the amateur events in very fast time, in fact his time was better than that accomplished by the professionals.

O'Donnell was the star of the professionals, defeating his old rival, Cole, in all their clashes. The following are the results of the different events:

Half-mile, bicycle—Coles, London; Heap, Brantford; Simpson, London. Time—1:19.

Five-mile sidecar (amateur)—Hughes, Port Huron; Ryls, Toronto; Despond, Toronto. Time—7:19.

One mile, bicycle—Coles, Heap, Simpson. Time—2:52.

Five-mile motorcycle (amateur)—Moffatt, Galt; Friend, Toronto; F. Ham, Toronto. Time—6:27.

Five mile (professional)—O'Donnell, Cole, Eardley. Time—6:42 1-5.

DUTCHMAN COMPETING FOR DIAMOND SCULLS

HENLEY, Eng., July 1.—Only one foreign entrant remains to contest further events in the annual regatta here. He is Fyken, the famous Dutch oarsman, who is competing in the diamond sculls race. The Dutch eight-oared crew was beaten yesterday by Leander, in the Grand Challenge cup event, and the Christiania four-oared crew was defeated by the Lady Margaret crew in the Wyfold cup race.

The finals will be rowed on Saturday.

ALL EXCITEMENT ROUND RIVAL CAMPS AS STARTING GONG IS A MATTER OF HOURS AWAY

NEW YORK, June 1.—Supreme confidence appeard to reign in the camps of Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier on the eve of their championship bout in Jersey City tomorrow. Special statements furnished the Associated Press either directly or indirectly by the principals and their managers follow:

By Jack Dempsey.

"I am in the best shape in my career, ready and anxious to give an account of myself in the ring as champion of the world. I expect to win, and win as quickly as possible. If one punch will knock out Carpentier I'll be better satisfied.

"But regardless of how long the fight goes, the public can depend upon me to do my level best every second of the way. I am proud to represent the United States against the European challenger, and this pride will cause me to make what I feel will be the greatest fight in my life.

"I never was more anxious to win a fight than this one. Of course, I know that Carpentier is a great fighter, but I feel confident that I will be able successfully to defend my title. I have trained the best I know how. I put in ten weeks of work—six weeks of real hard training.

By Georges Carpentier, Challenger.

"When I go into the ring against Jack Dempsey I will be prepared to make the supreme effort of my fighting career."

"You can also say for Georges," added Trainer Wilson, "that he is in condition to fight a great battle, that he will bring all the experience of fourteen years' fighting to bear, and that if Dempsey beats him the United States can claim a great champion, for Georges is a great fighter, and to beat him will indeed be an accomplishment.

"We have no excuses to make, and we believe victory will be ours."

Dempsey in Secret Refuge in Jersey City Last Night—All Is Ready, Says Kearns.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 1.—This is get-away day for Jack Dempsey. Before the sun sinks in the west tonight the grim, determined champion will be ensconsed amid the strange surroundings of a private residence in Jersey City, perhaps to face a night that may seem endless, there to remain until he faces Georges Carpentier tomorrow afternoon.

Everything is in readiness for the champion's departure. The exact hour, however, has not been divulged, nor has Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, revealed the railroad over which the champion and his party will travel. Where Dempsey will sleep in Jersey City tonight is also a guarded secret. The secret will not be revealed even to Dempsey himself, as Manager Kearns is taking every precaution to have him rest in absolute quiet, away from the eyes of the curious thousands.

Released from the close confinement of two months' training, Dempsey is happy in this liberation, and more like a boy brimming over with anticipation than a heavyweight champion facing the most important battle of his career.

Dempsey revealed his happy, carefree state of mind yesterday when he sat on the front porch of his house and for more than two hours took part in a conversation that included a variety of subjects. While a driving rain beat down on the huge field surrounding his camp, Dempsey laughed heartily and joked with a small circle of friends.

Final preparations for the departure to Jersey City were completed soon after breakfast today. Expressmen were busy hauling trunks to the station. All outstanding accounts of the camp were settled up, and the keys of the two houses which have been Dempsey's camp during the ten weeks' training, were turned over to their owners.

Battling Nelson, who predicted the downfall of Jess Willard at Toledo two years ago, predicts that tomorrow's contest will be the shortest and most viciously fought in the heavyweight history. Nelson will not be surprised if Dempsey wins in the first round. The Battler has been here for a week carefully watching Dempsey in training.

TEST MATCH AT GALT ENDS IN 2—2 TIED COUNT

Big Crowd Saw Game Which Will Point Out Members of Ontario Team.

GALT, July 1.—The test soccer match between the all-star teams of the province was played here this afternoon for the purpose of selecting a team that will carry Ontario's colors in the game with the touring Scotch internationals at Toronto on July 6.

The match ended in a tie, 2 all. Soccer enthusiasts from all parts of the province came for the game, which, considering the fact that both teams were comprised of strangers, was a very good exhibition, closely contested throughout.

The Blues were the pick of Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, while the Whites came from the balance of the province, with this city having three representatives on the team, adding much interest to the match. Whites led at the end of the first half, 1 to 0. All of the Blues played a fine steady game, and the veteran "Tiny" Thombs of Hamilton was as good as any man on the field, and was indirectly responsible for both of his team's goals. The pick of the Whites were King, the goal tender; the backs, Humphries of Sarnia and McDonald of Peterboro; Forbes, inside right, and MacKins, inside left, while Walker of Windsor proved a strong aggressive player, but was slowed up in the second half on account of an injury to his leg. Hedge of Ulster United, with Blues, showed great grameness by playing when an old sore gave him trouble, and while he went to the bench in the second half, Moyer of Peterboro replacing him, returned to the field, when latter also had to quit on account of a bad leg. The feature of the game was the work of both goalkeepers, who made beautiful saves, King, the local man, surprising the visiting soccerites by his coolness, but daring in saving shots, many of which were only handled by him leaving his goal.

The game was opened with Ald. W. S. McKay in the absence of Mayor S. E. Charlton kicking off the ball. After 38 minutes of up and down field play Whites opened the score when MacKins of Guelph headed in a beautiful centre by Walker of Windsor on a foul kick.

Woods of Toronto opened the score for the Blues after ten minutes' play in the second half, when he took a pass from Thombs. Whites took the lead five minutes later, Forbes of St. Catharines counting on a pass from Brown of Sudbury. With about seven minutes to go the Blues evened the count, Thombs passing to Mountlove of Ottawa who was placed for the shot, and who had little trouble beating King. Referee Louis Jewett of Toronto handled the game to the satisfaction of all.

H. L. I. band was in attendance and provided a fine program throughout the afternoon, and as a curtain-raiser to the big soccer match, two teams of girls from local soft ball teams staged a game.

Telephone Calls Annoy M. Descamps — Guard Keeps Curious and Well-Wishers Away.

MANHASSET, N. Y., July 1.—Only light exercises was on the work program of Georges Carpentier today, and to keep his mind off tomorrow's battle Trainer Wilson prescribed phonograph music, a walk through the woods and a long automobile ride. The camp was besieged by an army of last-minute well-wishers, but they met stout resistance at the gate in a squad of county policemen and camp attaches, and were turned away.

This of all days, Trainer Wilson said, was to be a day of peace for the challenger, and he was not to be bothered even by personal friends.

All members of the camp were busy getting things in order for the morrow. Everybody was champing at the bit in their impatience, but there was only a slight display of real nervousness. This was on the part of Manager Descamps, who appeared to be "up in the air" because of a number of telephone calls. He said there had been no less than 75 up to noon, and that he had been asked all the foolish questions imaginable.

Some fellow who said he was going to bet on Carpentier wanted to talk to the challenger himself and ask his advice. A woman thought Descamps rude because he refused an invitation for the challenger to attend an ice cream social tonight.

Halves—Walker, Danes, Patrick (Galt).
Forwards—Ferguson (Ulster); Menliffe, Lavery (Dunlop's); Makin, "Ting" Thoms (Westinghouse).

Following the test game at Galt yesterday, a meeting of the O.F.A. was held at which the Ontario team to meet the touring Scots was picked and the draw for the Plenty cup made.

Matt Morgan, member of the L and D. council, present as a spectator at the game, was invited to the meeting in place of F. S. Dent of Sarnia, the representative of the L. and D.

The one London and District player in yesterday's test match lost out in the selection, but Moore of Public Utilities was considered for a time, despite the fact that he had not played in the test match.

Public Utilities, which intended entering the Plenty cup competition, will not be able to enter owing to the conditions of the cup which calls for representative teams from each association. Mr. Morgan entered the L. and D. and London will therefore be represented in this classic.

It will be very hard to keep the majority of Public Utilities players off such a team anyway, so it is expected that the council will put as many of them on as possible.

BRANTFORD JUNIOR SIDE BEATS SIMCOE 2--1

BRANTFORD, July 1.—Brantford I. B. C. this afternoon won the semi-final match with the Simcoe football juniors by a score of 2 to 1. The locals played in Simcoe last week, and they drew with the home team there. The game at Tutela Park this afternoon was played in a sweltering heat. I. B. C. meet Paris in the finals.

Representative elevens have been selected from the six clubs of the local senior soccer association, and these teams will play off on Wednesday night next to try out for the positions on the team which will represent Brantford in the Albert Plenty cup of Ontario. Every club in the city is represented in the two trial teams.

Best bet—William A.

Whitney Entry:

Dis am the opening day special at John Madigan's Merry-Go-Round. Goes in the fourth and really should run one—two. Ogarite will probably prove the real contender. Has a good deal of class and most likely will be second with Corenzio a bang-up third. All this happens in the fourth at Fort Erie.

Mabel Curtis seems to be in very nicely in the first, and should romp home with the coon-skins. Happy Buxton was bet on in China the last time out, and will prove a hard nut to crack here if they shoot.

Sudor has only to gallop in order to drag home the mazuma in the third. Will have a good boy in the coop and the right people are down hook, line and sinker. 'Nuff sed. Yorkist and Mallowmot will split the balance of the purse. Eddie Rickenbacher's last went for Mr. Sweeney, the man who tends the morgue. Get even on him today. Sewell Combs is the sharpshooters' special, but second will do for him. Carmandale is very fit right now. Chasseur is a nice horse, and only needs snug handling in order to ring the bell. Sunnyland will go well.

Best take-a-chance bet—Corenzio.

Best parley—Happy Buxton, Leading Star, Sunnyland to show.

Old Benevolent will look the judge in the mug in the last. It's made to order for him. Madrono is a sleeper. Under strong handling is sure to break inside the money. That's all.

BEAVERS NICK ACES FOR BOTH GAMES, HURONS DROP TWO

Extra-Inning Games a Holiday Feature in League.

HURONS UNSTEADY

Brants Within Half Game of Second Rung.

KITCHENER, July 1.—The Beavers took both holiday games from the Saginaw Aces, winning the morning game by 4 to 3, and this afternoon by 8 to 4. The first game was one of the best and hardest-fought exhibitions witnessed in this city. It was a pitchers' battle between Glynn for the Beavers and Harry Shriver of the Aces, with the former carrying off the honors, holding Saginaw down to seven hits and allowing no passes. Both teams scored three runs in the first two innings. It was not until the fourth frame that Shriver weakened and forced in Andy Kyle with the winning run by passing Glynn with three on bases. This afternoon Karl pitched six innings, but asked to be relieved on account of a sore arm. Kirley finished the game. The Aces outhit the Beavers, but the local team made their hits count, securing two doubles and five triples out of a total of nine hits. The fielding of the Beavers in both games delighted the large crowds.

HURONS CAN LOSE.

BRANTFORD, July 1.—The Brants celebrated Dominion Day by taking both morning and afternoon games from Port Huron, each by a one run margin, and are now within half a game of displacing the Hurons from second place in the Michigan-Ontario League.

The morning contest was a pitchers' battle, with the edge for Herman in an eleven-inning struggle. In the afternoon the Brants had a slight edge in hitting, and this gave them the one run margin which insured victory. Both games were good, and the holiday crowds were well satisfied.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TRADE DELAYED

Much Depended On Decision of Test Case Before English Courts.

KRASSINE PESSIMISTIC

Says, Though Pact Is Signed, Year May Pass Before It Is in Effect.

Reval, July 1.—The Anglo-Russian trade agreement does not at present look very promising. Krassine has said that "it took a year's negotiation to get the agreement signed, and now it looks as if it will be another year before it comes into operation." Everything hinges upon a test case now in the English appeal courts regarding a consignment of wool bought from the Bolsheviki by a British firm, but claimed by the original owners, from whom the Bolshevist Government requisitioned it. If the case is decided in favor of the original owners the trade agreement is a dead letter. Even if it goes against them the dislike for the agreement among a very powerful and numerous section of the English business public is so great that it may be blocked at every turn and rendered practically inoperative.

(The British court of appeals decided on May 12 that the British Government was not called upon to consider the justice or morality of the confiscation by the Soviet Government of the goods in question, as it had been recognized as the de facto Government of Russia.)

A similarly powerful group is working energetically against it in Paris and has flooded the European press with denunciatory articles and disquieting news. This press campaign also takes the forms of attacks on England. These attacks, which mostly come from Paris, are reproduced in some of the Russian newspapers now published in Reval, Riga, Finland, Germany, Prague, Constantinople and elsewhere, so that Great Britain has never been such a target for abuse since the early days of the Boer war.

A specimen of these onslaughts is the following leading article from the Possledniya Investiya, a Russian newspaper published in Reval. This paper, speaking about the decision of the French Government to submit a bill to the French Parliament, according to which 100,000,000 francs are applied for by the Government in order to maintain the Russian troops evacuated from the Crimea, says:

French Decision Important.

"The decision of France is the more important, as it meets with the opposition of a recent 'ally' of Russia, Britain, whose name is calling forth among the Russians hate. Krassine is said to have taken steps in London in order to induce the British Government to remove the Russian troops in the near east. He argues that the recently concluded agreement demands this. He threatened to cancel the negotiations with the Vickers firm and said that he would give all orders to the Germans. Finally the British Government approached in this matter the Government of France.

"The attitude of the British Government at this most difficult time for the Russians leaves no doubt as to the truth of the preceding report from London. The London financier is afraid to lose the chance to trade. But he exaggerates the forces of the Bolsheviki and underestimates the power of the Russian nation which is opposed to the Bolsheviki. Would it not, therefore, be more profitable for the British to abstain from trading with the Bolsheviki and maintain friendly relations to real national Russia? There will be plenty of goods required in future Russia and the far-sighted nations will have an opportunity of making plenty of profits.

"What Britain is doing now will lead only to one thing—to rousing and developing in a whole generation of Russians a strong and never-ceasing hate. Then the feeling in Russia will be to boycott all British goods as a revenge for the blow which Britain deals to bleeding Russia."

The author finally invites all Russian emigrants to unite in order that abroad the people may see that they are expressing the opinion of the majority of Russians. Then the Allies will see that they are not single emigrants, but the representatives of the future Russia.

Russian State of Mind.

The statements made in this article are absurd, but they indicate a state of mind which bodes ill for British trade in Russia if ever the White Russians get back here. At the same time the Red Russians are showing very little gratitude to England for having concluded the agreement with them. Le-

FILM LIONS RAISING PRICES FOR ROARS

Paris, July 1.—French cinema producers are discovering that it is a costly proposition to compete with German films, even when the natural resources of French colonies are used. A Paris company, which recently produced "Atlantide" in the Algerian desert, with veiled Mohammedan women, muezzins, lions, hyenas, wolves and camels, found itself almost bankrupt when it returned here, as the husbands of the women and the owners of the animals increased their rates whenever it was possible for them to do so.

The result is that it is now impossible to get a healthy lion for an hour's filming for less than 50 francs. A year ago this sum would have brought animal owners groveling before the feet of the cinema director.

Panthers are somewhat cheaper, but whereas feminine timidity formerly demanded only a few sous, the women now want a daily wage equal to that of a laborer, with a liberal pourboire for their husbands, who do not even take a walking role in the pictures.

A muezzin, if real, can command 50 francs a day from any producer, but the muezzin's religious duties interfered so seriously in the filming of "Atlantide" that a high muezzin was created out of a former Toulouse dock worker, who had a powerful voice and figure, and was willing to undergo any desert hardship at a contract rate of 30 francs, plus three bottles of beer, daily.

From all reports, America will be flooded with films of French colonial scenes next year. Already five French companies have turned toward Algiers and Tunis, and others are buying scenarios offering anything resembling desert or Mohammedan plots.

Summer Complaint

There is that which, for want of a better term, we may call Summer Complaint.

It is a disease of the lazy mind and of the indolent muscle.

It is making a virtue of procrastination.

It is the "excuse" of the incompetent employee and the "reason" of the lackadaisical employer.

Yet the employee expects to draw his pay just the same, and the lackadaisical employer expects to get business.

* * *

By contrast, consider really successful businessmen. Today you will find them keen and on the job, using everything they possess of brain and brawn to reap an immediate reward from recurrent activity.

They are not lying down. They are not putting off decisions.

They are clearing decks for action—the action that means Victory. And, sir, they are planning to use the biggest gun of all to win that Victory—Daily Newspaper Advertising.

GUELPH YOUTH FATALLY HURT

Special To The Advertiser.]

GUELPH, July 1.—A fatal accident occurred on the main line of the G. T. R. here this afternoon, when William Thatcher, a Grand Trunk section employee, was killed when struck by passenger train No. 34.

The victim, who was working with the section gang laying new ties near Dixon's Crossing at the Silver Creek road, was walking up the tracks to get a pail of water at a nearby house, when in attempting to cross the rails in front of the approaching train he was hit, and hurled several yards.

When picked up he was unconscious, and although the train rushed him as far as the G. T. R. junction, half a mile distant, he succumbed to his injuries a few minutes following the mishap. Besides receiving a severe scalp wound, he was also badly crushed about the body, while one limb and an arm were also broken.

Coroner Savage, who viewed the remains at the junction, ordered that an inquest be held on Saturday morning. Deceased was 27 years of age, and a son of Mrs. E. Thatcher, 17 Alma street, this city. Besides his mother, he is survived by one brother, Edgar, a member of the local post-office staff.

ASKS FORGIVENESS FOR HER RASH DEED

[Special to The Advertiser.]

THAMESFORD, July 1.—Mrs. Frances Sunter, aged 24, formerly Frances Truman of Ingersoll, committeed suicide at her home here today by hanging herself to a rafter with a silk handkerchief. Neighbors not seeing her around as usual investigated, and discovered that she had been dead for about twelve hours.

Her husband, William Sunter, who is employed on the provincial highway near Brantford, was expected home today. His young wife left a letter for him asking him to forgive her and arrange for her burial at Windsor.

Dr. Canfield of Ingersoll, after investigating, decided that no inquest was necessary.

STRATFORD, July 1.—Under a blazing sun Stratford's Dominion Day program passed off without a hitch. It was a busy day from morning until night. Under the chamber of commerce auspices there were aquatic sports in the morning, and in the evening there was a parade of decorated autos, and later of motorboats and canoes.

A feature of tonight's program was the presentation to Miss Beatrice Lloyd, by Mayor Gregory, of the keys of the city. Miss Lloyd had been elected in an open contest as the city's most popular girl, and was given an honored place at today's events. With her were Gertrude Graham and Annie Bradley, the next highest, as maids of honor. In the parade there were several fine floats by furniture manufacturers. A grand display of fireworks concluded the events. At the Queen's Park the annual picnic of the Church of the Immaculate Conception was held with games and sports of all kinds.

London Won Out.

Stratford and London battled out a hard game of lacrosse here this afternoon. The visitors finally edged out an 11—9 win. It was nip and tuck all the way. In spite of the oppressive heat, the game was fast. Four times each side scored in the first period. There was no score in the second. In the third London forged ahead, getting three goals to Stratford's one. Another one was added in the fourth, London getting four. The teams were evenly matched. In London a week ago the locals won.

Stratford baseball team had an easy win today in an exhibition game over the Toronto-York Nationals, the score being 11 to 3.

Three harness races and a running race rounded out a splendid holiday race program today. It was the first of a two-day meet of the local club, and marks a big step towards the return of the city on the racing map.

Made Good Time.

In the 2:12 pace Elsie Onwardo won in straight heats and the 2:30 trot went to All Expense in a like manner. Peterline and Jean Bingen had to fight it out in a six heat for the 2:30 pace, the former winning. In the running race Dorothy Carlon, a Toronto nag, won.

BALLOON BURNS AT PETROLEA

Several Bystanders Narrowly Escaped From the Flames.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

PETROLEA, July 1.—More than 5,000 people from all parts of the district thoroughly enjoyed the Dominion Day program put on here. With the exception of the balloon ascension everything on the program went as scheduled. The one event of the day that failed to come up to expectations was Prof. Sheddan's balloon ascension. The balloon was being filled with gas and was almost ready to ascend when the canvas caught fire from the machine used to generate the gas. The balloon was totally destroyed. Several bystanders narrowly escaped the flames.

This morning the school children paraded to Victoria Park, where they sang patriotic songs. Neil McDougall, public school inspector, addressed them on the subject, "Our Dominion." A number of vaudeville acts were given by a troupe of entertainers.

Fast Road Race.

The feature of the morning program was a three-mile road race with four entries. Slater of Sarnia won easily, with Sergeant of Petrolea coming in second. The others failed to finish.

The baseball game in the afternoon between Petrolea En-Ar Company and London Orients was exciting from start to finish. London won by a 9—6 score. Manlin, who started in the box for the Orients, was no mystery for the locals who outscored the Londoners, 6 to 1, in the first three innings.

Johnston replaced Manlin in the third and held the locals runless for the balance of the game. Wilson went the route for Petrolea and held his own in all but the fourth inning in which the Orients scored six runs.

Hit a Home Run.

The horse races were well contested, twenty-nine horses being entered. Three purses totalling $1,000 were awarded to the winners in the different classes.

A dance was held this evening in Victoria Hall to wind up the celebration. A good crowd attended.

The proceeds will be given to the Petrolea Citizens' Band.

MLLE. LENGLEN RETAINS WOMAN'S TENNIS TITLE

WIMBLEDON, July 1.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen retained the British turf court woman's singles tennis championship by defeating Miss Elizabeth Ryan, of California, in the challenge round here today in two straight sets. The score was 6—2, 6—0.

WINDSOR TEN LOSE TO SARNIA 14 TO 4

Blue and White Team Scored Twelve Goals in Last Period.

SARNIA, July 1.—Windsor's lacrosse team, after holding the Blue and White to a 2—2 tie at the end of the first period, were left in the lurch, when the locals opened up in the last three, the final score being 14—4, with two of the Windsor goals scored with the Sarnia goalie up the field. Ernie McDonald, Sarnia goal tender, scored two goals, and shot another so hard it went through the back of the net, the referee overriding the goal judge and allowing the count. After scoring seven goals in the third period the locals took it easy and contented themselves with a desultory fire upon the opposition nets. Sarnia's speed and trickiness more than offset the weight of the Windsor crew. Several penalties and minor injuries were handed out. The score by period, 1—1, 5—2, 12—2, 14—4. The line-up:

Sarnia.	Position.	Windsor.
McDonald	Goal	McCabbe
Waddell	Point	Smith
Copeland	Point	Osborne

ROUND THE KITTY

AT WOODSTOCK.

WOODSTOCK, July 1.—The Oxford County bowling tournament staged here today by the Woodstock Club attracted 35 rinks from all parts of the country. The Wilson trophy, emblematic of the county championship, was won by Dr. Sneath's rink, which was pitted against Henry Sneath's rink in the finals. Both rinks had won five games and the final was a real close affair, the doctor's four winning from his brother Henry's quartet by the score of 13—12. The rinks were as follows:

A. Watson	W. J. Bickerton
S. Nethercott	A. McIntyre
T. Banbury	A. McKay
Dr. Sneath, sk. 13	Henry Sneath sk 12

In the afternoon series the play was still in progress at a late hour.

Entries numbered 32 from eight clubs, and there were only two defaulters. R. H. Hope and J. C. Granthour, both of Pastimes, took away third and fourth prizes. The tournament was run off in excellent weather.

TWO GIRLS DROWN AT CHURCH PICNIC

TORONTO, July 1.—Two girl companions, May Foster and Josephine Newberry, were drowned at Fisherman's Island, Toronto Bay, while bathing this afternoon. They were attending a church picnic at the time. The father of Miss Foster worked for some time in an effort to resuscitate her, not knowing at the time that it was his daughter's body, as her face was covered with a cloth.

VETERAN GUIDE DIES WHILE SHOOTING RAPIDS

EDMONTON, June 30.—Dying of heart disease while shooting the Grand Rapids in his 78th year, Philippe Atkinson, one of the historic figures of the Canadian North, "went out" last week just as he would have wished had he been allowed to choose. When his scow came to rest in quiet waters after the old guide's soul had winged its way upward from the turmoil of Whitewater, his companions buried him at the foot of the rapids in a coffin made from his scow.

He was extremely intelligent and knew intimately every part of the great northern territories between Alaska and Northern Manitoba. His views and opinions were always taken into account by those who knew him, and his judgment carried great weight among the northern pioneers.

RECORD CROWDS AT BEACH.

SARNIA, July 1.—Dominion Day passed off quietly in Sarnia with a record crowd at Lake Huron Beach and another crowd at Bayview Park, where Mayor Crawford, opened the children's playgrounds.

DAY SECOND IN LONG RUNS AT NIAGARA SHOOT

Bill Barnes of Hamilton Leading With 108 Birds.

DAY'S SHOOTING GOOD

Stands Out Well Compared With United States Professional.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, July 1.—The highest score made today at the trapshooting tournament of the Canadian Indians was by Horace Bonser of Cincinnati, Ohio, who was a member of the American Olympic team. He made 155 targets out of 160, but failed to reach the record of Rowland Day of London yesterday, of 159 out of 160. Day today made only 146. F. H. Huseman of Rochester, N. Y., also scored 155 today, but, he being a professional, his score does not count in the prizes.

It would seem from events up to tonight that the shooting at this year's tournament of the Canadian Indians will not reach last year's record in long runs. The record of the amateur, Rowland Day of London, yesterday in hitting 159 out of 160 targets stands out well against Professional" Huseman's great record last year.

Following are the long runs up to tonight:

Barnes, Hamilton, 108; Day, London, 102; George Anstee, Toronto, 62; F. H. Huseman, Rochester, 65; W. J. McCance, St. Thomas, 60; S. G. Vance, Tillsonburg, 59.

Ideal weather again prevailed today, with the wind just right and the shooters at the tournament banged away all day at the clay "pigeons." W. Barnes of Hamilton, won the prize for the high sore, combined yesterday and today.

In the doubles competition the following scores were made:

G. Beattie, Hamilton, 38; F. H. Morris, Montreal, 35; H. Codey, Toronto, 33; G. Marr, Woodstock, 33; Major W. H. Singer, Niagara Falls, 33; W. Barnes, Hamilton, 33; Huseman, Rochester, N. Y., 33; W. H. Gooderham, Toronto, 32; W. Hollingshead, Dutton, 31; Mrs. H. Vegel, Detroit, 29; S. G. Vance, Tillsonburg, 29; F. Watson, Hamilton, 27; T. Houghton, Flint, Mich., 27; G. W. Wigle, Hamilton, 25; L. G. Wert, Rochester, 22.

Individual total scores today were: (160 targets being shot at)—T. Houghton, Flint, Mich., 145; C. Foss, Flint, Mich., 142; E. G. Diehl, Cincinnati, 146; H. Bonser, Cincinnati, 135; W. McCance St. Thomas, 143; J. Payne, Tillsonburg, 149; W. Hodges, Jarvis, 148; J. Vance, Tillsonburg, 141; G. Marr, Woodstock, 122; L. S. Johnson, Straffordsville, 130; T. S. West, Rochester, 147; W. Wigle, Hamilton, 137; H. Hopkins, Lewiston, 151; J. H. Symmes, Niagara Falls, 150; H. S. Fisher, Niagara Falls, 147; F. H. Huseman, Rochester, 155; F. Morris, Montreal, 151; G. Beattie, Hamilton, 150; S. C. Vance, Tillsonburg, 153; W. Barnes, Hamilton, 153; Rowland Day, London, 146; J. McCausland, London, 153; R. Jordan, London, 140; F. Kerr, Crediton, 159; T. Baker, London, 132; Mrs. L. Vogel, Detroit, 138; W. Hollingshead, Dutton, 132; W. H. Thompson, Hamilton, 126; Court Thomson, Hamilton, 134; P. Friend, Hamilton, 122; Dr. Hilliker, Hamilton, 153; Bradfield, Straffordville, 136; C. Marlatt, Straffordville, 128; A. Parmenter, Bartonville, 139; H. Codey, Toronto, 153; G. Anstee, Toronto, 146; W. H. Gooderham, Toronto, 133; Dr. G. G. Jordan, Toronto, 143; F. Watson, Hamilton, 127; M. Goodall, Hamilton, 142; W. S. Patterson, New York, 145; J. Braden, Hamilton, 87-100; W. H. Hunsberry, Jordan, 144; H. Payne, Tillsonburg, 140; E. Stuart, Hamilton, 148; Nelson Long, Hamilton, 147; D. Konkle, Beamsville, 144; C. G. Syer, Hamilton, 147; P. J. Booth, Dixie, Ont., 142; H. Reid, Toronto, 105; E. J. Marsh, Hamilton, 147; W. Seager, Toronto, 127; G. Vivan, Toronto, 141.

The winning four went into the finals against Jack Taman's rink, club-mates, with a score of four games, plus 36. They won in the finals by a score of 16—5.

It was later discovered that a bone in his shoulder had been broken all the time, and he will probably take some weeks to have this healed.

WITH AMATEUR NINES

GALT, July 1.—In an exhibition game here this morning, witnessed by the largest crowd this season, the Terriers, Galt's senior intercounty nine, trimmed Hamilton Plowits, last year's O. A. B. A. champions, with Ivan Millar, their ace, on the mound, by a score of 4—1. The visitors received a real surprise in the local nine, which played stellar ball, giving their best exhibition of the season. Millar was made to taste defeat at the hands of Frickly Graham, the wonderful little right-hander, who, contrary to usual rules, is as strong at bat as he is on the mound, and his hitting enabled Galt to win, he having three of the locals' five hits, off Millar, two doubles and single. The Terriers outplayed the Plowits every way. Their fielding was snappy, and the only error being a bad throw. The support behind Millar was bad. A double and a single gave the visitors their run in the second, but the locals came right back, and by a couple of errors and some bad fielding, gave Galt two runs. Two singles in the fifth, followed by E. Graham's double put the game on ice, and Millar was a beaten man. The score by innings— R.H.E.

Hamilton	010 000 000	1	3
Galt	020 020 00x	4	5

Millar and Campbell; E. Graham and W. Graham.

Umpire—Hogan, Galt.

WOODSTOCK WINS TWO.

WOODSTOCK, July 1.—The Homewood Club of the Brantford City League were defeated here today in both morning and afternoon fixtures by the local O. B. A. team. The scores:

ST. MARYS, July 1.—In today's double-header North Wellington League fixtures, played at Kirkton, between Kirkton and the Lucan Irish Nine, both teams managed to hold their own, Lucan winning the first by 12 to 2, and Kirkton the second by a score of 10 to 4. The batteries were:

First game: Lucan—Dundas and Neil; Kirkton—Berry and Berry.

Second game: Lucan—K. Neil and C. Neil; Kirkton—McCurdy and Sheer.

GUELPH WON.

GUELPH, July 1.—Before a large holiday crowd the Maple Leafs, local Inter-County League representatives, trimmed the Moose baseball nine of Toronto in an exhibition fixture here this afternoon by a score of 12 to 7. A home run by "Dan" O'Connor with the bases full in the seventh salted the victory away for the Leafs.

Score by innings: R.H.E.

ST. MARYS BREAK EVEN.

ST. MARYS, July 1.—Fullarton broke even on their home diamond today being defeated in the first game by Ailsa Craig to the tune of 5 to 2, and winning the second by a score of 4 to 1. Umpires Robinson of Ailsa Craig and Hart of Fullerton handled the games in a splendid manner, and a good crowd of fans saw a fine exhibition of real baseball. The batteries, first game, Ailas Craig, Barnes and Weir; Fullarton, Reeves and Clark.

Ailsa Craig, McDugzan, Hindmarch and Barnes; Fullarton, Woodley and Haynes.

RAWLINGS WITH GIANTS.

BOSTON, July 1.—John Rawlings, for several seasons a substitute infielder of the Boston Nationals, returned to the Braves field today, this time as second baseman for the Giants. He was transferred to that club yesterday in a trade with the Phillies. Manager McGraw planned to have Rawlings play second base for the Giants and to shift Frisch from second to third base in place of Patterson. Rawlings came to the Giants with Charles Stengel for Goldie Rapp, Lee King and Lance Richbourg.

FINANCIAL, MARKET AND COMMERCIAL SECTION

PRE-HOLIDAY DROP IN WHEAT PRICES

Aversion To Carrying Ownership Risks Over a Three-Day Break.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Aversion to carrying ownership risks over a triple holiday in a weather market pulled down wheat prices today after an early bulge. The close was heavy at 1¼@2¼c net lower with July $1.22½@1.22¾, and September $1.21¾@1.22. Corn gained ¼@1⅜c, and oats ⅛@1¼c. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 10c lower.

At first the market responded readily to continued dry hot weather northwest and to predictions that unless general rains came soon northwestern crops would be greatly reduced. Upturns in prices, however, increased the disposition of many holders to even up before the adjournment of the board until Tuesday, especially as the weather map indicated possibility of cooler and unsettled weather. Besides, monthly crop estimates were less bullish than had been expected and the seaboard reported England trying to resell because larger Australian offerings were in sight. In addition, Belgium was reported as purchasing in Argentina, and it was said domestic acceptance of bids to the country were on a liberal scale. Under such circumstances the market lacked support during the last half of the day and finished near the bottom levels reached.

Nebraska advices of corn curling in the fields and of hot winds in South Dakota had a bullish influence on the corn market. Smallness of receipts strengthened oats.

Provisions were governed chiefly by the action of the hok market.

EVENING GRAIN LETTER.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Wheat — Record-breaking temperatures yesterday in the Northwest gave the early wheat market some strength, but new demand was again very disappointing in values. This lack of interest had as much to do with the dragging trend as any piece news, although the weather map gave some encouragement in the way of cooler temperatures and possible showers in the extreme Northwest. Export trade distinctly slow. Continuation of high temperature and an absence of precipitation will produce higher prices.

Coarse Grains.—These markets like wheat will take their color from weather conditions.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The raw sugar market was firm and unchanged early today at 4c for centrifugal. No business was reported.

Raw sugar futures were firmer on covering, prompt by the announcement that the Cuban Government had decided to purchase a million tons of Cuban and withdraw it from the market in order to relieve the situation.

Refined sugar was teady and unchanged at $5.20@5.30 for fine granulated, with a fair inquiry noted.

Refined sugar futures were nominal.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A survey of the general business, industrial and financial situation as related to the stock market reveals the unmistakable fact that while extraordinary improvement has taken place in the fundamental credit position of the country, as disclosed in steadily mounting federal reserve system ratios, the blighting effects of deflation and liquidation are still with us, exerting a restraining influence upon almost all lines of capitalistic enterprise.

The stock market has just passed through another baptism of fire, and it emerges from the storm of selling probably in a much stronger technical position, but still lacking the constructive support requisite to a restoration of confidence and a creation of aggressive buying power. It the December decline of last year was helpful in cleaning up many of the weak accounts and financial sore spots which were depressing speculative sentiment, the same may be said of the decline which began in the second week of May and ran without interruption through to almost the end of June.

An Important Rally.

The first important rally worthy of the name occurred just a week ago, falling exactly upon the date on which this publication in its financial columns expressed the opinion that the market was due for a real discovery. While Wall Street generally was naturally immersed in indigo by virtue of the sustained and almost unprecedented fall in speculative values, it was not hard to see that by this very decline, which was plainly being overdone, stocks were being put into a technical position which would give them real snap once liquidation ceased and the bears began to cover the short stock they had sold on the break.

It was a case of the market having been sold to a standstill and at last responding to the inevitable forces which always intervene sooner or later to restore the proper balance. This rally, which got underway as the seven weeks' decline terminated, is likely to carry somewhat further, but generally speaking, I still hold, as I have maintained consistently since the beginning of the year, and in fact before that, that conditions are not favorable to sustained speculative effort, so that it is idle to talk about an impending big bull market.

Bankers with whom I have talked this week are even less optimistic than they were several months ago. Mind you, I do not care to appear in the role of a calamity howler or a gloom spreader, but the views that have been expressed to me by some of the biggest financial men in the United States certainly do not inspire one with hope of an early revival of business.

The Steel Slump.

The terrific slump of the steel industry, one of the country's great basic industries, is illustrative of the depths to which the present depression has gone. And unfortunately many lines exist in which this depression will have to go further before bottom has been reached and the turn for the better occurs. With respect to the steel trade slump it may be said on the authority of no less a steel trade expert and leader than John A. Toppin, head of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, one of the leading independent produers of steel, that the current depression is the worst the industry has ever experienced. "The present active capacity of iron and steel today is not far from 25 per cent," the steel man says in an interview, "but production is believed to be at the irreducible minimum. Never before in the history of the iron and steel trade has production fallen so low or remained so long at the minimum. In previous depressions our low mark for a period has ranged around 50 per cent of capacity."

The head of the Republic Iron and Steel organization is more optimistic than some of the other steel men, for he believes the industry is to experience better business in the fall months. But as matters now stand earnings of all the steel companies are approaching the vanishing point, and the earning statements for a quarter ended last month will make a sorry showing indeed. The fall in prices of the different steel shares has, of course, discounted the operating slump to a large extent. However, I do not believe steel stocks have yet touched bottom and we must look for further outbursts of selling in this particular group.

The General Situation.

Summarizing the general market situation as we enter the month of July, I would say at the outset that industrial stocks are entitled to a further substantial recovery, but that this is no occasion for indiscriminate plunging on the buying side. After the recovery has run its course more money can be made on the short side in many of the steels, oils and motors, for these group of stocks are bound to reflect intermittently the extremely unfavorable conditions surrounding these particular industries. Rails and railway equipment shares are scheduled to go higher, because of the steps that are being taken in Washington to settle the financial differences between the roads and the Government arising out of federal control. I am informed that the roads are to get in the final settlement much more cash than had been originally hoped for, so that on such a basis the carriers will find themselves a great deal stronger in cash. And one of the most pressing problems of many of the best roads in the country has been a shortage of cash to meet their immediate needs. With the settlements with the Government completed we can look for the placing of substantial orders by the roads for repair materials and for new equipment. This should benefit both the steel companies and the railway equipment concerns.

In the last analysis the stock market is likely for some time yet to prove only profitable to the professional operators, and even they are certain to find it difficult to catch the swings. My own advice, I repeat what I said a couple of weeks ago; is to avoid stocks, and buy bonds. One is a gamble, the other a sure thing proposition.

(By Aurelius.)

Wait for a big break in wheat, but don't play the bear side. Grains are going to sell to a much lower plane, but remember this: the bear ship sailed a long time ago, and making new short commitments at thisc time is inviting disaster.

The time to have sold grain was back in the early winter. The time to buy has not arrived, and the present market will mill around so that bulls and bears alike will be rooked. Beware of the long side of grain at the beginning of harvest deliveries; also avoid getting caught in the inevitable log jam that comes when shorts make their bear bets around the bottom.

At the present writing there isn't a so-called expert in the world who can correctly figure out just what a bushel of wheat is actually worth. As far as that at the present time there are no experts, neither are there any Napoleons of finance operating in any of the speculative markets. The shrewdest traders in the world aren't trading. The best prophets aren't prophesying. Statistics mean nothing. No one knows what basis the new crops will be marketed on.

Traders will have to make a new book. They will have to wait and see how business shapes up; whether wages are actually reduced; whether plants start up; whether export trade revives; whether there is a railroad strike and traffic tie-up. The man who can figure which way this flock of cats is going to jump must be clairvoyant—and the spook stuff never made any money in the market.

The only persons who dare aspire to advise traders now are the ubiquitous crops experts and the sages of the commission houses, but even these are more wrong than usual. The market is a shifting and dangerous quicksand, and the best way to play it for the next week or two is to play it "with impunity" and with blank checks.

The crop killers held an orgy up in the northwest this week, but despite their doleful predictions the market cracked wide open. The writer warned last week and the week before that we were in a bear market and this holds good no matter how frequent and sharp the rallies. Wheat simply could not hold its head up while it was getting all the best of the news and crop reports.

The writer believes that only those who hate their money will make commitments before the next crop reports a week hence. Ultimately wheat is going to be a grand purchase, but the writer believes that the base should be somewhere around a dollar a bushel. It will pay to wait this market out. When the bottom is reached everybody will be short. The longer it goes the more the "impunity" brigade will welter in bear contracts.

There is no reason why wheat should sell below $1, and many reasons why later on it should not sell at much higher than present levels. But it will not do to sell short with a view to later doubling on the long side. A trader can no more play both sides of the grain market—and make money—than a snake can put on the "reverse" and run backwards.

Wheat stands in a class by itself. The United States will have to feed Europe for years to come, and Europe will always be able to finance bread purchases in times of peace. Settlement of the English coal strike is a big thing in favor of foreign trade, but this may be offset by strikes of varied character at home.

Wait until wheat is around $1 a bushel again—and then take a long searching look. Coarse grains should be absolutely let alone for weeks to come. Ultimately the big chances will be on the buil side. Not now, but ultimately.

MAY LOCK DOORS ON REV. SHIELDS

Bitter War in Progress At Jarvis Street Baptist Church.

TORONTO, July 1.—Deadlock does not exist in Jarvis Street Baptist Church, according to those in opposition to Rev. Dr. Shields, who demand that he at once accede to the expressed will of the church as indicated by the recent vote.

"He can be physically removed," said a member today, "if he refuses to go now. Some day it will be found that the trustees have locked the doors and refuse to let him preach in the church. We have won, and it is only a matter of time until, in some manner, our will is made effective. It will not be necessary to restrain him from preaching by issue of an injunction or by stopping his salary. He has been asked to resign and he must go. At the first meeting the issue was confused. But it was clear enough last night."

Wield Big Stick.

"They have threatened," said Dr. Shields today, "that many of the influential and supporting members of the church will withdraw and leave the church unable to carry on financially. If they do it will be found that there will be plenty of members to remain and carry on—and in a better spirit.

"The church has no governing body except its membership, although the deacons have tried to wield the big stick. Any member, of course, can refuse to give to the church, but we can get along.

"The young men, and even some of the deacons, in opposition to me are those to be found at public dance halls and enrolled in local dancing classes. If the church decides that no differentiation is to be made between the church and the world, it is up to those of us who think differently to withdraw.

Nothing Can Be Done.

"Nothing further can be done now until the 21st of September. As a matter of fact, any further voite that might be taken on the subject will be as illegal as the vote of last night. The issue was settled at the former meeting.

Dr. Shields leaves shortly for England on his holidays, the date being not yet fixed. He will be away three or more Sundays, but will return for the first Sunday in September.

CYCLONE RIPS BARNS TO BITS

Heavy Damage by Storm in Vicinity of Chatham.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CHATHAM, July 1.—A cyclone struck a section of Dover and Chatham Townships this afternoon, completely demolishing two barns, unroofing three others and also a part of a house, in addition to tearing up several trees and ruining a field of corn.

The funnel-shaped cloud traveled over the country in a northerly direction, first striking the barn of W. Batchelor, Dover Township. Nearly two small barns were unroofed, and then part of the roof on the home of James Sly, Chatham Township, was torn off.

Here the cloud appeared to lift itself. Passing over the home of Michael Brown, directly across the road from the Sly home, it lowered again, striking and completely demolishing a large barn behind the house, and tearing the roof off a smaller barn nearby. A large quantity of farm implements in the Brown barn was destroyed.

Fortunately no persons were in any of the buildings wrecked, although Mr. Brown and hired men, who were drawing in hay were endeavoring to get to the barn before the storm broke. They were within a few hundred feet of the barn when it was struck. A few minutes more and the two men and the team of horses would have been killed.

GOVT. MAY TAKE OVER HYDRO

Drury Intimates That Such a Course Is Not Unlikely.

SIMCOE, July 1.—Premier E. C. Drury, addressing a U. F. O. picnic gathering at Windham Centre, North Norfolk, this afternoon, intimated that the time might come when it would be necessary for the Government to take over the entire responsibility of producing, selling and distributing electricity. The time for this step, however, was not yet opportune, he said.

The premier dealt with the Government's handling of the finances of the province and took the ground that the expenditure should not give the people concern so long as the revenue increased along with the expenditures as was the case under the present administration.

Hon. Mr. Drury defended Hon. F. C. Biggs' policy and expenditures and remarked, with reference to criticism of the minister of public works because of his farm in Wentworth being surrounded by improved highways, that it was not the fault of Mr. Biggs that one of the most heavily travelled roads in the province passed his farm. Mr. Biggs had made a splendid job of the roads, he said.

STATIONARY HOSPITAL LOCATED IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, July 1.—The establishment of No. 2 Stationary Hospital in the organized militia, with headquarters in Ottawa, is announced in the Militia Gazette this week. Lieut.-Col. A. T. Shillington will command. No. 2 Hospital, it will be recalled, was the first unit of the C. E. F. to proceed in 1914 to France, where it won an enviable reputation for efficiency, and kept it throughout the war.

Recruiting for the new unit will commence in fall, and in the meantime organization will be perfected.

ITALIAN PRESIDENT MAY FORM CABINET

ROME, July 1.—Enrico Denicola, president of the Italian Chamber of Deputies, has been requested by King Victor Emmanuel to form a cabinet to succeed that of Premier Giovanni Giolitti, which resigned on Monday. Signor Donicola has asked the king for a short time in which to consider the offer, and is not yet sure whether he will accept.

TARIFF FALLS HEAVIEST ON POOR PEOPLE

Clark Wishes He Had Dempsey's Punch To Hit It.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ST. MARYS, July 1.—Nearly 3,000 people gathered in Athletic Park tonight to attend the U. F. O. mass meeting and hear Andrew Hicks, M. P. P., Dr. Michael Clark and Hon. Peter Smith, Alex. Frame, of St. Paul's, president of the South Perth United Farmers' Political Association, was in the chair.

Andrew Hicks, the U. F. O. whip, the first speaker, told of the heavy work which Dr. Clark has been undertaking throughout Canada, most especially in Medicine Hat.

"I am now more than proud of the fact that I am a follower and a firm believer in Premier Drury," he said, and with there brief remarks begged to be excused so as to leave more time for the doctors.

Mr. Smith, a representative of the Farmers' Sun, was then called on. He called the attention of his hearers to the fact that conditions in Canada were becoming more serious than ever before in regard to unemployment and everything else, and said the "one lesson I wish to impress upon the farmers of South Perth, You must organize and remain organized, and united, if you wish to accomplish anything."

Candidate Speaks.

The chairman next called on Robert Berry, the newly-appointed Farmer candidate for South Perth. He spoke briefly, saying that he had as yet no sins to answer for and some of the other speakers might have.

When Hon. Peter Smith rose to speak he was greeted with applause, and dealt in a splendid manner with the hydro-electric question, especially the Chippewa development. The cost to date, he stated, is nearly $47,000,000, and will be $67,000,000 before it is finished.

"But we need hydro-electric," he said, "and the spendings at Chippewa are an excellent investment. The rate of exchange cost Ontario $789,000 last year, but we had to pay, it being something over which we had no control."

Dr. Michael Clark delivered a stirring address, in which he flayed the Meighen Government, whose main character, he pointed out, was to hold on to power by the slenderest thread. That, however, is going to break one of these days, and it is important that the electorate study carefully the issues at stake, so as to be prepared when polling day rolls around.

Fears Hard Winter.

"We are by no means at the bottom of the slump, and I fear next winter will be the hardest Canada has ever faced, so be prepared," he said. "But coming back to Meighen Government, they are tired. The country is anxious to give them a rest, but they refuse to take it until compelled to. Mr. Meighen has told us he is a protectionist. So is Dr. Steele. I am not. I don t believe in it.

"I wish," said the speaker, "that I had Dempsey's punch to hit this tariff thing and hit it hard. I would if I had my way, bleed these millionaires to clear up our debts. They are the ones who should be made to pay. The tariff falls heaviest on the poor people. Get that, and you Candians should be ashamed of it as a method of taxation. The Meighen Government is travelling on a platform that taxes the booties of the infants to fill the millionaires pocket."

"During the course of his address, Dr. Clark repeatedly referred to the shipping question and as he named it, "Ballantyne's Bogus Brigade."

"When the premier went to England I said to him 'Don't take Ballantyne with you or he will get that ship craze and bring back a train of dreadnaughts'," he said.

The speaker received a splendid hearing throughout, which Dr. Clark appreciated, having spoken twice today. At Strathroy he was somewhat fatigued. He leaves in the morning for Harriston and from there goes to Guelph.

FRENCH WAR TOLL NEARLY 2,500,000

Population Is Given by Official Figures At 36,084,206.

PARIS, July 1.—The population of France on March 6, 1921, was 36,084,206, according to the figures which the Official Journal published today of the census taken on that date. The previous census taken in 1911 gave the population as 38,468,813. Thus the population of France decreased nearly two and a half millions during the war.

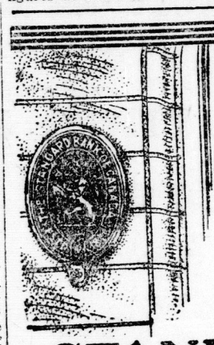

It is explained, however, that the 1921 figures do not include the soldiers, marines or sailors outside of France, in the Rhineland, the Near East, Upper Silesia and Morocco on that date.

Obituary

PIONEER OF 92 DIES.

One of the oldest residents of this locality was the late Samuel Hambly, who had resided in this part of the country for the past 40 years. Half of that time was spent in farming in the township of Westminster, but about 20 years ago he sold his farm and retired to Dorchester Station, where he lived until about two years ago, when he and Mrs. Humbly removed to Chicago, intending to remain there, but the love for Canada and the old friends in Ontario was still strong, and they decided to return to the old home once more. They were spending the summer with another son, Dr. Scott B. Hambly of Detroit, at his summer residence at Walnut Lake en route, when Mr. Hambly was taken ill, and died on June 6 at the age of 92. Interment took place in the family plot at the Union Cemetery, Dorchester, where the service at the grave was conducted by Rev. S. J. Thompson, Methodist minister of the church where Mr. Hambly had been a devoted member during his twenty years' residence there and where he was always ready to give a helping hand when his services were required.

Mr. Hambly is survived by his wife, two daughters, Miss Edith of London and Mrs. F. H. MacKenzie of Regina, Sask., and two sons, Dr. Scott B. Hambly of Detroit, and R. S. (Clair) of Chicago.

Old at thirty

Some men are young at sixty; others are old at thirty. Which will you be?

It depends largely on how you eat.

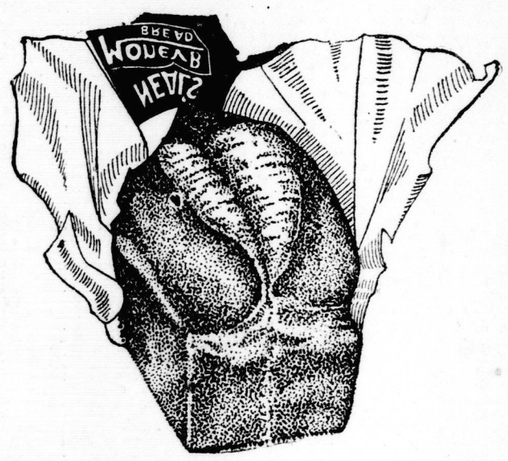

"Old-age diseases have increased 100 per cent in thirty years,"—so say health statistics. Here is a dire indictment of extravagance in eating.

To sustain health the body must be nourished with plenty of simple food, free from poisonous wastes. That food is Bread.

Too rich foods, if persisted in, result in premature decay of tissue, breakdown and old age. Finally the scrap-heap.

Prolong your youth and joy of living. Stop at your grocer's for a loaf of GOOD BREAD today.

AT ALLEN'S.

"SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT," CECIL B. DE MILLE'S LATEST MASTERPIECE, SHOWING AT THE ALLEN MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY OF NEXT WEEK.

'Something To Think About," Cecil B. De Mille's latest production, which will be shown at the Allen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, is different in theme from anything he has attempted in the past. He has expended his artistry and meticulous attention upon an intensely human story of real folks. The story, written by Jennie Macpherson, who transcribed "Male and Female" and "Why Change Your Wife" to the screen, centred around Ruth Anderson, daughter of the village blacksmith. A rich man, David Markley, lives in the neighborhood, and becomes interested in Ruth as a small girl, sends her away to school. She returns a young and beautiful woman, and it is understood that she and Markley are to marry. On the impulse of the moment she elopes with a youth of the village. Her husband, killed in an accident, leaves her destitute, and, returning to her native town to find her father blinded, she is in despair until a series of dramatic events leads to her reconciliation with Markley.

Among the added attractions will be shown, Allen World News, Chester Outing Pictures, and "Snub" Pollard in his newest comedy, "Where's the Fire?"

BEBE DANIELS IN "YOU NEVER CAN TELL" AT THE ALLEN ON THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF NEXT WEEK.

"You Never Can Tell," starring Bebe Daniels, which will be the feature attraction at the Allen the last three days of next week, is an adaptation of two of Grace Lovell Bryan's famous "Rowena" stories. As the discontented and ambitious little check-room girl in a smart New York hotel, Rowena Patricia Jones develops a passion for beautiful clothes and a violent rage at the malign destiny which has given luxury to some unattractive women and poverty to her. In desperation she decides to do a little vamping on the side and see if she cannot repair the badly-ravaged fortunes of her family, which has recently been dispossessed from the humble tenement home. The career of the amateur vamp threatens to turn into grim tragedy several times, but a real love affair with a wholesome and likable chap saves the adventurer before it is too late. Jack Mulhall is Bebe Daniels' leading man. One of the biggest features of "You Never Can Tell" is a magnificent fashion show in which generously attired mannequins parade in the lobby of a big New York hotel. Absolutely new creations are shown.

In addition to "You Never Can Tell" will be shown the opening chapter of the new aerial starting at the Allen, "The Hope Diamond Mystery"; Allen News; Booth Tarkington's comedy, "Edgar's Little Saw," and a special musical program.

"THE HOPE DIAMOND MYSTERY" IN 15 EPISODES, OPENING AT THE ALLEN FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF NEXT WEEK.

"The Hope Diamond Mystery," the fifteen-episode serial which will open at the Allen Friday and Saturday of next week, deals with the amazing adventures surrounding the most famous and sinister jewel in history. It is a succession of thrills from start to finish, and tells for the first time the mysterious manner in which this famous jewel was first stolen. The first episode is entitled "The Hope Diamond Mystery."

The picture deals with the early history of the famous diamond, showing the manner in which it was first stolen from the temple of Rama-Sita in Burma, the Goddess of Love and Virgin in the Buddhist religion, and the manner in which the fearful curse has followed every owner of the stone for three hundred years was invoked in the desecrated temple.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BIG SYLVIA ASHTON RIDES! ALAS! POOR HORSE DIES!

"Those girls back in the old days certainly were brave," remarked Sylvia Ashton, heavyweight character actress, as she climbed into an old-fashioned side-saddle on a horse, for scenes in Wallace Reid's new Paramount picture, "The Love Special," which will be shown at Loew's Theatre next Monday.

Regarding Mrs. Ashton's horseback ride, Wallace Reid persisted in telling afterwards in a spirit of jest, that upon inquiring next morning of the ranger as to the health of the horse, the ranger replied that the animal had died at four o'clock that morning.

The new picture is a railroad story, founded on the novel "The Daughter of a Magnate," by Frank H. Spearman. The cast includes Agnes Ayres, leading woman, Theodore Roberts, Lloyd Whitlock, Slyvia Ashton, Alexander Gaden, Clarence Burton and others.

Picture program includes another funny Charlie Chaplin comedy, also Loew's British and Canadian news.

FITZGERALD PLAY SUITS VIOLA DANA.

Well! Viola Dana [illegible] of the buoyant personality and adorable ways, put another feather in her cap by her peerless acting of the stellar role in "The Offshore Pirate," the special production which will have its first showing at the Loew Theatre, as the feature attraction for a run of three days, starting Thursday next.

The captivating little actress gives an interpretation satisfyingly perfect. This epithet describes her performance and the picture itself. As Ardita Farnam, the young heiress whom friends have had captured by a pirate so as to save her from the plotting of a sinister, scheming, handsome foreigner, she conveys glamor, feminine charm, and sparkle. What more can one want?

Much praise is due to the finished acting of the supporting cast which includes Jack Mulhall, as the pirate; Edward Jobson, as the uncle; and Edward Cecil, as the foreigner.
