Anti-Unionist Leader Says the Financial Record of Presbyterians Is Astonishing.

April of this year has been one of and entertaining repartee, the meetthe most fickle spring months in ing of the synod of Hamilton and local history, according to the records | London in First Presbyterian church of the London weather bureau which this morning was fairly quiet and shivered in their sleep when the thermometer went as low as 32 degrees, which is freezing point. Except for minor discomforts, no damage is reported from the reversion to the frost level.

The synod was convened with the moderator, Rev. W. R. McIntosh, D.D., King street church, London, in the chair, by a word of prayer by Rev. Clarence Mackinnon, D.D., Pine Hill . The synod was convened with the college, Halifax, and moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, who dropped in for a few minutes on his way through the city. Following the opening exercises, Rev. J. R. P. Sclater, D.D., pastor of Old St. Andrew's church. Toronto, conducted the devotional hour period, during which he delivered an inspiring adapplause of anti-unionists of the witndrew, stating that he intended to stand later. All the 1925 aldermen were re-nominated together with 14 others, making a field of 23, all of which, however, are not expected to go to the polls.

The plan within the bounds of the synod is passing through "a parturition period," and that 162 churches were opposed to union as compared with 104 churches supporting the plan within the bounds of the synod. Dr. Nelson then proceeded to the statistics of his report, which showed that, though the synod had raised for the budget the sum of $238,000 during the year, each of the eight presbyteries had contributed less to the budget than last year by the following amounts: Hamilton, $2,520; Paris, $2,960; London, $4,879; Chat-ham, $568; Sarnia, $561; Stratford, $913; Huron, $215; Maitland, $881, and Bruce, $524, or a total of $14,021 less

The chairman of the committee expressed the opinion that the showing made amidst such trying conditions was "astonishing," and that i proved "the stability of Calvinistic Christianity." The situation had been rendered difficult, according to Dr. Nelson, by reason of "continued severe unemployment," as well as the disunion over the union question.

No girl has ever been turned away from the Y. W. C. A. Of the thousands that enter the doors of the King street building each year, none has been refused aid. This statement was given out by Miss M. A. Morton of the Y. W. C. A., this morning when asked to tell Londoners what welfare work is accomplished by that

Miss Morton likens the work of the Y. W. C. A. to the fence around the top of a cliff. It prevents accidents. Ambulances are needed below the cliff for those who, in their waywardness, fall, but the Y. W. C. A. provides the protection before errors are made, and so wards them off,

"There is nothing of a sensational nature about our work," said Miss Morton. "We are here to help girls and young women. We share in the money taken in by the United Welfare association, and the money is used for those protective measures.

"As a rule we do not speak of the circumstances around the work we do for girls." continued Miss Morton. "There is no need of embarrassing them while or after they have been helped. They do come to us all the time, though. I want to make it perfectly plain that no girl is ever turned away. If they are homeless and penniless, they are not allowed to go out on the streets. We keep, them here until they can go to friends or get a position. We help them in that, too."

The protective measures of the Y. W. C. A. include character building and physical training along with different forms of education, chiefly nursing. Miss Morton says that the girls are taught home nursing, the care of themselves and of others.

The physical program includes gymnasium work, exercises and a complete course in physical culture. There are Bible classes, religious work programs and other sources of mental and spiritual inspiration for the thousands that go voluntarily to Court Decides Drink Was nas departed from his usual old-time that the famous singing-actor fashioned Irish comedies.

There is melodrama, lively humor and pretty songs in "The Big Mogul."
The play in which Mr. O'Hara ap-pears this year has a tensity of plot interest probably higher than those in which the Irish tenor has previously been seen.

"The Big Mogul" concerns an Irish-American ex-plumber, played by Mr. O'Hara, who falls heir to seven million dollars. Like most newly-made millionaires, he invades Wall street, and the thrills, surprises and comedy as he unexpectedly outwits the wolves who lay in wait to fleece the wolves who lay in wait to fleece him of his money, make for a most entertaining play. Incidentally, Mr. O'Hara, as Peter Quinn, Quilt, the plumber. falls in love with the daughter of the chief Wail street banker-pirate, played delightfully by Miss Pat Clary of Toronto, who is co-featured with the star. She is young, exceedingly pretty, of fine dramatic ability and possesses a delicious comedy sense.

Miss May Hindle of Longwood, Ont., took a prominent part in the second act, when, in a "miniature concert," she sangs several delight-ful numbers, which drew encores from an appreciative audience. Miss Hindle was winner of a contest given recently in the city by Mr. O'Hara and was selected from a number as possessing the most suitable soprano

"The Big Mogul" is an extraordinary play in its individuality. It is seldom that a fine tencr voice is included in a melodrama, and yet in the second act, Mr. O'Hara is given ample opportunity to delight his audience with numerous catchy songs, and the "excuse" for the "miniature concert" is delicately woven into the plot.

The action takes place in New York City, and there isn't a single dull moment. Richard Dix is a bank cashier, whose wife (Claire Adams) is extremely fond of clothes and a good time. Her husband's assistant (Neil Hamilton) proceeds to give the wife the good time, and in order to satisfy his wife's expensive tastes the cashier proceeds to "borrow" money from the bank, and loses it in stock market transactions. The president of the bank discovers the shortages, and intimates that the cashier will spend some time behind jail bars.

The close of the picture finds the banker undergoing a change of heart, and instead of the cashier going to jail he and his wife leave on a trip south to begin life anew.

The comedy picture, "Hard Boiled," has some laugh-producing scenes that are new. Charlie Case is the pivot of most of the humor and is a real comedian. The Pathe news is especially interesting in that it shows Adam Brown of Hamilton, "Canada's grand old man," celebrating his birthday quietly at home. Mr. Brown is the father of Mrs. E. B. Smith of

It is the first time Barthelmess and Miss Hay have appeared on the screen since their marriage at the time of the making of D. W. Griffith's masterplece, "Way Down East."

Appropriately enough, the picture unfolds a story of domestic trials of a young married couple, who find their happiness jeopardized by meddling friends. Barthelmess is seen as the husband, whose wife, encouraged by a former suitor, tries to seek fame on the stage. The husband meets a girl to whom he was formerly engaged, and she, in turn, is responsible for additional disturbances in the household. The portrayal by Barthelmess of a young husband deserted by his wife and faced with the problem of caring for their new baby is said to be one of the most intelligent bits of work ever seen on the screen. seen on the screen.

FOOTBALL RUSH VERY TAME AFTER THAT OF SUPPER CLUB

Julia Hoyt Explains What "Enjoying Themselves" Means.

"SMART PEOPLE" GO

By JULIA HOYT.

New York, April 27.—It is amazing to me the hours that are spent by many people in what is called "enjoying themselves." because many of those hours are spent in the most boring, uncomfortable, miserable way imaginable, and yet people in some way manage to hypnotize themselves into the feeling that they are having a wonderful time.

a wonderful time.

The example of this type of enjoyment that stands out vividly in my mind at the moment is the average.

New York after-theatre restaurant or supper club. as most of them are called. It seems to me that there are two reasons for going out to supare two reasons for going out to support two reasons. to talk, and certainly at the suc-cessful supper clubs it is impossible to do either; it is almost impossible inducements offered to the suests are pretty much the same at all of them. Two or three, for some all of them. Two or three, for some unknown reason, will be wildly popular for some time and then suddenly lar for some time and then suddenly popular approval will switch to two or three others. When I go out for supper now I hunt the restaurants that have been successful, but are that have been successful, but are the wane.

Like Football Rush. Like Football Rush.

Let me try and give a picture of the successful supper club. One either ascends in an elevator to the club, or walks down some steps, where one is greeted by a mob at the entrance to the room, which is held in partial restraint by a rope and two or three walters. It is safer not to wear a fragile dress at these places, for a fooball rush is only slightly more violent than the attempt to reach the head waiter to

After triumphantly and violently nassing those whose names are no n the magic list, you achieve the favor of being allowed to squeeze your way to your table. where, with much manoeuvring, you manage to find room to sit down. The air, if not already so, in a few minutes be-comes filled with smoke. The only way in which to be heard is to exercise your lungs to their fullest capacity—a great help in conversation. The band, usually a very good one, begins to play, and in one mo-ment the floor becomes a seething

There never was a more apropos song than the now ancient one which Sam Bernard sang. "And They Call
It Dancing." Could one dance in the subway at the rush hour? Can one dance at a successful cabaret? If you have any sense, you speedily return, to be walked over and banged into at your

About 1 o'clock, two dancers come to entertain you, or perhaps a revue is put on, which, if you were able to breathe, you might enjoy, and then the general melee begins again. The cover charge for each person would buy a pretty good dinner, and by the time you have added a quart of white rock and perhaps a bite to eat, you feel that a multi-millionaire is the only person able to afford such a place. But you have been where the "smart people" go. You know the place is successful because you have been so uncomfortable, and the evening must be called a "wonderful"

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rab over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—Advi. Lee McConnell of Copenhagen and Miss Amy B. Advice to a Girl Who Fancies Herself in Love With Her Married Employer.

INVADES FROCKS Dear Miss Dix-I have a stepson who is past 16, and with only one year's experience in trying to control him I am at my wits' end about what Colors Are Decidedly Bright to do, as his mother insists that he be given his way over my protests, although I have to support him. Nothing, unless you can make his mother realize what a criminal thing she is doing in ruining her son, and to make a mother see any defect in her idolized child is the most difficult task on earth. Such women are deaf to all reason and blind to all consequences, and though you speak with the tongues of men and angels you cannot turn them from their folly.

> My first piece of advice to you. my dear is to cultivate a little common sense. Don't go imagining that you see things in men's eyes. All that you see is the reflection of your own image, the thing that you put there yourself. No man's eyes tell a woman a single, solitary fact.

The longing that you think you perceive is probably caused by his thinking of his lunch. The light of joy that you see leap into his eyes at your approach is not caused by you, but by the stock market having gone up. The despair that you interpret into his grief over a blighted love is a reflex of the pancakes he had for breakfast.

A wit once saids "The light that lies in woman's eyes lies. and lies, and lies," and that goes twice for men, so cut out the eyereading business in your dealings with men. DOROTHY DIX.

It is unquestionably a delightful way for us to get a little of the air, and a little less of gasoline and smoke. Jimmy Officiates At Head of the Skunk Family For the First Time

The night after his return he met Mrs. Jimmy and the whole family just starting for the Old Orchard. "We are going to look for some grasshoppers. The children are big enough to catch them now, so we are going to see if we can find some. Won't you come along?" said she.

It was great fun to catch the grasshoppers, and still more fun to eat them. They looked for all the world like a lot of black-and-white kittens playing in the grass.

After they had spent some time catching grasshoppers Jimmy led them to the old stone wall and they had great fun playing hide-and-seek in between the stones. Jimmy showed them how to pull over small stones to look for crickets and beetles. He showed them the nest of a mouse they were just too late to catch. He showed them how to dig a white grub out of the grass roots, and no one told him that Mother had already taught them how to do that. Jimmy enjoyed it, He enjoyed it a lot. And all the time he felt more and more self-important. Being the head of a family was a great deal better than living alone.

Finally Mrs. Jimmy announced

Jimmy was about to refuse when it struck him that this was the first time for many long weeks that Mrs. Jimmy had seemed to want him about so he told her he would be very happy to go.

"He can't have left her much, you know, because he was only just getting nicely established"-said the friends of Frank's widow when he died, only 31 years of

But the family realized the true nobility of Frank's nature, when the solicitor announced that, just the year before, the young man had been foresighted enough to provide through insurance with The London Life, an income of $100 a month for his wife as long as she lives.

The cost, equal to $5.78 a week. was his sacrifice for the wife and children he loved.

The London Life agent has had experience in arranging such policies of protection and will be glad to advise. London Life rates mean lowest net cost.

Dublin, April 27.—The funeral of Miss Hannah Barry took place from the home of her sister, Mrs. William Nigh, concession 2, Hibbert, Requiem Nigh, concession 2, Hibbert. Requiem mass was sung by Rev. Father Dant-Zer of St. Columban, interment in St. Columban cemetery. Miss Nigh died in London hospital, where she had been for some time owing to ill-health. She leaves two brothers, Richard in California, Dennis of Hibbert township.

Dr. P. J. Looby left yesterday for his home in Detroit. He remained a few days with his brother, Jack Looby, who is very ill with pneumonia. Mr. Looby's four married daughters, his sister. Mrs. Flynn. and his brother, Edward, all of Detroit, are remaining.

Wells turned at the foot of the staire. "Oh, odds and ends!" he said.

"Odds and ends!" echoed Ken. "I can see some great bundle on the fire, like a shadow in the red. There's a smell like burning leather."

"That's just what it is," Wells answered quickly. "I shoved in a leather bag full of letters and all sorts of things."

THE NIGHT OF THE WEDDING

By C. N. and A. M. WILLIAMSON. Copyright, 1924, by Public Ledger Company.

INSTALLMENT 5.

Kennedy Haste, married to Eve Carroll, a charming and rich girl, is starting the honeymoon at Hidden Hall Court. It is a gloomy and legended castle lent to the bridal pair by Sir Rawdon Wells, an unsuccessity author for Eve's hand. suitor for Eve's hand.

THE FURNACE.

Though the month was July and the weather warm, there was a furifire in the furnace, evidently not kindled, for it was here apparlong kindled, for it was here appar-ently that the very peculiar smoke and odor of burning had originated. A frightful thought shot through Haste's brain, which turned him sick; and as Weils led the way to the furthest staircase, he turned and rushed back to fling open the furnace door. His hand was scorched by the hot iron of the handle, and involuntarily he flinched from the flery blast which almost seared his eyeballs.

The heat was intolerable, and seemed to be generated by masses of indescribable stuff, which had been heaped within, on a bed of coals and wood.

"What have you been burning here?" Haste rapped out.
Wells turned at the foot of the the shoulder and then pointed down.

Some small pink object, rather like a faded rose, lay on the gray flagging. He stooped quickly and picked it up; a bit of coral satin ribbon it was, with a few loops of crystal bead fringe attached to one end. The other end was jaggedly charred.

Evidently some garment to which it was attached had been stuffed into the furnace, and this little piece of ribbon had hung outside the shut door. When the rest had burnt up it had dropped, or else it had fallen when Ken opened the furnace to look in.

Deathly cold despite the heat, fiaste recalled Eve in the dress she had worn for dinner. He was not a man who noticed or could describe a woman's clothes at all accurately; yet he knew that Eve had been in white, with tulle sleeves that had floated out like an angel's wings as she moved. But hadn't there been something pink about the dress? Pink was Eve's favorite color. Nearly always she contrived to have a touch of rose about her things, and that intoxicating perfume of hers was like roses, on a hot summer night under the moon—roses with an eastern Deathly cold despite the heat

The man's head reeled giddily as he thought of her loveliness—and that she was lost to him. He believed that to be so now: that she was lost. Only an hour ago—less—she had smiled at him as she slipped through the door on her way to the music room. His heart had almost burst with joy at the thought that she was his. And she had gone, never to come back—gone where he could not follow this side of the grave. He would never see her in this world.

The thought that Rawdon Wells had robbed him of her—killed her cruelly and deliberately in this wicked house—was so strong that Haste could hardly restain himself. But now he hated his friend of other days so hotly that it was all he could do not to spring on him, selze him from behind, and beat his brains out on the stone floor.

Something, however, restrained him. Possibly it was Rawdon's limp which once, in so splendid a specimer of manhood, had seemed horribly pathetic to Ken. Or possibly it was the recollection of Wells' words as the recollection of Wells was inclined to keep to the would be gained at this stage by killing Rawdon Wells. It wasn't certain would be fair. Haste reflected, and could easily have let himself in, to go down to his laboratory, unseen by the servants. He could then have come up by the secret way, and reached the music-room while Eve was playing. Afterward — but Kent tried not to think yet what might have happened afterward. He had not seen the handkerchief which Pandora had picked up near the piane. He seen the handkerchief which Pandora had picked up near the piano. "I'll do it myself, thank you," an-swered Haste. "And I won't wait for any further search before phoning— though search shall be made, of course. I'm too sure now, that nothing good will come of it, to risk longer delay in getting the police."

As he spoke, he kept his eyes upon the other's face. It had hecome hard as a classic mask, and did not change.

"The local police won't feel themselves equal to this." Rawdon said. "They'll want to throw the responsibility on Scotland Yard. But they'd think themselves insulted if you phoned the Yard without warning them. You may as well make the concession. It won't cause any real delay. The minute word reaches Sergeant Anson of what has happened here, he'll get cold feet. They have about as much awe of Hidden Hall Court at Ardry-le-Mare as you and I have of high heaven!"

Wells spoke in a queer, impersonal way, as if he were outside the case, though Haste knew he must be aware that evidence, at least, was all against him. "Perhaps he has some card up his sleeve." Ken thought hopefully. "Maybe he's so wild at my suspecting him that he'll spring the surprise only when the police come. There may be some secret of the house—some trap Eve's fallen into—not fatal. Rawdon may know it's going to turn out all right at last."

Wells opened a door at the end of "The local police won't feel them-To Good Digestion

Wells opened a door at the end of the corridor, and the two men found themselves in the great hall. Haste realized then how short a time he had been gone, for the same group of servants still crowded round the door of the music room. At sight of him they backed away, and their faces betrayed such intense surprise at mone knew of his presence. Then Pandora ran out into the hall, and gave a little cry as she saw Wells.

"No," she said. "we've found out nothing. Only—Mrs. Gillett has been telling us about ghosts—terrible ghosts here at the court."

Ken turned away to order a search made, and then to go to the telephone, which was in the library. It struck him that Pan seemed more distressed than surprised to see Rawdon. Could she possibly have known that he intended coming to Hidden Hall Court tonight, instead of going to Liverpool from town? She had known something which she hadn't wished to tell. Her obstinate determination to follow him—Kent—to the court was connected with what mysterious "something."

Ardry-le-Mare, the nearest village (which called itself a town) was about four miles from Hidden Hall Court; but in less than half an hour a sergeant of police and two constables had rumbled up to the door of the court in a small old-fashioned motor car. Meanwhile, a thorough search of the house had been made, and as far as possible of the grounds; that is, the lawns and gardens, the various summer houses, even the stables, the new begins to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.

At the last meeting of the Kent County league action was taken to put a check to the steady stream of "Annie Oakleys" that pass through the turnstiles of the different ball clubs during the season. In the Kent County league the "pass" evil has assumed serious proportions and the league officials are going to put a stop to it. During an average game it is estimated that each visiting team carried about ten managers, 13 coaches, 22 newspapermen, who never saw the inside of an editorial room, and about eight scorers, who wouldn't know the difference between a base hit and a touchdown. The result is that league passes to news-papers and scorers will be abolished. This will not likely work any hardship on the bona fide scorers and the newspaper scribes who have to work for a living, but it will give them a little elbow room in the cramped press coops of the different ball parks of

SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER

KITCHENER BOWLERS WILL ADMIT LADIES

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener. April 27.—The management committee of the Kitchener lawn bowling club has decided to allow ladies to join this year. They will be admitted at a reduced fee, and will be allowed the use of the green every afternoon from 2 until 6 except Saturdays and holidays or when a tourney is being held. The club will supply instructors for the ladies when a number have entered. This is the second club in the city to allow ladies to join the Beavers being the first. Both of these clubs will open the season on May 16 with local tourneys.

And the O. H. A. embarrass? That's easy! for they'd heard up north That London was like Paris.

A WEIGHTY ARGUMENT.

Why some pitchers hurl balls that land with a heavy leaden thud and other deliveries land much lighter is alleged to be exemplified in several other sports where the mechanics of driving and hitting to obtain speed and momentum in sending an object any distance is much easier to check up on than are the holds and wrist action with which baseball pitchers get their twists and spins and "stuff." But is it? Tilden in his new book makes a difference between speed and space.

He pairs speed with velocity, which is largely attained by the force of the impact. Pace is governed by momentum given to the ball; greater when the body weight carries through and less when spin has been given the ball. Golf and billiards are both good mediums through which it is possible to determine the effect of spins given to balls. It has been determined that where there is a spin given to the ball, it lands more lightly than when thrown or driven without any spin. However, some of the pitchers in the Mint with apparently all the required stuff have not borne out the theories advanced in tennis, golf

Lefty Carman had one of the "heaviest" deliveries local fans ever listened to, and yet he had all sorts of spin on the ball, judging by the way the batters sliced off his deliveries. Joe Delman also flings a heavy It listens like a shot-put event even on warm day days when the ball should sound light, airy and corky.

Gene Tunney met Dempsey and Estelle at the train when they landed in New York, and that's about as close as he'll get to a match.

THE GROWTH OF DEMOCRACY.

Municipal golf is extending the brotherhood of golfers slowly but surely, and now a bond has been created between the golfer and the baseball fan in the appearance of the appetizing hot-dog on the exclusive Westchester Hills course near New York. A hot-dog wagon makes continuous rounds of the course, and hungry addicts may sit on a stool and munch a hot-dog while they go over the game up to that point.

A club bulletin speaks for itself:

"Those of you who have not experienced the thrill of straddling a revolving stool in one of the many spick and span lunch wagons that dot the scenery of Westchester county may now have the pleasure of doing so in the privacy of our club property. Had the lunch wagon been in vogue during the life of James Whitcomb Riley it would have become improved as were other "institutions' through the pen of this Mostley nest"

Do Your Shoes Pinch?

shoes. And wrong shoes mean wrong walking. Remember the Chinese. Little girls have delicate feet. So have their brothers.

A busy father, hurriedly purchasing a new pair of shoes for his son -the second pair in one month, perhaps-planks down the money and goes on his way. The boy does not say much about a little pinch in the left shoe, but he feels it, and it affects his walking. More than that, it may be the beginning of a defective arch.

This is a matter of concern to all parents, and they will appreciate the fact that the shoe merchants of London are doing their share in safeguarding the health and increasing the efficiency of future citizens. They carry a complete stock of children's shoes at all times and give experienced aid in fitting shoes to little feet.

You believe in "putting your children's feet firmly on the ground"-that is, in giving them a start in life. Do it literally. Read the shoe advertising and go straight to those stores who evidence their progressiveness in providing for child comfort by advertising. Both quality and service are obtainable in such stores.

FROWNS ON LUCAS

Braves' Infield Star Sent To Seattle For Out-

By JOHN B. FOSTER.

Copyright, 1925.

New York, April 27.—An odd sort of case is that of Lucas, the red-headed ex-pitcher, who seemed to have been selected for second baseman of the Boston Nationals, and then was ehipped out to Seattle in part payment for Outfielder Welsh. It is an incident which in some respects has had no parallel in baseball.

That he has been permitted to leave fielder Welsh. It is an incident which in some respects has had no parallel in baseball.

That he has been permitted to leave the team after making good as a regular, is not so extraordinary in itself. But all the details connected with this boy's effort to be a big leaguer are out of the ordinary.

Down in Florida the Boston folks told Lucas in March that he might be a good pitcher in time, but they thought he would be a better second baseman, and assigned him to the job of being Davy Bancroft's rightfield flank. Lucas grinned and sailed in to become an infielder.

He bought a new glove and bestirred himself around second base to such fine result that in the first exhibition game against the Yankees he made a base hit, had four put-outs, three assists and was generally helpful. He liked what he did but thought he should have done more, and the word painters who looked him over sobbed in gulps over his auburn thatch, and mooed about his bravery in taking up such a job. Some thought a pitcher never before had graduated to an infield position. They forgot John Ward and about twenty others.

A more determined little bunch of humanity never tried to get a job on the infield of a big league club. Lucas was at it all the time. On days when his club did not play and there were exhibition contests in St. Petersburghe was hanging around the game watching the stars of second base and asking questions without hesitancy from those he thought could help him.

Occasionally he forgot that he had to be near second base to make pivot plays. He was so accustomed to running over to first base from the piccher's plate that he overlooked being on second for the double play which so often decides the fate of a ball game. However, everybody thought he would work out of them. He played the first two games for the Bostons on the Polo Grounds against the Giants after opening at home, and the next day folks woke up to hear that he had been sent to Scatile.

Padgett occupied second for Boston in the third game of the series at New York.

Padgett occupied second for Boston in the third game of the series at New Lucas, it seemed, had been sent to Seattle in lieu of cash as part payment for the services of Welsh. Maybe Seattle preferred Lucas to cash. If Seattle did, somehow it seems as if Seattle showed horse sense. New York. April 27.—The Internationel league take he palm this week for minor league—upheavais.
Jersey City gets most of the palm fronds, for this team, though lacking in the early advantages some of the other clubs had and not reckoned upon as a pennant factor, plowed its way up at the expense of Syracuse and Toronto, and challenged Baltimore.
Jersey City's nearest neighbor. Newark also went up in the fight to the great joy of loyal Jersey Sans. Jersey City made its climb on good pitching and despite the fact that it is almost the lowest batting organization in the circuit. Rochesters siump was unexpected, and a comeback is predicted.
Had Kansas City been able to get in the fight, the American association race would have been closer than a miser with a penny. Perhaps the Missourians that the energy need to do so to balance a race which like others of the American association type, is so close that it takes only one day's games to change the league perspective.

Selecting Lineup of Seniors No Easy Task For Manager

Fights Now On For Three or Four Positions.

OPEN SATURDAY

The London seniors had a drill last night, the first of a steady week, in preparation for the opening of the sean against the Galt Terriers Saturday The squad was highly pleased with ts showing against the pros Saturday, and especially the work of the hurling corps. Manager Ted Braund will have no hard problem in fielding a team. His troubles come when it is time to choose the line-up for the opening day cere-the line-up for the opening day ceremonies, for there are fights on for three or four positions, and the choice in each case is not by any means an casy one. The manner in which Down, Quick and Pring performed on Saturday against the pros with more than a week of batting practice behind them, shows that London is going to have some more-than-average pitching to throw in against the teams of the revamped Intercounty-Southern circuit.

The schedule makers didn't pick a soft spot for the Londoners to break in when they picked on the Gait Terriers, and the locals weren't asking for one. The former provincial champs may be Terriers, but they are not terrors as far as the locals are concerned. So that the fans won't have any trouble getting a line on the locals who take on St. Thomas the following Saturday, the schedule makers have provided the cream of opposition.

The infield was better, having been rolled during the afternoon, but it still requires a lot of work.

The opening day ceremonies will not be preceded by a parade and will themselves be short and brief. An innovation this year in amateur circles will be score cards.

Tells Naturalists of Happy Experiences in Study of Bird Life.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, April 27.—W. E. Saunders, of London, passed in discursive and happy fashion over some of his field experiences in studying bird life, when addressing the members of the Toronto Field Naturalists club at their annual meeting tonight. His advice to the club members was to become part of the scenery when on their nature rambles. When engaged in the study of rail in the vicinity of Belle River, he said, he had come once upon a mocking-bird, and, by giving his study to it instead, he had heard it imitate 27 domestic birds, an experience which he had never gained before or since.

Informal Discussion On Matter-Final Decision at Directors' Meeting.

The majority of the Western Fair executive are in favor of selling five admission tickets for $1 this year, previous to the exhibition. This information was gleaned during an informal discussion of the matter at an executive meeting yesterday afternoon.

Special to The Advertiser.

Thamesford, April 27.—The Rev. W. D. Davis was presented with a handsome leather club bag at a meeting of the bowling club. C. Brock made the presentation, and Dr. F. M. Weir made the address. Rev. Davis made a suitable reply, and expressed regret at leaving Thamesford.

When Rev. Mr. Davis came to the Anglican church four years ago, there was no club here, though several attempts had been made to form one.

It was pointed out, however, by President J. H. Saunders that two years ago the admission was 50 cents, and in his opinion, the cut to 20 cents was rather drastic. A final decision will be made at the next meeting of the board of directors.

The executive also discussed new fronts for the horse stables and repairs to the north open stands. Es.

W. D. Euler Declares Move Would Bring Fifty Million in Profits.

Taking Over of C. P. R. Would Mean Nothing in Capital Costs.

Why Euler Would Give C.N. Control of C.P.R.

W. D. Euler, chairman in the federal House of the special committee on railways, summed up the benefits of absorption of the C. P. R. by the C. N. R. under these heads: 1. It would enable the government to reduce taxation by one-third or at least one-quarter. Would save a hundred million dollars annually, and would pay off national debt in 20 years.

2. It would restore confidence, encourage the Canadian people to go ahead knowing that light was breaking at last on our financial horizon. 3. It would stimulate trade, lower the cost of living, encourage enterprise, lead to more rapid development of natural resources, solve our general freight rates problem.

4. On it could be based a practical scheme for the extinction of the national debt. "I believe," said Mr. Euler, "that the people of Canada would destroy any government that would dare to hand over the national railways to privately-owned corporation, "The union of these systems under national ownership," he declared, "offers a good deal more than the Shaughnessy plan. It gives the country the benefit of the savings effected and not the C. P. R., and assures the country an efficient railway service."

amalgamation of the Canadian MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS Pacific Railway with the Canadian National, and the operation of the joint system under public ownership, was made in the House of Commons today by W. D. Euler, Liberal memer for North Waterloo. Mr. Euler is regarded as one of the ablest men in the Commons, as well as an authority on the railway situation, nd his championship of the scheme carries added weight on that account. He was followed with close interest in his arguments today. Mr. Euler declared that he had it on the highest authority in the land that the amalgamation of the two railways and the consequent elimination of duplication in services would save the people of Canada $100,000,-000 a year. Whereas the Canadian National was costing the country $56,000,000 a year, the joint system would return a profit of $50,000,000 after all charges were paid. The gain would be sufficient to pay off the national debt in 20 years.

Country's Big Problem. The North Waterloo member held that the question presented in the proposal was the most important with which the country could deal, and maintained that it was the duty of the government to initiate an investigation into it.

It is not necessary, he believed that the taking over of the Canadian Pacific should cost the country a dollar in capital cost. The bondholders and stockholders of the company would be guaranteed in securities in the national system, and would have their dividends paid as they are now paid. He did not think they would object to the plan. The great savings to be effected would come from the elimination of unnecessary duplication, duplication of ckage, of stations, of service plans, of trains and other properties

Hits Private Ownership. Mr. Euler was entirely opposed to malgamation under private ownership. He insisted that the saving should accrue to the people of Canada and urged that under private ownership the incentive to good service in the absence of competition would be lacking. He figured that the country was already several millions better off each year in the operation of the National Railways than it would have been under the Shaughnessy plan, whereby the publicly-owned road would have been turned over to the Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film. A film which absorbs discolorations and hides the natural color of your teeth.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of apportune.

E. S. HORN, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

JNO. E. HORN, Kansas City, Mo. Imperial Is Five Years Old This Month.

Owns Royalty Interests in 108 Properties, 5,526 Acres, 469 Wells. Has Paid to Shareholders 54 Cash Dividends, Totalling 101 p.c.

BUSINESS-The business of the Company is confined strictly to oil royalties. None of its capital funds or royalty income is or will be used in drilling wells, or operating properties, or in the purchase of leases.

ORGANIZATION-Imperial Royalties Company was organized in April, 1920, by the present Trustees. The Company operates under a Declaration of Trust, on file in the office of the Recorder of Deeds, Tulsa County, Okla. The operating office is located in the Mayo Building, Tulsa, Okla., and the executive offices are in the Sheidley Building, Kansas City, Mo. At the time of organization, the Company owned three royalty interests.

PROPERTIES-At the present time Imperial owns and receives its revenue from royalty interests in 108 properties, covering 5,526.86 acres, having thereon 469 producing wells. These properties are located in Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Louisiana and DIVIDENDS-The Company has paid to date 54 monthly cash dividends, totaling 101%. This is an average dividend record of approximately 20% annually for five years. In addition to the usual 11/2% monthly disbursements, several extra dividends have been paid. Dividends are payable on the thirtieth of each month—to shareholders of record of twenty-fifth of the same PREFERENCES—The Preferred shares are guaranteed first participation in earnings up to not less than 12%. No dividends may be paid on the Common until the Preferred has been paid this amount. The Preferred shares are participating and non-

NO INDEBTEDNESS-The Company owns its royalty interests outright; does not owe any money on deferred property pay-ments; has no mortgage or bank or bonded indebtedness. Imperial's plan of operation and method of conduct of its business is such that practically all risk is eliminated, as is also any chance of the Company becoming involved.

EFFICIENT OPERATION-The major portion of properties in which Imperial owns a royalty interest are operated by Standard Oil, or subsidiaries thereof, or large independent companies. This insures efficient operation and management of our royalties.

NO OPERATING EXPENSE-Being strictly an owner of oil royalties, and with no intention of drilling wells or operating oil properties, Imperial will never find it necessary to maintain an operating or field organization. The Company will never be burdened with heavy overhead expense. Nor will increased operating costs "eat up" our income from sale of our royalty oil, as the royalty interest bears no part of the expense of operating the property.

DOMINANT POSITION-Imperial is generally recognized as a sound and seasoned enterprise. It occupies a dominant position among all companies of a similar character in the Mid-Continent field, and is a larger owner of royalty interests in the Mid-Continent field than any other royalties company. (And the Mid-Continent field, as is well known, is not only the largest oil-producing region in the world, but produces the largest quantity of high-gravity crude.)

SAFETY-Producing royalties are quite generally regarded as the safest part of the oil industry, from an investment stand-point. Any banker in the Mid-Continent field, conversant with point. Any banker in the Mid-Continent held, conversant with the oil business, or any oil operator, will confirm this statement. Imperial shareholders participate in the earnings of a hundred different producing royalties. The ownership of such a large number of royalty interests is a safeguard to the investor, as any possible reduced earnings of one royalty may be made up by the larger earnings of the many other royalties. by the larger earnings of the many other royalties, as a result of the drilling by the operating companies of additional wells on the properties in which Imperial owns a royalty interest. Many of the Company's properties are only partially developed.

IMPERIAL ROYALTIES CO. is engaged, solely, in what is conceded to be the safest and best part of the oil industry. It owns its properties outright, with no obligations. Assumes none of the risks of the operating or drilling company. The management endeavors to pursue at all times a safe and conservative policy, but an energetic one. The Company is rapidly expanding, and has a successful dividend record of five years.

NAME ADDRESS operation of the C. P. R. No proposal for the creation of a private nonopoly of railway service in Canada would secure the approval of the people, and none should be considered. Neither should a plan whereby a surplus of $50,000,000 could be substi-uted for a deficit of $56,000,000 under public ownership be denied investiga-G G. Coote, Progressive of Mc Leud, 94th speaker in the budget de Lecd, with speaker in the outget the bate, and in former sessions one of the most militant of the agrarian group, urged upon the government the disabilities of the western farmers in regard to financial credits. The need of the farmer was credit at lower rates of interest than tarmers in regard to financial credits. The need of the farmer was credit at lower rates of interest than those prevailing. Many farmers were on the point of bankruptcy, he declared, and only relief from their difficulties could save them. They must have suitable freight rates, and Mr. Coote regarded the Crow's Nest schedule as their great safeguard.

Mr. Coote's chief concern, however, was the tariff, and he linked it up with the question of national unity. It was useless, he said, to attempt to disguise that a strong feeling existed in western Canada that relief must be secured from the economic domination of the east. Until western Canada secured justice in the matter of the traiff no amount of talk about national unity would avail. If the Liberal party had reached the minimum tariff it could offer, the west should be so advised, and if there was any quid pro quo that could be given by way of justice it should be advanced at once. The west, Mr. Coote asserted, was not content to rest under existing injustices.

Pains and Headaches Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable

Compound

Dublin, Ontario.—"I was weak and irregular, with pains and headaches, and could not sleep nights. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by reading the letters in the newspapers and tried it because I wanted to get better. I have got good results from it as I feel a lot stronger and am not troubled with such bad headaches as I used to be and am more regular. I am gaining in weight all the time and I tell my friends what kind of medicine I am taking. You may use my letter as a help to others."—Mrs. JAMES RACHO, Box 12, Dublin, Ontario.

one which I keep to lend. I will willingly answer letters from any woman Question Issuing of Clearance Papers To Unseaworthy Craft.

Special to The Advertiser. St. Thomas, April 27.—Initial steps n the probe of the liquor export traffic, which has been deemed advisable as a result of the Lake Erie drowning tragedy of last week, were taken by crown authorities this afteroon in opening an inquest into the rcumstances surrounding the death of Bert Butcher, owner of the illfated Valkryle, otherwise known as the Ada May Belle.

Inquest at Port May Lead To is demanding a thorough investigation of a traffic which they believe to have illicit aspects and which has resulted directly or indirectly in one of the most pathetic tragedles of re-resulted directly or indirectly in one of the most pathetic tragedies of recent years.

The export of liquor, it is pointed out, is not illegal under dominion enactment but by the terms of the Volstead' act, liquor cannot be imported into the states, thus a translake traffic in spirits means bootlegging on the American side.

It is the intention of the crown to inquire into the issuing of clearance papers. It will investigate whether the Valkyrie cleared for some port other than Cleveland and whether the official who issued clearance papers for her was cognizant of the fact. In addition to this the issuing of clearance papers to unseaworthy craft is to be probed, according to Crown Attorney McCrimmon.

The inquest is being conducted by and the crown attorney.

The coroner's jury is composed of Charles Lanning, foreman. J. H. Burke, A. Clarke, W. Eastwick, Charles Findlay, Geo. Smith, H. A. Short, John Oliver and A. McDonald. At the request of the crown an adjournment of a week was granted.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES-No. 5

What 'Orange Pekoe' Means

Many buyers of tea have come to ask for 'Orange Pekoe' believing that it signifies fine quality. This is not, however, necessarily the case. In the trade 'Orange Pekoe' is only a name given to the first leaf below the bud or tip on any Indian or Ceylon tea bush. An 'Orange Pekoe' leaf grown at a high elevation usually possesses a very fine flavour. If, however, the plant is grown at a low elevation, it may still be 'Orange Pekoe' but also be of very poor quality. The consumer's only safeguard is to buy a tea of recognized goodness. High grown 'Orange Pekoes' comprise a large part of every blend of "SALADA" and give to "SALADA" its unequalled flavour.

All Parties Mending Political Fences

East Middlesex Liberals Make Wise Choice in Dr. C. C. Ross of Hyde Park—West Lambton Expected To Swing Back
To King Government—Conventions Are Set For Near Future in the Different Ridings.

Political fences in all Western Ontario ridings are being carefully mended these days by all three political parties which are at the present time about evenly represented in the Dominion house. Liberals and Conservatives each claim eight represents the constituency at present. In South Grey, where Miss Agnes MacPhail holds sway, John Mills of Hanover is considering the Liberal servatives each claim eight repre-sentatives, while the Progressives lead the two old line parties with eleven.

East Middlesex Liberals made no mistake in choosing Dr. C. C. Ross of Hyde Park as their standard-bearer. Liberals who have taken no active interest in politics for some years have tossed off their coats and are busy organizing the various townships and subdivisions in the interests of Dr. Ross, who, it is confidently expected, will swing East Middlesex to the Liberal side.

King Hodgins of Lucan will oppose Dr. Ross in the interests of the Conservatives, and it is expected that Archie Hodgins, the present Progressive member, will do his best to repeat.

The mistakes made last year were gone over. The figures were brought out to show where the workers had fallen down on the last campaign, so that the errors would not be made again.

The speaker laid special stress on the training received by the child in the kindergarten. There was a tre-mendous amount of good training going on there all the time. And at the end of a year the little child was prepared to live like a good little citizen with his fellow citizens.
