LESSON IL-APRIL 12, 1908. Raising of Lazarus .-- John II: 1-57

COMMENTARY .-- I. Christ cometh t any (vs. 1-31). Jesus had no home is own, but he often rested at the es of his friends. The home of 7, Martha and Lazarus was one of Mary, his homes. Only a few weeks before the time of this lesson Christ visited this family at Bethany (Luke 10:38-42). Soon after Jesus had left them Lazarus was taken sick (v. 1). The sisters at once sent a message to Jesus (v. 3). They made no request, but the message itself was a prayer, "Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick." Jesus waited days after receiving the news of dangerous illness of Lazarus before starting to Bethany (v. 6). He was ac-companied by his disciples, who felt they were going into great danger on account of the hostile feeling of the Jews against their Master (vs. 8, 16). Jesus arrived at Bethany when Lazarus had been dead and buried four days (v. 17), the burial, according to the Jewish custom, taking place on the same day on which he died. Martha first heard that Jesus was comwent to meet him just outside the vil-lage (vs. 20, 30). She greeted him with was dead.—Ibid. 43. Loud voice—He those words of sorrowful despair— "Lord, if thou hadst been here my broth-er had not died" (vs. 21, 22). But even then there was a dawn of hope in her heart, from her experience of the power of Jesus. Jesus replied with the assur-ance that he was "the resurrection and or jesus. Jesus replied with the assur-ance that he was "the resurrection and the life," and prepared her for the great work he was about to do (vs. 23-27). When Martha's faith and hope were as-sured, Jesus bade her go and bring her sister, with the message: "The Master is come and calleth for thee" (v. 28). Jesus eems to have avoided going to less as come and calleth for thee" to be an an individual person that died shall rise again at the last day." 44. Bound hand and foot—Probably each by as a martely bound as weag the Jesus seems to have avoided going to the house, because so many Jews were Egyptian custom. Loose hin there. His work of comfort and instruction could best be done with the sisters alone. "He did not come to join in fu-meral lamentations, but to take away the need of them."

II. Christ's compassion (vs. 32-37). 32. fell down—Oriental wailing is said by travellers to be indescribable. "After the burial the women still go to the tomb in the early morning, where they pray, weep, sob, chant hymns, and beat their breast. This mourning continues (Heb. 5; 7); as a prophet, over the the burial the women stin go to the tomb in the early morning, where they pray, weep, sob, chant hymns, and beat their breast. This mourning continues thus violently for three days, and then for four more feastings and wailings are the prominent characteristics." if thou hadst been here—"These words express the very essence of soul torture at such times. Chicago, April 6 .- "Feed this famished soul that has perished hourly in the wilderness of plenty for a little love, a little sympathy, a tender thought, a fond caress. Do this, and I swear I'll worshin you, love you, live for you, die for you."

Members of the Social Economics Club, of which Mrs. Lillyan Shaffner is the "chief of police," turned to this passage in her recent Chicago society novel, "Suzanne," when they learned she had filed a petition in the circuit court asking separate maintenance from her hus-band, Attorney Benjamin M. CHAPTER I.

Neville Lynns leaned back on his, pick, and, wiping the perspiration from his face, gazed in a ruminative, not to say melancholy, fashion across the plain. It was not a particularly pleasant vlew; in fact, it was as hideous as can be imagined, and would have given a scene in our own English black country points and heaten it easily. For it was scene in our own English black country points, and beaten it easily. For it was an Australian gold field; an arid, dusty plain, which would have been ugly at any time, but was randered simply ap-pelling by the dirt, confusion, squaler and poverty of a digger's camp. The sun had been glaring dewn upon this cheerful prospect during the whole of what had seemed an endless day, and was now sinking in a bed of fire, to stoke up for the next day's scorching. There were a few trees in the valley, but not a parched leaf of them moved. A fird or two flew listlessly across the waste, but dropped with heavy wings on not a parched leaf of them moved. A first or two flew listlessly across the waste, but dropped with heavy wings on to the scorching rocks or the cracking tent poles. If they had dropped into the tents themselves no man would have molested them, for every man was too tired, too dead beat and utterly ex-heavid even to heave down a bird.

hausted even to knock down a bird. A group of horses, whose bones stood out under their skins like the lines of a out under their skins like the lines of a Gothic cathedral, stood sleepily in what remained of the river, and the only unds that broke the natural stilln sounds that broke the natural stillness of this aggravating, soul-crushing heat were the click of a pick in some claim, the listless bark of a dog, and now and again a feeble shout from Sandy Macagain a lecoue shout from Sandy load gregor's grog tent, where some men ware drowning care, and poisoning themselves with the liquid which Mr. Macgregor, with a facetiousness which was beyond all praise, called "whiskey."

all praise, called "whiskey." Lorn Hope Camp was very much down on its luck. There was gold in the ravine, everybody believed, or said he did, but for some weeks past no man had succeeded in finding it, and but for the heat what remained of Lorn Hope Camp would here up stick and denarted for would have up sticks and departed for some other Hope less forlorn; but the heat had burned up the energy, melted the purpose, sapped the perseverance of nearly all, and the men of Lorn Hope Camp still clung on, digging occasionally. sleeping often, quarrelling at times and drinking whiskey always.

Neville Lynne's "claim" was at the end Nevalie Lynnes "claim" was at the end of the ravine, half an hour or more from the camp at which he gazed. A rough hut of planks and canvas stood at a little distance, and in this Neville and his partner and an old woman-so old that the "boys" had christened her Mrs. Meth, as short for Methuselah — had lived. "Had," for the evening before Nøville's partner, disgusted by the run of bad luck, had cleared out and departed.

Why Neville Lynce had not gone, too he could not have told. His belief in the presence of this hidden gold was certainly no stronger than that of the other diggers, and as certainly he had not grown to love the hideous, sandy, dusty, sun stricken plain; but something, some feel-ing he could not have defined if his life had depended upon his doing so, had made him reluctant to leave the Lorn Hope, and there he stood, penniless, soli-tary and most utterly bored, on the edge of his barren claim, with the last rays

Hope, and there he stood, penniless, soil-tary and most utterly bored, on the edge of his barren claim, with the last rays of the sun spitefully smiting him on the head, and the flies buzzing round his cers. There were two reasons why Neville I Lynne's claim was at a distance from the ream. The first was because he believed in the upper part of the ravine; the sec-ond, because he was different from the rest of the men who composed Lorn Hope.

To put it shortly, the young fellow plain. -he was very young, younger than he booked, a mere lad just under twenty— was a gentleman, and the rest of the marked the doctor, squatting on his gentleman.

than a smile or a civil "Good morning" from him. "The young un's as full of pride as Mac's whiskey is of fusel oil," remarked the wit of the camp; 'that's' what's the matter with him. Shouldn't be surprised if he was a young dook in disguise. Some of these days he'll skip around with a coronet on his head and then flop up to heaven. That is, if some of the boys don't get too much of his pride and bore a hole through many, doubtless, would have liked to have perforated the young un, no one had yet attempted it; the reflection that he was a very quick hand at the perforating process himself de-terred the desperadoes. "The sun sank at last, and Neville, as if he had been waiting for its disappearance, dropped into the hole and resumed work. But there was not much heart in his strokes, and he selzed the appearance of a solitary figure coming slowly across the plain toward him as an excuse for stopping again, and, once more leaning upon bin big nick, waited and emised.

the plain toward him as an excuse for stopping again, and, once more leaning upon his pick, waited and gazed. The man came up with a lagging gait and threw himself down on the edge of the hole. He was inexpensively attired in a pair of trousers made out of meal sacks, a shirt frayed and torn and rather blacker than a tinker's boots, which no self-respecting tramp in England or America would have deigned to pick up. and a chimney-pot hat so battered and mapless and ormicess as to convey the idea that the man who would wear it

The doctor stared at the handsome sun-browned face with its short, crisp hair looking almost yellow against the darkened skin and the clear blue eyes that met him squarely, and then let his own blinking, undecided ones drop into the pit. "Seems as if there weren't any mor camp were not.

Now, the one gentleman in a society of blacklegs, lags, roughs and ruffians is always regarded by them with a certain t of envy, malice and uncharitableness. It is very painful and disadvan tageous to be the only honest and wellbred man in a party, whether it is a picnic party or a party of gold diggers, and it was very much to the relief of the majority that Neville pitched his tent a mile and a half from the main body. And yet, though they regarded him with a groundless dislike, and a not altogether groundless envy, they respected him. There was not a reckless, desperate. dare-devil among them who possess more pluck than the young 'un, as he was called. He was, in their expressive language, "all grit," and they knew that was as ready with his revolver and his fists as any of them, and though slow at beginning a fight, was slower still at leaving off.

On his first joining the camp Bully Swanger— a regular desperado—had "gone for him" with the altogether un-"gone for him" with the altogether un-looked for result of laying the bully on his back for rather more than a fort-night, and since then the young 'un had been severely let alone. There were some, the best of the crew, who would have been friendly with the lad who had "In" effectively shown that he could hold so effectively shown that he could hold his own, but oil and vinegar will not mix easily, and though Neville Lynne was civil and courtecus to all, he was not "sociable."

"Confound it!" growled Mr. Stubb as they started off to the theatre. "What is the trouble now?" queried

Mrs. Stubb, buttoning on her gloves. "Why, I have broken my cigar. Isn't that too bad?" "Well, I should say so. It is too bad to smoke in my company. Throw it away, John." And Mr. Stubb never said another word the entire evening.

He Hung on to the Record. A fish story I heard while camping involves an old man who had little regard for the truth. Two young men made it up to go to the old gentleman's house and outgeneral him by telling the biggest lie to the old man, who held the record. After being at the old man's house some time one of them asked the old gentleman if he had heard about the big fire. He said he had not and asked them where it was. The young man told him a gasoline launch had exploded on the river and the whole river was on fire. The old man sat quiet for a moment, then turn-ed to his wife and said, "Mother, I told you something terrible had happened up the river today when I caught that catfish with his fins all burned off."

vangelists in Athens, and will be found clear and concise promulgation of the doctrine they are teaching :---

The word Pentecost is probably attracting more attention to-day than at any time since Apostolic days It is evident that the disciples previous to Pentecost were in a good state of grace, for Jesus said in John 15: 3, 4. "Now ye are clean through the word I have spoken unto you. Abide in me and I in you." And in John 17, 16, they them). are not of the world even as I am not of the world; ver. 18, As thou hast sent me into the world even so have I also sent them into the world; ver. 22, the glory which thou gavest me I have given them, and in John 20:21, 22, Peace be unto you; as my father hath sent me even so end I you, and when He had said this He breathed on them and saith unto them, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost.'

In Acts 1, 14-These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication. It is evident they were cleansed before the day of Pentecost. Now Jesus commanded them to tarry at Jerusalem for the promise of the Father, and, in the last verse of Matthew, to teach the people to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. John the Baptist in Matthew 3:11 says, He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire. In Acts 2:38, 10, 45, Peter calls it the gift of the Holy Ghost, and Jesus said in Acts 1:5, ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence. Now when the disciples tarried as commanded and the day of Pentecost had fully come, Acts 2, 4, THE WORD OF GOD SAYS they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance. WITH-UT THE SPEAKING IN OTHER ongues no man could say he received the baptism just as the disciples did. Verse 6-When this was noised abroad the multitude came together and were confounded beause every man heard them speak his own tongue.

NOTICE PARTICULARLY-It was when this was noised abroad that the multitude came together and were confounded because they heard them speak in other tongues. It was not the rushing wind or the cloven tongues of fire that confounded them for all this had transpired before the multitude came together. Verse 16, Peter said to the multitude THIS IS THAT which was spoken by the prophet Joel, how in the last days God said he would pour out of his spirit upon all flesh. Verse 33, He hath shed forth this WHICH YE NOW SEE AND HEAR. All this was said to the multitude who had come together after Pentecost had fully come to the 120, and it was ample proof what they had seen and heard was the speaking in other tongues, for we have no record that any but the 120 were in the upper room when the rushing mighty wind and cloven tongues of fire came.

In the Samaritan revival, Acts 8 : 17, 18, 19, Dr Adam Clarke, Benson, Henry and other commentators agree that the speaking in other was what Simon attra

Jesus said in Mark 16 : 17. THESE I have discovered that the Spirit SIGNS SHALL FOLLOW THEM THAT BELIEVE; in my name they shall in bestowing "the gift of tongues" is different from merely "speaking cast out devils; they shall speak in tongues." The gift is permanent, the speaking in tongues only oc-casionally. The gift has to be sought; the other is not sought— Some are stumbling over what is meant by a believer. A true believer is one who believes in the full only the baptism is sought-and Gospel; when he receives the light when it is received He speaks in he obeys the last command of Jesus tongues. The gift is not bestowed on all, but distributed; the tongues and tarries until the promise of the Father is fulfilled in him. He believes Jesus meant just what he said upon all who receive the baptism-

FACTS

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

No other medicine has been so uccessful in relieving the suffering of women or received so many genuine testimonials as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In every community you will find women where we been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every one you meet has either been benefited by it, or has friends who have. In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., any woman any day may see the files containing over one mil-lion one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, and here are the letters in which they openly state over their own signa-tures that they were cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable mpound is made from roots and herbs, without drugs, and is whole some and harmless. The reason why Lydia E. Pink-am's Vegetable Compound is so ham's successful is because it contains in-gredients which act directly upon the feminine organism, restoring it to a healthy normal condition.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Their Life is No Joke.

Normandy and Brittany together are Normandy and Brittany together are the land of legends and romance, but there is a noticeable difference in the people. The Breton is stalwart in sta-ture and stern and serious in disposi-tion. He has hewed his life out amid the serious things and along the rocky roads. His bronzed face looks austere, but beneath his blue blouse beats a heart warm and true. The primitive simplicity of his life and the intenseness of his religion gives the Breton short view of of his life and the intenseness of his religion gives the Breton short view of the frivolities of existence. He carries his religion into his daily life and work, and along all the roads are gaudy crici-fixes, which the pensants, never pass without kneeling and crossing them-selves.

Life is a serious problem to the Breton. It is homespun for him even though the rest of France may be ar-rayed in silks. The French Tramp.

The vagabond who is kin to the wolf is a special product of Latin civilization. You do not meet him in England or Germany, though something like him exists among the half-yellow Slavs of Russia. He is eminently Latin. In every sense of the word he is a rebel against society. He has had some education-few French men can escape it; he has read a little, perhaps, enough to kindle his brain of a wolf; and he has kindle his brain of a wolf; and he has two aims in life-to live the free life of the wolf on the hill, and to injure as much as he can that great, monstrous law-driven machine, civilization. The lonely farm houses are defenceless against him. When all are busy afield he creeps in and pillages. If need be he kills. He has a distinct hatred for those who work and garner. As he passes he fires the hay-ricks-barns and buildings go up in amoke. That is where the Lot go up in smoke. That is where the Lat-in shows in him. Once out of the law he is an Anarch. So long as he is cross he is an Anarch. So long as ne is cross-tied in imnumerable acts of parliament, the Latin is merry and amiable; when the ropes are off he makes revolution---or fires hay-ricks--From "The Vaga-

STRIFE AMONG BLACKS.

Negro Factions Quarrelling at Port an Prince.

Paris, April 6.-Advices received by the French Government from Hayti dicate that the state of chaos which prevails at Port au Prince is accentuated by the strife existing among the negro factions there. The landing of troeps from the foreign warships now in Haytien waters is expected if the lives of the white in-habitants are endangered. Several ad-ditional refugees in fear of summary execution have fled to the French Lega-tion, where they have been given asylum asylum.

A despatch from Port au Prince states that executions by the Government still continue there. Among others shot yesterday, says the despatch, was Arzeno Chevry, a writer and poet. The French Legation has made preparations to resist an attack.

SANKEY'S SON HAS PARESIS.

Daughter-in-Law Asks Court For Guardianship Over Husband.

New York, April 6.-Mrs. John K. Sankey, wife of the eldest son of Ira D. Sankey, the singing evangelist, to day applied to Justice Hendrick, of the Supreme Court, to be appointed guardian for her husband, who is in Rivercrest for her husband, who is in Rivercrest Asylum in Astoria. In her petition Mrs. Sankey cites the affidavit of the physician in charge of the sanitarium, which described Sankey as having a hallucination that he is the greatest man living and also the creator of the world. Sankey is suffering from paresis. His father, now well into the seventies lives in Brooklyn, paralyzed and blind.
