A Boy and His Chum.

If we should be shipwrecked together

And only had water for one.

Right out in the boiling sea.

He'd tell me no matter how bad he Might want it to take a drink first!

And then he would smile - oh, so glad he

Had saved me! - and perish from thirst!

Or if we should chance to be fighting

On the opposite sides of the war,

And I was a spy with the writing

Which by chance he got hearing fit,

He'd run himself through with his sword!

Or if we were lost on the prairie

And only had food for a day.

He'd come and would give me the share he

Had wrapped up in his winter over!

And after late it with sadness

He'd come through the rear and his breath

And lay himself down in full gladness

To save me - and stare right to death.

And if I was wounded in battle

And lay there with my very last breath,

He'd come and would give me the rifle

Of guns and of bullets to me.

He'd carry me out full of glory,

His master what trouble he had!

And then he would fall down, all grey

With wounds, and would die - but be glad!

We're chums - that's the reason he'd do it.

And that's what a chum ought to be,

And if it was he'd go through it.

If I should just call him to me.

You see, other fellows may know you.

And friends that you have got and come,

But a boy has one boy he can go to

For help in the time - that's his chum!

The Prevention of Diphtheria.

(Issued by the Department of the Public Health, Nova Scotia.)

During the past few weeks there appears to have been an unusual prevalence of diphtheria throughout the province. While the antitoxin treatment of this disease has robbed it of much of its terror, it nevertheless remains one of the most fatal of the infectious diseases and one which we rightly hold in great dread. Undoubtedly the principal reason for the present prevalence of diphtheria is the failure to recognize, as diphtheria, apparently simple cases of sore throat.

So long as the disease remains in any community, every case of sore throat should be looked upon with suspicion and should be referred to a physician for his opinion as to its nature, before the sufferer is allowed to mingle with others. Inasmuch as children are particularly subject to diphtheria,

the daily routine examination of the throats of school children would be of the utmost assistance in securing the early recognition of cases, and the prompt institution of protective measures, especially in the extreme importance of regarding every case of sore throat as being probably diphtheria, and treating it as such until the diagnosis can be established beyond doubt.

The Department of Public Health,

Nova Scotia, issues a leaflet containing instructions as to the measures to be adopted by those who have to care against the spread of the disease.

Copies of this leaflet may be obtained from any Medical Health Officer throughout the province, or from the Provincial Health Officer, Halifax.

Laughter in Court.

For an hour and a half the cross examination had continued. Counsel and witness both were growing wary and impatient - the witness, because to him the counsel's questions

all seemed irrelevant; counsel because he could not get the witness to give a straight answer to a plain question.

'Now,' he demanded, 'were you or were you not in the plaintiff's office at 4 p. m. on this particular afternoon?'

'I had been,' replied the exasperated witness, 'how -'

'But before he could go further, the counsel interrupted him.

'I want no explanations,' he rapped out, 'merely a plain answer. I suggest that you give in the plaintiff's office. Is that so?'

The witness obediently shook his head.

'Well,' continued the barrister,

'I've answered you, returned the witness: 'I should say so.'

'Yes, yes, I know you did. I heard it rattle, but wasn't sure whether it was up and down, or from side to side.

Now a plain answer, please! Yes or no?'

A bread line 500 miles long, with 1,500,000 people absolutely destitute, and 5,000,000 more fast drawing to ward the end of their resources, is the description given by the Vice President of the Commission for Relief in Belgium of conditions in that unhappy country.

Parliamentary institutions are running to seed in the Provinces of Canada for lack of men strong enough to work them. Legislatures everywhere are becoming one man affairs, like a board of directors in the average company.

The War Taxes.

Few people in Canada will be able to escape the special war taxes, and yet so carefully are these taxes being applied that we will be surprised if they become a burden, except perhaps in very rare cases.

It will cost a cent more to send a letter or a postal card than formerly, but it is not so very long ago that we paid three cents to send all our letters in Canada or to the U. S. and thought nothing of it.

To travel on trains will be a little more expensive than formerly because of these special taxes, but even in this instance the average man or woman will hardly feel the effect of the tax unless the distance he or she is travelling be very great.

These articles, so very generally in use all over the country, will pay no higher duties than at present, and the price should therefore not advance. As a result of this advance of the tariff the finance minister hopes to realize $25,000,000.

Speaking of these special taxes the Toronto Mail and Empire says:— "To the increase in all but a few of the existing customs duties there will be no popular objection. The weight of these additions will not be felt by the great body of the consumers, and they will not detract materially from any dealer's profits.

Similarly the special taxes will fall lightly on those who have to pay them. We feel assured that there will be really loyal acceptance of the new taxes, and that everyone who is to contribute will do so with patriotic goodwill.

It is in such a spirit the new taxes should be received. The country can do wonders if it acts in that spirit throughout the war. It can be depended on to answer this and every other call to duty in the present crisis of the Empire.

Words Worth Heeding.

The writer of this war summary would like to impress upon readers of service age that the war is far from over—that so far as the participation of the British Empire is concerned it can scarcely be said to have begun. There are not less than eleven million men today engaged actively in war.

Not one in twenty is British. Of native born Canadians in the regular army and in the Princess Patricia's regiment—the only one yet at the front—there are about 500 men who have been under fire. The entire first contingent has not in its ranks 30 per cent of native born Canadians.

The proportion is a good deal better in the second, now in training, but it is disappointing to learn that in rural Ontario the recruiting for the third contingent has been a failure. In the cities and larger towns the response has been excellent, but nearly one in four of the number required from smaller places has come forward.

Do the young men of rural Canada understand that Belgium, France, Russia and Serbia are fighting not only for the security of their own lands, but for the maintenance of Canadian Liberty? We shall not do any more to destroy German will than by staying 'Tipperary' at home.

Already the R. M. Dunlop and B. C. Railway runs to within 50 miles to the Peace, with its present terminus at McEwan, 267 miles north of Edmonton. From there about a track of 75 miles west to the Spirit River country, and 50 miles beyond to the Grand Prairie, while the Peace River country extends northward anywhere from 100 miles to 150 miles to your imagination will

A Hostile Holland.

There is little doubt that, but for prostrate Belgium on its door, Holland would long since have been fighting with the allies against the Kaiser. For years the Dutch have feared German aggression. They have regarded the network of strategic railways built up to the frontier line with suspicion, and they have resisted the persistent efforts of Berlin to secure control of the Dutch ports, waterways and banking organizations.

The army of Holland, 112,000 strong, has been kept fully mobilized ever since the war broke out, and it will be sent against the Kaiser's legions in case of any overt breach of neutrality.

The people of Holland know that if the Germans were to succeed in permanently annexing Belgium their own country would be swallowed up next. Hence it is that, while the Dutch are 'very neutral,' their whispered slogan is 'Down with the Kaiser.'

The London Chronicle says that Dutch men and their wives and families have gone Tipperary mad. Go where you will, from crowded cities to remote villages, you hear the tune sung, whistled, played, in crashing chorus in the music halls, in the tinkling notes of the street organ, in the shrill insistence of the schoolboys' whistle, the compelling quick step finds new and fearful life.

The Dutch sentry hums it at his frontier post, the Dutch boatman swings his oar to its rhythm, and in the night watches the Dutch policeman murmurs the melody to the dripping rain. In Holland 'Tipperary' is more than a song; it is a symphony in sympathy; a popular means of expressing a popular sentiment.

The Chronicle's correspondent in Rotterdam writes: 'During the last two or three months I have watched the growing favour of the Dutch for the cause of the allies; and the stronger that feeling grows the more the Dutch sing Tipperary.'

Already the German press, ever sensitive to independent thought, has glimpsed the growing friendliness of the Dutch people for hated England and articles, first reproachful, then bitter have appeared in Berlin and provincial papers complaining that the official neutrality of the Dutch government has no response among the Dutch people.

Two weeks ago I heard a German hiss when Tipperary was played in a public dancing room. I can still recall his expression of angry amazement when he was roughly hustled down the stairs. It is a significant fact that the revealing of Dutch sympathy with the allies coincides with a pronounced desire for peace among the German community here.

Like other nations antagonized by German perfidy and brutality Prussian militarism has earned the growing hostility of an awakened world—a world which cannot rest again until the great Disturber of its Peace has been finally crushed.

Alberta Notes.

DEAR ACADIAN.—A few items of news from this Northland may interest your readers.

Up to the present we have had an ideal winter; not a blizzard, not a thaw, just steady fine weather for the most part, with occasionally a snow fall sufficient to keep the sleighing in excellent condition.

Like all other parts of our Dominion there is a scarcity of work for those who depend on lumbering, teaming or work about the town; and a dearth of money for industrial prospects. The consequent holding up of business in the making, and in course of expansion, has wrought great hardship to both masters and men, for in many cases business has not yet had time to get on a solid basis in this new country.

However, there is a spirit of optimism that seems ready to cope with the situation. Better times will no doubt follow.

During the winter there has been an abundance of farm products of all kinds offering at very cheap rates, for the purchasing power of the city consumer has been curtailed. In my locality, 50 miles north of Edmonton, dressed pork has sold at 8c. per lb., live chickens 10 to 12c., hens 9c., turkey 16c., oats 35c., hay, wild, $4 per ton, timothy $7, with about $5 higher for pressed. Prices are now stiffening and farmers are having a better outlook. A very large area will be seeded to grain this spring, and seeding should commence early as the ground has been well covered with snow since the middle of December.

Many farmers are adding to their dairy herds, the feed in this section being most luxuriant throughout the summer with considerable open ranges.

Settlement of new country. Homesteads have been pretty well taken up near the railway line and away westward across the Pembina and Red rivers as far as the upper reaches of the Athabasca, where a broken country and lack of roads has halted, for the time being, the onward march of settlement in that direction. But every north, 100 miles and more, another big agricultural country is filling up, the Grand Prairie, Spirit and Peace River districts, said to be equal to the best in Alberta.

Already the Edmonton Dunlop and B. C. Railway runs to within 50 miles to the Peace, with its present terminus at McEwan, 267 miles north of Edmonton. From there about a track of 75 miles west to the Spirit River country, and 50 miles beyond to the Grand Prairie, while the Peace River country extends northward anywhere from 100 miles to 150 miles to your imagination will carry. Beside the present railway others are heading for this immense territory of the north. The second to reach it will be the Pacific and Eastern, running from Vancouver northward through British Columbia. At the eastern boundary of B. C. it is expected to link up with the present R. D. & N. C. road, making a continuous line between Edmonton and the Pacific through the northern belt.

An Empire is here in the making; an Empire of wheat and meat and dairy products.

While these most illustrious areas will produce their wealth of grain and other products I do not think that large fortunes, counted in dollars, can generally be assured to the settler on these lands. The product will be too great and the distance from tide-water too far to ensure more than a living wage for the producer but for the man who is content with a fair return for his labor a happy home in a splendidly healthy climate this is a very good country for such a man.

Nova Scotia, however, has many advantages in her fine geographical position and easy shipping facilities. The problem here is not how to grow a crop but how to get it shipped out without heavy expense.

PATRIOTISM and PRODUCTION The Empire's Call to Farmers

"Approximately twenty million men have been mobilized in Europe. A large proportion of these have been withdrawn from the farms of the countries at war. Even in neutral countries large numbers of food producers have been called from the land to be ready for emergencies. It is difficult for us to realize what will be the effect on food production through the withdrawal of several million men from all the great agricultural countries of Europe.

HON. MARTIN BURNELL, Minister of Agriculture.

Britain must have food—food this year, and food next year. Britain is looking to Canada to supply most of that food. We are sending our surplus now, but we must prepare for a larger surplus this year and next year.

ATTEND YOUR CONFERENCE

Because of this need of the Empire for more food, and the call to Canada in that need, the Canadian Department of Agriculture has arranged for a series of Conferences throughout the Dominion with the object of giving suggestions as to the best ways of increasing production of the various products needed at this time.

Put Energy into Production of Staple Foods

The Government does not ask farmers to work harder, so much as it urges them to make their work more productive, and to produce those staple foods that the Empire most needs and that can be most easily stored and transported.

Europe, and particularly Britain, will need the following staple foods from Canada more than ever before:—Wheat, oats, corn, beans, peas, lentils, barley, clover and hay, Cheese and butter.

The 'Academy Players' were welcomed by a full house at the Opera House on Monday evening and their performance was pronounced by many as the best yet. 'Officer 666,' a melodramatic farce by Augustus MacHugh, was decidedly well produced and most enjoyable. The play differs from some farces in that there is practically none of what the dramatic critics classify as low comedy or buffoonery. The continual flow of humor appealed to the audience and every rally was keenly appreciated. The 'players' may be assured of a warm welcome on their next appearance.

Prof. E. MacKay, of the Chemistry Department of Dalhousie University, lectured before the Acadia Science Club on Tuesday evening. The subject was a well chosen one and rendered in Prof. MacKay's pleasing style. 'The Anglo Saxon and Teuton in Science' was a comparison of the relative contributions to science, of two great races now at war, and appealed to the patriotism as well as the love of science of the audience. Although Germany had boasted that her citizens were morally and intellectually superior to all and that in science her contributions surpassed the world, Prof. MacKay showed that the greatest inventions, discoveries and researches had been performed by English speaking people.

A Bad Boy—Arrested.

You have heard of that fellow who lead other boys in a raid on the apple orchard, who organised a shooting brigade having window panes or electric light lamps for target. Well, he ought to be arrested—not by a policeman but by a pastor, teacher or other interested citizen. Send him to Halifax March 5th to 7th—not a jail but a Boys' Work Conference where Alexander, of Chicago, and Stetten, of Toronto, will show him some big boys' stunts really worth while. Three hundred boys are expected to face squarely a task big enough for any boy and then a call to the best that is in him. Afterwards he will return home with a definite program for service in his Sunday School and community. Watch him next as he leads a gang of fellows to the weedy widow's back yard to cut some wood for her. See him organize the boys for clean sport and a fair game.

Can you arrest such a boy? If so write for particulars to Rev. H. J. Crowdie, 565 Gorington street, Halifax.

Sunshine vs. Drink.

One of the great reform works in England, confined to women alone, but the principle of which equally applies to men, is being conducted by Lady Henry Somerset at the little village of Daxhurst. It is the reclaiming of women lost in the desolation of woe brought on by strong drink.

The most disgusting and revolting sight on earth, Lady Somerset thinks, is a woman drunk. In her disolute being, humanity seems to have sunk to its lowest. A man, drunk, is bestial. A woman, by so far as she rises above man in her diviner hours, sinks, when she is drunk, so far beneath him in her depravity.

Only the eye of faith could have seen, as did Lady Henry Somerset, the possibility of redeeming those lost from distraction. Hundreds of rosy, healthy, happy, respectable English women are shedding abroad the light that has come from Lady Somerset's village at Daxhurst, who once had sunk to the seeming lowest depths of depravity.

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelled Backache, Headaches and Dizziness.

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very grateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness, I had backache, pain in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I was hardly able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have any suffering from these distressing troubles, or if you would not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore your health.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham, Medford, N. J. (consultation) Lynde, Mass. It is entirely free and confidential, and you will receive a return card and book in which you can read the names of the women who are suffering from these distressing troubles, or if you would not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore your health.

What Have You Spun.

Now hushed the whirl of the spindles,
The factory day is done,
Home to your wives and children,
Take them what you have won,
Spin, spin, spin, in the morning,
Spin, spin, spin, all the day—
Ye are spinning big towns and ugly,
Ye are spinning the green to grey,
Ye are making money and markets,
Ye are making sinners and dirt,
Are ye spinning life to goodness?
Are ye spinning it to hurt?
Thick is the town around you,
Dreadful and drear and dull!
With steam and smoke and stenches
Your streets and souls are full!
Spin, spin! ok at the children—
Are these the things ye are spinning,
Woe and disease and sin?
Slums and vice and squalor,
Wretchedness and rage,
Are these the things ye are spinning
Out of your cotton bags?
But hushed and still are the spindles,
The darkened day is done.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Moderate Drinking.

Dr. G. VonBame, professor of Physiology in the University of Basel, Switzerland, says truly:

"Every drunkard was once a moderate drinker and everyone who leads others by his example to moderate drinking leads some of them to immoderate drinking. He sets a stumbling block which it is out of his power to stop. It is not the drunkard who has to bear the reproach of seducing others. The seducers are the moderate drinkers, and as long as the seduction continues, in moderate drinking, with its consequences, disease, insanity and crime, will continue. Anyone who is not aware of this does not know the history of the battle against drunkenness."

The chief cause of drinking is the tendency to imitate. The first glass of beer does not taste any better than the first cigar. Men drink because others drink. When once they have formed the habit there is no lack of excuse for repeated drinks.

From the first glass to insanity, crime, despair, suicide, there are a thousand stages of misery. Only those who sink to the lowest levels are taken account of by statistics. We must not forget also that all of these miseries spoil the happiness of others. How much family happiness is lost how many tears of innocent fellow sufferers, how much deep ranking pain of which no intimation is to be found in statistics.

"What shall we say to the man who thinks to himself: Let millions of my fellowmen every year languish in hospitals and asylums; let millions plunge themselves and their families into ruin, so long as I get my glass of beer?"

When Women Vote.

The recent Illinois State election attracted no small degree of interest throughout the entire continent, inasmuch as a large number of women voters were for the first time enjoying the privilege of the franchise. In Chicago seventy two per cent of the men who were registered voted and seventy three per cent of the registered women. Women were candidates for aldermanic honor in eight districts but none of them were elected. In other parts of the state twenty six women were elected to the office of town councillor and three were made town clerks. The power of the women voters was felt by the saloons. Sixteen counties in Illinois went dry for the first time, and with these eleven cities. More than a thousand saloons are now due to go out of business.

Paralytic Limbs.

Today it is sleeplessness, headache, digestive trouble, and irritability. Most things you know some form of paralysis has developed. Mr. Alex. Homburg, 10 Moore street, St. Catharines, Ont., "Nervous trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed, failed me, but after using ten boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for 20 years."

She—What do you think of our scheme for Christmas decoration—holly leaves over lane?
He—Well, I should have preferred mistletoe over yew.

"Never give up," is a good motto, but the minister would hesitate to preach it just before the collection plate is passed.

The income tax doesn't bother the man whose principal holdings consist of castles in the air.

The man who says he has never forgotten to mail one of his wife's letters is either an awful liar or has never had a wife.

Many a woman boasts that she can marry any man she pleases, who does not seem to please any of them.

When Rheumatism Strikes the Heart It Kills—"NERVILINE" the Cure

Effect of Nerviline on Chronic Cases is Almost Magical.

Exposure to wet or cold is apt to bring an attack.

The muscles stiffen, the joints swell and exertion brings excruciating twinges.

Often the pain shifts from one part to another, and this is dangerous, as the heart is apt to be attacked. Death as a rule follows a heart attack.

The pain of rheumatism is quickly rubbed away with Nerviline.

This is a sweet, lasting, and safe way to cure rheumatism. You can depend on Nerviline. It has the power of penetrating to the central nerve pain that is so common to rheumatism.

Lots of testimony to prove Nerviline's certainty to cure.

The following letter is from Mr. H. G. Scatter, Port of Spain, Trinidad:

"Last year I was severely troubled with rheumatism. I had it in my shoulder and knees. The pain was at times excruciating, and laid me out so that I couldn't work. I went to Smith Brothers' Drug Store and was advised by the manager to use 'Nerviline.' That was excellent advice. I used Nerviline as directed and was cured, complete cure of every trace of my old enemy."

Once you use Nerviline you'll realize it's difference from all the other stuff that contains something that gets into the pain the minute you rub on. The large 50-cent family size is the most economical—get it today, before the 25-cent trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere, or the Cassiarine Co., Kingston, Canada.

Strength for Motherhood

MOTHERHOOD is not a time for experiment, but for proven qualities, and nothing exceeds the value of good cheer, mental exercise and SCOTT'S EMULSION.

SCOTT'S EMULSION charges the blood with life-sustaining richness, suppresses nervous conditions, aids the quality and quantity of milk and insures sufficient fat.

In COD LIVER OIL (found in the very few cods, in LIME and SOYA OILS) avoid rickets and make teaching easier. See Scott's Emulsion.

Algy at the Front.

I was what they called a 'kenn' in Piccadilly.

It used to tire me out to walk a mile.

If they woke me up at noon I would yawm 'to hally day."

And I was very, very rarely seen to snore.

I ever spoke above a languid whisper.

Though the 'flat' seemed my intellect to rise.

And the retention of form was to sing or rave or storm.

O to act in any way as though alive.

But I've marched ten miles this morning.

And I rose at four a.m.

As for having 'T' pipes.

With the very best of them.

My hair was always parted in the centre.

Three separate suits of clothes I wore each day.

And to wear the same one twice would be very far from nice.

For my tailor I'd do anything but pry.

The only place a man could live was London.

And every other town was just a town.

More New York, Paris, I'd occasionally see.

But I wouldn't know a German from a germ.

Now I've won a luxury raffle.

To wash in a luxury raffle.

For Germans—my word, I'd follow!

I know 'em enough and to spare.

I used to lie in bed to nurse a headache.

My feelings they were mostly jolly blue.

Every ball kind of work most regrettably I'd shirk.

As being a thing no gentleman should do.

To dress me and to shave me and to call me.

"My man" was always Johnny on the spot.

THE CRUISER'S SHARE

The cruiser has to perform, perhaps, more varied functions than any other class of warship in the fleet.

It is her business to stop and fight when the circumstances are, from her point of view, favorable, and also to possess a high speed to enable her to run away when the position is unfavorable.

The cruiser is admirably termed the policeman of the fleet, for her capacities of mobility and long passage-making without replenishing her bunkers are her chief attributes.

Although the introduction of wireless telegraphy has somewhat lessened the responsibility placed upon the cruiser for scouting work, she is still regarded as the "eyes of the fleet."

For the object of scouting work there is a special type of scouting cruiser in existence.

The armored cruiser's advent has almost extended that class of ship to be considered to come within the scope of the battleship. Indeed, in some cases they are so perfectly equipped in aggressive policy as to be deemed competent enough to do the battle line with the warship ships.

SURGEON MAJOR-GENERAL FISET
Deputy Minister of Marine at Ottawa.

He has been twice honored since the outbreak of the war, having been created a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George and promoted from the rank of Colonel to that of Major-General.

Even Being a Prisoner of War Preferred by British Soldiers

Mr. Percival Phillips, war correspondent of the London Daily Express, had walked into Belgium for a distance of nearly two hundred yards when he saw a queer figure dressed in the garb of a peasant, but in the boots of a British soldier, making for the boundary of Holland.

He crossed over to him, and the figure introduced itself.

"Drummer," of the 2nd Battalion," it said. "Fell out with some feet on Tuesday."

He had been twice honored since the outbreak of the war, having been created a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George and promoted from the rank of Colonel to that of Major-General.

They walked past the boundary post, and the drummer took a deep breath.

"Now let the Germans find me," he said.

The correspondent explained that some hundreds of British sailors and soldiers were interned in Holland, and explained the disadvantages of internment at length.

"Oh, Lord," said the drummer, "then let's get back into that corner of Belgium again!" And he got back.

Soldiers Must Have Teeth

Many Canadians have complained that they were not allowed to go and fight the Kaiser because their molars weren't mated, and the public has been examining its own outfit and wondering just what kind of teeth the German like.

A man must have on each side of his mouth three molars in opposition, either two in the upper jaw biting on one in the lower jaw, or one in the upper jaw biting on one in the lower jaw. That makes six molars in all. Partial plates are allowed, and bridges but no entire plates.

Britons First as Sailors

The true basis of England's naval power, says Prof. Usher, professor of history at Washington University, lies in the natural ability and genius of Englishmen as sailors. This, in fact, is the vital thing, and, no doubt, the English owe it to the location of their country, to its isolation, and to the stormy character of the waters around it. Practice makes perfect.

With hardly any exception, the world owes every feature of modern maritime architecture, seamanship and naval strategy to the British race.
