UNDERTAKING

The Kingdom Divided-1 Kings 12: 12-20. Commentary.—I. a demand by the people.—vs. 1-11. When Rehoboam found himself the successor to the throne, he met the leaders of the nation at Shechem. While this assembly was called ostensibly for the of confirming Rehoboam in his kingdom, yet the people had de-termined to exact certain reforms as the condition as their allegiance. They had many grievances. The northern tribes rebelled against this oppression and asked Rehoboam to relieve them of their heavy burdens, promising if he would to acknowledge him as king.

II. Rehoboam's decision.—vs. 12-15.

12. All the people, This probably has reference to the ten tribes; Judah and Benjamin clung, to Rehoboam. The third day. Rehoboam had asked the people to wait three days for his decision (v. 5). "This seemed reasonable on the face of it, and yet this was one of the questions which sonable on the face of it, and yet this was one of the questions which a right heart would have decided instantly." 13. Roughly. He was harsh and insolent. Forsook..... counsel. Rehoboan first consulted with the old men. (vs. 6). They were the men of wisdom and ability whom Solomon in his wisdom had about for his of wisdom and ability whom solution in his wisdom had chosen for his advisers. (See Prov. 11, 14; 15, 22.) But their counsel did not suit the young. They advised Rehoboam to grant the request of the people and "speak good words to them" (vs. 7). But he was proud, haughty and conceited and forsook their counsel.

14. Young men. Rehoboam next consulted the young men, his associates (vs. 8, 9). "The surest mark of a fool is that he chooseth other fools for his advisers." The king made a fatal omission in seeking admade a fatal omission in seeking advice. I will add. This was the language of tyrant. With whips. It is probable that the expression is not entirely figurative. It is quite possible that the levies of Amorites, Hittites, etc. (chap. 9, 20, 21), had been kept at their toils by the lash.—Speace. With scorpions. As the scorpion—an instrument of torture with many lashes, like the legs of the animal of this name, and each the animal of this name, and each Insh armed with sharp points to lacerate the flesh—is a more terrible scourge than the common whip, so will my severity exceed my father's.—Terry. This answer meant his downfall. It was the height of folly for him to take such a course, 15. for him to take such a course, 13. brought about of the Lord, (R. V.). The course of events had been shaped by Solomon's transgression, and they were left by God to work out their natural results. The sin of the father was visited on the child. — Lumby. God forsees what men will freely do, and orders his judgments or mercles accordingly. III. The revolt of the ten tribes

All Israel—The leaders representing the ton tribes. What portion......
In David, etc.—Just as a king inherits the ration he governs, so a monarchy inherits its king. Dut the ten tribes had not thus received David, nor probably Solomon either. Seven years after David had been recognized as king of Judah the chief-tains of the ten tribes made a spec-ial treaty with him by which he should govern them. The terms of this treaty we do not know, but it was probably renewed on the accession of Solomon, and it is evident that the ten tribes now regarded it that the ten tribes now regarded it as broken by Rehoboam. Their loyalty to him wafs annulled by his own action. The phrase, "son of Jesse" is a taunt, like "carpenter's son," in Matt. xiii., 55.—Huribut. To your tents—This was probably a popular war cry, dating from the days of the exodus, when the whole nation lived in tents. But we are to remem-ber also that a great multitude was now crowded about a town, and doubtless many were at the time dwelling in tents. Now see, etc.—Let David's descendants look after his dunasty: we sever our connection. 17 which dwelt — The Israelites who were members of the northern tribes but who had homes in the cities of Judah, did not go with their own tribes, but remained and quietly sub-mitted to the reign of Rehoboam.

18. Seat Adoram-The chief tax collector and therefore one of the most obnexious men in the nation. He was probably sent to make concesions, but it was too late. "The fatal word had been spoken, the rent in the nation had been made never to be healed until they shall be united in Christ, the son of David, in the latter days, Ezek xxvii., 15-28. — Whittle. Stoned him—The people in their blind rage rose up in a mob. With this one exception this was a bloodless revolution, Rehoboam made speed, Strengthened himself. Margin, "Made use of every effort;" "exerted since danger was himself much," since danger was threatening him as well as his messenger. 19. Israel rebelled — Where prince and people fear God there will be no rebellion; but where no covenant with God is, in all human covenant with God is, in all human processes the service of the sparks began falling danger-ously near the open can of explosive fluid.

PRACTICAL SURVEY.

A heritage of trouble. It does not take long to prostitute the best of gifts, to degrade the purest character, or to throw a shadow on the noblest life. To Solomon were given wisdom, wealth and long life, and he should have left to his son, Re-hobbam, for imitation, the example of a virtuous and illustrious life. His should have been a kingdom ruled rica.
with moderation and justice: but Th his life, as he advanced in years was characterized by a folly that wrought demoralization in every in regard to the demands of his peo-ple, but princes unless trained from their youth are ordinarily un-fitted to appreciate the needs of their subjects. The greatest prince is he who is easily approachable, who plans for the best interests of his people, who recards himself as the plans for the best interests of his people, who regards himself as the servant and not lord of his subjects. Such a ruler will guide his affairs with discretion, and will be able to meet the crises which so often arise in the management of political affairs with an intelligent appreciation of right and will easily accommodate himself to the exigenecommodate himself to the exigen accommodate himself to the exigen-cies which may call for moderation in his jurisdiction. But a haughty prince is blind to all those conditions. The folix of rasin advisers, keho-boum did not lack for counselors. He took three days to ascertain the opinions of the leading men of his court. Now the burdens of state-traft naturally make a man consercraft naturally make a man conser-vative in his ideas and cautious in his counsels. Such indeed was the at-titude assumed by the elder men, who had gained wisdom by long ex-perience. They advised him to use caution and moderation in his answer. No such considerations affect wer. No such considerations affected the minds of the younger counselors to whom Rehoboam next turnpointments that they had enjoyed in ed for advice. They had little interest in aught except the luxurious apthe court of Solomon. What considarations led the young king to adopt the advice of the younger men are not stated in the scriptural account: but this decision has always count; but this decision has always been regarded as one actuated by inexcusable folly. By his unwilling-ness to alleviate the troubles of the people he alienated their affections and brought about a final disruption of the nation.

Consequences of seemingly unim portant decisions. It is possible that Rehoboam and his inexperienced advisers thought and hoped that the people would still continue loyal to his father's house, but the wish was a vain one and the results were in very way disastrous. Israel could no longer present an unbroken front to the fee. Divided in counsel, in interest, no armed force, she no longer sent forth her armies to conquer the foes of Jehovah. Internal and domestic war soon reduced her strength and weakened her prowess. Foreign foes found her a ready prey. One by one her possessions fell away. City one her possessions lell away. City after city was taken and destroyed. As the result of two invasions the whole nation was carried away into captivity and Jerusalem, the joy of the whole earth was made a laughing stock and a reproach. Well may a nation pray to be de-livered from a ruler who does not possess sound wisdom and discre-tion. Albert H. Stilwell.

Dunkirk, June 27 .- The presence of mind and daring of Mrs. Charles Rahn, of No. 610 Swan street, Mon-day morning, saved her own life and her house from being blown to pieces. With a boiler full of clothes on a lighted gasoline stove, Mrs.
Rahn with dry rag in one hand, attempted to turn off the flow of gasoline and move the boiler at the same time. The water overflowed causing the flame to shoot outward. The rag ignited and became a blazing mass. Foreibly she threw it from her. It fell into a basket of dry

Stanley Clarke, A. A. McFall (Bolton), Prof. Andrew Smith, F. R. C. V. S., J. H. Eddis, R. G. O. Thomson, etc.

The chair was taken by the President, Mr. T. R. Merritt, and the Assistant eneral Manager, Mr. E. Hay, was requested to act as Secretary. Moved by Mr. Thomas Walmsley, seconded by Mr. W. W. Vickers:

That Mr. Lyndhurst Ogden, Mr. R. H. Temple and Mr. W. Gibson Cassels and are hereby appointed scrutineers.—Carried. The General Manager, at the request of the Chairman, read the report of the directors and the statement of affairs.

THE REPORT

The Directors beg to submit to the shareholders their Twenty-ninth Annual Report and Balance Sheet of the affairs of the Bank as on 31st May, 1904, together with a statement giving the result of the operations for the year which ended that day.

Out of the Net Profits of the year and balance of Profit and Loss Account carried forward, and after making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, and for the authorized contributions to the Pension and Guarantee Funds: (a) Dividends have been paid at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum, mounting to $209,194.04. (b) Bank Premises Account has been credited with $25,000

(c) Rest Account has been increased by $200,000.

(d) Carried forward to Profit and Loss Acount, $140.656.56. The premium received upon new Capital Stock, amounting to $13,688, has an added to Rest Account, making that account $2,850,000, equal to 95 per cent. of the Paid Up Capital.

A branch of the Bank has been opened at Trout Lake, B. C., to which has been transferred the business of the Branch at Ferguson, B. C. It is with extreme regret that your directors have to announce the death of their late esteemed colleague, Mr. T. Sutherland Stayner, who has been a director of the Bank since 1800, and who has throughout been constant in his attendance to his duties as a director, and to whose faithful service they now bear testioners.

The Head Office and Branches have all been carefully inspected during the year, and your directors have much pleasure in expressing satisfaction at the manner in which the Officers of the Bank perform their respective duties.

WILL CARRY CANADA'S FLAG.

14th Regiment on Visit to Syracu Will Regard No Protests.

Kingston, Ont., June 27 .- It is said that the 14th Regiment, Princess of Wales' Own Rifles, will carry a Canadian flag in the military par-ade at Syracuse, N. Y., on July 4th, notwithstanding the protests of Irish societies in that place. At Ro-elester, N. Y., five years ago, when the 14th Regiment visited that place there occurred the same trouble with the anti-British societies as is reported in Syracuse, N. Y.

The Clan-na-Gael refused to walk in the parade in rear of the Canadian soldiers. #### FARMERS AND FRUIT MEN

Present Their Grievances to the Railway Commission.

Toronto report-Farmers and fruitgrowers of Ontario began yesterday the presentation of their grievances to the Railway Commission. Mr. W. D. Gregory introduced deputations representing the various bodies, and presented the general principles on which the tariff of ates should be based.

rates should be based.

Mr. W. D. Gregory pointed out that the total earnings of Canadian railways increased from $29,000,000 in 1882 to $83,000,000 in 1902, while the working expenses increased from $22,000,000 to $57,000,000 in the same time. There was therefore a net inverse of shout $20. therefore a net increase of about $20.

produced these figures as an argument for reduction in rates, and an approximation to rates in the United States. But, instead of Ontario getting lower rates, the through traffic was a positive disadvantage. Every year it was impossible to get cars here because they were used to keep United States alevators supplied with grain. The farmelevators supplied with grain. The farmers asked that there should not be more than a reasonable return on the value of the railway property operated.

Mr. W. H. Bunting, President of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, divided their complaint into three parts, the equipment for carrying, the service for delivery, and the rates. He point do out that, owing to the great increase of production of recent years, there had been a great fall in the prices.

Figures showed that it was impossible to make a living profit by shipping by carriers. The fruit growers must, there to make a living profit by shipping by express. The fruit-growers must, therefore, depend on the freight service for shipping. In answer to the statement of the railways that there was not ugh trade to warrant special cars, he said that 2,000 carloads were grown in the Niagara Peninsula last year. An express man told him that 7,000 tons were shipped by express from there last year. They wanted well-ventilated cars for their tender fruits, The t. P. R. had a few such cars, but the G. T. R. was lamentably deficient. At many points it was impossible to get any cars.

He went on to complain of the delay in the service. When shipments were made there was no guarantee of delivery, and they were completely at the made there was no guarantee of delivery, and they were completely at the mercy of the railways.

In other cases the delay was much greater. They asked for a special daily freight service, prompt delivery and the appointment of a special official to look after these shipments, especially at divisional points, where delays were likely.

Mr. Burling then took up the rates Mr. Bunting then took up the rates of conveyance, which he called the cru-cial question. They were convinced that the freight rate affected them ma-that the freight rate affected them materially, for it frequently absorbed one third to one-half of the gross returns.

Their second request was that apples and pears in boxes and barrels should be put in the same class. out in the same class.

Their third request was that the minimum for fresh fruit should not be raised over 20,000 pounds.

Their fourth request was a reduction in the cost of icing, more particularly to

F. D. Smith, of Winona, a shipper Mr. E. D. Smith, of Winona, a shipper of 25 years, wanted, first, quicker transportation; second, better equipment; third, ability to get cars when wanted. During the last two years at Winona cars have been fairly well supplied owing to competition there. But before that he frequently had to wait from one to three weeks.

His greatest complaint was in the moving of less than ear load lots, about which there seemed no system whatever. He gave a long list of the times of moving a few boxes from Win-ona to various points, for example, to Woodstock, 60 miles, 6 days; to Jarvis, Woodstock, 60 miles, 6 days; to Jarvis, 60 miles, 4 days; Port Perry, 100 miles, 13 days; Cannington, 100 miles, 5 days; Beaverton, 123 miles, 10 days.

Mr. Bosworth, Fourth Vice-President of the C. P. R., said that this happened because one agent could not count when there might be a dozen shippers.

Mr. H. W. Dayson utgested on because the country of the country Mr. H. W. Dawson presented, or be-alf of the association, the "claims"

MANY EDUCATED FOOLS.

Must be Wise as Well as Learned Says President Angell. Ann Arbor, June 27.- President Angell last evening delivered the baccalcurrate address to the class that will graduate this week, taking for his subject "Knowledge and Wisdom."

The president roughly defined knowledge as accumulated facts and wisdom as the power to use them.

wisdom as the power to use them, Men could be learned, but not wise, "Knowledge and wisdom may tach exist without the other," said he, "James I, of England has been called the most learned fool who ever dis-graced a throne. But the world is full of uncrowned learned fools. There is an endless variety of them. Some are vain and chattering pedants who fill the world with noisy clamor like a cmpany of crows over their quiddites and cdds and ends of useless knowledge. They wield no influence and command no respect, because they are so utterly devoid of what we call common sense. Some of them are like elsterns into which floods we call common sense. Some of them are like cisterns into which floods of learning have been poured. They hold it all safely stored away. But their minds never become fountains to pour out these stores and enrich the world. They are stagnant reservoirs. I recall men of capacious memory, who with the utmost ease and complacency swallowed all the learning which could be fed out to them by a whole college faculty, but the learning never got out through their nerves or their tongues, or even nerves or their tongues, or nerves or their tongues, or even through their muscles to touch and stir the world.

"While, however, you may thus have learned without wisdom, you may often find wisdom without learning. Go into any legislative or deliberative assembly. You will frequently observe that some plain, unlettered man, who seldom speaks and then perhaps with hesitancy, does more to shape the act of the body, and certainly does far better work than many a man of ready tongue than many a man of ready tongue and cultured mind, because he is re-cognized as a man of wisdom. It was once said of such a one, "Every word he utters weighs a ton, because there is a man behind it."

"For Lord Bacon's aphorism, 'knowledge is power,' I would substitute the saying 'wisdom is power."

DEMANDS INVESTIGATION.

Sir Charles Elliot's Cable to Premier Baltour.

Mombasa, British East Africa Pro tectorate, June 27—Sir Charles N. E. Elliot, British Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief for the East African Protectorate, has resigned the commissionership because he is opposed to the proposed Jewish settle-ment in the protectorate. Sir Charles has cabled to Premier Balfour demanding a public inquiry of thes circumstances of his resignation, and adding;

Epidemic ot Self-Consciou Londo nJune 27 .- The Daily Graphic, referring to the resignation of Sir C. Eliot, Commissioner of the East Africa Protectorate, says an epidemic of painful self-conscious-ness has broken out in the higher ranks of the Imperial public service. It was to nave been isolated in a very virulent form in Canada, but somehow the microbe has found its way to East Africa, where the commissioner has developed symptoms closely resembling those which pro-strated Lord Dundonald last week.

Long months had passed since Sir Owen was laid in his grave; August was come round and now August was come round again, with its ripe fruits and yel-low corn. Lady Chevenix, every one agreed, was a model widow. Dur-ing the interval that had elapsed since her husband's death, hardly one had seen her. It had haunted her sleeping and waking hours, as it had the days and nights of every other witness. She had been stunned and bewildered by it. She had been so frightened that all her natural high spirits had left her. Did she regret Sir Owen very much? She could not tell—she never asked herself the question. She had been shocked, startled, horrified—but it was not the keen sorrow of her loss that made her shrink from all observation. It was rather the reaction from which she had suffered.

Then matters pertaining to the estate were discussed by the executors; and it was arranged that, with the young widow's consent, all business should still be left in the hands of Mr. Lonsdale.

A very different scene was passing in the room where Lady Chevenix sat with her mother. Mrs. Haye was walking up and down, her pride and elation almost more than she could conceal.

Farmers may Have Fresh Meat in Summer. Department of Agriculture, Commis-

Although live stock is grown on almost every Canadian farm, the farmer as a rule, finds it very difficult to furnish his table with fresh meat during the summer months. In order to make the use of fresh meat order to make the use of fresh meat possible in every farm home, even during the summer months, the Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa, re-commends the more general estabcommends the more general establishment of beef rings, which have been successfully carried on for years in some sections of Canada.

Beef Rings.—These rings are not, as the name might indicate, "trusts" for the control of the production and cale of beef but are groups of farm-sale of beef, but are groups of farmers who co-operate to supply their tables with fresh meat during the summer. The ring is usually composed of sixteen, twenty or twenty-four members although sometimes. four members, although sometimes as many as forty are enrolled. Each member agrees to supply one beef animal during the summer, and in order to give plenty of time for preparation, the members draw lots the previous winter to determine the order in which they shall contribute der in which they shall contribute animals. After the drawing member may exchange numbers if they find it mutually advantgaeous. Two small

The Animal.—The regulations us ally provide that each member shall supply a steer or helfer under three years old, sound, healthy, and in good condition, dressing from 400 to 500 condition, dressing from 400 to 500 pounds of beef, and grain-fed for at least six weeks previous to killing. If an animal is not up to the standard it may be rejected and the owner compelled to supply another, or it may be accepted at a lower valuation. The decision in such cases is left to the secretary of a duly apsoluted committee of inspection.

Killing and distribution.—A butcher semployed to kill and cut up the as employed to kill and cut up the animals, the owner retaining the head, heart, fat and hide. The amount paid for killing and cutting up a beast is usually $2 to $2.50. with is usually $2 to $2.30, with an extended and ollar if the butcher makes delivery, which is not a general practice. Of course it is not necessary to employ a professional butcher, but a man is required who can do the work neatly and well, and cut up the carcase along the usual lines, and in the same way each time. The the carcase along the usual lines, and in the same way each time. The butcher provides a hook for each member and hangs thereon the portion for each animal as the animal is cut up. Each member should have two meat bags with his name on, that one of them may always be at the butcher shop ready to receive the weekly corrion. In the case of some weekly portion. In the case of some rings each family gets, only one plece; in others a good piece of the hind quarter, and an inferior piece of the fore quarter, or vice versa; in still others a member gets a boiling piece, a roast, and a piece of steak each week.

The various cuts are numbered, and an accurate record is kept by the butcher of the quality and weight of beef received by each mem ... In this way it is possible to arrange for each family to receive approximately the same weight of meat and the ly the same weight of meat and the same proportion of valuable and cheap cuts during the summer. At the end of the summer the secretary of the organization furnishes each member with a statement of the year's operations, compiled from the butcher's records. As no two animals will have been of the same weight, small balances will have to change hands in order to equalize matters. As a standard price is always agreed upon at the beginning ways agreed upon at the beginning per pound, there are no disputes at the close. Members who have recieved more beef than they supplied pay for the difference at the price agreed upon; those who have put in more than they have received are paid in the same way. Yours very truly, V. A. Clemons, Publication Clerk.

CAUGHT A BIG SHARK.

On Hook and Line for Hours. Vielded to a Volley of Bullets.

Recently Harry F. Chamberlain, Warwick, Orange county, N. Y., arrived in Mexico by steamer to visit his friend and associate, H. H. Warner, of New York. Mr. Warner has been residing her for several months for the pleasures of the climate and city. He and Mr. Chamberlain have a suite of apartments When Mr. Chamberlain cirived on the man, and is especially skilled in angling for trout and other game fish. He is also a fine shot. When his steamer ar rived in the harbor of liogreso he ha an opportunity to exercise his skill as an angler and sharps outer in a novel and most exciting manner. Mr. Chamberlain said in a recent interview:

Mr. Chamberlain is an ardent sports

"When I first saw the beautiful blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico in this barbor I was reminded of the Mediterranean Sea. When the steamer is i progress one does not notice the water so much, but these color depths at Pro greso were in such marked contrast with the black and foul waters of Ha wana harbor that they at once arrested my attention. While the ship was un-leading part of its cargo I observed that there was something else in the water there was something else in the water besides its charming color, to wit, a great number of those terrible monsters. the man-eating sharks. I discovered later that the term 'terrible' was not misap-

"Seeing these big fellows, with their inseparable companions, the pilot fish, swimming around so boldly within ten yards of the vessel, aroused my sporting blood, and I determined to maks an atblood, and the determine to another the plans, and with the co-operation of the ship's officers I secured a long line of sisal, about the thickness of an ordinary clothesline. To the end of this I attached about five feet of strong wire. There were no regular shark hooks on the were no regular shark nooks on the steamer, but I secured the largest hook at hand and attached it to the end of the wire. It was baited with two pounds of salt pork. This was thrown overload and allowed to float on the surboard and stream.

feet of the ship, where the sharks could not fail to see it.

"It was most exasperating and at the same time pleasurably exciting to stand hour after hour and see those huge man-eaters sail round and round the floating batt, snapping up pieces of wood and other floating objects within a few feet of it, but apparently indifferent to or unconscious of the sweet morsel. For an entire day they never touched that pork. I thought, however, at night, that, like human beings who do not like or are forbidden to touch certain articles of food, that desire and hunger would in the end overcome their tastes and scruples and that the morsel would be swallowed. The next morning the baited hook was again thrown overboard. Not, five minutes had phased before the nose of a big shark arose far above the surface of the water and dropped down, seizing the pork in his huge and grotesque mouth, which is far back from the end of the nose.

"Then the marine nyella said of the sight, dragging the line swiftly after him. As soon as this fact became known to the passengers there was wild excitement on board. They came rushing from their staterooms in pajamas, ing from their staterooms in pajamas, night shirts and all forms of deshabile, their eyes bright with excitement and their mouths full of advice as to the best methods of landing the big terror of the seas.

"I had wrestled with too many big trout, muscallonge and bluefish to feel much anxiety as to the end, but I tell you that great fierce, powerful shark taught me a lesson that will last me a life-time. From the first pull I knew the ook was well fixed. It acted just like trout, dashing to right and left; maka trout, dashing to right and left; making a far-off rush, leaping out of the water, plunging down into the depths. The perspiration rolling down my cheeks and my arms ached. In the meantime scores of passengers were offering all sorts of firearms to dispatch the shark when it appeared at the surface. After two hours of the hardest work and the the most skilful manoeuvring I ever did the most skillul manoeuvring I ever the in my life, the shark slowly rose to the surface. I was about played out. An Englishman who was going to Mexico to hunt big game tendered me a heavy calibred rifle loaded with explosive but I handed the line to one of the passengers, and with careful aim sent two bullets into the vitals of the huge

"By the aid of peons and sailors the shark was landed on a lighter, not yet dead, and as I stood near him his wicked little eyes had an expression as if he said: "Young man, I wish I had you in the water for about thirty seconds."

"The shark was 9 feet 9 inches in length, from tip to tip, and weighed nearly 1,000 pounds. To tackle 1,000 rounds of the greatest strength and pounds of the greatest strength and activity in the shape of a fish that is

It does nothing of the kind. I watched this school of the kind. of the kind. I watched this school of fish for hours. A score of times I saw them thrust their noses high in the air until the mouth was far above and over the object they intended to seize, and then they would sweep down on it direct, like a bird of prey." — Mexican Herald.

But it is important for other reasons. It touches us very closely in settling the French shore question, and thereby relieving of an embarrassment a colony which is destined in the fulness of time to be a part of the Dominion. The agreement is important also, because it is the most comprehensive international adjustment ever accomplished by purely diplomatic means. By it the two great powers saw off their grievances and wipe out all possible causes of irritation. They were given an impetus by the visit of the King to France, and the return visit of President Loubet to Great Britain, on which occasions a full and frank exchange of ideas was effected. The British Government frankly conceded that to obtain the abandonment of French claims in Newfoundland it would be neces ta compensate French fishermen and also the French nation. I appears that since 1890, so success ful has British administration been to Egypt, a surplus of $27,500,000 has accumulated in the bank. The money is lying idle, and is being constantly increased. France has now conceded that the fund shall be used by the Egyptain Government, used by the Egyptain Government, and it will be used for the develop-ment of the country. France also acknowledges the preponderance of Great Britain in Egypt and agrees to give its support to certain re-forms which the British Government has in view. On the other hand Great Britain concedes that France has special responsibilities in respect bordering on a state of anarchy.
France agrees not to annex any

The babies of all except the richest Japanese are carried about on the back f an elder sister or brother from the time they are a few months eld. The poorer the parents the sooner the baby is fastened on to the back of some ider member of the family, and it is not uncommon in the poorer quarters of a Japanese city to see a group of children six or eight years old playing in the streets, each of whom bears tiny baby sister or brother fastened with a few straps to its back. These straps are just sufficient to prevent the baby from falling to the ground, leaving the comfort of its pos-ture entirely to its own exertions. As a result the Japanese baby early gains a surprising control of its muscles, and it is almost impossible to drop even a tiny child from your arms, so does it cling on with both arms and

The dressing of a Japanese baby is miniature kimonos, the number varying with the condition of the weather.

These garments are stress weather. These garments are fitted one inside the other before they are put on. Then they are laid down on the floor, and is laid into them. They are long enough to cover the baby's feet, and the sleeves are also long enough to cover the hands. Practically there is only one garment, and the process of dressing a Japanese baby takes but two or three minutes of its mother's Dr. Rainsford was in the middle of his sermon when he chanced to look down from the high pulpit to where the members of the choir were seated in a large boxlike pew, screened from the congregation by a curtain. Much to the preacher's surprise, one of the men in the choir put his arm around a girl, drew her head down on his shoulder and then looked up at Dr. Rainsford and winked. The preacher stopped his sermon, walked down out of the pulpit and told the rector the members of the choir were acting outrageously. The rector walked up to the pew, drew down the curtain with a jerk and exposed the spooning couple to the view of the congregation.

Then Dr. Rainsford resumed his seroon. A minute later he chanced to look down the main aisle, and there, walking in solemn procession, were a hen and a dozen chicks. To crown it all, when the sexton tried to drive them out he was so drunk he fell right on top of the hen. And then from his place the old rector cried out: "Let her alone, John; she is doing no

Any one can increase the size of his chest two or three inches in as many months without the use of any apparatus or mechanical contrivance whatever. When he rises in the morning let him go out into the purest air he can find, raise his arms to the height of shoulders, the palms downward, then, while inhaling a deep breath, gradually extend them upward until the backs of the hands touch above his head. Do this a dozen times every morning, and the result will be a chest development that will surprise any one who has not made the experiment.

A Bishop's Musing.

It is what a man might have been which jars on what he is. When a man has once stood on the mount of when he has once heard the call of God to his soul and made answer, "Here am I," he can never go back to dwell in the valley of common place. The miasma there, to which ordinary men have become immune, is deadly to him.-From Maud Wilder Goodwin's "Four Roads to Paradise"

An Easy Lesson.

"I am supposed to die of a broken heart," said the unmanageable actress. Now, how am I to know how a person with a broken heart behaves?" "I'll tell you what to do," answered the plain spoken manager. "You study the author of this play after he sees your first performance of it."

FIRST USE OF GAS.

Way the Idea of Using It For Light Was Ridiculed.

Great was the amazement of all rope when at about the close of the century William Murdoch discovered that gas could be used for illuminating purposes. So little was the invention understood by those who had not seen understood by those who had not seen it in use that even the great and wise (?) men of the British parliament laughed at the idea. "How can there be light without a wick?" said one member of that august body, with a wink and a knowing nod. Even the great the Humphy Dawy ridiculed the great Sir Humphry Davy ridiculed the idea of lighting towns and cities with gas. He one day asked Murdoch, "Do you mean to use the dome of St. Paul's for your gas meter?" Sir Walter Scott also made merry of the gas idea and the coming attempt to "illuminate London with smoke from a tar fac-

When the house of con finally lighted with the new illuminant, the architect and custodian of the building, who imagined that the gas ran as fire through the pipes, insisted that they be removed so from the wall to prevent the building from taking fire! Several distinguishe members were also observed carefully touching the pipes with their gloved fingers and then smelling of them to see if they could detect the odor of burned leather.

INSTANT DEATH.

It Is Not So Quick but That the Mind

It is questionable if such a phenomenon as instant death is known to the scientist and investigator. Physicians and surgeons tell us that death by gunshot wound is the easiest mode of terminating life; yet, rapid as such a mode of taking off must necessarily the body has leisure to feel and time to reflect and on rare occasi

On the first attempt of one of the adherents of the Spanish monarch to assassinate William, prince of Orange, the ball passed through the bones his face and brought him to the ground. In the instant which preceded stupefaction, however, he was able to frame the notion that the ceiling of a room had fallen in and crushed him.

Another question in this connection is that of probable pain. Although numerous instances could be cited in support of the view that the mind acts in cases of so called instant death, it by no means follows that the infliction of a fatal blow is attended by the least semblance of pain or a single pang of fear or regret. Unless death results ately, however, the pain may be as varied as the nature of the insultans of Turkey and shahs of Per-sia have tried their best to put down oking. In Turkey, formerly, smoking was a crime punishable by the of-fenders having their pipes thrust through their noses, and in Russia in 1634 the noses of smokers were cut off. In Transylvania offenders were fined from 3 to 200 florins. In Berne, Swit-serland, 1661, where crimes were divided into sections according to the Ten Commandments, smoking was classed with adultery. The tribunal to put down smoking, called chambre-au tabac, continued to the middle of the eighteenth century. The climax was reached by Amarath IV., king of Per-

In England Elizabeth issued a prec lamation against smoking in 1584, and James' "counterblast against tobacce," with its pompous language, is well known. All through his reign it was a common stipulation that "no puffer tobacco" should be appointed school

Dandelion Wine.

Pick sufficient fresh flowers to meas ure three quarts when stemmed and pressed down. Rinse them in cold water place in a stone jar and pour over them four quarts of freshly boiling water. Let stand for two days, stirring four times a day: strain and to the liquid add three pounds of sugar and the pared yellow rind of one lemon; heat quickly and boil twenty minutes, add three gal-lons more of boiling water, set aside and when cold add two oranges pared and thinly sliced, the strained juice of one lemon, and one half of an yeast cake. Let stand for twenty-four hours, by which time it should be fermenting well; skim out the oranges pieces, add one pound of washed sultana raisins and turn into a keg or barrel if making on a large scale. Let it stand at least a nth before bottling.

Dainty Fried Toast.

Make a batter of one pint milk, one teaspoonful flour and one beaten egg. Dip into this stale sliced bread or biscuit an instant, and fry in ham drippings or any sweet fat or oil. The egg prevents bread from soaking the least bit of fat. Very appetizing and quickly

Ten-Minute Eggs.

Drop eggs into pan of boiling hot watis just warm, not hot) for ten minutes: of jelly consistency. Ham Puff.

Bring to a boil one-half cup flour wes in one cupful of sweet milk. When cold add two cups chopped ham (boiled ham) and four eggs beaten separately. Put in a baking dish and set in the oven in a pan of water and let the puff rise to the top of the pan (which will take from one-half to three-fourths of an hour), and then take out of the water and leave it in the oven until it is sufficiently browned. This quantity will fill a two-quart dish when baked. One-hast recipe enough for five persons. One cup of cold boiled rice could be used instead of paste for a change.

Codfish au Gratin Pick two cups of salt codfish into ting pieces. Cover with cold water and let it stand three hours. It is better to change the water once during that time. Drain and press out all the water. Make a cream sauce with two level spoonfuls of butter, two of flour, one cup of cream and one of milk. Add to this two tablespoonfuls of finely-grated cheese; mix carefully and well up with the fish Put in a shallow grating dish, sprinkle the top with cheese and brown in a hot oven. This may be used as a luncheon dish with the addition of cooked spin ach. Cook the spinach, chop it very fine and heat in a very little sauce cream Put in the bottom of the grating dish. Pour over the codfish and sprinkle with cheese as before and serve.

Rhubarb Pie.

Chop two teacupfuls of rhubarb and let stand ten minutes in water poured over it boiling hot, drain, and mix with the fruit a large teacupful of sugar, the yolk of an egg, a tablespoonful of butter and one flour, moistening with one crust, covering the top with narrow strips of pastry, crossed, or a meringue. GO MAD FROM MONOTONY.

Lighthouse-Keepers Often Suffer From the Inevitable Isolation.

People who read books-and all do in this day—will recall Kipling's story of the lonely lightkeeper who became mad from the monotony of his situation. While the story was fiction, it neverthe-Less was in accordance with many ac-tual occurrences. A correspondent submitted the question to the lighthouse Nard, and found that, while there had been no such cases as that of Kipling's character, Dowse, there had been many which showed the maddening effect of monotony and isolation upon the human

The madness of the lighthouse is much like that of the desert, for they are traceable to a like cause. In the desert there is monotony of silence. At sea there is monotony of sound. One is as bad as the other, since both derive their entire pain from mental effect. It is a fearful disease, not yet fully understood though many noted alienists have made lated, and communication with the outside world may be interrupted sometimes for months.

If a man is taken from the ordinary walks of life, where he mingles with his fellow man, and sent to a lighthouse where no human face is seen except that of the ever-present assistant, and no sound is heard save the roaring of the wind and wave, he has been transferred iom normal to most abnormal condi-

Sometimes melancholia attacks one of them, and unless cholia attacks one of them, and unless he is speedily relieved his mental balance is disturbed. When the disturbance becomes extreme it takes either a homicial or suicidal turn, and the unfortunate has to be watched closely and symetimes confined to keep him from doing volume to himself or others. colence to himself or others.

It is well known that the Minot Ledge light is noted for the number of men who have gone crazy in it, and for that crason is an object of interest to students of mental diseases. OLDEST CLOCK IN ENGLAND.

Erected in 1320 in One of the Towers of Peterborough Cathedral.

Peterborough Cathedral has the oldest working clock in England. It was erect ed about 1320 and is probably the work of a monastic clock maker. It is the only one now known that is wound up over an old wooden wheel. This wheel is an old wooden wheel. In wheel is about 12 feet in circumference, and the galvanized cable, about 300 feet in length, supports a leaden weight of 3 cwt., which has to be wound up daily. The clock is said to be of much more primitive construction than that made by llenry de Nick for Charles V. of France in 1370. The clock chamber is in the in 1370. The clock chamber is in the northwest tower, some 120 feet high, where the sunlight has not penetrated for hundreds of years, and the winding is done by the light of a candle. The gong is the great tenor bell of the cathedral, which weigns 32 cwt., and it is struck hourly by an 80-pound ham-mer. The gong and the striking parts of the clock are some yards apart, communication being by a slender wire. The clock has no dial, The time is shown on the main wheel of the escapement which goes round once in two hours.—

Able to Make Port, However, After Run of Thirty-six Hours,

The most remarkable case on record o an iceberg collision is that of the Guion liner Arizona, in 1879. She was then the greyhound of the Atlantic and the largest ship afloat—5,750 tons—except the Great Eastern. Leaving New York in November for Liverpool with 500 souls on board, she was cruising across the Banks, with fair weather, but dark, when near midnight, about 250 miles east of St. John's, she rammed a menster ice island at full speed—eighteen knots. Terrific was the impact and in escribable the alarm.

The passengers flung themselves from their berths, made for the deck as they tood, though some were injured as to be helpless, and the calls of these for-ward, added to the shrieks of the fren-zied mob of half-clad men and women who charged for the boats, made up a pandemonium. Wild cries arose that the ship was sinking, for she had settled by the head, and with piteous appeals and despairing exclamations, the passengers urged the boats over, that they might escape the death that they thought in-

But the crew were well in hand, -ne officers maintained order, and a hurried examination being made, the forward bulkhead was seen to be safe. The welcome word was passed along that the ship, though sorely stricken, would still loat until she could make a harbor. The vast white terror had lain acros her course, stretching so far each way that when descried it was too late to alter the helm. Its giant shape filled the foreground, towering high above the masts, grim and gaunt and ghastly, im-movable as the admantine buttress of a frowning seaboard, while the liner lurched and staggered like a wounded thing in agony as her engines slowly drew her back from the rampart against which she had flung herself.

She was headed for St. John's at slov speed, so as not to strain the bulkhead too much, and arrived there thirty-six hours later.

Her deck and forepart were cumbere with great fragments of ice, weighing over 200 tons in all, shattered from the perg when she struck, being so wedged into the fractures and gaps as to make it unwise to start them until she was docked. The whole population of St. John's lined the water front to witness her arrival.—McClure's Magazine.

WHEN ROYALTY IS ENTERTAINED In entertaining royalty many restricions must be observed. One strangest of these unwritten laws is that which forbids the use of finger bowls at dinner for any of the guests except the royal ones. This custom dates from the early days of the Georges, when the nobles were divided in their allegiance between the reigning house of Hanover and the exiled Stuarts. To many of these nobles allegiance to the Stuarts was a religion and often the outward acts of ellegi. and often the outward acts of allegi ance to the reigning sovereign were per-verted into treasonable acts of homage to the exiles. No dinner was complete without its toast to "the King" in those without its toast to "the King" in those days, to evade which was an act of treason punishable even with death and loss of titles and estates. The Jacobites, however, discoverd a way to avoid this penalty without sacrificing their loyalty. Holding the wine glass over the finger bowl, they draind the glass to "the King," with a mental reservation "over the water." This simple ruse was soon discovered and the use of fing bowls was forbidden

CORRESPONDENTS KICK.

Too Much Censoring Done and Too Much Hampered by the Japs.

General headquarters in the field, via Seoul, June 90, 8 p. m, (delayed in transmission).—There has been much dissatisfaction among newspaper correspondents over their status with the Japanese army, resulting in several protests to the staff. Finally written statements of their grievances was presented by the entire staff of correspondents here.

The statement complains of the cen-sorship of telegrams at Seoul and at Nagasaki, which the headquarters censor had already approved. It also complains of the strict enforcement of the rules framed by the general staff at Tokio, which prevents corresponden's in the field from sending details of what Tokio correspondents are often permitted to describe. The statement further requests that some freedom be granted correspondents in the matter of moving about and observing the opera-tions. The policy of the staff has been to suppress all information regarding the number and organizations which could give the enemy any clue of the size of the army opposing them. The Russian officers captured at the battle of the Yalu have displayed so much in-formation of importance regarding comarmy that the ese officers consider their policy of strict secrecy has been vindicated. Lieut. Albert Fuger, an American artillery officer, who was traveling on leave, at-tempted to visit headquarters of the Japanese army for the purpose of observation. Notwithstanding his cre-dentials he was escorted back to Antung from a half-way station.

London cable: A despatch to the Daily Mail from Feng Wang Cheng says that native reports state that a strong Russian force successfully attacked the Japanese on June 20 at Cheng, twenty-two miles north-f Feng Wang Cheng. Three hundred Chinese coolies were employed to remove the wounded.

The correspondent of the Chronicle at Feng Wang Cheng says that a superior force of Russians, with artillery, attacked a small Japanese force at Hsuehlitien, fiften miles northeast of Feng Wang Cheng. The Japanese deforded their resistion vicerously, but fended their position vigorously, but after a gallant stand they were driven back by weight of numbers. Further weight of numbers. Further fighting is expected.

FIGHTING CONTINUED.

2,000 Russians Killed or Wounded in

One Encounter. London cable says: The official news that can be regarded ou from Haiung yue-Cheng. The uncrous rumors received during the Lino-Tung Peninsula, preparatory to a march on Liao-Yang. The approach of ed from any unquestionable source. A New Chwang despatch, dated June 20, says that lighting continues south of Kaichau, and that it is apparently severe. On one encounter on June 18 at Huahahungko 2,000 Russians were killed or wounded, including five officers of high rank, who were buried with military honors at the Kaichau Railway station. Repeated reverses have checked the Russian movement south and caused a partial retirement to Kaichau, where there is now a great body of Russian troops of all arms. Many of the soldiers who have returned from the scene of the conflict were utterly demoralized. This badly affected their comrades. Forces detached from the main body are stated to be operating north of Vafangtien, watching for an opportunity to units and attack forcements will cover the entrench-ment of the men if practicable. It is a race between the latter and the Japanese to see who will reach Gen Stakelberg first.

THE KAICHAU FIGE.

Evident That Rumors of an Engagement Are Correct.

Liao Yang cable: The Japanes with their base at Siuyen, have evidently a strongly-established line between Kaichau and Yentai, and are protected on the east by the Saimachi line of on the east by the Saimachi line positions. It is evident that the positions. It is evident that the ru-mors of a battle northeast of Kaichau are correct, Japanese were during the past week sixteen reast of Kaichau, but they retired, east of Kaichau, but they retired, obviously for the purpose of awating developments arising from the situation created by the battle of Wafangkau. Unofficial reports state that the two armies lost touch after this battle, but it is suposed that Gen. Oku has now advanced northward by way of Fuchau and the coast road so as to enable the Japanese fleet to provision his army.

Eve-witnesses near the Russian lines at Vafangtien state that they have only once seen the Japanese, and then they only consisted of three horsemen, who appeared on the crest of a hill. They disappeared when fired upon by the Russians. A Russian officer declares that one of them, who resembled a British or an American attache, was seen to fall from his horse, apparently shot.

After the battle at Telissu the Ja-

They bivouacked on the positions the Russians had occupied, and then threw out outposts and the force withdrew towards the sea. movement is said to have been due to a want of supplies, as the army had only been provisioned for the battle. The situation in the northern part of the Liao-Tung Peninsula is now very important, Gen. Kouropatkin seems to be everywhere. It is believed that since Batle of Vafangtien he has visited the whole Russian front.

According to reports from the direction of Kaichau Gen. Oku, commanding the second Japanese army, is advancing along the west coast, probably protected by the fleet, as during the last engagement the fleet fired on railway, killing two Cossacks at the

The present movement of the Russians south along the railway shows their ability to prevent any landing when the are not opposed by a land force. Two Japanese armies threaten at every moment to join, assisted by the force on the north shore of the Gulf of Liao-Tung There has been much rain since June 16, rendering operations difficult. The rainy season has begun on the peninsula, but there may be another month of dry weather in the north. According to trustreports, the Japanese around Port Arthur are at present inactive. The Russians are evidently confident that the garrison can hold out so far as provisons are concerned.

Vladivostock. St. Pteersburg cable: In a despatch dated yesterday, Admiral Skrydloff says: "A torpedo boat division under Captain Vinegiradsky, aide to the Grand Duke Alexis, 'Commander-in-Chief of the Russian navy, was sent on an expedition to the coasts of Japan on June 15. It returned to Vladivostock to-day. The torpedo boats approached Esashi, on the Island of Hokkaido, but a fog prevented them from entering the port. They captured several trading schoone's and transport schooners. They brought one here for examination. Their papers and cargoes showed that a majority of these vessels were taking fish and rice to Sasebo and Saimonoscki.

NO ATTEMPT AT SORTIE.

If Port Arthur Falls Squadron Will Be Blown Up.

London cable: A despatch to the Times from Tokio says that accounts from Chinese sources indicate that thus far success has not attended the Russian from Chinese sources for Chinese sources for success has not attended the Russian attempts to free the entrance to Port Arthur. The recent passage of the Russian cruiser Novik was only accomplishing the help of tugs. Only torpedotic to leave. They sian cruiser Novik was only accomplished with the help of tugs. Only torpedoboat destroyers are able to leave. They are occupied in removing mines. Thirty new forts, armed with guns from the

JAPS AND MEDIATION.

Would Not Consider the Offer an Insult.

Cologne cable: 'Ine Gazette prints semi-official communique from Berlin which may be construed as the latest view of the German Foreign Office as to the eventual mediation between Russia and Japan. It says that the Rusiaan side has hitherto scornfully scouted the idea of mediation, and there is no indication of a change of attitude. dence has accumulated lately which reliable quarters to warrant the view that Japan is nowise averse to accepting on, and would not consider the mediation, and offer an insult.

BATTLE EXPECTED.

St. Petersburg Believes Kouropatkin is to Take the Offensive.

The main columns of the enemy are three miles in their rear.

The troops are in excellent condition, in spite of the fearful weather. The roads are ankle deep in mire, but the rains are now ceasing.

Gen. Kouropatkin arrived here Monday, inspected Gen. Stakelberg's corps and addressed the troops, saying: "I shall see you soon again. We must settle the Japanese promptly. Till then we are not going home."

The General also addressed the regiments which specially distinguished themselves in the recent fighting, and presented the St. George's Cross to 256 officers and men who were drawn up on the platform of the railroad" station, the platform of the railroad" station, the recent in the recent fighting, and the concentration of the Japanese forces south. In the opinion of many conservative military men, Kouropatkin's massing of troops at Kai Chou does not necessarily indicate his intention to give battle, but merely to check the Japanese sarily indicate his intention to give battle, but merely to check the Japanese advance and defer the occupation of New Chwang, the possession of which wauld be of great advantage to the Japanese during the rainy season, affording the enemy housing accommodation and enabling them to land supplies and harass the Russians. The occupation of Siung Yo Shan (25 miles southeast of Kai Chou), by a Japanese detachment, indicates that the connection between the enemy's armies is practically assured Siung Yo Shan is half way between Gen. Oku's and Gen. Kuroki's positions, at Siung Yo Shan is half way between Gen. Oku's and Gen. Kuroki's positions, at Senuchen and Siu Yen respectively. In the opinion of the general staff, the Si Yung Ho Shan detachment is another force recently landed at Shen Ti Tse (15 miles southwest of Taku Shan.) The roads from Siu Yen and Ching Tai Tso pass Siung Ho Shan, whence they proceed respectively to Senuchen and Kai Chou. The information of the War Office accounts for the position of 12 Japanese divisions. According to the latest reports, Oku's main army is still several ports, Oku's main army is still severa miles south of Senyuchen.

DISCUSSED COMPENSATION.

License Holders' Protective Asociation's Meeting.

Toronto despatch: The most repre sentative convention of the Ontario License Holders' Protective Association in ten years was held yesterday in St. George's Hall. About 150 delegates were present, from points west as far a Windsor and east to Cornwall and north west from Rat Portage. The reports of the Secretary, Mr. E. Dickie, and of the Evecutive Committee dealt with the question of compensation, and insisted that where a license is cancelled through no fault of the license holde both the owner of the property and the tenant should be compensated. The dis cussion on the subject took up a good share of the afternoon and evening ses sions. Future legislation in regard to the liquor trade was dealt with, and the reports showed that the Executive is determined to make every effort to safe-guard the interests of the members of the association. Both reports were ad
