The secretary was instructed likewise to advise the Alberta Amateur Athletic Association for their sanction of the games on Labor Day and to forward the required $10 to Calgary.

PAVING-BY-LAW IS DEFEATED

Small Vote Was Cast on Both it and the Hospital Bylaw Which Was Sustained by a Good Majority.

The voting on the two money by-laws yesterday brought out a small percentage of the citizens and the vote recorded was not large. The Ho Co. one of two companies with whom the mechanics had been at work since May 1st and that being unable to secure an union man to undertake the installation, they had secured the services of a non-union contractor on his way.

The defeat of the paving by-law, this being the third occasion this summer in which by-laws passed by the council have been turned down by the people, is regarded by the Bouillon people as a vindication of the commission against the council.

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the Strathcona sports held on Wednesday night, it was decided that they will be held on Wednesday, July 23rd, at the fair grounds. An endeavour will be made to have a joint holiday with Edmonton, and joint sports for the two cities.

CHRISTIANITY HAS NOT FAILED IN ITS MISSION

In the Bettering of the Condition of Mankind It is Not Christ's Teachings Which Have Failed By That and the Church Says Preacher in First Baptist Church.

(From Monday's Daily.) "It is not Christianity that has failed, but Churlchianity," said Rev. D. W. Roberts, of Glasgow, Scotland, in the course of his sermon Sunday in First Baptist Church. Mr. Roberts who is a prominent social worker in his home city of Glasgow, undertook to discuss at the evening sermon Socialism and Christianity as rival claimants for the allegiance of those who are striving to usher in a better day for the oppressed and downtrodden of mankind.

In opening his remarks the preacher drew attention to a belief that had already gained considerable ground that the church could not hope to hold her own in the world unless she adopted her methods to present day conditions and that ministers who confined themselves to the Gospel were hopelessly out of date. This view he expressed as to what the Gospel was. Such a problem was answered by Christ's own proclamation when at the opening of His career he announced that His work was not to destroy but to build up.

Turning to modern movements for social betterment, Christianity and Socialism were the only real rivals. Of these the one dealt with only one life, the other with two; one was external the other internal. Christianity hit at the root of all unhappiness while Socialism concerned itself with the economic side of life. The latter he did not consider a real solution of the great unrest and unhappiness that was apparent over the civilized world. It ignored the element of sin which was an insistent factor in the human life.

Why then had not Christianity transformed the world? The blame lay at the door of the church itself. Things were done in the name of the church which did much to undo her work. It was this false Christianity that had made enemies for Christianity and turned great good into evil. The principles of Christianity were not, however, as some thought, hostile to ideals of social settlement, but the only true means of accomplishing it; mutual service. Socialism, he said, would tend to make social unhappiness disappear. Nor did Christ ignore the physical welfare of the man. His whole life effectively disposed of that objection, but his distinction lay in seeking to compass a man's reform by the redemption of his soul.

The preacher then barked back to the first principles of Christianity as proclaimed by its founder, and the effect their proclamation had on the men of the day such as Zachariah, Matthew and others. "There was no Christ in the bearing of his name," he said, "in the way that it revolutionized the life in the great cities of the time. Some could rival it—come, Corinth, Ephesus, had all in turn fallen before its influence of the tentmaker of Tarsus. Such in these later times had been the influence of Richard Baxter, in Kidderminster and since the days of Baxter, or even of Christ, human nature had not changed. The secret lay not in the removal of outward circumstances, but of the renovation of the heart of man. These laws of human nature were in no more danger of being abrogated than the laws of gravitation, no more antiquated than fresh air and sunshine.

"Christianity Had Failed," "is Christianity a failure," the speaker asked. "No. Never! Impossible when put into practice, it was not Christianity that had failed, but Churlchianity, priestcraft, formality and ritualism. Christianity could not fail because it was the power of God."

Rev. Mr. Robertson, who has been in attendance at the Baptist conference at Philadelphia, has agreed to supply the pulpit of First Baptist church for two Sundays during the absence of the pastor, Rev. F. W. Peterson, on his holidays.

EDMONTON BOY LOSES LIFE IN JASPER PARK

Peter Duncan, of 296 Donald Street, in the Employ of the G.T.P. Co., Stenographer at Fitzhugh, Drowned—No Particulars to Hand.

(From Monday's Daily.) Word reached the city yesterday by telegraph of the drowning in Jasper Park on Saturday of Peter Duncan, the nineteen-year-old son of Mrs. John Duncan, 296 Donald street. No particulars were given as to how the accident occurred. An inquest was held and the body is being sent to Edmonton for burial.

Peter Duncan was employed at the engineering offices of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway at Fitzhugh as a stenographer. He had been with the company for nearly a year and moved to Fitzhugh when the offices of the engineering staff were transferred there from Edmonton last January. He came to Edmonton with his mother, who is a widow, in the spring of 1910 from Sherbrooke, Quebec. Last year he took a course at the Grand Trunk Business College, where he was the youngest of four boys in a family of six. He was a nephew of Andrew Duncan, contractor, who resides at Donald and Hardisty.

The body will arrive in Edmonton at 10:30 this morning. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Messrs. Connelly and McKinley.
